(C) DETERMINING ISSUES AND MATERIAL CONSIDERATIONS

This proposal is to develop a commercial wind farm 10km south of Lochgilthead on elevated land overlooking the west coast of Loch Fyne. The proposal was originally conceived as a much larger project comprising 40 turbines to be located further inland within Knapdale, but such a scheme was, in the event, frustrated by the presence of upland birds. This had the consequence of pushing a reduced scheme of 14 turbines onto ridges of land immediately above the coast, where ornithological concerns were reduced, but where the development has assumed much more visual prominence than envisaged at the time when a wind farm in this locality was first conceived.

Because of its location and scale, this development has implications for a wide community of interest. Although situated within the Mid Argyll, Kintyre and the Islands area, it also has implications for the Bute and Cowal area, along with widespread cumulative impact consequences. The Council's Scheme of Delegation provides that in the event of planning applications affecting more than one of the four decentralised areas, proposals should be considered by the full Council rather than by Area Committee.

To date, consented wind farm sites in Mid Argyll and Kintyre, have been confined to areas around the head of Loch Fyne or in locations on the upland spine of Kintyre where the moderating effects of landscape and distance have enabled exploitation of the available wind resource without giving rise to unacceptable landscape, visual or cumulative impacts. The advantage of such sites is that wind turbines do not assert themselves on their immediate surroundings, being generally only visible at longer distances, where they do not therefore unnecessarily impose themselves on populated areas, transport routes and more valued scenic locations and vantage points.

In this case, the proposed site is above a coastal facing slope where it can be viewed at relatively close quarters, giving rise to a very significant impact on local communities, users of the loch and travellers on the A 83(T). Its inappropriate siting will also have wider consequences for sensitive viewpoints in the Knapdale National Scenic Area and also in terms of its significance in views across Loch Fyne from Cowal. In addition, its commanding presence will give rise to a disproportionate contribution to the adverse cumulative impact of wind farm development in Mid Argyll and Kintyre.

Objections raised by Scottish Natural Heritage on nature conservation grounds would be capable of being overcome by planning conditions/legal agreement in the event planning permission was to be granted. However, strong objections have been raised to the proposal by SNH on landscape, visual and cumulative impact grounds; primarily on the basis that the development secures a poor 'fit' with the landscape and asserts itself inappropriately on the sensitive coastal edge of small scale lochs, giving rise to adverse impacts on the experience and appreciation of these landscapes/seascapes. SNH state that their concerns could not be overcome by way of conditions or any form of mitigation. There are no other significant objections from consultees.

There have been 1,399 objections raised by individuals to the development, (of which 646 are from addresses in Argyll), along with objections from 3 organisations. 80 letters of support have been received (of which 71 are from Argyll addresses). The applicants have submitted 295 expressions of support for their proposal, arising from the local consultation exercise conducted by them (some of which are duplicated by letters received by the Council).

The proposal falls to be assessed against the landscape policies of the adopted local plan, the windfarm and landscape policies of the approved structure plan, the Council's 1995 Wind Farm Policy, the advice given in Planning Advice Note 45, and the recently update national policy on renewable energy as expressed in SPP 6. It is not appropriate to give any significant weight to the wind farm policy contained in the emergent 'Argyll and Bute Local Plan' (Modified Finalised Draft) 2006, as this is to be further modified as a result of representation, the recent updating of national policy in SPP6, and the local inquiry into the plan. Other uncontested policies in the draft plan which will not be subject to future modification remain relevant to the determination of the application.

In reaching a conclusion on the merits of this application, I have had particular regard to the Scottish Executive's drive to continue to expand renewable energy generation in line with the most recent advice in SPP 6 ((March 2007), which is the most up to date expression of government policy regarding wind farm development. In so doing, I have considered whether the identified adverse micro-environmental consequences of such development upon the locality, could reasonably be offset by the macro-environmental contribution that a project of this scale could produce, in terms of addressing climate change. However, having regard to material national and local policy considerations, the views expressed by consultees and third parties, and in particular the need to ensure that exploitation of the available wind resource continues to be directed to locations in Argyll which do not impinge unnecessarily on landscape and scenic resources, or give rise to unnecessary cumulative impacts whilst preferential locations remain undeveloped, I am recommending that the application be refused for the reason stated overleaf.

REASON FOR REFUSAL RELATIVE TO APPLICATION 06/01158/DET

1. The development proposed would be inappropriately located on elevated land immediately overlooking Loch Fyne, where its visual impact at close quarters on the skyline would assert a commanding presence upon the coast, which in turn, would have adverse consequences for the maintenance of landscape character. The coastline of the loch does not have the capacity to absorb such magnitude of change given that it is the focus of settlement in the area, the conduit for people travelling around the area using established land and sea transport routes, and in view of the scenic sensitivity it derives from the role it performs in the inter-relationship between seascape and landscape. The prominence of this location is such that the presence of turbines of the scale proposed would exert an all round influence, extending into Mid Argyll to the north, Cowal to the east, Knapdale to the west and north Kintyre to the south.

The proposed site fails to reinforce the established distribution of other consented wind farm sites in Mid Argyll and Kintyre, and would not share the advantageous locational characteristics of those developments. These have been largely confined to upland locations removed from coastal areas, where the shielding effect of topography and forestry, and the moderating effect of distance from sensitive viewpoints, conspire to reduce the visual and landscape significance of such large scale developments within areas of open countryside; thereby enabling the exploitation of the wind resource without unnecessarily compromising the landscape and scenic qualities of the area. This site, by virtue of its positioning and prominence, beyond those established locations above the head of Loch Fyne and on the upland spine of Kintyre, would extend the influence of wind farm development throughout the length of Loch Fyne, thereby giving rise to particularly damaging consequences in terms of sequential impacts, to the detriment of the landscape qualities and the visual amenity of the area.

In addition to the immediate adverse impacts the presence this wind farm would have upon Loch Gilp, west Loch Fyne, and the coastal margins of these lochs, it would also be significant in longer distance views, exerting an adverse influence upon isolated and sensitive locations along the west coast of Cowal, and upon scenic vantage points within the Knapdale National Scenic Area. The development by reason of its siting and scale would therefore give rise to adverse visual and landscape impacts, not only in terms of its immediate surroundings and its wider landscape setting, but also in terms of the disproportionate contribution it would make to the overall cumulative impact of wind power development in Argyll.

The foregoing considerations are of such magnitude that they cannot be reasonably offset by the projected benefits which a development of this scale would make to the achievement of climate change related commitments. The proposal would be contrary to Policies SI 1 and DC 8 of the 'Argyll and Bute Structure Plan' 2002; and to Policies RUR 1 and RUR 2 of the 'Mid Argyll Local Plan', which in particular, affords special protection to the Knapdale National Scenic Area, and the Loch Fyne - West Loch Tarbert area of local landscape significance. In view of its adverse consequences for views from west Cowal, it would also conflict with Policy RUR 1 of the Cowal Local Plan (1995). In view of the foregoing, It would also be contrary to Policy ENV 10 of the 'Argyll and Bute Local Plan' Finalised Draft 2005, and would conflict with Policy WF 1 of the Council's non-statutory 'Wind Farm Policy' 1995, and with government guidance given in SPP 6 (2007) and PAN 45 (2002).

APPENDIX RELATIVE TO APPLICATION 06/001158/DET

A. POLICY OVERVIEW

Scottish Planning Policy 6 (SPP6 – revised 2007) ‘Renewable Energy’
Planning Advice Note 45 (PAN 45 – revised 2002) ‘Renewable Energy Technologies’

The promotion of renewable sources of electricity generation is endorsed as a means of meeting climate change commitments, achieving sustainable development and securing a diversity of sources of supply. A more co-ordinated approach than hitherto is advocated, using development plans to provide opportunities for windfarm development and identifying these spatially. Detailed advice is given on the manner in which such a spatial framework should be produced. In the meantime, applications should continue to be determined pending the adoption of such policies. The Scottish Executive is committed to increasing the amount of renewable energy used in Scotland, whilst at the same time safeguarding natural heritage interests, including the conservation of landscape and the maintenance of biodiversity, respecting the historic environment, and engaging with the community.

It is recognised that in the short-term onshore wind power will continue to be the primary source of renewable generation. Consequently, careful consideration must be given to the need to address cumulative impacts. Proposals should be considered against criteria based development plan policies addressing those considerations reviewed in PAN 45.

Consideration of the significance of the identified adverse impacts of a wind farm proposal should be explicitly considered, in the light of the scale of contribution which a project would be capable of making to the Scottish Executive’s targets for renewable energy.

Other relevant national planning policy guidance includes:

- SPP 1: The Planning System (2002)
- NPPG 5: Archaeology and Planning (1998)
- NPPG 14: Natural Heritage (2005)
- SPP 15: Rural Development (2005)
- NPPG 18: Planning and the Historic Environment (1999)
- SOED Circular 6/95 (as revised June 2000): Habitats Directive.

The underlying principle of all NPPG/SPPs and related policies is sustainable development. Some NPPGs are intended to encourage development, while others are intended to safeguard resources and features of national and international importance. Policies in the latter group do not necessarily preclude renewable energy developments, but development proposals should avoid significant adverse impact upon the character, quality, integrity and setting of designated resources.

‘Argyll and Bute Structure Plan’ 2002

Policy STRAT SI 1 – Sustainable Development.

Argyll and Bute Council shall adhere to the following principles in considering development proposals, and in its policies, proposals and land allocations in Local Plans. It will seek to:-

- a) maximise the opportunity for local community benefit;
- b) make efficient use of vacant and/or brownfield land;
- c) support existing communities and maximise the use of existing service infrastructure;
- d) maximise the opportunities for sustainable forms of design, including energy efficiency;
- e) avoid the use of prime quality or locally important good quality agricultural land;
- f) use public transport routes fully and increase walking and cycling networks;
- g) avoid the loss of recreational and amenity open space;
- h) conserve the natural and built environment and avoid significant adverse impacts on biodiversity, natural and built heritage resources;
- i) respect the landscape character of an area and the setting and character of settlements;
- j) avoid places where there is a significant risk of flooding, tidal inundation, coastal erosion or ground instability; and
- k) avoid having an adverse effect on land, air and water quality.

Policy STRAT DC 7 – Nature Conservation and Development Control

- A) Development likely to have a significant effect on a Natura Site will be subject to an appropriate assessment. The development will only be permitted where the assessment indicates that it will not adversely affect the integrity of the site, or, there are no alternative solutions and there are imperative reasons of overriding public interest.
- B) On sites of national importance, SSSIs and NNRs, development will only be permitted where it can be demonstrated that the overall objectives of the designation and the overall integrity of the designated area would not be compromised, or where any adverse impacts are clearly outweighed by social or economic benefits of national importance.
- C) Development which impacts on Local Wildlife Sites or other nature conservation interest, including sites, habitats or species at risk as identified in the Local Biodiversity Action Plan, shall be assessed carefully to determine its acceptability balance along with national – or local – social or economic considerations.
- D) Enhancement to nature conservation interest will also be encouraged in association with development and land use proposals.

Policy STRAT DC 8 – Landscape and Development Control

1. Development which, by reason of location, siting, scale, form, design or cumulative impact, damages or undermines the key environmental features of a visually contained or wider landscape or coastscape shall be treated as 'non-sustainable' and is contrary to this policy. Outwith the National Park particularly important or vulnerable landscapes in Argyll and Bute are those associated with:
 - a) National Scenic Areas;
 - b) Historic landscapes and their settings with close links with archaeology and built heritable and/or historic gardens and designed landscapes;
 - c) Landward and coastal areas with semi-wilderness or isolated or panoramic quality.
2. Protection, conservation and enhancement to landscape will also be encouraged in association with development and land use proposals.

Policy STRAT DC 9 – Historic Environmental and Development Control

Protection, conservation, enhancement and positive management of the historic environment is promoted. Development that damages or undermines the historic, architectural or cultural qualities of the historic environment will be resisted; particularly if it would affect a Scheduled Ancient Monument or its setting, other recognised architectural site of national or regional importance, listed building or its setting, conservation area or historic garden or designed landscape.

Policy STRAT RE 1 – Wind Farm/Wind Turbine Development

- A) Wind farm development is encouraged where it is consistent with STRAT DC 7, 8 and 9. Proposals shall be supported where it can be demonstrated there is no significant adverse effect on:
 - Local communities;
 - Natural environment;
 - Landscape character and visual amenity;
 - Historic environment;
 - Telecommunications, transmitting or receiving systems; and
- B) The Council will identify, with appropriate justification in the Local Plan, broad areas of search or, where appropriate, specific sites where wind energy development may be permitted. The Council will also indicate sensitive areas or sites which it is adjudged that for overriding environmental reasons, proposals for wind farm development would only be considered in exceptional circumstances in line with the criteria set out above. Issues associated with the cumulative impact of wind farm and wind turbine developments will be addressed. This will be done in partnership with the industry and other interested parties including local communities.

Mid Argyll Local Plan' (1985 and 1st Review 1989)

POL RUR 1

The Council will seek to maintain and where possible enhance the landscape quality of National Scenic Areas and areas of local landscape significance, and within these areas will resist prominent or sporadic development which would have an adverse environmental impact:

- a) Knapdale National Scenic Area;
- d) iii) Area of local landscape significance: Loch Fyne - West Loch Tarbert.

It should also be noted that in view of its scale and visibility from a distance, the proposal would have consequences for landscape designations in Cowal and Bute, beyond the 'Mid Argyll Local Plan' area – namely Regional Scenic and local landscape designations on the east coast of Loch Fyne, which are afforded protection by Policy RUR 1 of the 'Cowal Local Plan' 1995.

POL RUR 2

Proposals for development in or affecting National Scenic Areas and Coasts or areas of local landscape significance will be required to be assessed against the following criteria:

- (a) environmental impact
- (b) locational/operational need
- (c) economic benefit
- (d) infrastructure and servicing implications

POL BE 1

The Council will encourage new works or uses which will result in the preservation and/or positive enhancement of Buildings of Architectural and Historic interest, ancient monuments and Sites of archaeological Importance. The Council will normally permit only those alterations to Statutory listed Buildings which maintain and/or enhance their special architectural or historic qualities. The Council will seek to protect the sites and settings of Buildings of Architectural and Historic Importance from development which would have a detrimental impact.

'Argyll and Bute Local Plan' (Finalised Draft) 2005

Policy LP ENV 1 – Development Impact on the General Environment

In all Development Control Zones the council will assess applications for planning permission for their impact on the natural, human and built environment. The following general considerations (summarised below) will be taken into account:

- a) impacts on amenity and the environment as a whole;
- b) location and nature of the development, including land use, design and appearance;
- c) access considerations;
- d) infrastructure considerations;
- e) water resources;
- f) government guidance and other development plan policies.

In particular the Council will resist development proposals that would have a significant adverse impact on the integrity or character of designated sites (including nature conservation and landscape designations).

As this policy has been subject to adverse representation, it may only be accorded little weight as a material consideration in the determination of this application, as it is likely to be subject to modification prior to the adoption of the plan.

Policy LP ENV 2 – Development Impact on Biodiversity

When considering development proposals the Council will seek to contribute to the delivery of the objectives and targets set by the Local Biodiversity action Plan. Proposals that incorporate existing site interests within the design wherever possible will be encouraged. Where there is evidence to suggest that a habitat or species of local importance exists on a proposed development site, the Council will require the applicant, at his/her own expense, to submit a specialist survey of the natural environment.

Applications with significant adverse impacts will be refused unless the developer proves to the satisfaction of the Planning Authority that the following criteria are met:

- a) There is no suitable alternative site for the development; and
- b) Satisfactory steps are taken to avoid, mitigate or compensate for damage.

As this policy has not been subject to adverse representation, it may be accorded significant weight as a material consideration in the determination of this application.

Policy LP ENV 3 – Development Impact on European and Ramsar Sites

In all Development Control Zones development not directly connected with or necessary to the management of a European site and which is likely to have a significant effect on the site (either individually or cumulatively in combination with other plans or projects) will be subject to rigorous examination. Where it cannot be ascertained that the development would not adversely affect the integrity of the site it will not be supported unless:

- a) There is no alternative solution, and
- b) There are imperative reasons of overriding public interest....

Where the European site hosts a priority habitat type and/or a priority species (as defined in Article 1 of the habitats Directive), the reasons referred to at b) must relate to human health, public safety, or beneficial consequences of primary importance to the environment, or other reasons which in the opinion of the European Commission are imperative reasons of overriding public interest.

As this policy has not been subject to adverse representation, it may be accorded significant weight as a material consideration in the determination of this application.

Policy LP ENV 5 – Development Impact on SSSI's

In all Development Control Zones development which would affect sites of Special Scientific Interest will only be permitted where it can be adequately demonstrated that either:

- a) The proposed development will not compromise the conservation objectives and overall integrity of the site; or
- b) There is a proven public interest where social, economic, or safety considerations outweigh the ecological interest of the site and the need for the development cannot be met in less ecologically damaging locations or by reasonable alternative means.

As this policy has not been subject to adverse representation, it may be accorded significant weight as a material consideration in the determination of this application.

Policy LP ENV 6 – Development Impact on Habitats and Species

In considering development proposals, the Council will give full consideration to the legislation, policies and conservation objectives that may apply to the following:

- Habitats and species listed under Annex I, II and IV of the Habitats directive
- Species listed under Annex 1 of the Birds Directive;
- Species listed on Schedules 1,5 and 8 of the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981, (and as amended by the Nature Conservation(Scotland) Act 2004);
- Habitats and Species listed in the UK Biodiversity Action Plan; and
- Habitats and Species which are widely regarded as locally important as identified in the Local Biodiversity Action Plan.

As this policy has not been subject to adverse representation, it may be accorded significant weight as a material consideration in the determination of this application.

Policy ENV 16 – There will be a presumption in favour of retaining, protecting, preserving and enhancing Scheduled ancient monuments and their setting. Developments that have an adverse impact on Scheduled ancient Monuments and their setting will be resisted.

As this policy has not been subject to adverse representation, it may be accorded significant weight as a material consideration in the determination of this application.

Policy LP REN 1 – Commercial Wind Farm Development

- a) Wind farm and wind turbine development is not compatible with constrained areas as defined on the Wind Farm policy Map), and will be resisted unless, exceptionally it can be demonstrated that it will not have an adverse effect on those interests which define the constrained nature of the area and the criteria listed in b) below.
- b) Areas with some capacity to accommodate commercial wind farms and wind turbines are identified on the Wind farm Policy Map as 'Preferred Areas Of Search'..... (the application site lies outside the areas so identified).

As this policy has been subject to adverse representation, it may only be accorded little weight as a material consideration in the determination of this application, as it is likely to be subject to modification prior to the adoption of the plan.

'Wind Farm Policy' 1995

The Council's Wind Farm Policy 1995 arose from the need to address the complex issues regarding the impact of such developments on the environment and to assist developers in site selection and to indicate the type of information required. This remains relevant, and in the context of this planning application relevant policies include:

Policy WF 1 states that the Council will support wind farms which are consistent with existing development plan policies and of a high quality of design but will resist developments which either cumulatively or individually, would have an adverse impact on the environment by virtue of scale, location, setting or design.

Policy WF 2, other than exceptional circumstances, presumes against windfarm developments in or affecting Special Protection Areas, Special Areas of Conservation and Ramsar sites; and National Scenic Areas, SSSI's and Natural Heritage Areas.

Policies WF 6 and WF 7 seek to resist wind farms within 300m of residential properties or which are likely to result in shadow flicker on occupied premises or be a potential distraction to drivers.

Policy WF 8 states that developments which would have an adverse affect on telecommunications, will be resisted.

Policy WF 9 states that the Council will protect bird species covered by EC Directives by resisting wind farms which are likely to affect the breeding, feeding, roosting and flight areas (ie., areas of caution) of specially protected bird species.

Policy WF11 seeks to minimise long term visual and ecological impact and seeks the developer to enter into a legal agreement and financial bond to secure the highest quality of re-instatement.

Policy WF12 states that wind farms should normally be operational within two years of approval.

Policy WF13 recognises that wind farms are essentially temporary structures and states that the Council will:

- impose conditions of permission to ensure that such sites are fully restored upon the expiry of consent;
- seek legal agreements to secure a financial bond to cover such costs;
- normally grant permission for an initial period of 20 years.

B. OTHER MATERIAL CONSIDERATIONS

(i) Site History

None relevant to this particular site.

The project was originally conceived as a larger scheme to the west of the application site comprising 40 turbines. That project was the subject of an Environmental Impact Assessment 'Scoping Opinion' issued by the Scottish Executive in October 2004 (in view of the fact that a development of that scale would have required authorisation by the government under the Electricity Act 1989, rather than by way of a planning application). In the event, an application for a development on that scale and in that location was not pursued in favour of the current proposal, primarily due to conflict with ornithological interests.

(ii) Consultations

Scottish Executive Environment Group (26.06.06 and 24.05.07) – no objection.

Scottish Executive Trunk Roads (10.07.06 and 31.05.07 – no objection.

Area Roads Manager (original proposal 08.06.06) – no objection.

Scottish Environment Protection Agency (03.08.06 and 04.06.07) – objected to the original submission on the grounds that it failed to demonstrate to their satisfaction that the proposal would not have an unacceptable impact on the water environment and ecological interests. In particular, there were concerns about inadequately specified watercourse crossings, lack of information on drainage and abstractions, and pollution/waste management measures. There were also concerns expressed about potential peat slides or bog bursts requiring additional detail. Whilst it was accepted that some of the concerns could be addressed by way of planning conditions, additional information prior to the determination of the application was also requested. SEPA has noted subsequently that peat stability has been assessed in the Environmental Statement addendum but that watercourse crossings have not been detailed.

Comment: In my view, construction related issues such as working method statement, drainage plan and bridging of watercourse are all matters of detail which could be appropriately addressed by way of condition (enabling the input of a contractor prior to construction) and should not affect the acceptability of the development in principle.

Historic Scotland (30.06.06 and 16.05.07) – no objection.

Scottish Water (28.08.06) – no objection.

Health and Safety Executive (12.06.06) - no objection.

West of Scotland Archaeology – no response.

Ofcom (27.06.06) – identifies telecommunications which may be affected by the proposal but does not raise objection.

NATS (11.07.06 and 24.08.06) – originally lodged a holding objection which was withdrawn following a subsequent detailed operational assessment.

Prestwick Airport (20.06.06) – no objection.

Defence Estates – no response.

Scottish Natural Heritage (21.09.06) – objected to the original submission on nature conservation and landscape/visual grounds, for the following summarised reasons:

- Significant adverse landscape and visual impacts arising from the site, both in isolation and also considered cumulatively with other consented sites, particularly in terms of the Loch Fyne Regional Scenic Coast and the Knapdale National Scenic Area;
- Adverse impacts on black throated divers associated with the Knapdale Lochs SPA (unless appropriate conditions were to be imposed);
- Lack of information concerning impacts upon blanket bog and wet heath and the absence of a peat stability assessment;
- Lack of information regarding impacts on Golden Eagle, Hen Harrier, Red-throated Diver, Whooper Swan and Black Grouse;

- It was indicated that residual concerns regarding other issues, including construction methods, decommissioning and restoration could be addressed by way of conditions.

Following the submission of the Environmental Statement addendum providing additional ornithological and ecological information, Scottish Natural Heritage reassessed its position (29.05.07) as follows:

- Objections on landscape/visual and cumulative impact grounds are sustained;
- Objections on the grounds of adverse impact upon the Knapdale Lochs SPA are sustained (but could be overcome by conditions);
- Objections on grounds of impacts on Golden Eagle and Hen Harrier are sustained (but could be overcome by condition/legal agreement), whilst objections relating to other bird species have been withdrawn. In particular, residual concern remains about incremental attrition of sub-adult eagle territory across Argyll, which could only be overcome in the event of this development, by habitat enhancement away from the turbines.
- Objections are raised on grounds of impact upon blanket bog (but could be overcome by conditions requiring drainage infrastructure to be approved, and the mitigation measures in the submitted peat slide risk assessment to be implemented).

In conclusion, Scottish Natural Heritage's nature conservation concerns could be addressed by way of planning condition/legal agreement in the event of a permission being granted. However, their landscape/visual/ cumulative impact concerns could not be overcome in view of the fundamentally inappropriate location of this development. The proposal would represent dispersal from the existing/consent windfarm development concentrated on the spine of Kintyre and around the head of Loch Fyne. It would fail to consolidate the established locational pattern of windfarms and it would increase the dispersal of windfarm development along Loch Fyne where it would intrude into sensitive landscape/seascape. Its location in a visually prominent location on an upland edge overlooking the loch would impinge on this sensitive coastal margin and have significant adverse consequences for landscape character and visual amenity. Scottish Natural Heritage concludes that the proposal has a poor 'fit' with the landscape and its scale and proximity to the skyline above the loch, will detract from the character and experience of this coastal edge, and will assert itself inappropriately in key close quarter and longer distance views.

Royal Society for the Protection of Birds (11.08.06 and 29.06.07) – Due to deficiencies in the original Environmental Statement, RSPB did not feel able to come to a firm conclusion on the acceptability of the scheme, and therefore objected to the original submission. In particular, it was considered that the Environmental Statement underestimated the significance of the area for immature Golden Eagle and failed to provide sufficient data to allow verification of anticipated collision risk. It was felt that the development would also contribute to the continued fragmentation of open eagle habitat along the spine of the Kintyre - Knapdale peninsula. It was also considered that the value of blanket bog had been underestimated.

In commenting subsequent to the submission of the Environmental Statement addendum, the RSPB notes that they are satisfied with the collision risk assessment. However, they confirm that they would maintain their objection unless conditions/legal agreement were imposed to ensure compensatory habitat enhancement, the monitoring of eagle/diver collisions, and in the event of impacts being more significant than anticipated, a requirement to implement additional mitigation measures. They remain of the view that an appropriate off-site habitat enhancement programme to benefit raptors would be fundamental to the acceptability of this proposal.

Lochgilphed Community Council (17.07.06) – advise that the Council should hold a local hearing prior to the determination of the application in order that the advantages and disadvantages of the proposal may be discussed in a public forum.

South Knapdale Community Council (11.09.06) – no objection (although it is pointed out by two individuals that the majority attending the meeting when the proposal was discussed were residents or employees of the Ormsary Estate who are the owners of the site in question).

Tarbert and Skipness Community Council (03.07.06) – expresses support for the proposal.

Ardriashaig Community Council (31.07.06) – objects to the proposal, on the grounds of conflict with the draft local plan, visual impact, adverse effects on tourism, disturbance to birds, distraction to users of the A83 and possible demand for an additional pylon line.

(iii) Publicity

The proposal has been advertised in the Argyllshire Advertiser and the Dunoon Observer in terms of:

Advert Type: Section 34 (structures over 20 metres in height), Article 9 (vacant land) as a 'potential departure' to the provisions of the approved Development Plan, and under Regulation 13 of the Environmental Assessment (Scotland) Regulation 1999

Closing Dates: 04.08.06 (original submission) and 01.06.07 (Environmental Statement addendum)

In addition to the above, the applicants have submitted 295 written expressions of support arising from a local consultation exercise undertaken by them. Of these, 33 originate from addresses in Cowal and 262 from addresses in Mid Argyll and Kintyre (N.B. some of these duplicate letters of support received by the Council). These express general support for renewable energy, and are of the view that the development will not detract from the landscape of the area, nor have adverse consequences for the tourist economy.

It should be noted that some objectors/supporters have written more than one letter of representation during the course of the consideration of the application, in which case for the purposes of the figures above, they have been counted as a single response.

Expressions of Support

The various grounds of support may be summarised as follows (names and addresses are listed in Appendix 1):

- 1) There is a responsibility to develop renewable energy sources in the interests of the global environment;
- 2) It is important to support renewables in preference to less palatable alternatives such as nuclear generation;
- 3) Wind power is a benign means of diversifying the rural economy, by supporting farm businesses and providing local employment in construction;
- 4) Turbines are a temporary feature as they are capable of being dismantled at the end of their operational life;
- 5) The project will pay for a community fund which would be a valuable source of funding for rural community projects;
- 6) Turbines are not necessarily a disincentive to tourists. It is a subjective issue and some people will find wind farms interesting to observe at close quarters.

Letters of support have also been received from the Stronachullin Estate (14.6.06 and 25.04.07) and the Ormsary Estate (07.06.06 and 25.7.07) who are the two owners of the land proposed to be developed. They raise the following matters:

- 1) The income from renewable energy will support the estates and allow future improvements and investment;
- 2) Diversification is necessary to support economically active rural communities;
- 3) There are no other viable opportunities which can provide such a sustained and reliable income to support estate employment;
- 4) Orchestrated opposition to wind farms replicates past arguments against commercial forestry, hydro power and fish farming, all of which have proved valuable to the local economy and have not proven to have driven tourists or wildlife away;
- 5) The chosen site is a good compromise between visual and ecological impact and technical viability.
- 6) The wider benefits of renewable energy and the benefits which would accrue to the estates involved should be borne in mind in reaching a decision.

In response to the consultation and third party responses generated during the processing of this application, the applicants NPower, have submitted a statement of support for their application at the conclusion of the process (23.8.07), which may be summarised as follows:

- 1) The site has been selected due to its exposure to prevailing winds, ease of grid connection, relative remoteness from centres of population, low impact on the natural environment, and limited visual impact other than from a few viewpoints;
- 2) The scale of the site has been reduced to limit its impact. Mention is made of possibly deleting two further turbines to prevent visibility from the Knapdale NSA.
- 3) The development will provide employment during construction and operation, and a fund will be created to support community projects.
- 4) The applicants are a leader in the development of electricity from renewable sources and have a proven track record in successful schemes.

- 5) There is no hard evidence to confirm that wind farms impact negatively on tourism. Both landowners in this case have tourism interests and do not regard the development as being in conflict with them.
- 6) The development will make a contribution to fulfilling national energy policy commitments to reduce reliance on fossil fuels. At the end of its 25 year design life it would be capable of being removed if it were decided at that time that there was no further need for it.

Grounds of objection

The various grounds of objection may be summarised as follows (names and addresses are listed in Appendix 2):

- 1) The development will have an adverse visual influence over a widespread area of scenic value; including parts of the A83 extending back from Inverneill up Loch Fyne to Furnace, the road to Ormsary, views across from Cowal and from Loch Fyne itself, and from vantage points on the west coast including Loch Caolisport and the Sound of Jura. It will also impact adversely upon local communities, including Inverneill, Ardrishaig and Lochgilphead;
- 2) The development will have a widespread impact across North Kintyre, Mid Argyll and West Cowal. The adverse local impacts of the proposal cannot be offset by the minimal contribution the development will make to energy supply and to the global environment. The development will not rectify an energy crisis; it will simply degrade one of the area's best assets, the quality of its landscape and the value of its unspoilt scenery. This will deter visitors to the detriment of the tourist economy;
- 3) The proposal would dominate the Knapdale National Scenic Areas and would adopt a commanding position in the designated local scenic area on both sides of Loch Fyne, contrary to approved development plan policy;
- 4) A prominently located site such as this would contribute disproportionately to the cumulative impact of existing wind farm sites around the Clyde and Argyll coast, negatively influencing visitors' perception of the area. Kintyre and other parts of Argyll have already reached saturation point with such developments.
- 5) The Loch Fyne coast is an important tourist destination which should not to be disfigured by wind farms, when available evidence shows that most tourists are sensitive to their presence. Even if it would not deter visitors from visiting Argyll, it would encourage people to pass through without stopping to the detriment of the local tourist economy;
- 6) The Knapdale ridge acts as a landscape backdrop to Loch Fyne and is subject to endlessly changing cloud and weather systems and has a light quality, particularly in the evenings which is to be valued and ought not to be disfigured by the presence and motion of industrial scale development;
- 7) The development would contravene a raft of national and local policies intended to protect landscape and ecological interests from inappropriately located development. It does not lie within any of the preferred areas for wind farm development identified in the 'Argyll and Bute Local Plan';
- 8) The wind farm would threaten and displace protected birds; particularly eagles who use the surrounding area as dispersion territory and divers breeding on upland lochs;
- 9) The development could adversely affect peat, soil and watercourses. Given the potential damage to blanket bog on the site, the development may even contribute to global warming by removing a significant carbon sink. The loss of peat bog amounts to the destruction of an aspect of nature which already controls CO² emissions;
- 10) Wind farms remain an unreliable intermittent and unpredictable source of energy reliant upon conventional power stations for back-up when wind generation is not possible. These developments are only viable because of the subsidies available and benefit the few at the expense of the many on purported grounds of global sustainability. In the event of subsidy being cut in a change of government policy, developers will abandon these high liability investments leaving the landscape permanently scarred. Wind farms give dangerously false reassurance to those continuing to consume unsustainable amounts of energy;

- 11) Rural communities are finding themselves pressurised to accommodate inappropriately located wind farms in the interests of sustainability. Scotland is already energy sufficient so power will be exported to the benefit of consumers elsewhere, and to the benefit of investors fuelled by subsidies and trading in green credits, whilst scenic landscape is degraded at the expense of those dependant locally on income from tourism. The true reason for erecting damaging turbines is not the environmental benefit, but the profits to be made by landowners and developers from available subsidies;
- 12) The energy expended on the manufacturing of turbines, the construction of wind farms, their connection to the grid, maintenance and decommissioning outweighs any benefits associated with the small amount of energy produced. Additionally, it is unsustainable to generate electricity in locations so remote from consumers, given the loss of energy involved in long-distance electricity transmission;
- 13) Preference is expressed for offshore wind generation, hydro and wave and tidal power sources which do not have the same visual, noise, ecological and landscape consequences as onshore turbines.

ArgyllWinfarms.com has raised a range of issues in the substantial representation it has made against the proposal, which may be summarised as follows:

- 1) The Environmental Statement understates landscape impact by suggesting that sensitivity beyond 3 - 4km will not be high, which is not the case. The proposal will have unprecedented landscape impact on the Knapdale NSA and Loch Fyne local scenic area. Never before has an Argyll NSA been so threatened by a proposed windfarm and this alone would constitute extremely strong grounds for refusal in accordance with national and local planning policy. In addition, its dominant position above Loch Fyne impacting upon the area around Lochgilphead and the west Cowal coast compounds the adverse landscape consequences of the development;
- 2) The wind farm will have adverse visual consequences for a range of communities, transport routes and historic sites. Visual impacts cannot be mitigated in this location by good siting and design, because the location is so open and fundamentally inappropriate;
- 3) Whereas the Environmental Statement accurately assesses combined visibility of multiple sites, it fails to accurately assess sequential views of wind farms experienced when travelling through the landscape. It fails to address all the relevant proposed wind farms and underestimates the significance of the development for travellers on the A83, for passengers on the Islay ferry, or for those arriving in Kintyre from Arran. The proposal would disperse wind farm development away from the central upland areas of Kintyre into coastal areas where it would unnecessarily impinge on the landscape character of the Knapdale NSA;
- 4) The development would impact upon blanket bog and peatland habitat to the detriment of biodiversity. Significant loss of bog would occur and peat slide would remain a risk. The applicant's peat slide assessment does not use the Scottish Executive's recommended methodology (as it was commissioned before it was produced) and it is questioned whether the findings can be relied upon. Lack of proper field investigation and reliance on assumptions means that no credibility can be placed on the applicant's assertion that turbines will be located in areas least at risk from slippage;
- 5) There is insufficient ornithological evidence to demonstrate that protected birds will not be placed at unacceptable risk, due to the inadequacy of data collected. In particular, fragmentation of immature eagle territory would occur, which would compound cumulative eagle habitat loss arising from multiple wind farms in Argyll;

- 6) Noise impacts are not properly assessed, and evidence from other sites demonstrates that noise can be carried up to several kilometres in which case downwind locations such as Inverneill could be adversely affected;
- 7) Economic benefits of the proposal are over-stated. There is no guarantee that turbines will be sourced locally, and operational employment will be negligible. Research produced by VisitScotland confirms that the consensus of tourists is that wind farms ought to be located away from areas frequented by tourists;
- 8) The CO² savings associated with the proposal are miniscule and ought not to be over-estimated in reaching a decision on the merits of the scheme. In addition, the oxidation of displaced blanket bog as a consequence of construction and the loss of the carbon store function it performs, raises questions over the sense of a renewable energy project aimed at reducing CO², which would release carbon dioxide when it is built;
- 9) The Environmental Statement fails to properly document the consideration of alternative sites for the proposal, as required by the EIA Regulations. The developers concede that environmental constraints affecting the wider area have pushed the development onto visually prominent high ground. This should not be viewed as the only acceptable alternative, when it would be possible to consider other less damaging locations in preference to any site in Knapdale.

C. ASSESSMENT

The proposal

The application relates to an upland area overlooking the west coast of Loch Fyne, lying on the northern end of a ridge of high ground separating West Loch Tarbert from Loch Caolisport. It is located 10km south of Lochgilphead and 6km north of Tarbert. It lies to the west of the A83(T) some 3.5km south of the settlement of Inverneill. The proposed turbines are to be situated to the north-east of the summit of Cruach a' Phubuill (477m) and to the south-west of Sron Doire (319m), with a group of 9 turbines on the ridge to the south, and a further group of 5 turbines a little to the north. The site is situated immediately to the north of the locally well known summit of Meall Mhor, with its distinctive array of transmission masts which are visible over a wide area.

The site comprises relatively inaccessible elevated moorland which is dissected by a number of burns, including Allt Dearg which feeds from the upper slopes of Cruach a' Phubuill to the Stronchullin Burn. The upland slopes are surrounded by areas of forestry on lower ground to the north, the west and the south east. The site consists mainly of upland blanket bog on deep peat with areas of wet acid grass and wet heath. Blanket bog is a UK Biodiversity Action Plan Priority Habitat and subject to Annex 1 of the EC Habitats Directive, and is therefore of national significance, although there are no specific nature conservation designations within the site. The closest nature conservation interest is at Loch Fuar-Bheinne (1.5km to the north-west). This forms part of the Knapdale Lochs Site of Special Scientific (SSSI) and Area of Special Protection for Birds (SPA), which is afforded European protection in view of its value to upland breeding birds. A further SSSI lies 1km to the east covering coastal oak/beech woodland around the Artilligan and Abhain Srathain Burns.

There are no historic designations affecting the site, and no scheduled monuments within 5km. The closest location of significant historical interest is the designed landscape at Stonefield Castle to the north of Tarbert.

The nearest residential properties are approximately 2.5 km away from the proposed windfarm, at Stronchullin Farm and Artilligan Cottage.

Access to the site is proposed to be taken from the A83(T) via an improvement of the existing access serving Stronchullin Farm. One of the two construction compounds and the proposed switchgear building are to be situated close to the farmstead (the other compound being up on the site of the turbines). The access to the site would then roughly follow the route of the Stronchullin Burn and the Allt Dearg to reach the network of tracks necessary to serve individual turbine locations.

This access would pass the site of a proposed borrow pit located in a forested area, which would be intended to provide an on-site source of stone to serve the needs of construction (to be the subject of a separate mineral planning consent application). It is envisaged that an area 220 x 110 metres would require to be worked to a maximum depth of 15 metres in order to provide the 125,000m² of stone necessary to form the access tracks and turbine foundations.

Cabling on the site would be underground. The construction of a sub-station necessary to connect the scheme to the existing national grid transmission line along west Loch Fyne would be the subject of a separate planning application. The construction period for the project is estimated at being 12-18 months, and the wind farm would have a design life of 25 years.

Renewable energy policy

In considering this proposal, in addition to having regard to local environmental issues, it is necessary to have regard to those macro-environmental factors which are material considerations in assessing the acceptability of renewable energy developments. UK energy policy has its most up to date expression in the Energy White Paper 2003, which sets a long term goal of reducing UK CO₂ emissions by 60% by 2050, in order to address global warming and climate change. In Scotland, the Renewable Obligation (Scotland) Order 2005 requires electricity suppliers to provide 18% of their electricity from renewable sources by 2010, with an aspirational target of 40% by 2020. Given that Scotland is estimated to have 20% of the European wind resource, it is important that wind energy should be exploited where it does not compromise other overriding environmental considerations. The current application proposal would have an installed capacity of 42 MW, which would be likely to yield an average output sufficient to meet the electricity needs of over 16,000 homes over its design life of 25 years.

In terms of the most up to date expression of national planning policy, SPP 6 (revised 2007) indicates the importance of Scotland's renewable resource to the UK as a whole, and acknowledges that despite developmental work in other areas of renewable generation, in the short-term, most new capacity will be expected to come from onshore wind farms. Increasing exploitation of onshore sites is making cumulative impact of multiple wind farms and increasingly important consideration. Emphasis is placed on the production of spatially led and criteria based development plan policies in order to direct future development to appropriate locations. In cases where there are local considerations which might frustrate wind farm development, explicit consideration should be given as to whether these could be offset by the contribution which such development could make to climate change related obligations.

In terms of Development Plan policy, the adopted Mid Argyll Local Plan was produced in advance of the development of commercial wind farms, and therefore it does not have policies relating specifically to the siting of wind turbines. It does, however, through policies RUR 1 and 2 exert influence over developments which would have undesirable effects on scenic areas, and nature conservation interests, particularly in the case of designated sites.

The adopted Structure Plan, through Policy STRAT RE 1, reflects government policy in expressing support for the development of windfarms provided that they do not have adverse consequences for landscape assets, the historic environment, nature conservation interests, local communities or telecommunications installations. In addition to statutory policy, the Council's 1995 'Wind Farm Policy' still remains relevant, and may be considered in conjunction with the more recently adopted structure plan policies.

The structure plan indicates that through the local plan process, the Council will seek to identify specific areas of search for future wind power developments. Whilst the Modified Finalised Draft of the 'Argyll and Bute Local Plan' (2006) introduces sensitive areas for wind farms which are defined spatially, representations lodged in respect of the wind farm policies of the plan mean that they may only be accorded very limited weight in the determination of this application, as in view of significant representations and the recent updating of national policy, the policies will require to be reviewed as part of the ongoing public local inquiry into the plan, and will be subject to change.

For the record, the plan includes the site within a 'constrained area' (within which there is a presumption against wind farm development other than in exceptional cases where an applicant is able to demonstrate that there would not be adverse impacts in terms of the various criteria set out within the policy). The applicants are one of the parties contesting the renewable energy provisions of the draft plan.

The Environmental Statement

The application is accompanied by an Environmental Statement submitted as part of the original application, which has been supplemented latterly by an Environmental Statement Addendum which takes account of information deficiencies identified by consultees during the application process. The purpose of the Environmental Statement is to identify any significant effects on the environment arising from the development proposed, to assess the magnitude of those effects, and the extent to which they can be avoided or mitigated as part of the design and implementation process.

The key issues arising from the environmental statement, as amended, are summarised and commented upon below, and form the structure of the assessment of the environmental aspects of the proposal:

A) Landscape and visual considerations

Background - The proposal involves the development of an upland ridge in south Knapdale overlooking the west coast of Loch Fyne to the south of Meal Mhor. This elevated location is visible from areas around Lochgilphead and Ardrishaig, from the A83(T) travelling south towards Tarbert, from the Inverneill - Ormsary road and elevated points in Knapdale; and, across Loch Fyne from locations in west Cowal. The site is of significance in a number of key views which tend to be channelled along the length of the loch and focused upon the conical form of Meal Mhor with its conspicuous telecommunication masts. The combination of these masts and the windfarm in close proximity would have the effect of drawing viewers away from the more scenic aspects of Loch Fyne. The Environmental Statement accepts that given the scenic quality and the sensitivity of the landscape, a windfarm located in a skylining location will have an adverse impact in this context.

The site is located within the 'upland forest moor mosaic' landscape character type (as defined by Scottish Natural Heritage), sharing many of the characteristics of the upland parts of Kintyre. It lies immediately south of the parallel upland ridges which characterise the Knapdale National Scenic Area. This exposed rocky moorland lies 2km north of the local high point at Meal Mhor (484m) being dissected by upland watercourses and surrounded by forestry at lower levels. Local settlement is confined largely to the routes of the A83(T) and the B8024 Ormsary road, with very little upland occupation. The relationship of water with the land is such that it dictates locations for settlement and transport routes. People are therefore generally confined to coastal areas where distinctive skylines frame key views. In this case there are significant close quarter views (notably from the trunk road at Inverneill), views across water (from Lochgilphead and from west Cowal) and views from other elevated locations, including upland vantage points in Knapdale and points on the Ormsary road.

The site is not subject to a national scenic designation, but lies close to the eastern edge of the Knapdale National Scenic Area, with three other NSA's within 30km, including the Kyles of Bute NSA to the east. The site lies above and overlooks the designated Loch Fyne area of local landscape significance for the purposes of the adopted local plan. The emergent 'Argyll and Bute Local Plan' (Modified Finalised Draft) 2006 includes the site within the 'very sensitive countryside' zone, within which there is a general presumption against development other than that associated with natural resources (which could include windfarm development).

The layout of the site has progressed through a series of design iterations to avoid inaccessible steep slopes, areas frequented by birds or subject to telecommunications constraints. The final form involves a spaced out layout of turbines following the slope of the landscape ridges. Access tracks adopt winding routes to avoid the discordance of straight tracks, and the proposed borrow pit is intended to be sited where it will be well screened by landform and forestry. No 'significant' physical impacts on the landscape are identified in the Environmental Statement.

Visual considerations - A landscape and visual assessment has been carried out over a 35 km radius, with 15 representative viewpoints, (plus additional nominal viewpoints from Loch Fyne and the Islay ferry route) being assessed by means of wireframe diagrams and photomontages in order to illustrate the likely impact of the development. The pattern of visibility is dictated by the elevated location of the site, the availability of views over water, and the NE-SW alignment of the landform.

Of these, 11 locations are rated as giving rise to 'significant' visual consequences in the Environmental Statement. These locations include relatively close views from the trunk road at Stronachullin and at Inverneill, and from the Ormsary road west of Inverneill; from Elleraay across Loch Caolisport; from Cruach Lusach (the highest point in the Knapdale NSA); from locations around Loch Gilp (Ardrishaig/Lochgilphead/Ballimore); and from west Cowal (Otter Ferry and Kilfinan).

Generally, the closer viewpoints have been rated as being of 'low to medium' sensitivity, but by virtue of the magnitude of change the overall visual impact is rated as being 'medium to high'. The more distant viewpoints have been rated as being of 'medium to high' sensitivity due to the qualities of the views or the likely expectations of the viewers. These more distant views have, however, also been accorded 'medium to high' magnitude of change, in view of the fact that such views are often focused on what is currently an undeveloped skyline. It is important to note from this analysis, that it is therefore clear that the applicant's landscape consultant accepts that this proposal will be of adverse visual significance in respect of the west coasts of both Cowal and Knapdale, as well as having more close quarter impacts around Loch Gilp and the west coast of Loch Fyne.

Landscape considerations – 18 landscape character types were identified within a radius of roughly 15km from the site. Of these, 5 types within 3km of the windfarm were assessed as being subjected to 'significant' impact due to the presence of the windfarm. In addition, one further flung area (North Loch Caolisport) was also assessed as being subject to 'significant' impact, primarily due to its location within the National Scenic Area and the high expectations of potential viewers.

Road, ferry and sailing routes have also been assessed. Impacts are judged to be 'significant' in the case of southbound traffic on the trunk road at Stronachullin and Inverneil, from the Kilberry road where it passes north of the site, and from Loch Fyne north of Stonefield. In each case it should be borne in mind that these locations are not currently affected by the presence of other windfarm developments. As a result, the proposal should be regarded as extending the influence of windfarm development to locations hitherto unaffected, thereby giving rise to 'significant' impact.

Scottish Natural Heritage considers that development removed from the established locations of existing/consented windfarms on the upland spine of Kintyre and around the head of Loch Fyne is inappropriate. A windfarm in this location, clearly visible to users of the trunk road, from locations in the Knapdale NSA, and from the sensitive coastal edges of both east and west Loch Fyne, will be visually prominent with adverse consequences for key views and people's experience of these seascapes/landscapes. Scottish Natural Heritage does not believe that the landscape above Loch Fyne has the capacity to successfully absorb windfarm development. The development by virtue of the height and rotor size would be imposing and would lead to the dispersal of the influence of windfarms along the Loch Fyne corridor. Its relative proximity to transport routes, coastal settlement and tourist locations would result in it being visually prominent in a range of views, leading to significant adverse impacts upon visual amenity across a wide area.

B) Cumulative impact

The Environmental Statement identified 18 other wind farm developments within 60km at the time of its preparation. Of these, 7 are now operational, and 4 are consented, with the remainder still subject to the planning process. The closest sites are Cruach Mhor (Cowal) and Deucheran Hill (Kintyre) at about 23km and 30km respectively. There is no overlap in the areas subject to effect from other operational or proposed wind farm sites, which when considered together with the impact of this proposed wind farm, would amount to 'significant' cumulative impact. However, the presence of a readily visible windfarm in a location visible when travelling through Mid Argyll/Kintyre or through Cowal, would have implications for sequential visibility of multiple wind farms, thereby giving rise to some 'significant' impacts in this regard. As yet proposed but unapproved sites such as North Kintyre and Meal Mhor would contribute to cumulative impacts; such as on the 'upland moor' local character area, on the B8024 Ormsary road. None of the individual viewpoints analysed are considered by the Environmental Statement to be subject to 'significant' cumulative impact as a result of the proposal.

Scottish Natural Heritage is concerned that the a readily visible windfarm to the south of Lochgilphead will have the effect of spreading the influence of consented wind farwind power development along the length of Loch Fyne, given the sites already consented above Inveraray and in Kintyre. This would give rise to adverse landscape and visual cumulative impact. This includes situations where multiple windfarms may be apparent from a particular transport route or vantage point, or particularly as in this case, where successive windfarms may be visible when travelling through the landscape, This gives rise to perceptual consequences associated with a particular landscape or geographic area becoming increasingly associated with wind power development.

C) Ecology

The site comprises a mixture of upland vegetation types which are common in Scotland and it is not subject to any nature conservation designations. Blanket bog is of biodiversity interest and regional importance, particularly in view of losses due to forestry operations. In view of the lack of intervention in upland areas there has been little degradation in these areas so the bog areas remain in good condition, being founded on areas of deep peat. Potential damage to blanket bog is to be minimised through micro-siting of turbines to avoid better quality areas, through the use of 'floating' construction in track formation and by the employment of an on-site ecologist to oversee construction activities. It is anticipated that around 5 hectares of bog will be lost due to access track formation and a further 1 hectare in turbine base construction. This should be viewed in the context of an overall area of blanket bog covering some 200 hectares locally. The Environmental Statement concludes that the consequences of the development for upland bog will, however, still be 'moderate'. Impacts on the woodland areas below the turbines will be of less significance in terms of access route construction, with the consequences for these areas being classified as 'low'. Loss of semi-natural woodland is expected to amount to approximately 0.5 hectare overall.

In terms of fauna, the development is not anticipated to give rise to any 'significant' effects. Whilst there is evidence of otters and water voles frequenting the area surrounding (rather than on) the site, with the employment of mitigation measures no adverse consequences of significance are anticipated.

Scottish Natural Heritage are satisfied that any nature conservation concerns they have could be addressed by mitigation measures and conditions.

D) Ornithology

As with most wind farms, potential impacts upon ornithological interests are a primary consideration in the acceptability of the site. The Environmental Statement indicates the presence in the locality of Black-throated Diver, Red-throated Diver, Golden Eagle, Merlin, Hen Harrier, Short-eared Owl and Golden Plover. It concludes that disturbance to these species should not be 'significant'. Whilst the presence of the windfarm will displace some foraging activity, potential collision risk can be mitigated by habitat enhancement away from the turbines, in order to draw birds away from areas where they might be at risk from possible collision. The site is close to a European Special Protection Area and site of Special Scientific Interest affording protection to the upland Knapdale Lochs, which are of particular significance for breeding Black-throated Divers.

The onerous requirement to maintain the integrity of European protected sites (including the protection of those sites from development outwith designated areas, but which may pose a threat to protected species within designations), and to avoid attrition of protected species, is such that development ought not to be permitted unless there is reasonable certainty that qualifying interests will not be prejudiced as a consequence. Given the proximity of an SPA, the Habitats Regulations place a duty upon the Council as 'competent authority' to determine whether it is necessary to undertake an 'appropriate assessment' as to whether the integrity of the designated area would be threatened significantly by the proposal.

Taking into consideration the applicant's data in the original Environmental Statement, the supplementary ornithological data supplied in the Addendum to the Environmental Statement the consultation responses from Scottish Natural Heritage and the views expressed by the RSPB, it can be concluded that the proposal would not have a 'significant' impact upon the SPA breeding Red-throated Diver population, provided that any planning permission were to be conditioned to prevent construction works occurring during the breeding season (1st April – 31st October). On the basis that such a condition would be reasonable and enforceable in the event of permission being granted, it may be concluded that the potential significant effect of disturbance from construction during the bird breeding season could be avoided, and consequently an 'appropriate assessment' is not required to be carried out in this case.

Whilst Scottish Natural Heritage and the RSPB do have residual concerns about the dispersal of wind farms across upland areas in Argyll (particularly in terms of the fragmentation of juvenile eagle territories), the repositioning of this site away from the upland raptor territories and the protected freshwater breeding lochs has not attracted formal objection from either body on ornithological grounds, subject to the imposition of conditions/legal agreement to ensure appropriate mitigation measures.

E) Hydrology and Hydrogeology

The construction period (and decommissioning) is most likely to give rise to implications for the water environment, particularly in connection with the formation of access tracks and turbine bases. However, no important adverse consequences for water resources are identified, subject to prudent construction practice and appropriate mitigation measures being employed, as identified in the Environmental Statement. Consequences for the water environment are considered by the Environmental Statement not to be 'significant', as there are no particularly sensitive features within the site and risk from pollution and sedimentation can be avoided by appropriate mitigation measures during construction.

SEPA have raised concerns about the lack of detail regarding watercourse crossings and other construction and drainage details. I would expect that these could be appropriately addressed by way of condition as they are not fundamental to the overall acceptability of the proposal...

F) Cultural Heritage

The proposed development area contains 11 sites of local or lesser archaeological interest (cairns, peat and mine workings, shielings etc), only 4 of which require mitigation measures. The presence of peat has the potential to conceal remains of archaeological interest which would warrant fieldwork in association with construction activity. Consequences for archaeology within the site itself are considered to be of 'low' magnitude.

Historic assets beyond the site which are predicted to have visibility of one or more turbines include the Stonefield Castle designed landscape, two scheduled ancient monuments (Crinan Canal and fort at Ardmarnock) and two listed dwellings at Inverneill and Stronchullin. The Environmental Statement concludes that the consequences for these assets will be 'insignificant'.

Historic Scotland has not raised objections in terms of the consequences of the proposal for historic assets surrounding the site.

G) Noise and safety

Baseline noise levels have been recorded at the four properties closest to the site (ranging from 2.2 to 3.5 km away) and at the settlement of Inverneill (3.75 km away). Predictions of worst case noise levels have been produced using the amended turbine layout and the model of turbine proposed. The assessment has been carried out by comparing the predicted levels with the noise limits recommended in Planning Advice Note 45 which are derived from DTI/ETSU guidance on The Assessment and Rating of Noise from Windfarms (ETSU-R-97). This concludes that predicted levels for the amended layout and turbine model meet recognised standards in terms of night time noise limits and the lower amenity hours noise limits in all circumstances.

H) Access and traffic

Delivery of turbines to the site is assumed to be via the A83 from the Campbeltown direction (by sea or from the Vestas factory at Machrihanish) with other deliveries of materials coming from the north or the south. Access from the A83(T) at Stronchullin Farm can be readily improved to cope with large loads and visibility on egress is satisfactory. Total number of construction vehicle movements is estimated to be around 800 over 12-18 months, of which around 10% would comprise abnormal loads. This increase is considered within acceptable limits as far as the capacity of the trunk road is concerned. Operational traffic is expected to be insignificant.

The Trunk Roads Authority are satisfied with the access arrangements proposed, subject to an upgrading of the junction with the A83.

I) Tourism and Socio-Economic Effects

There are no public rights of way or long distance paths or cycle routes crossing or passing the site (although public access to the area in general for recreational purposes is afforded by the Land Reform (Scotland) Act 2003). The upland nature of the site is such that there would appear, in practice, to be little public access to this area and its immediate surroundings at present; although it is noted that Meall Mhor is frequented by walkers and will afford clear views over the turbines. The Environmental Statement suggests that the presence of the wind farm will not act as a deterrent to tourists, and a number of studies are referred to in support of this.

However, I am of the opinion that developments of whatever nature which diminish the quality of the local environment and its scenic attractions to visitors will inevitably have adverse consequences for the tourist economy. In this case, the development will impact upon key tourism assets, including the A83 tourist route along Loch Fyne, waters frequented by yachts accessing the Crinan Canal, ferry routes, the local centre of Lochgilphead, and more rural areas such as Knapdale, which are particularly valued for their unspoilt qualities. Many of the persons raising objections who are not local residents have indicated that the scenic nature of Argyll is one of the principal reasons why they choose to visit the area and that the proliferation of wind farms in unsuitable locations would be a disincentive to them making repeat visits.

J) Telecommunication and Aviation Interests

No adverse impacts are identified and no objections have been raised by aviation interests.
