FDOT U.S. 27 speed study completed

Higher speeds warranted, not planned

By PHIL ATTINGER

SEBRING — A speed study recently completed by the Florida Department of Transportation suggests people on U.S. 27 want to drive faster than posted limits.

A one-month speed study in March 2018 and three-year wreck tally for U.S. 27, from U.S. 98/State Road 66 to the north county line, showed the majority of people drive 1-9 mph faster than posted limits, and have a comfort level anywhere from 41-70 mph, depending on the locations.

Also, out of 940 recorded wrecks in LAKE PLACID — Lake Placid's two public elementary schools will have new principals next school year with one choosing to return to the classroom as a teacher and the other going to the family business.

In a recent email, Superintendent Brenda Longshore informed staff of the principal situation at Lake Country and Lake Placid elementary schools.

"We will have principal openings at Lake Country Elementary and Lake Placid Elementary for the 2018-19 school year," she said.

COPS program kicks off

Gets great reception

By KIM LEATHERMAN

LAKE PLACID — Wednesday was the first night the Highlands County Sheriff's Office's COPS ADAPT program rolled out in full force.

The acronym stands for a new concept in policing, Community Oriented Policing Services through Achieving Diversity and Public Trust. The goal, according to Sgt. Kimberly Gunn is to minimize street level narcotics and gun violence.

The unit consists of Lt. Tyrone Tyson, Gunn, and deputies Dwayne Council, Benji Toney, Eddie San Miguel and Tevin Toney. The squad received a $625,000 grant from the Department of Justice to solely patrol the "partnership neighborhoods" of Lake Placid's Highway Park, Sebring's Washington Heights neighborhood and Avon Park's South Side communities.

Statistics bear out the need for the patrols to be in these areas. These officers will not be responding to other calls but focusing their efforts in these concentrated neighborhoods.

Before the program began, the HCSO held meetings with stakeholders in the communities to gauge

How people actually celebrate Cinco de Mayo

By MARC VALERO
STAFF WRITER

SEBRING — It is not a federal holiday in the U.S. and it is usually business as usual, but Cinco de Mayo is a day to recognize and celebrate Mexican heritage and achievements.

The emphasis in the U.S. for some is on the celebratory side of the holiday and with it falling on Saturday this year and the same day as the Kentucky Derby, some may find a way to have a mint julep in one hand and a margarita in the other.

In the schools, the holiday can offer a timely reason to look at the history of our neighbor to the south in the Northern Hemisphere.

Sun 'n Lake Elementary fifth-grade teacher Aleida Ruano noted she is Cuban-American, but in order to recognize the significance of Cinco de Mayo to Hispanics she wears a traditional Mexican dress and speaks to her students about the date in history.

But, her attempt at celebrating it will be greatly reduced this year with the holiday falling on a Saturday this year and her students having a field trip the day before.

What is Cinco de Mayo?

It means fifth of May in Spanish.

It is not the "Mexican Independence Day" as many in the U.S. believe.

It is the day that Mexicans commemorate their victory over the French at the Battle of Puebla in 1862. Puebla is 66 miles east-south-east of Mexico City.

Cinco de Mayo is not a national holiday in Mexico. Public schools are closed throughout the country, but the day is only officially celebrated in the states of Puebla and Veracruz.

Traditions include military parades, recreations of the Battle of Puebla and other festive events such as large parades that feature people dressed up as Mexican and French soldiers, according to history.com.

Mexican Independence Day actually occurs on Sept. 16, when Mexicans commemorate the start of their revolt against the Spaniards in 1810.

Some of the largest cities (many with Spanish names) in the south-west U.S. have significant Cinco de Mayo celebrations such as Los Angeles,

Sebring detective rear-ended on commute

By PHIL ATTINGER

SEBRING — Det. Mike Hirsch almost made it to work Friday without incident.

He got rear-ended on State Road 17/Alternate U.S. 27 near the northeast entrance to Southgate Publix Plaza. Fortunately, neither he nor anyone in the other vehicle were injured.

"It appears everybody was OK," said Sebring Police Cmdr. Curtis Hart.

Christina Perry, 30, of Lake Placid was cited for careless driving by Cpl. Rick Little, Hart said.

The wreck took place shortly before 7:57 a.m., based on when Sebring Police got the call. Hart said Hirsch, 44, was northbound on SR 17/Alt. 27 in his city-issued charcoal gray unmarked 2004 Ford LTD Crown Victoria.

Perry was also northbound on that road in a tan 2007 Dodge Grand Caravan with her two boys, ages 12 and 4.

Shortly after merging onto Alt. 27, she told

85-year-old AP man killed in Volusia County crash

STAFF REPORT

AVON PARK — An 85-year-old Avon Park man and another senior citizen were killed in a traffic accident early Friday morning on Interstate 4 in Volusia County, according to the Florida Highway Patrol.

The Avon Park man, whose name has not been released, was driving eastbound near Tomoka Farms Road soon after 1 a.m. when he failed to stay in his lane and hit a construction barrel, side-swiped a guardrail and then drove off the road crashing into a concrete pillar.

An 80-year-old passenger in the car from North Carolina also died at the scene.

police, she looked behind her and didn't see vehicles in front of her had stopped.

By the time she turned around, it was too late, Hart said. She applied her brakes but still ran into the police car.

The Dodge minivan ran into the car's right rear quarter, denting in the trunk. The van got the worst of the damage, however: A bashed-in front end and deployed air-bags.

Sebring Fire Department and Highlands County Emergency Medical Services responded to the wreck.

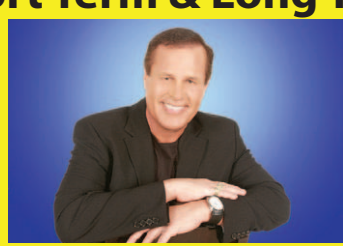

The scene was cleared before 9:30 a.m., Hart said.

Revised Advanced Academics set for kindergarten

By MARC VALERO
STAFF WRITER

SEBRING — The accelerated program for kindergarten students who show the ability to be academically challenged, and meets state requirements, has been finalized by the School Board of Highlands County.

The district's Curriculum and Instruction Department announced recently the development of the ACCEL (Academically Challenging Curriculum to Enhance Learning) language implementation for kindergarten, per Florida Statute 2001.3105.

Kindergarten teachers and administrators have been working together to refine guidelines for qualification into HAART (Highlands Advanced Academics Rising Together), which will be offered at Kindergarten Learning Center, Sun 'n Lake Elementary, Lake Placid Elementary, Lake Country Elementary and

MARC VALERO/STAFF

The Advanced Academics program at the kindergarten level has been revised to meet the new state requirements.

Memorial Elementary schools, the district noted on its Facebook page.

Superintendent Brenda Longshore said Thursday that the ACCEL and Advanced Academics programs are the same.

The district's Advanced Academics program meets the state's ACCEL requirements.

Avon and Park elementary schools have never offered advanced academics at the kindergarten level and do not have any desire to do it at this time, Longshore said.

The refined Advanced Academics guidelines will consist of a demonstration of reading skills (letters, letter sounds, reading and writing), math skills (numerical identification, math computation and geometry), attendance and behavior. In continuing past practice, HAART curriculum will academically challenge high achieving students through rigor and acceleration of the curriculum.

Parents can get more information by attending the Advanced Academics Committee meeting at 4 p.m. Monday in the Garland Boggus Board Room, 426 School St., Sebring.

Advanced Academics was a grassroots effort years ago with dialogue and discussions about how to better meet the needs of the district's high-achieving students, Longshore said. The committee has evolved over time and involves parents and staff.

Also, the District School Advisory Committee will meet at 5:30 p.m. Monday in the Garland Boggus Board Room.

Tropicana Speech Contest winners announced

SPECIAL TO
HIGHLANDS NEWS-SUN

SEBRING — On April 26, the annual Tropicana Speech Contest was held at the Bert J. Harris Jr. Agricultural Center hosted by Highlands County's 4-H Agent Ashley H. K. Stewart and 4-H Program Assistant Alexis Cooper.

The Tropicana Speech Contest is available for public, private, and home-school students in fourth, fifth and sixth grade. This year, 2,153 students countywide participated. Of those participants, 120 were fourth-grade students, 1,069 were fifth-grade students, and 964 were sixth-grade students. One hundred and three classrooms in Highlands County participated.

The objective of the 4-H Tropicana Speech Contest is for student participants to increase their public speaking and communication skills. Participants must obtain as much information as possible on a topic of their choosing and carefully organize the material to be presented in a timely and orderly speech. In addition, participants are able to develop a pleasing personal style before an audience, acquire the ability to speak convincingly in public and express ideas effectively, and develop confidence and poise.

Students spent months preparing to represent their school at the county public speaking competition, jointly sponsored by 4-H and Tropicana Products. This Florida-specific program helps youth practice public speaking with the hope of winning a camp scholarship awarded to the first-place youth.

FLORIDA NEWS BRIEFS

US Rep supports statehood for Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — Another Republican official has declared his support for granting Puerto Rico statehood.

U.S. Rep. Rob Bishop of Utah said Friday that it's important to rebuild the U.S. territory that was devastated by Hurricane Maria. He also said he will hold an oversight hearing to help make a federal control board overseeing the island's finances more efficient.

Bishop is the chairman of the U.S. House Committee on Natural Resources, which has jurisdiction over U.S. territories.

Bishop recently said he was frustrated with what he called the board's "inability and unwillingness" to reach consensual restructuring deals with creditors. The U.S. territory is trying to restructure a portion of its more than $70 billion public debt load.

Bishop's statement comes just days after Florida Gov. Rick Scott also said he supports statehood.

Man arrested in 26-year-old sexual assault cold case

ST. PETERSBURG — A 48-year-old man was arrested nearly 26 years Florida authorities said he sexually assaulted a woman at gunpoint.

The Pinellas County Sheriff's Office on Thursday arrested Robert Lee Burton. He faces a charge of sexual battery with a deadly weapon.

Officials say that in 1993, he grabbed a woman who was walking home and raped her at gunpoint.

Evidence was collected after the attack — and that DNA would later lead detectives to Burton.

He was booked into the Pinellas County jail, where he was being held on $100,000 bail. It's unclear if he has retained an attorney.

DNA leads to arrest of man on voter fraud charges

ORLANDO — Florida authorities say DNA found on envelopes led to a man's arrest on voter fraud charges.

The Orlando Sentinel reports that the Florida Department of Law Enforcement and Altamonte Springs police took saliva from five mail-in ballots and traced it to 36-year-old Bret Warren.

Fingerprints on the envelopes also matched Warren's.

Several residents reported they didn't receive absentee ballots just before the 2016 presidential election. Seminole County Supervisor of Elections Michael Ertel turned them over to police when they arrived at his office with signatures that didn't match the registered voters.

Warren isn't a registered voter. It isn't known which candidate the ballots were cast for because Ertel didn't open them.

Warren was being held Friday in the Seminole County Jail. Jail records don't indicate if he has a lawyer.

Congressional races sending new faces to Washington

TALLAHASSEE — Congressional candidates are facing a deadline to get on the Florida ballot.

Candidates must qualify by noon Friday to run for U.S. House and Senate races. The state is expected to elect at least four new representatives in Washington because of incumbents leaving office.

But the state could see several more new faces in the U.S. House as three incumbents face tough challenges from within their own party and several more are being targeted by opposing parties.

Republican U.S. Reps. Ileana Ros-Lethinen, Dennis Ross, Tom Rooney and Ron DeSantis are all leaving office. DeSantis is running for governor.

Florida's primary will be held Aug. 28 and the general election is Nov. 6.

Remember the Battle of Puebla

Cinco de Mayo is a relatively minor holiday in Mexico. It is not Mexico's independence day as some believe. The country gained its independence in 1810 and celebrates it on Sept. 16. According to history.com, Cinco de Mayo celebrates the date of the Mexican army's 1862 victory over France and Napoleon III at the Battle of Puebla during the Franco-Mexican War.

The day, however, has taken on more significance in the United States and has become a much larger event as a day to celebrate Mexican culture and heritage.

Here in the United States, many look forward to restaurant specials of tacos and margaritas on the fifth day of May, or they will plan their own celebration.

In Highlands County, Senor Jalepeno will present a Cinco de Mayo Fest at the Highlands County Fairgrounds on Sunday. There will be a wide variety of Mexican food, good music and fun times with bounce houses for the kids, folkloric dancing and lots of vendors. Some of the performers scheduled include Danny-D Xtreme, Los Terribles del Notre, Estrellas, and more.

Although the day gives revelers a great excuse to party, it's important that the history of the day not be forgotten.

According to history.com, it was 1861 when Benito Juarez was elected president of Mexico, but it was troubling times for the country. Mexico was in financial ruin following years of internal strife. Juarez, the new president, was forced to default on debt payments to European governments. As a result, several countries sent naval forces to Veracruz, Mexico demanding repayment. Two of those countries negotiated with Mexico and withdrew their forces.

France decided to it wanted to make an empire out of the Mexican territory. Late in the year, 8,000 French troops (some sources have the number has high as 12,000) drove Juarez and his government into retreat. Juarez rounded up close to 4,800 loyal men and sent them to Puebla, a small town in east-central Mexico where a French general had led the troops to another attack.

History.com tells us that from daybreak to early evening, the outnumbered Mexican troop fought the much larger French troop. The Mexican troop lost fewer than 100 men before the French troop, with a loss of nearly 500 soldiers, retreated.

The clash was not a major strategic win, but its success represented a great symbolic victory for the Mexican government. It would not be until 1867 that France would finally withdraw from the country of Mexico.

According to history.com, Cinco de Mayo is mostly observed in the state of Puebla — the commemoration of the date is mostly ceremonial, through military parades. However, through most of Mexico, it is a day like all others. Business and government operations go as usual.

We do not live in Mexico, however, many of our neighbors and family members are either directly from Mexico or are Mexican descendants. For that reason alone, we should embrace the celebration that comes with today rather than just look at it as an excuse to eat your favorite Mexican dish, sip on a tasty margarita and listen to a mariachi band.

Can I borrow your culture?

LAURA'S LOOK

Laura Ware

So there's this Utah 18-year-old named Keziah Daum who was going to her school's prom and wanted a pretty dress to wear. While shopping at a vintage store in Salt Lake City, she discovered a red and gold Chinese cheongsam, or qipao.

Thinking it was beautiful and a great way to honor Chinese culture, she bought it and wore it to her prom. Later, being a child of this social media age, she posted pictures of herself wearing the dress on Twitter.

And people went crazy. And not in a good way.

"My culture is not your (profanity) prom dress" tweeted Jeremy Lam. Others screamed "cultural appropriation" and sharply criticized the teen's choice in attire.

If you are unfamiliar with the term "cultural appropriation" don't feel bad — I had to have it clarified for me.

According to Michael Levin on www.fox-news.com, cultural appropriation means "people from a majority culture are borrowing aspects of minority culture without the permission of those minority members."

So, if I understand this correctly, because Chinese Americans are a minority in this country, and Kim is white, she was wrong to wear a traditional Chinese dress.

The funny thing is, Chinese in China, Hong Kong, and Taiwan are wondering what the fuss is about. According to an article at www.boston.com, the reaction overseas has been that Kim did nothing wrong in wearing the dress, indeed, it's a victory for Chinese culture that she did.

I've seen at least one picture of the dress. My gripe with it is not that it's Chinese, but that it has a slit up to mid-thigh. She couldn't find something beautiful and modest?

Laying that aside, I find the way people are freaking out about this disturbing.

Look, this is the United States of America — we were at one time considered a melting pot. A lot of what we have, do, and eat is a result of what we've discovered in other cultures. And people borrow from us all the time. Why can't we?

I love Italian food, but I am not Italian. Should I quit going to Olive Garden? Should a white woman not wear her hair in cornrows?

Is our exporting of entertainment and fast food around the world allowing others to appropriate our culture?

I'm not saying it's right to put down someone else's culture. Had Kim worn the dress to mock the Chinese culture in some way, I could see the criticism. But that's not what this is about. As she put it, "It's a (profanity) dress." She wore it because she thought it was pretty.

I am concerned that people are spending a lot of time looking for ways to be offended. News flash: if you look hard enough, there's something out there that will offend you. And I have to think if that's where your pouring your time and energy, you can't be a very happy person.

We have so many things to worry about these days. There's Washington, DC, which comes up with new ways to be crazy on a regular basis. There's North Korea and Iran. There's local issues in our communities that need our time and attention.

Do we really need to get worked up over a prom dress?

Maybe we should be concentrating on things that bring us together rather than seeking that which will tear us apart. In the meantime, I hope it's OK if I borrow from your culture from time to time. I promise not to damage it.

State Department shuts out kids from summer jobs

With summer just weeks away, teenagers and college students looking for seasonal employment will have to compete with the annual influx of international workers.

The State Department's Summer Work Travel Program (SWT) will once again, as it has for decades, provide an unlimited number of J-1 visas to young foreign nationals who will come to the U.S. to work at a variety of jobs. The State Department defends SWT as a valuable cultural exchange tool when in reality it's a cheap labor bonanza for employers.

The jobs include lifeguarding, waiting tables at resorts, guiding tourists through national parks, scooping ice cream and providing child care as au pairs. These are jobs that most American kids would eagerly do, given the opportunity.

But since the J-1 has no prevailing wage requirement, employers can pay the visa holders lower wages than those U.S. workers earn in the same geographic region. Furthermore, employers are exempt from paying the Social Security, Medicare, federal and state unemployment taxes

GUEST COLUMN

on J-1 visa holders who are often required to work overtime without extra compensation.

Because international students pay an average of about $1,100 in fees to private organizations that sponsor their participation in the program, the program generates well over $100 million in annual revenues for those organizations. Participants pay out millions more in visa fees to the State Department, and in travel expenses to and from the U.S. In the end, sponsors pay government dues to be part of the program; students pay the fees associated with the program and their own roundtrip travel expenses; employers pay nothing. Many unsuspecting SWTs return home disillusioned, often with little money saved.

The State Department's failure to oversee its own program has led to multiple instances of exploitation like last year's Myrtle Beach case. Ten Dominican Republic college students were promised jobs at an Italian ice shop, plus adequate accommodations, but ended up keeping house and living in a bed bug-infested motel. Similar abuses have been documented in Virginia, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Mississippi.

Last year, The Wall Street Journal reported the Trump administration is considering reducing the number of visas issued under SWT. And as usual when employment-based visas are scrutinized with an eye toward cutting the total granted, businesses cry foul and falsely predict that without cheap foreign labor they'll go bankrupt.

Yet, despite well-deserved and documented criticism from labor experts who point to multiple SWT flaws, the program carries on year after year even though the unemployment rate among young Americans, and especially minorities, is high. Last summer, a survey showed that teens were about three times as likely to be unemployed as other Americans.

A few takeaways: serving gelato or waiting tables on the Boardwalk can't reasonably be considered cultural exchange. If employers offered decent wages and working conditions, they'd have little trouble attracting American kids. Moreover, shutting Americans out of the labor market has negative long-term consequences. Unemployed young adults don't learn how to interact with their peers or their often demanding bosses. They don't acquire essential work qualities like timelessness and accountability that will lead to a productive career.

The most obvious and important conclusion of all to draw from SWT is that the federal government cannot enact or efficiently monitor any type of immigration legislation that helps American workers.

interest. In general, everyone was on board to make their communities a safer place for all. Community members and the officers had the same common goals.

"Their schedule is fluid depending on intel and as our schedule dictates," Gunn said. "Everyone so far has been very receptive to us. There are many great citizens in this county."

Gunn explained that the only way to build trust and relationships is to get out of the patrol car and listen to the residents, to find out what they need and work with them to find resources.

"Many times, people don't know that there are resources out there to help them or where to find them," Gunn said. "We have been working with several non-profits in the area to determine what they can provide to ensure we get people to the right places."

This task force is trying to bridge a gap and instead of being reactive, they are being proactive. Building trust takes time and patience. Before heading out to their first patrol, Sheriff Paul Blackman said they may not see the results of their work right away, but they would in the future. Chaplain Roldan Mendoza offered a prayer of protection for the officers.

"We are a small enough of a community to be able to reach out to the residents, inspire the youth and to make a difference to the future generations to come," Gunn said.

COPS ADAPT will be hosting a Family Fun Day from 1-4 p.m. today at Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Field, 207 E. State St., in Avon Park. There will be tug-of war, Frisbee, kickball, hula hoops and many other games. The event is free for all families and free food and drinks are also on the agenda.

the last three years, just 2.6 percent were directly attributed to speed.

However, officials with FDOT adamantly state the agency has no plans to raise speed limits in the urbanized areas of Highlands County.

At the same time, however, FDOT doesn't plan to lower speed limits.

That would create more conflicts between people driving the posted limit and people driving the "comfort speed," said Zach Burch with the FDOT District 1 Public Information Office.

Burch said the speed study looks at the 85th percentile speed: How fast 85 percent of drivers go on a particular stretch of road. Usually, he said, the design of the road, including width and number of side streets and drive-ways, along with traffic congestion, will affect how comfortable people feel with a certain speed.

Drivers' comfort levels are also affected by on-street parking — on roads where it exists — as well as the posted speed limit, Burch said.

For U.S. 27 through Sebring and Avon Park, 85 percent of drivers travel at or below the range of 50-60 mph, Burch said, already faster than posted limits.

As for the crash data, Burch said more than half of the wrecks were rear-end crashes — not slowing down for people in front — which FDOT attributes to a driver error and making bad decisions, not necessarily attached to speed limits.

Burch said drivers nationally have a problem with distracted driving. If they look away from the road for two seconds, perhaps answering a phone call, they can travel the length of a football field or two.

The Board of County Commission discussed the findings on Tuesday. As County Engineer Clinton Howerton Jr. prepared to give a report on it, Commissioner Don Elwell gave a synopsis, based on his reading of the 66-page document.

"Philosophically, I don't think a speed study is what we need," Elwell said.

The crash data bothered Elwell: An average of one per day, which despite the FDOT study, he still felt is attributable to speed in most cases, especially "driver error."

"I'll tell you right now: A 10-ton truck can stop a lot faster at 45 mph than it can at 55 or 65 mph," Elwell said.

He also applied speed to wrecks from U-turns, left turns or side-street crossings, when those trying to turn or cross can't accurately judge the speed of oncoming cars, which are going faster than posted limits.

Elwell and Commissioner Ron Handley asked if the county could invite FDOT officials in the near future for a public-input workshop on U.S. 27.

Howerton said he also would want to look at traffic density on connecting roads, the number of connecting roads, and any inconsistencies in speed and volume.

Elwell later put the matter to Facebook, and comments on his post ran the gamut from wanting more traffic enforcement, fewer traffic signals, and/or altering traffic lights to only allow left turns on green arrows.

Another remarked that while most year-round residents seem to follow good traffic behavior, the winter months bring a lot of retirees and "passers-through" who are either driving too slow or are distracted.

Still another said this gave best argument for completion of Sebring Parkway as soon as possible: To take traffic off U.S. 27.

state "various locations and levels."

Ashley was assistant principal of Lake Country Elementary when she became principal of the school prior to the 2014-15 school year.

Summers was named the district's assistant principal of the year at Lake Placid Elementary in April 2016 and became the school's principal prior to the 2016-17 school year.

Along with the two administrative positions, the district is advertising for nine elementary teachers, two high school teachers, six middle school teachers, 11 support staff and five summer programs positions.

Hand returns to Mid-Ohio Sports Car Course

Driver at site of 'Infamous' crash in Acura Sports Car Challenge

Special to Highlands News-Sun

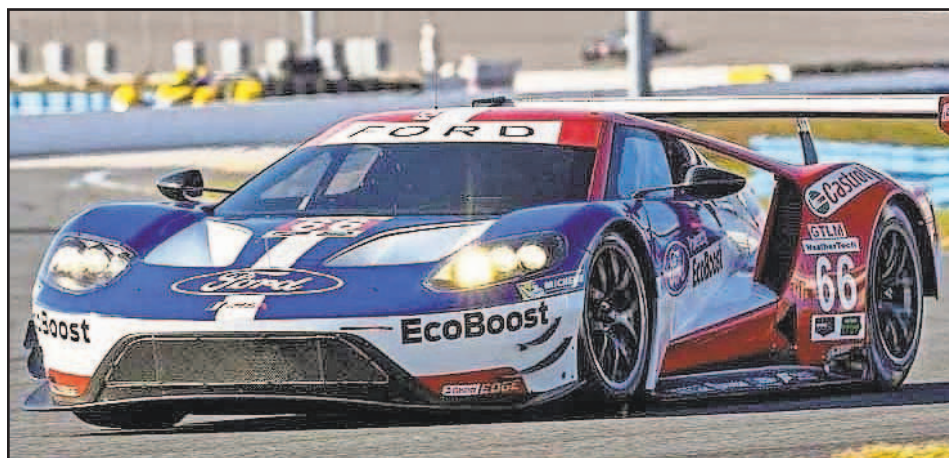

"I actually really like the place," says Joey Hand of Mid-Ohio Sports Car Course, which hosts the IMSA WeatherTech SportsCar Championship for the first time this weekend in Sunday's Acura Sports Car Challenge at Mid-Ohio.

Hand's not alone in his affection for Mid-Ohio, as many other drivers in the field share the No. 66 Ford GT driver's sentiments about the 2.258-mile, 13-turn permanent road course situated in the rolling countryside of Lexington, Ohio. But it wouldn't be a surprise if he felt differently, since Mid-Ohio was the site of a horrifying crash involving Hand during a GRAND-AM Rolex Sports Car Series race there in 2006.

"Everybody said that made me 'infamous,'" said Hand of the crash. Various YouTube videos of the incident have been viewed hundreds of thousands of times.

"Before that, I didn't really know the difference between infamous and famous, but 'infamous' is what they said at Mid-Ohio," Hand recalls. "I remember the wreck really well, the way it went down and what happened. I mean, the people that were there to help me - because I didn't really walk away from it, I crawled away from it. I hit so hard and was stretched out so much that I couldn't

When Lake Placid midfielder Diego Orduna had possession of the soccer ball good things usually happened for the Green Dragon team.

Orduna used his numerous skills and excellent field vision to score 21 goals to go with 16 assists to lead Lake Placid to a district championship and qualify for the state playoffs.

Orduna, a senior and team captain, led the district in scoring as well.

"Diego was recognized as the Most Valuable Player," said Green Dragon soccer coach Alix Jolicoeur. "He possesses exceptional vision on the field to see beyond plays before it even develops. Diego has tremendous skills and fortitude to change the outcome of a game. He exemplified the character of a

For his ability and accomplishments, Orduna was selected as the Highlands News-Sun 2018 All-Highlands Boys Soccer Player of the Year.

"It feels great to win this award," said

Orduna. "I wasn't expecting it, but I guess it shows that hard work pays off. We were a young team and nobody thought we would do much, but we worked really hard and had a great season. I love soccer and our coaches did a great job of helping us to improve and we came together as a team."

The Team

Yoel Gonzalez, junior, Sebring - Gonzalez was a complete player at midfield for the Blue Streaks. "Yoel was an all-around player that understood the game very well," said Sebring assistant soccer coach Roman Peters. "He provided key plays to set up goals ending with 9 assists, delivered great free kicks, and even get a pair of goals for himself."

Lane Franza, senior, Avon Park - Franza had a solid season playing his sweeper position for the Red Devils.

Alejandro Villagomez, junior, Lake Placid - Villagomez played midfield and was recognized as the Offensive Player of the Year after scoring 12 goals and had seven assists. "Alejandro has extraordinary moves with the ball," Jolicoeur said. "He is a skillful player and was a tremendous asset to the success of Dragons soccer this year. He has mastered the free-kick skill, hence has managed to score more free-kicks in the district."

Joshua Ramos, senior, Sebring - Ramos showed great vision and was the team-leader in goals scored for the Blue Streaks. "Joshua controlled the

Shank set for Acura Sports Car Challenge

Special to Highlands News-Sun

The pressure will be on Meyer Shank Racing co-owner Mike Shank going into Sunday's Acura Sports Car Challenge at Mid-Ohio.

For starters, it's a home race for the longtime IMSA WeatherTech SportsCar Championship team based near Columbus, Ohio. You always want to perform well in front of your friends, family and business associates.

On top of that, the team is fielding a pair of Acura NSX GT3 race cars in the GT Daytona (GTD) class, the No. 93 for co-drivers Lawson Aschenbach and Justin Marks and the No. 86 NSX for Katherine Legge and Alvaro Parente.

Production versions of the Acura NSX are built just down the road from Mid-Ohio Sports Car Course in Acura's Performance Manufacturing Center in Marysville, Ohio. Acura is the title sponsor of the race, and even the safety car will be an Acura NSX.

"Listen, this is Acura's home race," Shank said. "They stepped up and committed to sponsor the whole weekend, so that's a big step. That means they trust that (Acura Team) Penske [which fields a pair of Acura DPis in the Prototype class] and us can get the job done for them and get some results beyond everything else."

"It's not only the high-up corporate guys at Honda and Acura, it's also these people that put these NSXs together an hour away from Mid-Ohio. They're literally hand-built an hour away and those folks will be over. They're proud of this car and they should be because it's a little piece of artwork, honestly."

"I feel more pressure to make sure we perform in front of them than almost anything else. There's 160 people that build these cars, and they deserve us to do well."

This weekend also will mark the first IMSA event for the newly renamed Meyer Shank Racing team. Jim Meyer, CEO of SiriusXM, was introduced last month as Shank's new partner and co-owner of the team, which also fields an IndyCar for driver Jack Harvey.

"That was a big step in my world," Shank said. "We've kind of bootstrapped this thing - my wife (MaryBeth) and I - for all these years. I think I'm on my 15th or 16th season with IMSA, or with a Jim France-led group, so I've been there a long time."

"I think we have come to a place where we need some help in a couple of departments. I consider myself a pretty damn good operations guy, but I need more help on the commercial side. I think Jim (Meyer) gives us an avenue that very few have, that can add depth to this organization."

The organization has done reasonably well this season so far in the GTD class, which is running its first race since March's Mobil 1 Twelve Hours of Sebring Presented by Advance Auto Parts. The No. 86 team comes into the weekend sitting third in the GTD point standings, just 10 points behind the class-leading No. 48 Paul Miller Racing Lamborghini Huracán GT3 co-driven by Bryan Sellers and Madison Snow.

The No. 93 team is seventh in points, 21 in arrears of the leaders, but both Marks and Aschenbach have had previous success at Mid-Ohio.

field very well and had incredible vision," coach Peters said. "He led the team in goals with 14 for the season and in assists at 15. He was a natural leader and it showed off and on the field and his presence will be missed."

Latroy Hilliard, junior, Avon Park - Hilliard had a solid season as a defender for the Red Devils.

Jose Vargas, freshman, Lake Placid - Vargas was a solid defender for the Green Dragons. "Jose was recognized as the Defensive Player of the Year," Jolicoeur said. "Even as a defender, Jose managed to score a goal. He's one of the smartest and most aggressive players on the team. He's also a versatile player with the ability to play anywhere on the field."

Raymar Thomas, senior, Sebring - Thomas had a solid season at midfield for the Blue Streaks. "Raymar often took control of a game and picked others up to get them and the team going," Peters said. "He provided support on offense by scoring 7 goals, creating chances to score by providing 11 assists, as well as tracking back to stop the other team."

Jose Zepeda, freshman, Avon Park - Zepeda was involved in a lot of action as a midfielder and stopper for the Red Devil defense.

Oby Vega, freshman, Lake Placid - Vega played forward and netted 6 goals for the Dragons. "Oby was recognized as the Rookie of the Year and is a very skillful young player and most importantly, he is coachable which sets him apart from some of his teammates," Jolicoeur said. "Oby does an outstanding job sharing the ball with his teammates and often find ways to make them productive."

Dylan Ramos, junior, Sebring - Ramos had an outstanding season in goal for the Blue Streaks. "Dylan saved the team time and time again with exceptional saves that would keep us in the game," Peters said. "Dylan was a vocal leader from the back and communicated well with his defense."

Victor Tellez, sophomore, Avon Park - Tellez was a key cog in the Red Devils offense from his midfield and forward positions.

Sam Troutman, sophomore, Lake Placid - Troutman played forward and scored 13 goals for the Dragons. "Sam has tremendous stamina and was among the top ten points leader in the district according

Kevin Mojica, senior, Sebring - Mojica was solid as a defender for the Blue Streaks. "Kevin was the main center defender these past four years and consistently shut the other team down," Peters said. "He was a proven aerial threat time and time again with his height and he used that very well for both offense and defense."

Jeston Mason, junior, Avon Park - Mason was solid at midfield and forward for the Red Devils.

Orlando Jr. Medina, sophomore, Lake Placid - Medina was a force at forward with 10 goals and 8 assists for the Dragons.

"Orlando has a lot of talent and the ability to strike the ball with efficiency, accuracy and power," Jolicoeur said.

Roberto Marin, junior, Avon Park - Marin was a key player on the Red Devils offense from his midfield and forward positions.

Honorable Mention

Noah Roth, junior, Sebring - Roth used his speed to help the Blue Streak defense stay strong. "Noah provided rock solid defense and incredible speed, rarely letting anyone past him," Peters said. "He never complained, always worked hard, and encouraged other to do their best."

Julian Jara, sophomore, Sebring - Jara displayed great ball-handling skills at midfield for the Blue Streaks. "Julian showed great skill as such a young player with plenty of potential," Peters said. "Often aggressive, Julian would push and encourage his team for more and to never stop until the final whistle was blown. He finished the season with 4 goals and 2 assists."

really move my limbs, so I kind of just crawled away."

Hand also has vivid memories of the end-over-end crash itself.

"It's just pretty wild, how we got into the infield, like my grandpa would say, 'Ass over teakettle,' and flipping 13 times," he says. "I was just lucky. To dissipate energy that slowly actually was a better thing."

"People were like, 'Oh my goodness, that's such a bad wreck.' Well, it was, but you don't want to hit stuff and stop really fast. I've done that before and that sucks even worse. It was a wild ride and I was awake for the whole thing."

Fortunately, he managed to avoid major injury in the crash. Even better, the next year, Hand returned to Mid-Ohio and won a World Challenge race. Four years later, he won again at Mid-Ohio in the GRAND-AM GT class with Bill Auferlen in a Turner Motorsport BMW.

"I've won a couple of races there since, so it's not all about the big wreck there for me at Mid-Ohio, thankfully," Hand says. "It's also about winning at Mid-Ohio."

He'll be looking to win again this weekend in the WeatherTech Championship GT Le Mans (GTLM) class alongside co-driver Dirk Mueller in the No. 66 Ford Chip Ganassi Racing entry. Hand, Mueller and the No. 66 team are currently tied for fourth in the GTLM standings, trailing their teammates,

"I always feel like we're in a good groove with the car," Hand said. "Me and Dirk and John Hennek, our engineer, we're in a good place. We find our way really well together. I'm excited about it. It should be a good weekend for us."

He's also excited to return to Mid-Ohio, which hasn't hosted an IMSA race since 2013. It was a second "home track" for the California native, who lived in Ohio for three years when he raced in Toyota Atlantic for the Ohio-based DSTP Motorsports team.

Plus, he just loves this type of race track.

"Road America, Watkins Glen, Mid-Ohio, VIR, we're so fortunate to have these great American race tracks that are built on the topography of the land," Hand says. "The ups and downs are from the hills that you're standing on. They make for great racetracks. When I say, 'racing,' I mean the show for the fans. Like, it'll be a great race, guaranteed."

"If I was a spectator or fan and I was going to, like, watch a race, I'd go there in a motorhome or camper or something and I would camp out. When you're 100 feet from the racetrack, you're in the woods. It's like a really great campground. Then, you walk 100 feet and you watch race cars."

Tickets for the Acura Sports Car Challenge at Mid-Ohio are available now at MidOhio.com.

The two-hour, 40-minute race will be televised live on FS2 at 1 p.m., with live IMSA Radio coverage also available on IMSA.com, RadioLeMans.com and SiriusXM Radio.

Keeping company

I suspect that the phrase 'keeping company' is kind of old fashioned today. It's right up there with 'courting.'

Yet, everything that is older isn't necessarily out of sync. No matter what it is called, men and women need to take time to get to know one another and each other's families.

The phrase, 'keeping company' denoted seriously going steady. The dating game was over. This relationship was more definitive. It was going somewhere... eyes toward engagement and the wedding aisle.

When I recently came across the idea of 'keeping company,' it was a warming thought. It brought up memories of meeting my husband, Ken, and how he met all the values' criteria I knew were essential in a future mate. He wanted to get to know me and I wanted to get to know him.

As we went on picnics, walked the beach, hiked a trail or simply interacted with each other in association with family and friends, we kept company. And as time went on, it was obvious that we enjoyed and longed for the company of each other.

But, before that became a reality in my life, there was something I had to give up. Having been a single Mom and longing for a husband for me and dad for my young son, the Lord brought me to a point in my spiritual life where I had to want his will above my own.

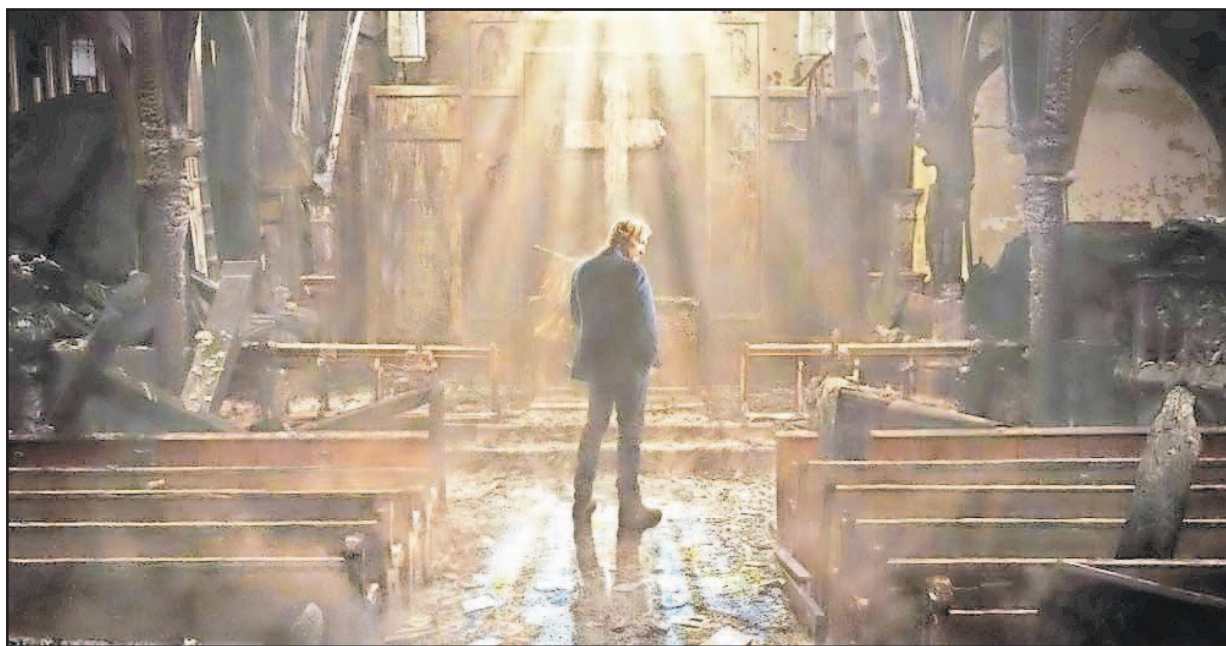

Yielding my heart's desire to him was hard in a way, yet freeing in another. At last I could rest and trust in him wholeheartedly. Finally, I was totally 'keeping company' with the Lord and enjoying his companionship. His presence fulfilled my needs. My hopes and desires were in his loving hands.

One month later, I met Ken and, after a time, we enfolded our two families into one. As we kept company with one another, keeping company with God as individuals, as a couple and as a family was essential to a harmonious home.

He remained our steady companion. Practicing his presence helped us make wise decisions, adjustments and plans. And he still does.

Before Jesus' death, resurrection and ascension, he promised his followers that he would not leave them comfortless. We read in John 14: 26 NLT, "But when the Father sends the Advocate as my representative - that is, the Holy Spirit - he will teach you everything and will remind you of everything I have told you."

He is present and left us with the gift of his peace. Keep company with him. Selah

"God's Not Dead: A Light in Darkness?" is in theaters now.

By Justin Chang
LOS ANGELES TIMES

At one point in the hit musical biopic "I Can Only Imagine," Bart Millard (J. Michael Finley), a Texan singer-songwriter touring with his up-and-coming Christian rock band MercyMe, receives a rude awakening from the industry he's trying to woo.

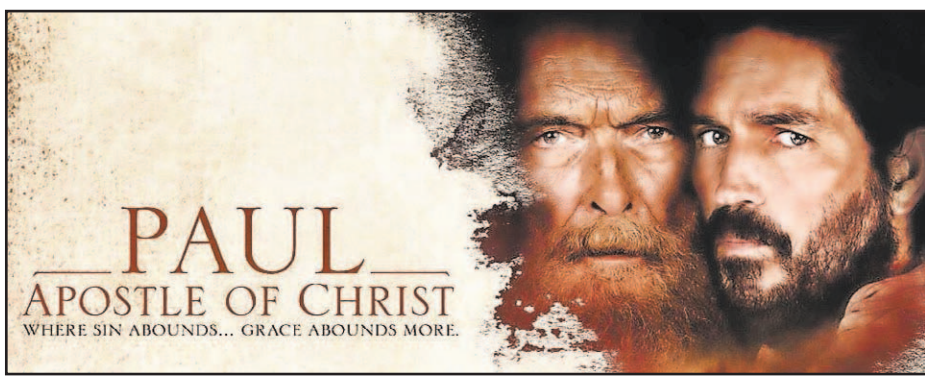

"You're just not good enough," says one record-label rep, inadvertently echoing the cruel words of Bart's abusive father (Dennis Quaid) and triggering a wave of flashbacks to the boy's traumatized upbringing. Those flashbacks made me roll my eyes, but they also filled me with a strange sense of guilt. As someone who considers himself both a lover of cinema and a follower of Jesus Christ, I must confess that the words "You're just not good enough" have generally summed up my own opinion of the many, many Christian-themed independent productions that have sprung up since the smash success of "The Passion of the Christ" 14 years ago.

That may be a harsh judgment to render against pictures that, at least in their broad range of genres and stories, would seem to resist easy pigeonholing. Companies as different as Pure Flix Entertainment, Stoney for Christian moviegoers who claim the industry doesn't reflect or respect their spiritual values. I'd respond that in some cases, those moviegoers simply aren't looking hard enough; if they were, brilliant dramas like Rodrigo Garcia's "Last Days in the Desert" and Martin Scorsese's "Silence" might have become the church-fuher original novel. If L'Engle — a refreshingly free-thinking, non-dogmatic Christian writer — had a choice in the matter, I imagine she'd prefer a film stripped of overt religious references to one wallowing in grotesque spiritual kitsch, especially in light of the examples the "faith-based" community has given us.

"Paul, Apostle of Christ" is in theaters now.

Lake Entertainment and Sony's Affirm Films have churned out old-school period epics, sentimental heart-tuggers, pro-marriage romantic dramas, Rapturous disaster flicks, political provocations and flat-out comedies (not all of them intentional), most of which have nonetheless been filed under the handy if reductive term "faith-based entertainment."

These pictures have offered an oasis of sorts eled hits they deserved to be. But there is some truth to the notion that Hollywood doesn't always know how best to serve a significant portion of its audience. Look no further than the modest furor over Disney's adaptation of "A Wrinkle in Time," a movie I admired for its crazily unorthodox vision but one curiously devoid of the biblical references that Madeleine L'Engle included in

I've liked my share of these pictures. I had a soft spot for "The Song," a lush marital drama set in the country-music industry, and wasn't entirely immune to the insistent, afterlife-peddling charms of "Heaven Is for Real." But for the most part, these examples have been rare and decidedly mixed blessings, small standouts in a sea of movies that haven't given adherents or atheists much to believe in.

My reservations have little to do with standard criticisms like awkward performances or clunky production values

KEVIN'S KOMMENTS

Kevin Patterson

Too strict?

Once, I heard a person accuse another of observing the teachings of the Bible "too strictly." Let me tell you about the two ways I view that accusation.

My first thought is that there is always the danger of being "too strict" about the Bible when we become like the Pharisees of the first century. They were so analytical of the scriptures that they created commandments where no commandments had been given and taught laws where no laws had been written. Therefore, if we are pharisaical concerning our biblical strictness and force teachings into God's word that He never gave, then we violate the very book we espouse to believe and obey.

My second thought reminds me of the biblical teaching to obey God exactly as He commands us. The Bible is filled with passages like Deuteronomy 4:2 that reads, "You shall not add to the word which I am commanding you, nor take away from it, that you may keep the commandments of the Lord your God which I command you." John wrote in Revelation 22:18, 19, "I testify to everyone who hears the words of the prophecy of this book: if anyone adds to them, God will add to him the plagues which are written in this book; and if anyone takes away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God will take away his part from the tree of life and from the holy city, which are written in this book." To obey God's will does not mean that we have the freedom to add or subtract those things that we want or do not want to follow in His holy word. It simply means that we should follow His instructions exactly as He gave them — nothing more, nothing less. To do otherwise would be to sin against God.

To determine just how strictly we should behave concerning God's word begins with this question: How strict is God concerning His word? In other words, is God flexible or inflexible when it comes to His instructions for us? Whatever viewpoint we find God to have about the Bible, then that same viewpoint ought to be ours, as well. Correct?

The simple fact is this: God is very strict concerning His instructions for us and our obedience to them. Throughout the Bible, we find instances of people who were punished or even killed because they violated God's law in just one area. (1) Moses was kept out of the Promised Land because he did not obey God's instructions exactly

COUNSELING CORNER

It's not just age that brings on that mid-life crisis

American Counseling Association

Have you reached mid-life yet? It's a simple question, but a difficult one to answer. Adolescents may see mid-life beginning at 30. Adults in their 40s may view 50 or 60 as when mid-life begins.

Although experts say that mid-life is usually somewhere between 35 and 65, age is only part of the equation. More important are the feelings you have of moving between youth and your senior years, and what you do with those emotions.

Mid-life period isn't necessarily just calendar-based. Often, it's more seeing you no longer look or feel as youthful and energetic as you once did. That realization can lead some people to start taking action to make them appear younger -- buying that sports car, for example.

Alfred Adler, a major counseling influence, emphasized mid-life is a period when it's important to separate wants from needs. That can help simplify life and keep you from chasing shiny new objects in a midlife crisis that really aren't going to make you younger or even appear younger.

The real "need" of this period is to accept mid-life as a normal part of life, and to see it as an opportunity where you can use the experience and wisdom you've gained to make a difference in people's lives and to contribute to society.

So while you might buy that sports car, there are better ways to make mid-life produce positive results. Start with making a list of lessons you've learned since adolescence and examine how this knowledge has served you and helped enrich your life and the lives of others.

It's also a good time to begin exploring activities to help you feel healthy and relaxed. Starting or maintaining an exercise regime, for example, won't make you 21 again, but is a means of making the best of where you actually are in life.

Mid-life is also an excellent time to examine your life goals. Maybe you want to think about a career move or to consider social or relationship changes. It may be a time to talk with a professional counselor if you find that you need guidance in understanding the changes mid-life has brought.

Mid-life is only a crisis for someone unable to accept the changes maturing brought. When handled correctly, mid-life can be an opportunity to explore who you are and what goals you want to achieve as your life moves forward.

Family Caregivers Are Getting A Break — And Extra Coaching

By MINDY FETTERMAN and LYNNE SHALLCROSS
KAISER HEALTH NEWS

WASHINGTON — For today, there are no doctor's visits. No long afternoons with nothing to do. No struggles over bathing — or not.

At the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., a group of older adults — some in wheelchairs, some with Alzheimer's — and their caregivers sit in a semi-circle around a haunting portrait of a woman in white.

"Take a deep breath," said Lorena Bradford, head of accessible programs at the National Gallery, standing before "The Repentant Magdalen" by Georges de La Tour.

"Now, let your eyes wander all over the painting. Take it all in. What do you think is going on?"

"I think she looks sad," said Marie Fanning, 75, of Alexandria, Va., an Alzheimer's patient.

"Yes. Yes, she looks sad," said Bradford. "This is such a gift," Bill Fanning, 77, Marie's husband and caregiver, said of the outing.

Across the country, community groups, hospitals, government agencies and nonprofits are doing more to support at least some of the estimated 42 million people who are the primary caregivers of adults and children who have disabilities, are recovering from surgeries and illnesses or are coping with Alzheimer's and other chronic diseases.

"We know that involvement with art improves well-being. In our own research for persons with dementia, we see a reduction in apathy. For caregivers, we see less isolation and a reduction in stress," said Carolyn Halpin-Healy, executive director of the Arts & Minds program for caregivers and patients at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

A new bipartisan law signed by President Donald Trump in January calls for a national strategy to address the needs of caregivers, who are primarily women and provide 37 billion hours in unpaid care to relatives or close friends valued at $470 billion, according to an AARP study. The law will require the Department of Health and Human Services to set up an advisory council and develop a blueprint for government action on financial, workplace, respite care and other caregiver issues.

Helping the helpers

Caregivers are almost two times more likely to have emotional and physical problems, and three times more likely to have productivity problems at work, according to a 2015 study by Johns Hopkins. The more intense the care, the greater the effects, the study said.

Dr. Eric Coleman, a gerontologist who received a MacArthur "genius award" grant in 2012, created the Care Transitions Intervention model (CTI). The national program based at the University of Colorado in Denver trains coaches to help caregivers transition their patient to home care. The coaches are usually social workers, nurses or others hired by hospitals and other facilities to work directly with caregivers. Coaches talk to the caregiver before patients are discharged from a hospital. Then they have a one-hour coaching session at the patient's home, and three follow-up phone calls. Studies have shown that having transition coaches can drop readmission to hospitals by 20 to 50 percent, said Coleman.

Caregivers do more than make meals; they perform medical tasks like giving medicine, taking blood pressure, changing bandages and more. Yet they receive virtually no training, Coleman said.

Linking hospitals with caregivers

Dignity Health Systems, the largest nonprofit hospital company in California, is partnering with the nonprofit Santa Barbara Foundation to provide caregiver coaches. At any given time, 1,000 caregivers are being coached, said Kathleen Sullivan, vice president of acute care services for Dignity.

The group works with nonprofit aging agencies to provide in-home coaches, she said. "When people get home from the hospital, they're just exhausted. They don't remember what they were told in the hospital."

Having fun helps, too

Caregivers need a little fun and relaxation, said Jason Resendez, executive director of the Latinos Against Alzheimer's Coalition. About 8 million Latinos are caregivers for their family members, and nearly 2 million are caring for family members with Alzheimer's, he said.

For instance, in Los Angeles, Latino groups partnered on a play performed in Spanish about a son who is his mother's caregiver. It was a comedy. And in Chicago, the Latino Alzheimer's and Memory Disorders Alliance (LAMDA) holds caregiver training — and free salsa dancing classes.

"It's not just about translation; it's not just about handing out pamphlets," he said.

ASK MR. DAD

What adolescents need from their fathers

By ARMIN BROTT
TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

Dear Mr. Dad. I'm the dad of 12-year old boy-girl twins. I've already noticed that my relationship with them has changed, but I want to make sure I'm doing everything I can to stay involved as they enter the teen years. What do they need most from me and how can I gently steer them in the right direction?

A: Great question! There are all sorts of things that have an influence on your teen's behavior: you, his friends, the media, his teachers, and himself. Unfortunately, you have control over only one: yourself. Fortunately, though, how you treat and raise your children will have an influence over how much credence they give to the other things in their life. Even though your teens will never admit it, they need you now more than ever. Boys are looking at you to show them what it means to be a man, what men do in our society, and how they treat women. Girls are looking at you to model the way they should expect to be treated by the men in their lives. Here's what you need to do to be the most involved father you can be, as well as to reduce the chances that your teens will engage in risky or dangerous behavior:

Be There. As much as you can, as often as you can. Teens want to know that their dads care about them, and your physical presence is incredibly important. Having regular family dinners is a major sign of involvement. Be there when they come home from school if you can. Kids (including teens) who are left alone after school are more likely to drink or do drugs than kids who have adult supervision. Be there in spirit too. Turn off the TV during dinner, check your email and read the paper later.

Hugs. Your teens still want reassurance that you love them — even if they're too embarrassed to ask for it. Don't be shy about hugging your son; just respect his feelings and don't do it in front of his friends. And don't be afraid to hug your daughter. When their daughters start going through puberty, some dads back away from almost any physical contact, fearing that someone will think they're behaving inappropriately. But those daughters — many of whom are confused and worried about their changing bodies and the way they look — interpret the lack of hugs from the most important man in their life as a sign that you don't like the way they look, and that everyone else will feel the same way too.

Expectations. Having high-yet-reasonable expectations for grades, music practice, extra-curricular activities, homework, etc., this lets kids know that you care and that you want them to succeed.

Monitor. Do you know how much time they're spending watching TV? On social media? Do you know what kind of music they're listening to? How they're doing in school? The names of their friends? I'm not suggesting that you sneak around and shove your nose into everything, just pay attention. Dads who stay actively involved in their teens' lives have children who are less likely to drop out of school, abuse drugs or alcohol, or become teen parents.

Reduce Temptation. Model the behavior you expect from them — your drinking, smoking, or doing drugs increases the chance that your children will. Seventy percent of teens say their parents have a lot of influence, compared to only 26 percent who say their boyfriend or girlfriend does.

This may sound like a lot, but it's just the beginning. Because teens need so many things from their fathers, I'll be continuing this column next week.

FAMILY TRAVEL FIVE

Extra precautions for keeping kids healthy

By LYNN O'ROURKE HAYES
FAMILYTRAVEL.COM

FTraveling with kids in the months ahead? The immune systems of children are less developed than adults, so it makes sense to take some extra precautions. Here are five to consider:

1. Wash those hands. Simple and effective, it's the No. 1 way to avoid illness. When out and about it's important to wash hands well and often. Use warm, soapy water and scrub-a-dub for at least 20 seconds. That can seem like a long time for youngsters so some families use the duration of a short song or poem to help kids determine how long is long enough. Use alcohol-based (at least 60 percent) hand sanitizer as a backup strategy.

2. The extra step. Airplane tray tables and armrests, public restrooms and hotel room surfaces don't always get cleaned and disinfected properly. Use hand sanitizer to wipe down these high touch areas (including the hotel room television remote) before you and your kids settle in. Use a hand towel or tissue to turn faucets on and off and to open door handles in high-traffic restrooms.

3. Bring your own. It can be an extra hassle but it's best to bring your own small pillows or pillow covers and blankets rather than counting on sanitized supplies on board your next flight. Buy bottled water or bring your own refillable bottle and fill up before boarding the flight to stay hydrated. Whenever possible, bring your own healthy snacks to enjoy onboard.

4. Be a vampire. For your own protection and that of fellow passengers, teach the kids how to sneeze or cough into their elbow (mimicking a vampire pulling his cape in front of his face.) If you find yourself seated next to or near a sick passenger, it's appropriate to ask your flight attendant to move if there are other seats available.

5. Be informed. When traveling to different regions of the country or outside the U.S. do your research to determine which precautions, vaccines or additional steps might be necessary. Consult the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's information for travelers to see what recommendations are provided for your destination.

Mother, the dew always will be on your roses

By LUCY LUGINBILL
TRI-CITY HERALD

Looking back, it seems like only yesterday.

There I was, perched precariously on the edge of the church pew like a small bird ready for flight. My tiny feet didn't even reach the floor.

But I was secure. Mother sat beside me.

As I held her hand, my eyes followed hers to the strong voice that boomed from the podium. His words filled the room. And even though I wasn't quite sure what the tall kind-looking man was talking about,

I completely understood when he spoke my name.

"This is the favorite song of Edna Hale's daughter, Lucille."

That was me! The minister was talking to me! It was as if God himself had spoken the words.

And they were true. I loved that special hymn, "In the Garden." Why? Because it was Mother's favorite song, too.

"I come to the garden alone, while the dew is still on the roses ..."

If I squeezed my eyes shut, I could see Mother walking in that garden. A place filled with beautiful flowers. And in my mind's eye, she was enjoying the fragrance and prettiness of each one.

Roses were her favorite. And through many summers, Mother carefully tended her backyard gardens. Lilies, hollyhocks, daisies and roses — always roses — flourished under her care.

Mother not only enjoyed caring for flowers, but she also loved nurturing me. One of her greatest joys was seeing me grow to know God's love.

It's remarkable how a mother's heart can influence her child. How a mother's example can set her child's path.

Sunday after Sunday, she and I sat side by side. Row six, first two seats on the right — our perfect attendance pins shining brightly on our church attire.

As the years passed, high heels replaced my Mary Jane shoes, and pinafores danced their way into memories. But some things didn't change.

For countless sunlit Sabbaths, our voices rose in unison as we sang our beloved hymn.

"I come to the garden alone, while the dew is still on the roses ..."

There by Mother's side, I learned the wisdom of listening to God's voice.

"And the voice I hear, falling on my ear, the Son of God discloses."

The importance of spending time in God's presence.

"And He walks with me and He talks with me ..."

And the assurance of a personal relationship with him.

"And He tells me I am His own ..."

For 93 years, Mother loved that song. It spoke of her spiritual garden — a daily journey into that quiet place of prayer.

Then one day, while the "dew was still on the roses," her Savior called her home.

Even now, if I close my eyes, I can picture her there.

"And the joy we share as we tarry there, none other has ever known."

PAHOA, Hawaii — The Kilauea volcano sent more lava into Hawaii communities Friday, a day after forcing more than 1,500 people to flee their rural homes, and authorities detected high levels of sulfur gas that could threaten elderly people and those with breathing problems. The eruption that began with lava flying into the sky from a crack in a road persisted with reports of molten rock spurting from several volcanic vents. Neighborhoods downhill from the vents were at risk of being covered up. At least two homes were destroyed, officials said.

A huge magnitude-6.9 earthquake has rattled an area near the south part of the volcano, but the Pacific Tsunami Warning Center said there was no threat of a tsunami and transportation officials said no damage to roads has been reported. It came after a magnitude-5.4 earthquake struck the same area Friday.

Julie Woolsey lives on a street where a vent opened up and channeled lava to within 1,000 yards of her house. When it appeared, she freed her chickens, loaded her dogs into her truck and evacuated with her daughter and grandson.

President Donald Trump tells reporters a time and place for his meeting with North Korea's Kim Jong Un has been set and will be announced soon.

Trump: North Korea summit plans set

By MATTHEW PENNINGTON and ZEKE MILLER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — President Donald Trump offered his latest teaser Friday for a historic U.S. summit with North Korea: The time and place have been set but he's not saying when and where.

The White House did, however, announce the details of a separate meeting later this month between Trump and South Korean President Moon Jae-in, as the U.S. administration pushed back on a report that Trump is considering the withdrawal of U.S. forces from the allied nation.

Trump and Moon would meet at the White House on May 22 to "continue their close coordination on developments regarding the Korean Peninsula" following last Friday's meeting between Moon and Kim Jong Un. They will also discuss the U.S. president's own upcoming summit with the North Korean leader, a statement said.

Honduras regrets US move to end temporary protected status

By FREDDY CUEVAS
ASSOCIATED PRESS

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras — President Juan Orlando Hernandez's government expressed regret over a U.S. move Friday to end temporary protected status, or TPS, for tens of thousands of Hondurans who have resided in the United States for nearly two decades.

The foreign relations ministry said in a statement that it is a sovereign matter for Washington to decide, but added that "we deeply lament it."

It said returnees "are and always will be welcome in their homeland, where they will be received with open arms," and "their reintegration into our society will be facilitated."

The Trump administration announced earlier in the day that it was ending TPS for the 57,000 Hondurans covered under the program. They now have until Jan. 5, 2020, to sort out their affairs before returning home — or try to normalize their migratory status in other ways, such as through marriage or sponsorship.

The figure represents a small fraction of the estimated 1.1 million-plus Hondurans living in the United States, who each year send home remittances totaling some $4.2 billion, or nearly one-sixth of Honduras' $26 billion gross domestic product.

Still, Hugo Noe, a former Central Bank president and ex-Honduran ambassador to Washington, called the decision "a tragedy that creates uncertainty for so many families."

"Those Hondurans will fall into illegal status," Noe predicted. "They will not come back."

Hondurans covered by TPS join hundreds of thousands of other immigrants from countries battered by violence and natural disasters who are losing permission to be in the United States.

Florida congressional races sending new faces to Washington

By BRENDAN FARRINGTON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

TALLAHASSEE — Florida will have at least four new members of Congress and possibly several more as the deadline to qualify for the ballot ended Friday.

Retirements and political ambitions are opening four seats, three first-term incumbents are facing strong challengers from within their own party, and several other members are being targeted by the opposing party.

Just two years after Florida sent 10 freshmen to the U.S. House, the state will again send some fresh faces to Washington. Republican U.S. Reps. Ileana Ros-Lethinen, Dennis Ross and Tom Rooney are leaving office, along with Ron DeSantis, who is running for governor. And that means Florida will play a key role as Democrats try to chip away at Republicans' dominance in Congress.

Here's a look at some of the most-watched races leading up to Florida's August 28 primary and Nov. 6 election:

District 1

The Republican primary is key in this conservative western Panhandle district. Republican U.S. Rep. Matt Gaetz won the 2016 primary with only 36 percent of the vote in a seven-way race for an open seat. Real estate developer and former Marine officer Cris Dosev came in third with 20 percent of the vote. Dosev is running again, saying Gaetz is more focused on gaining attention in Washington than representing the district. But the Gaetz name is well-known in the area. Gaetz served in the state House before going to Washington, and his father, Don Gaetz, served as Senate president.

District 6

This is the Republican-leaning north Atlantic coast district DeSantis is giving up to run for governor, and two millionaire Republican businessmen with military backgrounds

No Nobel literature prize this year but 2 prizes in 2019

By JAN M. OLSEN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — Following weeks of internal bickering, sex-abuse allegations and a financial investigation by police, the body that hands out the prestigious Nobel Prize in Literature announced Friday that no prize will be awarded this year.

Instead, the academy said two Nobel Prizes in Literature will be handed out next year, the 2018 prize and the 2019 prize. The decision was made Thursday at a weekly meeting of the Swedish Academy in Stockholm on the grounds that the group was in too deep a crisis to choose a Nobel winner properly.

"The present crisis of confidence places high demands on a long-term and robust work for change," said Anders Olsson, the academy's permanent secretary. "We find it necessary to commit time to recovering public confidence in the Academy before the next laureate can be announced."

It will be the first time since 1949 that the prestigious award has been delayed. Last year, Japanese-born British novelist Kazuo Ishiguro won the prize.

"It has occurred before. This year we're doing it because we've had a very, very unusual situation, with conflicts in the academy and a weakened academy in terms of the number of members," Olsson told Sweden's TT news agency.

North Korea adjusts time zone to match South's

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SEOUL, South Korea — North Korea readjusted its time zone to match South Korea's on Saturday and described the change as an early step toward making the longtime rivals "become one" following a landmark summit.

North Korean leader Kim Jong Un promised to sync his country's time zone with the South's during his April 27 talks with South Korean President Moon Jae-in. A dispatch from the North's Korean Central News Agency says that promise was fulfilled Saturday by a decree of the nation's Presidium of the Supreme People's Assembly.

The Koreans used the same time zone for decades before the North in 2015 created its own "Pyongyang Time" by setting its clocks 30 minutes behind South Korea and Japan. It said at the time that it did so to root out the legacy of Tokyo's 1910-1945 colonial rule of the Korean Peninsula, when clocks in Korea were changed to be the same as in Japan.

"Pyongyang Time" was created as tensions between the authoritarian country and the U.S. grew over Pyongyang's nuclear weapons program and international sanctions aimed at dismantling it. But in recent months relations between the Koreas have warmed dramatically, with Kim and South Korean President

Moon Jae-in pledging at their summit last week to rid the peninsula of nuclear weapons.

The summit produced many steps toward reconciliation, including an agreement to resume reunions of families by war, though it lacked a breakthrough in the nuclear standoff. Those details await Kim and U.S. President Donald Trump, who are expected to meet in the coming weeks.

KCNA earlier said Kim proposed returning North Korea to the South's time zone because it was "a painful wrench to see two clocks indicating Pyongyang and Seoul times hanging on a wall of the summit venue."

The news agency said resynchronizing North and South Korean time was "the first practical step" since the summit "to speed up the process for the north and the south to become one and turn their different and separated things into the same and single ones."

According to South Korea, Kim has said he'd be willing to give up his nukes if the United States commits to a formal end to the Korean War and pledges not to attack the North. But his exact demands for relinquishing weapons that his nation spent decades building remains unclear.

Meghan Markle's parents to visit queen, have wedding roles

By GREGORY KATZ ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON — Meghan Markle's divorced parents will meet with Queen Elizabeth II and other royals before her May 19 wedding to Prince Harry and will have special roles in their daughter's wedding, a palace spokesman said Friday.

At the wedding, the royal couple also plan to honor the memory of the late Princess Diana, Harry's mother, who died in a Paris car crash in 1997.

Officials didn't predict the weather — springtime in England can be glorious or horrid, sometimes on the same day — but they outlined plans for a celebration designed to spread from the privileged environs of Windsor Castle throughout Britain and the world, via television and the internet.

Markle's parents, Thomas Markle and Doria Ragland, will arrive during the week before the May 19 wedding so they have time to meet Harry's family.

Press secretary Jason Knauf says they will visit with the queen, her husband Prince Philip, Harry's father Prince Charles and his wife Camilla, and with Harry's brother Prince William and his sister-in-law Kate.

Ragland will travel with her daughter by car to Windsor Castle on May 19 and Thomas Markle will walk his daughter down the aisle of St. George's Chapel for the ceremony.

Knauf says Markle is "delighted" that her parents will be by her side. He did not say whether Markle's half brother and half sister will attend the wedding.

Knauf says Harry is "keen to involve his mother's family in the wedding" and that all three of Diana's siblings will be present. One of Diana's two older sisters, Jane Fellowes, will give a reading during the ceremony to represent Diana's family.

Knauf says all the bridesmaids and page boys will be children. That may mean a role for Prince George, 4, and Princess Charlotte, 3, the children of Prince William and the Duchess of Cambridge. But don't bother looking for Prince Louis — born in late April — as the youngest prince will not attend the wedding.

UN chief: Syria must respond to chemical weapons questions

By EDITH M. LEDERER ASSOCIATED PRESS

UNITED NATIONS — Secretary-General Antonio Guterres says Syria's failure to answer questions from the international chemical weapons watchdog about its chemical weapons program "remains a source of very deep concern."

While the Syrian government partially addressed some questions raised by the Organization for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons, the U.N. chief said "other questions regrettably remain unanswered."

In a letter circulated Friday transmitting the OPCW's latest report to the Security Council, Guterres said he continues to urge Syria to resolve all outstanding issues.

OPCW Director-General

Ahmet Uzumcu said in the report that he has repeated his requests to Syrian authorities that unanswered questions about its declarations of chemical weapons "remain and require a response."

Guterres said "the profoundly alarming allegations" of chemical weapons use in the Damascus suburb of Douma on April 7 further underline the need for a new body to determine responsibility for chemical attacks.

The OPCW said Friday that its fact-finding mission to Douma brought back samples for analysis at OPCW-designated laboratories — a process that could take at least three to four weeks. Its inspectors are only mandated to establish whether a chemical weapon was used, not to apportion blame.

Stocks jump, with Buffett helping Apple to new highs

By MARLEY JAY AP MARKETS WRITER

NEW YORK — U.S. stocks made up for a shaky week with a strong finish Friday as Apple led a rally in technology companies.

Stocks got off to a mixed start after trade talks between the U.S. and China ended with few signs of progress.

and wages continued to grow at a slow pace. Apple surged after Buffett said Berkshire Hathaway bought 75 million shares during the first quarter.

Alphabet, Cisco Systems and other technology companies rose, and retailers, banks, and household goods makers also rallied.

"We went into this earnings season with very high expectations," said Quincy Krosby, chief markets strategist for Prudential Financial. "When you go in with such high expectations, you expect near perfection."

The S&P 500 index climbed 33.69 points, or 1.3 percent, to 2,663.42. The Dow Jones industrial average rose 332.36 points, or 1.4 percent, to 24,262.51. The Nasdaq composite jumped 121.47 points, or 1.7 percent, to 7,209.62. The Russell 2000 index of smaller-company stocks gained 19.05 points, or 1.2 percent, to 1,565.60. Overall, stocks have taken small losses in choppy trading over the last two weeks. But for Apple, this was the best week in six and a half years.

Apple rose 3.9 percent to $183.83 after Warren Buffett told CNBC his company boosted its investment in Apple to more than 240 million shares altogether. Buffett told CNBC about the purchase ahead of Berkshire Hathaway's annual meeting this weekend. Berkshire stock rose 2.1 percent to $195.64.

Apple climbed 13.3 percent for the week after it reported solid quarterly results and investors were pleased with its forecast of solid iPhone sales, which came as a relief. It also raised its dividend and announced a big stock repurchase.

Companies have done well in the first quarter, but stocks haven't necessarily followed suit as investors worried about the U.S.-China trade spat, rising interest rates, and other issues. But on Friday investors responded.

Benchmark U.S. crude rose 1.9 percent to $69.72 per barrel in New York.

Brent crude, the international standard, gained 1.7 percent to $74.87 per barrel in London.

Wholesale gasoline jumped 1.3 percent to $2.11 a gallon. Heating oil climbed 2 percent to $2.15 a gallon. Natural gas lost 0.6 percent to $2.71 per 1,000 cubic feet.

Gold gained 0.2 percent to $1,314.70 an ounce. Silver added 0.4 percent to $16.52 an ounce. Copper rose 0.2 percent to $3.09 a pound.

The dollar fell to 109.11 yen from 109.73 yen. The euro fell to $1.1962 from $1.1993.

2nd-longest US expansion on record keeps churning out jobs

By JOSH BOAK AP ECONOMICS WRITER

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy has delivered steady if only modest gains for most Americans since the Great Recession ended in 2009. It's been a frustration for many.

Yet the very sluggishness of the economic expansion helps explain why it's now the second-longest on record and why more of the country might soon benefit from higher pay.

Nearly nine years into the recovery, the job market keeps delivering: The government said Friday that employers added 164,000 jobs in April — the 91st straight month of hiring growth, the longest such streak on record. More tellingly, the unemployment rate fell to 3.9 percent, the lowest since December 2000.

Eight years ago, the jobless rate was 10 percent. But for much of the expansion, many people have felt left behind. Some have found only part-time work. Pay growth, on average, has been meager. The stock market boom and low interest rates that defined the recovery have favored the wealthy.

The economy's modest growth, though, has helped prevent it from overheating and skidding into another recession, as often happened during more robust expansions. And some economists say the ever-lower unemployment rate suggests that a wider swath of Americans soon stand to benefit from stronger pay growth.

"It's just not sustainable for average pay growth to be so low in a labor market this tight," said Andrew Chamberlain, chief economist at the jobs site Glassdoor.

Average hourly earnings have risen 2.6 percent from a year ago. That is slightly more than the year-over-year wage growth of roughly 2 percent that prevailed in 2014 and 2015, when the unemployment rate was higher. Yet by historical standards, wage growth has been relatively stagnant.

Past expansions have delivered faster growth. But since World War II, they have lasted an average of less than five years before slipping into recession.

Gus Faucher, chief economist for PNC Financial, said he thinks annual wage growth could average 3 percent by the end of the year. He notes that employers are having an increasingly difficult time finding qualified workers, creating pressure for them to raise wages.

That may explain why the pace of job growth was slower in March and April. There aren't enough unemployed people to fill openings.

Knutek, a company in Bradenton, Florida, that builds communication network systems, hopes to double its 19-person staff in the next 60 days to meet demand from customers.

Troy Knutson, a founder of the company, said he offers $15 an hour to new employees, who are usually trained on the job how to haul cable and install networks. He said he's now competing against fast food restaurants that are offering workers roughly the same starting wage. The difference, Knutson says, is that his company will provide a career path, cover the costs of health insurance and generally raise a worker's pay to $35 an hour after five years.

"The job market is getting competitive, and people are able to request higher wages," he said.

An encouraging sign for the economy is that the pace of hiring has yet to be disrupted by dramatic global market swings, a recent pickup in inflation or the risk that the tariffs being pushed by President Donald Trump could provoke a trade war.

Much of the economy's durability is due, in fact, to the healthy job market. The increase in people earning paychecks has bolstered demand for housing, even though fewer properties are being listed for sale. Consumer confidence has improved over the past year. And more people are shopping, with retail sales having picked up in March after three monthly declines.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Maintaining a positive attitude is often a matter of putting things in the right scale. Some things cannot be measured on their own. They need to be assessed in the greater scheme of things.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20). If you find yourself spending a lot of time convincing yourself that you're right, chances are you're not, at least not completely.
GEMINI (May 21-June 21). While people around you are trying to find their edge, play their advantage and determine the opportunity, you'll be focused on mutually fulfilling exchanges.
CANCER (June 22-July 22). Trying out a slightly different personality can be as easy as poking your head into one of those cardboard cutouts at tourist spots. You duck in to try it out and maybe get a bit silly, getting a smile out of those around you.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You'll pick up the burden that's already there, but you're careful not to create anything new to carry. You don't want to require help with your load. You want to keep your independence, and that means keeping it light.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Most voting doesn't happen on a ballot. It happens with body language — a smile, a frown, a nod — or the attention you give others or, most commonly, your money. You'll vote many times today.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Adults often continue parenting themselves in their head in the way they were parented as children. But you can also customize your inner-parenting style to suit the life you have now.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). In real time, action prevails where words fail. But when it's about the past or the future, the words win. The story that's told can overwrite the story that happened and shape tomorrow's story, too.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Your opinion matters — not only to you but also to those who watch you. You're a thought leader, whether you realize it or not. You're really careful to be fair and also discreet if that's what seems right.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Finally, you'll hear the words you've been waiting for. Now you can move forward. The work is really just beginning, but early results will show up to encourage you along these first stages.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Today represents a quick perspective shift. You really will see things as your loved one does (at least as much as it is humanly possible to do that), and your relationship will improve because of it.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You are not motivated by money alone, though you may be highly motivated by a challenge involving a monetary prize. It's the other factors that definitely make the goal so juicy to you.
TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (May 5). You're a principled person, and your belief about what things mean will add dimension to this year's passions and quests. Loved ones will accept your help and act on your advice. You'll trade in an old habit for a more energetic existence. Someone will travel far to see you. In 2019 it's you who will be going the distance. Virgo and Aquarius adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 7, 30, 41, 12 and 44.

MLB: Tampa Bay

Yarbrough shines, helps Rays beat Blue Jays

By FRED GOODALLP
Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG — Relief pitcher Ryan Yarbrough made his case for a spot in Tampa Bay's injury-depleted rotation by throwing five scoreless innings in a 6-2 win over the Toronto Blue Jays on Friday night.

Johnny Field homered off J.A. Happ (4-2) and Brad Miller added a two-run shot to put it out of reach in the eighth.

Wilson Ramos, Denard Span and Adeiny Hechavarria also drove in runs for the Rays, who've won 10 of 13 after a slow start.

Yarbrough (2-1) is a 26-year-old rookie who may wind up in the rotation after allowing a single to the first batter he faced — Dalton Pompey in the third inning — then retiring 15 in a row.

The left-hander, who manager Kevin Cash earlier said was a likely candidate to replace injured starter Yonny Chirinos, struck out four before being replaced in the eighth by Sergio Romo, who yielded a solo homer to Aledmys Diaz. Alex Colome worked the ninth in a non-save situation.

While the Rays planned to open the season with a four-man rotation and use bullpen days as needed for a fifth starter, injuries to Nathan Eovaldi and now Chirinos have forced Cash at times to go with three starters and a nine-man bullpen that includes Andrew Kittredge and three other long relievers.

Kittredge made his third start Friday night, allowing one run and two hits in two innings.

Toronto's Curtis Granderson doubled and scored on Teoscar Hernandez's sacrifice fly in the first inning. Luke Maile had the Blue Jays' other hit, a two-out single in the second off Kittredge.

The Blue Jays played their fourth game over three days in three cities. They lost in Minnesota on Wednesday before splitting two games Thursday in Cleveland — a doubleheader that had to be scheduled because of weather postponements on consecutive days in mid-April.

What already figured to be a long day was extended by a 1-hour, 53-minute rain delay before Game 1, which last 11 innings and nearly five hours. The team arrived in Florida around 4 a.m. Friday.

"Some guys were playing 18 innings, then you travel all night," Blue Jays manager John Gibbons said. "It's tough to complain about anything in this job, but there's one thing you can complain about."

The Rays were off Thursday after returning home from an eight-game road trip.

HORSE RACING: Kentucky Derby

A Derby with lightly raced colts, and lots of possibilities

By BETH HARRIS
Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Todd Pletcher is throwing numbers at the Kentucky Derby again. Bob Baffert is seeking a fifth victory and he's got the favorite, too. An old jinx could be disproved, and history would be written if Mendelssohn wears the garland of red roses.

The 20-horse field for Saturday's 144th Run for the Roses includes a handful of top contenders who have been consistent this spring.

Justify was the 7-2 favorite in early wagering Friday. Trained by Baffert, the Southern California colt, however, is green, with just three starts.

"We have a good enough horse that can win it, but it's a very competitive race," Baffert said. "You're going to have to have some luck."

Justify is undefeated and Magnum Moon is 4-0, neither having run as a 2-year-old. They'll be trying to upend a so-called curse: No horse since Apollo in 1882 has won without racing as a juvenile.

Arkansas Derby winner Magnum Moon is one of four horses to be saddled by Todd Pletcher, who won last year's Derby with Always Dreaming.

Pletcher's Audible was the co-third choice at 6-1 with Mendelssohn on Friday. Along DOVER, Del. — Kyle Larson had a good week with some nice drives.

Larson enjoyed playing in a PGA Tour Pro-Am, then turned a lap of 158.103 mph on Friday to take the pole at Dover International Speedway. In winning his fifth career pole, he gave Chevrolet a needed boost and its first pole since Alex Bowman took the top spot at the Daytona 500 back in February.

"Our team hasn't once been stressed out about the new Camaro," Larson said. "I don't know what other people and teams are battling. I think balance-wise I feel exactly the same as what I did last year. It hasn't been an issue to us. I feel like speed-wise, we are close to where we were."

Larson will try Sunday to win his first race of the season and the Chip

Tiger shoots 73 to stay inside cut line at Quail Hollow

By DOUG FERGUSON

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Tiger Woods has been at Quail Hollow four days, apparently still not enough time to adjust to the greens.

At least he gets two more days to figure it out.

Woods made his only birdie in his final hole Friday in the Wells Fargo Championship, an 18-foot putt on the par-4 ninth hole that assured he would make the cut. He stretched out both arms in mock celebration after his 2-over 73.

"My feels aren't used to greens at this pace," Woods said. "I feel more comfortable on faster greens. I've had ample time to make the adjustment, and I just haven't. I haven't felt comfortable hitting the putts as hard as we have to hit them this week."

Woods has taken 64 putts over two rounds and was at 2-over 144, nine shots behind Peter Malnati. The tie for 48th is Woods' worst position through 36 holes in his last five tournaments dating to a missed cut at Riviera.

He had only seven birdie opportunities inside 20 feet, even though he kept the ball in play for the most part.

Woods three-putted twice for the par-3 sixth when he had a downhill birdie chance from about 18 feet. His other bogey was on No. 11, when the crowd went from cheering to groaning as his approach spun back toward the hole, by the hole and then down a slope and back into the fairway. His chip checked up about 8 feet short of the cup and he missed that.

"I've hit it good enough to be right up next to that lead," Woods said. "If I just putt normal, I'm right there. I'm hitting

PREVIEWING THE GEM OF HORSE RACING'S TRIPLE CROWN | SATURDAY, 6:46 P.M. EASTERN POST TIME | NBC

Horse sense

In the deepest field in years, which thoroughbred has what it takes to capture the Run For The Roses?

A horse heads onto the track for a morning workout Friday at Churchill Downs in Louisville, Ky. The 144th running of the Kentucky Derby is scheduled for Saturday. CHARLIE RIEDEL/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE CONTENDERS

Justify tops the list of leading contenders to win the 144th Kentucky Derby. Trainers have called this year's 20-horse field one of the deepest in a while, though the Run For The Roses might come down to five considered to have the best prospects over 1 ¼ miles at Churchill Downs. A look at the leading contenders:

JUSTIFY: One of two Derby charges for trainer Bob Baffert, the colt enters as the 3-1 race favorite thanks to a 3-0 record and an impressive win in the Santa Anita Derby. Justify's challenge is putting aside 136 years of history and becoming the first Derby champion since Apollo in 1882 without racing as a 2-year-old. Hall of Fame jockey Mike Smith will try to keep him unbeaten and break the so-called "Apollo Curse."

MENDELSSOHN: The 5-1 second choice has won his last three outings and four overall with a second in seven starts in Dubai, Great Britain and Ireland, where he's been based. He might need more than international experience to become the first European horse to win the Derby. Strong, outgoing and trained by Aiden O'Brien, Mendelsohn must quickly learn Churchill Downs after hitting the track for the first time Thursday.

MAGNUM MOON: Trainer Todd Pletcher's hopes of winning consecutive Derbys look good with this unbeaten colt, who has won all four starts beneath Luis Saez by a combined 14 lengths. His most recent outing was a four-length triumph in the Grade 1 Arkansas Derby on April 14, which was impressive but also narrowed the turnaround window. One of four members of Pletcher's so-called Derby "Todd Squad," he has career earnings of $1,177,800.

AUDIBLE: The jockey combination of Javier Castellano and John Velazquez has made another Pletcher pupil one of the horses to watch and a tempting betting choice at 8-1. The riders have two wins each over Audible's last four starts, though Castellano will ride him in the Derby while Velazquez guides Vino Rosso for Pletcher. Audible's No. 5 post position gives him a good spot to make noise.

In a position to win

Since 1930, posts 5 and 10 have produced the most Kentucky Derby winners, although no one has won from the rail since Ferdinand in 1986.

Kentucky Derby field

Justify has been made the favorite for the 144th running of the Kentucky Derby, with Europe-based Mendelsohn the second choice in a full field of 20 horses. Trained by four-time Derby winner Bob Baffert, Justify drew the No. 7 post.

DERBY

with Magnum Moon, Vino Rosso and Noble Indy were double-digit longshots for the trainer, who is tied with mentor D. Wayne Lukas for the most Derby starters with 48. Mendelsohn has the least amount of time on the Churchill Downs dirt than any horse in the field. The Ireland-based colt made his first appearance Thursday — drawing attention with his screeching — after spending the first part of the week in quarantine for Aidan O'Brien. The trainer is 0 for 5 at the Derby, the biggest victory to elude him. Mendelsohn was an 18 ½-length winner of the UAE Derby. His regal bloodlines and $3 million price tag suggest he would be a worthy champion, but no Europe-based horse has won the Derby. My Boy Jack moved up to the 5-1 second choice in early wagering Friday. The closer is trained by Keith Desormeaux and ridden by Kent Desormeaux, a three-time Derby winner and Keith's brother. Despite Good Magic's top-notch credentials, he was relegated to the 7-1 fifth choice on Friday. He won the Breeders' Cup Juvenile and claimed an Eclipse Award as last year's 2-year-old champion. The colt won the Blue Grass last month, one of six victories at six different tracks.

Getting the ideal trip in the Derby is critical, especially with the traffic from 20 horses making a chaotic charge into the first turn. Jockeys want to avoid anything that would prevent their horse from getting into rhythm, like being bumped, cut off or blocked. "There's so many horses like they have good chances to win the race with a clean trip," said Chad Brown, who trains Good Magic. "I feel like we have one of them."

Brilliant Wit Shines Out of the Darkness

BY DAN RICE

Oscar nominee and Emmy winner Benedict Cumberbatch ("The Imitation Game," "Sherlock") is a tour de force in playing the troubled titular character of "Patrick Melrose," a five-part Showtime series premiering Saturday at 9 p.m. Based on the wildly popular "Patrick Melrose" series of semi-autobiographical novels by Edward St. Aubyn, with each episode devoted to one of the five books, the miniseries hilariously skewers the upper class as it follows Patrick's longtime struggle to overcome his addictions, rising from the damage inflicted by a brutally abusive father (Hugo Weaving, "V for Vendetta," "The Matrix") and a mother (Jennifer Jason Leigh, "The Hateful Eight," "Fast Times at Ridgemont High") who passively condoned it. From this childhood trauma to Patrick's wild substance abuse as an adult, and ultimately his rocky path toward recovery, this gripping saga moves from the South of France in the 1960s to New York in the 1980s and Britain in the early 2000s.

Cumberbatch, who also executive-produces the drama, reveals that his involvement in the production came about through social media. "I got introduced to the idea of doing this project through reading the books," he explains, "but it was then introduced to the producers, Michael [Jackson] and Rachael [Horowitz]. I mean, I sat on some fan forum on Reddit doing a Q&A for another project, and that [role was on] one of my very few bucket lists. That and 'Hamlet,' really. So, I can retire after this."

"Rachael and I read where somebody tweeted about Benedict wanting to play the part," Jackson recounts, "and we said, 'Aha,' and we actually rang up his people, and we had a coffee."

"Did I say I was a stable genius in that tweet?" Cumberbatch quips. "Exactly," Jackson replies.

"I want to play an unstable genius," Cumberbatch professes. "That's my twist on that tweet."

"Well, you're one of those things," Jackson responds, "but here is an example of something really positive that happened because of Twitter."

"Good things can come from Twitter," Cumberbatch adds. "World wars can also come from Twitter, but, hey, I got a part out of it, so I'm not complaining."

"The executive-producing came very late in the day, compared to my passion for the books," Cumberbatch continues. "[St. Aubyn] - he's one of the most extraordinary prose stylists working in the English language. They're an exceptional achievement, and at the heart of the subject matter was something that I thought angled a world that I thought I knew and turned it on its head through the perspective of this really unique character who suffers so much and goes on this extraordinary journey from victimhood to survivor, and a champion of his circumstance in a way. And via the most richly comic, scalpellike postmortem upperclass system that's crumbling, a power related to that that dissolves as the stories continue. And not just cash-poor landed gentry, but just the inherent snobbery, the treachery, the selfloathing, the cynicism, the patronizing attitudes, the racism, the sexism, and how they were exposed and rightly vilified in the most humorous, entertaining and, at times, terrifyingly dark and real ways. It's an extraordinary stretch of one man's life - what a great canvas to play with."

Oscar nominee Jennifer Jason Leigh ("The Hateful Eight") stars as the mother of the addiction-prone protagonist (Benedict Cumberbatch) who turned a blind eye to his father's abuse on "Patrick Melrose," premiering Saturday at 9 p.m. on Showtime.

"Well, I'd also read the novels," Leigh says in turn, "and they are so funny and scathing at the same time. They are just so rich, and she's an incredible character. I mean, she's also addicted to drugs and to alcohol. She tries her best, but she's a terrible failure as a mother, and she's also very, very wealthy. And it's sort of an indictment of having all of that money and how crippling that can be. It's misguided and horrible, but from my perspective, trying to inhabit her, I just felt like she loved her son so much. So, I don't see her being an accomplice to the abuse. I see her being a victim of it as well. That's how she sees it anyway."

"Patrick is someone who has a great deal of tenderness, who is a very damaged human being," Cumberbatch adds. "He's built this army of humor and wit and irony, which is the one thing in the end he really has the goal of achieving both is to aim for truth," Cumberbatch elaborates. "It's always going to be a version of the truth but not to heighten either, to keep true to character, to play both truthfully. The funniest comedies are out of truth after all. I always go home at the end of a day working on 'Melrose' going, 'Did I do enough or too much?' It's always my internal paranoid schizophrenia kicking in of 'Yes, you did too much,' 'No, you did too little.' Those are my devils on my shoulder. It's hard to ever feel that you've done justice to the material, but I think when we feel like we are in roughly the right era, it's when that balance is absolutely right between the comedy and the darkness."

CELEBRITY EXTRA

BY CINDY ELAVSKY

Q: I've just started watching "Orange Is the New Black," and it got me to wondering what Jason Biggs is up to lately. Can you get me any info? — Kelly K., via email

A: The "American Pie" star has teamed up with his wife, Jenny Mollen, for a new show on Lifetime called "My Partner Knows Best," which airs Wednesday nights at 10/9c. It's an outrageous game show where couples are pitted against other couples in physical and mental challenges to try to win $20,000. Jason and Jenny — a fun and outrageous Hollywood couple in their own right — test each couple's relationship knowledge and physical acumen in 10 one-hour episodes that will have you laughing and playing along.

I spoke with the couple recently, and they had a blast filming these shows, with Jason telling me: "For me it's kind of a sadistic 'Newlywed Game' crossed with 'Double Dare.' I grew up with the physical-challenge aspect, so I'll take a physical challenge any day. But I think anyone who's ever been in a relationship, but most especially the married couples, will really relate to this because we're asking questions that I think any long-term couple understands. We get into the very thing that relationships are made up of and asking partners to reveal how well they know each other."

A couple that stands out for Jenny is a pastor and his wife. She revealed: "I thought they would be too conservative for this show, that it wasn't going to work. But they ended up being some of our favorite guests. They were so fun, and they were willing to go for it. They revealed so much of themselves. They just really stand out for me."

Q: I know you've been asked a lot about reboots lately, so can you find out for me if the "Mad About You" rumors are true? — Cal R., Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

A: Both Helen Hunt and Paul Reiser have signed on with Sony Pictures Television to reprise their roles of Jamie and Paul Buchman, with co-creator Danny Jacobson on board as well. The original run aired from 1992-99, and centered on the lives of newlyweds living in New York City: Paul, a documentary filmmaker, and Jamie, a public relations specialist. In season six, they welcomed a daughter, Mabel, and in the series finale, we got a glimpse of the future where Mabel was all grown up (and played by Janeane Garafalo), and Paul and Jamie had briefly separated — but luckily the couple did get back together.

Q: Do you know when "Unbreakable Kimmy Schmidt" will be back? — Nina F., via email

A: The hilarious Netflix original comedy starring

Jason Biggs

Ellie Kemper, Tituss Burgess and Jane Krakowski will drop Wednesday, May 30 — however, this time, we'll get only half a season at a time, with six episodes premiering first, and the other six coming later in 2018.

SPOTLIGHT ON

BY DAN RICE

Dramatic Escapes

In Classical Greek theater, drama referred to fictional plays that were neither comedies nor tragedies, but in modern entertainment, a dramatic work can contain elements of both, as exhibited by several new and returning series on television this week.

Premiering Sunday at 8:30 p.m. on Starz, "Vida" is a half-hour drama focusing on Emma (Mishel Prada, "Fear the Walking Dead") and Lyn (Melissa Barrera, "Club de Cuervos"), two Mexican-American sisters from the Eastside of Los Angeles who couldn't be more different or distanced from each other. Circumstances force them to return to their old neighborhood, where they are confronted by the past and surprising truth about their mother's identity. Loosely based on a Richard Villegas Jr. short story, this illuminative series explores identity, culture, gender and sexuality through the lens of a Latina family and their community. Ser Anzoategui, Chelsea Rendon, Carlos Miranda and Maria Elena Laas also star.

Sunday at 10 p.m. on Showtime, the season two premiere of the comedy-drama "I'm Dying Up Here" finds legendary comedian Roy Martin (guest star Brad Garrett) providing assistance when Goldie (Melissa Leo) looks to expand her comedy club empire, while her wayward 18-year-old daughter, Amanda (guest star Stefania LaVie Owen), resurfaces. Meanwhile, Cassie (Ari Graynor) awaits the premiere of her comedy special, "Girls Are Funny Too." Eddie (Michael Angarano) and Adam (RJ Cyler) ride the fame wave from Ron's (Clark Duke) new sitcom stardom. And Ralph (Erik Griffin), Nick (Jake Lacey) and Bill (Andrew Santino) hit the road on a comedy tour, where they have a run-in with the law. Set in 1974, season two dives deep into timely topics: sexism, racism, homophobia, sexual abuse, religious contradictions, the hypocrisy inherent in deciding what is decent and what is obscene and the sacrifices so many women must make in their personal lives to become successful professionally.

Dropping Monday on Acorn TV, "Keeping Faith" is a Welsh thriller series starring Eve Myles as Faith Howells, a solicitor whose husband, Evan (Bradley Freegard), with whom she works at their family-run law firm, disappears while she is on maternity leave following the birth of their third child.

Monday at 10 p.m. on Ovation, season two of the World War II spy thriller "X Company" begins with the team on the ground in German-occupied France, with Aurora (Évelyne Brochu), Neil (Warren Brown) and Harry (Connor Price) left to deal with the chaotic aftermath of Alfred (Jack Laskey) being captured by the Gestapo. The team is reeling, scrambling to recover. Aurora is devastated by Alfred's capture, Harry blames himself for exposing the entire team to an enemy agent, Neil's ability to fight is compromised from having killed a German friend and Tom's (Dustin Milligan) life is hanging in the balance after being shot. Meanwhile, back at Camp X, Sinclair (Hugh Dillon) realizes he'll have to take unprecedented risks to get Alfred out before he breaks under torture. And Krystina (Lara Jean Chorostecki), fighting to control the damage, learns that the timing could not be worse – the Allies are depending on their secret agents to help lay the groundwork for an invasion of France.

Beginning Friday at 8 p.m. on ABC, the two-part series finale of the fairytale drama "Once Upon a Time" will feature many former cast members reprising their roles for the big send-off. Longtime fans will enjoy the return of Jennifer Morrison (Emma Swan), Ginnifer Goodwin (Snow White/Mary Margaret Blanchard), Josh Dallas (Prince Charming/David Nolan), Emilie de Ravin (Belle/Lacey), JoAnna Garcia Swisher (Ariel), Sean Maguire (Robin Hood), Lee Arenberg (Leroy/Grumpy/Dreamy), Robbie Kay (Peter Pan/Henry Mills), Victoria Smurfit (Cruella De Vil) and others.
