

MARSHALL EXPLAINS UTILITY REGULATION

RAPID GROWTH OF UTILITIES IS DISCLOSED

Growth of utilities and the need of the people to control and regulate them in the public interest were discussed by the speaker...

Marshall traced the history of the commission from its establishment as a one-man railroad commission back in 1873 to a three-member board in 1907 and the change to the public utility commission in 1918.

"Utilities are monopolies and this must be recognized," Marshall declared, "and the commission is set up as an adjunct of the legislature, with legislative powers delegated to it."

Growth of utilities in Michigan since 1918 has been phenomenal, the speaker pointed out. Only the railroads have lost ground and the reason for that showing is the failure of many electric lines and the launching of the trucking industry which has cut heavily into railroad business.

The 66 railroads operating in Michigan in 1918 had a valuation of $216,000,000 and annual revenues of $60,000,000. In 1945 the number had dropped to 17, the valuation was down to $106,000,000 and revenues were down to $34,000,000.

Trucking Hazardous Commission records show that trucking is a hazardous industry, the average life expectancy of a trucking firm being two years.

Trucking authority was given to the commission on the theory that the public which built the highways has a right to demand orderly use of them at reasonable rates, Marshall explained.

There are now 1,700 companies operating in Michigan. Some companies have only one truck while others operate from 500 to 3,000 trucks, the commissioner said.

Power Use Pyramids The commissioner said there were 140 electric power companies operating in Michigan in 1918 with total revenues of $29,000,000, while in 1945 there were only 20 companies but the revenues had climbed to $165,000,000.

"The cost of electric power has been steadily lowered by the efficient operation of the big companies," Marshall said. "The current year, Detroit-Edison has cut its rates $5,000,000 while the Consumers Power, a smaller company, has reduced rates $3,000,000, the reduction being approved by the commission this afternoon."

"We hear occasional claims for Diesel equipment, yet records show Diesel costs run between 1c to 1 1/2c per kilowatt hour as against six-tenths of a cent in the central plants of the big companies."

"Michigan has three outstandingly successful municipal plants—Lansing, Holland and Wyandotte. All these towns, however, have heavy industrial loads which bring down average costs and all the plants refuse to serve the rural area surrounding the towns. They take the cream of industrial service and refuse to handle the skim milk of rural service where long lines must be built and maintained to serve few customers."

Marshall cited rates of the utility companies and the municipal plants.

Battle Over Gas John Lewis, representing the coal miners, and representatives of the railroads are aligned against piping gas to Michigan from the southwest, Marshall said, and the southwestern gas suppliers and distributors are in a battle among themselves for the franchise.

The commissioner explained how the gas from the southwest is piped to exhausted Michigan gas wells for storage in the summer and used as a reserve for winter. He declared that there is enough gas in the southwestern fields to supply all users for at least 30 years. The opposition of the miners and railroad interests was explained on the grounds that the piping of gas reduces coal consumption and railroad business.

Phone Monopoly Ninety per cent of all the telephones in Michigan are served by Michigan Bell with the balance of 10 per cent being served by about 150 small companies and 750 cooperative private and farm lines, the commissioner pointed out.

He praised the efficiency and progressiveness of the Michigan Bell, although he declared that the company fights through the courts almost every order of the commission.

Monopolies may be justified, Marshall asserted, if they are well regulated, because of the savings they offer over inadequately financed and poorly managed small companies.

MAKES ANOTHER GIFT

Albert J. Hall

Donor of the land and builder of the Hall Memorial library in Mason, Mr. Hall has now given the lot adjoining the library on the east to the county.

LIBRARY GIVEN LAND BY ALBERT J. HALL

LIBRARY DONOR ADDS TO COUNTY GIFT

No longer will there be fear that the land adjoining the Hall Memorial library on the east will be used as the site for a business building. The land has been given to the county by Albert J. Hall, who gave the library site to the county and erected the beautiful building upon it.

The deed to the strip of property lying between the library and the Dept. & Carter store building was presented to County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard Tuesday. The deed will be turned over to the board of supervisors at the session Friday.

It is probable that a garage to house the present library car and a bookmobile will be built on the recently acquired land eventually.

For years Mr. Hall had planned on presenting the city with a library. Then the county library movement was started and Mr. Hall had the architect change the plans to provide for the present building which was opened in December of 1928.

The site occupied by the library was formerly the site of the home where Mr. Hall and his brother lived with their mother. The father was killed in the Civil War and the two sons were early left to their own resources. Before he was 21 Mr. Hall was a partner in a Mason business. He left retail business to enter the employ of the Farmers bank. For more than 50 years he served the bank, becoming its cashier and then its president. He is still a director of the bank.

NUTS BELONG TO FARMER Nuts which grow on roadside trees are not public property, but belong, as much as the crops in the field—to the owner of the abutting property. Several complaints have been made to the sheriff regarding city people picking up nuts and insisting that they belong to anyone who gathers them.

BIG PARTY IN MASON NEXT THURSDAY Merry Time on Halloween

In line with the Mason tradition, another big community Halloween party will be staged next Thursday night. Actually, there will be three parties—one for the little folks at school in the afternoon, a sports program for intermediates at the county park at night and a dance for high school pupils at the school at night.

Sponsored by the Mason Kiwanis club and backed by business men, the American Legion post, PTA and other organizations generally, the three parties are planned to entertain the youngsters. To show their appreciation for the good time provided for them, the youngsters are expected to have all their fun at the parties and not soap windows, stage trick or treat stunts, or damage property.

Only on three or four occasions during the 17 years the parties have been staged have there been any violations of the code. At the afternoon party for the kindergartners and first, second, third and fourth graders, refreshments of hot chocolate and sandwiches will be served. Refreshments of hot dogs and buns with chocolate will be served at the county park party for the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth graders and at the high school party.

Instead of providing a lot of little cash prizes for the races, stunts and contests at the county park, a new scheme is being planned for this year. Footballs, basketballs, skates, baseball bats and other sporting goods will be hung up as prizes. There will be fewer events but better prizes. The awards are on display at the Hamman store.

John Taylor is chairman of the Halloween committee for the Kiwanis club. Serving with him are Clarence Adolph, Percy Morgan, James H. Vander Ven, Allen Lippincott and Thomas Novakoski.

Taylor explained that while the Kiwanis club helps stage the party, the affair is financed by the business men. He also said that anyone who offers to help with the program will be welcomed.

Receives Broken Leg When Struck by Car Arthur Culham, proprietor of the DeLuxe Hamburger Shoppe on West Ash street, is in St. Lawrence hospital with a broken leg. His right leg was broken twice, both above and below the ankle, when he was struck by a car last Thursday night. Edward Francis, 19, recently discharged from the navy, was the driver of the car.

Culham had been summoned because the transformer in the alley at the rear of the restaurant failed. The one block of the business section was in darkness. There were several patrons at the lunch counter and the waitresses called Culham to bring flashlights.

John Culham drove his father down town and stopped across the street from the restaurant. The father climbed out of the car while the son drove on to the Glen Coon residence to ask the Consumers Power manager to speed repairs.

Culham said he saw cars approaching from the west. He waited for two cars to pass and then thought he had time to cross before the third car reached him. Culham misjudged the speed of the car and was struck and hurled to the pavement. The street was slippery with rain and visibility was also low.

WORK PROGRESSING ON HOMES PROJECT

COMPLETION EXPECTED BY DECEMBER 1

If there are no further delays in getting materials, the 10 emergency homes for veterans will be ready for occupancy soon after December 1. That was the prediction made Wednesday by Kenneth Inglehart, construction superintendent for the Miller-Davis company of Kalamazoo, the firm which has the contract.

The five two-story dwellings are on East Columbus on a site provided by Mayor Arthur W. Jewett. Under the terms of the agreement on the housing, the city extended the water mains and Jewett paid most of the cost of sewer construction. The federal government is paying for erecting the houses which will rent under a scale of between $25 and $35 per month.

Dart & Cady has the plumbing contract. All the outside plumbing work has been done but the inside installation has not been completed.

Holding up completion of the project is the lack of trim, lighting fixtures and window sash. The original contract called for construction of concrete walks to connect the houses but the shortage of cement has forced a change in plans. Gravel walks are being substituted.

Only veterans of World War II may rent the homes. Alderman Harold L. Barnhill, chairman of a special housing committee of the council, has assigned the units to veterans. To get their names on the waiting list, veterans should make application at the office of the city clerk.

HUNTING IS TOUGHER AS BIRDS GET WISER ROADSIDE HUNTING CAUSES MANY ARRESTS

Pheasants are becoming hard to get. There were plenty of birds for the hunters in Ingham county on the opening days of the season, and there are still lots of birds, but they keep out of sight.

Only the good hunters with trained dogs are getting their bag limits quickly this week. J. D. Hammar, state conservation officer, reported. The birds sulk in the fields of corn and in the swales and won't take to the air unless hunted out by dogs.

Violations are increasing, the greatest increase resulting from roadside hunting. Hammar said many hunters are roaming the highways in the hope of seeing pheasants leaving the fields. Hunters are being arrested for shooting from cars, from firing in the highways and from carrying loaded guns in cars.

The bright fall weather has brought out crowds of hunters, with many hunters from Detroit attracted to the Dansville public hunting area. Most of the birds released from the state game farm this fall for Ingham county were given their freedom in the Dansville area.

Birds reared at the game farm were considered by many experts to be easy prey but reports made so far indicate that the pen-reared birds are getting up and as hard to bring down as his country cousin.

The bird season continues until November 5.

Pilot Escapes Hurt in Plane Crash

Outside of a few cuts and bruises on his chest, Donald Sites, 19, of Dansville is none the worse for his plane crash in a field on the Thomas Hart farm in Alaieton Saturday afternoon. The plane, a J-3 Piper Cub, was pretty well wrecked. The motor was smashed, one wing was twisted, the other was wrecked. The plane struck a Consumers Power Co. line and then bounded down onto the ground.

Sites, regarded as one of the most apt pupils taking GI training at the Jewett airport, took off Saturday afternoon to practice lazy eights and chandelles. He began flying last May and has his private pilot's license and is now working on his commercial pilot's license. He has had 60 hours of flying.

After leaving the airport, Sites flew north over Alaieton. He told Arthur W. Jewett, owner of the plane, and Stan Keck, instructor at the Jewett airport, that he had been flying at about 3,000 feet before he went into his dips and turns. He said he gunned the motor at 800 feet and the motor responded. Seconds later, he reported, he gunned his motor again only to discover that the carburetor had led over.

Sites said he then sighted the level field at the corner of Holt and Simmons roads and was going to make an emergency landing. He never did see the electric wires, he declared. As he was gliding down to the field the left wing struck the wires and severed them.

The plane was held back momentarily and then became free but it was off keel. The right wing dipped down to hit the ground. Fifty feet beyond, the plane bounded over and buried its nose in the ground. It righted itself.

The pilot had strapped himself into the plane before taking off and that probably saved his life, Keck explained. He was not thrown out when the plane struck. The impact shoved the motor back onto the pilot's lap. Sites said he was able to unstrap the strap holding him to the seat and to crawl out of the cockpit.

The high octane gasoline in the tank and motor gushed over the ground but there was no fire. Both Jewett and Keck said they attached no blame to Sites.

"It is the first smashup we have had in 2 1/2 years of flight training," Jewett said, "and that's a fine record. The accident proved one thing anyway; that the Piper Cub can take almost anything. Had the plane had another few feet of clearance between the wires and the ground it probably would have righted itself."

Severing the transmission line caused a power shutoff over several square miles of farm territory for about four hours.

Two Ingham Farm Youths Win National FFA Honor

Merlyn R. Swab, graduate of the Okemos school, and Harold Herman Rindfleisch, graduate of Williamston high school, are among the six young farmers from Michigan to receive outstanding awards at the Future Farmers of America national convention held in Kansas City this week.

One-third of Michigan's share of the honors went to Ingham county. The other four farm youths chosen from among more than 200,000 students of vocational agriculture are Leonard Johnson, Charlotte; Edward A. Poole, Deckerville; Dale Rosel, Conklin; and Wendell Lynnwood Wilk, Alma.

Eligible for consideration for the award, a candidate must have completed at least three years of high school vocational agriculture with high scholarship; must be actually launched on a successful farming enterprise embodying modern, scientific practices and efficient record-keeping and must be outstanding in his school, community and state's rural life in leadership, community service and agricultural activities.

Although born in Iowa and always interested in farming, Swab had no chance to work at it until he entered the Okemos school as a sophomore. He took to farming like a duck to water and worked out on farms in the neighborhood. He was graduated from the Okemos school in 1945 and at once began farming on his own. He operates a Meridian township farm owned by Heber Hulett. He is majoring in dairying and has a half interest in the Swab-Hulett herd of Holsteins. While in school Swab was a star football and basketball player, gaining all-conference honors. He also was the winner of a vocational agriculture award at the Okemos school.

SUPERVISORS RETURN TO WIND UP SESSION

FIXING OF SALARIES IS SET FOR FRIDAY

Members of the board of supervisors are returning to Mason Friday to complete the work of the October session. Among the unfinished business when a recess was declared on Thursday of last week was the reporting out of the salary committee recommendations, the report of the ways and means committee and the report of the appointment committee.

The county board opened its October session on Monday of last week. The board continued its sessions at Mason Tuesday and Wednesday and then on Thursday visited the county tuberculosis sanatorium and the county hospital. A dinner was served board members at the county hospital. At a meeting following the dinner it was decided to adjourn the board session for the balance of the week so that the salaries, apportionment and ways and means committees would have time to complete their work.

County officials filed requests for raises averaging about $30 per month for county employees. Fred Marshall of White Oak, made chairman of the salaries committee was Arthur E. Grammer resigned from the Lansing city council and the county board, has there are two football attractions reached by the members of his committee.

Unless the report of the salaries committee is debated at length on the floor, it is probable that the county board will complete its work Friday.

REGISTRATION DRIVE SUCCEEDS TOO WELL ELECTION BOARD ORDERS MORE BALLOTS

In several precincts of the county the re-registration drive succeeded so well that the board of election commissions has ordered more ballots printed for the November 5 voting.

The law provides that the election board must provide ballots equal to the number of votes cast at the election four years previously plus 25 per cent. That's a minimum.

How ever, the re-registration drive resulted in higher totals than the number of ballots cast in previous elections. People registered who have not voted regularly before.

In Bunker Hill township where 300 ballots were ordered printed there are now 437 on the registration list. Four hundred ballots were printed for Vevoy and there are now 653 registered voters. In Mason there were 600 ballots provided for each ward. The re-registration campaign sent the first ward list up to 779 and the second ward total up to 701.

The city of Williamston came out about even, being provided with 1,000 ballots while the registration total is 936. Stockbridge is another township where the 700 ballots will not cover the entire number of registered voters.

Aurelius was provided with 500 ballots. The new registration list totals 650. In Alaieton there are now an even 600 registered voters while the election board provided 400 ballots.

Onondaga is provided with 300 ballots, and it is likely that the voters will have enough, yet the registration drive yielded a total of 622. Ingham township has been given 400 ballots while the new registration total is 530.

Meridian township will need more ballots in two of the four precincts. In Precinct 1 there are 800 ballots enough, 800, because the full registration of 857 is not expected to visit the polls. In Precinct 4 there are 514 registered voters with 600 ballots provided. In Precincts 2 and 3, though, more ballots will have to be printed. In the second precinct there are now 1,135 on the list, and only 800 ballots were printed. There are 620 registered in the third precinct with 400 ballots provided.

While it is not expected that all the voters who have registered will vote November 5, members of the election board believe that the re-registration campaign has created enough interest to bring out more than the usual number of voters. The officials have decided that it is better to have the extra ballots provided before election than it is to wait until the supply runs short on election day.

Probate Judge John McClellan is chairman of the Ingham election board. County Treasurer Lyle E. Austin and County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard are the other two members.

Most Foods Removed From OPA Ceilings Bread and bakery products, cocoa, bananas, beans, and just about everything else to eat and drink, including liquor, was shaved off the OPA list Wednesday. The restrictions were removed at midnight.

Only sugar, syrups and rice remain on the list of OPA foods. About 20 per cent of family food items have been covered by OPA. Under the new directive only 3 per cent of family food is covered.

Lucky Lady

By EVELYN SMITH

McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

AT THE far end of the row of pole beans, Davie North crouched on his heels, watching Mrs. Meek's angular body inch backward along the row of carrots.

Not until she reached the screen of corn would it be safe to dash to the garage. Mrs. Meek straightened suddenly to ease her back and her eyes stared at Davie. "What you sittin' there for, boy?"

Davie stared and blinked solemnly, his impatience urging her back to her task. "I declare! Eight-year-olds are a queer lot." Mrs. Meek assayed him grimly.

"But I 'spect takin' a boy from the Home for a spell's my Christian duty." Davie had seen her looking over the fence at Mr. Dyer's Victory garden and she was always cross after that—for Mr. Dyer's beans were longer and his corn taller than Mrs. Meek's.

"Now if I could just afford a little more fertilizer," she grumbled, "some of the quick-grow stuff they got down at Giffin's Hardware, I might still beat him out of the prize—but three weeks till judgin' don't give a body much time."

As she settled back to work Davie's breath exploded in a sigh. In another minute it would be safe to approach the old garage. Lady might need water or something. For two precarious days, food had taken wing behind Mrs. Meek's uncompromising back, and Davie's skinny little arms still felt the warm softness of Lady's plump body. "Lady" seemed like a nice name for the gentle friendly dog he'd found wandering the streets alone. The remembering choked him—maybe this one he could keep! Davie shifted with eagerness. The movement brought Mrs. Meek's eyes back to him, narrowing suspiciously.

"You ain't got another dog hid around some place—to ruin my garden?" "Another dog!" she muttered. "It's bad enough things won't grow without havin' a dog tear 'em up." The door of the abandoned garage sprang open suddenly. Mrs. Meek's mouth too, opened, her words rising to a wail. "Oh—"

Davie's eyes filled his small face and he looked stupidly from Mrs. Meek to Lady—and the four miles wriggling beside her. "Puppies!" he breathed in a tone associated with Sunday school and Christmas trees.

"Land o' heaven!" Mrs. Meek shrieked, "one ain't bad enough—it's gotta be five this time! You get rid of them, Davie North. Every last one of them—before tonight. Hear? Or back to the Home you go!"

The noonday sun was blistering the exposed pavement of the quiet tree-shaded street when Davie stopped before the last house in the block. He'd knocked at all except this, but no one, it seemed, wanted a dog with four puppies. His finger left the bell and one bare foot dug into the other as he blinked at the tall man who filled the doorway. A timid smile took root, blossomed into a grin at the unexpected answer to his monotonous question.

"We might even look for her owner, huh, lad?" he asked after hearing Davie's story. Davie's head was still bobbing happily as he sprinted away to complete the transfer, lest his new-found friend change his mind.

Mrs. Meek's call to supper brought the boy to the fence, a small ball of fur cupped in his hands. "What you doin' over there?" she demanded. "Annyin' the neighbors?"

"It's all right Mrs. Meek. Davie just brought me a dog." Mr. Dyer let the screen door slam behind him. "You're a fool, Bill Dyer—or don't you know what a dog can do to a garden?"

"Plenty!" he chuckled. "Thanks to Davie here, I can buy more fertilizer for mine."

At the word "fertilizer" her scrawny eyebrows met over slitted eyes. "Don't you be pullin' my leg, Bill Dyer!"

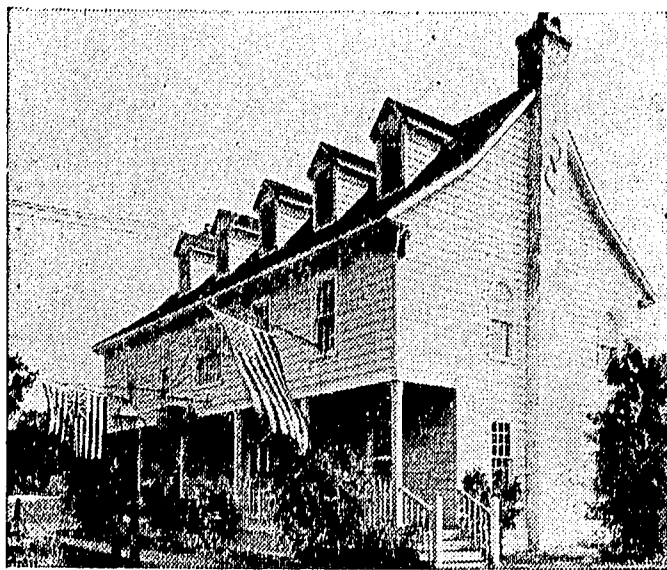

"It's the truth." His laughter kindled a fire in Davie's thin chest, warming him. "We went looking for Lady's owner this afternoon, Davie and I. Seems she got out of the baggage room down at the depot."

"And they gave me a puppy!" Davie repeated pointedly. "The man's coming for Lady tomorrow—with ten dollars reward."

Mrs. Meek didn't say anything, but when she went inside she slammed the door with an awful bang.

Continuation of the 'Lucky Lady' story. 'Land o' heaven' seemed like a nice name for the gentle friendly dog he'd found wandering the streets alone. The remembering choked him—maybe this one he could keep! Davie shifted with eagerness. The movement brought Mrs. Meek's eyes back to him, narrowing suspiciously. 'You ain't got another dog hid around some place—to ruin my garden?' 'Another dog!' she muttered. 'It's bad enough things won't grow without havin' a dog tear 'em up.' The door of the abandoned garage sprang open suddenly. Mrs. Meek's mouth too, opened, her words rising to a wail. 'Oh—' Davie's eyes filled his small face and he looked stupidly from Mrs. Meek to Lady—and the four miles wriggling beside her. 'Puppies!' he breathed in a tone associated with Sunday school and Christmas trees. 'Land o' heaven!' Mrs. Meek shrieked, 'one ain't bad enough—it's gotta be five this time! You get rid of them, Davie North. Every last one of them—before tonight. Hear? Or back to the Home you go!' The noonday sun was blistering the exposed pavement of the quiet tree-shaded street when Davie stopped before the last house in the block. He'd knocked at all except this, but no one, it seemed, wanted a dog with four puppies. His finger left the bell and one bare foot dug into the other as he blinked at the tall man who filled the doorway. A timid smile took root, blossomed into a grin at the unexpected answer to his monotonous question. 'We might even look for her owner, huh, lad?' he asked after hearing Davie's story. Davie's head was still bobbing happily as he sprinted away to complete the transfer, lest his new-found friend change his mind. Mrs. Meek's call to supper brought the boy to the fence, a small ball of fur cupped in his hands. 'What you doin' over there?' she demanded. 'Annyin' the neighbors?' 'It's all right Mrs. Meek. Davie just brought me a dog.' Mr. Dyer let the screen door slam behind him. 'You're a fool, Bill Dyer—or don't you know what a dog can do to a garden?' 'Plenty!' he chuckled. 'Thanks to Davie here, I can buy more fertilizer for mine.' At the word 'fertilizer' her scrawny eyebrows met over slitted eyes. 'Don't you be pullin' my leg, Bill Dyer!' 'It's the truth.' His laughter kindled a fire in Davie's thin chest, warming him. 'We went looking for Lady's owner this afternoon, Davie and I. Seems she got out of the baggage room down at the depot.' 'And they gave me a puppy!' Davie repeated pointedly. 'The man's coming for Lady tomorrow—with ten dollars reward.' Mrs. Meek didn't say anything, but when she went inside she slammed the door with an awful bang. Kentucky is believed the first state in the union to offer courses on cancer for non-medical students.

The Twerp Turns

By WILLIAM J. MURDOCH
McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
WNU Features.

LUCIUS STEEMS stretched his frail spindly frame on the porch swing and sighed heavily. He was tired of being picked on. His wife, his employer — oh, especially his employer! — his fellow workers, bus drivers — they all dished it out to him. Lucius knew why, too. He was a weak-kneed sissy—and looked and acted it.

He didn't even have enough gumption to order his youngest, Johnny, and that Rodney kid from down the street to take their argument elsewhere. They were around the side of the house, noisily squabbling, ably abetted by their yelping dogs. Lucius wanted a little peace and quiet before returning to the office for the afternoon.

Mr. Ralston had called him down in front of the whole office again that morning simply because he had posted the right sums in the wrong ledger. Mr. Ralston had a peculiar way of bawling out people. He smiled and uttered wisecracks—but he wasn't kidding.

"Steems, you funny-looking little twerp," Mr. Ralston said, banging the ledger down on Lucius's desk. "I ought to make you eat this!" And after Mr. Ralston had wisecracked Lucius into red-faced humiliation, the big bluff owner of Ralston's Pickle Works stalked away and left his billing clerk to write under the smirks and winks of the other employees.

Slowly Lucius rocked the swing, blinking his watery blue eyes. If he were only half a man—he sighed again, and dozed off.

"What a laugh!" The sharp words made Lucius's eyes pop open. It was that Rodney kid. "That funny-looking little shrimp couldn't lick a flea!"

"Say that again!" That was Johnny, and the vigor with which the youngster snapped out the challenge made Lucius's heart bump. Could—could it be that he had a champion after all? "You just say that again and I'll show you who can lick who!"

"I said he's a funny-looking little shrimp and can't lick a—ow!"

The brawl was on, and Lucius peered over the swing in time to see Johnny pursuing the Rodney kid down the street, both bellowing at the top of their lungs. Lucius bounded to his feet. By George, this was just what he needed—a champion, someone to back him up! He'd had no idea little Johnny would take up so fiercely for him. That put the old starch in the backbone, all right.

Lucius felt like a new man—a whole one. He paraded across the porch, jerked the screen door open and snatched his old felt hat from the hook. "Doris!" he cried in a sort of screeched roar. "Doris, I'll be home at five-thirty and I want supper on the table." He had read that in a book once, and it sounded swell. "Hear me? Five-thirty!"

Mrs. Steems thrust her head around the living room doorway in amazement. "Are you talking to—"

"To you," Lucius said, suddenly so angry that he trembled. He had to justify Johnny's faith. "I'm tired of being treated like a hired man. Five-thirty—and don't forget it!"

Lucius tingled with triumph. But what if he were still asleep in the swing? He pinched himself and it hurt—and he was glad. His confidence swelled as he rode downtown, and by the time he reached the office he was nearly bursting with the new spirit he had found through Johnny.

He went directly to Mr. Ralston's office. "Mr. Ralston," he said politely but positively. "You've got to stop insulting me before the whole office. I make mistakes—everyone here does. But I work hard, too, and not everyone here does that. If you don't like my work, get rid of me. But," and here Lucius shook his finger at ogre-eyed Mr. Ralston, "I won't take any more insults from anyone."

He stood back, waiting for his employer to say something — and Lucius really didn't give two whoops what it was. But it was good. "Steems," Mr. Ralston said finally, "it's about time you showed some spirit. I deserved that calling down—and I'll raise you 25 bucks a month just to show you there's no hard feeling."

"Yes, sir," Lucius went back to his desk. But, before he sat down, he elaborated on his little speech to his fellow workers. And no one talked back or even smirked.

It was a wonderful day, the happiest for Lucius in a long, long time. And he knew he owed it all to his Johnny. So perhaps it is just as well he never learned of the conversation between his wife and Johnny after he came home that afternoon. Never demonstrative in his affection, he simply patted the boy on the head, noted that supper was on the table and went upstairs to wash.

"Johnny," Mrs. Steems whispered anxiously, "Johnny, what's happened to your father all of a sudden? Do you know what's got into him?"

"Huh? Dad? Shucks, he seems the same to me," Johnny said lightly. "He's O. K., isn't he? Say, Ma," he added indignantly, "you know what the Rodney kid said to me today? He said my dog was a funny-looking little shrimp that couldn't lick a flea. Boy, did I paste him!"

The United Nations organization now employs a staff of about 1,500 persons.

FISHERMEN MEET

Michigan commercial fishermen and representatives of the conservation department and the federal fish and wildlife service are meeting at Traverse City October 28-29 for roundtable discussions sponsored by the Michigan Fish association. Deep trap nets, under-ice herring nets, mesh sizes and the current scarcity of good twine, lamprey eels and fishing in Grand Traverse and Keweenaw bays are the principal problems to be threshed out.

HASTE TRIPPED US

Non-union extended hours and the general press of putting together an 18-page paper this week has resulted in three price errors in the Schmidt Department Store advertisement, appearing on page six of section 2. In celebration of their ninth anniversary Schmidt's are having a special sale and the News staff has unintentionally reduced sale prices even further. Correct prices are as follows: Children's snow suits are priced from $6.99 up rather than $6.00; separate snow pants should be $4.98 up and women's knit slips are $1.65.

Public schools of Michigan will gain on November 5, regardless of how voters decide the fate of ballot proposal No. 2.

This proposal would amend the state constitution whereby 75 percent of all sales tax revenues would be earmarked for local governments. Schools would get approximately $100,000,000 a year compared with $60,000,000 in 1945-46. Cities, villages, and townships would get $17,000,000 instead of $20,000,000.

If the ballot proposal carries—and the Michigan Education association believes it has a 50-50 chance of so doing—then school teachers would rejoice. No more legislative lobbying for funds! The state constitution will guarantee in perpetuity—as long as the amendment stands—a big boost in money for payment of salaries and other expenses.

School teachers are underpaid in this postwar inflation period, as compared with the rest of our wage-earners. Property owners balk at lifting the 15-mill limitation on property taxes. The amendment would offer a happy solution for public education. No doubt about that.

If the ballot proposal is defeated by voters who fear it would lead to additional taxes in 1947, then the schools still stand an excellent chance of getting more funds at Lansing.

The straw in the wind to this conclusion is provided by Rep. Epie of Eagle, chairman of the powerful house ways and means committee of the State Legislature. Epie believes the amendment is bad legislation. He warns that the state government cannot function with only 24 percent of the sales tax revenue.

However, he recommends that state aid to schools be increased from $60,000,000 to $75,000,000 or $80,000,000 a year, a boost of 25 to 33 percent.

Epie also favors state aid for new buildings in school districts financially unable to construct necessary additions because of increased population.

It is the judgment of State Treasurer D. Hale Brake, Republican nominee for reelection and president of the Michigan Institute of Local Government, that adoption of the sales tax amendment would lead to a $21,500,000 deficit for the first year of operation of the state government.

If the $270,000,000 veterans' bonus is also approved, the treasury deficit would be $39,114,000, Brake warns.

"You cannot stop caring for the insane, running the prisons, paying old-age assistance, educate your veterans, and the thousand-and-one things state government is doing for the people of Michigan," he said. "People just won't stand for it."

Robert S. Ford, director of Michigan's bureau of government, points out that school benefits under the tax amendment would depend on whether or not local property tax levels stay at their present level or $71,500,000 for the entire state.

"If these levies are reduced, as they may be in school districts, revenues for schools will not be increased as much by adoption of the amendment as is now anticipated. Likewise, if the state should decide to impose additional taxes to maintain existing services, residents of school districts would have to pay more taxes."

Ford also pointed out that the hope of final gains for cities, villages and townships may turn out to be a mirage. The state now returns all of the proceeds of the intangible tax and the new 10 percent tax on liquor to cities, villages and townships. The combined yield amounts to $18,000,000.

"It is conceivable that the state legislature might amend the law to retain all of the proceeds of these two taxes for state purposes," he explains. "If so, the gains to local units would be almost entirely nullified."

The Detroit bureau of governmental research takes much the same view. In an announcement December 9, the bureau declares that the adoption of the tax diversion amendment will lead inevitably to more taxes.

Halloween Carnival Planned at Okemos

There will be a Halloween Carnival at the Okemos school next Thursday night beginning at 7:30. It is an attempt to furnish clean and well planned entertainment for the community.

There will be booths and stands sponsored by various classes and organizations. The program includes dancing, movies, fish pond, chamber of horrors, and magic. The refreshments will be doughnuts and cider, also hot dogs and coffee.

Rules Are Unchanged On Trapping Season

Farmers and farm boys now collecting and cleaning their traps for the three-month trapping season that starts November 1 are again concerned about the weather.

With two years of adverse trapping conditions fresh in their memory, trappers are wondering what this summer's drought has done to the 1946 rat population. Since southern Michigan ponds and potholes have been drying up in midsummer, migrating muskrats have been turning up in odd places—killed by cars on country roads and caught by dogs near suburban homes. On Great Lakes marshes, changing water levels have killed cattails and other marsh vegetation on which muskrats feed.

Conservation department records show last year's muskrat take to be less than 500,000 pelts, where the harvest in peak years is more than a million, and worth more than a million dollars.

Mink, which are trapped during the muskrat season and hunted over a longer period, were more plentiful last season than in the year before, and good prices were paid for the 1945 crop of 53,400 pelts.

Raccoon hunters and trappers have the best prospects, as coon numbers continue to increase. Some 70,000 were taken in 1944, 88,700 in 1945, and current reports are favorable. Skunk and badger, the other furbearers on which seasons are fixed, have the smallest yields of all, about 26,000 and 2,000 pelts, respectively, in 1945.

Hunting and trapping seasons for furbearers are unchanged from what they were a year ago. Muskrat and mink may be trapped November 1-30 in the upper peninsula, November 15-December 15 in northern lower Michigan, and December 1-31 in Lake Erie marshes.

Mink also may be hunted during November and December in the upper peninsula, and during November, December and January in the lower peninsula.

Badgers and skunks may be taken in any part of the state during November, December and January. There is no closed season on opossum.

Raccoon may be hunted in Delta and Menominee counties of the upper peninsula, November 1-14, and in all of the lower peninsula November 1-December 15. Raccoon trapping is permitted in Delta and Menominee counties November 1-30, in northern lower Michigan November 15-December 15, and in southern Michigan December 1-15.

High Quality Apples Ready for Consumers

Michigan apple producers have prepared the Wolverine state for "Apple Week," October 26 to November 2, as well as an entire winter of apple-eating pleasure.

Between seven and eight million bushels of the highest quality apples in history are being harvested, packed and stored by producers during this fall. Horticulture department officials at Michigan State college and M. E. Farley of the Michigan Apple Commission, say the quality of the crop has never been better.

High quality is credited to two things. First, the excellent control of worms and insects through the use of DDT. But of outstanding importance was the intense interest shown by the growers in spray and cultural programs that would produce a better product. Last year's short crop was also of inferior quality. So Michigan's apple producers were determined to do better by their consumers and a high quality crop is the result.

The International Apple association has again set aside the week which includes "Apple Week" as "Apple Week." Apples are rich in vitamin A and vitamin C, and are among the most healthful and economical fruits.

Michigan ordinarily ranks fifth or sixth among the high producing apple states in the United States. In the United States as a whole, the crop is about average this year based on population will provide every person with three apples a week throughout the year.

While processors use many apples for canning purposes, there will be more fresh apples available to buyers in Michigan this year.

PLANT TULIPS NOW

If you have not planted your tulips for those early blooms next spring, you had better do it now. Paul R. Krone, Michigan State college horticulturist, advises getting tulips in soil where there is good drainage. They should get a little start before the ground is frozen.

NAVY SEES WITH 'EYELESS SIGHT'

A peacetime Navy Day permits withdrawal of the veil of secrecy that shrouded one of World War II's greatest developments, the mysterious radar. This development will continue as the Navy pursues lines of scientific research to equip it for its role as a Guardian in Peace. RURAL TELEPHONE SERVICE

1 In Michigan Bell central offices, men are busy installing enough telephone equipment this year to serve 100,000 additional lines, many of them for new customers in rural areas.

2 More than 6,000 miles of wire have been added in rural sections this year. These wires join with cable leading to the nearest central office and must be spliced carefully in order that your telephone will work properly.

3 After a rural telephone line leaves the cable, it travels on big crossarms bolted to the poles. With the rural lines it's building, Michigan Bell will use about 100,000 crossarms on some 60,000 new poles this year.

4 Bringing wires from the road to the house is one of the last steps in the telephone installation job. It's a commonplace scene throughout Michigan today. Michigan Bell is now installing telephones in the rural areas it serves at a rate of about 2,000 a month.

5 Serving about 98,000 customers in rural areas now—more than twice as many as in 1941—Michigan Bell is making real progress in extending and improving its rural telephone service, particularly in view of the many material shortages which hamper the job.

Don't Burn Leaves Improve Your Soil

There's an abundance of good mulching organic material in those leaves you usually rake and burn each fall. Dr. L. M. Turk, soil science specialist at Michigan State college, advises that you put them into a compost pile and make use of them next summer and fall.

Experienced gardeners appreciate the importance of humus in their soil. Tree leaves, vegetable garden clippings, lawn clippings can be made into valuable fertilizer by the addition of certain chemicals and water, Turk explains.

The chemicals which are used to hasten the decomposition consist of nitrogen, phosphorus and lime. A 10-6-4 fertilizer may be used to supply the nitrogen and phosphorus. Ground limestone, marl or wood ashes may be used to supply the lime. Do not use hydrated lime.

It's best to keep the pile of leaves and waste plant material with vertical sides by the use of woven wire or picket fence. Every foot or so, apply the chemicals after they have been mixed together. For each 100 pounds of compost use about 8 pounds of 10-6-4 fertilizer and 5 pounds of ground limestone.

You will need to water the pile occasionally as moisture tends to hasten the decomposition. A few shovelful of good garden soil may be added to each layer of leaves and chemicals as the pile is being built. Forging the compost pile over three times during the following spring and summer will also hasten the rotting process.

When the material has lost its original structure and is decomposed, it is ready for use in the flower or vegetable garden or around the shrubbery, Dr. Turk explains.

Savings are Shown By Contour Farming

Here's proof that contour farming saves soil and water.

Near Fenton, in Genesee county, run-off test plots were set-up in 1938. R. C. Lott, county agricultural agent, on a recent soil conservation tour, reported some interesting findings.

The test plots were on Miami loam, where ground slope was average. Some plots were farmed up-and-down the slope and others on the contour.

Plots up-and-down the slope had an average soil loss eight times greater than those on the contour. Corn land farmed up-and-down the slope lost 100 times more soil than a plot planted in hay.

Run-off water has also been measured and figured on the basis of the total amount of rain falling. On the up-and-down farming of corn, 43 percent of the moisture was lost in run-off as compared to but 23 percent when farmed on the contour. Oats planted up-and-down the slope lost 42 percent of the rainfall while plots planted on the contour saved all but 31 percent of the moisture.

The difference was slight, however, on hay plots. Up-and-down farming resulted in a loss of 20 percent compared with 17 percent in contour farming.

Sinclair Provides Experimental Farm

A new experimental farm to be operated by the department of engineering of Ohio State University and the Ohio agricultural experiment station at Wooster will be established near Columbus by the Sinclair Refining Co.

The project is designed to help solve many of the problems of agriculture and mechanization confronting the farmers of Ohio and the corn belt. The program will include a study of the effect that variations in depth and spacing of drain tile will have on water in the soil and on soil temperatures in the spring; a study of timeliness in tillage, planting and harvesting operations, and the yield and quality of various crops.

A study of power and labor requirements in crop production is also planned. This area of study will have a special application to the efficiency of a tractor in which the economical use of fuels and lubricants is an important factor. The topography and size of the farm is well suited for research in land drainage, power, and mechanical efficiency.

Self-feeders should be built of materials that resist decay and should be kept tightened and painted.

Detroit Market Sees Milk Demand Rise

With milk production dropping about 3 per cent and consumer demand increasing by five per cent in the Detroit market during September as compared with the same month last year, prospects for an adequate supply of milk for the rest of this year are questionable, according to Howard F. Simmons, secretary-manager of the Michigan Milk Producer's association.

"Up to this time the Detroit market has had a supply sufficient to meet fluid requirements and production in this area has been maintained at a much higher level than in other markets. But maintaining this high production has jeopardized the future supply, as farmers have for the past six weeks been feeding their cows from winter storage feeds because of lack of pasture due to the extremely dry weather," stated Simmons.

"The unprecedented and unexpected heavy demand from manufacturers of condensed milk, cheese, and butter, is causing much concern in the milk market, with prices paid by manufacturers constantly rising and making it difficult to keep fluid milk flowing to the city markets. In the majority of large cities, especially where prices are set by federal marketing order, the price of bottled milk and cream has been raised considerably above the Detroit price in order to maintain sufficient quantities to meet the consumer demand."

"Members of the Michigan Milk Producers' association are striving to keep production up to requirements but it is impossible to obtain new shippers of approved milk in the face of manufacturing prices. The situation is one of the most serious we have ever faced, particularly in view of the mounting costs which have materially increased during the past year," he added.

Lawn Weed Control Should Start Now

Before you allow that lawn to go to bed for the winter, you had better apply some weed killer. Dr. Buford H. Grigsby, weed control specialist in the botany department at Michigan State college, advises that October is a very good month to spray your lawn with 2,4-D or some other weed killer.

When the weather is generally warm is a good time to make a thorough application of the spray. Grigsby maintains that some of the weeds are "just right" for killing. Seed germination has started in dandelions and it is a good time to destroy them. Bull thistle rosettes are now appearing and the killing action may be slower now, but will be more complete than in the spring.

Grigsby says that seedlings, not yet visible, can be killed now as they are more susceptible to the spray. Chickweeds are especially easy to kill now.

Although spraying will not kill crab grass, it may be reduced in that germination of the seed is lowered by a 2,4-D spray at this time.

In recommending the use of the spray, Grigsby adds the following precautions: Avoid letting the spray drift into shrubbery and flowering plants, do not spray fall seedlings of grass, do not spray bent grass, use 2,4-D as recommended by the maker and wash sprayer and hose thoroughly after using.

Seeks Murdered. The plight of a young girl who tries to outguess a maniac killer and finds she has guessed wrong, forms an exciting theme of "The Spiral Staircase," RKO Radio's mystery drama starring Dorothy McGuire, George Brent and Ethel Barrymore. It will be shown at the Fox on Tuesday and Wednesday. With a Vermont village at the turn of the century as its setting, the action of the picture all takes place in a few short hours, much of it in a forbidding old mansion where the heroine works as a servant and companion to the erratic, invalid Mrs. Warren. A series of murders has shocked the community, and in each case the victim has been a young woman, the girl finds herself a logical candidate for the murderer's list. Cowboy Stars. A cast including several cowboy stars will be seen in "Cowboy Blues," the Thursday and Friday feature at the Fox. The Hoosier discovered beneath the surface of Hotshots, Ken Curtis, Jeff Donnell and Guy Kibbee head the list of performers. Spooks. Leo Gorcey, the Bowery Boys and Douglas Dumbrille are featured in "Spook Busters," half of the Thursday and Friday double feature at the Fox. In the story, the youthful gangsters graduate from the Exterminator's College, and set up in business as professional killers of bugs. Their first job takes them to a supposedly haunted home, where Dumbrille, as a demented physician, is carrying on a series of strange experiments. ENLISTS IN ARMY. Bruce Deeg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Deeg of Eaton Rapids, has enlisted in the army. He signed up for 18 months. A mud-filled canyon five miles wide and 600 feet deep has been discovered beneath the surface of the lower Mississippi river.

ANOTHER FINE GIFT

Once again the people of Ingham county and of Mason in particular acknowledge the thoughtfulness and generosity of Albert J. Hall. He gave Ingham county its library building—one of the finest library buildings in any city in Michigan. With the original gift went the site. Now he has given the county a deed to the lot adjoining the original site on the east.

Presentation of the lot to the county for part of its library property will prevent the encroachment of a business building which would have marred the beauty of the library.

There are few men who have ever felt a greater responsibility to a community than Mr. Hall. He devoted a half-century of his active business life to community service as a banker. For an even longer period he has led in church work. Mr. Hall is a man who has always been quick to volunteer for duty for others, to take the initiative in community betterment. Mr. Hall has always given of his time and energy as well as of his substance. His generosity has never stopped with making the gift.

For upwards of 80 years this community has been the richer for Mr. Hall being a part of it. All of us appreciate his most recent contribution to this community.

WHEN THE WELL RUNS DRY

We never miss the water till the well runs dry. We fail to appreciate good water until we visit in other sections of the country where water is brackish, alkaline or is so loaded with sulphur or other minerals as to be unpalatable.

Detroit water comes from Lake St. Clair, actually from the Detroit river. That is one of the penalties for living in Detroit. Up around Saginaw and Midland the oil and chemical wastes have so contaminated the water that the residents of those two cities are now going to spend $11,000,000 to bring in water from Lake Huron. The city of Midland is planning to spend $6,000,000 as its share of the cost.

Here in Ingham county we have the finest drinking water to be found anywhere in the world. Even a city the size of Lansing is able to pump enough water out of its wells to supply its residents. We find fault sometimes because the water is too hard, yet hardness and all, it is such water that people in Saginaw, Midland, Detroit and many other cities can only dream about.

The Romans built miles of aqueducts to furnish Rome with a water supply. Los Angeles and other western cities have to transport their water hundreds of miles.

When we next quaff a cup of water from the farm well or from a city tap supplied with well water we might well pause to give thanks for one of the greatest blessings we have.

WHY THE HANGING NEWS WAS PRINTED

Why were those stories of the hangings in Germany printed with all their details? Why did editors use the alleged account ghost-written by the American hangman—the man who admitted hanging some 400 men? What was the reason that so much editorial space was wasted on Goering for dispatching himself instead of walking to the gallows? Why were the last words of the doomed men printed in our newspapers? Why did representatives of American news agencies walk down death row to peer at the men just before they were scheduled to swing?

There is just one answer to all the questions. Those stories were printed because the great majority of the American newspaper readers wanted to read such accounts. Most of us read to satisfy our morbid curiosity or to get some kind of a synthetic revenge.

We shouldn't blame the editors for printing the stories. We should blame ourselves for wanting to read them.

NO CHARGE MADE CANDIDATES

VanWagoner campaign managers have had reprints made of articles appearing in newspapers and are mailing those lithographic reprints to voters throughout the state. Sigler campaign managers have done and are doing the same thing with the additional device of a special publishers' committee.

There is no charge made to candidates for using the reprints. The Ingham County News gave VanWagoner permission to use the reprints and it gives the same permission to Sigler.

PROFESSORS FIND "FOUR BASIC DEFECTS"

They've done it again, these professors. They have studied county government and have discovered four basic defects, so the professors, Robert S. Ford, the director, and Claude R. Tharp, research associate, are all set to reorganize.

The two men are members of the University of Michigan bureau of government.

Professors Ford and Tharp were astonished to find in their study of county government that there is no over-all administrative head. They discovered that there is no president, king, czar, emperor or even a county manager elected. To the two professors such a condition is fraught with peril. They want someone to shout out orders.

No. 2 fault found by the director and his research associate is "a complicated administrative organization in which there is considerable duplication of functions between agencies." Such a generalization lacks punch. The professors should be more specific and point out the duplication, and in what county they found it.

"A board of supervisors is too large and possesses both legislative and administrative powers," the professors assert. They failed to mention again what counties they are talking about. In Wayne county the assertion is probably true, yet there are 82 other counties in the state.

The fourth claim is that there are too many county officers elected, that a bed-sheet ballot is thus necessary. Again the professors are talking about Wayne and the bigger counties. There are no bed-sheet ballots in Ingham as a result of county officers.

The constitution gives the people the power of electing their officials. Every time an office is taken out of the hands of the people and the authority given to some appointive officer just so far have the people lost control, just so far has bureaucracy been advanced.

There are inefficiencies and evils in every type of federal, state, county, city and township government. Yet they can be corrected without tearing down the whole structure. And for every evil the two professors point out in the present system of county government there might well be two more in any system set up to supplant it.

Here in Ingham county the government is, by and large, efficient and responsive. We might do some better by changing it to suit the professors; and we might do a lot worse.

POLITICAL MANAGEMENT COSTLY

Political management instead of business management is what is wrong with our economy today.

To end the coal strike the government took over control of the mines as was demanded by John L. Lewis. Now Lewis threatens another strike. He claims the government did not live up to its contract with the miners; that the money paid into the welfare fund is based on the weight of the coal in the cars and not on the weight at the pit.

When political management takes the place of business management in any industry the people suffer. The coal business no longer gives dependable service to the people because there is no longer any business management. The people have to take the kind of coal they can get and pay the price they have to pay. Free economy in the coal business has been abandoned and political management is in force. The coal industry and the people it serves are now at the mercy of Lewis and the politicians.

DOWN BY THE Sycamore

That display of giant potatoes exhibited in the office of the Ingham County News served to make other people sit up and take notice of big things produced here in the Sycamore valley and other valleys nearby. Clarence Foote told of the biggest fish ever jerked from the Sycamore—a 10-pound carp snagged by young Lee Darling two years ago. The fish was just under 30 inches long.

More interesting than fish stories was the cold, hard proof brought in by Orrin J. Phelps from Pleasant valley. He has 300 White Leghorn pullets just beginning to lay and they are laying giant eggs, almost as big as those potatoes on exhibit at the Ingham County News. By January 1 the Phelps Leghorns should be laying eggs which will run six to the dozen.

Speaking of big things produced in the Sycamore valley, a stranger stopped in Mason Saturday and inquired, "Any big men ever born in this town?" And the native at the gas pump replied, "None, just babies."

Thomas Toy, a former Lansing alderman, county supervisor and county welfare administrator, appeared at the session of the Ingham board one day last week. He has given up trying to get souls by politics and has gone back to preaching the gospel. He has a church at Tecumseh. Telling about the lack of prejudices among Tecumseh people, he said, "People pick up their prejudices at their mothers' knees—and other joints."

Howell has a well-lighted football field with plenty of parking space. Howell segregates its musicians—the girls having a band of their own. Both bands performed well last Friday night. So did the Howell football team. Any one attending night football games this time of year should put on heavy undies and wrap themselves in blankets if they intend to sit on the bleachers. Most people on the sidelines actually shiver to see the goalposts or the barrels of the Howell girl musicians. That's why I kept looking the other way.

It is only human to conclude that all the bright sayings people use today were newly coined. Actually, many of the bright sayings were first said years ago. Thomas Jefferson in 1801 spoke of "holding the bag." Cervantes in "Don Quixote" written in the 16th century fashioned "Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition." William Graham Sumner spoke of "the forgotten man" in an 1883 lecture and Mark Twain used the term "New Deal" in "The Connecticut Yankee." Such terms as "one foot in the grave," "fly off the handle," "gift of gab," and Mae West's "I'm no angel" were current from 1850 to 1825. Fried in his own fat goes back to Chaucer in 1383. "By hook or by crook" first appeared in print in 1500, "hen-pecked" in 1690, "kick the bucket" in 1785 and "knock off" in 1662.

Farmers who didn't start lifting the steer over the fence when it was a calf can now borrow the new portable hydraulic hoist which was delivered to the Ingham County News Saturday. We bought the hoist to unload rolls of neoprene. We waited months for the hoist and now that we have it we can't get any neoprene to unload. For four weeks we have been operating on print borrowed from St. Johns. We have reached the bottom of the barrel this week and will have to go borrowing again if the neoprene shipment doesn't arrive before next Thursday.

There was a lot of coupon clipping done this past week with Schmidt's department store getting bales of them. Women who clipped the coupons from last week's Ingham County News were able to purchase nylons at the store. When you see a woman with her legs encased in a new pair of nylons it's a two to one bet she clipped a coupon from last week's paper.

Western Michigan students used rare discernment Monday in their election of a queen for the homecoming on November 2. Having all of Michigan and many other states from which to pick their queen, they chose a girl from the Sycamore valley. You guessed it—the queen is Jean Freeman. She is a girl of beauty and dignity and has a queenly bearing. "A queen devoid of beauty is not queen; she needs the royalty of beauty's mien."

With his daughter being chosen as queen, Harry Freeman, the father, naturally becomes a king, a duke or something, under the divine right of kings. A lot of Harry's friends insist that he should attend the Western Michigan homecoming ball in Kalamazoo the night of November 2. He may go if he can borrow a king's robes.

I have every intention of taking in the chicken pie supper at the Northwest Stockbridge church this Thursday night. There are some outstanding cooks in that neighborhood. The Northwest Stockbridge church is on Dexter Trail, about five or six miles south of Danville.

Mason's school band in its new double size will take the field at the Holt game Friday night, starting out the year with 25 in the band. Director Theodore Andreychuk now has an even 50. The band is therefore twice as good as it was two weeks ago and it was good then. The new and bigger band will also play for the Eaton Rapids game at Mason and will go to Grand Lodge. The Holt band will play at Mason Friday night, too.

HERDSMAN. In the same manner in which she wrote "The Brother," Dorothy Wilson now tells the story of Amos, the Hebrew prophet. Little is known of him, but the author has tried to tell his story in keeping with the times according to research. Amos is shown as one of the earlier characters to believe in some sort of social justice and equality of rights. She has a fine feeling for the country and writes well in a style that is enjoyable.

AMERICAN REGIONAL COOKERY. "This is a cook book of dishes which belong to the very soil of America, which have grown out of its fields and plains, its rivers and forests and sea lanes. It is also a book of the recipes preferred in each section of America; the way in which native dishes are cooked in Maine, Michigan or California; Boston, New York, or New Orleans."

STORE GLAD BULBS RIGHT Paul R. Krona, of the horticulture department at Michigan State college, says there is a way to protect gladiolus bulbs against thrips when you store them for winter. The use of 3 to 10 percent strength of DDT dust to cover the bulbs thoroughly will do the job. Gladioli should be harvested after the first frost. The tops should be cut off immediately and foliage destroyed. The DDT may be left on the bulbs all winter without injury. Tons of pure fluorine were produced for war purposes by the development of an electrolysis process, and special containers were made to store it; this chemical element in the past had defied man's efforts to harness it. The secret of the tone of Stradivari and other old violins is believed to lie in the varnish.

HOWELL HIGHLANDERS SURPRISE MASON 25-0

PASSES AND END RUNS BEWILDER MASON

Mason high school's football team fell flat at Howell last Friday night, losing to the Highlanders by the score of 25-0. The collapse was almost complete.

Howell put a fast and deceptive team on the field, but part of its speed and deception just looked that way because the Mason grid-ers were so far off form.

The Highlanders took the ball on the opening kickoff and never let loose of it until they punted it behind the Mason goal.

minutes when Dick Betcher began to break loose for long gains. His signal was seldom called during the first three periods. The Mason strategy appeared to be the passing passes into the hands of Howell

HOLT HERE FRIDAY

Holt, tied with Stockbridge for first place in the Ingham County league, will meet Mason at Athletic field Friday night. After suffering three straight defeats in Capital Circuit play, the Mason grid-ers are determined to hit the comeback trail Friday night.

Howell made a pair of touchdowns to win the game. The following week Mason lost to Everett. Hoping for a comeback against Howell, Coach Abe Cohn was doomed to disappointment.

backs. Howell made 14 first downs in 40 more than Mason. Air Superiority. Howell won the game through the air. The Highlanders completed 11 passes for a total gain of 267 yards. Mason gained an absolute zero through the air. Five times Mason passing attempts were blocked to the bosoms of green.

BIG GAMES BOOKED FOR INGHAM SCHOOLS

TITLES STILL UNDECEID IN BOTH CIRCUITS

The gridiron campaigns in the Ingham county league and the Capital Circuit are slightly past the half-way mark but championships in both loops are still far from settled. It looks like a battle right to the finish.

Howell pulled up even with Everett and Charlotte in the Capital Circuit by trouncing Mason 25-0.

Grand Ledge turned back Eaton Rapids 6-0 in the first night game on the Capital gridiron. Charlotte's touchdown twins, Bob Mohre and Raymond Rade, paced the Orioles to a 25-0 win over Hastings.

Everett crushed Resurrection 33-0 with Capt. Dick Brown carrying the brunt of the attack. Friday night play for two of the Capital Circuit's unbeaten teams, Charlotte and Howell. The Orioles and Highlanders clash under the lights at Charlotte.

Everett travels to Grand Ledge and can't afford to take the County lights. The Comets 6-0 win over Eaton Rapids puts them on a par with the Vikings on the basis of comparative scores.

Seldom does a non-league tilt take on such significance but the Mason-Holt contest at the county seat of special interest to both leagues. The Ramblers, currently leading the Ingham loop, have only the Dansville set-back to mar their record. Coach Herman Tracey's lads have rolled up 113 points to 26 for their opponents in five league games.

Mason will have to watch such luminaries as fullback Stan Patton, a hard-line-smasher; quarterback Bruce Hancock, a great passer, runner and field general; and Glenn Troop, a brilliant flanker. On the other hand, Mason, languishing in the conference cellar, is set to turn All-Conference Fullback Dick Betcher and Halfback Roy Johnson loose against the Ramblers.

Stockbridge and Williamston are almost certain to pull up even with Holt in the county leadership. The Panthers should not encounter too much difficulty in taking the measure of Okemos. Williamston is favored to down Leslie.

Determined to wind up the campaign with a 500 average, Dansville is gunning for Okemos. The Aggies, weakened further by the loss of Fullback Bob Hayhoe, who has quit school, aren't conceded much of a chance of topping the fast improving Gladiators, however.

Stockbridge and Williamston are almost certain to pull up even with Holt in the county leadership. The Panthers should not encounter too much difficulty in taking the measure of Okemos. Williamston is favored to down Leslie.

Determined to wind up the campaign with a 500 average, Dansville is gunning for Okemos. The Aggies, weakened further by the loss of Fullback Bob Hayhoe, who has quit school, aren't conceded much of a chance of topping the fast improving Gladiators, however.

It was a tragedy if a woman's "rat" showed and it required a lot of putting through the day to keep it in place. Pompadours were high in those days. Remember? ELECT JACOB SCHEPERS As a member of the STATE LEGISLATURE Endorsed By Vernon J. Brown. It was in 1906 that I first met Jacob Schepers, then an employee in the accounting division of the Auditor General's department. Our acquaintance has ripened as the years have rolled by. He has served the State as a member of the administrative staff of Michigan State college; the county as a member of the board of supervisors and on the board of control of our tuberculosis sanatorium; and has long been a public official and civic leader. This background of experience should make him a valuable member of the Michigan Legislature. He has earned recognition. He deserves and merits the honor of continued service to the public. The second district of Ingham never had a more capable candidate or one better trained for the job. (Signed) Vernon J. Brown

IT'S AMUSING... AND ENLIGHTENING! One amusing way in which to get a picture of today's higher cost of living is to run through newspapers and magazines of ten years ago. Practically everything was much cheaper back in 1936. Everything, that is, except the price of electricity. There's an item on the family budget that has not gone up. In fact, it has gone down. Nationally, the average residential cost of electric service is 12% lower than in 1936. But the same service provided by Consumers Power Company despite increased costs of labor and materials all along the line is 22% lower than the national average. Under Consumers low electric rates the more electricity you use, the lower the price per unit. Today our residential customers are, on the average, getting 13.7% more electricity for their money than they did in 1939. Certainly electricity, compared with other costs of living, is today's greatest bargain item. SAVE Work AND Worry, Time AND Money... Enough Food is no Accident It is no accident that the largest crops in our history are being harvested this year when we, and the rest of the world, need them most. In spite of war, loss of labor and little new equipment, the American farmer has again taken care of us and provided a life-saving surplus for abroad. How do our farmers do it? How is it that only sixteen per cent of our people can feed all of us and go on breaking records in the face of circumstances which slow up industry? There are three reasons: First, farmers work harder and longer than most other Americans. Second, they know how to make the best use of tools. And, third, they have a long-standing partnership with industry seeking to satisfy their urge to get more out of the land for the same labor. Farmers are still practicing the kind of enterprise that built America. The Institute has printed a booklet STEEL SERVES THE FARMER. Write for a copy and it will be sent gladly.
