Cooperation?

We're lucky down here at The DI that the weather people are more cooperative than the newly elected UI ruling elite, known as the Cooperative. The weather prognosticators say it will be nicer today than yesterday. Clear skies and highs in the mid-50s. Tonight's low will be about 37. The Cooperative say nothing and one member seemed to be very put out when a picture man from The DI interrupted their stoking victory party to take their picture. The sun will be seen today, leprechauns tomorrow...but who knows about the new student rulers?

Court reform

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Amid charges that a legislative conference committee had overstepped its bounds, the Iowa Senate began debate Wednesday on a compromise bill to reorganize the Iowa court system.

A joint conference committee recommended the bill to eliminate peace justice, municipal, police and mayors courts after the Senate and House became deadlocked on a measure to create a unified trial court.

Sen. Gene Glenn, D-Ottumwa, challenged the committee report saying the conferees did not limit themselves to matters in dispute between the two houses according to legislative rules.

Tighten up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission, worried by computer studies showing it might not hit its 2.5 per cent inflation goal, tightened its grip Wednesday on big manufacturing firms.

The move appears to be a first step toward a general overhaul of commission policies designed to make them tighter, simpler and more acceptable to the public.

One staff member described it as a signal to businessmen to show more price restraint. Wholesale and consumer prices have been increasing sharply during the first months of the commission's regulations.

Aid increased

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A bill to increase the amount of state aid to school districts by modifying the state school foundation plan was passed 43-2 by the Senate Wednesday and sent to Gov. Robert Ray.

The bill would end the requirement that school districts include federal aid in computing their income for purposes of the formula.

This would mean they would get more state money. The bill wouldn't become effective until July 1, 1973.

Military aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon told Congress Tuesday that cuts and delays in U.S. military aid to allies "could have a destabilizing effect at a time when calm confidence in our support and perseverance will be critically needed."

Nixon in a special message said approval of his full $2.1 billion new military-aid request, a $700-million increase, is especially critical "as we begin to make adjustments in our international role."

"Without adequate security assistance," Nixon said "we cannot safely reduce our military presence abroad."

To bits

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Two British army bomb experts were blown to bits Wednesday night by a bomb they were trying to defuse.

In Newry, civil rights leader Bernadette Devlin, a member of Britain's Parliament, got a suspended sentence for defying a ban on parades. Authorities in the Irish republic to the south began a crackdown on guerrilla leaders.

The bomb experts had defused two bombs in parked cars in Grosvenor Road, a Roman Catholic district of Belfast, and were working on a third when it exploded. An army spokesman estimated 50 pounds of gelignite had been backed into the car's trunk.

Heavy sniper fire after the explosion delayed removal of the soldiers' shattered bodies.

To speak

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Former Minnesota Senator Eugene McCarthy will speak in Cedar Rapids Thursday at Coe College at 8 p.m.

His appearance is part of a lecture series sponsored by Coe and Kirkwood Community College.

Intervenes

Gov. Robert D. Ray has intervened in a case involving a former University of Iowa student who is now serving a five-year sentence at the Anamosa Men's Reformatory for selling marijuana.

At the urging of Ray, the state Parole Board has agreed to review the case of Gary Thorsness, 19, of Shenandoah.

Wythe Willey, an aide to the governor, said Ray thought it was rather strange that the UI honor student was sentenced to five years in prison, while having no previous criminal record.

Co-op ticket wins easily in election

By STEVE MOORE and STEVE MAXWELL
Daily Iowan Staff Writers

The Cooperative was elected to the presidency of the University of Iowa Student Association Wednesday by a two to one margin over its nearest opponent.

Nearly 3,000 students voted in the election.

The Cooperative, composed of Michael J. Pill, 24, 230 North Gilbert Street; Kristine S. Thieker, 18, 629 North Gilbert Street; Allen S. Katz, 20, 524 South Van Buren Street; Susan M. Ross, 19, 706 Carrie Stanley; and Kent Edwards, 20, 1220 East Burlington Street, received 1,797 votes out of the 2,974 votes cast.

The second place ticket, consisting of Bill A. Bloomquist, 724 North Dubuque Street; Bradley J. Haddy, 20, 4405 Lakeside; and Stuart F. Cross, 20, 604 Bowery Street, received 872 votes.

The other two presidential tickets were far behind the Collective and the Bloomquist-Haddy-Cross vote totals. Donald H. Gerowitz, 521 Linn Street, got 98 votes, and the ticket composed of Mark J. Besch, 510 Rienow I, and Dennis A. Hunter, 414 Rienow I, got 97 votes.

When contacted about the election results, Ms. Ross, of the Co-op, said she didn't feel she could give any statement alone because "the victory belongs to all of us."

Katz said, however, that the outcome showed that the majority of people who care about their campus life are progressives.

Ms. Thieker said that she couldn't really think of anything new to say. "I've talked to people all day and I'm just not going to talk any more."

Edwards summed up the mood of the members of the Cooperative when he said, "A closed mouth gathers no feet." The feeling of the celebrants was that tomorrow would be soon enough to think about statements.

Bloomquist pointed out that the three people on his ticket still have four weeks of their current senate terms to complete and that during that time they will continue to work on their committees.

He said his plans for next year were not complete because he plans to go on to law school.

Cross said he would continue to work in student government and would work with the Cooperative in their form of student government next year.

He said that it was apparent that the winning form of government was the form the students wanted but he would not "just drop out of sight."

There were seven candidates vying for the six College of Liberal Arts senate seats. The six elected were:

Sharon A. Donahue, 19, 4505 Burge, 1,090 votes; Ken P. Anderson, 19, 303 Ellis Avenue, 1,061 votes; Ronald A. Jenkins, P.O. Box 402, 1,040 votes; William W. Crews, 19, N12 Currier, 1,004 votes; Hugh R. Stone, 19, 5321 Kate Daum, 889 votes; and Eric O. Grupp, 19, 5209 Kate Daum, 836 votes.

The seventh candidate for Liberal Arts senator, Russell N. Banker, 21, 922 East College Street, was only one vote short of tying Grupp; Banker received 835 votes.

The only other contested spots on the general election ballot was for Student Publications, Inc., (SPI) Board members. For a one-year term, Carol L. Spieler, 412 North Clinton Street, received 709 votes, easily defeating the other candidates, Charles C. Griffin, 922 East College Street (386 votes), and Roy J. Williamson, 2050 Tanglewood Street (229 votes).

Elected to the two SPI board two-year terms were Robert E. Lee, 30 Valley Avenue, with 727 votes, and Michael L. Ralph, 332 Ellis Avenue, with 793 votes. The other candidate, John Kamp, Route 3, got 662 votes.

LASA gets student okay

A referendum to establish a Liberal Arts Student Association (LASA) passed by a vote of 1,312 to 487 in Wednesday's student election balloting.

Elected to the position of president of LASA was Gregory E. Herrick, 20, 1110 North Dubuque Street, who received 235 votes. His opponents were John Thomas, 724 North Dubuque Street who received 226 votes, and Ronald A. Jenkins with 164 votes.

Law profs win injunction battle

By PAUL DAVIES
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

The University of Iowa College of Law won a round in court Wednesday.

Judge Louis W. Schultz dismissed a request for a temporary injunction which would have required the law faculty to open its meetings to the public.

The injunction was being sought by Leonard J. Klaf, 23, 426 Hawkeye Court. Klaf, a UI law student, is also asking the court to issue a permanent injunction to open law faculty meetings. The temporary injunction would have opened the faculty sessions until the court could rule on the suit for a permanent court order.

The 27 defendants in the case, including Law College Dean Lawrence Blades, are all members of the College of Law faculty.

Schultz's order dismissing the plea for a temporary injunction upheld the defendants' argument that the court should not have set a hearing on the request because notice of the suit had not been served on the defendants at that time.

Klaf said Wednesday that he does not now plan to file a new request for a temporary injunction. He said hearings on the permanent injunction would probably be held at about the same time as for a new plea for a temporary court order.

He said he is hopeful that the court will rule that the law faculty meetings must be open under Iowa's open meetings law. "It's a broad statute," he said.

Muskie losing status as Demo front-runner

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, his front-runner status weakened by a fourth-place finish in the Florida Democratic presidential primary, now turns to the Illinois and Wisconsin primaries in the role of a challenger.

Muskie's first chance to regain his stature as his party's top presidential hopeful comes Tuesday in Illinois' primary, in which he is challenged on separate fronts by Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota and former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota.

Muskie and McGovern are competing for a share of the 160 national convention delegates who will be elected Tuesday. Ten at-large delegates will be selected later by party leaders.

In the nonbinding preferential contest which heads the ballot, Muskie and McCarthy are the only candidates. Wisconsin's April 4 primary includes all 11 Democrats who were on the Florida ballot, plus Rep. Patsy Mink, D-Hawaii.

Wisconsin voters will elect 56 of the state's 67 delegates. They will be chosen on a district-by-district basis in the state's nine congressional districts.

Richard D. Cudahy, Muskie's Wisconsin chairman, said "He (Muskie) is the underdog, and he is going to come out fighting."

Muskie earlier was rated a favorite in Wisconsin.

Muskie won only 9 per cent of the vote Tuesday in Florida's 11-candidate contest Tuesday. Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama captured 42 per cent, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota 18 per cent and Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington 13 per cent. McGovern had 6 per cent, and McCarthy took less than 1 per cent.

The head of McGovern's Illinois campaign, William Rosendahl, said,

"Wisconsin is clearly a battle between McGovern, Wallace and Humphrey."

This Tuesday is the first time Illinois voters can elect delegates committed to candidates, although at least half the spots are expected to be won by uncommitted delegates controlled by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's organization.

Muskie forces predicted early that their man would win 75 to 80 per cent but have revised their figures downward to 60 per cent.

McCarthy says that if he were to receive 40 per cent, it would be a victory.

McGovern and McCarthy forces are working together unofficially to halt Muskie. Daley's regular organization appears to be leaning toward Muskie, but the powerful mayor has not made any endorsements and is embattled in state and Cook County challenges to his organization.

House approves ombudsman bill

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A bill to establish a permanent state office of "citizens' aide" or ombudsman was passed by the Iowa House 70-27 Wednesday.

The bill now goes to the Senate. House Majority Leader Andrew Varley of Stuart said Senate leaders had assured him the measure would be taken up in the Senate soon.

It was described by Rep. Joan Lipsky, R-Cedar Rapids, as "real people legislation" which would be extremely helpful to "the little man who feels browbeaten by bureaucracy, smothered by red tape and maybe even afraid to approach his state government."

It was attacked, however, by opponents as a measure which would simply add another layer of government.

"All this will do," declared Rep. Wendell Pellett, R-Atlantic, "is to establish a new department that will get bigger and bigger and in the future will want more space."

The bill is favored by Gov. Robert Ray, who established an ombudsman office 18 months ago with federal funds from the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The federal grant runs out next October and the bill would appropriate $52,000 to continue the office through the 1972-73 fiscal year.

The measure would set up the citizens' aide as an employee of the Iowa Legislative Council. He would be appointed by the council subject to approval of the Senate and House.

Rep. Richard Welden, R-Iowa Falls, strongly opposed the measure, saying many of the complaints handled by the ombudsman in the last 18 months have been trivial. As an example, he cited a University of Northern Iowa student's request for a picture of former Gov. Clyde Herring, which the ombudsman supplied.

"This officer came into the appropriations committee as an ombudsman and came out as a citizen's aide," Welden said. "I don't know if this rose by any other name smells any sweeter."

Noting that the legislation is patterned after a Hawaii law, Welden said "I would urge you to give this interloper from Hawaii a fond 'Aloha.'"

Senate okays date for primary election

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — This year's primary election in Iowa would be held Aug. 1 under a bill passed 48-2 in the Senate Wednesday.

The bill now goes back to the House for concurrence with two minor corrective amendments.

The measure was passed after the Senate defeated two amendments which would have changed the primary date.

An amendment by Sen. Arthur Neu, R-Carroll, defeated 18-15, would have furnished three optional primary dates, depending on when the Iowa Supreme Court hands down a redistricting plan for the legislature.

A change in the primary date is required because the high court ruled against the reapportionment plan approved by the legislature last year. The Supreme Court has until April 13 to issue its own redistricting plan.

The Iowa Constitution allows the court 90 days after overturning the legislature's plan to come up with its own version.

The Aug. 1 date was finally chosen to allow cities and counties time to draw up new precinct lines and to give candidates time to file for office after learning what areas they would represent.

Neu waid his amendment, which would have set the latest possible primary date at July 25 with the earliest at June 17, would give the same amount of time for the counties and cities and candidates to get their work done.

"This probably makes too much sense to be adopted," he said. "You have to be a masochist to want to run a primary through the summer."

Sen. James Potgetter, R-Steamboat Rock, floor manager of the bill, said he thought the Neu proposal wouldn't be any more confusing to the public than "what we are doing now."

Senate Majority Leader Clifford Lamborn, R-Maquoketa, opposed the new amendment, saying "You're doing a lot of 'if-fing' here."

A proposal by Sen. Lee Gaudineer, D-Des Moines, would have changed the primary date to Sept. 12.

Opponents of Gaudineer's amendment—which was defeated—said the Sept. 12 date would interfere with school elections on Sept. 11, making it impossible to use voting machines for both elections.

Lecture notes losing money

A cut in wages has prevented layoffs of Iowa Student Agencies (ISA) lecture note workers according to David C. Hepple, director of the lecture note service.

Hepple said Wednesday that he and Calvin S. Stowell, ISA manager, decided to cut wages because the income from lecture notes is no longer meeting the expenses of running the service.

ISA has grossed $10,000 on lecture notes so far this year, but $8,000 has been spent on salaries and $2,000 on expenses, Hepple said.

In addition, the lecture note service added four more courses this semester which has cost an additional $240 a month to pay teaching assistants to take notes, he said.

Lecture note sales increased only $600 over last semester's sales according to Hepple. He blamed the low sales on the use of notes from last semester.

Because of greater efficiency in distributing the notes, he said that the waiting lines had been reduced making worker layoffs feasible.

Hepple said that he and Stowell decided to cut wages and hours rather than laying off employees. "I think what I did is the fairest thing, overall."

The 13 lecture note workers have been making $2 an hour since March 1 although they were hired at $2.25 an hour, Hepple said. The cut in wages saves $150 to $200 a month, he added.

Hepple said the wage cut is not permanent. If the ISA budget returns to normal, lecture note workers will be reimbursed at the end of the year, he said.

Some of the lecture note employees contacted by The Daily Iowan expressed unhappiness over the wage cut, but would make no further comment until they talked to Hepple.

Hussein proposes 'State of Palestine'

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein proposed Wednesday the establishment under his rule of a semiautonomous state of Palestine on the west bank of the Jordan River, once Israeli occupation forces withdraw.

Premier Golda Meir of Israel rejected the plan, saying it "negates the cause of peace and puts obstacles in its path."

The Palestinians and most of the Arab world denounced the proposal.

There was little likelihood Hussein's statement would have any immediate effect on the 2,270-square-mile area. The Israeli army there has no intention of withdrawing until a final peace agreement has been signed by Jordan and Israel.

Hussein's plan calls for the establishment of two semi-autonomous regions on either side of the Jordan River, both under his control.

Jerusalem would be the capital of the "State of Palestine" on the West Bank. Amman would be the capital of the "State of Jordan" on the east bank and of the "United Arab Kingdom," which would encompass both regions.

Stuit, WSA leader lock horns on Herrnstein affair

By CAROL LONGMAN
Daily Iowan Staff Writer
A scheduled debate on academic freedom Wednesday became a discussion of the Herrnstein incident and the resultant ban of the Worker-Student Alliance (WSA) at the University of Iowa.

About 100 students gathered in the Main Lounge of the Union to hear Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts debate Bruce R. Johnson, former head of WSA, on the subject of academic freedom.

Although Stuit said he was not there to discuss Herrnstein's article on IQ, comments by Johnson and questions from the floor kept the discussion aimed at that topic.

Speaking on the Herrnstein incident, Stuit said, "We had interference of academic freedom in that a recognized scholar was prevented from giving his speech."

Johnson said, however, that WSA did not prevent Herrnstein's speech. "We had petitions that called for him to answer questions but he refused and has refused consistently to answer any questions about his article on IQ."

Stuit said the disruption of Herrnstein's—a Harvard professor—speech was "not a question of academic freedom, but a display of bad manners and disrespect for a guest."

"It was of a disruptive character and not in keeping with the high ideals for which we are established."

He defined academic freedom as the "freedom to teach one's subject in accordance with the canons of scholarship, to do research, and to publish findings of research without interference from the university or any outside agency."

Stuit added that academic freedom is far less comprehensive than freedom of speech.

Johnson said however, "the faculty implies that it believes in freedom of speech but they don't act in accordance with belief. The case in point here is the banning of WSA by the university."

The university serves the interest of big business and the issue of academic freedom is a phony one," Johnson said.

Stuit disagreed and said, "The university's interest is in learning and scholarship."

As to why WSA was suspended, Stuit said, "An institution must have rules and regulations and WSA was suspended because they didn't comply with the rules of the university."

suspended "because we act on what we believe. They've (the university) got all the cards and if we take action we are stopped because we are disrupting their system."

Stuit maintained that the function of the university is academic. He said, "The university should not become a political instrument, this would change its basic function."

He said, "Rules and regulations don't interfere with academics, but disruptions of that kind do interfere."

No doubt, HHH admits, Wallace is formidable

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Florida Democrats have sent their party a message in the Deep South accents of George C. Wallace, and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey conceded Wednesday the Alabama governor would be a formidable foe in primary elections to come.

"No doubt about it," said Humphrey, who claimed that a second-place finish in Tuesday's Florida primary had installed him as the top White House contender among progressive Democrats.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine was an also-ran in Florida, running fourth with a showing so weak that it tattered his mantle as the national Democratic front-runner and left him in desperate need of a comeback next Tuesday in the Illinois presidential primary.

In Florida, Wallace gained 42 per cent of the vote in an 11-way contest, and said that showed the people "want me to be the nominee of the Democratic party." Humphrey gained a far-back 18 per cent of the vote.

Wallace has bitterly opposed busing of school children for purposes of racial balance, and he clearly got a boost in Florida with that issue on the ballot.

In an overwhelming straw vote, Floridians marked yes on 74 per cent of the ballots cast on a proposed constitutional amendment to ban busing.

The count in nearly complete returns was 1,111,366 for an amendment to end busing, 307,193 against.

Sen. Henry K. Jackson of Washington who, like Wallace, campaigned in opposition to busing, ran third in the presidential primary, with 13 per cent of the vote.

He said he had gained a big boost by running ahead of Muskie.

Wallace swept the statewide primary vote, running strong almost everywhere, carrying every county, and capturing 75 of the 81 national convention nominating votes at stake. Humphrey got the other 6 by winning a congressional district that includes the Miami Beach area.

The Alabama governor plans at least 10 more primary contests, and in a splintered field, he is sure to add substantially to his delegate strength.

In defeat, Muskie bitterly attacked Wallace, but avoided any assessment of the impact of his own showing, except to say that he had lost but would win some battles to come.

He called Wallace "a demagogue of the worst sort."

President Nixon, who swamped two rivals to gain a towering 87 per cent of the Republican vote was said by the White House to be "pleased at the strong support he again received."

Nixon won 40 delegate votes for renomination.

Other states also tackling adult rights

MADISON, WIS. (AP) — Wisconsin citizens between the ages of 18 and 21 will receive full adult status next week when Gov. Patrick Lucey signs a majority rights measure.

The governor said he would sign the bill next Tuesday and added that he will appear on television to explain the new law to residents of the state.

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Supreme Court took under advisement Wednesday the question of whether 18-year-old voters may run for public office.

There were indications the court would rule on the matter in a few days.

The issue was raised by Joseph Opatz, a St. Cloud State College student who wants to run for a seat on the St. Cloud City Council.

Congress okays debt ceiling rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress gave hurry-up approval Wednesday to a hike of the national debt ceiling as the fiscal minutes were about to run out.

Without the raised ceiling the authority of the Treasury to issue so much as a yavings bond would vanish.

The $20-billion ceiling increase to $450 billion was approved by the Senate 55 to 33 after the House approval 237 to 150.

The old ceiling was $430 billion and the national debt stood at about $24 billion short of that as Congress acted.

It was estimated that the $430-billion ceiling would have been surpassed during the day had not the new authorization been given. The bill now goes to President Nixon for approval.

The House Democratic caucus adopted by voice vote a resolution telling President Nixon on that the next increase, due before June 30, would be jeopardized unless he backs legislation closing tax loopholes.

UI rolling dental clinic hits the road

By RON ELLYSON
Daily Iowan Staff Writer
The new truck and large trailer bearing the words "Mobile Dental Unit" that sat in an alley near the University of Iowa Dentistry Building for the past five weeks has finally hit the road.

The shiny steel-gray van, staffed by four senior dentistry students, two senior dental hygiene students, two dental assistants and a supervising dentist arrived in Dubuque Monday for a seven-week stay. The purpose of its travel throughout the state, according to Doris K. Skeele, coordinator of the Department of Preventive Dentistry, is to provide dental care to persons who meet income guidelines established by the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO). This includes pre-school children, people from rest homes, high school dropouts and others who do not qualify for existing government programs for dental care, Ms. Skeele said. The $70,000 unit was constructed with funds from a special improvement grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The cost of operating the unit for the first year, Ms. Skeele said, will be about $90,000. This will be paid by local Community Action Program offices under OEO.

The dental students aboard the trailer are assigned to it as part of their curriculum in the College of Dentistry, and rotate after two to three weeks. The faculty member acting as supervisor on the unit is also replaced periodically so that various departments of the College of Dentistry are represented. Ms. Skeele said the dental unit and its staff are expected to be in Muscatine this summer to treat migrant workers there. The 44 by 10 foot trailer is bigger than many mobile homes, according to Harold J. Lyman, Jr., supply and equipment manager for the College of Dentistry, who designed it.

"The basic principle of the whole thing is that it is designed so that it could operate all year away from the university," Lyman said. Inside the unit are four dental operatories, each complete with an adjustable dental chair, electrical and compressed air operating tools and a lavatory. The rear operatoriy has an X-ray machine and is completely lead lined to contain the radiation from the X-ray, Lyman said. Ms. Skeele said the front section of the mobile unit serves as a preventive dentistry area. The area includes instructional aids such as a film projec-tor and screen and lavatories to teach the proper tooth brushing method. "The operatories are designed with the very same construction techniques being used to build the ones in the new Dental Building," Lyman said. "The unit is a miniaturization of the dental school on wheels."

Condom vending won't spread sex, sponsor assures

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)— "Promiscuity is here," said Sen. Minnette Doderer, defending a bill now awaiting debate in the Iowa Senate that would allow the sale of prophylactics in vending machines. The Iowa City Democrat said arguments claiming the sale of contraceptives in vending machines will promote promiscuity "are not real."

The Senate Steering Committee Tuesday placed the Doderer measure on a listing of 20 "non-controversial" bills to be considered by the Senate.

However, before the day's session had ended, all but four of the measures had been removed from noncontroversial status, including the proposal on contraceptives.

Doderer said her bill "may not come up for consideration now because we're in the final days of the session."

She said Tuesday the real argument, "is just a matter of whether persons protect themselves against venereal disease or not."

She said, however, the bill's other co-sponsors, Sen. James Potgeter, R-Steamboat Rock, and Sen. Lucas DeKoster, R-Hull, were "attempting to get the bill onto the Steering Committee calendar, which means it would be debated." Sen. Clifton Lamborn, R-Maquoketa, Senate majority leader, said after Tuesday's session that most of the 16 bills removed from non-controversial status probably will be placed on the Steering Committee calendar.

She quoted University of Iowa physician, Dr. Robert A. Wilcox, as saying, "prophylactics should be as available as Juicy Fruit gum."

Doderer is one of three co-sponsors of a bill that would remove the prohibition against the sale or distribution of contraceptive products except by physicians or druggists.

"The way the law is now," Doderer said, "the only place they can be sold is in a business where there's a registered pharmacist."

PE dept. offers co-ed classes for spring term

University students can enroll next week for courses in Men's physical education without having been previously enrolled for any P.E. courses in the first half of the semester.

Under the new arrangement, students would attend two classes for the second half of the semester to receive one semester hour of credit.

The Department of Physical Education for Men said it offered these courses with the hope of appealing to a wider variety of students, including the addition of co-ed classes on an elective basis.

The co-ed classes offered will be badminton, bowling, horseback riding, elementary and advanced judo, paddle ball, skin and scuba diving and volleyball.

Students may enroll for these courses at the P.E. office, 122 Fieldhouse. Further information may be obtained by calling 353-4651.

Defense rests case in Jackson State suit

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — The defense rested its case Wednesday in a trial which has brought forth two conflicting versions of what prompted police to rake a Jackson State College dormitory in 1970 with gunfire, killing two black youths.

The case may go to a federal court jury Monday. The trial has been recessed until then, when final arguments will be made.

The debate over whether police were justified in launching a 200-or-so-bullet fusillade reached formal airing in court in the form of a $13.8-million damage suit filed by relatives of the victims.

State and federal grand jury investigations of the incident, which occurred shortly after midnight May 15, 1970 while police were trying to quell a campus disturbance, produced no criminal charges.

Police and state officials said the shooting was self-defense, in reaction to sniper fire. Critics, including the President's Commission on Campus Unrest, said the barrage was unjustified—even if there had been a sniper, a disputed point.

The civil suit trial lost its most prestigious defendant Wednesday when former Gov. John Williams, who stepped down last January, was dismissed.

Dismissal was at the request of plaintiffs. No reason was given. Williams, reported under treatment for complications arising from an old war injury, did not appear in court.

There were 55 defendants when the suit was filed by relatives of the two slain youths, and by three of the nine black students who were wounded. They included 43 officers who fired shots in the barrage.

Seven defendants—Jackson Mayor Russell C. Davis and six officers—were dismissed from the proceedings Tuesday after plaintiffs rested their case.

The outburst of submachine gun, carbine and shotgun fire occurred after about 50 state highway patrolmen and city policemen were drawn up in a line about 20 yards from Alexander Hall at the campus of the all black school. Some 50 to 100 young blacks were milling in front of the building, shouting insults and slogans at authorities.

It was the second consecutive night that officers had been called to deal with what the state termed a riot and what the students called a demonstration.

Needs help

Dan Esvjornson of Iowa City needs help.

He was bitten Saturday noon by "a large, white dog with pointed ears" while playing with a frisbee on the Pentacrest. If the dog isn't located, he will have to begin a series of painful rabies shots.

Esvjornson said he believes the dog's owner was one of those playing frisbee with him.

Constable's Corner

Behind the fuss

Richard Bartel is currently a candidate for local public office. Other candidates are invited to submit their views.

In my frustration in trying to inform the public of the courthouse issues, public monster Richard Bartel was born. Even with the outlet of this column, the frustration still exists at repeated negligence of the local news media to adequately inform the public of crucial issues. The local news as reported in the local newspapers seemed at times to be an unhealthy mixture of what the editors think the public wants to know and what the editors want to tell the public.

I judge how unhealthy that mixture is by how much guidance and censorship is placed on reporters by the editors. Being involved in many local issues allows me to evaluate the fairness of the local news coverage. All too often, an issue isn't even reported and when it is, one side of the issue is sorely neglected—not always my side either.

At any rate, I uncovered many irregularities in the county government which have yet to be aired to the public. Failing to get immediate response from the Press Citizen, I decided to take my complaint to the county attorney, Robert Jansen. In the course of his inaction, he informed me that nothing could possibly be wrong with the county government because the state auditor's office conducted yearly audits of the county and the problems I cited should have been uncovered by the state auditor. (What a joke that is.)

That argument on its face seemed to be logical but the facts in the courthouse records indicated that it wasn't true. In addition, I received a religious pamphlet in the mail entitled, "Hope for the Dead" which sent me to the sheriff's office for a gun permit. Sheriff Schneider refused to give me a gun permit because I was causing the supervisors "a lot of trouble" and because I wasn't "the kind of person that should be carrying a gun." Anyway, he reassured me that "the supervisors were nasty but not that nasty."

I was also approached by another Justice of the Peace who told me I should be careful because I had a criminal record and I could be hurt. It would be better for me not to draw any attention to myself. The J.P. turned out to be one of the supervisor's attorneys.

Being thoroughly convinced that I was on the right track at this time (and also a little scared), I called the attorney general's office with my complaint. I was told to put it in writing. My report came to be 103 pages.

The essence of my report was the current practices of the Johnson County government. I outlined the mismanagement of the Secondary Road Fund in disobedience of the Iowa Code. Substantial purchases were being made without competitive bids. It was obvious that the Iowa Highway Commission was a mere paper tiger in supervising the county road funds. Over-expenditures as well as other expenditures were occurring without prior authority from the highway commission only to be granted after the fact with little substantial justification.

In addition to sending my report to the attorney general, I gave a copy to the state auditor's office while they were conducting the special audit of the Johnson County auditor.

In particular the mismanagement of the county shop construction project seemed obvious. The supervisors wanted to build a bigger county shop for the Secondary Road Department to have more space for which to do nothing. The county coffers didn't have enough money for such a project so the project went to the voters three times for a referendum (permission from the voters to sell bonds for financing) before approval.

The supervisors, instead of asking for general contractors bids to build the desired facilities for the $237,000 limit approved by the voters in the referendum, broke the project into four bids for contracts for part of the project and negotiated as much as possible other work not covered by the contracts.

One possible explanation could be that the supervisors wanted to spread the goodies to as many favored contractors and suppliers as they could. In the course of this activity, money ran out.

Next, they transferred $43,000 to the county shop fund over the county auditor's objection. Approval for the transfer had to be gained from the state comptroller's office and was received. However, the approval was just for the transfer of funds—not for spending more than the $237,000 limit allowed by the voters.

It seems strange, but the supervisors over expended the project by approximately $24,000 while at the same time not making record of approximately $9,000 for a county shed pole building and $16,000 for yard and fencing work. Both expenditures were made to businesses involved in the recent grand jury indictments of county officials in receiving gifts and gratuities in exchange for favoritism in contracts.

Had the supervisors left the responsibility of the headaches to a professional general contractor to build the desired facilities for a bid price in under the $237,000 limit they could have avoided a lot of trouble.

—Richard Bartel

Anything but a Hamms

Like most every place on this planet infected with electoral politics, Iowa City is suffering from the system's worst disease.

The city council—as evinced by its reluctance to follow the directives of what I believe is a majority of residents who oppose the construction of a downtown parking ramp—has taken it upon itself to watch out for its own interests rather than those of its constituency. The attitude of the council members who have pushed the ramp through seems to be that the people of Iowa City just don't know a good thing when they see it, and, if they can't see, we'll just have to be their eyes.

A downtown parking ramp is not needed. It can only lead to further downtown pollution by cars, a malady the city—I thought—had tried to cure with the acquisition of busses. The proponents all argue that the ramp will lead to city growth. I'm not against growth, but I feel it should be handled intelligently. A ramp which breeds traffic and pollution is not my idea of intelligent.

The ramp proponents won't listen to reason. They have made up their minds. The ramp will be built, they have voted, and the only thing left to be decided is how it will be funded. The city's downtown businessmen want the ramps, and have indicated to their four rubber stamps—Tim Brandt, Pat White, Doc Connell and Loren Hickerson—that they should proceed to bleed the money from the residents and get construction started.

These men are economic. They think not in terms of clean air, hassle-free downtown shopping areas or good living. They think in terms of dollars. You can't reason with them with ecological arguments. You have to hit them where they feel pain—smack dab in the wallet.

It is impossible to effectively organize the university community politically. Too many people feel too many different ways about the state of the world, or are simply too confused to know where they stand. But there are less conventional ways to organize university people and bring about effective political action. You can find one simple element they all have in common and work with that element toward the change desired.

The change I think a good many of us desire is the death once and for all of the parking ramp proposal. The element I think can be used to bring about this desired change is beer.

Doc Connell owns and operates the Connell Beverage Company. It sells and distributes Hamms beer in the Iowa City area. If every person who opposes the ramp were to stubbornly refuse either to buy or drink Hamms' beer, Connell's business would certainly suffer and he might think twice about voting for a proposal disliked by the people who keep him alive. And, all being members of that great businessman's fraternity, I would predict that the other council proponents of the ramp would rather reverse their positions than watch their good friend Doc grow poorer and poorer draught by unbought draught of Hamms beer.

It'll work, I think, if you do it. It's not all that difficult or confusing. All you have to remember is that you don't want Hamms beer. If you go into a bar and order a beer, simply tell the person who takes your order that under no conditions do you want Hamms.

Imagine the financial and political consequences of 20,000 or so beer drinkers on a Hamms strike. People exerting their power where they have it. People who won't be taken for granted or allow themselves to be banded about by money-lusting politicians.

Have a Schlitz. Have a Blatz. Have a great big glass of Grain Belt, but do not—if you care about the lives of people who have to put up with this political playpen—have a Hamms.

And welcome to the Anything But Hamms Party.

By BOB BRIDGES

Elections are both as catching and as popular as the Plague. Whether you look at national, state, local or campus elections, you'll find posters marring the authentic wood paneling of telephone poles. Every organization employs poster hangers who's specialty is placing the message in eye-catching locations, like right over the opposition's poster. Whether the nominees are running on Democratic, Republican, Socialist, New Left, Old Right, Popular Majority, Disgruntled Minority, Communist-Fascist Coalition or Sex Appeal ticket, they're flashing a winning smile while either total reverence for that golden idol, Patronage.

And at the top of the heap, or heaped at the top, is the "Candidate," "Nominee" or "Boss." He has certain guiding principles with which he wants to serve the people; the people being his family and the guiding principles being Graft and Corruption. This is why he runs for office and later runs from the police. His campaign promises are like a good set of new year resolutions: an impressive list of goals and dreams that end with, "And I resolve not to pay attention to these silly resolutions." To get elected he will invoke the memories of Washington and Lincoln in the hopes of ruling like Stalin.

Meanwhile, suffering on the sidelines, is the voter, John Q. Public or, in political lingo, "the meathead." For some strange reason, he lets a few months of each year to be filled with pushy people, pushing promises to push someone out of office. He becomes a walking re-cycling pick-up point as his pockets fill with pamphlets and his lapels with buttons. Yet he permits it and even joins in on occasion to shout such rhetoric as "That's no donkey! That's an ass!" Why? Probably so that in six months when the first major news of incompetence and-or scandal has broken he can puff out his chest, grab hold of his suspenders and say, "I certainly didn't vote for him."

Must accept responsibility

To the editor: It was reported in yesterday's DI that the local chapter of the AAUP had passed a resolution calling on "university officers to take active steps to guarantee an undisturbed expression of views by any scheduled speaker." The president of the group called this "symbolic of the AAUP's concern for academic freedom of speech."

What the university professors failed to consider is a long standing tradition of calling to account of a public figure for his views. It's called interpellation (from the Latin "to interrupt in speaking"). Having been present at the "incident" I can testify that the atmosphere was pretty intense, but I cannot imagine that Herrstein would have been in any danger of physical harm. Had the man chosen to speak, it would perhaps have forced a split in opinion of the crowd between those who wanted to hear about pigeons (after all, you never know) and those who didn't—there was little reason to believe that almost everybody in the room wasn't interested in hearing the I.Q. article defended by its author. But he chose not to speak—and those who wonder if it is thus possible for his freedom of speech to have been violated would seem to have a point well taken.

Rather than reflecting the AAUP's concern for "academic freedom of speech," the resolution (if it is indeed a result of the incident) appears to involve the perpetuation of the relative isolation in which most scholars in America work today as a safe retreat from responsible "social-humanist dialogue" such as was proposed at the Feb. 21st teach-in on racism. American scholars must accept public responsibility for the practice of their science or art before they find themselves publicly spurned.

Passport manipulation

To the editor:

Last September, 1971, the American Civil Liberties Union, ACLU, filed suit against Secretary of State William P. Rogers, claiming the oath of allegiance on the passport application form was unconstitutional and should be eliminated. (Cohen v. Rogers U.S.D.C., D. C. Civil Action No. 3021-70.)

Miss Frances Knight, Director, Passport Office, opposed the ACLU effort to eliminate the oath. It is said that the White House intervened, and Secretary Rogers announced the oath would remain on all passports.

Isn't it strange that all this has been "hushed up"?

Ask candidates to debate

To the editor:

As students in the school of law, we are increasingly concerned with the quality and direction of American politics in an era when, to all appearances, the social fabric has been stretched almost beyond repair. The social, political, economic and military decisions made in the next few years will affect us all for decades to come, and the quality of our political representatives will surely condition the wisdom of these decisions.

In light of the above considerations, we believe that it is incumbent on us, as voters, to examine the political candidates and their positions on the issues, more closely than ever before. Furthermore, the most effective method of evaluating the candidates is, we believe, through the vigorous clash of issues and attitudes which only comes from debate. Therefore we have repeatedly invited the two Democratic candidates for the U. S. House of Representatives, John Schmidhauser and Edward Mezvinsky, to join in debate at the law school. Mr. Schmidhauser has accepted; Mr. Mezvinsky has not. We now publicly request that Mr. Mezvinsky join with Mr. Schmidhauser in a debate before the law school in order that we and the rest of the law students may better understand the political choice facing us in the August primary and the general election in November.

Wallace haunts Demo rivals

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—George C. Wallace is a name and a force sure to confront Democratic White House campaigners in contests across the nation, and likely to pursue them back to Miami Beach when the party chooses its nominee next July.

Wallace is not going to be that nominee, despite all his claims that a landslide victory in the Florida presidential primary Tuesday established him as a national candidate with a chance to head the ticket.

But national campaigner is another matter, and the Alabama governor is certainly that, with at least 10 more states on his primary election target list.

In those contests, he is certain to add substantially to the 75 national convention votes he captured with his Florida sweep, a 42 per cent landslide in an 11-candidate field.

Associated Press news analysis

The Florida outcome, in which Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota was his closest challenger at 18 per cent, and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine managed only 9 per cent, guaranteed a crowded and divided Democratic field throughout most if not all the primaries.

When the vote is splintered among a big field, Wallace, with a hard core supporters, looms as a potent contender.

As the Alabama governor tells his campaign rallies, that prospect gives national Democratic leaders "the shakes, it gives them the St. Vitus dance."

He delights in recalling his 1964 primary races, all three of them losses, but all with substantial showings.

His strongest showing then came in Maryland, where he captured 43 per cent.

And that was without the explosive issue of school busing for racial balance, which worked to Wallace's advantage in Florida, and will elsewhere.

One of the primaries on the Wallace target list, for example, is in Michigan, where busing has stirred major controversy.

Reading his real intent is an impossible task. "I have no master plan," is all he will say about the possibility he may decide after the primaries to go his own, third-party route again.

As a third party candidate, he tried, and failed, to deny an electoral college majority to either President Nixon the Republican nominee, or Humphrey, the Democrat.

The goal then was to gain the balance of electoral power, and to barter support for concessions.

Wallace could seek to cast himself in the same role this time, with the Democratic National Convention the arena for his efforts to exert pressure and seek deals.

President Nixon said as the campaign year began that Wallace was a Democratic problem. He was right.

UI singers to perform 2 concerts

Iowa Citizens will have two more chances to hear the University of Iowa's Old Gold Singers before the group leaves on an East Coast tour the final week of March.

The UI group will appear at the Carousel Inn in Coralville, Friday, entertaining in the Crown Room from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m.

On Sunday, the group will present a farewell concert in MacBride Auditorium at 8 p.m.

Admission to both local appearances will be $1 per person, with tickets available at the door.

The group will present six concerts while on tour in New York City, Maryland and Ohio, including appearances at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, and the United States Congress, both in Washington.

The appearance before Congress will be arranged by Sen. Jack Miller and Rep. Fred Schwengel, both of Iowa.

The Old Gold Singers, directed by Richard Hoffman, includes 28 singers, seven instrumentalists and a lighting technician. The group has performed on national television and made a goodwill tour of Mexico in 1970, with appearances in Monterey and Mexico City.

Agnew hits news media, charging gullibility gap

No screws loose here

WASHINGTON (AP) — It may seem obscure, but the federal Interagency Screw Thread Committee fits right in.

In essence, it watches the development of all kinds of screw-fastenings and advises the government on its findings. Although it meets only twice a year, the committee helps hold things together. If it makes a mistake, as it did recently, it could create massive mischief.

Despite its seemingly obscure function, the panel, known around the Bureau of Standards as ISTC, is serious about its work.

There's no office, no secretary, and the costs are slim.

The committee gets involved in such technical stuff as size and pitch of screw threads and it keeps its eye out for new materials that affect standard-setting of threads, a spokesman for the bureau said. It wants to make sure that what the government buys to screw in will fit well with whatever it buys to screw on.

"Screw-thread standards, while they appear obscure and unnecessary, are an integral part of everyday life, ranging from simple screws and bolts to light bulb bases, connectors for oil-well drilling and pumping equipment and precise optical components," the bureau said.

The last meeting was Jan. 24. But it was a special session, because somehow, somewhere, somebody had made mistakes in tables in a handbook on screw threads.

Int'l group sets trip to Florida

The University of Iowa Association of American and Foreign Students is sponsoring a three-day spring break trip to Florida.

The tour group will visit Disney World, Cape Kennedy, Daytona Beach and St. Augustine.

Cost of the trip is $75. This includes all transportation, camping accommodations and entrance and ride fees at Disney World.

Reservations for the trip may be made at the International Center, 219 North Clinton Street. The deadline for reservations is Friday.

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Vice President Spiro Agnew told Drake University students Wednesday he hasn't heard Alabama Gov. George Wallace "say anything that I would consider radical" in the Florida primary election.

And the vice president again renewed his attack on the national news media, claiming there is a "gullibility gap."

Speaking to some 500 students Wednesday, Agnew said the "Wallace vote is a significant one."

Wallace won the vast majority of the Florida presidential preference votes among Democrats Tuesday.

He said Wallace's victory is significant "particularly when one considers that commentators referred to it so often the past few months as a microcosm of America, and 'not as a state where a group of rednecks would go out and elect a governor.'"

"Something Governor Wallace was saying must have struck a responsive chord in more than just the people of one section of Florida," said Agnew.

Drake students gave Agnew a polite reception, although about 20 students protesting the war in Southeast Asia remained standing during his 15-minute opening speech. They sat down during the next hour of questions and answers.

"I have listened to the Wallace campaign," Agnew said. "I guess I've heard what you have ... that is, the commentary on television."

"I haven't heard him say anything that I would consider radical during that campaign, but it seems to be the general impression—and this is again characteristic of the political innuendo that streaks back and forth across the nation ... that he is somewhat of a reactionary person who is trying to deprive the minority groups of their freedom and bring out the worst of their emotions, causing us to divide as a people."

Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, one of the frontrunners for the Democratic Party's presidential nomination, finished fourth in the Florida primary Tuesday.

"I listened to Senator Muskie last night as he tried to explain his inability to get the Florida vote," Agnew continued.

"I was even less impressed with the way he castigated the Florida voters. When a man wins an election he shouldn't be referred to as a demagogue."

Agnew's visit was the first in what he says will be a series of visits to American colleges and universities. He said their purpose is to "state views on the state of the nation" and "listen courteously" to questions and comments from students.

In his formal statement, he referred to the "credibility gap, or the situation that has sprung up since the 1960s which leads people to believe that they really can't trust elected members of the government."

"I suggest it may be difficult to find a credibility gap," he said "there are those who are out of office who seek to be in office and who utilized the news media to a great extent to bring about their aspirations." He said the factor of "gullibility" should also be considered.

Agnew said the news media are "involved in selling a product—just like the butcher selling meat—and what sells newspapers best is sensational news."

He also said national television networks, news magazines and newspapers have been "oriented too long in one direction and do not accurately reflect the views of the conservative people."

Agnew said Jack Anderson, a Washington columnist, "has not been known for the best of accuracy."

UI profs granted research leaves

Twenty-one University of Iowa faculty members have been granted one-semester research and independent study assignments for the 1972-73 academic year.

The range of studies includes research on fluid mechanics and pollutants in Germany, analysis of judicial behavior of U.S. appellate court judges and a look into the ancient Mayan city of Yoxchilan, Mexico.

UI Provost Ray L. Heffner told the state Board of Regents last week the research assignment program "is exceedingly important for the continued professional development of our faculty and the constant improvement of instruction."

The following UI faculty members received research assignments:

Profs. William Ames and John F. Kennedy, mechanics and hydraulics department; Assoc. Prof. Irwin P. Levin, psychiatry; Prof. Irving Kovarsky, business administration; Prof. John Grant, English; Prof. David Hayman, comparative literature; Asst. Prof. Justin Green, political science; Prof. Henry Horwitz, history; Prof. Kwan Rim, mechanics and hydraulics; Prof. Vernon Van Dyke, political science; Assoc. Prof. Robert Greene, French and Italian; and Assoc. Prof. Karl Lonngren, electrical engineering.

Other recipients include Assoc. Prof. Roy Ruffin, economics; Assoc. Prof. Gerald Bruns, English; Assoc. Prof. Robert Wachal, linguistics; Assoc. Profs. Virginia Myers and Joseph Patrick art and art history; Assoc. Prof. Ralph Stephens, mechanical engineering; Prof. Gerald Solomons, pediatrics; Assoc. Prof. Robert Corrigan and Prof. Sherman Paul, English.

Danish liner crashes in Persian Gulf

DUBAI, Persian Gulf (AP) — A Danish charter jet carrying 106 European tourists and a crew of 6 crashed on a Persian Gulf mountainside and rescuers who flew over the wreckage Wednesday reported no sign of survivors.

Sterling Airways of Copenhagen said its twin-engine Caravelle jet was approaching to land at Dubai on the way from Ceylon to Denmark when it crashed 1,800 feet up the desolate mountain Tuesday night.

Helicopters flew over the crashed airliner about 12 miles inland from Qelba, a dependency of the Arab emirate of Sharjah. But lashing rains prevented them from landing. A Sharjah police captain said rescuers trying to walk to the crash site also turned back.

An expedition set out riding donkeys, he added, but would not reach the wreckage for two or three days.

The passengers—68 Danish, 20 Swedish, 12 Norwegian, 4 Finnish and two West German—were returning from vacations in Ceylon.

The Sterling spokesman said there was no clue to the cause of the crash.

The airline, Europe's biggest charter carrier with 40 planes, is owned by the Danish Tjaerborg travel agency.

MEDICAL CARE RISES
NEW YORK (AP) — Medical care costs in the New York-Northeastern New Jersey area rose five per cent in 1971 over the preceding year, says the Department of Labor's bureau of labor statistics.

SURVIVAL LINE answers your questions, cuts red tape, investigates your tips and all sorts of good things like that each morning in The Daily Iowan. Phone 353-6210 between 7 and 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday or write survival line, the Daily Iowan, 201 Communications Center, Iowa City. Sorry, telephone calls at other times cannot be accepted.

On my February U-bill there was a $3.75 charge for Carrie Stanley Association dues. I live in the under-21 section of Currier. The over-21 Currier residents have their own association without any dues. What is the reason for this difference?—P.D.

The under-21 Currier residents only fill one and a half floors. Ms. Barbara Cochran, Residence Hall Coordinator, told SURVIVAL LINE.

It was decided at the beginning of the year that this was not enough people to form an association, so these dorm residents became part of the Carrie Stanley Association.

The $3.75 dues are used to support ARH activities. Part of the money is returned to each floor for social functions. The under-21 Currier residents have representatives at Carrie Stanley Association meetings.

Directors at Currier decided to allow over-21 residents to decide on their own organization, so they formed a social committee which programs events on a "pay as you go" basis. They are not affiliated with ARH, thus no dues.

Money left over from the former Currier Association is presently dormant, but may be used next year.

My roommate teaches at University High. One day he missed the bus, so he took my car and parked it in the parking lot by there. He got a ticket of course, because my car wasn't registered for that lot. Shouldn't he get off because he's a faculty member, who should be allowed a place there?—E.W.

"Well, you got the ticket, of course, because you're the only person we can bill," said John D. Dooley, director of parking.

"Faculty and staff people have to pay $60 to park there, so we've got to hold the lot for people who buy spaces. Of course, you and your friend can appeal the ticket and see what happens."

Iowa City has a traffic hazard. The City Carton Company, Inc. has a semi-truck which picks up and unloads old cartons and papers for recycling. It parks on the two-lane, one-way street just west of the Old Armory, (Clinton), taking up one lane of the pavement. Included in the three different streets that lead into the one-way is an intersection with a curve. This blinds the driver from seeing beyond. I have filed a complaint with the police department, but they said it was only dangerous during winter conditions. They did put up collapsible barriers on the curb by the truck, but they are only visible at the same time as the truck. I have suggested signs be put up. "Watch Out for Trucks", such as those in Coralville. They could be posted at all intersections going into this street, but so far my suggestion has been ignored. Can you help?—B.B.

You have a legitimate complaint here, but you went about complaining to the wrong department. In order for your complaint to get immediate, efficient action, you must issue a formal complaint to the Mayor and City Council of Iowa City, not the Police Department, according to the City Clerk. By the way, two members of the Civic Center personnel agreed with you, and feel you have a good chance to win the City Council's attention. So try again and good luck.

In Lecture Room 2, Physics Building, the lights which shine on the blackboard went out, making it almost impossible to see what is written on the board. The instructor said that the lights would not be fixed; why?—B.L.

This one solved itself. Informed sources from the class said the lights came back on five minutes after they were turned off. Why did you leave so early?

'We're trying to be something that isn't bound to the Establishment'

Wilcox faces students through 'Direct Contact'

By STEVE BAKER
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

It used to be you'd casually mention the words "Students Health" in a conversation, and many students would turn red with anger and level a whole flurry of complaints and charges.

Those days appear over, if Student Health Director Robert A. Wilcox's answering stint on DIRECT CONTACT Monday night is an indication of anything.

Of the calls Wilcox got through The Daily Iowan reader service, none were actual complaints about Student Health—a far cry from a few years ago when the service was a sore point with many students.

Now Wilcox says complaints are down, although 25 per cent more people are being seen by the health service.

"We're trying to be physicians to students period," Wilcox explained. "We're trying to be something that isn't bound to the Establishment but something representative of students."

That could mean an eventual whole new structure for the service, in Wilcox's eyes.

"I think we could be answerable to an agency of students or something if we're financed by them," he said.

For instance, Wilcox says he wants to employ more students.

"We're already starting to use more and more," he noted.

"They relate a lot better to students, and our present employees, too, have become relatively student-oriented as well."

This flexibility could be further emphasized by letting traditionally-uniformed nurses wear whatever clothes they want, Wilcox says.

"If they're professionals, it'll show, no matter how they're dressed," he pointed out.

Wilcox also says the service—already open over the noon hour—may be expanded to keep the regular office open five oral surgery. I couldn't give you an idea of how much it will cost. That's between you and them. If it's a real big job, then charges are very much related to what you can afford," Wilcox said.

I'm doing a paper on German measles. Where can I get statistics on occurrences in Iowa? —W.E.

"The best place to start is the State Hygienic Laboratory here," Wilcox answered.

Is it true sex is good for the heart? —T.W.

"I'll give you a good vice, and we'll offer it. We realize that, psychologically speaking, people who come to see us are in vulnerable moods because they're sick, and we try to keep from alienating them. It's real easy to think nobody cares when you're feeling like that."

The more I think about this, the more I get mad. Late December 4 I went to University Hospitals to have them look at my throat. They told me I'd be covered by Student Health, but now I have a bill for $5. —R.A.

"After Student Health closes, after hours service is not covered by the health charge. That's a Board of Regents rule, and you were informed wrong."

"You're stuck with the $5 fee. However, we'd cover up to $25 of other emergency outpatient expenses. But when you come right down to it, you saved $5. The standard emergency fee for non-students is $10."

"We're trying, believe me, to make emergency service better, but it'll be some time before we can. I'll see that your situation is reported to the proper authorities."

If my girl doesn't take the pill regularly, will she get pregnant? And does the morning-after pill work? —L.H.

"One of the problems with taking the pill is that it must be taken in a cyclic fashion to be effective. If it's not a regular relationship, taking the pill may not be uppermost on someone's mind. But taking it only occasionally is ineffective and risking pregnancy."

"The morning after pill, which has not been approved by federal agencies, might work and it might not. In any event, it's sort of a shotgun treatment. As yet, it hasn't been scientifically proven."

"If she is a couple of weeks late in her period, she should come over for a 'challenge' test through which the late menstruation might be caused. Come over and see us for more information. It's all confidential, and there's no longer trouble in getting prescriptions from us for birth control."

What do you think of the Free Medical Clinic? —W.A.

"It's the best thing that's happened to Iowa City in a while. You know, about a third of the city are individuals who have no firm economic base. I'd like to see the Clinic expand so that a wider access of the community could use it."

"I don't think it competes with us. We provide a good service to students, but if a student doesn't feel comfortable with a health service, he's at least got an alternative."

nights a week.

"The hang-up on that right now is finding physicians willing to work at night," he said.

If funding can be found, Wilcox said the Student Health service may also start a "complaint line" next fall, patterned after SURVIVAL LINE.

Here are some of the questions callers asked Wilcox and his responses:

Maybe you can help me, but this is a dental question. I've got four impacted wisdom teeth, and I'd like to know the procedures and cost for getting them removed. —C.M.

"Come over and see us. The system we use is a referral to politician's answer...it's not bad. Most physicians will tell you a person who's had a coronary doesn't have to restrict sexual activity."

Don't you get tired of people coming in with colds and stuff? —W.R.

"We try not to take it lightly. If a victim has some exams coming up, he's certainly not taking it lightly. Students want a good explanation or some ad-

Musicum concert set for Sunday

An evening of recorder music will be presented by The University of Iowa's Collegium Musicum Sunday, (March 19), at 8 p.m. in Harper Hall. The program will feature four outstanding recorder players from the collegium, according to Prof. Edward L. Kottick, collegium director.

The program, conducted by Kottick, will include five recorder concertos from the Baroque period, which Kottick describes as "the cream of the cream." A 12-piece orchestra will accompany the recorder players.

Two compositions by Georg Philipp Telemann, "Concerto in C Major for alto recorder" and "B-flat Major for two alto recorders" will be presented. Giuseppe Sammartini's "Concerto in F Major for soprano recorder" and "Concerto in A Minor for soprano recorder" by Antonio Vivaldi are also included on the program. The concert will conclude with "Concerto in C Major for four alto recorders" by Johann David Heinichen.

No tickets will be required for admission to the free concert.

The four solo musicians include two high students from Iowa City—Kris Czaikowski and Peter Nothnagle, both on the alto recorder. Both are students of Robert Block, Iowa City. Thomas Butts, Marion, Ind., graduate student, will play the soprano and alto recorders, and David Lasocki, Bristol, England, graduate student, the soprano and alto recorders. Lasocki has published several articles on recorders and recorder music. Butts plays and has taught almost all Renaissance string and wind instruments, and has published an article on music of this period.

THE POOR KANGAROO WASHINGTON (AP) — Kangaroos are big business in Australia.

About 1 1/2 million are killed yearly in a $23 million plus market, reports the National Geographic Society.

The 'roos are turned into cans of pet food, athletic shoes and high-fashion boots. Their fur covers toy koala bears and hat bands. Kangaroo tail soup delights gourmets.

Sheepmen in Australia insist kangaroos compete with sheep for the sparse bush and grass.

Despite the killing, kangaroos are prolific breeders.

LOVING

Director: Irvin Kershner

"LOVING" is the heavy brew known as marriage on the rocks, consumed against a suburban Connecticut background of smooth tweeds and posh cocktail parties.

Into this affluent no-man's land enters Brooks Wilson (George Segal) the free lance artist who does most things differently. In the midst of all this he's having trouble with his wife (Eva Marie Saint), his mistress in New York (Janice Young) and his career. His pursuit of business, wife and mistress is played out in bars, bedrooms and swank restaurants ending at a free-for-all Connecticut party where Wilson's private affairs become the evening's entertainment.

Local magazines get grants

By JIM HUNGER
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

When the Coordinating Council of Literary Magazines (CCLM) announced the 56 new grants to be given out this year, Iowa City made a good showing with five magazines on the list. The Council, based in New York, announced February 25 that "Gum", "Iowa Revue", "Kamadhenu", "Search for Tomorrow", and "Toothpaste", all in the Iowa City area, were awarded grants ranging from $250 for the smaller magazines to $2500.

The amount of the award was decided "on the basis of the estimated cost of two issues," according to Allen Kornblum, editor of "Toothpaste" magazine.

CCLM is a non-profit organization incorporated in the District of Columbia, and is supported by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts in Washington D.C., the New York State Council on the Arts, and from private sources.

The purpose of the Council is to aid non-commercial literary magazines and through them independent writers in American. Grants given by CCLM are made on the recommendation of membership-elected rotating committees.

The largest award went to "Kamadhenu," a Coralville based magazine edited by Sharat G. S. Chandra. "Kamadhenu", which is the name of a mythical cow, puts out 500 copies semi-annually.

All the magazines receiving grants concentrate on poetry except "The Iowa Revue", which also has sections of fiction and critical works. "The Iowa Revue" began three years ago and is funded by the University.

Most of the magazines receiving grants other than "The Iowa Revue" were started two years ago by individuals and continue to be one man operations.

When asked about the relative obscurity of the Iowa City magazines, Sharat Chandra of "Kamadhenu" said, "Writers and poets know about the magazines and the quality depends on how they feel about them."

The Iowa City magazine distribution area covers more territory than would be expected from their size. Although the largest magazine puts out 2,000 copies (Search For Tomorros), most of the others only put out around 500. Copies are sent to both coasts, Europe, and New Zealand.

When asked why he went to the trouble of putting out a magazine, Allen Kornblum of "Toothpaste" said, "I do it because there is a lot of work being written that isn't being published."

The magazines vary in print quality, some using the more expensive offset method while others are mimeographed, but most publish at a loss. Despite this, all have an overflow of material to produce. "This issue got so large I decided I better put out another issue as soon as I get enough money from selling this one," Kornblum said.

Most of the material in the magazines comes from outside Iowa City, and some of it comes from well known writers. The next issue of "The Iowa Revue", which is set to come out in three weeks, will have a piece written by Seymour Krim.

Little, if any work in the magazines comes from the Writers Workshop at UI. One magazine, "The Iowa Revue", has a policy of not publishing material from the workshop or their own staff.

Most of the magazines come out quarterly or bi-monthly and cost around one dollar. "Gum", the smaller magazine, costs a quarter. All of the magazines can be obtained at the local bookstores or found at the University Library, which has an almost complete collection.

DI movie review—

'Stockbroker': Mundane

If for one have given up expecting anything new from Richard Benjamin. It's not so much a question of his competence—he's simply one of those performers who bore me. I have a hard time taking his smug expressions and harpy montone for extended periods of time.

This is not necessarily a reelection on his talent, however. Benjamin is capable of a good performance as we say in "Catch 22," which is my estimation was his best film. But once again, it was a matter of exposure. His total screen time in that film was limited to about ten minutes.

There is little good I can say about his latest effort, "The Marriage of a Young Stockbroker". To begin with, it's a slow, overworked story. This, of course, is not Richard Benjamin's fault, but combine a shallow plot with Benjamin's sluggish performance and you wind up with a film that hardly makes it off the ground.

On screen, Benjamin is energetic, but that energy is dissipated into wasted motion and redundant dialogue. Benjamin is at his best when backed with a strong supporting actress who can carry him through the monotonous scenes. "Good Bye Columbus" was successful in that Ali McGraw's mischievous naivete provided a refreshing counterpoint to Benjamin's endless harangue. What "The Marriage of a Young Stockbroker" lacks is a solid supporting role. Benjamin monopolizes too many scenes and after the first thirty minutes, it gets pretty boring.

The film's plot, if you want to call it that, is transparent. Bill Alren (Benjamin) is a distraught young man who enjoys the all-American pastime of girl watching. The reason for his distress is a guilt complex stemming from his voyeuristic hobby. Bill's voyeurism also puts a strain on his already crumbling marriage, and his wife Lisa (Joanna Shimkus), thinking her husband is impossibly perverted, decides to leave him.

After a great deal of soul searching, Bill comes to the conclusion that he is not perverted, that there are more problems with his marriage than just his voyeurism, and that he would be much better off single. He then obtains a Mexican divorce and confronts his wife with the document in the women's locker room of the country club. But Bill and Lisa suddenly decide they do not want to leave each other after all. There is a reconciliation in the towel closet of the locker room and our couple live happily ever after, divorce and all.

If you're looking for trite, overworked conventions, this film should keep you busy. In fact there is little in the movie that is not trite. For instance, the utterances of Bill's mindless brother-in-law Chester (played by Adam West of Batman fame) sound as if they were lifted straight off a bubble gum wrapper. The lobotomized Chester is constantly coming up with lines such as "No matter how bad things seem, they could always be worse." Granted, much of the dialogue is intentionally trite. The only problem is, it's hard to tell what is a put on and what is not. For example, in the final scene of the movie, Bill and Lisa make love in the towel closet of the women's locker room. It's an absurd situation and it is funny up to a point. But suddenly, as if we had no idea what was happening behind the door, there is a flashing of light, and the sound of trumpets herald the climax of the action inside the closet. It all adds up to a very mundane treatment of that particular scene, and come to think of it, that's a pretty good description of the entire film.

—Joe Campbell

UI gets film grant

The American Civilization Program at the University of Iowa has received a $90,000 three-year Rockefeller Foundation grant to support a number of fellowships for the study of film, film making and the contributions of film to American culture.

The Rockefeller grant will permit the development of a graduate program integrating film study and film production techniques with the current American Civilization Program. One-year fellows will include specialists in American civilization and in film.

Robert A. Corrigan, associate professor of English and American civilization, will administer the grant.

Research fellows will initiate historical studies of American culture and use film and film making as the medium of exploration. The first fellows will be chosen for the 1972-73 school year.

Thomas ends silence, will continue career

DALLAS (AP) — Duane Thomas is optimistic about continuing his career in professional football but not, he insists, at the sacrifice of his individuality and personal pride.

"I'm going to be my own man," the controversial running star of the Dallas Cowboys said in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press, breaking a seven-month silence.

"Life is give and take. I'm not going to give every damn thing and not get anything in return. Money is only part of the problem. There are also recognition and respect. You can do the job or you can't. If you can't, get out."

The 6-foot-1, 220-pound ballcarrier who came from a Dallas ghetto left no question that he felt certain he could do the job for the Cowboys or any other team in the National Football League.

"I am deserving," he said. Thomas was a pro football sensation from the moment he came out of West Texas State to join the Cowboys in 1970. He averaged 7.3 yards a carry his rookie season, ran for 793 yards and 11 touchdowns last year and ripped off 95 yards in 19 carries to help lead the Cowboys to a 24-3 victory over the then Miami Dolphins in the Super Bowl last January.

During a large part of this period—through most of last season and up to the present time—Duane placed himself in a virtual isolation booth, refusing to give press interviews and declining to answer the simplest questions.

The Dallas interview by the Associated Press over the weekend was the first of its kind since the troubled player adopted his policy of silence.

The lengthy conversation took place in the suburban home of Thomas' old coach at Dallas' Lincoln High, Floyd Iglehart, a trusted friend. Thomas, attired in sports clothes and wearing only a slight trace of his familiar Fu Manchu mustache and beard, was loose and relaxed.

He spoke in low, measured, tones, picking his words carefully and at times making allusions to music and art, in which he is deeply interested. He smiled often.

The solid, thick-necked running back described his early days in Dallas, predominantly black south side; his career at West Texas State, marked by discrimination and loneliness and almost cut short by the deaths within a year of each other of his mother and father; then his plunge into the big, suffocating world of professional football.

Discussing his long-time silence, Thomas explained that it resulted from no outside advice, such as that of ex-Cleveland star Jim Brown, as reported. He said he basically was a loner and during this period was beset by personal problems.

"People are different," he insisted. "Some guys like to get before a television screen and talk. I don't. If I read the Constitution right, it gives me freedom to do as I please."

"There is no stipulation that says if you play football you have to talk. I don't have anything against reporters. I just don't like people because they're narrow-minded on things."

Thomas admitted that some of his anxieties have been provoked by money pressures, principally resulting from family expenses and an inferior three-contract which fixed his base pay at $20,000 to $22,000 a year, well below the going rate for a super star.

'Life is give and take. I'm not going to give every damn thing and not get anything in return.'

"Because of the things that were happening in my own family, I thought I'd get a guy to negotiate for me," Duane said. "I got hold of one of these slick dudes from New York and he was too slick for me."

Thomas' younger brother, Burtrand, had severed three fingers on his right hand in a shop accident. His older brother, Franklin, was suffering a kidney ailment, requiring heavy medical expenses. Besides, Duane was paying for the support of a wife whom he married in high school and two children—a marriage later annulled.

Thomas said when he joined the Cowboys he had been assured by Gil Brandt, director of player personnel, not to worry, that he would be taken care of.

So, after his good rookie season, Duane said, he went to Brandt to ask for a new contract.

"He suddenly lost all memory," Thomas said.

He said he then went to Tex Schramm, Dallas general manager, but was sloughed off with the remark: "Sorry, boy, you're stuck."

"I figured they didn't dig me," Duane said. "I wasn't the stereotype type of nigger who comes in and says, 'Please, Mr. White Man, do this for me.'"

Thomas said he was disturbed also to read in the paper that Tom Landry, the Cowboys coach, had said he must change his attitude if he is to play with the Dallas team next season.

"There is nothing wrong with my attitude," he added. "My attitude is a winning attitude. I have felt my attitude coincided with the goal of the team."

The powerful halfback said he got along well with all the Dallas team members but found "prejudice and jealousy" among the administrators.

"I saw no appreciation from them for my hard work, my dedication and my sincerity," he said. "All this is being exploited. They're trying to brainwash and castrate a person's life."

Regina beaten in tourney

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Race-horse Elkader Central zipped by Iowa City Regina 105-89 Wednesday night in an opening Class A game in the boys state basketball tournament that saw three scoring records tumble.

Once-beaten Elkader Central moves into Friday afternoon's semifinals against 13th ranked Alta which ousted Alton of Floyd Valley 50-49 earlier in the day on Willie DeMan's basket with three seconds to play.

Elkader Central took the lead for keeps with 6:09 to play in the second quarter on a basket by Dave Keuhl at 31-29.

The Warriors (23-1) who have won 22 games in a row led 53-43 at halftime.

Scrappy Regina (15-10) fell behind by 17 points late in the third quarter but rallied to close the gap to 84-80 with five minutes left.

Scoring records to fall were most points in a game, most points by a losing team and most total points in one game.

Bill Vincent had 32 points and Kuehl 32—including 25 in the final quarter—to lead Elkader Central.

Kevin Lehman has 21 and Tom Hein had 17 for Regina which lost four starters on fouls.

Floyd Valley, 21-3, held the lead almost the entire game. Thirteenth-ranked Alta led only 2-0 and by a point in the third quarter until the final shot.

A turnover by Floyd Valley—its fifth of the quarter—gave Alta (24-0) the ball with 41 seconds left. DeMan's basket gave him 20 points for the game.

Marv Schipper had 21 points and Doug Becker 16 for Floyd Valley. Schipper hit 12 of his points in the first quarter as the Thunderbirds led 19-9. Alta trailed 30-24 at halftime.

Alta led only 31-30 in the second half until DeMan's final basket. Two baskets by Becker forged a 47-41 lead for Floyd Valley with 5:35 to play.

Floyd Valley outshot Alta 52-44 per cent, but was outrebounded 29-24.

Eleventh-ranked Cedar Rapids Kennedy parlayed 31 points by Mark Enright and a productive fast break into a 77-63 victory over Chariton Wednesday afternoon in the opening game of the boys Class AA state basketball tournament.

Kennedy (18-5) took the lead at 10-9 on Enright's basket with 1:53 left in the first quarter and was never headed. The Cougars led 37-25 at halftime.

Enright, a 6-foot-8 junior center, had 14 points and held in check Chariton's 6-foot-7 Jim Greeley, who had four points in the first half. Enright's rebounding also triggered Kennedy's fast break which broke open the game in the second quarter.

Chariton (19-4) cut the lead to nine points three times in the opening minutes of the final quarter before Kennedy again pulled away.

Kevin Kiley added 20 points for Kennedy, while Greeley and Bob Foote had 18 points each for Chariton.

Defending champion Davenport West gave Decorah an early defensive lesson Wednesday night and rolled up a 53-45 first round victory in Class AA play of the boys state basketball tournament.

Eight-ranked West (18-5) goes into Friday's semifinals against fast breaking Cedar Rapids

Kennedy which ousted Chariton 77-63 behind 31 points by Mark Enright.

West broke to a 6-0 lead and Decorah (20-3) went more than four minutes and six shots into the first quarter without scoring. The Falcons led 15-3 at the quarters end.

Decorah was one for 11 from the field in the first quarter and five of 21 by halftime in trailing 28-14. The Vikings shot a frigid 23 per cent in the first 16 minutes.

Decorah fell back by 19 points early in the third quarter and trailed 39-22 with a little more than a minute left in the quarter before staging a comeback.

Three times Decorah closed to within eight points and finally whittled the margin to 51-45, but with only three seconds to play.

Steve Saladino and Steve Belzung each had 15 for West which shot 47 per cent and won the rebounding battle 40-25. Rick Evans had 15 points and Tim Jones 13 for Decorah which finished with a 40 per cent shooting average from the floor.

When Michigan State recently beat Iowa 100-91 it marked the first time under basketball coach Gus Ganakas that one of his Spartan teams hit the century mark.

Start drive for New ISU stadium

AMES, Iowa (AP) — The executive committee of the Iowa State University Foundation Board of Governors recommended Wednesday that a fund-raising campaign be initiated to pay for a new football stadium on campus.

But Athletic Director Lou McCullough explained that the 76-member Board of Governors will probably order a feasibility and cost study.

The committee recommended that the proposed stadium be located south of the Iowa State Center where the Hilton Coliseum and C.Y. Stephens Auditorium are located.

McCullough said the study could reveal that as much as $8 million might be needed and "that we could not raise this amount of money from private sources."

The athletic director said he doesn't doubt that ISU will have a new stadium eventually.

The Board of Directors is expected to act on the committee recommendation in June.

Name Walton player of year

NEW YORK (AP) — Sophomore Bill Walton of UCLA, who looks like Huckleberry Finn and plays like Superman, was named Wednesday the Associated Press' college basketball player of the year for 1971-72.

The red-haired, lantern-jawed center was given a 3-1 margin over Dwight Lamar, the nation's leading scorer from Southwestern Louisiana, in nationwide voting by sports writers and broadcasters.

Others receiving votes were Virginia's Barry Parkhill, Dough Collins of Illinois State and Henry Bibby, Walton's senior teammate.

Walton dominated the balloting the same way he dominated the opposition this year, leading UCLA's sophomore-studded Bruins to a 26-0 record.

The average of 21 points and 15 rebounds a game didn't tell the entire story of the 6-foot-11 star.

"I've never seen a player who makes the outlet pass and starts the fast break as well," said UCLA Coach John Wooden. "He does so many things that don't show up in the box score. Like intimidation. How do you measure that?"

"Our opponents hit in the 30 per cent range during the year and Walton is greatly responsible for that. Not only because of the shots he blocks, but because the other team is always looking for him."

"I think you have to be a real student of the game to appreciate the way Bill plays," says teammate Greg Lee, the Bruins' playmaker. "We are only now beginning to realize how good he is. With Bill back there on defense, the rest of us can afford to gamble and we can cheat on our fast break."

Walton, compared favorably to Bill Russell and Kareem Abdul Jabbar (Lew Alcindor) in their collegiate prime, is deceptive in appearance. He has thin legs and a bony body. Floppy, carrot-color hair sits atop a pale, fragile-looking face.

He plays with tendonitis in both knees and must undergo physical therapy each day before he puts on his uniform.

Once in a game, however, he seems remarkably healthy. He has a fine shooting touch from the 15-foot range and is a tremendous defender. Perhaps his most impressive maneuver, though, is his lead pass on the fast break. Opposing coaches say he does it better than any other center in the country.

sportsforum

A lot of things can be puzzling when one starts talking about "the old days" of Iowa athletics, especially when one discusses naming an athletic structure after one of the outstanding players of an earlier era.

Iowa fans can be proud of the long and rich athletic heritage at this school. But there is one problem. Not too many people seem to be aware of this heritage.

The response for the renaming of Iowa Stadium for Nile Kinnick, I feel, has been surprising and overwhelming. Still, there are some who don't remember him or don't really care that he played football here. The feeling is that any athlete who played at some time other than during one's own school term played back in a dark age.

One thing that could help cure this apathy would be the establishment of a "hall of fame" of sorts for former Iowa athletic greats.

I believe that it is fitting and proper that former Iowa athletes who distinguished themselves be the feature of a large, permanent display that could be viewed by the public.

It could be something similar to the display that currently exists in the Fieldhouse lobby honoring current athletes of each year, along with the large display for Nile Kinnick.

I realize that some criteria must be drawn up for inclusion of an athlete in such a hall of fame display. Perhaps the Iowa fans decided this themselves when they selected the all-time Hawkeye football team in 1969. Something similar could be done for basketball.

I realize that space is limited in the current Fieldhouse, but some how this problem could be overcome.

I don't think that the expenditure would be prohibitive for such a venture. It would establish continuity for events of the past along with the dedication for a yet unwritten future. This is something I feel we especially need here right now.

The advantages of such a display might not be realized right away, but every time some Iowa boy attends a function in the Fieldhouse, the hall of fame should be there for him to see. Maybe this same boy someday will want to play football or basketball at Iowa.

He'll want to attend a school that demonstrates appreciation for its athletes and not worry about being forgotten years after he graduates.

It's worth a try and I'm sure Bump Elliott, Bud Suter and the rest of the people in the athletic department will give this proposal some thought.

Iowa may not have had much success at times during past years, but there have been some fine teams and some fine athletes. I feel that we can best honor them this way.

I can think of a lot of institutions that would have trouble starting up a similar project, we are fortunate here at Iowa.

King nabs Grammys in top songs, album

NEW YORK (AP)—The Grammy Awards, given on Tuesday night to the best records released between Oct. 16, 1970, and Oct. 15, 1971, leave no doubt that 1971 was Carole King's year.

Ms. King was nominated for four Grammys and won them all—including the three which are considered the top of the pop. Hers was the "record of the year," "It's Too Late," a song she wrote and sang; "album of the year," "Tapestry," songs she sang and wrote or co-wrote, and "song of the year," "You've Got a Friend," which she wrote.

She also won as best female pop vocalist for "Tapestry." James Taylor won as best male pop vocalist, for "You've Got a Friend."

Quincy Jones won for best pop instrumental performance for "Samckwater Jack," an album with the title song written by Ms. King.

Carly Simon, who writes pop songs and plays guitar and whose sister is an opera singer, was acclaimed best new artist of year.

Last year's best new artist, the sister and brother team the Carpenters, won this year's "best pop vocal performance by a duo, group or chorus" category with their LP "Carpenters."

Isaac Hayes' recordings received the most nominations—eight. He won a composer's award for best score written for a movie or TV special for "Shaft," a movie. He won an arranger's award for best instrumental arrangement for the single "Theme from Shaft" won an award for its engineer, Dave Purple.

Chris Kristofferson was nominated five times, although songs he wrote were also nominated as sung by others. Kristofferson had three of the five nominations for "best country song" and one of his three won. "Help Me Make It Through the Night."

Sammi Smith won best female country vocal performance with that Kristofferson song. Jerry Reed won the best male country vocal Grammy for "When You're Hot, You're Hot," which he sang on television during the hour and a half on which 12 of the 44 awards were presented. The rest were presented at dinners held later in the evening by the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences, in New York, Atlanta, Nashville, Chicago and Los Angeles.

Other awards: Conway Twitty and Loretta Lynn, "After the Fire is Gone," best country vocal performance by a duo or group.
Chet Atkins, "Snowbird," best country instrumental.

Aretha Franklin, "Bridge Over Troubled Water," best rhythm and blues female performance. She won in the category for the fifth straight year.

Lou Rawls, "A Natural Man," best rhythm and blues male performance.

Ike and Tina Turner, husband and wife, "Proud Mary," best rhythm and blues vocal by a duo or group.
Songwriter Bill Withers, "Ain't No Sunshine," best rhythm and blues song.

Duke Ellington, "New Orleans Suite," best jazz performance by a big band.
"The Bill Evans Album," best jazz performance by a soloist, in this case a pianist. "The Bill Evans Album" also won in the category of jazz performance by a group for the Bill Evans Trio.

"Horowitz Plays Rachmaninoff" by pianist Vladimir Horowitz, classical album of the year. The album also won in the category of best classical performance by soloist without orchestra. Julian Bream's LP, "Villa-Lobos: Concerto for Guitar" won as best classical performance by soloist with orchestra.

Verdi's "Aida" as conducted by Erich Leinsdorf with the London Symphony, best opera. Best orchestra recording: "Mahler: Symphony No. 1," Carlo Maria Giulini conducting the Chicago Symphony.

Chamber music: "Debussy: Quartet in G Minor and Ravel: Quartet in F Major," Julliard Quartet.

Best vocal: "Leontyne Price Sings Robert Schumann."
Best Choral: "Berlioz: Requiem," Colin Cavis conducting the London Symphony with London Symphony Chorus and Wandsworth School Boys Choir. This record also won as best engineered classical album.

Best recording for children: "Bill Cosby Talks to Kids about Drugs."
Best comedy: "This is a Recording" by Lily Tomlin.

Best score for an original cast album: Composer Stephen Schwartz, for off-Broadway's "Godspell." Best gospel: "Let Me Live," Charley Pride.

Best soul gospel: "Put Your Hand in the Hand of the Man from Galilee," Shirley Caesar.
Best ethnic or traditional record, including blues: "They Call Me Muddy Waters" by blues singer Muddy Waters.

The only former Beatle to win a Grammy was Paul McCartney who won with his wife Linda for best arrangement accompanying vocalists, for their "Uncle Albert Admiral Halsey."

However, the trustees of the National Association of Recording Arts and Sciences gave a special Grammy to the Beatles, two years after the four members went their separate ways. The governors of NARAS gave a special Grammy to composer Leonard Bernstein. Special awards also were announced for Louis Armstrong, who died last July, and Mahalia Jackson, who died in January.

INTRODUCING

The Electronic Engine IONIZER this product really saves you money and makes your car run better. The Ionizer, a product of Corona Chemistry, increases the gas burn efficiency from 50-60 percent to around 85 percent.

THE RESULTS

- Increased mileage 10-30 percent and save .50-$1.50 per tank.
- Burn lowest cost gas and save $1-$2.00 per tank full. Add it up! How many times do you fill up in a year?
- New spark plugs and tail pipes last the life of the car.
- Power increase. Greater acceleration. Higher top speed.
- Faster starting—Double engine life.
- Smoother Running.
- Prevents pre-ignition pinging.
- Cleans carbon deposits—cures dieselling.
- Greatly reduces Air Pollution of Hydrocarbon.
- Lasts life on many vehicles.
- Quickly self installed. No tools required.
- No maintenance or alteration needed.
- More and more new car dealers from coast to coast are marketing the Ionizer on new cars. They do recommend it.
- Multiplies the life span of small engines of two or more cylinders. Farm equipment operators are reporting up to double the mileage. It is NO GIMMICK, it really works.
- Guaranteed satisfaction or your money back.
- Worth many times its national list price of $29.95, but during this Iowa introductory period, the price is only $19.95. Ask your dealer for it, or write direct to the Iowa Distributor:

TRIVIA ANSWER—Episcopalian is the most popular denomination, with nine presidents (Washington, Madison, Monroe, W.H. Harrison, Tyler, Pierce, Arthur and F. Roosevelt). Second are the Presbyterians with six (Jackson, Buchanan, Cleveland, B. Harrison, Wilson, Eisenhower). Jefferson started out an Episcopalian, later turning to deism. Lincoln and Rutherford Burford Hayes attended church services but never officially joined a church. 3-16
