Police charge phony doctor

BY TRACY GRUEN
Contributor

The phony physician who allegedly performed toothpick acupuncture on a "patient" and prescribed out-of-date pills has been arrested, Niles police reported.

George Fleming, 61, of 8250 N. Kenneth, Skokie, was arrested on May 18 and charged with practicing medicine without a license.

Fleming, who police said does not have a license to practice medicine in Illinois, reportedly treated a man April 23 at a clinic on the 8900 block of Golf Road. According to the Medical Practice Act of 1987, the suspect "knowingly and without a valid license under this Act, suggested, recommended or prescribed treatment ..."

Niles police Sgt. Robert Tornabene said the victim saw an advertisement for the fake doctor's medical services in a Bulgarian newspaper. The clinic was closed at the time the patient saw Fleming. The suspect reportedly put toothpicks in the patient's chest (possibly as an acupuncture treatment) and gave him pills labeled "Prosperous Farmer Dietary Supplements." The label on the bottle stated that the pills expired February 2002.

On April 26, when the victim and his son called the clinic, an employee said she didn't know who the doctor was, police reported. The father and son then went to the clinic and saw Fleming, who fled east on Golf Road, police said.

Investigators reported that Fleming voluntarily came to the Niles Police Department for an interview. During the interview he admitted to practicing medicine without a license, police said.

"He's not licensed to practice medicine in the state of Illinois," Tornabene said. "I don't know if he had been prior."

If convicted, Fleming could be sent to prison for between one and three years and fined up to $25,000, according to Niles police.

Fleming's arraignment date was May 19. His bond was set at $5,000.

Deadline to display car sticker is July 1

Residents of unincorporated Maine Township are reminded that Cook County vehicle stickers must be purchased and displayed by July 1.

The stickers, also known as wheel tax stickers, can be purchased at Maine Township Town Hall, 1700 Ballard Road, Park Ridge. The cost is $40 for regular passenger vehicles, $50 for larger passenger vehicles and between $50 and $115 for trucks, depending on size and weight. Motorcycle stickers are $25 and stickers for non-commercial recreational trailers are $30. There is no charge for seniors or disabled drivers. In addition to the cost of the sticker there is a $2 processing fee, but the fee will be waived for seniors and the disabled.

The Maine Township Clerk's Office, normally open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, will be open on Saturdays in June from 9 a.m. to noon to provide extended hours for purchasing vehicle stickers.

Failure to display a current vehicle sticker can result in tickets from Cook County Sheriff's Police officers.

For more information call Maine Township at (847) 297-2510.

Coke donates rain barrels

BY NATASHA WASINSKI
Contributor

Gray clouds loomed above Culver School on Saturday morning but the weather couldn't put a damper on the day's event. An expectant rain, in fact, made it all the more meaningful.

From its signature-red hybrid truck, Coca-Cola distributed 125 rain barrels to Niles residents on May 21 in celebration of the corporation's 125th anniversary and commitment to water stewardship.

Following a presentation by local leaders and a demonstration on assembling the barrels, a parade of cars lined up in the school parking lot as Boy Scout members loaded the barrels in.

"As global a brand as Coca-Cola is, it all comes down to this: It's all about being a member of local communities," said David Katz, Coke's senior vice president of the Midwest region.

Niles is home to Coca-Cola's Midwest headquarters and the largest bottling facility in the region. The corporation has two production facilities, 13 distribution centers and more than 3,000 employees based in Illinois.

Through its water-stewardship program Coca-Cola aims to reduce and recycle water in its manufacturing operations, and replenish water in communities and the environment through local partnerships. Coke gave away the free rain barrels, developed from company's 55-gallon syrup drums, on a first-come, first-served basis.

"As a key ingredient in every Coca-Cola beverage, (water) is essential to our operations," Katz wrote in a blog posting about the event. "But even more so, water is critical to the well-being of the communities and ecosystems in which we work and live."

To recognize the corporation's ongoing commitment to Niles, Mayor Robert Callero announced that Coca-Cola is the Chamber of Commerce's "Business of the Month" for June.

The village and Coca-Cola forged its partnership in June 2008 to create the area's first municipal rain garden. In less than two weeks more than 150 Coca-Cola personnel and dozens of other community members had transformed an underused vacant lot into a specialized garden designed to soak up and filter rain water runoff from surrounding buildings and parking lots.

Coca-Cola chose Culver School as its distribution center on Saturday since it is the future site of a rain garden. "The main goal of the Niles Community Rain Garden is to educate and inspire others, so we are very pleased to see Culver School moving forward with such an environmentally sound project," Callero said.

Culver's interim assistant principal, Peggie Manicscalco, said sixth-, seventh- and eighth-grade students will work in rain garden during their science classes during the next few weeks. The school will also host "planting days" for the Boy Scouts and broader community.

"We're not just driven by curriculum," Manicscalco said of the hands-on project.

When collected, the pure, clean water is ideal for plants and gardens because of rainwater's natural nutrients and minerals, Harpster said.

"We're teaching a way of life." Larry Harpster, a plumbing engineer who specializes in stormwater management, provided a brief tutorial for residents on how to assemble and use rain barrels.

As a former Highwood alderman, Harpster developed the area's first free rain-barrel program in September 2009 with state Sen. Susan Garrett, D-Lake Forest, and Coca-Cola. Giving the barrels away at no cost to residents was important to the project's success, Harpster said, as barrels and their components can cost upwards of $200.

Harpster said a 1000-square-foot roof produces as much as 623 gallons of water for each every inch of rainfall.

Rain barrels collect and store non-potable rainwater from roofs through a disconnected downspout. Additional tubing and hoses can be added to immediately divert water to gardens or sewer systems.

When collected, the pure, clean water is ideal for plants and gardens because of rainwater's natural nutrients and minerals, Harpster said.

Goin' for gold at mini-Olympics

Carrying on a tradition steeped in historical meaning, the Aristotle Preschool and Kindergarten in Niles held its second mini-Olympics at St. Haralambos Greek Orthodox Church.

The school also serves residents of Morton Grove.

"This event is held as an end-of-the-year celebration where students enjoy a morning of organized sports and fun, in the manner of the ancient Greek Olympics," parent Kristina Otte explained. "Prior to the start of the games, the children sang the Olympic anthem, carried handmade paper 'torches' around the school in an Olympics-style parade and recited an Olympics pledge."

Students then formed teams and engaged in relay races on the grounds behind the church.

Vocal jazz featured in Niles North concert

BY PAT KROCHMAL
 @pioneerlocal.com

Niles North High School vocal jazz performers of today and yesterday are harmonizing together Saturday to celebrate 20 years of the art.

More than 70 alumni, as well as numerous students, will get together at 7:30 p.m. that day in the school's auditorium, 9800 Lawler Ave. in Skokie, to take part in the concert.

Vocal jazz is a style of singing, either a cappella or accompanied by a rhythm section, which embellishes the melody with ornamentation or improvisation to transform a song into something distinctive and personal, said Daniel Gregerman, the music teacher who founded the program here in 1991.

"I had a love and passion for vocal jazz, and when I came there was no vocal jazz program, nor any extra-curricular outlet for singers, so I started one," Gregerman said.

"I was one of those 'people' who knew what I wanted to do in life when I finished my freshman year in high school. I knew I wanted to be a music teacher — and never changed my mind. I pursued education from the get-go both instrumentally and vocally all my life," he added.

He double-majored in the subjects at Northwestern University for his undergraduate degrees. He started his teaching career in McHenry doing both, as well as working with a marching band.

After three years, he pursued his masters degree at Western Michigan University, where he focused on choral work to earn his degree in advanced choral conducting and jazz studies.

And because there were no vocal jazz groups at either of those places, he established them there, too.

Gregerman also became part of a professional, eight-voice jazz group in Chicago that was highly acclaimed, but when faced with the decision of reaching for star status or following their already music-connected careers, all chose the latter. And for Gregerman, that meant teaching — and vocal jazz.

school administrators that vocal jazz was something the kids would really like. And we went from having one group to three full-blown groups," Gregerman said.

"First, I founded 'Take One.' Then years later, I asked the administration for some money to hire someone else for a second group, 'Sound Check.' Then we started a third group, 'Harmonic Motion' — all because I got tired of turning kids away. The nature of the art form is that you don't have more than 16 singers, usually eight girls and eight boys," he added.

Gregerman also said he has been "blessed" because for years, his assistant directors all have been students who have made their own names in the music field and have returned as his assistant directors.

Since the program started, about 375 people have participated in it, including the 50 in it now and the 70-plus alum returning to participate in the concert.

"I think that's an astounding number — 30 percent! And without trying, we've ended up with members of every single graduating class since the group has been founded," Gregerman said.

To further commemorate the 20th anniversary of the vocal jazz program at Niles North, composer/arranger Gary Fry was commissioned to write "Hold On To This Feeling" which will be performed during the concert.

And the finale to the evening will bring together all vocal jazz performers, past and present, for a rendition of "Bridge Over Troubled Water."

"Take One" also will perform "Ballando" and "Fly Me to the Moon," as well as others. "Sound Check" will sing "I'm Beginning to See the Light" and "Sunday Morning, and more. "Harmonic Motion" will deliver "Everything" and "I'm Yours," plus others. The alumni will present numbers on their own, as well as collaborating with the student members of the group, Gregerman said.

Ben Weiss, an 18-year-old senior from Skokie who is part of the group, said he has been in a choir since he was eight or nine years old, and this concert should not be missed.

Tenor Anthony Pavel sings a solo in "Don't Stop Believing" at Niles North High School, in preparation for Saturday's show. | SHAUNA BITTLE-FOR SUN-TIMES MEDIA

"It's 20 years worth of people who have been in this group. And there will be so many different genres of music — pop, jazz, rock — almost everything you can think of," Weiss said.

"We go up on that stage thinking we are a different group every time we sing a different type of song. If you close your eyes and listen, you won't be able to tell it's the same group you've heard before," he added.

Anthony Pavel, an 18-year-old senior from Skokie who is also a member, said there is nothing better than putting on a good show.

"And this is going to be a pretty cool show. I'm very excited about it. And it's an honor to sing with these alumni," he added.

Phoebe Yeo, a 16-year-old sophomore from Skokie who arranged a rendition of "Blackbird" for the event, said all of the student groups have been working really hard on the show.

"There will be computerized lighting and a variety of music to appeal to young and old. It will be bigger and better than past shows — definitely one to remember," she added.

Tickets are $10 at the door.

OAKTON COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Emeritus Arts and Humanities Festival

American playwright August Wilson is the focus of this summer's Emeritus Arts and Humanities Festival, a six-session lecture series offered by Oakton Community College.

August Wilson: An American Master: Tradition! Heartbreak! Love! Pride! Family! Race! will kick off on Tuesday, June 7, and continue through June 28. Weekly lectures will focus on the life and work of this great writer, hailed as the "poet of the African-American experience." Topics will include:

"August Wilson's Genius," an examination of Wilson's nontraditional plot structure and how he combined Jazz and 'Gullah English' to create an unforgettable sound and a new dramatic logic (June 7, 10-11:30 a.m.).

"Joe Turner's Come and Gone," a look at the third play in Wilson's 10-play historical cycle (June 7, 1-2:30 p.m.).

"The August Wilson and Robert Brustein Debate." In 1996 Wilson delivered his address, "The Ground on Which I Stand." Brustein, founder of the Yale Repertory Theater, responded with "Subsidized Separatism," and the theater community erupted in turbulent debate about race and representation on the American stage. (June 14, 10-11:30 a.m.).

"Wilson's Life/Fences," a review of Wilson's life and his recently-revived play, "Fences." Key scenes will be performed by the Chicago-based theater company IMPACT (June 21, 9:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.).

"The Pittsburgh Play Cycle," an examination of this Tony Award-winning series, including "The Piano Lesson," "Fences," "King Hedley II" and "Joe Turner's Come and Gone" (June 21, 3-4 p.m.).

"The Piano Lesson," a closer look at this Pulitzer Prize-winning drama — the only Wilson play to be filmed in full (June 28, 9:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.).

All sessions take place at Oakton's Skokie campus, 7701 N. Lincoln Ave. The fee is $18 per lecture, or $70 for the entire series. Half-price tuition does not apply.

Teacher gets certification

BY NICKY MARIA PRIOVOLOS
Contributor

Maine South teacher Alexander Stathakis was delighted and relieved to have earned National Board Certification.

Stathakis, an English teacher at the high school, said "it was a lot of work. It was very rewarding work, though."

Stathakis received his undergraduate degree from Northwestern University in English, with a focus on American Literature. He then completed his Master of Science in Education at Northwestern.

Stathakis has taught at Maine South for eight years. He now teaches sophomore English, Literature of Chicago and the Newspaper Practicum course. He is also the sponsor of the school newspaper, Southwords.

Teaching runs in the family, Stathakis said. His mother is a teacher at Oakton Community College and his father is a philosophy teacher.

"(Teaching) is something that I've always thought about ... It was always in the back of my mind," he said.

There was another part of him that struggled with the decision to become a teacher. Both of his parents were teachers, which made him wonder if maybe he shouldn't be one.

"The more I delved into the studies, the more I realized (teaching) was something I had a passion for and wanted to do," Stathakis said.

Stathakis said he had a somewhat different perspective on education because he attended Montessori schools as a child.

To become certified, teachers must complete a series of portfolios covering a range of teaching aspects. Criteria include feedback teachers give to their students, types of assessments created, the classroom environment and ability to foster discussion in the classroom.

"It's a very reflective process," Stathakis said. "It was the kind of reflective thinking I hadn't done since my master's program." After watching videos of themselves teaching, candidates must write essays regarding classroom decisions, what went right and what they could do to improve their techniques.

Stathakis said the work involved in creating the portfolio came naturally because that is what he and his colleagues, as teachers, do everyday. The most difficult part was finding time to reflect on the lessons he already taught. It took him about a year to complete the process.

A father of two, Chiara, 3, and Luca, 9 months, Stathakis said he was inspired to seek National Board Certification by his wife, Rebekah. His wife became certified a few years back and he said seeing how difficult and rewarding it was for her made him want to do it, as well.

"I take my inspiration from my students," he said. "The thing that's most inspiring about teaching is to see the change that occurs in the course of a school year or a high school career, to see where student come in and where they end up."

Stathakis said he takes the energy and excitement of the students. He tries to focus it on the subject at hand "to help them understand why it's important and what they can do in their own life to augment their experience."

Stathakis enjoys all of the classes he teaches, each for different reasons; they are all passions of his. As the sponsor of Southwords, the school newspaper, he has a special connection with journalism and enjoys the "unique interaction" he has with students in his newspaper-practicum class.

"It's a real-world experience, putting together a publication," he said. "You get to see what they care about ... That's a lot of fun for me."

Stathakis said the teaching quality at Maine South is already very high and he believes that more of his colleagues will also achieve National Board Certification.

"It's a great place to work ... (and) a great environment for teaching," he said.

Blue Ribbon for Culver

BY NATASHA WASINSKI
Contributor

Culver School is a winner of the 2011 Blue Ribbon Program Award for Outstanding Physical Education Program.

The statewide contest honors P.E. programs of exemplary quality and display a strong commitment to state and national standards in physical education.

The Blue Ribbon Awards are presented by the Illinois Association of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance.

The association delivered the news to the Niles School District 71 Board of Directors at its monthly meeting May 17. P.E. staff members Diana Buhler, Ann Farlee and Tony Palazzolo were present to accept the honor.

"This award is exciting because you will help to set the tone for the future of physical education in the state," wrote Maureen Fournier, the Blue Ribbon program chair, in the award letter.

Culver is one of only three elementary schools in the state to receive this year's award. Avery Coonley School of Downers Grove and Park View School of Morton Grove are the other recipients.

The evaluation-team report cited various strengths and improvements in Culver's P.E. program, including curriculum work during the past few years, daily P.E. instruction for all students, adherence to the district's wellness plan and P.E.-department leadership.

Culver staff will be formally recognized in November at the association's convention, where they will receive a large blue banner to display the achievement.

"We are proud of our P.E. department's philosophy of lifelong fitness and hope to continue to improve the fitness and wellness of our students here at Culver School," Superintendent Amy Kruppe said.

Culver and its P.E. department hosted the third annual "Fun Run" on May 24. All students participated in walk or run activities ranging from a quarter of a mile to a 5K.

Arts camp invites Niles student

BY TRACY GRUEN

Chris Carbone, of Northridge Preparatory School in Niles, will attend the world's premier summer arts camp, which has been attended by many famous artists.

Carbone has been accepted to the renowned Interlochen Arts Camp, where he will study theater ensemble in the summer in Michigan.

"I'm very proud of him," Amy Carbone said of her son, who is in seventh grade. The camp is for aspiring artists in grades 3-12.

The alumni community of Interlochen Arts Camp, including singers Norah Jones and Josh Groban, has been awarded 89 Grammy awards.

Carbone submitted an audition DVD that included two monologues. One of the monologues was a script from Tom Sawyer in which he had the challenge of having to admit to doing something wrong in a subtle way.

Dan Janeiro, a teacher at Northridge Preparatory School, privately coached Carbone and helped him prepare for his monologues.

"I didn't really know much about acting until I started doing the Northridge plays," Carbone said.

Janeiro directed the last play at Northridge Prep, where Carbone was cast as Mim in "The Sword in the Stone." He also played Mazeppa in Northridge's fall 2009 production of "The Thwarting of Baron Bolligrew," and in spring 2010 he played the lead in the school's production of "Oliver."

"He's got a lot of talent," Janeiro said, noting that he feels attending the Interlochen Arts Camp will be a great experience for Carbone and allow him to grow as an artist.

Amy Carbone said Janeiro was "instrumental" in her son's audition tape. She said her son has attended a theatre camp in the past and has taken piano and voice lessons.

Carbone said comedian Jeff Foxworthy is one person who has inspired him to do theater work. At the Interlochen Arts Camp, world-class instructors work with student artists and produce presentations in theater, dance, creative writing, visual arts, music and film.

Honor all the Uncle Vincents who went to war

BY PAUL SASSONE
Columnist

For most of us Memorial Day is just a day off and a parade. But Memorial Day also is my Uncle Vincent. He was a pilot killed over Sicily in World War II. I don't know much about him. The family never talked much about him. He was a wound that never healed. What kind of person was he?

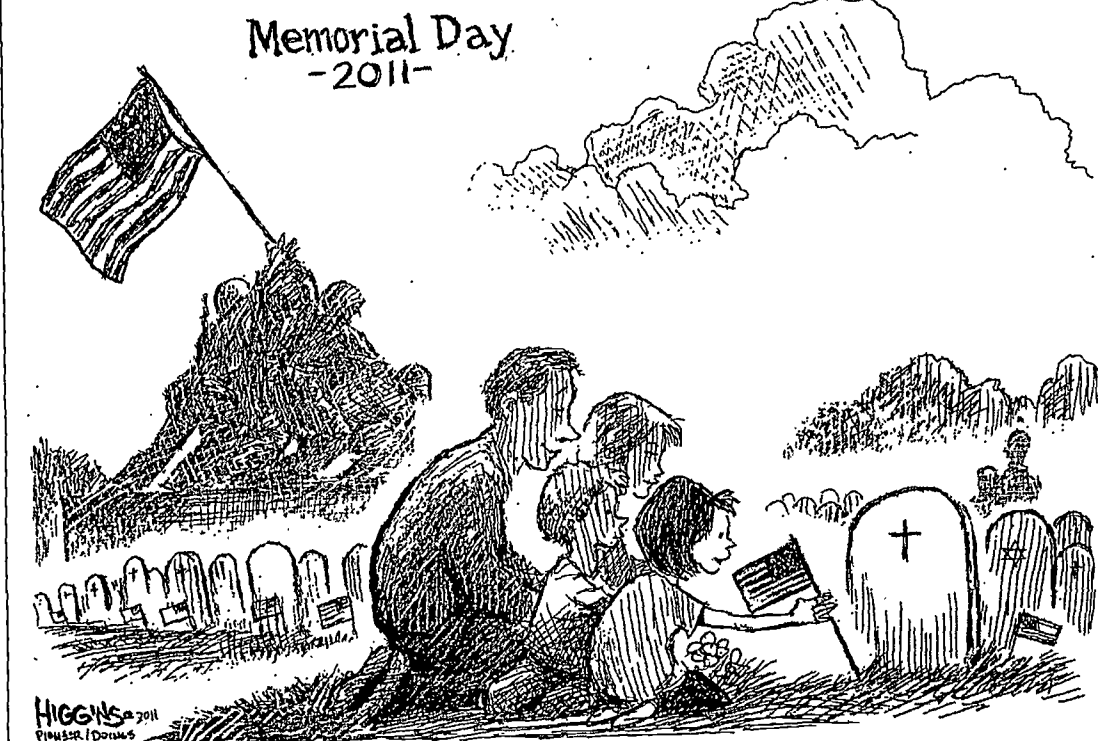

I'll never know. I would doubt that he ever existed, except for some flotsam he left before he disappeared from the surface of life — for instance, his photo in the Maywood Herald together with other village residents who had been killed in the war.

What were his favorite books? Did he like Humphrey Bogart? What career did he want? How tall was he? Who, really, was he? I'll never know. I would doubt that he ever existed, except for some flotsam he left before he disappeared from the surface of life — for instance, his photo in the Maywood Herald together with other village residents who had been killed in the war. There's Uncle Vincent, right before Tommy Edmonds and right after Robert Taylor. When my grandmother was alive there was a glass case in the corner of her living room. Lovingly displayed was the Purple Heart my grandmother had received in exchange for the son she sent to war. And there were photographs of Un-

I know he never knew who won World War II. I know he never watched TV. I know he never used a cell phone, or Tweeted. I know he never rode in a jet plane. I know he never watched men walk on the moon. And I know he never got to talk to me, nor I to him. There were 405,399 Uncle Vincents in World War II. And thousands of other Uncle Vincents in all the wars since his. For the families of those killed in war, Memorial Day is not just a day off work. It is a searing pain that may not end after 60 years, or 70 years. Or, ever.

1000 WORDS BY JACK HIGGINS

Father-in-law's war stories still vivid on Memorial Day

BY CHERYL O'DONOVAN
Van Mom Strikes Again

Every Memorial Day, I think of my father-in-law, a World War II veteran who toiled and sweated in the steel mills near Hammond, Ind. By the time I married into the family, he had retired and mellowed, yet embraced his 70s with vigor. He fitted his Schwinn with a comfy seat, strung a radio around the front wire basket and toiled around his neighborhood like an eager kid delivering papers. He visited his friend, Jack, who ran a fish-bait shop. They'd watch people from the store porch, sipping slow beers. My father-in-law was a master fisherman and enjoyed cooking. He'd pickle cucumbers into Polish dills. The house reeked of garlic for weeks. When we visited their South Side Chicago bungalow, he'd beam and reach for my son, who was then a squiggly baby. We'd chow on a mouth-watering meal my mother-in-law prepared, and later gather in the living room. Some men don't talk about their war experiences. My father-in-law described warfare and its numbing aftermath vividly. Engines humming, planes would lower over the ground, strafe an area and scorch anything green and living from it. Artillery fire was often deafening. He wore a treasured raincoat that doubled as a pillow and kept him warm. As he and the 3rd Infantry Division advanced through North Africa, Italy and Germany, they would liberate POWs and others trapped in prisons. The stench was unbearable. He witnessed people being tortured for no reason. Human nature, he learned, was the same, no matter what side you fought on. One snowy November day, while preparing to welcome us for a visit, his heart faltered. He stumbled and died. My mother-in-law cradled his head and begged him not to leave her. But he did. He had been outside, salting the sidewalks, to make sure we would be safe. At his funeral, mourners shuffled by the casket, sniffing and drawing crosses across their chests. One of my husband's uncles came to a halt. He struggled up from his cane, snapped his heels together and saluted. The uncle's glory days had long faded. He was frail from age. But in that moment, I caught a glimpse of a young, splendid infantry man. One last good-bye, one old soldier honoring another.

'Bug' explores gritty ambiguities of life

BY MYRNA PETLICKI
Contributor

On the heels of Redtwist Theatre's Jeff-nominated production of "Man from Nebraska," the company led by husband and wife team Michael Colucci and Jan Ellen Graves of Skokie is producing "Bug," another play by Tracy Letts.

Artistic Director Colucci said that because of the success several years ago of Letts' Tony award-winning production of "August: Osage County," he read every play by Letts. The company decided to stage the two Letts works back-to-back because, "They're so different. One was very lyrical and intimate and more mainstream — a simple story about good people. 'Bug' was typical of Tracy Letts' earlier period — his very gritty, edgy Chicago storefront style."

Lonely souls

Kimberly Senior directs "Bug," which is about "two lonely souls who meet on the edge of town at some seedy motel," Colucci said. Peter (Andrew Jessop) may be a Gulf War veteran who is AWOL from the army, although it's not clear if he actually ever served. "His emotional instability manifests itself as a delusion of infestation of bugs," Colucci said. Agnes (Jacqueline Grandt), who lives in that motel, is debilitated by having lost her son in a supermarket years ago.

Agnes is hiding from her ex-husband, an ex-convict named Jerry, played by Tommy Lee Johnston of Deerfield. Johnston is a Redtwist company member as well as a playwright. His plays, "Aura" and "Life's Tremors," were both produced at Redtwist. "Aura" received a Jeff nomination for new work last year.

Johnston said that playing Jerry in "Bug" "is all kind of new for me. I usually play that angelic-like nice guy. This is fun — everybody has a little dark side."

When the play opens, Jerry is fresh from two years in prison for armed robbery.

Ex-wife Agnes "is certainly not looking forward to his return," Johnston said. "He's a pretty controlling guy over her. He wants back in. I think he generally cares for her but he's not the best of people."

Johnston had read the play prior to being approached by Colucci to play Jerry. He decided that taking the role could show audiences a different side of him. "Sometimes you get lumped into a certain category," Johnston said. "I wouldn't normally be called in for a part like this based on my history onstage."

It's nice to have an opportunity to 'go there.'"

As an actor, Johnston said, it is important that he doesn't judge his character. "Despite the way people might feel about him when they leave the theater, there are some genuine qualities about him," Johnston noted. "If you can hone in on those qualities, it makes it more real. I would hope that initially the audience would maybe like him a little bit."

Mr. Not-so-nice guy

The actor noted that from the character's perspective,

Michael Colucci of Skokie

Tommy Lee Johnston of Deerfield

he can't understand why his ex-wife "isn't waiting for him with open arms."

In addition to producing "Bug," Colucci takes the role of Dr. Sweet. He said that his character "is probably a legitimate army doctor who probably cares for Peter and probably comes with good intentions to check up on him and bring him back in so he can get him back on track because he suffers seriously from delusional paranoia."

Colucci noted that he uses all those qualifying terms when describing his character because, "nothing's ever clear with Tracy Letts." That's one of the reasons that Letts' plays are always so intriguing.

"We'll have activities and contests for the dogs and their owners," said Crystal VanHying, Skokie Park District facility manager. These will include an obstacle course, a dog/owner lookalike contest and a moonwalk for kids.

"Skydogz will be doing a performance at 2 p.m. — that's the Frisbee disc dog group," VanHying said. There will also be music, demonstrations and exhibits. Hotdogs, hamburgers, chips and beverages will be sold.

For this event only, which is run by the Skokie Park District and the City of Evanston, you don't need a Pooch Park pass. All dogs, however, must be leashed. Dog Obedience Group and Happy Husky Bakery in Evanston are co-sponsors of Woofstock.

MOVIE REVIEW

A retro rom-com

In Woody Allen's 'Paris,' Owen Wilson travels in time to visit a lost generation

BY BRUCE INGRAM
Film Critic

MIDNIGHT IN PARIS
★ ★ ★ 1/2

For anyone who has ever thought it might have been wonderful to live in New York City in the '50s or San Francisco in the '60s or, say, Paris in the 1920s, "Midnight in Paris" is made to order.

Even if you're not one of those people (come on, admit it: you are), this enjoyable, lightly comic, lightly romantic film is one of those semi-regular Woody Allen movies that come along every third or fourth effort these days, delivering a degree of satisfaction that reminds us why he has always been worth watching.

Romantic fable

"Paris" is a romantic fable, basically, about a Hollywood screenwriter named Gil (Owen Wilson, an awkwardly upbeat and agreeable fit in the Allen stand-in role), who's visiting Paris with his cold, critical fiancée Inez (Rachel McAdams) and her wealthy parents.

Gil is naively in love with his romantic ideals of (a) Paris; and (b) the notion of being a struggling novelist. He's also naively unaware that Inez is edging toward an affair with a pompous professor (Michael Sheen) who's in town to lecture at the Sorbonne. He's too busy wandering the streets of Paris, wishing he could have been there in the 1920s, his ideal geographical/chronological intersection.

Stein of the times

Gil asks Hemingway, his hero, to read the novel he has been writing and Hemingway refuses, but offers to show it to his pal Gertrude Stein. Then the vision disappears, returning Gil to the present.

The yellow Peugeot reappears every night at midnight, though, allowing Gil to live in both times at once, essentially, and giving him the chance to compare and contrast, and to fall in love

Time-traveling tourist: Owen Wilson and Rachel McAdams star in Woody Allen's latest film, "Midnight in Paris."

what seems at first to be a costume party with everyone dressed in the style of the Jazz Age. Then he makes the acquaintance of Zelda Fitzgerald, F. Scott Fitzgerald, and Cole Porter, who's singing one of his songs at the piano. (The party's in honor of Jean Cocteau, of course.)

Later, after a night of drunken carousing, he meets Ernest Hemingway, sitting alone in a café and spouting highly entertaining Hemingway-esque dialogue: "There's nothing noble about dying in the mud" and "No subject is terrible if the story is true and the prose is clear and honest."

The dramatic emphasis of "Midnight in Paris" is on romance, as Gil sorts out his feelings for Inez and Adriana — and gradually becomes aware of another potential soulmate in his own era. The film works best, though, during occasional moments of inspired anachronism, such as Gil offering a Valium to a hysterical Zelda Fitzgerald.

It also moves along at a pleasant, ambling pace (the sort you might employ while meandering through the streets of Paris) on its way to its fairly predictable moral about learning to make the most of one's own place and time. No matter how much better things might look on the other bank of the Seine.

Length: 102 minutes
Stars: Bradley Cooper, Ed Helms, Zach Galifianakis
■ The three degenerate party boys from the original smash hit get back together for a bash before Stu's (Helms') wedding in Thailand.

Kung Fu Panda 2

Rated: PG for sequences of martial-arts action and mild violence.
Length: 90 minutes
Stars: Jack Black, Angelina Jolie, Seth Rogen
■ Kung fu-fighting panda Po (Black) returns for a showdown with an old enemy in this sequel to the hit animated comedy.

Midnight in Paris

Rated: PG-13 for some sexual references and smoking.
Length: 100 minutes
Stars: Owen Wilson, Rachel McAdams
■ A romantic screenwriter (Wilson) who always wanted to live in 1920s Paris gets the opportunity while visiting the city with his ill-matched fiancée (McAdams). Woody Allen wrote and directed the comedy, reviewed in this section by Bruce Ingram.

STILL PLAYING

The Beaver

Rated: PG-13 for mature thematic material, some disturbing content, sexuality and language including a drug reference.
Length: 91 minutes
Stars: Mel Gibson, Jodie Foster
■ If you've got the patience, and the flexibility, worth seeing for its sheer audacity — and for Gibson's tortured, hilarious, strangely moving performance. Gibson plays a middle-aged toy-company CEO in the final throes of suicidal depression, who comes back from the brink after adopting a beaver hand

Zach Galifianakis, Bradley Cooper, Justin Bartha and Ed Helms pick up where they left off in "The Hangover II." In the sequel to the runaway 2009 hit comedy, the quartet's misadventures lead them to Thailand.

puppet as his life coach and official spokesman. (BI)

Bridesmaids

★★ 1/2
Rated: R for some sexuality, and language throughout.
Length: 91 minutes
Stars: Kristen Wiig, Maya Rudolph, Chris O'Dowd
■ Wiig, of "Saturday Night Live," wrote and stars as Annie, a 30ish woman whose life is a financial and romantic disaster, and who is having a hard time adjusting to the impending, advantageous marriage of her best friend Lillian. "Bridesmaids" is a collection of excruciating comic social disasters, an emotional gantlet Annie must run before realizing she is her own worst enemy — with some startlingly out-of-place gross-out scenes thrown in as a lure for the hard-R crowd. (You know who you are.) (BI)

Everything Must Go

Rated: R for language and some sexual content.
Length: 100 minutes
Stars: Will Ferrell, Rebecca Hall
■ A relaxed alcoholic (Ferrell) holds a yard sale in his front yard in an attempt to put his life in order after losing his wife and his job. The comedic drama is based on a short story by Raymond Carver.

Fast Five

Length: 130 min.
■ A former cop (Paul Walker) and an ex-con (Vin Diesel) join forces to defeat a drug lord and a relentless federal agent. Justin Lin ("Fast and Furious") directed the latest installment in the hard-driving action series.

The First Grader

★★ 1/2
Rated: PG-13 for some disturbing violent content and brief nudity.
Length: 103 minutes
Stars: Oliver Litondo, Naomie Harris
■ An earnest, uplifting, but not particularly involving drama from director Justin Chadwick ("The Other Boleyn Girl"). An old man's single-minded quest for literacy in Kenya in 2003 is worthy enough in itself to maintain interest. It's just a shame that "The First Grader" never advances beyond the elementary level in terms of emotional engagement. (BI)

Jumping the Broom

Rated: PG-13 for some sexual content and language.
Length: 101 minutes
Stars: Mike Epps, Angela Bassett
■ Two mismatched families converge on Martha's Vineyard for a wedding. Salim Akil (Television's "The Game") directed the comedy.

Prom

Rated: PG for mild language and a brief fight.
Length: 104 minutes
■ Several intersecting stories of romantic relationships unfold as teenagers prepare for the annual school dance.

Pirates of the Caribbean: On Stranger Tides

Rated: PG-13 for intense sequences of action-adventure violence, some frightening images, some sensuality and innuendo.
Length: 139 minutes
Stars: Johnny Depp, Penelope Cruz, Geoffrey Rush, Ian McShane
■ Two things make the fourth "Pirates" a good time: the absence of Orlando Bloom's and Keira Knightley's characters and a determination to get back to old-fashioned, rave-up adventure. This time, Capt. Jack's searching for the Fountain of Youth and he's got some serious competition: his old enemy Barbosa (Rush) and the black-hearted, black-magic-practicing Blackbeard (McShane). Oh yes, and Blackbeard's got a daughter (Cruz), a grudge-holding former love of Jack's. This "Pirates" is a bit overlong, but fast-paced and clever. Directed by Rob Marshall ("Nine," "Memoirs of a Geisha") in mostly unnecessary 3D.

Thor

Rated: PG-13 for sequences of intense sci-fi action and violence.
Length: 130 minutes
Stars: Chris Hemsworth, Anthony Hopkins, Natalie Portman
■ The Norse god of thunder is banished to Earth to learn humility — and picks up the true meaning of heroism as a bonus. Kenneth Branagh ("Henry V") directed the comic-book adventure.

Losing his 'Biutiful' mind

BY BRUCE INGRAM
Film Critic

NEW THIS WEEK

Biutiful
★ ★ 1/2

Rated: R for disturbing images, language, some sexual content, nudity and drug use.
Length: 132 minutes
Stars: Javier Bardem

It's hard to be poor. It's worse to be poor while you're dying. And it's worse yet to be poor and dying in a self-consciously artistic manner. Sadly, that's the fate of poor Uxbal, the soulfully suffering hero of "Biutiful" (feelingly played by Oscar nominee Bardem), a fringe figure in the Barcelona underworld struggling to raise his two children — who's recently been diagnosed with terminal cancer. Things keep getting worse for Uxbal (also a part-time psychic who reports grim tidings from the dead, just to lighten the mood), in a way that's intended to up the dramatic ante. Unfortunately, though, when dramatic misery is entirely relentless, no matter how beautifully (or biutifully) rendered, it runs the risk of slipping into self-mockery. That's basically the trouble with "Biutiful," the first film from director and co-writer Alejandro Gonzalez Inarritu ("Amores Perros," "21 Grams," "Babel") without his longtime screenwriter Guillermo Arriaga. Inarritu applies world-class visual flair to the sorrow and misfortune in "Biutiful" and it's pretty clear, from the film's luminous final moments, that he intended the tale of Uxbal, ultimately, to be transcendent and bittersweet. Instead of earning that emotional effect as a storyteller, though, he relies on his actors and his artfulness to make it seem the film has more to say than it actually does.

Drive Angry
★ ★ 1/2

Rated: R for strong brutal violence throughout, grisly images, some graphic sexual content, nudity and pervasive language.

Length: 104 minutes

Javier Bardem (with Hanaa Bouchaib) was nominated for a best-actor Oscar for his performance as a two-bit Barcelona crook struggling to raise his children against daunting odds.

Stars: Nicolas Cage, Amber Heard, William Fichtner

"Angry" is a bit of an understatement, actually. Cage (at his craziest) redefines road rage as a deceased hard-core criminal named John Milton (no relation), who breaks out of Hell to wreak vengeance on the satanic cultist who murdered Milton's daughter and plans to sacrifice his granddaughter to the devil so he can take over the world. And wreak it he does, in a stolen '69 Dodge Charger, accompanied by gorgeous Heard in her micro-Daisy Dukes. Director Patrick Lussier, who also helmed last year's remake of the '80s slasher "My Bloody Valentine," delivers all the off-the-charts action, blood and gratuitous ogling of naked babes you could hope for, but somehow it all grows tedious fairly quickly. Though Fichtner is definitely a plus as Satan's bounty hunter, who's determined to drag Milton back home for a stern talking-to.

ALSO NEW THIS WEEK

The Abbott And Costello Show: Hit The Road

This "best of" collection from the comedy team's 1952-grisly results. Originally an Internet mini-series. The DVD features the uncensored version considered too ghastly for the film's debut on basic cable's MTV2 channel.

Stanley Kubrick: Limited Edition Collection

A ten-disc Blu-ray set including every film Kubrick made after 1960: "A Clockwork Orange," "Lolita," "Barry Lyndon," "Spartacus," "Dr. Strangelove," "2001: A Space Odyssey," "The Shining," "Full Metal Jacket" and "Eyes Wide Shut" — most making their Blu-ray debuts. Bonus features include a wealth of commentaries, documentaries and interviews.

RECENT RELEASES

The Great Dictator
★ ★ ★ ★

Rated: G
Length: 125 min.
Stars: Charlie Chaplin

Chaplin (who wrote, directed, scored and starred in a dual role) gets political in this nose-thumbing satire of fascism, taking an early poke at Hitler before America entered World War II. The comedy might now seem to be a bit lacking in bite, but it did its job by holding Hitler up to early ridicule. The nearly forgotten Jack Oakie is a plus as the Mussolini stand-in "Napolini" in this Criterion Collection release.

Le Mans

Rated: G
Length: 105 min.
Stars: Steve McQueen

McQueen is the whole show in this ironically slow-moving 1971 drama about a race car driver (guess who) returning to the grueling endurance race after a crack-up that almost killed him. There's a bit of tortured romance with the widow of a fellow driver, but mainly it's all about the racing, with McQueen (a champion racer himself) doing most of his own driving.

54 TV series highlights the duo in travel mode in various settings, including "On Vacation," "On Safari" and in "Las Vegas."

American Graffiti: Special Edition

This re-packaging of George Lucas' pre-"Star Wars" '60s teenage coming of age saga starring Ron Howard and Charles Martin Smith features a new commentary from Lucas and the documentary "The Making of 'American Graffiti.'"

Ellery Queen Mysteries: The Disappearing Dagger

Orchestra aims to unleash musical magic

BY DOROTHY ANDRIES
Contributor

Matthew Cataldi is a big fan of what he calls the "goose-bump" factor in live concerts. The Evanston resident, who holds a master's degree in violin performance from Northwestern University, is the founder and music director of the Renovo

String Orchestra, which will try to inspire and delight audiences on May 27 with "Music from the German School."

The 14-member chamber ensemble has been together for over a year and has been striving to give programs that will excite their listeners.

"We're going for a new kind of sound," said Cataldi,

RENOVO STRING ORCHESTRA

Nichols Concert Hall, Music Institute of Chicago, 600 Grove St., Evanston
7:30 p.m. Friday, May 27
$25 per person
(847) 312-9936, write infor@renovostrings.org or visit www.renovostings.org who is an active freelancer and regularly plays in the Baroque Band. "We're interested in playing so that it sounds spontaneous."

Confidence rules

Even though, of course, the ensemble prepares for each concert with numerous rehearsals to avoid any unpleasant surprises. "We are all well prepared, so we have confidence," he said. "With confidence, we can let go and make some magic."

Cataldi describes his players as diverse and eclectic. "We have a mix of ethnic groups and many ages," he declared.

Double-bass player John Tuck joined Renovo when it was founded. "I drive around the Midwest a lot," Tuck said, when reached in Kalamazoo, Mich. "I live in Evanston and so does Matt. I've known him for a long time."

"You can't imagine how appealing it is to play a concert right in my own backyard. I can invite my friends, family and colleagues."

Tuck, who holds a bachelor and master's degree from the Northwestern University of School of Music, is on the faculty at the Music Institute of Chicago and is a member of the Lake Forest Symphony. He also has played with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, Ars Viva, the Ravinia Festival Orchestra and Mannheim Steamroller.

"I do a lot of special events," he declared, "paying jobs. I get together a group of musicians and we play for a convention or a party. Renovo is a non-profit and it gives me a chance to invest in something that gives back to the community. It is art for art's sake."

That dovetails with Cataldi's desire to give his musicians a special experience. "I want the audience to be engaged, of course," he said, "but I don't want to lose that 'we are here for the music' feeling among the musicians either."

Two works are on the program — Mozart's "Dissonance Quartet," arranged for string orchestra, and Mendelssohn's String Symphony No. 9. "The Mozart is one of six quartets dedicated to Haydn," Cataldi explained, adding that its name comes from the series of chords that slowly move into unrelated keys at the very beginning of the work.

Cataldi's own 23-year musical career has included solo, chamber and orchestra performance not only in this country, but in Canada, France, Germany,

Matt Cataldi, founder and conductor of the Renovo String Orchestra

Denmark and Holland. He regularly plays with the Elmhurst, Rockford and Green Bay orchestras. He just finished playing for "Medea," presented by Chicago Opera Theater at the Harris Theater for Music and Dance at Millennium Park in Chicago.

He has also been a guest lecturer at Columbia College and Lake Forest College, speaking about modern and period performance practice.

Structural challenge

His greatest challenge in putting together the Renovo String Orchestra turned out to be the administrative aspect, he admitted. "I read the book Standing Room Only," he said, referring to the well-known theater textbook by Philip Kotler and Joanne Scheff Bernstein, which is subtitled "Strategies for Marketing the Performing Arts."

With help from his mother, who teaches arts administration at Ohio State, and his girlfriend, who is in arts management, he set up the structure of Renovo. "There were so many details to master," he said, referring even to the mundane difficulty of setting up a rehearsal schedule.

"There are so many good musicians and musical groups out there," he concluded, "but the secret is how to reach our own audience and then keep the people coming."

Perhaps, he believes, Renovo's secret will be to play with such spirit and abandon that the audience will get "goose bumps" and become loyal fans.

We've got the local stage covered, from world premieres to popular revivals.

COMFORTABLE EFFICIENCY

Diesel-powered Audi Q7 has what families need to drive

search for new and used cars | todrive.com

BY DAN CARNEY
Motor Matters

Drivers intuitively understand that the most fuel-efficient cars are the smallest ones. Where does that leave families who need some space for carrying people and their belongings? A family trip to Canaan Valley in the heart of the West Virginia mountains provided a clue with a clean-diesel three-row SUV tester. The Audi Q7 TDI carries as many as seven people.

With Quattro all-wheel-drive the Q7 confidently ascended mountains without a hint of slippage, while the seat heaters — front and even rear seats — plus steering wheel heater preserved cabin comfort. The expansive panoramic sunroof provided an excellent view of Seneca Rocks as we paralleled the south fork of the Potomac River, which is a glorified stream deep in the mountains.

These are the kinds of capabilities for which many families have willingly tolerated reduced fuel economy in the low teens, or worse, since Suburbans began appearing 20 years ago. But with $4-a-gallon gas a reality (maybe permanently), some families may be wondering if they have no choice but to switch to a cramped all-wheel-drive sedan or wagon or maybe a spacious but less-capable minivan.

Audi reminds us that there are green alternatives. The Environmental Protection Agency rates the all-wheel-drive 5,500-pound Q7 SUV at 17 mpg in the city and 25 mpg on the highway, with a combined rating of 20 mpg. In a mix of suburban errand running and fully loaded mountain highway driving, the Q7 averaged 21.6 mpg, or a little better than we'd have likely seen from a minivan in the same conditions.

But it did this while delivering all-weather security unmatched by any minivan, including the Toyota Sienna that survives as the only one to still offer AWD as an option. The EPA rates Toyota's minivan at 16 mpg city and 21 mpg highway.

Of course, the TDI burns diesel fuel rather than gasoline, so it costs a little more to fill up; however, today's price gap seems to be narrowing as regular unleaded gasoline prices have risen. The on-board trip computer displayed a range of nearly 600 miles between fill-ups, so Q7 TDI drivers also gain the advantage of spending less time at the gas station.

The power plant is a 225-horsepower 3.0-liter V-6 diesel with twin turbochargers. That might not sound like an abundance of power for a vehicle the size of the Q7, but the engine's muscle-car-like 406 pound-feet of torque contributes to sprightly acceleration and capable mountain climbing.

It is also worth reminding drivers who travel to ski mountains higher than 3,000 to 4,000 feet that the twin turbochargers have the effect of preserving power even at very high altitudes, where normally aspirated engines wheeze and call for an oxygen mask.

All this capability and efficiency does have a price; the Q7's base price is $50,900. Comfort has a price too, as the prestige option package with many of the Q7's indulgent features adds a flat $12,000. To the consumers who are thinking of spending $50,000 on a premium family hauler, the Q7 TDI shows that they needn't wince at the gas pump until the kids move out.

The company has also announced that it will proliferate its diesel technology to other less-expensive models such as the Q5, so the Q7 TDI for now serves as a green technology showcase that demonstrates how it is possible to preserve the capability and comfort drivers want while reducing fuel consumption.

Weekend wonder

Park Monroe offers city lights, entertainment and lifestyle

Getting away for a weekend vacation is something that most people enjoy. A change of scenery and pace can be therapeutic and calming. Some vacationers choose a destination with warmer weather but must factor in the cost of airline tickets and endure the hassle of flying in general.

Other Chicagoans enjoy driving to Michigan on the weekends to relax although there is no significant weather change. Some find country escapes boring and uneventful, but if a family, couple or individual wants to experience a weekend away, it is hard to argue with the simplicity of a location within driving distance of an hour or so.

Many suburbanites have found that a weekend getaway in downtown Chicago is an escape filled with fun and excitement. Some of them have even decided to make downtown their permanent weekend retreat. It has become very popular for families that live in the suburbs to purchase a condo downtown. For a while, soon-to-be retirees were selling their homes and moving to a condo downtown.

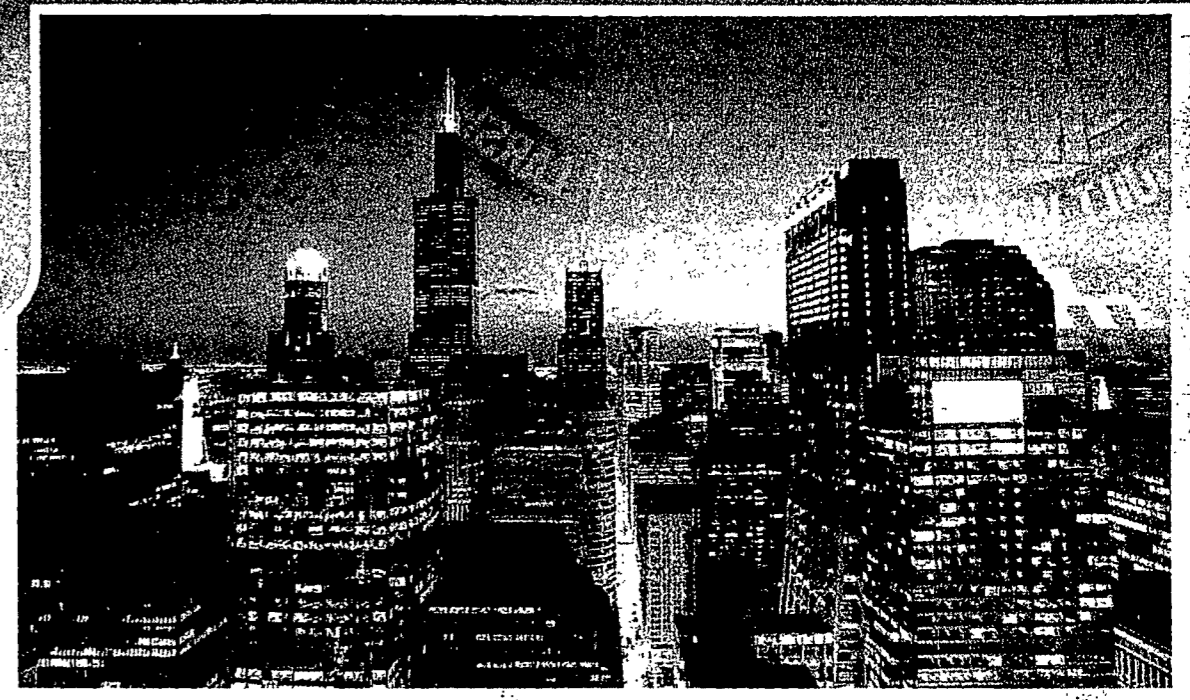

However, since the real estate market has changed, empty-nesters are reluctant to sell their homes in the suburbs with the idea of purchasing a primary residence downtown. One of the reasons for this is that the market time for selling a home in the suburbs has increased substantially. The other issue is the selling price. There are many people who, reasonably so, do not want to sell their home in a down market.

Therefore suburban homeowners are now keeping their home in the suburbs and purchasing a pied-a-terre downtown at a discount. Now is a perfect time to take advantage of real estate deals that can be found in the city.

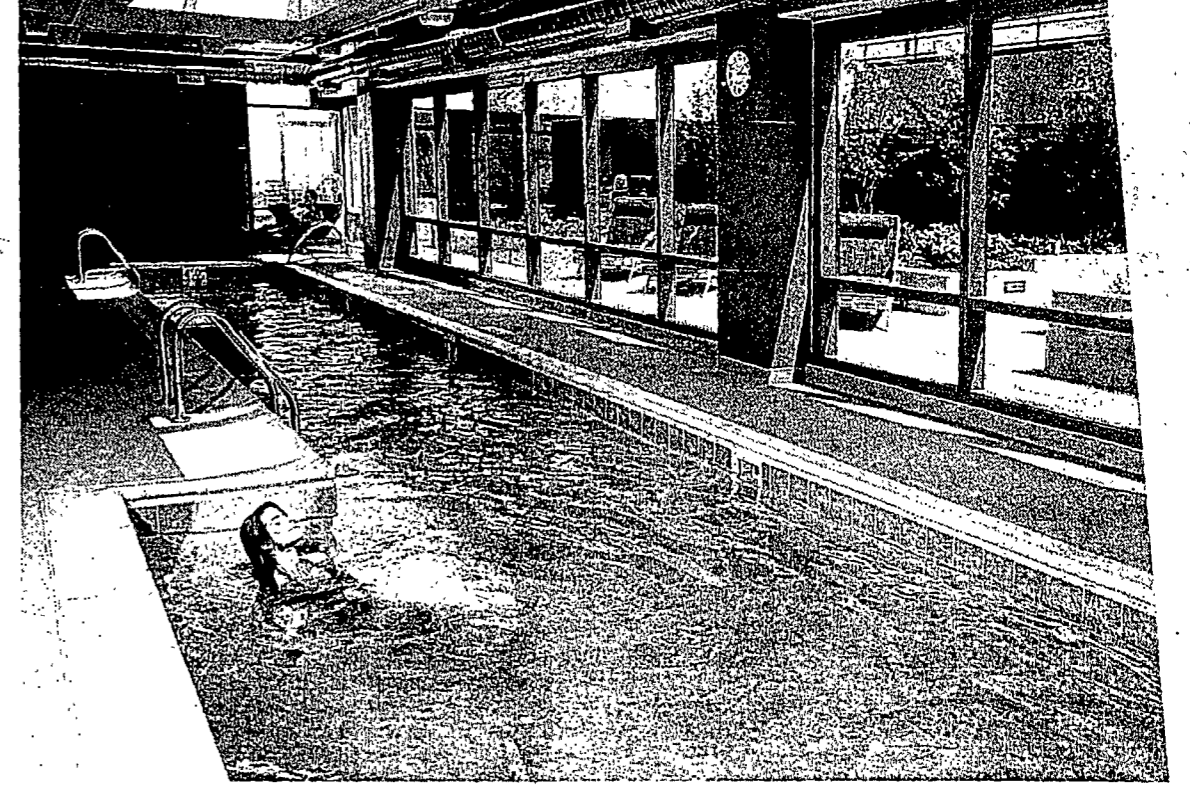

Becky and Bill Nelson did just that. They live in the far Northwest Suburbs and did not have plans of making downtown their primary residence. They saw the advantage of keeping their home in the suburbs and the value of buying a great condo in the city.

"We did not even consider renting a condo downtown; we see our purchase as a long-term family investment," Bill says.

There are many choices downtown but the inventory of new construction is shrinking. The term "new construction" means that the home has never been lived in before, although there are some condos that have been complete for a year or more but never lived in due to the current real estate market. A lot of that is changing as suburbanites purchase some of the smaller condos and decrease the supply quickly.

The Park Monroe, located at 65 E. Monroe, is selling homes at an average of one per week says Larry Debb, one of the developers.

Bill and Becky looked at multiple high-rise developments in the area before making their decision.

"We looked at several buildings but The Park Monroe had everything we were looking for. The three major factors for us are quality, location and price. The Park Monroe had it all. We love to use the indoor lap-pool and the fitness center in the morning. The party room that opens to a sprawling sundeck is great for the daytime but also

Black paint. Black instrument cluster.
And a total lack of gray area.

It's all black and every bit a Porsche. Introducing the 911 Black Edition. Its sleek black instrument cluster, 19" Turbo II Wheels, touch screen Porsche Communication Management system and BOSE® Surround Sound System are anything but doom and gloom. Even more pleasurable is that it costs considerably less than a similarly equipped 911 Carrera*. The thrills are never ending. The car, however, is a limited edition. Come and see the 911 Black Edition at The Porsche Exchange. Porsche. There is no substitute.

Experience a different shade of Porsche at The Porsche Exchange.

Answers: Inside today's classified section

HOROSCOPES

For the week of June 1 - June 7

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Lots of possibilities begin to open up by midweek. Some seem more appealing than others. But wait for more facts to emerge later on before you consider which to choose.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Bravo to the determined Bovine. While others might give up, you continue to search for answers. Expect your Taurean tenacity to begin paying off by week's end.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You might want to consider stepping back from the task at hand for a while. This could help you get a better perspective on what you've done and what still needs to be done.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Your keen Cancerian insight should help you determine whether a new offer is solid or just more fluff 'n' stuff. The clues are all there, waiting for you to find them.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Being ignored is difficult for any proud Leo or Leona. But pushing yourself back into the spotlight might be unwise. Instead, let things work themselves out at their own pace.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Trying to uncover a colleague's secret under the pretext of showing concern is ill-advised. Control your curiosity in order to avoid raising resentment in the workplace.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Expect to hear good news about a loved one. Also, be prepared for some changes in several family relationships that could develop from this lucky turn of events.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Some surprises are expected to accompany a number of changes that will continue through part of next week. At least one could involve a romantic situation.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You might be upset by some of your critics. But most of your associates continue to have faith in your ability to get the job done, and done well.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A workplace goal that suddenly seems out of reach is no problem for the sure-footed Goat, who moves steadily forward despite any obstacles placed in his or her way.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Uncertainty about who is right and who isn't might keep you from making a clear-cut decision. Wait until you know more about what you're being asked to decide.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Be careful to keep your emotions in check when dealing with a demanding personal situation. You need to set an example of strength for others to follow.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have an extraordinary ability to rally people to do their best. You would be a treasure as a teacher.

He was very athletic, and coached baseball and football in Park Ridge while his son was in school. He also enjoyed playing tennis doubles with his wife. At age 62, he became nanny to his granddaughter, Laura after her father's death and she was his proudest accomplishment. He was a sight to see when dancing with his wife. Rebate follies end happily

BY STEPHANIE ZIMMERMANN
The Fixer

Dear Fixer: On Dec. 26, I charged a sofa and chair to my Menards Big Card and planned to rent a Menards truck for delivery.

The purchase rang up, but I was told the Menards truck had just left the lot. So I asked the associate for me while I called my friend who has a truck. Unbeknownst to me, she tagged the sale in error as a merchandise return.

My friend arrived within 15 minutes and we took the sofa and chair home.

There was a $100 rebate on the sofa and a $50 rebate on the chair. But now I can't get my rebates because Rebate International insists that the merchandise was price-adjusted, exchanged or returned.

I went back to the store April 6 and talked to the store manager and a supervisor. They checked my Menards card and verified the purchase, but said there is nothing they can do.

Paul Abram

Dear Paul: Team Fixer went to bat for you with Menards after you failed to get help from the Wisconsin-based rebate company, Rebate International.

But our intervention turned out to be unnecessary. You apparently were more convincing than you realized, because before we could hear back from Menards, the rebate company wound up having a change of heart and promising to credit you for the missing money. (Maybe you should join Team Fixer!)

Your story, however, reminds The Fixer why we aren't big fans of rebates in general: They entice consumers to buy, but they can be difficult to claim. You learned the hard way to make sure you have a clean receipt.

Here are some more tips for would-be rebate submitters:

Photocopy everything. That includes the completed rebate form, the receipt, the UPC code or other proof of purchase, even the envelope you plan to mail it in (to prove it went to the correct address).

Make sure you follow every rule, no matter how silly. If they want you to underline the price on the receipt, don't dare circle it!

Send your submission by certified mail, return receipt requested.

Submit before the deadline, and note on your calendar the approximate date you expect to receive your check. If you don't get it by then, contact the rebate company.

Second check completes double play

A happy update: Last week, we wrote about getting a refund for Dawn Garcia of Berwyn, who'd registered her son to play baseball in the Riverside Little League, only to be told later that kids outside the village can't play.

After we e-mailed the league, Dawn got $90 of her $110 fee, but we wondered aloud where the other 20 bucks were.

Guess what? Another check for $20 arrived this week.

Shredding season

Attention, spring cleaners! There are two free shredding events next month:

The Fixer will attend the June 25 shredding event at the United Center. That goes from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in Parking Lot E. Participants may bring up to 10 boxes of documents to be shredded on site and may register to win a free personal shredder. Old, broken electronics items also will be accepted for recycling. The event is sponsored by the Better Business Bureau, Federal Trade Commission, U.S. Postal Inspection Service and several other agencies. For more info, see chicago.shreds.com.

In the northern 'burbs, there's another free shredding event from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. June 16 at the Gurnee Hunt Club Park Community Center, 920 N. Hunt Club Rd. Participants may bring up to eight bags of personal documents (they also will accept CDs, DVDs and diskettes, but they must be presented separately from the documents). They're also collecting donations of non-perishable food items for the Northern Illinois Food Bank. The event is sponsored by the Des Plaines River Valley Chapter of ARMA International, a nonprofit association of information management professionals.

Costly lesson
This song has been sung before, but here it is again: This week's tale of woe is from Jacqueline of Joliet, who bought a used car "as-is," only to have the transmission collapse a month later. When she went back to the dealer to see if she could swap it for a car of equal value, the dealer's smile quickly disappeared.

The answer was, "No way." "Basically, they say it's not their problem," Jacqueline wrote The Fixer.

The lemon law of course won't help her, as the car was not new. Even worse, it was "as-is." For anyone else shopping for a used car this summer, make sure you get the Federal Trade Commission's tip sheet for used vehicle buyers, available at ftc.gov/bcp/edu/pubs/consumer/autos/aut03.shtm. It has an easy-to-understand checklist of what to know about payment options and financing.

Then get the "Buying a Used Car" tip sheet from the Better Business Bureau — at bbb.org/us/article/buying-a-used-car-404 — which tells you specifically what to look for on the car, inside and out. Print these out and bring them with you to the dealership.

Always make sure an independent mechanic looks at the car. If the mechanic finds a small problem, you can use it to bargain with the dealer. If there's a huge problem, you'll be able to walk away.

Getting the runaround about a consumer problem? Tell it to The Fixer at www.pioneerlocal.com/fixer, where you'll find a simple form to fill out.

Recipes for harvesting garden bounty

BY TOM WITOM
Contributor

Spring planting is just around the corner, and Midwest gardeners already are entertaining visions of harvesting homegrown tomatoes, cucumbers, beans and zucchini — and thinking about how they will put such produce to work feeding their families.

With its extensive collection of garden designs and seasonal recipes, Ellen Ecker Ogden's newest book, The Complete Kitchen Garden (Stewart, Tabori & Chang, $24.95), is just the ticket for getting started.

First-time and experienced gardeners will find adaptable ideas and recommendations from the Vermont-based organic gardener, food writer and co-founder of The Cook's Garden seed company.

Ogden leads off with a discussion of soil, compost, seeds, maintenance and tools.

Illustrated layouts and appealing photos help readers match a design that best fits their "garden personality." Ogden provides plant lists, vegetable profiles and recipes for the future crops. Among the 14 different themes highlighted are The Edible Garnish Garden, The Paint Box Garden, The Artist's Garden and The Children's Garden.

Ogden also weighs in with tips on the benefits of raised beds, watering requirements and how to keep pests attracted to kitchen gardens at bay.

The author's recipes will come in handy whether you have the patience to grow your own or decide to "harvest" the necessary ingredients from local farmers' markets.

A case in point: Stewed Leeks with Fillet of Salmon. This rich, indulgent entree, suitable for company or a romantic dinner with a special someone, gives leeks the star treatment. Serve it with a chilled Chardonnay.

Among other recipes you'll encounter are Asparagus Soup with Coconut Lemon Creme, Eggplant Caponata, Rainbow Chard Enchiladas, Mache and Chicken Salad with Lemon Tahini Dressing and Fresh Strawberry Creme Tart.

Stewed Leeks with Fillet of Salmon

- 8 tablespoons (1 stick) unsalted butter, divided
- 5 tablespoons olive oil, divided
- 4 leeks, trimmed, cleaned and chopped into 1/2-inch sections
- Salt and freshly ground pepper, to taste
- 1/2 cup dry white wine
- 1 shallot, minced
- 3 tablespoons creme fraiche
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh tarragon
- 1 1/2 pounds wild salmon fillets, divided into four portions
- Fresh chervil, finely chopped, for garnish (optional)

In a medium saucepan, melt a tablespoon of the butter with a tablespoon of the olive oil. Add the leeks and season with salt and pepper. Cover and simmer, stirring often, to soften and caramelize, about 20 minutes.

Meanwhile, cut the remaining butter into small pieces and set aside.

In a small saucepan, combine the wine and shallot and boil over medium-high heat until reduced by two-thirds, about 5 minutes. Reduce heat to low and whisk in the creme fraiche, then add the butter a piece at a time, whisking until smooth. Add the tarragon, cover and keep warm.

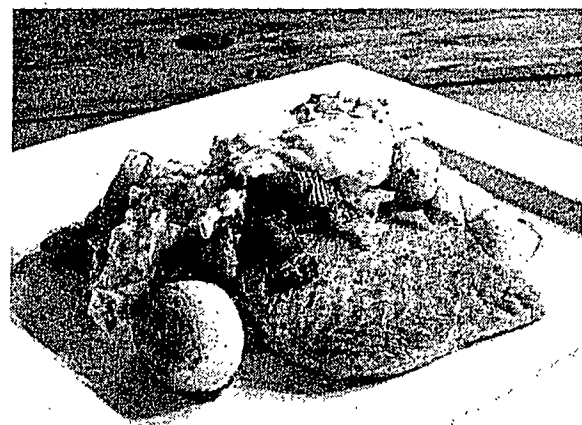

Skin the salmon and lightly season with salt and pepper. In a large cast-iron skillet, heat the remaining oil over medium heat, and gently sauté the salmon, turning once, until cooked through, about 5 minutes per side.

To serve, divide the caramelized leeks among four plates. Spoon a generous amount of the sauce over the leeks, then place the salmon on top of each. Drizzle with more sauce and garnish with the chervil.

Park Ridge Junior Girl Scouts Troop 41675 will collect pet food from parade watchers at the Park Ridge Memorial Day Parade. The troop is working on their Bronze Award, which is the highest award that a Junior Girl Scout can earn. Look for the decorated wagons and help the girls achieve a donation of 100 pounds of pet food; all types of pet food will be accepted. Troop 41675's project is to raise awareness of pets in low-income/homeless families that rely on food pantries from animal shelters for food. The Treehouse Humane Society in Chicago maintains a food pantry for qualified pet owners to receive pet food twice a month, but relies on donations to keep their shelves stocked. The troop also will collect donations of pet food at the Niles July 4 Parade.

Recognized for artwork

Resurrection College Prep High School senior Kristine Florentino of Park Ridge was a participant in the annual Congressional Art Competition, "An Artistic Discovery," sponsored by 9th Congressional District Rep. Jan Schakowsky's office. Her artwork, along with art from other area schools, is on display at the Skokie Public Library up to May 31.

Each spring, the Artistic Discovery Contest, a nationwide high school arts competition, is sponsored by the members of the U.S. House of Representatives. The overall winner of each district is displayed for one year in the U.S. Capitol.

Florentino is a member of the National Art Honor Society and was winner of "Best in Show" at the annual Resurrection Art Show. She has been studying oil painting with Northwestern University graduate Ryan Shultz and credits Resurrection art teacher Jen Salerno for supporting her and encouraging her to pursue art school. Florentino will be attending the American Academy of Art in Chicago with an emphasis in oil painting.

Honor Society induction

On April 19, Resurrection College Prep High School's annual honor-society inductions were held in the Resurrection Little Theatre. Students were inducted into nine honor societies and current honor society members were acknowledged, including members of the National Honor Society, International Thespian Society, Modern Music Masters (Tri-M) Honor Society, Mu Alpha Theta/Math Honor Society, National Art Honor Society, Italian Honor Society, French Honor Society, Sociedad Honoraria Hispanica/Spanish Honor Society and Quill & Scroll International Honor Society.

The keynote speaker was Resurrection alumna Lauren Holly, Class of 1998. Holly is a Deputy U.S. Marshal with the U.S. Marshal Service. She holds a bachelor's degree in administration of justice from Marian University and has completed Criminal Investigator Training from the Federal Law Enforcement Academy. Holly is one of approximately 3,200 deputy marshals and criminal investigators across the country and in foreign countries that form the backbone of the U.S. Marshals Service. As a Deputy U.S. Marshal she is one of only nine other women in her age bracket throughout the continental United States and foreign field offices.

Holly talked to the Honor Society inductees about the guidance, support and quality education she received at Resurrection.

Bacalla takes aim at top 10 at State

BY DAN SHALIN

TENNIS — Niles North sophomore David Bacalla said his first IHSA State Meet in 2010 was a learning experience from a mind and body standpoint.

As he heads back to State this weekend, Bacalla believes he is better prepared for the competition, which will take place at Hersey and other Mid-Suburban League schools.

"I've been training hard on my physical and mental (ability)," he said. "Last year, I got tired and started cramping at State. I had to work on my fitness and being able to stay on the court longer."

"(Mentally), I know that one letdown can change a match. I have been working on that and not getting angry or anything."

Bacalla went 4-2 at last year's State Meet, eventually eliminated by Metamora's Stephan Rauh. He said his goal the second time around is to remain in the front draw longer, which he would accomplish by winning all three of his matches today.

"Last year, (Bacalla) won four matches, two in the front and two in the back. We feel he can improve on that," Niles North head coach Rich Jaffe said. "Maybe he can get to the round of 16. That would be good. Maybe he'll do well in the back draw and finish in the top 10 in the state. That would be a big goal for him."

Bacalla finished third at last weekend's New Trier Sectional. He closed out the meet in impressive fashion. Though he lost to New Trier's defending state champion Robert Stineman 6-0, 6-3 in the semifinal, he did manage to take three of the final four games from Stineman, the second-ranked player in the country.

Bacalla then posted a 6-1, 6-3 victory over Loyola's Lawson Barter.

Niles North's other singles player, junior Eric Rosen, battled cramps in a three-set loss to Maine East's Shaz Laliwala in the second round.

The Niles North doubles team Ian Crane and Florin Ghinet, both sophomores, opened with a two-set win over Matt Bennett and Brett Balasa from Northridge before losing to Evanston's Connor Woolf and Ethan Schnoll.

Sophomore Eddie Reinfrank and senior Saagar Gupta dropped their opening match to Niles West's Bradley Shulman and Edmund Phan.

Niles North (9 points) finished sixth at the 10-team sectional.

Niles West

The doubles team of senior Daniel Langer and sophomore Robert Marohn appeared capable of reaching the State Meet. However, both were hampered by wrist injuries at Friday's New Trier Sectional, where they bowed out to a Loyola team of Jack Weisenberger and Chris Kane in the second round 6-7 (7), 6-4, 6-0.

"They were my two best players, and both were injured," Niles West head coach Andrew Suarez said. "They played two good sets, but when it went to a third set, (the Loyola team) started picking on their injuries. They hung in as well as they could."

Niles West seniors Shulman and Phan turned in an impressive performance at the sectional. The pair defeated Niles North's Gupta/Reinfrank and topped Maine South's Kevin Hemphill and Pete Bakopoulos before falling 6-1, 6-2 to eventual state qualifiers Sam Weiner and Adam Collins from Evanston.

Niles West senior Antonio Kim won his first-round match over Notre Dame's Kyle Smith in two games before falling to New Trier's Stineman, the state's No. 1 player, in two.

Wolves sophomore Simon Kim dropped his first-round match to Maine South's Patrick Daleiden.

Suarez said he was pleased by his team's overall performance. Niles West (10 points) tied Evanston and Northridge for third in the sectional.

"Everybody played the best they could and it was good to see," Suarez said. "They played their hearts out. We had a bad taste from conference, where we came in last. But to come in third at the sectional says a lot."

Dons see room for improvement after sectional

BY DAN SHALIN

TENNIS — This was a rebuilding year of sorts for Notre Dame tennis.

So, the fact the Dons did not score a point in last weekend's IHSA New Trier Sectional was not a big shock.

Throughout the season, ND head coach Steve Jankowski has raved about the raw talent on the JV level. Now, the coach has called on the youngsters to turn themselves from athletes into tennis players by truly committing to the sport year-round.

"My message to the kids is, 'If you are truly going to be competitive in our conference, you should play in the off-season, take lessons, work hard and be out there all summer,'" Jankowski said. "If you are just playing tennis to have fun, that's great. But you're not going to win in our conference. It's not a fun league. It's really competitive and a lot of the players (from other teams) go on to play in college."

Jankowski continued: "A lot of our guys just picked up a racket (when they got to high school), so they are never going to be as good as the kids who have been playing for 10 years. And our guys are not just going to win because they are athletic. They need to have private lessons, group lessons, join the USTA and get involved in the world of tennis."

Jankowski points out that it also can be beneficial to follow the sport on a professional level; observing closely and trying to emulate the best.

"I lived and breathed the sport (when in high school)," said Jankowski, who played successfully at ND in the early to mid-90s. "I used to sit and watch tennis all the time. I had (Andre) Agassi rackets, clothes and shoes. You have to get immersed in it."

"(Our players) should pick a favorite player, like they do with baseball, and try to emulate their style, try to be like that person, strive to get better."

To give his players a greater appreciation of the sport at its highest level, Jankowski is once again planning to take a group of players to September's U.S. Open in New York City. The coach did not lead the trip last year, but did so in 2008 and '09.

"We take an average of 10 kids and some chaperones and go Labor Day weekend," Jankowski said. "We get grounds passes for a Saturday night and Sunday and are able to get up close and see the pros. The kids discover how much fun you have at a tennis match when you are seeing the best of the best."

The coach said the experience can be humbling. "(Seeing world-class players) makes you realize how bad you are, no matter how good you are," he said.

Recap: Senior Kyle Smith fell to Niles West's Antonio Kim in his first match at Saturday's New Trier Sectional. Smith was coming off a third-place finish at No. 2 singles at the previous week's ESCC Tournament.

Notre Dame sophomore Gabe Cunanan was called up from the JV to play No. 2 singles. He lost to Northridge's Marco Rossi in straight sets.

Vikings denied regional crown

BY MATT HARNES
mharnes@pioneerlocal.com

GIRLS SOCCER — History will have to wait at Niles North.

In search of the program's first-ever regional championship, the Vikings fell short in a 3-1 loss to Maine South on Friday in Skokie.

Niles North, the No. 7 seed at the Evanston Sectional, fell to Maine South for the second time this spring. The No. 3-seeded Hawks blanked the Vikings 2-0 on April 2.

"Another hard-fought game," Maine South coach J.J. Crawford said of Dan Edminster's club. "They are the most physical team we've played, by far, and we had to play them twice. Each time it's like, 'Buckle up, here we go.'"

Maine South went ahead 3-0 before Niles North broke the shutout on Deborah Steinberg's score in the closing minutes.

"Dan does a nice job of getting the most out of his girls," Crawford said. "He tries to take you off your game and see if that works."

The CSL North champion Vikings, who finished 4-1 in league play, wrapped up their season 9-10-5. They opened the playoffs with a 2-0 win over Northside behind goals by Caitlin Nikitow and Camila Marquez. Marquez's goal came when her corner kick found the back of the net.

Niles North's Deborah Steinberg clears the ball away from Northside's Becky Schuba during the Vikings' win in the regional semifinals. BUZZ ORR-SUN-TIMES MEDIA

"Just one of those things," Edminster said.

The season's end was especially hard on Tiffany Ebeling, who played on varsity all four years.

"This is my favorite team," she said. Ebeling's hopes were high for the rematch with Maine South. She didn't believe the Hawks could equal the Vikings' will to win.

"I expect it to be really intense, but our girls want it more," she said following the regional semifinal victory. "Everybody is playing together."

For Maine South, the Hawks advanced to their fifth sectional in a row.

Daleiden, Cannon survive 3-set openers

BY DAN SHALIN
Contributor

TENNIS — Maine South head coach Greg Young was hoping his doubles team could contend for a berth at the IHSA State Meet.

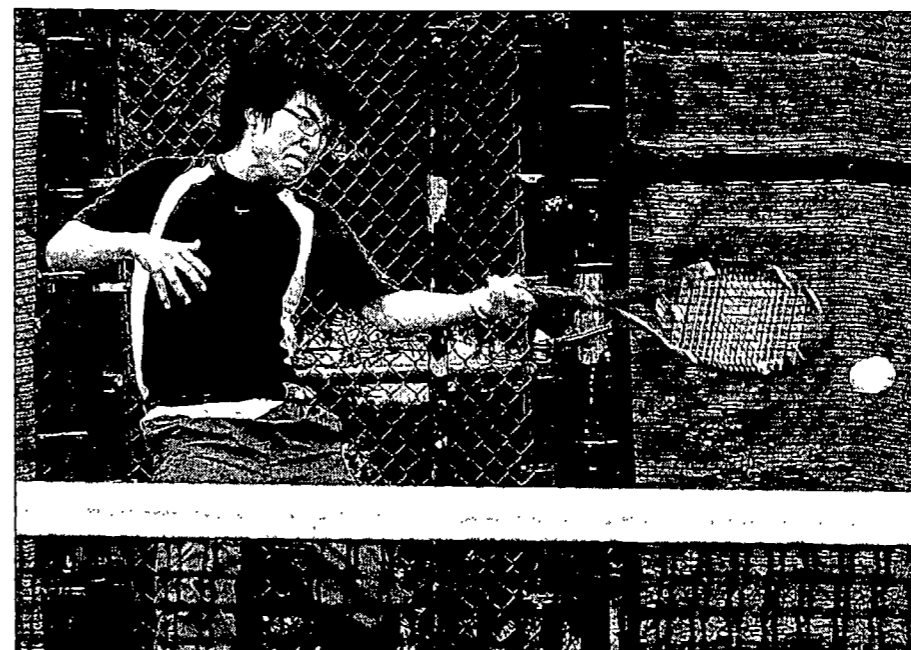

That didn't happen. But the coach went home from last weekend's New Trier Sectional excited about the future after solid performances by two singles players.

Sophomore Patrick Daleiden and junior Colton Cannon were both making their sectional debuts for the Hawks. But both displayed physical and mental toughness in opening-round, three-set victories.

After struggling early, Daleiden bounced back to defeat Niles West's Simon Kim 0-6, 7-5, 7-5. After failing to win a game in the first set, Daleiden was down 5-2 in the second before storming back.

"He started playing more (high) percentage tennis, picking his spots to attack," Young said. "The strategy worked and he came back and won a match that took two and a half hours."

Cannon's opening win over North Shore Country Day's Harry Metz was similarly

Maine East's Danny Choi ran into a tough singles draw last weekend at the New Trier Sectional. STACIA TIMONERE-FOR SUN-TIMES MEDIA grueling. Cannon dropped the first set 4-6 before coming back to win the final two 7-6, 7-5.

Both players ended up losing their second-round matches to strong opponents. Daleiden fell 6-1, 6-0 to eventual state-qualifier Lawson

Barter (Loyola) and Cannon fell 6-0, 6-0 to third-place finisher David Bacalla (Niles North).

Both Maine South players earned valuable experience and likely improved their confidence.

"Neither one of those guys even had varsity experience last year," Young said. "You can't teach experience, you can't coach experience. You have to have them experience, and hopefully that will make the difference. Both have the mind-set to compete and never give up in a match, and that was represented by their first-match performances."

Maine South's doubles team of seniors Kevin Hemphill and Pete Bakopoulos had entered the sectional as the No. 6 seed. But they lost their first match 4-6, 6-2, 6-4 to Niles West's Bradley Shulman and Edmund Phan.

The Hawks doubles of junior Kevin Sulewski and senior Nick Karas lost their opening match 6-2, 6-1 to Cameron Talty and Dylan Ball of North Shore Country Day.

Maine South (4 points) tied Maine East and North Shore Country Day for seventh-place at the 10-team sectional.

Maine East

Blue Demons junior Shaz Laliwala earned all four of his team's points at the sectional, winning his first two matches on Friday.

After opening with a victory over North Shore Country Day's Julian Dimitrov, Laliwala got into a slugfest with Niles North's Eric Rosen. The Maine East player emerged victorious after two and a half hours, holding off the cramping Rosen 4-6, 7-5, 6-4.

Laliwala no doubt was feeling the effects of the three-setter when he went up against Loyola's Barter in the next round. Barter, who eventually finished fourth in the sectional, won 6-1, 6-0 in a match played under the lights at Winnetka's Nielsen Tennis Center.

"Shaz is a very solid player who has been No. 1 for us most of the season," Maine East head coach John Schwan said about Laliwala, who finished the season 15-5. "He's just a junior. If he works hard over the summer, he can definitely be in the mix for the state tournament next season."

Maine East freshman Danny Choi had the misfortune of meeting New Trier's Robert Stineman in his first match. The defending state champion Stineman, ranked No. 2 in the nation, posted a 6-0, 6-0 win.

The Blue Demons doubles teams didn't get much luckier with their draws. The team of seniors Soo Hun Lee and Joseph Choi lost its first match to eventual doubles champs Drew Campbell and Thomas Fawcett from New Trier. Meanwhile, seniors Joseph B. Choi and Billy Shaw fell in their opener to the Loyola team of Ryan Donohue and Riley Jacobs.

Evans blanks Northside in playoff opener

BY DAN SHALIN
Contributor

BASEBALL — Maine East head coach Ron Clark attempted to motivate his team for the state playoffs by using the old clichés about it being new season, a fresh start and every team starting at 0-0.

The message seemed to resonate as the No. 17-seeded Blue Demons (4-22) opened Class 4A Niles Regional action on Monday with a 2-0 victory over No. 16 Northside in a play-in game at Rogers Park in Chicago.

Maine East was schedule to advance to Wednesday's regional semifinal against No. 1 Leyden.

"We break up our season into three seasons: pre-conference, conference and the playoffs," Clark said. "We've just started 1-0 in the third season. Hopefully it will be a long season."

"It was nice to tell the kids (after the win) to be ready for practice instead of making plans to pack it in."

Junior Cory Evans has had all-conference campaign as a shortstop and pitcher, and he saved his biggest performance on the mound for when it counted most.

Evans went the distance, giving up just three hits, walking one and striking out six.

"I would say it was his best (outing) of the year," Clark said about Evans, who entered with a 4.14 ERA. "He's had several outings where he's had pretty good stuff and kept us in games. But this was his first shutout and it was a good time for it."

"(Evans) had really good pop on his fastball. I don't know what got into him. He was throwing harder than usual. He could put the fastball where he wanted and his breaking ball was tight. He didn't have to use the change-up all that much."

The Blue Demons scored in the fourth inning and again in the sixth. Junior outfielder George Zakharia had two of Maine East's six hits, stole two bases and scored a run. Junior outfielder Dan Klamerus had a single and an RBI.

Though he's hoping for an extended postseason run, Clark also is looking forward to the summer league and next spring. With just one senior among the regulars, Maine East will have higher expectations for the 2012 season.

Not that the news was all bad in 2011. Clark said the team often played competitive baseball, just not winning baseball.

"We've competed with most teams in our conference. We've just been inconsistent," he said. "In the majority of the games, we've had one lapse defensively or pitching-wise, and it leads to us giving up several runs. It's the one-bad-inning syndrome. That's what you have when you're a young, inconsistent team."

Their have been bright spots, like Evans' play. The junior, who will compete for the CSL North in next month's Stevenson Showcase, was good on the hill, in the middle infield and solid at the plate. He entered the postseason with a .240 batting average, a team-high 17 hits, a .365 on-base percentage and 13 stolen bases.

Zakharia had 16 hits during the regular season and was strong defensively in the outfield.

Another solid defensive outfielder was senior Nikhil Desai, who played left. He has been selected to play in the CSL Senior All-Star Game on June 13 at Oakton.

Maine East was coming off a 7-6 victory over Mather in Saturday's regular-season finale. Clark substituted freely in the contest in order to get seniors on the field and keep others fresh for the postseason.

Junior first baseman Steve Khatchadourian hit a home run, just Maine East's second long ball of the season. Juniors Andrew Glowacki and Tyler Glowacki each got hits for the Demons.

Sophomore Greg Davis started the game on the hill and went three innings. Tyler Glowacki pitched two innings and Andrew Glowacki earned the victory in a two-inning scoreless stint.

Vikes' Casey carries hopes for state title

BY MATT HARNISS
mharniss@pioneerlocal.com

BOYS TRACK — Paul Swanson isn't keeping his expectations a secret for this week's State Meet in Charleston.

The Niles North coach believes Devonier Casey can win a championship. The four-year varsity athlete qualified for three events at Thursday's Niles West Sectional and is among the favorites in two of them.

"A tremendous talent," Swanson said. "Devonier is capable of bringing home a title, and the others are capable of placing high in their events."

"I don't think those are unrealistic expectations for us."

Casey registered the fifth-best mark in the triple jump at sectionals with his leap of 45-feet-0. He's seeded sixth in the 400 meters after clocking 48.67 at Niles West. Casey won sectional titles in both events to help the Vikings capture their first sectional title since 2007.

Casey also will run the 200 at O'Brien Stadium. He took third in 22.24 at the sectional, but he's far down the list of qualifiers.

Zheng Fang advanced to the State Meet in two meets. The senior won the 800 intermediate hurdles in 39.21 and was second in the 110 high hurdles in 14.56. Fang is seeded 11th in the 110 and 18th in the 300.

Behind Casey and Fang, Niles North athletes advanced in seven events this weekend. "It's a funny thing because there's always highs and lows with the sectional," the coach said. "We had a handful of guys with near misses, and it's a heartbreaking way to end the season or career. "But we are pleased to win the sectional, and we are pleased with the performances."

Montreal Sykes, Kosta Papzoglou and Ethan Velasquez all extended their seasons by another week. Sykes finished second in the triple jump in 44-6 1/2 and will join Casey Downstate. Papzoglou's 9:19.10 was good for second place in the 3,200, and Velasquez finished second in the pole vault with his mark of 13-3.

Dan Egan was one of those who narrowly missed out on getting to the big stage. The thrower was third in the discus with a season-high toss of 153-0 and fifth in the shot put after going 49-1 1/2. Egan stood in second place in the discus until Hersey's Jason Olson edged him out on the last throw.

"Our throwers had a great day and scored a bunch of points for us," Swanson said. "But they came up a little short."

Niles West

Niles West's Lavelle Jordan will contend in both sprint races this weekend at O'Brien Stadium.

The junior took second place in the 100 in 10.85 and second in the 200 in 22.19 at Thursday's Niles West Sectional. He had the sixth-fastest sectional time in the 100 and is seeded 13th in the 200.

Neal Omar will be another to watch in Charleston. The junior's 1:55.19 in the 800 puts him sixth in the state.

The Wolves' 4x100 relay tied Evanston for the top time at the sectional with a 42.27. Niles West also advanced in the 4x200 relay with a 1:28.32.

Gordon grabs sixth at State Meet in 100

GIRLS TRACK — Kellion Gordon couldn't repeat the same magic she experienced last season at the State Meet.

The Niles West senior still ended her standout career with a sixth-place medal in the 100 meters with a time of 12.15. Lincoln-Way East sophomore Aaliyah Brown, the star sprinter in Charleston, captured championships in both the 100 and 200.

Gordon was unable to advance out the preliminaries in the 200 with her 25.25. Both of Gordon's times in the 100 and 200 were slower than her clockings as a junior when she earned a pair of third-place medals.

NILES NORTH: Kiana Foreman and Annemarie Reid ended their seasons in the prelims at the State Meet.

Foreman ran a 59.93 in the 400, while Reid didn't register a height in the pole vault. Sydney Hellwig gained experience. Townsend tossed the shot put 34-feet-10 3/4, while Hellwig recorded 15.42 in the 100 hurdles.
