WilliWHAT?!

Williwaw - what is it? The name of our school's beloved yearbook? Yes, but is there more to it other than being a goofy name someone thought up sixty-some years ago? YES! According to the trusty American Heritage Dictionary, a williwaw is: "a violent gust of cold wind blowing seaward from a mountainous coast; a squall." So, our yearbook name does mean something! This book is a thing with impact; it comes to you with a splash. And so, this year, for our nineteen eighty-eight book, we give you the theme, "A Splash of Color." May this yearbook bring brightness into your life for always.

— Sal Ann

Give Me A "K!"

"A fish? You mean your mascot is a . . . FISH?!"
We've all heard it, and we've all replied, "Yes, our mascot is a fish. But not just any ordinary fish, we're a KING!"

For as long as many can remember, Ketchikan
High School has been represented by a King
Salmon — you know, the fish.

Many like the idea of having an unusual mascot.
It gives the student body a feeling of notability—gives them a reason to cause a little splash of color.

Water, fish, splash. It all fits into the picture of Ketchikan. The town where we live. Where each year, thirteen feet of rain falls on our heads.

What's a little water to fight against, anyway?
After all, we are a fish . . . we were meant to splash a bit.

Through Thick And Thin

Friends

Friends are essential to a person in high school. No matter who; the nerd, jock, preppie, or soc, we are all in the same boat when it comes to needing friends. There are many pressures that a kid has to face every day. With worry over good grades, complete assignments, parents' rules and the ever present romantic problems, the modern-day student would be a nervous wreck without a shoulder to cry on or just someone to share a secret with.

Many times it has been that some problem has arisen, and I went directly to a good friend for advice. After we talked about it, something that had once seemed so awful and all-encompassing suddenly had taken on a trivial and unimportant light.

Of course, friends aren't there for you only when the chips are down. Just hanging around school passing the time or playing a game of basketball with friends is an excellent way to turn boredom into fun.

October 10, 1987

Every year the senior class puts on a carnival to raise money for their prom and graduation. This year the carnival was put on a bit earlier than other years. It didn't seem real when on the third day of school Mrs. Bloom, the senior class adviser, told us that the carnival was going to be put on in one month.

Our class has developed a reputation of being laid back; easy come, easy go. Whatever happens, happens, and if it doesn't, who cares? We're cool! We don't need no education. Pink Floyd, "The Wall." With this attitude most would think that not much would get accomplished. But we surprised everyone and even broke a record or two.

I have to admit that I, too, thought it was going to be a flop. But at the last minute everything fell into place. Before we knew it, people were waiting at the doors. Some daring soul went to unlock them, and people began to pile in. Everyone seemed to be having a good time, except for the few little ones that lost Mom or Dad.

The clock struck ten and that meant time to lock up the doors and clean! No one could leave until everything was back to normal. It's amazing to see how fast 150 seniors can clean when they have somewhere else to be. The word was spread that we had made $10,890! Now we all thought that that was something to celebrate.

Teaching, Learning

Graduation is defined by the International New Encyclopedic Dictionary as: "the conferring of a degree or diploma upon at the close of a course of study." But to most seniors it simply means The End. It means that thirteen years of schooling are through. We've strived, worked, laughed and cried to be able to walk across that stage and receive our diploma; to hold a piece of paper in our hands stating that our hard work has come to a happy ending. We've officially become part of the "real world" now. All this and for what? To be accepted into a good college to obtain anywhere from two to eight more years of schooling! Of course one day, we'll graduate from college, and then we'll once again be officially part of the real "real world." Some of us will get married, have kids or start a career, and through it all we'll still be learning. That's what life is, a continuing process of understanding more and more information. But high school graduation is the start of it all . . . from there on, we become responsible for the learning we will receive.

We Remember Buck

To everyone who knew Buck, they consider him a neat and wonderful person. He would always go out of his way to help you if you needed it.

He would have loved to get a 1968 Charger! That car would have been his most prized possession.

He's going to be missed.

— Drew Transki

Buck was the kind of person who was pretty easy going and easy to get along with. He loved to talk, it didn't even matter what it was about. Buck especially liked Mopars. He just loved "68" Dodge Chargers the best. He also enjoyed riding motor cycles every Sunday. It was kind of his weekly ritual. All who knew him are going to miss him ... a lot.

Twinkletoes

My third extra-terrestrial correspondent assignment was considered suicide back home on Revolution Planet Number Nine because no one had ever returned from it alive. It was known as Operation Twinkletoes. I was to attempt to record the unknown terror of teenage Earth: the Senior Prom.

I cased the subject town of Ketchikan, Alaska, U.S.A. Earth for supplies, but I could find nothing that remotely resembled the sketches in my "Prom-goers' Guidebook." Finally, at an Army Surplus store named Salvation, I discovered a costume made of silk camouflage. I bought it.

The next night I arrived at the high school armed for battle, ready to record every event on my trusty ankle-tattoo computer. At the entrance I counted twenty-seven high-heel shoes caught in the grating. I thought it must have been a sacrifice towards the success of the evening. This was definitely going to be rough.

I remember only tiny pieces of the evening: having my picture taken twenty different times, boogying down with a male human in a camouflage tuxedo who kept calling me his soul mate, and singing the strange Earth music .....

As it stands today, I have achieved celebrity status on Revolution Planet Number Nine because I am the only Revolutionary-Niner to survive Operation Twinkletoes. I have survived the Senior Prom!

The Final Boundary

Well, here we are; the end of our high school years. These times as a senior were the best of our lives so far. Our lives have just started. Most of us are or soon will be considered legal adults. The time when you're pushed from the nest; will you fly or fall?

I hope we can all be flyers, and for most that means a college education. For me, college means the beginning of life. Not the life you lead while following all your parent's rules, but the ones you set down for yourself.

But let's not get carried away; college life is not all fun and games. There are a few things that we need to look at closely. The big one, in my opinion, is how am I going to pay for this? With all of the financial aid available these days through student loans, scholarships, and military bonuses, it merely depends upon how badly you want to attend a college.

Here we are, on the verge of the final boundary. But don't worry, just relax and try to have lots of fun, and everything will work out fine.

Senioritis!

Senioritis is a disease which all seniors acquire at some point during their twelfth and final year in high school.

Some symptoms of this disease are restlessness and irresponsibility. As a result, seniors organize initiation and skip days to relieve tension. Initiation involves the underclassmen. During the first two weeks of school, the seniors have some fun with the freshmen using shaving cream and eggs. Senior skip days are a popular activity that are organized at the last minute. If it's a nice day outside, the seniors just take off! If the seniors have the disease badly enough, they'll go, but the ones that have the smarts stay in school. In some sort of way all this leads back to the senior whose school work output is decreasing, and whose grades are dropping.

Am I afflicted yet? In my opinion, yes, because I have started to kick back, and my grades have started to fall. But this is not due to lack of trying; I do all my work almost to the best of my potential. I have a man inside me which says, "Get your act together and study, Bruce." If I don't, these good times could cost me a scholarship which in my book means money.

Involvement With Longer Hours

Courtesy of Ketchikan Public Library and Ketchikan Museums

Resource Center

Much of the time spent in the library is used studying for some academic ability or another. This year we had two new additions to the library. The first was the new part-time library aide, Mrs. Risinger, who came from the Washington DC area. Adding Mrs. Risinger to our staff allowed extended hours, 7:15 am to 5:00 pm Monday through Thursday. Students need worry no more about waiting for someone to open during lunch so that last-minute homework could be finished.

The second change was the development of serious study habits. Mrs. Jenkinsen, the librarian, claimed that she was tired of the library being a recreational place for people to visit — and so it changed.

The library is used for relaxing, reading, homework and doing research. Where would we be without time in the library with a serious study atmosphere? I feel that the changes in the library benefitted all.

Academics Is A Class Act

A, B, C, . . .

For the 87-88 school year, all English teachers proposed a new program which was called the integrated English program. Each quarter, to receive an "A", the students had to work extra hard. For a "C", all class work had to be done and in on time, and your class percentile had to be up to a "C" standard. But for the "A" and "B" grades, the projects varied from class to class. To obtain a "B" in Mrs. Bloom's English IV classes, students had to have a "B" percentile and also read two books and do book reviews on them. For an "A" in Mr. Landis' English III classes, students had to do the B project, a journal on a book, maintain an "A" level on daily work and do a Writer's Notebook.

Mrs. Miller summed up the reason for putting the integrated system into work, "The English curriculum is aimed at the whole spectrum of student abilities and encourages all students to strive for excellence."

WHAT IT FEELS LIKE TO SIT ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE GYM

You walk into the gym calmly, and then you realize that you're sitting on the side of the mighty upper classmen, then of course your calm walk turns into a classic junior strut. As you step up into the wooden bleachers of the righteous juniors you scurry frantically to find a good place to stand. Then out of nowhere you receive a hidden burst of excitement, and you begin to cheer and scream. You slowly gaze across the gym, and you see the lifeless freshmen, all staring with a type of dumbfounded, Elmer Fudd look. Our class has so much spirit that as we're leaving the gym, spirit is just falling out of our pockets and coats. And of course the freshmen run at top speed to try and pick some of it up for themselves. So coming to an end I will conclude that being a junior and sitting on the other side of the gym is sort of like being that green M&M, because even though you're surrounded by many you always seem to over take the others around you!!

JUNIORS EXCEL

The class of '80' prides itself on its abundant and exuberant amount of energy. Our class is strong in all areas of school involvement. Some outstanding guys in our class are Joe Denton, who is the captain of the swim team; Scott Habberstad, the peppy guy who is president of the Pep Club, and of course the guys working out on the varsity basketball team, Ken Coville, Trevan Walker, Benny Frank, Wade Kahle, Randy Kohltfarber, Kevin Nalder, and Shawn Murphy. On the girls' varsity, there are Katherine McGee, Jodi McCann and Margaret Hogan leading the pack. Along the academic line, there are Mike Starks, Ed Bloom and Jenny Eakes sitting in the upper portion of our class' top students.

All in all — we deserve to be proud! We stick together and we stick it out, because next year, we're "officially" at the TOP!

ANTICIPATION

Being a junior is like living in limbo. We're all starting to become concerned with what to do after graduation, if we make it that far. A life-long wonder begins to develop into a frightening realization as the thrilling experience of choosing a college grows near. We wait in anxious anticipation of being the Kings of Kayhi.

JUST IN THE NICK OF TIME

There once was a junior who went by the name of Nick "Bile" Gucker. He was a very gifted individual who was famed for his artistic talents. Nick's drawing abilities have been appreciated by many people throughout the school system. He has uniquely drawn the Kayhi King on a lot of items in school. Nick's drawing of our Piscatorial Pride has appeared on pep club cards, T-shirts, candy grams, handkerchiefs and most importantly on this year's yearbook. The artwork furnished on our Williwaw has all been wonderfully drawn by our own Nick Gucker. This junior deserves much credit and appreciation from each of us.

SOPHOMORE CONDITION

It is, how you say, fantastico in some ways and quite awful in others. Let me start with the bad points and lead up to the good "stuff."

Last year we were at least noticed, even if we were low-life creatures that seniors loved to step on, stick in the trash, and tar and feather. This year, however, we are just amoebas floating around on a microscope slide. Let's face it, there's nothing worse than being ignored. Now that you have the feeling that there's nothing worse than being a sophomore, let me throw in the good "stuff." First of all there's the um well, yea, and of course, there's always uh let's see. You know, come to think of it, what is good about being a sophomore? I guess it's just a disease you have for a year called the "sophomore condition." By the way, how many days 'til we're Juniors?

FACE THE FACTS

As a sophomore you've made it through one year, and now you have three more tough years. Your outlook on life is not as rosy as it was your freshman year. You've learned by now that high school is not like the movie "Grease." Freshmen are the new faces of school. They think, "Wait till next year; I'll be a sophomore!" Wake up and smell the roses! Sophomores have no status. Sophomores think, "Wait till I'm a junior." It's a continuous chain.

It's your sophomore year when you start thinking, "What am I going to do after high school?" To go to college or not to go, that is the question. Then you think, "Don't worry about it. I'm only a sophomore!"

WEIRD FEELINGS

The sophomore year for me is kind of weird. I feel out of place. Your sophomore year I guess you are supposed to just act and look like at least you're not a freshman and you sort of know what's going on.

I like being a sophomore because I don't have all the pressures I did when I was a freshman. But at the same time I don't exactly know where my place is on the ladder. I know one thing, there's no place I'd rather be a sophomore at than KAYH!!

SOPHOMORE LUNCH

For lunch, sophomores have many things to do. After being a freshman for a year you get to know people with cars to go out to lunch with at McDonalds or pick up a pop and some candy bars at the store and drive around until it's time to go back to school.

Then there are some sophomores who didn't get to meet too many people during their freshman year. They spend most of lunch at school eating the food the school serves or a "Mom made" lunch from home. These sophomores usually hang out in the M.S.R., around their lockers, and once in awhile they travel to the mall for a quick lunch.

SURVIVORS

Sophomores are those last survivors of the freshmen class. People who were once wild and free are now being attacked by giant herds of killer maniacal school books. They are those who avoid the posse of the teachers and the noose of the principal. The sophomores have no mental condition; their brains are warped, and "out of order." Sophomores are really nothing more than figments of our imagination.

SENIOR SQUARE

I walked down the hall, and my shoes clicked with every step. I tried hard to walk lightly so no one would hear me. My stomach turned as the upper classmen stared, their eyes saying, "Stop clicking, freshman." Another freshman was pushing a penny on the tile in freshman hall. I walked past the Senior Square and watched the three freshman of the day scrub it. You could see plenty of sorry faces. If only the floor was carpeted instead of tiled, a freshman's life would be easier! But then the penny pushers would have rug burns on their noses

NEW!

Freshmen year is like a new home; everything is different but you can still relate to it. There is a lot more work involved in the first year of high school. Freshmen have to spend a lot more time on homework. I feel that the teachers treat you more like an adult, and more as an individual. I like the way you have more time between classes, and more time for lunch. I really like the open campus lunch.

I like Kayhi in a different way because you can see the ocean from your classroom and there are trees everywhere. It gives me a calm feeling and makes the classroom more relaxed.

FRESHMAN POWER

We are the freshmen, the class of 1991. We happen to be pretty important even though the seniors would be the last to admit it. But we'll be seniors one day, and that's what keeps Kayhi strong. Freshmen make up the biggest warm body count of any other class. We try our best, at everything, and as a result we succeed at all we do. We have great school spirit, as shown by our cheerleaders, Jennifer Jackson and Jennifer Toledo. We're also phenomenal at sports with four freshmen guys on the JV basketball team, and the entire girls JV team are freshmen. We have super swimmers, like Adryn Miller, Trisha Loitz; and Paul Myerchin helped build our diving team. We strive academically with Ana Mer, Steve Bloom and others competing for the top of the class. All freshmen are maturing in Kayhi and are helping to make a super school.

Hmmmm . . . The Faculty. You mean those adults that sit at the front of the room and talk at us all day long? Yep, them. Every once in awhile we students might admit that we like school, and face it, what would school be without the faculty? It's the teachers, administrators, and office staff who keep us here and keep us learning. They mold us, they scold us and most importantly, they teach us.

The faculty, yep, the adults who sit in the front of the room and give us nudges to move on. "DO YOUR HOMEWORK!!" Ok, Ok, and remember, someday we'll thank them for all this

SBA TODAY

Ah, what a wonderful job it was. Being on the SBA this last year was interesting. When we started in September, there were some noticeable changes. In the place of President was Ms. Amy Goffinet. Amy ran the meetings a little differently than before. Some said she had less control; others said she let more opinions infiltrate. Whichever way a person looks at it, the meetings were definitely louder.

But this didn't affect the productivity of our SBA. We finally got some of the little things accomplished: the new clock (that works!) in the MSR, posting athletes and students of the month in a showcase and Kayhi Pride. We also started in on the bigger things; the new parking lot.

Thanks goes to all the representatives and officers, but also to the whole student body. Thanks for a productive year!

— Mike Mellison

Thespians: The Faces Behind The Masks

TRAGIC COMEDY

Not many people understand or know about the prestige and honor that each member of The International Thespian Society holds. Thespian is a word that goes hand in hand with drama involvement. To become a Thespian, one must earn points.

These points are awarded for being involved in school plays, both behind the scenes and on the stage. There are Thespian inductions every year in May, and this is when The Outstanding Actor and Actress of the Year are honored.

It's a fairly mellow organization — just a group of people who have a label for their love of the theatre.

PEPPING IT UP!

This year's Pep Club, presided over by Scott Habberstad, Vice President Rose Romero, and Secretary Scott Weberg, did a great job of showing school spirit. There was a large showing of peppy faces for the weekend games, and a considerable amount for the weekday games considering all the homework people had. Scott did an admirable job as president, getting Kayhi kerchiefs, Kayhi buttons and other spirited paraphernalia to sell.

String Ensemble

MAKING OUR OWN KIND OF MUSIC

This year's strings class was very independent, sharing director Randy Bjur with the guitar class. We chose our own music and worked on it much of the time without any supervision. As always, there were problems encountered — wrong notes, timing, staying together — but all was overcome and our concerts turned out magnificently. No one squeaked! We had fun, as a small group, sharing laughs and sobs, and all in all being pretty good pals.

JAZZY TUNES

The Jazz Ensemble, made up of twenty-two very dedicated musicians, meets at 7:00 a.m. every school day. Involvement in this organization brings students the chance to study jazz, rock and popular literature. The music is played in concerts, which, this year, were the Fall Concert, Winter Concert, Pre-Festival and Festival, held in Juneau. Getting up a little earlier than usual is sometimes hard — but it's worth it.

MAGICAL MUSIC

Symphonic Band was perhaps the most rewarding activity of my high school career. It was a lot of work some of the time, and a lot of fun at other times. But the greatest times were felt after an evening concert . . . We would walk off the stage with the audience cheering and a magic in the air that was unavoidable. I could feel the band come together: seventy individuals one to make music.

SINGING IN THE RAIN

Do, re, mi, fa, so, la, ti, DO! This year was a successful one for concert choir. We had nine representatives at Southeast Honor Festival in Petersburg, and four at Alaska's All-State in Kenai. We helped out the Schoenbar choir at the first annual Christmas tree lighting. All in all, we were BUSY — with pre-Festival, Festival and our light-weight concerts, which were all well received by our audience. The choir pulled together as a team. As a result, we improved our sound as a team, impressing everyone.

WILLIWAW

Deadlines, DEADlines, DEADLINES! That's what we, the hard-working and dedicated people in Williwaw, were up against when we entered room 313. Our fearless adviser, Mr. Landis taught the class all of the rules and regulations about putting a book such as this together. But the real test came when we actually had to make layouts, get the pictures taken, write captions and get it all done by the deadline. We all had quite a time putting this book together — fun, frustrations, and overall weird classroom experiences were the order of our lives.

MAKING A SPLASH

Kayhi swimming in 1987 was great — with fourteen people qualifying.

Kayhi took one of the largest teams to State in recent years. Joe Denton, Cathy Garber, Dawn Shapansky, Wendy Ness, Randy Taylor, Wil Garber, Adryn Miller, Jena Amtzen, Mary Myerchin, Glenn Jeffries, Barbara McGee, Amy Salness, Jennifer Home, and Amy Goffinet all traveled to State in November. The season (which begins in August and ends in November) was filled with ups and downs and success and failure. Many experienced a friendship and camaraderie that will last longer than the memories. Through all the struggles and the workouts, an unusual high of fourteen swimmers attended State. For some, it was the end, for others, the beginning.

Strong Effort Pays Off

The Kayhi girls' basketball team kicked off the 1987-1988 basketball season with a new coach, Mr. Ortiz. He has done an excellent job of making the Kayhi girls a great team to watch and to be a part of. In the beginning of the season, the girls attended a tournament at East Anchorage High, in which they played some of the best teams in the state. The next weekend we hosted a tournament with Juneau, Sitka, and Klawock. The Kings took second place after losing to Juneau by three points. They also attended and won a tournament at Enumclaw High School in Washington. The Kayhi girls had four wins and four losses in the Region V conference games, the four losses to Juneau were each by two points. The Kayhi girls have come a long way this year, rating as high as fourth in state, and is a team to be proud of.

Homecoming And Christmas

CLARKE COCHRANE: A CLASSIC TO REMEMBER

"Don't ever forget people; especially the kids—they are the most important reason we are here." Clarke Cochran exemplified this basic truth. He kindly shared an infectious talent for making others glad; a precious ability to listen; a gracious and unyielding commitment to helping others. He knew something special and personal about each person he knew. We remember him for his athletic ability, his willingness to teach others, strong feelings for Alaska, love for the outdoors—and always having a dog; those were lucky dogs!

Clarke was loved by students and adults from every age and creed! Clarke always knew when something would really matter; whether it was putting up championship pennants in the gym, drawing tournament brackets, or standing in the rain with ten stop watches around his neck and a megaphone, to start cross country meets. These types of things made the difference, for he cared about every aspect of student life and those of his friends. The example of pride and dedication was always radiated. Someone said, "To be a teacher was not a job, but had to be a way of life." Clarke personified this to all of us. Kayhi was his home, and you, the students, were his kids. He began teaching at Kayhi in 1965, when he came from Iowa where he excelled in football and baseball at Iowa State Teachers College. At Kayhi, he taught physical science, and his room was the focal point for all activities. He became, over the years, synonymous with Kayhi.

In 1983, Clarke died playing basketball in the gym. The "Christmas Classic" and the gym are named in his honor. It is hoped that the principles and ideals that Clarke lived by will be emulated by those athletic and extra-curricular activities taking place here. "The people who influence us the most are the people who believe in us the most." This is Clarke's legacy for us all.

—Dave Crockett

The Second Wacky Decathlon

THE WACKY WACKED OUT DECATHLON
For the first time since 1986, there was a Wacky Decathlon. And it is just as its name suggests—WACKY!! The events included were the pie-eating contest, the trike race, tug-o-war, and the human-ladder relay. The competition was between classes, and fun for all! Even the teachers graced us with their long legs and stupendous coordination in an all-star, faculty drill team! The day ended on that happy note, and all normalcy was returned to Kayhi—well, almost.

Cheers!

DRILL TEAM KICKS IT UP The K-Highlights started the 1987-88 season with a splash by making their performance debut during the Southeast swimming meet. Team members choreographed a spunky-funky routine to "Wipe out." Although this was the first public appearance, the group had been meeting since early October. A vigorous practice schedule—eight hours per week—helped to improve their "machinery" and dancing skills. These skills were enhanced when Leslie France of Salt Lake City, Utah, came to Ketchikan in early November to conduct a dance clinic. She taught our team the dynamic dance routine to "The Rhythm is Gonna Get Ya"—the Southeast Dance/Drill team competition dance. The year proved to be a shining one for the team.

Their Skill

BUMP, SET, SPIKE The 1988 varsity and junior varsity volleyball teams consist of twenty-three girls total. Kevin Stormo, third year varsity coach was joined by new junior varsity coach, Lori Ortiz. The teams both show a lot of spirit and skill. Even though the varsity team is small, and the junior varsity team is young, together, Kayhi did well this year.

KNIGHTS OF THE ROUND TABLE Kings Knights is a service orientated organization. The students that are involved with Kings Knights will often find themselves taking money at the gate, monitoring doors, and a melange of other thankless but necessary jobs here at Kayhi. The Activities Program at Kayhi could not run smoothly without the assistance of these good people.
