Delts Prominent as NIC Celebrates Golden Anniversary

TWO DELTS in particular played a prominent role as the National Interfraternity Conference met in November at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City to celebrate its fiftieth anniversary.

Past President of the Fraternity Joel W. Reynolds was elected vice-chairman of the Conference. He was elected to the executive committee in 1956 and has just concluded a term as treasurer. His election is a great honor to both Brother Reynolds and to the Fraternity.

Fraternity President Francis M. Hughes addressed the Conference at one of the Saturday sessions. His address was entitled, "The Fraternity System in the United States Today."

The National Interfraternity Conference was started at a time when the various fraternity representatives had long been suspicious of each other. The rivalries were intense and at times antagonism and even hatred were in evidence. Now, half a century later, the 59 member fraternities work together, united in their efforts constantly to improve the fraternity system as a whole. Throughout the 50 years, Delta Tau Delta, a charter member of the Conference, has played an important role in its establishment as an effective and important part of the Greek-letter fraternity world.

Three Delts, James B. Curtis, A. Bruce Bielaski, and Alvan E. Duerr, have served as Chairman of the Conference. Brother Duerr has the distinction of being one of the few men to serve two terms as Chairman.

One of the outstanding features of the three-day meeting was the banquet held on Friday evening, at which the main speakers were Dr. John A. Krout, provost and vice-president of Columbia University, and Eric A. Johnston, president of Motion Picture Association of America.

Official representatives of the Fraternity at the Conference were President Hughes, Mr. Reynolds, and Executive Vice-President Hugh Shields.

The following is the text of President Hughes's address:

THE FRATERNITY SYSTEM TODAY

By FRANCIS M. HUGHES

On this occasion, we celebrate the 50th Anniversary of this Conference. But in any such observance, we should look back to 1776, one hundred eighty-three years ago, to the founding of Phi Beta Kappa, the mother Greek-letter fraternity. In the membership of this Conference are several fraternities whose history spans a period of more than one hundred thirty years. Other member fraternities have long since celebrated their centennials. We point with pride and say that the fraternity system is built upon a glorious historical tradition.

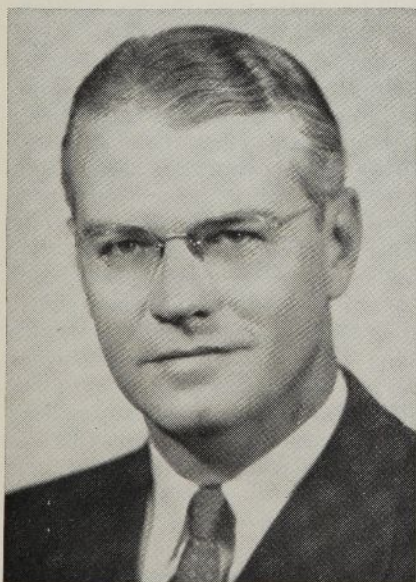

And membership statistics give us a glow of satisfaction. In the last twenty years, the number of our member fraternity chapters has grown from approximately 2,400 to 3,400, a gain of 1,000 chapters. Fraternity houses owned have increased from 1,729 to 2,712, again a gain of almost 1,000. Membership has doubled from something less than 800,000 to almost 1,700,000.

And indications are that the system will continue to grow apace. In your own fraternities, as in mine, we receive each year scores of inquiries from colleges and universities, from local fraternities and colonies, about the possibility of expansion. Each year, many new chapters are installed as additional representatives of the fraternity system of North America. There is a growing trend among educational institutions, assisted by federally guaranteed financing, to build new facilities for undergraduate chapters.

So the statistics of growth and interest are heartening. But in a sincere appraisal of the fraternity system today, we would be less than honest if we did not admit the presence of a number of disturbing trends, which must of necessity give us anxious pause. May I suggest that we take a hard look at some of these factors which have plagued us in the past or are now beginning to beset us.

In the first place, fraternity men are becoming, more and more, a minority group on campus. Many exceptions, of course, may be stated with reference to this generalization. As an example, at my own Alma Mater, Ohio Wesleyan University, fraternity men comprise 89 per cent of the male students. But on many campuses, in spite of swelling college enrollments, we hear the disconcerting news that each year an increasingly smaller number of men are going through rush. This is particularly true in our large state institutions. It would thus appear in these situations that the fraternity system may be losing its attractiveness to many young men of superior qualities. The solution to this problem is that our undergraduate chapters must concentrate on excellence, on developing a group so outstanding in character and in campus citizenship, that membership in the same will be a unique honor.

FRANCIS M. HUGHES

The problem of pledge mortality continues to beset us. It would not be inaccurate to say that approximately 35 per cent of the young men who have experienced the thrill of accepting the pledge button never pass through the doors of the chapter hall to receive the final initiatory rites. To these young men are denied the wonderful experience of fraternity life. The fault may not always be pinpointed. Frequently, the pledge lacks the capacity to measure up to his responsibilities, both fraternal and scholastic. But perhaps more frequently, the chapter itself lacks a basic and constructive pledge development program. Time, one of the most valuable of all God-given assets, is frittered away in a hodgepodge of senseless activities to the embitterment of the prospective member, or perhaps to his scholastic failure. We proudly say that Hell Week has been replaced by Help Week. But in many cases, this is simply not true. On occasions, pledges are driven to such exhaustion that proper attention to scholastic responsibilities is impossible. In any event, through one process or another, good fraternity material is destroyed. This problem may only be minimized by a strengthening of the selective process incident to membership, by strict and watchful adherence to a constructive pledge development program, and by mature undergraduate leadership.

Closely akin to the disturbing factor of pledge mortality is that of scholarship. The simple fact of the matter is that fraternity scholarship today is plagued by mediocrity. Let us look at the record. Our last complete scholarship report shows that of our member fraternities with 50 or more chapters, only six could claim more than one-half of their chapters above the All Men's Average on campus. In other words, fraternity men as a group are not measuring up scholastically to the average male student. Note that I say "as a group." Studies have indicated that the mediocrity of fraternity scholarship may be traced in most cases to the extremely low scholastic standing of only a few members of the chapters in question. We know that many college administrations, gravely concerned about this problem, have growing doubts about the effectiveness of the fraternity system. This weakness represents, in my humble judgment, one of the greatest challenges which faces the fraternity world today. There should be no place in the undergraduate chapter for the man who is "goofing-off" scholastically. By an effective scholarship program, administered on a national level, embracing a strict policy of suspension and denial of all chapter privileges of those members who fall below a minimum academic rating, this serious problem can be met to some extent. But in the final analysis, the solution will appear only when good scholarship becomes a chapter tradition and a chapter activity, engaged in with as much fervor and organizational ability as are plans for the Homecoming Decorations or the Spring Formal.

For several generations, the fraternity house served as a necessary adjunct to the housing problem of the institution. There has been recently a widespread change in this regard. In many situations, with the erection of magnificent new dormitories, the fraternity house is beginning to occupy a competitive position with these ultramodern facilities, and in many cases suffers by comparison. This competition cannot be met by an application of the standards of yesterday. Rental payments made by many chapters to their house corporations are ridiculously low, based upon fair rental values of the middle thirties. Fraternity housing operations, when privately owned, must be placed upon a sound financial basis, assuring sufficient income for adequate maintenance and providing for a funding of depreciation. Unless sound measures are taken in this direction, the fraternity house will never survive this competitive situation.

In any discussion of the fraternal world today, we cannot pass over the attacks upon fraternity autonomy which began following World War II and which are continuing today with increasing tempo. I do not propose in my brief remarks today to debate the merits and demerits of this problem. Suffice it to say that it is a condition which confronts us, and not a theory. We will lose chapters in this struggle, principally because there is, and there will continue to be, a strong and militant resentment against any legislative fiat in this direction. Our system has been so involved in this particular controversy that fraternity leaders have had great difficulty in applying their time and talents to other problems of vital importance. I offer no immediate solution or panacea. But I am confident that whatever the future of this controversy, the fraternity system will survive, because it has the inherent strength to face up to any challenge or crisis which may confront it.

But by far the most disturbing factor in present-day fraternity life is the widespread failure of the system to develop maturity in undergraduates. Phi Beta Kappa was established in a spirit of idealism, as a revolt against the dissipation which had begun to characterize the Latin societies at William and Mary. The society was devoted to the development of the intellect, and of all those virtues that should characterize splendid young manhood. I do not charge that the fraternity system today is failing generally to develop character. It is producing many exceptional young men, as it has in the past. But we must admit that we find among many of our undergraduate chapters an alarming and increasing tendency to scoff at, and to disobey, university regulations, to minimize the importance of scholarship, to overemphasize social activities, to indulge in general tomfoolery which not only brings the fraternity system into general disrepute, but which occasionally results in the headlines of tragedy. Far too many undergraduate chapters are right now twiddling their fraternal thumbs under the ban of well-deserved social probation, imposed by an indignant college or university administration. This imbalance is reaching disturbing proportions.

As a national officer of my fraternity for almost twelve years, I have had the opportunity to speak on scores of occasions to literally thousands of undergraduates in the aggregate. I never fail to emphasize what I have chosen to call "the awesome responsibility of undergraduate fraternity life." Each year, 15 or 20 or 25 or 30 young men, 17 to 18 years of age, in the most impressionable period of their lives, and for the first time separated from the influence of their family, will come into a new home—the fraternity house. What kind of an atmosphere will they find there? Will they find an atmosphere where their human potentialities and capabilities will be developed and moulded, or degraded or destroyed? This is the solemn responsibility of every brother. Alvan E. Duerr, one of the great past Chairmen of this Conference, stated it in this simple and effective way: "Never an hour passes in the life of a fraternity chapter but that a brother may exercise a good influence upon his fellow members."

These then are some of the challenges which the fraternity system must meet. I have chosen in my remarks to emphasize these problems, rather than to enumerate the great and varied accomplishments of the fraternity world. I would not wish my remarks to be considered those of a pessimist. I am intensely optimistic about the ability of our system to meet every challenge, to face every crisis, to survive every attack.

These responsibilities are ours. We celebrate the past, on this historic occasion, but we must look to the problems which the future will bring, and face these problems with sound judgment and energetic attention. And at all times we must bear in mind the fundamental purpose of fraternity: to build character, to develop citizenship, to aid in the moral, social, and intellectual development of the young man.

In an American shipyard appears this sign:

"We build good ships here,
At a profit if we can,
At a loss if we must,
But always good ships."

As we move toward the bi-centennial of the Greek-letter fraternity system, and into the second half-century of the existence of this Conference, may our constant aim and unalterable purpose be ever in this direction, so that we may say: "We build good men here."

ON JULY 1, 1959, Dr. Andrew David Holt, Emory, '27, became the 16th president of the University of Tennessee. Dr. Holt is a national figure in the field of education. He is an outstanding public speaker, a dedicated educator, a man with successful experience in all branches of the educational system. He is married and the father of two daughters and one son.

Dr. Holt has served the field of education ever since his college days. He has been an elementary teacher, a high school teacher and coach, a demonstration school principal, a college professor, a high school supervisor for West Tennessee, the executive secretary of the Tennessee Education Association, administrative assistant to the president of the University of Tennessee, and was vice-president of the University prior to his elevation to the presidency. During World War II he served in the Army, attained the rank of major, and was an educational specialist directing the Army's pre-induction training branch. In 1949-50, he held the office of president of the National Education Association.

Born in Milan, Tennessee, Dr. Holt obtained his public school education in his home town. Following graduation from high school, he entered Emory University in Atlanta, where he was a member of Beta Epsilon Chapter of the Fraternity. He completed his formal education at Columbia University, where he received both his master's degree and his doctorate.

Dr. Holt has been a member of the faculty at the University of Tennessee since 1950. One of his many accomplishments at the University was the organization of a development council to promote gifts and grants to the University. He has also helped in expanding the activities of the University's alumni association.

In addition to his teaching and his work at the University, Dr. Holt has been the recipient of many international, national, regional, and state honors. In 1949 he was chairman of the United States delegation to the World Organization of the Teaching Profession at Berne, Switzerland. He has also been a member of the council of advisers of the U. S. Commissioner of Education; on the education advisory council of the National Association of Manufacturers; a delegate to the

Midcentury White House Conference on Education and Youth in 1950; national chairman of the U. S. Treasury Department's school savings committee; on the advisory committee of the Educational Policies Commission; on the board of directors of the National Education Association; and on the executive committee of the Southern States Work Conference on School Administrative Problems.

In 1955 Dr. Holt served as chairman of the Tennessee White House Conference on Education, and was a member of the National Committee the Tennessee Legislative Council's Long Range School Study. He is on the executive committee of the Southern Regional Education Board; a member of the National Committee on Education and Scholarships of the American Legion; and on the governor's committee for the Employment of the Physically Handicapped.

He was given an honorary membership in the State Dental Association for his services as a member of the board of trustees of the Association's L. G. Noel Memorial Foundation, dedicated to education and research.

It would be logical to conclude that, with such extensive participation on these educational committees and boards, Dr. Holt would have little or no time left for any other pursuits. Not so, however. He is also prominent in many civic, fraternal, and religious organizations. He is a member of the advisory committee of

1960 Karnea Heralds Fraternity's Second Century

THOUGH THOUGHTS of winter may occupy our minds at the present, plans are well under way by Chairman Joel Reynolds and his Karnea Committee to make the Sixty-fifth Karnea one of the best remembered in the Fraternity's history.

The 1960 Karnea will open at The New Ocean House, Swampscott, Massachusetts, on June 22. Hundreds of Delt undergraduates and alumni will be assembling from the United States and from Canada. There will be four action-packed days of business sessions, round-table discussions, luncheon and dinner programs, and vocational conferences. All of this will be interspersed with opportunities to enjoy the splendid recreational and sight-seeing facilities of the New England area.

Karnea Hounds will be in attendance in abundance to compare this Karnea with memorable Karneas of the past. Many will be renewing friendships established for the first time at the Pittsburgh Karnea. Other Delts will be establishing new friendships which will prove to endure for the remainder of their lives. Undergraduates will rub elbows with alumni who have established themselves in all walks of business, industry, the professions, and in education. Alumni will have the chance to have any dying faith in the youth of America rekindled as they observe the undergraduates assume responsibility and leadership in the business sessions and in the round-table discussions.

True to the best Delt traditions, it will be a meeting for undergraduates and alumni alike. Though the Karnea Committee is necessarily composed of alumni in the Boston area, the Committee will lean heavily on undergraduate help and suggestions. The Eastern Division will be the host Division; however, the six New England chapters, Beta Chi at Brown; Gamma Gamma at Dartmouth; Gamma Nu at Maine; Beta Nu at M.I.T.; Beta Mu at Tufts; and Gamma Zeta at Wesleyan will be the ones most strongly relied on. Beta Mu and Beta Nu, both being located in Boston, will play a large part in pre-Karnea plans as well as being called on for special duties and contributions at the Karnea itself.

Present any Delt who has ever attended a Karnea with the opportunity of attending another one and, if it can possibly be arranged, he'll be there. Now is the time for all Delts to start planning their schedules for next summer in order to include Swampscott, Massachusetts, for the Sixty-fifth Karnea. Calendars for 1960 are beginning to appear. Make this note on yours—"Swampscott, June 22-25, 1960."

Gen. Benson Named Commander of New Air Force Medical Center

ONE OF THE U. S. Air Force's leading aeromedical figures, a member of the Fraternity since 1925, has been named the first commander of the new USAF Aerospace Medical Center at Brooks Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

He is Major General Otis O. Benson, Jr., Iowa, '25, a native of Sandstone, Minn., and one of those honored at the Recognition Luncheon of the Centennial Karnea held in Pittsburgh, Pa., in August, 1958.

Before his new assignment, General Benson headed the famed School of Aviation Medicine at Brooks. The Aerospace Medical Center includes the School, its branch at Gunter Air Force Base, Ala., and the USAF Hospital and Epidemiological Laboratory at Lackland Air Force Base, near San Antonio. The Center is part of the Air Training Command.

As commander of the Center, General Benson guides advanced space age aeromedical research and planning, the education and training of flight surgeons, nurses and medical technicians, and directs the Center's clinical medicine program.

A chief flight surgeon with nearly 30 years of experience in aeromedical research, organization, and planning, General Benson has had a major role in creating the Aerospace Medical Center.

From the outset of his first tour of duty as commandant of the School of Aviation Medicine, which began in 1949, General Benson led the Aeromedical Center planning board in making definitive plans for completion of the new facility. At the time, the School occupied some 44 elderly, widely scattered buildings at Randolph Air Force Base, northeast of San Antonio. The institution had long since outgrown these facilities, which had but six poorly equipped classrooms and some 175,000 square feet of usable floor area.

The findings and recommendations of General Benson's board were used as the basis for the original design of the new School of Aviation Medicine at Brooks, which was completed and occupied early last July. The School now comprises 47 buildings with a total of 460,000 square feet of floor space. Its principal activities are carried on in five new, permanent structures atop a knoll on the northeast corner of the base. This, the new School complex, offers 280,000 square feet of floor space concentrated on 15 acres of ground.

The new complex includes an Altitude Laboratory, Flight Medicine Laboratory, Research Institute, Research Shops building, and an Academic Building. The latter has 16 modern, fully equipped classrooms, a 433-seat assembly hall, and a two-story Aviation Medicine examination wing.

Original plans for the new School included a small clinic, plus a number of research laboratories and a Library building. For reasons of economy, these were eliminated. General Benson recommended the establishment of a Center providing the clinical medicine capability the institution would require. This was done by incorporating the new USAF Hospital at Lackland. The General is now directing plans for an additional increment of new buildings for the School.

Appointed chairman of the interim board in aviation medicine in 1949,

General Benson also played an important part in gaining specialty recognition for aviation medicine from the American Medical Association. He directed the development of a comprehensive specialty training program at the School, a program which led the AMA to authorize the American Board of Preventive Medicine to establish aviation medicine as a specialty in the field of preventive medicine and to grant specialty certification to qualified physicians.

It was the first time a branch of medical science, starting as a strictly military study, attained formal status as a medical specialty. General Benson was named the first vice-chairman for aviation medicine of the American Board of Preventive Medicine.

General Benson left the School in 1953 to become chief of medical staffing and education in the office of the Surgeon General in Washington. He returned in 1956 to begin his second tour as commandant of the School of Aviation Medicine.

An early advocate of research into the possible effects of space travel on the human body, General Benson encouraged studies of such things as vaporization of body fluids above 63,000 feet, use of algae as a biological gas exchanger, artificial day-night cycles, planetary atmospheres, weightlessness, and the design and procurement of a space cabin simulator.

To aid in these space medicine studies, he initiated plans for and sponsored the first International Symposium on Space Medicine. The meeting was held in November, 1951, and the information presented was published in book form, entitled Physics and Medicine of the Upper Atmosphere, by C. S. White and O. O. Benson, Jr. The book became a standard reference text for work in this field.

General Benson organized a second International Symposium on the Physics and Medicine of the Upper Atmosphere and Space, which was held in San Antonio in November, 1958. Material presented at this meeting is in the process of being published in book form.

The Case of Loy Henderson

By CONSTANTINE BROWN

[EDITOR'S NOTE: This article is a reprint from the Washington Evening Star of Tuesday, October 13, 1959, and appears here through the courtesy of the author, Constantine Brown.]

IN THESE DAYS of confusion, both on the national and international scene, newspaper and radio commentators "with weight" because their columns or utterances are "musts" with policy-makers in the State Department play quite a role in making or unmaking a Foreign Service officer. Of course, in their efforts to "reward" those they regard as skillful, they have the assistance of members of congressional committees in which the Secretary of State or others of the hierarchy are strongly interested.

There are two typical cases showing the power of the Fourth Estate (or at least those of its members who think modernistically): One is that of Charles Bohlen, a career ambassador who is returning to the State Department as top adviser to Secretary Herter. It will be said that his new position is only that of adviser on Soviet affairs. But everything turns these days around Moscow: Western Europe, the Middle East, the Far East, and Latin America. Hence the adviser on Soviet affairs is actually an adviser on everything else, particularly in the case of a relatively inexperienced Secretary of State.

The other, a case of unrewarding real services, is that of the present Deputy Undersecretary of State, Loy Henderson, one of the truly great diplomats of our generation, who since 1955 has been in charge of the dull and unchallenging job of administration of personnel in the State Department.

Ambassador Bohlen is one of the most engaging and personable people one could wish to meet. Besides his clean-cut features and extremely distinguished looks, he has the ability to carry on a most interesting conversation on almost any subject. He is a good foreign service officer, but throughout his career he has never achieved any really positive diplomatic successes. He has been criticised for his part in the Yalta agreement, where he was an adviser to President Roosevelt, besides being an interpreter. But he cannot be charged with the failure of that agreement since it was Mr. Roosevelt himself and his senior advisers who bore the full responsibility for that unfortunate agreement.

Where Mr. Bohlen actually failed was in his most recent job in the Philippines. It is true that he had inherited a difficult situation from his inexperienced predecessors, but there was a really challenging job and he fell on his face. For at no time since the Ambassador Henderson is a member of Beta Pi Chapter at Northwestern University, class of '15. Those who have been privileged to see the movie taken of the TV panel show at the Pittsburgh Karnea will recall Ambassador Henderson as one of the panel members. His comments on the value of fraternity membership and his recall of experiences while an undergraduate, as expressed in the film, clearly depict what a keen ability he has to get to the heart of a problem and to express himself well in a discussion. A feature story on Mr. Henderson appeared in the June, 1957, issue of THE RAINBOW.

Philippines became independent has American prestige been at a lower ebb than during the last two years. When these indisputable facts are brought out, the answer of the legions of Bohlen fans is, "He speaks Russian," or "He got along with Khrushchev."

Loy Henderson achieved real spectacular diplomatic success when he wrenched Iran from the jaws of Russia six years ago. His skillful maneuvering brought about the downfall of the Russian stooge Mossadegh and the return of Shah Mohammed to the throne. But he has never been a favorite of the newspaper fraternity, particularly of those of its members who regard liberalism of the turn of the century as "reaction."

Mr. Henderson, whom the government rewarded with the rank of "five-star" ambassador, has been in the service for 40 years. He first got into trouble in 1939 when at the request of Secretary Hull he wrote an "eyes only" memorandum opposing the Soviet request to purchase a battleship from this country. Ambassador Konstantin Oumansky got wind of that document. He invited Mr. Henderson to lunch and told him that if he played along with the Soviet Union he could become ambassador to Moscow in a short time. But if he antagonized the Kremlin, as he did in the memo to Mr. Hull, his future would remain very uncertain indeed.

By a strange coincidence Mr. Hull decided within a few weeks to rush Mr. Henderson to a faraway post in Iraq, with the terse explanation that he knew what was best for him.

Mr. Henderson served several terms in Moscow and was the trusted deputy chief of mission of Admiral William Standley, our ambassador to the Soviet Union in the early part of World War II. Admiral Standley talked tough to Moletov and Stalin and eventually was recalled "for reasons of health." Mr. Henderson's facility with the Russian language easily matched that of his former subordinate in Moscow and Washington, "Chip" Bohlen.

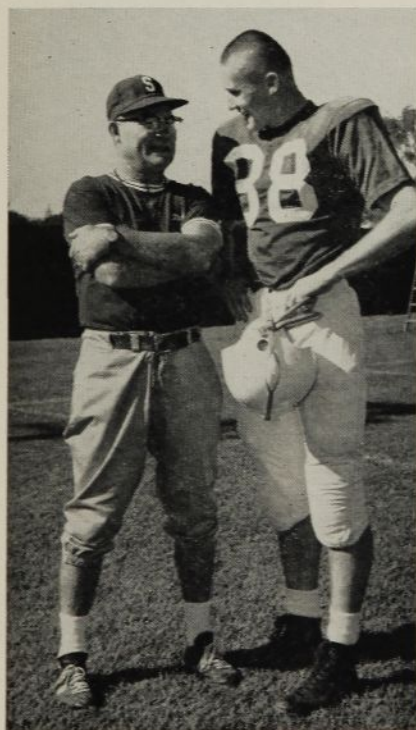

All-Delt Football Line-Up, 1959

Who Would Be on Your All-Delt First Team?

FOR 1959 DELTA TAU DELTA presents an impressive squad of more than 80 football players from which you can select your All-Delt eleven. The squad is an evenly balanced one with 14 end candidates, 11 tackles, 18 guards, seven centers, eight quarterbacks, 19 halfbacks, and six fullbacks. Chris Burford of Stanford, Bernie Berlinger of Penn, Dick DeHaven of Ohio Wesleyan, and Bill Young of W. & L., all served as captains of their respective teams. Most of the All-American teams have not as yet been selected, but Stanford's Chris Burford has already been honored by his selection to the Football Coaches All-American eleven as first-string end.

Other Delt performers included several all-conference selections, most valuable players, most improved players, most inspirational players, and the like. Undoubtedly, several of them will join the ranks of professional football players next season, and it is not unreasonable to expect that a few of them may meet with the outstanding success in the pro leagues that came to several of last year's All-Delt performers, such as Boyd Dowler of Colorado (now a star offensive end with Green Bay) and Andy Cverko of Illinois.

Here is your official Delt roster:

ENDS

Here we have one of the strongest positions on the Delt team. Led by All-American Chris Burford and Penn's Berlinger, we have 12 other strong candidates for the position. They are Dick Heaston, Ohio Wesleyan; Rich Hearney, Stanford; Dan Remley, Wabash; Glenn Caudill, Western Reserve; Allen Miller, Iowa;

GLENN CAUDILL, first-string end at Western Reserve.

DICK McDOWELL, Baker end, was one of four Delts on Baker's starting eleven.

THONER NELSON, Idaho's fine halfback, outdistancing defenders is about to catch a pass and go on for another touchdown.

Bill Smythe, George Washington; Heywood Haser, Pittsburgh; Richard McDowell, Baker; Thomas Hall, Minnesota; Dennis Krueger, Colorado; Clarence Cruny, W. & J.; and Frank Sabyla, W. & J.

DICK HEASTON, Ohio Wesleyan end, was a starting end for the Bishops the entire season.

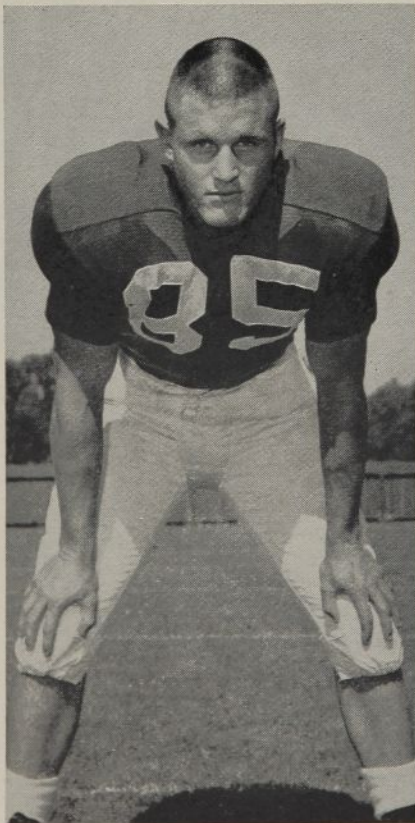

End TOM HALL of Minnesota saw extensive action for the Golden Gophers.

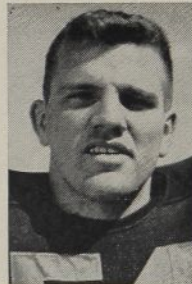

JIMMY JOHNS was bulwark of Kentucky line that fashioned stunning upset win over LSU.

TACKLES

The tackles, led by James "Demo" Johns of Kentucky and Edgar Smith of Pennsylvania, are fewer in number than any other position but make up for any numerical shortcomings with the aggressive nature of their play.

RICH HEARNEY, second team end at Stanford, was proven understudy to CHRIS BURFORD.

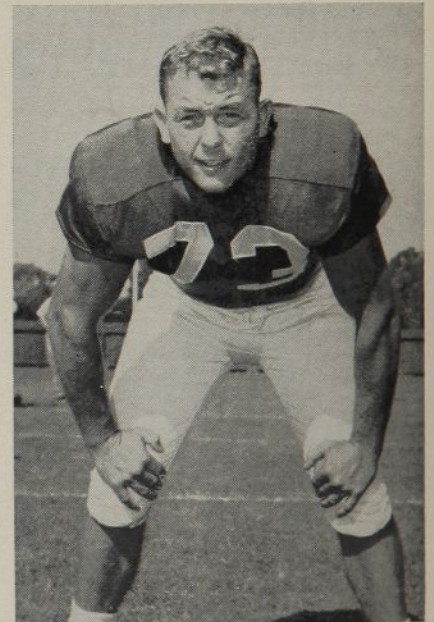

JOE WENDRYHOSKI, stellar Illinois tackle.

The other tackles included on the squad are Trev Grimm, Stanford; Dan Brink, Lawrence; Wellington Ewen, Cornell; William Wheeler, W. & L.; Gene Posati, George Washington; William Damitz, Allegheny; Bruce Cummings, Pennsylvania; Kent Covell, Baker; and Jim Loescher, Bowling Green.

GUARDS

Your choice of starting guards will be a difficult one only because of the abundance of good material from which to choose. Perhaps it would be TREV GRIMM, Stanford tackle, was one of nine Deltas on Indian's squad this year.

Gabe Hartman of Ohio State, cited by his coach as his best offensive lineman, and Penn State's Earl Kohlhaas, starting guard on one of the east's strongest teams (they gave Syracuse its toughest game of the season). The other guard candidates which make selection of the two best so difficult are Bob Salata, Illinois; Gary Pike and Tom Walsh, Stanford; Don Young,

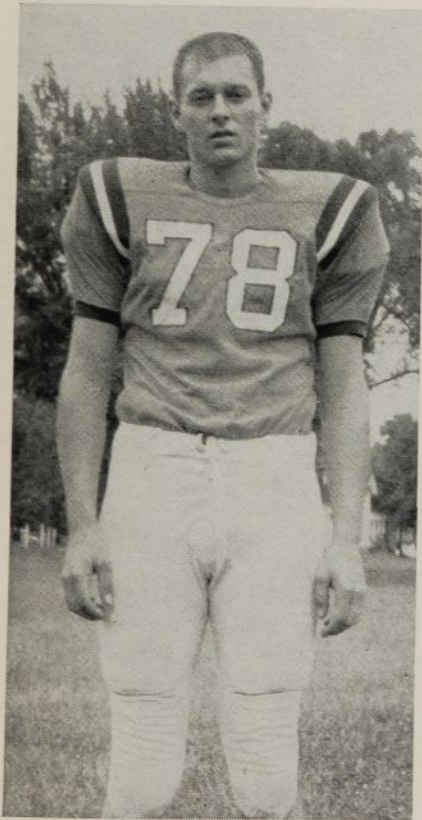

One of three Delt first-string performers at George Washington was Tackle GENE POSATI.

Stanford's starting guard, GARY PIKE, is a former All-American junior college performer.

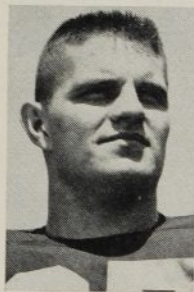

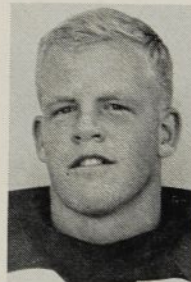

Winner of an honorable mention position on the all-conference squad was BUD SPEAR, Baker guard.

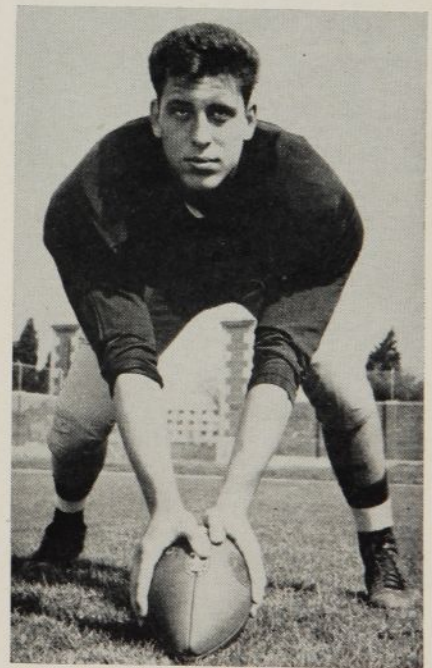

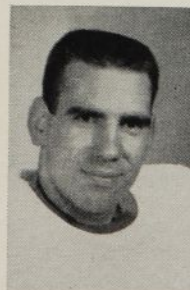

Included among the seven Delts on Bakers' football squad is this first-string tackle, KENT COVELL.

TOM WALSH won coveted "most inspirational player" award at Stanford.

JIM McQUILKIN was first-string guard for Western Reserve eleven.

Performing at center for Illinois' "Fightin' Illini" was STAN YUKEVICH.

CENTERS

The centers, too, offer a difficult choice. Illinois has two good ones in Joe Wendryhoski and Stan Yukevich. Other outstanding performers are Todd Grant, Michigan; Jim Scott, Pittsburgh; Tom Saratovich, Colorado; Bob Beckwith, Hillsdale; and Terrence Fohs, W. & L.

QUARTERBACKS

Depending on what offensive system is employed, there are different talents displayed by a team's quarterback. In a single-wing offense like that of Indiana, Quarterback Jerry Anderson is a blocking back. In the more popular T-formation style, the quarterback becomes more of a ball-handler, passer, and runner. In the latter style of play we have such stars as Mike Cotten, Texas; Rod Sears, Stanford; Jack McHenry, Wabash; Steve Suttle, W. & L.; Jim DeArmond, DePauw; Ed Hino, George Washington; and Jim Chesney, Michigan State.

HALFBACKS

There are more Delts listed as halfbacks than for any other position. They include team captains of Ohio Wesleyan and W. & L., Dick DeHaven and William Young, respec-

Stanford's right halfback, GIL DOWD, was presented with all-conference honors for his outstanding play this fall.

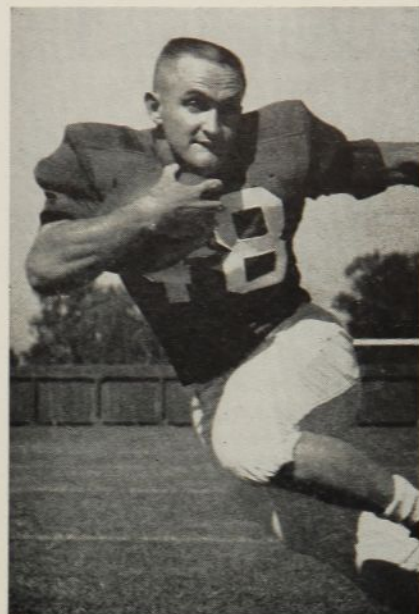

An all-conference end for two years, Captain DICK DEHAVEN of Ohio Wesleyan switched to halfback this season and gained all-conference honors at his new position.

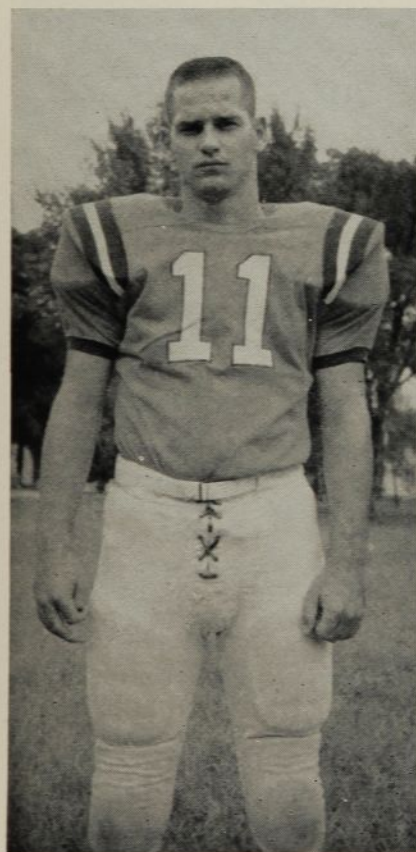

More easily identified in this picture than he is in the picture on the first page of this story, is THERON NELSON of Idaho.

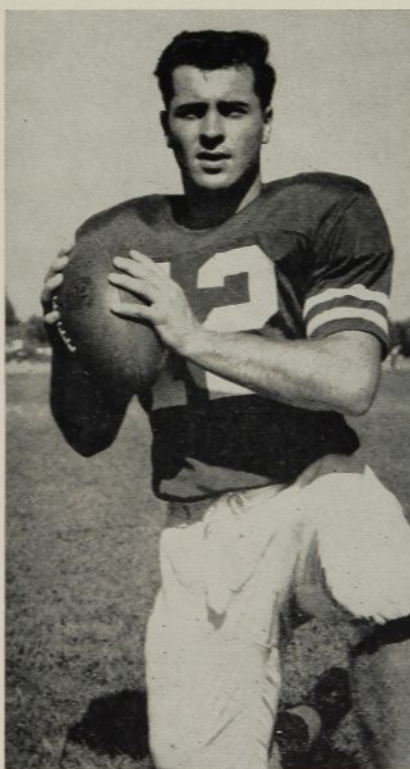

A second-team performer for Ohio Wesleyan's Bishops this season was Halfback DALLAS DEEVERS.

Providing relief for Garber this season was Fullback ARCHIE SCHMITT. He hopes to move on up to the first team in '60.

Baker's JIM PARAMORE was a second-team all-conference selection at halfback.

Another first-team player at Stanford this fall was Fullback SID GARBER. He performed at quarterback a year ago.

One of Idaho's future hopes is Halfback DICK DAVIES, who played as a reserve this year.

Colorado's Lt. Governor

Robert Lee Knous

THERE IS MUCH speculation in Colorado as to the political future of Robert Lee Knous, Colorado, '41, the lieutenant governor of the state. Bob Knous came by his interest in politics honestly. His father, William Lee Knous, is a former chief justice of the Colorado Supreme Court, a former two-term governor, and presently a United States District Court judge in Denver.

Much of the present interest in the political future of Bob Knous is generated by the speculation concerning the political future of Colorado's governor, Steve McNichols. There is no question but that Governor McNichols has ambitions to advance to an office beyond that of governor. The only uncertainty surrounds the position itself. There are those who feel that McNichols will seek the United States Senate seat in 1960. Others mention him as a strong dark-horse candidate for Vice-President on the Democratic ticket. These supporters say that if he should be bypassed by the Democrats on the national ticket, his influence will be great enough to gain him a cabinet post should the Democrats win the election. In any one of these cases, Bob Knous would become governor of Colorado. If none of these possibilities should become reality, it would still be logical to assume that he would be the Democrats' candidate for governor in the general elections of 1962. One way or the other, Bob Knous could easily be the next Delt to take office as a governor.

Bob Knous looks more like a football player than a politician. He is husky, wears his hair in a crew cut, is quiet and unassuming. The 42-year-old Denver attorney was born in Ouray, Colorado. While he was still a youngster, his family moved to Montrose, Colorado. While a student at Montrose High School, Bob captained both the basketball and track teams. He worked for a year in the uranium mines of the area before entering the University of Colorado. Shortly before he was scheduled to be graduated, he left college to enlist as a naval aviation cadet. Four and a half years in the Navy saw him gain his wings, serve as a fighter pilot instructor, and rise to the rank of lieutenant commander.

At the end of World War II he went back to the University, obtained his degree, and went on to the University of Denver to obtain his law degree.

Bob Knous's first political experience came as secretary to his father, then the governor of the state. After several months in that capacity, he joined the staff of the district attorney, serving for two and a half years. After that he entered the private practice of law in Denver. In 1952 he was elected to the Colorado state senate.

While a member of the senate, he seldom engaged in flashy debate and was the sponsor of but little legislation. He contented himself with sitting at his desk and carefully studying the proposed bills. As time went by, his colleagues sought him out for information on many of the pending bills. It was at this time that he teamed up with Steve McNichols. It was a good team. McNichols was the orator. Knous worked behind the scenes in committees and conferences.

His big opportunity came in 1955. The governor named him as chairman of a commission to revise the state's old age pension system, a most controversial problem. He worked on the job for 15 months and managed to get all of the different interest groups together on a program. When presented to the voters in 1956, his program was adopted as a constitutional amendment.

Though his work as chairman of the commission was successful, there was some concern as to his achieving any political advantage from it. While the work was going on, Bob avoided the publicity connected with it as much as possible. Many of the committee sessions were private ones behind closed doors. This did little to endear him to the press. Consequently, when he sought the nomination for lieutenant governor in 1956 he was defeated. Following his defeat, there was some thought that he lost the election because of a failure to campaign vigorously. Whatever the reason, it seemed that Bob Knous was through as a politician.

If party leaders and others thought he was through with politics, Bob had different ideas. In 1958 he staged a remarkable comeback. He again sought nomination for lieutenant governor. This time he was successful in winning the unopposed nomination and went on to defeat soundly the Republican incumbent. No one accused him of not campaigning this time. He went into every county in the state, talking to party officials, influential leaders, and potential delegates. Certainly this work paid off, for by the time the assembly was ready to vote, all of his potential opponents for the nomination had dropped out of the race.

In his role as lieutenant governor, Knous has been an active and effective supporter of Governor McNichols' program. He has taken his job seriously and has worked hard at it. As his political stature has increased, he has become more and more inclined to speak out. It is as if he now knows that he has arrived on his own and does not have to feel that he will be listened to solely because of the fact that he is the son of former Governor William Lee Knous. Throughout his political career he has been very careful to see that he stood on his own. Most assuredly, his family connections have been a help to him many times; but never once has he relied on these connections as opposed to achieving things on his own merit. His father has outwardly kept apart from Bob's political career; but he has been watching his progress from the sidelines and has a great amount of pride in Bob's successes.

Along with Judge Knous, Bob's wife and five children, many of us will be watching in the months ahead to see what the fortunes of politics will have in store for Bob Knous as he moves ever nearer to the office of governor of the state of Colorado.

Charles W. Ham, Oldest Living Delt, Celebrates Birthday

The oldest living member of Delta Tau Delta, Charles Worcester Ham, Beta, '83, celebrated his 100th birthday on August 10, 1959. It is quite possible that Brother Ham is not only the oldest living Delt, but that he may even be the oldest living fraternity man in the country.

Mr. Ham lives in Memphis, Tennessee. It is his hope that he will be able to live for another ten years. Although he lost his sight in 1946, he has not lost his sense of humor. Nor has he lost any of his loyalty to the Fraternity. In the month of January, 1958, Mr. Ham sent a check to the Fraternity to pay for a Loyalty Fund Life Membership.

It was the special desire of the Centennial Karnea Committee that Mr. Ham be able to attend the celebration of the Fraternity's 100th anniversary in Pittsburgh a year ago last August. In replying to the invitation to attend, through his son, T. W. Ham, he said that nothing would please him more than to be able to attend, but that his health would no longer permit him to travel.

Brother Ham lives in a nursing home at 1261 Central Avenue, Memphis. On his birthday last August he was interviewed by the press. When asked what does a blind man see on his 100th birthday, he replied, "I see the greatest happiness in the world—the greatest love." What is that happiness, that love? "The love of God. The love of God with my whole heart, my whole mind and my whole soul."

Born on a farm at Canaanville, Ohio, he was graduated from Ohio University. In 1897 he moved to Memphis, where he worked as a pharmacist. Soon thereafter, he joined the postal service as a letter carrier. In addition to his membership in Delta Tau Delta, he is a Shriner and a Methodist.

THE RAINBOW salutes Charles Worcester Ham, a Good Delt.

More About Astronaut Scott Carpenter

As reported in an earlier number of THE RAINBOW, one of the seven United States airmen selected for training as astronauts is Delt Malcolm Scott Carpenter, Colorado, '47. There have been many stories written in the newspapers and magazines of the country concerning these young men, their training, and their objectives. The job that they are training to do is one of tremendous magnitude. It is easily the greatest pioneering venture since early oceanic explorations.

For a man to volunteer for such duty, he must be possessed of great personal courage. For a man to so volunteer when he has a wonderful wife and four children, with a happy and enviable home life, demands a real dedication. Scott Carpenter is a man so dedicated.

Scott Carpenter has faced danger and the unknown in the past as a Navy test pilot. He always performed his task admirably. As mentioned, he is happily married with a wife and four small children. Understandably, in the face of such responsibilities he could not take it upon himself to volunteer for the program without having the support of his wife, Rene. An article in a recent issue of Life Magazine by his wife, Rene, entitled "There Are No Dark Feelings" clearly illustrates the fact that Scott does have her support in his venture.

The Life article contained several items which give an insight as to the sort of man Scott Carpenter is. In a letter to his wife, quoted by Life, he wrote, "We had our first briefing today. The competition will be tremendous, but I know if there is anyone who can do a job like this, I can do it, and if I am given a chance, I must take it." This sentence clearly expresses the dedication of the man.

Life reports that in the same letter he went on to write, "In spite of all other considerations, here flickers something that some men search their entire lives for—it may mean my fulfillment not only as your husband, head of family, but as a man."

Without taking anything away from Scott, a great deal of credit must be given to Rene Carpenter for making it possible for him to participate in this gigantic undertaking. Her courage and her support are vital factors which cannot be overlooked. She wrote Scott as follows: ". . . I think you were born for this and God knows I'd rather have you in space than at sea. . . ." She went on to write: ". . . I'm so darned happy and proud for you, and if those people have an ounce of sense they'll discover, as I did long ago, how special you are."

As reported in the magazine story, Scott keeps a log of his activities while away from home. While training for the stresses of rocket take-off and re-entry on the centrifuge at Johnsville, Pennsylvania, he kept such a log. Quoting from the story in Life, he wrote, "Just finished our first rides on the 'wheel' and feel I did some good work on that baby. It's amazing to me how this old body builds up a tolerance to G stresses. The 16-G rides today after three days' practice were easier than the first day's 9-G rides, and no dizziness afterwards. The body—what an incredible machine. I enjoy all this—every minute of it and all facets of it—and wish I could cut my sleeping in half and enjoy that much more. . . ."

"If this comes to a fatal, screaming end for me, I will have three main regrets: I will have lost the chance to contribute to my children's preparation for life on this planet; I will miss the pleasure of loving you when you are a grandmother, and I will never have learned to play the guitar well. . . ."

After reading Rene Carpenter's article in Life, it is this writer's opinion that the selection committee chose well when they accepted Malcolm Scott Carpenter's application as an astronaut. We are envious of the role he is playing, but at the same time quite content to share his experiences as they are related in various articles rather than on a first-hand basis.

Warncke Cited to DSC

On Saturday, November 8, at a banquet celebrating both the 80th anniversary of Upsilon Chapter and the dedication of the Chapter's new Shelter, Ernie Warncke, Upsilon chapter adviser, was cited to membership in the Distinguished Service Chapter. Edwin H. Hughes, III, Editor of THE RAINBOW, had the privilege of presenting the Citation to Mr. Warncke, on behalf of the Committee of the Distinguished Service Chapter. The full text of the Citation is as follows:

ERNEST LOUIS WARNCKE
Upsilon, '27

For more than thirty years since his graduation at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, he has served Delta Tau Delta as Vice-President of the Eastern Division, Chapter Adviser, and president of his chapter's house corporation. In the latter capacity, his leadership and persistence has culminated in the construction of the chapter's new Shelter.

As president of his chapter in his senior year as an undergraduate, he inherited and developed still further high standards of chapter operation. As Chapter Adviser, these experiences made him unusually successful in his efforts. In a sense, he is the epitome of the ideal alumnus, whose continued close association with the undergraduate chapter provides the inspiration and guidance so valuable to the chapter.

Although business and civic duties have also claimed a share of his time and energy, his Fraternity has always been able to count on him in its hour of need.

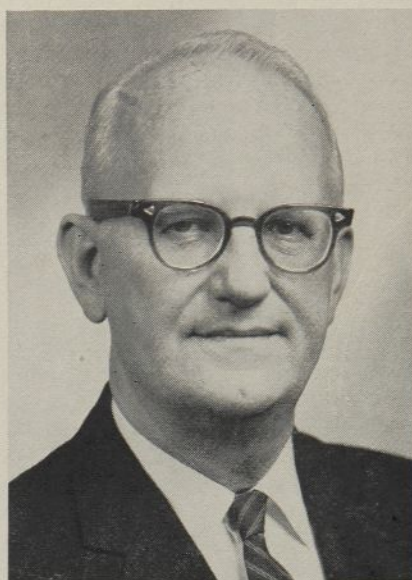

Edmund Promoted By Goodyear

Willis H. "Bid" Edmund, Ohio, '28, widely-known booster of recreational and other community activities, has been appointed executive consultant, it was announced by Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company.

In this newly-created position, Edmund will fulfill public speaking engagements at important functions throughout the nation and, in addition, will play an important role in Goodyear's external public relations activities.

Edmund formerly served as director of recreation for Goodyear-Akron, a position he held since 1944. During the past 15 years he has been responsible for the far-flung employee recreation activities for both the parent company and its subsidiary, Goodyear Aircraft Corp. Under Edmund's direction the company's recreation program has not only been broadened, but it has become an outstanding one in industry.

Edmund joined Goodyear in 1942 as manager of employee activities for Goodyear Aircraft. Prior to that he was director of recreation for the City of Akron. Before coming to the Akron area, Edmund held administrative positions in coaching and physical education in Alexandria and Danville, Virginia, and Hadden Heights, New Jersey.

The 54-year-old Edmund was born in Thornville, Ohio, and attended public school there. He holds a bachelor of science degree from Ohio University and a master of arts degree from New York University. He also has completed one year of advanced study in educational and industrial research at Temple University, Philadelphia.

During his service as director of recreation, Edmund was active in the development of the Summit County Sports Hall of Fame and also the Touchdown Club. He is continuing as a member of the National Rules Committee of the All-American Soap Box Derby.

Edmund served two terms as president of the National Industrial Recreation Association and has been prominently associated with the Akron Kiwanis Club for many years. He is past governor of the Ohio District of Kiwanis International.

the Great Smoky Mountains Historical Association; the executive committee of the East Tennessee Hearing and Speech Center; the executive board of the Great Smoky Mountains Council of the Boy Scouts of America; the board of directors of the Tennessee division of the American Cancer Society; and the board of directors of the Knoxville Y.M.C.A. He is a member of Rotary Club, Scottish Rite, Shrine, American Legion, and the Amateur Chefs of America. He is also active in church work and is a member of the official board of Church Street Methodist Church in Knoxville.

When asked his opinion of modern-day youth, Dr. Holt said, "I think our young people of today are wonderful! They are fundamentally religious. This may be seen by their participation in church activities and youth religious groups. They are intelligent. I confess that all of my children possess a broader general knowledge than I possessed at their age."

Students, faculty, alumni, and friends of the University of Tennessee are entitled to a feeling of great confidence in the future of their University with Dr. Andy Holt as its President. When queried as to his opinion of what were the responsibilities of a university president, he replied "In my opinion, a university president has two major responsibilities: (1) to make certain that the policies of the board of trustees are put into operation; and (2) to provide an atmosphere in which teachers may teach and students may learn with maximum effectiveness."

Delta Tau Delta congratulates the University of Tennessee on its good fortune in obtaining the services of Andrew David Holt as its 16th President. The Fraternity also extends its most sincere good wishes to Brother Holt as he continues to make his contribution to the youth of America through his chosen profession of education.

THE DELT ALUMNI CHAPTERS

Atlanta

The city of Atlanta recently celebrated the arrival of its 1,000,000th resident and, as in many growing cities, finding a central location for group meetings is increasingly difficult. The Atlanta Alumni Chapter has been facing this problem for the past two years and we hope that as this year begins we have solved, to a degree at least, our difficulties with a new meeting arrangement.

The some 300 Deltas in Metropolitan Atlanta live in eight municipalities covering an area of almost 500 square miles. Contacting these men and finding a meeting place convenient to most had become quite difficult. This year we are operating three chapters in one, having divided the metropolitan area into north-eastern, southern, and western districts. Each district will have its own meetings as often as its membership chooses. The three districts will meet together only twice a year, in the winter for a Founders' Day program and in the fall for a rush party for the three Georgia chapters.

To date the northeastern district has been the most active of the three districts. It has had two successful evening meetings in members' homes with a third scheduled for November. Plans are under way for meetings in the other sections in the near future.

Congratulations are in order for three Atlanta Deltas active in civic and governmental positions. Charles D. Read, Jr., Emory, '40, has been appointed United States District Attorney for the Northern District of Georgia; James R. Harris, Emory, '48, is serving a two-year term as a member of the five-man Decatur City Commission; James R. Ridley, Emory, '49, was recently elected president of the Sagamore Hills Civic Club.

We extend a cordial invitation to any Deltas moving into the city to start it on its second million, to join the alumni chapter. This may be done by contacting the secretary.

JOHN W. PATTILLO

Boise Valley

The annual picnic at Boise Municipal Park was an outstanding success. The undergraduates from Delta Mu made up the largest group by far. A real feed was arranged by Chairman Pat Day. Plans are on the way for the annual Christmas party, which is usually the most important Delt function in Boise all year. Beta Chi members from Idaho will be pleased to know that Don Bailey is now in Boise, having been promoted from Twin Falls division manager to vice-president in charge of division operations, for the Idaho Power Company. Colonel Frank Bevington has been appointed to the state planning section in the Idaho National Guard. Carl Burt, who is the senior state senator from Ada County, recently accompanied General Mark Clark and other wildlife enthusiasts and experts into the Idaho primitive area. Later, on a different trip, he shot the largest moose bagged in Idaho. The moose weighed out at 1200 pounds and had a 48-inch span of horns. We wish to thank the Delta Mu actives for their participation in the picnic and especially Delta Mu Rush Chairman John Fitzgerald. Chuck Daiger and Bob Zimmerman of the Boise Valley Chapter can also take bows for arranging the details.

Findlay

The Findlay Alumni Chapter entertained 25 rushees at a picnic held September third at the home of Ed Heminger. Local and area men headed for institutions where Delta Tau Delta is represented were invited to participate in the roast beef picnic supper.

Undergraduates from Western Reserve, Bowling Green, Ohio State, and Ohio Wesleyan attended and helped entertain the rushees.

Findlay Alumni Chapter President E. J. "Gene" McGarvey presided at the annual event.

Houston

Al Capp, creator of Lil' Abner comic strip, was the featured speaker at our October 21 meeting, which was attended by about 30 of the brethren. President Harley Eaker, who arranged the program, was called out of town but Veep Artie Lamb emceed successfully.

Eldridge Thompson reported on the Delt chapter which will be installed January ninth at Sam Houston State College, Huntsville, Texas. Conroe Hotel, a new hostelry at Conroe, Texas, has been chosen as the site for the festivities because it is central to Houston, Huntsville, and Gamma Iota's actives from the University of Texas, Austin. Many Houston alumni plan to attend.

During the late summer, Gamma Iota actives assembled in Houston and entertained the alums at a Sunday afternoon picnic. Designed to effect closer relationship between the actives and alums, the affair seemed to have much to commend it.

Officers for the coming year will be named by the Houston alumni at their next meeting. The nominating committee comprises Hirst Suffield, Thaxton Parks, Jack Ewing, and President Eaker, ex-officio.

Brig. Gen. Robert M. Ives, one of the alumni chapter's fine past presidents, was retired from the Texas National Guard on April 30 with the rank of major general. Since July first Bob has served as president of the Rotary Club of Houston, second largest Rotary Club in the world.

SILAS B. RAGSDALE

Long Beach

The Long Beach Alumni Chapter has regular monthly luncheon meetings at the University Club of Long Beach, 1150 E. Ocean Blvd., Long Beach, at noon on the second Tuesday of each month. About twice a year we have a dinner party for the Deltas' ladies, and some special events.

The Long Beach Alumni Chapter is undertaking to do what it can to have an active Delt chapter established at Long Beach State College, and the co-operation of all Deltas in the Southern California area is invited.

EDWIN S. THOMAS

Minneapolis

The one big event to occur is the return of Major Fred Stockdale to Minneapolis. Fred has been in Germany for the past two years and returns to the University of Minnesota campus as instructor of R.O.T.C. Air Corps. He has exhibited great interest in both the active and alumni and we wish that we had more alumni like the Major.

Another newcomer to our midst is Richard Romoser.

The chapter at the University of Minnesota has co-operated with the alumni group by having two or more members attend the monthly first Thursday luncheons at the Normandy Hotel.

We welcome any and all Deltas in the vicinity to join with us.

C. W. PORTMANN

Pittsburgh

The annual Delt baseball dinner and Founders Day outing were held on May 22, 1959, at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, with Bill Swanson serving as chairman. This affair is always a success, since we have the following prominent Delts who are connected with the Pittsburgh Baseball Club: John Galbreath, Branch Rickey, Sr., Branch Rickey, Jr., George Sisler, Jim Herron, and Bill Turner. Representing the Fraternity was our own Bill Raines, Eastern Division President. The retiring Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter president, Emil Narick, introduced the new officers who are: William Swanson, president; George Hollinshead, Jr., vice-president; Robert G. Taylor, treasurer; and Robert N. Craft, secretary.

The annual fall golf party was held on Tuesday, September 15, 1959, at Butler Country Club, and Jack Brand served as chairman. This affair, as always, was well attended; everyone had a good time; and there were prizes galore!

As of this writing, plans are in progress for the annual fall dance, sponsored by the Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter, for the benefit of the local undergraduate chapters.

Dick Swanson has been appointed chairman of our 24th annual Delt Christmas Service, and he is hoping for a fine turnout. This affair will be held at Trinity Cathedral, downtown Pittsburgh, on Sunday Evening, December 6, 1959. Once again, we will be privileged to hear a brief message from Dean High Moor, Chi, '14. Immediately following the service, chapters from Allegheny, Carnegie Tech, Penn State, Pitt, W. & J., and West Virginia, will hold their annual sing contest in the Parish House.

At present we have on the mailing list, 998 names. Treasurer Bob Taylor reports that of the above number, approximately 185 have paid dues for the current year. If you have forgotten to pay your dues, please send your check for $3.00 to Robert G. Taylor, Room 2901, 525 Wm. Penn Place, Pittsburgh 19, Pennsylvania.

Our weekly luncheons are held every Monday at 12 noon, at the Oliver Building Restaurant. You are always welcome!

Portland

New officers of the Portland Alumni Chapter were elected at the annual meeting in June. Pat Lund, USC, '55, is the new president; Paul Peterson, Oregon, '51, vice-president; Bill Eigner, Oregon, '40, treasurer; and Bill Kessinger, Oregon State, '53, secretary. The membership greatly appreciates the outstanding job accomplished by Don Barrett, Oregon State, '50, the outgoing president, in guiding the chapter through a successful year.

In September, officers of the chapter attended a dinner function of the Portland interfraternity council. During the evening, Paul Eckelman, Oregon, '43, was presented a key of appreciation for his work as first council president and his efforts in founding the Portland Council.

The Portland interfraternity council was organized to fill a need for united effort in matters concerning Oregon fraternities. One major problem the council overcame was the ruling of the State Tax Commission that house corporations were subject to property tax and state income tax. Through efforts of the council the Oregon legislature was encouraged to pass a statute exempting fraternities from taxation. A major project of the council is a fraternity workshop held each year at one of the Oregon schools. The workshop consists of panel discussions on fraternity work and problems.

Our annual golf day and picnic held in September at Welches Golf Club was, as usual, an enjoyable outing. Low net, and winner of the trophy, was Rollo Gray with 74. Bill Kessinger won low gross with 78. Other winners were: Mrs. Daryl Johnson for an eagle three on the first hole and a KP on a par three; Prexy Pat Lund had a lucky shot for another KP. Mrs. Daryl Johnson was recently defeated, one up, on the 20th hole for Portland Golf Clubs women's championship.

Bill Todd, recent initiate at Oregon State, is a third-generation Delt. He is the son of Dr. William Todd, Wisconsin, '28.

Plans are being completed for our next social function, the Christmas formal.

WILLIAM E. KESSINGER

St. Louis

Although somewhat tardy, we will begin by reporting that the destiny of the St. Louis Alumni Chapter is now being guided by Bob Zeitinger, president; Russ Elfvin, vice-president; Dick Smith, treasurer; George Kenny, Jr., recording secretary; and Art Kirkpatrick, corresponding secretary. The first big event engineered by the new administration was the annual summer rush party sponsored by the alumni chapter and held this year at the home of Don Rutishauser, in Webster Groves. About 65 undergraduates, rushees, and alumni were on hand on that warm afternoon to discuss the virtues of college life with Delta Tau Delta. The principal remarks were delivered by George A. Fisher, Jr., President of the Western Division, after the Westminster and Missouri University undergraduate chapter presidents had opened the informal program with a few words about their respective chapters. We saw several new alumni faces at the rush party, including that of Leonard Yocum, who has recently moved from Kansas City, and Tom Shannon, who finally got a day off from his Kroger Supermarket. We are hoping that they will become regulars at our monthly meetings as well as our weekly Monday luncheons at the Mark Twain Hotel. This invitation also stands for the rest of the alumni in the St. Louis area which we have not been seeing with the regularity that we would like to expect.

It was a pleasure to see one of our most stalwart members, Buck Buchanan, back in harness again after a bout with a tricky "ticker." The Rainbow Investment Syndicate depends on Buck for his quota of "cat and dog" stock selections to keep our portfolio exciting.

The program committee (Bob Zeitinger) has some very interesting plans for the fall and winter meetings which you are sure to enjoy if you attend. Why not make it a point to come out to the next get-together and bring a brother Delt? If you are not getting notices or require any other information please contact the secretary at the address given in the back of THE RAINBOW.

A. J. KIRKPATRICK

Seattle

Perhaps 1959 will be a significant year in the history of Gamma Mu for closer co-operation between the Seattle Alumni Chapter and the active chapter at the University of Washington. On the 14th of September we held a rushee-Delt-alum banquet at the Rainier Club. We had 35 alums, the active chapter, and 42 rushees. To those who attended, and also to those who contributed so generously, we thank you for your support in making this banquet a success. A special thanks to our "Old Faithful," Brother Lane Summers, Michigan, '11, who addressed the group. Of the 42 rushees attending, 16 became Delt pledges in an outstanding pledge class. This is the beginning of an annual affair which we hope will benefit the active chapter as well as our alumni chapter. Continue to give us your support and suggestions and we will make this affair even better in the years ahead.

The alumni committee, under the direction of Jerry Lee at the Shelter, will continue to invite alums up on Monday nights. Those recently at the Shelter were Dom Driano, Deputy Prosecuting Attorney; Carlos Flohr, Flohr & Co., metal fabricators, and Jack Leahy, instructor at the University of Washington. Jack, who will receive his Ph.D. in literature next year, has recently written a novel which will be published by Knopf in May, 1960.

After the close homecoming game with USC on October 17, the alums enjoyed the opportunity of visiting the Shelter at the open house. The dinner was proof that Mabel Chelin is still the best cook on campus. For the benefit of those who didn't attend, this is an annual affair and we would like to see you out next year.

THE DELT CHAPTERS

Alabama

Rush Week was nothing short of successful for Delta Eta this fall. We pledged one of the largest and best pledge classes on campus. Among those pledged are a National Merit Scholarship winner, student body president, three football captains, a class Valedictorian, editors and business managers of various school publications, and three senior class presidents. Six new pledges were members of the National Honor Society and others were in local school honor societies.

Hoyt Carlisle has been elected pledge class president. Bob Daffin and Bob Schlausner were elected vice-president and secretary-treasurer, respectively. Carl Elliot will serve as sergeant at arms.

With the qualities of the class, Delta Eta can look forward to many more years of continued campus leadership.

Brother Eddie Kelly has been selected as wing commander for the AFROTC cadet corp. This is the highest honor that a cadet can receive. He holds the rank of cadet colonel. Brother Max Allen represents Delta Eta in the Army ROTC cadet corp commanders. He is battle group commander, with the rank of cadet colonel. No other fraternity on campus can claim the unique honor of having two colonels in one house.

Delta Eta's fall pledge class.

School elections found Deltas on top again this year. Brother Jim Parnell added the final touch to his long list of political victories. He has been elected president of the College of Engineering. He is presently representing his school in the SGA legislature and also is its vice-president. Brother Burwell Anders will hold one of the two remaining offices in engineering. He has been elected secretary-treasurer.

Delta Eta, under the fine leadership of Brother Travis Bowden, is enjoying the undisputed lead in its intramural league with the only undefeated record in the race. This year we hope to add more than the sportsmanship trophy to our mantel.

Brother Wyner Phillips has planned many enjoyable social events this fall with the future holding more festive events. The Shelter has been the scene of some of 'Bama's best parties. Piano Red's band furnished music for rush along with the band of Brother Tennant Lee. The pledges have been engaged with weekly pledge swaps with all the new sorority pledges on campus. In the immediate future, homecoming activities will be enjoyed by all. The brothers are working diligently on decorations for the event.

Brothers Ronald and Donald Stewart have teamed with Pledge Rudy Connor to form a very promising vocal group. They have been on a state-wide TV show this past week. They are receiving much favorable acclaim from other campus groups.

In spite of our social, extracurricular, and intramural activities, Delta Eta still maintained its perfect record of placing above both the fraternity and all men's scholastic averages.

Our growth in number has prompted the formation of a committee to pursue plans for the construction of the new Shelter which we so badly need.

With the ideals and traditions left us by those who have gone before us, we at Delta Eta will strive to attain even higher peaks in this 1959-'60 school year.

REGGIE HAMNER

Albion

With 17 men going through final initiation rites this fall, it appears that Epsilon is once again starting off on another fine year. Because Albion has a deferred rushing system, we do not pledge until the spring, but two fine men who were unable to pledge last spring, John Sellers and Larry Nickel, were pledged this September.

The first big event of the fall was homecoming. Although Albion lost to a powerful Hillsdale team, the Deltas captured the trophies for the best fraternity float and for the best float in the Homecoming Parade. Jim Wyse and John McCord were cochairmen of our homecoming committee. The float was a tribute to Dr. Chickering, a world-famous authority on spiders, and featured a huge, caged spider with moving legs and pulled by an awesome elephant. On a wagon following the spider was a jungle scene with four natives (all blond) assisting a brother dressed as Dr. Chickering.

On the intramural sports scene, Epsilon is piling up early points and hopes to be a contender for the all-sports trophy. Epsilon walked away with first-place honors in the intramural track meet last week. Although we took only two events with a first-place finish, we were consistent in each event to pile up the needed points. Mike Dant was the leading scorer for the Delts as he took a second in the 100-yard dash and a first in the 220.

At present the intramural football team is on top of the league with a 4-0 record. Under the fine coaching of Bert Dygert, we have amassed a total of 165 points and the stout defense, with John Karfft as its captain, has given up only 12 points.

In varsity competition, Jim Gunn is doing an outstanding job for Coach Morley Fraser as an offensive guard and defensive captain and linebacker. Jim is a definite candidate for all-league honors this year, and we feel that he would make a fine candidate for the all-Delt football squad.

MICHAEL S. DANT

Allegheny

Following a dinner at which Brother Harley D. Carpenter was the honored guest, the first reading of the Choctaw Degree since 1927 was given to the brothers of Alpha Chapter. After the reading, Brother Carpenter declared all the Alpha brothers present to be "Choctaws."

Immediately following the reading Brother Berkebile, the oldest active in the house, led the brothers on a Choctaw-Walk-Around over the campus.

Hearing that the Kingston Trio was appearing at Grove City College, we chartered a bus for ourselves and our dates. Brother Ottey painted a sign, "Delts and their dates from Allegheny College," for each side of the bus.

Our Fall Tea, under the leadership of Brother Leech, was very successful. Following the tea many of our guests remained to sing around our player piano.

Our athletic program has had a limited amount of success with two wins and three losses in intramural football.

After seeing Brothers Leech and Damitz play in the homecoming football game, the brothers, their dates, and several alumni were present at the annual homecoming banquet at the Shelter. During the banquet a Sweetheart pin was given to Mrs. Agnes Miller, our cook, by Brother Harch. Following the banquet, Brother J. David Klien presented to Alpha architectural plans for our new house as well as a scaled model of the building. The evening was concluded by all present attending the Homecoming Formal.

Our pledge program has been quite successful. So far this fall we have pledged Sven Svenson and Pete Nixon.

DAVID G. COOK

Arizona

Epsilon Epsilon, the Fraternity's newest chapter, has entered into its first year with results of achievement and promise. The crucial fall rush produced 16 pledges of outstanding record and fine character. The pledging of these energetic men assures us of a strong and active future.

On the study scene, the spring semester's scholastic returns showed the Delts as No. 2 among the campus's 26 Greek-letter fraternities. This gives a record of one second and three firsts to the men who chartered Epsilon Epsilon. Furthermore, Gray Hyde and Jon Wardrip received special recognition upon being named charter members of the 99th chapter of Phi Eta Sigma honorary.

In addition to scholastic endeavor, the Arizona Delts entered intramurals on a full scale. EE squads finished eighth in swimming and third in their basketball league, while the Delt tennis team, led by John Potter, reached the semifinals. Potter, a candidate for the varsity, seems to be a reflection of his newly-graduated brother, Ernie Shoop, three times Border Conference champion, and Forest Hills representative.

As to entertainment, fall social events have kept the Delts active over the week ends. Moms and Dads from a wide area were welcomed to the Shelter on the University's annual Mom's and Dad's day. A buffet dinner was served for the guests of honor, followed by leisure and warm fellowship. As the BK Delts can verify, Colorado won the game that evening, but the success of the Moms' and Dads' visit was not to be denied.

On the social schedule was an espresso and hot cider gig featuring impromptu Picassos, poetry, and Bach. The Delt dates made the scene at the Mad Pad. The result: a swinging time. For the future, the rewarding work of building a homecoming float will soon confront the chapter and a combined effort should produce a companion for last year's second-place trophy.

At this point, Epsilon Epsilon recognizes the guidance received from men of other Delt chapters who have joined us this fall. These men are: Bob Charles, Beta Psi; Jim Elwell, Delta Zeta; and Jim Rigby, Beta Lambda.

All considered, the coming year promises to be one of new and valuable experience for the brothers of Epsilon Epsilon.

RAY DULL

Baker

Another school year has begun on the Baker campus and Gamma Theta has once again made itself known as the outstanding fraternity. This superiority was clearly shown the day after rush week had ended when the lists of pledges were released. Twenty-two young men now wore the pledge pin of Delta Tau Delta, and included in the group were the leaders of the freshman class. The men were Chris Collar, Bob Korff, Tom Duckett, Jim Fisher, John Sheppard, Ron Harvey, John Cummings, Allan Weide, Bob Sarna, John Jacobs, Lloyd Williams, Charles Curless, Babe Hawk, Ron Hodges, Darrell Kriehbaum, Henry Lautz, Stan Thornburgh, Neil Turner, Ron Wheeler, Dennis Delay, John Johnson, and Larry LaFevers.

We have again started off on the right foot as far as intramurals go. Softball is completed with the Delts taking first place with comparative ease. Volleyball and softball are soon to get under way, and judging by the enthusiasm shown around the Shelter, we are ready to add a few more first-place trophies to our already bulging case.

Baker's football team is well stocked with Gamma Theta men again this year and the defending KCAC champs are again on the road to a repeat performance. Leading the Wildcat attack are Jim Paramore, tailback; Bud Spear, guard; Kent Covell, tackle; and Richard McDowell, end. The Baker two-platoon system is also well represented with Gamma Theta pledges. Included in this list are John Johnson, end; Dennis Delay, end; John Jacobs, halfback; and Lloyd Williams, tackle.

A Delt "work and play" day has been planned for the express purpose of clearing up the site of our future Shelter. Included on the agenda is a picnic and the day will end with a house party.

Our new housemother, Mother Crosby, has been whole-heartedly accepted by the members of the chapter and she has been doing the tremendous job of being a perfect housemother.

The traditional Delt chicken fry was not held this year due to inclement weather. The logs have been cut, but it looks as if a spring chicken fry will be in order.

The fall play has been cast with Delts filling the two leading male roles. This serves as a final illustration of the undisputed leadership of Gamma Theta on the Baker campus.

G. D. BLACKWOOD, JR.

Bowling Green

Delta Tau Chapter has had a successful semester so far and is looking forward to more and bigger success in the following months.

We have six new officers this year who have been doing an excellent job. They are: Kurt Zimmerman, president; Rollie Bowers, vice-president; Bill Shuck, recording secretary; Jim Duley, corresponding secretary; Frank Stiglin, rush chairman; and Pat Smith, guide.

During fall rush this semester we pledged five men. They are: Bob Schram, Dave Molchen, Steve Kralovic, Fred Vandervort, and Pete McCarthy.

As part of the program we had a very successful "Hotel Party" with the Shelter decorated as a hotel night club. In our dining room we had a fountain, palm trees, and dancing. The lounge was converted into a dining room with a variety of snacks and entertainment.

JIM DULEY

Brown

The Delts won their interfraternity league in a play-off game with Phi Psi. The "pigskinners," led by Tony Petrarca, all-Athenian tailback, Harry Usher, and Captain Joe Kelly, tied for the league lead by defeating Phi Psi 17-12 in the last game of the regular season. We then completely demolished them 30-0 in the play-off game. The Delt defensive unit, led by "Big Daddy" DeGennero and "Moby" Walles, was the main reason for the team's success all year long. Big Ben Hall, as middle line backer, was another good reason why the team was unscored upon in its first three games. Norm Enman made our sleeper offensive click early in the season as he caught five touchdown passes from Usher and Petrarca. Later we switched to the spread offensive to use Speedsters Rice and Caputo, who proceeded to run wild. We hope to culminate the season by winning the all-college championship. Spirit has been high despite injuries to a few key players and another plaque should be added to the trophy room.

Jack Mancuso, a promising sophomore guard, played well in Brown's first victory of the year over Rhode Island. He helped provide gaping holes in the Rams line despite the fact the game was played in a quagmire. He was also called upon to profess his seldom used talent of kicking extra points, but the attempt was blocked.

The parties, although few, have been particularly enjoyable. Rhode Island week end was colorful and a few graduates were back again for the festivities. Bill Hayes looked more dashing than ever in his uniform and Ken Crossland and John McTigue were as fun loving as ever. The pledges got right into the swing of things in more ways than one and it seems as though the pledge program has done some good.

Our scholastic average increased considerably second semester and we hope to improve even more this semester.

TONY PETRARCA

Butler

We of Beta Zeta are now in our new Shelter at 4340 Haughey Avenue. The new Shelter is just around the corner from our old one, but it is two blocks closer to campus. As was expected, we have a full house; 38 men are now living in. We are now in the process of trying to set up new traditions.

Mr. George Crossland, Butler, '50, is our new chapter adviser. Mr. Crossland replaces Mr. Bruce Christie. We of Beta Zeta cannot begin to thank Mr. Christie for the fine job he did. Mr. Crossland has already helped us a great deal in overcoming some of our problems; we are very fortunate to have a man of his caliber as our adviser.

President Tom Simmons made the following appointments: Bob Parsons, John Ross, Lance Middlekauff, and Don Fine are representatives to the Butler Loyalty Legion; Bob Parsons, steward; Ray Smigla, house manager; Charles Spiher and Lance Middlekauff, pledge trainers; and Vance Redfern, scholarship chairman. Brother Parsons is also our political chairman and representative to the Religious Council. Byron Schoolfield is president of the Religious Council, while Ralph Gennarelli is vice-president of the Insurance Society.

We are very proud of the improvement we made in scholarship. Through the efforts of Brothers Tom Simmons and Don Carr we pulled ourselves up to third place. We are glad that we raised our position, but we will not be fully satisfied until we are at the top.

Our rush chairman, Charles Spiher, is to be commended for the great job he did during rush. Brother Spiher garnered 34 pledges, the largest number on campus. The rush parties held during the summer and during registration, proved invaluable. The pledge officers for the first semester are: Herb Biddle, president; Bob Myers, vice-president; Don Howery, secretary; and John Rimstedt, treasurer.

Beta Zeta is well represented in Butler athletics. Lance Middlekauff, Jim Harrison, Andy Zipko, Vance Redfern, and Don Carr are on the varsity football team. Pledge John Oberhelmen is captain of the freshman football squad; other pledges on the team are Herb Biddle, Bill Welch, Bill Tosick, John Rimstedt, Will Humphries, Dave Bush, Bob Myers, Jeff Lazo, Jack Anderson, and Ron Reichel. Pledge Dick Williamson is one of the top runners on the cross-country team.

Coach John Ross led our intramural football team to a first-division finish. Ron Spall, Tom Simmons, Bill Thompson, John Galloway, and Ross were our top performers. We emerged victorious in our annual game with Lincoln Chiopractic College, 16 to 0. Don Carr and Andy Zipko threw touchdown passes to Herb Biddle and Jeff Lazo. Ralph Gennarelli is to be commended for the fine job he did as referee. We are to play the pledges in football in the very near future; should the pledges win they will receive a turn-about-day—we of the active chapter are not anticipating this, though.

Dr. Rex Webster, Butler, '36, is our new faculty adviser. Dr. Webster replaces Mr. Charles Henzie, who did a very good job. We are happy to have Dr. Webster back in the chapter.

Social Chairman George Mitchell has many social events lined up for the future. A Halloween dance, two pin serenades, exchange dinners, and the Christmas dance are on the agenda.

We would like to thank our alums once more for providing us with a new Shelter. We are going to try and show our appreciation by improving the chapter in every way possible. With hard work from every active and pledge we will strive to maintain our position as No. 1 fraternity at Butler University and to uphold the great traditions of Delta Tau Delta.

BOB PARSONS

California

Beta Omega Chapter should have one of its best years this year. This can be seen by examining those facets which make a chapter a good one.

Under the guidance of Vic Binsacca, rush chairman, the chapter pledged 19 outstanding men. They include: Carl Bergeron, Bill Cull, Steve Donner, Ed Gatti, Kent Harvey, Hugh Johnson, Jerry Johnson, Gary Kashing, Pete MacVean, Bruce McMillan, Will Norberg, Barry Patton, Dave Phillips, Ed Proteva, Kent Richards, Dave Shellberg, Ed Thirkell, and Brian Van Camp. This pledge class shows a diversity of interest and aptitudes. Carl Bergeron, sophomore, plays tackle on the Cal football team. Brian Van Camp, sophomore, was freshman class president of the University last year and is active in many campus activities this year. Bill Cull, along with Kent Harvey, Will Norberg, and Pete MacVean, are water poloists. Cull was an All-American in high school.

The officers running the chapter this year are Dick Dumke, president; John Moore, vice-president; Dick Thinger, treasurer; Ned Salisbury, house manager; Pete Steidlmayer, recording secretary and scholarship chairman; and Dick Neuman, corresponding secretary. This administrative organization has set up a program that has proved most worthy thus far. Scholarship, pledge training, activities, and social life are some of the important parts of this program.

There is an active interest in intramural sports this year. The football team is credited with two wins and a loss and has a good chance of going all the way. The high light of the intramural football activities will take place in November when the California Delts host the Stanford Delts in what is known as the little-big game. This will include the ceremony of the perpetual hatchet and other post game activities.

Beta Omega Chapter is maintaining its reputation as the chapter that always puts on a good party. Our fall social calendar will be highlighted by activities pertaining to the Cal-Stanford game. The chapter has rented buses to travel to and from the game. In the past, this mode of transportation has worked out well, especially in traveling from the game. On the evening of the big game, the activities will be centered around a dinner dance that will be held at Hunterspoint in San Francisco.

The chapter has always been in campus activities. This year we are especially proud of two Delts, Dick Thinger and Don Alves. Dick is the men's representative of the associated students which gives him a vote on the executive committee. He is also chapter treasurer and is active in many fraternal organizations. Don was elected president of his junior class. His main job thus far has been the orientation of the new freshmen.

Probably one of the most important events that will take place this year will be a stag banquet for the alumni of Beta Omega Chapter. It will take place in the latter part of April and is well along in the planning stage under the guidance of Brad Hill, alumni relations chairman.

RICHARD NEUMAN

Carnegie Tech

When we of Delta Beta returned to school this year, anticipating a long and tedious rush week, we found a new and pleasant surprise awaiting us. This surprise was our new housemother, Mrs. Ruth Annise. Mrs. Annise was chosen over many applicants because of her extensive background in working with young men. She was formerly a hostess at Carnegie Union and dorm mother at Washington and Jefferson College for ten years. Her duties at the Shelter include supervision of the kitchen and staff, acting as chaperone for our social events, and being a hostess to our guests. Mrs. Annise proved to be an invaluable asset during rush week and we are certain that her good work will continue.

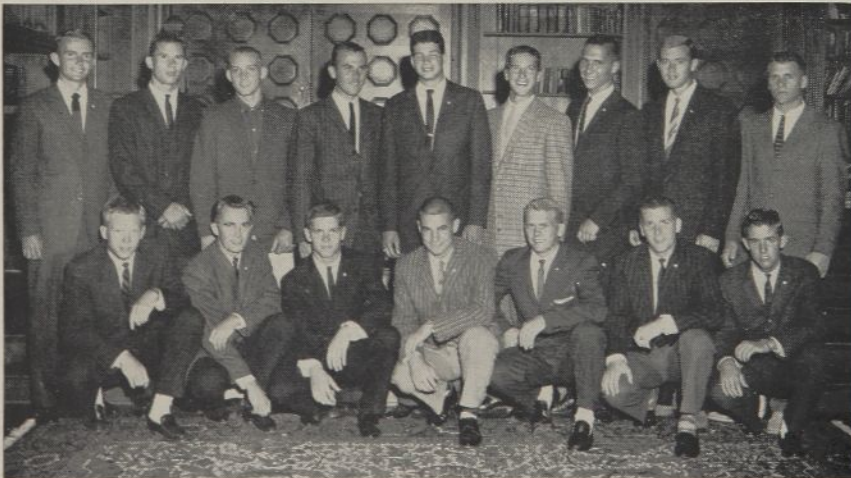

Rush Week, under the capable direction of Rushing Chairman Gerald Anderson, was a success. Eighteen young men have pledged so far, with many more prospects in sight.

Guy Edwards has been elected our new treasurer. Guy is a junior printing management student from Washington, D. C., and has been an active member of many chapter committees.

Phil Hodge has been elected president of the Managers Club, which is part of the ruling body of the intramural program here at Tech, making him the third Delt president in the last three years.

We are now looking forward to the winter months ahead, hoping to finish the semester as a scholastic, athletic, and social success.

THOMAS TOMASEK

Sixteen of Cal's pledges.

Cincinnati

The Delts at Cincinnati have started the year off with a bang as 40 men have pledged themselves to Delta Tau Delta at Gamma Xi. This climaxed a hectic two weeks of rush and a summer of diligent preparation. Jim Rockwell and Carl Rue, rush chairman and assistant rush chairman, respectively, are to be highly congratulated for their splendid job of organization. The chapter worked in perfect harmony to reap a crop of top-caliber men.

High lights of this fall were Gamma Xi's 50th anniversary dance and banquet. On October 30, an all-university dance at Castle Farms was sponsored by the Delts. November 13 brought about the active-alumni banquet as a celebration of Gamma Xi's 50th year at the University of Cincinnati. Alumnus Tom Bratten compiled a history book of Gamma Xi for the occasion.

Honors from campus go to Brother Dave Wortendyke for being promoted to lieutenant colonel in the Army ROTC. Brother Dale Heckmann has the high-stepping position of head drum major of the U.C. band this year. Dale, along with Brother Charlie Stevenson, and Pledges John Ehrmin, Norm Sanford, and Jerry Myer, recently traveled to Chicago with the band to march at Wrigley Field before a coast-to-coast television broadcast.

Homecoming this year was good for the football team, but a heartbreaker for the Delts. The homecoming float suffered a mechanical failure and could not compete in the contest. Brother Craig Devine did a fine job as float chairman and received excellent co-operation from the brothers. The theme was based on "Uncle Remus' Tales."

The intramural scene is looking favorable this year. The Delts placed second in the summer softball league and are heavily fortified in the football department by the pledge class.

JACOB DOTY

Colorado

Beta Kappa Chapter is beginning the new academic year with, as always, an outstanding pledge class. There are 33 of the new men, and they chose Gary Johnson, of Long Beach, California as president and John Blossom, of Peoria, Illinois, as vice-president.

In recent initiation activities, five pledges who joined last spring were activated.

Academically, the chapter is in an enviable position as a result of last year's achievements. The Beta Kappas finished third scholastically for the spring semester, ranking them second for the year. Ronald Copeland was selected for Phi Beta Kappa to add further to the record.

Maintaining the always strong Beta Kappa position in athletics, the intramural football team is in a second-place tie as the fraternity league passes the midseason mark. The club is defending its last year's all-school championship. The water polo team is sporting a 3-1 record and is in second place at present.

Dennis Krueger and Tom Saratovich are on the varsity football team. Wrestlers Bill Bullard, Hank Brown, and Jim Copeland have begun workouts for the varsity wrestling team; Gary Gisle is back for another year with the national championship ski team; and Steve Chambers is on the varsity swimming squad.

One of the freshman pledges, Bill Leanartz, was elected president of the freshman club, Silver and Gold. The sophomore honorary, Phi Epsilon Phi, has begun activities under the leadership of President Bill Weakley, as has the junior honorary, Hammers, also with a Delt president, Hank Brown. The campus student governing body, ASUC, is working on reorganization plans under the leadership of another Beta Kappa man, Swede Anderson, student body president.

The Shelter is housing an exchange student from Germany this year. He is Peter Liermann and he is studying in the law school.

BILL BULLARD

Cornell

Beta Omicron was pleased to have a substantial number of alumni present for homecoming week end and the annual house corporation meeting. Plans were solidified for an immediate investigation of definite ideas for a new Shelter and, of course, the accompanying fund-raising drive. Architect's plans were displayed by Brother Pete Schneck, which incorporated many proposals. Alumni will soon be polled on opinions and suggestions to be included in more specific designs.

The chapter was presented a bond by Warner D. Orvis, to be awarded each term to the brother with the greatest scholastic improvement. Brother Orvis' grant will extend until the year 2030.

Cornell's WARNER D. ORVIS, '06, presents DSC citation to HENRY S. OTTO, '07.

Many Delts are currently participating in Cornell varsity sports and the less athletic are active on the intramural leagues. Brothers Roger Demler, Tom Halsey, and Tom Barney are members of the sailing team. Bill Huenefeld is on the lacrosse squad and Welly Ewen is a tackle on the lightweight football team. Dick Nelson is on the rugby team, while Al Haberle, Tony Seaver, and Lou Nees are already practicing for crew.

John McCullough and Rush Chairman John Fleischauer were tapped by honoraries this fall; John McCullough by a local social honorary and John Fleischauer by the Naval ROTC honor group. Junior Pete Eveleth was elected as representative from his class to the student council of his college. Jack Evans has been active this fall as vice-president of the Cornell IFC.

The chapter was pleased in obtaining two fine pledges, Dave Wright and Frank Gajar, in the off-season rush this fall. Brother Fleischauer will be very grateful for any recommendations on freshman prospects and is anticipating a successful rush in the spring, based on chapter accomplishments this fall.

D. B. FRANKLIN

Dartmouth

After the first few days of the new semester, rushing was over and the Shelter started a new year. Rushing found 18 pledges to take over where the seniors left off last spring. Randy Malin, returning for his fifth year and graduate school, has been named first team All-America lacrosse in addition to being all-Ivy soccer and lacrosse. Mitch Engle, leading this year's soccer team as captain, has distinguished himself by consistently fine play at center halfback.

Harrison Dunning, still in Washington for this semester, has been awarded his Phi Beta Kappa key, earned during his first three years. Harry Ames continues his first three years. Harry Ames continues his first three years. Harry Ames continues his first three years. Harry Ames continues his first three years.

One of the more colorful week ends this past fall found the brothers and pledges losing to an all-girl soccer team from Holyoke. Thirty-nine damsels from Holyoke made the trip to the Shelter for two days of parties. Tony Wattleworth furnished entertainment. The interfraternity football team has been distinguishing itself, as usual, in recent football games. John Hadley has been doing extracurricular work on the college judiciary committee and has hopes of being re-elected this coming year.

House party plans are now formulated and should keep the Shelter entertained for the fall week end. Parties have been planned by Cy Loutrel and Brock Saxe for Yale week end.

EDWARD DAUMIT

Delaware

When the brothers returned this fall for the preschool cleanup they found the Shelter newly painted. The work was done by Brother Bob MacAlpine while he was attending summer school. During the summer the garage of the Shelter was the headquarters of the Delta Upsilon sports car organization. Their efforts netted the chapter trophies for first and fourth in gymkhanas and a first in a rallye, through the efforts of Pledge Olsen and Brother Keifer. The group also entered three SCCA races and began construction of a Class H special racing car.

The first social event of the semester was the annual freshmen girls party, which was, as usual, a great success. The social program continued with a float building party in the parking lot for the homecoming float and a tea at the Shelter for Delt alumni after the homecoming game. A Halloween party and South Sea Island party are scheduled by Social Chairman Pat McLary for the near future.

Delta Upsilon was honored to be chosen to be the home, for the second year running, of a Brittingham Scholar. This year we have Gunnar Engilbertsson from Iceland.

Vice-President Walt Liefeld was recently selected by the IFC to attend the 50th Anniversary National Interfraternity Conference at the Waldorf Astoria in New York.

Delta Upsilon recently received the award for being first in the Fraternity examination. It proved its scholastic abilities in other areas by going from last on campus in the scholastic index last fall semester to second in index for the spring semester.

Beta Beta has shown a fast start for a successful and enjoyable year. We have a fine group of gentlemen which make up an outstanding class of 19 pledges who have shown themselves to be one of the best classes ever at Beta Beta. They are all trying to attain the best pledge plaque, which the chapter instituted this year in the memory of the president of last year's pledge class, John Bertotti, who died in an automobile accident last spring.

Beta Beta has the pleasure of having in the house an exchange student from Turkey, who will be with us for three years. This is a program that we have always participated in and enjoy. The reason for this is the chance we have of being in Europe. During the last semester two of the brothers were studying in Europe, while during the summer five traveled in Europe with two more traveling in the Orient.

Last week end we had the pleasure of initiating two new members, Pete Roller and Steve Barney. Steve comes from a Delt family as his father, uncle, and cousins are all Delts. We can look with pride at this Delt family.

As usual Beta Beta has its representatives on the varsity football team and two brothers who are already starting to work out for track. In the IM program we are at present undefeated and unscored upon in football. This seems to be an indication of another successful IM season.

In keeping with the fact that we are starting to build an addition we have entitled our fall dance "Nirvana," which means the state of supreme blessedness. We hope that all the other chapters will have the same state of affairs in their respective Shelters during the coming year.

KENNETH KELLER

Emory

September saw Beta Epsilon back in full swing. Thirty-two top freshmen pledged at the beginning of the quarter. These men, we feel, are already contributing much to the chapter and we are looking forward to the even greater contributions they will make when they become brothers.

Several men have positions of prominence on campus. Brother Buddy Brock is the assistant to the president of the Student Senate, Brother Nat Long. A new appointee to the senior board of directors of Circle K is Brother Bill Flackler. The Stipe Scholars, who are all recipients of scholarships for superior work before or during the freshman year at Emory, elected Brother Bill Garland as their chairman. Among his many other achievements, President John McKeever is now a representative on the college council. Beta Epsilon is represented in every activity at Emory.

We are most pleased with our new housemother, Mrs. Emma Scott. In just a few weeks, "Scotty" has gained the love and respect of the entire chapter. On November eighth, she will be given a reception at the chapter house.

Everyone is excited about going to "Hell." That is, to our annual "Go to Hell" party. This is one of the bright flames on our social calendar.

Beta Epsilon anticipates a more rewarding year than ever before.

Florida State

Formal rush at Delta Phi is now over and the chapter is in full swing with 38 top pledges, the highest number of pledges of any fraternity on campus. High lights of formal rush include: "Shirley and Lee," famed rock and roll recording stars; informal smokers; formal banquets; and many "wild combo parties."

Now that all of us have recovered from last year's "Delt Week End," which featured "Big Joe Turner," recording star from New York City, we are all looking forward to another successful year. Honors received so far include: Gymkana trophy, presented to Delts for "Outstanding Fraternity Contribution to Gymkana"; Don Ayres, past president of Delta Phi, the only male fraternity F.S.U. student to be featured in University hall of fame; circus week end award; John Boesch, commander of Pershing Rifles drill team and recipient of the Delt scholastic achievement award; and Gerald Barry, a major in Army ROTC receiving the Delt outstanding athlete award. Brother Bernie Abbott, a leading politician on campus, is now chairman of the student party; Brother Sal Lanza is governor of West Hall men's dormitory and president of Cavaliers, the campus dance honorary.

Ranked in the top three fraternities by the Alpha Xi Deltas; in possession of the Phi Eta Sigma Scholarship award; Civitan award; Who's Who members; Gold Key and Marching Chief members . . . the Delts are extracurricular this semester.

This past fall, the popular campus money raising event was held, the Delta Tau Delta "Slave Auction." Brothers were wheeled throughout the F.S.U. campus on an Egyptian decorated cart by the 38 pledges. Everyone was then auctioned off to the F.S.U. coeds and a great time was enjoyed by all . . . a charitable event and a happy one!

We would all like to thank this year's Delt Queen, Miss Mary Jane Will, Kappa Delta Sorority, who has done many wonderful things for the chapter.

The Delts will again present the largest trophy given on campus, "The Outstanding Sorority of the Year," at the Pan Hellenic dance and will sponsor a Christmas party with the Alpha Xi Deltas for the underprivileged children of Tallahassee. Delts are planning to do charity work for the Civitan and Kiwanis Clubs of Tallahassee again this year.

Pledges who have already received honors and contributed to campus prestige this year include: Dale Arnett, outstanding freshman cadet of Army ROTC; John Hursey, freshman basketball squad; Pete Raz, freshman baseball squad; Bill Taylor, first place in diving intramurals; Mark Owen, precinct senator in campus politics and varsity swimming team; and Mike Le Blanc, freshman football squad.

We are all looking forward to Easter, when once again we will see many brothers in Ft. Lauderdale. Remember to stop in "Tally" on your way down there. Delta Phi wishes all the chapters a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

George Washington

Gamma Eta's rush program was a booming success, thanks to the combined efforts of Parke Avery, our rush chairman, and a lot of hard-working Delts who painted the Shelter and cleaned up the remnants of a good summer. We pledged 21 men during formal rush, and expect to pledge at least five more informally. Gamma Eta's combined total of actives and pledges is now over 60 men, making us the largest Christian fraternity at G.W. The new pledges are Andy Birznieks, Jerry Bowman, Dick Brown, Mike Carson, Al Chavler, Tom Crane, Phil Flint, Bryant Girdler, Jon Hagerty, Larry Hall, Rudy Heintze, Tom Jackson, Ben Kittredge, Kit Millspaugh, Harvey Montgomery, Fred Montilla, Charlie Morris, Bob Newstead, Nick Paleologos, Julius Pope, and Bob Tait. We plan to move into our permanent Shelter in mid-November, rebuilt after last year's fire. Rushing was conducted in our less impressive temporary house.

So far this fall, Gamma Eta has been outstanding in sports competition. Both our "A" and "B" intramural football teams are in first place in their respective leagues. Our three varsity football players, all from Pennsylvania, have distinguished themselves at G.W. Ed Hino, quarterback and cocaptain, was voted "Back of the Week" in the Southern Conference; Bill Smythe, who's an end on offense and defense, as well as safety man and team punter, is high in the nation in pass receptions; and Gene Posati, first-string tackle, goes about 50 minutes each game. The G.W. rowing team is also flooded with Delts; Sandy Morrison, who lettered in crew, as well as half a dozen spirited pledges.

George Washington has had two car cavalcade contests before both home football games, entered by all fraternities and sororities, and Gamma Eta has walked away with first prize in the fraternity division on both occasions. Our parties this semester have featured lively get-togethers with sororities, as well as stag and dated rush parties, one of which, a Playboy party, featured the largest house-front decoration seen on this campus in a long time. In September, the brothers combined efforts with Delta Sigma at Maryland for a great round of rush parties. Tim Mead, student council president, and Gamma Eta's pride and joy, recently interviewed Governor Rockefeller on "Youth Wants to Know," a nationwide TV show.

JACK CLIFFORD

Georgia Tech

This year Gamma Psi's rush was particularly successful. In the annual event, the Delts pledged 43 men, one of the largest groups of pledges on campus.

Rush Week began with open house on Wednesday. At this time, over 300 rushees came through the Shelter, which was in top condition following three days of preparation by the brothers. The most common comments made by the rushees were about the "South Sea Island" party room and the general "homey" atmosphere of the house.

During the next week, smokers and meals were the first order of rush functions. Nancy Collier and Jane Muer, two performers who have traveled around the world with the "Miss Atlanta Show," sang folk songs and did pantomimes at a couple of smokers. Since paid entertainment is prohibited by the school, the chapter pooled its resources to provide entertainment at the remaining smokers.

Two smokers were spent looking at films. One evening a Delt film of the recent Karnea was shown and at the other a series of slides taken by several of the brothers provided the entertainment.

A recent alumnus, Wade Horton, delivered a speech at one of the smokers which was very interesting and humorous.

The last week end of Rush Week saw the Delts throw two big parties. The first of these was a "Go-to-Hell" party, which was sparked by the unusual costumes of the brothers. Following Tech's second grid win of the season, a 16-12 squeaker over S.M.U., the Delts transported everyone to an American Legion lodge off campus to provide for them the final big party of '59 Rush Week.

Georgia Tech boasts of these 43 pledges.

The 43 pledges, who make the second largest pledge class in the history of the chapter, speak for the success of Rush Week.

Delts continue their leadership in military activities at Tech. In the Air Force ROTC, Brother Bob Lawler earned the position of wing commander, the top post in this ROTC branch.

Bill Abercrombie was appointed to fill the slot of the regimental executive officer, the second highest position in the Army ROTC.

In recent elections, Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalism fraternity, chose John Walker to fill the top post, that of president.

Crosscountry is one of the two fall sports at Tech and Delts Gordon Clayton and Jerry Taylor add needed strength to the carrier team.

In co-operation with the campus branch of the the YMCA, Gamma Psi sponsored an early morning religious breakfast. With Brother Steve Wilenchek as president of the Y and Charles McGuirt as president of the Methodist Wesley Foundation, the Delts presented Dr. Dow Kirkpatrick, pastor of a local church, as speaker.

In intramural sports, the Delts are out and running. After copping the school's second slot in volleyball last year, the Delts lost their first contest this year, but have won the next eight and show no signs of losing any more matches.

The football team, sparked by pledges, is doing better than it has in the past several years and should prove a real threat to all foes.

Gamma Psi, entering the swimming meet rated as an underdog, took several events and finished sixth.

From all indications, the 1959-1960 year will add another page in the Delt scrapbook of successful years.

The chapter's newspaper, the Gamma Sigh, is being made up at the present time. All chapter alumni are requested to send any information about themselves or other graduates to the chapter to publish in the paper.

JOHN WALKER

Hillsdale

This year's homecoming was successful, not only in student participation but by the return of 135 Kappa Chapter alumni, a surprisingly large number. Casper L. Rowe and Ora C. Kimball, both graduates of the class of 1904, were the oldest alumni of Kappa Chapter present. The homecoming scene was honored to have Dr. Wilford O. Mauck, one of Kappa's most distinguished gentlemen and former president of Hillsdale College, in attendance. The festivities were permeated with an air of traditional respect and mutual friendship thanks to the warm-hearted spirit of the alumni.

An all-campus open house was held to welcome the arrival of Mrs. Chenowith, our new housemother. Mrs. Chenowith's patience, cheerfulness, and understanding more than qualify her as one of Delta Tau Delta's most outstanding housemothers. The men of Kappa Chapter feel very fortunate to have her.

The enthusiastic homecoming which the students worked on with cheerful conscientiousness was rewarded by Hillsdale's decisive victory over Alma 28-3. Three Delts were instrumental in Hillsdale's conquest, namely, Paul Christo and the Beckwith brothers, Pete and Bob.

The men of Kappa Chapter were proud to claim the 1959 academic trophy for obtaining the highest grade-point average among the four fraternities on campus. Kappa Chapter has claimed this trophy twice in the last three competitive periods with an average higher than the all-campus average.

TOM E. SMITH

Idaho

Delta Mu returned to the Moscow Shelter to find that it had won the coveted IFC Help Week trophy for rehabilitating the Moscow Recreation Park.

The trophy was added to an already crowded mantel and the brothers began to prepare for rush. With 36 men returning and a capacity of 52, our 16-man pledge class filled the house. Rush went better this year due to the efforts of Brothers Scott Vaught, IFC rush chairman, and John Fitzgerald, house rush chairman.

As the semester wears on, various organizations are laying their laurels at our door. George Crowe, Mike Watson, and Jerry Schmidt were tapped for Helldivers, a swimming honorary, making eight our total in that organization. John Fitzgerald was selected to be on the co-ordination council, NROTC chose Jim Child its operation officer. Chuck Eckery and Glen Potter were presented with Distinguished Military Student awards and Potter is in line for commander-in-chief of AROTC. Blue Key entered the Shelter to tap John Fitzgerald, Dick René, and Bob Schumaker, three being the largest number tapped and making our total of five the largest number of men on campus in that national society. The Idaho Greeks swept the class elections, taking 16 out of 16, placing two Deltas as class presidents, John Fitzgerald, junior class president, and Bob Schini, sophomore class president.

Delt Vandals Theron Nelson and Dick Davies have been our gridiron representatives on a so-far unlucky team. Frosh gridders include Ron Kulm and Tom Schmidt. In action for the highly rated Vandal hoopsters will be Bob Walton, returning third-year first-string senior. Frosh roundball hopefuls include Dan Barrett and Mike Lehman. Ron Adams and Gary Michaels have been placing high in the various cross-country meets.

Glen Potter, active in both IM and varsity athletics in previous years will this year be coaching the frosh basketball and baseball teams. Potter last year pitched our softball team to victory and played varsity basketball, among other athletic endeavors. Fin Man Rob Tyson could prove to repeat his superior showing on the Vandal swimming team, and the "pseudo jocks" are at it again with an injury-ridden gridiron nine taking sixth on campus, behind the able passing of Bill Scholes, an ex-Vandal quarterback, and the catching of all-campus Theron Ward. A challenge from the 1957 pledge class appears ominous as the intramural cross-country meet draws near.

On the social scene we put our pledges on magazine covers for the annual pledge dance, this year called "Mag Drag." Summer social functions included parties at Twin Falls, McCall, several at Boise, and a cruise on Lake Couer d'Alene. Under the able leadership of Social Chairman Theron Ward a very good schedule of exchanges and firesides, plus the seven annual functions, is planned.

Illinois pledge class, winner of pajama street race.

We are now working on a winning (we think) homecoming float and, with a good start, to an even better year. The spirit of Delta Mu is really on top.

BRODY CONKLIN

Illinois

Beta Upsilon Deltas successfully kicked off the 1959-60 school year with a top-flight rush week under the leadership of Rush Chairman Tom Roos. The chapter came out with the fourth largest pledge class of the 58 fraternities on campus in one of the fraternity system's most competitive and complex rushing programs.

Initiated during the week end of the Illinois-Northwestern grid battle, alumni week end saw the return to the Shelter of more than 40 Deltas. The featured speaker at the alumni banquet following the game was Dean Eldon E. Park. Dean Park, a Beta Tau Delt, is now dean of fraternity men at the University of Illinois.

Three Deltas were members of the Illini varsity football squad this fall. Stan Yukovich played defensive center and Joe Wendroyoski was positioned at tackle. In addition to his varsity grid chores, Bob Salata is the present Big Ten heavyweight wrestling champion. Hap Goerlett is a golf letterman. Pledge Terry Deiro is on the frosh football squad. Dale McDyer is president of Dolphin, national swimming fraternity, and Don Drever and Larry Moore are also varsity swimmers and Dolphins.

Final intramural standings in 1958-59 placed Beta Upsilon in the top ten. We are expecting to finish in the upper fifth of the standings this year.

On October 31, five men were initiated into the chapter. Dave Sattem, scholarship chairman, is spearheading a revamped scholarship program this semester. It now appears as if an unusually high percentage of pledges will make grades. Individual scholarship last semester was led by Pete Kendall and Danny Laughunn, each earning straight "A" averages.

In student activities, Bruce Duff is director of the Student Union. Bernie Wall is an IF rush subchairman. Tom Roos is junior star course manager and Jerry Manley is sophomore manager of star course.

On the social scene, the pledge dance, "Psychosis Serenade," was carried out along a beatnik theme and was a great success. Included in the recent and upcoming exchanges scheduled are gatherings with Pi Beta Phi, Tri-Delt, Chi Omega, Alpha Chi Omega, and Alpha Omicron Pi. Beta Upsilon participated in the corecreation program with Kappa Kappa Gamma. Another fabulous time was had by all at "Delt Mystery Day," held in late October. Coming up in January is the annual winter formal, held at the Shelter.

consisting of glass and steel, conforming to the other campus buildings. The new Shelter will be located in a fraternity quadrangle about a block from our present site.

In campus activities, the Gamma Beta men are occupying various positions. Lauren Hillquist is resident editor of the yearbook and our rush chairman for the coming year. Jim Solon has been appointed to the publications board and is the IFC pageant chairman. Two brothers, John Lane and Clay Hayes, are serving on the election commission.

In the sports field, the Delts are well represented. John Olin, Mike Wayte, and Don Neal, all starters on the Tech basketball squad, are out on the practice floor. Two pledges, Dave Hollinger and John Love, are first and second men, respectively, on the cross-country circuit. Already in the midst of IF sports, we placed second in golf, we are out in front in tennis competition, and are doing well in football. We are anticipating a fine season in IF sports.

Our social calendar has been very active. A "candlelight dinner," with dinner served in the Shelter, and our forest singing party were very successful. Our Halloween party evolved the oddest assortment of costumes, along with many stunts. The "integral ball," the all-school formal, will be followed by a gathering at the Cameo Club.

Final results of the IFC all-activities race for the year 1958-59 were announced this fall. Gamma Beta Delts occupied second place, losing by a few points, after retaining the trophy for two consecutive years. With our strong pledge class and peak performance by the brothers again, we hope to lead the all-activities race this year.

JACK GOODIN

Indiana

Among the new faces at Beta Alpha this fall was that of Mrs. Louise C. Neel. "Mother" Neel came from the University of Oklahoma, where she was the Sigma Chi housemother.

"Mother" Neel, mother of two daughters and a son, all married, was born in Henderson, Kentucky. During the summer of 1956 "Mother" Neel attended a housemothers' program offered by Purdue University. Upon completing this course, she became the Alpha Chi Omega housemother at Butler University in Indianapolis. In September, 1958, Mother Neel went to the University of Oklahoma.

Since coming to Beta Alpha, she has achieved wholehearted respect and confidence from the chapter.

The 34 pledges of Beta Alpha Chapter elected the following men officers of their pledge class: Tom Chase, president; Mike Kelley, vice-president; Frank on the Tech campus, after a very successful rush week. Through the hard efforts of the brothers and Rush Chairman John Olin, we pledged 26 well-rounded men, all of high scholastic potential. Much of the success is due to an extensive summer rush program consisting of personal contacts and various parties.

The high light of rush week was the ground-breaking ceremony for our new $195,000 Shelter, which will be occupied next fall. The Shelter, housing 52 men, will be of modern architecture,

This year, as in the past, the Delt "Street Dance" brought many students to the Shelter. The theme for the dance was "Jazz at the Deltharmonic."

A new event this year was an all-campus pep rally to cheer the team to victory at the football game the following day. Coach Phil Dickens and the team captain, Ted Smith, gave speeches, and the cheerleaders led the crowd through a round of cheers.

Immediately after the rally, Gary

Davis' "Musicmakers" began playing. An estimated 3,000 students attended the combined dance and open house. While the "Musicmakers" were taking their intermissions, entertainment was provided by Linda Lukins, who did a tap dance; Blaine Kauffman, an accomplished pianist; Brother Bill Tanner, who sang "Mack the Knife"; and Brother Mick Bell, who played the guitar. Brother Fritz Hill was master of ceremonies.

The evening turned out to be a success and the Street Dance started the chapter on another good year.

Candidates are selected by fraternities from their partner sorority. This year Delta Tau Delta joined with Delta Delta Delta Sorority in the contest. The dance, itself, is sponsored by the sophomore men's honorary, Skull and Crescent.

are Ron Michaels, a top halfback, and Newt King, an outstanding tackle on KU's Orange Bowl hopefuls.

Fall initiation was held October 11, when four new brothers joined us in an impressive ceremony. After the ceremony, we all attended church services and then returned to the Shelter for an initiation banquet.

Even though our scholarship was in the top ten, we are anticipating an even higher ranking this semester, led by Wes Witt and Clay Edmands, new members of Owl Society, junior men's honor society, and Ted Hall, member of Sachus, senior men's honor society. Adding his "bit" will be Dick Harmpfer, who has 38 hours of straight-A.

Another Delt in the limelight is Roger Stanton, who is vice-president of the senior class. More honors have been heaped on Brothers Edmands and Harper this fall. Clay will be running the University homecoming dance festivities, while Dick handles the money for the Young Republicans.

But not all our time is spent working, as our active social calendar shows. After entertaining K-State Delts at a party and dance October 17, we really went all out for the annual western frolic, the Paddle Party, held October 24. After dancing to the cool sounds of Brother Dave Cooley and his combo, our dates were entertained with the traditional branding ceremony between paddle fathers and sons.

Plans are now being laid for the Christmas party, held annually for the Lawrence children, and the Christmas Stag is always a perfect send-off for the long vacation.

EVAN RIDGWAY

Kansas State

K-State Delts started the new year by taking 21 pledges and initiating six new brothers. The pledging period is getting

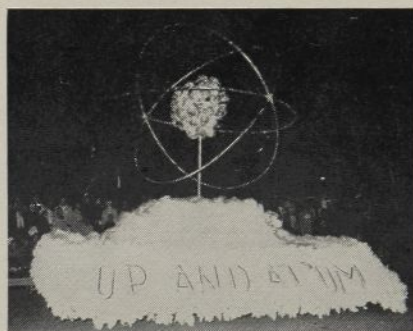

Iowa

Last spring the chapter finally decided to sacrifice a few parties for a complete remodeling job in the kitchen. The new cabinets, the stainless steel sink, the new flooring, and the new ice box improved the looks and the atmosphere of our kitchen 100 per cent. The only kitchen item that wasn't remodeled was our cook, Mrs. Linder.

Our rush program last spring paid off. We received 22 pledges during formal rush and added three more during informal rush. This not only means that we have a stronger house numerically, but also financially. This, no doubt, will stimulate even more interest in our building program.

This year our pledge class represents the Delt house in many of the athletic activities. Ron Long and Gary Lorenz will probably be seeing a lot of action in basketball this year, while Jim Maurice will be splashing out exceptional times in the pool. During the spring, Jack Pillmore will be pitching for the Hawks while Ivan Kerr will be tagging 'em out at second. John Gilmore led the Delts to victory by capturing the all-University intramural golf tournament.

Omicron Chapter took first for building the most beautiful float during the Hawk's homecoming. The theme of the float was "Up and Atom." The float consisted of a nucleus, surrounded by three orbitals. Six blinking lights, which were mounted on the orbitals, represented electrons. The whole apparatus revolved under pledge power. A great deal of credit goes to Terry Travis for the time he devoted to organizing this year's float.

With the Delts so well represented on campus and with such a promising pledge class we are looking forward to a very promising year.

HOWARD HEID

Kansas

The new school year is not yet six weeks old, and already the men of Gamma Tau have the beginnings of another great year.

Outstanding things are predicted for our new pledge class of 25 top men, the third largest on the hill. Already they have shown their prowess by sweeping the elections in Froshawks, freshmen pep club, winning both offices of president and secretary-treasurer. Active brothers having a strong interest in KU pep are Cheerleaders Paul Brown, Bruce Bee, and John McCartney, who is the "insides" of KU's famous Jayhawk. Two of the gridiron heroes they are cheering under way under the leadership of Richard Jennings, pledge trainer, and assisted by Don Morton and Joel Kesler. Our total membership now stands at 80.

As usual the Gamma Chi's are off to a good start in campus activities. For the second year in a row the Deltas have had three of the 13 members, and the president, of Blue Key. This year they are Max Bishop, president; Larry Foulke, and Lowell Novy. Holding student government offices this year are Larry Bingham and Larry Jefferies, student council; Jim Fairchild, arts and sciences council; Rich Pieschl, traffic appeals board chairman; and Monte Miller, publicity chairman.

The Deltas have held the major positions in the Student Union every year since its construction five years ago. This year 16 men from the Shelter hold positions on committees under the Union program council. The council is headed by Larry Bingham. Brothers Lowell Novy, Gary Rumsey, Max Bishop, Jim Fairchild, Larry Bingham, and Ward Keller, chapter adviser, compose six of the 13 members of the Union governing board. Due to the above facts, the chapter is seriously considering the idea of adopting the Student Union as an "annex."

For the second year in a row, Bill Nichols is scholarship chairman. With the help of Don Ryan, the K-State Deltas are hoping again to achieve high academic ratings. Last year Gamma Chi was first in the Western Division and third in the nation scholastically. Larry Foulke was nominated for a Fulbright scholarship in nuclear engineering.

The Deltas are participating enthusiastically in the intramural program. At the present time we are competing in the football semifinals. We are looking forward to attending the T.C.U. invitational tournament, in which we placed second last year. Several other men from Gamma Chi are in the process of taking high honors in the individual sports.

MONTE MILLER

Kent

Delta Omega's tenth anniversary year has started with a bang, as the brothers combined their energies and talents to bring back the first-place homecoming decoration trophy for the third year in a row. The theme of the decoration, "Kent Has Bowling Green on a String," featured marionettes being manipulated by a king-size Kent player to the honky-tonk piano of the team mascot. Despite the steady downpour of rain all week end, the chapter, under the supervision of Dick Bracken, managed to construct the winner under a large tarpaulin. Later that evening the brothers celebrated with the alumni at a dinner-dance at the Twin Lakes Country Club.

Intramural athletics were not neglected by Delta Omega, coming through with only one defeat in its football league. Volleyball, too, looks promising, with the team undefeated.

Along with these activities, the chapter's scholarship has shown steady improvement, and ranked third on campus spring quarter.

In campus politics, Deltas have provided Gold Party candidates for sophomore class president, vice-president, and secretary. Brother Mike Bowden is president of the Gold Party.

The second International Teachers tea, held at the Shelter, was held this quarter by the chapter. This tea honors the teachers from foreign lands who are visiting the Kent campus this year.

The weekly after-dinner speaker program, arranged by John Bowden, was inaugurated by a visit by University President George Bowman. Included among the speakers are members of the University administration and faculty.

EDWARD HINDLE

Kentucky

The crisp autumn is rapidly drawing toward the first stages of winter down here in the "Bluegrass Country." With this change in season a look at the University of Kentucky campus sees the frantic turmoil of midterm exams and a concentrated effort to get as much studying done as possible before the Thanksgiving and Christmas vacations roll around.

The Deltas are enthusiastically expecting another big year. We will have to go quite a way to top the tremendous successes that we enjoyed last year. Topping last year's achievements was the winning of the scholarship trophy again. Delta Epsilon was tops in scholarship out of the 20 other fraternities on campus and the average was well above the all men's and all-campus averages.

All-campus activities found the Deltas leading the pack with almost boring regularity. Eight first places, two seconds, and one third place was the record set out of a possible 11 major campus events. A late day in May found the Deltas carrying three first-place trophies back to the Shelter. The big event of the day was the Push-Cart Derby in which the power-packed team of Carleton Godsey, Reeves Jackson, John Sargent, and Anchorman Kenny Baker came through with a tremendous finish to win the hotly debated contest. An unexpected first was achieved in connection with the same event when the Delt float was awarded the big trophy. Dick Conger did a fine job in imitating "Mr. Magoo," and undoubtedly this influenced the judges' opinions. The day was finally capped off by another first in the all-campus sing. Delta Epsilon has always been known for its singing ability and the term "the singing Deltas" was appropriately illustrated with our 23rd straight triumph in the sing.

Another award accorded the chapter was the selection of our adviser, James Shropshire, as President of the Southern Division. "Shrop" has been of tremendous help and value to Delta Epsilon in making it one of the top chapters on campus, in the Southern Division, and in the country. His devotion to Delta Tau Delta is unquestioned and we are proud to claim him as our own.

Allen Dawson, chapter president, has been accorded the distinction of being selected as a member of the first class to be admitted to the new $26,000,000 University of Kentucky medical center, which is now being constructed. This honor takes on added significance when it is noted that there are only 45 members in the class.

Jimmy "Demo" Johns has been playing some stalwart football for UK this season. Johns, at 5' 9", 200-lb., has been tearing up the opponents' line and is more than often found in their backfield, nailing someone for a loss. Kentucky has played four of the "Top Ten" in the nation (L.S.U., Georgia Tech, Auburn, and Mississippi) and Demo has done a tremendous job.

A successful fall rush has given us a quality pledge class of 22 members. They have some mighty big shoes to fill. Members of the '59 pledge class are: John Anderson, Carlyle Bailey, John Burkhard, Bob Clarkson, Jim Drury, Bob Finney, Bill Hacker, Mike Hamilton, Buzzy Hulette, Bill Jewell, Juddy Knight, Tim Pearman, Jim Pryor, Dave Polk, Joe Rapier, Bob Rice, Mike Riley, Butch Schmidt, Steve Wagner, Dave Whitmer, Don Wright, and Chet Zoeller.

Delta Epsilon has been doing its part to uphold the University's reputation as "the party school of the south." Various parties have been in prominence this fall and the big winter party season is just around the corner. No one needs to be told how big the enthusiasm for basketball is at Kentucky, and the postgame parties, jam-sessions, and all are just as enthusiastic.

Although the weather is getting murky and gray there is one bright spot. The sun is shining in the Shelter at Kentucky!

DICK WALLACE

Kenyon

September found us with a good number of brothers returning to the Chi Shelter. In addition to 33 actives, we recently acquired 20 pledges, making Chi the largest fraternity at Kenyon. As usual, where there is something going on, there is a Chi Delt.

Brothers Rosenstiel and Thomas have both been 60-minute men on Kenyon's football team, as have Pledges Owen, Miere, and Colwell. Intramurally, the Delts are well on the way to an undefeated touch football season. Brother Clark was drafted as our No. 1 choice, for the second straight year, as coach. He and his boys have kept the Delt machine rolling to another championship.

We feel we have acquired a fine pledge class, and Pledgemasters Hoffmann and Carr are in the process of shaping the boys into good Delts. Our pledges follow the lead of the actives and participate in every sport. Pledge Collins teams up with Brothers Hill, Kasson, and Ramsay on the basketball court. Brother Ramsay is one of three Delt varsity captains. In the swimming pool, a Delt-dominated team appears well on its way to another undefeated season in the Ohio Conference, with Actives Oliver, Mayher, Binder, Hoffmann, and Carr being pushed by Pledges Gill, Kuppenheimer, Evans, Reimenschneider, and Wagner. The wrestling team will be captained by Dick Schori. With Dick will be Brother Allen, and Pledges Waylet and Newhall.

Scholastically, the Delts fell off slightly because of the nice weather last spring. A number of trips to ice carnivals and other festivities at nearby colleges in South Hadley and Hanover kept a number of the brothers from becoming social failures and scholastic successes.

But, on the bright side, three of the Delt seniors are being considered for Fulbright scholarships. They are Brothers Taylor, Schori, and Cox. And these three, along with Brothers Hill, Larkin, Carr, Bessire, and Burghardt, represented Chi on last semester's Dean's List.

Thus, under the able leadership of President Taylor, assisted by a unified effort of all the members, Chi stands No. 1 at Kenyon. We look forward to a successful school year in the true Delt tradition.

The brothers of Nu Chapter returned this semester to a newly renovated Shelter, and began immediately to prepare the rushing program, which became highly successful. The chapter pledged 21 men, bringing our strength to 68 brothers and pledges. The new class is diversified, emphasizing good character and scholarship. Already these new men have begun to take part in campus life with members in the choir, band, Pershing Rifles, freshman football and basketball teams, and the campus publications. They promise to become the most active segment of the freshman class on campus.

The intramural football team is unbeaten and may bring another trophy to the Shelter, and the basketball team has begun to prepare for what should be another fine season.

Socially, the year has gotten off to a very good start. The pledge party gave us our first opportunity to try out our new party room. We also held a party for the parents over parents week end and went in on a combined party with two other houses that evening. We were pleased to see the large turnout of alumni on both of these occasions. On the 14th of November, Nu Chapter will play host to our Tufts and Lehigh brethren at a party which we expect to be one of the best of the year.

Due to college pressure we were forced to abandon our fire engine project; however this has not dampened our spirit. The house wishes to thank those alumni and friends of Nu Chapter who are helping us finance our additions and furnishings. All of your gifts are welcome and appreciated.

Thanks to Rush Chairmen Bob Pihl and Tom Weber, the Delta Nu Chapter began the 1959-1960 year by pledging 19 outstanding freshman men. Scholastically, the Delts also started the year well by placing second in scholarship, missing first by only .004 of a grade point. This year the Delts are continuing their campus leadership with Doug Moland serving as student body president and Pete Switzer's election as interfraternity council president. Pete also did an excellent job this fall as cochairman of the new student week committee. Al Saltzstein and Jeff Knox remained sports editors for the college newspaper, The Lawrentian, and Alex Wilde was chosen to handle all sports publicity for the college.

In athletics, the boys of Delta Nu have been quite prominent on the campus. In football, Sophomore Dan Brink has done an exceptional job at tackle. He is a consistent starter for Coach Bernie Heselton, and has played a large part in the team's three wins. Dave Jordan was doing an outstanding job in the backfield until an injury in the second game forced him out for the season. In cross-country, Bill Stout should develop into a real sports great. Only a sophomore, Bill has finished within the top three places in all the Vike meets.

In interfraternity touch football, the Delts grabbed first-place honors. We completed the season with an undefeated record, the only club to do so in some time. The coming basketball season looks bright for the Delts, due to the addition of several promising pledges to last year's strong nucleus.

Our new pledges have shown outstanding athletic ability. Five new Delts are now playing frosh football and three are on the frosh cross-country team. Pledge Reed Williams is the top runner on the freshman squad. His times thus far this season would place him in every varsity meet.

Socially, the Delts are looking forward to an outstanding year. The Delt pledge formal, held with the Kappa Alpha Thetas, was a complete success. The Delts are now planning many activities with the sororities on campus. This year's Delta Nu officers are qualified to help keep the Delts in their top position. They are: president, Pete Switzer; vice-president, Tom Weber; corresponding secretary, Chuck Hunter; recording secretary, Mike Harris; treasurer, Tom Hurvis; sergeant at arms, Dick Kauffman; guide, Duke Watts; and historian, Dick Young.

New pledges are: Tom Barton, Stephen Crews, Howard Fiedler, Mike Franzen, John Grenzebach, Frank Holm-

Lehigh

Varsity sports are claiming many of Beta Lambda's brothers and pledges this fall. Carl Straub is looking good as a tackle on Coach Leckonby's football team. Lehigh's wrestling season looks like a good one. Bill Munson, in the heavy-weight class, and John Hayes, in the 191-lb. class, add a great deal of strength in Lehigh's upper weights.

Around campus, Carl Petrillo won the annual "Ugly Man" contest, sponsored by the campus chest to raise funds. Carl's ugliness won us first choice in house party football tickets; our warm thanks go out to him. Richard Eelman was recently elected secretary-treasurer of the student chemical society. So far, Dick has done a fine job in his new post.

Walt Krzesiewski, a recent initiate, will move into position as cochairman of the rushing committee.

All the members of Beta Lambda Chapter join in wishing you a Merry Christmas and a safe vacation.

BOB GAIDO

This fall, the doors of Gamma Nu opened wide to welcome the returning members and new pledges filling the Shelter to overflowing. Old ties of friendship were renewed by the members and pledges. The pledges, by the way, came smashing through last semester with the highest academic point average of any pledge class on the campus.

Mom Barron, our housemother, again returned to bring us love and understanding as only she can. Good food at its best is the by-word in the kitchen where our chef, Ray Thibeau, is back again for his 15th year.

Dave Robinson, our vice-president, has a new title to add to his long list of achievements here on campus. This fall, Dave's smiling face may be seen on the "University Television Hour," where he acts as host every Sunday afternoon.

Let us interject a tip of the hat to our social chairman, Pete Haynes. Pete has done a marvelous job on the organization of the after-game jam sessions. During the intermissions, the pledges and members shake the ceiling with the traditional Delt songs learned regularly and eagerly by the pledges the first few weeks on campus.

Last week, we entertained our sister sorority, the Tri-Delts, with a pizza feed cooked as only Ray can do it. After the meal, Pledges Hartz Karter, Haynes, and Giles performed a great skit which brought the house down.

As usual, Delts are found in many activities all over campus. Pledges Steele, Winters, and Gray represent the chapter in Pershing Rifles, an honorary military society. Pledge Giles is a Coburn cadet, the judo team of the ROTC department here at the University.

In campus government, Pledge Hartz does a commendable job as our senator to the campus senate.

Even as this issue of THE RAINBOW goes to press, Gamma Nu Chapter initiated 21 pledges into the sacred folds of the Fraternity. With this new blood and spirit, linked with ideas, Gamma Nu is sure to enjoy one of its most rewarding years ever.

Delta Sigma got off to a flying start this year by having the entire Shelter redecorated. With the kind assistance of our house committee, the inside and outside of the Shelter were painted and many new additions were added.

With this completed, Delta Sigma got down to the business of fall rush. We can happily report that our fall pledge class consists of the following men: Mark Whitmore, Robert Graybill, William Ferguson, David Cogar, Fred Anding, William Corbin, John Linderman, Terry Horman, Dale Carbonier, and Frank Goriup. Our deepest thanks go out to Gamma Eta Chapter at George Washington University without whose help our fall rush program would not have been as successful as it was.

Intramurals look good again this year with many of our fine team of last season returning. With the help of our new pledges, and under the able guidance of Porter Ellington, the future looks bright for the Delt teams.

Plans are now under way for the presentation of the Delt "Sorority of the Year" trophy. Awarded last year to Kappa Kappa Gamma, this four-foot trophy is given to the sorority demonstrating outstanding ability, scholarship, and campus participation. The trophy is now a campus tradition, and each sorority tries its best to win this coveted honor.

Due to the large number of seniors being graduated last year, and the loss of a number of the undergraduate members, an election was held recently to make up for the loss of officers. Those elected to the new positions are: president, Leo Balsamo; vice-president, Wilmer T. Brown; treasurer, James Foskett; recording secretary, Neill Welty; guide, James Bates. Appointed to positions are: activities chairman, James Bates; alumni chairman, Porter Ellington; athletic chairman, Porter Ellington; awards chairman, Brian Waidler; house manager, William Hall; pledge trainer, Bradley Becker; rules chairman, James Bryan; rush chairmen, Charles Mundt and Richard Lathan; scholarship chairman, Neil Welty.

With the fraternity scholastic standings in for last year, the Maryland Delts rank fifth on campus with an average of 2.210. We hope that the average can be raised even higher this semester.

We of Delta Sigma know that this will be a great year ahead of us, and we hope that our good fortune can be shared by all the Delt chapters across the country.

NEIL J. WELTY

Beta Nu finished another successful rush week with eight fine pledges. In general, the pledge class has begun school well, scholastically. They are all working hard in athletics. Rick Huffman and Chuck Fadley are out for wrestling; Bill Weber and Phil Schneider are rowing crew; John Cervenka and Tim Sloat are out for swimming; Tom Massaro is lifting weights; George Berakha is out for fencing. Huffman, Sloat, and Weber were elected to represent their class on the freshman council.

The Delt intramural football team is well on its way to winning the intramural football trophy again this year. The defending champions' record now stands at three wins, no losses, and one tie.

The new basement recreation room is now almost complete. Pine wall paneling has been installed, a new tile floor put down, and a snack bar constructed at one end of the room. The main job remaining is the installation of acoustic ceiling tile.

Five Beta Nu Delts received scholastic recognition on the MIT Dean's List for last semester. They are Joe Verderber, Milt Reed, Gary Kincaid, Lloyd Fisher, and Bob Larson, who had an all "A" average for the second straight term. Bob was also chosen to be vice-president of the AIEE-IRE.

The chapter is looking forward to a Halloween party to be given by the pledge class.

Delta Chapter's "Home for Delinquent Men" issued forth its fall challenge—"Give me your tired, your poor, your hungry masses . . ."—and they did. Kicking the sand from their shoes and picking the cockleburs from their bluecord coats, the brothers returned to the campus.

We returned to the Shelter this fall to find new carpeting on the first floor, the stairways, and the second- and third-floor hallways.

The brothers, as usual, returned a few days early in order to redecorate their rooms and to help in the general cleaning of the Shelter. Of course, last semester's pledges did their share of the cleaning. The result of all the work is that we think we have the nicest looking house on campus.

With the start of the varsity football season, the brothers were able to watch Brother Todd Grant, a sophomore, put some "beef" in the middle of the Michigan line. Todd has seen action in every game so far this season, and has been a big asset to the team.

Although Todd is the only brother on the varsity squad, he isn't the only one to see action in football this fall. Both our "A" and "B" football teams have reached the first-place play-offs in IM competition. The "A" squad, under the leadership of John Krause, has remained unscored upon; while in turn they have piled up 90 points against their competitors.

This fall's social calendar has been quite full thanks to the efforts of the social chairman, Pete Ordway, and his committee. Their latest brainstorm was a "farm party," for which they partially filled the dining-room with hay. We roasted hot-dogs and marshmallows over a fire in the fireplace and sat around the fire and sang. None of the brothers were permitted in the door wearing coats and ties.

Under Rush Chairman Rich Gavril, we pledged 18 men in fall rush. Pledge Trainer Bill Radford and his assistants, Pat Ludwig and Bob Kohrman, now take over their task of integrating these men into the chapter and the Fraternity.

If things continue as they have started, Delta Chapter should have a very successful year.

test, a big push toward the top in the fraternity sports race, and the prospects of a new Shelter looking promising.

The spark should come from our very recent homecoming display, which won first place among all fraternities and got Iota its first trophy of the year. The brothers worked long and hard on this prize and highest praise should go to Chairman Mike Miller and our "construction engineer," Doug Wagner. The win seemed a little more gratifying considering that the last night of construction was spent in a steady, drizzling rain.

Fall rush, under Chairman Jim Draves, went well and more men went through the Delt house than ever before. The final official pledge date is in a couple of weeks, but we have ten pledges at this time. Spence Bollick is this term's pledge class president and Iota is expecting fine things from these new men.

Turning to sports, Iota Chapter this year has probably the strongest chance in its history to win the all-sports intramural race. Already this fall our football team has won twice, scoring an impressive 49-0 win in its last game. Quarterbacking by Jim Draves and the line play of Jack Durliat and Gary Caltrider so far have led the team's play. With the football team in good standing, we look to our bowling squad this fall, which is defending its No. 1 standing from last year. This year's team, composed of Brothers Bill Porter, Bill Ruchow, Dave Dimmers, Al Tanck, and Bob Dall, has already racked up two victories and we hope is well on its way.

Early this school year our chapter had a special meeting with our house corporation, which proved to be quite enlightening and encouraging. The president of this group, Stan Mutersbaugh, backed up by the other corporation members (who came to East Lansing from as far away as Detroit), informed our chapter that two lots had been purchased in the East Lansing area with the idea that they eventually will become our new Shelter site. This proposal was, of course, received very enthusiastically by the brothers and plans were discussed and are now under way for the future Shelter of Iota.

So, the outlook is nothing but bright for Iota Chapter here at MSU and lest any alumni or brothers from other schools forget, "Woody" (our mascot), and all the brothers here, welcome you at any time in our Shelter.

TERRY BRAVERMAN

Minnesota

The past few months have seen a lot of activity at the Shelter here at Beta Eta. Many of the important positions in the chapter are held by younger men and prospects for this year and the succeeding years are extremely bright.

One of the major activities has been homecoming. Many hours were put in by the brothers on a huge three-story house display. Our queen candidate, Miss Shiela Nilan, Delta Gamma, was one of the five members of the homecoming court. Brothers Tom Hall and Jack Mulvena saw extensive action in the football game, as Minnesota attempted to "Spook the House That Vanderbilt." That evening a gala homecoming party was held at the Bayport Yacht Club.

Other parties this fall have been big successes, with theme parties predominating. On October third, a pre-Christmas party was held, complete with appropriate decorations, an appearance of Santa Claus with gifts for the guests, and cold weather provided by the weatherman. Another highly successful party was a "Roaring 20's" party with flappers, a still, and bathtub "gin."

In intramurals our ping-pong team is defending its championship while the basketball team is getting in shape for the season. In varsity basketball, Captain Ron Johnson is preparing to lead the Golden Gophers to a winning season.

Our younger men, as well as the older men, are out on campus and Deltas are found in key positions in every major group on campus.

The Shelter has taken on a new look inside this fall with our Mother's Club and alumni providing invaluable assistance. New draperies, new paint, and many other items have given the interior of the Shelter a beautiful new look.

On October tenth, 17 brothers from Beta Eta visited the Beta Pi Chapter for the football game. Minnesota made a good showing but lost to an outstanding Northwestern team. Beta Eta wishes to thank Beta Pi for its hospitality and cordially invites them to visit our Shelter at any time. November 21-22 found the brothers of Beta Gamma visiting Beta Eta for the week end of football, parties, and fun. We sincerely hope the brothers enjoyed their stay at Minnesota and we will certainly be looking forward to the Minnesota-Wisconsin game next year.

KENNETH D. RUBLE

Missouri

Now that rush week is over, and classes have started, the Gamma Kappa Deltas are adjusting to the new challenges of campus activities at "Ole Mizzou."

Rush this year was the most profitable in many years. Bill Kennedy, our state rush chairman, deserves most of the credit for the recruiting of this year's top-grade pledge class. The new pledges rank fifth out of 31 fraternities in quantity, and first in quality. They are showing great promise in both scholastic and athletic fields.

The Gamma Kappa intramural football team is ranked with the best on campus. After the completion of the league season, the Deltas are undefeated and unscored on, averaging 35 points per game. The potent offense is attributed to the long pin-point passes of Gary Starr and the glue-fingered receiving of John Silver, Steve Lewis, and Jack Fields. The fast-rushing defense is spearheaded by Bob Meyers, Rich Joy, and Jim McKinney. This combination is favored to cop the intramural crown as the play-offs begin.

Indoor, Pledges Jim Pound and Jim Carothers are managing the varsity and freshman basketball teams.

Another pledge, Bob Shupe, is working hard to earn a place on the Tiger golf team.

Homecoming was a tremendous success. The pledges, under the capable supervision of Rich Reuter, Rich Joy, and Tom Williams, spent a full week constructing the most original homecoming decorations on campus. The first big party of the year was held at the Shelter following the homecoming victory over Nebraska.

Gamma Kappa Deltas are among the leaders in campus government and other student activities. John Silver is serving as chief justice of the traffic court. Public relations committee member, Andy Kantis, heads the office of public information and did much to publicize the recent homecoming activities for the entire University. Alan Steinberg has been appointed advertising manager for Savitar, the M. U. yearbook. Thespians Jim McKinney and Wayne Schindler are being auditioned for leads in the all-campus musical, "Guys and Dolls."

So we see that Gamma Kappa Deltas are well on their way to a great year in many phases of campus activities and are maintaining the high standards of the Fraternity at the M. U. Shelter.

MARK MCKINNEY

Nebraska

Waiting to greet the Nebraska Deltas on their return this fall was a newly-reddecorated and refurnished Shelter. The brothers wasted no time in getting busy with rushing chores and came up with 30 top men, the largest pledge class in the last four years.

The new pledge officers are George Tutt, president; Dave Butterfield, vice-president; Jerry Simmons, secretary-treasurer, and Cliff Smith, social chairman. "Doc" Harry is this semester's pledge trainer.

President Harold Stuckey has made several appointments. He named Jim Samples as rush chairman, Tom Sheldon as intramural chairman, Bob Aden as scholarship head, and Dick Stuckey, last summer's rush chairman, as social chairman. Roger Olson was elected vice-president to fill the position vacated by Bud Hodges, who was graduated in the summer.

Twenty-six of Nebraska's 30 pledges.

Brothers John Mitchem and Dennis Novicki head the chapter's homecoming display project, a large white whale. The Delts feel they have a real winner in the making. On tap for the homecoming week end activities is the annual alumni smoker.

Nine new men were initiated into Beta Tau on Sunday, October 18. One brother, Gayle Grubb, joined us from Beta Pi.

Socially, the brothers are making plans for the first house party of the year, the annual "hangover party," which is traditionally a costume affair. The social committee has planned a hunters' week end during November. Besides a number of football game functions with sororities, the Delts held a pizza party in the Shelter on October 18.

Bob "Doc" Harry, a senior, is scrapping for the starting lineup of the varsity basketball team for the third straight year. "Doc," who stands 6'5", has been a standout for the Cornhuskers the past two seasons. Delt Larry Naviaux, three-year varsity letterman, is now serving as an assistant coach for the freshman football squad. Two former state high school champs are in the Delt sports spotlight. They are Ralph "Bud" Williamson in golf and Squab Steve Pfister, a track sprinter. "Lou" Johnson will also be seeking a berth on the varsity golf squad. Out for gymnastics will be Ladd Hubka and Squab Steve Joynet. Steve Smith and Jerry Bean will be seen on the baseball diamond. Two freshmen, John Nore and Dave Wohlfarth, will try out for the tennis team.

The Delt "B" team "Bullies" nabbed the runner-up spot in the all-University B-team football finals October 27. After scoring two quick touchdowns, the team bogged down, losing by a 20-12 count. Tailback Pat Tooley, Tom "Peco" Redmond, Bud Williamson, and Dick Stuckey were standouts throughout the season, which saw the squad go undefeated until the final game. Squab Jerry Simmons won the championship flight of the all-University free throw contest by hitting 48 out of 50. Earlier he edged another pledge, Jerry Ebers. The brothers will be out this year to defend their all-University shallow water basketball crown. Beta Tau will be fielding three intramural basketball teams this winter—a varsity, a "B" team and a "C" team. Prospects look good for all three squads. A new twist will be added to touch football during November when the Delts will play the Delta Gammas. The game should prove very interesting.

A number of the brothers are working as reporters for the Daily Nebraskan, school newspaper. They are Dick Stuckey and Roy Neil and Squabs Roy Scheele and Dave Wohlfarth. Sam Hall writes a weekly column for the paper.

Mrs. Bernice "Mom" Hinds is Beta Tau's housemother for the eighth consecutive year. The chapter would find it hard to get along without her meal planning and guidance.

SAM L. HALL

North Dakota

Delta Xi is looking forward to a successful year with the pledging of 17 new men. Through the efforts of Brother Dick McKelvey and his rush committee, Delta Xi had a very good rush program. We were fortunate and proud to be able to present Brother Tom Shaffer and his Air Force "Blue Notes" as the feature entertainment of our rushing program. The "Blue Notes," a jazz combo composed of musicians from the Grand Forks Air Base, was organized by Brother Shaffer, a Delt from Alpha Chapter at Allegheny, who is currently stationed at the Grand Forks Air Base.

Brother Stu Felde and Pledge Eric Bredlie represent Delta Xi on the Varsity Bards, the men's choral group at UND. Brother Paul Vondracek and Pledge Eddie Powers are members of the University band.

Delta Xi is looking forward to the annual "Hard Times" party to be held November 21, with the high light of the social season, the Kris Kringle Formal, and the crowning of a new sweetheart to follow in December.

MARINO S. MELSTED

Northwestern

Beta Pi started out the new school year with quite a bang, as we pledged 23 of the top rushees participating in rush week. That these fellows have high aspirations of getting the most out of college is manifested by their spirit and accomplishments already achieved. Several are presidents and officers of their respective dorms, officers in junior interfraternity council, and first-stringers on athletic teams.

The active chapter is also proud to display its scholastic award, presented to them by our Fraternity in respect to our fine record last year. We have high hopes of repeating and furthering that feat again this year. Beta Pi started out the school social calendar with its annual Freshman Pajama Race, sponsored by us and involving the whole campus, in choosing the Delt Queen and King, along with a most exciting race. This year Miss Sue Hayes of Delta Gamma was chosen as queen by our seniors. Our own freshmen did well in the race, coming in second blazing in chemise nighties, behind Phi Delt. Our homecoming week end was one of festive cheer as we won first place in the float decoration and hosted the Delts of yesteryear at our traditional pig roast and alumni party. It was indeed a wonderful treat to see the fine alumni response and turnout at the Shelter.

We are mighty proud of our second-place sweepstakes trophy won last year and are already on the path to more trophies this year, as we came in second in the all-school wrestling meet and have a fine football team assembled. All in all, the future looks good for Beta Pi and we thank all for their co-operation.

BOB SERHANT

Beta Chapter Delts came back to school this fall determined to make this an outstanding year, scholastically, as well as on campus. Rush Chairman Jim Brooker received fine support from the brothers and the result is that we have ten new pledges—highest on campus under our deferred rush system. They are: Norm Caticchio, Dick Crow, Tim Fitterer, Dom Grasso, Brian Jakes, Miles Kusic, Dick Littlepage, Jack Lloyd, Bill Moussiaux, and Terry White. Bill Forlone is this semester's pledgemaster and Roger Wolfe is the workmaster.

With the largest freshman class ever to attend OU, we feel that a fine rush program is a prime necessity. Brother Bert English is the new rush chairman and has many ideas that will be worked into his program.

Brother Hank Arbaugh was chosen as this year's Bobcat Club chairman. The Bobcat Club is a campus organization dedicated to instilling spirit in the student body for OU athletics and puts another Delt in the campus spot light.

Brother Lloyd Fuer was Greek Week chairman for all the fraternities on campus this year, and through his guidance and direction, it turned out to be a huge success.

year, autumn quarter 1959, giving all due praise to our summer rush chairmen, Chuck Schwindt and Merv Graham. The top party was held at Darby Dan farms, owned by Brother John W. Galbreath.

Homecoming festivities kept the ball rolling this quarter when we entered fraternity decorations with a "Peter Gunn" theme. We had a fine time constructing our entry, which received honorable mention, and, of course, thought we were "robbed" by the judges.

Brothers Gabe Hartman and Don Young are alternating first-team guards on this year's Buckeye squad. Both are lettermen and members of Varsity "O" on campus. Brother Hartman was voted the outstanding offensive lineman after the opening game of the season.

Beta Phi's Larry Shelquist was elected president of freshman class council during recent elections. Other men in campus activities include Brother Dick Edminster, feature editor of the Ohio State Engineer, and Brother Jock Moody, a coworker and member of Ohio Staters. Tom Stewart is the most recently elected Beta Phi member of Staters.

Director of intramural activities, Jim Butz has given Beta Phi a great start in interfraternity sports. Our active football team has gone undefeated and unscored upon in the course of games leading to division championship. Plans are under way for basketball, bowling, and volleyball teams, coupled with softball and swimming in the spring. Jim led us to championship victories in softball and track last year so we are all looking forward to this year being equally successful.

The men of Beta Phi are anxiously anticipating the new school year's activities, with parties, football games, and, of course, studies. Brother Merv Graham will construct the social calendar. Brothers Bill Lewis and Pat McCarthy will lead our never-ending rush program to pledge the calibre of men which will keep Beta Phi in its top-most position at Ohio State.

RON K. MILLER

Ohio Wesleyan

The brothers of Mu Chapter returned to the Shelter this fall to find their fifth consecutive IFC scholarship trophy resting on the mantle. While topping all fraternities on campus, Mu also again topped all Delt chapters in the scholarship ratings. The scholarship trophy resting on our mantel was instrumental in the chapter's very successful rush week, pledging 25 top men. Several of these men have already made contributions to the campus, ranging from playing on the football team, to participating in the annual variety show, to being selected as members of student government committees. We are confident that this fine swept both the trophies as Beta Chapter gave 78 pints of blood. Ninety-seven per cent of the chapter donated.

"Homecoming" is the battle cry around the Shelter during these early fall days as the brothers set out to prove once again that the Delts are the top "house decorators" on campus. Chairman Linden Shepard is directing the building of a huge three-story sewing machine. As the machine runs, it will "sew" out the letters, "It Seams We'll Win" and "OU's Got It Sewed UP."

At the beginning of the year, Beta Chapter initiated 11 men into the chapter and big things are expected of them.

Ivor Balyeat is our new director of the Glee Club, as the brothers begin to serenade on campus. The long-range directive is the winning of Torch Sing next semester.

Brother Bill Forloine is another example of Delt leadership on campus as he was chosen cadet colonel, the top position of all Air Force ROTC cadets on campus. He is in command of over 400 cadets.

Beta Chapter currently has two teams competing in the "OU 'Chine Club." Captain of the first team is Neil Willis and Dickie Lewis is captain of the second team. They are currently running one-two in the league.

Beta Phi Delts saw a very successful rush program top off the new school start is but an indication of what the class of 1963 will be doing for the chapter in years to come.

Once rush week had ended, Pledge Trainer Terry Ross took charge of the freshmen and is presently running a very mature and beneficial pledge program. The pledge formal is the social event which now holds the interests of the class and they are hard at work on plans to make this year's formal the best ever.

The Battling Bishop football team is having a very successful season, partially due to the presence of three Delts on the football squad. Dick Heaston, Dallas Deevers, and Team Captain Dick DeHaven have been responsible for six of the team's first seven touchdowns. Another fall sport athlete is Roger Cook, who is beginning to excel in cross-country, placing third in his last meet.

Delts continue to dominate all facets of student government, with Student Body President Bryce Collier leading the way. Our other student council member, Student Body Treasurer Dick Smith, has been working hard on a social fee issue. Elections Committee Chairman Dave Fisher and Student Bookstore Committee Chairman Steve Whitehead have also been very busy with their respective committees. Dave Rees, IFC rush committee chairman, has been active in planning ways to improve next fall's rush week.

In the field of publications, both the LeBijou, Ohio Wesleyan's yearbook, and the Transcript, Ohio Wesleyan's weekly student newspaper, remain under guidance of Delts. Editor Denny Appleyard and Business Manager Bruce Buchanan are keeping the LeBijou work up to date, while Business Manager Blake Schubert is doing a good job for the Transcript.

In intramurals, the chapter has fielded winning teams in football and volleyball, winning contests in both leagues in a thrilling fashion. Quarterback Bob Olson guided the gridders to an opening victory over the Chi Phis, while Dick Blanks strongarmed spikes down the throat of the opposition to help the volleyball team's efforts.

Delts continue to hold a majority of men in Omicron Delta Kappa, national men's achievement honorary, contributing three of the eight men who have been selected to join the honorary.

Socially, the chapter has by no means been standing idle. Many sorority parties have been planned for the near future. The annual "Ozark Party" is scheduled for the 24th of October. It is a party where all the girls have a contest to see who wears the shortest skirt, while the men grow beards for a period of one week. During the frequent date nights, we have been renting popular movie hits and showing them at the Shelter. This type of program has brought a favorable response from the girls, and thus will continue.

A major field of interest at present is the assembling of our homecoming display. Winners of the first-place homecoming display trophy for the last four years, the chapter is going all out in attempting to garner its fifth straight trophy.

Thus, returning from all parts of America, from the dog races of Denver, Colorado, and the playgrounds of Canton, Ohio, the chapter again unites in an effort to maintain and advance its prominent position on the Ohio Wesleyan campus.

Oklahoma

Oklahoma University Delts began their 1959-60 year with one of the most successful rush weeks in recent years. We have 34 pledges, some of the most outstanding young men to come out of their hometowns from the east coast, Briarcliffe, New York, to the west coast, Glendale, California.

Proceeding forward after rush week, two Delts, Brothers Robert Owen and Kent Miller, were named among the ten outstanding freshman men. No other fraternity had more in this group than the Delts. Robert Owen was presented the Savoie Lottinville award and scholarship as being selected the outstanding freshman man of the 1958-59 school year. This is the second consecutive year that Delts have placed the largest number of outstanding freshmen and also received the award for the outstanding freshman man, Brother Bernie Hulme having won it for 1957-58.

Campus personalities seem to overflow from the Delt Shelter at O.U., as we constantly have brother Delts as presidents of honor fraternities, officers of professional organizations, chairmen of campus committees, and workers in the ever-present activities. Delt President Buzz McDaniel is one of the ten outstanding senior men and treasurer of the Union activities governing board; Brother Ed Buchner is the director of the Sooner Scandals, campus variety extravaganza; Brother Jerry Tubb is parliamentarian of the interfraternity council. The men of Delta Alpha continue to contribute a great percentage of the personalities for campus activities, athletics, and scholarship.

The O.U. Delts were the only fraternity of the 26 on our campus to rate in the top three positions of the three major campus activities, and for 16 years have won first place in the all-University Mother's Day sing, the most widely desired trophy on the campus. Our barber-shop quartets have won every Dad's Day barber-shop quartet contest since the contest was started. The feverish ambition of every member and pledge for this year is not only to show, but to win each of these events and top our record of last year.

Here at Delta Alpha, we are extremely proud that our chapter has been chosen as the site of the 1960 Western Division Conference of Delta Tau Delta. The meeting will cover a two-day period on February 19 and 20. We are looking forward to meeting Delts from the western part of the country. Plans have been completed to insure that all attending will not only successfully complete fraternity business, but will also enjoy themselves to the greatest extent.

Last November 14, Delta Alpha held an alumni-active dance following the Oklahoma-Army football clash. We felt that this game, if any, would draw alums from various areas of the country. Thus the Civic Room of the Biltmore Hotel in Oklahoma City was the scene of excitement for many alums who had passed through our chapter. The dance was a resounding success.

Surely after such a running start into the first half of this school year this will truly be the O.U. Delts' "finest year."

This year Delta Chi had a very successful rush program. Parties were held at Yost Lake in Stillwater and at private homes. Most of the new pledges are from Oklahoma City and Tulsa.

Oklahoma State University sponsored a parents day for the fraternities and the independent dormitories. Delta Chi won the trophy for having the most parents here. Ninety-eight per cent of the parents arrived in time for lunch and the football game.

Homecoming was October 24 and the Delts went wild in building their homecoming decoration. The theme was "Autumn Shockers." The Delts came through with a real shocker.

Our fall formal was held November 21, and the Delts had a wonderful dinner-dance in the Student Union ballroom.

Oregon

First in grades among major fraternities according to spring term grades—this is the claim of the Oregon Delts. The Delts scored an impressive 2.734 chapter average to place fourth among men's living organizations.

Delts also continued to lead the way in the organization and planning of the 1959 homecoming activities. General Chairman Bob Richardson is being assisted by Pat Dooling, homecoming button chairman; Spike Brownell, frosh organizer for the bonfire; John Parker, chairman of the traditions committee; Tony Friendly, button and traditions committees; and Dick Tetley and Larry Johnson, utility men.

Two Delt pledges are now campaigning for frosh offices. Spike Brownell is running for the frosh class presidency and Tony Friendly is making a bid for frosh class representative. Tony was also in charge of the first all-freshman class projects for the year. He headed up the "painting of the O," an annual activity which consists of the painting of a large yellow "O" which stands overlooking the city of Eugene, home of the University.

Social functions during the first weeks of the term have consisted of a picnic with the Tri-Delts and a dessert, which included the sophomore classes of the Delt House and the Thetas. The Delts also took second place in the annual "Bunion Derby," a marathon dance for charity.

Activities are now being planned for Gamma Rho alumni who will be returning to the Oregon campus for the big homecoming week end, November 20-22.

Al Winter, president of the University of Oregon IFC, will attend a national IFC meeting in New York during the Thanksgiving vacation.

The Oregon Delts pledged 22 during fall term rush. The first project of the pledge class was the acquisition of a new house dog who has been dubbed "Herb."

LOUIS TURK

Oregon State

The Delta Lambda Delts got the school year off to a good start by pledging 19 of the outstanding men entering Oregon State. The new pledges include: Bill Beckwith, Glen Bell, Jay Brauning, Jerry Cale, Doug Coughenower, Mike Crowley, Bill Helming, Dave Hitchcock, Ed Howard, Steve Kummert, Bill Meyenberg, Gayle Mishler, Tony Mohr, Loren Olson, Mike O'Mara, Bob Paine, Keith Peck, Doug Thompson, and Billy Wold. The chapter congratulates Rush Chairman Ed Schroeder on a hard job well done.

Already many of the Delt pledges are establishing themselves as top men on campus. Bill Helming has been selected as one of the three finalists for freshman class president. Bill was an all-conference athlete in three sports in high school and is now doing a good job at end on the strong freshman football team. Pledge Tony Mohr is a member of the freshman crew team. Billy Wold, a junior transfer from Valley JC in Los Angeles, is making a strong bid for a starting guard position on the varsity basketball team. Wold averaged 23 points per game for two years at Valley and was named the league's "player of the year" for 1958-59. Doug Thompson, winner of a valuable scholarship, heads the list of the many outstanding students in the pledge class. Loren Olson was elected pledge class president. Other officers include: Doug Thompson, vice-president; Bob Paine, secretary; Glen Bell, manager; Jerry Cale, social chairman; and Steve Kummert, rush chairman.

In intramural sports, the Delt football team made a good showing in its first league game. Powered by a big and rugged middle line led by Ed Schroeder, John Turner, Ron Kalina, and Marty Butler, the team showed impressive speed with Marv Tyler and Jack Faia leading the way. John Kramer is favored to win the all-school singles golf championship. John was runner-up last fall to another Delt, Ron Pattee.

The Delts are starting another active year in campus activities. Kernie Dough-ton is a homecoming chairman and Tom Schooley is heading up student speech as forensic manager. Initiations of Larry Cushing, Stu Cato, Gale Schluter, Ron Kalina, and Ed Clough into various honorary societies now place a Delt in nearly every male honorary at Oregon State. Several Delts have been active in the advanced ROTC program, and John Joelson was selected as the superior infantry cadet at Fort Lewis summer camp. Nine other juniors and seniors are cadet officers. Once again we are proud to say that the men of Delta Lambda are well under way to a successful year.

PHIL SHULTZ

Pennsylvania

One of the biggest factors in undergraduate life here at Penn this fall has been the resurgence of our football team to a place of prominence in the East. Leading this brilliant comeback is Delt Barney Berlinger, who is not only captain of the football team but is also co-captain of the track team, vice-president of the senior class, and vice-president of Sphinx, senior honor society. Jack Hanlon, Bruce Cummings, Ed Smith, Connie De Santis, and Pete Schantz all see action every Saturday in one of Coach Steve Sebo's two alternating units. Backing up these regulars are Bunky McPherson, Bill Gray, Bob Eastwood, and Ed Dever.

In the beginning of December, Penn's Mask and Wig club will present its 72nd annual musical comedy. Nine Delts swell the ranks of the all male company in this tradition-steeped performance. Those participating are Bob Holt, Ted Irvine, Larry Turns, Dave Hagerson, Harry Bruder, Jim Guthrie, Pete Reed, Vince Colianni, and Mike Krug.

In spite of our frantic social schedule and the heavy burden of scholastic endeavors three of our men, Bunky McPherson, Will Derby, and Tim String, are presently members of the Kite and Key Society, an honorary service organization.

Because of such interest and enthusiasm in extracurricular activities a number of our men have received recognition by being chosen as members of the four campus honor societies. Sphinx, senior society, claims Barney Berlinger, Jack Hanlon, Dave Hagerson, and Dave Landry. Pete Ryan is a member of Friars, another senior society. Dave Gunderson presides over Hexagon, a senior society of which Bill Seagraves is also a member. The three juniors who made Phi Kappa Beta, junior society, are Larry Turns, Ed Smith, and Bruce Cummings.

With such a propitious start it is utterly inconceivable that the rest of the year can be anything but great.

ALBERT DOERING

Penn State

Tau Chapter began the new semester with a full house of 43 members. A major addition to this number is our new pledge class. The 12 new pledges are: Jim Abbey, Skip Berents, Harry Cann, Joe Chapman, Kent Ebert, Howie Farrer, Jim Geisel, Steve Muttart, Andy Sack, Julian Weiss, Earl Wolfe, and Howie Zendt. Another welcome addition to the chapter this year is Jenny Crandell, our new cook. Although we were sorry to see Edie leave after so many years, Jenny has more than lived up to our expectations.

The Shelter underwent a complete cleanup during orientation week. While Brother Bullock led the pledges through their cleanup paces, the other brothers applied a new coat of paint to the interior halls, stairways, and party rooms. Seeing this display of spirit the pledges, not wishing to be outdone, painted the commons, dining room, foyer, and card room.

The first big social event of the year was the biannual Triad with SAE and Beta Sigma Rho. On Friday night there was a party at BSP. After the V.M.I. game Saturday, we had a party and buffet dinner at SAE and a jam session at the Shelter that night. Saturday of the Army game, we had a "listen-to-the-game" party with the A Chi O's, and it turned out to be a day we'll remember for some time. Other socials are planned with the DG's and the Theta's this semester. A combined party with Phi Gam is planned for November, and the annual Delta-Kappa faculty reception for December.

Homecoming is the next big event on Tau's calendar, and it will give us a chance to greet many of our alums, both old and new. The alums will be guests at a party Friday night, will attend the Boston University game and reception Saturday afternoon, and a banquet and party Saturday night. Also that week end, our recently remodeled chapter room will be dedicated to Clyde "Sally" Mart-solf who has contributed so much time and service to Tau Chapter, and to whom we are deeply grateful.

At this time, there is little to report but plenty of optimism for Tau's intramural sports teams. The football team, sparked by Sam Bowman and "Junior" Lane, copped its opening game quite handily. There is sufficient depth and potential to go all the way. In varsity sports, Bud Kohlhaas continues to make himself heard at left guard for the Nittany Lions. Gene Raiford and Howie Farrer are playing first team on the soccer squad, along with Jim Geisel. Back this year for the lacrosse team are Dick Bullock, Skip Berents, and All-American Dave Erwin.

In October, Tau Chapter had initiation. In all, the new year is shaping up as one filled with many achievements, both socially and academically. It is a year in which we hope to greet Delts from chapters everywhere.

J. ROGER KENT

Pittsburgh

From the outset, the first quarter at Gamma Sigma has been a busy and rewarding one for the Delts. With the cooperation of Delta Beta Chapter at Carnegie Tech, we initiated nine members into the active chapter. Under the supervision of Rush Chairman Bill Heron, we fared very well in the fall rush. Fourteen pledges of excellent quality are currently undergoing pledge training. In school politics, the Delts placed several men in responsible key positions. Brother Paul Herwick was elected secretary of the interfraternity council, Brother Henry Richardson is the vice-president of the liberal arts cabinet, and Jim Groninger was elected to the junior liberal arts cabinet. Brother Groninger has been selected junior delegate to the National Interfraternity Council in New York to be held over Thanksgiving.

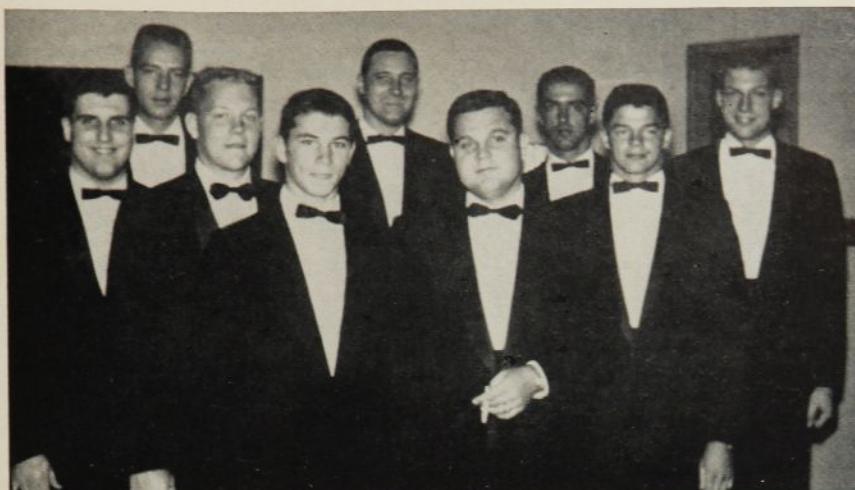

Under Brother Bill Peckman, our float chairman, we are currently engaged in making a float for participation in the most enthusiastic and ambitious homecoming celebration in years. Our candidate for homecoming queen, Nancy Noethling, Kappa Kappa Gamma, is in the queen's court. We are looking forward to welcoming back the Gamma Sigma alumni.

Socially, the Delts had many affairs this year. The high lights have been post-football parties, tea dances with Kappa Alpha Theta and Zeta Tau Alpha sororities.

In athletics the Delts have gotten off to an auspicious start. In varsity football, Sophomores Ray Tarasi and Woody Haser have both seen considerable action as Pitt heads into the second half of the season with an even record. In swimming, Brother Barry Kent, who lettered as a sophomore, along with Pledges Jon Shirer, Bob Hughes, and Joe Cardamone, have started practicing for competition. Pledge Dave O'Loughlin is on the freshman squash team and Pledge Bill Clark on the gymnastics team. Led by Fred Ikeler and Jim Donahue, the Delts intramural football team took second place losing only the final game of the play-offs. Our undefeated soccer team is in the quarter finals. With this start, we are in contention for the all-sports trophy.

With our over-all excellent participation and representation upon all phases of campus affairs thus far, we at Gamma Sigma look forward to a banner year.

Beta Theta proudly announces the names of the 21 pledges resulting from this year's successful rush. They include: Brian W. Badenock, Thomas A. Byrne, Rufus H. Craig, David D. Cheatam, T. Jeffrey Delp, Richard T. Earle, W. Robert Hudgins, Richard O. Linsert, Ralph F. Penland, Jr., William W. Pheil, Alan E. Potter, Michael J. Sefton, Bruce A. Smith, John H. Stewart, Richard M. Trask, James E. Walker, Richard D. Warren, Thomas Wilheit, Jr., Thomas S. Sadler, Wilson M. Sadler, and Scott W. Martin. The officers of the pledge class are Brian Badenock, president; Tom Byrne, vice-president; Jeff Delp, secretary; and Bill Pheil, treasurer. Serving as pledge master is Park Ticer.

This year's chapter officers include: William R. Bullock, president; Sam S. Swann, vice-president; Charles A. Powell, treasurer; Allen C. Satterfield, recording secretary; Darwin D. Terry, corresponding secretary; and Geoffrey S. Sewall, sergeant at arms.

Homecoming saw the Delts beginning this year's celebrations in fine style. A RAINBOW banquet was given on Friday night, October 16, in honor of local alumni. Those honored included: The Rt. Rev. Frank A. Juhan, retired Bishop of Florida and chapter adviser; The Rev. George B. Myers, former chapter adviser; Mr. William W. Lewis, former chapter adviser and treasurer of the Beta Theta house corporation; Mr. Eric Cheape, prominent resident and devoted alumnus; and Mr. John Hodges, president of the Beta Theta house corporation. About 80 Delts and their dates, as well as invited guests, enjoyed the banquet. Following dinner, a fine band provided music for a RAINBOW ball at the Shelter. A large crowd attended this event. The next day, after the big homecoming game, a terrific party was given by the chapter. Our president, William R. Bullock and his date, and our official chapter chaperone, Mr. Thaddeus C. Lochard, were hosts at this very successful party. Informal dancing was offered at the Shelter later that evening following the University Ball, at which Lester Lanin's famous band had been featured. According to a Sewanee tradition, tomato juice was served at the Shelter to Delts and their guests following the Sunday Church services. Beta Theta was particularly honored by the selection of its Rainbow queen, Miss Jean Rainer, as first runner-up to our Sewanee homecoming queen. This party week end was, by unanimous consent, one of the most successful enjoyed recently by Beta Theta.

On October 30, the Delts were hosts at the Shelter for an informal coffee honoring The Rt. Rev. James Wilson Hunter, Sr., Episcopal bishop of the Diocese of Wyoming, and father of a sophomore member of the chapter, James W. Hunter, Jr.

Beta Theta, as evidenced by its first successful and active month, is planning a busy year. The large pledge class has made Beta Theta one of the largest fraternity chapters on the campus with a total of 54. We finished last year as third in fraternity scholarship ratings for the University, and expect to equal or better that rating this year. We already have fine intramural football and swimming teams getting in shape, and expect fine records to be made by them. Plans are already being made for bigger and better entertainments for Delts and their dates and guests at the two remaining big party week ends of the year. Delta Tau Delta at Sewanee expects the school year of 1959-60 to be one of unusual growth and prosperity for the chapter.

A successful summer and fall rush resulted in the pledging of 28 top-rate men for Delta Gamma. This tremendous effort was led by Rush Chairman Lonnie Vanderlinden, who co-ordinated the summer rush and led the chapter in the fall campaign.

With the many activities of fall keeping the chapter busy, Delta Gamma continues to pace the rest of the University of South Dakota campus. In intramural sports we are currently pushing for the top spot in bowling and are in second place in intramural football.

Dakota Day, University of South Dakota homecoming, held November seventh, was directed this year by Dave Reeder, ably assisted by Brother Dan German. Due to inclement weather, the parade and house decorations were canceled, eliminating fraternity competition in these, although we are sure our float and decorations would have been a sure thing for top honors.

South Dakota's pledges and housemother.

Recently pledged to Dakotans, senior men's honorary, were Lonnie Vanderlinden and Dave Reeder, with Stroller, men's vaudeville organization, pledging Brothers Milt Schwartz and Buzz Posz.

Freshman football saw two of Delta Gamma's pledges, Bill Mueller and Dave Turner, lead the Coyote Pups to a fine season. John Ehret, Tom Holloway, Jim Hale, and Dick Tenney are expected to be standouts on the freshman basketball team.

Friday the 13th of November has been set as our annual fall house party. The theme will be a Friday the 13th "hard-luck party." We are expecting a large turnout of alums to be present for this annual event.

We know that the tremendous start that Delta Gamma has had this fall will carry on through the year and make this one of the best we've had in some time in all parts of campus life.

DAVE REEDER

Stanford

As another term gets under way, Beta Rho looks forward to a very active and successful year. Scholastically, we have raised ourselves to a highly respected position on the fraternity academic rating, placing one brother on the dean's list, while maintaining another on the Stuttgart campus.

Social Chairman Steve Reynard has scheduled a few social events to balance our academic endeavor. After the last home football game against Washington, we held a very successful party in Burlingame, dancing to the music of Sylvester Grisby and his philharmonic orchestra. This event drew comment from all segments of campus life—all favorable, of course. On homecoming week end, we have another gathering planned; and then on "Big Game" week end, Beta Rho, particularly those brothers on the football squad, eagerly awaits the annual "Big Game" overnight in Santa Cruz.

As always, the Stanford Delts are well represented athletically; our championship intramural football team is off to another successful season and is heavily favored to retain the crown.

On the varsity football team, we are represented by 11 brothers. Leading the field is All-American end and team captain, Chris Burford. Other members are Gil Dowd, halfback; Sid Garber and Archie Schmitt, fullbacks; Rod Sears and Joe McAnerney, quarterbacks; Trev Grimm and Norm LaCaze, tackles; and Guards Tom Walsh, Gary Pike, and John Butler. Walsh and Pike have been the backbone of the Indian line, while Sears, Dowd, and Garber have provided the punch that accounts for Stanford's record this year.

Walsh, only a sophomore, looks deserving of national honors, and Sears, also only a sophomore in eligibility, was unanimously voted the coveted D-Bag award for his performance in the Stanford-USC game.

Looking ahead to basketball where the Delts field ten hoopsters, the first string, at present, consists of five Delts: John Arrillaga, John Hendry, John Winsor, John Fontius, and Bub Bowling. In the annual Bay Area performance decathlon, JoJo easily outdistanced his nearest competitor, "Little Oscar," in the perennial battle for supremacy.

In keeping with our excellent past relationship with the administration, with thanks mainly going to Trev Grimm and chapter president, Sid Garber, Beta Rho plans its second annual faculty barbecue later in the quarter; and at the close of the quarter, we will have our Christmas party for orphans.

Thus, with the foundation well laid, the Stanford Delts anticipate the events of 1959-60.

BUSTER BROWN

Stevens

With five weeks gone in the fall term, the Rho Delts have gotten into full swing athletically, socially, and activity-wise.

On the soccer field, Bob Koudelka is one of the mainstays of the Stute defense and a big factor in our undefeated status. The basketball court is dominated by Captain Joe Kaminsky, Frank Okenka, and Bruce Boylan. Joe and Frank are two of the starting five while Boylan figures to be a key player this year and in years to come.

Our seniors, upon returning from their annual tour of industry in the East, were treated to a party thrown by the pledges, who surprised all by their industriousness. The living room was gaily painted a deep, dark pink, the front door supplied with a shiny new brass door latch, and a house full of welcome women. Incidentally, there are eight Rho Delts who would like to extend their heartiest thanks to the Delta Beta Delts at Carnegie Tech who so warmly and hospitably took them out of the cold.

The house is looking forward to the annual Halloween party with great anticipation. Also on the calendar is the second annual Rho Ball at which Delts and their dates, parents, and alumni have a chance to get out and have a good time together socially.

All in all it looks like another great year both socially and athletically for the Stevens Delt House.

R. SINATRA

Syracuse

Fall has arrived. Needless to say, the most important Delt activity during this period is rushing. Under the leadership of Rushing Chairman John Tiffany, our program is functioning smoothly. Many fine pledge prospects have been through the house and it is our hope that many of these boys will become Delts. Both brothers and alumni have been working hand in hand to make this the most successful rush in the history of Gamma Omicron.

Fall also means the beginning of the intramural program. Thus far the swimming team, led by Lyn Usher and Mike Flynn, has advanced through the first two rounds. Although the football team has yet to play its first game, the chapter is very optimistic. We are following the precedent of L.S.U., and our own Orangemen, by employing an offensive and defensive unit. Our version of the Chinese bandits consists of three 200 pounders, Mike Flynn, Jim Gregory, and Dave Quickenton. The offensive unit will feature two of the fastest halfbacks in the league, Doug Merritt and Eddie Siedlick. In addition to speed, Quarterback Mike Radz has two glue fingered ends in John Tiffany and Lynn Usher. The Delts also have strong teams competing in bowling and rifle. Most of the credit for organizing the teams and instilling spirit in the chapter must go to our intramural chairman, Bob Fenske.

According to Ed Siedlick, our Colgate week end is going to be the social event of the year. Ed has secured the Four Escorts, a nationally recognized group from New York City, to play at our party. Letters have literally been pouring in from alumni who want to inform us that they will be here for Colgate week end if they have to walk.

Of course fall means the renewal of studies. The Delts were ranked 11th in scholarship last semester. Mike Radz made the Dean's list with a 2.1 average. Scholarship Chairman Tom Cosgrove has formulated several programs which he believes will raise our scholarship level even higher.

MIKE RADZ

Tennessee

Thus far the fall quarter for Delta Delta has been an extremely active one. Although official rush week is now over, Delta Delta is continuing to rush those men who did not pledge a fraternity during that time. At the present we have added Charlie Hoskins, Bob Boyd, and Jim Wilson to a pledge class that already consisted of Fenn Quigley, Victor McLaughlin, Bill Helton, John Hudson, Jon Locke, Bill Grasfeder, Charlie Chambers, and Richard Jones. We have also contacted several other men whom we hope to pledge within the next week or so.

Despite the fact that rush has received the greatest emphasis from us and will continue to do so, we are not neglecting our other activities. Our newly elected officers are Chris Clements, corresponding secretary; Boyce Simpson, recording secretary; Harry Tunison, assistant treasurer; and Bill Ortwein, sergeant at arms. They and the other officers, Jerre Haskew, president; Joe Kerigan, vice-president; and Fred Gentry, treasurer, are leading the Fraternity in what looks like one of its best years in quite a while.

Social activities, too, have had a part in our fraternity life this year as we have had several parties and a hayride. The hayride was held after the Tennessee-Georgia Tech football game and we were accompanied by several Delts of the Gamma Psi Chapter.

Delta Delta has been successful in its intramural competitions this year. The tennis team is having a winning season, and the bowling team, which consists of Jerre Haskew, Bill Spielmann, Fenn Quigley, Victor McLaughlin, and Charlie Hoskins, began the season by literally trouncing their opponents. The shuffleboard team has also done quite well for itself as it is in the finals of the competition and is expected to win.

Plans for the immediate future consist of continued rush, a Halloween party, and the completion of our homecoming display which stands a relatively good chance of winning the competition. Further plans include a pajama party and a Christmas party this quarter.

After an active summer rush, Gamma Iota pledged the 34 top boys coming through fall rush. They are: Bill Aaron, Fred Aebi, Phil Bartos, Earl Beaty, Phil Benson, Norman Boyd, Earl Boyanton, Jim Bradley, Bob Clinger, Charles Cromwell, John Curry, John Dietz, Paul Fields, Doug Fullilove, Bill Glass, Lynn

JOHN JENKINS, KEITH HANSEN, and dates at Gamma Iota's Jungle Party.

The Delts ended last year in fine style, placing fifth in intramurals and third in scholarship out of 31 fraternities on campus. The chapter maintained nearly a "B" average over-all. Ronnie Blak went from one Dean's list to another and was initiated into Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary scholastic fraternity, giving the Delts more members than any other fraternity.

The Delts also have more members than any other fraternity on the two honorary BMOO organizations, the Cowboys and the Silver Spurs. Recent initiates: Art Adams to the Cowboys and Bob May to the Silver Spurs. Jerry Herring is new head cheerleader, supplanting another Delt, Jay Lewallen. Leon Graham is an editor of the school newspaper and well on his way to the top position.

In sports here, Quarterback Mike Cotton has led the Texas Longhorns to the No. 3 place in the nation this fall and an almost sure cinch for the Cotton Bowl this coming New Year's Day. On the freshman football team are Delt Pledges George Lewis, Doug Fullilove, and Tommy York. Both teams are undefeated.

Last year the Delts won the all-University swimming championship. This year's team looks just as good, especially with diving champion, Paul Fields.

On University teams this year are Doug Duwe, Sam Sparks, swimming; Bill Mimms, basketball; Neil Unterseher, Mac White, tennis; Butch Crain, Art Adams, Sam Rossen, baseball; and Lynn Gray, Bob Clinger, track. Several pledges have athletic scholarships and we expect much from them in the future.

The Delts started off the year with a big bang here at T.C.U. We are looking forward to our biggest year here on campus. Out of the 20 boys we were allowed for rush, we got 17. We are really proud of them. Open rush has just started and we have already filled our quota. We now have a pledge class of 30 men. As of October 25, the actives have two new members, Ron Jones and Dwight Hudson.

Our annual Bowery Ball was a great success again this year. It was held out at the lake at the Eagles Nest. Everyone dressed in the costumes of the gay '20's.

The fifth annual Delt basketball tournament is being held December 10, 11, and 12. Teams from such colleges as S.M.U., North Texas, Texas Tech, Texas, Kansas, and Kansas State have all been invited, plus all the fraternities here at T.C.U. will be there. We are looking forward to seeing all the other Delts when they arrive. Trophies will be given to the first-, second-, and third-place winners. Some real competition is expected.

From the way the season is shaping up so far it looks like another championship for the Delts. We have an undefeated season. So far we have played five ball games and we have allowed only two points.

Delta Tau Delta is planning its third annual Christmas Party for the orphan children. We have this party each year with a sorority on campus and we always have a better time than the kids.

PHILLIP WALKER

Texas Tech

The fall semester at Texas Tech got off to a good start with the annual hayride and weiner roast at MacKenzie Park. A ride was taken through the outskirts of Lubbock.

The big event of the semester, however, was the second annual "Playboy" formal, sponsored by Playboy Magazine held on October ninth. We selected Miss Mariam Blake as our "Miss Playmate" for this school year. She is the sister of MARIAM BLAKE, selected "Miss Playmate" by Epsilon Delta.

Brother Ron Blake of Gamma Iota Chapter at Texas U.

Our intramural football program was carried off in fine style by Coach Ken Bass. At press time we had taken three victories and fallen only once. Basketball has also gotten under way and a fine season is expected.

We engaged in several mixers during the semester. Our first one was with Sigma Kappa, then Zeta Tau Alpha, and then Kappa Kappa Gamma. Our social chairman, Don Davis, says that several more are in the planning stage for the spring semester. Socialwise we held a buffet style luncheon for our parents and dates. Everyone enjoyed the food and entertainment before the big homecoming football game on November 14. A Christmas dance was held on December 11 for pledges, dates, and rushees.

An impressive rush was held by the Delts this fall on the Tech campus, but the total results cannot be learned until spring. (Texas Tech is on the delayed rush system.) At our big smoker, Delt R. C. Goodwin, President of Texas Tech, gave a very impressive and enlightening talk about the national fraternity and what it offers college men both in and out of college.

Although we are presently without a lodge, Delta Tau Delta continues to grow both socially and scholastically here at Texas Tech. After the spring rush program is completed, Epsilon Delta Chapter will have made itself known and felt on campus.

SLED RATLIFF

Toronto

After spending their summers working in various parts of Ontario, all the actives were happy to get back to the Shelter and see the rest of the fellows again. The football season started the first week of school and although Toronto was defeated for the first time in three seasons, we were consoled by the fact that our parties were all successful. October 31 is homecoming, and because fraternities cannot enter the float parade we plan to erect a display in front of the Shelter. All the actives and the pledges will be working frantically Friday night to get it built in time for the parade Saturday morning. Following Saturday's post-game party there will be a general cleanup in preparation for the Mother and Wives Tea.

Congratulations are due Brothers Bob Roden, Al Jacobs, and Bob Ross, who again stood first in their options in engineering physics. Brother Roden also won the California Standard Company geophysical and geological scholarship. Brother Bruce Faulkner was recently elected social director of the undergraduate pharmaceutical society.

Brother Jerry Longhurst has brought honor to the Delts by winning the junior golf championship in the faculty of dentistry, with a 74. Trent Brooks, a new pledge, is a 230-pound corner linebacker for the Baby Blues this year and is a sure-fire prospect for the varsity squad next year. Again this year, Toronto's championship rigger team is led by Brother Paul Chapman, who plays the vital position of "hooker."

As in other years we are eager to have fellows from other chapters come for a visit. If we were told about three days in advance we would be able to arrange for dates and accommodations. We hope that some of our brothers to the south will brave the bitter northern snow and sample some northern hospitality at the Delta Theta Shelter.

Tufts

Beta Mu achieved distinction last semester in the all-college elections when five Delts were elected to Tower Cross, senior society honoring the ten outstanding seniors. Those elected were Student Council President Tom O'Brien, Bob Wilson, IFC President Gene Mayer, Frank DeLeone, and John Hervey, who heads both the yearbook and the college radio station. At the same time, Eric Thorgerson was elected marshal of the senior class; Frank DeLeone, vice-president, and Bob Wilson, president. The Delt's 28-man pledge class was likewise honored with Charlie Hallahan, Lew Watt, Bruce Anderson, Larry Clinton, Bill Meserve, and Dick Quinn being elected to Sword and Shield, sophomore honor society. In the election, Bill Meserve became president of the sophomore class and Dick Quinn, marshal. During the summer the faculty elected Sophomores Bill Meserve and Van Foster to the society of scholars.

Turning to the fall we find Ray Zaleski playing guard and Frank DeLeone quarterbacking another strong Tufts football team, while on the sidelines Robin Oscar and Pete Eagles strengthen the cheer-leading squad. In soccer, Jack Duncan captains the team.

The Trophy of Trophies is the object of Delt energies this year and we have already done well in the golf and football competition with wrestling looking promising.

While social life is not considered as part of the Trophy of Trophies, the Delts cannot be said to have overlooked this facet of collegiate life in their zealous haste for the Trophy. The party following the first football game previewed a fine year including the coming Christmas formal and spring week end at Wentworth-by-the-Sea.

Clemmy is back in her 23rd year of keeping the Delt house spic and span, and of utmost importance to the ever-spreading well-being of the Delt house, Arthur is back in his 20th year of chaf-hood.

Rushing activities involved the time of Beta Xi Delts during the two weeks prior to the opening of school. The high points of rush week were the Playboy party, the annual alumni banquet at the New Orleans Country Club, and the Beta Xyclone party. As a result of rush week, Beta Xi has an outstanding pledge class, every man of which is really tops and is sure to go far on Tulane's campus. A pat on the back is in order for Rush Chairman Mickey Michel. We also thank Auburn's Frank Price for his help during rush week, and we look forward to his being with us again soon. Although rush week is over, rushing efforts have not fallen off; the pledge class is expected to grow between now and the end of this semester.

Tulane chapter's outstanding pledge class.

We are pleased over the Shelter's recent improvements, including the addition of a fence around our patio and the remodeling of two upstairs rooms. The new pledge class has also begun work on its pledge project, which is to replace the broken sidewalk beside the Shelter with a new walk.

Everyone is pleased that our house-mother, Mrs. Compton, is again with us. We appreciate the interest she always shows, especially during rush week.

With the opening of school everyone has settled back into the regular routine, including studies, extracurricular activities, and parties. Pledge Billy Joe McMillon has assumed duties as assistant sports editor of the Hullabaloo, the campus newspaper. Mickey Michel is in charge of the Powder Puff football game among the sorority members at Newcomb College. Al Derbes has been elected vice-president of the sophomore class of the school of engineering, and Charles North has been elected president of the sophomore class of the school of architecture.

Football games, both interfraternity and college, have again assumed an important place with the return of cool weather. Bob Padron is captain of the Beta Xi team, whose games with other fraternities are providing enjoyable afternoons for the Delts and their dates. The pledge-active football game will occur soon with both sides sure to win! Parties after the University football games are fun for all, especially with the music of the Deltones, the Fraternity band; everyone is behind the Deltones as they compete soon in the University talent night.

Recent parties includes an open house for the Chi Omega Sorority and the homecoming parties. Fun and spirit were gained at the expense of sleep as everyone worked on the homecoming decorations. It was a pleasure again to have our alumni with us at the open house before the homecoming game with Georgia Tech.

Everyone is looking forward to the annual Thanksgiving banquet and an open house soon to be given for Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority. Beta Xi Delts look forward to a year successful in all other phases of Fraternity life.

CHARLES NORTH

U.S.C.

As a result of careful planning of our fall '59 rush program, Chairman Mike Gingrich and his committee have started the new year off with a bang. Nineteen top men make up one of the finest pledge classes in Delta Pi history. Led by Pledge President Bill Clark, "DePatie's Raiders" have already launched their social program with a P.B. party.

Making up this year's administration are: president, Darrell Carter; vice-president, Pete McGeagh; treasurer, Mike Gingrich; secretary, John Karns; pledge masters, Steve DePatie and Jim Krueger; scholarship chairman, Jim Robinson; and social chairman, Tom Mackel.

Socially, Tom Mackel has planned quite an extensive calendar. Having just completed our annual Delt Round-up, we are now looking forward to our exchange parties with the DG's, Thetas, Kappas, and Tri-Delts. Our formal, which once again will be held in Las Vegas, will be the high light of the fall semester.

Captain John Werhas, Jim White, and Bill Bloom will make up 60 per cent of our varsity basketball team, which is expected to do well in the newly formed AAUW conference. John Werhas was elected to 1959 all-Pacific Coast Conference team, and Southern Cal "Player of the Year." Last summer, Lance Larson, holder of the 100-meter butterfly world record, represented the United States in the invitational swimming meet held in Japan. All-American Fred Tisue and Dick Bynny are key men on the University water polo team. John Graye and Dick Bynny won fourth- and fifth-place honors, respectively, in the California board surfing championships held at Huntington Beach.

On campus, Bart Porter, Jim Clifton, and Tom Hoeptner represent Delta Tau Delta as Trojan Knights. Dave Gaon is a member of Trojan Squires. Both of these organizations are all-University honorary service fraternities. Bart Porter is this year's chairman of Songfest—an all-University singing extravaganza held each year during the spring at the famed Hollywood Bowl. Steve DePatie holds down the position of publicity chairman for this year's student senate. Our president, Darrell Carter, is a company commander in the NROTC unit at U.S.C. and Tom Anderson holds the position of platoon guide.

The brothers at Delta Pi wish to extend their best regards to each of their fellow chapters across the nation and hope they all have a successful year.

JIM KRUEGER

Wabash

As rush week came to a close before classes began, Beta Psi closed out its pledge class of 20 new men. This promises to be one of the most versatile classes to enter the Shelter in some time. Talents range from combination top scholar and athlete, to top scholars, to talented athletes. The year should be one of achievement and prosperity for Beta Psi, and every member, active and pledge alike, will be doing his best to realize this goal.

As the varsity football season opened, Jack McHenry once more was filling the position into which he moved last year as a freshman, that of halfback. At the present time, however, Jack has been moved to the quarterback slot due to the injury of the starting quarterback.

Great things are expected of Jack and he already has started producing for the Big Red. Dan Remley, senior, found himself once again at the extremities of the line and has been alternating in the first and second unit of Coach Garland Frazier's pseudo two-platoon attack. Dan, unfortunately, broke his playing season off in the middle by seriously injuring his hand. Ralph Carlson, junior has been plagued by injury to his ankle. Ralph had shown promise of being right up there on the roster, but his injury has prevented his seeing more than limited action.

Wayne Cobb, junior, has come through this fall for Coach Owen Huntsman in the cross-country department. Wayne, always a steady performer, has suddenly come into his own in several races and nailed down those all-important points. Of course, Wayne will be back again next year in the group which will be expected to carry on the great tradition of Wabash in the long-distance sport.

In intramurals, the Delts once again showed the same spirit which has typified Delt teams of the past, but, for lack of size, games have been lost by narrow margins. Many of the brothers show great promise of things to come and perhaps this year can be regarded as a building year. Practice will soon begin for volleyball, another of the major sports of the intramural program. A good showing in this sport in a first or second place would place us right back in contention for the coveted trophy, which we lost last year after two consecutive years of possession. Another sport needs to be mentioned, and this time we can give only praise to those men who have made our showing what it has been. I speak of IM cross-country, in which the Delts now hold undisputed first place. In one meet, for example, Delts finished in second, third, ninth, and 22nd positions for an overwhelming victory.

Pledges Mike Locey and Al Stanford are members of the cheerleading squad, along with Brother Brent Sutton.

At the first annual homecoming queen contest, the Delts did not capture first place, but Brother Terry Anderson made a very lovely candidate for the crown. Obviously, the contest was a "jag" and the honor of winning was a dubious one.

In my next report, I hope to be able to tell of some definite steps being taken to get the project of raising money for the new addition to the Shelter on the road, where actual progress can be measured in amounts instead of plans. This addition will greatly add to the physical accommodations of the Shelter and provide for the needs of an ever-expanding chapter of the ever-expanding Fraternity on an ever-expanding campus.

The Delts of Gamma Mu started off the '59-'60 school year with a fine pledge class of 34 top men. Rush Chairman Dave Kinley and the rest of the members are to be congratulated for a successful rushing season. As fall quarter is packed with events, we all settled down to work in what looks like a very successful season.

Homecoming this year was the best ever. With perfect weather and good Rose Bowl prospects, many alums turned out. Although we didn't win the homecoming sign contest, we are indebted to Jim Harrington who put in a lot of time on it.

Socially, we of Gamma Mu have been very busy. Our annual pledge dance, which was held on Halloween, was one of the best we have ever had. Everyone had a good time; especially some of the "big brothers" who got into the act. This year's barn dance is expected to be a very enjoyable occasion. Also, we've had decorated exchanges with the Tri Delts, Pi Beta Phi, Sigma Kappas and Alpha Chi Omegas, which were very successful. Jack Bontemps, our song-leader, took advantage of the many pinning serenades and put us to work on some new "spicy" songs for our fall serenade. It was a big success and the sororities were very impressed with our singing.

Anybody who bought a homecoming booster button this year should think of Wally Tweden. Wally was in charge of buttons sales and did the best job of selling in many years. Others prominent in activities are Bill Morses, concerts sub chairman; Dick Saunders, scholastic banquet chairman; John Rohrbeck, JIFC vice-president; Jim Flint, Scabbard and Blade president; and Jim Moore, IFC office manager.

Along the intramural scene many things are happening. We hope to capture the football championship that we just missed last year. With practically the same team returning and Carl Olsen leading them, we feel our chances are very good. Our gymnastics team, which last year suffered its first defeat in four years, is a strong favorite again this year. George Nassopolis, our transfer student from Greece, is leading up this sport. Also, our four volleyball teams have started with a good record, and it looks like one of them could make it all the way.

With finals to look forward to, along with many other events, the Deltas are going to be a busy group, and if things continue as they are this will be a very good year for Gamma Mu.

W. & J.

Gamma's 99th year of continuous existence was launched when the brothers returned to the Shelter for the fall semester. The initiation of nine new brothers followed help week, September 14-18. Help week saw many improvements to the Shelter—complete redecoration of all rooms, new rugs on the first floor, some new furniture, and several new beds. The fall semester also saw the pledging of six new men. They are John Allardice, Justin Brown, John Foster, Guy Shane, Donald Temple, and Edwin Thomas.

Representing Gamma Deltas on the Prexie gridiron are Clarence Cruny, end; Frank Sopyla, end; Richard Jones, center; and Watson McGaughey, guard.

Assuming leadership on the W. & J. campus are the following Deltas: Alan Allen was elected president of the Council on Fraternity Relations. Al is Gamma Chapter's president, and we are quite proud of his position. Kenneth Ross is serving as the president of the Spanish honorary, Sigma Delta Pi. Howard Martin is the secretary of Pi Delta Epsilon, math honorary. Cadet Lt. Col. James Karaman and Cadet Major Kenneth Ross returned from ROTC summer camp with distinguished military student awards and positions on the W. & J. battleground staff.

Gamma received an Eastern Division Scholastic Achievement award for being above the All Men's Average on its campus. During the school year, 1958-1959, we ranked fifth among the ten social groups on campus.

Homecoming, '59, saw the return of many old grads to the Gamma Shelter. Although the rain dampened our spirits and our decorations, the week end was still a success. Our homecoming queen candidate was Miss Sandra Prager.

The beginning of the 1959-60 year is looked on by the brothers as a time which will see many advancements, both in themselves and in Gamma Chapter.

Phi Chapter proudly introduces to the rest of the Delt chapters around the nation its pledge class of 19 top-notch boys:

Bob Payne, Charlie Gummey, John Griffis, and Wig Wiggins have gotten right into the swing of University life by starring on the General's freshmen football team. Payne was chosen captain of the squad, while Gummey has been carrying most of the team's offensive load at the right halfback spot. Another football-playing pledge, Mickey Walker, showed his stuff enough to make the varsity line-up at the left guard position.

Phi's pledges get "pep talk" from Pledge-master WHEELER.

Turning to soccer, two of the pledges are on the team—Chuck Begg and Bob Paggano. Bob is playing first-string varsity, alongside Delt Senior Bob Lathrop, who's an All-American soccer candidate this year.

The W. & L. wrestling team has its share of Delt pledges with Tom Andrew, Rick Uhlig, and Dave Montgomery. Andrew is also a cheerleader and member of the Glee Club, while Montgomery writes sports articles for the Ring-Tum Phi, the campus semiweekly newspaper.

Our new pledges are: Tom Andrew,

Kim Bartlett, Chuck Beeg, John Griffis, Dave Grogan, Charles Gummey, Bob Kowalski, Stephen Leech (pledge class president), John McCune, Dennis McKay, Bill Jordan, Nick Monssaratt, Dave Montgomery, Bob Payne, Glen Thornhill, Rick Uhlig, Mickey Walker, Greg Wiggins, and Bob Paggano.

We are all proud of these boys and expect great things from each and every one of them.

JOHN C. TOWLER

Wesleyan

Four days of clean-up work on the Shelter, and seven days of rushing paid off as the Gamma Zeta Deltas pledged 13 exceptional freshmen.

Representing all sections of the country, there are four pledges from New York, three from California, two from New Jersey, and one each from Texas, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and the District of Columbia.

Dean Schooler, pledge class prexy, was vice-president of the Ohio-Hi-Y and received the outstanding senior award in high school. Here he is playing football, and working on WESU, the campus radio station, and the Argus, the campus semiweekly.

Pledge class vice-president, Howie Black, adds his name to the many wrestlers in the Delt house. Howie was captain of his high school grapplers.

Freshmen senators, Bill Grossman and Bill Roberts, bring with them exceptional high school records.

Bill Grossman, a member of the National Honor Society, is playing football and plans to work on WESU and the yearbook, the Olla Pod, having edited his high school yearbook.

Also a member of the National Honor Society, Bill Roberts is playing soccer and will wrestle in addition to singing in the Glee Club and Choral Society.

Lew Whitney is on the freshman senate publicity committee and will either swim or wrestle this winter. His neighbors from California are Dave Linton, who is playing soccer and working on the Argus, and Bob Hanssen, who is interested in all forms of literary endeavor.

Frosh football managers, Alex Aikman and Harvey Bagg, also come to Wesleyan with fine records.

Alex is on the frosh senate finance committee and will spend a good deal of his time acting in the '92 Theater. In high school he was president of his class, vice-president of the student council, and played basketball and baseball.

John Harvey plans to swim and run, in addition to spending a good deal of his free time debating. He was in the National Honor Society, in addition to captaining his high school track team and debate society.

Fred Taylor is working on the Argus and will play tennis, while "Texas" John Reeder will add his name to the roll of the Wesleyan Fire Dept., in addition to writing for the yearbook and paper.

Last, but not least, among the frosh is Rick Armsby, who plans to be active in the Glee Club and Choral Society.

The chapter as a whole continues to retain its prominence, politically, on campus with its many committee positions and with Jan Hogendorn as college body secretary-treasurer.

Athletically, the chapter has among its ranks Soccer Player Brian Lloyd and Cross-Country Harrier Andy Schrader. Prominent in winter sports will be Wrestling Captain Al Williams and All-American Swimmer John Lutton.

Extracurricularly, George McKenzie and Bruce Butler are vying for key positions on the Argus, while Keith Willis and Jim Dossinger are sophomore staff reporters. Fred Scherrer is circulation manager for the paper, in addition to being secretary-treasurer of the Service Club.

Bill Haffner and Keith McBride are vice-president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the Atwater Club, the chemistry society. George Walker and Rich Thomason are in the Glee Club, Choral Society, and the Chapel Choir, while Al Williams has been honored by being chosen to sing for the college quartet, the Jibbers.

Scholastically, last year, the Shelter maintained an 82.3 average, placing 25 on the Dean's List—six with averages over 90. Jan Hogendorn received Phi Beta Kappa this fall, in its first election.

The social season started the second week end of the year when the freshmen were introduced to Mount Holyoke through a mixer arranged with a dorm there. There was a successful dance on Parent's week end, but the most enjoyable part of the fall season is yet to come with three consecutive week ends: pledge parties, alumni week end, and fall house parties. For the latter, Brother Bob Kirkpatrick, the college body social chairman, has arranged for the Kingston Trio to appear in the gym.

All in all, the year looks as if it will be quite successful for a spirited Gamma Zeta!

GEORGE MCKENZIE

Western Reserve

The men of Zeta Chapter returned to college and the upcoming rush period with eagerness and enthusiasm. Under the leadership of Rush Cochairmen Gary Deonise and Joe Macys this eagerness and enthusiasm resulted in the pledging of 33 men, the largest and finest pledge class on campus. Pledge class officers are Ed Hummel, president; Mike Broennle, vice-president; Jim Chatterton, secretary; Jan Eberhard, treasurer; and Bill Ostrander, sergeant at arms.

Individual distinctions, adding to the already impressive list of the chapter, have been received by six of the brothers. Al Robinson, student council president, has been elected president of Omicron Delta Kappa for this year, marking the second time in the past three years that a Delt has held this office. Joe Macys, yearbook coeditor, has been elected president of Phi Society, the underclass scholastic honorary at Reserve. Senior Paul Schupp and Junior Joe Strong were initiated into Phi Beta Kappa last June. Senior Hal Cubberley was initiated into Beta Gamma Sigma, business honorary, in June.

The chapter increased its scholarship from a 2.48 average in 1957-58 to a 2.73 for 1958-59. We feel confident that our potential in this field has not been entirely realized.

Glenn Caudill and Jim McQuilkin are playing first-string end and guard, respectively, on Reserve's varsity football team. Pledge Bob Swingle is quarterbacking the Reserve freshman team.

Intramural Chairman Jack Waslyn has the Delt machine rolling in high gear as we try to retain the all-sports trophy which we won last year. Both the "A" and "B" football teams are undefeated as of this writing and we are heading toward retaining our University badminton championship.

The social calendar has been filled with many parties including the Penthouse party, Chapeau party, and the Casino party. Social Cochairmen Dave Michel and Tom Richert are busy planning what may be the finest winter formal the chapter has ever had, a week end at a ski lodge in Pennsylvania.

Thus, the Delt at Reserve are maintaining their standards of excellence in all phases of endeavor, both individually and as a group.

REXFORD C. HYRE, JR.

West Virginia

The brothers at Gamma Delta are very much pleased with the 22 topflight pledges acquired this fall. Seven men were initiated into the chapter on October fifth of this year.

The Delt once again have literally "taken over" Spiriteers, W.V.U.'s card section. Doug Adams has been named to the co-ordinator post, and Dave Rowe and Tom Spelsberg are on his steering committee. Doug is also a pledge in Fi Batar Cappar, mock honorary. Last spring three brothers were taken into Helvetia, sophomore men's honorary, and were subsequently elected to offices. They are: Sam McConkey, president; Tom Spelberg, secretary; and John Lukens, treasurer. John Lukens was also decorated for being an outstanding military student in Army ROTC. Sophomore Sam McConkey served on the homecoming steering committee as parade marshal. Tom Spelsberg was recently appointed to the chairmanship of the culture committee, and he will be in charge of arranging for big-name artists to visit the campus in an attempt to stimulate an appreciation for the "finer things." John Lukens, recipient of the Sphinx scholarship award for having the third highest freshman men's average, was elected president of the sophomore class. President of this year's University chaplain council is Emil Johnson.

kicker for the Mountaineer football team this year. His field goals have provided the winning margin in two grid contests. He was named "player of the week" in the Southern Conference for his efforts. Towering Dave Duncan may see a lot of action with the varsity basketball squad this fall. The 6' 11" sophomore should provide Coach Fred Shaus with the big man he's been needing at pivot.

Junior Glen Hunt and Sophomore Tom Spelsberg have been instrumental in the success of W.V.U.'s cross-country team. The Meredith brothers, Bruce and Terry, are expected to be a real asset to the rifle team this winter. Bruce has been collecting marksmanship trophies fast and furiously during his college career, and he has also been named brigade commander of the ROTC unit. Tom Young is a returning letterman on the gymnastics team, and Joe Johnston, veteran wrestler, will be after the Southern Conference title this year.

An early initiation period sparked activities here at Beta Gamma as 15 neophytes went through a week of constructive work at the Shelter. Among other things, the paneling and furniture in both living rooms, the dining room, and the party room were refinished.

Thanks to an excellent job by Rush Chairman Jim Schoenwetter, the chapter has started the fall semester on the right foot by pledging 19 fine men. Jim is conducting a thorough informal rush and we're adding good men to our pledge class almost every week.

For his services in World War II, General Benson was awarded the Legion of Merit medal with Oak Leaf Cluster and the Bronze Star medal. His foreign awards include the French Croix de Guerre with Palm, the medal of Honor of the French Medical Service, the Honoris Causa Diploma and Observer's Wings of the Royal Yugoslav Air Force.

The General's son, Capt. Otis O. Benson, III, USAF, is also a Delta Tau Delta member, Miami, '49. He is assigned to the San Bernadino Air Materiel Area, Norton AFB, California.

FULLBACKS

Penn's John Hanlon was named to the preseason Scholastic All-American as fullback. He does an outstanding job on the gridiron, too. Stanford's Sid Garber, switched from the quarterback slot this year, has done an outstanding job for Stanford's Indians. The other fine fullbacks on the squad are Archie Schmitt, Stanford; Pete Beckwith, Hillsdale; Keith Evans, DePauw; and Jim Rosenstiel, Kenyon.

This year we also have a placekick specialist on the squad. He is West Virginia's John Thackston.

By the time this goes to press many alums will have enjoyed the Delt dinner-dance and social on November 14, 1959, at the Sorrento Hotel. This affair is under the capable direction of Jim Nelson, Rick Keller, and Jack Schwabland. If you missed this one, perhaps you aren't on our mailing list. So send us your current address and we will try to keep you informed.

Congratulations to the active chapter for a tremendous pledge class, with special recognition to Dave Kinley, who did an outstanding job as rushing chairman. We note an unusually good spirit at the Chapter this year.

The large expansion program at the University of Toronto seems to spell doom for the old Shelter at 91 St. George Street. We have received our expiration notice and it is just a matter of time before we have to relocate. The next few years will be critical years for Delta Theta Chapter, but with strong alumni support, a smooth move can be accomplished.

In any event, this has reactivated many of the dormant alumni and our formal and Founders' Day banquets in January and March were unqualified successes. Our three major functions this year are: annual meeting and stag, fraternity formal, and Founders' Day Banquet.

The Delta Creed

- I BELIEVE in Delta Tau Delta for the education of youth and the inspiration of maturity, so that I may better learn and live the truth.
- I BELIEVE in Delta Tau Delta as a shrine of international brotherhood: her cornerstone friendship, her foundation conscience, her columns aspiration, her girders self-restraint, her doorway opportunity, her windows understanding, her buttresses loyalty, her strength the Everlasting Arms.
- I BELIEVE in Delta Tau Delta as an abiding influence to help me do my work, fulfill my obligations, maintain my self-respect, and bring about that happy life wherein I may more truly love my fellow men, serve my country, and obey my God.
