DARING ROBBERS AT BYRD'S STORE

Midnight Operators Get Clothing Valued at $400—Cap May Lead to Capture.

Daring robbers entered the store of the Byrd Clothing Company last night, carrying off clothing valued at something more than $400 and leaving behind a brown cap, which may prove a valuable clue to their identity. Entrance was effected through a transom over the rear door of the establishment.

Several members of The Journal force next door were working on today's issue of The Journal until 2 a. m., which would indicate that the robbery occurred between 2 a. m. and daylight.

A list of the loot includes: Nine suits and overcoats (with Styleplus labels in each collar), one leather suitcase and other cheaper suitcases, about two dozen silk half hose, lot of silk ties bearing the Byrd label, several shirts (Maryland brand), pair of patent-leather oxfords and other Craddock shoes.

Mr. R. LeRoy Byrd, of the clothing company, has offered a reward of $100 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the thief or thieves.

HARRIS SENT TO ELECTRIC CHAIR

Murderer of Justice Meredith Doomed to Die December 1—Jury Out 20 Minutes.

Alvin W. Harris, colored, was convicted here on Tuesday of the murder of Justice Thomas S. Meredith and sentenced to die in the electric chair between 5 a. m. and noon of Friday, December 1. The prisoner was brought from Richmond to Manassas under guard about 10 o'clock, and by 12:30 his sentence had been pronounced.

The jurors, whose deliberations occupied about twenty minutes, were: M. G. White, foreman; O. C. Heston, W. E. George, A. C. Ellison, W. E. Senseney, H. C. Claggett, G. G. Evans, Elmer Thomas, G. D. Kidwell, T. H. Holmes, R. M. Jenkins and P. D. Lipscomb.

The murder occurred near Gainesville on July 19 at the home of John Lane, Harris' father-in-law, the family having sent for Justice Meredith to quell a disturbance caused by Harris. Three members of the Lane family testified as eye-witnesses.

Justice Meredith, whose home was at Gainesville, was the last surviving brother of the late Representative E. E. Meredith, of Virginia.

Feeling ran high in Prince William at the time of the shooting, and a large percentage of the male population accused the country for the murderer, who surrendered to the authorities on the morning of July 23. The prisoner was hustled to Alexandria and from there to Richmond for confinement in the Henrico jail to await trial.

Less than two hours after sentence had been pronounced, Harris was aboard train for Richmond in the custody of Deputy Sheriff Kerlin, who turned him over to the sheriff of Henrico county for safe keeping in the Henrico jail until the arrival of authorities from the state penitentiary. Court will be in session again tomorrow. A summary of proceedings to date follows:

Common Law
Commonwealth vs. B. J. Busby, indicted for a felony—Defendant adjudged guilty of assault and battery and fined $400; Charles J. Gillis, foreman of jury. C. G. Paris, justice of the peace, turned in forfeited bond put up by Busby for H. C. Copland, who failed to appear for trial, and $400 fine taken from $600, remainder being paid to Busby or his attorney. Defendant discharged.

GET OUT YOUR FLAGS!

Fellow Citizens:
On Friday, October 20, you will act as host to the visiting Shrine, and in order to express a welcome to our town I would like to see as much decoration as possible. The business houses are especially requested to make an effort to decorate their respective places of business and swap smiles with the nobles.
HARRY P. DAVIS, Mayor.

Shrine Ceremonial October 20

Manassas Will Welcome Nobility of Acca Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S.

The next pilgrimage of the nomads of Acca Temple, Ancient, Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, will have for its objective the oasis of Manassas on Friday, October 20, at which time and place the first autumn ceremonial session of the temple will be held.

The official party is due to arrive in Manassas about 3:30 p. m. This party will be headed, of course, by the illustrious Potentate Edward G. Schmidt, of Richmond. Caravans from various quarters are expected to arrive at any hour of the day from early morning until the coming of the illustrious potentate and his entourage in the afternoon.

Just how many of the desert clan will invade the oasis not even the illustrious potentate can tell, but there are those who say that Manassas will welcome the largest invasion witnessed here in many years. The humble supplicants who seek admission into the mysteries of the Shrine are said to be numerous, and are not with the usual Acca Temple.

Through the courtesy of the management of Eastern College-Conservatory the grounds and buildings of that institution will be accepted as the domain of the invading hosts during the period of their sojourn here. A buffet banquet will be given at 6 o'clock, a business session will follow at 7 and the ceremonial session itself will begin a half hour later. Afternoon events will include a parade at 4:30 and a band concert at 5.

The illustrious potentate, in a letter addressed to the nobility of his jurisdiction, is quoted as saying: "For the first time Acca makes a pilgrimage to Manassas, which city and immediate territory are so ably looked after by the potentate's representative, Nobis Thomas H. Lion, with his most active and enthusiastic followers.

"This city nestles in one of the most beautiful sections of our oasis. Its citizens are co-operating with wonderful enthusiasm to make this one of the liveliest pilgrimage ceremonials ever presented by Acca. A large class of unregenerates, with bowed heads, kneel in supplication for the honor of admission into our goodly temple, to share Acca's responsibility in promoting the wonderful work it has pledged to perform."

A like ceremonial will be staged at Covington on the following day. Committees for the Manassas event follow:

CHEESE FACTORIES FLOODED WITH ORDERS

County Agent Says Prince William Could Easily Support Eight or Ten Plants.

(W. L. Browning, County Agent)
While at the state fair the county agent secured an order of nearly 18,000 pounds of cheese for the plants of Prince William county to fill. After going around to the different plants upon my arrival at home, I find that it is going to be difficult to have all this order filled within the next three months because of the orders already in. This is the most encouraging thing that has happened since the county agent first started the movement of making cheese. Up until the present several months the buyers were a little afraid of Virginia-made cheese, and it was a problem to find sale for all produced, but we have gotten to the place now where we are receiving

MRS. COLEMAN ENTERTAINS

Manassas Homekeepers' Club Members Held Enjoyable Session.

Mrs. Thomas F. Coleman entertained the Manassas Good Homekeepers' Club Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was the occasion of mutual congratulation over the honor attained by the club in being awarded first prize for its exhibit at the Prince William fair. A two-course luncheon was served by the hostess.

TEMPLE SESSION OPENS

Sixty-One Students Enroll at Opening of Ninth Session.

The Temple School of Music recently entered upon its ninth year. Sixty-one pupils have enrolled, and prospects continue bright. Miss Margaret Temple Hopkins, founder of the school, continues as its director, with Miss Frances Spies as her assistant. A larger enrollment, according to Miss Hopkins' announcement, will mean the addition of another member to the teaching force. Miss Hopkins has been in communication with a well-known teacher of violin in Washington, and if the demand for violin classes is urgent definite arrangements will be made.

TEACHERS HERE FOR CONFERENCE

Dr. Tyner Speaks on Citizenship—Supt. McDonald Presides Over Busy Session

The thirteenth annual conference of the Prince William County Teachers' Association opened at the Bennett Building Wednesday morning and will hold its final session tomorrow. Supt. Charles E. McDonald, who presided, gave a word of greeting to the conference at the opening session, after which "America, the Beautiful" was sung. Mrs. Hodge presided at the piano. Prof. I. N. H. B. of Nokesville High School, led in prayer. The assembly then joined in singing "How Firm a Foundation."

The first speaker, introduced by Supt. McDonald, was Dr. B. Y. of the Fredericksburg state normal school. Dr. Tyner presented two types of school, the "monarchy" and "anarchy" and the simple "democracy." The monarchy used to be the throne (the desk) with the monarch (the teacher) behind it. This morning issued laws and regulations the next morning, each sentence a threat. He presented certain books as the source of education. The lock

EASTERN TERM IN FULL SWING

Receptions, Recitals and Mark Opening of Twelfth Fourth Session.

(By College Correspondent)
The twenty-fourth session of Eastern College opened September 20 with representatives from fifteen states in the college and a good local attendance.

Voorhees' Hall, one of the two dormitories, has been completely done over and refurbished during the summer, so that it is one of the most beautiful and best equipped dormitories in the state. The suites are in rooms of two or three to a private bath, which adds very materially to the comfort of the occupants.

On the evening of September 22, the opening reception was given to the students and friends of the institution. The faculty received in the drawing room, and Misses Margaret Green and Alberta Frenzel served at the punch bowl in the reception hall.

On the Saturday evening following President and Mrs. Holliday entertained the faculty in their private residence.

On Monday September 25, the students enjoyed denning their kinkers, and with bathing suits, cameras and well-laden hampers, spent the day on the beautiful banks of the Potomac and had a dip in its historic waters.

Several parties have already visited the National Capital.

Saturday morning, September 30, the formal opening exercises of the session were held, at which the ministers and a number of the representative citizens of Manassas delivered splendid and appropriate five-minute addresses, after which the visitors were shown over the buildings and various apartments of the college.

On the evening of October 4 Miss Bigham, the dean of women, gave a reception to the faculty in the drawing room of Voorhees' Hall, and on the evening of the 6th Miss Mary Houghton Brown, the director of the conservatory, gave her first recital, which was characterized by eminent musicianship.

The faculty is one of the best to be found in our eastern colleges, and President Holliday's ideal is to make it one of the foremost and most progressive educational institutions in the state. Our slogan is: "Keep your eye on Eastern and watch us grow."

—Shrines and other visitors are invited to a mid-day luncheon which will be served at the parish hall by the ladies of the Guild of Trinity Episcopal Church.

IMPORTANT MEETING

A called meeting of the Manassas Memorial Hospital Association will be held at the parish hall on Sunday at 3 p. m. Important matters concerning the site of the proposed hospital, etc., will be discussed. All who are interested in the hospital are invited to be present.

COUNTY SUPERVISORS IN SPECIAL SESSION

Payment on Road Contract Authorized—County to Loan Road Tools to Town.

A special meeting of the county board of supervisors was held at the courthouse yesterday, all members, with the exception of Supervisor Hutchison, being present.

Dr. F. W. Hornbaker, physician to the poor in Occoquan district, was requested to visit Miss Simpson, making certificate of her condition, and Supervisor Dawson was appointed a committee to seek a home or institution in which she may be cared for.

Supervisor Larkin was authorized to lend to the town of Manassas any county tools and machinery not in use on county and district roads. The following accounts were paid: County Fund. J. L. Dawson, attendance

HIGHWAY MEN HOPE FOR TEN MILLIONS

Road Officials Say It Is Necessary to Know How Much Will Be Available.

Knowledge of whether Virginia will have $8,000,000 or $10,000,000 to expend on state highway construction in 1923 is not only necessary for the proper making of plans during the fall and winter for the maintenance of the state highway system in 1923, but also has an immediate bearing on the plans for construction, according to officials of the state highway department. The state is now working on a program of producing completed plans ready for contract for 50 miles of road per month in accordance with the belief of the new state highway commission that funds would be provided by the General Assembly to permit the carrying out of a program of this magnitude. If only $3,000,000, the amount of federal and state funds which will be available under current revenues, is the extent of the program, it will be unnecessary to go ahead on this basis in the majority of construction districts, excepting for the few counties which can loan money to the state under the Robertson act. This would mean that the survey parties, draftsmen and office engineers who have been added to take care of the enlarged program would have to be dropped.

Henry G. Shirley, chairman of the state highway commission, has been giving his personal attention to the increasing of the efficiency of all departments of state highway work since he took charge of the work, taking up one department after another. The chairman of the commission, for example, has some very definite plans for improving wherever possible the inspection of work under way, in order that the state may be assured of better construction, resulting in a saving to both the contractor and the state. When he is assured that adequate funds will be available for 1923, it is his desire of the new chairman to send a school this winter in Richmond for the special training of engineers in the department in the proper making of inspection. Such a school would be held for approximately four weeks, and those attending would have the opportunity of hearing lectures on judging materials and their proper use by the leading experts on the subject in the country. In this way Mr. Shirley believes that the men would be able to return to their jobs better able to apply this special knowledge to their work. The expense of such a school would be out of proportion for the few inspectors necessary on the job which $3,000,000 would permit to be let. By reason of the fact that more than half of the $3,000,000 will not be available until the proceeds of the mill tax is collected in December, 1923, requiring the postponing of letting of contracts covered by this amount until late fall, the work, small as it would be, would be strung out over the entire year, and a few inspectors could handle the entire year's work.

Without more assurance that additional funds will be provided in 1923, the state highway commission has gone as far as it dares in making plans for next year's program at a time when all arrangements should be under way with a view of starting off the work in 1923 on a proper scale with the first opening of the road building season.

BUSY BEES MEET

County President Presides Over Meeting at Bristow School.

(Roy Ledman, Secretary)

The Bristow Busy Bee club held its regular monthly meeting at Bristow school house on Friday, October 6, at 2:30 p. m. The county president, Glen Bowman, presided. Seven members and fourteen visitors were present, and also our club leader, Mrs. M. C. Dickins.

The club program consisted of club yell No. 12, followed by a reading, "Sister June Bug Guest," by Mrs. Dickins, and "September Chime," by Gertrude Ledman. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The county president gave a splendid talk about his trip to the state short course, which was held July 31 to August 5. This talk was enjoyed by both club members and visitors.

Each member told at roll call what had been done since last meeting, and Glen Bowman told about his poultry and pig club work.

After singing "America, the Beautiful" and "Auld Lang Syne," the meeting adjourned to meet again the first Friday in November. Before adjourning club yell No. 4 was given.

PRESIDENT WELCOMES RED CROSS VISITORS

Gen. John J. Pershing, Herbert Hoover and Other Notables Speak.

The Red Cross annual convention held in Washington on October 9, 10 and 11 gave opportunity for chapter delegates to hear nationally known speakers, to discuss chapter programs and to assist in the formation of the National Red Cross policies. John Barton Payne, chairman of the national organization, presided at the first morning session. Judge Payne has just returned from a meeting of the Board of Governors of Red Cross Societies, held in Paris, bringing first hand reports of the Smyrna situation.

The delegates were welcomed by President Harding, and after a concert by the Marine Band, there was an address by General Pershing on "The Red Cross and Its Army Work." Among other important speakers were Sir Claude Hill, director general, League of Red Cross Societies; Mrs. August Belmont, whose subject was "Junior Red Cross Service," and Mr. Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce. Dr. Livingston Farrand, president of Cornell University, spoke on Tuesday evening, and on Wednesday Chief Justice Taft presided. Beautiful Memorial Hall in the D. A. B. headquarters furnished striking background for these important Red Cross meetings.

At the convention the delegates were seated according to states. There was a special section for those representing the Washington division. Among the important officials who represented Virginia at the conference were: Mr. Lloyd M. Robinette, chairman, Lee county chapter; Mr. R. H. Pittman, chairman, Page county chapter; Rev. Floyd Cartwright, chairman, Isle of Wight chapter; Mrs. Franklin M. Hanger, chairman, Augusta county chapter; Mr. C. C. Pinekey, of the Richmond chapter, and Mrs. Thomas Wheelwright, of the Chesterfield branch of the Richmond chapter.

VIRGINIA RANKS WELL IN INCOME TAX RETURNS

Old Dominion in 1920 Paid About 1 Per Cent of Total Federal Tax.

In the report of taxes for the year 1920, Virginia stands eighteenth among the states in the amount paid. Virginia paid about 1 per cent of the total personal and corporation income tax collected by the Federal Government for the year.

For the calendar year 1920, Virginia reported $273,225,229 net personal income; $96,353,038 net corporation income, a total of $369,578,267, which was 1.17 per cent of the total net income reported for the whole United States. On this net personal and corporation income, Virginia paid $25,614,986 in taxes, or .96 of 1 per cent of the total paid by all the states.

Of Virginia's 2,309,187 population, 92,576 made personal income tax returns in 1920. The average net income reported was $2,951.47; the average tax paid was $79.98. The total net personal income they reported as $273,225,229, and on this they paid a tax of $7,404,261.

The amount of net income reported by Virginia income tax payers has grown steadily since 1916. In 1917, the amount of net income reported was $130,682,859; in 1918, $173,104,435; in 1919, $247,686,373, and in 1920, it was $273,225,229.

The highest net personal income on which return was made from Virginia was between $250,000 and $300,000. Two persons in Virginia paid income taxes on incomes of that amount, their combined taxable incomes being $557,345, on which they paid a tax of $290,292.

Two other Virginians paid income taxes on net personal incomes between $150,000 and $200,000; seven between $100,000 and $150,000; three between $90,000 and $100,000; three between $80,000 and $90,000; eight between $70,000 and $80,000; twenty-six between $60,000 and $70,000, and forty-nine between $50,000 and $60,000.

Persons with earnings between $1,000 and $2,000 composed the largest group in Virginia, there being about 36,000 who reported earnings between those amounts. About 35,000 persons reported earnings between $2,000 and $3,000.

MANY WOMEN JOIN IN KITCHEN CONTEST

Mrs. Davis, of Richmond, Leader in Demonstration Work, Coming Tomorrow.

(Miss Lillian V. Gilbert, County Home Demonstration Agent)

Mrs. M. M. Davis, who is to be with the county home demonstration agent to visit the homes of those enrolled in the Better Kitchen contest, will arrive in Manassas tomorrow and will be ready to start with the work Monday morning.

While we are in charge of our campaign here, more than twenty-five counties, towns and cities in Virginia are launching Better Homes campaigns. Seven counties are undertaking the work with the negroes. Two counties in Virginia have already successfully put over the Better Kitchen contests, and that has been declared by Mrs. Davis to be the biggest piece of demonstration work ever put over.

Why do we begin with the kitchen? There is no doubt about it, the kitchen is the most important room in ninety-nine out of a hundred farm houses. It is equally true that the farm house is not much of a success as a home if the woman at its head is not well and happy. Then why is it that the kitchen is so uncomfortable, inconvenient and ugly? These are some of the things that Mrs. Davis is going to help us with.

Twenty-six women have already enrolled. All others who wish to enroll and get the advantage of Mrs. Davis as she comes for the work, are urged to send name and address to the county home demonstration agent not later than October 14, as the time for enrolling closes then. Mrs. Davis is a woman of broad experience, so those who fail to take advantage of this opportunity will surely lose something. It costs nothing to get these helps, and if suggestions that are given are followed much will be gained. One woman in Wythe county rearranged her kitchen and got things in fine working shape, and it cost her only twenty-five cents in cash. Of course much work was done.

Several handsome prizes have been offered, all of these being useful equipment for the kitchen workshop. These prizes will be awarded to the women making the greatest improvement at the least cost. No one need be afraid to start, as much can always be accomplished at little cost. All through the contest, which will continue until about December 15, articles will appear in the county papers, giving suggestions, etc. The county agent will be ready to come or answer questions when called upon to do so. Be sure to get your name in the contest before Saturday night.

Our slogan: "Greatest improvement at least expense."

NEGLECTED WAKEFIELD

How well Wakefield, the Virginia birthplace of George Washington, is kept in repair by the meagre congressional appropriation of $100 a year, the average citizen may readily imagine. Small wonder it is that cows of the neighborhood are set to graze upon Wakefield green in order to allay the growth of grass and unsightly weeds, and that Major D. L. Weart, of Washington, assistant superintendent of public buildings and grounds, has acquainted the public with conditions there, in the hope that congress may allot an adequate amount.

Doubtless it was a long time ago that American legislators agreed upon this appropriation of $100 a year—perhaps so long ago that no living legislator is able to recall it. And, furthermore, in that day it is entirely probable that $100 went far enough to do the work for which it was appropriated. Needless to repeat, it is pitifully inadequate now.

Since the matter has reached public attention congress is expected to provide what is necessary. It would be rightly considered an extravagance for Americans to endeavor to preserve the birthplaces of all our great men who have become president, but assuredly it would seem that the wealthiest nation on earth can afford to spend what is required for the orderly preservation of the birthplace of its first president, the Father of His Country.

THE THINNING LINE

Although the southern Confederacy had more than a million gallant defenders during the war between the states, only 75,000 now survive after the passage of half a century. Definite figures to this effect are given in statistics compiled by Colonel Francis M. Burrows, of the staff of General Julian S. Carr, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans. The number of actual survivors, according to Colonel Burrows' compilation, is 75,066, 65,707 of whom are drawing pensions, 1,859 are in soldiers' homes and 7,500 are unknown. Other interesting disclosures show that 57,987 widows of Confederate veterans are receiving pensions. There are 667 negro veterans in homes.

The Lone Star state, running true to size, leads in the number of surviving soldiers, carrying 14,969 on her pension roll and caring for 256 in homes. Georgia and Arkansas each have 9,000 pensioners, with 105 and 100, respectively, living in homes.

The figures are very interesting, but the vision of the rapidly disappearing line of gray is inexpressibly sad to the admirers of these soldiers of the sixties who were valiant defenders of the stars and bars and whose sons were valiant defenders of the stars and stripes in the war which downed the Hun.

KEEPING UP WITH "WEEKS"

So many weeks are set aside for special observance and demonstration that it is hard sometimes for the average citizen to keep up with them. Last week, by proclamation of Governor Trinkle, was fire-prevention week, when Virginia citizens were called upon to realize the importance of making a strong effort to reduce the annual loss of life and property by preventable fires.

Fire-prevention programs in schools and other demonstrations made for good results, but aside from any formal observance the week may be declared a success and a benefit if a majority of Virginia citizens gave thoughtful personal attention to the idea, giving it a mental berth sufficiently permanent to add to the safety of the future.

We were safely out of fire-prevention week just in time to think of better-homes week, which is occupying national thought for the present week. And surely Americans will find entertainment and profit in many ways from its observance. Better homes for all of us will be the swiftest route to a better community, a better state and a better nation.

THE SEALS AGAIN

Official notice has already been served on our hearts and pocketbooks that the Virginia Tuberculosis Association has not forgotten its annual custom of selling Christmas seals for the support of its humanitarian work. Perhaps we hadn't thought of it since last Christmas, but the first announcement brings it all back to us without explanation, and our hearts will be ready, and our pocketbooks—bill compartments or small change compartment, according to what we have.

After all, the Christmas seal plan is a nice way to ask for this Christmas offering. Thank offering though it is, every donor gets Christmas seals for his money; and while all Christmas seals are fraught with exquisite meaning, the thought of Him who made the first Christmas is certainly very, very near to the Christmas stamps that help to stamp out tuberculosis.

Getting down to practical facts, the association tells us that the death rate from tuberculosis in the United States has been cut in half, and that 204 lives were saved in Virginia last year. Listen to this, people, all of you who have helped to scatter the message of the seals.

THE HOSPITAL MEETING

Next Sunday afternoon is the time selected for an important meeting of the association organized in the interest of establishing a hospital at Manassas. The day selected is not inappropriate for the thoughtful consideration of such a movement in the interest of suffering humanity, and The Journal ventures to hope that the attendance will be large enough and brave enough to enter into definite plans for the future.

OUR FOREIGN DEBTORS

Discussion still continues, pro and con, on the proposition to wipe out the debts due by our Allies during the World War. It was evident during the recent session of the American Bank Association in New York that a large majority of the bankers now favor such a policy, and three United States senators, recently returned from a visit to Europe, two of them Republicans and one Democrat, have in the past ten days given out statements advocating a release. On the other hand Representative Burton, of Ohio, a member of the allied debt committee, is in direct opposition to such release. Among the grounds assigned by him for his position is a rather peculiar one to the effect that cancellation of these debts would encourage warfare in Europe. Mr. Burton thinks that such cancellation would lead to an expansion of Europe's military and naval establishments with much financial waste.

General opinion in America is much divided on the question, and perhaps the best that can be done is to do nothing at the present time. None of our foreign debtors can meet their obligations, with the exception of Great Britain, and since this is true there is no reason to reach a final conclusion as to the matter of release until some later date when conditions in Europe will be more stable than they are at present. This is the course we believe will be pursued.—Free Lance.

THE FELLOW WHO THINKS HE CAN

If you think you are beaten, you are,
 If you think that you dare not, you don't,
 If you'd like to win, but you think you can't,
 It's almost a "cinch" that you won't.

If you think you'll lose, you've lost,
 For out in the world you find
 Success begins with a fellow's will;
 It's all in the state of mind.

Full many a race is lost
 Ere even a step is run,
 And many a coward falls
 Ere even his work's begun.

Think big, and your deeds will grow;
 Think small, and you'll fall behind;
 Think that you can and you will;
 It's all in the state of mind.

If you think you are outclassed, you are;
 You've got to think like a wise;
 You've got to be sure of yourself before
 You can ever win a prize.

Life's battles don't always go
 To the stronger or faster man;
 But soon or late the man who wins
 Is the fellow who thinks he can.
 —Exchange.

LAUGH AND LIVE

OTHER EASY TO GET

They were getting up a ball game in a small town and lacked one player. They finally persuaded an old fellow to fill in, although he said he had never played before. He went to the bat, and the first ball pitched he knocked over the fence. Everyone stood and watched the ball, even the pitcher. Excitedly they told him to run. "Should he," he said, "what's the use of running; I'll buy you another ball."

AN HONORABLE DEGREE

Said the friend to the proud father of a college graduate who had just been awarded an A. M. degree:
 "I suppose Robert will be looking for a Ph.D. next?"
 "No; he will be looking for a J. O. B."—The Christian-Evangelist (St. Louis).

IT WAS NEWS TO HER

Mrs. Newrich was enjoying a tour of Europe and had stopped to gaze upon the ruins of Pompeii.
 "How dreadful," she exclaimed. "And what a pity! When did it all happen?"
 "In '79," replied a fellow traveler.
 "Land sakes!" Mrs. Newrich exclaimed, "I was born in '71 and never heard a word about it."

MORE INFORMATION REQUIRED

The well-known actor, Lionel Barrymore, is very intolerant of anyone who cannot speak in accordance with the best literary standards. It is told of him that a stranger once accosted him at a club with this inquiry:
 "Beg pardon, sir, but could you tell me if there is a man who goes to this club who has one eye named John Parker?"
 Barrymore looked thoughtful for a moment, then replied:
 "I don't believe I could help you. Do you know the name of his other eye?"

TRINKLE FREES TWO CONVICTS

Pardons Sidna Edwards and Friel Allen, Members of Famous Allen Clan.

Exercising his power of pardon, the Virginia executive has extended clemency in the cases of Friel Allen and Sidna Edwards, younger members of the famous "Allen gang," each of whom had served ten years out of sentences of fifteen years at the state prison. Action by the Governor came in response to a monster petition, said to have been signed by 60,000 citizens, and followed a public hearing granted by the executive, which was participated in by many of the leading men and women of Richmond and of other sections, urging clemency.

The Governor declined to act in the cases of Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards. His conditional pardons to the two nephews of Sidna Allen were accompanied by a lengthy and comprehensive statement, in which he set forth clearly his belief that the ends of justice had been met and the law already vindicated in the cases of the two young prisoners.

The men pardoned left Richmond for Hopewell, where resides Mrs. Alberta Edwards, mother of Sidna Edwards and aunt to Friel Allen. The leave-taking of the four kinsmen in prison is said to have been very affecting. Friel Allen, who for years has acted as a "trustee" at the penitentiary, was exceedingly popular with the authorities at the prison. He was frequently seen at the State Capitol, whether he would drive in one of the prison cars when the superintendent of the penitentiary was summoned by the Governor.

The crime for which members of the "Allen gang" were brought to Richmond occurred at Hillsville, Carroll county, in 1912, and was one of the most sensational in the annals of the state. Judge Thornton L. Massie, of the circuit bench, with officers of his court and a woman, were killed in the courtroom. The shooting began when Floyd Allen, leader of the "clan," refused to be taken by the sheriff. He and his son, Claude Allen, were later electrocuted at the state prison here.

SHELLS CENTURIES OLD

Giant fossil oyster shells, scientists say to be more than 400 years old, and some of them measuring more than three feet in length, have been discovered in a clay bank in Starr county, Tex., near a fied forest.

The fossils were found in a clay and shell bank about 1,000 feet from the sea level. Some of the specimens have been sent to the Smithsonian institution and others to the health service.

Scientists declare that huge oyster swam in the waters which covered the lower Rio Grande valley in the paleozoic age, and that the oysters lodged in the gravel banks along the seashore in what is now Starr and Zapata counties.

Near the fossil bank are hundreds of petrified trees, some of them ten feet in diameter. In this forest is a variety of oak now extinct in this part of the country.

TEACHERS HERE FOR CONFERENCE

 was maintained throughout the school. The method of teaching was entirely memory; the discipline in the school was punishment. No child was allowed to move without permission. The result of such a spirit in the school, the monarch ruling by might, was "bullies" on the playground.

"Keeping in' at recess is a mistaken conception of what a recess is for," Dr. Tyner declared.

School Anarchy.
 The school which Dr. Tyner labels an anarchy is where the monarch is not sufficiently strong to enforce her rules. If such schools as the monarchy and anarchy were closed, the social order would be better off, the speaker declared. They breed individuals with no respect of law or order.

Some of our new institutions give us alarm, he said, mentioning the lack of chaperonage for the young.

"If we are going to save our 'Beautiful America,' we must not cry from the housetop," he said, "we must get down in their midst and help. Do not say 'don't,' but 'do.'"

"The first principle of democracy is 'for' and 'by.' Each child is a soul, has a right to help make the laws. Every child is a citizen as soon as he is born, and his training begins then. A child knows justice better than most of us. The school should be an organization where the children have control. Your place," he said to the teachers, "is to suggest and guide."

"The function of a school in a democracy is to develop pupils to be good citizens for their own pleasure," according to Dr. Tyner's definition. Good citizenship has three elements: Knowledge, the power to feel and willingness. In closing he gave the following quotation from Van Dyke, "The Test of Character":

"The Test of Character.
 There is something finer than to do right against inclination; and that is to have an inclination to do right. There is something nobler than reluctant obedience; and that is joyful obedience. The rank of virtue is not measured by its disagreeableness, but by its sweetness to the heart that loves it. The real test of character is joy. For what you rejoice in, that you love. And what you love, that are you like."

Supt. McDonald then gave the teachers their checks, and the morning session adjourned with singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers" and benediction by Rev. A. Stuart Gibson.

The afternoon session opened with "America." Supt. McDonald made many suggestions to the teachers, advocating a regular study period of one hour a day at the annual conference.

Supt. McDonald led in a discussion of points mentioned by Dr. Tyner, the first being, "If we abandon the march in to the school, what shall we use instead?"

Developing Citizenship.
 If the children want to march in, let them elect a captain and march, according to Dr. Tyner's view; but if they do not want to march, let the idea of citizenship be so well developed that they will come in on order. Develop respect for the school. This led to a discussion by Supt. McDonald of the changed conditions of parental influence, which is often a minimal quantity. Mrs. Hodge suggested that the home be made more attractive, and then the question arose, "Has the teacher the right to supervise the pupil outside of school hours?" Mr. Pierson, Mr. Shumate, Mr. Beahm, Miss Lion, Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Johnson and many others took part in the discussion. Mr. Ewing said that the teacher has authority while the pupil is supposed to be in the teacher's possession. Miss Talley suggested that the teacher use influence rather than authority to enforce good behavior all the time.

The matter of co-operation between teachers and parents next came up, bringing out the new state law which makes education compulsory between the ages of eight and fourteen, "the government having to force the parents to do what they do not want to do."

Supt. McDonald appealed to the teachers to read a good moral story to the children once a week.

"You can't teach religion, but you can improve the moral tone in this way," he said. "Live a moral life before the children. The only hope is for the teachers to back christian citizenship."

Teachers' Right to Whip.
 After singing "Old Folks at Home," the teachers began a discussion of the new compulsory education law. If a child won't be vaccinated, send him home, it was suggested; and if he is kept out more than five days notify the attendance officer (the county school board has appointed the sheriffs and town sergeant as attendance officers). Teachers were advised to report to the superintendent all children on the roll between eight and fourteen, and to give to the best of their ability information of any children in the community between eight and fourteen who are not in school.

When a child completes the grammar grades, he cannot be compelled to attend school, it was agreed.

A discussion of the legal rights of teachers in the enforcement of discipline ensued, the majority of teachers deciding that the teacher has the right to whip.

This discussion, followed by "Good Night, Ladies," marked the close of Wednesday's session.

Thursday's Session.
 The second morning session opened with "Work, for the Night Is Coming." Rev. A. B. Jamison conducted the devotional exercises, reading from the book of Hebrews and offering prayer.

Two addresses featured the morning session. Rev. Virgil C. Fennell spoke on "Preparing Children to Govern Themselves," declaring this to be the most important task before the teacher today.

The fall of nations in every case may be traced to the fact that the people had not learned to govern themselves, the speaker declared, ascribing part of the responsibility to lack of patriotism and selfishness. Intellect and godly citizenship are most essential, he said, a just and proper feeling of things divine is the foundation of the strength of every nation.

"The foundation of America is religious," said Dr. Fennell, "because the colonies were all founded upon religious purposes and dominated by religious purpose in every instance. Two systems of instruction are necessary—secular and religious. Leaders in each of these systems should cooperate in making a better citizenship."

Dr. Converse Speaks.
 The second speaker was Dr. Henry A. Converse, of the state normal school at Harrisonburg, whose topic was "Arithmetic in the Grades." After giving a most interesting and instructive discussion of the history of arithmetic in the various countries, Dr. Converse stressed the importance of thorough instruction in the metric system, simple equations and the value of formulae and proportion for teaching reasoning power. Much time in the past has been given to processes that are of little practical value, he said.

There are two methods of handling operations in arithmetic, mechanical and logical, the speaker said. These must be given at the judgment of the teacher in such a way as to teach pupils to decide what to do and how to do it quickly. The teaching of quick reasoning power is the chief objective of the teacher—the correct answer in a reasonable length of time. Drill is absolutely necessary for the teaching of mechanical processes, but the rational side must enter for the strengthening of the reasoning power. Children must be trained to think. Tests should be given in such a way that the teacher may determine the growth of the reasoning power of the student.

"Come, Thou Almighty King" was sung, and Rev. Edgar Z. Pence dismissed the session with benediction. "The Soldiers' Chorus" and "Jannits" were sung when the afternoon session opened yesterday. Announcements were made for Friday's session.

Medical Inspection.
 Miss Bryson, representing the state board of health, spoke on the details of physical inspection of school children. This inspection is done as the result of the West law which provides that all school children be inspected. This is a most important step on the part of the health department, and if the inspection is carefully done should do much in the way of correcting physical defects.

The assembly at this juncture joined in singing "Dixie."
 Supt. McDonald then opened a round table discussion, which brought out the following topics: (a) Importance of opening exercises; (b) What is necessary in order that a teacher's tenure of office may be continuous? and (c) What is your idea of an adequate pension law? These topics were discussed fully, many teachers participating.

Dr. Fennell closed the session with an earnest plea for a fight against the smoking of cigarettes, giving telling statistics to show the harmful effects of the use of cigarettes.

Prof. Beahm, Mr. King, Mr. Pearson and Miss Osbourn were appointed a committee on the framing of an adequate pension law, to report at the final session on Friday.

The session closed with "America, the Beautiful," sung by all present. The program will be continued today, when Miss Meek, of Columbia University, and Mr. Ellis, supervisor of high schools, will speak. The county league rally, under the direction of the county president, Hon. C. J. Meetez, will be held this afternoon.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS

The county school board held a meeting here on Monday, Rev. J. Royal Cooke, member for Brentsville district, and chairman of the board, presided. Supt. Charles R. McDonald, clerk of the board, and the board member representing each district composed the attendance.

Attendance officers charged with enforcement of the new compulsory education law were appointed as follows: Sheriff Charles A. Barbee, for the district below the run; Deputy Sheriff John P. Kerlin, for the district above the run, not including the town of Manassas, and Sergeant W. D. Miller, for Manassas.

CHEESE FACTORIES FLOODED WITH ORDERS

 orders for cheese at the market price from dealers all over northern Virginia and without soliciting them.

Our problem in this county is no more where will we find sale for our cheese, but a question of can we fill the orders. There is no reason why there should not be eight or ten cheese factories in operation in this county, which would mean as many times the number of dairy cows. This in turn would mean more of the valuable nitrogen-gathering feeds grown, would also mean a monthly check to a lot of farmers who now need one and do not have it.

If the farmer delivering his milk to the cheese factory has cows as good as his neighbor who ships to Washington, who will have them freshened in early spring, milk them on cheap pasture and the feed that he raises at home, and when the time of high-priced feed is necessary, dry them up, I really believe, for say nine months, he will net as much money as his neighbor who has to comply with all the city requirements of producing a milk fluid for the city trade.
