

5 Mill Sinking Fund Asked for School

Supervisors May 'Take Back' Training School

It appears that the State of Michigan and Wayne County will operate separate institutions for disturbed children near Plymouth for some time to come, should a resolution be approved by the Wayne County Board of Supervisors that will be introduced next Wednesday.

Al Barbour, a supervisor board appointee and president of the Wayne County AFL-CIO, will introduce a resolution asking that the supervisors rescind previous action that offered to convey the Wayne County Training School north of Plymouth to the State of Michigan.

George Witkowski, the City of Plymouth's supervisor and chairman of the Wayne County Training School Committee, said this week that the resolution stands a good chance of being approved.

The Board of Supervisors took action in 1953, 1956 and again in 1958 offering the $20 million facility to the state. The offers were made mainly because of the critical financial condition of the county.

Already given to the state has been 250 acres upon which the first unit of the Plymouth State Home and Training School has been built. It received its first patients last month. The two institutions are side-by-side along Sheldon Rd.

But now that the State Department of Mental Health has set a target of July 1, county supervisors are beginning to change their minds.

Those now opposing the transfer argue that the institution under state operation would not be able to accommodate certain types of children now being maintained by the county.

But also of great concern is the future status of present County Training School employees. For one thing, the pay scale for state jobs is not as high as the comparable job under the county scale.

The last meeting of the supervisor committee, the Training School Administrative Board and the Board of Auditors was called by Witkowski on March 25. During the meeting, Dr. Pasquale Buonicontto, medical superintendent of the Training School, said that the morale of the employees was an important consideration since

Atchinson Leaves Auto Dealership

Norman "Dutch" Atchinson, partner in the Pontiac dealership of Berry & Atchinson since 1946, has left the firm, it was announced this week, and the new corporation will be known as Berry Pontiac, Inc.

Ross L. Berry will be president of the company and Jim Edelbrock has acquired financial interest and will become secretary-treasurer. Elderbrock has been with Berry & Atchinson eight years and will continue in his capacity of sales manager.

Atchinson will join his father, Harry Atchinson, in the real estate business in Northville.

this factor could affect treatment of children. It was reported that 20 employees had transferred from the school within the past 30 days.

The committee voted to have a survey made to determine exactly the level and type of services now being rendered by the Training School in relation to meeting the specialized training and educational needs of the mentally retarded and emotionally disturbed children.

Dr. Buonicontto reported that the McGregor Foundation may be able to provide funds to make this survey. County auditors declared that the county budget could provide funds.

John Barbour, an AFL-CIO representative, disclosed that there was now considerable anxiety and feeling of insecurity among employees of

Girl Hit By Concrete Shows Improvement

A nine-year-old girl is showing improvement after suffering a depressed skull fracture when struck in the head last week by a piece of concrete.

She is Ann Marie Gadebusch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans H. Gadebusch, 1211 Sheridan.

Police said that Ann was playing "war" with her brother Mark, 7, and other children when the incident happened late Thursday. The children were playing around a hut located beside the home of Dr. Ensign Clyde, 1246 Sheridan.

Ann had been "captured" when her brother picked up a piece of concrete and threw it.

Knocked unconscious, she was rushed to University Hospital in Ann Arbor where she underwent an operation. She is reported progressing satisfactorily.

ON ITS WAY: The City of Plymouth's urban renewal program has been certified for another year—meaning that the government still is giving it active consideration. The Chicago office has given its final OK and now the application is in Washington. The proposed renewal program includes a strip along the west side of Mill St., from Bathey Manu-

AN INVITATION to Hawaii, New York, Jamaica and the Great Lakes is being made to Plymouth people as the Chamber of Commerce opened its booster campaign this week. Pictured is Rowland Bonamici, a member of the planning committee. Details can be found at most local stores.

Chamber Boosters Complete

Free Trips for 12

With the theme of "Going Places with Plymouth," the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce this week kicked off a campaign that will carry a dozen people to such far-away places as Hawaii, Jamaica and New York City.

And there will be others shuffling off to Buffalo with free weekend cruises.

Every person in Plymouth is being given a chance to become a booster of the Chamber through the campaign.

The Chamber, financed through donations of participating merchants, industries and professional men, has also benefited the individuals who live here.

To give the individual a chance to become a booster of the Chamber and still not be required to pay a full membership fee, the Chamber is sponsoring the "Going Places with Plymouth" promotion.

By making a booster contribution of $1, one becomes eligible to compete for the half dozen trips-for-two. The trips are expense-free.

The booster awards are:

1. Vacation for two with one week in Hawaii.
2. Vacation for two with one week in Jamaica.
3. Two show trips for two to New York.
4. Two weekend cruises for two to Buffalo.

The vacations and trips can be taken at the convenience of the winners, the booster committee announced. Money will not be given in lieu of trips. All except the Buffalo trips are by plane.

Winners of the trips will be announced during the July 4 program in Plymouth.

Both Hawaii and Jamaica are fast becoming favorite vacation spots for Americans. Most of those who visit the na-

Township, City Talk Over Offer of Water

Representatives of the Township and City of Plymouth will soon get together to discuss terms and conditions under which the City would sell water to the Township for a 17-home project proposed by the Garling Construction Co.

The Township Board voted at its meeting last week to contact the City concerning the offer. City Commissioners received the letter at their meeting Monday night and instructed City Manager Albert Glassford to prepare the information and present it to Township authorities.

Garling would like to erect 17 homes along Park Entrance Drive in Plymouth Township, but there is no water available. Actually, they want to build an entire subdivision on 20 acres in an area that sits in both the City and Township. But present sewer restrictions permit only 17 homes.

A Garling attorney, F.J. Keppen, appeared before the Township Board in March to get the Board's approval for using City water, but the

Pay-As-You-Go Method Offered

A new five-mill, five-year "building and site sinking fund" that would be able to finance new school construction on a pay-as-you-go basis without costly interest will be proposed to voters at the June 13 annual school election.

The Board of Education decided at a special meeting last Wednesday night to put a sinking fund levy on the ballot, instead of the bond issue that is customarily used for major construction projects.

Last November voters turned down two separate bond issues totaling $4,500,000. Since that time, the Board has been busy trying to work out a new program that they felt would be more acceptable.

Based on estimated assessed valuations, the five mill sinking fund levy would raise around $2,500,000 over a period of five years. The major project planned for this money would be a classroom unit of a new junior high school.

The building would be constructed on a 17-acre site just purchased. It is located on the southwest corner of Sheldon and N. Territorial Roads.

Just the classroom portion and perhaps the gymnasium would be constructed first, the Board announced. The architectural firm of Bennett & Straight has been hired to draw up preliminary plans and will have a sketch of the proposed building in time for voters to view it before election time.

The classroom portion may be of two-story construction, although new rigid regulations of the State Fire Marshal's office have caused the cost of two-story building to soar.

Voters will have two separate levies facing them on the June 13 ballot. At their regular meeting on April 11, the Board decided to put a one-mill levy on the ballot for operating expenses. The bulk of this levy would be used for pay raises for all school employees.

Should both the five mill sinking fund levy and one mill operating levy be approved, the total tax millage being paid for school use would be 23.42.

At present, the school millage is 21.07 ($21.07 per $1,000 of valuation). The net increase in taxes would therefore be $2.35 per $1,000 of valuation.

The net increase of 2.35 mills is accomplished by:

1. Eliminating a 2.5 mill building and site sinking fund that was approved for a five-year period in 1957.
2. By eliminating a 1.15 mill bond retirement levy. The 1952 bond issue has now been paid off.

It was the Fact Finding Committee of the School Community Planning Group that has been pushing hard for a sinking fund to build new schools, instead of issuing bonds.

According to estimates, the "pay-as-you-go" method of financing would save the school district some $540,000 over a period of five years. This would just about finance construction of a new elementary building.

It is estimated that the first unit of the proposed new junior high school could be constructed for well under $1,000,000. In order to have this amount available, at the time of construction, the Board would "borrow ahead" on the anticipated five mill building and site sinking fund revenue for two years.

Law gives school boards permission to borrow ahead on anticipated taxes. The interest cost of

Dogs Offered New Leash On Life in Class

There's a saying that "a dog reflects the intelligence of his master." And anyone who likes dogs has been conscious of that big brown-eyed look that seems to say, "Sure boss, I want to do right, but it's up to you to teach me."

For those who may have had this feeling, but don't know how to go about training their dog, the Adult Education Department will start a course on dog obedience starting Monday, May 2 and continuing through June 20.

Mrs. Eva Crone will conduct the class in "pooch education." Classes will be every Monday from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. on the tennis court behind the High School. Registration for the six-week course will take place between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. at the Adult Education office, phone GL 3-1000.

NEWS BEAT

City Patrolman Calvin Brown "went fishing" last week while on duty and no one had anything but praise for his actions. Mrs. Ernest Thrall, 288 Irvin, called police when a hen pheasant smashed through a sunporch window. Patrolman Brown arrived, looked at the situation, and scurried back to City Hall and his own parked car. From it he grabbed a fish landing net. Brown and Patrolman Henry Smith went back to the Thrall home where Brown skillfully landed the elusive bird. "How did it taste?" everyone asks Brown as he relates the story. But the patrolman, in sportsman-like manner, turned the pheasant loose at the front door — minus a handful of feathers.

They will campaign from strategic locations throughout the city and will repeat their efforts the following day.

STUDENTS IN Plymouth's public and parochial elementary schools learned how dogs are trained for seeing-eye duty from a man who should know—Jim Anderson, left, an instructor at Leader Dog for the Blind, Rochester. Anderson took a seeing-eye

NO CIRCLES

Dear Miss Louisa: Please discuss how to keep material from circling when removing a spot with water? — Mrs. H. G. S.

Dear Mrs. H. G. S.: A great many fabrics have a certain amount of sizing or starch in them, and when liquid is allowed to soak into the material it floats this sizing away from the spot and so forms a circle. When you are removing a spot with water use very little water on the cloth, put a towel under the garment. Work towards the spot rather than away from it. This will help to prevent circles forming.

AN EXPERIMENT

Dear Miss Louisa: The other night I saw an experiment that I thought might interest your readers. I was in a room with several people who were smoking and the cigarette smoke was so thick that it was objectionable. The lady of the house lighted a candle and put it on the coffee table and in a few minutes the smoke had cleared. Have you ever heard of this? — O. S. S.

Dear Mr. O. S. S.: I have never seen a candle used to clear a room of tobacco smoke but I appreciate your letter and will pass the idea on to my readers. I also plan to use it myself.

NO MORE WAX

Dear Miss Louisa: We have just moved into an apartment and all around the edges of the linoleum in the kitchen there is left a dark film of wax that covers the pattern. I have tried all kinds of wax removers and cleaners and nothing will get it off the floor. The rest of the floor responds to scrubbing and looks as good as new. Can you help me? — S. G. B.

Dear Mr. S. G. B.: This old wax, not worn away by the shoes of those who use the rest of the kitchen, is composed of layer after layer of old wax. The best way to remove it is to scrape it off with a dull knife, which works better than a plain scraper. Don't try to do it all at one time as it is tedious work, take a small area and finish that. After removing the wax you will find perfect linoleum under it. Wash up the wax you have removed with any cleanser, and re-wax when you do the kitchen floor.

JELLY ROLL RECIPE

Dear Miss Louisa: How do you make old-fashioned Jelly Roll? The kind that I buy doesn't taste as good as that that I ate as a child. — Miss E. C. E.

Dear Miss E. C. E.: I give you this recipe as it was given to me by a friend who is a superb cook:

A shallow 10 by 15 inch pan is, of course, essential. Grease it well with a white shortening, not butter or margarine, line the pan with waxed paper and grease that too. Set oven at 375 degrees. Beat 4 egg yolks until they are light and gradually add 3/4 cup of sugar. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and beat until creamy. Sift 3/4 cup cake flour and re-sift with 3/4 teaspoon baking powder. Add to the eggs and beat until smooth. Beat 4 egg whites until stiff adding a pinch of salt, fold whites into the cake mixture and pour into the prepared pan. Bake for 13 minutes.

Sprinkle cake with fine granulated sugar and turn out on large piece of waxed paper, carefully removing the paper that was in the pan and is adhering to the cake. (Be sure to do this while cake is hot.) Trim off crusts from the sides, spread with any jelly you desire to use. Start rolling the cake lengthwise with the paper to hold it firm, being careful not to let the paper roll into the filling. Keep cake in waxed paper until firm.

AWAY WITH A PEST

Dear Miss Louisa: Please tell me how I can get rid of silver fish. I spray the closets often but the silver fish are always around. They get into my nylon garments in a chest of drawers. — Mrs. D. N.

Dear Mrs. D. N.: Silver fish do great damage to books, too, and like to eat paper so I would get a spray and spray bookshelves and places where books and papers are stored. I think that if you will get some small cakes of solid camphor from the drugstore and put these behind the books and in your chests of drawers that it will discourage the silver fish. The camphor gives a pungent, clean smell.

WCTU Sponsors Youth Temperance Week Here

In conjunction with a state-wide undertaking, the Plymouth branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union is sponsoring here a Youth Temperance Education Week from April 24 to April 30.

Governor Williams has proclaimed the week comprised of those dates as Youth Temperance Education Week.

Following is his proclamation:

YOUTH TEMPERANCE EDUCATION WEEK

Basic goals of the Youth Temperance Councils are the instilling in our youth religious ideals, respect for the law and the combatting of juvenile delinquency. For many years the Councils have worked earnestly to accomplish these worthwhile aims.

The formative periods of childhood and youth are the time for direction and education which will prevent broken lives and warped personalities. Civic leaders, parents, teachers, church groups and private organizations have joined in programs to save our young people from the blight of intemperance.

Young people deserve to be taught the proper way to live normal, happy lives in friendly association with others. This the Councils seek to accomplish through temperance education.

THEREFORE, I, G. Mennen Williams, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby proclaim the period from April 24 through April 30, 1960, as "YOUTH TEMPERANCE EDUCATION WEEK" in Michigan, and urge that during that time there be special emphasis on the teaching of temperance in alcohol and narcotics so that the youth of Michigan may develop strong minds and healthy bodies, that their lives will be happier, that they will be able to give finer service to God, our State and our nation and that they will reap the rich rewards of being good citizens.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Michigan, this Twenty-sixth Day of February, in the Year of Our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred Sixty and the Commonwealth One Hundred Twenty-four.

Industry Unites to Aid Economic Growth

With hopes of bettering the business climate and economic conditions for industries now in Plymouth and to help attract new industries, and Industrial Division of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce was formerly organized last Wednesday night.

Twenty-eight key executives from local industries met at the Mayflower Hotel. Proposed by-laws and objectives were adopted and a seven-man executive committee was elected and presented.

Following the business meeting, a keynote speaker, J. Philip Martin, manager of Ford Motor Co., delivered an address concerning business and businessmen community affairs and practical politics.

The objectives of the Industrial Division include industrial development—which implies methods of providing better facilities, business climate and economic conditions for industries currently in Plymouth, as well as to select new industries to strengthen and broaden the Plymouth community tax base.

Another objective of the division will be to inform industries in Plymouth on local government and school affairs, state and national legislation.

The Industrial Division will also encourage greater participation by industrial citizens in the total development of the Plymouth area and the organization will serve to inspire closer communications Plymouth.

The representatives were management people from active members of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce. As outlined by the temporary chairman of the Industrial Division a director, Arnold D. Johanson, "the purpose of the Industrial Division is to encourage industrial involvement and development in the community."

The idea of an Industrial Division grew from a "get together-dinner" of industrial leaders on Feb. 23, 1959. Subsequently, a Steering Committee drafted the by-laws and started the framework which culminated in the meeting last week. Men from large, medium and smaller industries in Plymouth were elected to serve on the new Division Executive Committee.

The Executive Committee will meet shortly at the call of its temporary chairman and elect a permanent chairman, vice-chairman and temporary secretary. (The by-laws provide that the manager of the Chamber of Commerce will serve as secretary of the Industrial Division.)

The speaker, J. Philip Martin, spoke on the topic, "The Organization Man Enters Politics." "If the businessman believes he can be effective in politics without incurring someone's disagreement, he had better keep out altogether," he warned.

He noted that politics is a percentage game that no one wins all of the things he wants nor all of any one thing he wants. "Therefore, our objectives must be reasonable."

Martin also told his audience that the businessman taking part in politics must cultivate patience and tolerance.

Although politicians themselves respect their opposition party counterparts, some businessmen seem to live in a constant disposition of outrage concerning the political positions of the party they do not support, Martin asserted. When speaking of "business in politics" the speaker said he was referring to a company's interests and activities concerning legislation or government actions which directly affects its business operations.

"When legislators and congressmen are discussing what products a company can manufacture or merchandise and under what terms and conditions it can do so, there is no question but that the company has a right to participate in such Martin said.

But he warned that the interest the company exhibits in such matters should concern only the political or business issue itself; it should not be concerned with parties or candidates.

When a company encourages its employees to become active in politics, Martin said, "it must keep in mind that it is not only unethical but most unwise to attempt to dictate which political candidate they should support or what party they should serve."

"As for which political party the employee serves, let's remember that business needs business-oriented people in BOTH parties. The most disastrous thing that could happen to business would be the formation of a labor party and the quickest way to get one would be to develop a business party.

"If business ever puts all its eggs in one party basket the most it can ever hope for is a series of shortfeasts and long famines," Car-

'ACT OF MERCY'

ENFIELD, Conn. (UPI) — Grocer Lawrence D'Aleo was acquitted of a charge of violating "blue laws" by selling a can of tomato soup on Sunday. He showed it was for a pregnant woman who could retain no other food. The court concluded therefore that the sale was an "act of mercy."

Bah, Bah Red Sheep

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Dave H. Alderson wasn't kidding when he asked the sheriff's office to find 400 striped sheep for him.

Anderson told officers he was rounding up more than 1,000 sheep for shearing when he discovered 400 head missing. They weren't branded, he said, but would be easy to identify. Each had a smear of red paint across its back to mark for shearing.

A FAR CRY from the bulky office switchboard is this device called the "call director." Michigan Bell installed its first one in Plymouth recently at the Travel Centre. The push-button mechanism can handle up to 29 phones (shown is an 18-phone unit). One of these units is placed at each desk and switches calls to other phones or it can be used as an intercom system. Shown is Denny Hanks, reservations manager, serving as his own operator.

Of Course I'm a Good Driver - - Just Ask Me

Opinion polls and surveys of the driving public have consistently indicated that some 99 per cent consider themselves "average" or better drivers. The principal reason for rating themselves so competently is the fact that these drivers have never had an accident in many years of driving.

In short, most people believe that "accidents happen to the other drivers who are not as competent as myself." This poses a serious problem to traffic safety workers who know from accident analysis that drivers are not as good as they should be, and that accidents can happen to anyone. Drivers involved in most fatal accidents, for example, have no prior accident record.

While the traffic accident problem has many complexities, the most difficult to do anything about is the individual driver. The fact that it is the individual driver, and not the highway or the vehicle which is the basic cause of most accidents seems to carry little conviction except to traffic safety workers.

Since September of last year, the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police have been conducting an educational program aimed at voluntary compliance with traffic laws. Based on Michigan's accident facts, which show that traffic violations contribute as a cause in 8 out of 10 fatal accidents, the association attempted to call the public's attention to the traffic law violations which occur most frequently in these fatal accidents. These violations are: ignoring stop signs and signals; driving too fast for conditions; drinking and driving; driving too closely to the car ahead; wandering out of the proper lane and failure to yield the right of way.

With the close of this phase of their public education program, the police chiefs are turning their attention to some of the concepts which the average or better than average drivers hold, particularly those concepts which apply to traffic enforcement.

With the aid of a simple leaflet now being distributed throughout the state through local police departments and the state police, "good" drivers are given a brief quiz related to what they know about traffic laws and accidents. The quiz presents eight statements to be answered "true" or "false" based on publicly held concepts as revealed by the opinion polls. As the leaflet points out, there is no "passing" score for this quiz, but the good driver should be able to answer all statements correctly. Those which are missed may indicate a deficiency in the knowledge or attitude a driver needs to be both good and safe, a deficiency which may become a contributing cause in an accident.

Quantities of this leaflet may be secured by schools, organizations and citizen groups for distribution to their members. Anyone interested should contact Police Chief Kenneth Fisher of Plymouth.

Hospital Auxiliary Reveals Unique Publicity Plan

A unique plan for explaining the activities of the Northville Community General Hospital auxiliary was outlined at a meeting of the auxiliary members last week.

Describing the plan was Mrs. Lorne Dyer, chairman of the auxiliary's Ways and Means committee.

Mrs. Dyer suggested that each auxiliary member ask the first 50 people encountered in the next 11 days for a dime. The anticipated response of "What for?" will provide the auxiliary member with an ideal opportunity to explain the auxiliary's origin, functions and goals. The meeting was held at Our Lady of Victory Church Monday night of last week.

Mrs. Dyer cited a current project being undertaken by the auxiliary. Members staff the admittance desk at the Community General Hospital (formerly Sessions).

Adventist Officers Attend Regional Federation Meet

Officers of the Dorcas Welfare Society of the Plymouth Seventh-day Adventist Church attended a regional federation meeting in Detroit, on Monday. President of the local society is Mrs. Wayne VanOrman, 41090 Ann Arbor Rd., and the secretary is Mrs. Francis Patterson, 11820 Jarvis, Livonia.

The session began at 10 a.m. with delegates from Ann Arbor, five church societies in Detroit, Farmington, Fenton, Plymouth, Pontiac and Port Huron reporting on the activities of their societies during the past six-month period.

Mrs. Allan Breakie, from Ypsilanti, president of the federation, opened the all-day session, and the secretary, Mrs. Patterson, called for the reports. Also leading the meeting was H.D. Burbank of Lansing and the Adventist welfare director for Michigan.

Guest speakers for the afternoon were representatives from the state civil defense organization in Lansing.

They showed colored slides on the Russian civil defense system and reminded all present of the individual's responsibility in being prepared for disaster or enemy attack.

The fall meeting will be held in Pontiac in October.

Parasite Kills Eskimos

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)—A disease caused by parasitic worms has killed at least four Eskimos in Alaska during the past year.

Dr. Robert Rausch, a research scientist at the Arctic Research Center in Anchorage, said the disease so far has been found only in the native population. Avolar hydatid, the responsible parasite, has caused a death almost everytime it was found.

hydrant, so last week Bida erected a barricade over the hydrant with the message: "Palmer—This hydrant has been here for years. So Be Aware." Bida, left, threatened to leave it up several weeks, but it lasted only a few hours.

Warns of Rusty Water Probability

JOHN L. NORMAN

Several weeks ago, our Department of Public Works Superintendent sent letters to every water user in the city explaining the steps we are taking to ensure that the best water possible is available for the people of Plymouth. The most important item in this letter concerned the most recent step we have instituted, namely, the addition of a polyphosphate to city water. The purpose of this new additive is to reduce and ultimately to eliminate the problem of rusty water from our water system.

The rusty water problem is relatively new for the City of Plymouth. Our population has grown over the years, and the water consumption has increased as well. Consequently, we had to dig a new well. This new well, on Six Mile Rd., has a relatively high concentration of minerals in solution, and as water from the well is pumped into the mains, iron deposits drop out and adhere to the water mains.

Then as more water surges through the mains, these deposits flake off and cause a rusty coloration in the water. This happens most often when a heavy demand is made on our mains, for example, when hydrants are opened for flushing, and during the summer months when water consumption is higher because of lawn watering and increased building construction throughout the city.

The polyphosphate which is being added to our water is a tasteless, colorless and harmless chemical which keeps the iron particles in solution. This means that no rust flakes will drop out and form on the water mains. The chemical has the added advantage of dissolving the rust flakes that have already formed on the water mains, thus cleaning them over a period of time. After the chemical has worked through our water lines for a long enough time, our rust problem will be ended. However, it takes a while for this to happen.

The initial phase of this project will take about four to six weeks during which time the worst of the deposits will be eliminated. The complete cleaning action may actually take several years. However, after the first few weeks, the rusty water will be eliminated for all practical purposes.

One factor in this clean-up of water mains should be stressed. The initial four to six weeks of the polyphosphate treatment may result in an increase in the rusty condition of our water. This is to be expected. Although rust may not occur, it is quite probable.

There may be an increase in the rust for a short time, because in order to clean they must be flushed systematically. Thus, the polyphosphate will loosen the rust accumulation from the sides of the water mains and, with extensive flushing, the increased surge of water will break off the loosened rust particles causing rusty water.

It is anticipated that the hydrant flushing will be done at night when water use throughout the community is at a minimum. This will reduce the chances of individual inconvenience as much as possible. When the period of hydrant flushing is ended, we should have clean, rust-free water.

So, please bear with us while we undertake this project. We feel the ultimate results will warrant the slight inconvenience which may occur for the first few weeks.

By Bill Nelson

One of the problems of having too much talent, we are told, is that of making many decisions on how to use which talent and where to direct most of one's available energy.

What brings the thought to mind is the case of Plymouth senior Randy Egloff. Football coaches around the country have shown interest in his football ability. Any team could do worse than have him as their quarterback.

It's baseball season now, and at the opening Plymouth game against Thurston four major league representatives watched the husky left-hander strike out eight of the first nine who faced him.

He tired later in the game, but this may have been due to the fact that he only recently returned from a trip East where one of the nation's most prominent schools hosted him.

Any college, of course, would love to have his generalship performing for its colors on the basketball court. He'd make an excellent college guard. However, basketball is sort of an added benefit that Randy can throw into any bargain. Few colleges chase after basketball players with the same support that they offer grid heroes.

Without considering his scholarship ability the choice would seem to lie between a professional baseball career (where the inducements can be tremendous) and a college education with either baseball or football possible later as a career.

Randy is no ordinary student, however, and it is here that he has another consideration that doesn't face many athletes. Near the top of his class, he has the additional concern of where he can get the best education; where his academic talent can best be developed.

Another thought is that maybe the talents can somehow all be combined.

Dave Middleton is a doctor; Branch Rickey, a lawyer, and Casey Stengel, a California banker. Even Dwight Eisenhower was once a West Point football player.

Like all of Plymouth, we'll be wishing Randy well in whatever he decides.

That sport where one chases the little white spheroid around with a stick is in full bloom. Plymouth has three golf courses, including the private Fox Hills. The other two are public courses and a check with their owners reveals that they are in top-notch shape.

At Brae-Burn, on Phoenix Rd. west of Plymouth, the season has begun, explained Mrs. Fred Block, wife of one of the owners.

The fees: $1.50 for nine holes or $2 for 18 during the week and $2 for nine or $2.75 for 18 on weekends and holidays. Brae-Burn's twilight rates (after 4 p.m.) are $1.25 weekdays and $1.50 other times.

The par 68 layout drained well recently, Mrs. Block explained, and the course is in good shape, she said. The greens have been mowed and the fairways, fertilized last fall, are coming along fast.

Some 20 leagues began last week.

Brae-Burn was enlarged to 18 holes in 1957 and has become a favorite of many local golfers.

At Hilltop, on Ann Arbor Trail west of Plymouth, Chris Burghardt opened his par 34 course on March 21 just as he has in past years.

"We got through the winter well," he said. "The greens are in good shape and we've already seeded and fertilized the tees."

"We're ahead of last year," he added.

A Plymouth Businessman's League began April 13 and nine leagues will be underway by May 1, he reported.

Burghardt, owner and operator of Hilltop, plans to install a watering system for the fairways later this year or early in 1961 and hopes to construct a par-3 hole in the triangle of land between Powell Rd. and Ann Arbor Trail in the near future.

His rates: $1.50 for nine or $2 for 18 during the week and $1.75 for nine or $2.75 for 18 during the weekends and on holidays.

Too Much, Too Soon

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — San Mateo County Deputy Sheriff Don Coslett was puzzled at the way traffic seemed to be moving much faster than it should.

He stopped three obvious speeders, but in each case the driver vehemently denied exceeding the limit. Coslett decided to check his speedometer with that of a Highway Patrol car. Sure enough, when the patrol car was going 65 miles an hour, Coslett's car registered 80.

Industrialist Andrew Carnegie, who said "to die rich is to die disgraced," gave away $350,000,000 before his death in 1919.

HELPING Central Michigan University, in Mt. Pleasant, get off to a fast baseball start this spring was Ken Knipschild, former Plymouth hurling ace and now a sophomore at Central Michigan. Knipschild (right) is 1-0 so far this season and claims a sparkling 0.69 earned run average after 13 innings. He allowed only five hits, one earned run and struck out 16. The Chips opened with six wins in seven starts. With Knipschild is Chips Coach Bill Theunissen (left) and Jim Boron, Dearborn sophomore.

Tell the Kingston Trio

BOSTON (UPI) — The Metropolitan Transit Authority, which operates Boston's rapid transit service, has decided to abandon its "Owl" service. This will be dropped effective June 25 as an economy move. The MTA said it cost $287,114 last year to run the service between 2 a.m. and 5 a.m. while income from this source was only $37,212.

Busy, Busy, Busy

WEATHERFORD, Okla. (UPI) — Jerry Garret and Jo Anna Hibler were named outstanding students at nearby Southwestern State College.

Asked if they planned a celebration they agreed, "It takes too much time and we're too busy." Members of the student senate elected them on the basis of their many activities.

Two Run Rally In Last Inning Wins For PHS

A two run rally in the bottom of the fifth inning saved Randy Egloff's penning four-hit pitching performance past Thurston 5-4 last week in the opening game of the season.

Trailing 4-3 as they came to bat for the last time in the bottom of the seventh inning, Plymouth promptly put together a rally.

Centerfielder John Salan singled and was moved to third when shortstop Jim Talston doubled. Salan came home on an infield out by Egloff. Ralston scored with the winning run moments later on an infield out by right-fielder Kaiser.

Plymouth had jumped on Thurston pitcher Frank Fantangelo for two runs in the first inning when Kaiser boomed a home run with John Salan on bases.

The Rocks added another run in the third. The three-run lead held until the bottom of the fifth when Thurston tallied one run. They added three more in the bottom half of the sixth to go ahead 4-3, as Egloff appeared to tire.

Runners Beat Belleville

Plymouth's track team split two meets at home last week, losing the opener to Redford Union 48 1-3 to 60-2-3 and winning two days later 72½-36½ from Belleville.

Mud, rain and wind were prevalent in the Redford Union meet, as Redford Union opened the season by sweeping the high hurdles and winning the medley relay.

In the third event of the day, Bill Hall won the 100 for Plymouth in 10.7. Lee Feldkamp was third. At Davies followed Hall's example and won the half-mile in 2:11.5. Dave Westover was third.

Captain Don Williams won the 440 in 57.0 and Dave Hauk placed second. John Stephenson added a third in the low hurdles. Bill Hall was first in the 220 with a 24.6 and Lee Feldkamp was second.

Tony Hunt grabbed a second in the mile. Plymouth's 880 relay team composed of Hall, Feldkamp, Jim Carney and Williams won this event, and Gary Hondorp leaped to a second place tie in the high jump. Bill Brown was second in the pole vault and Bill Hall was second in the shot put. In the broad jump Williams was second and Brown third.

In the Belleville meet warm weather prevailed and Plymouth rebounded for its first win of the season.

Dale Gulbrandson was second in the shotput and Hall tied for third. Don Williams won the broad jump with a 19 foot two inch leap and Brown was second.

Chuck Bowers tied for second in the high jump and Brown on the pole vault with an eleven foot effort. Stephenson was third in the high hurdles.

run lead held until the bottom of the fifth when Thurston tallied one run. They added three more in the bottom half of the sixth to go ahead 4-3, as Egloff appeared to tire.

The big Rock lefthander had things pretty much to himself for the first three innings, striking out eight of the first nine batters that faced him. Four major league scouts, including visitors from San Francisco and Philadelphia, watched the proceedings.

When it was all over, Randy had given up four hits and four runs. His mates made three errors. He struck out eleven and walked one and hit one.

The four-man Plymouth unit shot identical 187 totals in both meets, while Redford Union shot a 206 at Western match at Braeburn.

McAllister was supported in both meets by Dave Rank, Dick Gretzinger and John Augustine. Other members of the 1960 squad were announced today by Coach John Sandmann. They are: Steve Hayskar, Tom Fletcher, Ron Peck, Ron Sawyer, Bill Rew, Jim Izett and Dave Green.

New Voices Hail Tigers

Detroit Tiger fans everywhere this week got their first opportunity to hear Ernie Harwell and George Kell combine talents to announce the Tigers' league baseball games.

The two conduct the radio and TV commentary on home and away games.

Harwell, 41, has 21 years in radio-television work. He has been with three other major league baseball clubs prior to arriving in Detroit this year.

Kell is remembered from his playing days with the Tigers and last year teamed with Van Patrick in calling the play-by-play of the Tigers ball club.

Stroh Brewery Company, of Detroit, is the new Detroit Tiger game sponsor.

Better Late Than Never

BURDEN, Kan. (UPI)—Mrs. Elmer Tredway of Burden had to pay two cents postage due recently on a post card bearing a one-cent stamp. But the post card bore the one-cent postage legally.

The catch was that the card had been mailed in Topeka April 22, 1949, when post cards required only one-cent postage. The 11-year-late card notified Mrs. Tredway that reports of the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary were due in Topeka immediately.

5 Mill Sinking Fund Asked

borrowing two years in advance would be around $108,000. But the interest cost of borrowing $2,000,000 by issuing bonds would be $650,000.

The net savings, the Board figures, would therefore be $540,000. The Board assumes that taxpayers are eager to get as much as they can with their tax dollars and elimination of interest payments would help accomplish this goal.

The present 2.5 mill building and site sinking fund has accomplished much during its three year existence. Paid for, without interest, has been the $62,000 Administration Building, additions and alterations to the High School costing $185,000 and the purchase of a new junior high site at $85,000.

Also planned from the levy this summer are alterations at the Senior High costing $112,000 and additions to Starkweather, Smith and Bird Elementary schools that will cost about $264,000.

The second junior high should be ready to open in September 1962, the Board believes. All ninth graders would be placed in a Junior high, thus relieving the Senior High overcrowding at that time.

But to have the second junior high ready by September 1962, it is necessary to get money appropriated soon so that plans can be drawn up and approved. Ground would probably be broken next Spring.

Township, City

Board advised him that they had had no contact with the City concerning the terms and conditions of extending water.

Two weeks ago the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors entered the affair by writing a letter to both bodies, asking that all effort be made toward an agreement, since new homes mean more trade in the area.

The Township's letter to the City stated: "Will you please arrange to have these forwarded to us at an early date, as it is our understanding that Garling Construction is anxious to start the planning for their project. We appreciate your offer of assistance toward the water problems of our Township and assure you of our continued cooperation in matters of mutual interest to our community."

In other matters before the Township Board, it was decided not to adopt state legislation that would permit establishment of local liquor control enforcement. New legislation allows townships to enforce liquor laws themselves and to obtain 85 percent of certain liquor fees from the state.

But the Township Board felt that the State Police and Road Patrol are both doing an adequate job at the few establishments located in the Township, not making a change worthwhile.

There was further discussion about furnishing water to residents along Wilcox Rd. The Board has decided to grant the request, but figures will now be secure concerning the cost.

The Board has set the date of June 1 for opening Township Fire Station No. 2, located on Schoolcraft Rd. The hall will be used for a polling place for Township Precinct 1.

Co-Chairman John Kerciu explained that the success of a variety of planned charitable activities of the Plymouth Lions Club will hinge on the success of the drive. Bill West is the other co-chairman.

The history of the Lions Leader Dogs for the Blind School in Rochester is a tribute to the sincerity of the Lions Clubs across the state. Its sole job is to train canines to be seeing-eye dogs for the blind.

More than 1,000 dogs have been graduated by the school since its origin more than two decades ago. The school is now supported by Michigan Lions Clubs, the Michigan United Fund, and numerous groups and individuals.

Any Lions Club may offer the services of a leader dog for the blind, without obligation. And Lions Club members, too, may offer these services as individuals.

A fully trained unit (master and dog), harness, board and room, training of the dog, and other allied expenses, costs the Leader Dog School approximately $1,500.

Question of Local Bidders Again Faces Commission

The old controversy of whether to accept the low bid of an out-of-town firm or a higher bid of a local company has again come before the City Commission.

This time it involves the laying of a 16-inch water main from Mill St. to Haggerty Rd., a distance of over three-quarters of a mile.

There were 10 bids on the project with the low bid coming from S. Weissman Excavating Co., Inc., of Detroit. Their bid was $78,999.

The second lowest bid of $74,759 was from Clinan-Smith Bros., a Plymouth excavating firm. This is a difference of $766.

Last year the City Commission passed a resolution stating that local labor and people would be given preference when bids were competitive. This resolution was pointed out by two citizens who appeared in behalf of Clinan-Smith.

One of them, J.D. McLaren, noted that he and other subcontractors had a difficult time getting their money when Weissman was contractor for a local subdivision.

In a letter from Herald Hamill, the city's engineer for the job, Weissman was recommended for the job.

Mayor Harold Guenther said that while the Commission did approve a resolution asking that local bidders be selected whenever possible the Commission still had to have a justifiable reason for turning down a low bid when $766 is involved.

There was also question of whether it was legal to reject a low bid.

As a result of the discussion, a motion was approved to table action until a special meeting next Monday.

The water main is one that will replace a smaller one now going eastward as far as Burroughs Corp. It will not only give Burroughs a bigger supply, but also will supply other future industrial users across the road from Burroughs.

Bids on the project went as high as $126,537.

The Wayne County Board of Auditors notified the City Commission that the cost of jailing prisoners in the Wayne County jail has gone up from no charge to $4.50 a day. Plymouth seldom uses the county jail, except for women prisoners.

But City Commissioners, feeling that the City should obtain some free service from the County because of County taxes local people pay, decided to reciprocate. They voted to charge the County $4.50 a day for the use of the City jail. On occasions, the Road Patrol will bring a prisoner to the City jail.

Permission was given to the Veterans of Foreign Wars for veterans to stage a parade on Memorial Day on downtown streets.

Young Bicyclists

Bike Rodeo is a further effort to emphasize bicycle safety in Plymouth.

In this same vein, Plymouth police, have made appearances at all Plymouth elementary schools, speaking on bicycle safety and the vital importance of it.

At the Rodeo Saturday, Plymouth Director of Public Safety Kenneth Fisher will supervise the bicycle inspection. He once again this week reminded all local children and parents to be sure bicycles are in A-1 condition, not only for the rodeo but also for normal everyday use.

In addition to the Evans bicycle as grand prize, 25 other prizes will also be given away to various other winners, explained Rodeo Chairman Bill Baumgartner, an Optimist club member.

A trophy will be presented to the grade school having the greatest number of student entries in the rodeo, Baumgartner added.

Last year's school winner was Our Lady of Good Counsel.

WHY NOT?—Not only Del Vermillion, but the rest of the citizens of Fox River, Ill., are ready to talk boating. The local river flooded the area, including this boat shop.

Former Cancer Victim Stresses Importance of Immediate Check

Cancer and Christianity! These are the two driving forces that have influenced the life of 30-year-old R. James Mitchell since the time he was 16 and discovered he had cancer of the mouth.

Fourteen years later he speaks with no trace of impediment, was a speech and drama major at Michigan State University and is deeply interested in his work as choirmaster of St. John's Episcopal Church.

Mitchell, personnel manager for the Associated Spring Corporation B-G-R Division, on Plymouth Rd., was a junior at the Ottawa Hills High School, Grand Rapids, when he noticed a bulging on the side of his mouth above the eye tooth. He told his parents immediately and an appointment was made with his dentist, an oral surgeon, who removed the growth which proved to be non-malignant.

Three weeks later, however, another growth, five to six times as large as the first, appeared at the same spot. His dentist removed three teeth and scraped the side of the jaw bone. It was diagnosed as cancer of the bone.

Jim's father, a surgeon, took him to see the late Dr. Ferris Smith, a world-renowned plastic surgeon, who suggested the boy be taken either to the John Hopkins Clinic or the Mayo Clinic.

At the Mayo Clinic the diagnosis was cancer of the fibrous tissue rather than that of the bone which meant that the surgical procedure would not be as difficult and the potential results better.

Arriving at Mayo's on a Monday, young Mitchell underwent surgery the following Wednesday with high frequency cauterizing of the entire upper right jawbone and removal of teeth in that area. The operation was performed in January, Mitchell says, and by March or April he returned to the Mayo Clinic when they removed the bone in the roof of his mouth. A plate was made by June of that year.

Mitchell continued to return to the Mayo Clinic every six months for two years and then was discharged as cured. However, for the following four years he continued to see Dr. Smith.

What are the after effects of cancer?

It has made him more than aware of the fact that cancer can be cured if it is discovered in time. He sees his doctor at least once a year for a physical check-up and sees to it that his wife, Lois, and two children, Cindy, 5½, and Mary 3½, have the same check-up. The whole family is bundled off to the dentist too at least twice a year. As yet, one - and - one - half year old Richard isn't old enough for the routine but his turn will come, his father remarked.

Tall, dark, affable, Mitchell speaks of cancer and Christianity as easily as most men speak of last night's poker winnings. He believes he is lucky he told his parents of the growth when he did and fervently believes that "health is a God-given gift and if you do not use your intellect to take care of it, you are not being fair to God."

His faith in Christianity is just as strong as his belief that cancer can be cured if detected in time.

"I'm always going around the plant preaching cancer check-ups," he said, and "believe the work the Michigan Cancer Foundation, Torch Drive Agency, is doing in teaching people the seven danger signals of cancer is wonderful." He has volunteered to help the Foundation during its current Cancer Crusade.

There are two emphatic points he makes when speaking on the subject of cancer. One is that "people need have no fear as long as they are in the hands of a competent surgeon," and two, "because people have cancer it is not necessarily a death warrant."

THE REMOVAL of most of his palate, due to cancer of the mouth, doesn't deter R. James Mitchell of Plymouth in being an active choirmaster at St. John's Episcopal Church. Jim joins the Michigan Cancer Foundation this month in urging everyone to "Don't Just Hope—Be Sure! Get a Cancer Check-up!" Above he is seen talking with his rector, the Rev. David T. Davies, as they discuss the new structure communicants had hoped to worship in Easter Sunday. Parking facilities are not yet completed, the rector stated, so they'll wait awhile. The Michigan Cancer Foundation is a Community Fund Agency.

Hospital Ward C-24 Never Forgotten

The night before the second Wednesday of each month, women patients in Ward C-24 at Northville State Hospital start getting ready. They comb their hair and lay out their dresses, for it's the next day that members of the Hospital Service Group of the Plymouth Woman's Club come.

Every month—the second Wednesday—the 10-member group arrives at Ward C-24. This habit is now in its eighth year. The patients have learned to expect their visitors without a miss, and the Woman's Club group never lets them down.

The visit usually lasts from 1 to 3:30 p.m. and the patients can always expect a full afternoon of entertainment. It is more than a casual event.

Members of the group meet once a month to plan for their visit. They must decide what decorations to use, the type of entertainment, and who will furnish refreshments.

A typical afternoon consists of the playing of games, such as cards or bingo, making things, and serving refreshments, such as tea and cake.

All the entertainment must first be cleared with hospital authorities, however, since it must not conflict with therapeutic methods.

Every patient's birthday is observed during a year's time. Given are such things as blouses, hose, and scarfs. The patient often states her wishes in advance.

Mrs. John Hanson is chairman of the Hospital Service Group. Each month, a different member takes charge of the visit. Some of them have been members during the group's entire seven years of existence.

Other members are Mrs. A.K. Brocklehurst, Mrs. L.B. Rice, Mrs. James Latture, Mrs. Ralph West, Mrs. Earl Russell, Mrs. Ralph Lorenz, Mrs. G.A. Lundquist, Mrs. Richard Jones and Mrs. Vaughn Smith.

All members of the Woman's Club volunteer to bake cakes, cookies and make other refreshments for the group's visit.

Last Wednesday was a special occasion in the ward. Presented to the patients was a stereo photograph. They accepted the gift with applause and jubilation.

Twenty dollars was presented toward the phonograph by members of Girl Scout Troop 500, sponsored by the Woman's Club.

The centerpiece for the table had a Spring and Easter theme. Delicately-made flowers and Easter eggs were "planted" in the centerpiece and intricately decorated hats surrounded the base.

Next month, being May, will have a maypole centerpiece. Each month it will be something different.

As the months roll on, members of the service group notice that some familiar faces among the patients are gone and new ones are there to replace them.

It is assumed that some of the "missing faces" are again normal members of society. And if they are, it is probable that the friendly hand offered by the Woman's Club Hospital Service Group had a share in helping them take the step outside.

Local Couple Attend Freedom Congress Meet

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pursell, of Bradner Road, returned home recently after spending a week in Columbus, Ohio, attending the Ninth Annual National session of The Congress of Freedom.

Pursell is national president of the organization. The convention was held at the Desley-Hilton Hotel in Columbus.

Numerous associations from across the United States were represented at the week-long affair.

Among the guest speakers was former Detroit John Noble who has written two books. They are entitled "I Was A Slave in Russia" and "I Found God in Russia".

Another speaker was Professor Revilo P. Oliver of the University of Illinois. Jessica Wyatt Payne, secretary of the Congress of Freedom and a member of the West Virginia legislature, spoke on education.

Pursell opened and closed the session and spoke briefly.

Three luncheons and a banquet were held during the week. A religious service, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Pursell, was held Sunday. It included the presentation of the slides "Flags of American Liberty" which Pursell has also shown here.

Pursell will speak Tuesday at noon at the Tuller Hotel in Detroit. He will discuss the Connally Amendment.

Jerry Seibert Says . . .

(Editor's Note: This is another in the regular weekly column titled "Jerry Seibert Says" written by well-known author and lecturer Miss Jerry Seibert. Occasionally, as a change of pace, Miss Seibert will answer questions submitted by her readers. This is such a question and answer column, the first to appear in this new series here.)

"ANY QUESTIONS?"

Dear Jerry: My husband gave me an expensive green (his favorite color) sweater. It makes my light blue eyes look washed out. I can't hurt his feelings by returning it, but he will hate the way I look. So will I. Mrs. E.H.K.

A turquoise scarf or beads (any shade from sky-blue to deep parakeet) will bring out the color of your eyes and be a top-fashion color combination. Underscore it with turquoise or blue-green eye-shadow and eye-liner.

Dear Jerry: I have a new pink suit with elbow length sleeves. What length and color gloves would be smartest? Mary M.

This season's smartest glove, for any going color or sleeve, is an eight-button length (worn slightly crushed) in one of the new pale beige tones.

Dear Jerry: Why are all the clothes in the high fashion magazines so extreme? Average women can't wear such things. If they did they would look ridiculous. Mrs. J.T.V.

Today's extreme fashion is tomorrow's accepted fashion. The most famous designers—American and European—are usually one to three years ahead of the average woman. Their big "openings" are really trend-setting shows. Some of the ideas will die a quick death. Some were only meant to get attention. Others will be modified a bit and gradually accepted as being "what the average woman is wearing."

Dear Jerry: It never fails! Winter always gives my skin the same "spring look"—pure sandpaper. It feels like sandpaper, too. I even hate to take a bath before I go out, I feel so scratchy afterward. (It's really miserable trying to sit through a meeting, or play bridge, when you itch all over.) I have a family and no time for a long beauty routine. Mrs. C.H.R.

Winter cold, and overheated rooms, can be a real menace to delicate, dry skins. Bathing washes away more of the natural protective oils. Sardo, a new liquid-bath preparation, is designed to prevent this. It couldn't be simpler to use. Just fill the bottle cap with Sardo. Empty into a tub of warm water. Lie back so you are immersed clear up to your neck and relax for two minutes. After bathing, lie back again for a couple of minutes. That's all. The bath does all the work.

Dear Jerry: What is the best way to use perfume so the scent will last but not be overpowering? Miss A.N.G.

Don't expect too much from too little, and don't concentrate perfume in one or two spots. Put a drop on pulse points: temples, throat, wrists, and insides of elbows and knees. After dressing spray clothing and hair. Hair oils act as a fixative and hold the best coverage. Final touch:—a bit of perfumed cotton in your bra.

Dear Jerry: The deodorant I use was once most effective. Now it doesn't seem to work. Could it be me, or have they changed the formula? How can I tell? Mrs. H.F.D.

Many people find that their deodorant, which once worked perfectly, is no longer effective. Perhaps for reasons of body and chemical change. I suggest you try other brands until you again find a deodorant that works well for you.

(Miss Seibert welcomes questions from her readers. Simply address your queries in care of this newspaper.)

Former Resident's Book Praised By Evangelist

Mrs. Nettie E. Lewis, the former Plymouth resident now living in St. Petersburg, Fla., has received high praise for a book she penned, "Lord of the Harvest."

Dr. Hyman Appelmann, a leading preacher and evangelist and at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, wrote Mrs. Lewis that he is sponsoring the book in all of his Bible conferences this year from coast-to-coast.

The book concerns the relation of Christianity and Judaism.

"Mrs. Nettie E. Lewis has written one of the challenging books of this generation in 'Lord of the Harvest,' Dr. Appelmann said. 'I have never read so thought provoking a book, so interesting, with such significance, a book that would provide so much source material for preachers and teachers.'"

Mrs. Lewis has furnished a copy of the book to Dunning-Hough Library.

Poor TV Picture May Result from Faulty Antenna

When the Marshal starts his walk down a dusty main street on your TV screen, is there a crowd of wispy stand-ins walking behind him?

And those video scenes of beautiful girls lolling about a sunny beach in bathing suits—do they seem to be standing in a snowstorm?

The trouble may not be in your set... nor in the station or network.

Chances are, your "ghosts" and "snow" are caused by faulty antenna performance. And no amount of foot-stamping or set-banging will correct these irritations.

They both can be relieved—and even totally eliminated—with a proper antenna.

Ghosts can occur in strong or weak reception areas. They appear when your antenna picks up one signal directly from the station's transmitter, and a split second later—gets an identical signal which has bounced off a building or hill. Thus, two or more separate pictures appear on your screen.

Mom 'Slaves' Most
NEW YORK (UPI) — Father occasionally performs with a flourish at the barbecue, but day in, day out Mom still does most of the "slaving over a hot stove."

The latest study on home dining and entertainment habits was among 199 homemakers. Only in 22 per cent of the homes did Dad assist with cooking and serving. The children helped even less, performing serving chores in less than 10 per cent of the homes. The study was made by a Boston firm (Cornwall Corp.) which makes electrical serving equipment.

Bottle-fed Babies
NEW YORK (UPI) — A factor in the continuing decline of the number of new mothers who breast-feed their infants is the short time available after birth in the relative peace and calm of the hospital, the Nutrition Foundation reports.

Most American mothers and infants are discharged from the hospital in five days or less.

Difficult for Mom to Drive With Children in Back Seat

By Olive Allen
Since the woman driver acts as chauffeur of the family a lot during the week, she is often operating a car under difficult conditions. Driving to the supermarket or shopping center is the least of her worries.

With so many things on her mind and with perhaps being worn out from a busy schedule, it is a wonder "wifey" drives as well as she does. If traffic is heavy and there's a lot of stopping, starting and honking, she may become nearly frantic.

A particular problem is keeping peace in the back seat. Even the best behaved children in the world, if they are healthy, will have to let off steam and cut up at times. However, they can be taught certain rules that must not be broken.

First of all, children should never annoy the driver or interfere with her in any way. This means no climbing over the back of the front seat and no throwing things.

Youngsters must be taught to sit down in a car. Sudden stops could cause a bad head injury. Never crowd so many, even children, that there isn't a seat for each one. Older ones can keep an eye on the youngest, so Mom can keep her eyes on the road.

All car doors should be locked when everyone is in the car, so there will be no danger of a door opening suddenly and someone falling out. Windows shouldn't be rolled down all the way since one of the kids might fall out.

If pets are brought along, they also must be taught manners. When children get excited, dogs are apt to feel excitement. This may result in annoying barking or jumping around in such a way as to bother the driver.

Children usually are good in a car if the trip is a short one. However, a long trip or a long wait in traffic or at the station means trouble. Why not permit each child to take along some book or toy or game to amuse himself with, so the chauffeur can concentrate on her driving?

bought a new set, but the same antenna has been up on the roof, taking the ravages of wind and rain, storm and snow. Transmission wires, insulators or other accessories may be frayed, worn, or broken. The antenna itself, originally a finely engineered instrument, may have been bent, broken or corroded by time and the elements. When an antenna ages, an immediate improvement in picture quality is usually obtained by its replacement.

If your TV set is about the same age as your neighbor's, and his picture is decidedly better than yours, it's a safe bet that consulting your local TV serviceman about a new antenna would be a wise move.

Today's antennas are better designed and better made. However, even with modern design no single antenna-type works fine in one location or another location just as well as another location, there are literally hundreds of different antennas from which to choose. "Yagis," "Conicals," "Fans," "Bow-Ties," "Corner Reflectors," and variations of each, are all familiar terms to your local TV serviceman. Each has a specific function to meet local needs.

Indoor antennas are effective only under the best reception conditions, and are often poorly made and little better than no antenna at all. Here again, check with your serviceman, and be sure the antenna you buy is a reputable brand.

Many people live in areas where they obtain TV reception from more than one direction. They accomplish this in one of two ways. In the coupling system, two or more antennas are fixed to the mast, each permanently aimed at a certain station. When you change channels, you switch from one antenna to another, manually or automatically. With a rotator, you normally use only one antenna—one that can receive all the channels. The rotator, operated by an electric motor, turns the entire antenna to face in the direction of the particular station you want to receive.

If you are now getting top quality reception on your black and white set, chances are your present antenna will give you good color reception. However, if your reception is not perfect on all channels, chances are you'll have more trouble with color. Therefore, if you're planning on a color set, a more suitable antenna may be needed for best results.

Your television antenna is more than "that contraption of tubing and rods on the roof." It's a scientifically constructed and engineered instrument that makes the difference between good and bad television pictures.

(1) Distance from the TV station. If you live in a primary area (one relatively close to the station), antenna selection is a less exacting task. This also is the only area where you may be able to satisfactorily use an indoor or built-in antenna. In a secondary or fringe area, you'll need a more powerful antenna.

(2) What type of terrain do you live in? Television waves travel in a straight line. If there are hills between your set and the transmitter, you may well need a more powerful antenna than the distance would indicate.

(3) Are there tall buildings or hills around you? Even if you live in a primary area, you can still have trouble with ghosts.

(4) How many stations can you get? There are antennas designed to receive one channel, several channels or all channels, depending on the particular area.

(5) If future stations are planned in your area, make sure you're prepared for them. No use putting up a single or two channel antenna when another station may soon be broadcasting.

One of the newest developments is the "Traveling Wave" model. It electronically reinforces picture signals on all VHF stations to eliminate "snow" effectively rejects unwanted signals and "venetian blind" patterns. It pulls well in near-fringe and deep-fringe areas.

However, because reception conditions vary so widely, and because in some areas an antenna which may not work half as well at another location just as well as another location, there are literally hundreds of different antennas from which to choose. "Yagis," "Conicals," "Fans," "Bow-Ties," "Corner Reflectors," and variations of each, are all familiar terms to your local TV serviceman. Each has a specific function to meet local needs.

Many people live in areas where they obtain TV reception from more than one direction. They accomplish this in one of two ways. In the coupling system, two or more antennas are fixed to the mast, each permanently aimed at a certain station. When you change channels, you switch from one antenna to another, manually or automatically. With a rotator, you normally use only one antenna—one that can receive all the channels. The rotator, operated by an electric motor, turns the entire antenna to face in the direction of the particular station you want to receive.

If you are now getting top quality reception on your black and white set, chances are your present antenna will give you good color reception. However, if your reception is not perfect on all channels, chances are you'll have more trouble with color. Therefore, if you're planning on a color set, a more suitable antenna may be needed for best results.

Your television antenna is more than "that contraption of tubing and rods on the roof." It's a scientifically constructed and engineered instrument that makes the difference between good and bad television pictures.

(1) Distance from the TV station. If you live in a primary area (one relatively close to the station), antenna selection is a less exacting task. This also is the only area where you may be able to satisfactorily use an indoor or built-in antenna. In a secondary or fringe area, you'll need a more powerful antenna.

(2) What type of terrain do you live in? Television waves travel in a straight line. If there are hills between your set and the transmitter, you may well need a more powerful antenna than the distance would indicate.

(3) Are there tall buildings or hills around you? Even if you live in a primary area, you can still have trouble with ghosts.

(4) How many stations can you get? There are antennas designed to receive one channel, several channels or all channels, depending on the particular area.

(5) If future stations are planned in your area, make sure you're prepared for them. No use putting up a single or two channel antenna when another station may soon be broadcasting.

One of the newest developments is the "Traveling Wave" model. It electronically reinforces picture signals on all VHF stations to eliminate "snow" effectively rejects unwanted signals and "venetian blind" patterns. It pulls well in near-fringe and deep-fringe areas.

However, because reception conditions vary so widely, and because in some areas an antenna which may not work half as well at another location just as well as another location, there are literally hundreds of different antennas from which to choose. "Yagis," "Conicals," "Fans," "Bow-Ties," "Corner Reflectors," and variations of each, are all familiar terms to your local TV serviceman. Each has a specific function to meet local needs.

Indoor antennas are effective only under the best reception conditions, and are often poorly made and little better than no antenna at all. Here again, check with your serviceman, and be sure the antenna you buy is a reputable brand.

Planter Boxes Beautify Home

By ANN JERMYN

Planter boxes have become an important architectural element of contemporary houses. These are not an extension of the house as window boxes are, nor are these modern boxes planted for only one season.

This modern, year-around planter box is a successful substitute for window boxes which are bright with flowers in summer. In front of many houses and at many an entrance, planter boxes also do away with the so-called foundation planting, a line of evergreen shrubs and trees which can be expensive.

These boxes are a more casual type of planting than the old style foundation planting. As such, they are highly appropriate with one-story and one-and-a-half-story houses. However, they often can be added successfully to older two-story houses, particularly if the porch is being modernized.

On some styles of contemporary houses, the planter box extends the entire length of the front of the house except for the front door area. They vary from 18 inches to 3 feet in height depending on the placement of windows and the architecture of the house.

Planter boxes are deeper and wider than window boxes. They must be, to hold the soil which permanent plants need for growth. Since they are part of the architecture of the house they are made of the same material or of a blending one. It is not the box which should be conspicuous, although the plants in it should set off the home.

The box that stretches across the front of a brick house, painted white, in southern Connecticut, is also made of brick painted white. At either end are growing 3-foot yews and across the front of the 2 1/2-foot wide box is a row of dwarf yew. Every year in late spring, scarlet geraniums are planted close together behind the evergreen yew edging. The red flowers and evergreen edging set off the low white house in summer; the evergreens are a dark green frame the rest of the year.

Part of the planting always should be foliage. It may be large-leaved, bushy philodendrons, tender acuba or aralia in regions where winters are mild, low junipers and evergreen azaleas farther north. Against the permanent foliage plants, flowering plants can be arranged in season.

The patent for golf clubs with steel shafts was issued in 1910.

PLANTER BOXES need not be large but must be planted in season. Small triangular ones edge a terrace and two rectangular ones trim the steps here.

Camera Hints

By ED FITZGERALD

One of the most significant announcements made at the Master Photo Dealers Convention at St. Louis recently was the introduction of Kodak's new Tri-X Pan film which boasts the same speed as its predecessor and greatly increased capacity to produce sharp enlargements.

A significant reduction in grain and a substantial improvement in image quality are the major improvements built into the new film, designed Kodak Tri-X Pan Film Improved Type. Exposure indexes — daylight 200, tungsten 160 — remain the same. Most professional news cameramen using Tri-X in their 35mm cameras rate it at ASA 400, however.

The new film is the "result of a breakthrough in film emulsion technology similar to that achieved in previous years with Kodak Panatomic-X and Plus-X Pan, our slow and medium-speed films," according to Myron L. Kerney, manager of Kodak's Amateur Film Sales Division.

"Now fine grain and image sharpness have become a major factor in the high-speed black and white field as well," he said. "Just a few years ago this accomplishment would have been considered impossible."

The improved Tri-X will continue to be particularly valuable for photography by existing light at low levels of illumination, as well as for work where high shutter speeds are required and for exposures with electronic flash.

Top-quality enlargements from Tri-X Pan film are expected to spur the trend toward pictures made by available light in many areas of industrial and commercial photography.

Swimming Pool Won't Do Away with Backyard

By Dorothy H. Jenkins

There's a family swimming pool that fits every budget, every climate and every size property. And even on a small lot, 60 to 75 feet wide and 100 to 150 feet deep, the swimming pool doesn't have to do away with the backyard.

Some planting is necessary so that the pool doesn't stick out like a sore thumb.

This applies to the pool of steel or concrete whose surface is level with the ground as well as to the plastic pool that is entirely above ground. A pool, of course, takes up lawn area and reduces the amount of mowing that must be done but even at a club where acres of grass may surround the pool, other planting is desirable.

Planting should never be so close to the pool that it will interfere or be interfered with by the swimmers. And, while shade is desirable near by, trees should not be close enough so that their leaves drift onto the water.

Lawn is an important part of the setting for a swimming pool. To prevent wear and tear, two to three feet of concrete, flagstone or brick should edge the pool. At one side this may be made wider for a sunning and lounging area.

Here, perhaps a shelter could be erected, eight to 10 feet long. The shelter might be no more than an arbor covered with vines for shade to protect those who don't want to acquire a tan. Adjacent to the water, an umbrella or awning is a better choice for shade than plants.

Privacy is usually even more desired for a pool than the terrace. If the pool takes up most of the space in the front yard or backyard, then a fence is recommended around the boundary. The fence will provide privacy and a background for planting.

85 Days Are Holidays

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eighty-five days out of 1960's total of 366 are holidays somewhere in the United States and its possessions, the Manufacturers Trust Co. reports.

And these 85 days do not include the 52 Sundays which fall in every year. However, only 11 of these holidays are observed in New York City.

Rumania has a population of about 17 million.

"Concrete streets certainly added to the safety of our neighborhood!"

Peace-of-mind goes with concrete pavement! Its grainy surface assures safe, sure stops—gives you dependable skid resistance—even in wet weather. It stays smooth and level, too. There are no potholes to cause dangerous swerves. You're always in control of your car. And because clean-colored concrete reflects light four times more than any dark surface, you can see and be seen far better at night—a real comfort, driving or walking. Yet with all this built-in safety, modern concrete offers moderate first-cost and continued low maintenance. Reasons enough to make it the preferred pavement for residential streets everywhere.

It was mutually agreed that Member Niemi would present to the Joint Board of Education and Fact-Finding Committee meeting on Tuesday, March 15, 1960, this analysis.

A special meeting was called for Monday, March 21, 1960, to give consideration to the 1960-61 budget.

Meeting adjourned at 11:40 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Harold E. Fischer, Secretary

A special meeting of the Board of Education of the Plymouth Community School District was held Monday evening, March 21, 1960, in the Board Room of the Administration Building, 1024 South Mill Street, at eight o'clock.

Present: Members Fischer, Hulsing, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth, Zoet and Zylstra; Superintendent Isbister, Adm. Assistant Blunk and Supervisor Kelly.

Also present: Urey Arnold, Mr. Marsden, Mrs. North and Dr. Clyde. President Hulsing called the meeting to order at 8:00 o'clock p.m.

Superintendent Isbister pointed out a problem in salary administration. He noted that since 1950, when the Board of Education changed from a semi-monthly to a bi-weekly pay roll period for 12 month employees, in actuality employees have been paid on a 94 day year rather than on a 365 or in cases of the leap year a 366 day one. With this method, the first pay day for a new fiscal year kept moving back each year so that in the fiscal year 1960-61 the first pay period will end on July 1, 1960, and the final pay period will end on June 30, 1961. This will place 27 pay periods in the next fiscal year rather than the usual 26 pay periods which have been scheduled during the past 10 years.

The superintendent noted, also, that under this method of salary payments this problem would present itself every 10 years.

By common consent it was decided to follow the auditors recommendation and divide the 1961-62 yearly salaries into 27 pay periods.

Mr. Blunk presented for consideration a preliminary budget which reflected needs for the school year 1960-61, totaling $2,801,600. Copies were distributed to Board members for their study and analysis. It was mutually agreed that the proposed program had to be worked out before the budget could be finalized.

Mr. Marsden, Mrs. North and Dr. Clyde of the Fact-Finding Committee appeared before the Board to discuss the proposals for financing new school facilities.

Mr. Niemi interpreted three different bond proposal tables. Mr. Marsden, Mrs. North and Dr. Clyde spoke in turn expressing individual opinions regarding the proposals. All three thanked the Board for giving so much time and thought to this problem and pledged their willingness to continue working with the Board. It was reported that Mr. Barbour, who was unable to be at the meeting in his research discovered the short term bond issue to be more attractive to the bond buyer and thus would sell at a lower interest rate.

Mr. Kaiser reported that the Teachers Committee had requested a meeting with the Board of Education to discuss the salary schedule.

President Hulsing, by common consent, called a special meeting for Monday, March 28, 1960, at 8:00 p.m. and instructed Mr. Kaiser to so notify the Teachers Committee.

Mr. Kelly was instructed to prepare for Board review a preventive maintenance schedule with estimated costs.

A letter from Mr. Gerald Elston, expressing appreciation to the Board for having been given permission to attend the Association for Supervisors and Development Conference, was read.

The meeting adjourned at 10:50 o'clock p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Harold E. Fischer, Secretary

A special meeting of the Board of Education of the Plymouth Community School District was held Monday evening, March 28, 1960, in the Board Room of the Administration Building, 1024 South Mill Street, at eight o'clock.

Present: Members Fischer, Hulsing, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth, Zoet and Zylstra; Superintendent Isbister, Adm. Assistant Blunk, Supervisor Kelly and Urey Arnold.

Also present: Mr. Canon, Mr. Donegan and Miss Welch from the Plymouth Education Association.

President Hulsing called the meeting to order at 8:00 p.m. and extended a cordial welcome to the representatives of the Plymouth Education Association.

Mr. Kaiser, Chairman of the Boards Teachers Relations Committee, distributed copies of the minutes of previous committee meetings. He interpreted to the Board the general areas of study which have been undertaken this year and noted with concern the need for some upward adjustment in the basic salary schedule.

President of the Plymouth Education Association, spoke briefly about the general feeling and attitudes which teachers have expressed about the basic salary schedule in their meetings and on questionnaires. He indicated that teachers are seeking an across-the-board increase for next year. He noted also, recent actions on salary increases taken by other school districts in the area.

After considerable discussion regarding the problem of financing an increase in the salary schedule the Board agreed to give this matter immediate attention at a special meeting to be held on Monday, April 4, 1960.

Other matters placed on the agenda for the special meeting include the following:

1. Discuss the report from the Fact-Finding Committee
2. Set a date for the bond election
3. Study the 1960-61 operating budget

Mr. Arnold presented for consideration some suggested policies together with administrative regulations designed to implement these policies. The written policies include the following subjects:

1. Staff advisory functions
2. Employment of staff
3. Seniority
4. Orientation of new teachers
5. Evaluation of teachers
6. Certification of teachers
7. Health requirements
8. Retirement

No action was taken on the policies and administrative regulations pending further study.

Mr. Kelly and Mr. Blunk presented for consideration a revised preliminary plan prepared by Wheeler, Becker and Sando, Architects and engineers, for alterations and additions at high school. Of special interest was a change in the outward appearance of the new stair tower. Additions to the original plan call for the installation of two new chemistry demonstration tables, the relocation of a third one, the enlargement of the principal's and assistant principal's offices, relocation of the storage and stairway space on the first floor, conversion on the second floor of stairway and storage space to classroom use and conversion on the third floor of stairway space to a teachers lounge.

It was moved by Mr. Niemi and seconded by Mr. Zoet that the additional work be authorized and the revised estimate schedule be approved as follows:

1. New Stair Tower $31,000.00
2. Removal of Existing Central Stair 9,550.00
3. Enclose S.E. Stair and Fire Escape 10,000.00
4. New Aluminum Windows H.S.B. Only 23,800.00
5. Enclose Stair in Annex 2,800.00
6. New First Floor Office-East 3,600.00
7. New First Floor Office-West 2,005.00
8. First Floor Rehabilitation As Per Print 5,730.00
9. Second Floor Rehabilitation As Per Print 6,495.00
10. Third Floor Rehabilitation As Per Print 2,005.00
11. Chemistry Lab Revisions 3,300.00
12. Two New Demonstration Table Installations 1,255.00
13. Relocate Existing Demonstration Table 555.00

Total $112,135.00

Exemptions to Drawings L-1, L-2, and L-3 are as herein noted:

1. We request that three exterior doors in lieu of two on front (south) of building.
2. Vestibule area to have re-worked display cases (presently installed) and suitable adjacent bulletin boards.
3. New door on existing west storage room to match new adjacent doors.
4. On 2nd floor, classroom partition to be masonry and glass in lieu of metal and glass.
5. On 3rd floor, teachers lounge, partition to be masonry in lieu of metal and glass.

Ayes: Members Fischer, Hulsing, Kaiser, Niemi, Soth, Zoet and Zylstra. Nays: None.

It was mutually agreed that the Board would meet with Gould, Moss and Joseph, Inc., at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday, March 30, 1960, prior to opening bids at 8:00 p.m. for the purpose of clarifying the conditions under which the electrical contractors are placing their bids.

The meeting adjourned at 11:55 p.m.

Famous German Short Story Retold by Exchange Student

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles written by Ursula Kell, a German exchange student.)

By URSULA KELL

This might not be a very happy story. But it is still optimistic. At the end there is a great hope in spite of everything. I just happened to find this story in America, which was very surprising. We read and discussed it in Germany in our German class last year. So it was really something for me to find it here.

The story is by Wolfgang Borchert. This name probably does not mean very much to you. He is read quite often in high schools in Germany, and he is part of our modern literature. The death, he was only 26, was a serious loss to German letters. In a few dozen very short stories and a radio play "The Man Outside," Borchert spoke for those of his generation who could never accept Fascism or believe in the war.

A bookseller who wanted to be an actor, he had to go into the army and was wounded in the Russian campaign. He wrote letters criticizing the regime and because of that was condemned to death, but pardoned because of his youth. Six months of confinement destroyed his health. So he did not live to see the tremendous success of his play throughout Germany.

This short story is one of his most famous. It tells the reflections of a German soldier after defeat. I don't know exactly why so many people in Germany read it and like it, probably because it is, or was reflecting the feelings of many. Here it is:

"Helmets off, helmets off! We've lost. The companies are scattered. The great armies. Only the hosts of the dead, they still stand. Stand like measureless forests; dark, purple-colored, full of voices. But the guns lie like frozen dinosaurs with rigid limbs. Purple with steel and ambushed fury. And the helmets, they are rusting. Take your rusty helmets off; we've lost."

In our discarded mess tins thin children now fetch milk. Thin milk. The children are purple with frost. And the milk is purple with poverty. Never again shall we fall to a whistle and answer "Yessir" to a fellow. Guns and sergeants follow no more. We shall weep, spit, and sing as we will. But the song of the roaring tanks and the song of the edelweiss we shall sing no more, for the tanks and the sergeants rage no more, and the edelweiss has rotted away to the singing of blood. And no general calls us "Thou" before the battle. Before the terrible battle. We shall never again have sand in our teeth with fear. (No sand of the steppes, no Ukrainian sand, and no one from Cyrenaica or Normandy—nor the bitter angry sand of our homeland.) And never again the hot mad feeling in brain and belly before the battle.

Never again shall we be so happy to feel another beside us. Warm and there and breathing and belching and humming—at night on the advance. Never again shall we be as happy as gypsies over a loaf of bread and a pinch of tobacco and two armfuls of hay. We shall never march together again, for from now on all march alone. That is good. That is hard. No longer to have the stubborn grumbling of the man beside you at night, at the dawn, at the advance. Who hears everything too. Who never says anything. Who stomachs everything. And if at night a man must weep, he can do so again. For he need no longer sing with fear.

Now jazz is our song. Excited, hectic jazz is our music. And the hot mad frantic song, through which the drums race, catlike, scratching, and sometimes sit the old sentimental soldier's bowl, with which anguish was outscrambled and with which mothers were denied. Terrible male chorus from bearded lips, sung into the lonely twilight of dugout and troop train, overpitched by the mouth organ's tinnny tremolo.

Virile song of men—did no one hear the children bawling away their fear of the purple maw of the guns? Heroic song of men—did no one hear the hearts sobbing as they sang, the grimy, the lousy?

Song of men, soldiers' high-spirited, virile and deep-throated, valiantly shouted by the youngsters, too. Does no one hear, beneath it, the cry for mother? The last cry of man, the adventurer? The terrible cry?

Our singing and our music are a dance over the abyss that yawns at us. And that music is jazz. For our hearts and our heads have the same hot-cold rhythm: excited, crazy and hectic, unrestrained. And our girls, they have the same hot beat in their hands and their hips. And their daughter is hoarse and brittle and hard as a clarinet. And their hair, it crackles like phosphorus. It burns. And their hearts have a syncopated beat, savage and sad. Sentimental. Our girls are like that, like jazz. And the nights are like that, the girl-jangling nights, like jazz, hot and hectic. Excited.

Who will write us new laws of harmony? We have no further use for well-tempered clavichords. We ourselves are too much dissonance. Who will cry a purple cry for us? A purple deliverance? We have no further use for still life. Our life is loud. We have no further use for a poet's good grammar. We lack patience for good grammar. We need those with the hot, hoarse-sobbed emotion. Who call a tree tree and a woman woman and say yes and no, loud and clear and without subjunctives.

For semicolons we have no time and harmonies make us soft and still life overwhelms us, for at night our skies are purple. And purple leaves no time for grammar, purple is shrill and unremitting and frantic. Over the chimneys, over the roofs, the world, purple. Over our sprawled bodies the shadowy hollows, the blue-snowed eye sockets of the dead in the ice storm, the violet-ragged gullets of the cold guns—and the purple skin of our girls at the neck. Purple at night, the groans of the starving and the stammer of those who kiss. And the city stands so purple by the night-purple river.

And the night is full of death, our night. For our sleep is full of battle. Our night in its dream-death is laden with the noise of battle. And those who stay with us at night, the purple girls, they know it too and in the morning they are pale with our night's anguish. And our morning is full of solitude. A solitude like glass. Brittle and cool. And quite clear. It is the solitude of man. For we lost our mothers in the raging gunfire. Our cats and cows and the lice and the worms, they alone can endure the great icy solitude. Perhaps they are not so close together as we. Perhaps they are more with the world. With this measureless world. In which our heart almost freezes to death.

Why is our heart racing? From the flight. For only yesterday we escaped in desperate flight from the battle and from the gun-gullets. From the fearful flight from one shell hole to another, those motherly hollows from that our heart still races—and still from fear. Listen within to the tumult in your depths. Do you shrink? Do you hear the chaos chorale of Mozart melodies and Herms Niel cantatas? Do you still hear the poet Hoelderlin? Do you recognize him, drunk with blood, in fancy dress, and arm in arm with Baldu von Schirack? Do you hear the infantryman's song? Do you hear the jazz and the Luther hymns?

Then try to live above your purple depths. For the morning that rises behind the grass dikes and the tarred roofs comes only out of yourself. And behind everything? Behind all that is what you call God—stream and star, night, mirror or cosmos, and Hilda or Evelyn. And behind everything you yourself are always standing. Icily alone. Pitiable. Great.

Your laughter. Your grief. Your question. Your answer. Behind everything, in uniform, naked or costumed I know not how, tottering in shadow, in strange dimensions, now almost timid, now of unsuspected grandeur—yourself. Your love. Your fear. Your hope. This we admit: our moral philosophy has nothing more to do with beds, breasts, parsons, or petticoats—we can do no more than be good. But who will measure it, this "good"? Our philosophy is the truth. And the truth is new and hard as death. Yet also as gentle, as surprising, and as just. Both are naked. Tell your pal the truth, rob him in hunger, but then tell him. And never tell your children stories about a holy war. Tell the truth, tell it red as it is—full of blood and gun flash and screaming. Fool your girl at night, but in the morning, tell her the truth. Be kind as death. Nichevo. Kaputt. For ever. Parti, perdu, and nevermore.

For we are no-men. But we do not say No in despair. Our No is a protest. And there is no peace for us in kisses, for us nihilists. For into the nothingness we must again build a Yes. Houses we must build in the free air of our No, over the abysses, the craters, and the slit trenches, and over the open mouths of the dead—build houses into the clean-swept air of the nihilists, houses of wood and brain and houses of stone and thought. For we love this gigantic desert called Germany. More now than ever.

And for Germany we will not die. For Germany we will live. Over the purple depths. This acrid, bitter, brutal life. We'll take it on ourselves for this desert. For Germany. We will love this Germany as the Christians their Christ—for her sorrow. We will love the mothers who had to fill bombs—for their sons. We must love them for that sorrow. And the sweethearts who now push their heroes in wheel chairs, with no sparkling uniform—for their sorrow.

All those who are afraid and in sorrow and in humility, we will love them as the Christians love their Christ—for their sorrow. For they are Germany. And we ourselves are this Germany, too. And we must build this Germany again in nothingness, over abysses, out of our misery, with our love. For we love this Germany. As we love the cities for their rubble, so we will love the hearts for the ashes of their sorrow. For their burned pride, for their shattered trust, for their ruined love. Above all we must love the mothers, be they eighteen or eighty-six—for the mothers must give us the strength for this Germany in the rubble. Our manifesto is love. We will love the stones in the cities, our stones which the sun still warms, warms again after the battle.

And we will love the great sighing wind again, our wind, that still sings in the forests. And that sings also in the fallen beams. And the yellow-warm windows with Rilke poems behind them. And the rat-riddled cellars with purple-starving children inside them. And the huts of cardboard and wood, in which people still eat, our people, and still sleep. And sometimes still sing. And even laugh. For that is Germany. And her we will love, we of the rusty helmet and the lost heart here on earth. Yes, yes, on this lunatic earth we will love again—love, ever and again.

The CITY MANAGER'S CORNER

By Al Glassford

Keeping An Eye On the Trees

In the summer, when our trees are heavy with leaves, we see the results of the work that the Department of Public Works has done in maintaining our shade trees, parks and grounds throughout the year. The pleasant and welcome appearance of our city is not an accident; it is the result of careful planning and timely work assignments to maintain healthy and luxuriant street trees, shrubs and parks.

Our last article discussed the efforts the city administration has made to control the devastating effects of Dutch elm disease. We indicated that some 20 or 25 elms are condemned and destroyed in our city each year. This, however, is only part of the story.

Each year our Department of Public Works plants about 35 new trees along our streets and in our parks. These new trees include ash, Norway maples and red maples. In the future, we plan to plant some flowering trees as well, such as flowering plum or flowering crabapple, and several varieties of honey locusts. A variety of trees is desirable so that if a disease similar to Dutch elm disease strikes, not all our shade trees would die out.

A major factor in caring for our trees is trimming, topping and shaping them so they will properly provide the shade and beauty they were planted for. This year the city contracted with professional tree experts to do some of this work. They worked primarily in the south section of the city, in our park on Sutherland, in Hough Park and in Kellogg Park.

In addition to trimming, topping and shaping our trees, the tree experts made recommendations as to what trees should be removed, which should be transplanted, and where our existing trees would best survive in the event they were moved.

Earlier this year, the tree men did quite a lot of work in Kellogg Park. About 14 dead and diseased trees were cut down and removed from the park. The purpose of this was two fold; first, to eliminate dangerous trees from the park, and second, to thin out the tree growth so the healthier trees can grow and develop properly.

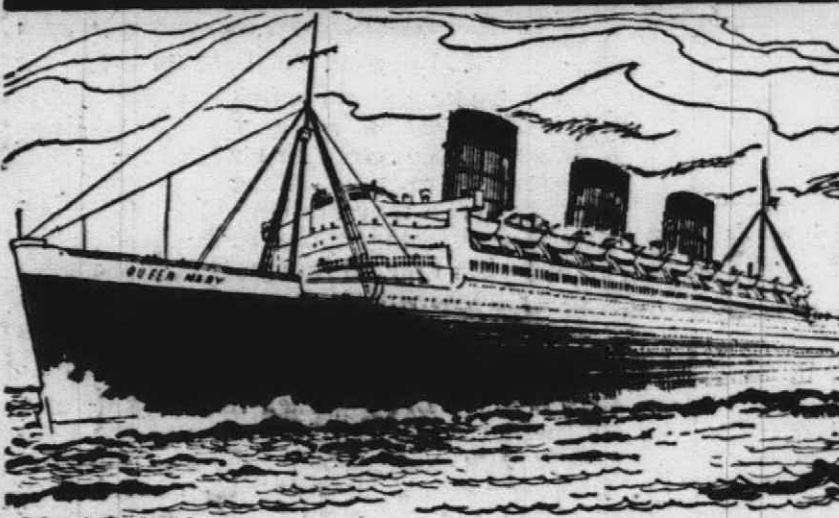

It was felt that the relatively heavy growth of trees resulted in a park that was too dark. The park, however, will retain its beauty and still be a pleasant, shady retreat in the center of our community.

Another consideration which should be mentioned is our tree spraying policy. The spray used to control Dutch elm disease is a powerful D.D.T. solution. It is excellent for preventing the spread of elm disease, but it has the disadvantage of being fatal to many birds and other forms of wild life.

Consequently, we spray city trees only once, early in the spring. This avoids, as much as possible, killing the birds which help make the summer months so pleasant. This is not the most effective way to control Dutch elm disease, for two sprays would do much better.

Front Row Center

by George Spelvin

Last week I promised all the many scene shifters, costume designers, aspiring actors in the audience a chance to enjoy an appropriate Eastertide poem. Digging down deep in my shaggy scrap-book, I found the poem in question.

Paul Engel, a poet from Iowa, wrote the following poem entitled, "An Old Palestinian Donkey." It could well be the basis for a movie. Old George suggests that Walt Disney consider it after his successful "A Dog of Flanders." Listen to the theme and I'm sure you'll agree that it has hidden meanings within for all of us during these Easter holidays:

AN OLD PALESTINIAN DONKEY

I'd rather carry loads of olive wood
Or jugs of wine, than a man, for they won't trick you.
They'll bend your back, you'll carry more than you should,
But a man will jerk your mouth, and swear and kick you.

But once I took a man down streets paved with palms,
And crowds of people yelling, packed in tightly.
Slowly I walked. He smiled as they sang psalms.
His hand was soft on my mouth. He rode lightly.

He wasn't a governor; although that crowd
Screamed, it was honest praise and not plain fear.
He wasn't a general; although they bowed,
There wasn't a soldier to threaten with his spear.

Head up, ears straight, I carried that man well.
(A donkey has his stubborn little pride.)
Who was he? Where did he go? I cannot tell.
He never came back to me for another ride.

I suppose he's a shepherd now, counting sheep,
Or lost in the wars, a sword-scooped hole for a grave,
Or farmer scanning the sky before his sleep,
Or dragged to Imperial Rome, a galley slave.

I had a gray colt trotting by my side,
Nudging into my ribs, scared of the noise.
Maybe it's trudging somewhere now, its hide
Litching, overloaded, beaten by boys.

And look what's happened to me; my hoofs are chipped,
My ears (they were handsome once) are raw and torn.
My old bones ache, and yesterday I slipped
And gashed my shoulders in a patch of thorns.

I've carried children, pine roots, every load
In sand and stone, wherever donkeys go.
But still my back rides lightly where he rode,
The fur is cross-shaped and it seems to . . . glow.

The current cycle of religious dramas on TV, radio, and the silver screen should be able to use such beautiful verses. Let's hope if the theatrical writers adapt this material they treat it gently and with due reverence.

If it's an evening of pleasure and sheer enjoyment, let me recommend without a shred of reservation "The Pleasure of His Company" starring a host of top actors: Conrad Nagel, Leo Carrol, Cornelia Otis Skinner and Cyril Ritchard provide one round of laughter after another as they cavort about the stage of the Shubert Theater.

The audiences have enjoyed the pleasure of their company to the utmost. Broadway took this show to its heart during the 1958-59 season. It was one of the ten best of the season.

Look for "The Pleasure of His Company" in many community theaters once the rights are available.

With that thought in mind, it would be well for all local theater group members that relish acting to traipse on down to the Shubert. Cyril Ritchard and his buddies will be on view only until the end of this week. These actors are consummate in their ability to provoke laughter by a mere facial movement. The lift of an eyebrow or the tilt of the head has significant comedic implications. Truly, a noble group of professionals. It was one of us again urge everyone to see this lively production.

Next week . . . Monday, April 25 . . . the Shubert stays lit with a "prior-to-Broadway" production. Carol Channing is coming to town in a show entitled "Show Business." Old George has heard via advance reports from Chicago (where this revue opened) that the musical moments were excellent.

Miss Channing will be remembered for her throaty rendition of that happy song "Diamonds are a Girl's Best Friend." "Show Biz" plans to be with us in Detroit for two weeks before hitting the big time in New York.

Speaking of New York reminds me that as you read this week's column I will be pacing up and down the cement canyons of the "big town." I'll have a complete report on several of the shows the wife and I will visit there.

Turn off the TV set and get out those garden tools. Yellow and purple crocuses popping up here and there signal the arrival of Spring. It's been a long while in coming, but now that it's finally here—it's a wonderful feeling.

Michigan Tourist Lures Hurting for Promotion

There's something in Michigan's motto about looking about you if you seek a beautiful peninsula.

Michigan people are doing this—and they're spending more and more of their vacation time in Michigan.

But what about those outside of Michigan in that vast reservoir of potential customers for Michigan's tourist industry?

It appears Michigan is lagging in attracting new tourists.

Nationally, the tourist industry increased 10 per cent last year. In Michigan, the increase was 5 per cent.

Nobody in Michigan can dispute that the state has the facilities for vacationers, the attractions and the means of getting vacationers to these facilities and attractions—once they decide to come.

Two of Michigan's boosters, Gov. G. Mennen Williams and Tourist Director Robert J. Furlong, say more people would come to Michigan if more people knew about Michigan. They want more money for advertising.

"We must realize that money spent to advance our tourist business cannot be considered just an expenditure," Williams said. "It is an investment."

Furlong said Michigan's tourist industry has an annual potential of at least one billion, compared with the current income of 650 million dollars a year.

But expanded promotion is essential if Michigan is to keep pace, according to Furlong.

Furlong looks with envy at the budgets of promoters in other states—Florida with $1,240,000; California with $890,000; Arkansas with $550,000, and the Province of Ontario with $1,750,000.

The Tourist Council's budget for the current fiscal year is $422,191.

If Your Name Is Rita

By ANN REYNOLDS

In recent times this name became widely known for Rita Hayworth, the motion picture actress whose original name was Margarita Gansino. "Rita", in Spanish and Italian, is short for their equivalent of our "Margaret"; a name that reached us by way of Greece, Hungary and Scotland from Persia, and means "a pearl". "Rita", however, has made itself independent several centuries ago, although it is still used as a familiar form for its parent name.

life accounts for these symbols. Rita was the daughter of pious, charitable elderly parents, and already as a child she wanted nothing more than to devote her life to the service of the Lord. Her father and mother hoped to see her married to a good man instead. They picked out a husband for Rita, then a girl in her early teens; he was not only much older than his bride but soon proved himself to be cruel and ill-tempered, a terror to his wife, and to his children.

Lord to prevent them from it, and they were. They fell ill, and died. Left alone in the world, Rita succeeded entering a convent, although, at first, she was refused because she was a widow. But finally the strict rules were relaxed in her favor. When she lay dying, Rita asked a friend who was visiting her from her native town to bring her roses from her home. It was in early spring, and her visitor did not expect to find flowers in bloom. But when she came to Rita's garden, there she saw one gorgeous rose, and when she brought it to Rita she inquired what else could she do for her. "Bring me two figs," the dying woman said. And sure enough, her friend found also these, on a tree still leafless, in Rita's former garden.

Gentle, patient Rita did her best to be a good wife. For eighteen years she stood her husband's abuses with exemplary patience, never giving up hope that his heart would be touched by her kindness. When, at long last, it seemed that she would win him over to her way of life, it was too late. He got into a brawl, and was killed. His sons now planned to avenge their father, and Rita feared that they would commit a crime. She implored the Buying a New Car?

Here's how Allstate may help you save $100 or more on auto financing and insurance

Offhand you wouldn't expect to call an insurance agent about auto financing. But part of Allstate's service to customers is an auto finance bank plan—called Econo-Rate—that might easily save you $100 or more. Here's how it works:

- 1. Select the car you want, new or used. Find out how much cash you'll need to buy it.
2. Give this information to your Allstate Agent. He'll tell you to the penny what the low finance charges will be through a cooperating bank... what you'll pay for top-quality, low-cost Allstate auto insurance... and what your total monthly payments will be.
3. As soon as you give him the go-ahead, he'll help make the loan arrangements, and handle the details. Then he'll hand you a check.
4. Take the check to the car dealer, sign the papers, and drive your new car away. It's as simple as that.

You get all the benefits of being a "cash buyer" when you select your car. And you get plenty of time to pay.

Why not call your Allstate Agent right now, while you're thinking about it. Then you'll be all set to save money when it's time to trade cars.

Handwriting Is Clue About You

Dear Lucile: I have read and enjoyed your column in the paper for quite a while. I shall be watching for your reply to my letter.

Thank you so much. Mrs. H.

Dear Mrs. H.: You are an emotional type person with expression. There is depth in feeling and you absorb experiences.

You are strong willed and possess a definite aim in life with a strong determination to carry through. There is a future minded trend to your thinking and though quite logical you possess enthusiasm and diplomacy.

You love variation, enjoy many activities, appreciate culture, are creative yourself and possess good organizational ability.

You could handle small responsibilities but watch a sensitiveness to criticism. You have a terrific imagination.

Dear Lucy: Enjoy reading your column and have wanted to be analyzed for a long time. It must be fun to receive fan mail from your readers. Have I written long enough because I realize your column is limited? Sincerely, Fritzi

Dear Fritzi: Yes, the letters are interesting and fun to receive. I had to cut the last part of your letter but will answer your question. Emotions show in handwriting in many ways, particularly when there is a disturbance in that phase. This changes as the mental outlook and thinking changes.

You are a well organized person, planning and fitting activities in with a well balanced routine living. You don't care much for physical activities but enjoy writing, reading and studying. You are capable of high concentration and knowing what you're talking about, stand behind your ideals 100 percent. There's an analytical and exploratory trend to your thinking, sometimes a little independent.

Your emotions vary a little but are under control and mostly show good judgment and logic. There's no sensitivity. I find it rather odd that anyone with such tremendous mental ability and thinking powers that even a minor showing of lack of faith in yourself would show.

How's Business?

'Sign Posts of Growth'

By ROGER W. BABSON

One of the most commonly misused and misunderstood concepts of investments today is the term "growth" as applied to stocks. While there are many ways to judge this factor, there are certain basic conditions which investors should look for when selecting growth stocks.

The primary evidence of growth is a solid upward trend of sales and profits, well above that of the general economy. There should also be a steady increase in physical assets (plant and equipment), as shown by a rise in stockholder's equity or book value. This buildup of earning power should come from a constant plowing back of a portion of profits.

Investors should go beyond a historical analysis and examine the vital consideration of what will sustain growth in the future. In the case of industrial companies, expansion is nurtured by the periodic introduction of new products. Generally speaking, these new products carry a high profit margin until competition enters the picture. Hence, a succession of new products cushions profits against erosion due to competition, especially where patent rights give added protection.

A management which is constantly devising new techniques of production, marketing, and cost control is an indispensable adjunct to growth. Furthermore, sound management policies with regard to capital outlays, integration and diversification, and acquisitions of other firms are vital to sustaining and enhancing the growth factor.

The rise in population is an important consideration. The time and length of its influence varies between industries. Economic and social changes should also be weighed. These can have a pronounced influence in altering the pattern of demand for goods and services.

Investors should be particularly wary of the bait of "implied growth." For example, it is often alleged that since a company is in a growth industry, this company ipso facto gains the stature of a growth company. Hasty generalizations of this nature more often than not lead to disappointment, unless the other growth ingredients cited above are present.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS ABOUT BUILT-IN ELECTRIC HEAT

ELECTRIC HEAT

Electric heat is an advanced and superior concept of home comfort. Here are some of the questions we've been asked about it.

WHAT DOES IT LOOK LIKE? The four most widely used types are illustrated below. Because electric heat is built in, there is little interference with living space.

IS IT SAFE? It's as safe and troublefree as electric light. Electric heat devices work very much like your toaster does. However, most of them operate at relatively low temperatures—without glowing wires.

IS IT EFFICIENT? The heat produced by electric systems is usable heat; practically none of it is wasted within the heating equipment itself. Electric heat is just about as close to 100 percent efficiency as it's humanly possible to get.

IS IT EXPENSIVE TO INSTALL? In general, the original cost of an electric heating system is less than that of any other type of quality equipment. Actual installed cost will vary according to type of heating unit used, home size, method of home construction and additional insulation requirements.

A good time to install electric heat is when building a new home. But it's also very economical to install it when home alterations or additions are being made. Wiring is no problem. It's figured as part of the job.

CAN I PUT IT IN JUST ONE ROOM? Yes, and economically, too, as indicated above. Typical examples: when you're adding a new room, finishing an upstairs, closing in a porch or breezeway. Electric heat is especially valuable when the new living space is a long way from the central heating system, or when the central system is already working to capacity. Another good time to use electric heat is when you have a hard-to-heat area.

CAN I PUT IT IN THE WHOLE HOUSE? Yes, you can switch the whole house over to electric heat. In this case, additional insulation will be required, plus storm sash and storm doors all around.

For greatest heating economy and summer comfort, regardless of type of heating system, good insulation pays off. Industry-established standards for this area for insulation thickness is not less than 6" overhead; 3 1/2" in outside walls; 2" alongside and partially under concrete floor slabs. Floors above basements also need insulation.

WHAT DOES IT COST TO USE ELECTRIC HEAT? Various factors, including family living habits, affect operating cost, so a hard-and-fast answer is impossible. A rough rule of thumb is 25¢-28¢ per square foot of heated space, annually. But there's little need to guess. An electric heating contractor can calculate actual first cost and operating cost quickly and accurately.

Electric heat will cost more. But the cost will probably not be as high as one would imagine. Like any quality product, you pay more for electric heat but you get more benefits!

In June 1959, Detroit Edison added a new, lower step to the residential electric rate. Now, kilowatt-hours of electricity over 750 per month cost 2¢ each, gross, instead of 2 1/4¢—an 11 percent reduction.

DOES IT NEED MUCH SERVICING? No. There are no moving parts in the electric heating systems discussed here except in the forced air units where fans or blowers are used. Fans are not high velocity, so they are long lasting also. An added advantage of electric heat, depending upon the type, is its completely silent, or very quiet, operation.

WHAT MAKES ELECTRIC HEAT BETTER? FLEXIBILITY—Each room has its own thermostat. So each remains at the temperature you choose without affecting other areas. Temperatures can be raised or lowered in any room without overheating or chilling the rest of the house. Just a touch on the proper thermostat does it.

SPEED—When a thermostat is adjusted to call for more heat, the response is fast! In the systems described here, the heat source is right in each unit—only inches away instead of many feet.

EVEN HEAT—There will be very little temperature difference between floor and ceiling. And, wherever possible, electric heat (except ceiling cable, of course) is installed in outside walls. Then there is a curtain of warm air between the cool wall and window surfaces and room occupants. This tends off chilling drafts.

CLEANLINESS—Nothing is burned to make smoke, soot or fumes. Air currents will carry only whatever dust may have been introduced by other means. Nor are large quantities of outside, potentially dusty air drawn into the house to support combustion. Result: walls, draperies, furniture and floor coverings stay clean longer.

ARE THERE OTHER TYPES OF ELECTRIC HEAT? Yes, the flexibility of electric heat makes it applicable to many basic systems. For example, there are electric warm air and wet heat systems.

WHERE CAN I SEE ELECTRIC HEAT? And a feature of every Gold Medallion Home is its electric heating system. Watch for announcements of Gold Medallion Home openings.

WHERE CAN I GET MORE INFORMATION? There's free literature at your Edison office, or mail the coupon below. Another source, especially for a cost estimate, is the electric heating contractor who displays this emblem.

The contractor who displays the emblem has had special training which enables him to estimate your heating needs accurately. He has also pledged himself to meet industry standards of installation.

Some Fail to Report Social Security for Domestic Help

"Most employers of domestic help are reporting the wages of their employees, and doing it very well," according to Harry Baltuck, district manager of the Detroit-Northwest social security office at 18260 Grand River, Detroit 23, Michigan. Nationally, reports and social security taxes are being received regularly on well over 900,000 household workers, and many of those over retirement age are already among the 13 1/2 million people getting social security checks each month.

No claim is made, however, that one hundred percent of the housewives who should be making reports and paying social security taxes are doing so. There are some who deliberately evade the law, with or without the complicity of their employees; and there are some, but certainly a very few, who may not know about their responsibilities.

The day of accounting will come for all of them. When the household worker reaches retirement age, if not before, she will be getting in touch with her social security office to see what she has had coming to her. And when she does, the employer will have to pay up with interest, not just the employer's share of the social security tax, but also the amounts she should have deducted from the wages she paid to her employee.

You can make sure that no such day of reckoning is in your future. Here's all there is to it—If you hire anyone to do work around the house, whether it's a babysitter or a butler, and pay that person as much as $50 cash wages during a calendar quarter of the year, you must make a report of those wages and pay the social security tax.

A calendar quarter is any three-month period beginning January 1, April 1, July 1, or October 1. Since there are 13 weeks in a calendar quarter, a worker who is paid only $3.85 a day, and who works for an employer only one day a week, will be paid a total of $50.

The social security tax is 6 percent on gross earnings. The employer's share of this tax is 3 percent. The other 3 percent is supposed to be deducted by the housewife from her employee's wages, although many employers of domestic help do pay the entire tax themselves.

The reports and the tax payment should be mailed to the District Director of Internal Revenue. There is a simplified report form for this purpose printed on the inside of a self-mailer envelope.

The reports and tax payments are due within one month after the end of the calendar quarter—for example, on or before April 30 for the calendar quarter covering January, February, and March.

If you've had some trouble convincing your maid of the value of her social security protection you might like to present her with a copy of "Good News for Household Workers." This booklet, presenting the maid's side of social security, is available upon request from your social security office, 18260 Grand River, Detroit 23, Michigan.

State's Leading Artists Display Wares at Northville This Week

The stationwagon caravan will be loaded with objects of art when students from Detroit's venerable Society of Arts and Crafts makes an exodus to the suburbs next week for their "First Suburban Show" in Northville April 23 and 24 at the Community Center.

Chairmaned by commercial art senior Dolores Teshka of Northville, the unusual exhibit will present a variety of commercial and fine arts entries.

Included are oils, watercolors, sculpture, drawings, fashion and mechanical illustration, commercial illustration and layout, industrial and interior design, color and design, graphics, lettering, metals, jewelry, and ceramics. Many will be for sale.

More than 1,000 visitors from Detroit and surrounding areas — many, well-known Michigan artists — are expected to turn out for the event.

Some of the school's top talent is represented.

A number of the exhibitors are advanced students. Some have already done professional work and a few have their own studios. Almost all are veteran exhibitors in Michigan art shows.

The Northville show will be the school's first exhibit trek to the suburbs and also one of its largest student-group efforts.

The spark behind it all is the show's young chairman, Miss Teshka, who added the project to a busy fourth-year schedule to bring to life an idea she's "been thinking about and planning for the past three years".

She has exhibited regularly in major state art shows, among them the recent Michigan Artist Show, Scarab Club 16th Annual Watercolor Show, Western Michigan Artist Show, as well as the Detroit Art for Young Collectors Show, Society of Arts and Crafts School Exhibit, and various downtown Detroit exhibits.

Her enthusiasm for art has not dimmed since high school days when she set out on her career by designing the Northville city seal.

Exhibitors are: Narbay Arman, Gretchen Arnold, Elizabeth Barsamian, Melinda Bates, Bruce Blyth, Salvatore Bommarito, Peter Bradley, Walter Chmura, Ruby Curry, Anne Dodson, Annette Duquette, Beth Farley, Gloria Farley, Patricia Hanes, Phill Hefferton, Alfred G. Hirt, Jr., Louise Hoskin, Stan Hunter, Oreington Iverson, Martha Klein, Okana Korduba, Anita Kuci-

The exhibit will be held in the Northville Community Center, W. Main St., Northville, from 1-9 p.m. both days. Admission is free.

Bible Comment:
Young Men Rallied Around Figure of Jesus

When we speak of "The Twelve" it is always of the inner circle of disciples. Jesus gathered them to Himself and gave them the commission that was to transform them from fishermen and others of humble life into religious leaders and founders - among the most notable men of all time.

We call them "The Twelve" even though one of them, Judas, turned out to be a traitor, and others lapsed into comparative obscurity. But all the 11 faithful were true followers of their Master.

One aspect of the apostles not commonly known is that, like Jesus, they were young men. John the Baptist, also, was a young man, though, for some reason, many think of him as a sort of patriarch.

One thing is certain, the early Christian movement was a youth movement. It was earnest and impassioned young men who rallied to Jesus.

What motivated them? The record does not make it clear. They were evidently drawn by the Master's personality and teaching; but it seems obvious that they anticipated His setting up an earthly kingdom in which they were to have a special part.

How much their zeal was of youthful patriotism against Roman domination and how much it was religious does not appear in the passages of the Bible.

However, the youthful Twelve soon became the leaders of the greatest revolution of all time. Their hope of an earthly kingdom became transformed into the construction of the Kingdom of God.

That these youthful men, through Jesus, became the greatest founders of all time is the miracle of history.

Industrialists Invited to U-M Conference

Industrial executives from Michigan, Illinois, Ohio and Indiana have been invited to attend a two-day International Business Conference at The University of Michigan next month.

Speakers from business, government, and education will be featured at the May 4-5 meeting.

Registration fee for the conference is $25, including two luncheons and a dinner. Registration will be limited. For further information write Laurence P. Dowd, conference chairman, 826 Business Administration Building, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Designed for firms considering entry in the international field as well as firms already active in this area, the conference will deal with practical aspects of recent world developments affecting Midwest business. These include establishment of the European Common Market and the Free Trade Association, opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway, economic resurgence of Western Europe and Japan, and progress in the underdeveloped nations.

Cooperating organizations include the World Affairs Committee of the Detroit Board of Commerce and the World Trade Club of Detroit.

Opening speaker, at 9:30 a.m. May 4 in the Rackham Amphitheatre, will be R. A. Macdonald, vice - president of the Burroughs Corporation and chairman of the World Affairs Committee.

NORWICH, Conn. (UPI) - Frank Bergman, Jr., was turning into a restaurant parking lot to attend a meeting when his car collided with another auto. Bergman was late for the meeting - held to discuss traffic safety.

TIPS for TEENS

ELINOR WILLIAMS

Q. "Dear Elinor: My problem is my ex-boy friend. We went steady a year, then he changed overnight and wanted to break up, so we did. I don't know what happened. He doesn't seem to like another girl. I still like him a lot and am still faithful to him. Please give me some advice."

A. - Every "going steady" deal doesn't last forever. It's possible that this boy just grew tired of steady dating. It's usually a gradual process, but he might have put off breaking the news to you until he felt that he just had to do it suddenly to get the unpleasant thing done. It sounds as if the "magic is gone" as far as he is concerned and there's nothing you can do except keep busy and occupy your mind with school work, church activities, friends and dates. You can't very well be "faithful" to a boy-friend you haven't got... so try to realize it's one of those things, the way the ball bounces and the cookie crumbles.

Q. "Dear Elinor: (1) What should I say when the music ends and a boy says, 'Thanks for the dance?' (2) How do you keep from getting blackheads?"

A. - (1) "It was fun!" or "I enjoyed it!" (2) To prevent blackheads: Use mild soap with a cream or oil base and a soft-bristle complexion brush on your face with a light, rotary motion every night at bedtime. Wash your face with mild soap and clean, gentle fingertips every morning (and after school, if your skin is oily). Always rinse with warm water, then cool. Special, gritty or granular or liquid - lather skin-cleansers at cosmetics counters are also effective.

Veterans of Foreign Wars

The joint installation of Post and Auxiliary Officers, held on April 9, was a most successful and impressive ceremony. A capacity audience heard out-going Commander Bud Krumm review his year in office. He expressed thanks to all officers and members for their cooperation. Commander-elect Hal Young plans an active year, with emphasis on youth activities and serious consideration to the post building addition.

An officers' meeting, attended by most of the new officers and chairmen, was held on April 13. Plans and activity dates for the year were set. The duties of each officer were reviewed and other general matters discussed.

The week of May 1-7 has been designated as VFW Week, with May 1 being Loyalty Day. This is a day to be celebrated by all Americans, not just VFW members. May 19 has been set as Buddy Poppy Day by the committee under Senior Vice Commander Luttermoe.

This is a most important project as the bulk of the proceeds go to the Post and Auxiliary welfare funds. The committee consists of Comrades Holdsworth, Cadaret and E. Olson.

The regular meeting of Wednesday, April 20, will be the first under new Commander Young and his officers. The success of the new administration would certainly be given a boost by a good turnout at this meeting. All members are again urged to present the names of their sons who might be eligible to be sponsored by the Post at two weeks at Camp Woodbury. Camp dates for boys (ages 9 to 14) are from June 26 to July 23.

Additional chairmen for the new year, not previously announced, are: Post Historian, Ed Holdsworth; Legislative Officer, Lee Coolman; Youth Activities Chairman, Ed Bassett; Community Service Officer, Harry Bartel; Guard, Harry Krumm; and QM Sergeant, Jack Olsaver.

Auxiliary News
Winners of the essay contest were presented their awards at the April 5 meeting, which was the last presided over by President Mildred Dely.

Timothy J. Graves won first place and a check for $15. Second place and $10 went to Dianne Van Loo; and $5 went to Michael Knap for third place.

All are local students and we wish to congratulate them and thank them for participating in this project.

All officers and chairmen during President Dely's reign were entertained at a party at the Post hall on April 1. A gift was presented to Mildred in appreciation of her year's service. We feel we have had a very successful year under her leadership and congratulate her for doing a swell job. She also wishes to thank each and ev-

Newburg Methodists Over-Subscribe Fund Drive by $8,000

(Clip Out and Save)

"The seventy went forth two by two and returned with joy in their hearts."
Thirty-five teams called on some 300 member and constituent families on Newburg Methodist Church's loyalty days, April 10 and 11, under the direction of Rev. P. G. Trembath of the National Board of Missions of the Methodist Church.

The minimum goal of $48,000 for a two-year period was over-subscribed by the people of the church by the sum of $56,000. This is in addition to a previous $45,000 cash on hand, and a new four-acre site purchased at $16,000, and the present property and buildings on the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Newburg Road which will be disposed of in the future.

With the success of the Expansion Fund Crusade, the congregation of the oldest church in Livonia hopes to be able to realize a dream of many years, that of providing adequate facilities for worship and Christian Education in a rapidly expanding community.

The present church is bulging. New units for worship and church school, when constructed, will be located on Ann Arbor Trail at Levan Road just a half mile east of their present location. The pastor is Roger Merrell.

Bob Edwards, exhibit chairman, disclosed that 75 percent of available space had been sold. Dick Funch, exhibit chairman, announced that tickets are available from any Rotarian and urged that people wishing to attend the circus should purchase tickets early because of the heavy demand.

The four day Exposition besides the Home Show and circus will feature the National Invitational Go-Kart races and the quarter-mile car races on Sunday, May 1.

Glen Wade will furnish the thrill rides for young and old. The Exposition is sponsored by the Livonia Rotary Youth Foundation, Inc. Circus tickets are 75 cents. Exposition tickets are a 50 cents donation and can be secured from any Rotarian.

The Mills Bros. Circus will have shows at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. on Saturday only.

Area Men to Attend Michigan College Foundation Banquet

Roy E. Larsen, president of Time, Inc., will be in Detroit, Thursday, May 5, to address the 10th Anniversary Banquet of The Michigan College Foundation, Inc., to be held in the Sheraton - Cadillac Hotel.

More than 400 business leaders, college presidents and their wives are expected to attend the Anniversary Dinner.

Ten years ago the Michigan College Foundation was founded, jointly by leaders in industry and education, to provide a means for business and industry to help finance the operating budgets of Michigan's independent colleges. During that period about $2,500,000 has been contributed toward the support of the fifteen member colleges, none of which receives aid from tax funds.

Member colleges of The Michigan College Foundation are Adrian, Albion, Alma, Aquinas, Calvin, Eastern, Hillsdale, Hope, Kalamazoo, Madonna, Marygrove, Mercy, Nazareth, Olivet and Siena Heights.

Madonna College will be represented at the Anniversary Banquet by Donald Roach, Earl J. Demel, Benton Yates, Lewis Brooker, Judge Benjamin Stanczyk, Richard P. Sheridan, Dr. George Rovin, Edward M. Lowe, Dr. Oscar P. Rosbalt and Lawrence W. Gaffney.

Moisture-proof cellophane was first marketed in 1927.

From the many favorable comments heard on the floor work at installation our congratulations should also go to our out-going conductress, Loretta Young.

April 19 is the date of the next meeting and the first for the new officers. Let's show our continued support by increased attendance.

$5,000 in Prizes At Livonia Exposition

More than $5,000 in prizes will be given away free at the Livonia Exposition, April 28, 29 and May 1 at the Detroit Race Course.

Clarence Jahn, show chairman, announced that a doll house worth $500 plus complete furnishings would go to some lucky little girl.

For the boys, a free championship Go-Kart will be given away.

Jahn also announced that the Oberon Insulation Co. is donating an up to $500 fiberglass insulation job. Other exhibitors contributing valuable gifts are the Great Lakes Shower Door Co., George Ceton Furnace Cleaning Co., Power Master Mufflers, Hel-Mac Distributing Co., Weathermatic, Inc., Livonia Custom Picture Framing Co. and World Book Encyclopedia - Childcraft. More exhibitors will announce their free gifts in a few days.

The following 4-H clubs will be represented from Canton and near-by surrounding areas: The Snip & Snap from Sheldon, Spoon & Spool, Peppy 4-H, New Boston 4-H, Sheldon 4-H, Mighty 4H, Knit Wit 4H, Plymouth Covers. The following persons are the leaders of these 4-H groups: Mrs. Ira Hauk, Mrs. Theresa Moyer, Mrs. Dorothy Bosman, Mrs. Lillian Gokwin, Mr. and Mrs. W. Baker, Larry Shannon, Mrs. Madeline Threadgould, Mrs. Jarrett, Mrs. Cixby, Mrs. W. Sturtevant, Mrs. E. Variot, Mrs. Heloise Campbell, Mrs. Outman, Miss M. Outman.

Mrs. Dorothy Bosman, publicity chairman, asked that we get in touch with all you girls who plan to take part in the dress review. You must be present at 4 p.m. in the Junior High Gym to have your things judged. The evening program will begin at 7 p.m. At that time the girls will model the clothing they made in the Dress Review, these will be honor group awards. There also will be the Fun Festival. This will be a talent type show at which time the winners shall receive ribbon awards. There will be something of interest to everyone in the family so come out and see what these groups have accomplished over the year. Everyone is welcome.

While we are still on the subject of 4-H, we would like to mention the picnic held by the Spoon and Spool Group. The group held their festivities at the Howard Royer home on Hanford Rd. last Saturday from 3 p.m. until 8 p.m. Each girl was free to invite a guest. The refreshments were prepared and made by the girls and the menu included sloppy joe, fruit punch, molded vegetable salad and cookies, made by the girls for dessert. The group enjoyed some planned games.

A bit late, but happy birthday anyway, goes to Kenneth Moyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Moyer of Hanford Rd. Kenneth celebrated his 8th birthday with 14 of his school mates. With balloons, games, ice cream and a special birthday cake, Kenneth and his friends enjoyed a wonderful time.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Breitmeyer of Ford Rd. entertained Capt. John Costello of the Air Force who has been stationed in Spain. Lt. Donald Costello who has been stationed in Iran. Their mother is Mrs. Michael Costello. The captain and lieutenant are home on leave due to the illness of their father, Mrs. Breitmeyer stated that the group enjoyed a pleasant evening reviewing pictures taken by Capt. and Lt. Costello.

The Women's Reserve of Boy Scout Troop 298 are giving another square dance on April 23 from 8 p.m. until 1 p.m. Donations will be 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for all children under 13 years of age (all must be accompanied by an adult). Standing on the reports of a good time at all their other dances, the ladies extend an invitation to all to come and see for themselves.

On April 11 in the evening, the executive board of the Gallimore P. T. A. held a joint meeting of this year's and the newly-elected P.T.A. officers, at the home of Mrs. Homer Benoit. The group discussed plans for their Father and Son Pancake supper and Mother and Daughter Tea. Refreshments were served by the hostess Mrs. Benoit.

As you can readily see, we can sure use some news, so let's hear from you. A newcomer to our column is Mrs. Ruth Thompson of Beck Rd. She reports that her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Thompson of Virginia Beach, Va., as recent house guests. Other guests at the Thompson home were Mrs. Jean Freeman and daughters Donna April 23 from 8 p.m. until 1 p.m. Donations will be 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for all children under 13 years of age (all must be accompanied by an adult). Standing on the reports of a good time at all their other dances, the ladies extend an invitation to all to come and see for themselves.

Robin Proclaims State as Place Of Opportunity

For the second successive year Michigan's proud and cheery robin, the state's official bird, wears his sailor cap as he appears on thousands of pieces of advertising material prepared for the seventh annual Michigan Week May 15-21.

He's in a different position as he points with pride to Michigan as the great sea-way state on the globe of the world. And this year the robin proclaims a new slogan, "Michigan — Your Opportunity," which was suggested by a 15-year-old Lansing newspaper carrier and adopted by the Michigan Week executive board.

Samples of the various pieces of promotional materials, all bearing the emblem and slogan, are in the hands of all Michigan Week county and community chairmen, and before the celebration is over these colorful advertising pieces will be seen everywhere in Michigan and throughout the country.

The materials, all sold at cost by the Michigan Week organization, include posters in three sizes, decals, lapel buttons, window streamers, Michigan product advertising cards, coasters and table place mats.

Mrs. Fran Booth at the Chamber of Commerce office is chairman of the committee ordering the promotional material in Plymouth.

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Editor: The following "Letter to the Editor" was in the Detroit News and I as a parent of two high school students in our public schools here in Plymouth think that it would be well to have this article in our local paper. We have all the frills that can be thought of as well as extremes in architecture in our schools here. I am not sure what our schools turn out in the way of exceptional students but I know they turn out some of the best and largest school taxes.

For your consideration, Resident of Plymouth School District

(Just to call attention to the fact that we do not have to have all the frills to turn out high grade students.) Editor: Let us note that of the 90 top winners in the 1960 Metropolitan Detroit Science Fair, eight are students of the Felician Academy, a school with an enrollment of only 140, operated by the Felician Sisters, at 2140 E. Canfield, in one of the oldest sections of the East Side.

Although handicapped by an out-dated building lacking the facilities of other modern schools, these Sisters have accomplished this amazing achievement, unequalled by any school in Metropolitan Detroit. Upon learning this happy news, the principal, with

Area Beekeepers Meet Saturday

Beekeepers of Wayne County will gather at the 4-H Fairgrounds, near Belleville on Saturday, April 23 to attend the annual Wayne County Beekeepers Seminar. There are nearly 500 people in Wayne County who keep bees and produce honey each year.

The seminar, arranged by Wayne County Extension Service, is designed to bring the latest developments in apiculture to local beekeepers.

Several authorities will be on hand to discuss bee and honey problems. Bert Martin and Roger Hoopingartner of Michigan State University, Roger Parsons of Jackson, and several local experts will be present. Packages of shipped-in bees, apiculture equipment and supplies will be available for study.

The seminar will begin at 10 a.m. and will end in mid-afternoon. Sack lunches will be in order, although eating places will be found nearby. The 4-H fairgrounds are located on Quirk Road, just north of the Ford Expressway, and just west of the Belleville road interchange.

Michigan's Factories, Farms and Stores Depend on Trucks

Manufacturing, farming, the retail business — all have one thing in common: each needs transportation facilities.

And, since the motor truck provides fast, flexible, direct service unequalled by any other form of transportation, more tonnage is shipped by truck in Michigan each year. (Nationally trucks haul more than 3 times as much tonnage as all other systems combined.)

Every truck you see on the road is working — working to help keep Michigan's economy humming, to help keep employment and sales high. There isn't a corner of the State that isn't served daily by trucks. And factories and shopping centers can be located anywhere and be assured of efficient truck service so long as they're on a road.

You see how vital trucks are to Michigan. Michigan Trucking Association Fort Shelby Hotel • Detroit

Detroit Edison Sponsors Area Girl at Confab

Maureen O'Brien, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William O'Brien of 18831 Beck Road, Northville, will be one of six Detroit Edison-sponsored delegates attending the 1960 National Youth Conference on the Atom.

The conference will be held at the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago and is scheduled for October 22-23.

Maureen, a junior at Ladywood High School in Livonia, was chosen because of her interest and aptitude in mathematics as evidenced by her exhibit which won an award in the mathematics division of this year's Metropolitan Detroit Science Fair.

Other Detroit Edison-sponsored delegates will be announced later.

Gentlemen, Be Seated

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass. (UPI) — Selectman Donald E. Costin opposed the idea of a pay raise for the selectmen. But taxpayers voted them raises of $150 a year each, anyhow.

Costin announced his $150 would be spent to buy three new swivel chairs for the three selectmen.

GO WEST, DRIVER

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — State Police report that 30 percent more accidents on Connecticut parkways occur with eastbound traffic than with westbound. They said there's no explanation for the difference, which has been true for several years.

Caveman Beats Versatile Drum for Hole in Ground

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UPI)—What's the news from the underground?

New evidence, that's what's the news. Unearthed at Stanton, Mo.

It purports to show that the Jesse James gang 90 years or so ago had an "inside man" in the St. Louis railroad terminal who provided time-tables and sketches of where money and jewels were carried on each train. The evidence is in a box found in Meramec Caverns.

This latest intelligence from the cave where the James boys and their gang hid out in the 1870's was turned up by an electrician wiring part of the 100,000,000-year-old, five-story cavern for lights. In the same box were rail line maps and four keys and locks from railroads.

Meramec Caverns, at Stanton, Mo., 55 miles southwest of St. Louis, may not be the best-known cave in the world—but Lester B. Dill, the operator, never lets up trying to make it so. Over the years the flow of bulletins from New York publicist Sy Presten about the goings-on underground at Stanton, inspired by Caveman Dill, has formed a monumental labor on behalf of a hole in the ground.

Following is a specimen list from a five-year yield of releases chronicling the doings of Dill at Meramec:

—Hired the nation's shortest cave guide, Dick Leith, 4 feet tall, so he could enter and describe places no other guide could maneuver in.

—Offered former President Truman underground office space, free from phones and visitors, to pen his memoirs.

—Posted sign at end of summer tourist season: "Souvenirs at rock bottom prices."

—Invited Khrushchev to visit U.S. underground, suggested he should really get to bottom of things in U.S.

—Established world's only underground rogue's gallery—with J. Edgar Hoover's blessing—of pictures of FBI's 10 most wanted—only a stactite's throw from "Loot Rock," where James' gang customarily split loot.

—Set up game room for children near cave's "Underground Railroad" terminal for slaves during Civil War.

—Something new! The "Pin-Up Room" of lifelike pictures of Bardot, Mansfield, Monroe, Hayworth—for relief from rock formation.

—Something for nothing! During 1958 recession figured best way to beat it was more marriages—offered free marriages in caverns' underground chapel with champagne, wedding outfits (leopard skins) and justice of peace "to tie underground knots."

—Retained Sigmund Spaeth as director of music—first cave to create such a position. "There'll be rock but no roll," Spaeth said.

—Opened Meramec Caverns Post Office. Postmaster: Lester B. Dill.

—Opened world's first underground press club, assigning newsmen exclusive quarters, "in honor of caverns' 100,000,000th anniversary."

—Discovered best relief spot for hay fever sufferers: Meramec Caverns, which is pollen free: set up special lounches for the hay-fevered. —Set record for number of times playing "God Bless America" 150,000; played it at end of each tour for last 16 years.

—At height of TV quiz craze reported most photographed rock formation by 350,000 annual tourists was "Isolation Booth" which greatly resembles booth used on TV.

—Started world's first irrigation system for a cave—$75,000 watering system to keep rocks and formations sparkling in the three miles open to the public.

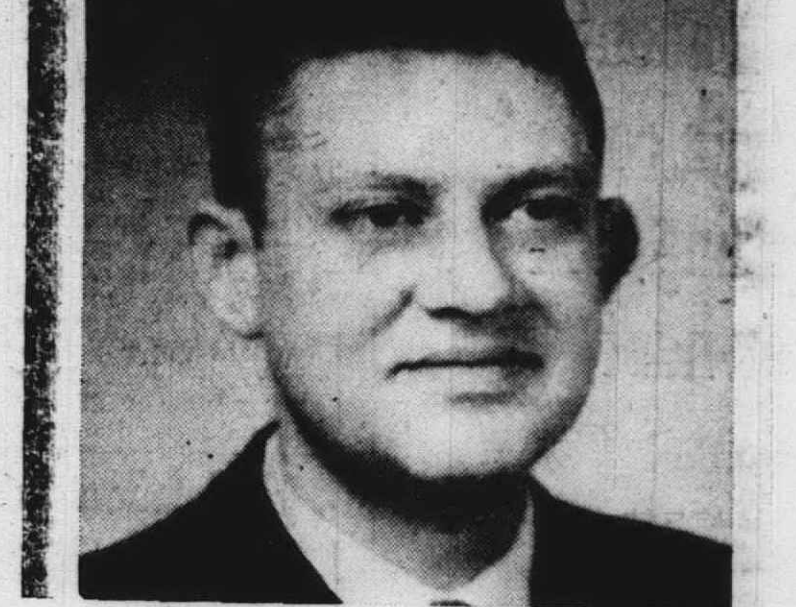

—Petitioned government to allow him tax deduction for property depreciation by air, acid, water and tourist erosion.

—"Recent studies have acclaimed the cave to be the safest bombproof shelter."

What Scientists Know About YOU Presented at 'Edge of Knowledge'

What does mankind know about YOU? What are the most recent facts scientists have on this subject dear to every human heart? Ninety minutes of information about "Man, the Animal," will be revealed at The Edge of Knowledge science program to be given at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday May 3, in the Plymouth High School Auditorium.

Nationally known zoologist, Dr. Dwight Elmer Minnich, professor emeritus of the University of Michigan, will discuss some of the profound limitations and potentials of human beings.

The scientist, who has spent 30 years of his life-teaching students about themselves, urges all men to know themselves through the study thereof.

"If man were a rock," quips Dr. Minnich, "I'd advise him to study geology!" Dr. Minnich is currently conducting zoological research at the Mt. Desert Island Biological Laboratory in Maine.

The Edge of Knowledge lecture program is an annual event in Plymouth designed especially for all adults of the area and for junior high and senior high school students.

The program was begun two years ago by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Worland, 290 Sunset, as a memorial to their 10-year-old son, Kim, who died in 1957, of cancer.

"Peacetime Uses of Atomic Energy," discussed by Dr. Henry J. Gomborg of the University of Michigan's Phoenix Project, and "Astronomy," reported on by Dr. Geoffrey Keller of the National Science Foundation, were the topics of the two preceding lectures given in 1958 and 1959.

How the "facts of zoology" touch man's social, economic and political life will be stressed by Dr. Minnich, who believes in putting his information to the best and widest possible use for human beings.

Plymouth resident, Dr. Carroll Munshaw, 640 Byron, professor of education at Wayne State University, will introduce the scientist and moderate the 30 minute question and answer period which will conclude the hour presentation.

Several brief films and slides will supplement the lecture. The program is without charge.

Sister Louise Grainger is at home and is improving rapidly after undergoing surgery recently in Romulus Hospital.

To Track Down 'Floaters' Tonight

Squads of picked crew leaders and census takers will fan out over this area on the night of April 22 in a special 1960 Census drive to count persons who do not have a fixed address, District Supervisor Jack H. McDonald said today.

The census takers will visit missions, all-night theaters, and city parks in this special effort to make sure that all residents of the area are counted. Persons who do not have a fixed address are included in the population of the place in which they are located by the census takers.

McDonald pointed out that under Census law, all persons 18 years old and over are required to answer official census questions. The same law specifies that personal information collected by Census takers must be kept confidential. The person who willfully refuses to answer the official Census questions is subject to a maximum fine of $100 or 60 days in jail, or both.

The Census taker who reveals information about individuals to anyone other than a sworn employee of the Census Bureau is subject to a fine of $1,000 or two years in jail, or both.

CORVAIR BY CHEVROLET DRIVE IT! GET OUR DEAL!!!!

A pair of Corvairs recently recorded 27.03 and 26.21 miles per gallon in the 2,061.4-mile Mobilgas Economy Run. That's certified proof that Corvair skimps on gas costs. It saves other ways, too. Corvair is the only U. S. compact car that never needs antifreeze or costly radiator repairs. Come in and drive the compact car that outdoes them all.

Things Corvair gives you that America's other compact cars can't:

Practically flat floor . . . real foot room for the man in the middle. Fold-down rear seat gives 17.6 cu. ft. of extra storage space. Four-wheel independent suspension for a smoother, flatter ride. Rear-engine traction . . . that comes with the engine's weight bearing down on the rear wheels.

You probably realize already that the mileage figures Corvairs recorded in the Mobilgas Run are higher than the average driver can expect. But because the cars meet every kind of driving condition—rugged mountain grades, long country straightaways, congested city traffic—those mileage figures prove Corvair's inherent ability to save. Spring is arriving all at once. There will be a short season in which to transplant tree and shrubs bare rooted. Suggest that you plant these items as soon as possible for maximum results.

This warm weather we have been having may fool you into planting such tender plants as begonias, dahlias and other annuals. We still may have killing frost so be careful. However, it is a good idea to purchase these plants now, when selection is best, for future planting. Lilies, Daylilies and other perennials may be planted now.

Don't apply weed killers (other than crabgrass controls) to your lawn yet. Good kills are obtained only in real warm weather, 70° degrees or better, when the weeds are growing fast.

Both House Hunter and House Looker Are Busy Now

A balmy weekend brings out both house hunters and house "lookers." A few of those who are looking may end up buying. But, whether viewing houses is only a way to pass time or a necessity preliminary to buying, the basis of comparison is getting the most for your money.

Every city and suburb has its full quota of new houses, with one-story and split level styles predominant. Older two-story houses as well as modern prefabs also should be considered.

On the basis of square feet of usable interior, a two-story house or a one-story house without a basement will give more for your money. The popular split-level house is more expensive to build than a one-story so it will take more money to buy a split-level with space equivalent to the one-story house.

In houses built during the last decade, basement or cellar space is expensive. The same amount of space at ground level will be more usable and more livable. Even without equivalent space, the house without a basement will cost less.

Older two-story houses can be excellent buys, especially for the family with three or more children. For one thing, these houses were built when costs were lower. So there likely will be not only more square feet of floor space but more bedrooms, too, and possibly for less money than the house that looks more modern on the outside.

Stairs can hardly be rated as a drawback when the amount of walking necessary in a one-story house is considered.

A prefabricated house should be judged by the same standards as other types are. The best of the contemporary ones are constructed soundly and planned well.

Neither zoning nor financing discriminate against the prefab nowadays.

How much money you can spend and how large a monthly carrying charge you can manage will be the deciding factor.

Monthly carrying charges start with mortgage payment, property taxes and insurance but must be extended to operating costs such as heating and utilities. Whether a house is brand new or twenty-five years old, new owners are certain to want to make changes and improvements. A new house always needs some landscaping and even building up the lawn will be an investment for the first five years.

Replacing the porch of an old two-story house with a terrace, painting and painting inside are costs that can't be dismissed lightly.

Old formulas such as "allow 10 percent of the purchase price for landscaping" or "spend one week's pay from each month for housing" are no longer a reliable guide.

Investigate the costs of operating as well as buying the house of your choice and buy the most house, regardless of age or style, that you can get for your money.

Spray Before Leaves Appear

Spraying starts before the leaves come out on trees and shrubs. This is known as the dormant spray and is the most important one of the year.

Neglect spraying at other times of the year if you must, but for the dormant one in March. For this spray disposes of many insects before they hatch and prevents many diseases.

Perhaps the most important insect to be eliminated by dormant spraying is scale, which clings to the bark of stems and branches. The shrubs such as forsythia and lilac, the vine bittersweet, and most fruit trees are subject to it.

Aphids which suck the juices of new, tender, green leaves and so reduce the vigor of trees will be fewer as a result of dormant spraying. Aphids eat any kind of tree leaves. On fruit trees, dormant spraying helps to keep down scab which mars the skin of fruits when they ripen as well as rust, leaf curl, chewing insects and pear psylla.

Many of these same insects attack shade trees, too.

and reduce their vigor and greenness. Every tree on the property and all other woody plants on which scale insects can be seen should be given the dormant spray.

Chemicals for dormant spraying can be purchased in formula and diluted with water according to directions. Some can be purchased in cartridge form to be attached to the hose. These cartridges are available in one formula for fruit trees, in another for ornamental trees and shrubs.

Easy to use in the home garden is the trombone spray with its hose end weighted to drop in the pail of spray mix. With this combination, which is so easy to carry, it is possible to spray trees as tall as 30 feet. The sprayer can be adjusted for a wide mist or a long jet of the liquid. This combination of trombone spray and bucket is particularly efficient for small or dwarf fruit trees.

Spray must be applied thoroughly. On trees and shrubs, the foliage should be wet, on upper and under sides, to the point of dripping. With dormant spray, it is important to cover the bark of the trunk and branches, for this is where many insects and disease spores hibernate. Use the spray gun or hose with cartridge attachment like a paint brush to obtain an even application.

Fruit trees will require a minimum of seven sprays during the growing season. Of these the dormant spray is the first. A good job of dormant spraying will not do away with the other six applications, but it will make these applications simpler. Some shade trees such as birch, locust and elm will require an additional one or two sprays before July 1 to control insects that prey specifically on them.

Landscaping Gives Home A New Look

Twenty-five million older homes need to be re-landscaped to increase their livability and maintain their values in the real estate markets, it is estimated by the American Association of Nurserymen. Re-landscaping can increase the resale value of a home up to 25 percent or more, compared to the home whose plantings are so overgrown as to detract from realty values, it is reported.

Re-landscaping can be made to pay a bonus of a garden living room by transplanting trees and shrubs, unless they are diseased from lack of care, or unsightly, in which case they should be discarded. Often these shrubs can be grouped to provide a background for a new rose or flower garden. Strive for all-year, ever-lasting beauty in your renewed foundation planting. Consult your local nurseryman for shadings of foliage color as well as flower color and form. The grays and greens and light blues of foliage offer interesting contrasts.

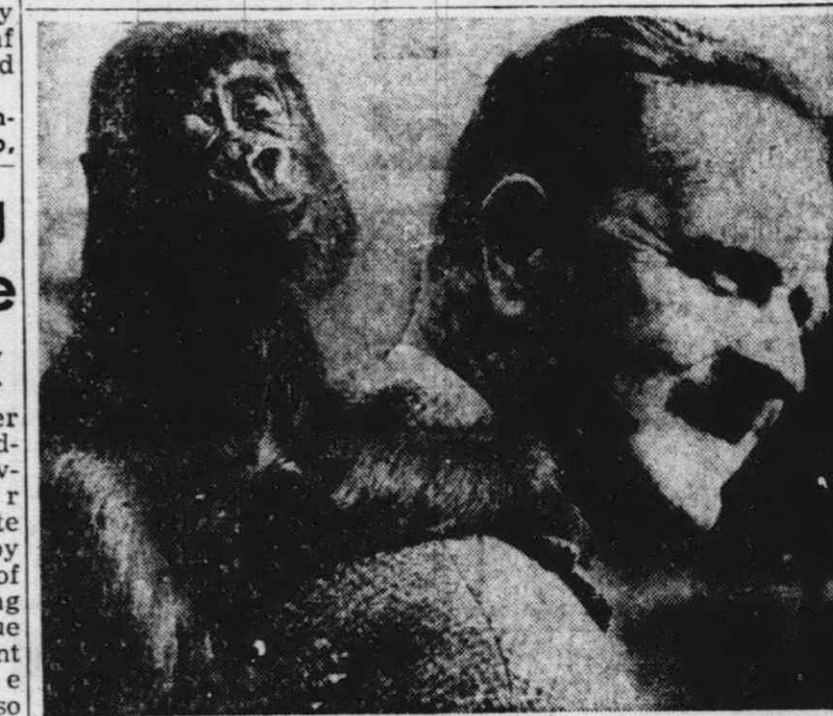

The purpose of the foundation planting is to frame the house. It cannot do this if it has become so overgrown that it obscures windows and darkens rooms indoors.

Plan the new foundation planting in gentle curves rather than straight, rigid lines. You want a free, natural-looking planting undulating around the base of a home, supplying a wealth of color and contrast.

Your nurseryman can tell you which shrubs and trees will best be suited to the particular architecture of your home. If convenient, show him a photo or a simple plan of the property that you can draw to scale.

You can do the re-landscaping yourself by studying other properties and adapting their most desirable points to your own area and uses. Professional advice is desirable, too. Any good landscape nurseryman can help you. Sound advice may save you mistakes, but once you have your plan of re-landscaping worked out, either in your head or on paper, the rest is easy.

New low-growing shrubs have been developed in recent years that eliminate many problems formerly connected with planting the high-growing types.

Folding Screen Found to Be Very Useful in Beautifying Home

The three paneled folding screen is as useful a piece of household equipment as it ever was and made of far more attractive materials. But it is not adequate and too temporary in appearance to serve as a room divider. New materials and old materials used in new ways provide a bewildering number of solutions to defining space in a home where one room flows into another without definition or one large room is used for dining, relaxation and recreation. The happiest, most easy-going family needs some privacy for various pursuits. Factory-made panels of filigree concrete, available this year, can be used for many purposes indoors and outdoors. Because these panels are reinforced with steel, they are sturdy yet only 2 inches thick. Curved concrete panels with a pierced design are another new entry. Concrete blocks can be stacked for a satisfactory room divider of any height. An interesting design can be obtained simply by stacking hollow-core and grille-design cubes. Grille blocks with new designs in perforation are appearing steadily; some of them have simple modern lines, others tend to classic or ornate designs. Combinations and designs for room dividers are endless. Perhaps lighter in appearance but no less satisfactory are plastic panels, available in multiples of a half foot, in a choice of filigree designs.

People Spreading Lime on Lawns Is One Certain Sign of Spring

By Dorothy H. Jenkins
One certain sign of spring is people out scattering lime on their lawns. Few of them know that their lawns actually need lime to grow well this year, but liming just seems to be a good thing to do in spring.

The only way to be certain that a lawn needs lime is to have the soil tested. There are simple tests, such as those made with litmus paper, which a gardener can do himself to find out whether his soil is acid or alkaline. Sending a sample to a qualified laboratory or testing service will bring a fuller report.

The report from a laboratory test will state whether or not soil is acid or alkaline and to what degree (this will indicate the need for liming). It will also tell whether or not any essential plant foods are lacking in the soil and will make recommendations for fertilizing. The report also will indicate the crops that will make the best growth in the soil.

The sooner a soil sample is sent off, the more promptly a gardener will receive his report. In another month when it's time to start liming and fertilizing before spring planting, laboratories and soil testing agencies will be swamped with samples.

The agricultural experiment station in your state will test soil and report on it free of charge. Local seed stores or nurseries sometimes maintain a service, at least during spring, whereby soil samples are tested for a nominal fee.

Only a half-pint of soil is needed for testing. This, however, should be made up of samples taken from ten or more places in the garden or lawn.

To obtain the samples, use a spade to take a slice of soil to a depth of 5 or 6 inches. In the lawn, the slices need be only 3 inches deep. When enough samples have been taken from either lawn or garden, mix them together thoroughly, removing stones and roots in the process, and then measure about a half pint to be packed and sent to the laboratory.

The representative sample should be mailed in any clean carton or box. Ice cream containers, small candy boxes or coffee cans travel well. Any container of the right size should be absolutely free of matter foreign to the soil or of contaminating substances.

The container with the soil sample should be wrapped securely and addressed clearly. With the package include your name and address, also printed clearly, so that the report on your soil will not go astray. The sooner the soil sample is on its way, the more promptly the report—your guide to fertilizing, conditioning and planting the soil this year—will be sent back to you.

New Snapdragon Really Blooms

Have you just about decided that you aren't going to plant snapdragons this spring because this annual doesn't give much bloom in your garden before September?

This is the year to change your mind, because there's a new group of snapdragon, Rocket, that have been bred to bloom during the hot summers that prevail over most of the United States.

Rocket snapdragons may be purchased in six colors—Red Rocket, Orchid, Rose, Bronze, Golden and White—or in a mixture of these colors.

No other snapdragon, however beautiful its flower spikes, has ever started to flower as early as July 4 in southern Connecticut gardens and continued without a break until autumn frost. Reports from other parts of the country are just as good.

This new strain of snapdragon, which won an All-America award for 1960, is an F1 hybrid. The letter "F" and the numeral "1" near the variety name on a seed packet guarantees special qualities. One is vigor.

Any F1 hybrid is a calculated cross and seedsmen may discard hundreds before they find one that will display the good qualities it should in gardens all over the country.

An F1 hybrid, whether a flower or a vegetable, is not only vigorous. Plants also are remarkably uniform in growth, both as to height and breadth. They start to flower earlier and maintain their bloom longer. This guarantees months of bloom from flowers and an early harvest from vegetables.

The most famous and the first F1 hybrid is sweet corn. During the last ten years, many F1 hybrids of petunia have been introduced and the aim is eventually to replace all the old varieties—which make straggly growth—with uniform growing and longer blooming F1 hybrids in the favorite colors.

This year's new F1 petunias include Mercury, a soft clear light blue, and Red Ensign, a large flowered orange scarlet. Bonanza is a mixture of F1 hybrids in various colors.

Other new F1 hybrids worth looking for in flowers this year are Vanguard snapdragon, a double rose and gold; Toreador marigold, a large ruffled flower of bright orange on tall plants, and the first F1 hybrid of a zinnia, Trail Blazer zinnia had medium sized lowers of brilliant red on plants about 2 feet high. Like F1 hybrid snapdragons and petunias, this new zinnia starts flowering in early summer.

Rocket snapdragons, Vanguard snapdragon and Toreador marigold all won All-America awards. Other All-America winners are marigold Sun Gold and phlox Glamour. Spun Gold has double golden yellow marigolds about 2 inches wide on strong bushy plants only 1 foot tall. Glamour has the largest blossoms and hence the largest flower head of any of the annual Phlox drummondii.

They top erect plants about 1 foot tall.

A total of thirty new varieties of annual flowers and eleven varieties of vegetables are offered this year. Not all of them have won special awards but all of them have been tested and are being introduced for a good reason.

Flying Saucer morning glory probably won't displace all-time favorite Heavenly Blue. But Flying Saucer is different and appealing. The flowers are about the size and color of Heavenly Blue but through the blue background are swirls of powdery white.

Flame Beauty calendula has double flowers of bright orange. But the chief reason for introducing it is the resistance of the plants to hot weather—and consequently bloom during the summer. Golden Daisy rudbeckia does add a new color to this hybrid of the roadside black-eyed Susan.

Golden Daisy has 5-inch yellow flowers with dark centers. Vegetables also add a new entry to the F1 hybrids. Just Right, an F1 hybrid white turnip, joins all the F1 hybrid varieties of sweet corn, tomatoes, squash, cucumbers, onions and eggplant. Just Right turnip produces more tops for greens as well as roots of better size and shape without losing any good flavor qualities.

Jet Black eggplant, developed in New Jersey, matures in less time than older varieties. Good-sized heads similar to the Boston lettuce but with more resistance to heat, is the reason for introducing Sweetheart lettuce this year. Golden Midget watermelon from New Hampshire, with a yellow skin when ripe and bright red flesh, ripens in only 65 days. It also is a small melon that doesn't take up much refrigerator space. Cocosella squash, each one 6 to 8 inches long, also ripens early. Red Boy radish is ready to pull 22 days after seed is sown. Spartan Early broccoli, developed in Michigan, matures two weeks earlier than the older Green Mountain.

TO KEEP rosebushes healthy through the summer, be sure to spray or dust them at least every two weeks, regardless of what climate you live in. Local lawn and garden centers will advise you on proper use of sprays or dusting chemicals.

3-In Memoriam
In memory of Samuel M. Grady, who passed away one year ago, April 25, 1859. We miss thee from our home, dear father. We miss thee from thy place. A shadow o'er our life is cast. We miss the sunshine of thy face. We miss thy kind and willing hand and earnest care. O, how some is dark without thee. Missed thee everywhere. Sadly missed by his wife and children. Mrs. Jessie E. Grady and family.

4-Card of Thanks
I wish to thank all my relatives, friends and neighbors for their kind remembrance during my recent stay in The Redford Observer, The Livonian, The White Shrine and Eastern Star. Mrs. Florence Henry
