ABSTRACT

The guide is arranged in vertical columns relating curriculum concepts in American history to curriculum performance objectives, career concepts and career performance objectives, teaching methods, and resource materials. The three quarter course also presents occupational information on 61 different occupations including job duties, educational requirements, salary range, and employment opportunities. Space is provided for teachers' notes which will be useful when the guide is revised. Appendixes list teaching-learning activities; career development concepts; presidents of the U. S.; government related organization charts; selected references; organizations, periodicals, and references for career information, and audio-visual source information. (AG)

Preface

Meaningful existence is the goal of life in today's world. Living takes on meaning when it produces a sense of self-satisfaction. The primary task of education must be to provide each individual with skills necessary to reach his goal.

When children enter school, they bring with them natural inquisitiveness concerning the world around them. Normal curiosity can be the nucleus which links reality to formal training if it is properly developed. A sense of continuity must be established which places education in the correct perspective. Communities must become classrooms and teachers resource persons. Skills such as listening, problem solving, following directions, independent thinking and rational judgement then can merge into daily living procedures.

In classrooms especially designed to form a bridge between school and the world of work, experiences must be developed. On campus performance in job tasks and skills, following a planned sequence of onsite visitation, will fuse information into reality. Practical relationships developed with those outside the formal school setting will provide an invaluable carry-over of learned skills.

Search for a rewarding life vocation is never easy. Without preparation it becomes a game of chance. With a deliberate, sequential, and planned program of development, decisions can be made based upon informed and educated judgements.

A full range career education program, K-12, will offer opportunities for participants to enter employment immediately upon completion of training, post secondary vocational-technical education, and/or a four-year college career preparatory program.

C. N. Boggess, Superintendent
Marlandale Independent School District

The Career Education Project has been conducted in compliance with the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and is funded by a grant from the U. S. Office of Education and the Texas Education Agency.

P H I L O S O P H Y

The philosophy of the Harlandale Independent School District is that the student's mental and moral values are of supreme importance.

The philosophy of Career Education is to restore dignity to the word work. Social studies in the Harlandale district is the means by which these two are achieved. The student realizes that service to others, self-respect, and pride in finishing a job is the path-way to happiness.

As the student explores the society of which he is a part, he is led to develop and test orderly explanations of human behavior and his relationships to the physical and cultural environment.

In social studies, the student develops a reverence and appreciation for the heritage left him by the people who made the great American dream possible.

In the social studies, if nowhere else, the consideration of the student's development and mental health, within the purview of the meanings of civilization, is paramount. The student is of supreme moral worth.

Hardy D. Cannon
Social Studies Department Chairman
Harlandale Independent School District

WHAT IS HISTORY?

"History is past politics, and politics present history." --Sir John Robert Seeley

"Man has no nature, what he has is ... history." --Jose Ortega y Gasset

"The worst possible enemy to society is the man who ... is cut loose in his standards of judgment from the past; and universities which train men to use their minds without carefully establishing the connection of their thought with that of the past, are instruments of social destruction." --

Woodrow Wilson

"Fellow-citizens, we cannot escape history." --Abraham Lincoln

"The history of the world is but the biography of great men." --Thomas Carlyle

"No man is fit to be entrusted with the control of the present, who is ignorant of the past, and no People who are indifferent to their past need hope to make their future great."--Anon.

"Human history is in essence a history of ideas." -- H. G. Wells

"History is the memory of things said and done." -- Carl L. Becker

"I shall be content if those shall pronounce my history useful who wish to be given a view of events as they really happened, and as they are very likely to repeat themselves." --Thucydides

"The use of history is to give value to the present hour and its duty." --Ralph Waldo Emerson

"To enable man to understand the society of the past and to increase his mastery over the society of the present is the dual function of history." --Eduard H. Carr

"When experience is not retained, as among savages, infancy is perpetual. Those who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it." --George Santayana

"We may gather out of history a policy no less wise than eternal; by the comparison and application of other men's forepassed miseries with our own like errors and ill deservings." --Sir Walter Raleigh

"To be ignorant of what happened before you were born is to be ever a child. For what is man's lifetime unless the memory of past events is woven with those of earlier times?" --Cicero

"History by apprising them (men) of the past, will enable them to judge the future ... it will qualify them as judges of the actions and designs of men." --Thomas Jefferson

Dear Teacher,

This guide is intended to be a "tool" for you to use, draw from, and then add to as you wish throughout the year. The column entitled "teacher's comments" is for you to write comments or make additions to the guide. Additional pages may be inserted if necessary. At the end of this school year, this guide will be returned to the Career Education Center. After reading your comments and suggestions for additions, a new guide will be written. We want this guide to be useful to you and will need your suggestions for revision.

During the school year, please contact me at the Career Education Center if I can help you in any way.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

In Congress, July 4, 1776

The Unanimous Declaration of the Thirteen United States of America

When, in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these, are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness. That, to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, that, whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established, should not be changed for light and transient causes; and, accordingly, all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But, when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government and to provide new Guards for their future security. -- Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world. --

He has refused his Assent to Laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good. He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature; a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining, in the meantime, exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose, obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary powers.

He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, Standing Armies, without the Consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the Military independent of, and superior to, the Civil power.

He has combined, with others, to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them by a mock Trial, from punishment, for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent:

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of Trial by Jury:

For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offenses:

For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighboring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies:

For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering, fundamentally, the Forms of our Governments:

For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection, and waging War against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time, transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty & perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow Citizens, taken Captive on the high Seas, to bear Arms against their Country, to become the executioners of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare, is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these Oppressions, We have Petitioned for Redress, in the most humble terms; our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts made by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends. We, therefore, the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the World for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be, Free and Independent States; that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved: and that, as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. And, for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes, and our sacred Honor.

The foregoing Declaration was, by order of Congress, engrossed, and signed by the following members:

New Hampshire	George Clyner

Working Constitutions

LEGISLATURE

Non-legislative powers: constituent; electoral; judicial; executive; administrative; and investigative. Its legislative powers are: enumerated; implied; resultant; emergency; mandatory; permissive; exclusive; and concurrent.

Two senators from each of 50 states; house membership for each based on population as determined by Census Bureau. State designation of Congressional districts permits gerrymandering. Representative must be 25 yrs. or older, resident of his state, and U.S. citizen 7 yrs. or more. Each house judges election results and qualifications of its members. House term, 2 yrs.; Senate, 6 yrs. Senator must be 30 yrs. or older, resident of his state, U.S. citizen 9 yrs. or more; 17th Amendment provided for direct election by people instead of by state legislatures. In House, Speaker is majority leader; in Senate, U.S. Vice-Pres. presides. A bill is referred to 1 of 20 standing committees in House, to 1 of 16 in Senate; these are decisive for legislation.

EXECUTIVE

Powers cover: law enforcement; military; appointment and removal; foreign affairs; pardon and reprieve; messages to Congress; veto; special sessions of Congress; budget; executive ordinances; contacts with political leaders.

White House Office has several Special Assts. to the President and various administrative and personal secretaries. Bureau of the Budget prepares and supervises budget; advises on work of all govt. agencies and on proposed legislation. Council of Economic Advisors advises Pres. on economic problems and policies, helps him prepare economic reports. National Security Council assists Pres. to execute programs, domestic and foreign, to safeguard national security. Office of Emergency Planning aids in mobilization of national resources for defense. Office of Science and Tech. Qualifications: Pres. and Vice-Pres.-35 yrs. or older, U.S. resident 14 yrs. or more, native-born citizen. Removal: only by impeachment.

JUDICIARY

Decides cases involving: the Constitution; federal laws; treaties; admiralty and maritime affairs; foreign representatives or nations; U.S. as a party; different states or citizens of different states.

U.S. Supreme Court (Chief Justice, 8 Assoc. Justices) judges original cases (1) affecting ambassadors, etc. and (2) involving a state; it judges all other cases of law and constitutionality which come to it on appeal or writ from state courts or are referred to it from lower federal courts, The 90 district courts (about 300 judges) render decisions which can be appealed to Circuit Courts (11 in 11 circuits). Circuit Court decisions are usually final unless Supreme Court intervenes, to decide a major constitutional or legal point. Special courts: U.S. Court of Claims (suits vs. U.S.); U.S. Court of Customs and Patent Appeals; U.S. Customs Court; Territorial Courts; Court of Military Appeals; Tax Court. Federal judges are nominated by Pres., confirmed by Senate. They can be removed only by impeachment.

THE U.S. CONSTITUTION

ratified by 9 states, June, 1788 (excluding N.Y. and Va.)

The Constitution has changed through 6 processes: (1) amendment; (2) passage of laws by Congress; (3) judicial interpretation; (4) influence of political parties; (5) influence of President; (6) changing customs. (See discussion of the 6 processes, below.)

The Constitution has 7 Articles and 24 Amendments (1-10), Bill of Rights) Articles:

- I. Legislative dept.: organization, powers, restraints
- II. Executive dept.: powers, restraints, treason defined
- III. Judicial dept.: powers, restraints, treason defined
- IV. Powers of states. Relation of states and territories to federal government
- V. Method of amending Constitution
- VI. National debts; supremacy of Constitution, federal laws and treaties, pledge of officials; no religious test for public office
- VII. Method for ratification

Amendment:

- 1-10: Bill of Rights. 11: Exemption of states from suit. 12: New method of electing President. 13: Slavery prohibited. 14: Protection of citizen's rights (due process). 15: Right to vote. 16: Income tax. 17: Popular election of senators. 18: Prohibition. 19: Woman suffrage. 20: Abolition of lame duck session. 21: Repeal of 18th. 22: Limitation of President to 2 elective terms. 23: Wash., D.C., voting rights. 24: Poll tax prohibited in federal elections.
- Passage of Laws by Congress: Congress interprets broadly its duties stated or implied by the Constitution. E.g., it established the Civil Service System (1883) under Art. II Sec. 2 which gives Congress authority to vest the appointment of "such inferior officers . . . in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of depts." Laws regulating mfg., farming, and public utilities are other examples of broad interpretation. Judicial Interpretation:

The courts have changed the interpretations to meet changing conditions. Thus, minimum wage laws and federal taxes on state employees were once invalid. Marbury v. Madison (1803) set precedent for court supremacy in interpretation. Influence of Political Parties: Political parties have modified the Constitution through method of electing President and pressure on Congress and President. Even minor parties have influenced interpretation by popularizing social reforms later espoused by the two major parties. Influence of President: The President has often applied his own interpretations of the Constitution, as in claiming right to send troops abroad to protect American property. Changing Customs: Changing customs have modified the Constitution, as in development of the President's Cabinet or legislative committees, or "senatorial courtesy" (whereby senator blocks appointment of objectionable nominee from his home state).

DECEPTIVE TRADE PRACTICES

The Consumer Credit Act contains a comprehensive listing of deceptive trade practices which are considered to be injurious to lawful trade and commerce, and to the borrower or buyer. Some of these are listed here:

- a) passing off goods or services as those of another;
- b) using deceptive representations or designations of geographic origin in connection with goods or services
- c) representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have;
- d) representing that goods are original or new if they are deteriorated, altered, reconditioned, reclaimed, or used;
- e) representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another;
- f) disparaging the goods, services, or business of another by false or misleading representation of fact;
- g) advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised;
- h) advertising goods or services with intent not to supply reasonably expectable public demand, unless the advertisement discloses a limitation of quantity;
- i) making false or misleading statements of fact concerning the reasons for, existence of, or amounts of price reductions; or
- j) advertising of a liquidation sale, auction, or other sale fraudulently representing that the seller is going out of business.

Any violation reported in writing by a borrower, buyer, or any other person, or upon the Consumer Credit Commissioner's own investigation, allows the Commissioner to seek a restraining order.

The Truth in Lending Act has specific advertising regulations which must be followed if the advertisement is used to promote, aid, or assist extension of credit. They are basically as follows:

- a) No advertisement can state a specific periodic consumer credit amount or installment amount arrangement or down payment requirement unless the creditor usually and customarily arranges such in those amounts.
- b) No advertisement on open end credit (such as revolving charge accounts) can be made unless such advertisement clearly and conspicuously sets forth:
 1. The time period, if any, within which any credit extended may be repaid without incurring a finance charge;
 2. The method of determining the balance upon which a finance charge will be imposed;
 3. The method of determining the amount
 4. If periodic rates are charged, these rates must be expressed as annual percentage rates;
 5. Any other information the Federal Reserve Board may require for adequate comparison of credit costs.
- c) No advertisement on other than open end credit can be made unless such advertisement sets forth:
 1. If the finance rate is stated, the rate must be expressed as an annual percentage rate.
 2. In the advertisement states the amount of down payment or the amount of any installment payment of the dollar amount of any finance charge, of the number of installments or period of repayment, then the advertisement must also state:
 - a. Cash price or amount of loan;
 - b. Down payment, if any;
 - c. Number, amount, and due dates or period or payments scheduled to repay the indebtedness;
 - d. The rate of the finance charge expressed as an annual percentage rate.

GUIDELINES TO GOOD CREDIT

However, if the individual wishes to achieve the greatest possible benefit from his credit relationship, there are a few simple guidelines he should follow.

- 1) Do not borrow beyond your capacity. Although assistance as available from most credit sources, only you gave sufficient information to determine accurately your capacity. Should you over-extend, you run the risk of embarrassment, a diminishment of your ability to use credit, and upon default, the possibility of a lawsuit, repossession, and even bankruptcy.
- 2) Know what you are charged. An important part of the payments you will make is the cost of credit. Just as you would compare prices for any other service you buy, you should have complete knowledge of, and evaluate what these charges are, how they are computed, and the total amount.
- 3) Read your contract. Your contract not only tells you what your obligations are, but also what your rights are and is as legally binding on the lender as it is on the borrower. Common sense alone should dictate that an individual read and understand the commitments he makes in a contract.
- 4) Know your rights. It is important to know both your own rights and the lender's rights before either of you need to exercise them. Contractual rights must be in the contract and before signing a credit agreement, you should be sure they are included.
- 5) Deal honestly. This sort of guideline should not be needed. Morally, ethically, and legally satisfactory credit relations are based upon good faith of the parties concerned.
- 6) When in doubt, consult a lawyer. Whenever there is serious doubt as to the determination of your rights and liabilities, of as to the course of action you should follow, you should consult an attorney in order to protect your credit.
