Brief History of the Monthly Catalog

The Printing Act of 1895 specified two products for the description and collocation of public documents.

- The Catalogue of the Public Documents of the [...] Congress and of All Departments of the Government of the United States (Document Catalogue) fulfilled the requirement for a “comprehensive index of public documents” to be prepared “at the close of each regular session of Congress.”
- The Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications (MoCat) met the stipulation for a “Monthly Catalogue ... which shall show the publications printed during a month, where [those publications are] obtainable, and the price thereof.”

Thus, the original relationship was a current awareness listing (in the MoCat) and a permanent, authoritative, and comprehensive catalog (in the Document Catalogue).

In 1947, the cost and perennial difficulty of compiling the Document Catalogue led the Superintendent of Documents to recommend to the Joint Committee on Printing that the Catalogue be discontinued after the edition for 1940 was completed. The MoCat began to serve in the capacity of a single source for bibliographic information, fulfilling the requirements of the 1895 act, which stand to this day in 44 USC §1710-1711.

From 1895 until 1976, the Government Printing Office (GPO) arranged and described documents according to its own standards and systems. A major revision of the appearance and functionality of the MoCat took place in July 1976. GPO catalogers began producing machine-readable cataloging records (MARC) conforming to Anglo-American Cataloging Rules (AACR), Library of Congress Subject Headings (LCSH), the Ohio College Library Center (later the Online Computer Library Center, OCLC) bibliographic standards and formats, and other applicable national level standards. Since that time, GPO has gradually expanded the emphasis of its cataloging and indexing program from the production of a single printed product to the creation and maintenance of a database of high-quality, standards-based bibliographic records. These records are used by GPO and the library community to support an expanding array of bibliographic control activities.

The bibliographic data used to produce this abridged paper edition is also used to produce a compact disk/read-only memory (CD-ROM) and a World Wide Web (WWW) edition. The Web edition links users directly from bibliographic citations to electronic publications, and assists the public to locate information in depository libraries and through GPO sales. GPO bibliographic data is also available to individual libraries directly from GPO and from a variety of commercial sources for the creation of high quality local databases and public access catalogs.

The first part of the paper discusses the geological history of the region, focusing on the tectonic evolution of the area. It begins with the Paleozoic era, where the region was part of a large supercontinent. The collision of tectonic plates led to the formation of mountain ranges and the deposition of thick sedimentary sequences. The Mesozoic era is characterized by the breakup of the supercontinent, resulting in the formation of the North Atlantic Ocean and the opening of the Tethyan Sea. The Cenozoic era is marked by the collision of the African and Eurasian plates, which led to the uplift of the Himalayas and the formation of the Tethyan Himalayas. The paper then discusses the geological history of the region, focusing on the tectonic evolution of the area. It begins with the Paleozoic era, where the region was part of a large supercontinent. Catalog Arrangement

Bibliographic entries in the Monthly Catalog (MOCAT) are arranged in Superintendent of Documents classification number order. Each record is also assigned a unique catalog number—a two-digit prefix representing the catalog year, followed by a sequential number beginning with "1" in the first issue of each year. Within this arrangement, the publications of each Government author are further identified by the name and address of the issuing agency.

Catalog entries in this catalog may be accessed by title keyword index (alphabetical list of truncated titles, arranged by important words selected from publication titles).

Please consult the CD-ROM version of the MOCAT for indexing accessed by:

- Keyword
- Author
- Title
- Series/Report Number
- Subject
- Stock Number
- Contract Number
- Classification Number

Indexes in the CD-ROM version of the Monthly Catalog will cumulate from the beginning of the calendar year through the current issues.

Abbreviations

Abbreviations used in the bibliographic entries are those described in the Anglo-American Cataloguing Rules, 2nd ed, and the GPO Classification Manual: A Practical Guide in the Superintendent of Documents Classification System.

Large Language Model

The Large Language Model (LLM) is a type of artificial intelligence (AI) that is designed to understand and generate human-like text. It is trained on a massive amount of data, including books, articles, and websites, and is able to learn the patterns and structure of language. LLMs are used in a variety of applications, such as chatbots, translation, and content generation.

LLMs are trained using a process called self-supervised learning, where the model is given a sequence of text and asked to predict the next word. This process is repeated over and over again, allowing the model to learn the relationships between words and phrases. The model is then able to generate text that is similar to the text it was trained on.

LLMs are also used in a variety of other applications, such as text classification, sentiment analysis, and machine translation. They are able to understand the context of a conversation and generate responses that are relevant and helpful. LLMs are also used in a variety of other applications, such as content generation, text summarization, and text-to-speech synthesis.

Order Information

Order information is the data that is used to identify and track a specific order. It typically includes the customer's name, address, phone number, and email address. It also includes the order number, the date of the order, and the items that were ordered. Order information is used by the company to process the order and to provide customer support.

Federal Depository Library Program

The Federal Depository Library Program was established by Congress to provide free public access to Government publications. Nearly 1,350 public, academic, State, and law libraries serve as information links with the Federal Government by maintaining collections of Government publications. Collections are tailored to local needs and are open to the public. Fifty-three of the libraries are designated as regional depository libraries with responsibility for permanently retaining material and for providing inter-library loan and reference services in their regions.

Copies of documents no longer available through the GPO sales program can usually be found in regional depository collections.

To determine which depository libraries have selected publications listed in this catalog, use the Locator Service at the Superintendent of Documents World Wide Web site, http://www.access.gpo.gov/su_docs/dpos/adpos400.html.
