NEWS BRIEF

District 64 salutes School Board members

Park Ridge-Niles School District 64 is joined other districts across Illinois to observe School Board Members Day on Sunday.

As the community's elected representatives, District 64 Sehool Board members provide leadership and oversight for about 4,300 students in grades kindergarten through eighth grade, and more than 600 staff members.

"They are the voice of the community, ensuring that lecisions about local public sehools are made by those who are most familiar with the needs of the community's ehildren and families," Superintendent Sally Pryor stated."

She added: "We urge all members of the eommunity to recognize and thank these seven dedicated individuals for their commitment and contributions to our publie sehools."

The eurrent District 64 Board of Education includes: John Heyde, president; Genie Taddeo, viee-president; Erie Uhlig, seeretary; and, members Pat Fioretto, Russell J. Gentile, Sharon Lawson and Ted Smart.

Board members may be eontaeted via a special link on the District 64 Web site, www.d64.org.

CRIMINAL CASE

Will Blase finally get sentence?

By TONY BERTUCA tbertuca@pioneerlocal.com

A new date has been set for the criminal senteneing of former Niles Mayor Nieholas Blase, who pleaded guilty to federal charges of tay evasion and mail fraud more than a vear ago.

Blase is scheduled to be sentenced Jan. 29 at the Dirksen Federal Building in Chicago.

The former mayor first pleaded guilty to the eharges Oct. 31, 2008, but has been given four continuances for his sentene-have said the charges against Blase stem from a seheme to use to his influence as mayor to steer local businesses toward Wheeling insurance agency Ralph Weiner Associates.

Federal prosecutors

The agency paid Blase $420,000 in kiekbaeks in exchange for the arrangement, which prosecutors have said lasted from 1997 to 2006

One of Blase's co-defendants, Steve Wiener, has pleaded guilty to one count of fraud.

He received a continuance in October and has yet to receive a senteneing date.

Teen Center doubles in size, adds study room, computer lab

The Niles Teen Center hosted a "grand reopening" Saturday to showease thousands of dollars' worth of renovations to its newly expanded facility.

The center, which serves 20 to 30 children each day at its Golf Mill Shopping Center home, has doubled in size since the expansion and now features an isolated study room and comput-

"There's so much more space for the kids and there's quite a bit less bickering," said Teen Center Director Mark Williams. "Now that I have this bigger space, I'll be able to sehedule much more substantive programs and have more speakers and things like that."

Williams said the expansion would not have been possible without generous donations from the local business community. He estimated the center received more than $50,000 worth of | to the program."

labor and materials from Home Depot.

"They came in and did it for free when it would have been very expensive for me to bring a contractor in here," he said.

Wal-Mart also donated five flat-screen TVs and Niles Public Library provided 20 computers. "We now have a good, isolated study area for the kids," Williams said. Assistant Village Manager Steve Vinezeano said the center has been thriving under Williams' leadership. "The only reason we were able to fund something like this in these trying economie times is because Mark was able to go out and work with the business community," he said. "I think it's really nice that people want to create an environment for the kids.

"It's important to find support for these things and we wouldn't be where we are today without Mark's leadership. He's been a blessing

Suburban '08 crime rates hold steady

By LYNNE STIEFEL

Istiefel@nioneerlocal.com

Just 700 fewer crimes were reported by law enforcement agencies in Illinois in 2008 than a year earlier, causing a slight decline in the statewide crime rate index, according to the latest Illinois State Police crime statistics

During 2008, law enforcement agencies across the state reported a total of 456.359 crimes

The Illinois crime rate fell 0.3 percent in 2008, with reports of arson showing the biggest decrease - by nearly 10 percent - but total numbers of burglaries, murders and robberies showing increases - at 4.3 percent, 3.4 percent and 3.8 percent, respectively.

The crime rate for all of suburban Cook County rose 1 percent in 2008 from 2007. but statistics for Chicago's individual northern suburbs were mixed.

The crime rates in Niles decreased in nearly every category in 2008, according to the Illinois State Police statistics

There was, however, an increase in criminal sexual assault cases, with 12 incidents reported in 2008, up from 4 in 2007.

"We don't have a sexual predator running around," Niles Police Chief Dean Strzelecki said. "Most of the incidents occurred between people who knew one another and some turned out to be unfounded."

There was also an increase in aggravated assault and battery to 18 from 13 in

But theft - easily the No. 1 crime committed in Niles saw a decrease to 767 in 2008 from 777 in 2007.

"Theft is a crime of opportunity and we have a lot of opportunities here in Niles because of our businesses." Strzelecki said. Bugglaries

Give thanks in meaningful ways

For many residents, next week's Thanksgiving eelebration will be tempered mightily by the events of 2009: Record joblessness, H1N1 flu, eraeked nest eggs, two wars. Insert your suggestion here — the venr seemed to have it all. Even so, many of us will gather with relatives and friends for a traditional feast of turkey, ham, eranberry sauce, masked potatoes, green bean easserole and pumpkin pie. We'll give thanks for our families, for friendships we've elierislied and, yes, for the bountiful food on the table before us that we can't wait to devour. Leftovers will be serumptious the next day,

THE CROCODILE COUP

Bridge Bites

From the American Contract Bridge League low Club from his hand and

By BRIAN GUNNELL

Bridge has a number of exotic "coups" and for the next few weeks we'll look at some of them, starting with the aptly named Crocodile Comp. We'll spare you the auction and just say that American many-time world champion Bob Hamman found himself in a poor 6♦ contract after East had overealled Spades. You are sitting West, try playing this out looking at just the N-W hands.

You lead the Spade Three. Dunimy play the King, East the Ace and Declarer ruffs. Then a Diamond to Dummy's King, a Diamond to Declarer's Jack, and the A. Partner follows with the Seven. Ten and Queen. With trumps drawn. Declarer now plays ♥A. ♥K, ♥Q, East playing

Of course, while all this going on, you are busy

counting the distribution. because that's what sueeessful defenders do. Declarer ruffed the first Spade so East is known to have started with six Spades. Hearts? East played the Four and then the Six, and "low-high" shows an odd number, in this ease three. Diamonds? East started with three of those also. That leaves just one Club with East, he you must avoid the temptation to win this cheaply with the Nine. If you do. East will be forced to overtake with the Jack, and will have to lead a Spade (that's all he had left), allowing Deelarer's Club losers to go away on Dummy's Spades. Instead, you alertly squander the &K swallowing Partner's Jack, and you return to the &T. Now Declarer never reaches Dunimy's Spades, and eventually loses another Club. When this deal was played in the 2006 World Championships. West was eaught napping and missed that Crocodile Coup.

If the crities can be believed, area theatergoers ean expect some enchanted evenings and a handful of rather spectacular afternoons in their immediate futures. The Lineoln Center Theater production of Richard Rodgers and Osear Hammerstein's iconie musical. "South Pacific," is coming to the Rosemont Theatre for a limited, six-day run, Nov. 24-29.

The New York erities exhausted their supplies of superlatives on the Broadway show, ealling it "beguiling," "wonderful," "overwhelming," "flawless," "rapturous" and "revelatory." Praise for the touring production has been equally effusive: "sliimmering," "ravisliing," "vibrant." "truthful" and "relevant." New York eritie Michael Sommers predieted audiences will remember the Broadway show forever; the San Francisco Chroniele said the touring production was "the 'South Pacific' we've been waiting for." The 2008 Tony Awards eeremony turned into a veritable "South Pacifie" love fest. The sold-out show earned an impressive seven Tonys, including Best Revival of a Musical. Best Direction of a Musical (Bartlett Sher), Best Performance By a Leading Actor in a Musical (Paulo Szot as Emile de Beeque), Best Seenic Design of a Musical (Michael Yeargan), Best Costume Design of a Anderson Davis as Lt. Joseph Cable and Sumie Maeda as Liat in "South Pacific," coming to the Rosemont Theatre Nov. 24-29.

Best Lighting Design of a Musical (Donald Holder) and Best Sound Design of a Musical (Scott Lehrer). Mezzo soprano Carmen

Cusaek as U.S. Navy nurse Nellie Forbush and internationally known bass baritone David Pittsinger as French plantation owner de Beeque will headline the Rosemont production's east. Chiengo area theater buffs will recall Cusack's memorable portrayal of Elphaba in "Wieked" - they just might not recognize her without the Wicked Witch's green makeup. Pittsinger, who will join the touring company before it reaches Rosemont, played Musical (Catherine Zuber), de Becque on Broadway during Szot's absence. More recently, he was seen in the role of Angelotti in "Tosea" at the Metropolitan Opera.

The show's supporting east includes Anderson Davis (as Lt. Joe Cable), Matthew Saldivar (Luther Billis), Keala Settle (Bloody Mary), Gerry Beeker (Capt. Brackett), Peter Rini (Cmdr. Harbison), Sumie Maeda (Liat), Rusty Ross (Professor), Genson Blimline (Stewpot), Christina Carrera (Ngana) and CJ Palma (Jerome).

The play contains a number of Broadway's most memorable songs - "Younger Than Springtime," "Bali Ha'i," "There is Nothin' Like a Dame," "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Outta My Hair" and "Some Enchanted Evening."

The show is set on an island in the tropies during World War II. Central to the plot are two love stories: Forbush and de Bloody Mary's daughter, Liat, a beautiful native girl. Learned prejudices threaten both sets of lovers. And the war looms, never far from the fore-Sher, the Broadway pro-duction's Tony Awardwinning director, will also direct the Rosemont show. The show's seenie designer, eostume designer, lighting designer and sound designer will reprise for the touring eompany the work on Broadway that earned them their Tonys. Becque; and Lt. Cable and Comment: pioneerlocal.com

"Love. Actually the great "Black Adder BBC come dy series). "Pirate Radio" is a lot of fun at times, but this is a story that could have profited from a more realistic approach. THE MEN WHO STARE AT GOATS

* * 1/2 The main problem with this ambling generally amiable but ultimately frustrating offbeat comedy is that it can't quite decide which way it wants to go with its eccentric protagonists: Whether to hold them up to ridicule or salute them as right-thinking idealists who can't find their place in a cruel world. hased on the novel "Push" by a onetime New York City teacher/so cial worker could so easily have turned into outrageous melodrama that its artfulness and emotional nower is all the more impressive. Precious (newcomer Gabourey Sidibe, impassive yet heartbreaking) is a 16-year-old African-American girl living in Harlem in 1987. Illiterate, obese pregnant for the second time with a child from her father, Precious has been hideously abused her whole life by her monstrous moth er (stand-up comic Mo'Nique in a scathing, award-worthy performance) She's almost unreachable until finding a dedicated teacher (Paula Patton) and a social worker (an almost unrecognizable Mariah Carev) who decides to help. Director Lee Daniels has such a skillful touch and has selected such a fine cast, that "Precious" somehow maintains itself well above the level of bathos and voveuristic handwringing. ASTRO BOY

* * 1/2

The Astro-great-grandaddy of all anime comes to the screen with a reasonable amount of entertainment value in this expensive animated family adventure but with little of the eccentric imagination of the original 1963 Japanese TV series. When the young son of the Minister of Science (voiced by the oddly cast Nicolas Cane) in a floating futuristic city dies in a lab mishan his hereaved father uses his DNA to create a super-powered robot replica. The robot boy doesn't ease dad's grief, though, and he's forced to find his own lonely way in life (as a rocket-powered how hero) after being sourned There's a fair amount of fun in the new "Astro Boy." but some of its themes - death abandonment war, slavery - are surprisingly dark for a story that's clearly aimed at a very young audience. And while they're eventually balanced by more upbeat opposites - rebirth, reunion, peace and justice - it's still a bit of a wearisome slog (BI) (94 min.) Rated PG for some action and perif, and brief mild lan-

CIRQUE DU FREAK: THE VAMPIRE'S ASSISTANT

It's nice to learn a trade, but being a plumber's assistant would be less dangerous. And maybe even more fun than this teold adaptation of Darren Shan's popular kid-lit series. The scares are mild and the comedy is even milder in this collapsed version of the first three "Cirque du Freak" books about a young man named Darren (Chris Massonlia uninterested and uninteresting) who runs away to join the freak show and finds himself in the middle of a war between the good vampires, who don't kill people and the bad vampires who do. Writer/director Paul Weitz ("About a Boy") establishes a reasonably spooky mood and keens the slightly twisted humor flowing (at a dribble), but John C. Reilly provides the only real entertainment as Darren's sardonic world-weary vampire mentor. (BI) (108 min.) Rated PG-13 for senuences of intense supernatural violence and action, disturbing images, thematic elements and some language.

When the pedestrian passes Mark on the street, it sure sounds like the passer-by called the schizophrenic protagonist in "One Simple Life" a freak for no good reason. No wonder Mark unleashes a verbal assault on the stranger.

But then, Mark also welcomes with open arms a homeless man who jumps off a trash bin toward him in an alley. It doesn't seem to make sense, but director/producer Kamelya Alexan, of Skokie, is hoping for some understanding about schizonlirenia from the audiences that will see her 21minute movie inspired by the plight of her cousin. who is living with the mental illness.

In "One Simple Life," six years after being diagnosed with schizophrenia, Mark, played by Brian Soszynski, ries to come to terms with the voices in his head, the hallucinations, the paranoia, the loneliness, the anxiety and the mysterious and voiceless girl.

Alexan had just finished working as a production assistant on "The Dark Knight" when she felt comnelled to "make a movie on something that matters." she told partner Soszynski. She thought of her cousin and his father, who works overseas and doesn't understand what's happening to his son. But, in developing the idea, she was careful to differentiate between people including "The Dark with multiple personality Knight," in which he played disorders and people with a detective. He also had a schizophrenia, two differrecurring role in the televient conditions. She also sion show, "The Beast," said the story of Mark does which starred Patrick not represent all people

"This is one case of schizophrenia that people can relate to," she said.

She and Soszynski, who wrote the dialogue for the film, immersed themselves in the world of Alexan's cousin by checking themselves into the rehabilitation home where he lives.

Although they didn't experience all the symptoms people with schizophrenia endure, they did feel anxious and paranoid

"We became extremely depressed," she said, "We started asking ourselves if we were OK. You see life in a different way."

Alexan's cousin then factchecked the script and offered suggestions on how to make the story more realistic For cast and crew, Alexan

DRIVEN TO YEARLONG ESCAPE

TRANS WORLD EXPEDITION | Art director puts his responsibilities in storage for 12 months of high adventure and blogging

NEW YORK - This month, I'm quitting my job and heading out on one of the last true adventures left on Earth: Driving around the world.

I'll spend about a year on the road. starting and finishing in New York. When I can't drive, I'll ship the car by boat, then fly to the next stop.

The route is sinuous. Cross Central America, then head down South America to Buenos Aires. From there, I'll ship the ear to South Africa, then drive north through Africa to Europe. I'm a native of France, so I'll stop in Paris to get some paperwork done, then go east through Eastern Europe, Turkey, Iran, Pakistan and India. I'll ship the car to Thailand, drive to Laos, Cambodia, Malaysia and Indonesia, and put the ear on a final sailing home to the United States.

My blog about the trip, where I'll post updates from the road, is called "Trans World Expedition: The year of living dangerously." I hope it will be a good tool for people who want to do a similar trip. long I linger in one place.

It's seary to leave your girlfriend, eareer, apartment and people you know to have a year of waking up in unfamiliar places. Many people think I'm insane to quit my job when the economy is so bad. But I'm 33 and I've worked since age 18. I eame to New York as an artist and ended up as an art director. It's early enough in my life that I can take a year worry about arguments between countries that could lead to border closings. Solution: Get my visa in order and hope my government doesn't get too exeited about political events before I get there.

◆ Darien Gap: This 100-mile-long off, then come back, hopefully pick up area of swamps and mountainous jungle separates Panama and Colombia. There my career and start a family. I believe a trip like this is something is no road, no police or military. The inmany people dream of. When you're liabitants are tribes, guerrillas and drug young and a student, you don't have traffickers. Solution: Ship the ear from money to travel, but when you're work-Panama to Colombia, and travel by ing and can afford it, you don't have small plane over the jungle. Pray that no time. I always thought I would buy a place in New York, but when you think emergency landings are required. Africa: Visas for Chad and Sudan about it, is there a better investment are difficult to obtain, making west-tothan traveling around the world?

◆ Pakistan: Suicide bombings. Taliban insurgents. Imagine how much fun it will be to cross this country with New York lieense plates. Solution: Go as fast as possible, perhaps with the military escort some foreigners use when driving · Asia: China makes overland travel expensive by requiring you to hire a government-approved "guide." Myanmar's borders are closed to overland travel. Solution: Ship the ear from India or Bangladesh to Thailand or Singapore.

ACCOMMODATIONS: In order to afford a year on the road, there's little ehoice but camping. I wish I could say I have no problem with scorpions in my shoes, and that whenever I eateh a snake, I'm happy to have it for breakfast. But I ean't. After some research, I discovered most overlanders in Africa use a rooftop tent. The cheapest are expensive at $850,

THE CAR: There aren't many choices when it comes to choosing a ear for sueli journeys. In my opin ion, only two vehicles can make it. Toyota Land Cruisers and Britishmade Land Rover Defenders. Both are tough, and you can find spare parts on all continents. Others, ineluding American makes, are good quality, but you can't find parts everywhere. I bought a clean 1996 LC with 92,000 miles for less than I've given up counting how many hours I spent getting the LC ready. I upgraded the suspensions so the truck could handle difficult terrain and earry all equipment, including tools, extra battery, spare parts, eooking equipment, roof tent, water and gas eans, books and luggage. I installed a drawer system for storage. I upgraded the electrieal system to run several devices for days before running out of juice.

iipping a car is expensive. I'll have to do it at least five times, sometimes for 100 miles, sometimes between two continents. Shipping eosts: around $7,000, plus $2,000 for my air travel while the ear is at sea. Gas will range from 38 eents a gallon in Iran to $7.40 a gallon in Portugal. Add $5,000 for gas.

HEALTH CARE: This trip requires many vaccinations, some covered by insurance, many not. Getting them all in the States would cost more than $500. So I'll get some of them in Mexico, my first stop, where it's cheaper

Yellow fever vaccination is required for South America and Africa; in fact, you need proof of the shot to get through many borders. The same is true in some African countries for the cholera

You need three shots for Japan ese encephalitis, which is carried by mosquitoes in rural areas. Tetanus shots last 10 years, so you may need one of those, too. Your doctor will advise you to get a shot for rabies. If not, you can get immunized within two days of a bite.

I asked my doctor for a strong antibiotic to take with me, and for a letter authorizing me to earry a syringe in ease I need a blood test somewhere and the local needles look shady.

There is no malaria vaccine. Pills to prevent infection have side effects, but if you get infected, you can take a lieavier dose of the same drug. I'll also take measures to avoid squito bites — repellent, net.

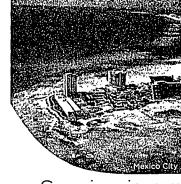

I have a first-aid kit and if I need medical care. I'll go to local doctors and hope it won't cost much. I bought insurance in ease a super-bad event requires evacuation. It would not be helpful to survive an accident only to have a heart attack when I receive a huge bill for evacuation home. I found a policy from InsuranceToGo.com that should run about $600 for the year with a $500 deductible.

BUDGET: My estimated total for the trip is $46,000, including ear and tent; shipping the ear five times while flying myself; gas and renairs: insurance and vaccinations. Other costs include $550 for visas, $300 for maps and guidebooks, $10 a day for food and $4,000 for eampgrounds and ocea sional nights in hotels. I plan on spending less, bur prefer to take

HEADING OUT: I've read about other people driving around the world, and their blogs and reports helped me prepare, especially with paperwork and vehicle modifications. Some of them got sponsors for their trips. But I didn't want to have to find a reason to be on the road, like fighting a disease. When it comes down to it, I'm just curious about the world I live in.

And that's it. I leave a week from today. Time to start a new episode of my life. If you'd like to tag along,

Service is great, destinations are better. Fly non-stop from Chicago.

Here are some questions and answers about travel insurance, basie hygiene and other aspects of traveling during the swine flu out-

O. Is it OK to travel during the swine flu outbreak?

A. The federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention says "some travelers at increased risk of complications from flu may want to eonsider postponing travel." The agency identifies those in the high-risk entegories as pregnant women, adults older than 65, babies and ehildren under 5, and those with chronic illnesses. If you are in a high-risk entegory and must travel, the CDO recommends that you talk to a doctor about whether to take flu medications with you in ease you ean't get medical care right away. If you are sick, stay home. For more information from the CDC, visit http://wwwne.ede.gov/travel.

O. Will I face a health screening if I fly?

A. The United States is not sereening either inbound or outbound air travelers, necording to the CDC. But you may face screening in other countries, including having your temperature taken by a walk-by thermal seanner or with an oral or ear thermometer. ANDY BARKER, P.I.: THE COMPLETE SERIES \star \star \star 1/2

Conan O'Brien sidekiek

Andy Richter's tragically short-lived six-episode NBC comedy series has been resuscitated in fine style in this welcome release from the always reliable Shout! Factory. O'Brien produced the inspired sitcom featuring Richter as a floundering accountant who, out of desperation, takes the spillover business that wanders into the office previously occupied by a now-retired hard-boiled private eye (Harv Presnell, who handles the tough stuff and basically steals the show). "Andy Barker" naturally works all the mild-mannered fish-out-of-water gags tliat are inherent in lie concept, but it's also surprisingly smart, hip and sophisticated in its approach to comedy. Maybe that was the problem. Extras include a faseinating "Writers Class 101" feature about shaping what he does best, provoking outrage and thumbing his nose at propriety in this often funny, but occasionally tiresome follow-up to his 2006 sensation "Borat." There's a lot to make you laugh with delighted disbelief if you're so inclined (and plenty to make you recoil in horror if you're not), in this mock documentary about the travels of a fame-obsessed European fashionista who disgraces himself in his own country and travels to America for a shot at superstardom. But where "Borat" dealt with provocations on a wide range of topies,

"Bruno" is limited to one subject for the most part: The straight world's prejudice toward a man who is blatantly, flamingly, unapologetically Austrian. Yes, yes, that's the secret shame uncovered by Baron Cohen and director Larry Charles: The nonvodeling world's discomfort with and even hostility toward the Austrian accent, the way Austrians walk, even their native attire - with the tight shorts and the little hats eocked to one side. (BI) Rated R for pervasive strong and crude sexual eontent, graphic nudity

THE GOODS: LIVE HARD. SELL HARD ★ ★ 1/2

Jeremy Piven is terrifie as Don Ready, a freelance, barn-storming ear liquidator who's hired (with his degenerate erew) to save a struggling ear dealership by selling 211 ears during a three-day Fourth of July sale. It's hard to watch this movie without comparing it unfavorably to Robert Zemeekis's mueli more genuinely anarchic and wickedly funny "Used Cars," but if you're looking for some easy, sleazy laughs and nothing else, this'll do the job. (BI) Rated R for sexual content, nudity, pervasive language and some drug

MY SISTER'S KEEPER

* * 1/2 Feisty little Anna Fitzgerald (Abigail Breslin of "Little Miss Sunshine") takes 'tween angst to a new level when she hires Alee Baldwin as an attorney to sue Canteron Diaz and Jason Patrie as her parents. Of course, she has a pretty good reason, having been biologically engineered to provide replacement parts for her mortally ill, cancerafflicted sis. "My Sister's Keeper" was skillfully adapted from Jodi Picoult's best-selling novel by writer/director Nick Cassavettes, who first proved he could milk whole-fat emotion with "The Notebook." Here he squeezes every bit of heartbreak out of the seenario, which includes ehildren with leukeinia, a erumbling family and a case of tragie young love. If this one doesn't jerk a tear somewhere along the line, you've run out. (BI) Rated PG-13 for mature thematic content, some disturbing images, sensuality, language and brief teen drinking.

 \star \star \star 1/2 There's no denying that the dilithium erystals have long been running a little low in the creative engine of the Star Trek franchise. But producer/director J.J. Abrams (who ereated TV's "Lost" and directed has successfully rebooted the series in a way that takes it back to before the beginning, reinvigorates and reintroduces the main characters, embraces the old Trek mythology with fresh new energy, and simultaneously sets the stage for an entirely new series of adventures. Here's the setup: Young Kirk and young Spock (Chris Pine and Zachary Quinto) meet at Starfleet Academy and naturally annoy the daylights out of each other before racing off on the maiden voyage of the starship Enterprise to combat a renegade Romulan (a seethingly vengeful Erie Bana) who wants to destroy every planet in the Federation. The easting is near ideal (particularly English comic actor Simon Pegg as Chief Engineer Scott), the action is spectacular the story moves at warp speed from beginning to end and there are more than a few genuine laughs along the way. (BI) Rated PG-13 for sei-fi action and violence, and brief sexual

Chicago has a diverse population so Mielael Menendian decided, "We need to do something that speaks to the cultural diversity of our eity." That's why the producing artistic director of Raven Theatre, 6157 N. Clark St., wrote a children's show called, "Pateliwork U.S.A.!"

It consists of three short stories, which Menendian described as "a nice representation of the different cultures that exist in America. Of eourse, there are hundreds of stories like

An elderly black woman tells about her life and her struggle to get an education in "How I Love to Read." Menendian called it, "A compilation of fairytales and stories that I've read from a variety of authors."

"Pepito's Story," Menendian said, "is a loose adaptation of a story of a young boy of Mexican descent who loves to danee. Because he loves to dance, he is considered weird in his little seaside village."

"The Happiest Day of My Life" is a semi-autobiographical piece about "a young Armenian boy adjusting to the new life in America," Menendian said.

Impressive on paper, but at What makes portraying Jenkins sueli a eliallenge is not the 13 eostume changes obliged with an improniptu and demands of the physirendition of Jeronie Kern's cal eomie role, but fighting a self-eorrective impulse. "An aequaintanee was east in a different production of So, ves. Powers ean sing. this show and she couldn't do it," Powers said. "She might not get that imprescould not bring herself to sion if you see her in "Sousing off-piteli. After all those years of training, it made her erazy." As a child, Powers' mother, a music teacher, used to play one of Jenkins' albunis for her music club as a gag. But "Souvenir" is far from a one-note laugh at Jenkins' expense. At the heart of the play is the genuine friendship that grows between Jenkins and MeMoon.

Jenkins' perseveranee is what strikes a chord with audienees, Powers believes. She herself developed a great admiration for Jenkins as she researched her life for the role.

"She ran away from home when slie 17 because her father would not support her music eareer," Powers marveled. "When he passed away, he did leave her and her mother his fortune, but by then she was in her 40s. and for 25 years, she had to live by her own wits. She married a doctor but no one knows if they divorced or if she just left him. She loved music so mueli she gave up everything to pursue it."

Just before she passed away. Jenkins gave a soldout concert at Carnegie Hall. The reviews were sentling, but one critic noted, "She was exceedingly happy in her work. It is a nity so few artists are. And her happiness was communieated as if by magie to her listeners." (Reportedly, her recordings are the thirdmost requested at the Carnegie Hall areliives).

Today, Jenkins would probably find infamy as an "American Idol" contestant. but Powers believes that, to quote Brian Wilson, Jenkins just wasn't made for these times. "Our society is not polite anymore," she said. "People would be making fun of her and she would liave been totally exploited."

And Jenkins had no inkling that she was a laughingstock? "As far as we know," Powers said, "she dismissed (lier detractors) as jealous, or without an appreciation for music. But she did control who attended her regitals. My favorite quote of hers is, 'People ean say I can't sing, but no one can ever say I didn't sing."

'Bad Lieutenant' has the goods

By BRUCE INGRAM Film Critic

BAD LIEUTENANT: PORT OF CALL NEW ORLEANS * * *

Like Harvey Keitel's charneter in Abel Ferrara's cultelassie "Bad Lieutenant," Nicolas Cage's Lt. Terence MeDonagh, in this very loose remake by the legendarily eccentric Werner Herzog , is a pretty seriously disreputable character. Yet, there's :1 line Lt. McDonagh won't cross. And it might even be argued that he's essentially, if not deeent, at least devoted to his own brand of justice.

The point is, he may not be entirely bad news. Just don't try to tell that to the wheelehnir-bound little old lady he threatens with a .44 magnum to get some information.

Herzog (whose most recent fiction film, the Christian Bale P.O.W. ese:ipe drani:i "Reseue Dawn," was a reworking of his own documentary "Little Dieter Needs to Fly") has elaimed that his "Bad Lieutenant" shouldn't be eonsidered a remake because he never saw the original — and that's believable, considering the merely superficial similarity between the two films.

Where Ferrara's NC-17rated "Lieutenant" was essentially a study of guilt and personal demons driving the protagonist toward self-destruction. Herzog's offbeat redo (sharing little more than the same lead character with the same set of generally heinous behaviors) has little interest in morality, It's basically a straightforward, hard-core, hard-boiled detective story that simultaneously works equally well as a tongue-in-check sendup of the genre. Sometimes it's appalling: sometimes it's surprisingly funny in an exceedingly unwholesome sort of way. In other words, there's not much substance here, but if you like your detective dramas served up with a generous side-order of weird, you won't be disappointed. Herzog's "Lieutenant."

which benefits from a

script by TV cop-show writer William M. Finkelstein (who provides primo lines of dialogue such as "shoot him again, his soul's still dancing"), is set in the chaos of nost-Katrina New Orleans. But that disorder is nothing compared to the eareening craziness in the life of Lt. McDonngh, who's been irrontoted and deeorated for an act of heroism in the opening of the film. but has also sustained a back injury that keeps him perpetually in a world of pain. When the Vicodin prescribed by his doctor fails to take the edge off of his suffering. McDonagh turns to eoeaine, then erack, then heroin, then illadvised combinations. resulting in behavior that grows increasingly bizarre

As played by Cage, who's elearly reveling in one of the most off-the-wall performances of his career (and that's saying something). McDonagh is hunched over with pain, with sallow skin and dark eireles under his hooded eyes, looking remarkably like the vampire played by Klaus Kinski in Herzog's "Nosferatu," He's investigating the brutal slaying of a family of Senegalese immigrants who have eneroached on the turf of a vicious drug lord named Big Fate (played with corporate savoir faire by rapper Xzibit) and he's very serious about seeing justice done. but that's reduced to the basic fearlessness.

and renegade, thanks to his

Lieutenant." Most of the film is devoted to MeDonagh's never-ending search for drugs, which he nequires by stealing from the evidence room and shaking down inyone he suspects of eirrying. He also attends to his loving relationship with his high-prieed hooker girlfiriend (Ev:1 Mendes) - each of them deeply enamored of eoc:ine - while trying to dig himself out of deep gambling debt by placing larger and larger losing bets on his favorite team. Meanwhile, he revisits his past by checking in with his :ileoholic former-cop dad and reminisees about his mostbeloved boyhood tre:isure - :i rusty spoon. You emit accuse the man of having no finer feelings.

Throughout all of this str:ingeness (taking place over a much-too-long two hours) Herzog maintains an odd mood of melanelioly nunctuated by characteristic surrent touches, including MeDon: igh's lengthy staredown with a hallucinatory igu:ina during a stakeout (:il:irming his partner Val Kilmer, who plays a surprisingly thankless, nondeserint role), If you haven't recoiled from this character long ago, you're likely to find yourself honing things turn out well for him. After all, he doesn't approve of eold-blooded murder and he's very good at doing his job. even if he does cut a few corners here and there. by planting evidence. thre: tening to blow the heads off of witnesses and the like. Think of him as a pragmatist.

So, you're likely to be pleased when things start to resolve themselves into something resembling a conventional happy ending. then puzzled when a lastminute U-turn into something : kin to moral uplift winds up feeling more downbent than anything that's happened before.

Technology and power continue to be driving factors in luxury vehicles. Manufacturers are upgrading power plants, adding new technology and new convenience features at a brisk pace. Increases in horsepower and improved ride characteristics have been embraced; the new technology upgrades are welcomed by some and complicate things for others.

For 2010, Lexus has apgraded the LX 570 luxury SUV with new navigation, audio, safety and entertainment systems and carried over the powertrain.

NAV traffic/weather/sports/stocks functionality.

The Lexus Enform and Safety Connect response center operates 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Lexus Enform is only offered on navigation-equipped vehicles and offers Destination Assist and eDestination. Destination Assist operators are available via the outboard cellular equipment and can help you find a location, including Zagat-rated restaurants. They will send the directions to the navigation system for routing,

The eDestination function allows you to select and sort locations in advance online through Lexus Drivers, corn and save then in up to 20 folders with 10 destinations in each folder. You send the locations to your vehicle, where you can then download the information into the navigation system and have in direct you to your destination(s).

Safety Connect is available on both num-navigation and navigation-equipped vehicles and offers four safety and scenniy features; anitmatic cullision notification, sinten vehicle lucation, an emergency assistance button (SOS) and enhanced madsule assistance, which adds GPS data to the already included warranty-based Lexus matishe service.

Lexus Enfurm is a complimentary, opin service that provides vehicle audit casts enabling access in vehicle use and maintenance ups, event infurmation and invitors' benefits. Lexus says this feature enhances.

the inviteship experience, I think it's more of a commercial and more clutter vying fur your attention.

Great snumbs are part of the luxury experience with the Lexus Premium Sound System that features an integrated satellite radio receiver, iProf/USB connectivity and streaming music via Bluctooth, Cranking up the system I was able to use the quictiness of the interior and crank up the well-balanced system and absorb the music.

If you travel with kids, I recommend the opininal rear sear entertainment that adds 3-D icons and I.ED backlight to enhance display and layon. While this type of feature is not new the new tweaks are welcome and it will help with kids and enhance the vehicle's traile-in value.

I — along with the family — finind the interner in he luxinings and comfortable with great materials, fit and finish, but the vehicle did not really distinguish itself from the competition. There is enough room for eight, but like must third-risw SUVs the rear sears are for kills. Healtonim is decembut cargo capacity is lacking with only 83.1 entic feet.

The LX 570 is a traditional body-unframe SUV and its ride helies the vehicle's miniense size. Budy-un-franie plaifurnis serve off-roaders well had are usually mowell smith for everyday on-road driving. Lexus strikes a halance with an electric hydraulic system with a finir-wheel active height control and an adaptive variable suspension. The system is immediate without any lag time so it allows to med cumbinins mickly in smouth things nur for passengers. The technology in the LX's suspension system is a combination of suphisucated shucks, springs and uming in help achieve comfuriable travel over a variety of road surfaces.

The LX 570 greets the pavement with 20-inch allny wheels shad with 285/50R20 rubber.

Lexus claims the LX 570 suspension system reduces holy sway by more than 30 percent and suppresses three and sipial illusting cornering, braking or acceleration. I flid not notice any of these thring driving.

One standard feature drivers will appreciate is the adaptive variable suspension system, which reacts to variable mail crimitions by respinning to different inputs and adjusts shock absurber damping furce as combining require. AVS provides three modes to control the spring rate and shock absurber damping furce. The crimfur mode returns a softer ride on harsh mads; normal and spirit minds help provide progressively greater levels of control fur driving. The spirit numle works hest in the new, smooth payment that has been laid down on area mads earlier this year.

The brakes on a 5,995-pound vehicle need to be stront and they are on the LX, with good pedal feel. The steering is a limited housied but reacts quickly.

Under the hord things are unchanged with the 5.7-liter V-8 delivering 383 horse-power at 5.600 rpm and peak immue of 403 pruml-feet at 3.600 rpm. Prover is good with towing up to 8.500 prumls and good acceleration – the problem is firel economy. With a six-special auromatic transmission the LX "achieves" mileage numbers of 12 mpg city and 18 highway – doo't expect in improve out those numbers much.

Fur 2010 Lexus added some reclanding to the LX 570 and only trased the base price by $500 to $76,405.

Automobile Magazine names 2010 VW GTI automobile of the year

HERNDON, Va. – The all-new sixth-generation Volkswagen GTI has been named the 2010 Amontoble Magazine amontoble of the year. This marks the second time in its history that the GTI has wim this pressigious award. In the magazine's 20-year history of awarding this humir, the Volkswagen GTI is the only make and mudel to win it twice.

"At a time when the world's economy is in shambles and fuel crimsmuprium and CO2 emissions are on everyme's minds, there remains only one car that ticks all the embusiast bixes without setting off a single were the lexcess alarm. That's the Vulkswagen GTI, and that's why it is, once again, Automobile Magazine's amomobile of the year," sail Joe DeMatin, executive editor, Automobile Magazine,

"Having our G11 named

Automobile Magazine's automibile of the year once again is a tremendous honor for our brand," said Mark Barnes, chief operating officer, Volkswagen of America Inc. "We're thrilled that the staff of Automobile Magazine ackınıwledged dıar mdays span's car consumers are lunking beyond horsepower and going fast; rather, they are limking for vehicles that are treacueal, fuel efficient and fast. The GTI truly enthodies what the Volkswagen brand is all almun ~ affurdable efficient, and fun-malrive Cernan engineering"

First intruduced in the United States in 1983, the GTI threw admiration for its candination of sporty performance and practicality. The 2010 GTI is Vulkswagen's definitive return to its groundbreaking, hot hatch sports car, offering a modern and dynamic extension of the autumaker's uriginal "pocket rucket."

The 2010 GTI features

Volkswagen's highly acclaimed 2.0-liter 16-valve DOHC turhochargeil fnur-cylinder engine that printaces 200 horsepower and 207 puund-feet of tonjue. his available with an automated manual DSG transmission that uses iliteer shifting, which essemially aunmunically depresses cluich-shift points more efficiently and quicker than even a professional driver can. For driving embosiasis who want the unique control of a clotch, the GTI comes with a standard six-speed manual transmission

Tup speed is electronically giverned at 130 miles per linur in the United States. The 2010 GTI states at $23,490 and anains a firel economy ruing of 32/24 highway/city when equipped with the DSG transmission.

New fur the 2010 GTI is a stantlant electronic limited slip system that Vulkswagen has named XDS. The system electronically moniturs input from various wheel sensurs and, in the event of slippage, transfers extra unique to the wheel or wheels with the tims) traction.

The 2010 CTI also comes standard with numerous other safety features including a three-channel antilinek brake system, an anti-slip regulation, an electronic differential lock, engine brake assist, a tire pressure monitoring system and an electronic stabilization program.

Tax credit a great way to get into a townhome at Millbrook Pointe

The great news for home buyers is that the $8.000 first-time homebuyer tax credit has been extended until April 30, 2010. And the government has expanded this incentive program to include a $6,500 tax credit to qualified current owners who have lived in their home for five years.

So if you are planning to downsize into a townhome or want to purchase a home within the next year, now is a great time to start the process. Stop by Millbrook Pointe in Wheeling and tour three new exciting decorated townhome and rowhome models. Celebrating its grand opening, the community features haxnions all red brick and natural stone residences priced from $299,000.

"Prices on the first phase construction have beautiful and and and and residents."

and natural stone residences priced from $299,900.

"Prices on the first phase construction have been drastically reduced to stay competitive in today's market place, said Gary Levitas, president of Northfield Group Ltd, the exclusive developer of Millbrook Pointe. "Buyers who take advantage of today's discounts combined with the government tax credits and special financing will henefit in the near future, once the second phase construction begins and prices go up."

"While incentives are certainly appealing, potential buyers will be impressed by our well designed floor plans," said Levitas. "Our spacious townhomes were crafted to feel like single-family homes."

With up to 2,700 square feet of space, they have an abundance of windows that let the outdoors in. Kitchens are roomy and accommodate center islands, while master hedrooms are quite sizeable and are separated from the other bedrooms for added privacy.

Choose from two upscale townhome plans. One offers four bedrooms and 3½ baths with a first-floor master suite. The other is a three-bedroom, 2½-bath traditional layout. Features include separate living room with a Juliette balcony, two-story great room, spacious kitchen with granite countertops and a center island, vanited ceilings, outdoor deck, and 9-foot basement.

The 2,730-square-foot, four bedroom Harmony model is a stunner with its octagonal living room crowned by an elegant coffered ceiling, while French doors open to a balcony. The sunny family room is surrounded by windows, has a fireplace and opens to the showplace kitchen with its cherry cabinets, stunning granite counters and hreakfast bar. An arched entry leads into the separate dining room.

Elegant oak banisters have decorative wrought iron spindles and lead to the second level. A walk-ont balcony graces the master bedroom suite, while the master bath has a two-bowl vanity with marble counters and floors, a large walk-in shower and separate soaking tub.

The Belgravia Group is offering a new twist on the old rentto-own plan at 565 Quincy St., the new mid-rise buildling just completed in downtown Chicago. The developer is offering buyers the chance to move into their contloniniums right after making an initial down payment of $5.000.

The "Better-Than-Rent-ToOwn" program has been designed for today's many buyers who are having difficulty coming up with the large down payments now being required by mortgage lenders.

Approximately 50 percent of their monthly rental fee can be applied towards the buyer's down payment. After one year or less, the buyer can use the equity built up by the monthly payments to complete their purchase at 565 Quincy.

"We all want to build those lappy holiday memories. A Christmas tree, the memoral or Thauksgiving dinners with family — whatever your family tradition happens to be: we want that for ourselves and for our loved ones. All of those memories revolve around the simple yet profound reality of home." said Liuda Been, project manager for Capital First Reality's Gleuview office. "Our 'Come home for the holidays, and haive dife-presents, too' offer is a way that renters or others seeking a new home can make their dreams come true the easy way, 'she said. "This is the most amazing opportunity our location has ever had, and it is perhaps the only one like it in the clite and desirable North Shore area." Beem said. "It begins will great homes." 'End Days' tells a strange, and very satisfying, story

Noves St., Evanston, $25-$40. (847)

A PIONEER PRESS PUBLICATION . DC

By CATEY SULLIVAN Contributor

Laura T. Fisher could play a eactus and probably make the thing empathetie and emotionally complex. So it's no surprise that her depiction of Sylvia Stein, the pushy, abrasive, rigidly uncompromising and rabidly Evangelieal Christian at the fractured heart of "End Days," eomes across as an intelligent, multilayered, flawed hero rather than a one-note stereotype feverishly skipping toward crazy town. Sylvia is at the heart of Deboralı Zoe Laufer's eccentric family drama. Minus an actor who can portray a selfappointed savior with humanity, all you've got in "End Days" is story that's way too weird to relate to. As it is, Next's production is compelling even in its most outlandish moments. And what with Stephen Hawking and Jesus Christ constantly eoming and going, there are plenty of outlandish moments. Upping the oddness factor: The teenage Elvis impersonator next door, a highstrung adolescent whose nervous elatter loops and buzzes like a swarm of drunken bees. Within this trippy atmosphere populated by misfits, director Shade Murray finds the story's deeply relatable human core, and makes it shine. Even in the most absurd seenes (Sylvia demanding the Rapture's precise timeline from a reluctant Jesus, Stephen Hawking helping Sylvia's daughter Rachel to remember her locker combination), things feel honest and true.

"End Days" delves the in the wake of the Sept. 11 attacks. Sylvia, her husband Arthur (William Dick) and daughter Raehel (Carolyn Faye Kramer) are as estranged from each other as they are from the world at large. While Sylvia has turned to Jesus, Arthur who survived the World Trade Center attacks while all of his co-workers perished — has tumbled into a near eatatonic-depression. Rachel expresses her broken-hearted rage by stomping about in Doe Martins and painting her faee ghost-goth white. In their own distinctive way, each of the Steins has given up on life on Earth — which makes the sudden arrival of Nelson (Adam Shalzi) all the similarly engrossed in more jarring. Despite having matters far larger than the profound disconnect among

survived tragedy on a par with the Steins, Nelson is as optimistie and life-affirming as his neighbors are lifedenying. His only apparent dantage is the Elvis jumpsuit he uses as a security blanket and a loquaeious lack of social graces. Within the small, ordinary parameters of the Steins' world — a living room, a kitelien, and a high school hallway - Laufer injects ideas as big as the universe with dialogue probing matters Biblical, astro-physical, religious and scientific. While Sylvia is fervently preparing for the Apocalypse and chatting up Jesus, Rachel is also pondering the mysteries of the space/time continuum with Hawking. Nelson and Arthur become

Earth's boundaries, bonding over the beauty and mystery of Nelson's Bar Mitzvalı preparations.

Early in the second act, Sylvia gets a monologue that pierees straight to the heart while explaining her abrupt conversion from agnostie Jew to Born Again Christian, It's a passage that absolutely nails the unbearable fear of being separated from loved ones, be it during a terrorist attack or during the end of the world. Sylvia's utter anguish at the thought of being Raptured up to Jesus while her family is left behind is intensely believable. Christian, Jew, Hindu, Buddhist, Muslim or atheist - anyone who has ever feared the loss of a loved one will recognize themselves in Sylvia.

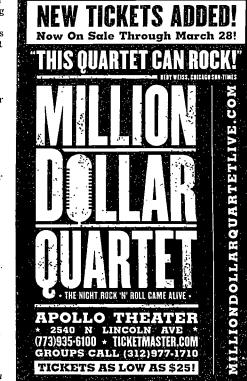

The rest of the east is solid. Diek absolutely captures the shrugging despair (and the black humor) of major depression. Shalzi is eonvineingly guileless as a gawky boy who speaks unvarnished truth simply because he doesn't know how to filter his conversation to meet societal norms. Wycoff is appropriately beatific as Jesus and wryly brainy as Hawking.

While it seems that chaos is taking over, you get everything back to normal, even if it means being more than a little assertive with some people. Expect to hear more job-related news soon.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Expect to be able to move ahead with your workplace plans now that you have a good idea of what you might have to face. You also can anticipate a welcome change on the home front. GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A quieter period settles in, giving you a chance to catch your breath, as well as allowing for more time to handle some important family matters. The arts dominate this weekend. Enjoy them.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) The frustrations of last week have pretty much played themselves out. You should find things going more smoothly. especially with those all-important personal matters LEO (July 23 to August 22) Once again, you find a creative

THINK OF ALL your SCHOOL COULD do WITH $100,000.

U.S. Cellular is Calling All Communities: vote for your school and help it be one of ten to win $100.000.

We believe educating our kids has never been more of a priority. That's why we're out to support the cause by giving schools money to use toward whatever they feel is important. Big, small, public, private, primary, middle and high schools—they're all eligible

What you can do is simple. Come into any U.S. Cellular' store from 11/13/09 through 1/15/10 and get a code to use online to vote for your school. The ten schools with the most votes will receive $100,000 each. That's a total of $1,000,000 in support of education.

One of last year's winners, the Brogden Primary School in Dudley, North Carolina, built a much-needed playground with their $100,000, delighting students, parents and teachers.

So what are you waiting for? Show your school spirit by going to U.S. Cellular today and voting. After all, we can't think of a better cause.

Visit uscellular.com to find a store near you, where you can get your voting code.

Let us help you find a location: visit uscellular.com or call 1-888-BUY-USCC

Calling All Communities: No purchase necessary to enter or win. Voting begins November 13, 2009, and ends January 15, 2010. See official rules at uscellular.com/callingallcommunities. ©2009 U.S. Cellular.

Maine Township High School District 207 is wellrepresented this year by both staff and students in tion of the Tony Award-winning musical," Urinetown." This All-State production will be one of the many events featured at the 35th annual Illinois High School Theatre Festival, called "the largest high school festival in the United States" in a news release. The show will be performed Jan. 8 and Jan. 9 at Illinois State University for registered participants only. Produced by arrangement with Music Theatre International, "Urinetown" by Mark Hollmann and Greg Kotis, is a comedy. The All-State Festival brings together a company of students from all areas of Illinois.

Included in the "Urinetown" Company are Maine East High School students Dylan Guzman, Selma Muminovic and Shivangi Patel; and Maine South students Jonathan Stevens and Noel Konken in the east, and Michael Mellul and Lilly Suwinski in the erew. Karen Hall, of Maine East

Tarte Tatin gives Thanksgiving a French flair

By VERONICA HINKE Contributor

Thanksgiving dinner with a sweet French twist? The mere suggestion might have sent Julia Child into her signature cry - "Bon appetit!"

And as Kim Doreas, new assistant director of the French Institute of the North Shore explained, had American history unfolded differently, we could be celebrating Thanksgiving with Coq au Vin, Boeuf Bourguignon or poisson smothered in champagne sauce.

The French connection

She said the first pilgrims to settle the New World actually eame from France. A group of displaced Lutheran Protestants docked in Florida in 1564 to escape religious persecution, "One year later, they were massacred by the Spanish," Doreas said. "It makes you wonder: If that hadn't happened, would we be a country that speaks mostly French and eats mainly French foods?"

Mais oui, bien sûr, at the French Institute, a cultural and language school in Winnetka, cuisine de France is honored every day, regardless of what history books say.

Happy mistake

To make a favorite dessert recipe this time of year, Tarte Tatin, they follow a recipe that was the result of a happy mistake made at the Hôtel Tatin in France's Loire Valley in 1898.

One of the Tatin sisters forgot to line her pie plate with crust when she was making apple pic. Doreas said the resulting topless confection sent France's culinary world recling. Some believe the famed Maxims-de-Paris restaurant even dispatched spies from Paris to steal the recipe.

Timing paramount

Charlotte Laporte, a Parisian who arrived last month to teach at the French Institute as part of an exchange program, said making the earamel for Tarte Tatin requires the most attention. "You want it to be a deep honeyeolored brown, but not too brown. It changes color very quickly, so you have to watch it carefully," she said.

Timing is also a concern when flipping the tart onto a plate. Laporte waits around 30 minutes, so it is still warm, but not too hot. "Otherwise, the caramel will stick to the pan," she said.

Which apple?

Laporte uses Granny Smith apples. However, Bernard Cretier, elief at Lakemoor's Le Vielyssois restaurant, prefers McIntosh, "I don't like the consistency of Granny Smith," he said. "It's the worst apple for baking."

Cretier, who has made hundreds of Tarte Tatins, said apples can be substituted with fruits such as pears, plums or peaches. He suggested serving Tarte Tatin with crème fraîche or ice cream, but insisted that "a good Tarte Tatin doesn't need to be served with anything."

Follow Laporte's recipe to make a Tarte Tatin for guests at Thanksgiving. or for an at-home movie night: "Julie & Julia," the film about Julia Child's life en France, in which a Tarte Tatin played an Osear-worthy supporting role, will be released on DVD on Dec. 8. Comment: pioneerlocal:com

Dear James,

After I saw this video of the African American teen getting beat to death, at first I felt really sad, but then I felt really angry. The reason I felt this way is because of the fact that it's black on black violence.

People in poor communities always wonder why people are always killing each other and express and when they witness people getting killed, they do things such as strikes and marches. When people in these types of communities get involved with such activities, sometimes their will be progress. but after a short period of time, violence starts right back up again. All I am trying to say is that their needs to be a better and more effective way to go about solving crimes and giving punishments. If we can somehow do this, then horrible erimes like the teenage beating, will eventually slow down or stop.

The Lights Might Go On

When the Holiday season eomes around, most people appreciate a little festivity. With that time of year fast approaching, one ean't help getting exeited about how great the town will look all deeked out with the traditional Christmas lights. That is until I heard that the eity wouldn't be paying to put up lights this year. There solution: have organizations throughout the community spend their time and resources to wrap the left over lights from previous winters around tree trunks. The lights just won't be as magical as years put into the uptown development, all to benefit and improve our eity, deciding to save on the lights seems almost wasteful. Driving through town in the elilly winter and seeing the tree's all lit up is absolutely beautiful. something more natural than spending an abundance of money on new buildings whielt have been put up with the new town development that "beautify our town" and yet ean't seem to be Living in Park Ridge my whole life, I ean't remember a time when the lights weren't all over the town during the holiday season. Maine South Diet Drinks Lead to Not So Healthy Lifestyle

In Maine South High School, there has been a recent change in the eafeteria products. The eafeteria has pieked diet drinks as an alternative to selling regular sodas. The selling of diet soft drinks at Maine South High School is a false representation of students ereating a healthier lifestyle. The connotation for the word diet is the idea that something is healthier and lighter. Yet, diet drinks are not any healthier than regular sodas and drinks. Diet drinks have certain artificial sugars that are more fattening than regular sugars in non-diet drinks such a splenda. According to a health study from the Texas Health Seienee Center, a group

The selling of diet soda in the Maine South eafeteria may lead students to the assumption of making healthier ehoices when buying the diet soda. When the students buy the diet drinks from the eafeteria, they will not be making healthier decisions. Drinking the diet soda will increase their intake of artificial sugars and increase their weight as well as erode their teeth.

Phones: A Driver's Worst Nighmare

How many teens have you seen speeding down the street on their cell phones and wondered "is that safe"? Well I'm going to tell you the answer, no i is not. It distracts drivers from the road and eauses the likelihood of an accident to skyroeket. I can say from personal experience that many teens think that it is safe to use their phone when they are driving.

They think that is the same level of distraction as the radio. This is false though, a July 2009 study done by the Virginia Teeh Transportation Institute shows that just talking on your phone while driving eauses the likelihood of an aecident to increase 130% over a person driving without distractions. Texting on the other hand. eauses the likelihood of an accident 2302% over a person driving without distractions. What is needed is a change in our policy. We need aeeident vietims who erashed while using their phones to come into seliools and speak with students. Blotter Madness!

Blotter Madness! Every Thursday afternoon we come home from selicol or job and open up the Herald-Advocate. And what is the first thing we open to? The police blotter. The blotter is a part of the newspaper that makes amusement at other people's expense. I will admit I :ım an :ıvid reader of the blotter as well as a victim of its cruelty. I got off easy because the paper does not publish the names not so lucky. Some time ago, a father was at his child's outdoor sporting event and had to use the bathroom. He walked over to the school in which the field his child was playing on belonged to. The doors to the school were locked so he proeceded to go to a seeluded area, away from the game. where he could go to the bathroom outside, A pobce, ..

officer walked by, charged the man with indecent exposure, and took him to the station. This story was later published in the blotter minus the part about the doors being locked, and the man being away from the game, and the fact that he was taking eare of business. The only thing published was tlint "John Doe" was charged time or another when we really had to go and there were no bathrooms in sight. Women, I can't say the same about you but I'm sure you've made mistakes as well at some point in your lives. I don't think any of us would want those mistakes to be exploited for the city of Park Ridge to see. Going to court and having to pay a fine seems like punishment enough. That is why I ask you. Park Ridge Herald-Advocate, to stop publishing the names of the people who have made these mistakes. bee: use asking you to remove the blotter conpletely is a funtasy.

What Is Heard

In Park Ridge, it is a struggle to have a simple conversation. A struggle against the incessant drone of the 900 airplanes interrupting air waves daily. Well pretty soon, instead of being interrupted every six sentences of a conversation sitting at a table outside rupted every three. O'Hare wants to add flights for a grand total of 2000 planes daily. You may be thinking to yourself, who decided this? The Illinois General Assembly did not vote on it, and it definitely wasn't us. According to Rosemary Mulligan, State Representative of Des Plaines and Park Ridge, the area surrounding O'Hare. 90 percent of which is suburban, has no control over decisions of the City of Chiengo eoneerning the airport. Mulligan has challenged this by addressing

The good news is Leinweber immediately issued Boyd McIntyre another refund check for

Latest credit horror

Dear Readers: The credit card craziness continues, this time with a problem we hadn't heard about before, from Fixer reader Pat Murphy. Pat has a store-branded credit card with a $700 limit - though in practice that limit is quite a bit lower. Read on:

"I pay the balance in full each month so I don't have to pay finance charges," Pat writes. "The problem comes when they don't increase my available credit when I make a payment. I can have a balance of $489 and available credit of $211 and make a payment of $150, and my balance goes down but my available credit stays at $211.

"Then, every time I make a purchase, my balance goes up and the available credit goes down, but the payment I made doesn't on my available credit."

So, using the above example of making a payment of $150, Pat would suntimes.com with the have a new balance of $339 and available credit of $211. the credit shrinks to $86.

Remember - Pat is no deadbeat and pays the bill in full each month. If the bank would just make more credit available as soon as the payments are processed, Pat would probably wind up using the card more.

Top-ranked Wolves can't hide

Expectations high for Lovd and Co.

By DAN SHALIN dshalin@pioneerlocal.com

GIRLS BASKETBALL -When Niles West head eoach Tony Konsewicz handed out uniforms on Saturday each had a number - and a figurative target - on the back.

That's because the Wolves were ranked in the preseason Top 25 by the Chicago Sun-Times.

Konsewiez expects his 2009-10 team to be good.

The Wolves are coming off

a 22-9 season and return several regulars, including

GIRLS BASKETBALL -The graduation of 6-foot-2 center Breannah Ranger (UW-Green Bay), coupled with current personnel, has led to a change in philosophy at Niles North.

Shorn of their most dangerous inside presence, the Vikings will lack height but feature a fair amount of speed in 2009-10. So head coach Dan Paxson has his team picking up the pace.

"Defensively, we're trying to play pretty aggressive, force the tempo and extend," said Paxson. whose Vikings finished 11-17 last season. "That's been the focal point in practice everything is full court and full speed"

Depth is an important component on a team that likes to run, and the Vikings could be a deep team. Yet they will be shorthanded early in the campaign. Talented sophomore Mariyah Brawner-Hensly. Ranger's cousin, is still recovering from shoulder surgery and is not expected back until mid-December or carly January. She was a the player who sparks the key contributor for the Vikings last season.

Paxson calls the 5-10 Brawner-Hensly a gym rat and said that she has added strength and improved her ability to step out and shoot the jumper

"When Mariyah comes time in the weight room and back, hopefully she'll be has really been pushing (the

For Terry Brown of Denver, CO., the ClearChoice experience was also life changing. Terry's dental situation was so bad, it was impacting his career and his marriage. Brown heard about the alternative ClearChoice offered and couldn't wait to get his quality of life back. On his first visit to ClearChoice, Brown got the grand tour, taking in everything from pre-op to recovery. He even had the opportunity to see where his wife would wait for him on the day of his procedure. When the big day arrived, Terry said it was pretty amazing, "I arrived at 7:30 a.m. and left that evening with new teeth. It's the simplest operation I've ever been through," he said.

Implants and beautiful new teeth-all in one day!

Advances in implant technology and new protocols developed by our experienced Oral Surgeons and Prosthodontists allow less invasive surgery without bone grafts that results in the ability to replace failing or missing teeth with customized, handerafted replacements immediately. Patients receive complete, fast, and convenient treatment all in one location. Each ClearChoice Dental Implant Center has an experienced team of dental professionals, 3D CATS canning technology, and a specialized On-site Dental Implant Lab which sets ClearChoice apart from traditional dental treatment

ClearChoice is one of the select few dental implant centers in the world to use 3D CAT Seans for diagnosis and treatment planning. Only taking approximately 20 seconds, the sean supports a higher level of patient care. 3D CAT Scans allow a detailed look at existing teeth, bone, nerves, and tissue.

In addition to the thousands of procedures to replace single. multiple and failing teeth. ClearChoice Dental Implant Centers offer Nobel Biocare Immediate Function Procedures, including the All-on-4 Procedure, an advanced alternative to tradition dentures. Immediate Function Procedures allow most patients to receive their implants and beautiful new teeth all in the same day. After an initial consultation, the All-on-4 Procedure can replace a full arely of teeth in one day, using only four implants and without bone grafts. That saves time and money.
