BI = IBM Bid Index is used to calculate special bid prices and will be published and available on the IBM Business Partner Web site, in the U.S. Catalog, main view (refer to announcement PSG 00-345, PSG 00-260). - MHz/GHz only measures microprocessor internal clock speed; many factors affect application performance. For Mobile Intel Pentium III processors featuring Intel SpeedStep technology, this denotes maximum performance mode; battery optimization mode is approximately 80% of maximum performance mode.
- GB equals one billion bytes when referring to storage capacity; accessible capacity may be less.
- 56K v90 modems are designed to be capable of receiving at up to 56kbps with compatible phone line and server equipment, and transmitting at up to 31.2 kbps. Public networks currently limit download speeds to about 53kbps. Actual speeds vary and are often less than the maximum.
- CD-ROM, DVD-ROM and CD-RW speeds are expressed as variable read rate. Actual playback and write speeds will vary and are often less than the maximum possible.
- Asset ID allows your computer to be "scanned" by various radio frequency emitting devices which must be purchased separately from independent companies. Visit ibm.com/pc/us/desktop/assetid for a list of current Asset ID partners.

- IBM makes no warranties, expressed or implied, regarding non-IBM products and services including but not limited to Year 2000 readiness and the implied warranties of merchantability and fitness for a particular purpose.
- Tape drives which utilize data compression technology have storage capacity that will vary depending upon whether the drive is operating in native mode (without compression) or compressed mode. For example: The IBM 12GB/24GB DDS/3 4mm Internal Tape Drive can store 12GB in native capacity and up to about 24GB using hardware data compression technology. Actual storage capacity will vary based upon many factors and may be less than 24GB.
