The 10 candidates vying for four seats on the Wayne-Westland School Board faced questions from area residents Tuesday night. Moderating the discussion was Arlene Funke (at podium), a reporter for the Observer. The candidates are Glenn Anderson (left), Joseph Arbini, Kathy Chorbagian, William LeDuc, Mathew McCusker, Raymond Robichaud, Phyllis Runion, Sharon Scott, Kathy Shaw and Dorothy Stockwell.

Candidates face voter queries

By Sandra Armbruster editor

Most of the questions asked at the meet-your-candidate night on Monday concerned school finances. On hand to answer the queries were the 10 candidates who are vying for four school board seats in the Dec. 7 special election in the Wayne-Westland district.

The 10 candidates spent nearly three hours answering audience questions on other issues as well, such as declining enrollment, school closings and the right of teachers to strike.

The special election was set after a recall election was successful in removing four of the seven Wayne-Westland board members. The district also includes part of Canton Township.

Competing for two six-month unexpired term are Glenn Anderson, Mathew McCusker and Sharon Scott.

Hoping for two 18-month unexpired terms are the other seven candidates: Joseph Arbini, Kathleen Chorbagian, William LeDuc Jr., Raymond Robichaud, Phyllis Runion, Kathryn Shaw and Dorothy Stockwell.

ALL CANDIDATES agreed that if negotiations to reach a new contract with teachers was unsuccessful in the future, they would vote to fire teachers who walked out on strike. But the candidates also called for making every attempt to reach a settlement. Asked how teachers could justify their recently negotiated salary increases which prompted the recall

estlander hurt in icy ramp crash

A seyere 17-car accident that closed the I-696 and I-275 interchange from 2:45 a.m. until early afternoon Saturday injured eight people - two of them critically - according to Michigan State Police.

Karen Chlebek of Livonia was reported in grave condition with multiple head and upper body injuries yesterday morning at Botsford General Hospital. William Lancaster of Westland remained in critical condition in the intensive care unit at Botsford with muliple head injuries, a hospital spokesman said Wednesday. Sgt. Thomas Jefferson of the State Police, who called the accident the worst he's seen in four years, said the multi-car pile-up began when Gayle Lambert of Livonia lost control of her vehicle while traveling from westbound I-696 to southbound I-275.

"She spun out and hit the guard rail. When she tried to wave down traffic, another car lost control and hit her car.

and so on and so on," said Jefferson. "Cars were jammed up so tight they couldn't get the people out of the cars.

It looked like a scene from the Dukes of Hazzard." Unlike lower freeway surfaces which were dry, the elevated overpass was icy, Jefferson said.

OTHER ACCIDENT victims included Gary Park of Farmington Hills, woo sustained injuries to his right leg, and Ann Zimeba who suffered a fractured pelvis. Both were taken to Providence Hospital in Southfield.

Another victim, a pedestrian with a broken leg, was standing on the roadside when he was hit by a vehicle and pinned against a cement barrier, added

SPECIFIC QUESTIONS were asked of some candidates.

Asked if she had been paid for her volunteer work in the schools, Chorbagian said no and added that she was paid by other rewards.

Robichaud clarified a misprint in the resumes distributed to the audience, explaining that he is concerned about miliage increases, not mileage. Shaw, Runion and Stockwell were asked why they were negative and if there was anything positive about the district. All three denied that they have a negative attitude.

Runion said there are good things in the district, like the vocational education center, and that she wants to keep those things.

Shaw said she agreed with Runion, adding, "My problem is that there has never been a clear, decisive line between the policy makers and those who implement policy. Management isn't the policy-maker, the school board is. They need to be held accountable through elections."

Stockwell thinks the school district is "terrific," but said she is just negative about waste.

CANDIDATES HAD a variety of responses when asked what they could do to contribute to the unity of the board.

Stockwell called for constructive criticism while Shaw described herself as à "reasonable person" who would be fair. Scott said she would listen and look at all the facts.

Runion said she knows the three board members who will remain after the election and could work with them although she won't always agree.

"The utmost priority is the welfare of the students," she said.

Robichaud urged the board to have commitment, dedication and to work together, not in small groups.

McCusker talked about listening to the kids and working with the adminis-

Training never ends

New techniques aid firefighters

By Maurie Walker staff writer

As in the cases of the medical and law professions, modern technology has entered the firefighting field.

No longer is the firefighter, as in days gone by, just a person who races to a fire and sprays water on the

A check with fire departments in Westland and Garden City finds firefighting professionals working to keep up with new equipment and methods of fighting fires, as well as life-saving devices. With plastics being used in many buildings, firefighters have to be up to date on the methods of combating fires in this material.

The picture some have of the firefighter sitting around playing cards or checkers between fires is far from true. Schooling is a vital part of the job. Firefighters are constantly attending classes, taking tests and working toward improving their skills.

To do the job correctly, the firefighter not only must know how to use new equipment, but must, in many instances, have medical knowledge.

Today's fire department ambulances are staffed by Emergency Medical Technicians, persons who have attended college courses learning the latest methods of saving lives.

KEITH NIMS, Garden City fire chief, said training EMT crews is an on-going program.

Training is a never ending process. Out of 21 people on our staff, 18 of them are designated Emergency Medical Technicians," he said.

Equipment, too, has become more sophisticated.

In Garden City and Westland, ambulances are equipped with radios which are connected with the Hospital Emergency Medical Service (HEMS) based at Wayne County General Hospital. This radio network can pick up a call from an ambulance that is carrying a patient to a hospital. The ambulance personnel tells the network which hospital they are heading for and the condition of the patient.

The medical technician is then patched into the hospital and talks directly to a doctor, giving the hospital the condition of the patient, blood pressure and pulse. In Garden City, there is a portable electronic blood pressure machine in the ambulance where the crew can the hospital.

EQUIPMENT TO fight fires has also advanced steadily.

The Westland fire department has a new instrument which can readily tocate the source of a fire inside a smoke-filled building.

Call a "Fire Finder", it is about size of a large hand flashlight.

Battalion Chief Joseph Benyo, who is also chief of public fire education, said the Fire Finder is used to check walls ly been put out.

explained:

The Fire Finder is aimed at the walls and when there is any heat over 100 degrees, an alarm goes off. A firefighter can stand 15 or so feet away from the wall, and it will located a fire if there is one.

"If a building is full of smoke and we can't see any flames, this equipment will help us locate the source of the fire. It can also be used in an apart-

Westland has a plastic-covered, fourinch hose that is lighter and more durable than the normal nylon and rubber,

"This hose needs no drying and can be put right back on the truck, Benyo said. It also takes up about half the space on the truck as does the old hose.

For this hose, Westland's fire trucks have a new hose attachment that allows firefighters to connect the hose in less than half the time. Instead of having to twist the hose into the attachlows the fireman to snap the hose into

A mysterious face at the window, a secret passage way and the infamous Mabel Dupre are all part of a mystery comedy spoof to be presented this weekend at the John Glenn auditorium, Marquette west of Wayne.

In the play, "The Butler Did It," which opens at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 19, such famous detectives as Charley Chan, Sherlock Holmes and Nick and Nora Charles are spoofed by such characters as Louie Fan, Rita Eyesbarrow and Chandler Marlowe.

Other characters in the spoof are Peter Flimsey, played by Jim Baker, Miss Maple, played by Kelly Leon, and Charity Haze, played by Dawn Smithpeters.

SEMTA general manager Gary Krause advised the community representatives to contact their legislators to help solve the public transportation

Krause told a 150-member audience at the public hearing in Dearborn that SEMTA's bus and commuter train programs will have to be cut by threefourths by Jan. 1 if SEMTA doesn't receive more funds.

Robert Shoemaker, president of the Redford Union Board of Education, said the elimination of the Dial-a-Ride bus service in Redford Township would be a blow to senior citizens.

"Dial-a-Ride offers a service which is the only means of transportation for seniors in our community. The termination of the small bus will make it impossible for seniors to get around," he

Transit Association, which operates connector bus service in Wayne, Westland, Garden City, Canton Township and Inkster, urged the audience to write letters to their representatives in

"With these cutbacks, our 170,000 riders will be left out in the cold. We have 19 buses and 33 employees who will lose their jobs. The only way to get the job done is to contact local legislators," Hunter said.

Mildred Graham, a Westland senior citizen, echoed the feelings of many of her contemporaries who said they will become isolated without SEMTA.

"A person without transportation is truely handicappped. We will have to go back to begging rides from neighbors and that's distasteful," Graham

Gary Noreen, director of the Redford Township connector services presented petitions to the board opposing the cuts and said, "Seniors really need the buses CHARLIE HUNTER, of Nankin to get around for food and other services."

> Senior citizens seem to suffer in a system they spent so many years supporting, explained Mildred Wieland of the Livonia Commission on Aging.

For years seniors paid into the system for taxes on license plate fees and now we can't benefit from all of our years of supporting the system," she

TO MAINTAIN current service, SEMTA must receive money being held in a special escrow fund, get federal subsidies or convince the Michigan Legislature to fulfill a 1977 promise to adopt a comprehensive transportation package, Krause said.

"It's very important to contact your state legislator and senator and tell them what you think," Krause said.

Krause has in public hearings also urged people concerned about transportation cuts to write to the Oakland County road commission urging it to take ection to free funds for SEMTA.

Krayse said $21 million in tri-county vehicle license surcharges, and title transfer taxes is being held in a special escrow fund pending outcome of litigation involving SEMTA and the Oakland road commission.

The money is from special taxes charged Wayne, Oakland and Macomb county motorists. The Oakland road board objected to the collections and Attorney General Frank Kelley ruled that the collections were unconstitutional.

SEMTA asked that the funds collected be placed in a special escrow fund pending final outcome of litigation, which is in appeals court.

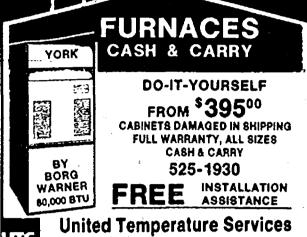

"We intervened because we thought SEMTA was asking for too much," said John Grubba, managing director of the Oakland County Road Commisssion.

Who'll foot toxic-waste disposal bill?

By Surle Rollins Singer staff writer

20,000 pounds of solid waste and 110 . chemistry professor Paul Tomboulian, chairman of the chemistry department at Oakland University.

> Tomboulian was one of 16 people who addressed Wayne, Oakland and Macomb county officials interested in waste disposal during a conference on Groundwater Protection at Schoolcraft College last week.

> "It costs $30 to dispose of the 20,000 pounds of solid waste and $5 to dispose of the 1,000 pounds of hazardous waste, so you see hazardous waste is much more expensive to get rid of," Tomboulian said.

HAZARDOUS WASTE is defined in terms of its adverse potential on health, the environment or its chemical. effects, Tomboulian said. It may be flammable, corrosive, explosive or oxidizable. It may pose adverse health or environmental risks such as causing short- or long-term toxic effects, genetic changes, cancer, birth defects and other diseases.

"Our cars produce 100 pounds of hazardous waste a year," Tomboulian said. But no one wants to deal with disposing of it.

"The most frequently used method of disposal is burying the waste in a landfill," he said, but landfills only accommodate solid wastes. Liquids must be chemically treated until they are less hazardous.

Television sets, radios, microwave ovens, lumber, bottled beverages, pottery and pesticides are just some of the many household items used regularly that produce waste, Tomboulian said. "It has not been until the late '70s and early 80s that we became responsible for hazardous waste management," he said.

BUT LOCAL communities are forever fighting waste managers who want to build new disposal sites, said Eugene Jaworski, a member of the state siteapproval board.

"Existing sites are the biggest threats to ground water. They pose more problems than proposed sites, because those must go through a long, drawn-out approval process," Jaworski

During the past four years, Jaworski's committee has only reviewed four sites. It granted approval to two, denled one, and it is still discussing one.

"It's a very slow process. I would like to see a change in the rules, though. I would like it if as soon as an application is filed, the local community involved is notified," he said.

Presently, local communities are not notified until the Department of Natural Resources approves the site. Jaworski also said because the applications are quite thick and it is expensive to hire engineers to draft specfics, the applications lack detail and drawings.

"So we need to get the local people together to stop taking adversary positions and dig into solutions. They should hire experts to study the economic impact of the disposal sites and have their master plans consider zoning an industrial section for disposal,"

Treating alcoholics an investment

By Suzie Rolline Singer staff writer

More than 8,000 teen-agers are killed each year in drinking and driving accidents, and about 40,000

By the time the drinking teens reach adulthood, approximately 10 percent will be alcoholics, costing business and industry more than $42 billion a year.

These statistics were released last week by Brighton Hospital, a facility specializing in alcoholic treatment, in coordination with Alcohol Awareness Week.

"We're trying to reach small companies as well as the large ones to tell them our facility is available to help their employees," said Ivan Harner, hospital executive director.

Brighton's statistics note than alcoholics are off work 21/2 times as often and non-drinkers. When alcoholics are on the job, they produce less work, " and the work they do is of a poorer quality.

"Every dollar invested in alcohol treatment is returned to the employer five-fold," Harner said.

BRIGHTON'S 21-day program has a 75-percent success rate, Harner said. Persons admitted to inpatient care spend three to five days in a medical de-tox room. As soon as they are physically able, they move to a regular semi-private room, eat their meals in a dining room and attend lectures. Counselors are assigned to each of the 63 patients, who participate in individual and group therapy. They watch movies and exchange drinking stories.

"By the time a person leaves here they know more about alcoholism than physicians," Harner

Alcoholism knows no socio-economic group. It is a disease which afflicts people of any age, sex, race, religion or economic status.

"Alcholism is a crippling, debilitating disease. The mortality rate for the average American today is 75 years of age. The average mortality rate for an alcoholic who continues to drink has been estimated at 53 years of age," Harner said.

The 29-year-old Brighton Hospital resembles a farm-retreat, set on 69 acres of wooded property. The buildings exteriors are designed in traditonal New England architecture. The indoor atmosphere is homey, not institutional. Television rooms, a library, bookstore and barber and beauty shop are on the site and available for clients' use. The "not-forprofit" organization is devoted solely to the treatment of alcoholism.

Family counseling is also available.

"ALCOHOLISM affects the entire family, and we teach them how to deal with it." said Joan Pheney. director of counseling.

Outpatient care is administered on the campus, adjacent to the main facility. It usually runs from six to 12 months, but can be longer depending on the individual's needs.

"The first thing we have to do (in all cases) is break through the denial of being an alcoholic," Pheney said.

"We try to help them deal with their guilt and get them to understand that their judgment has been impaired," she said.

Once a person assesses his/her denial and is throughly educated about the disease, he is released.

"We always send people to AA afterwards," she added.

An alcoholic must realize he can never drink again, and must reform his social habits as well, Harner said.

Another poor year for building industry?

Start At The Top With Home Improvement

The 1983 construction industry outlook is once again grim, but Governorelect James Blanchard's public works proposal could help the industry.

Richard S. Linington, president and chairman of the board at Utley-James Inc., shared his opinions about the construction industry's recovery at an economic outlook luncheon in Detroit earlier this week.

"Goverment must take new strides to develop the state's business and industry. The emphasis must be for stimulated activity, expansion of existing business, new plants and homes," Lin-

Large, commercial office space development should continue. Inflation must continue its downward trend."

INTEREST RATES must remain at 12 percent or lower, Linington said, before Michigan residents buy more houses and cars.

During the first eight months of 1982, non-residential construction fell 63 percent. The contract value of these projects, which encompasses commerial, industrial and institutional construction, fell 44 percent, he said.

"In the state, non-residential construction fell off 51 percent in square footage, 33 percent in contract value." In the six-county area surrounding Detroit, 3,186 single-family homes

"THE 1982 figures will probably not change much in 1983."

"We expect residential and public works constuction to increase marginally. But commerical and industrial construction may decline somewhat,"

On the positive side, inflation has caused labor and material rates to remain constant or to deline.

"Softwood lumber has quickened the downward plunge it began experiencing in 1980. It is now 11 percent below 1981's third-quarter prices. Following lumber into the price decline is a host of products, including fabricated structural steel, plate glass, sand and paving asphalt," he explained.

The newly negotiated wage rates have helped keep a lid on costs, Linington said. Labor in Michigan once accounted for a $3 per-hour cost gap between Michigan and many other states. That gap has been narrowed to just $1 per hour. In 1982, skilled trades average only a 2.6-percent increase in wages and fringes over the previous

CORPERION BANKS

Our name is different; our commitment is the same.

Detroit Bank & Trust and each member of its family of banks are now Comerica Banks.

You might ask us, why change the name of the oldest bank in Detroit? Especially when it's the same friendly people, delivering the same friendly service with the same professional efficiency.

There are good reasons, and we think you'll agree.

For decades we serviced Detroit exclusively. Our name described exactly what we were and where we were. A Detroit bank serving Detroiters.

However, as we grew we expanded our services to cities with names other than Detroit. Today we have 26 affiliates, including 17 banks with more than 190 offices located throughout the state, the country, and even the world.

The time is right to put our widespread family of banks under one name. Comerica.

And it means that just as we have served your professional and personal banking needs for the past 133 years, we can now serve all your expanding financial needs in the future.

Comerica Bank. Our new name for growth...the sign of things to come.

Comerica Banks are located in metropolitan Detroit, Ann Arbor, Jackson, Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, Kentwood, Muskegon, Midland, Shepherd, and West Branch. Members FDIC

As autumn's amber hues drift to the forest floor, a new color strikes a dark contrast to the ashen November skies. This blaze-orange hue swarms into the woods where it can be seen for miles across brown, barren fields.

The color is hunter's orange. The people who wear it have a fever.

It's an all-consuming disease which overwhelms many men - and some women - and can be traced back through genes and chromosomes for generations.

A body can survive 11 months in tranquility and never be bothered by the disease. But as Nov. 15 approaches, the Michigan deer hunter again falls victim to this malady.

By some fluke, the buck doesn't detect the hunter. It continues to browse.

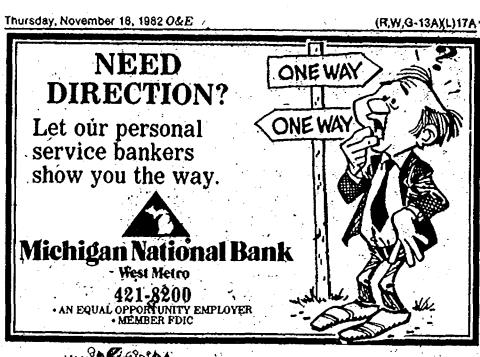

The hunter feels the pangs of "buck fever." His pulse quickens, his eyes water profusely. It's hard to see and breathe, and harder to keep the gunsight centered on the spot just behind the giant buck's shoulder.

The hunter squeezes the trigger.

THE MAJESTIC buck is prostrate in the sand and weeds. Its huge rack is a mere three points, and he seems only a little bigger than a Great Dane.

Sighing as he punches a vent hole in the deer's chest, the hunter gags and grabs his nose but continues splitting open his venison.

After the buck is tied onto his car's fender, the hunter drives home as the dusky sun sinks in the west. His fever is

UAW research head says

Reagonomics is bankrupt

The nation's economy can't live by Reaganomics alone. Michigan's economic health requires the infusion of a new plan of action.

That's the forecast from Peter Eckstein, research director of the Michigan Community Action Programs, International Union, UAW. Speaking at the recent Economic Outlook luncheon sponsored by the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce, Eckstein appeared to be the sole solid opponent of the Reagan administration's economic policies.

"Essential parts of the Michigan economy are crumbling before our eyes. With the national economy stagnant, every week seems to bring news of some plant closing that eats away at our economic base - or some major curtailment that erodes our economic inflastructure.

"Even if the national economy revives, we can have no confidence that federal policies will let us attract the capital necessary to revitalize our economic base and to rebuild our infrastructure," Eckstein told the annual gathering of business leaders.

"It is time, then, for Michigan business to let Washington know that supply side economics is bankrupt — to say loud and clear that the Emperor has no clothes.

"Business must say it because that is the only voice that can hope to be heard in this administra-

UNDER REAGONOMICS, new orders for business capital equipment declined 20 percent last year. Productivity and real output are down. The nation's unemployment rate has climbed from 7.4 percent to 10.4 percent. Defense spending has risen,

One of the administration's miscalculations in dealing with the economy involves its monetary restrictions. Even when accompanied by massive budget deficits, monetary restrictions can curtail the growth of demand and cause economic decline, Eckstein said.

Although these monetary restrictions have been relaxed recently, problems remain. It isn't known if the Federal Reserve is prepared to lower interest

Consumers are too uncertain of the economic situation invest in cars, homes and new capital equip-

"Clearly, a severe tightening of monetary policy has been sufficient to bring the economy to the brink of depression. It is less clear that a relaxation of monetary policy alone is sufficient to bring about quick recovery."

FORECASTS BY THE Congressional Budget Office project deficits of $155 billion for 1983 fiscal year and as much as $23 billion for 1984. These calculations have implications beyond next year, he Lenders are more willing to lower short-term interest rates than long-term rates.

"This can greatly weaken the immediate incentives for households and businesses to spend on new capital. For the longer term, there is the overhanging danger that any resurgence of spending on household and business capital will be nipped in the bud, that it will be crowded out by the insatiable borrowing demands of the federal government."

If high interest rates continue to cause businesses to be reluctant to seek loans to improve their plants, obsolescence will impair efforts to fight for a place in the modern marketplace, Eckstein said.

"Those capital resources will simply not be available at affordable rates if the federal government continues to go to the capital markets to gobble up $150-$200 billion a year.'

Even if a new economic plan aids the nation, Michigan's financial picture will still be troubled,

THE STATE needs to diversify its economic base. Cooperation between business and labor is necessary to achieve this goal.

Join the 'Great American Smokeout' to save lives

OME PERSONS DIE for no good reason. Death results from an auto accident or being in the wrong place at the wrong time. But one frustrating thing we've seen over the years is that some people are killing themselves and aren't aware of what they're doing.

The worst part is that other mature adults are aware of what they are doing and don't care.

We're talking about smoking and cancer and life. Today is the "Great American Smokeout" sponsored by the American Cancer Society to urge smokers to kick the habit.

Cancer certainly isn't exclusively a problem of

But cigarettes are a major contributor to the

In fact, the ACS said that one person in four, or nearly every family in America, will have "a cancer experience.

Students were brought into the possible solution nearly a decade ago through high school anti-smoking groups.

Franklin High, which serves part of Westland, and Garden City, High School have student groups which are effective in talking to youngsters and educating them to not start smoking in the first

A major problem, however, is what to do with adults who refuse to put out that cigarette and do something about quitting.

IF SMOKERS DEMAND their freedom to commit a slow suicide — fine.

But medical studies have shown that nonsmokers also are damaged medically by the smoke from other persons' cigarettes.

Studies show that cigarette smoking is one of the major risk factors in heart attacks.

The same studies conclude that smokers generally die younger than non-smokers.

For example, men who smoke more than a half pack a day have a death rate about 60 percent higher than that of non-smokers. If the consumption is one to two packs a day, then the death rate is 90 percent higher.

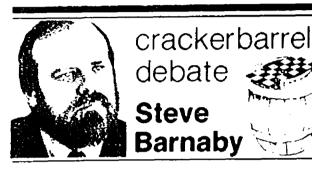

The ACS doesn't want to dwell on the negative aspects.

They provide tips on how to quit and save your

Some tips are cutting down to one less cigarette a day; tell friends and relatives you're quitting so that a public commitment will bolster your will power; use chewing gum, cough drops or carrot sticks as a substitute.

If you need more help and/or information, stop by the ACS office for western Wayne County on Inkster Road near Marquette, directly in front of Garden City Osteopathic Hospital, for brochures.

The life you save may be your own.

Memorial honors more than the dead

It's the names that hit you first — all the names. Thousands upon thousands are stacked, one upon another, row after row, tablet after tablet.

All together 57,939 names stand silently in the ree-shrouded park, etched for posterity on the 140 black, polished-granite tablets.

And behind each name is the story of one person and of those who loved that one person - family, friends, lovers and comrades in battle.

It's the wall, the 500-foot-long Vietnam Veterans Memorial wall, dedicated last week to those who were killed or who still are missing from America's Jost war.

On those tablets are inscribed the stories of hundreds of thousands whose lives were altered dramatically and always will be intertwined with the Vietnam War

Although built from the ashes of war, it's a memorial to life, love, kindness and friendship.

Last week the hundreds of thousands who loved the names on the wall came to share in an outpouring of love the likes of which is seldom seen in our

Strangers — perfect strangers — stood together and unabashedly shared the names they knew and the stories behind them.

Grown men, hardened by combat, held hands, leading one another to a name on the wall — to tell their story. Many wore remnants of jungle fatigues. and military decorations, nearly forgotten until the call had gone out to come to the wall.

"I left Vietnam before him. We had gone through training and come to Vietnam together. But I left before he did and never heard from him again," said one veteran to another.

"I wasn't going to come here. But I had to. At the last minute I decided.

He hesitated while attempting to hold back the memory. But this day was no day for holding back. "I'm glad I did. I knew he would be here. His name, you know; it's there, on the wall. I had a feeling," said the veteran who had lost track of his friend 15 years ago. Tears streamed down the grown man's face. The other veteran reached out and hugged the man. Si-to the wall under his name. That day there were many photos and medals and notes to share.

She took an old photo from her purse and taped it

"Do you have friends on the wall?" she asked. "Yes ma'am."

"Well, come on and show me. Tell me their sto-

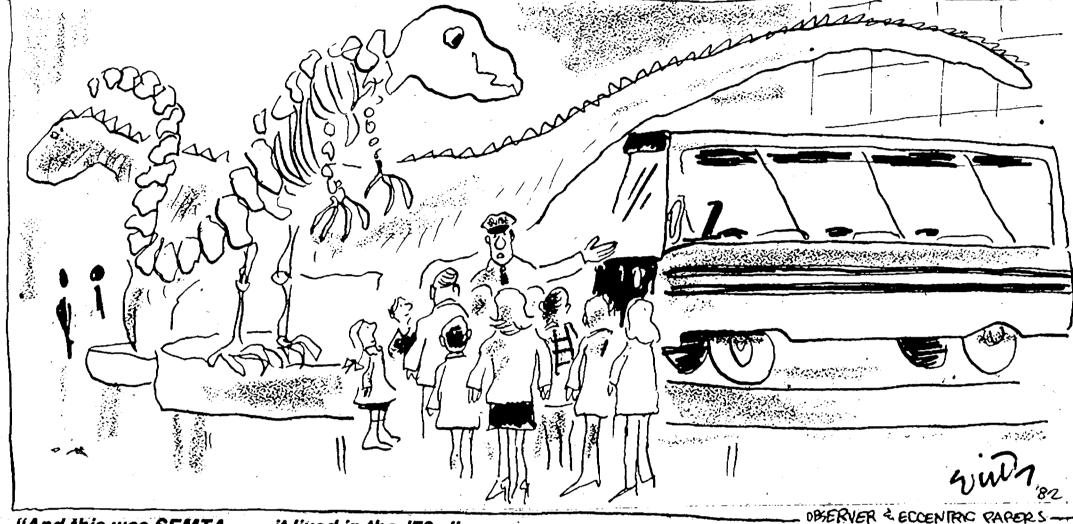

They smiled at one another - the man and the woman, perfect strangers - standing at the wall, holding hands, sharing their stories on the wall.

On the grass sat two veterans staring at the 16 candles in the ground — one for each name they knew on the wall - their comrades. They said nothing.

The vigil continued, 24 hours a day for four days. Strangers sat together in the midnight darkness, in the rain and the cold fall winds which blew off the Potomac.

A hundred years from now when visitors come to gaze at the names of those who died in America's lost war, the black, granite memorial will be just another/monument on Washington's landscape.

Little will they know about the four days in November 1982 when hundreds of thousands came to tell their stories about the names of those they loved etched on the wall.

"And this was SEMTA . . , it lived in the '70s."

If E.T. had read about American politics, landed in these suburbs and listened to politicians talk about public transportation, he would think he was in a hotbed of liberal Democrats.

"No subway." "A giant waste." "A subway is too expensive," said one politician after another during the last campaign.

Oddly, those politicians were generally Republicans, and the more conservative their instincts, the more adamant they were that a light-rail underground rapid transit line in the Woodward corridor was the brainchild of the devil.

PEOPLE OF a "business" mentality, which conservative Republicans profess to be, are generally in favor of capital-intensive solutions to problems. They liked automation when the unions abhorred

Conservatives in Congress tended to vote "aye"

for big-bang military weapons systems - big planes, big bombs, big missiles, big nuclear submarines. These they see as preferable to a Chinesestyle massive invasion with hordes of humans becoming cannon fodder.

In southeastern Michigan, have you listened to the ooh-ing and aah-ing over "high technology?" Have you pondered the politics of those who ooh and aah? The most enthusiastic noises come from folks to the right of center, for high-tech is a capital intensive idea.

TO THE CONTRARY, politicians of a liberal stripe prefer labor-intensive solutions to lots of capital and technology.

The last time I interviewed Jamie Blanchard, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate was talking about an anti-recession public works program that would emphasize repairs rather than new construction that would be "labor intensive." Those were his

Do you remember the argument in the Wayne County Charter Commission over the size of the Board of Commissioners? One group wanted to cut it to nine members, but a politically liberal faction wanted to continue with a 27-member board because it would mean more political jobs. That is the solemn truth. (They settled on 15.)

and I have already mentioned the attitude of organized labor in the '50s and '60s when "automatioh" made the Left quake almost as much as "Abo(nb" leaves them shuddering today.

THE REAGAN administration is backing away from federal subsidies for operating public transportation systems. That is one reason why SEMTA is in so much budget trouble and may have to dismantle its bus program.

On the other hand, the Reaganites are willing to put up federal capital for public transportation.

In the debate over SEMTA's rapid transit plans, the Coleman Young types who favor an underground transit line were talking like conservative Republicans, and the conservative Republicans were talking like liberal Democrats as they advocated a labor-intensive bus system. And so E.T., if he landed in one of our suburbs, would be a mite confused about what political group he was listening to. When it comes to public transportation, conservatives aren't very conserva-

High-school sports: good value, good fun

Are you suffering from the weekend blues? Need a tonic to pick you up after a long week at work? Try, going to a local high-school sports event.

You'll feel better for it. I don't have any relatives or close family friends in high school. But at least once a year I attend a high-school game. It never fails to pick up my spir-

Saturday I decided to see a high-school playoff football game between Farmington Harrison and Bloomfield Hills Lahser. They were the only teams from the Observer & Eccentric area to make the state playoffs this year.

One advantage of a high-school sports events is the low cost. For this game, I paid $2 for admission, $1 for parking, 25 cents for a program and 40 cents for hot chocolate. That's a good value for three hours of entertainment.

THE FUN at a high-school football game begins early. Almost two hours before the 1:30 p.m. start, cars, vans and motor homes started filling up the parking lot at the game site — Groves High School in Birmingham. Many vehicles were decked out with signs and streamers backing a favorite team. One motor home had a large sign on it, "Hawkmobile." It was filled with fans supporting the Hawks from Farmington Harrison.

These early arrivals were celebrating with tailgate parties. They were eating sandwiches, drinking

At a little after noon two buses carrying Farmington Harrison players arrived. As buses circled the parking lot car horns tooted and people applauded. The buses had signs urging, "Go Hawks." As the football players departed the bus, two cheerleaders greeted them with a large hoop with letters saying, "Blow Away Bloomfield".

. A few minutes later two buses arrived with the Lahser players. The Lahser fans had learned their lessons from Farmington. Their fans started tooting their horns and cheering.

THIS KIND of spirited fun continued all afternoon. Signs were put up throughout the stadium saying, "Hawks are Victory Bound," "Knock Out Knights," "Go Knights" and "Lahser Knights." About 20 boys from Lahser ran out onto the field with their faces painted in the gold and black colors of their school. The energy and enthusiasm of all these young persons was contagious. High-school football involves much more than a few players on both sides. Lahser had a 58-member marching band, 16 pompon girls, 14 cheerleders and 20 boys acting as informal cheerleaders. Farmington had a 100-member band and eight cheerleaders. All of them performed during the afternoon.

When you add about 50 members for each team, more than 300 high-school students participated in the game.

THE GAME itself is only part of the attraction. In this game, Farmington's John Miller scored on a 70-yard run on the first play from scrimmage. Farmington went on to a relatively easy 23-0 victo-

But near the end of the game something happened which said much about high-school sports. With his team hopelessly behind, Lahser's quarterback Scott Sugg rushed for a first down. He knocked over a Farmington lineman. Despite his frustrations, Sugg reached down and extended a hand to the Farmington player. As he helped the lineman up they exchanged kind words.

Folks, you don't see that in the Big Ten. That's what high-school sports are all about.

Farmington Harrison will continue its quest for a state championship at 1:30 p.m. Saturday against Milford Lakeland at Birmingham Groves. Come and out and enjoy yourself.

Among the most beautiful and unfor-, ful, the use of a colored filter will furgettable images awaiting your camera are sunrises and sunsets.

They can be dazzling in color, rich in tones, striking in composition and easy to obtain, too.

Get your camera out, load it up with film and get geared up to take some exciting, memorable shots.

HERE ARE some hints to help you obtain drama and impact in your sunrise/sunset pictures:

• Use a telephoto lens when you want to make the sun appear like a giant ball of fire, and a normal or wide angle lens when you wish to accent a colorful sky or a vast cloud formation around the sun.

 Place foreground subjects in the viewfinder to "frame" your picture and give it foundation. Subjects can be trees, buildings, boats or even people. Because you meter off the sky, all foreground subjects will be rendered as black silhouettes which, in turn, will add a dramatic quality to your shot.

• Take your exposure reading off the sky immediately next to the sun. Snap a shot at this setting and take a couple more at progressively smaller apertures. You'll find that by underexsposing in this manner, your pictures will have deeper, bolder and richer col-

• While sunrise/sunset photographs in themselves can be excitingly color-ther enhance your shot. Imagine a descending sun surrounded by a dramatic cloud pattern photographed on color film through an orange or red filter.

You'll be delighted with the results. • If you want to eliminate lens flare, make sure your lens is clean and use a lens shade. However, don't overlook the possibility that lens flare can, at times, add an aesthetic dimension to your photograph.

• You don't always have to place the direct sun in your picture. Wait until the sun dips behind a dark cloud and then capture the sunbeams as they spill to the ground below. Or wait until the sun has totally descended and see how the sky and clouds invite your camera with their gradually deepening color

A CAUTION: For your eye's safety, shoot in the early morning or late aftermoon when the sun's rays are less intense and avoid looking directly at the sun through the viewfinder.

With a little practice, you'll find it easy to place the sun where you desire in your composition without having to look straight at it.

Sunrise/sunset are easy to take. The results will make you feel proud of your photographic ability and will also give you a sunny disposition. c 1982, Monte Nagler

(P,C-19A,R,W,G-17A) * 21A

Monte Nagler used a wide angle lens and a low horizon to accentuate the dramatic cloud formations in the sky. Notice how the silhouetted sailboat adds impact to the shot.

The bridge scheduled for repair is on Wayne Road over the Lower Rouge River. The estimated cost is $404,000.

Hoffman shifts political gears

By Suzié Rollins Singer staff writer

Abbie Hoffman resents being called "former member" of the famed Chicago-7.

Instead, he wants people to know him as he is today - a leader of Save the River, a group devoted to stopping winter navigation on the St. Lawrence

He insists college students flock to his lectures in record-number crowds to hear him talk about "insuring that fresh water exists for future generations," not about the '60s...

But when he spoke to more than 500 students at Oakland University recently, he spent more than an hour discussing his life in the '60s before making a pitch for his environmental concern.

Prior to Hoffman's talk, the Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young song "(Four Dead in) Ohio," played repeatedly, exemplifying the desire of students to hear stories of the legandary "radical decade."

But even as Hoffman criticized the students for their apathy, they laughed.

"There are 4,000 colleges across the nation competing for the title of 'Most Apathetic' and you're right there with

While making barbs at their age and lack of worldly knowledge, he told stories of his life in the '60s, particularly the latter part of the decade.

"When you fight the power structure you learn how to organize. Democracy demands dissent. If you question authority long enough you'll go out and do what we did. Eventually you'll find out authority is immoral and stupid," he sald.

HOFFMAN EXPLAINED the meaning of fallout shelters and told stories of his many arrests.

"If you're going to take on conflict, an ex-Yipple. He says he hates the tag get it into the streets," he said, to a crowd that listened to him in awe and applauded his every word.

The audience was mesmerized by the 46-year-old man in his worn-out Jeans and a T-shirt that said "Stop Double-Strength Reaganol." But most of them were preschoolers when Hoffman was making a name for himself.

He acknowledged that fact prior to the talk during a press confernece.

"Kids today don't know about the 60s. It's been completely wiped out of. the history books. They aren't-taught how to challenge the power structure today like we were." Hoffman sald.

Hoffman came back into public notice in 1980 after spending seven years as a fugitive from charges of selling $36,000 worth of cocaine. He is presently on probation for the felony charge.

Hoffman assumed the name Barry Freed while a fugitive. He said he was able to use the alias to his advantage.

"I use any name to win any issue. People on the St. Lawrence wouldn't consider me if they knew I was Abble Hoffman. As Barry Freed they would,"

While living his life as Freed, he had plastic surgery to reshape his nose and organized the Save the River committee, which stopped the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers from destroying several nearby islands to improve navigation.

HE TESTIFIED before Senate subcommittees and was appointed to the federal advisory committee on the Great Lakes.

"I am dedicating my life to preserving the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River," he said.

Hoffman said he is taking his talk across the country to college campuses hoping to solicit donations for his Save the River group.

Karen Bunting programs a new spelling game called "Elementary, My Dear Apple." It's one of many she has created for kids and parents to use with computers.

Computer enthusiast spreads her zeal

By Loraine McClish staff writer

RDEN CITY teacher Karen Bunting has computer knowhow and enthusiasm that tends to be catching.

That's why she was asked to teach an Oakland Community College introduction to microcomputers. It is scheduled on the OCC Orchard Ridge Campus at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 1.

Bunting, a teacher of remedial reading at Garden City Junior High, wants more people to know about the endless possibilities for computer use, both at home and in the classroom.

"When our students and their parents raised the first $2,000 to get our first Apple, the last thing they expected was that it was going to end up in a language room," Bunting said.

"It was only later I realized how many thought it would be used for the math or science departments, because so many people don't realize the possibilities a computer offers.

"But it ended up in my room because I guess I was the one pushing the hardest to get one for our 13-14-year-olds. I honestly believe that schools that don't have a computer, or get one soon, are going to find themselves out of busi-

THE SUCCESS of the computer in Bunting's remedial reading class has since brought another fund-raiser staged by the district's parents and students; and another computer that was installed this fall for a variety of reading and spelling lessons and games devised by the teacher.

Her out of the classroom work is a round of "teaching the teachers in all departments in all the multi-facets of art, music, shop, whatever," she said. "They can use all that I know of and all those multi-facets I'm still dreaming of. That's up to them because while the computer is practical it can also be very creative for you."

'I want to get rid of the stereotype that. computers are only for smart kids. I have gotten kids in my class to believe nothing is too hard for them to tackle, and that is not common in remedial

—Teacher Karen Bunting

Her out of the classroom enthusiasm extends to night classes for adults and

"I want to help parents understand the new computer language their children are learning so they can keep up," she said. "I want parents to understand what they're buying so they can not only use it to the fullest, but the kids can do more with it than play Pac

As for her own classroom, she says her greatest success has been in the area of enthusiasm.

"I'm talking about the kid who is standing at the door at 6:30 a.m. to get in an extra hour or two on the computer. The ones who are learning how to program. The ones who are typing twice as much (material) as they (produced) in long hand," she said.

AS FOR LEARNING, either in or out of the classroom, Bunting said, "It's paramount value is two-fold. There is immediate feedback which has always been recognized by educators as highly benefiical in learning, something the public school teacher can rarely give.

"And the machine doesn't yell back at you for doing something wrong. The machine has more patience than any Bunting tells her audiences how the computer can be a time saver, and any initial outlay for purchase, if the computer is used correctly and to its fullest, will ultimately pay for itself.

"That won't happen if you use it only as a fancy calculator or typewriter,"

"And I want to get rid of the stereotype idea that computers are only for smart kids. I have goften the kids in my class to belive that nothing is too hard for them to tackle and that is not common in remedial classes."

With her computer at home, Bunting says she can tell you her net worth, to the penny, at any hour. Her house is completely inventoried and she can call up an egg plant recipe in a second, if you want her to do that.

Her lesson plans are made out on her computer at home and she earns extra money at home by supplying mailing labels and mailing lists to several com-

"ONE OF THE most beneficial things I do for my students is give them a print-out of their grades every Friday," Bunting said.

They know exactly where they stand in my class every week. It's part of the feedback that is important to them and they respond to it, something most teachers simply don't have the time to do without a computer."

Bunting's lecture at OCC will be in Room 308 of the J Building. Admission is $3, payable at the door.

Hospice volunteer group honors 2 departing founders

By Kris Hauser special writer

Magdalene Jackel and Dr. Larry Waite were believers in the concept of hospice care for the terminally ill long before most people in these parts had even heard the term.

And while others were beginning to careful planning and training, now is learn of this special kind of care that functioning with families of the dying, helping them to improve the quality of the last weeks and days of a lifetime.

Both are now leaving for other parts of the country. Jaeckel is going to Cali-They had important roles in forming fornia with her husband Henry, who the group which, after many months of has retired; and Dr. Walte is leaving new practice in Battle Creek. But both took with them honors and best wishes from the ever-increasing group of volunteers in the program they helped found. They and their families were given with an appreciation dinner recently.

"LOSING BOTH of them at the same time is a very great loss," Lee Pipa, of Westland, another founding volunteer of the hospice service, commented as friends gathered for the occasion.

Both the honorees noted pleasure at seeing the corps of volunteers beginning to make its presence felt in this Jaeckel, who gathered and instructed the first volunteers for Hospice Support Services Inc. and then served as its first president, expressed gratification at seeing how much families of the terminally ill appreciate the services.

Dr. Waite said: "It is rewarding to meet a need that is very present in any community and to provide an alternate form of care to those families willing to care for the terminally ill in their homes."

Both Jaeckel and Dr. Waite will remain on the advisory council for the organization which currently has 40 trained volunteers and 36 more in training. It has given service to 13 area families and is accepting applications for a spring training class.

The hospice group has office space in the Whittler Community Center in Westland for holding meetings and training classes, and conducting its business.

HOSPICE SUPPORT INC. had its beginning in March, 1981 when Jaeckel, who had studied the work of the Dr. Elizabeth Kubler-Ross on the subject of death and dying, gave a talk at West-the staff of Garden City Hospital for a land Center on the work she had begun in her Threshold Education courses through the Westland Convalescent Center.

> Among those who heard her that night was Dr. Waite.

Already committed to the hospice concept and working on a thesis on how a hospice seeks to make a terminally ill patient comfortable without trying to prolong life, the young doctor offered to join a new group of volunteers.

He also told Jaeckel he thought the dream of having a hospice service working in this area was not only feasible but was needed immediately.

The two joined with other volunteers to do the planning and groundwork and in July, 1981, the non-profit organization known as Hospice Support Services was incorporated. In September the growing group of volunteers ratified a constitution and by-laws and elected officers. Jaeckel was named the first president.

The first group of volunteers was graduated from a basics education program in January of this year, and the following month HSS moved into its new office space.

JAECKEL AND WAITE were hopored with gifts. Jaeckel received a gold medallion inscribed with the emerging butterfly that has become the symbol of the hospice group and Walte was given an office plaque.

The two departing workers talked about the hospice movement. They expressed satisfaction with the training program, which calls for an eight-week course. Volunteers learn the history and policies of the group, communications skills and creative listening.

Both want HSS to remain on a volunteer basis. "It should be available to all who need it," said Walte. "I want to see it remain compassionate and not become proprietory.

For operating funds the group depends entirely on donations and fundraising activities, and that's not all bad, said Jaeckel. She said the families who were helped have been especially generous and "after we help them, they turn around and ask how they can help us." "It is gratifying to see the program working like this," she added.

Hospice care, said Waite, "helps make dying easier by letting the person accept it as a natural thing, making him or her feel worthwhile."

"Dying is a part of life," he said, "but society has become so fragmented there is a gap of understanding between birth and death. The family used to help."

There also is great value to the patient's family, who often have had long care stints without a break, said Jaeckel. "It's tremendous for them to be able to get a way, she noted.

working on a parish art auction to further the cause through purchase of a food freezer.

St. Edith auction to raise cold cash

St. Edith Catholic Church of Livonia is planning an event of warm sociability Friday with hopes of putting the cold cash profits into a freezer.

The church, at Newburgh and Five Mile, will hold an art auction in its activities hall beginning at 8 p.m. with a champagne and hors d'occres preview. Bidding will begin at 9 p.m. on paintings and sculptures from Gallery Art Center in Lathrap Village. Tickets are

CAROL SAVAGE, coordinator of Christian service, and JoAnn Sabin, parish council representative for Christian-service, said proceeds would be used to buy a needed freezer for Blessed Sacrament Cathedral in Detroit, which serves as a depot for food donated by St. Edith and other area parishes.

They explained that St. Edith has had a long-term commitment to helping St. Agnes parish in Detroit. St. Agnes is one of five churches that use the food and clothing depot at Blessed Sacr-

"Once a month," Savage said, "we have a pantry weekend, and people bring in non-perishible foods to stock our pantry here at the church.

"SOME OF what comes in is used to fill needs we hear about right around here. When we make donations to area people, the St. Vincent de Paul Society supplies funds for things like milk and

Not all the foodstuffs are used locally, she went on, "so every month or so we take a load down to the depot."

Recently, said Savage, there had been thinking that if the depot had a large freezer it would be able to make use of donations of perishible foods and better serve the community.

We looked around for an activity that would raise money for such a purchase," said Savage, "and decided to try our first art auction."

UNDER THE terms of the agreement with Gallery Art Center, the parish will receive 22 percent of all sales, but only if there are 150 people attending the auction.

Works of renowned artists including Chagall, Dali, Hibel, Miro, Max and Rockwell will be included in the showing, along with offerings of new talents.

"We are really looking for people to come and help this cause," said Savage. "Tickets will be available at the door. And if we have any money left over. we'll use it to stock the freezer."

Thanksgiving: Healer for social ills

DEPENDABLE analysis indicates that hostility is the cause of much crime. Anger and resentment must be counteracted. The proposed solutions involving more police, more prisons and harsher punishment, are not working. The hostility itself must be faced. Society needs to provide a counteracting force, an antidote.

Destructive impulses and hostile attitudes cannot be removed by teaching nor by will_power. Attitudes change when one displaces another. Society needs customs which encourage healthier attitudes. Holidays provide customs.

OUR SOCIAL CLIMATE indicates we calmly accept taking property, life and dignity away (rom others. A priest of international reputation has written: "Angry actions want to take; grateful actions want to share."

Our institutions, from religious to governmental, can promote grateful actions. The desire to share as neighbors who are citizens of one common homeland can be encouraged.

Thanksgiving Day has a healing function. It requires preparation in actions of sharing. Little acts of sharing add up to displace angry attitudes which result in taking instead of sharing. To often the hollday is merely feeling grateful.

THE COSTS of crime and fear, created by hostil ity, call for more than a sentimental holiday. Prepa aration requires a period of time when we concentrate quite intentionally on grateful actions. Shares ing with friends is not trivial. Parties and visits to one another are not optional luxuries. We must face the hostility directly with a counteracting force of friendly sharing.

Our nation sets aside the day to increase awareness of blessings. It is up to citizens to make the holiday into an effective healer of social ills. We are responsible to engage in creative preparation. A few weeks of effort, to have the fun of gratefully sharing, will build up to a holiday experience of discovering that gratitude displaces hositlity.

Gridders are big, fast

All-Area team is talent laden

By C.J. Risak and Brad Emons staff writers

Although the area was not represented in the state prep football playoffs for the second straight year, there were several quality football teams this sea-

Livonia Franklin, champs of the Northwest Suburban League (NSL), finished with an 8-1 record and barely missed qualifying for post-season play. Another 8-1 team, Plymouth Salem, lost to highly-regarded Farmington Harrison for the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) championship. Other fine seasons were turned in by Detroit Catholic Central, which finished 7-2 overall and won the Catholic League's A-B Division championship; Westland John Glenn, 7-2, second place in the NSL; Redford St. Agatha, 6-3, Catholic League C-Bracket co-champs; Livonia Clarenceville, 6-3 as an independent; and Livonia Stevenson, 6-3, with wins in its final five games.

Livonia Bentley, Plymouth Canton and Redford Bishop Borgess also showed better records than a year ago.

Last week, area coaches gathered to select the area's top players. The 1982 team is big, fast and talented. The teams mentioned above make up the bulk of this year's All-Observerland team.

FIRST TEAM OFFENSE

Rich Popp, Livonia Franklin, quarterback. An intelligent player who showed great leadership this season for the successful Patriots.

The 5-foot-10, 195-pound senior signal caller completed 90 of 191 passes for 1,395 yards and 15 touchdowns (all school records).

He was also tough to bring down, rushing for 130 yards.

Todd Jennings, Westland John Glenn, running back. The 5-11, 180-pound senfor did it all for the Rockets,

He became Glenn's first 1,000-plus rusher, carried for a 5.7 average, scored 8 TDs, kicked five field goals, punted for a 38-yard average and led the defensive secondary. The Glenn captain rushed for a school record 222 yards against North-

Jeff Gatt, Detroit Catholic Central, running back. A two-way starter, Gatt was outstanding on offense as he scored nine TDs and rushed for 829 yards (5.0 average). The 5-10, 170-pound captain made 30 tackles, picked off two passes and recovered four fumbles for CC's stellar defensive unit.

Keith Percin, Livonia Bentley, running back. The hard-nosed Bulldog cocaptain earned his third letter this sea-

Percin, a 6-1, 185-pound senior, battled a slight concussion, sprained ankle and sore shoulder this season. Despite the injuries, he played both ways, rushed for 658 yards and scored five

He is also an excellent student with a 3.75 grade point average.

Dave Houle, Plymouth Salem, end. The Rocks threw only 40 times, but 6-4, 210-pound Houle caught 25 passes for 338 yards and three TDs.

The senior tight end was considered Salem's top offensive blocker. As a defensive end, he was equally impressive with three quarterback sacks. .

Houle has already made an official recruiting visit to the University of Michigan. Last spring he was named to the All-Observer basketball team.

Bob Wasczenski, Plymouth Canton, end. Only one of two juniors to make the team, Wasczenski showed great ability as a tight end, catching 30 passes for 614 yards and 10 TDs.

The 6-3, 205-pound Wasczenski was an excellent blocker and played linebacker for the Chiefs. He also punted and played on all special teams.

Joe Churches, Redford St. Agatha, lineman. The 6-6, 220-pound senior tackle was the main cog for both the Aggies' offensive and defensive lines.

An All-Catholic League choice for two years, Churches was also Agatha's kicking specialist. The Agatha standout is a Division I prospect being courted by Michigan and Colorado.

Sasho Filipovski, Livonia Franklin, lineman. The two-way tackle was the Patriots' leader on both offense and de-Filipovski, a 6-2, 215-pound senior, helped give quarterback Rich Popp plenty of time to throw. He was credited with nine solo tackles and 52 assists on defense.

Thad McCotter, Detroit Catholic Central, lineman. The 6-2, 235-pound senior tackle was CC's best offensive lineman, according to coach Tom

An All-Catholic League pick and two-year starter, McCotter also played defense where he came up with four sacks, 17 first hits and two fumble re-

Mike Moshimer, Plymouth Salem, lineman. The Rocks' most consistent offensive blocker, Moshimer stood out by making the line calls.

The 6-1, 200-pound senior was quick off the ball and was a good hitter, according to assistant coach Jim Jarvey. He also played defensive tackle and was an All-WLAA choice this season.

Dennis Farmer, Livonia Stevenson, lineman. The All-WLAA guard showed tremendous quickness and strength as guard. a blocker for coach Jack Reardon.

The 5-10, 170-pound senior also played linebacker and was a big reason for the Spartans' late-season resur-

FIRST TEAM DEFENSE

Bob Stebbins, Livonia Franklin, lineman. Stebbins, a 6-4, 215-pound down lineman, had a knack for being where the ball was.

The senior had eight solo tackles, 60 assists and one interception. As a tight end he caught 18 passes for 269 yards and three TDs. He averaged almost 15 yards per catch. Stebbins, who made the All-Observer basketball team last spring, is considered a Division I-caliber football play-

Joe Sawaya, Westland John Glenn, lineman. The 5-11, 180-pound nose guard caused the opposition headaches with his tremendous quickness. The two-time all-NSL choice was called a "hard worker" by his coach, Chuck Gordon.

Bernie Johnson, Redford Union, lineman. RU's team captain, Johnson led the team in tackles and assists with a steady all-out effort.

A two-year starter, Johnson is called the "best nose tackle we've every had at RU," according to coach Harvey Heltman.

The Panthers' captain also was named to the All-League team.

Mark Messner, Detroit Catholic Central, lineman. The 6-3, 205-pound junior used his quickness and desire to make All-League and All-Catholic honors.

Considered one of the best nose guards ever to play at CC, Messner also doubled as a tight end, where he caught 14 passes for 265 yards.

Jack Walker, Westland John Glenn, end. Walker, a 6-4, 210-pound senior, was a two-way starter (defensive end and offensive tackle).

recoveries en route to All-NSL honors. "A very physical football player who works hard at all times," said his coach, Chuck Gordon.

He led the team in sacks and fumble

Ed Ewald, Detroit Catholic Central,

end. The 6-1, 195-pound senior was considered CC's best all-around athlete by coach Tom Mach.

Ewald, a two-time All-League and All-Catholic pick, had 58 hits, 11 solo tackles, 12 first hits, two sacks and blocked an extra point.

He also snapped on extra points, was the team's punter and played offensive

Steve Sapienza, Livonia Bentley, linebacker. The only repeater on this year's team, Sapienza was all over the field for the Bulldogs as a linebacker and offensive tackle.

Sapienza, a 6-2, 200-pound senior, led Bentley in defensive points (assists and tackles) for the second year in a row.

The two-time All-League choice made an easy transition from fullback to tackle this year.

"Our biggest loss to graduation," said Bentley coach Steve Naumcheff.

Don Forchione, Westland John Glenn, linebacker. The 5-9, 180-pound senior made up for his lack of size with heart as he became Glenn's all-time tackling leader.

The team captain made All-League this year and was an outstanding blocker at fullback.

"We've had some fine linebackers at Glenn, and Don plays it as well as any we've had - he's all over the field," said Chuck Gordon, Glenn's head coach.

Dave Slavin, Plymouth Salem, linebacker. The 6-0, 210-pound senior was a two-way starter for the Rocks. (He was also a tackle on offense).

Slavin was an unselfish player who led the team in tackles. He also intercepted three passes, recovered two fumbles and blocked two kicks. Slavin also handled the punting. He was the first-team catcher on this year's All-Observer baseball team.

Chuck Gregory, Redford Bishop Borgess, back. A junior, Gregory made All-Catholic honors using his tremendous speed and quickness. He picked off five passes as a free safety.

Switched from tailback to quarterback at mid-season, Gregory led Borgess to a three-game winning streak while rushing for 700 yards and five

Chris Lewis, Livonia Franklin, back. The 5-10, 168-pound senior led the area with seven interceptions for 134 yards, a return average of 19.1. He also fielded punts for two years with an average return of 11 yards.

As a flanker, Lewis made some spectacular catches. He made 13 grabs for Benton Harbor. They did just that, proved to be their biggest test. Lake Michigan handled Schoolcraft in the first game, 15-11, and continued to dominate in the second, building a 10-6 advantage.

But the Ocelots' three All-America candidates - Chris Stellburger (a Livonia-Glarenceville grad), Miki Truchan (Livonia Bentley) and Karen Kelley (Livonia Stevenson) - pumped some life into their team, rallying Schoolcraft to a come-from-behind 15-13 victory.

With the tide shifted in their favor, the Ocelots maintained command and shut down Lake Michigan in the rubber game of the match, winning 15-2.

"THAT WAS THE pivotal match," said Schoolcraft coach Mike O'Toole after the tournament. "That allowed us to rest and only play one match. The loser (Lake Michigan) had to play right after that and then play three times on Saturday."

The result was that while Schoolcraft breezed past Henry Ford CC in a best-of-five match (15-11, 15-8, 15-12); Lake Michigan had to fight its way through the losers' bracket past Kalamazoo Valley, Grand Rapids, Southwestern and Henry Ford to reach the finals against the Ocelots.

Since it was a double-elimination tournament, Lake Michigan was faced with the prospect of beating Schoolcraft in two straight best-of-five matches to win the title.

It wasn't to be for the weary Benton Harbor squad. Kelley's spiking and the serving of Nancy Hughes (North Farmington) and Jenny Buchanan (Redford Union) kept the Ocelots in control, as they stormed to a 15-11, 15-6, 15-11 triumph.

O'TOOLE HAD nothing but praise for his team's performance. "The attitude of these kids is just great," the veteran coach sald. "They listen to what we say. It was a great team effort."

O'Toole counted three factors leading to his team's victory: "One, they were tired. The second thing was that we changed our offense and defense, and we shut down their offense. And then we passed better and hit better than they did."

O'Toole has his goals established for the upcoming national tournament.

"If we execute like we did here, we'll do well. Our goal was to finish in the top four this year. This is a veteran team - all of our starters are sophomores. Once we get that far, I'm not greedy."

The Ocelots will take a 37-11 match record into the finals, including a 23-0 mark against junior colleges.

It's a brand new prep hockey season with two. area schools greeting new coaches.

Meanwhile at Livonia Franklin, Terry Jobbitt takes over for Dave Felker.

Wyandotte Roosevelt appears to be the favorite in the nine-team Suburban Prep Hockey League (SPHL) while perennial state power Trenton and Ann Arbor Huron are looking strong in the Michigan Metro High School Hockey League (MMHSHL). Here is a pre-season outlook for the 1982-83 sea-

The scoring will be left up to center and alternate captain Johnny LaDuke, and forwards Tom Anderson, Dave Moore and Scott Smith.

"It's going to be very tough," said Anderson, who is coming off a 19-3-1 overall record. "It's a hard act to follow, but we hope we've established a winning tradition.

The Chargers will rely on defense this season. The goalies are junior Keith Walk and sophomore Terry Lancaster. They hope to get support on defense from juniors Kevin Gagnon and Todd Vollick, freshman Rick Robitaille and senior Art Medlyn.

Senior lettermen returning include John Bartle, Craig Hanson, John Jardine, Russell Lynch and Tim Sheridan.

Todd Baumann, Paul Blanchard, Nick Talovich, Dave Willard, Dave Mardzoloff, Drek Clever and Ryan Stechweicz round out the squad.

"Strong defense," said Vavari. "That's what we have to play first. "Hopefully we'll come around offensively. We have to look for experienced players to filll in. We must have three solid lines to be competitive." The Chargers, a shade below 500 last season, should be that and more this year.

Glenn wins tourney tuneup

Westland John Glenn overcame a cold shooting night to turn back slumping Plymouth Canton Tuesday, 26-22, in a non-league girls' basketball game.

Darla Bergman and Julie Pucci each scored eight points for the winners, now 11-8 overall. Sue Gerke countered with seven for Canton, which

The two teams ended three quarters of play tied at 12-all. Glenn then came on strong in the final period, outscoring the Chiefs 14-10.

Bergman was the game's most accurate shooter, making four of five shots. Teammate Michele McCullen hit two of four.

Things were much better at the free-throw line as Canton connected on just six of 20 shots. Glenn missed all eight attempts. The difference was rebounding as Glenn held Canton to an average of just one shot down the floor. The Rockets' Colleen Reilly and Sophie Castonguay combined for 17 rebounds.

Karen Swereski led the winners with 12 points. Nancy Rzepka and Julie Burton scored eight each for Borgess.

"I like to say realistically we'll be over .500," said Jobbitt. "It depends on how we develop as the season goes along.'

The Patriots return six regulars including forwards Scott Williams, Rob Bleim, Jim Barnes, Ed Zajdec and Kurt Hierta.

Returnee Pat Collins and Mike Vasilco, both seniors, are capable goaltenders.

Senior John Chmielewski, however, is the only defenseman that was a regular in 1981-82.

"Inexperience," said Jobbitt, "that's were our handicap is." The new Franklin coach hopes to fill the gaps with freshmen Glenn Bleim and Paul Zajdel along with junior John Ronchetto.

The Shamrocks were under .500 last season, but came on strong, losing to Trenton 7-6 in a state quarterfinal game.

CC is young team with eight returnees. Steve De-Mattos, a junior All-League defenseman, leads the group. He is joined by holdovers Tim Landino and Brian Peck, right wingers; Dave Morse, left wing; Scott Summers and Dan Michaels, centers; Eric Socia, defenseman, and Brian Bella, goalie.

"Our goal is to do as well as we can," said Gumbleton, "and hopefully we will.

"We have good potential."

CC is in the tough West Division of the MMHSHL. The Shamrocks will battle the likes of Trenton, Pioneer, Huron, Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook and Birmingham Brother Rice in their own division.

"I suspect a a state championship will come of that league more often than not," said Gumbleton.

CC plays the Red Wing Oldtimers in an exhibition. game at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Redford Arena.

Record pace set on area lanes

Bowlers in the "Classic" helped Wonderland Lanes celebrate its silver anniversary recently by shattering all in-house records and setting a new mark for western Wayne County.

When the firing subsided, 16 of the sharpshooters had broken the 700 barrier. A team record of 3,480 was also established by Farr Painting.

"I've never seen anything like it." said Wonderland owner George Bashara, "and this mark should last for a long time."

Meanwhile, Tom McKay, secretary of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association, was surprised, but said a similar pin-busting peformance was recorded in the all-star leagues several years

Jerry Dunlap set the pace in the heavy firing with a 278 closing game in 763. Right behind was Ron Sarah with 758 and Dave Shiffman with 739.

The other barrier breakers included Chuck Roame (784), Henry Gerenraich (734), Dave Karaski (728), Larry Brandt (726), Al Colcer (725), Wes La-Palme (725), Fred Ringrose (717), Fred Rossman (716), Tom Hay (715), Dan Longeway (714), Bob Wilcox (706), Frank Mugger (704), and Tony Stack in last week at Westland Bowl. Don Wolfe, a 16-year-old bowling in the Saturday junior league, rolled a 723 series with games of 289, 233 and 201, while Mike Wilson, who carries a 159 average in the Wednesday men's league, closed with a 245 for a 703.

PINS WERE flying all over the area during the week and furnished proof that the new American Bowling Congress (ABC) rules regarding lane finishes are meeting all expectations.

While there were 16 barrier-breaking totals at Wonderland, seven other 700 or better series were recorded to bring the total for the season far ahead of all forecasts.

Four of the series came at Westland Bowl, two in the mixed classic and two in the Monday men's league. Jerry Cole Jr. rolled a 730 in the classic to beat Ken McNabb by 14 pins. In the Monday league, Rick Biegas closed with 256 for 715 where he was deadlocked with Jim Jesson who had a 257 opener. Adding to the barrage, Randy Ortwine had the thrill of closing with a perfect game for 752 at Bel-Aire. And Rick Lang, only a few lanes away, recorded a 734. The other went on the record at Super Bowl in Canton Township. Ron Eisenbles set the pace with 720 and Mike Goins posted a 702.

SUE WOZNIAK had the biggest moment of her bowling career when she toppled the "impossible" 4-6-7-10 split at Woodland Lanes. She was bowling with the Early Birds and still doesn't know how she accomplished the

IN OTHER GOOD performances. Ralph Schleicati converted the 7-10 at Garden Lanes while Louise Hirsch had a 242 in 628 to show the way in the women's classic.

Colleen Chrysler, a 14-year-old, rolled games of 242, 228 and 188 for 654 in the junior league at Super Bowl.

In the Monday night league at Merri-Bowl, Helen Gill, who carries a 151 average, registered games of 166, 228 and 241 for 635. Len Singer, meanwhile, had a 249 middle game in 661 at Wood-

Ohio soccer titles go to 2 local clubs

Livonia United capped a superior year of soccer by winning its division in the Forest Park (Ohio) Invitational Tournament last weekend.

The United, a team of 11-and-under boys, got three goals from Khaled Zeiden and single tallies from Erik Booker and Derek Montroy to overpower the Forest Park Spirits, 5-3, in the finals.

A total of 96 teams from Indiana, Pennsylvania and Illinois as well as Ohio and Michigan competed in the tournament, including 12 in the 11 and under division.

The only blemish on the Livonia United's tourney record came in the first round, as Cincinnati Arsenal scored in the last minute of play to ge a 1-1 tie. Zeiden accounted for United's only goal,

THE LIVONIA TEAM dominated its next two games, blasting the Centerville (Ohio) Strikers, 5-1, and the Cincinnati Blaze, 11-1. Scott Finzel, David Dinglie, Mike Berens, Montroy and Zeiden got United's goals against the Strikers.

Chance limo trip gives inside view of Chicago

Sometimes the most interesting traveled experiences happen by accident.

Midway Airlines to Chicago and took a limousine into town. I use the term limousine loosely, because it was a broken-down black car of uncertain vintage, but the trip was definitely a learning experience.

The Midway Airlines plane is a rainbow-striped DC-9 with a high blue and orange tail. I was impressed by its cleanliness.

Two male stewards served the 18 rows of passengers, two seats on one side of the aisle, three on the other. Orange juice, tomato juice or coffee. Only coats and hats can be stored overhead, so don't carry that hanging bag aboard.

Midway makes five flights a day from Detroit's Metropolitan Airport to Midway Airport. According to the Chicago travel literature, Continental buses leave for downtown hotels from a spot across from baggage claim and cost $4.20; but when I arrived at 9:15 a.m., I learned that there wasn't another bus until noon.

"Where are you going, ma'am?" That was a burly man who looked like he knew his way around.

"The Inn of Chicago."
"I'm a limousine service. I can take you there."

ou there." --"How much?"

"Ten dollars."
"How much is a taxi?"
"Fifteen-sixteen dollars."

"See that black limousine over there with the trunk open? Put your bag in the back, sit in the back seat, and we'll leave in one minute."

travel editor

The trunk was full of junk: gallon jugs, tools, old jackets. I put my bag there and approached the front warily.

It was a regular car, certainly not a limousine, with newspapers littered around. It looked like the cars my teenagers used to drive. Am I being taken for a ride, I said to myself? I went back to the driver.

"Are you a regular limousine ser-

"Yes ma'am, that's what I do for a living."

Soon, two business suits joined me in the back seat, so I decided that whatever happened, I was not alone.

We were off, slightly squashed, three-abreast in the back seat, the businessman in the middle with his feet on the hump and his knees under his chin.

The bus would have saved me money, but I would have missed the running commentary from the front seat and the great list of restaurants given to me by the driver after we stopped. He didn't want me to publish his name, so I'll just call him Don.

I ignored the first rush of recommendations, because they were for places most tourists could find without help. I started writing down his choices when I asked him "where do you go?"

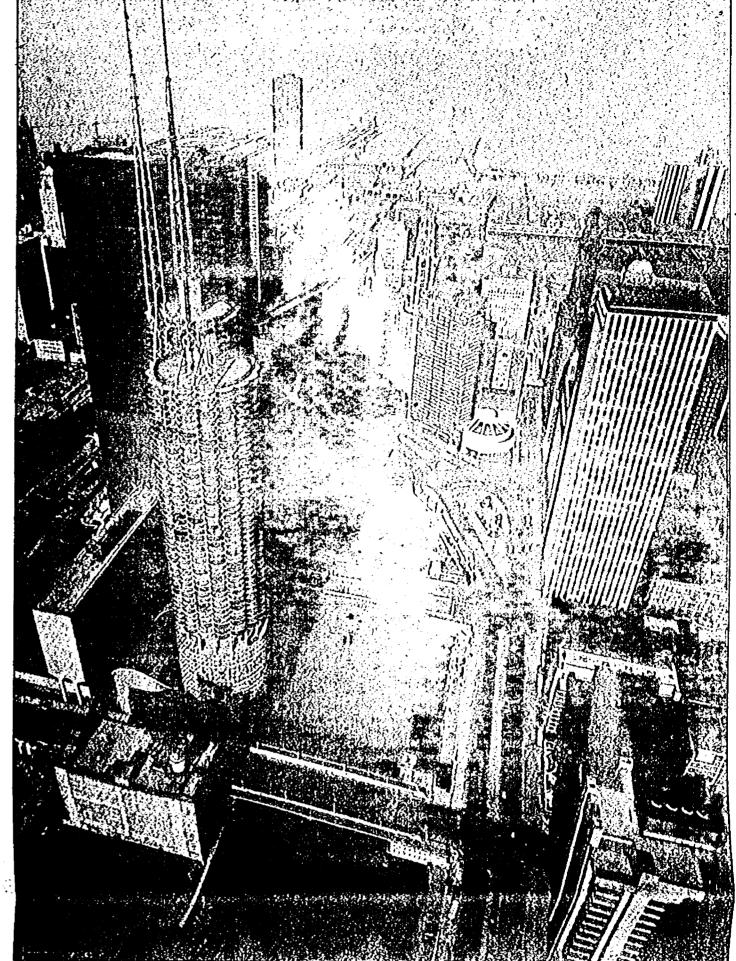

"Oh, well, I don't go to those expensive places. I go to Neringa's at 71st and Tallman, a Lithuanian place where you can't spend more than $5, and you eat like a champ.

"I go to the Orbit, a Polish place at Milwaukee and Central Park. They have violins in the lounge in the evening. For ribs, Little Eddies, in the Logan Square area. For off-the-wall seafood, the Half-Shell, on Diversey Street, half a block west of Clark. It's a hole-in-the-wall basement place with the best seafood in town."

The next day I took a $4.75 taxi to McCormick Place and another $12 one from McCormick Place to Midway Airport. I had the whole car to myself,

When I got to the airport, I checked the orange flag by the Baggage Claim, and, as I had suspected, I could have taken a Share-Cab for $8 to the Loop, the Near North side or the Gold Coast; it's a regular service in which travelers save money by sharing a cab.

Add that to my $150 round-trip air ticket, and it would have cost me $166 to fly to Chicago and take a taxi to and from the city. More efficient, I'm sure, but it would have lost something.

The Chicago River meanders through the heart of downtown Chicago. Getting around the city is relatively easy, thanks to an extensive mass-transit system. When going from the airport to downtown, however, one of Chicago's increasingly popular limousine services may be the most interesting way to travel.

Tower a symbol of Chicago's rebirth

Chicago's Water Tower is a sentimental favorite of Chicagoans.

That strangely castellated pile of stonework at Chicago and Michigan avenues holds a special distinction: It was the only building in the area to survive the Great Fire of 1871.

In 29 blazing hours, the Great Chicago Fire burned 73 miles of streets in an area of three and one-half square miles. As many as 300 persons died, and between 17,000 and 18,000 buildings were destroyed, leaving 100,000 Chicagoans homeless.

Virtually all that remained in the city was the ancient Kelly-stone water tower and pumping station. Long past its usefulness today, the water tower is cherished by a city short on historical landmarks.

When the forces of "progress" wanted to tear it down decades after the fire to make room for the widening of Michigan Avenue, the citizenry rose up and forced the city to angle the roadway rather than drive it through the Water Tower.

So the Water Tower is more than a relic; it is a phoenix, a symbol of the city's survival and vitality. And it is appropriate that the developers of the most recent major addition to Chicago's Magnificent Mile of stores have borrowed its name.

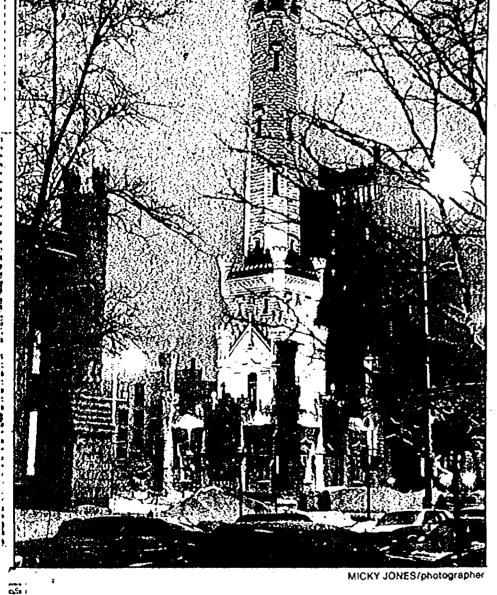

Water Tower Place, just north of the Tower itself, is a $160-million, 74-story combination of shopping mall, restaurants, theaters;-offices, parking facilities, condominium apartments and the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. Occupying a full city block, the entire bulk of Water Tower Place is sheathed in Travertine marble in two finishes detailing the building's structural elements — an extravagance that created considerable controversy among architects and the sidwalk superintendents who watched the building go up. But the finished product has been attracting crowds of shoppers and sightseers ever since it opened in the fall of 1975.

The Michigan Avenue entrance to the Atrium Mall is a meeting of colonnade, glass, marble, garden and waterfall. Escalators and glass-enclosed elevators carry shoppers from the entrance to the Atrium's seven levels.

Within the Atrium Mall are scores of shops, some with names well-known and respected throughout the world, including F.A.O. Schwartz, Halston and Vidal Sassoon.

And then there are the venerable names of Chicago merchandising like Marshall Field & Co., Kroch's & Brenatano's and Metcalf's.

The variety of activities planned for the Water Tower Place keeps it busy through most of the day and night. In addition to the shops, there is Drury Lane Theatre in the Round and four movie houses. One of the complex's various cases and restaurants, the Case, is open 24 hours a day.

ட்டுhicago's Water Tower, at the intersection of Chicago and Michi-யீgan avenues, survived the Great Fire of 1871. But the Windy City இandmark nearly fell to the wrecker's ball decades later.

Actor shares past with theatrical royalty

- DAVID FRANK/staff photographer

"The Royal Family" is about the Barrymores, but actor William Le Massena in real-life has worked with other theatrical royalty - Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne. In "The Royal Family" at Meadow Brook Theatre, he wears agricing suit given to him by Fontanne after Lunt's death.

N"THE ROYAL FAMILY" at leadow Brook Theatre, William e Massena wears a suit that riginally belonged to the late Alfrecunt, the famous stage actor.

Le assena plays the character of a flambyant stage manager to a theatrical faily, patterned after the Barrymos, and the morning suit from Lunt'bersonal wardrobe fits the part perfely.

Ovelunch at Machus Sly Fox in Birminglm, Le Massena told a delightful, detail story about how he landed his first loadway role, and with the famousiusband-and-wife team of Lunt and (fnn) Fontanne, at that.

Helso told how, after Lunt's death, in theoring of 1978 Fontanne asked Le Assena to come to her home, wherehe gave him many of her husbandbuits.

"I ORE FIVE of the suits in the movi 'All That Jazz," Le Massena said. Ie played the producer in the film, fictionalized account of chore-ograier Bob Fosse's life. "by were all Saville Row suits," he declied. "They all had to be cut down for n." He recalled that the tailor for the ovie did the work lovingly becaushe knew the finely-tailored garmen had once belonged to Alfred Lunt LMassena said the morning suit he wea in "The Royal Tamily" was madfor Lunt to wear in the stage producin "O Mistress Mine." It's appropria for "The Royal Family" because the it is in the style of the 1930s, the perfl when the show is set.

The Meadow Brook production, directl by the Artistic Director Terence Killrn, runs through Nov. 28 on the Oaknd University campus near Ro-

Massena read in the New York Times daily theater column that the Lunts ow Brook Theatre touring production were auditioning actors for a revival of "Taming of the Shrew."

He lined up with other hopefuls at the old Guild Theatre, now the ANTA Theatre. Lunt stepped out of a car and told the queue that it had all been a mistake, there were only a few parts role because the star was leaving for open but everyone waiting would be au- another production.

LE MASSENA, who had been in a production of "Taming of the Shrew" that summer, had seen the role of the pedant, a very old man, and demanded to read for it.

Finally, he was given the chance to read and told to come back again. He spent sleepless nights worrying about whether he would get the part. When he saw Lunt three days later, he was told he was already hired. "I signed a contract for $45 a week," Le Massena said.

The young actor went home to New Jersey that night and woke his mother to tell-her he'd gotten a job with the Lunts. "I had a hard time convincing her," he said, since his mother was a big fan of the Lunts.

He also appeared with the Lunts in Robert Sherwood's "There Shall Be No" Night," which won the Pulitzer Prize. He played a young American ambulance driver.

Sherwood originally wrote play about the invasion of Finland by Russia. But when the play was done in England after the World War II alliance with the Soviet Union, he changed it to the invasion of Greece by the Germans.

With apologies to Davey Marlin-Jones and Peter Ross . . "Ron a Crooked Mile" (1969), noon today on Ch, 9. Originally 100 minutes.

Mary Tyler Moore's best film until "Ordinary People" is at its best when she's not in it. Suave Louis Lordan is an amnesic math teacher who finds himself in the midst of a gold-standard .coup, while polised Wilfred Hyde-White adds credibility (as always) to a sometimes-fantastic script. Rating: $2.80.

"Perfect Friday" (1970), noon Friday on Ch. 9. Originally 94 minutes. Tight is the word for this comicthriller from Britian. Stanley Baker epitomizes the dutiful bank employée who masterminds a most-unlikely heist. Ursula Andress Brings out the lion in this mouse while her boy friend, David Warner, plays the perpetual boy and comic foil. The ending hurts, though. Rating: $3.

"Way Out West" (1937), I a.m. Saturday on Ch. 50. Originally 65 minutes.

Laurel and Hardy made dozens of shorts and fewer feature-length films. Out of well over 100 projects, however. the only two films that the pair produced themselves were "Our Relations" (1936) and "Way Out West," the latter being one of their best efforts. Rating: $3.15.

"Escape from Alcatraz" (1979), 9 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 7. Originally 112 minutes.

Director Don Siegel is a master of the genre film. He's conquered horror ("Invasion of the Body Shnatchers," 1956), cops ("Madigan," 1968, and "Dirty Harry," 1971), westerns ("The Shootist," 1976), and, with "Escape from Alcatraz," prison-escape films. Clint Eastwood, Patrick McGoohan star. Rating: $3.25.

"The French Connection" (1971), 1:30 Monday night on Ch. 7. Originally 104 minutes.

Gene Hackman's Popeye Doyle changed the face of cop films, and director William Friedkin and crew set the standard for chase sequences. But is the film really as good as its five Academy Awards, including Oscars for best film, director and actor, indicate? Rating: $2.95.

"The Road to Utopia" (1945), 1 Tuesday night on Ch. 50. Originally 90 minutes.

"Utopia" is the midpoint of Bob Hope and Bing Crosby's seven "Road" pictures, and it's only middle-of-the-road funny. Robert Benchley co-stars, but he should have written the script. Still, Bing and Bod can milk laughs from a rubber chicken. Rating: $2.50.

'Story Theater' has meaty humor

Paul Sills' "Story Theater," a family holiday musical, will run Friday-Sunday evenings through Dec. 19 at the Lycee International, 30800 Evergreen Road on the corner of Evergreen and 13 Mile roads, Southfield. Call 642-1326 for ticket information.

By Cathie Breidenbach special writer

"Story Theater," second production by the new Actors Alliance Theater Company, weaves together four of Aesop's fabled animal stories, plus five fairy tales by the brothers Grimm.

It's billed as family theater - entertainment for all ages - but it's not the purified pablum that entertainment suitable for children sometimes is. "Story Theater" is not only a witty, rollicking show, it's good Aesop and the brothers Grimm wrote meaty stuff, full of wily characters and their dupes, jealous brothers, good-hearted simpletons, and greedy types. The tales deal wonderfully with the human condition, and Paul Sills, a founding member of the Second City Theatre, has adapted them for the stage with a little spice, a generous dash of wit, just a hint of blood and guts, and over it all marvelous attention to detail.

Theater in-the-round involves the audience far more than traditional staging where actors hide within the recesses of the proscenium arch.

NO SEAT at the Actors Alliance theater is more than a few feet from the central stage. It makes for an intimate set, like inviting the players to act out bedtime stories from the foot of your bed. Directing in-theround surely presents some unique challenges, but Laurie Logan handles them flawlessly, and the troop plays counts and cows, robbers and chickens, fishermen and flounders with equal gusto and skill.

Jeff Nahan makes a ludicrous enchanted flounder who rises from undulating cloth waves to grant wishes. Dierdre Madsen, with braids looped on either side of her head like hound-dog ears, galumphed around the stage very much like a dog, and Bethany. Carpenter pecked and flapped as Henny

Penny, but the herd of sloe-eyed, cud-chewing cows was the masterpiece of the animal

Judy Ann Richer plays guitar and liltingly sings the folk songs that help weave together the stories. There's wit at work even in the choice of songs. John Denver's lyrical "Follow Me" becomes a hilarious traveling song for the gaggle of foul going to tell the king that the sky is falling.

The set is delightfully short on complicated props. A couple of ladders, two wooden cubes, a bolt of cloth, and a hula hoop about
