At the January 18 meeting of the Hicksville Kiwanis Club, Kiwanian Kurt Naegler was presented with his 25 year Legion of Honor certificate.

Mr. Naegler is a past president of the former Plainview Kiwanis Club, is a member of the Board of Directors of the Hicksville Kiwanis Club, is a retiree of the New York Telephone Co., and is very active with the Telephone Pioneers.

Mercy League Bowling Party

The Glen Cove-Hicksville-Syosset League of Mercy Hospital is sponsoring a "Scotch Bowling Party" at Syosset Lanes, Jericho Turnpike and Eileen Way, Syosset on February 12 at 3 p.m. After the bowling, there will be a hot and cold buffet served at Joseph Barry Council, Knights of Columbus Hall, Heitz Place, Hicksville.

The cost per person is $13 for bowling and buffet and $9 for the buffet only. Make up a team of 4 or let us do it for you.

Having this affair on a Sunday afternoon will enable husbands and wives to attend and also help us have a lot of fun on what could be a dreary cold day. By the way, it is not necessary to have a knowledge of bowling. In fact all the rules that apply to regular bowling does not affect Scotch Bowling at all. That's what makes the game so hilarious and fun for all. If you do not care to participate in the bowling and just want to watch the games, the cost is $9 for the buffet.

Bd. Announces Special Meetings

The Hicksville Board of Education announces two special meeting dates for the purpose of reviewing the instructional codes in the 1984-85 school budget. These meetings are scheduled for Wednesday, February 1, and Tuesday, February 7.

All members of the community are encouraged to attend and learn about this important aspect of the budget building process. Both meetings will begin at 8:15 p.m. in the conference room of the Administration Building on Division Avenue.

Vocal Quartet Entertains At H.S.

On Wednesday, January 13, a special program was given at Hicksville High School featuring "Invoice", a vocal quartet led by Patty Coyle Dunham, a graduate of Hicksville High School. The quartet, backed by an instrumental trio, sang blues and jazz improvisation, demonstrated recording techniques and finished with an up-tempo version of "Bluesette." After the assembly program, the quartet and the instrumentalists did four separate workshops for the High School students. At the end of the workshops, all of the participants joined together and performed "Traces." Charles Arnold, music teacher at Hicksville High School and a member of the Quartet, coordinated the entire program.

Named Bank Asst. Manager

Margaret Fessenden has been named Assistant Manager of the Levittown branch of Long Island Trust.

Prior to assuming this position, Mrs. Fessenden was Branch Operations Assistant and has been with the bank for 16 years. She has completed various courses giving by the American Institute of Banking and is a member of the National Association of Bank Women.

Mrs. Fessenden lives in Hicksville.

Long Island Trust, which has been serving Long Islanders since 1923, has 47 banking offices in Nassau, Suffolk, Queens and New York City, and an overseas office in Nassau, Bahamas.

Feb. 7 Hearing To Increase Water Dist. Control

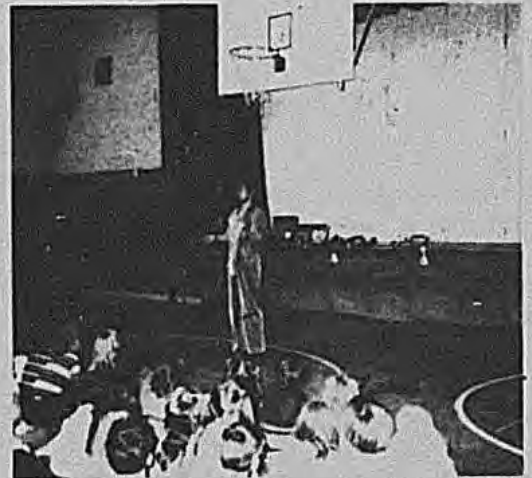

The Oyster Bay Town Board has set a public hearing date of February 7 to consider a new ordinance which would give local Water Districts the right to discontinue water supplies and services to those who have been found by a court to be causing possible contamination to obtainable water supplies.

Oyster Bay Town Supervisor Joseph Colby said that "the amendment to the Town's Code of Ordinances is intended to give the Commissioners of local Water Districts the authority to take to court violators of State Environmental Conservation Laws. After obtaining a court determination," Colby said "the Water District would be able to discontinue water supplies to those who have been found to be discharging contaminants into the water disposal systems or on any property in the Town, which could endanger the health, safety and welfare of the community."

The amendment to the Town's Code of Ordinances would provide that any Water District in the Town of Oyster Bay would be empowered to terminate or discontinue water services and supplies to any domestic, commercial, industrial, agricultural or other non-municipal enterprise after it had been found by the governing authorities of the Water District and the Courts to be discharging pollutants in violation of New York State Environmental Conservation Law.

Colby added that, "the amendment, if adopted, would assist Water Districts in preserving the quality of the Town's water supplies and resources by attempting to prevent the discharge of pollutants which could at some future time cause contamination of public water supply wells for which the Water Districts are responsible."

The hearing is scheduled for February 7, beginning at 10 a.m. in the Town Hall East hearing room, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Jean Paul Jenack performed for the Burns Avenue School on December 12. He is known as a circus educator. Mr. Jenack fascinated the children from K-6 with feats of excellence in the art of juggling, balancing and the handling of various sized unicycles. While Jean Paul was giving us a visual trick he explained his art in a very interesting narrative.

Following the general show for all the children, Mr. Jenack met with each grade level and introduced them to the skills involved in juggling. Each child participated and many began to have some success before their time slot was concluded.

Everyone agreed that it was a thoroughly enjoyable day participating in a one man circus.

Computer Workshop At Trinity Lutheran

Kelsha Weber, Laura Hill, and Maria O'Toole, fourth grade students at Trinity Lutheran School, work on computer skills.

The computer education program at Trinity Lutheran School, 40 West Nicholas Street, Hicksville was highlighted during a two-day workshop held for students and teachers.

Presently, the school uses a wide variety of educational software including color, number, and shape recognition for the younger grade levels; and math, reading, spelling, typing, and storymaking, for grades 1-6. Students in grades 7 and 8 are taught basic computer skills as part of the science curriculum. Computer lab provides time for the students to work on various programs in all subject areas.

During the workshop, students in kindergarten-6 were able to further develop their computer skills in keyboard and basic control functions in order to use educational software. They also worked on simple programming, key command words, and math calculations.

The school will be holding an Open House during February 6-9, for all the surrounding community, to visit their excellent Nursery-grade 8 educational program.

Open House hours on February 6-9, are from 9 a.m. - noon for grades 1-8, and 9 - 11:30 a.m.; 12:30 - 3 p.m. for Nursery and Kindergarten. Call 931-2211 if these hours are inconvenient for you, or if you desire more information. Applications for the 1984-85 school year are being accepted at this time.

The school is located north of Old Country Road on the corner of Jerusalem Avenue and West Nicholas Street in Hicksville.

Library Film

Another feature movie is scheduled to be shown at the Hicksville Public Library. "Continental Divide" is the title of the film starring John Belushi and Blair Brown. John Belushi portrays a street-wise, hard-hitting newspaper columnist whose stories on political corruption in Chicago have made it unwise for him to stay in the windy city. Reassigned to interview a reclusive, hard-edged female ornithologist (Blair Brown) living in the Rockies, Belushi and Brown first find each other's lifestyles to be arguable. But, you will see that love conquers all!

The film is in color, rated PG and runs approximately 1 hour, 45 mins. It will be shown in the Community Room and everyone is invited. Dates: Friday, Feb. 3 at 8 p.m.; Saturday, Feb. 4 at 3 p.m.

Newspaper Price To Town Is Up

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Salvatore R. Mosca announced Town Board approval of a contract award for the purchase of surplus newspapers sold at the Town's Sanitary Landfill, at a price that is double last year's high bid.

Mosca indicated that "the high bidder, P & P Paper Recycling Systems of Old Bethpage, will pay the Town $10 per ton over the low price range, for bundled newspapers as quoted in Fibre Market News." Last year's contract had set the price at $5 per ton over the low range.

Residents who receive Town Sanitation Collection services may place newspapers at the curb on every collection day for recycling. Mosca reminded residents to tie newspapers securely in bundles not exceeding 12 inches in height.

Mrs. Michaels' 6th grade class at Old Country Road School has just completed an extensive study of Ancient Egypt. The children are displaying their contracts and projects and wearing "King Tut" T-Shirts that were donated by Gene Perloff.

Gunman Holds Up Budget Committee Book Store Examines Budget

A lone gunman entered B. Dalton Books, Mid Island Plaza, Hicksville at 12:30 p.m. on Jan. 21 and left with $300 cash from the register.

An employee, Renée Cassagne was alone in the store when the robber entered, took a long black handgun from his waistband and told her to put the money into a bag. He fled on foot and no injuries were reported. He is described as a male, white, 28-32 years, 5'9", 160 lbs. medium length brown hair.

The Hicksville Board of Education's Budget Advisory Committee invites all interested members of the community to the next meeting, scheduled for Tuesday, January 31. The committee has begun a careful examination of the Superintendent's proposed budget for the 1984-85 school year, and committee chairman William P. Bennett and fellow members are seeking broad-based community involvement in the budget process.

The meeting will begin at 8:15 p.m. in the Conference Room at the Administration Building on Division Avenue.

Pianist Performs In Bethpage

Renowned pianist James Barbagallo will give a free concert at the Bethpage Public Library on Sunday, February 19, as part of the continuing series of Distinguished Artists Concerts, according to Oyster Bay Town Councilman John Venditto.

Sponsored by the Cultural and Performing Arts (CAPA) Division of the Department of Community Services, the concert will be held at the Library, 47 Powell Avenue, beginning at 3 p.m. For further information, contact CAPA at 795-4707 or the Library at 931-3907.

"Barbagallo first came to public attention in 1970 when he won the San Francisco Symphony Young Artist Award and made his first major orchestral appearance with that symphony," Venditto stated. "He entered Juilliard in 1972 where he earned both a Bachelor and Master of Music Degrees and won the Olga Samaroff Prize and Gina Bachauer Scholarship Award.

"Barbagallo has won prizes at many competitions including the celebrated Tchaikovsky International Competition, the International Concours de Geneve and the University of Maryland International Piano Competition," Venditto said. "Most recently, he was the recipient of the William Petschek Piano Debut Recital, an award granted annually to an outstanding Juilliard graduate in piano."

For this concert, Barbagallo will perform Beethoven's "Sonata Characteristique Op. 81 A", Ravel's "Miroirs", and Muczynski's "Suite Op. 13" as well as Faure's "Nocturne No. 4 Op. 36" and Chopin's "Scherzo No. 1 Op. 20".

Venditto noted that this concert is being supported by grants from Cablevision and the National Westminster Bank USA.

News From Bethpage Library

Children's librarians at the Bethpage Public Library are now registering additional youngsters for Pre-School Storytime. Those already in the program may remain with us until the end of our storytime sessions in May. Registration is also being taken for Tiny Tots Time.

Weekly Pre-School Storytime sessions are held on Thursday and Friday mornings from 10:30 to 11:15 a.m. for youngsters aged 3½ to 5 years who are not yet in kindergarten and who have had their third birthday before August 30, 1983. The programs include stories, songs, puppets, films and games.

Registration is also being taken for Tiny Tots Time, a series of four Wednesday morning programs per month for the very young (ages 2½ to 3½). Tiny Tots is held from 10:30 to 11 a.m. and includes stories, finger plays, puppets, songs, films and discussion of materials for the youngest. Children should have had their second birthday before August 30, 1983 and a parent must be in attendance at all times.

Saturday Storytime for youngsters in grades K through 3 will continue each Saturday morning through May from 10:30 to 11:15 a.m. This program includes stories, songs, puppets, magic, films, games, and lots of fun. No registration is required.

Participation in all of the storytime programs is limited to residents of District #21. For further information call 931-3907.

On Saturday, February 18, the Bethpage Public Library will show the classic film hit, "The Black Stallion" (color - 118 min.) for young people.

Hailed as the most famous horse story of the century, "The Black Stallion" is the enduring, heart-catching saga of a boy's love for a fiery Arabian stallion, of their shipwreck and heroic Robinson Crusoe-like survival. Adapted from Walter Farley's stirring adventure, here is the celebrated motion picture produced by Francis Ford Coppola, including Mickey Rooney and other stars.

Showtime is 2 p.m. and all school-age young people residing in District #21 are invited to attend. Tickets are now available in the Bethpage Children's Room.

For information, please call 931-3907.

Bus Trip to the Historic Queens County Farm Museum - What did Colonial children do in winter? On Tuesday, February 21, the Bethpage Public Library has planned an exciting bus trip for youngsters to the historic Queens County Farm Museum, Floral Park.

During this visit to a Dutch farm house built in 1770, young people will step back two hundred years to walk in the footsteps of Colonial children. They will bake bread in the original kitchen as settlers' children did, and they will make cornhusk dolls and begin needlework samplers, as well as visit an old-fashioned herb garden and help feed a variety of animals. Youngsters are requested to bring carrots and stale bread for the animals and will take home some delicious baked treats to eat.

The bus will leave promptly at 12:45 p.m. from in front of the library and will return approximately at 4:15 p.m. All young people in grades 3-6 in District #21 are invited to attend. Admission is $5.50 per child, which includes museum fees, bus fare, and registration is now being taken at the Bethpage Public Library for the limited number of places available on the bus. For information, please call 931-3907.

One-Man Circus - On Wednesday, February 22, the Bethpage Public Library will present the amazing Jean-Paul Jenack, the "One Man Circus", in an exciting program of juggling, unicycling, acrobatics, and circus magic for young people.

An outstanding circus arts and education specialist, Mr. Jenack has made his way into circus history and his feats have won him a place in "The Guinness Book of World Records". He has also served as director for the National Endowment for the Arts Circus Arts Project and has taught circus arts at Nassau Community College and at other schools on Long Island. In addition, he has appeared at many metropolitan area libraries, parks and fairs.

Showtime is 2 p.m. and youngsters of all ages residing in District #21 are invited to attend. Tickets are now available in the Bethpage Children's Room. For information, please call 931-3907.

News From VFW Post

By P.P.C. Carmine A. Somma

In the spring of 1983 the Wm. M. Gouse, Jr., Post 3211 V.F.W. of Hicksville sponsored a "Voice of Democracy" coloring book contest for all third and fourth graders in both public and private schools in the Hicksville area, totaling over 1000 potential contestants.

Jr. Vice Comdr. Anthony Chepak and William Bennett ran the contest for the Post. The theme of the coloring book is "I pledge Allegiance to the Flag". There is $540 in prizes. Each school will have three winners. First prize will be $20, second $15 and third prize $10. Certificates of accomplishment will be issued to all contest winners. The awards will be presented at the V.F.W. Post Hall, 320 So. Broadway. All contestants, their parents and relatives are invited to attend. Ms. Roth Jacobson, Supervisor of Reading in the Hicksville Schools, has issued the coloring books to each of the public and private schools.

From National Headquarters, V.F.W. Comdr. in Chief Clifford G. Olson, Jr. of Pembroke, Mass., has announced that the V.F.W. Post 3211, Hicksville, has been named to receive the organization's Bronze Award for special participation in community activities. In announcing the award, Olson said, "The project by V.F.W. Post 3211 contributed in a participatory way to acquainting young minds with the American way of life and is an excellent example of what the V.F.W. can accomplish in a community."

The Comdr. of Post 3211 during the contest period was Conrad Steers with Eleanor Gerlach the President of the Ladies Auxiliary. Contest program co-chairmen were Jr. Vice Comdr. Anthony Chepak and William Bennett.

Our Children

Another kind of child abuse

By Willard Abraham
Ph.D.

Q. My husband has the ridiculous idea that just because he was poor as a kid our children should be raised in almost a poverty kind of situation. He is the worst tightwad I've ever known, and we are far from poor.

Their shoes have to be totally outgrown and worn through before we can buy new ones, and their clothes almost in shreds. They are embarrassed to go to school like that, and I'm embarrassed to be seen with them.

Their appearance doesn't bother him at all. He just says, "It won't hurt them to realize how it is to be poor. They will then appreciate the value of a dollar."

With me he isn't any more generous, but with them I think it's just plain cruel. What do you think?

A. Maybe this is an appropriate addition to my list of kinds of child abuse.

If you can't convince him of the error of his ways (and it sounds as though you may have tried but failed), to whom will he listen? A relative? Friend? Religious confidant? If none of those, you may need a family counselor to whom you can both go to discuss this situation.

He is the opposite of the adult reared in poverty who indulges his or her children beyond reason just because he or she had it so hard in childhood. Both extremes can create problems.

Q. Our 12-year-old daughter is the most total sports enthusiast you've ever seen. She seems to like them all — baseball, football, basketball and lots more. She knows the players, team records and daily scores.

She says she wants to be a sports announcer, and I'll have to admit she already knows as much as some of them do. (She notes occasional errors in their reporting, and when I check up I sometimes find she's right and they're wrong.)

Still, it just doesn't seem natural to me, but I don't know what to do about it.

A. It sounds like a sexist point of view you're sharing with me. Why shouldn't she like sports? Boys and men don't have to have a monopoly on this absorption.

Maybe this is a "non-problem." What do you other readers think?

Q. In response to your response that "Restraint could save baby's life." I'd like you to forward my letter to the concerned mother — and hopefully on to help enlighten the father.

Some months ago I was in-involved, as a passenger, in an auto accident; I wasn't wearing my seat belt. Although I saw the accident was going to happen and I did have time to brace myself, it didn't help.

The driver of the car I was in tried to avoid the accident by slamming on his brakes. The other car had been stopped waiting to make a left turn and as we approached it turned in front of us (heading toward us). I flew into the rear-view mirror with the left side of my forehead.

I was knocked out for an instant but didn't think I was injured. Twenty minutes later it hurt to breathe. I had a broken rib, bruised left hand and arm — from wrist to shoulder, an injured tailbone, and my neck muscles were starting to hurt. Now six months later I am feeling the bruises. I get spasms in my head and it hurts to raise and lower my left arm. My lower back and legs are bothering me.

Because this is the only accident I've been in I have never had a chance to take a firsthand look at the situation before. I can now tell you that I think so often how small children must feel when they've been tossed around the inside of a car. I'm 5 foot 7½, over 150 pounds, and large-boned. I don't baby myself and can tolerate a lot of pain — but I still hurt like the devil. I suffer from some loss of memory and am not too good on details anymore. The doctor says it is only temporary.

I hope this father will overcome his confidence in himself and realize he can't try to avoid an accident, put the brakes on, and hold the baby down and operate the steering wheel. He'll just be too busy.

A. All parents of young children should read your story, put their youngsters in auto restraints, and perhaps help save their lives. Thank you very much for your letter.

Your Social Security

SSI a separate program

Q. My daughter is permanently disabled and residing in a convalescent hospital. She has been receiving SSI payments for 20 months and is on Medi-Cal.

Will she be entitled to Medicare after the 24th month of SSI payments?

A. She has never worked under Social Security. She is now 26 and was disabled at age 24. — B.T.

A. Your daughter will not be entitled to Medicare. People who are receiving Social Security disability payments are entitled to Medicare after 24 months of payments.

SSI is a completely separate program and people on SSI only are not eligible to receive Medicare benefits.

Q. My wife died last week at age 37. She had worked under Social Security for about 12 years. Our children are 9 and 11 and I am advised they should receive monthly benefits. — E.Y.

A. You should file an application on behalf of your children as soon as possible. They will be entitled to benefits up to age 18 (age 19 if they are still attending high school as full-time students.)

You will have to supply her Social Security number, her and the children's birth certificates, your marriage certificate, the death certificate and W-2 forms if your wife worked in the two years prior to death.

Q. Can someone get SSI even if they are receiving Social Security benefits?

A. A friend of mine gets a small Social Security check and this is her only income. Should she apply for SSI? — H.P.

A. Your friend's resources as well as income would have to be considered. If your friend has little or no resources, SSI payments are possible.

An application for SSI benefits may be filed at any Social Security office.

Q. How many quarters would somebody born in 1923 need to be eligible for a monthly benefit? Also how long do you have to be married to draw on your spouse's account? — A.V.B.

A. Persons born in 1923 need 34 quarters of coverage to qualify for benefits based on their own work.

The spouse of a living wage-earner generally has to be married to the worker for a least one year but there are some exceptions.

A widow or widower would have to be married nine months prior to death in most cases.

Check with your local Social Security office for the exceptions to these general rules.

Quality Or Quantity?

When you advertise in a subscription newspaper you get quality readership. You know that EVERY copy of the newspaper has been invited into the home and three to four people will most likely read it.

When you buy quantity the only thing you might be sure of is that it has been hung on door knobs or thrown on lawns all over the neighborhood.

With our newspapers YOU ONLY PAY FOR COPIES that will be read. It is this quality that produces results. Do not waste money on wasted copies. Advertise here and get results.

Our (not so secret) ingredient

Readers = Results

is the reason we are preferred over the largest metropolitan newspapers and the many throwaways.

Hearing Set On Zone Change

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Salvatore R. Mosca announced that the Town Board has scheduled a public hearing for Tuesday, March 27, on an application for change of zone in Bethpage. The application is on a request for a change from "F" Business District to "E" Residence District.

Mosca said "the applicants, ILM Contracting Corp., Lawrence Calissi, Elaine Calissi and First National Properties, Inc., are requesting the change in order to build a single family dwelling on the site." The property is located on the northwest corner of Central and North Pershing Avenues in Bethpage.

The hearing has been scheduled for March 27 at 10 a.m. in the hearing room of Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Come to Metropolitan. Simplify your life.

Metropolitan

and Liability Ins. Co., Warwick, R.I.
A Subsidiary of Metropolitan Life

It's up to us.

New York State is a great state in which to live, work and raise a family. We can be proud of our place in world commerce, industry and in the quality of our lives. But one of our greatest sources of pride is often overlooked, that being our huge forest preserves, wetland and marsh areas, and abundant fish and wildlife.

Now New Yorkers have an opportunity to help protect this unique heritage of wildlife so vital to the quality of life we all enjoy. "Return a Gift to Wildlife" is a program into which you may voluntarily contribute when you complete your state tax form. By checking off Line 18 on the long form or Line 12 on the short form, you can make a contribution to the New York State Conservation Fund. Moneys collected have been dedicated by the State Finance Law to the protection, management and extension of wildlife in our great state.

The Need Has Never Been Greater

Hard economic times dictate hard financial decisions. This year, the federal government has already eliminated endangered species aid, jeopardizing the restoration of a number of birds and animals native to New York. In addition, thousands of acres of grassland, wetland, marshland and forest that are critical to the survival or extension of New York's wildlife are eliminated or disrupted each year. The New York State "Return a Gift to Wildlife" program is an important step towards a lasting solution to these problems... and an investment in the future of our wildlife.

Return a Gift to Wildlife

An Effective Program

Like the environment which only thrives when the whole ecosystem is addressed, the areas of work to be addressed through tax contributions are broad and comprehensive. The largest single element is earmarked for habitat protection so critical to wildlife perpetuation. A species management program will be strengthened to help maintain all species of fish and wildlife at desirable population levels for human enjoyment. A third element is the public use program which will provide increased opportunities for enjoying fish and wildlife. Lastly, the plan calls for greater awareness development of fish and wildlife values through the creation of better educational resources and information services.

Consider the added dimension wildlife brings to your life. Won't you return a gift through a contribution on Line 18 of the long form or Line 12 of the short form of your State tax return. Your gift is tax deductible on your 1983 tax return.

Activities At Fork Lane

"Hospital ships were out of service
And all the people were very nervous.

Hawaii, such a beautiful, peaceful place
Became, all of a sudden, such a disgrace"

So begins a fifth grader's creative writing endeavor in Mrs. Hansen's class. Last month, this particular class honored our servicemen and also Pearl Harbor's cause and effects.

Also, recently, Fork Lane students participated in "Cupcake Day". Any sixth grade student, wearing their new school tee shirts, was entitled to a free cupcake. The tee shirts were produced with the autograph/signature of all sixth grade students. The rest of the student body purchased cupcakes - and what a mouth-watering assortment there was - at a nominal fee. Thank you, Fork Lane mothers, for the delicious goodies you contributed! Fork Lane was also the scene of a meeting featuring Al Peck, director of Help-Aid-Direction in Hicksville. His talk regarding alcohol and drug abuse among school-age children was most informative.

Last, but certainly not least, Fork Lane School bids a fond farewell to Pete and Diane Fujimoto. Pete served on the School Board for two years and Diane has faithfully participated in numerous PTA endeavors for seven years. The Fujimotos are active in the Hicksville Americans Soccer Club as well. Good luck in your new community!

Cupcake Day at Fork Lane - as anxious children eye the assorted goodies on sale. PTA President Diana Croce and helpers lend a hand.

You can have your cake and eat it! - At Fork Lane School, where these sixth graders, because they wore school tee shirts, were entitled to free goodies at Cupcake Day. Left to right: Kathy Rivera, Ronnie Lipson, Andrew Dwork, Luis Gonzales and (foreground) James Stayer.

Diabetes Club To Meet

Central General Hospital, in cooperation with the Long Island Chapter of the American Diabetes Association's New York Affiliate, will hold the monthly meeting of its Diabetes Club on Monday, January 30, at 7:30 p.m. in the hospital in Plainville.

This month's program will feature a discussion by Donald Orofino, M.D. on "Life Extensions". Dr. Orofino is an internist with special expertise in the control of diabetes and health in general.

The club welcomes the attendance of new members at any time, and encourages group participation and experience sharing discussions. For more information, call the Long Island Chapter at 752-1752.

In Service

Second Lt. Thomas M. Boltja, son of William J. and Peggy D. Boltja of 249 Sixth Street, Bethpage, has been awarded silver wings following graduation from U.S. Air Force navigator training at Mather Air Force Base, Calif.

Boltja will now serve at Andersen Air Force Base, Guam, with the 28th Bombardment Squadron.

Golden Girls Kickoff

The 1983-84 Golden Girls of Bethpage High School kicked off the beginning of a winning season. The team under the advisement of Mr. Fred Cohen, coordinator of Music Department, and captained by Beth Farrand and Angela Edleberg, have been working hard throughout the school year. The team received first place in the Long Island Preliminary Kickline Competition on Saturday, January 14. They are looking forward to two more preliminaries and finally the Long Island Championship on March 24.

Dedication and cooperation are the two requirements that one must possess to be a part of such a team. Each member is truly a special person, student and part of Bethpage High School and the spirit for which Bethpage is renowned.

Backyard Gardener

Gardening can keep you sane

By Patrick Denton

The fact that gardening is an activity which can help lessen the stress of modern-day living is often confirmed in unexpected ways. For example, I remember reading some time ago about two Russian cosmonauts who, upon returning to Earth after a record-breaking 211 days in space, told reporters that gardening had eased the strains of living in space for this lengthy period.

Taking care of a kitchen garden, cultivating radishes, cucumbers and salad greens was for the space-dwellers a psychological boost that brought some simple and basic normality to an otherwise strained and sterile environment.

Gardening should provide for us some similar benefits. The story of the cosmonauts recalled to mind one day several years ago when a friend sauntered into our backyard garden to find me planting some blueberry bushes. I made some comment about his always finding me in the garden, to which he replied, "It keeps us sane."

That simple remark has kept returning to my thoughts ever since. It expressed so basically the yearning we all have for balance in our lives, for health of mind and body — for sanity. Working in the garden should contribute to this balance, providing relaxation and exercise, a healing balm to body, mind and spirit.

We can do a number of things to help assure that these good things come to pass. We can be on the constant lookout for ways in which to keep the garden simple, so that this soothing hobby remains a comfort and does not turn into just one more gigantic, energy-draining worrisome chore to add to others that inevitably come our way while traveling in the fast lane.

Sharing ideas with other gardeners and looking for labor-saving methods in other people's and display gardens can help here. Some garden books, notably Sunset's "Basic Gardening" and Ortho's "Gardening Shortcuts," address themselves to this subject.

I'd strongly recommend that you indulge your special horticultural interests to make your garden as personally satisfying as possible. Toss away books and articles on landscaping that insist you must have a certain percentage of your garden in lawn, a certain area in shrubs and so on.

That you must have a front lawn, for example, is not one of the Ten Commandments. Perhaps your special passion is growing potatoes, or strawberries, or roses. Indulge your major horticultural delights in whatever areas that meet their needs, and revel in all the perfectly legitimate raptures they bring.

Even our young resident gardeners display very definite likes and dislikes. Last year, my wife and I inaugurated a weekly garden time for each of our children.

Our 11-year-old daughter was first. Taking her through the year, I gave her a choice of several jobs. At the end of the tour she just said, "I want to dig!" I worked at a different job beside her as she roughed under a patch of straw mulch.

She appeared the next day, asked to dig again, and unearthed enough missed spuds for dinner while she dug ashes into one of the previous season's potato patches.

Ironically, our 14-year-old son, creator of some of the world's biggest messes, enjoys garden cleaning the most. He's becoming proficient at lifting clumps of chickweed without breaking off bits to re-root.

Oh yes, I have weeds in my garden too — which leads to the final point of this piece: Relax with your garden and accept that it will always be less than perfect. Some weeds, a nibble leaf here and there, a few chores that didn't get done — learn to accept such things as faults that reflect the realities of life with its many imperfections. And contemplate the alternative — a plastic garden.

Most Input Callers Do Not Take Jackson Seriously

Most callers to Input do not think that Jesse Jackson will make a serious bid for the Presidency in answer to this question: "Do you think that Jesse Jackson's success in Syria in securing the release of Lt. Goodman will make him a serious Presidential or Vice Presidential contender?"

YES AND NO

My answer to the question is a yes and a no. No Jackson will not be taken as a serious contender for the Presidency but it is very possible that the Democrats will run him for vice president. Jackson has proved that he is more than just talk. He took the bull by the horns and came back the winner. The Democrats would have it hard to find a reason not to nominate him for Vice Pres. The only question is whether Jackson will accept it. J.H.

NO NOMINATION

There is no way that the Democrats will nominate Jackson for the Presidency. His work in getting the release of Lt. Goodman was seen as work for his own people. It still did not make him a candidate for all of the people as any political party knows it needs to win. P.Y.

GOOD POSSIBILITY

It is possible for Jesse Jackson to become a candidate in the Democratic party for President. The reason is that the party has so many contenders now that it is hard for the public to settle down on any one. Jackson is the only one that has done anything big lately and he might just be taken seriously. After all when he set out on that mission very few people including Pres. Reagan thought he would be successful. This should be something worth thinking about. J.R.

NOT RIGHT PERSON

No. Jackson is not the calibre of person we need for President. He is a representative for the minorities and he would have it hard to sell enough votes that he would not favor the minorities in everything and in that way be a poor president for the majority. G.F.

SERIOUS CONTENDER

Jackson is a serious contender. The trouble is that the voters might not believe it and so the Democrats won't nominate him. D.W.

NOT A FACTOR

I don't think that Jesse Jackson's success in Syria in securing the release of Lt. Goodman will of itself make him a serious Presidential or Vice Presidential contender. Who paid for the trip would be an interesting basis for speculation as to its outcome. I guess too, that some form of communications between the Reverend and President Assad must have preceded the visit and perhaps one day we may even learn about that and the vaunted altruistic nature of the mission. In any case, it didn't take a genius to know that it was bound to have immediate political overtones. In any case, Jesse really had no right to take such an unilateral initiative in an extremely sensitive area of international affairs. Luckily for Cooper, President Assad was politically astute enough to visualize how he could capitalize on the situation playing the role of benevolence to the hilt - he just couldn't lose! If the election had taken place at the time of the Lieutenant's release, Jackson probably could have gained brownie points were he a candidate. But the euphoria has dissipated and neither the other Democratic candidates nor the Republicans will permit their respective campaigns to stray from the issues on which serious contenders must take a stand. Contrarywise, if Jackson does try to profit from it, I believe he will lose stature in all voting blocs and I'm sure he's too smart for that. P.G.S.

RACIAL THING

Jackson's intervention turned out to be a racial thing more than anything else. He wouldn't have gone there if Goodman was white. I believe, in this case, it shows his true colors. As far as Mr. Reagan, I believe he was taking the proper course of doing things and didn't want to stick his neck out too deep.

BROAD SPECTRUM

Jesse Jackson was a serious presidential candidate the moment he announced. He is a serious candidate because he represents a broad spectrum of Americans, consisting of millions of women, blacks, Hispanics, poor people and the nuclear freeze movement. Of course, he gained credibility by his courage, imagination and negotiating ability in his successful effort to free Lt. Goodman. By this one act, Jesse Jackson brought to focus the insanity of the Reagan administration's foreign policy. When Ronald Reagan sees a problem in foreign affairs his immediate reaction is to drop a bomb on it. The president seems to have ruled out all diplomatic solutions in favor of the military approach. Jackson has shown what intelligent diplomacy can do in the world. Furthermore, Jackson is the only candidate speaking out on Reagan's robbing the poor to pay the rich, unbridled corporate power, an immoral South African policy, a bankrupt Central American military offensive and the Reagan trillion dollar budget for defense contractors. Jesse Jackson assuredly will not be the next president of the United States but he will affect American politics for many years to come. D.S.A.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

I believe Jackson is the voice of the people. His trip to Syria, obtaining the release of Lt. Goodman, will make him a serious presidential contender. "A Supporter"

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT (PAST ISSUE)

My call is about capital punishment. Christians and Jews alike should remember what the 5th Commandment, which we are told was given to Moses by God atop Mt. Sinai. It says "Thou Shalt Not Kill!" No ifs, ands or buts. It was sad to see how many pro-religionists (many of them pro-lifers), voted for Mario Cuomo's opponent last year, mainly because they thought the latter was for capital punishment. Even a pro-life candidate counted her support for capital punishment. I ask my fellow Christians "What would Jesus say?"

DA MIHI FRACTIONEM (GIVE ME A BREAK)

By Joseph T. Loscalzo

Long before it became fashionable to say the above, and long, long before Warner Wolf shook the TV waves with his first use of "Give me a break", one of my favorite Latin teachers introduced this phrase into my life in a unique way. Father Moriarity used to give students a small index card, daily quizzes. On this particular day the entire quiz consisted of a request to translate "Da Fractionem". As we were to learn later he would not accept anything tentative. If "Give me a share... Give me a fraction, etc. etc." He wanted and graded only "Give me a break". We soon found out why.

Big, lovable Irishman, Fr. Mo, as we called him, had been hearing that some brash students were criticizing our immigrant parents for their inadequate expression or incorrect usage of the English language. Or some of us presumptuous, educated "professionals" were embarrassed by the dusty hands and clothes of our laboring parents. His "Give me a break" was a signal to alert us to something in life, even more important than the translation of "Veni, Vidi, Vici!" Fr. Mo taught us Latin and taught us well but that day he taught us tolerance.

We listened attentively as he briefly but pointedly asked us to give our parents a break. What he said was far more worthwhile than how they said it. Genuine tolerance would enable us to listen - listen well enough to distinguish between what they said and how they said it. I am not certain that we truly appreciated the wisdom in Father's statements at that time, but I do know that some of us included the concept of listening in our future communication - be it in marriage or professional life.

Our wise old Latin teacher also appealed for tolerance as to our parent's occupations and included a valuable concept. He reminded us that, though our parents lacked formal education, they often displayed good old common sense - a basic ability to address the most complex problems, simply and logically, and often with beneficial solutions. Again, I cannot say with certainty as to how deeply impressed I was with Father's comments that day but when I launched my career as a psychotherapist years later I heard myself say to a group of parents: "Our grandparents lacked formal knowledge but had much love, confidence, and common sense raising their children whereas today's parents have an abundance of knowledge and psychology, yet seem to be struggling in the areas of love, confidence and common sense." The response was positive and accepting. Those who were formally educated requested less analysis and less jargon and more practical help from psychology. Those who were not as formally educated were encouraged to hear that they could achieve excellence in parenting with common sense.

With an eye to the calendar and Christmas 1983 or New Year 1984 picture, if you will, how much more peaceful family and community life would be if we but extended Father's concept of tolerance - of giving one another a break. Imagine how much more pleasant it would be if the sales people were more tolerant of ambivalent shoppers, if shoppers were less demanding of sales people.

Wouldn't we all be in a better mood if there were more courtesy on the roads and in the parking lots too? Wouldn't dining out be tastier if waiters and waitresses smiled more and tolerated a little bit of fussiness while diners gave them a break by making certain their fussiness was not excessive? And how about giving teachers a break, their responsibilities are pretty heavy and our children are a bit more excited at this time of year. And let's include police officers. Give them a break. They do so many things for the community, quietly and unassumingly. Give the weatherman a break too. He can't always be correct in his forecast and he can't provide snow flakes every Christmas Eve. And how about your neighbors? Give them a break even if they sing Christmas Carols loud and off key. While we are at it let's give Santa Claus a break. Cabbage Patch Dolls weren't his idea!

Christmas Eve! New Years Eve! Nights which naturally evoke thoughts of peace, serenity, tranquility. Nights which encourage feelings of love and friendship. Tolerance is certainly a key that can open the way to these beautiful experiences. And family peace and harmony represents the ultimate joy in life, at any time of the year but especially during "The Twelve Days of Christmas."

So give Mom a break and help her to relax. She works from "dawn to dusk" all year 'round. Give Dad a break. Let him play Santa Claus; he does bring all kinds of gifts throughout the months of the year. Give brother a break. He needs laughs of encouragement for his entertaining stories. And give Sis a break. It's not easy to balance studies with several romantic heroes. And finally give us all a break. Put more energy into what you can do and find for others rather than asking or demanding for selves! The rewards are great: Tranquility instead of tranquilizers, peace rather than tension, love instead of hatred.

REAL TREAT

The first time I ever had mussels was last week and I got them because I noticed an ad in your newspaper. Mussels are part of the salad bar at Mahoney's restaurant which has been in Williston Park on Hillside Avenue longer than I can remember but it has been redecorated, enlarged and made to be a really great place. Well the mussels are there on the salad bar which is free if you eat dinner at Mahoney's and on the salad bar there are so many things that you feel as though you have eaten dinner before they serve you your entree. Your readers should go there.

FAMOUS LANDMARK
I am glad to see that you have an advertisement from Koening's Restaurant. This famous landmark in Floral Park is a good restaurant for everything. Our daughter was married and they catered the wedding party. We have eaten there on many occasions for dinner and found that it is truly a good restaurant and there are not many that can beat it on Long Island. Your readers should enjoy this one. J.G.

SUNDAY BRUNCH
I think that the Cobblestone Cafe in Williston Park is tops. We went there for Sunday brunch last week and believe that this is a great way to start off a Sunday. They have one inclusive price which gives you everything from a bloody Mary through a selection of an entree, which in our case was steak and eggs, and then coffee is included. We felt it was fun to look out through the greenhouse at people walking by on the side of the restaurant while having the brunch. F.W.

Restaurant Guide

If you have Questions about etiquette or dining out you may call them in to WE 1-0027 and we will find the answer.

Q. In a good restaurant that we attended recently an accordion player came around to each table and asked whether we had any requests. My wife made a request and the musician played it. Is this music provided by the restaurant or should I have tipped?

J.B. A. Generally the musicians are paid by the restaurant to entertain all of the diners. But when you make a special request it is expected that a small tip will accompany the request. In this case $1 would have been a fair tip.

Q. What do you do if you enter a restaurant and some friends at another table tell the waiter to see what you are drinking because they want to buy you a drink and you do not drink?

E.R. A. There is no set answer to your question. You obviously have some very generous friends who do not know your habits. The best thing to do would be to inform the waiter that you do not drink but you might make a gesture with a water glass towards your friends table as a toast.

Q. How much can you ask a waiter about the food on the menu without seeing stupid?

P.L. A. The answer to that is that you would be stupid not to ask any questions but to eat something that you obviously do not like. Most waiters are glad to explain what ingredients go to make up a particular dish and some will even check with the cook to find out a specific thing for you. Remember restaurants call you a "guest" and it is up to them to make you feel like one.

BETTER THAN EVER
 Many years ago I went to one of the finest restaurants in N.Y. it was called Pappas. The other day we noticed an ad in the paper about Pappas Restaurant being in Williston Park on Willis Ave. We had noticed it was a seafood restaurant in passing there several times but never bothered to tie it in with the past. Last Friday we went to Pappas in Williston Park and I must say that it is even better than the original one I remember. It is spick and span and is decorated in the finest decor. The seafood is out of this world. We are lucky to have a restaurant this good right in the area. I recommend it highly. M.L.

DON'T MISS IT!

The Maine Maid is one of the best large restaurants around here. They have a very complete menu and they prepare many dishes such as chateaubriand at your table. A trip to this old reconditioned Quaker House is worth the experience and when you top it off with good food then I vote for the Maine Maid as an outstanding place to spend a few hours when you want to relax. I have often passed the Maine Maid but last week when we went to it, I am sorry that I missed out on it for so long. L.D.

The Last Word In Restaurant Guides

Where Our Readers Have The Last Word

This newspaper, and the seven other weekly newspapers associated with it, publishes the last word in restaurant guides... a paid listing of many prominent selected restaurants in this area. While many of them have been rated by the great, and near great, food connoisseurs, our readers will have the last word through "Reader Ratings".

Through a special 24 hour phone system, readers will be asked to call in their assessment of each restaurant they visit. Consensus ratings (good or bad) will be published as a continuing part of the guide.

In addition they can make suggestions, compliments or criticisms through the open phone line and messages will be sent through to the restaurant management.

(Guide to Good Dining)

You can apply to join "Reader Ratings." If your establishment has been missed, or you have not yet answered our invitation, we invite you to call Litor Publications at WF 1-8012 for more details as they might apply to your restaurant.

Cooking Corner

Busy cook? Shrimp quick, easy

By Tooi Griffin

A shrimp by any other name is still a prawn, langoustine, Spanish Red or scampi. The differences between the various categories of crustacean are related to size and geographic origin, but all are basically the same shellfish creature.

What are shrimp? Basically, shrimp are the principal scavengers of the ocean. They speedily remove all traces of fish or flesh from the bones of any dead animal exposed to their ravages. Despite their lowly position, however, they are highly prized as nutritious and delicious food.

They are also easy to prepare as hot or cold appetizers, salad, soup and/or entrees. The delicately distinctive taste of shrimp blends with spicy seasonings, as well as with mild cream sauces. Needing little time to cook, shrimp is an ideal solution for the busy cook who wants to prepare an elegant meal.

Buying: When it comes to buying shrimp, get them in the raw, usually frozen state, then thaw and cook them when desired.

Reheating cooked shrimp can make them rubbery. Even for cold shrimp dishes, it is best to cook them just before serving, to ensure that their flavor will be as fresh as possible. If a certain type of shrimp, such as bay shrimp, is available only cooked, buy it at a fish market rather than using canned shrimp.

Sizing: To give a more precise indication of shrimp size, fish markets often label them with a number, which tells how many shrimp of that lot would make a pound. The lower the number, the larger the shrimp. Often the letter "U" is written before the digits to indicate "under" a certain number of shrimp to the pound. For instance, "U15" means that there are 15 or less shrimp to the pound.

Cooking: As with most seafood, the primary rule in preparing shrimp is to avoid overcooking it. Cooking time is very short. Sushi lovers know that fresh shrimp are good raw. If served in sauce, shrimp rarely need pre-cooking as heating in the sauce will usually cook them. The shellfish can be sauteed, stir-fried, boiled, broiled, barbecued, poached and remain sweet and delicious served hot or cold.

The purpose of a shrimp's shells is to protect them, not only in the ocean but also in cooking. If they are to be cooked in the simplest way, in salted water, shrimp should be left in their shells. If cooked "naked" in the water, the shrimp would lose too much flavor to the water.

Sometimes the goal of a dish is to promote a flavor exchange between shrimp and sauce. In this case, the shrimp are shelled before cooking. To give a shrimp sauce greater depth of flavor, a good trick is to first simmer the shells in water, then strain the water, saving it to use in making the sauce; the shrimp should be gently cooked in the sauce at the last minute.

Timing: Small shrimp are done when their shells turn bright pink, large ones are done 1-2 minutes after that stage. Out of their shells, shrimp cook even faster and are done when the outer surface of their flesh turns pink and the inside becomes white.

Deveining: Large shrimp should be deveined, either with shell on or off. Raw shrimp are the easiest to devein: Slit them down the back and, with the aid of the tip of a small, sharp knife, pull out the black intestinal "vein" that runs down the back.

The following recipes feature shrimp

BEER BATTER SHRIMP

1 cup all-purpose flour
1 tbsp. paprika
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups beer (12 ozs.)
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. Tabasco pepper sauce
2 to 3 lbs. peeled, raw shrimp
Flour for dredging

In a medium bowl, stir together flour, paprika and salt. Whisk in beer, Worcestershire and Tabasco sauce. Let stand at least 1 hour or cover and refrigerate until ready to use. Fill a sauce pot or deep fat fryer with vegetable oil about 3 inches deep; heat to 375 degrees. Dip the shrimp in flour and then batter. Fry 1 to 2 minutes until shrimp are golden. Drain on paper towels. Serve with Creole Tartar Sauce (recipe follows).

Makes 10 to 12 appetizer servings.

CREOLE TARTAR SAUCE

3 tbsps. tomato paste
2 tbsps. Dijon-style mustard
2 tbsps. olive oil
1 tbsp. white wine vinegar
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. paprika
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. Tabasco pepper sauce
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup finely chopped scallions
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup finely chopped celery
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup finely chopped parsley

In small bowl, stir together tomato paste, mustard, oil, vinegar, paprika and Tabasco sauce until combined. Stir in scallions, celery and parsley.

Makes about $\frac{3}{4}$ cup.

FISH SOUP SARASOTA

2 tbsps. vegetable oil
1 cup sliced celery
1 large onion, sliced (1 cup)
2 cloves garlic, sliced
2 lbs. fish bones or heads
1 qt. water
10 peppercorns
1 tsp. dried leaf thyme, crumbled
 $\frac{3}{4}$ tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. fennel seeds
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ lbs. halibut, cod or haddock, cut in 1-inch chunks
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups grapefruit juice
1 cup bottled clam juice
 $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. or more medium shrimp, thawed
Assorted Garnishes: Grated Parmesan cheese, chopped parsley, cooked pasta, garlic croutons, other cooked shellfish, chopped tomatoes, sliced black olives

In large pot or heavy kettle heat oil; saute celery, onion and garlic until tender. Add fish bones, water, peppercorns, thyme, salt and fennel seeds. Bring to a boil. Cover. Reduce heat; simmer 30 minutes. Skim off any "scum" that rises to top. Strain broth through a sieve. Return broth to pot. Add fish chunks, grapefruit juice and clam juice. Simmer 7 minutes. Add raw shrimp and simmer until fish and shrimp are cooked. Serve with assorted garnishes. Makes 8-10 servings.

LIME SHRIMP SALAD

$1\frac{1}{2}$ lbs. boiling potatoes
Water
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup oil
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup fresh lime juice
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup minced parsley
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. each pepper and grated lime peel
Dash sugar
2 tbsps. green onion
 $\frac{1}{4}$ lb. cooked shrimp
Lettuce leaves
1 avocado, sliced
1 tomato, cut into wedges
Watercress sprigs
Lime wedges

To cook raw shrimp, drop shrimp into boiling water; reduce heat and simmer 3 minutes or until cooked and bright pink. Drain, peel and devein, if necessary.

Cook potatoes in boiling water to cover about 30 minutes or until tender. Combine oil, lime juice, parsley, salt, pepper, lime peel and sugar. Mix well. Peel and cut potatoes into $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch slices; toss with onion. Pour about $\frac{1}{2}$ cup lime marinade over warm potatoes. Toss gently. Marinate 2 hours. Toss shrimp with about 3 tablespoons lime marinade. Marinate, refrigerated, 2 hours. Mound potato mixture on lettuce-lined platter. Dip avocado in lime marinade. Arrange shrimp, avocado and tomatoes around potatoes. Drizzle with remaining marinade. Garnish with watercress and lime wedges. Makes about 4 servings.

TOMATO AND SHRIMP QUICHE

Flour tortillas form a water-thin crust for this Mexican-inspired quiche. Serve hot as an appetizer or first-course or cold for a picnic dish.

2 tbsps. butter
2 12-inch flour tortillas
4 ozs. Monterey Jack or cheddar cheese, shredded (about 1 cup)

4 green onions, chopped
2 firm ripe tomatoes
Flour
Salt and freshly ground black pepper
3 tbsps. diced canned peeled green chilies
4 ozs. cooked small shrimp
4 eggs
1 cup milk
Salt and freshly ground black pepper

Melt butter in 9-inch pie pan. Dip tortillas in melted butter to coat both sides and place in pan, overlapping tortillas to cover bottom and sides of pan. Sprinkle with half of cheese and half of onions. Slice tomatoes $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch thick and dip in flour. Place in pie pan in single layer. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Scatter remaining onions, chilies, and shrimp over tomatoes. Beat eggs until blended; stir in milk and season with salt and pepper and pour over. Sprinkle with remaining cheese. Bake in preheated 400-degree oven 25 minutes or until custard is barely set in center. Cut into wedges to serve.

Makes 8-10 first-course servings or 6 entree servings.

FROM OUR KITCHEN

FORTY CLOVES OF GARLIC CHICKEN

1 frying chicken (2 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ lbs.)
40 unpeeled garlic cloves
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup dry white wine
1 recipe pan sauce (recipe follows)

Place chicken in large roasting pan and arrange garlic cloves around perimeter of pan. Roast for 25 minutes per pound of chicken at 375 degrees, with breast side of chicken down.

After first 20 minutes of cooking, pour wine over chicken, and a bit over the garlic. Baste often.

Halfway through the cooking time, turn chicken over, so that the breast side faces up.

When chicken is done, remove it to platter, keep warm and prepare the garlic pan sauce. Serves 2 to 4.

TOMATOES WITH GARLIC AU GRATIN

3 medium tomatoes
4 to 6 cloves garlic, finely chopped
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups fresh bread crumbs
6 tbsps. fresh parsley, chopped
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup olive oil
Salt and pepper to taste

Core tomatoes with tip of sharp knife and cut top off each tomato. Scoop out seeds and juice and arrange tomatoes in shallow baking pan.

Mix bread crumbs, garlic, parsley, cheese, salt and pepper, and stuff tomatoes loosely with mixture.

Drizzle olive oil over tomatoes and cook 15 to 20 minutes in 400-degree oven, until the top of the stuffing is golden brown. Serves 4.

Madonna not a Hummel

Q. This is a copy of the mark on the bottom of my Hummel Madonna. Please tell me what you can about its vintage and value.
A. First, this is not a Hummel. It was made by the Goebel company in Oeslau, Germany. Goebel made the Hummel figurines but also made other items under the Goebel name.
Your Madonna was made in the 1930s and would be worth at least $100.

Q. I find the term "Dresden china" very confusing. Some people seem to consider it the finest china ever made and some are not very impressed by it. Can you explain just what Dresden china is?
A. Dresden china is any china (porcelain) made in the city of Dresden, Germany. Some is good; some is not.
One of the finest porcelains ever made, now known as Meissen, was first made in Dresden by the Royal Saxon China Manufactory. In 1710 the company moved to Meissen. Because of this, there were at least seven manufacturers of china in Dresden — some good; some not.
BOOK REVIEW: "American Folk Art of the 20th Century," by Jay Johnson and William C. Ketchum Jr.; Rizzoli International Publications Inc.; 712 Fifth Ave.,

New York, N.Y. 10019; $45, plus $2 postage, or at your local bookstore.
Rizzoli is the unchallenged leader in art books of unsurpassed beauty. This one is lavishly illustrated with 230 plates in full color. It forces us to elevate folk art to its proper place. If there are those who relegate folk art to a field somewhat in the category of finger painting, this book will force them to realize that the work of these untrained artists is sophisticated and emotionally powerful.
Q. This clock was made by the Waterbury Clock Co. Can you tell me when it was made and how much it is worth?
A. Your clock was made in the early 20th century and would currently sell in the $125 to $175 range.
It is not old enough (100 years) to be an antique, but it is collectible.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q. We recently purchased a 14-year-old home which is well built and worth updating.

The biggest problem is colored ceramic tile in the bathroom and kitchen. The colors and design really date the house. We want to remove the tile, then paper and paint and put in new counter tops.

Our problem is we want to do the work ourselves, but do not know how to take out the ceramic tile and what kind of treatment to apply to the walls after the tile is removed.

Do we need to replaster before putting on the new wallpaper? We will appreciate your suggestions. — Robert J.D.

A. Ceramic tile that has been set in cement is rather difficult to remove.

Ceramic tiles are fired at high temperatures so they can be heated without damage or danger of fire. Use a blow torch on a small area at a time and pry the tile loose with a heavy screwdriver.

Any gouges in the surface underneath can be filled, then sanded smooth, before new wall covering is installed.

There is now a method for installing new tile over old tile and also paint that can be used on ceramic tile if you wish to change the color.

If the wall surface is relatively smooth after you remove the tile, you will not need to replaster before applying wallpaper.

If you use the blow torch method, be sure to handle with extreme care to prevent possible fire.

Q. We recently purchased a great little house and love everything about it, except the front of the house faces a busy street and we hear a lot of traffic noise, even with the windows closed.

What kind of materials, plants, etc., are best for soundproofing? — Mitch R.

A. Transmission of outdoor noises into a house can be reduced by adequate sound barriers.

Some effect will result from solid fences of suitable height, particularly fences of stone or brick. Thick, dense hedges also have some effect.

However, the best barriers to stop noise from entering through windows are storm sashes installed tightly with felt strips at the edges, double-glass windows, felt weather stripping for all windows, and heavy draperies.

Masonry walls conduct less airborne noise into a house than wooden walls. A thick cover of ivy on brick veneer or stucco walls also helps reduce noise transmission.

Uninsulated frame walls can be made more resistant to noise with high-density insulation, such as vermiculite, blown in.

Q. In our executive office areas, heavy furniture has left deep indentations or "pock marks" where the legs have rested on the carpeting. Each time the furniture is moved, these unsightly marks are obvious. Is there an easy method to remove them? — Lloyd S.R.

A. These indentations are due, of course, to the carpet pile being crushed by furniture legs. Steam the crushed spots with a steam iron, or a dry iron over a wet cloth.

A note of caution in either case. Do not put any weight on the iron.

Brush the pile up after steaming, and repeat the process, if necessary.

The first obvious solution, however, is to prevent the crushing in the first place. Fitting the furniture legs with broad-base furniture glides, not the bottom or dome type, will reduce the crushing action and make it much easier to move the furniture around.

Q. We have plastic tile in the kitchen. In moving appliances and utensils about, the tile has been scratched in a number of places. Can these scratches be removed? — S.D.

A. Rub the scratches with powdered pumice and a damp felt pad. Then polish the surface with powdered chalk and a damp soft cloth.

Mainly For Seniors

By John T. Watts

Dear John: I have read your column. The headline for your article is "Amateur radio suggested as way retirees can pass time."

The first article is from Alan R. W7IAWV. Your reply to his letter is a brilliant example of why someone who is ignorant on a subject should refrain from making any comment.

I quote your reply: "Many radio amateurs seem to be the base of their neighborhoods, with their signals playing Ned with the commercial radio and TV."

Mr. Watts, had you taken the time to investigate such problems concerning radio frequency interference (RFI), you would have found it is not the fault of the amateur radio operator in most cases. The problem is with the price of electronic equipment that is rectifying a radio frequency for which it was not designed. RFI can get into TV, radio, electronic organs, computers and pacemakers, to name a few.

To blame the amateur radio operator for faults built into such devices is equal to blaming him for his very existence!

For your information, Sen. Barry Goldwater authorized a bill that became federal law that electronic equipment must be designed in such a way that it will be free from RFI. Sen. Goldwater also is an amateur radio operator.

It is useless to tell you of the free public service that is given every day of the year. If you read the newspapers or listen to TV news you will learn that an amateur radio operator who was in Grenada has been nominated to be given the highest award that is given to a civilian.

I doubt if you ever give reply to this letter in your column, but then again I would not see it as I am not a regular subscriber to the paper in which your article appeared. However, you do owe an apology to all amateur radio operators. — Jerold S.

Dear Jerold: If I owe it, then here it is, but I'd like to hear a little more evidence on both sides.

Whether the interference is the fault of the equipment used the wrong way, or of the operator, is kind of splitting hairs.

I am well aware of the great civic service that some amateur radio operators have given in times of crisis throughout the world.

Dear John: Last night I sent a letter to you requesting the Certo formula for arthritis. I sent a stamped, self-addressed envelope and forgot to enclose a donation. Forgive me, please. Please find my donation enclosed here. Sorry for the boo-boo. Thanks for bearing with me. — Wanda G.

Dear Wanda: No sweat. Your leaflet was sent out anyway. A donation is not obligatory. I merely pointed out a few weeks ago that my mail was getting so heavy I needed some help in expediting it.

Incidentally, I can vouch for Certo now personally. Heretofore I have gone on other people's word. My doctor told me that I have some arthritis in my neck. He said most people do. Some are never bothered by it.

But I was, so I decided to "take my own medicine." I took about three doses of Certo and juice and the pain went away and hasn't come back. This was more than a month ago.

Dear John: The letter I would write you would be almost word for word the letter signed Margaret H.

I, too, am in my 60s, very lonely these past few years, needing companionship. Also need to have pen pals that are sincere in their desire for pen pals of both sexes. — Anne Lee.

Dear Anne: The pen pal list is one way. Let me tell you, like I tell others, write to strangers carefully. Show interest in them and you will be most likely to get replies.

Eye pain is frightening

Q. I am looking for an explanation for a very frightening experience which happened just over a year ago.

I had a very sharp pain in my left eye which lasted for a matter of moments and then stopped. It did not harm my vision in any way and has not happened since.

What might cause such a severe pain? — E.B.

A. It would be impossible to answer with any degree of certainty the cause for the pain you have described. The most likely answer, however, is that a foreign body remained on the surface of your eye for only a short time and then either fell out or was irrigated out by tear flow.

Significant eye pain is usually attended by diminished vision and a fairly significant duration time. — Dr. Daniel Bitner, associate clinical professor of surgery, division of ophthalmology, at the University of California San Diego, School of Medicine.

Q. What is Morton's neuroma and what causes it? Could it develop as a result of back surgery and nerve damage to the leg? — M.V., Saranac Lake, N.Y.

A. Morton's neuroma is a benign nerve tumor involving one of the interdigital nerves of the foot.

It was initially described in 1876 by T.G. Morton, and is not to be confused with the Morton's Syndrome described by D.J. Morton. The latter is a biomechanical foot imbalance.

The neuroma is actually a thickening and formation of fibrous tissue in the nerve as it passes between the metatarsal heads. The metatarsal bones are the five long bones extending from the instep to each toe. Although it is most commonly seen in the third interspace and involves the third and fourth toe, it may be found in any of the interspaces.

The cause is actually unknown but there are many theories. Since neuromas are more common in women, the wearing of high-heeled shoes causing an irritability of the nerve probably leads the list. Occupations where squatting causes a prolonged hyperextension of the toes may also be factor.

It could develop as a result of back injury but only in a remote and indirect way. If the back surgery resulted in some residual deformity of the foot or leg, it would alter the mechanics of the involved extremity and apply additional irritation to the nerve as it passes through the interspace.

It would then not be the nerve damage to the leg per se causing the neuroma, but rather the altered biomechanics. — Dr. Richard Gilbert, clinical professor of surgery, at the University of California, San Diego School of Medicine.

Q. Can Giardia lamblia cause bronchial asthma symptoms? What are other symptoms or potential complications? How is the infestation treated? — M.B.

A. Giardia lamblia is a gastrointestinal parasite which is found throughout the world. It is a frequent cause of traveler's diarrhea and most commonly occurs after drinking contaminated water.

Symptoms usually begin to appear a few days to two weeks after exposure and include abdominal bloating, stomach cramps, and diarrhea. Occasionally, loss of appetite and nausea are also present. In long-standing untreated infections, complications such as weight loss and malnutrition can be seen.

Although Giardia lamblia has been found in some asthmatic patients, there is no evidence to suggest that this infection can cause bronchial asthma.

Giardia lamblia infection (giardiasis) is most often diagnosed by laboratory examination of a stool specimen. Occasionally, other diagnostic methods are used by the physician. Once diagnosed, giardiasis can be treated with Quinacrine or Metronidazole taken for five to seven days. — Dr. Howard Groveman, assistant professor of community and family medicine, University of California, San Diego School of Medicine.

Notice

HAVE YOU A HIDDEN TALENT

that has yet to be discovered in print?

We are looking for articles, not exceeding 3,000 words, on local topics, opinions, ideas, nice places to visit on Long Island, and even fiction. In our magazine section, we will try to "Discover" one new feature length article and writer per week. If you want to be published and be part of an issue of Discovery - you may submit your article to:

Litmor Publications, 81 East Barclay Street, Hicksville, N.Y. 11801

GRANDCHILDREN MOTHERS-FATHERS

You've heard Grandma and Grandpa bragging about their wonderful grandchildren, and it is now time to give credit where it is due. Send in their photos - and nominate them to be the 'World's Greatest Grandparent or Grandparents'

We will, as space allows, print the pictures as part of our magazine feature - and as a reward, we will send you the printed clipping, in permanent form, for you to keep. To enter the contest, simply send a small (preferred) photo to:

Discovery Magazine, 81 East Barclay Street, Hicksville, N.Y. 11801

A few words about Grandpa and/or Grandma will help the judges. Remember, if you want the photo returned, please write the name and address on the back.

GRANDPARENTS... HERE IS YOUR CHANCE!

You have been telling everyone you meet that you have the 'World's Greatest Grandchildren' You've been carrying pictures around with you and finding people to look at them. We have a better answer!

Each week we will run photos Of The World's 'Most Beautiful Grandchildren' (in the eyes of the grandparents) and for each photo selected, we will send, as a prize, a permanent version of the way it appeared in the newspaper for you to keep.

To enter the contest, simply send a small (preferred) photo to:

Discovery Magazine, 81 East Barclay Street, Hicksville, N.Y. 11801

If you want the photo returned, you must print your name and address on the back.

We're Honored.

That a greater percentage of subscribers renewed their subscriptions in 1983 than to any daily newspaper in Nassau County.

This is the prize we cherish

TWEEN

12 & 20

By Robert Wallace
E4.D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 14-year-old boy and my parents constantly tell me who I can and cannot be friends with. Do you think that parents should do this? Regardless of what you say, I don't like my parents selecting my friends. — Billy

Billy: I don't believe that parents should tell a teen who his friends should be, but parents should inform their teen who his friends should not be!

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 13-year-old boy and I hope you can solve my problem

Yesterday I was playing basketball with my best friend when I accidentally gave him a bloody lip. He quit playing and went home. Today at school he called me a nasty, dirty, filthy name when I was talking to a real nice girl.

Tonight I talked to my parents about what happened and my dad told me to go over to his house and punch his lights out.

My mother disagreed. She said I should let my friend cool down a few days and then intelligently discuss the problem with him.

Whom do you agree with? I hope it's my father. — Pete

Pete: I lean toward your mother's solution. But if your "friend" continues making his crude remarks, a stronger remedy might be necessary.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 12-year-old girl and I have a brother who is 14. I love him very much but he has been smoking marijuana for quite some time. I asked him to stop but he told me to mind my own business.

Lately, I have been telling him that I am going to tell our parents that he is smoking pot but he said he doesn't care who I tell.

Personally, I don't want to be considered a "squealer," but I think the time has come to inform Mom and Dad about my brother's bad habit. Do you agree? — Gina Gina: I agree. Telling Mom that your brother is sneaking a cookie would be considered squealing. Informing your parents that your brother is smoking marijuana is your responsibility. In this case, you will actually be helping him.

Dr. Wallace: My father and I are having a slight disagreement and we would welcome you and your teen writers to solve it.

I am a 16-year-old girl. Last Saturday my family and I went to a dinner theater. While there, I met a boy from another town. After the performance, we chatted briefly and he asked for my phone number. Since I enjoyed his brief company, I gave it to him and he already has called me even though it is long distance.

Even though I don't think giving out my phone number is a big deal, my dad disagreed. He said it was wrong for me to give it to a boy I just met. OK, gang, who wins? — Betsy

Betsy: In my eyes you do. Where better to meet a romantic friend than at a dinner theater? The fact that the boy lives in another town only adds to the mystique.

I believe in the old cliches: she who hesitates is lost; when opportunity knocks, open the door; nothing ventured, nothing gained; get the point? I could go on with these cliches for hours but writers should never use them.

Regardless, I'm in your corner (oops, those darn cliches).

print my letter. I want all teens who drink and drive to read my message.

On Dec. 11, 1983, my 17-year-old brother and two of his buddies were on their way home from an all-night drinking spree.

My brother was behind the wheel, and in a matter of a few careless seconds he pulled his car into the opposite lane and hit head-on with a truck. The collision killed my brother but, luckily, the others involved in the crash are alive.

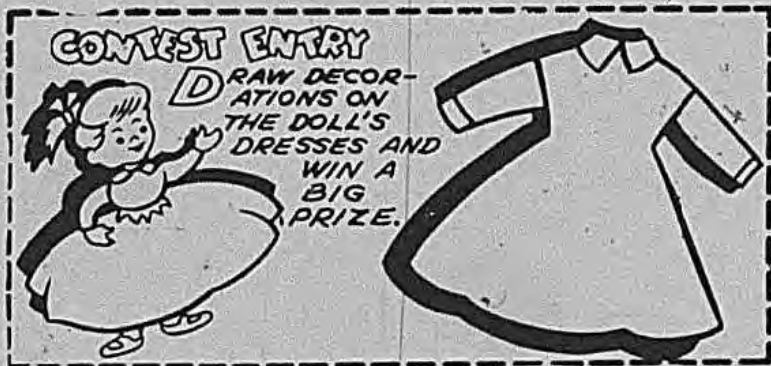

Our family is grieving but I hope not in vain. If my letter can stop one teenager from drinking or at least driving while under the influence, then my brother will rest in peace. — Sad Sister

Sister: Thank you for caring about your fellow teens.

Your message is loud and clear and will be read by millions of teens. Believe me, it will cause many of them to stop the deadly combination of drinking and driving.

Your brother's death is a horrible tragedy, but because of you his death will not be in vain.

JUNIOR EDITION

Aunt Tilly's Corner

This week I read a story in the paper about a middle aged Canadian couple who won $11 million in a lottery. The man was a truck driver and the woman worked in a dry cleaning store.

What did they do with all their money? First of all, both gave up their jobs. They bought a new car and are planning to buy a new home. They also hope to do some traveling.

Since they do not have any children they will give much of the money to their other relatives and to charity.

What would you do if suddenly you won $11 million?

Love,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Erin Ormond and Deborah Froehlich.

Points On Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q: Every year our quarter horse mare is in heat for two or three weeks at a time early in the spring. We have never been very successful in breeding her during these long periods of heat. Is this normal behavior for mares? Is it possible to get mares pregnant early in the year? We desire as early a foal as possible.

A: Irregularities of the estrous cycle (reproductive cycle) is probably the most important of the three primary reasons for infertility in mares. The other two primary reasons for infertility are the shortness of the breeding season and infection of the genital tract.

Most mares are seasonal breeders. In other words, most mares do not breed throughout the year. The normal or physiological breeding season for mares extends from April to October in the Northern Hemisphere. The greatest amount of reproductive activity occurs during June, July and August. Prior to and following these months many mares have abnormal estrous cycles. It is not uncommon for mares to appear to be in heat for two or three weeks duration during these periods.

As the breeding season progresses most mares develop normal estrous cycles. The complete normal estrous cycle in the mare is 19 to 21 days in length. The average length is 21 days. The duration of the periods between heats, that is the period during which the mare will accept a stallion, averages 15 days.

The duration of heat for most mares during the breeding season is four to nine days. The average heat period is five to six days. Breeding has no effect on the duration of heat or the time of ovulation.

Ovulation is the release of the egg from the ovary. Ovulation usually occurs toward the end of the heat period. Most mares will accept a stallion for 24 to 48 hours following ovulation.

Compounding the problem of irregular estrous cycles in the early part of the breeding season are many of the breed associations' rules regarding universal birthdays. Because many of the breed associations use Jan. 1 as a universal birthday, many mares are bred prior to the natural breeding season.

For example, the breeding season for Thoroughbred mares is from Feb. 15 through June 15 and for Standardbreds is Dec. 15 through June 15. Therefore the end of the breeding season is reached just as most of the mares are normally reaching their peak in sexual activity.

The best treatment for most mares with long periods of estrus early in the breeding season is the tincture of time. The cycles of most of these mares do become normal later in the spring and most of these mares will conceive then.

It must be remembered that breeding too frequently predisposes mares to uterine infection and infertility. Mares with long periods of heat early in the breeding season are often bred too frequently.
