I SUMMARY

During the month of October, the enemy stepped up his limited objective attacks against Marine outpost and strategic hill positions. He attacked in battalion and near regimental strength, supported by the heaviest and most concentrated mixed artillery and mortar fire yet to be received by this division since it arrived in its present sector. By the end of the period, he had successfully occupied six Marine outpost positions, and had temporarily occupied two other outposts and a part of the 1st Marine Division MLR (The HOOK) in the extreme eastern sector.

The 1st Marine Division stubbornly defended its outpost positions, until, in several cases, the Marines defending them were completely over-run or forced to withdraw because of enemy numerical superiority and the intense artillery and mortar fire. The Division conducted counterattacks, retaking those outposts deemed necessary for the successful continuation of the defensive mission, and raids against enemy positions, with considerable success. The outposts close to the MLR were strengthened and tied in more closely with defensive positions on the MLR, and aggressive patrolling was continued in the Division sector, to keep the enemy off balance and disrupt his efforts to consolidate his new forward positions.

In action, 2-6 October, the enemy succeeded in taking and holding six Division outpost positions. These were HILLS 36 (ET 958972), 37 (ET 964984), and 86 (ET 957929) in the KMC sector, and HILLS 3 (SEATTLE) (CT 100103), 13 (FRISCO) (CT 091094), and 15 (DETROIT) (CT 088089) in the 7th Marines sector. Outpost 1 (WARSAW) (CT 104108) was also lost during this action, but was retaken by the 7th Marines.

It was noted by observers from the 1st Marines on OP 1 that during the attack in the KMC sector, the enemy was utilizing the railway bridge at CT 954982, crossing the SACHON River underneath rather than over the span. The enemy forces advanced in mass, apparently oblivious to the intense fire from friendly supporting arms and air.

*Seen by

In September, the enemy showed an interest in these KMC outposts and made an unsuccessful effort to take them. Now, by taking them he has established himself east of the SACHON, apparently so that he can operate his patrols east of the river without interference. One factor which makes this a logical time for such a maneuver is that with the passing of the rainy season and the forthcoming winter freezes, he can cross the river without too much difficulty to make the necessary resupply and replacement of troops and equipment there.

In a patrol contact in the KMC sector on 17 October it was noted that the enemy forces encountered were of larger stature than the usual Chinese encountered in this area. The Chinese were wearing dark blue or black uniforms and U.S. helmets with camouflage covers.

On the night of 26 October, an enemy battalion, supported by the heaviest artillery and mortar fire sustained in a regimental sector to date, attacked positions in the 7th Marines sector. The enemy gained initial success and succeeded in temporarily occupying outposts POWSON (OP 102102) and WARSAW (OP 104100) and MLR positions on the WOOD (OP 103104). The 7th Marines, supported by air and artillery, and two companies from the reserve regiment (H & J Co's of 3-1), counterattacked and succeeded in driving the enemy off these positions, inflicting numerous casualties upon him.

At the same time as the attack by the enemy battalion, an enemy probe was launched against the Division outpost on WIT 25 (PWQ) (OP 068079), which was repulsed with heavy enemy casualties.

In the attack on PWQ, the enemy utilized the trench line extending into the position from HILL 150 (OP 089072). He attacked in three waves, each wave consisting of two assault elements. The first element, utilizing hand grenades and small arms, attacked under cover of heavy mortar and artillery fire, followed closely by the second element, which utilized small arms and automatic weapons (mostly PPSH) fire. After beating off two waves, the officer in charge of the outpost discovered that the third wave had succeeded in penetrating the positions. He ordered the Marine defenders into their bunkers and called in US artillery fire on the position, which drove the attackers off the hill.

The only remaining significant action for the period occurred on the night of 31 October. Enemy forces directed heavy concentrations of mixed artillery and mortar fire on friendly outpost positions in the KMC sector: OPs 51 (OP 971931), 31 (OP 972959), 33 (OP 969966) and 39 (OP 979989). When these fires lifted an estimated two reinforced enemy companies attacked outpost 51 from the west and south, an estimated enemy company attacked OP 31, and another company hit OP 33, and an estimated enemy battalion launched their attack on outpost 39 from the north, west and south. All attacks were repelled with considerable casualties inflicted on the enemy. A second attack the following morning was also repulsed. The Korean Marine defenders were capably aided by friendly artillery, firing previously prepared concentrations.

The enemy continued to show his ability to mass his mortar and artillery fire, and showed greater use and ability with his direct fire weapons during the period. During the action of 26 October, he massed over 12,500 rounds of mortar and artillery fire in the WOOD sector alone (7th Marines). The attacking enemy infantry followed so close to this heavy barrage, that numerous casualties were inflicted upon them by their own fire.

On 1 October the consideration was given to the possibility of the presence of ISU-152 in the KANSUNG area. This consideration was caused by the identification of 152mm fragments by the 11th Marines from the action in the KMC sector on 20 September and reports by linecrossers.

It was noted by the 11th Marines on 15 October, from observation of enemy fire in the 7th Marines sector, that the enemy was using the "Box-me-in" principle (see August Diary), which friendly artillery has used frequently in this sector with great success. The enemy actually employed this principle when friendly artillery laid false preparation fires on two enemy outposts opposite the 7th Marines.

On 17 October, 107mm shell fragments were identified from the vicinity of BT 971029. This is the first identification of this mortar's use in sectors other than the YPR and AmTracs.

There was also an increase of the enemy's employment of counterbattery fire during the period, but most of this fire had negative results on friendly gun positions.

On 17 October, a Reconnaissance Company patrol reported encountering brush obstacles on trails in the vicinity of CT 063079. These had been deliberately prepared with the branches of trees blocking approaches to the enemy position. Passage of the obstacles would have required actual unclogging and removal of the branches, denying the element of surprise to the friendly patrol. This is believed to be the first reported instance of such obstacles in the Division sector, although reports have been received of the CCF's use of brush fences in other sectors of the EUSAK front.

During the period there was a great increase in the enemy's use of psychological warfare, especially loudspeaker broadcasts in English. The main theme employed in these broadcasts was "Marines come and get your buddies' bodies". On one occasion an enemy broadcast suggested that the 1st Division go home and let the 3rd Division come over, another suggested that we all vote for Stevenson, and another offered freedom and a free car to every married man that surrendered. In most instances friendly fire was directed, silencing the broadcasts.

There was still no major change in the disposition of CCF units opposing the 1st Marine Division, with the Division remaining opposed by elements of the Sixty-fifth and Fortieth CCF armies. Prisoners of war from units opposite the division sector have stated that their particular units were at or near authorized T/O strength, and that their units were receiving an adequate number of replacements to maintain that strength. A detailed study of the CCF replacements system by higher headquarters reveals that the enemy is able to replace casualties of front line units in as short a period of time as seven days from the training and replacement regiment attached to each Army. Although the enemy has suffered extensive casualties as a result of the comparatively heavy actions during September and October, his strength must be accepted as being near T/O as follows:
65th CCF Army - Army troops, 4,500, 193rd Division, 7,500, 194th Division, 7,500, and the 195th Division, 11,000, for an army total of 30,500 - 40th CCF Army - 118th Division, 12,000, 119th Division with two regiments, the 356th and the 357th with 3,500 men each in contact, making a total of 19,000 from the 40th CCF Army in contact. The 120th Division of the 40th CCF Army with 12,000, and the 63rd CCF Army with 37,500, are believed in immediate reserve, with a total also of 49,500, making a total of 99,000 enemy troops in contact and reserve in the division sector.

During the period, enemy capabilities were changed to:

- (1) To defend on present front line positions with fifteen (15) infantry battalions on line and not more than fourteen (14) infantry battalions in local reserve supported by about sixteen (16) artillery battalions and forty (40) tank and/or SP guns; total infantry strength about 32,000.
- (2) To launch limited objective attacks at any time in up to regimental strength for the purpose of improving observation of friendly rear areas and increasing military pressure. The most critical areas for such attacks are GT 0103, GT 0607, GT 0909, BS 9793, BS 9696 and BS 9798.
- (3) To attack with sixty-five (65) infantry battalions initially supported by twenty-four (24) battalions of artillery, forty (40) tanks and/or SP guns and one Katusha Battalion.
- (4) To reinforce (1) and (2) with thirty-six battalions (63rd GCF and elements of 40th GCF Army) within twelve hours and (3) with army size units (elements of the 42nd, 47th and 64th Armies and an armored regiment within two to four days.
- (5) To attempt destruction of FREEDOM Bridge by sabotage.
- (6) To attack troop movements, front lines and installations in the rear at any time with fighter, attack and light bomber aircraft.
- (7) Conduct limited airborne and/or amphibious operations.

There were no major changes among front line regiments within the 1st Marine Division until 12 October. On that date, the 5th Marines relieved the 1st Marines in the central part of the Division's sector and the 1st Marines reverted to Division reserve in the vicinity of MASAN-NI (GT 1096).

During the month of October, the Division conducted the most active defense of its sector of LINE JAMESTOWN since occupying this area. Important outpost positions were strengthened and defensively improved and these outposts were tied in better with the MLR. Secondary defensive positions were also improved during the period, and at the same time the Division continued its aggressive patrolling forward of the MLR, and conducted successful raids against enemy positions.

The Division's artillery fired a total of 2752 observed missions during the period, which was an increase over the previous period. The majority of these missions were fired in support of Division outpost positions, and in direct and general support of the front line regiments. Training of tank units in the field artillery role and training using amphibious vehicles in the displacement of artillery units to alternate positions was continued during the period.

There was also an increase in the amount of missions fired by the Division's tanks, 689 observed missions being fired in October as compared to 573 for the previous period. These missions consisted chiefly of delivering defensive fires from the MLR in support of outpost positions. (See PHOTOGRAPHIC SUMMARY - XMC TANK COMPANY).

There was no significant change in the close air support during October. During the two periods of intensive ground action, the Division received priority on close air support and flights were sent to the TADC on a scheduled basis of one every 20, 30 or 40 minutes, depending upon the situation,

A total of 644 aircraft flew close air support sorties for the Division during the period - 580 Marine, 14 Air Force and 50 Navy. In addition there were 130 MPQ-14 controlled sorties - 127 Marine, 2 Air Force and 1 Navy. One F-29 was used under control of MPQ-2. Not included in the above totals were four 36 plane strikes flown by Task Force 77 on 27 October, on target areas in front of the Division. These aircraft were pre-briefed and were never under Division control. Of 295 requests for close air support submitted during operational weather, 155 were answered.

There was no change in the locations of the Division's rail-head, airhead, or truckhead during the period.

Marine casualties for the period amounted to 186 killed in action, 18 died of wounds, 880 wounded (evacuated), 601 wounded (not evacuated) and 113 missing in action. There were five deaths from other causes. Casualties for the month were considerably higher than during the previous period.

Korean Marines suffered 115 killed, 645 wounded and 212 missing in action, which was also a considerable increase over the previous period.

Enemy losses to the 1st Marine Division were as follows: 15 prisoners were taken, 2,384 killed, an additional estimated 2,849 killed, and an estimated 4,850 wounded, which was more than double last month's enemy casualties.

1 October.

In the 1st KMC sector two squads of enemy made a brief probe against the outpost at BS 963977.

In the 1st Marines sector there was one patrol contact (BT 968039) and two probes against HILL 122 (CT 016045). All the engagements were brief and the number of enemy encountered ranged between 10 and 20.

An estimated 30 enemy engaged a 7th Marines ambush in a brief fire fight at CT 091092. This action took place during the early morning, and the 7th Marines sector remained quiet until 2055I. Between 2055I and 2125I, there were four contacts with the enemy. There were two brief patrol engagements in the vicinities of CT 089092 and CT 085096. Another patrol engaged an unknown number of enemy at CT 101111 in a 40 minute fire fight. The combat outpost at CT 091094 was probed by an estimated 30 enemy while the outpost at CT 089093 was brought under long range fire. This action lasted for 40 minutes before the enemy withdrew.

Enemy artillery fire increased and counterbattery fire was received. In the left sector there were numerous sightings of enemy groups up to 50 in number.

The enemy made loudspeaker, propaganda broadcasts in the 1st KMC and 7th Marines sectors.

2 October.

Between 2130I and 2140I, the 1st KMC outposts 86 (BS 955929), 31 (BS 972960), 36 (BS 957972), and 37 (BS 965982) were subjected to a concentrated artillery barrage amounting to an estimated 1,000 rounds. Immediately after the lifting of the barrage, these outposts were simultaneously attacked by the enemy. Two platoons, which were later reinforced to near battalion size, assaulted outpost 37, while an enemy company, later reinforced to battalion size, attacked outpost 31. As the period closed, outpost 36 was engaged in an intense fire fight with the enemy. The KMC's on outpost 37 had withdrawn to the base of the hill, and the enemy had occupied the outpost; the enemy attacking outpost 31 had been forced to withdraw after a brief fire fight; and outpost 86 was in enemy control with the KMC's having withdrawn to the base of the hill.

Four patrol contacts were reported in the 1st Marines sector. Four enemy were engaged at CT 029050; two enemy at CT 043063; an enemy squad at CT 017048; and 10 enemy at BT 972032. These contacts were of brief duration.

Two 7th Marines combat outposts were attacked by the enemy. At 1900I, two enemy platoons probed the outposts at CT 104108 ^{with success} and one platoon probed the outpost at CT 100103. The outpost at CT 105107 ^{was} withdrew to the MLR after a brief fire fight. The action on the outpost at CT 100103 still continued as the period closed.

Prior to the attacks in the KAC sector there were numerous reports of enemy sightings up to 50 in number in the left sector, with groups moving southeast out of the KAESONG Circle. For the third consecutive day there was an increase in enemy artillery fire and scattered counterbattery fire was received.

3 October.

In the 1st KAC sector, outposts 36, 37, and 86 were bitterly fought over during the day and one patrol made contact. The action on outpost 36 continued until 0645I, when the KAC's were forced to withdraw. Air strikes and artillery were called upon to neutralize the outpost, and the enemy was forced to withdraw to the reverse slope. Three counterattacks were unsuccessfully made against outpost 37 at 0045I, 1130I, and 2100I. The second attack was momentarily successful when the KAC's gained the top of the hill. However, they were unable to remain there, and withdrew after twenty minutes. At 1033I, the KAC's launched a counterattack against outpost 86 and were successful in forcing the enemy to withdraw after an intense three hour fire fight. The patrol contact took place in the vicinity of BS 953913. After a fifteen minute fire fight the patrol disengaged. Ten enemy were believed killed. There were 12 air strikes in the sector during the day. Enemy casualties from these strikes were assessed at 132 KIA and 102 MIA.

Action in the 1st Marine sector consisted of a brief patrol engagement at BT 978038 and a ten minute enemy probe on HILL 122 (CT 016045).

In the 7th Marines sector, action was centered around the outposts at CT 100103 and CT 105107 ^{was}.

The action on the outpost at CT 100103 continued from the preceding period. At 0340I, two squads were sent to reinforce the outpost. Upon arrival at the outpost they were engaged by the enemy. At 0400I, the outpost was ordered to withdraw. At 0430I, a reinforced platoon was able to reoccupy, without opposition, the outpost at CT 105107. During the action on these outposts (night 2-3), 2,500 rounds of artillery were received on them. At 1900I, the 7th Marines launched a counterattack against the outpost at CT 100103. An intense fire fight lasted for three hours and 55 minutes before the 7th Marines disengaged. Between 1900I and 2127I, six patrols made brief contacts with the enemy. Two contacts took place at CT 089092, and one each at CT 096097, CT 057067, CT 083088, and CT 098100.

4 October.

Enemy activity continued to be centered in the outpost 37

(BS 965982) area of the IAC sector. Sighting of enemy groups composing an estimated two companies, moving into the area, as well as the caliber of resistance, pointed to a reinforcement of the elements of two battalions committed by the enemy. Although under heavy friendly air attack, these elements repulsed three friendly attacks on outpost 37. These attacks took place at 0645I (20 minute fire fight), at 1200I (brief fire fight) and at 1930I (three hour fire fight). As the period closed another attempt to take back the outpost was in progress. This attack began at 2345I.

Activity in the 1st Marines sector consisted of a brief patrol contact at BT 997032 and two brief enemy probes against outpost positions on HILL 122 (CT 016045).

The 7th Marines outpost at CT 105107 received a brief probe by an estimated enemy platoon. This was the only significant activity in the sector during this period.

5 October.

The KAC's attack on outpost 37 (BS 965982) which was launched during the previous period, lasted until 0215I. This attack was unsuccessful and the KAC's disengaged. Another attack on the same objective was launched at 1155I. This attack was successful in reaching the crest of the hill, but was repulsed by a vicious enemy counterattack. There was a sighting of two platoons reported in the area around HILL 86 (BS 957929).

Action in the 1st Marines sector consisted of six patrol contacts and two enemy probes against HILL 122 (CT 016045). All contacts were made during the hours of darkness. The probes were made by an unknown number of enemy and the last probe took place at 2215I, which was the same time that a patrol in the vicinity of BT 997034 engaged an estimated 80 to 100 enemy. This contact lasted for 30 minutes before the patrol disengaged. Enemy casualties were 13 KIA, an estimated six NIA, and an estimated 15 MIA.

The enemy made a brief probe against an outpost at CT 091094 in the 7th Marines sector. The enemy made another loud-speaker, propaganda broadcast in this sector.

The 3rd Replacement Battalion arrived aboard the USNS MARINE SERPENT with 95 Marine officers, 2,146 Marine enlisted men and 82 Naval enlisted men. The 21st Rotation Draft, consisting of 55 Marine officers, 432 Marine enlisted men, one Naval officer, and 28 Naval enlisted men, embarked aboard the same ship for transportation to the United States.

6 October.

Action in the KAC sector centered around HILL 86 (BS 957929) with a brief squad-sized probe followed by an attack by an estimated two enemy companies. The attack was still in progress at the end of the day.

There were four probes and one patrol contact in the 1st Marines sector. Early in the morning, HILL 122 (CT 016045) was probed for a brief length of time by an estimated 15 enemy. Late in the night, HILL 124 (CT 014036) was probed twice by the enemy.

The first engagement lasted for 10 minutes and the second for one hour and 10 minutes. In between these probes, HILL 122 was under attack by an estimated 15 enemy for 10 minutes. There were brief exchanges of small arms fire on the hill for the remainder of the night. The patrol contact was in the vicinity of BS 903033 and the patrol disengaged after a 45 minute fire fight.

In the 7th Marines sector, a reinforced platoon (later reinforced to two platoons) launched an attack to regain the outpost at CT 100102 which was lost on 3 October. The attack began at 0635I and received 300 rounds of artillery and mortar fire coordinated with small arms, automatic weapons and heavy machine gun fire. The attackers disengaged after a six hour fire fight. Between 1920I and 1940I there was a total of seven enemy probes, with the main attack by an estimated battalion, against combat outposts at CT 082089 and CT 091094, and MLR positions in the vicinity of CT 099020. The action at the two outposts was still in progress at the close of the day. Outposts at CT 084075, CT 089079, and CT 105107 were also attacked, but the enemy had been forced to withdraw by 2150I. The enemy was supported in these actions by an estimated 4,300 rounds of artillery fire and 104 rounds of counterbattery fire.

7 October.

The attack on HILL 86, in the KMG sector, continued until 0640I, when friendly elements disengaged and the enemy took the position. During the night, two probes, both two platoons in size, supported by heavy mortar and artillery fire, were made against outpost 39 (BS 979989), from which the enemy was forced to withdraw after heavy fire fights. A brief patrol engagement took place in the vicinity of BS 967926.

Action in the 1st Marines sector was centered around HILLS 122 and 124, with one brief patrol contact in the vicinity of BS 939032. The combat outpost on HILL 124 (CT 014033) was probed by an estimated 60 enemy during the early morning, and twice by an unknown number of enemy during the late evening. The combat outpost on HILL 122 (CT 016045) was hit four times during the day. Each engagement was short in duration.

The action in the 7th Marines sector continued until early morning. The outpost at CT 089089 withdrew at 0630I after heavy fighting which had lasted for 10 hours and 20 minutes. By 0215I, the outpost at CT 091094 had forced the enemy to withdraw. This action had been continuous for 11 and a half hours. Enemy casualties suffered on these outposts were estimated at 230 KIA. Enemy activity for the remainder of the day consisted in an effort to consolidate their positions. Groups of 10 to 40 enemy were taken under friendly air and artillery attack, with heavy casualties reported.

The Division Reconnaissance Company was operationally attached to the 7th Marines.

8 October.

The enemy made four probes against combat outposts in the KMG sector. The outposts that were hit were at BS 089036, BS 978988, BS 979025, and BS 981988. The probes resulted in brief fire fights with the enemy withdrawing. There were numerous sightings of enemy groups, ranging from 10 to 50, in the sector.

THIS MSG IN 2 PARTS. PART 1. THE FOLL MSGS FM CG EUSAK QUOTED FOR INF AND STRICT COMPLIANCE: 1. THE EXPENDITURE OF AMMO DUR THE PAST 2 WEEYS HAS BEEN SO HIGH THAT IT IS NECESSARY TO CALL THE ATTN OF ALL CORPS COMMANDS TO A NEED FOR CONTINUOUS COMMAND SUPERVISION TO INSURE THE MAX RETURN FOR ALL AMMO EXPENDED. THIS MUST BE DONE SO THAT AMMO EXPENDITURES DO NOT CONTINUE TO EXCEED THE EUSAK ALLOWANCES. 2. THE OPNS STARTING ON 7 OCT, ALTHOUGH LMTD TO A SMALL PORTION OF THE FRONT, HAVE RESULTED IN HIGHER EXPENDITURES ON BOTH I AND 9 CORPS THAN THOSE EXPERIENCED DURING EITHER THE CHINESE SPRING OFFENSIVE OF 51 OR THE UN OFFENSIVE WHICH FOLLOWED. THE AVERAGE EXPENDITURE OF 105 HOWITZER FOR 9 CORPS FOR THE 11 DAYS WAS 126 RDS PER GUN PER DAY AND FOR I CORPS WAS 94 RDS PER GUN PER DAY. THE LARGEST 10 DAY EXPENDITURE EXPERIENCED FOR EUSAK BETWEEN APRIL AND OCT OF 51 AND 77. RDS PER GUN PER DAY. THE EXPENDITURE OF 155 HOWITZER WAS 80 RDS PER GUN PER DAY FOR 9 CORPS AND 33 RDS PER GUN PER DAY FOR I CORPS. THIS COMPARES TO A MAX EXPENDITURE OF 57.2 RDS PER GUN PER DAY AS EXPERIENCED IN 51. THESE EXPENDITURES OF RDS PER GUN PER DAY BECOMES FURTHER DISPROPORTIONATE WHEN WE CONSIDER THAT OUR ARTY TUBES HAVE INCREASED FM 660 TO 921 IN 105 AND FM 52 TO 474 IN 155. 3. BECAUSE THE EXPENDITURE OF AMMO HAS BEEN SO LAR E THE LAST 2 WEEKS IT IS CONSIDERED NECESSARY THAT ALL UNITS ATTEMPT TO LIMIT THEIR EXPENDITURES TO THE PUBLISHED ASR RATES. THIS DOES NOT MEAN ANY CHANGE IN THE POLICY OF EXACTING HVY TOLL FOR THE EN WHEN HE STARTS AN ATTK ON OUR FORCES; HOWEVER, IT REQUIRES CLOSE SUPERVISION TO INSURE A MAX RETURN FOR ALL AMMO EXPENDED. COMMANDS SHOULD, IN SUBALLOTTING AMMO ALLOWANCES, MAKE CAREFUL PROVISION FOR ANY SPECIAL OPNS DUR THE 10 DAY PRD IN ORDER THAT THE ASR NOT BE EXCEEDED. SIGNED VAN FLEET X
PART 2. I DESIRE THIS TO BECOME MATTER OF CONTINUOUS COMMAND SUPERVISION X

PHOTOGRAPHIC SUMMARY - PANMUNJOM REPORT

The military situation in Korea reached a point by June 1951, where neither the United Nations nor the Communists believed it desirable to continue extensive military operations.

The United Nations were reluctant to commit more troops to the conflict because of commitments elsewhere, and because they did not believe that a decisive military victory could be achieved without risking a full scale war with China or even possibly Russia. The Chinese and North Koreans on the other hand had failed to force the United Nations troops out of Korea and had suffered tremendous losses in men and equipment while trying to do so. They welcomed the idea of calling an armistice or at least an opportunity for talking over the terms of an armistice so as to gain the time necessary to reorganize and reequip their badly beaten forces.

Accordingly, it was agreed by both sides that the city of KAESONG would be set aside as a neutral zone for conducting meetings for discussing the armistice terms. The first meeting was held there on 10 July 1951. It was realized that the communists would gain certain propaganda advantages by having the meetings conducted at KAESONG. As a result of this and reported violations within KAESONG neutral zone, it was decided to switch the meeting place to another locality.

PANMUNJOM was selected October 1951, as the new site for the meetings. In addition a restricted corridor free from hostilities was established running north and south (through the town) between friendly and enemy lines. This was to be utilized as a safe passage through which negotiators of both sides would travel back and forth while attending the meetings.

The talks soon became deadlocked over the prisoner of war issue and have been continuing intermittently ever since. In the meantime, the corridor with restricted zones at either end, has presented a unique situation for both the enemy and the 1st Marine Division, occupying the extreme western sector of the Eighth Army front.

The boundaries of the corridor run 200 meters from either side of the road. They extend around PANMUNJOM at a radius of 1000 yards from the center of the town. The restricted zones at either end of the corridor are 3 miles in radius. One of these zones encircles KAESONG, the location of the communist delegates' headquarters. The other zone encircles the town of MUNSAN-NI near which the UN delegates have located their Base Camp (see overlay).

The agreements reached in October 1951, regarding the conduct of both sides pertaining to the restricted zones are as follows:

(1) No hostile acts of any kind shall be carried out by any armed force of either side, including all regular and irregular units and armed individuals of the ground, naval and air forces, against the conference site area.

(2) All armed forces of both sides, including all regular and irregular units and armed individuals of the ground, naval and air forces, shall refrain from hostile acts of any kind against the circular area having a radius of 3 miles centered on the traffic circle at KAT ONS; against the camp area of the UNC delegation contained within a circle having a radius of 3 miles centered about Base Camp, and against the area of 200 meters to either side of the KAESONG-PANMUNJOM-MUNSAN-NI Road, as indicated on overlay.

(3) Except under weather and technical conditions beyond control, the military aircraft of both sides shall not fly over the conference site area at PANMUNJOM; the military aircraft of the United Nations Command shall not fly over the KAESONG area and the area of the road from there to the conference site area at PANMUNJOM; the military aircraft of the Korean People's Army and Chinese People's Volunteers shall not fly over the MUNSAN-NI area and the area of the road from there to the conference site area at PANMUNJOM.

The part of the above agreements which states, "that no hostile act by the forces under their control will be made against the following areas," was interpreted by the UN Forces (Dispatch R21210Z, Oct. 1951, from CG EUSAK to CG I Corps) to mean:

(1) That UN Forces will neither enter nor fire within the KAESONG circular area, the PANMUNJOM circular area, or the restricted area along the KAESONG-PANMUNJOM Road.

(2) That no UN attack will be launched from, and no United Nation's fire will be delivered against hostile forces from the MUNSAN-NI area or from the restricted area along the MUNSAN-NI-PANMUNJOM Road up to but not within that portion of this road inside the 1000 yard circle at PANMUNJOM.

The enemy has taken every advantage of benefits offered by the location of the corridor and the restricted zone around KAESONG. It is believed that he will try to keep the truce talks going so that he may continue to enjoy these advantages.

The KAESONG area is used as a command post for the 65th CCF Army and other units, and as an assembly area for his armored and artillery units. It is also used as a staging area for the training and reorganization of troops before sending them back into the lines. The corridor represents a valuable route of supply which the enemy utilizes to keep his troops supplied in nearby areas. Large quantities of supplies are apparently stored at KAESONG free from air or artillery attack. (This, no doubt, greatly facilitates enemy efforts to keep his supporting arms continually supplied when he delivers intensive fires in support of limited attacks, such as those launched against outposts in the MIC's and 1st Marines sectors during September and October). In numerous instances, the enemy has been able to position his artillery in proximity to the corridor or restricted zone around KAESONG, so as to make it difficult for friendly artillery to engage these units with counterbattery fire, without firing into the restricted zone. In some instances, enemy artillery units have actually fired from within the KAESONG restricted zone itself.

The corridor and restricted zone around MUNSAN-NI have offered some advantages to the 1st Marine Division. The main advantage is the protection afforded to FREEDOM Bridge. Its importance can be appreciated by the fact it was the only bridge which remained intact and serviceable throughout the floods.

The proximity of PANMUNJOM to enemy lines discourages enemy attempts to move his outposts and main lines in that area closer to our own lines (although he has recently established outposts east of the SACHON River near the corridor). The no-fire zone around the UNC Base Camp has enabled Division supply and command installations to be safely located closer to front line units without subjecting them to enemy artillery fire. This has greatly facilitated supply and command functions.

We also enjoy the advantage of placing our artillery in proximity to the MUNBAN-NI restricted zone so as to make it difficult for the enemy to engage it with his own fire.

Generally, the advantages lie more with the enemy than they do with the 1st Marine Division. The greatest advantage to the enemy are those restrictions imposed against our aircraft. Without the restricted zone around KAESONG, the enemy would be deprived of their only sanctuary south of the YALU in which their large supply dumps, armored units, and artillery units are free from air attacks. A further restriction in this area extends even beyond the restricted zone about KAESONG. This is the "No-Fly zone", set up to insure that no violations would be committed against the three mile restricted zone about KAESONG (see dispatch 240545Z 3 July 52, from CG I Corps to CG 1st Marine Division). The boundary of this zone is located six miles from the center of KAESONG (see overlay). Air strikes within this zone are forbidden unless cleared by Far East Air Force Headquarters. The time involved in getting a strike cleared in this zone is an advantage to the enemy because it takes too long to get the clearance to meet a threat within the zone.

An illustration of this was during October when the enemy started firing their artillery from seven positions within the No-Fly zone east of KAESONG, causing considerable damage along our MLR. It took approximately two weeks before final authority was granted to deliver an air strike against these gun positions. To date these are the only targets which have been engaged by our air in the No-Fly zone.

It would be difficult for planes to maneuver within the No-Fly zone without violating the other restricted zones, even though given the necessary clearance. To illustrate this, on 5 September and again on 2 October, the enemy commenced firing their artillery from positions within the general vicinity of grid square, BT 9102, in proximity to the three mile restricted zone about KAESONG and the corridor. A majority of these guns were SP guns, which are engaged more effectively by planes than artillery. To engage these targets from any direction would have required our planes to have flown over the corridor or into the three mile restricted zone. It was due largely to the fire from the enemy guns within the No-Fly zone that the enemy was successful in occupying HILLS 36 and 37 in early October.

The artillery has had a restricted zone similar to the No-Fly zone. This zone is bounded by the O'DANIEL LINE (see overlay). Missions fired within the zone had to be cleared first through I Corps. Recently however, the restrictions within this zone have been relaxed somewhat. This is a result of the heavy action in the KMC's sector during October. At present, fire missions may be conducted against targets within the O'DANIEL LINE with the authority of the Commanding General.

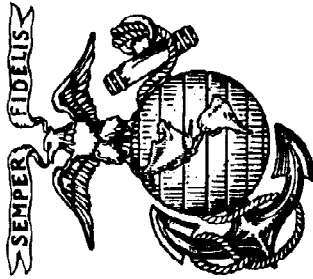

There has been speculation concerning the safety of the UN negotiators should the truce break down during one of their meetings at PANMUNJOM.

In case their safety should be endangered, a task force is kept standing by ready to move out to rescue the negotiators if necessary. This task force consists of one rifle company (-) located on OP #2 (vic BT 9702) and a tank platoon which occupies
