BOMBS OF SUFFRAGETTES DISCOVERED IN CARS OF LONDON PASSENGER TRAIN

Medals for Valor and Hunger Striking, "Fed by Force" Crosses and "Grille" Brooches Were Decorations Given by Lead-

TRIALS OF WOMEN IN BOW STREET POLICE COURT REVEALS CAMPAIGN REWARD SYSTEM

London, May 14.—Suffragettes' bombs were found to-day in one of the passenger cars of a local train running between Kingston-on-Thames and London, on the Southwestern Railway, making the third outrage of this kind on the same line within two months. No explosion occurred and the bombs were handed over to the police.

A militant suffragette arson squad destroyed a large unoccupied residence on the "Highlands" at Sandgate-On-Sea near Folkestone on the English Channel last night. Postcards addressed to "the dishonorable prime minister" and to "the dishonorable Reginald McKenna, home secretary," were left lying about on the premises.

There was also a postcard bearing the words: "We hope this is not a poor widow's house."

Striking evidence of the extensive operations of the militant suffragettes and the bad effect on the women's cause of the outrages committed by them were given to-day on the resumption of the hearing at the Bow street police court of the charges against the suffragette leaders. They are charged with infringement of the malicious damage to property act.

Those who occupied the prisoners' enclosure were Miss Harriet Rebecca Kerr, Miss Agnes Lake, Miss Rachael Barrett, Miss Beatrice Saunders, Miss Annie Kenny, Miss Laura Lennox, and the chemist, Clayton. The case against "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond was postponed until July owing to her illness.

Letter carriers and post office officials testified as to the great damage done to the mails by chemicals and other fluids poured into the public letter boxes.

Katherine Strange, proprietress of a tea pavilion which was burned in Kew Gardens by the militant suffragettes, described a visit she made to Miss Kerr after the destruction of the property. Miss Kerr told her that she took much too personal a view of the matter. No doubt, Miss Kerr said, the women employed in the tea pavilion, although they had lost their employment, would be very glad ultimately that they lent a helping hand to their fellow women. Anyway, she continued, the only means of rousing the government was to attack private property, and this the militant suffragettes intended to continue to do until they had obtained the vote.

Mrs. Strange informed Miss Kerr that her husband's tea pavilion in Regents' Park was destroyed also, and suggested that the Strange family had suffered enough and its members would be glad if the militant suffragettes would leave their other refreshment pavilions standing.

In reply, Miss Kerr declined to make any promise, but said she would report the suggestion to headquarters.

A medal manufacturer testified about the decoration supplied to the Women's Social and Political Union. He said the medals inscribed "For valor" cost $1.50 each, hunger strike medals $2.30 and fed by force crosses $5. The most distinguished decorations known as "grille" brooches cost $10.50, he said. Bars were also supplied for addition to the ribbons on the medals when subsequent acts were considered worthy of special mention in dispatches. Testimonials recording acts of lawlessness by adherents of the militant organization were distributed among the rank and file by the leaders of the union.

The former business manager of the Suffragettes testified regarding the responsibility of the various prisoners for the different departments of that newspaper. He said his services were dispensed with by the militant society because Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst thought it better that only women should conduct the paper. As to the loss of circulation by the Suffragettes, after militant acts had been committed, the witness said that at first 30,000 copies were printed, but the sales were only 17,000. Their circulation then dropped to 7,500, but 3,000 copies were circulated in other ways.

Just before last Christmas he told Mrs. Pankhurst that this falling off was due to the letter box raids, but she shrugged her shoulders and said that could not be possible, because when the women were most militant they were most successful.

JAPANESE ENTERING NEW HEBRIDES IN LARGE NUMBERS MENACE TO AUSTRALIA

Sydney, N. S. W., May 14.—The influx of Japanese and Chinese into the New Hebrides group of islands in the Pacific is a menace to Australia according to Rev. Aloysius Paton, engaged in mission work in the islands.

Mr. Paton says that under the condominium laws of the Hebrides, Japanese and Chinese can enter easily and this is going to bring Australia face to face with a serious problem affecting the white Australia deal. He says it is no use having a white Australia with a menace like this at the door. He suggests that the islands, which belong to the French, should be converted into British dependencies.

At present Japanese are entering in large numbers and their doing there are kept as silent as the grave. The New Hebrides are only 900 miles from Australia.

SECOND SET OF THE PENNSYLVANIA GONE

Washington, D. C., May 14.—Detectives investigating the theft of plans for the electrical wiring of the Dreadnought Pennsylvania declared to-day that publication of the "leak" probably would hamper their work and might prevent solution of the problem. The department of justice has several likely clues which may lead to arrests. Nothing so far has developed to directly connect any foreign nation with the suspects.

The fact that the ordinance and steam engineering bureaus of the navy department for many months have been missing plans and documents relating to American vessels and their armament has created alarm among officials and will undoubtedly cause the military authorities to surround the war secrets of the United States with greater safeguard.

None of the missing papers, officials reiterated to-day, were important or contained secrets of advantage to foreign nations.

Some of these were inclined to believe that the losses probably were the result of carelessness of clerks, but the investigating forces of the government continued to endeavor to unravel the mystery.

Further investigations by the navy department revealed to-day show that the second set of plans of the new Dreadnought Pennsylvania were to be stolen from the Bureau of steam engineering taken between the evening of Saturday, March 22, and the following Monday. The plans were duplicated on March 4. Secretary Daniels reiterated to-day that they would be of no particular value to anyone seeking naval information not generally made public and that they contained no military secrets.

Salad Celestine One TO PERMIT WEARING PREVAILING FASHION

Montreal, May 14.—The Made-in-Canada train which is to tour the Dominion from end to end with the object of showing Canadians what their country can do in the way of manufacture and farm produce will start to-day on its western journey. It will consist of nine cars, five from Toronto and four from Montreal, while another car is loaded with exhibits from Winnipeg, and will join the train at Port Arthur. There will also be two dining cars and a sleeping car attached.

The train left for Ottawa to-day, and on Friday it will be at Toronto, on Saturday at Sudbury. The journey through the West will last for seven weeks.

In all it will visit 124 cities and towns. Its western journey after leaving Winnipeg will be by way of Moose Jaw, Lethbridge, Cardston, Macleod, Calgary, Wetaskiwin, Camrose and back to Moose Jaw and Regina. Then it will go to Saskatoon, Prince Albert, Lloydminster and Edmonton, back to Saskatoon via Wainwright and Asquith and thence to Winnipeg via Watrous, Canora and Portage la Prairie. Fifty-five farms in all have contributed to the exhibits. Moving pictures will be shown on board at every stopping place.

FIRE DAMAGES ANDREWS.

Saskatoon, Sask., May 14.—After fighting a prairie fire which threatened to destroy the town of Andrews, Sask., all day Tuesday and all last night, citizens to-day succeeded in extinguishing the flames and saved a portion of the town. The loss is estimated at $40,000.

AUSTRALIA BOYCOTTS INDIANAPOLIS TOOLS

Sydney, N. S. W., May 14.—All non-union tools made in Indianapolis, Ind., will be boycotted in Australia in future. This resolution was made known to-day by the building trades federation of Australia, which has acceded to a request from the Association of Machinists in Indianapolis received recently. The United States unionists asked the Australians to help them in the matter of a boycott, and did not ask in vain.

AMBASSADOR RESIGNS.

Constantinople, May 14.—The British ambassador to Turkey, Sir Gerard Augustus Lowther, resigned his post to-day owing to ill-health. Sir Gerard, who was secretary to the British embassy in Washington from 1899 to 1901, married in 1906 Alice Blight, a daughter of Atherton Blight, of Philadelphia.

POACHER IS CAUGHT OFF HAYCOCK ISLAND

William Jolliffe Makes Capture Sunday Afternoon After Chasing Schooner Valiant

HAD EIGHT THOUSAND POUNDS OF FISH BELOW

Eighteen Ton Boat Owned in Seattle Surprised in Three-Mile Limit

IS TENTH TAKEN IN THE PACIFIC WATERS

Vancouver, May 14.—Captain Newcombe, of the Dominion fisheries cruises, William Jolliffe, arrived here yesterday afternoon with an American fishing poacher in tow which he captured Sunday afternoon about one mile off Haycock island, near Cape Scott. The captured poacher had in his holds freshly caught halibut, and is now lying at the government wharf at New Westminster. Information of her capture has been sent to headquarters at Ottawa by Capt. Newcombe.

The captured schooner is the Valiant, of Seattle, 18 tons burden, under command of Captain Courage, who made an effort to escape from the fishery cruiser when the latter sighted the poacher five and a half miles offshore. Capt. Newcombe soon overtook the schooner and boarded her. His statement regarding the capture to-day is that he found the vessel well within the three-mile limit and caught her.

When Captain Newcombe boarded the fishing boat, he was greeted by Captain Courage, who said that he had just arrived from Seattle with nothing but bait and ice aboard. He averred that not only had he not been engaged in fishing on Sunday morning, but he had not been within the three-mile limit.

An inspection of the schooner disclosed evidence of recent fishing and on a thorough examination 8,000 pounds of halibut were found below hatchets.

On finding himself under arrest the captain of the schooner at first declined to go to Vancouver, saying he was northbound on a fishing trip. At the end of a tow line he and his schooner were then brought to this port. The Valiant is owned by the Seattle Net & Twine Company, and had been three years on the fishing banks. It is said that Captain Courage had been warned not to fish within the three-mile limit.

It was 4 p.m. when the Jolliffe anchored in English Bay and Captain Newcombe immediately came ashore and telephoned his account of the capture to the department of marine and fisheries at Ottawa. Captain Courage also came ashore and communicated with his owners at Seattle and the American consul here. This morning the Valiant towed the Valiant to New Westminster and left her at the government wharf.

The Valiant is the tenth American poacher captured in recent years, the others being the North, the Alice, the Francis Cutting, the Charles Lewis Woodbury, the Edrie, the Thelma, the Bonita, the Active and the Sarah.

The statement of Capt. John C. Courage, master of the schooner, is as follows:

"At the time of the seizure of the Valiant the vessel was eight and three-quarter miles from the nearest land. No effort was made to escape from the fisheries cruiser Jolliffe. The Valiant had not been fishing since late the previous night, and then, nor at any previous time, illegally. No dories or gear had been in the water that day. We can prove ourselves innocent of this charge. There was nothing to justify the seizure of the Valiant."

"You can say for me that if necessary this case will be carried to the Privy Council for final settlement."

SCUTARI FORCE LANDED.

Vienna, May 14.—The international force which is to occupy the former Turkish stronghold of Scutari until the new Albanian government has been established was landed at the port of San Giovanni di Medua this morning. It was enthusiastically received by the Albanians.

BORDEN MAY COME TO WEST THIS SUMMER

Hon. W. T. White, Finance Minister, Will Be One of Cabinet Party

Ottawa, May 14.—So far no definite arrangements have been made for my going west," said Premier Borden to-day in reference to a despatch from Victoria to the effect that he would visit that city this summer. "I have not decided myself whether I shall go but even if I do not several members of the cabinet will. The trip will be made after the session is over." Premier Borden said that it would not be a political tour. Various large cities of the west will be visited with a view to studying conditions. The party will include Hon. W. T. White, minister of finance.

Washington, D. C., May 14.—Thereon Budd when he absconded with $5,000 less $150 awarded to a British owner for the seizure of his vessel on the Great Lakes two weeks before the outbreak of the war of 1812, not only impoverished the United States district court of New York, of which he was clerk, but also started a controversy that has existed since.

The case has now come up before the international tribunal for the settlement of pecuniary claims, which is in session here.

Henry James Bethune, of Canada, is the claimant. He is the heir of the shipowner, and he has pressed his claim under many administrations and before many congresses. Its legality never was seriously questioned, but for some reason or other the legislation necessary to meet it has always failed.

The $5,000, minus $150, plus six per cent compound interest since 1812, more than a century, reaches a handsome amount.

A verdict and a cheque, it is expected, will be won by Mr. Bethune.

BISHOP PERRIN ON RELIGION IN CANADA

Writes Letter to London "Times" Replying to Statement by Dr. Clifford.

EXTERNAL MATTERS APT TO DECEIVE

No More Religious Peace in Western Canada Than There is in England

LITTLE CHRISTIANITY WITHOUT THE CHURCH

London, May 14.—Rt. Rev. W. W. Perrin, Bishop of Willesden, formerly of British Columbia, writes to the Times entering an emphatic protest so far as events in western Canada are concerned, against the following paragraph in a letter from Dr. Clifford, the Baptist leader: "Judging from my experience in Canada, the United States and Australia, Welsh disestablishment will bring peace amongst Christian men now at strife. Disestablishment is a condition precedent to Christian unity."

Bishop Perrin says: "It would be interesting to know what length of time Dr. Clifford has spent in Canada, for it is notorious that those who hastily visit the country almost invariably are deceived by external circumstances. I can speak from the experience of eighteen years in British Columbia and have no hesitation in saying that there is neither more nor less peace amongst Christian men in western Canada than in England. It is this lamentable lack of unity which stops every effort to introduce religious instruction into our elementary schools in the west. The synods of the Anglican church in Canada are unanimous in the wish to change the present state of affairs but their efforts invariably are opposed by other Christian bodies." Bishop Perrin adds: "If Dr. Clifford had lived as I lived in the far west he would know how little Christianity enters into the national life where there is no established church."

"The stipends paid ministers in Canada," he concludes, "except in a few parishes, are a scandal and it is bad enough here in England."

Interest on $4,817 for Over Hundred Years Will Be Paid If Case Won

Washington, D. ## IMPERIAL CONFERENCE MAY BECOME AN ADVISORY COUNCIL TO MEET ANNUALLY

Melbourne, May 14.—"I think it probable that the Imperial conference will develop along the lines of an advisory council," said Prime Minister Andrew Fisher to-day in commenting on the movement in the British House of Commons, fathered by Mr. Page-Croft, to change the conference into a council.

Mr. Fisher expressed the hope that future imperial conferences will be called together every two years instead of every four years as is now the case, and subsequently be made an annual fixture from which it would be easy to convert it into an advisory council.

This, said the premier, would have the effect of establishing constant connection between representative men of Great Britain and the Dominions, and would be an effective method of linking the government of the whole Empire,

VARYING EFFECT OF TARIFF PROPOSALS

Sugar Will Cost Less, Cement Men in Quandary; Benefit to Printing Business

Toronto, May 14.—Commercial Toronto discussing the new tariff proposals of the Hon. Mr. White, minister of finance, and various were the calculations made as to what effect the changes would have on business conditions generally. Wholesale grocers say that to the consumer the proposed reduction of the sugar tariff should be welcome news for it will bring down the wholesale price 10 to 20 cents a hundredweight, and this they think may enable the retailer to lower the price a little in the sale of quantities exceeding five pounds.

Toronto's cement men have been unable to make up their minds how harmful will be the reduction on their product. It should not greatly affect the industry. If it did it would mean the ruin of a number of cement mills throughout the country.

In reference to the removal of the duty from Linotype machines, the Canadian Press Association held that the duty of 20 per cent, which had been in force amounted in the case of the high-priced linotype machines to some $600 or $700 on each, and to a proportionate amount for the less expensive machinery. It is estimated that the duty collected on type setting and type casting machines coming into Canada has been upwards of $60,000 to $75,000 a year.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT SHAM EDUCATION RISK ASKED TO AID BOYS IN CINEMATOGRAPH

Deputation Headed by Prince of Teck Appeared Before Premier and War Minister

HEARTY SYMPATHY BUT NO FINANCIAL HELP

Toronto, May 14.—Mr. Asquith, with whom was Colonel Seely and J. A. Pease, recently received at the House of Commons a deputation from the British boys' training corps.

Prince Alexander of Teck in introducing the deputation said that the corps sought to furnish that training, the lack of which caused so many boys to become engaged in "blind alley" occupations, or to find themselves stranded at the age of 17 or 18 for the want of any technical skill or knowledge. Their further design was to furnish in due season and in due abundance the best material for the regular or territorial forces. The annual cost of maintaining a corps of 100 boys would be from $25,000 to $30,000, while an enrolment of 400, the ideal strength for the corps, would cause an approximate annual expenditure of $75,000.

Lieut.-Col. Almager Pollock explained that they intended to provide an industrial boarding school at Hounslow, affording also the advantages of military training. In the first six months the training would be almost entirely military, but after that it would be almost entirely industrial.

Mr. Asquith, in reply to the deputation, said that anything which would provide for boys during those years in which the educational system at present did not adequately provide for, anything that would adapt them for a respectable and useful career in life, whether military or civilian, deserved the sympathy and support of all interested in the progress of the country. He gathered that they did not want sympathy so much as cash, and that was a matter which primarily rested with the chancellor of the exchequer. Whatever sympathy one might have there must be money which was not required for other purposes, and available for that purpose, before they could even consider it.

He told them quite frankly that, in the existing state of the national resources and with the demands made upon them, he was not over sanguine that the chancellor of the exchequer would give a favorable answer to any appeal made to him on that score. In any case before the government could provide money it would require much more definite information as to how the money was to be expended. They must submit a scheme based upon practical experience before they could expect the government, with the numerous pressing claims made upon it day by day, to give anything more than an assurance of hearty sympathy with the objects they had in view.

Mrs. Clegg and Mrs. Wheatley Are Present at Convention From Victoria

Winnipeg, Man., May 14.—Members of the Imperial Order Daughters of Empire, to the number of over one hundred, representing every section of Canada from Halifax to Victoria, opened their thirteenth annual meeting yesterday in the Royal Alexandra hotel.

Mrs. A. E. Gooderham, of Toronto, national president, was in the chair and was supported by the national executive. A graceful incident of the session was the presentation to Mrs. Gooderham by the Brandon chapter of a bouquet of roses.

Reports were read from the provincial chapters of New Brunswick, Manitoba, British Columbia and Municipal Chapters of Hamilton, Kingston, London, Edmonton, Sherbrooke, Montreal, St. Catharines, and Toronto. The delegates included Mrs. J. E. Gooderham, Mrs. James George, Mrs. J. Bruce, Mrs. Featherstonehaugh, Mrs. Chaplin, of Toronto; Mrs. Van Wart, New Brunswick; Mrs. Henshaw, Vancouver; Mrs. A. Smith, Mrs. R. S. Wilson, Mrs. Trotter, St. John; Mrs. M. Penchen, Toronto; Mrs. Auden, Toronto; Mrs. Clegg, Mrs. Wheatley, Victoria; Mrs. J. McKay, Fort William; Mrs. Barnes, Edmonton; Mrs. F. G. Sparling, Saskatoon; Mrs. Spence, Calgary; Mrs. Garland, Portage la Prairie; Mrs. Harrington, Dauphin; Mrs. Kennedy, Hamilton; Mrs. Mitchell, Amherst; Mrs. Clutterbuck, Toronto; Mrs. Campbell, St. Catharines; Mrs. Scarfe, Brantford; Miss Boulton, Toronto.

A most waiting, however, for President Mondragon to act, General Huerta called himself on General Diaz, as early as half past seven next morning, embraced General Diaz and said: "This is the way for men to act; there will be elections, no matter who objects; we will be the best of friends and we must always be friends. Our relations must be cordial and absolutely straightforward. I want to take breakfast with you; let them bring me chocolate." After an animated conversation Generals Huerta and Diaz went out together for a stroll.

HUERTA CABINET SAID TO BE UNITED

Mexican President Also Reported to Insist on Diaz' Candidacy for Chief Executive

THE MEETING BETWEEN PRESIDENT AND DIAZ

Mexico City, May 14.—It is asserted in circles that on hearing the first rumors of General Diaz's withdrawal from the presidential campaign and his intention to sail for Europe together with General Mondragon, minister of war, President Huerta called the latter and said substantially: "You and Felix and myself are responsible for the present situation; on ourselves rests the responsibility before the nation, the world and history; we must not part; I will not have General Diaz withdraw 9 sharp."

Without waiting, however, for President Mondragon to act, General Huerta called himself on General Diaz, as early as half past seven next morning, embraced General Diaz and said: "This is the way for men to act; there will be elections, no matter who objects; we will be the best of friends and we must always be friends. Our relations must be cordial and absolutely straightforward. I want to take breakfast with you; let them bring me chocolate." After an animated conversation Generals Huerta and Diaz went out together for a stroll.

At 11 o'clock the same morning the much talked of cabinet meeting took place, at which it had been said nearly all the members would present their resignation. Nothing of the sort was done, however, for according to the statement given out by the foreign minister, Lic. de la Barra, the cabinet instead took steps for the greater solidarity of its members. Harmony existing between President Huerta and his cabinet, as between the executive and General Diaz, was emphasized, as was the expediency of calling the election for the term proposed by the minister of the interior.

It takes a mighty good paint to resist these five relentless foes—for one or more are on the job day and night.

Good paint, like the good soldier, when attacked, quickly demonstrates its defensive qualities and what it is made of. PURITY is the only impenetrable armour.

OF TRADE PATHWAY ON PACIFIC OCEAN

Minister of Defence and Education in New Zealand Government Hopes for Joint Navy Between the Three Pacific Dominions

Vancouver, B. C., May 14.—Colonel Hon. Calhoun James Allen, minister of defence and education for New Zealand, was given a flattering reception at the Canadian Club luncheon in Dominion hall yesterday. There was a large attendance and on the arrival of the distinguished guest the applause was loud and sustained.

Colonel Duff Stuart presided and among those at the head table were Mayor Baxter, C. E. Tisdall, M. P. P.; W. R. James, Alderman Crowe, Jonathan Rogers and others.

Colonel Allen's address was largely an argument in favor of Canada, Australia and New Zealand uniting in a common defence of the trade routes and British shores of the Pacific.

In opening, he said it had been peculiarly at home here, not alone because he had crossed this great country and had met many of its people, but because the western coast seemed so much nearer to New Zealand. The same sea lapped the shores of both countries, the same emblems were flung to the breeze, and the same problems confronted Western Canada and New Zealand to a certain degree.

He then took up the question of naval defence. He pointed out that in the last fifteen years Great Britain had lost her proud position as undisputed mistress of the seas. The growth of other powers had changed conditions. We cannot say to-day that we control all the seas. Great Britain is no longer in "splendid isolation." She could not afford to be. She had sought alliances and to-day we must depend on the entente cordiale.

"I am a Britisher," Col. Allen continued, "would be glad to see a consolidated Empire strong enough to do without the assistance of the entente. Not that we want the entente cordiale."

IT IS THE END.

The Rainbow is to be scrapped. In other words she will be abandoned as a training ship, and we presume the same course will be adopted with regard to the Niobe. Instructions were issued from Ottawa some time ago to the commanders of the two vessels, facilitating the discharge of the recruits, and an officer of the department came out to attend to the details incident to the termination of their service. The Times' announcement on this point, made after due investigation, was confirmed a few days later by the morning paper, so there can be no dispute as to the government's attitude towards the preliminary department of the Canadian naval organization established by virtue of the law of 1910. The Times has always contended that the government proposed to put an end to the Canadian navy programme. Both Mr. Borden and Mr. Hazen are unequivocally on record in this particular, a fact, we think, our Conservative friends familiar with the question will frankly admit. But we entertained a solitary, isolated hope that Mr. Borden would change his mind for the fifth time, and decide to continue the training service in preparation for the organization of a Canadian navy on the Australian model at some future date.

Have our readers grasped the full significance of the government's action regarding the two training ships? It means that Mr. Borden's permanent policy, if he ever has one, will not provide for the establishment of a navy built, manned and maintained by this Dominion. It means that the three ships to be stationed at Gibraltar will never be recalled by this government to form the essential elements of fleet units on the Pacific and Atlantic coasts, and that the suggestions of the government press that this might be done are the veriest buncombe. In a speech in the legislature last session Sir Richard McBride, in the course of a half-hearted endorsement of Mr. Borden's proposal, which, as a British Columbian, he really cannot contemplate with favor, said that a Canadian permanent naval policy required much care and deliberation and he emphasized the importance of training men to man ships when they were available for service. The morning paper a few months ago announced its approval of a Canadian navy and prided itself that it had never deviated from its original attitude in this respect. Will the Premier and our contemporary join us in a protest against the abandonment of the Rainbow and Niobe as training ships? Of course we assume they will be honest enough to agree that we cannot hope to have a navy for this country unless we train men for service on our ships.

Where is Mr. Borden driven by the inevitable logic of his action? His permanent policy must be one of contribution. Call it world-service, or anything you like, it is beginning a system which he himself once said would "tend more than anything else to a severance of those ties which bind Canada to the Empire." Statements at Westminster have frequently told us that the responsibility for foreign policy and the issues of peace and war cannot be shared with the dominions. We, therefore, are being asked to embark upon a course that every thoughtful student of Imperial affairs who gives consideration to it must see is fraught with the gravest danger to the imperial fabric. In this connection we may point out that not one person in Canada knew what was to be done with the three ships which it is proposed the dominion shall contribute until Mr. Churchill two months ago announced that they were to be stationed at Gibraltar, and would make "periodical cruises around the world."

We protest against the abandonment of the Canadian navy scheme. We protest against the alternative contribution of ships to be stationed in European waters. This province is entitled to more protection than can be afforded by a squadron stationed at Gibraltar, a squadron that would never be sent here if the Mediterranean and the Pacific simultaneously became danger zones. From the standpoint of the admiralty British interests in the Mediterranean would be paramount, and would have the first claim to protection. Australia realizes her danger and her people, with the eloquent endorsement of Hon. George E. Foster ringing in their ears, are buckling to the task of protecting their own coasts—policy our morning contemporary so loftily derides—with ships built, manned, maintained and controlled by Australians. New Zealand statesmen have announced their intention of adopting a similar policy. And though Canada is as vulnerable as these two dominions and though there may unfortunately develop a menace common to all, we are asked to begin what must be a permanent system of contributions of ships to be stationed in European waters.

ALAS! ALAS!

English Toryism is in a despairing mood. This was echoed recently at the annual meeting of the Primrose League in Albert Hall, when Bonar Law wrote: "Every principle which the league has been formed to promote is now in danger. The constitution has been destroyed. The church is threatened and the integrity of the United Kingdom is again imperilled." Lord Curzon, who presided, was equally pessimistic, stating that they were drifting "nearer and nearer the catastrophe." Any day a few months hence, perhaps a few weeks hence, the thunder of the cataclysm would probably be heard."

How sad! There is something strangely familiar in these lamentations. They first welled from the outraged soul of King John when the Great Charter was wrung from him. They ascended from Charles I. and his bedizened cavaliers when the people exacted from him other guarantees of their liberties. When the franchise was extended in the United Kingdom bad-eyed Tories predicted the early dissolution of their country. When responsible government was proclaimed in Canada they had a melancholy farewell to this dominion as a part of the Empire. We are not surprised that they regard the splendid domestic legislative reforms of the Asquith government as a preliminary to the end of all things. Some old Bourbon crowd, absolutely certain that in permitting a democratic administration to remain in power so long Providence has capitulated to the Evil One.

JOURNALISTIC SNOBBERY.

A very fine line of snobbery has been developed by an organ called the "Canadian Gazette," which is published in London, and which, in recently rebuking the Toronto Star for desiring a commoner as Governor-General, has the following:

"If our contemporary means that what Canada desires at this juncture of her history is a shirt sleeve sort of Governor-General, we believe it to be profoundly mistaken."

The Canadian Gazette goes on to say that what Canada really needs is a first class Lord or Marquis, or some man, as it naively states, "of the governing class." What the Gazette really means when it refers to the British aristocracy as the governing class is really more than we can comprehend. Perhaps it can enlighten us. But as far as outward appearances go, at least, Britain is to-day as democratic as almost any country in the world. We venture to say that the aristocracy do not form the governing class. On the other hand, they very share in the government of the realm is now tottering to its fall. The country's leader, one of the most resourceful she ever had, is a commoner; neither has the leader of the opposition or Mr. Balfour a handle to his name. While the Canadian Gazette refer to these men as "shirt sleeve species" and count them not among the governing class, they are.

The truth is that our funkeishy contemporary, which possesses a Canadian name without owning to one atom of Canadian spirit, has not yet disabused its mind of the worm-eaten tradition of breed and birth, though to-day that same tradition lies gasping under the throttling heel of progress. The only aristocracy that the spirit of this age will recognize is the aristocracy of brains, of genius, of achievement, and that will be recognized whether it be found in the farmer's son or in the heir to a title. It is the men of lowly birth who are making the great history of this glorious age of the present, who have conceived its greatest triumphs from the invention of the steam engine to the wiring of the world. These are the men, these of "the shirt-sleeved species," who have peopled the vast silences with myriad voices and annihilated time and space with the powerful weapons of untrammeled genius. These men form "the governing class" about

THE MISSING VERSES.

The newly-discovered verses of St. Mark's gospel which have just been detected in the Freer manuscript found in Egypt six years ago, are of great importance, inasmuch as, in addition to enlarging in some small degree an account which is at once the most vivid and most telling of all, they add still further to the authentic records we have of the spoken words of the great head of the Christian church. These verses are found in no other place in the New Testament; though they are quoted in part in the Vulgate, the revision of the old Latin version by St. Jerome which to-day is the final authority of the whole Roman Catholic church.

Year by year fresh discoveries are regularly made of the manuscripts of antiquity; ardent bands of archaeologists are scouring all the most ancient portions of the old world in hope of bringing to light fresh relics of the ages wherein history is very vague. Thus it is more than likely that the records of scriptural days is not yet complete. Recent discoveries in the pyramids and about the base of the enigmatic Sphinx have illuminated more fully an era long before the carpenter of Nazareth came into the world. So that it is never safe to argue that the last word has been said. Probably when the next version of the Bible is written these slight changes will be introduced into the text and will help to preserve records which are of vast importance to all Christendom.

It would be difficult to over-estimate the influence that the Authorized Version of the Bible has had upon all phases of human life. Not only has it exercised an outstanding effect on English thought and literature, but it stands to-day in the highest niche in the pantheon of English letters, as the most discussed, the most criticized and yet the most immune in its literary perfection from the "foiled searchings of mortality."

THE ADVERSE BALANCE.

We do not agree with our contemporary that our immense excess of imports over exports contains no disquieting features. It is true that Canada will be what may be described as an importing country for many years for obvious reasons, but it is also true that the discrepancy between what we buy and what we sell is arousing some apprehension in the minds of our political economists. In proof of this we merely have to point to the speech of Hon. George E. Foster in Toronto a few months ago, in which he outspokenly expressed uneasiness over the situation. It is to reduce the balance against us that he is now negotiating a reciprocity agreement with Australia; it was to increase our exports to the West Indies that we entered into a trade arrangement with those islands.

We have a foreign trade of more than a billion dollars. Nearly one-half of this consists alone of imports from the United States and the bulk of those imports is composed of manufactures. Our whole trade with the Republic in 1912 was $586,000,000. Of this $425,000,000 comprised imports. In other words we sent four dollars across the border in payment of goods for every dollar they sent to Canada. The disturbing feature is that while Canada's imports from the United States are increasing to such an extraordinary extent the increase in our exports is relatively small. In 1911-12 the increases were: Imports, $71,000,000; exports, $1,124,880. Speaking in the House of Commons on this point a few years ago, Mr. Foster, surely a competent authority, said:

"We have got to pay our balances; we cannot run credit from year to year on them. Now they can only be paid either in goods or in gold, and it is the export trade which in the final analysis has to pay our bills."

In other words, if we do not pay in goods we must pay in gold which we have to borrow.

SAVE THE MARK!

Wilfrid Laurier's naval proposals have been advanced solely with the idea of arousing political participation and obscuring the real issue—Colonial.

Not at all. The Liberal party has never departed from the policy of a Canadian navy, which Mr. Borden and the Colonist supported four years ago. At that time Mr. Borden emphatically opposed the contribution idea. Shortly afterwards he swallowed his principles as embodied in the resolution he helped to frame and with his following, including the morning paper, attacked the very policy he assisted in creating. He did this because he thought he which our contemporaries talk so glibly, and Canada could well do with one who has not a handle to his name, so long as he is a man who will have sympathy with her people and with their aims. The idea that Lewis Harcourt, who is slated as the next representative of the Crown in this country, must first be elevated to the position before he lands on these shores is not in line with the feelings of the great majority of Canadians, who want the man and not the title, the personality and not the adventitious aids and ornaments by which the Canadian Gazette appears to set so much store.

DAILY MAIL AND MR. BRYAN.

The London Daily Mail waxes very cynical over the peace proposals of Secretary Bryan, and among other scathing cognomen dub him as a "highly experienced diplomatist." Apparently the interpretation which the Mail places on the word diplomacy precludes any idea whatsoever of international peace, but is rather concerned with reading all the time on the fringe of war, a line which has been taken so effectively, and, it might also be said, disastrously, by the armchair press of Germany.

If there is one newspaper in the world which has done more than others towards making rancor and arousing bad blood between nations, that journal is the London Daily Mail. It has not failed in the matter of war scares to make mountains out of mole hills on every possible occasion, and has become classed to a great extent along with the Chauvinist press of France and the jingoes of Germany. It sees in the least suspicious of happenings, and Victorians will remember how the editor of one of the most responsible of German weeklies, while in Victoria on a visit, stated that the Mail had done more to foment bad relationships between the Fatherland and Britain than almost any other agency.

This is the journal which scouts Secretary Bryan's suggestions for the promulgation of international peace. Because he does not prize war and blood and glory, it sees in him a crank and an eccentric in diplomacy. Happily the world at large does not judge the peace proposer on the standards accepted by the Mail. Civilization in general, we truly believe, sees in Mr. Bryan's proposals, however imperfect and rough in outline as at present they may be, the beginnings of a noble propaganda which shall disseminate in the four corners of the earth principles which mankind has failed to appreciate properly in the course of nineteen centuries of enlightenment.

The recent exposure in which a certain section of the German press was implicated with Messrs. Krupp in connection with the attempts to rouse up war scares in order that armaments might have a ready sale, goes to show to what base uses unscrupulous newspapers can be hired. Deliberately and with malice prepense they set out to stir up ill-will between nations, which by all the ties of race and kindred, should be as brothers. While it may be true that "he pens in mightier than the sword," there is also little doubt that nothing can stir up nations to the baleful use of the sword as much as an indiscreet or frankly malicious pen.

Mr. Asquith, the Prime Minister of Britain, while speaking at a banquet the other day, referred to the newspapers as the "unofficial ambassadors" in Europe. It ill becomes ambassadors to set about unleashing the dogs of war; on the other hand, the highest ideal of a true envoy of any people is the fostering in every possible way, of elements of cord and mutual amity.

The output from the Clyde shipbuilding yards during February was 61,000 tons; this is the largest recorded during the second month of the year since 1901.

These three words go far to explain "Gramm" superiority. The Gramm factory is the oldest and largest truck factory on this continent. The Gramm Company started out to make commercial trucks, and have never been tempted to experiment with pleasure cars. ## ASSESSMENT FIGURES IN SAANICH DOUBLED

New Total Submitted to Council is $17,777,750; Court Revision Sits June 17

The total assessment of Saanich as reported by the municipal clerk to the council last night is $17,777,750. This is nearly double the assessment of 1912, when the figure was $9,156,707.

The report was accepted by the council right away without discussion, and the date for the court of revision was fixed at June 17. Appeals against the assessment will be heard on that day.

The reason for the largely increased assessment is the many new subdivisions which have been opened during the past year. Great interest in Saanich property is taken by persons living outside its boundaries, as probably no municipality in the province has more non-resident property owners. Fully 60 per cent. of its property is held by Victoria people.

The figure reported does not include improvements, the land only being assessed.

WILL RESIDE HERE.

Miss Lily Dodson, South Vancouver, and J. McKean, Victoria, Principals in Vancouver Wedding.

The marriage took place recently at the home of the Rev. Mr. McKay, Twenty-ninth avenue, South Vancouver, of Miss Lily Dodson, of South Vancouver, late of Darlington, England, and Mr. J. McKean, of Victoria, late of Glasgow, Scotland. Miss M. McKean acted as bridesmaid, and W. Graham as best man. The bridegroom's present to the best man was a set of cuff links, and to the bridesmaid gold pearl brooch. After the wedding ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Howard, South Vancouver. Many presents were received from their friends by the happy pair, who will make their future home in Victoria.

REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE

General Meeting of Members Will Discuss the Land Registry Act Amendments.

This evening at 8 o'clock there will be a general meeting of the Real Estate Exchange at which the amendments to the Land Registry Act passed at the last session of the legislature will be discussed by speakers from the legal, engineering and real estate points of view.

The different aspects will be treated by M. B. Jackson, Herrick McGregor and Ernest Kennedy, respectively, and there will be other gentlemen heard in criticism of the new clauses in the act which are found oppressive by all who have to do with registration of realty in any way.

To this meeting not only members and associate members of the exchange are asked but everyone who is in any way interested.

TWENTY-SIX FIRMS NOW USE KNIGHT.

That the Knight Motor is being used in ever-increasing numbers is borne out by the fact that 26 firms are now either manufacturing slide valve engines of the Knight type or equipping their cars with that motor.

In a book recently issued by the owners of the Knight engine patents, it was shown that of these 26 firms, three are British, four American, one Canadian, two Australian, two Belgian, nine French, four German and on Swiss.

This shows that the Knight Motor is popular in all countries where the manufacturing of motor cars is carried on to any great extent.

OVER YONDER.

Over yonder, over yonder
See the tolling millions wander,
Seeking prizes rare!
See them in the depths of worry,
In the hurry and the flurry,
Overcome by care!

Over yonder, over yonder—
Is it all worth while, I ponder,
As I'm sitting here,
With the love of all my neighbors,
Filling me with cheer!

Over yonder, over yonder—
Is it best to go? I wonder!
Golden is its lure!
But with all its dangers lurking
Would I not be rather working
Where Love is secure?

MAKES ARRANGEMENT FOR CLERK'S STAFF

Reorganization to Be Thorough in City Clerk's Department;
Transfers Effective Shortly

Arrangements have been completed for the reorganization of the city clerk's office along the lines forecasted in the Times last week on the transfer of the clerk of committees, J. M. F. Teifer, to the police department.

This transfer becomes effective immediately, and J. H. Whitwell, another clerk, will go over the city treasurer's office to assist in getting out the tax notices as soon as the court of revision has confirmed the assessment. Extra clerical work is always required in this department at this time of year.

The mayor's secretary, B. J. Sinnott, having been relieved of the labor bureau registration, will assist in the committee work. This is small now since Mayor Morley reverted to the "single" committee, except for finance, the council committee now being practically restricted to special committees for specific purposes.

Miss Cameron, the stenographer, will assist in general work, the office staff being cut by this arrangement to City Clerk Dowler, Assistant Clerk Bradley and two assistants.

It is also proposed, Mayor Morley states, to remodel the offices, in order to give more room, and make the committee room downstairs of real use to the aldermen for meetings.

ADDITION TO INDUSTRIES

Board of Trade Will Consider Matter of Encouragement to New Factories.

What can be done to attract and encourage the establishment of new industries in Victoria will be considered tomorrow morning at a meeting of the manufacturers' committee of the Board of Trade, which will be held at 11 o'clock.

Not only will attention be turned to the securing of new enterprises but the extension of the activities of those already here will be considered by the committee. A list of these has been prepared and the committee will see what might be done to have a larger output from them—and, of course, a bigger payroll.

The members of this committee are W. A. Jamieson, chairman; George Agar, Capt. Logan, L. D. McLean and R. W. Perry.

In the afternoon at 3 o'clock the immigration committee will meet, the members of this body being T. H. Slater, chairman; W. R. Dale, Norman Hardie, H. J. Scott and Leonard Tait.

The business for which the meeting has been called is quarantine affairs generally, but the particular matter that will probably occupy the attention of the members is the question of accommodation at the William Head station.

A short time ago the board obtained permission from the minister of agriculture for a visit to the station by a committee of the board, and it is expected that the immigration committee to-morrow will fix a date for the call.

WANT THREE-PLANK WALK

Qu'Appelle Street Residents Petition Saanich Council.

A petition asking that a three-plank sidewalk be laid on the north side of Qu'Appelle street between Burnside road and Maddock avenue was presented to the Saanich council last evening and the matter was referred to the superintendent of works to report to the works committee. Another request that grading and drainage be done on Beckwith avenue and a serious obstruction be removed was sent to the superintendent of works.

PLEASANT EVENT.

Mrs. G. D. Case was the hostess last evening at a surprise party given to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Beck on the occasion of their wooden wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Beck were the recipients of many good wishes and useful presents from their friends. Games and cards were indulged in and a most enjoyable evening spent.

SEA HURLED SEVEN MEN INTO SCUPPERS

Barque Celticburn Weathered terrific Hurricane Off Cape Horn on Way Here

STANCHIONS BROKEN AND BULWARKS BATTERED IN

Four-Master Was Almost En-gulfed in South Seas; Broken Bones Were Sustained

Capt. Chisholm, manager of the British four-masted barque Celticburn, which was towed into the Royal Roads late yesterday afternoon by the tug Pioneer, can well testify to the terrific velocity of the wind and the tremendous force of the mountainous seas which combine to form a real Cape Horn hurricane, following his encounter with one of these fierce storms when rounding the southern extremity of the South American continent on his last voyage. The Celticburn brought a cargo of coke out to Santa Rosalia, Mexico, from Hamburg, and later came up to Victoria for orders after a run of 32 days.

The big barque was having a good passage down the Atlantic, but after passing the latitude of the Falkland Islands, she fell in with the worst kind of weather. It was when Capt. Chisholm was laying his course to run around Cape Horn that the hurricane caught the ship. The fact that the Celticburn had a buoyant cargo helped her to weather the storm. Sail was rapidly shortened and soon every stitch of canvas was gasketed, leaving the vessel to scud along under bare poles. The great seas thundered aboard the craft and threatened to pound her to pieces. The staunch deck, however, resisted the onslaught of the thousands of tons of water. The Celticburn shook like a leaf at times, and it was a wonder that she did not shake out her masts. Her decks were continually covered with water, and quite frequently the forecastle and poop were submerged, leaving only the masts and yards out of the water.

Six Men Injured.

All hands on the barque marvelled at the way she held on, and any minute they expected to be dashed to eternity. Finally one gigantic Cape Horn sea, the like of which is seen nowhere else in the world, struck the ship. When the Celticburn recovered herself and the water had left her decks, it was found that nine of the bulwark stanchions had been broken off, fifty feet of the windward bulwarks stove in and broken. Seven men lay unconscious in the lee scuppers. The ship was sound, but although she was straining badly she was taking no water. Aid was at once rushed to the injured men, and Capt. Chisholm and his officers had an extremely busy time attending to the needs of the seven seamen and piloting the ship successfully through the storm. On examining the men the captain of the barque discovered that one of the men had a broken leg, two had ribs parted and the others suffered severe cuts and bruises. Capt. Chisholm assumed the task of a doctor and set to relieve the pain of the men and also patch them up. The injuries to the men also left the Celticburn short-handed, as the seven men were confined to their bunks. Despite the accident and the determined attempts of the hurricane to finish the career of the Celticburn, Capt. Chisholm finally nursed her through the storm and started on the run up the Pacific.

Fast Run From Rosalia.

The Celticburn, which has always boasted of being a fast sailer, came up from Santa Rosalia in 32 days, which is a smart passage. The barque was only five days bearing out of the Gulf of California, and once outside a fair wind bulged her sails and she ploughed up the coast in quick time. Capt. Chisholm, the present commander of the Celticburn, was not in charge of her on her last outward trip when she was battered by a hurricane off the Columbia river and lost two seamen overboard.

The Celticburn is waiting here for orders.

NON-MAGNETIC VESSEL IS RETURNING FROM CRUISE

New York, May 13.—The non-magnetic yacht Carnegie, which for more than a year has been on a cruise of distant seas in gathering data concerning compass charting, passed Asuncion, the capital of Paraguay, on April 30, according to reports received here. All on board are reported well.

The Carnegie, which is the only non-magnetic vessel in the world, being composed of wood, copper and bronze, is making its experiments in behalf of the Carnegie Institute at Washington. The vessel is scheduled to arrive in New York the latter part of next month.

EMPIRE IN SATURDAY.

A wireless message received this morning from R. M. S. Empress of Japan, Capt. Hopcroft, stated that the white liner would berth here at 8:30 o'clock on Saturday morning from Oriental ports. The Empress is making a fast run across the Pacific. She is bringing in many passengers and some cargo.

NIAGARA IS ONE DAY LATE.

The new Canadian-Australian liner Niagara, Capt. Gibb, was reported leaving Auckland, N. Z., one day behind her schedule with 486 passengers, according to advices received by L. D. Chetham, agent of the line here. The steamship is a speedy craft and will easily make up the time before reaching Victoria.

ADVANCE RATES ON

ANTIPODEAN CARGO

Seamen Have Been Granted Increases and Canadian-Australian Line May Raise Rates

AGENT ON PACIFIC COAST HAS HEARD NOTHING YET

Sir James Mills Says $500,000 Will Be Increased in Cost of Operating Company's Ships

Wellington, N. Z., May 14.—Freight rates on the Canadian-Australian Royal Mail line are likely to be increased in the future as a result of the recent arbitration award made here in connection with the wages of seamen employed on New Zealand boats.

Sir James Mills, head of the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand, stated to-day that, in view of the added expense of operating the company's steamers, which would amount to $500,000, an increase in freight rates would be inevitable.

The Canadian-Australian line is operated by the Union Steamship Company, and it is expected that the increased rates will apply to that line also.

Vancouver, May 14.—J. C. Irons, general agent of the Canadian-Australian line in this city, when seen regarding the above message, stated that he could say nothing on the matter until advised he had been received from New Zealand.

Mr. Irons said that, so far, he had not been acquainted with the terms of the award which has been made general throughout Australasia. Pending further advices, Mr. Irons would not say whether the award would have any effect on the Canadian-Australian steamers or not.

CHESLAKEE READY

BY END OF MONTH

Steamer About Completed; Finishing Cabinwork and Work on Furnaces

By the end of the present month the Union steamer Cheslakee, which has been here for several months repairing, will be ready to resume her run out of Vancouver to the logging camps on the mainland and island shores. Work on the steamer is proceeding apace, and the shipbuilders expect to be through with her during the last week of the month.

The Cheslakee looks like a new ship, following the extensive alterations and repairs which have been made to her as a result of the lamentable accident at Van Anda, Texas Island, early in the year. Many thousand dollars have been expended by the owners of the ship in placing her in the best possible shape for her run. The additional 20 feet which were placed in amidships give the Cheslakee a better grip on the water, and her stability has been materially increased. The new wheelhouse on the steamer will be about half the size of the old one, which will greatly lessen the amount of her top-hammer.

Improving Accommodation.

Workmen are now engaged in putting the finishing touches to the new saloon, smoking room and staterooms. The ship is being finely fitted up, and her accommodation will be far superior to that which graced her interior prior to the accident at Van Anda. The Cheslakee will practically be a new steamer both inside and outside, when she is handed over to the Union Steamship Company, by the shipbuilders.

The installation of the furnaces for the oil-burning system has been resumed, and in about two weeks steam will be raised, and she will be ready to be taken out on a trial trip. If the tests prove satisfactory the Cheslakee will at once proceed to the Terminal City to take up her old work, after an absence from the run of four months.

IROQUOIS STARTING.

To-morrow morning the steamer Iroquois, Capt. Carter, will inaugurate the service between Victoria, Seattle and Tacoma. She will arrive here from the Sound at 6:30 a.m., and sail again at 8:30 a.m.

CAPTAIN OF SUGAR LINER TAKES LIFE

Strathfillan's Master Leaps Overboard While Ship is About 60 Miles Off Cape

VESSEL IS STOPPED AND LONG SEARCH CONDUCTED

Shouted Good-Bye to Man on Bridge; May Have Been Cut to Pieces

While the British steamship Strathfillan was steaming along at her regular speed of 10 knots over a sea as smooth as glass and the stars were shining, Capt. Wilson, master of the vessel, took his life on Monday evening last by leaping overboard from the rail of the ship. The Strathfillan was about 60 miles off Cape Horn, and despite the fact that a diligent search was made for an hour and a half no trace of the skipper was found.

As announced in last night's paper the Strathfillan passed up to Vancouver yesterday morning completing a trip of 85 days from Cuba with a cargo of sugar. The vessel's flags were lowered to half mast, out of respect for the drowned master. Word was received here this morning from Vancouver of the sad occurrence.

How the Deed Was Done.

It is stated that Captain Wilson had been drinking since the vessel left Cuba, and that the work of navigating the vessel here fell on T. Rendall, the chief officer. When the suicide occurred the bridge was occupied by the second mate, Mr. Westgarth, who relieved Mr. Rendall a few minutes before 8 p.m. on Monday. Captain Wilson came out of his room about eight bells, and stood by the davit which is used for hoisting the gangway. He evidently thought Mr. Rendall was still on the bridge for he sang out: "Good bye, Rendall, I'm going."

The Canadian-Australian line is operated by the Union Steamship Company, and it is expected that the increased rates will apply to that line also.

Vancouver, May 14.—J. C. Irons, general agent of the Canadian-Australian line in this city, when seen regarding the above message, stated that he could say nothing on the matter until advised he had been received from New Zealand.

FAWCETT COMMENTS ON EVENTS OF 1860

Outrages by Indians Between Victoria and Esquimalt Recalled by Old-Timer

ESSELS REQUESTED TO CALL WITH PAPERS

Considered an Act of Courtesy to Assist the Press; Carswell Found Himself

Edgar Fawcett, an old resident of the city, writes some interesting comments in paragraphs which appeared in an old publication of the "Victoria Gazette" of 1860, one of the pioneer newspapers of the city which he recently came across in his library:

On April 25th, he writes, there is an editorial on the outrages by Indians on the road from Victoria to Esquimalt. The writer of that article continued by saying that the road was rapidly becoming dangerous as the passage across the plains. "People," it said, "are attacked and maltreated and robbed, yet no notice is taken of it by the authorities." "He has been going on for some time past, until last Sunday, a gang of Indians had the audacity to attack an express wagon, besides attempting a highway robbery upon a single individual. Everybody must be fully convinced by observation of the gradual increase of Indian depredations, that the leniency which has been exercised towards them hitherto is of no avail, and if persisted in will only succeed by inspiring them with a false confidence in rendering them still worse until at length the day will come when perhaps for our very lives we shall be forced to arms with or without the consent of our rulers; all the wild savagery from our nature will be let loose, and we shall only feel a sense of security in the extirmination of the tribe. This is a frightful event to contemplate, but we warn the government, etc."

By the tone of alarm shown in this editorial, comments Mr. Fawcett, things must have been in a bad state with the Indians at that time, although I can remember that such was the fact.

But it was especially so three or four years later, when might became hideous with the yell of the savages on the Songhees reserve, after the punishment of some noted chief or some of their tribe, for some outrage or other. They were constitutionally thieves; nothing was safe where they were that was not too hot or too heavy to carry away. The women were searched always before leaving the house after a day's washing, as they had a great liking for towels and stockings and secreted them under their petticoats.

House of Assembly.

The members of the House, which was in session at this time (April 25, 1860), continues Mr. Fawcett, were Dr. Helmcken, Speaker, and Messrs. A. H. Green, J. J. Southgate, Alfred Waddington, W. J. McDonald, Colonel Foster, Dr. Tolmie, Selim Franklin, Gordon, and the attorney-general. The important (?) bill, termed the "Slow-wig Bill," was read for the third time and passed. The estimates were as follows:

Salaries—Governor, £1,200; chief justice, £800; colonial secretary, £500; treasurer, £400; attorney-general, £300; surveyor-general, £400. Mr. Waddington moved for a committee of the whole to consider means for the removal of the Indians (Songhees) from the town of Victoria.

A few articles reported into Victoria, taken from the quarterly returns were: Butter, 80,394 lbs.; beans, 29,000 lbs.; fresh beef, 1,070 lbs.; bread and biscuits, 16,676 lbs.; butter, 26,146 lbs.; coffee, 10,320 lbs.; flour, 3,054 bbls.; ham, 6,000; rice, 81,000 lbs.

Firemen's Parade.

"We understand that the Union hook and ladder company have invited the Deluge and Tiger engine companies to assemble with them for the May-day parade at 1 o'clock, when to be reviewed by the governor, and afterwards to partake of a sumptuous collation in the hall at their truck house. The Tops band will be in attendance." This is another clipping from the same paper. Note: May-day was a whole holiday, the firemen's parade being the feature of the day.

Sale of Jail.

"We hear that the jail building at New Westminster was sold at public auction on the 2nd inst. for $15. We hope the good folks there will never require a more expensive building. The lot sold for $800. Note: New Westminster papers please copy this."—Ed.

This was another item.

How News Came.

"We should feel greatly obliged to the captains of merchant vessels, bound to this port, if they would take the trouble to bring one or more safe papers with them for the benefit of the public," ran another article. "We believe it is generally the custom, particularly in the American marine, for the masters of vessels to perform this act of courtesy to the press."

Auction of Cattle.

An advertisement, writes Mr. Fawcett, ran as follows: "On Thursday next, 17th May, 1860, at 11 o'clock at the Hudson's Bay Company's barns on Fort street, by public auction, 30 milch cows, 15 pairs oxen, 40 steers, 70 sheep, etc."

I remember this sale as clearly as if it had occurred last week, adds the commentator. The south side of Fort street from Douglas to Blanchard, was the southern boundary of the Hudson Bay Company's farm or dairy. It had several large barns on it in 1859 when we lived on Fort street, and we children romped in the hay in and around these buildings in the summer evenings of long ago. There are several still alive who, like myself, remember this. I also remember that we bought one of these cows.

Theatre Royal Hotel.

"Theatre Royal Hotel," ran another advertisement, "a performance will take place at this theatre, under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency Governor Douglas, etc. The special benefit of the Royal hospital, on which occasion the amateurs of H.M.S. Ganges and the splendid band of H.M.S. Topaz have volunteered their services. Tickets, $1.00; reserved seat, $2.00."

Indian Fight.

"On Wednesday a woman of the Bella Bella tribe, located across James Bay, was stabbed by a Cowichan," was the tenor of another item. "Her friends applied to the police, and Sergeant McLean started in pursuit. On coming up with him the Cowichan showed fight, and broke away from the officer, jumping into the harbor. He was captured by the officer, who jumped in, swimming after him. The Bella Bellas are generally the most peaceful tribe in town."

Hibben & Carswell.

I note in the "Victoria Gazette" of 1860 that this firm announced by advertisement that they received by late arrivals a complete assortment of artists' materials, blank books, and Bibles. The evolution of this, the oldest firm of stationers on the Northern Pacific Coast, is interesting. The founders of the firm in 1858 (55 years ago) were Thomas Napier Hibben and James Carswell.

Of the latter I remember little more than the fact that he went to a picnic with a large party in Sooke district, strayed off, got lost, and for some days was wandering around, eating berries, until he at last struck a road and soon after met a party that had been sent out by his partner to search for him on the promise of reward, but Mr. Carswell protested that he had found himself.

The firm for years occupied the brick building (Fardon's) in the corner of Yates and Langley, and then moved to Government street nearly opposite where they are now located. Of the original firm consisting of Hibben, Carswell and Kummerer, all are dead; but the senior partner is still living in the business by two sons. Soon after William Bone, then an employee, bought into the firm, and to-day is managing partner.

MAKE APPEAL FOR MOUNT DOUGLAS AVE.

Extension of Shelbourne Street Northward and Its Paving Engages Saanich Council

A petition signed by 800 ratepayers, representing $3,000,000 assessed value, or 70 per cent. of the assessed value of Wards 1 and 2, under the old assessment, and backed up by an influential deputation, was presented to the Saanich council last night asking that $54,000 of the sum it was decided to borrow for paving a number of streets in the southern portion of the municipality to be diverted from Cedar Hill and Mt. Tolmie roads to the construction and paving of Shelbourne street, and the expropriation of whatever land was necessary to make the uniform width of that road 75 feet.

Numerous advantages were described in the petition, and the deputation was headed by A. Bilsard, Cedar Hill and Mt. Tolmie roads. It was pointed out, were both very steep in places and impracticable for tram lines or even for horses in the frosty weather if paved. Shelbourne street, it was maintained, would be a straight, level road from the city to Mount Douglas park, and would prove a magnificent highway if given a width of 75 feet.

That the mayor of Victoria had promised financial support and that the Hon. Thomas Taylor had assured the deputation that the government would consent to a portion of its road funds being used for this purpose, was stated by Mr. Bilsard, but Reeve Nicholson proved skeptical as to the likelihood of enough money being provided from outside sources to carry out the expropriation for the purpose of widening the street.

All the councillors expressed themselves as being in sympathy with the matter. The matter will be considered and a conclusion reached, if possible, before the minister of public works leaves for the Old Country.

Another request of the deputation was that Shelbourne street be called Mt. Douglas avenue.

CHURCH IS CROWDED FOR ORGAN RECITAL

G. Jennings Burnett Gives Interesting Programme on New Instrument at St. Barnabas'

The third of the series of organ recitals in connection with the opening of the new organ recently installed in St. Barnabas' church was given yesterday evening by G. Jennings Burnett, organist and choirmaster of St. John's church. Quite a large audience was present, and the programme was interesting throughout.

The following vocalists assisted on the programme: Mr. Burnett, R. B. McKenzie and Mrs. R. Morrison. Mrs. Burnett gave a devotional rendering of "One Sweetly Solitary Thought" to a new setting by Mr. Burnett, and also Cowen's solo, "With Thee is Forgiveness." Mr. McKenzie's interpretation of the opening tenor solo in Elijah was very fine, as was his singing in "God's Garden" by F. Lambeth. Mr. Morrison was in good voice, and gave a most artistic rendering of Mendelssohn's "O God Have Mercy," and "Beyond the Dawn."

Included in the organ numbers were two compositions, "Melody in D Major" and "Festival March in G." by the organist, the first being given for the first time at this recital, and giving the player an opportunity to use the various stops to advantage. The first solo, "Allegro con Vite," from Mendelssohn's fourth sonata was given in a bold and vigorous style. The pastoral by Wely, two compositions by Woisteholme and Schubert's Impromptu, together with Handel's ever popular Largo gave the organist good scope to display his masterly technique. The staccato passages particularly were given very clearly and distinctly. The collection taken during the evening is to be devoted to the organ fund.

Homely, Yet Admired and Envied; Her Secret

The convention crowd in the lobby made a path for her, east admiring side glances, then with longing eyes followed her to the elevator. It was at the Ponschartrain in Detroit. The incident was recalled when I chanced to sit across table from the woman. What was it about her that caused all that commotion? She wasn't handsome; she was lacking in form and feature. Yet she did seem marvellously fascinating. Her complexion must be the secret. Really, I've never behold its equal. Venturing to pick up acquaintance, I learned the reason.

"I know I'm not built for beauty," she confided, "but I've tried to make the most of my charm. I've learned that men abhor make-ups and artificiality. I bar cosmetics; there are just two things I ever use and they promote natural loveliness and youthful appearance.

"When my complexion begins to age I get an ounce of marcolite wax at the drug store, apply at night like cold cream and wash it off in the morning. This gradually flakes off the outer skin; then I have a brand new complexion, magnetically beautiful, as you see."

"Wrinkles never bother me. At their inception I bathe my face in a solution made by dissolving an ounce of powdered salolite in a half pint of witch hazel. It works like magic!"—Monk Morrow in Town Tattler.

VICTORIA AMATEURS WILL BACK

UP VANCOUVER CUP CLAIMS

Attempt Made to Secure Mann Cup; Lacrosse Season Opens Saturday at Terminal City

NEWSY LALONDE

Possible trouble between the amateur clubs of the East and West is brewing in the application of President F. R. Sinkins, of Toronto, to Sir Donald Mann, asking that the cup be taken from the Vancouver amateurs and handed over to the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association.

The Lathers lacrosse club will hold a practice at the North Ward park Thursday night. All players wishing to try for places are invited to turn out.

"Happy" L'Heroux, the goalkeeper of the Nationals, has been holding down the position for the French team since 1888, and is still one of the best in the world.

Billy Fitzgerald is still a Toronto holdout, and the Big Four champions are figuring on getting along without him this season.

Now that Micky Jones and Nick Carter have signed their Vancouver contracts, Jones' only worry rests with the net position. There are three candidates, Cory Hess, who held down the job last year; Clint Benedict, the Ottawa youngster, and McConaughy, the Fairview recruit. Benedict will be given first choice.

Amateur season tickets can now be procured from the officers of the local twelve, or any of the players.

WINNIPEG DATES.

Winnipeg, May 14.—The committee appointed by the Winnipeg Cricket Association to arrange with Manager R. V. Benjamin, of the Australian Cricket Club, for dates in Winnipeg for matches, has decided to play the Australians in Winnipeg, Sept. 1, 2 and 3. The team arrives at Victoria May 27, and will pass through Winnipeg June 9 on their way East. They return here the first week of September.

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

Yesterday's Loss a Tough One for Hardin.

To pitch a game such as Hardin did yesterday and lose in the ninth, is the hardest kind of luck. The Bee twirler stood the Pippins on their heads like a major leaguer for eight innings and might have pulled through the ninth had not a couple of errors upset him. He yielded but a solitary hit up to the fatal ninth and was going like a house afire when the break happened. The Bees were hitting well and found the Portland mound artists for eleven safeties, enough to win any game, but the "breaks" were against them. Rawlings had a bad session and practically tossed the game away, but the local short-fielder is playing under the handicap of an attack of tonsillitis and is far from well. Lynch's team is playing much better baseball on the road than it did at home, and the team, with the addition of a slugger like Swain and another good right-handed twirler, will be right in line for a pennant chase.

Seattle is Likely to Stick at the Top.

From the manner in which the Tillikums have been beating the Beavers in their present series, it is going to take more hits than Bob Brown's Beavers can total to defeat the 1912 champions. Tealey Raymond has a grand little ball team, one that can clout the ball, spell fends when they get on and backed up by a swell twirling staff. Brown will have to strengthen his hurling department if he is to stay at the top and the second division clubs will be better prepared when the Beavers make their second trip round the circuit. McGinnity is endeavoring to brace up his club with a couple more Bee cast-offs. Lou Nordyke being slated for bench duty. The veteran has fallen off badly in batting, while his fielding has also slowed up.

President Sinkins Has Some Nerves.

Not content with forming the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association, President F. R. Sinkins has now come out with a demand to Sir Donald Mann that the Mann Cup be handed over to the C. A. L. A. in the future. He asks that the Vancouver amateurs give up the trophy that cost them two trips to Toronto to capture, and probably figures that the C. A. L. A. will take the place of the Mann Cup trustees. The Toronto man's action is a bit hasty. He might have waited until the amateur organization had completed its districts before taking such a step and unless he can explain matters satisfactorily, he will open another breach between the East and West. If the C. A. L. A. is to further the interests of lacrosse throughout the Dominion, it should forget where the championship trophies are held and confine its energies to boosting the national game, instead of creating further trouble by trying to take a trophy from a club that won it fairly after a three-thousand mile journey.

HARDIN FAILED TO GO THE ROUTE

Bees Beaten in Overtime; McGinnity Announces Shake-up; Seattle Now Leads

Portland, May 14.—At the eleventh hour in the fifty-ninth minute of the game between Portland and Victoria, Nick Williams cast his hat into the ring and turned the tide of battle from seemingly hopeless defeat into a 4 to 3 victory. For eight innings Hardin pitched fine ball. But in the ninth the Celts found him. Timely hitting and an error had netted Portland two runs and left the bases full when Williams intervened. He swatted the ball for what could have been stretched into a three bagger if necessary and incidentally won the game. Hynes started for Portland and kept out of trouble until the sixth when Victoria bunched hits on him for two runs. The visitors got another in the eighth and with one out, allied the bases when he was recalled and Agnew stepped in, retiring in the ninth ostensibly to let Martinoni bat. Williams, however, changed his mind and himself attended to the bat-

RE-ORGANIZATION OF VICTORIA BASEBALL CLUB UNDER WAY

Swain and Alberts Join the Bees To-day; Infielder Also Coming; Must Have a Winner

"We are not satisfied with our present team. There have been some disappointments in the men that we purchased, while the club itself is not winning as it should. There are changes under way and others are to follow."

Secretary T. P. McConnell, of the Victoria baseball club, stated to the Times this morning that before the end of the week, the Bees will have greatly changed in lineup. This morning the news was sent forth from Portland that Bill James and Bert Whaling, the former Seattle players who are making good in the National League, will be members of the all-star team which John S. Barnes and Mique Fisher will pilot to Australia next fall after the close of the major league seasons. Mr. Barnes will start for Australia in about a month to arrange dates for the team.

AS SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

With the addition of Swain the hard hitting outfielder and pitcher Alberts a star slab artist; manager Mike thinks he will just about cop the pennant.

Pitcher Hardin was a little over confident yesterday, and the Pippins rallied in the final inning.

Frank Chance, will be right up in the running shortly. Yesterday he again defeated Cleveland, and by doing so jumped out of the cellar. The Naps dropped down the third place.

Brooklyn is pressing Philadelphia hard for the leadership of the National league.

St. Louis has moved up to third place in the National, while the Boston Red Sox advanced to fifth place in the American.

Manager Tinker, of the Cincinnati club, purchased outfielder O'Hara from Melchior Will Go.

Alberts is a very reliable right-hander, one who made a big record in the Coast League last year, and he should great bolster up the local twirling staff. This will give Lynch, Kiddo, Wilson, Kantechner, Hunt, Smith, Narveson, Hardin and Alberts to choose his hurler from. One of the above will likely be let out in a week or so. Just who Swain will replace is not known. Melchior will probably be offered to the Spokane club, in view of the fact that the Indians lost Powell through an accident, and Joe Cohn will probably grab up this veteran. Swain, in that case, will play centre with Mike Lynch in left field and Feltz in the right garden. Swain batted .286 in the Coast League last year and stole twenty-one bases.

Bill James and Bert Whaling, the former Seattle players who are making good in the National League, will be members of the all-star team which John S. Barnes and Mique Fisher will pilot to Australia next fall after the close of the major league seasons. Mr. Barnes will start for Australia in about a month to arrange dates for the team.

FOUR GOOD BOUTS ARE NOW CARDED

Bayley May Wind Up Training Under Jimmie Britt; V. A. C. Smoker To-morrow

Physical Instructor Joe Raymond, of the Victoria Athletic Club, left this afternoon for Seattle, to complete arrangements for the smoker which the V. A. C. will stage at the Broad street club rooms to-morrow night.

Four rattling good boxing contests are on the card, and the doors will open at 7 o'clock to the members. The first bout will start at 8:30 o'clock, and four three minute rounds will be in order. There will be no delays, the club having all its boxes now in training at the gymnasium.

May Secure Britt.

It is possible that Joe Bayley will finish off his training for his title bout with Ernie Barrieau under the eyes of Jimmy Britt, the former light-weight champion. Britt will be in the city next week, and Bayley will endeavor to have him finish off his training. The champion has dropped boxing and will do nothing but gymnastics and road work until a couple of days before the contest. Bayley is confident of retaining his championship.

Vancouver will have the following entries at the P. N. A.

Boxing:

108 pounds, W. McConvey; 115

pounds, Paul Pederson; 125 pounds,

Bud Soules; 135 pounds and 135 pounds,

Billy Soules; 135 pounds; C. Patton; 135 pounds and 145 pounds; Martin Murphy; 153 pounds; W. Alexander.

Wrestling:

185 pounds, F. Smith; 145, 155, and

175 pounds, Al Hatch; heavyweight,

Dunc Gillis.

SAYS COMMISSION HAD NOT FULL FACTS

Grand Forks Resident Speaks of Doukhobor Settlements; Lives Beside Community

James Rook, of Grand Forks, who is in the city in connection with the meetings now in progress with regard to horticulture matters, has had considerable opportunity of observing the Doukhobors, as one of the largest settlements adjoins his land near Grand Forks. The findings of the Blakemore commission are objected to in the district, he says, in that the full facts did not come to the commissioners' notice, and that it is impossible to break down the exclusiveness of the character and life of the people who live apart from the remainder of the community and consume all they produce.

He declared that the existence of a community of this character is a detriment to the development of the neighboring district, in that capital is reluctant to enter.

Mr. Rook gives the colony credit for its industry, and the effort to turn the virgin soil into a garden, but thinks the members should be compelled to obey the same regulations as bind the Canadian citizen. He is particularly struck with their kindness to animals, particularly the horse. No neglected horses are to be seen in the settlement, and the horses are thoroughly broken in that no whip is necessary. Reins are often not used. The Doukhobors appear to have such control over horses that they do not desire to punish them in order to exercise control.

Mr. Rook says that since the commission reported the Doukhobor children are not attending school, although they greatly regretted the withdrawal of the teacher, and actually cried when the went away. He feels that the Doukhobor settlements are growing up in the country but are not of it.

IDIOTIC SUBDIVISION ACT

Saanich Councillor Attacks Provincial Legislation—Says It Disgraces Statute Book.

Referring to a subdivision which had been refused by the council and also by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council on appeal, Councillor Dunn of Saanich, declared last night that this province was laboring under a most idiotic land subdivision act which disgraced the statute book of any civilized country. He knew of a case where they had required 33 feet off a half acre all the way round.

"It is almost impossible to get a subdivision past Hannington," echoed the reeve.

Nothing could be done for A. Blizard, who made the protest, although evidence of the recent cleavage in the ranks of the councillors cropped up when the reeve said Councillor Williams was without authority in representing the council at the executive meeting. Councillors McGregor and Borden said they thought it not a fair deal for the reeve to say this when the matter had been endorsed by the council since.

HINTS ON HOW TO BE BEAUTIFUL

WRINKLE-REMOVER—Smiling makes crow's feet as easily as worry, but don't stop smiling on that account. Scowling, age and eye-troubles also make deep wrinkles. You can quickly remove wrinkles and keep the face velvety and smooth at very little cost, by making at home and using regularly this greaseless vegetable jelly-cream, which does not grow hair. Get from your druggist one ounce almond and dissolve it in half-pint of cold water, adding 2 teaspoonsful of glycerine. Stir and let stand one day. Apply to wrinkled surface and leave through night, then wash off and use more of the cream as a massage. This treatment will remove and prevent the most obstinate wrinkles or finest crow's feet, while softening the skin to a velvety texture.

RUBS HAIRS RIGHT OFF—A paste made by mixing powdered delatone and water and applied to the skin for 2 or 3 minutes will dissolve every trace of hair or fuzz, and after washing the skin it will be smooth and spotless. You can get an original package of delatone from your druggist, but be sure it is delatone.

SAFE FAT-DISSOLVER—For the "too fat" nothing is so simple and effective as the parotis treatment. Merely stir 4 ounces parotis in 1/2 pint hot water and when cool it is ready. Taking a tablespoonful three times a day soon reduces the weight without leaving the skin wrinkled or flabby; and when your weight is where you want it, you can stop without fear of the fat returning. No dieting or course of exercise is necessary when the parotis treatment is employed.

TO MAKE EYES SPARKLE—Healthy eyes are clear and sparkling. If yours are dull, red and inflamed you need an eye-tonic. Make this one yourself. Get an ounce of crystals from your druggist and dissolve it in a pint of water. One or two drops in each eye every day is all that is required. This tonic will not smart or burn and will give relief when the eyes are tired, inflamed or sore. It strengthens the eyes and will benefit you if you wear glasses.

BEST HAIR-TONIC—An inexpensive tonic for hair and scalp can be made at home, by mixing one ounce quinolin with 1/2 pint alcohol, then adding 1/2 pint water. This is very beneficial to hair and scalp as it removes dust, dandruff and excess oil, and makes dull, brittle hair bright, soft and fluffy. The quinolin hair-tonic is fine for allying itching and overcoming dryness of the scalp, as well as producing a thick, healthy growth of beautiful hair.

VICTORIA AUDIENCE WELCOMES ROSE STAHL

Popular Actress Gives Brilliant Character Portrayal in Chas. Klein's Play, 'Maggie Pepper'

When Charles Klein created "Maggie Pepper," the central figure of the drama which occupied the boards at the Victoria theatre last evening, he created a being, playwriter-like, with infinite stage possibilities.

The substance of fifteen years of such torture is condensed in Mr. Klein's play into three acts. The stock-room with its faded, dingy utilitarianism, its tired over-worked girls, and the tension attendant on a sense of heartlessness and nagging supervision, is the background of the opening scene. Here Maggie Pepper, the capable and conscientious worker who has given the best of her energies for fifteen years in holding together a tottering business conducted along archaic lines, receives the news of her discharge from a responsible position and removal to a lower one.

That Joseph Holbrook, senior partner of the firm, and but lately arrived from some years' absence in London and Paris, returns to New York the same day and makes a cursory inspection of the store, is a mere coincidence.

Maggie, cynically humorous, and with a sense of the cruel injustice meted out by her employer, mistakes young Holbrook for an applicant for a position with the firm, and gives him some would-be kindly but scathing advice as to his apparel and manners, while freely criticizing the antiquated methods of Holbrook & Company. The discovery of the identity of the sleek recipient of her remarks comes later. Dismissal and discharge seem certain for Maggie. Instead, however, she is welcomed head of the business, appreciative of the foresight displayed by the saleswoman in her unwitting comments, places her to her surprise in a position of almost limitless authority, where she has full opportunity to carry out all those innovations which she so frankly expressed her desire to see.

Rose Stahl as Maggie Pepper, attained the greatest success of the evening by giving an absolutely realistic, yet sympathetic and artistic impersonation of the girl. There was a wonderful reserve, consonant with the nature of one so long-repressed, which was maintained consistently throughout the most trying scenes. Only in one instance was there any very startling departure from this, viz., the scene in which she is faced by the senior and junior partners with the contrary command to go and stay, because the former's fiancee has grown jealous of Maggie's influence. Quaint, whimsical, humorous, cynical in her other moods, Miss Stahl for a brief moment gave a display of intense dramatic expression which startled her audience to a realization of the versatility of her art.

Visiting Officer Reports.

Mr. Gordon Grant, secretary of the society, read a carefully prepared report, calling attention to the different methods of treating the delinquent and criminal child to-day as compared with that of years gone by. The treatment to-day provides for a change in the environment of the child, and by education and discipline which is directed toward developing the best side of the child's nature.

It would be better, the report continued, to make good citizens of the children than to expend big sums in supporting prisons and penitentiaries for adult criminals. The society was grateful that the statistics for juvenile crime in Victoria were lower than in almost any other city in the Dominion where juvenile courts had been established. Although Victoria had a population of about 67,000, only ten children had come up before the juvenile court for delinquency, the society investigating the conditions of the child's home as soon as delinquency is detected. If the conditions in the child's home are not such as to warrant the belief that the child will have any opportunity to become better, he is once removed to the Children's Aid Home, where every good influence possible is exercised.

Another particularly fine study was that of Mrs. Reynolds as Jake Rothschild. Marie Hirschman, as the shop-lifting-mother of Maggie's niece, gave a forceful portrayal of an unpleased character, while among the other interesting characters of the evening were Walter Craven as John Hargen, and his niece Ethel, acted by Miss Dahl.

There was a good audience, and the curtain had to be raised several times at the close of the last act before Miss Stahl's numerous admirers would leave the theatre, the popular actress taking the ovation in a very gracious manner.

A RUSSIAN DRESS.

There seems to be no wanting of the Russian idea and its charming models. The one sketched here shows a combination of Bessarabian black with black, and the underblouse has a high collar and long sleeves of black fluted voile, with a plain black satin skirt.

Over this is the Russian blouse of the red, edged along the closing line with fancy braid, showing black, grey and white. This same braid is used for the girdle and cuffs. The closing is made with steel buttons and steel-colored metallic braid.

CHILDREN'S HOME DOES GOOD WORK

Ten Babies Adopted Into Good Homes Through Organization Last Year

GOOD INFLUENCES AFFECT DELINQUENTS

Environment of Child's Home Often Responsible for Troubles; Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the city hall. Mr. Charles Hayward, the president, in the chair. There was an excellent attendance of members and others.

Mr. Hayward, reading the report of the directors, called attention to the crowded condition of the Children's Aid Home, which, originally a private dwelling, was now altogether unsuitable for the purpose of housing so many children as now come under the care of the society.

The president commended the action taken recently in urging the minister of justice to obtain amendments to the criminal code in order to make it more effectual against parents who deserted or in other respects failed to provide for their families. Besides the monthly grant from the city some assistance had been given the home by parents themselves, while annual membership fees assisted in keeping the income up slightly. The income, however, was entirely inadequate, and the directors had been disappointed in their expectations of being able to prevail on the city to erect a suitable building, which would not be erected for some time to come.

Visiting Officer Reports.

Mr. Gordon Grant, secretary of the society, read a carefully prepared report, calling attention to the different methods of treating the delinquent and criminal child to-day as compared with that of years gone by. The treatment to-day provides for a change in the environment of the child, and by education and discipline which is directed toward developing the best side of the child's nature.

There was a good audience, and the curtain had to be raised several times at the close of the last act before Miss Stahl's numerous admirers would leave the theatre, the popular actress taking the ovation in a very gracious manner.

Babies Adopted.

Ten babies, said the secretary's report, had been adopted during the year, and placed in good homes. In the juvenile court thirteen boys were tried for various offences, three being honorably discharged and nine allowed out on suspended sentence. During the year, at the request of the parents or guardians, three boys had been sent to the Industrial school as moral degenerates.

The report called attention to the importance of securing pensions for widows, so that mothers might be able to care properly for their children, and not have to leave the little ones by themselves while they went out to earn a living. A civic institution for the care of the feeble-minded should also be established, about fifteen cases requiring such care being known of in the city at the present time. It was for the protection not only of these unfortunate themselves, but for the protection of the race, that the government should make some such provision for this class of people.

Parents the Criminals.

The superintendent, Mrs. Spofford, read an interesting report of the work in the home, in which she called attention to the fact that it was the parents whose unfitness or indifference contributed to the children's delinquency who were the real criminals, and not the children with whom the home had to deal. There had been 14 children in the home in the beginning of the year. This number had been considerably added to since, 18 having been admitted as incorrigible, 6 for theft, 4 being cases of neglect, and 2 pending settlement of disputes between the parents. One child was taken owing to its foster mother having abandoned it. The youngest child in the home is 7 years of age, the eldest 26, and there are at present altogether 26 children in the home.

The report concluded by a detailed account of the manner in which the children spend their day at the home, and showed that the greatest amount of liberty possible was being given the children without any relaxation of that discipline and kindly jurisdiction which have made Mr. and Mrs. Spofford so successful in their work.

The treasurer's report for the year, read by W. H. Silver, showed that the total receipts for the year amounted to $5,559.49, the expenditures to $5,357.96.

OVERDRAUGHTS

By GEORGE MATHEW ADAMS

To-day as you pass among the throng of people that touch shoulders with you, do a little Studying and Thinking. That fellow who walks head up, chest squarely out, eyes healthily ablaze, strong of tread—he's one of the world's Successes. He has a Balance in the Bank! Also, he carries a Balance in his Brain and in his Body.

Save To-day—and To-morrow you will have a Balance in the Bank.

Recently a young man in a great success, after completing my successful career as a Prosecutor, retired to private practice. His friends urged a rest and a change. The young man refused. One evening he went home to his wife and babies, tired and discouraged. In a few hours, he was picked up in his room with a bullet in his body. He regained himself for but one sentence: "Boys, I am sorry I did it. I must have had Sand in my Gear Box." But true as was his statement, it was not all His Gasoline had run out! His Balance was Overdrawn.

Save To-day—and To-morrow you will have a Balance in the Bank.

Overdraughts go by many names—Dissipation, Worry, Lack of Rest, Useless and Harmful Habits, Over-Eating. Each draws from the main Account. Each divides the Balance—until the Overdraught begins to arrive. And then Disaster pokes his cruel head into view.

Save To-day—and To-morrow you will have a Balance in the Bank.

Save your Money, Save your Health, Save your Vital Forces, Save your Time—by Using it. Save the numberless little Chances—by Grasping them—and a kind Providence and a generous Destiny will shape and fashion you. Life and Character and make it fit for any Battle.

VII.—ACROSS THE ANDES

From Chile to Argentina by the World-Famous Transandine Railroad, Through the Heart of One of the Most Extraordinary Scenic Regions of the World.

From Las Cuevas the train runs rapidly down eastward, following the torrent through a confused mass of gigantic blocks that have fallen from the cliffs above, and after seven or eight miles, it passes the opening of a lateral glen down which there comes a far fuller torrent, bearing the water that has melted from the glaciers of Aconcagua. The huge mass of that mountain, loftiest of all the summits of the Western Hemisphere, is seen fifteen miles away, standing athwart the head of this lateral valley. It is a long ridge of snow, arching into two domes with a tremendous precipice of black rock facing south.

The top of Aconcagua is nearly twenty-three thousand feet high, and the valley at this point about eight thousand. Only in the Himalayas and the Andes can one see a peak close at hand soar into air fifteen thousand feet above the eye, and I doubt if there be any other peak even in the Andes which rises so near and so grandly above the spectator.

A little below this point one reaches the spot called Puente del Inca (the Inca's bridge), a real natural curiosity which the torrent has formed by cutting a way for itself underneath a detrital mass, the upper part of which makes a firm roadway above the river roaring below.

A Piece of Scenery Without Parallel.

The journey down the valley from this point is a piece of scenery to which it would be hard to find a parallel, on any other railroad. It is like traversing the interior of an extinct volcano, for the rocks are all volcanic, of different ages and different colors, black snows, the rest of this part of Argentina being an almost rainless tract, where coarse grass and sometimes low scrub-woods cover ground that is barely fit for pasture and hopeless for tillage. At this spot, however, the perennial flow of the glacier-born barron for a long way, bearing nothing except the Algarrobo tree, which is of use for firewood, but for little else. Travelling still farther eastward, one reaches a road where a monster cactus gives grass sufficient for ranching, and thereafter, the rainfall grows.

Then in Chile the population is stable and comparatively homogeneous. The Germans who are found in some of the small southern towns have settled down and become completely domesticated. But here in Argentina the Italians who flock in daily are conspicuous as a growing element, which is contributing effectively to the wealth of the country, for most of the immigrants are hard-working and intelligent people from Lombardy and Piedmont.

Mendoza's Striking Prospects.

Placed on the edge of a monotonous desert, and far from all other cities, Mendoza may seem a depressing place to dwell in, yet it has some attractions for those to whom natural environment means something.

At the end of those streets which open to the west, glimpses are caught of the distant, richly colored mountains. Then there is the view of the Andes from the southwestern outskirts of the city. It is a view specially noble just at sunrise, when the level light reddens the long line of ghostly snows that stretches south for more than a hundred miles.

A third equally striking prospect is that over the Pampas from the high ground of the new park. There is something in looking over a boundless plain that inspires more awe than even the grandest mountain landscape. The latter is limited, the former thrills the mind with a sense of infinity land and sky meeting at a point which one cannot fix. There is little color on this plain and little variety of aspect except that given by the shadows of the coursing clouds. But its uniformity seems to make it the more solemn.

Over that lay our shortest way to Buenos Ayres and Europe, along the line of railroad that cuts for hundreds of miles without a curve or a rise or a bridge, always steadily eastward to the sea. But it is a dull and dusty journey through a monotonous landscape, at first mostly desert, then mostly pasture, at last mostly wheat fields, but always flat as a table, possibly the widest perfectly level plain in the whole world. And we had the stronger reason for not taking this route, that it had been a main object of our journey to see the Straits of Magellan, that great sea highway from ocean to ocean, the finding and traversing of which was an achievement second only to the voyage of Columbus.

Over the Top of the Pass on Mule Back.

So leaving Mendoza before dawn, we threaded the windings of the granite canon, and then, passing the little plain of Uspallata, took our way up the long volcanic Valley of Desolation that leads to the pass, finding it not less strange and terrible than it had seemed two days before. When we reached the Argentine end of the tunnel at Las Cuevas, we quitted the train in order to mount to and cross the top of the pass, the Cumbe, as it is called, which is fifteen hundred feet above, and over which, until the tunnel was pierced, all travellers walked or rode.

We took mules, for in this thin air it is well to save effort by riding when one can. But more than once we had occasion to feel that we should have been happier on foot, for in heading the animals across short cuts between the windings of the track we got on slopes so steep that it was a marvel how the creatures could keep their feet. Once upset, one might have rolled down for hundreds of feet, for there was nothing for beast or rider to catch at.

A Daring March Over the Andes.

The Cumbe is a flatish ridge hardly a quarter of a mile across, with towers of rock rising on each side, the cold intense and no shelter anywhere from the biting blast. There is a small stone hut, but it was half full of snow.

One thought of the hapless travellers of former days caught here in some blinding snowstorms far from human help. One recalled the daring march of that detachment of the Argentine army of San Martin, when, in 1817, his force crossed the pass in that hero's expedition to deliver Chile from the yoke of Spain, the rest of his force having taken the equally difficult though less lofty route by the Los Patos Pass to Chile.

THE STATION OF USPALLATA ON THE TRANSANDINE RAILWAY

Here in Argentina we were "on the well as in a physical sense, and we soon found ourselves trying to note the differences between Chileans and Argentines, peoples of the same origin, but with different histories and ways of life.

At one place there is seen just under a precipice, a row of sharp black pinnacles, not unlike miniature needles, the remains of a lava bed that has disintegrated, leaving its harder parts to stand erect. These are called the "Penitentes," from a fancied resemblance to "saints" in black robes standing or kneeling to do penance.

At one point where a narrow glen comes down from the south, there is seen at the end of a long vista, thirty miles away, the great, blunt pyramid of Tupungato. Tupungato attains 22,000 feet, the upper six thousand of which are draped in white, and is, among the southern Andes, inferior only to Aconcagua and to Mercedario.

About thirty miles below the tunnel the valley opens into the little plain of Uspallata, bounded on the opposite or eastern side by a range of flat-topped hills, across which the old mule track and carriage road ran to Mendoza.

This range, running parallel to the main chain of the Cordillera and therefore at right angles to the valley down which we had come, turns the course of the torrent southward, forcing it to find its way out to the level country through a deep gorge or canon.

The railway follows the river.

Night descended before we had emerged into the "Argentine" plain, and when we drove through the friendly lights of Mendoza to our hotel in the handsome plaza, it was hard to believe that four hours before we had been in the awesome Valley of Desolation between Aconcagua and Tupungato.

To these two mountains Mendoza owes its existence. It stands in an oasis watered by the torrent which brings down the melting of their and grey lavas, yellow and pink and whitish and bluish beds of tufa and Fourth Installment.

TRAINING THE BODY.

On March 1, 1909, three days before leaving the presidency, various members of the tennis cabinet lunched with me at the White House. "Tennis cabinet" was an elastic term, and of course many who ought to have been at the lunch were, for one reason or another, away from Washington; but, to make up for this, a goodly number of out-of-town horse members, so to speak, were present—for instance, Seth Bullock; Luther Kelly, better known as Yellowstone Kelly in the days when he was an army scout against the Sioux and Abernathy, the wolf-hunter. At the end of the lunch Seth Bullock suddenly reached forward, swept aside a mass of flowers which made a centrepiece on the table, and revealed a bronze cougar by Proctor, which was a parting gift to me. The lunch party and the cougar were then photographed on the lawn.

Some of the younger officers who were my constant companions on these walks and rides pointed out to me the condition of utter physical worthlessness into which certain of the elder men had permitted themselves to lapse, and the very bad effect this would certainly have if ever the army were called into service. I then looked into the matter for myself, and was really shocked at what I found. Many of the older officers were so unfit physically that their condition would have excited laughter had it not been so serious to think that they belonged to the military arm of the government. A cavalry colonel proved unable to keep his horse at a smart trot for even half a mile, when I visited his post; a major-general proved afraid even to let his horse canter, when he went on a ride with us; and certain otherwise good men proved as unable to walk as if they had been sedentary brokers. I consulted with men like Major-Generals Wood and Bell, who were themselves of fine physique, with bodies fit to meet any demand. It was late in my administration; and we deemed it best only to make a beginning—experience teaches the most inveterate reformer how hard it is to get a totally non-military nation to accept seriously any military improvement. Accordingly, I merely issued directions that each officer should prove his ability to walk fifty miles or ride one hundred, in three days. This, of course, a test which many a healthy middle-aged woman would be able to meet. But a large portion of the press adopted the view that it was a bit of capricious tyranny on my part; and a considerable number of elderly officers, with desks rather than field experience, intrigued with their friends in Congress to have the order annulled. So one day I too: a ride of a little over one hundred miles myself, in company with Surgeon-General Rixey and two other officers. The Virginia roads were frozen and in ruts, and in the afternoon and evening there was a storm of snow and sleet; and when it had been thus experimentally shown, under unfavorable conditions, how easy it was to do in one day the task for which the army officers were allowed three days, all open objection ceased. But some bureau chiefs still did as much under-handed work against the order as they dared, and it was often difficult to reach them. In the Marine Corps Captain Leonard, who had lost an arm at Tientsin, with two of his lieutenants, did the fifty miles in one day; for they were vigorous young men, who laughed at the idea of treating a fifty-mile walk as over-fatiguing. Well, the navy department officials rebuked them, and made them take the walk over again in three days, on the ground that taking it in one day did not comply with the regulations! This seems unbelievable; but Leonard assures me it is true. He did not inform me at the time, being afraid to "get in wrong" with his permanent superiors. If I had known of the order, short work would have been made of the bureaucrat who issued it.

In no country with an army worth calling such is there a chance for a man physically unfit to stay in the service. Our countrymen should understand that every army officer—and every marine officer—should be summarily removed from the service unless he is able to undergo far severer tests than those which, as a beginning, I imposed. To follow any other course is to put a premium on slothful incapacity, and to do the gravest wrong to the nation.

I have mentioned all these experiences, and I could mention scores of others, because out of them grew my philosophy—perhaps they were in part caused by my philosophy—of bodily vigor of soul without which vigor of the body counts for nothing. The dweller in cities has less chance than the dweller in the country to keep his body sound and vigorous. But he can do so, if only he will take the trouble. Any young lawyer, shopkeeper, or clerk, or shop-assistant, can keep himself in good condition if he tries. Some of the best men who have ever served under me in the National Guard and in my regiment were former clerks or floor-walkers. Why, Johnny Hayes, the Marathon victor, and an one-time world champion, one of my valued friends and supporters, was a floor-walker in Bloomingdale's big department store. Surely with Johnny Hayes as an example, any young man a city can hope to make his body all that a vigorous man's body should be.

I once made a speech to which I gave the title "The Strenuous Life." Afterwards I published a volume of essays with this as a title. There were two translations of it which always specially pleased me. One was by a Japanese soldier who knew English well, and who had carried the essay all through the Manchurian campaign, and later translated it for the benefit of his countrymen. The other was by an Italian lady, whose brother, an officer in the Italian army who had died on duty in a foreign land, had also greatly liked the article and carried it round with him. In translating the title the lady rendered it in Italian he does possess. It is the only kind of success that is open to most of us. Yet some of the greatest successes in history have been those of this second class—when I call it second class I am not running it down in the least, I am merely pointing out that it differs in kind from the first class. To the average man it is probably more useful to study this second type of success than to study the first. From the study of the first he can learn inspiration, he can get uplift and lofty enthusiasm. From the study of the second he can, if he chooses, find out how to win a similar success himself.

I need hardly say that all the successes I have ever won have been of the second type. I never won anything without hard labor and the exercise of my best judgment and careful planning and working long in advance. Having been a rather sickly and awkward boy, I was as a young man at first both nervous and distrustful of my own powers. I had to train myself, painfully and laboriously not merely as regards my body but as regards my soul and spirit.

When a boy I read a passage in one of Marryat's books which always impressed me. In this passage the captain of some small British man-of-war is explaining to the hero how to acquire the quality of fearlessness. He says that at the outset almost every man is frightened when he goes into action, but that the course to follow is for the man to keep such a grip on himself that he can act just as if he was not frightened. After this is kept up long enough it changes from pretense to reality, and the man does in every fact become fearless by sheer dint of practicing fearlessness which he does not feel. I am using my own language, not Marryat's. My point was the theory upon which I went. There were all kinds of forms of which I was afraid at first, ranging from grizzly bears to "mean" horses and gun-fighters; but by acting as if I was not afraid I gradually ceased to be afraid. Most men can have the same experience if they choose. They will first learn to bear themselves well in trials which they anticipate and then in trials which they advance to meet. After a while the habit will grow on them, and they will behave well in sudden and unexpected emergencies which come upon them unawares.

It is of course much pleasanter if one is naturally fearless, and I envy and respect the men who are naturally fearless. But it is a good thing to remember that the man who does not enjoy this advantage can nevertheless stand beside the man who does, and can do his duty with the like efficiency, if he chooses to. Of course he must not let his desire take the form merely of a day-dream. Let him dream about being a fearless man, and the more he dreams the better he will be, always provided he does his best to realize the dream in practice. He can do his part honorably and well provided only he sets fearlessness before himself as an ideal, schools himself to think of danger merely as something to be faced and overcome, and regards life itself as he should regard it, not as something to be thrown away, but as a pawn to be promptly hazarded whenever the hazard is warranted by the larger interests of the great game in which we are all engaged.

PASSING SHOW

Empress Theatre.

The melody monarch singing at the Empress and entertaining with three pianos broke into vaudeville with George Reed of the Pink Lady Company as one of their number in a novelty that was a winner from the start everywhere. With new songs Reed hits the popular taste, his three friends share the popularity, and the act carries the hallmark. Hal Stephens is first on the list for his dramatic and histrionic ability in many characters from old play plays. Sid Vincent with Irene Lorne are a "hit," providing a singing and patter number of the character and patter kind. Music from one string that never tires an audience is Broomstick. Elliott's stock in trade that ensures him a return engagement, and the crazy "Pete with his fun making offers a good opening act.

Kirk La Shelle wrote the libretto of "The Princess Chic" and Julian Edwards the score. Mr. La Shelle, a reformed newspaper man, was one of the most successful of the younger theatrical managers, while Julian Edwards wrote the music to "1492" and many other well-known operas. Dealing with the days before gunpowder had destroyed the utility of romantic predecessors in the art of warfare "The Princess Chic" unfolds a logical illogical, a story which at times reaches great dramatic heights and is funny without once descending to buffoonery or anachronism. The locale is the Province of Burgundy and the date the early part of the fifteenth century. Among the artists of the Juvenile Bostonians, who appear at the Victoria theatre May 15 and 16, are: Thom Helton, Patry Henry, Dorris Canfield, Dixie White, Billie O'Neill, Vera Lockhart, Ethel Stoddard, Ina Mitchell, Shirley Mylne and a well-trained chorus.

"Introduce Me."

Della Clarke, the clever author-actress and her comedy company will be the attraction at the Victoria theatre Wednesday, May 21, in Miss Clarke's new play, "Introduce Me." The story of this four-act comedy hinges on the antics of a married man with a love for affinities who suspects that his wife, like himself, is doing a little side-stepping from the marital vows. Miss Clarke, the author, plays the dual roles of the wife, and Francis Everton, the novelist. Henry Pemberton does the husband with a weakness for affinities. Gordon De Maine impersonates a character of a successful publisher. Clare Krall characterizes the part of a leading actress of the stage.

Without that SKUNKY
Taste or Odor

That offensive taste and odor in some beers is easily avoided. Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives the best protection against light.

"While beer quickly deteriorates when it is exposed to direct sunlight, such deterioration, although greatly retarded, will eventually take place in diffused light." Beer exposed to the rays of the sun will very quickly acquire the so-called "skunk taste."

NEWS OF PROVINCIAL TOWNS.

NANAIMO

With a name smacking of the antique, ye olden time appearance, and living up to its appearance by reason of the number of years it has been standing, the Old Flag Inn, for which tenders were called recently for its sale, is one of the landmarks of the city.

Built in 1862 the building is fifty years old. The Old Flag Inn looks as if it had been picked out of some ancient nook of the old world and set down in Nanaimo. It is just such a hostelry around which the modern novelist would weave tales of ancient romance and adventure.

The house was built by Stone & Jerome and occupied by them as a hotel for some years. Both proprietors were thoroughly English and conducted the establishment along strictly English lines. Stone sold out his interest to the late John Pawson, and the place was run for several years by Pawson & Jerome. Finally Mr. Jerome decided upon a visit to England, it being many years since he had seen his native land. The two partners made an agreement before Jerome sailed that in the event of the death of either the entire business would pass to the other. Strange to relate, Jerome never lived to visit the scenes of his childhood, the ship on which he was going home being wrecked in the English channel. Poor Jerome was drowned and thus the Old Flag Inn passed to John Pawson.

ROSSLAND

The fifteenth general meeting of the members of the western branch of the Canadian Mining Institute will be opened here on Thursday evening, May 22. Routine business will be transacted and several papers having particular reference to the mining industry will be read and discussed.

Among the subjects for discussion will be that of accidents in metal mines, and in this connection it is intended to show a pulmotor and explain its operation and effectiveness. The provisional programme is: Thursday evening, reading and discussion of papers; Friday, visit to Rossland mines in daytime, and reading and discussion of papers in evening; Saturday, visit to Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada's smelting works and electrolytic lead refinery at Trail; evening, amusement.

SUMMERLAND

The question of how to dispose of the over-ripe soft fruits and surplus stock, as well as late tomatoes, has been a difficult problem for our orchardists, and for some time negotiations have been pending with the Dominion Canners, Ltd., an Eastern Canadian concern, operating nearly all the canneries of Ontario, to operate also in Summerland. Two representatives were sent here to look over the district and its possibilities, and report to the directors. A very favorable report was made, and the directors voted in favor of establishing here.

As it was feared that it was too late to build this season it was suggested by the Board of Trade that the company operate the small cannery on the wharf for this season, putting in some additional machinery. Negotiations are still pending for this latter proposition, and it is understood that the directors are favorably disposed to thus meet the request of fruit growers made through the Board of Trade.

KELOWNA

In the course of an interview George J. Bury, vice-president of the C. P. R., strongly advocated the introduction of mixed farming in the Okanagan valley. "You can grow lovely fruit here," he said, "but why put all your produce into one basket? When I tell you that no less an amount than $165,000 worth of commodities were imported into the district in one month, which could easily have been raised at your very doors, you will see what opportunities are being missed. Consider, he said, what this would mean if the ranchers combined with their fruit growing the production of the large quantities of eggs and butter and poultry you are importing, and no province favors the combination of mixed farming more than the Kelowna district.

The vice-president was thoroughly in accord with the new organization which has been formed which has for its object the establishment of central selling agencies. "I think it is a very good idea," he said.

Do not be answerable to to-morrow, to-day's duty, fight to-day's temptations, and do not weaken and distract yourself by looking forward to things you cannot see and would not understand F. Kingsley.

FERNIE

A special train was requisitioned to convey John Hill, a miner employed in No. 1 East mine, who had sustained a broken leg whilst following his employment on Saturday morning. Later the ambulance was called to meet the train to convey James Eckersley to the hospital for treatment of a bruised leg sustained while following his employment on the tipple as cat coupler.

On Monday an Italian by name of Bellagambi had his leg broken while following his employment as miner in No. 1 North. Later in the day George Smith, employed on company work in No. 1 East, received injuries to the head which necessitated medical attention. We are pleased to state that all the injured are progressing favorably.

NEW WESTMINSTER

Encouraging reports regarding a general advance along educational lines throughout the province were read at the annual meeting of the members of the Provincial Women's Educational Club of Columbian College, which was held in the college building on Saturday afternoon. The gathering, which was attended by a large number of members from Vancouver, was one of the best ever held.

The feature address of the afternoon was delivered by Mrs. Chown, wife of the new superintendent of education among the Methodists of the province, who urged the members to work more and more for better education and to remember the fact that it is needed in other districts than Methodists alone. Mrs. Chown spoke of the needs of Columbian College and urged the members of the club to work towards placing it on a still firmer foundation.

Other addresses were made by Mrs. W. T. Reid, the retiring president; Miss Evans of Vancouver; Principal Mervin, of Columbian College, and Rev. A. M. Stanhope the newly appointed principal of that institution.

The officers elected were as follows:

President, Mrs. T. R. Pearson, New Westminster; first vice-president, Mrs. J. F. Betts, Vancouver; second vice-president, Mrs. H. Parker, Vancouver; third vice-president, Mrs. W. T. Reid, New Westminster; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. Watson, New Westminster; recording secretary, Mrs. J. Bryson, New Westminster; treasurer, Mrs. Derbyshire, Vancouver.

PHOENIX

Granby	24,440	432,379
B. C. Copper Co.	11,906	243,306

The B. C. Columbia company's smelter treated 11,906 tons of ore this week, as follows: Mother Lode, 5,767; Rawhide, 2,300; Napoleon, 325; Queen Victoria, 400; others, 44.

FRECKLES

Now is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription ointme—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of ointme—double strength from D. E. Campbell and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautifully clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength ointme as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

"Oh, papa," she said, with a blush, "young Mr. Chestnut, who owns so many coal mines in Pennsylvania, is coming again this evening, and he says he wants to see you on some important business."

"All right, my dear," responded the old man, cracking her playfully under the chin. "I know what the young man wants."

That evening Mr. Chestnut came to the point at once.

"Mr. Hendricks," he said, boldly, "I want to ask you if you have laid in a stock of coal."

BIRTHDAY CALENDAR

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY.

Take care to keep in good health, for some difficulty threatens and you will need a clear eye and a quick understanding. In all things it will serve you well to question and decide impartially if the way you have always done is really the best way.

Those born to day, if left to themselves, will drift through life joyfully and affectionately at first, but in service later. Trained to self dependence and away from sentimentalism, they are capable of high achievement in diplomacy and in the more active professions.

TO-DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

After their successful attack on Louisbourg, under the merchant, Pepys, the New Englanders prepared to invade Canada. They looked for aid from the mother land, but, instead of the expected help, came news that a French expedition was crossing the ocean, and the colonists stayed at home to guard their own shores. But at this time "the stars in their courses" seemed to fight against the French. Their fleet was delayed by contrary winds and by a calm, then a fearful tempest sank some of the ships and disabled others. Supplies fell short; disease broke out amongst the crews; and, on reaching Chebucto (Halifax) harbor, the admiral died. Dismayed at this complication of disaster, the second in command killed himself. The leadership devolving upon La Jonquiere (who had been appointed Governor of Canada) he returned to France. Setting sail next year 1747 with another formidable armament, intended for the reconquest of Louisbourg, La Jonquiere was encountered off Cape Finisterre, on May 14th, by a British fleet under Admirals Anson and Warren. The French fought valiantly, but were totally defeated. Their flagship, five other vessels, and a host of prisoners, including La Jonquiere himself, were captured.

ENORMOUS VALUE OF ASSESSED HOLDINGS

Land in Greater Victoria is Estimated to Be Worth $120,000,000

SOME DISTRICTS ONLY ESTIMATE LAND

Improvements Probably Represent Investment of $30,000,000; Great Advance

The realty values of Greater Victoria may now be estimated, the complete figures for Victoria city, Saanich, Esquimalt and Oak Bay being available, subject to the settings of the courts of revision next month.

The district of Saanich does not assess improvements, nor are positive figures known for Esquimalt, although the actual improvements represent about $2,000,000. In the Esquimalt figure is also added about $200,000 for property belonging to the crown, but not assessed, and with other exemptions the actual assessed value of land is about $5,000,000.

The totals for the greater city are as follows:

	1912.	1913.
Victoria	$88,190,530	$71,870,710
Saanich	17,777,760	9,156,920
Oak Bay	8,262,560	4,560,948
Esquimalt	5,362,427
Improvements
	1912.	1913.
Victoria	$29,161,140	$17,071,360
Saanich
Oak Bay	2,463,250	1,218,160
Esquimalt

The total of the assessment on land in Greater Victoria is thus over $120,000,000. Assessments can be set down at about $30,000,000 for improvements in the same area.

CARNIVAL CAMPAIGN STARTS ON JUNE 2

Citizens' Committee Expects to Raise $50,000 Necessary for Success

That the campaign for funds for the forthcoming carnival in August, the first effort of Victoria in this direction, shall begin on June 2, was decided at the meeting of the executive of the Victoria Citizens' committee held last night. It is the belief of the executive that the $50,000, towards which they already have $16,000, will be easily raised and a handsome sum over that figure.

The water events committee meets this afternoon at five.

Special invitation postcards are being printed, and the citizens are asked to get some of these, which can be had from the secretary at the cost of printing, one cent each, and send them to their friends outside.

It has been decided to send a deputation to represent Victoria at the Portland rose festival, which will be held from June 9 to 14, and to take part in the floral parade with a float in the form of a boat composed of flowers. Great interest is being shown by the Portland people in the Victoria carnival and it is being advertised in every way by the committees in charge of the rose festival.

A flower show is to be held during carnival week on the grounds at the corner of Government Street and Elliott street, which are being lent by A. J. Anderson, Col. Hobday, E. A. Wallace and A. J. Woodward have drawn up a programme for this event and prizes will be given, to meet which a small charge will be made for admission.

Play off Game.—Troop 2 Boy Scouts having succeeded in a protest against the award of the city league football championship to Troop 4, of the Y. M. C. A., on the ground of the playing of a man who was not in the troop sufficiently long, the game will be replayed on Saturday evening at 6.30 on Beacon Hill.

School Board This Evening.—The principal business which will engage the attention of the school board at the monthly meeting this evening will be the report of the building and grounds committee upon the state of accommodation. The board will be called upon to decide on a building programme for the future.

Barnardo Homes' Collection.—W. J. Mayers, who had charge of the Barnardo musical boys who were in the city recently giving two concerts for the Barnardo Homes' Fund, has written to H. J. Pollard, of this city, informing him that the gross amount gathered at the meetings here amounted to the sum of $518.59, to which sum the Lieutenant-Governor added $300, and that he is most gratified with the generous response and welcome given their efforts here.

Directors of several of the coast associations were there, and during the two days papers were read and discussed on various phases of that branch of association work. Mr. Beall read one on "Special Treatment for Y. M. C. A. members."

The director of playgrounds took the visitors out on a tour of the city playgrounds and parks. The playgrounds were found to be splendidly equipped. An institute meeting will be held at Portland during the first week in November for the physical directors of the northwest for the purpose of studying technical athletic subjects and the best methods to be followed in their work.

Mr. Beall returned yesterday afternoon from attending the conference.

MEDAL FOR ORATORY AWARDED TO STUDENT

Robert Hamilton Wins Distinction From Five Other Contestants

Robert Hamilton, who spoke on "The Need of Universal Peace," was awarded the medal presented by J. L. Beckwith for the best oratorical competitor in a contest which took place at the Victoria High School under the auspices of the Beta Delta Society last evening. P. Clyde, the president of the society, presided as chairman.

Beside the winning member, who put up a powerful and remarkably well-delivered argument on his subject, the following other competitors took part: Ewart Gee, who spoke on "Some Objections to the Present Naval Bill"; Harry Clark, who spoke on "The Scarlet Police"; Wm. Stubbs, on "Useless Extravagance"; Gordon Campbell, on "Advantages and Disadvantages of Labor Unions"; and Robert O'Meara, on "Insects as Carriers of Disease."

The adjudication committee, consisting of Rev. Wm. Stevenson, E. B. Paul and B. C. Nicholas, awarded the marks as follows: Mr. Hamilton, 263; Mr. O'Meara, 260; Mr. Gee, 255; Mr. Stubbs, 228; Mr. Campbell, 223; and Mr. Clark, 209.

It gave him great pleasure, in view of the singular success displayed in the competition, said Mr. Beckwith in presenting the medal, to offer another medal for competition next year, and he would like to express his pleasure at the capable manner in which the several lads had sustained their arguments.

"Surely, if this child's story is true, Copeland could be charged, too," said Magistrate Jay.

"That is being inquired into," replied the city prosecutor.

Since May 4, when the first incident happened, the girl has been living with Mrs. Ross in a house near Humboldt street with a Mr. Lucas.

"Have this girl's parents been notified of these things?" asked the magistrate. Inspector Perdue said he had told the mother, who had merely replied that she expected she would get some day. The father had also been notified but neither parent had been to see the girl.

Both she and another little girl of about the same age, who is also a witness, are being cared for by the Children's Aid Society, and are assured of having an interest taken in them henceforth by people of the right sort.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Louise Calvert took place this afternoon at 2.30 from the late residence, 1422 Camosun street, Rev. Dr. Scott officiating. There was an unusually large attendance of the deceased's friends and relatives while the floral tributes were as numerous as possible to cover the casket. There were seven pall-bearers: Messrs. George Ledingham, C. N. Tubman, Robert Walker, R. Osborne, W. J. Clarke and E. B. Jones.

MEDICAL COUNCIL

Licenses to Practice Issued to Many Doctors: Entertained by City Physicians.

The council of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of British Columbia met yesterday afternoon in the offices of the provincial board of health, at the parliament buildings, and among other matters of business disposed of was the reception and passing upon the report of the examiners in charge of the examinations just concluded here for admission to practice. The following have satisfactorily passed the prescribed requirements, and are now qualified and licensed to practice medicine and surgery in British Columbia:

J. A. Arthur, D. M. Battile, E. Bolton, E. W. Boak, E. Campbell, J. Duncan, J. E. Godfrey, S. G. Gordon, J. E. Griffiths, J. A. Houston, C. V. Mainwright, R. N. Miller, J. G. McCallum, J. McNichol, W. L. Ritchie, W. R. Scott, H. C. Steeves, A. H. Singleton, M. W. Thomas, J. P. Vye and W. H. Wood.

In the evening the members of the council were entertained at dinner by the Victoria Medical Association in the Balmoral hotel. Dr. Hermann M. Robertson was in the chair, and among the guests was Hon. Dr. Young.

URGED DAILY MAIL.

President of Board of Trade Drew Post Office Inspector's Attention to Alberni Service.

The presence in the city yesterday afternoon of W. W. McLeod, superintendent of post offices in the west, was taken advantage of by J. J. Shallicross, president of the Board of Trade, to impress the necessity of increasing the tri-weekly baggage car mail service on the Alberni extension to a daily mail car service.

This is a matter that the board has been urging for some time, and last week the attention of the department at Ottawa was again drawn to the great increase in business along this line, and the need for improving the facilities.

Mr. McLeod expressed his sympathy with the request made by the board and did not see why the mail service should not be made daily now that the trains run every day. He had no doubt that the change would be made as soon as the authorities at Ottawa looked into the petition of the Boards of Trade interested, and promised his favorable report on the matter.

When I came back and people said to me, "What did you think of Canada?" I could think of nothing that summed up better the salient distinctions between the Old World and the New than Canada's happy freedom from beggars and beggars, and the fact that so many of her workers had a smile on their lips instead of an oath.—Mr. L. S. Bensusan.

Comfort Your Stomach
We pay for this treatment if it fails to promptly relieve Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets remedy stomach troubles because they contain the proper proportion of Peppermint and Balsam and the necessary carminatives that help nature to supply the needs. The absence of starch in the gastric juices causes indigestion and dyspepsia. They aid the stomach to digest food and to
