MEN'S BASKETBALL

University Athletic Association

The formation of the University Athletic Association (UAA) is a bold statement of what college athletics can and should be—that it is highly desirable and possible for a group of committed institutions to conduct a broad-based program of intercollegiate athletics for men and women; to compete with like academic institutions spread over geographically expansive areas; and to seek excellence in athletics while maintaining a perspective that holds the student-athlete and the academic mission of the institution as the center of focus.

The University Athletic Association, which is in its 34th year, is a significant expression of the principle that the provision of a high-quality college athletic experience is worth the commitment required of an institution. It is worthwhile not only because it benefits the entire campus community and, in turn, the institution itself.

Perhaps more importantly, the UAA is a strong statement that the success of intercollegiate athletics is wholly dependent upon institutional integrity and the ability of institutions to complete the full integration of athletics into the academic fiber of higher education.

Members of the UAA share the belief that academic excellence and athletic excellence are not mutually exclusive. Implicit in this belief are several sets of assumptions. The first is that the academic enterprise is the primary element. Student-athletes are just that—students first and athletes second.

The second set of assumptions has to do with athletic excellence. Athletic excellence is not to be confused with a win-at-all costs attitude. It properly relates to the caliber of experience offered to students who participate in intercollegiate athletics.

UAA institutions have captured 56 NCAA national team championships since the league's inception in 1987-88 —23 (10 volleyball, five women's basketball, two men's basketball, one men's tennis, two women's cross country, one women's indoor track & field, one women's outdoor track & field, one women's soccer) by Washington University.

Brandeis University, Carnegie Mellon University, Case Western Reserve University, University of Chicago, Emory University, New York University, University of Rochester and Washington University compete for the women's soccer championship.

The University Athletic Association (UAA) sponsors competition in 23 sports—12 for men and 11 for women. Competition is in several forms. Among these are round-robin play, round-robin tournaments, round-robin tournaments followed by a single elimination round, and championship meets or tournaments.

36th Annual Lopata Classic Champions, Washington University in St. Louis

Lucy and Stanley Lopata

The Lopata Classic—now in its 37th year—is made possible by a gift from the late Stanley Lopata, a Washington University alumnus and emeritus trustee, and his late wife, Lucy. President of Lopata Research and Development Corporation, Stanley founded and was chairman emeritus of the St. Louis-based Carboline Corporation. He also was past president of the William Greenleaf Eliot Society and recipient of the Society’s “Search” Award.

Active and dedicated supporters of Washington University, Stanley and Lucy sponsored student scholarships in addition to the Lopata Basketball Classic. They endowed a professorship in chemical engineering and were major benefactors to the construction of several buildings. The Village Housing complex was completed in the fall of 2001, and one of the four buildings was dedicated as the Lucy and Stanley Lopata House.

A key leader of the alliance for Washington University, Stanley received an Alliance Achievement Award in 1987, and he is a past recipient of the university’s Distinguished Alumni Award and the School of Engineering & Applied Science Alumni Achievement Award. In the fall of 1992, Stanley and Lucy were inducted into Washington University’s Sports Hall of Fame in the distinguished service category. Stanley passed away at the age of 85 on Jan. 19, 2000, while Lucy died May 24, 2013, at the age of 98.

Everyone involved with this tournament would like to thank Stanley and Lucy for helping make the Lopata Classic the most prestigious NCAA Division III basketball tournament in the nation.

2008 NATIONAL CHAMPIONS

Salem, Va., March 22, 2008 – Senior Troy Ruths scored 33 points to lead Washington University in St. Louis to its first NCAA Division III Men's Basketball National Championship with a 90-68 victory over No. 2-ranked and defending national champion Amherst College on March 22 at the Salem Civic Center in Salem, Va.

“Obviously it is a tremendous thrill for us to come out here and win the national championship. I think we played two great games against two good teams,” said Washington University head coach Mark Edwards, who improved his overall record to 477-233 in 27 seasons on the Danforth Campus. “To me that’s what basketball is all about. That’s Division III athletics and these are the kids that exemplify that.”

Ruths, who was named the Most Outstanding Player of the NCAA Championship and named the D3hoops.com National Player of the Year, was 9-of-13 from the field and hit a career-high 15-of-17 from the foul line. Ruths averaged 31.5 points and 7.0 rebounds per game at the Final Four, shooting 71.4 percent (20-28) from the field and 88.5 percent (23-26) from the foul line.

Sophomore Aaron Thompson added 19 points and four assists, and joined Ruths on the All-Tournament Team. Thompson averaged 17 points and four assists per game during the two-game stretch.

“Coming into this tournament I knew that without Sean (Wallis) we were going to need people to step up at critical times,” said Ruths, who finished his career second in points at Washington University with 1,801. “Throughout the whole season I saw a lot of double teams and triple teams and these last two games they decided to play me straight up and that’s what I was praying for.”

The Bears made it clear early on they were going inside to Ruths as he scored six of the first eight points, giving WU the 8-2 lead. Sophomore Cameron Smith equaled his point total from the first semifinal game with a three-pointer and a jumper off a steal in a span of 12 seconds, which pushed the lead to 13-4.

Thompson ignited an 8-0 run with two three-pointers and Ruths added two free-throws extending Washington U.’s lead to 21-8. Junior Tyler Nad-ing and Ruths combined to score 13-straight points to keep the lead in double figures at 35-25. Thompson hit his third three-pointer of the half, and then freshman Caleb Knepper came off the bench and drilled a triple, pushing the lead to 41-31.

Washington University (25-6) held a 45-32 halftime advantage after shooting 53.3 (16-30) percent from the field and 88.9 percent (8-9) from the free-throw line. The Bears had 13 assists on 16 made field goals, and committed just five turnovers. WU’s defense held Amherst to 0-for-6 shooting from three-point range. Ruths led all scorers with 17 first-half points, while Thompson added 11.

Ruths scored the first six points of the second half as Washington U. held onto a 51-38 lead, but Amherst’s Andrew Olson canned back-to-back three-pointers and Fletcher Walters added a three to trim the lead to 53-47.

The Bears answered with an 8-2 run of their own to build the lead back to double figures at 61-49. An 8-0 run by the Bears gave Washington U. its largest lead of the game at 69-51 with 10:04 remaining.

Senior Danny O’Boyle drained a three-pointer at the 1:37 mark to push the lead to 87-68 and seal the first national championship by a men’s team in school history.

Nading added 13 points, five rebounds, four assists and four steals for the Bears, who tied a school record with their 25th win of the season. The Bears also won 25 games in 2001-02 and 2006-07. Washington U. out-rebounded Amherst, 28-23, and improved its season record to 17-0 when leading at the half.

The Bears shot 60 percent (30-50) from the field for the game, including a sizzling 70 percent (14-20) in the second half. Washington U. also hit 23-of-28 (82.1 percent) from the foul line in the victory and forced 16 turnovers.
