Rhythm Dance school construction expected to be complete by Aug.

BY TRACY GRUEN
Contributor

Construction of the Rhythm School of Dance and Music, which will offer a variety of classes for all ages, is anticipated to be finished in August.

The dance studio will open at 8746 Shermer Road and will offer various classes, such as creative movement for 2- to 3-year-olds, pre-ballet and ballet classes, jazz, hip hop, yoga for adults, tango for adults and zumba for adults.

The studio will offer individual piano lessons for all ages, group piano for adults; family music; moms and babies, and moms and toddlers music classes; and group piano for children 4 to 6 years old. There will also be a music class for children with special needs.

Owner Lara Kitaychik said they chose to open the studio in Niles because it is a very family-friendly and diverse community, and there are currently a limited number of dance and music programs in the village.

Kitaychik is the owner and music teacher. She was accepted to the Moscow School of Music, where she graduated in 1986.

Kitaychik received a degree in piano performance and chamber ensemble, and also has a master's degree in special education from Northeastern Illinois University. She has been teaching piano for more than 20 years in Russia and the United States, and has been a private piano teacher in Chicago since 2002. Her students have won several local, state and international competitions.

Alexander Kopchinsky will teach the advanced ballet lessons. Kopchinsky was accepted to the Moscow Ballet Academy at Bolshoi Theater, where he graduated with honors.

Kopchinsky danced in various classical performances such as "Sleeping Beauty" and "Swan Lake" at the Bolshoi Theater in Moscow. He has worked with famous ballet masters and toured in Europe and Japan with the Straislavsky Ballet.

Group classes will be $10 per person; private classes will be $30.

Thousands expected at Fourth of July parade

BY TRACY GRUEN
Contributor

The popular Fourth of July parade and post-parade celebration is expected to be a huge success as always.

The parade is sponsored by the village of Niles and last year it featured 90 colorful and vibrant floats. It kicks off at 9 a.m. at Notre Dame High School on Dempster and finishes at Grennan Heights.

More than 2,000 people attend the festive event every Fourth of July.

The post-parade event at Grennan Heights Park, 8255 Oketo, will take place from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

The family-friendly celebration sponsored by the park district offers hot dogs and drinks, pony rides, games and face painting, all free of charge.

Children can have a great time playing on large blowups, one that is similar to an obstacle course and the other that is a slip-and-slide.

Beverages are available for purchase in the beer garden, and ice cream is also available for purchase.

"It's our giveback to the community," said Laurie Strzelecki, recreation program supervisor for the Niles Park District.

A local band, R-Gang, will provide music at the event.

Strzelecki describes the event as "old-fashioned fun," which brings many families and community members together.

The Niles Fire Department will attend the event and spray the children with a hose.

Patriot Flag flies over Morton Grove

After being in attendance at the June 16 funeral in Homer Glen of Army Pfc. Michael Olivieri, who was killed in a firefight June 6 in Iraq, the Patriot Flag made its way to the Civic Center in Morton Grove.

The 30- by 56-foot American flag is traveling the country and being displayed in all 50 states before heading to New York City for the 10th anniversary of the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks in which more than 3,000 people died after two passenger jets flew into the two Twin Towers of the World Trade Center in New York City; one flew into the Pentagon; and another crashed into a field near Shanksville, Pa.

"It's something none of us will ever forget," said Morton Grove Fire Chief Thomas.

Asians fragmented by new maps

BY TRACY GRUEN
Contributor

The Asian American Institute expressed disappointment that Asian-American neighborhoods are being fragmented as a result of the new Illinois legislative-district maps recently passed.

"We're concerned and very disappointed that the district lines fragment Asian-American neighborhoods," Ami Gandhi, the AAI's legal director, said of the redistricting.

AAI aims to protect the voting rights of various communities in the Northern Chicago suburbs that have a significant Asian population, including Niles, Des Plaines and Skokie.

In response to a strong movement to eliminate the fragmentation of Chinatown, the new map puts most of Chinatown into one House and one Senate district.

Gandhi is concerned because many of the Asian-American neighborhoods have similar backgrounds and socioeconomic classes, and have similar concerns.

Gandhi feels the communities have unique social needs that have to be addressed by people having a candidate of their choice.

"We haven't received any explanation why that fragmentation had to happen," Gandhi said.

Gandhi said it will make it harder for the Asian-American neighborhoods to elect the candidates of their choice and more difficult to convey their concerns to the legislators.

Some of the neighborhoods were split into three, four or five districts.

Just like in Niles, where the Asian-American community, particularly the Korean population, is growing, there's increasingly a Pan-Asian community in the northern Cook County suburbs.

Gandhi said the Asian American Institute is exploring all legal options and plans to stay engaged in topics related to redistricting.

Play honors Nelson's golden anniversary

Students at Nelson School in Niles helped celebrate their school's 50th anniversary by presenting an original — and history-laden — musical.

"Nelson Through the Years," written and performed by Nelson's sixth-grade class, depicted poignant events from the school's past five decades, from the school-board meeting where Nelson got its name to the goats that once grazed on the lawn.

The musical was performed for students, parents, past staff members and alumni on May 27. It featured songs from the past 50 years and also included narration and dances performed by the sixth-grade class.

Nelson School is at 8901 Ozanam Ave., Niles.

MIDWAY AIRPORT

Honor Flight holds area WWII vets in highest regard

BY NATASHA WASINSKI
Contributor

Ted Woytowicz was a country boy working on his family's farm in Wisconsin when it came time to answer his nation's call.

Within a matter of months, he was uprooted from the Midwest, sent to basic training across the United States and shipped overseas to the Eastern Front.

It was December 1944 and Nazi Germany was just beginning its retreat. Woytowicz was 20 years old.

"I did the best I could," said Woytowicz, of Park Ridge, who celebrated his 87th birthday June 12.

Woytowicz's unassuming sentiment toward his military service is characteristic of America's "Greatest Generation," the men and women who fought abroad not for fame and glory, but because they believed it was the right thing to do.

To recognize and thank World War II servicemen and women for their sacrifices more than half a century ago, the nonprofit Honor Flight Chicago sent 97 local veterans to Washington, D.C., on June 7 for the trip of a lifetime.

Six veterans from Park Ridge and Morton Grove participated in the one-day, all-expenses paid excursion to tour the capital's monuments and museums.

The trip concluded with a massive welcome-home celebration at Chicago's Midway Airport featuring active-duty military personnel, color guard, motorcycle clubs, live bands and — of course — friends, families and well-wishing fans.

Since 2008, Honor Flight Chicago has organized trips for 2,100 veterans to see the national memorials erected in their honor.

More than 1,500 veterans, whose average age is 88, remain on the waiting list.

Ready for takeoff

Andy Hitzelberger, 88, of Park Ridge, applied a year ago before learning last month that he had been selected for the Honor Flight Chicago's June trip.

"I was ready," he said.

Hitzelberger was a University of Kentucky student before joining the Army. "It was inevitable," he said. "We considered it our duty."

Hitzelberger entered combat with the 100th Infantry Division on Nov. 9, 1944, in the Vosges Mountains of northeast France.

Six days later, "I celebrated my 21st birthday in a foxhole," Hitzelberger said.

He saw five rounds of combat before enemy soldiers captured him in Heilbronn, Germany, in April 1945.

"That night I was captured was the first night I got a good night's sleep because they had to stand guard and I didn't have to," Hitzelberger deadpanned.

For three weeks he walked on foot as a prisoner of war. American troops were advancing so fast that his German captors kept him and the other prisoners constantly moving, Hitzelberger said.

They made it to a small town near the Danube River when the 12th Armored Division of the U.S. Army arrived. The captors folded and Hitzelberger was freed.

Hitzelberger solitarily returned home to Chicago after his discharge. His father picked him up at the Berwyn station off the el's Red Line.

This time Hitzelberger's wife of 65 years, son, daughter and grandchildren, and more than 2,000 new friends, welcomed him back from D.C.

"It was quite heart-warming," Hitzelberger said.

A hero's welcome

For most Honor Flight Chicago participants the celebration at Midway is the most memorable and surprising part of their trip.

Many soldiers serving overseas during World War II quietly returned to stateside life. They didn't come home to cheering crowds or victory parades.

This time was to be different.

After the Honor Flight Chicago veterans exited the plane and headed toward baggage claim they were greeted by a parallel formation of Navy servicemen and women, equally spread apart as far as the eye could see.

The vets slowly made their way down the aisle as the naval honor guard saluted each and every one of them, in unison.

World War II veteran Ted Wotytowicz, of Park Ridge, talks to some of the greeters as he returns from Honor Flight June 7 at Midway Airport. | JOEL LERNER-SUN-TIMES MEDIA

Then began the rumblings. The sound of bagpipes were followed by the cheers and singing of an enormous crowd.

Celebrating masses waved and clapped, and waved American flags. Many reached out to shake the returning vets' hands.

"Everybody was screaming 'thank you,' " said John Casper, an 84-year-old Navy vet and Morton Grove resident. "We were in a daze."

The vets had come home to a parade in their honor.

"There were all these people on both sides (of the aisle)," Casper said. "I was shaking hands with so many boy scouts, children, moms and dads."

Casper spotted his grandson and, with him, more family members. His daughter handed him a big bouquet of flowers.

"I didn't know (Honor Flight Chicago) asked my family to be there four hours early," Casper said. "And I was thinking, 'holy cow, my poor grandson is waiting on me.' "

"It was wonderful," he said.

Casper noticed his volunteer guide, Mary Jane Cole, was in tears.

"She told me it was her ninth trip and she cries every time," he said.

Cole coordinates veterans' escorts, known as "guardians," for Honor Flight Chicago.

"There was such a show of patriotism, and such a show of love for the vets, that it's just beautiful," she said.

Cole's father served in World War II but died before he could participate in an Honor Flight. She pays homage to him by making sure every veteran has a safe and special experience.

"I ask them all to be my dads for the day, and some of them are my dads for life," she said. "It's just a wonderful, wonderful thing."

'Gauntlet of love'

Park Ridge resident Peter Broutis, who served in the Army from 1943-46 as a combat medic, said a celebration "was a long time coming, quite honestly."

World War II veteran Ted Wotytowicz, of Park Ridge, and his son, Ted Wotytowicz, return from Honor Flight June 7 at Midway Airport. | JOEL LERNER-SUN-TIMES MEDIA

"I didn't expect them to greet us like that," Broutis said. "I had tears in my eyes."

Tom Leo, 84, of Park Ridge, wholeheartedly agreed.

"It was totally overwhelming," Leo said of the number of people who came "to see the remnants of the Jurassic Park.

"It was one of the best days of my life. We were running the gauntlet of love."

Leo served in the Pacific War on an aircraft carrier with one of the most decorated crews in naval history, he said.

In the Leyte Gulf near the Philippines in October 1944, "our ship was the first to get hit with a kamikaze," Leo said. "We lost over 900 (servicemen) on one morning."

The Battle of Leyte marked the first time Japanese kamikaze pilots crashed bomb-laden planes into U.S. ships.

"Imagine 450 Japanese planes coming at you like you like a swarm of bees," Leo said. "That's what I remember."

Never forgotten

Some memories still haunt Woytowicz, too.

Woytowicz was deployed with the Army's 10th Mountain Division to Italy, where he traveled from Naples through the Alps to the Swiss border.

He recalled when a fellow soldier's hair turned from black to white overnight, and how he walked miles alone in the forest to rejoin his troop after recovering from pneumonia.

Woytowicz survived many close calls.

One night, after finding a place to camp, Woytowicz tried to dig a hole to sleep in but the ground was rock solid. He felt a tug on his jacket, he said, but nobody was there.

Woytowicz suddenly had a feeling that he should find a new spot to camp in, he said. He moved 20 feet over and found a softer spot to dig. Woytowicz then said his prayers and fell asleep.

The next morning the camped area was completely shelled, and a bomb landed on the exact spot where Woytowicz had tried to dig.

"It was scary but we made it," Woytowicz said. "You just thank God that you came back in one piece."

Woytowicz suffered shrapnel wound on his lower calf, still evidenced by a thick 2-inch scar, but chose not to give up the fight.

"Purple Hearts are for men who are really hurt," Woytowicz said. "There were other things to worry about, like getting over a hill safely."

He received a Bronze Star Medal for an act of heroism but, if asked about it, Woytowicz will joke it was for winning a potato-peeling contest.

Woytowicz and other World War II vets may downplay the critical role they played in one of the most influential wars of the 20th century, but hundreds of celebrating onlookers at Midway on that Tuesday night knew better.

As Woytowicz was pushed in a wheelchair through the throng of cheering strangers, a young woman stepped out from the crowd to give him a kiss on the cheek.

Her head was shaved and tattooed, and her arms covered in tattoos.

"Thank you for fighting for the freedom to live the way I want to live," she told Woytowicz.

Just as he didn't ask for recognition in 1945, Woytowicz did not expect so many people to show their appreciation nearly seven decades later.

"That was the surprise of my life," Woytowicz said.

NILES TOWNSHIP SCHOOLS

Health fair gives dozens care

The Niles Township Schools' English Language Learner Parent Center's third annual health fair June 17 provided physicals, immunizations, vision screenings and dental exams to dozens of residents in the township.

The health fair has come to kick off the center's new year although this time it was held much earlier than before. The last two fairs ran closer to when school begins.

The center was created as a resource for the exploding population of ethnically diverse parents coming to the area from other countries with schoolchildren.

Director Corrie Wallace said the health fair has been a useful and needed service for providing basic medical care to families.

Helping out with the fair again this year were Oakton Community College's nursing students, which Wallace says have been invaluable in making the annual event work so well.

SKOKIE THEATRE

Partners express love at civil union ceremony

BY MIKE ISAACS
misaacs@pioneerlocal.com

Scott Foreman (left) and Bobby Orr light a unity candle at the start of the civil union ceremony. | CURTIS LEHMKUHL-SUN-TIMES MEDIA

Scott Foreman and Bobby Franklin Orr of Chicago didn't need the state to tell them how much they love each other.

But there could be no denying that the couple's civil union ceremony Tuesday at the Skokie Theatre — only weeks after a state law went into effect — held special meaning for them and the dozen or so guests in attendance.

"Marriage equality in general is so important," said Foreman before the ceremony. "We've had these rights that have been denied us for so long. They've put the Bible over the Constitution in making laws."

Illinois this month became the sixth state in the country to allow civil unions between same-sex couples. The law also recognizes same-sex marriages performed in other states.

The Religious Freedom Protection and Civil Union Act provides benefits similar to those of married couples. But the Rev. Kevin Downer of the Metropolitan Community Church of Chicago, who officiated the ceremony, said he views the new law as "a stepping stone" to full marital status.

"I've done a lot of holy unions for couples who want to acknowledge their relationship within their family and friends," he said. "For many of them, that's the wedding.

"What's really beautiful about this though is not only are we able to have this spiritual celebration of their relationship and their family but now there's actually legal recognition as well. It's a wonderful thing to be able to see those two things brought together."

Downer was part of the mass civil union ceremony in the city just after the new law was passed. But the Skokie ceremony was his first officiating for a couple in Illinois.

"I'm very, very much supportive of the civil unions but I see that as a step towards full recognition for our relationships and our families," he said.

Raised in Tampa, Foreman, 47, regularly attended a Southern Baptist church where homosexuality was a taboo subject. He sang in the church choir for more than 20 years until he was asked to leave because someone thought he might be gay.

"The sad thing about it is that I went back two or three months later to a wedding or funeral or something and not one person in the choir asked me how I was or where I had gone," he said. "I had been there every Wednesday and every Sunday since the time I was 7 years old."

He met Orr, 33, outside Downer's church in Chicago about eight months ago.

Orr was sitting on a chair looking south at the Chicago skyline, a little scruffy and deep in thought.

"He looked lonely," Foreman said. "I told him we have some food over here and we always eat after church. He said he was OK. I said I'm going to get a plate anyway and I'm going to sit with you and eat."

They have been together ever since.

A Cherokee Indian, Orr was initially reluctant to attend church because of a different belief system. But he gradually learned how welcoming Downer's church was to all people.

"I twisted his arm a couple of times and now he's marrying me," Foreman said.

For 10 years, Orr had lived in Springfield until flood waters caused his house to cave into a sink hole. His damaged house and his belief that he was discriminated against because of his sexuality forced him to move.

He came to Chicago, he said, because of the vibrant arts scene and was living in a homeless shelter when he met Foreman.

"I was just out there on the streets trying to get by," he said. "And along comes this handsome fellow who just happens to help me out. I could never have imagined it."

Orr said that being able to legally unite now holds great meaning for him.

"I felt there was a void in my life I needed to fill," he said. "I needed someone to help me fill it. As I get older, I learn that I need a partner. My family was never going to support me."

Both sides of Orr's family were anti-gay, he said, although he maintains a relationship with his 14-year-old son. Foreman, too, has family members who did not accept his sexuality.

It was no surprise then that the June 14 ceremony didn't include any of the partners' biological families — "only our logical family," Foreman said.

It included live opera, of which both partners are fans, a song sung by Foreman, poetry read by Orr, the exchanging of rings and of vows. The ceremony felt warm and welcoming, guided with a loving hand by Downer, who became married to his own partner in Canada in 2006.

"I'm very proud to say this is a new question I've had to add to my holy unions," Downer said during the ceremony. "You are today aware you are being united in the ceremony spiritually, emotionally and through the goodness of people's hearts in the state of Illinois legally as well?"

At times emotional, the partners lit a unity candle and held hands, speaking heartfelt and poignant words to each other.

Foreman said he has been single since his last partner died in 2002. Since then, he had been caregiver to his mother. He met Orr, he said, during a dark time in his life just before his mother died.

"He immediately brought sunshine into my darkness," he said. "What I didn't know at the time was the darkness he came from and the darkness that still surrounded him. Yet he was able to make me laugh."

Together, they brightened each other's lives.

"We have a love of fun," Foreman said.

"This is a dream day for me," Orr said. "I've been counting this down every single day and every single hour. It's like I'm going to the opera again but only this time it's an opera based on me and Scott. Wow."

Among the songs sung at the ceremony was "Sim Shalom," which is all about peace. That was by design.

"I'm hoping our wedding and others like it can bring about peace amongst those who have a problem with us," Foreman said. "Maybe they'll try to have a better understanding of who we are."

Pop-portunity knocks for Park Ridge dancer

Audition for New Kids, Backstreet Boys opener could lead to music video

BY JENNIFER JOHNSON
jjohnson@pioneerlocal.com

Ashlyne Huff laughs with local dancers as they learn the choreography at Lynette's School of Dance on June 17. The auditions were for dancers to be featured in a music-video montage with the singer. | DAN LUEDERT-SUN-TIMES MEDIA

Telling dancers to tap into their inner "attitude," singer/dancer Ashlyne Huff led auditions in Park Ridge last week for a spot in her upcoming music video.

Huff, 25, who opened June 17 and 18 for the New Kids on the Block and Backstreet Boys at the United Center, taught a short dance routine of hip rolls, kicks and a good dose of the aforementioned attitude to 49 dancers at Lynnette's School of Dance in Park Ridge. Dressed in a gray shirt, black spandex pants and boots, a stack of sparking bracelets on her wrist, Huff gave each dancer a high-five before their audition and encouraged the 48 girls and one boy to make the routine their own.

"The name of the game is attitude," she said. "The attitude you get in trouble for everywhere else."

Following the morning-long audition process, dancers Lexus Karedes, 17, of Chicago, and Stephanie Sremac, 17, of Park Ridge, were selected by Huff, her manager, Ned Specktor, and dance coordinator Cole Bass to tape the routine with Huff in the dance studio. Their performance could become part of a montage planned for the music video of Huff's song, "Whatever," due out later this summer.

"I'm just in shock," said Karedes, who has studied dance at Lynnette's since she was about 6 years old. "It was a great experience; it was so much fun."

"I love to dance so this was a lot of fun," Sremac agreed.

Both said they enjoyed having the chance to meet Huff, who also signed autographs following the event.

"She's adorable; she's got a lot of energy," Karedes said. "She's always making everyone smile. I wish we could see more of her around here."

Huff and her team are visiting dance schools across the country this summer as part of the "Let it Out Dance Tour," named for Huff's debut album. Only the most reputable dance schools were chosen, said Cole, who found Lynnette's, the third stop on the tour, to fit the bill.

"We wanted to launch the Let it Out Dance School Tour as a way for Ashlyne to really spread a positive message about girls being confident about themselves and just letting it out — whatever version of that relates to their life," Specktor said. "Ashlyne grew up a dancer so it's a fun and natural way for her to give back and educate kids about her story and new music."

Director Lynnette VanDien Bertolotti said it was a great opportunity for her dance studio to host the auditions.

"She's just such a good role model for the kids," Bertolotti said of Huff.

All of the dancers who took part in the audition have a chance in appearing in Huff's music video. The group was taped waving white flags in recognition of her song, "White Flag," and singing the chorus of the song while gathered in a circle around the singer.

Huff was also scheduled to make an appearance June 18 at the Niles Wal-Mart, 8500 W. Golf Road.

$25K job-performance bonus OK'd for superintendent

BY TRACY GRUEN
Contributor

The Maine Township High School District 207 Board of Education approved $25,000 in deferred compensation for Superintendent Ken Wallace at the June board meeting.

During the 2009-10 school year Wallace declined a $25,000 bonus due to the district having a substantial deficit at that time that caused them to eliminate 75 teachers.

"The board revised the contract and eliminated the bonus clause," said David Beery, District 207 spokesman.

Instead the district created a deferred compensation in the form of an annuity based on his job performance.

"The evaluation is based on goals set at the beginning of the school year," Beery said.

The goals include overseeing and making recommendations regarding academic performance throughout the district, improvement with the district's financial condition and enhancements to the teacher-leadership program.

Wallace's base salary is $190,000.

"The board is committed to merit-pay job performance," Beery said.

Beery said other administrators receive merit pay, but those aren't board decisions. Higher-ranking administrators make decisions regarding merit pay for other administrators.

PTO proposes $84K outdoor track at Roosevelt School

BY TRACY GRUEN
Contributor

Members of the Roosevelt School PTO announced plans to build an outdoor track around the Park Ridge school's existing field using organization funds.

The PTO made its presentation during the June 13 meeting of the Park-Ridge Niles District 64 school-board meeting.

PTO representatives said students run on a bumpy field and parents have shown interest in building a track at the school.

The cost of the new track would be about $84,000. The PTO told the Board of Education that it would be able to pay for the total cost.

The past fall the PTO held its Track-a-Thon and purchased Smartboards for fifth-graders. The group still has $35,000 in reserves from that fundraiser and plans to raise the rest from the next fall's Track-A-Thon event.

The school would use the track in many ways, including its "Bee Fit" program that promotes healthy eating and exercise, and the Girls on the Run program, which has 62 participants and adult sponsors; Girls on a Run promotes exercise, healthy choices and self-esteem.

Kris Purtell, of the Roosevelt PTO, said there has been a lot of excitement about the idea of getting a new track. She said the PTO has reached out to parents through email and at meetings.

Principal Kevin Dwyer said the PTO will make a presentation to the Roosevelt School community and the greater community in the fall regarding the project, once the designs are completed.

"It'll be a source of pride for the parents and the community," said Dwyer, who added that the track can be enjoyed by the public while it's not in use by the school.

"I'm thrilled that this vision has finally come to see the light of day," said District 64 Trustee Pat Fioretto, who noted that all of his children went through Roosevelt and a track has been discussed for several years.

One parent who was opposed to the idea spoke at the June 13 board meeting.

"I question if that is the best use of the funds at this particular time," said Shawn Harms, a Roosevelt parent. "It's a big chunk of money."

Harms questioned why they didn't look into using the money to purchase Smartboards for the other grades if they have been successful with the fifth-graders, and he wasn't convinced that a new track is the best purchase for the school. He also felt the information was not well-distributed to Roosevelt parents.

Purtell said only the money from the next Track-A-Thon would be used for the new track and the rest of the fundraisers will still support other grants and needs.

New museum exhibition highlights women in Holocaust

BY MIKE ISAACS
misaacs@pioneerlocal.com

In documenting the Warsaw Ghetto, historian Emanuel Ringelblum made special mention of how women responded to the horrors of the Holocaust.

"The future historian will have to dedicate an appropriate page to the Jewish woman in the war," he said. "She will take up an important page in Jewish history for her courage and steadfastness. By her merit, thousands of families have managed to surmount the terror of the times."

The Illinois Holocaust Museum & Education Center's newest traveling exhibition, which opens Friday and runs through Sept. 6, pays tribute to and provides insight about the role of women in the Holocaust.

"Spots of Light: To Be a Woman in the Holocaust," reveals the human story that lurks behind the historical account of the Holocaust experience, museum officials say.

More than two million women were murdered during the Holocaust. Their stories are brought to life through a large-scale video-art-based exhibition that conveys the strength, initiative, and courage of these remarkable women.

This is the first time the exhibition has been shown in North America. More than 50 artifacts from the museum's permanent collection will be on display.

They include never-before displayed objects such as three pieces of original artwork from the Theresienstadt concentration camp-ghetto; a mandolin-banjo from the Bergen-Belsen Displaced Persons camp owned by a survivor who was a member of the Auschwitz women's orchestra; and a silver necklace found by an American GI at the liberation of Dachau.

The museum, at 9603 Woods Drive, Skokie, is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and until 8 p.m. on Thursdays and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekends. Admission to "Spots of Light: To Be a Woman in the Holocaust" comes with an admission ticket.

Chicago area homeowners brace for electric bill spike

Recently the Illinois Commerce Commission approved a $156 million rate hike for Com Ed. Combined with last summer's record 46 straight days with temperatures above 80 degrees, homeowners throughout the Chicagoland area are preparing for much higher electric bills and less comfortable homes. With soaring gas prices, rising utility rates and the heat of summer around the corner, residents are looking for a way to fight back.

According to the US Department of Energy, the easiest and most cost effective way to make your home more efficient and comfortable year round is to add insulation. Only 20% of homes built before 1980 are well insulated. In the summer months, these homes let in more of the sun's radiant heat, thereby raising temperatures in the home and taxing the air conditioning systems, leading to higher utility bills.

A properly insulated home repels the sun's heat and keeps the inside temperatures more consistent. Northbrook based USA Insulation installs its proprietary foam insulation in all exterior wall cavity areas. Their professional installers inject the product into the walls FROM THE OUTSIDE with no cosmetic damage to the home. This includes older brick homes which have historically been difficult to retrofit with insulation.

R. Sawyer of Glenview noticed a difference immediately. "Prior to the insulation, we would feel a noticeable rise in temperature during the summer months (and a decrease during the winter months) as we walked upstairs. Now, the upstairs is just as comfortable as the rest of the home. This improvement was noticeable the first night after our house was insulated."

In addition to the walls, USA Insulation will insulate attics and ensure that they are properly ventilated — an important factor in the whole house approach for energy efficiency. "With the tax credits and rebates available, and the savings on utility bills, now is the best time in history to insulate your home," observed Michael Preston of USA Insulation. The company is currently offering customers a free inspection and $250 off any insulation project. Call USA Insulation at (847) 564-8300 to schedule your inspection before you need to turn on your air conditioning or visit www.usainsulation.net.

DISTRICT 64 NEWS

Ethical Leadership Award Recipients

Four eighth-grade students from Park Ridge-Niles School District 64 have been selected to receive the 2011 Judith L. Snow Ethical Leadership Award by the District 64 Elementary Learning Foundation. "This year's winners are strong ethical leaders who embody integrity, selflessness, fairness, dependability and caring both within the school community and within the community at large," according to ELF Trustee Janet Mital, selection committee chairman.

"The Snow Award is an ideal way to highlight outstanding role models that show how even young adolescents can know their core values and have the courage to live by them in service to the common good," stated Superintendent Philip Bender.

The four students received their awards at the June 13 Board of Education meeting. Their names will be engraved on a plaque displayed at their middle schools.

Tim Kwasny, Emerson Middle School — Kwasny is the son of Donna and Skip Kwasny of Park Ridge. Kwasny is described as a "dedicated student, an accomplished musician and a bundle of positive energy" by one of his teachers. As part of Emerson's Soaring Eagles program, he helped introduce sixth-grade students to their new surroundings and served as a role model throughout the year. He plays trumpet in Emerson's Symphonic and Jazz bands and also was selected for both Illinois Music Educators Association all-star groups. Kwasny leads by example in standing up for fellow students, even in the face of peer pressure, and by inspiring others to step out of their comfort zone and do the right thing. His compassion for others also was strengthened through a winter break mission trip with his family to build a home for a needy family in Juarez, Mexico. Reflecting on why he seeks to be an ethical leader, Kwasny says: "I always try to be as polite, kind and loving as possible, not to better myself but to better the world. My biggest goal in life is to leave a positive mark on the world, whether that be on 10,000 people or just one.—

Kristen Van Tine, Emerson Middle School — Van Tine is the daughter of Rena and Matthew Van Tine of Park Ridge. She is noted for "her intelligence, empathy, calming disposition and diplomatic talent," according to a teacher, who adds that Van Tine "creates a climate that encourages all the other members of the group to do their best." Van Tine is passionate about the environment and her interests led her to found two new student clubs for Northwestern University's Gifted Learning Links: the Dissection Club, which focuses on biology, and the Traveler's Club, which seeks to support the world's rainforests and to promote the care of cultures and people. This spring, in response to the Japanese earthquakes, she organized her entire Flamingo core of classmates to create paper cranes raising $870 for reconstruction efforts.

She also finds time to volunteer as a nonprofit math tutor and at an animal shelter for cats among other service activities, and also regularly hones her athletic skills as an accomplished figure skater. Van Tine says she is "an ethical leader who cares about my community and others. I feel happy when I can make a positive difference in people's lives."

Claire Reardon, Lincoln Middle School — Reardon is the daughter of Jayne and Michael Reardon of Park Ridge. An athlete and singer, Reardon "demonstrates motivation, perseverance and collaboration" according to a teacher. She finds practical ways to make a difference by organizing a garage and bake sale to raise funds for cancer research, or foregoing birthday gifts to collect donations for charity instead. She spent two winter breaks with her family building houses for the needy in southern Louisiana.

She strives to be fair in her work as a soccer referee, and to be trustworthy and responsible as a baby-sitter. As a basketball player, she worked hard to be the best she could possibly be with her talents, which set an example for teammates. Reflecting on what makes an ethical leader, Reardon says: "Real ethical leadership is lived out every day, in everyday situations. Real ethical leadership is noticed without anyone drawing attention to it and followed by those who notice it." She adds: "And, when caught up in a storm at sea, an ethical leader will not only consult the compass of what to say and how to act that is ethical leadership, but have the courage to follow it."

Emma Stetzenmeyer, Lincoln Middle School — Stetzenmeyer is the daughter of Judy Joliat and Ty Stetzenmeyer of Park Ridge. She is described as "a well-rounded student who brings a leadership quality and strong work ethic to the classroom," according to a teacher, who notes that she naturally inspires classmates to work as hard as she does on their projects. An avid soccer player, she is known as a selfless and caring teammate who also is respectful of competitors. A clarinetist in the Symphonic Band, Stetzenmeyer brings a positive energy to rehearsals and pitches in wherever needed. She also mentors younger students by attending their twice weekly before-school rehearsals. In addition, she also found great satisfaction using her winter break in two successive years to work with Habitat for Humanity in Louisiana to build homes and playgrounds. Reflecting on ethical leadership, Stetzenmeyer says, "All opportunities for ethical leadership are equally important because sometimes the little things make the biggest difference."

The annual award is named in memory of Judith L. Snow, a 25-year resident of Park Ridge and dedicated member of the League of Women Voters. She gave selflessly of her time and talent, and was highly respected within the League and the community for her courage and leadership. ELF selects one or more eighth-grade student annually for this prestigious recognition.

Maine East student charged in hundreds of credit card thefts

Stolen numbers on 15-year-old's Skype account

BY JENNIFER JOHNSON
jjohnson@pioneerlocal.com

A division of the U.S. Secret Service has taken over a case involving the alleged theft of credit-card information from hundreds of Internet users by a Maine East High School student and at least three other suspects.

Park Ridge Police arrested a 15-year-old Maine Township boy June 3 following an investigation that uncovered hundreds of credit-card account numbers, security codes, expiration dates, names, addresses and birth dates saved on the teenager's Internet Skype account, said Park Ridge Police Cmdr. Lou Jogmen.

The information allegedly found consisted of "pretty much everything you need to commit a criminal enterprise," Jogmen said.

Maine East High School's resource officer and dean began investigating the student in May after he was observed by a school staff member using a classroom computer to make an online purchase and billing the transaction to the credit card of a Florida woman, Jogmen said. A teacher reportedly printed out the online confirmation of the student's purchase of a $1,068 laptop computer — showing the Florida billing address and a local address the item was to be shipped to — and informed the school's resource officer. Park Ridge Police were notified May 20.

An investigation by police revealed that a second juvenile also allegedly had credit-card account information saved on his Skype account and that two other juveniles may also be involved. One claim made during the course of the investigation was that the 15-year-old had purchased a program that allowed him to steal credit-card information from people he met through online-gaming sites and with whom he corresponded via Skype, an online-communication tool, Jogmen said.

Jogmen said the case was turned over to the Secret Service's Chicago Electronic Crimes Task Force. The 15-year-old who was arrested is facing a charge of unlawful use of a credit card in juvenile court and no additional Park Ridge charges are anticipated, Jogmen said.

At the time of the teenager's arrest the extent of the alleged thefts was not known. Some purchases included video games, headsets and a laptop computer, Jogmen said.

Derrick Golden, spokesman for the U.S. Secret Service Chicago, said the Secret Service does not comment on ongoing investigations.

SHERIFF'S REPORTS

The following incidents in unincorporated Maine Township were compiled by the Cook County Sheriff's Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest does not constitute a finding of guilt. Only a court of law can make that determination.

BATTERY

Andera Seals, 28, of the 9900 block of Holly Lane, unincorporated Maine Township, was charged with two counts of battery May 24. According to police, Seals grabbed a woman's hair in the hallway of his apartment building and bit a second woman who attempted to break up the altercation.

A man told police he was hit in the face and head by a possible gang member May 30 on the 8800 block of Robin Drive. Police searched the area but were unable to find the suspect.

A woman told police that another female struck her in the head and then slammed a car door on her head May 30 on the 9400 block of North Potter Road. The victim had reportedly pulled her car over and questioned the suspect after two unattended children ran out into the street and were almost struck by the victim's car. Police responded to the residence where the alleged battery occurred, but the occupants refused to let the officers inside, police said. The incident remained under investigation.

BURGLARY

Residents of an apartment on the 8800 block of North Knight Avenue reported that someone entered their home about 2 a.m. May 28 while they were inside. A man living in the apartment reportedly heard someone leaving the residence and found the front door unlocked and an exit door at the end of the hallway propped open with a floor mat. A laptop computer was reported stolen from the apartment.

BURGLARY TO VEHICLE

A report of a theft from a vehicle was filed May 31 on the 9200 block of Hamilton Court.

A vehicle was burglarized June 1 at Bay Colony Condominiums on the 9400 block of Bay Colony Drive.

PROPERTY DAMAGE

Criminal damage to property reports were filed June 1 on the 8800 block of North Dee Road; June 5 on the 9400 block of North Potter Road; and June 8 at Golf Terrace Apartments on the 9600 block of Golf Terrace.

Vehicles were reported damaged May 31 on the 9500 block of Sumac Road and June 1 at Crestwood condominiums and apartments on the 10000 block of Holly Lane.

THEFT

Brass valves and fittings for the sprinkler system at Bay Colony Condominiums were discovered stolen May 25 from the clubhouse basement on the 9500 block of Bay Colony Drive. The items were valued at $4,500.

HIT-AND-RUN

Hit-and-run accidents were reported June 5 on the 9200 block of Twin Oaks Lane and on the 8900 block of North Potter Road.

Maine Township man struck with bat in gang retaliation

BY JENNIFER JOHNSON
jjohnson@pioneerlocal.com

A man was struck with a bat in what police are calling an incident of gang-related retaliation in unincorporated Maine Township.

The 19-year-old Maine Township man told Cook County Sheriff's Police that on the evening of May 31 he was walking south on Dee Road from Dee Park when he was approached by several men riding in a white minivan, said Deputy Police Cmdr. Anthony Brzezniak.

The man reportedly became involved in an argument with the men, who were members of a rival street gang, Brzezniak said.

Three men then exited the van and one allegedly struck the 19-year-old in the wrist with a small bat, breaking his watch and cutting his wrist.

Brzezniak said the victim was recently charged with criminal damage to property involving a vehicle belonging to one of the suspects.

The police commander called the May 31 incident "a retaliation-type thing" between members of rival gangs.

The victim identified the suspects, but no arrests were immediately made.

POLICE BLOTTER

The following incidents were listed in the official reports of the Niles Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest does not constitute a finding of guilt. Only a court of law can make that determination.

POSSESSION

Jenny Thompson, 18, of 8342 N. Osceola, was arrested June 13 in a parking lot on the 8000 block of Foster and charged with possession of drug paraphernalia. A purple smoking pipe was found in the vehicle, police said.

AUTO THEFT

Someone stole a vehicle from the street at Kedzie and Milwaukee between June 12 and June 13.

PUBLIC INTOXICATION

Nestor Jara, 45, of 9022 Cumberland, was arrested June 20 on the 8400 block of Church and charged with public intoxication after allegedly being found lying on a park bench while under the influence.

RETAIL THEFT

Phillip Noffz, 19, of 9289 Courtland, was arrested June 16 on the 7200 block of Dempster and charged with retail theft. Police said he left the store without paying for a baseball glove and reportedly punched the complainant who was trying to stop him in the head with a closed fist.

THEFT FROM VEHICLE

Someone took a purse from the trunk of a vehicle June 14 while in a parking lot on the 5700 block of Touhy Avenue. The victim reportedly said the front passenger window was smashed. Police said the black purse containing a wallet, credit cards and a drivers license was stolen.

FOUND

A 51-year-old woman from Evanston reported that she purchased $25 worth of merchandise and forgot an envelope containing more than $700 at the register on June 13 on the 8500 block of Golf. A 90-year-old man said he took the envelope home because he thought it was a coupon. The envelope containing $712 was returned to the woman, police said.

IDENTITY THEFT

A 52-year-old female told police that a movie and pornography channel were added to her satellite-TV account June 16 at her home on the 6900 block of Keeney without her authorization. She said she believes someone used her Social Security number to add themselves to the account.

Man, 22, struck by Niles motorist

A 22-year-old Park Ridge man was struck by a car while crossing a city street June 8.

Park Ridge police said the man at 9:35 a.m. was crossing Greenwood Avenue at Elm Street when he was struck by a 2001 Dodge Caravan that was making a right turn from eastbound Elm.

The man fell to the ground after the collision, but he refused medical attention, police said. The accident report did not indicate if any tickets were issued to the driver, who was identified as a 32-year-old Niles woman.

Curing infected TV disease

BY PAUL SASSONE
Columnist

I find all these health commercials depressing and confusing. These commercials transform our every twinge, our every ache and pain into a potentially life-threatening symptom. They tell us to "ask" our doctor to prescribe expensive medication for what TV has diagnosed we might have.

We all know watching television is bad for us.

A recent study from the Harvard School of Public Health found that for every two hours of television watching, the risks for type 2 diabetes increases by 20 percent over 8.5 years.

The risks for heart disease rises by 15 percent over 10 years.

The risk of dying from any cause increases by 13 percent over seven years.

The average American watches TV five hours a day.

I often watch TV six hours a day. Oi.

The (only) good result from watching so much television is that I know what's on. Mostly it's medical and health commercials. And they have gotten more explicit and more fear-creating over the years.

Skin diseases. Catheters. We even learn that if our legs sometimes feel tired we might have a disease that — unless we force our doctor to prescribe this particular medication — will kill us.

This type of suggestive fear-mongering used to be the province of daytime TV to scare and further depress shut-ins and senior citizens.

Now, medical advertising is everywhere.

I always figured the classiest TV was the national evening news programs at 5:30. But they have been infected, too.

I kept count of commercials on the CBS Evening News for June 7 and 8.

I just picked those days at random.

On June 7, there were 15 commercials (yes, 15 commercials on a half-hour show. But, I digress.). Of those 15 commercials, 12 were health commercials, everything from curing flatulence to preventing heart attacks to asthma relief.

On June 8, there were 14 commercials. Of those 14, 10 were health commercials.

So, you might say, if TV makes us sick, it offers through commercials ways to make us well.

I disagree.

I find all these health commercials depressing and confusing.

These commercials transform our every twinge, our every ache and pain into a potentially life-threatening symptom.

They tell us to "ask" our doctor to prescribe expensive medication for what TV has diagnosed we might have.

The world is full of diseases. Do we have to be told we might have all of them? Is there insurance enough, money enough to pay for all this dabbling in medication?

Medical advertising at one time didn't exist. It was considered unethical. And for good reason.

Diagnosis is the province of trained medical personnel, not TV announcers pushing a product.

The solution is to ban medical advertising.

Fat chance.

Living a secondhand lifestyle

Van Mom Strikes Again

"Of course, the Great Recession is no joking matter. My husband and I now realize we'll work well into our 90s. I can picture it now, him behind the fast-food counter, slinging hash, while I dodder and forget the basic rules of subtraction in front of the cash register. All the while, young customers will curse and fling condiments at me."

The Pew Research Center reported grim statistics about the Great Recession. Fifty-five percent of all adults in the labor force have experienced unemployment, faced a reduction in pay or hours and many scramble for part-time work.

Or in the words of another Pew, notorious skunk Pepé Le Pew: "Things stink."

Of course, the Great Recession is no joking matter. My husband and I now realize we'll work well into our 90s. I can picture it now, him behind the fast-food counter, slinging hash, while I dodder and forget the basic rules of subtraction in front of the cash register. All the while, young customers will curse and fling condiments at me.

But one aspect of our economy is thriving.

Resale shops and thrift stores are attracting brisk business.

People now poke around their closets for potential revenue. That old smelly fur I inherited from my great-great aunt? Why, I can sell that as a pelt to a Civil War reenactor when he barters with the fur trader. That rusty Partridge Family lunch box might fetch a nice price on eBay. Sold my vinyl record collection, too, but the 45 single confused one kid. He kept trying to insert "Hey Mickey" into the DVD slot on his laptop.

Yes, used clothing and items no longer carry a stigma, although the large wooden barrel I wore at my son's last baseball game caused a stir.

Even the rich are shopping "pre-owned" goods. A CNN article mentioned one bargain hunter in Orange County, Calif. nabbing a Bottega Veneta purse for $1,600, $900 less than if she bought it new.

Clad in my fashionable barrel, I followed that purse purchaser out to the parking lot, figuring she had the money to hire me. For a fee, I offered to carry the purse around for her, and pointed to my Grapes-of-Wrath jalopy.

"I can be your limo driver," I said. "Drop you right off at the curb of the Rodeo Drive stores." I added that if she played her cards right, I might even sell her my barrel for the right price.

Horrified, she called security.

The guards who responded both wore Goodwill uniforms.

Chill out: Check is on the way

BY STEPHANIE ZIMMERMANN
The Fixer

Dear Fixer: Last August, I purchased an upright Haier freezer at Menards. On Nov. 11, the compressor and evaporator had to be replaced, as the freezer was not freezing.

Between March 26 and April 11, we had six service calls on the freezer for the same problem.

Finally, I contacted Haier America and requested a refund.

They asked me to send the appropriate documentation as well as 8 inches of cut-off cord from the appliance. I did that on April 19.

On May 10, I contacted them again and was told that my check would be expedited and I would receive it within three weeks. I called them again on June 6 and June 13 — and the check still had not been cut. I don't believe they intend to refund my money at all.

Ruth Erzinger

Dear Ruth: You told The Fixer that at one point in this saga, they tried to ship you another freezer, but you declined, saying you'd rather just have your money back. We're not sure if that was part of the confusion but we were happy to try to pull your refund out of the deep freeze.

We contacted Haier America spokesman James Liess and soon after, we were told the check is finally on its way. Let us know if you hit any more snags.

Dear Fixer: On Feb. 11, I planned a trip to Las Vegas with a friend. The flight was to have departed from Midway on May 12.

Things didn't work out and I called Southwest Airlines to inquire about canceling my friend's ticket. They said fine, except they would not credit my credit card. They said I could only get a credit with them, which is fine, because I fly with Southwest whenever I can.

I called to inquire about how much my credit was so I could book another flight. I was told that I only have a $461 credit and that $421 had been credited to my friend.

When I first made these reservations, my friend gave me cash and I put the whole $882 on my credit card. I have since given my friend her share back.

The customer service rep I talked to said that the president of Southwest put out a directive not to refund tickets to the purchaser anymore. She would not let me talk to a supervisor.

All I want is the money put back into my name. It was originally billed to my credit card, so I don't see why this cannot be done.

John Kennedy

Dear John: We wish we had better news for you, but it looks like the moral of this story is if you put airline tickets on your credit card, make sure you're traveling with someone you wouldn't feel shy about asking for money later.

You told Team Fixer that a Southwest customer service agent told you that as of April 29, if a customer cancels a trip, the airline no longer credits the person whose credit card was used, but the person whose name was on the ticket.

It's cold comfort, but you're not alone. Soon after we got your letter, we heard from Conrad Bradich of Eagle River, Wis., who had an eerily similar tale.

Conrad and two brothers from the Chicago area were going to fly to Vegas in January, but their plans changed. Conrad had paid for all three tickets with his American Express card.

He and his wife later called Southwest to book a flight for themselves with the credit, and found out that instead of having credit for three tickets, Southwest had allotted separate travel vouchers for his brothers. AmEx tried to dispute his credit card charge, with no success.

We got in touch with Laurel Moffat in Southwest's media relations office, to find out what's up with all this. She said the policy of only refunding the ticketholder — and not the person who paid for the tickets — had been on its books for years, but Southwest only recently began enforcing it.

The policy is spelled out in Southwest's Contract of Carriage, but Moffat said they used to make exceptions "as a gesture of goodwill." The change was a business decision, she said, not anything mandated by the Transportation Security Administration.

Kids + hot cars = danger

With the warm weather finally upon us, The Fixer wants to remind all parents and caregivers to never leave a child in a hot car — even with the windows cracked — for any amount of time.

According to the advocacy group Kids and Cars, last year there were a record 49 deaths of infants and children nationwide attributed to heat stroke from being left in a hot vehicle.

Through May 31 of this year, eight kids had already died. Since 1998, more than 500 have died.

Danger can come quickly, with the temperature inside a car increasing 35 degrees in less than 30 minutes on a hot day, Kids and Cars says. An infant can die in as little as 15 minutes even on a relatively mild 75-degree day.

Sadly, a busy or distracted parent can easily forget their baby is strapped in the back seat. Here are tips to prevent this:

Put something on the back seat next to the baby's car seat, such as your phone, employee ID badge, purse, etc., so there is no way you could space out and forget the baby is in the car.

Put your child's stuffed animal on the front passenger seat to serve as another reminder.

Always check the back seat when leaving your vehicle.

For more tips, check out KidsAndCars.org.

Putting in a good word

Local author offers 6,000 words to use instead of 'awesome'

BY SARA BURROWS
Contributor

Everyone has occasion to express some deep and abiding appreciation, consummate admiration or spontaneous wonder. But if you, like most people, find yourself stuck with a feeble "amazing," or worse, a dead-in-the water "great," Art Plotnick has the antidote.

A writer, editor and connoisseur of words, the long-time resident of Chicago's North Center neighborhood has a new book offering some 6,000 superlatives that will brighten your vocabulary and impress anyone in earshot.

He'll be at the Winnetka Public Library on June 26, and the Niles Public Library on June 28 to discuss Better Than Great: A Plenitudinous Compendium of Wallopingly Fresh Superlatives (Viva Editions, 2011).

Plotnick's been concerned with expressive language for years, and has written two other books on the subject. "We're not enjoying the full range and power of our vocabulary," he said.

Hold that word

Take the overused "awesome," that he's out to slay. It's a word he'd like to reserve for "the Grand Canyon and Shaquille O'Neal hovering over you," he says.

As it is, he adds, "We use it for anything and everything, and then when it comes to describing something truly inspiring, we don't have the word for it."

So along with the wonderful texture of the English language, we're losing the enjoyable fizz of our lives. Flat language, Plotnick suggests, flattens our experiences. Your recent vacation was "awesome," or maybe "amazing"?

"'Try, 'It was exalting,'" he says.

To help his readers find exactly the word or phrase they want, Plotnick divided the superlatives of Better Than Great into 15 categories that he treats in chapter titles that model the sort of expressiveness he's after, like "Great: A Tough Word to Beat," "Beautiful: Untying the Beauty-Bound Tongue," and "Trendy: Fabulous on Stilts."

'SLAYING THE ABOMINABLE AWESOME: BETTER WORDS FOR YOUR PUMPED UP PASSIONS'

Art Plotnick discusses Better Than Great: A Plenitudinous Compendium of Wallopingly Fresh Superlatives

3:30 p.m. Sunday, June 26
Winnetka Public Library, 768 Oak Ave., Winnetka
(847) 446-7220

7 p.m. Tuesday, June 28
Niles Public Library, 6960 W. Oakton St., Niles
(847) 663-1234

Plotnick would like to inject these words, most of them adjectives, back into the common conversation, as well as our writing. But that will take time. "It's very difficult in conversation to break our language habits," he says. "Some (of these superlatives) will sound silly in conversation."

It may take a while before we find something to describe as "the kipper's knickers," a Scots phrase Plotnick suggests instead of great, or something that's made one happy as "pizzazzical."

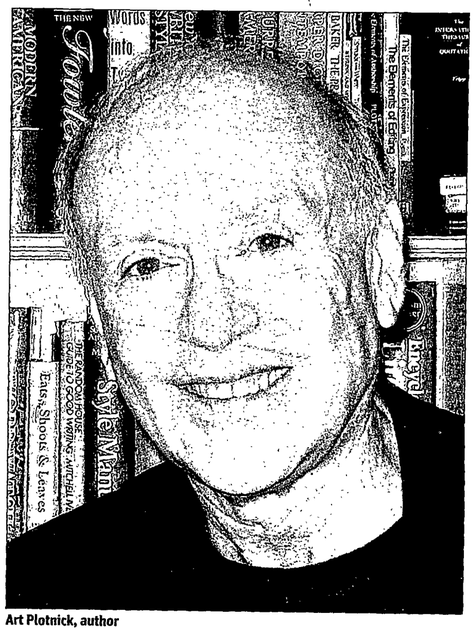
Yet an odd word is not always a bad thing. To describe Lady Gaga, he notes, "No adjective is too silly."

Part of these word problems are due to the nature of social media. "It's message oriented," says Plotnick. "It doesn't pay much attention to texture, which is the beauty of letter-writing, literature and poetry."

Unsocial media

And there's the prevailing attitude he finds disheartening. "Snarky," says Plotnick. "Sarcasm is the tone of the day." While sarcasm's staccato one-liners are ideal for Twitter and texting, they are limiting in texture and expressiveness.

So even as he Twitters, texts and Facebooks, Plotnick is doing his best to resurrect the joy of adjectives. "I use them in e-mails all the time," he says. "It really starts stimulating conversations."



Art Plotnick, author

And so many of the words he's collected are just plain fun. He's a firm believer in playful language, and treasures words like "larky," which means carefree, or merry. "I love it. It's different, and it sounds like what it means," he says.

Plotnick emphasizes that he's not a language snob, and does find himself slipping into common usage every once in a while. "Some words get ingrained," he says.

So he urges all of us who are tired of using the same few words to try to describe the vast range of human feelings and reactions to look to our vocabularies, and add some of the great descriptors available in English.

Using livelier words, Plotnick maintains, can even improve your outlook on life. "When you have the vocabulary for it," he says, "you start noticing how many things really are extraordinary."

Niles' 4th of July Post-Parade Celebration will have plenty of fun in store for kids young and old.

Multitudes visit Niles for 'old-fashioned fun'

BY MYRNA PETLICKI
Contributor

An annual parade in Niles is just the beginning of that suburb's celebration of our country's independence. For more years than Laurie Strzelecki, recreation program supervisor for the Niles Park District, can remember that suburb has hosted a free 4th of July Post-Parade Celebration. This year's festivities are scheduled for 10:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. Monday, July 4 at Grennan Heights, 8255 Oketo.

"We have large blowups — one's like an obstacle course, one is a slip-and-slide," Strzelecki said. "The fire department will be there and they usually spray the kids with a fire hose." There will also be pony rides, games and face painting for kids. The band Our Gang will perform.

Free hot dogs and drinks will be served, and ice cream will be for sale as will grownup beverages in a beer garden.

Strzelecki called the event, "a lot of old-fashioned fun. It brings a multitude of people together."

For details, call (847) 967-6633 or visit www.niles-parks.org.

Leave the library

... but don't go far. All ages are invited to the Library Lawn Event, 6:30-8:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Park Ridge Public Library, 20 S. Prospect Ave. Bring a blanket for this annual event which includes live entertainment, games and displays.

For details, call (847) 825-3123 or visit www.parkridgelibrary.org.

What's bugging them?

You and your kids, ages 8 and older, will find out why lightning bugs (aka fireflies) light up at the Nature's Nighttime Light Show campfire, 8-9 p.m. Saturday at Emily Oaks Nature Center, 4650 Brummel, Skokie. Cost is $4 per person. Reservations are required.

For details, call (847) 674-1500, ext. 2500 or visit www.skokieparks.org.

Here's Harry

Watch everyone's favorite young wizard when Niles Public Library, 6960 W. Oakton St., screens "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows, Part 1," at 2 p.m. Saturday. The 146-minute, PG-13 film has Harry, Ron and Hermione on a mission to track down the secret to Voldemort's immortality and put an end to it.

For details, call (847) 663-1234 or visit www.nileslibrary.org.

Grand Dixieland

Everyone loves the lively sound of a Dixieland band, so your family is sure to enjoy a performance by the Chicago area's premiere Dixieland band, the Chi Town Dixie Stompers, 7-7:45 p.m. Wednesday, outdoors just east of the Skokie Public Library at 5215 Oakton St. The performance is part of the village's Wednesdays on the Green program. MOVIE REVIEW

Lightning McQueen (voiced by Owen Wilson) and Mater (Larry the Cable Guy) are back for "Cars 2," the latest animated offering from Pixar Animation Studios.

Running on empty

BY BRUCE INGRAM
Film Critic

CARS 2
★ ★ 1/2

One of the miraculous things about Pixar Animation Studios is that the company has continued to turn out films that are equally entertaining, technically dazzling and emotionally rich, year after year after year since the 1995 debut of "Toy Story," without kicking out a single clunker.

Until now.

Five years ago, the original "Cars" came close to sputtering and dying, but even that comparatively weak entry had enough humor and heart to sustain itself. Unfortunately, this surprisingly lackluster sequel is sadly lacking in both.

Like the original, "Cars 2" imagines a world entirely inhabited by automobiles (Pixar driving force John Lasseter, who directed "Cars" and "Toy Story" and co-directed this sequel, "A Bug's Life" and "Toy Story 2," is an auto enthusiast and that's apparently reason enough for these two films to exist — in addition to a couple of short films and a TV series called "Mater's Tall Tales.") Like those spinoff projects, "Cars 2" focuses on Mater (Larry the Cable Guy), the buck-toothed, not-so-bright but good-hearted tow truck and best-buddy sidekick to Lightning McQueen, the first film's cocky race car hero-in-training. Possibly because Lightning McQueen (Owen Wilson) really is kind of an irritating presence, right down to the smug "ka-chow!" he utters as a catchphrase.

That doesn't necessarily mean that Mater has what it takes to be a leading character in a feature film, however. That becomes a problem early on, when Mater's lovability as a comic sidekick begins to wear wearyingly thin.

Essentially, "Cars 2" is about what happens when Lightning reluctantly agrees to take his embarrassing country-bumpkin friend along with him on a three-part global race designed to promote an alternative fuel developed by former oil magnate Sir Miles Axelrod (Eddie Izzard). Instead of devoting the entire film to Lightning relearning the same lessons about small-town values and the importance of true friendship all over again, however, Lasseter decides to up the ante by having Mater be mistaken for an international super-spy. While Lightning more or less disappears into the background, Mater becomes increasingly involved (cluelessly of course) in a complex spoof of a '60s-style spy movie complete with spectacular scenes, high-tech gadgets galore and lots of big-time explosions — all delivered (in 3D yet) with typical Pixar technical dazzle.

There's a certain amount of fun in small-town hick Mater being mistaken for a James Bond type. ("Who are you with? FBI? CIA?," asks Michael Caine as for-real superspy Finn McMissile. "Let's just say I'm AAA-affiliated," drawls Mater.) A whole lot of that goes a very short way, though, toward making "Cars 2" funny and heartfelt in the best Pixar tradition.

Worse, considering that the film is pitched almost entirely at a very young audience, "Cars 2" is an alarmingly violent affair (including one cold-blooded murder), featuring frequent lethal threats to its good-guy characters.

On the plus side, "Cars 2" does come packaged with the thoroughly enjoyable short "Hawaiian Vacation," about dim-witted metrosexual Ken and Barbie enjoying a faux tropical getaway courtesy of Woody, Buzz Lightyear and their assorted plaything pals in the new home they found in "Toy Story 3" — a reassuring sign that Pixar hasn't permanently lost its touch.

FILM CLIPS

OPENING FRIDAY

BAD TEACHER

Rated: R for sexual content, nudity, language and some drug use.

Length: 92 minutes

Stars: Cameron Diaz, Justin Timberlake, Jason Siegel

Length: 92 minutes

■ A foul-mouthed, thoroughly disreputable junior-high teacher (Diaz) sets her sights on a substitute teacher (Timberlake) she suspects of being wealthy after being dumped by her sugar daddy. Jake Kasdan ("Walk Hard: The Dewey Cox Story") directed the comedy.

BUCK

Rated: PG for thematic elements, mild language and an injury.

Length: 88 minutes

Stars: Buck Brannaman

■ A documentary on real-life horse whisperer Brannaman, who travels the country nine months a year to help horses with people problems.

CARS 2
★★ 1/2

Rated: G

Length: 120 minutes

Stars: Owen Wilson, Larry the Cable Guy, Michael Caine

■ In this sequel to the 2006 animated family comedy, race car Lightning McQueen (Wilson) and best friend Mater the tow truck team up for a world-championship race — and Mater embarks on a side adventure as a secret agent. John Lasseter returns as director with an assist from "Ratatouille" producer Brad Lewis. Reviewed in this section.

STILL PLAYING

THE ART OF GETTING BY

Rated: PG-13 for thematic elements including sexual content, language, teen drinking and partying.

Stars: Freddie Highmore, Emma Roberts

Length: 120 minutes

■ A lonely high-school senior (Highmore) who's on the verge of graduating without ever having done a day's work, makes the acquaintance of a popular girl (Roberts) who sees possibilities in him.

Anything but a class act: Cameron Diaz is a foul-mouthed, thoroughly disreputable junior-high educator in "Bad Teacher."

GREEN LANTERN

Rated: PG-13 for intense sequences of sci-fi action and violence.

Length: 105 minutes

Stars: Ryan Reynolds, Blake Lively, Peter Saarsgard

■ There's a lot to like about this ambitious, though uneven superhero opus, which does the unusual trick of delving into surprisingly weighty psycho-philosophical matters while simultaneously refusing to take itself too seriously. Reynolds is likable as overgrown adolescent test pilot Hal Jordan, whose tendency to run away from responsibility complicates his new super-responsible status as defender of mankind's corner of the universe. Fortunately, director Martin Campbell ("Goldeneye," "Casino Royale") doesn't let the fact that there's term-paper material here get in the way of the film's spectacular action, visual dazzle and wry, low-key humor.

MIDNIGHT IN PARIS
★★★ 1/2

Rated: PG-13 for some sexual references and smoking.

Length: 100 minutes

Stars: Owen Wilson, Rachel McAdams

■ This enjoyable, lightly comic, lightly romantic fable is one of those Woody Allen movies that come along every third or fourth effort these days, delivering a degree of satisfaction that reminds us why he has always been worth watching. Wilson (an awkwardly agreeable and upbeat fit in the Allen stand-in-role) plays a hopelessly romantic Hollywood screenwriter named Gil, who daydreams about Jazz-Age Paris while visiting with his cold, critical fiancée Inez (McAdams). Somewhat predictably, Gil gets his wish and is whisked off nightly to his ideal place and time, where he hobnobs with Ernest Hemingway, Gertrude Stein, Pablo Picasso, etc., and falls in love with a beautiful world-class art groupie (Marion Cotillard).

MR. POPPER'S PENQUINS

Rated: PG for mild rude humor and some language.

Length: 120 minutes

Stars: Jim Carrey, Carla Gugino, Angela Lansbury

■ A wealthy real-estate developer (Carrey) who has sacrificed love and family for his career, finds his life changing after inheriting six penguins from his estranged father. Mark Waters ("Mean Girls," "Freaky Friday") directed the family comedy, based on the classic children's book.

SUPER 8
★★★ 1/2

Rated: PG-13 for intense sequences of sci-fi action and violence, language and some drug use

Length: 112 minutes

Stars: Kyle Chandler, Elle Fanning, Joel Courtney

■ Writer/director J.J. Abrams' heavily Spielberg-influenced boyhood sci-fi adventure (it's no coincidence that the director of "E.T." is a co-producer) is often spectacularly entertaining — no surprise there. But it also comes close to bogging down in the elaborate story of young Joe (Courtney, a natural, likable presence in his debut) as he struggles with the recent death of his mother, his strained relationship with his father, his first, awkward romance (with Fanning), the trials of making a super-8 zombie movie with his pals — and the big, mean, runaway, for-real monster that's terrorizing his small town. It's a charming story, make no mistake, with lots of laughs and some fairly potent family drama, but it has a distinctly antique quality.

THE TREE OF LIFE
★★★ 1/2

Rated: PG-13 for some thematic material.

Length: 138 minutes

Stars: Brad Pitt, Jessica Chastain, Sean Penn

■ Enormously ambitious, sumptuous to behold and dead serious about the Meaning of It All, "The Tree of Life" is, nonetheless, utterly baffling in a way that's likely to lead to complete frustration in all but the most dedicated cinephiles. Writer/director Terrence Malick's ("Days of Heaven," "The New World") Cannes Festival Palm d'Or-winning drama is essentially a meditation on the Meaning of Life as illustrated by the possibly semi-autobiographical story of a 1950s family in Waco, Texas.

Filmed 'Version' of Richler

BY BRUCE INGRAM
Film Critic

Paul Giamatti plays the title character, a schlock-TV producer, and Dustin Hoffman is his vulgar but big-hearted father in the film adaptation of Mordecai Richler's "Barney's Version."

NEW THIS WEEK

BARNEY'S VERSION

★ ★ 1/2

Rated: R for language and some sexual content.

Length: 134 minutes

Stars: Paul Giamatti, Rosamund Pyke, Dustin Hoffman

■ Nobody does irascible, obnoxious, but soulful-underneath-it-all better than Giamatti, and he outdoes himself in this picaresque tale of a hard-drinking, abrasive schlock-TV producer looking back on his long, colorful, often-painfully bungled life. Based on Mordecai Richler's long-considered-unadaptable novel, "Barney's Version" is basically our antihero's response to a tell-all biography by an embittered detective who believes Barney literally got away with murder (among other miscellaneous sins) — a device that calls for flashbacks and plenty of 'em. Director Richard J. Lewis centers the epic reminiscence around Barney's three botched marriages, but all the jumping back and forth is jarring. Worse, it becomes clear, early on, that Barney is more of a grumbly teddy bear than the SOB he's meant to be, which effectively undercuts the story's complexity. Even so, the performances are a pleasure (especially the chemistry between Giamatti and Hoffman as his vulgar, big-hearted dad) and there's a surprisingly deep streak of romance running throughout. The womenfolk love Barney; go figure.

THE WARRIOR'S WAY

★ ★ 1/2

Rated: R for strong bloody violence.

Length: 100 minutes

Stars: Dong gun-Jang, Kate Bosworth, Geoffrey Rush

■ This hyper-stylized, wannabe-mythic, genre- grafting action extravaganza never quite lives up to its potential, but if you're the type who believes you can never have too many superhuman ninja assassins in a Western, it's still a pretty good time. Korean superstar Dong gun-Jang redefines taciturn as Yang, the baddest swordsman on planet Earth, who flees to the American Old West with his former mentor (longtime Hong Kong action star Ti Lung) on his trail with a posse of ninjas. Yang winds up in the middle of a battle between some odd townsfolk and a band of outlaws led by the mean, evil and sexually perverted Colonel (Danny Huston), who has the hots for Bosworth's healthy set of teeth. First-time writer/director Sngmoo Lee never quite figures out where he wants to go with the tone of "Warrior's Way" (equal parts Sergio Leone Western, Fellini drama and '80s Hong Kong supernatural martial arts epic), but it looks great, it's occasionally amusing and it pulls out all the stops for a spectacular slaughterhouse finale. All that, plus Rush as the town drunk.

■ This fascinatingly strange, sci-fi fantasy thriller about fate and true love (based on a short story by Philip K. Dick) pairs Damon as an idealistic young politician and Blunt as a sassy, sexy dancer in a true-love match that's given the thumbs down by God Almighty — a ruling enforced by angels dressed like FBI agents circa 1963. There's just enough action of sorts, mixed in with the heavy-duty romance, to make "The Adjustment Bureau" a solid candidate for a full-service date movie.

RECENT RELEASES

Rated: PG-13 for brief, strong language, some sexuality and a violent image.

Length: 106 minutes

Stars: Matt Damon, Emily Blunt

THE EAGLE

★ ★ 1/2

Rated: Rated PG-13 for battle sequences and some disturbing images.

Length: 114 minutes

Stars: Channing Tatum, Jamie Bell, Donald Sutherland

■ This hacking, slashing historical (and moral) drama about a Roman centurion (Tatum) trying to redeem his father's honor in ancient Britain is artfully directed (by Oscar-winner Kevin Macdonald) and remarkably well-shot, but it's sometimes painfully slow while making its predictable points about imperial greed, loyalty, friendship and true honor.

ALSO NEW

BEASTLY

■ A rich, arrogant teenager (Alex Pettyfer) is transformed by a curse into a loathsome creature — a permanent situation unless he can convince a beautiful girl to love him has he is. Daniel Barnz ("Phoebe in Wonderland") wrote and directed this adaptation of "Beauty and the Beast." Rated PG-13 for language including crude comments, brief violence and some thematic material.

PEOPLE ON SUNDAY

■ This silent film from Weimar-era Germany (1930) featured a remarkable collaboration between young German filmmakers who would later become influential players in Hollywood: Curt and Robert Siodmak, Edgar G. Ulmer, Fred Zinneman and Billy Wilder. The story, part-documentary and part-fiction, follows a young city couple on a summer outing in the country. Extras in this Criterion Collection release include a new hi-def digital transfer, a documentary on the film (which was both an influential experiment and a mainstream hit), and a short film by cinematographer Eugen Schufftan.

SEASON OF THE WITCH

■ Fourteenth-century knights (Nicolas Cage, Ron Perlman) agree to take a suspected witch who has been blamed for causing the Black Death plague to a monastery where she will be tried for consorting with the devil. Dominic Sena ("Gone in 60 Seconds") directed the thriller. Rated PG-13 for thematic elements, violence and disturbing content.

SUCKER PUNCH

■ After being locked up in an asylum by her evil stepfather, a girl (Australian actress Emily Browning) retreats into an action-adventure fantasy world and discovers it may hold the key to her freedom. Zack Snyder ("300") directed the fantasy adventure. Rated PG-13 for thematic material involving sexuality, violence and combat sequences, and for language.

Filmed 'Version' of Richler

BY BRUCE INGRAM
Film Critic

Paul Giamatti plays the title character, a schlock-TV producer, and Dustin Hoffman is his vulgar but big-hearted father in the film adaptation of Mordecai Richler's "Barney's Version."

NEW THIS WEEK

BARNEY'S VERSION

★ ★ 1/2

Rated: R for language and some sexual content.

Length: 134 minutes

Stars: Paul Giamatti, Rosamund Pyke, Dustin Hoffman

■ Nobody does irascible, obnoxious, but soulful-underneath-it-all better than Giamatti, and he outdoes himself in this picaresque tale of a hard-drinking, abrasive schlock-TV producer looking back on his long, colorful, often-painfully bungled life. Based on Mordecai Richler's long-considered-unadaptable novel, "Barney's Version" is basically our antihero's response to a tell-all biography by an embittered detective who believes Barney literally got away with murder (among other miscellaneous sins) — a device that calls for flashbacks and plenty of 'em. Director Richard J. Lewis centers the epic reminiscence around Barney's three botched marriages, but all the jumping back and forth is jarring. Worse, it becomes clear, early on, that Barney is more of a grumbly teddy bear than the SOB he's meant to be, which effectively undercuts the story's complexity. Even so, the performances are a pleasure (especially the chemistry between Giamatti and Hoffman as his vulgar, big-hearted dad) and there's a surprisingly deep streak of romance running throughout. The womenfolk love Barney; go figure.

THE WARRIOR'S WAY

★ ★ 1/2

Rated: R for strong bloody violence.

Length: 100 minutes

Stars: Dong gun-Jang, Kate Bosworth, Geoffrey Rush

■ This hyper-stylized, wannabe-mythic, genre- grafting action extravaganza never quite lives up to its potential, but if you're the type who believes you can never have too many superhuman ninja assassins in a Western, it's still a pretty good time. Korean superstar Dong gun-Jang redefines taciturn as Yang, the baddest swordsman on planet Earth, who flees to the American Old West with his former mentor (longtime Hong Kong action star Ti Lung) on his trail with a posse of ninjas. Yang winds up in the middle of a battle between some odd townsfolk and a band of outlaws led by the mean, evil and sexually perverted Colonel (Danny Huston), who has the hots for Bosworth's healthy set of teeth. First-time writer/director Sngmoo Lee never quite figures out where he wants to go with the tone of "Warrior's Way" (equal parts Sergio Leone Western, Fellini drama and '80s Hong Kong supernatural martial arts epic), but it looks great, it's occasionally amusing and it pulls out all the stops for a spectacular slaughterhouse finale. All that, plus Rush as the town drunk.

■ This fascinatingly strange, sci-fi fantasy thriller about fate and true love (based on a short story by Philip K. Dick) pairs Damon as an idealistic young politician and Blunt as a sassy, sexy dancer in a true-love match that's given the thumbs down by God Almighty — a ruling enforced by angels dressed like FBI agents circa 1963. There's just enough action of sorts, mixed in with the heavy-duty romance, to make "The Adjustment Bureau" a solid candidate for a full-service date movie.

Rated: PG-13 for brief, strong language, some sexuality and a violent image.

Length: 106 minutes

Stars: Matt Damon, Emily Blunt

THE EAGLE

★ ★ 1/2

Rated: Rated PG-13 for battle sequences and some disturbing images.

Length: 114 minutes

Stars: Channing Tatum, Jamie Bell, Donald Sutherland

■ This hacking, slashing historical (and moral) drama about a Roman centurion (Tatum) trying to redeem his father's honor in ancient Britain is artfully directed (by Oscar-winner Kevin Macdonald) and remarkably well-shot, but it's sometimes painfully slow while making its predictable points about imperial greed, loyalty, friendship and true honor.

Ebersole, 'Applause,' honor Charles Strouse

BY BRUCE INGRAM
Contributor

Christine Ebersole will perform in "Applause! Applause!" in honor of Charles Strouse.

Two-time Tony Award-winning Broadway star Christine Ebersole ("Grey Gardens," "42nd Street") might have started out in the chorus as a student at New Trier West, but she's most definitely a headliner now. And that's what she'll be doing — topping the bill — this weekend during a tribute to multiple Tony-winning composer Charles Strouse at Northwestern University.

"Applause! Applause! A Celebration of Charles Strouse," honors the career of the man who wrote the music for "Bye Bye Birdie," "Applause" and "Annie," and many more Broadway shows. A co-presentation of the university's annual Johnny Mercer Songwriters Project and its American Music Theatre Project, the tribute will include an appearance by Strouse, who will discuss his career and perform some of his own music, including a duet with Ebersole.

"Applause! Applause!" will also feature performances by Broadway and cabaret singer/songwriter Craig Carnelia, musical theater lyricist Marcy Heisler and Grammy-winning Nashville songwriter/producer Lari White.

Reached by phone on a train ride home from an audition, Ebersole spoke with Pioneer about coming home to Winnetka and her personal connection to Strouse's music.

PIONEER: Do you enjoy coming back to Winnetka? Do you still have friends here?

EBERSOLE: Yes, I do. As a matter of fact I was back in May for a friend's daughter's wedding. It's always nice to go back there. It's a little sad, though, because someone tore down the house I grew up in and built a big new house. There's a lot of that going on there, it seems.

PIONEER: You graduated from New Trier West. Were you a part of the theater program there?

EBERSOLE: I was. I was in Potpourri. In my sophomore year, I was actually a violin player in the orchestra. We were doing "Finian's Rainbow." And there was a defining moment for me, during the show where I played the violin during a non-musical moment. (Laughs.) Because I was so enthralled with what was happening on the stage. I realized at that moment that I wanted to be up there, not in the orchestra pit.

'APPLAUSE! APPLAUSE!'

A tribute to songwriter Charles Strouse by the Johnny Mercer Songwriters Project and the American Music Theatre Project at Northwestern University

8 p.m. Saturday, June 25

Pick-Staiger Concert Hall, Northwestern University, 50 Arts Circle Drive, Evanston

Tickets are $40.

(847) 491-7282 or visit www.tic.northwestern.edu.

Songwriter and lyricist Johnny Mercer, 1909-1976, the namesake of the Johnny Mercer Songwriters Project.

In my junior year I auditioned for Sarah in "Guys and Dolls," but the report back was that I was too tall. So I was in the chorus, one of the Mission Belles. And one of the other Belles was Christy Hefner.

PIONEER: Did you perform in local theater productions?

EBERSOLE: There was a show called New Performers at the time. I was a New Performer in 1971 — again in the chorus. You can actually see some of that show on YouTube. It's pretty good. (Indeed you can; search youtube.com for New Performers 1971.)

PIONEER: How did you wind up headlining this tribute to Charles Strouse?

EBERSOLE: Michael Kerker, who runs the musical theater division of ASCAP (the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers), asked me to do it. He knew I had worked with Charles Strouse very early on in a show called "Charlie and Algernon" (based on the novel "Flowers for Algernon") that he had done in Canada in 1978, I believe. I also did one of his shows more recently, after "Grey Gardens" — an Encore! Production of "Applause."

PIONEER: Have you kept up a relationship with him throughout your career?

EBERSOLE: Sure. You keep running into people, just being in the business. It's like one big extended family.

PIONEER: You've had a lot of success with revivals in your career — "42nd Street," "Oklahoma!" "Camelot," "Dinner at Eight," "Blithe Spirit." Is that why you decided to appear in "Applause"?

EBERSOLE: Actually, I just thought it would be fun, since it was a concert production, not a full-fledged show. It wasn't a huge commitment in terms of time, so it seemed a nice re-entry after taking a little time off after "Grey Gardens." I didn't really know much about the show, actually. I hadn't seen Lauren Bacall do it on Broadway — though I believe I saw her do a TV version. Of course, she was terrific. She won a Tony for that role.

PIONEER: Do you remember the first Strouse music that made an impression on you?

EBERSOLE: I loved "Bye Bye Birdie." At home, we had cast recordings of all the big Broadway musicals: "Camelot," "My Fair Lady" with Julie Andrews. There was something very enchanting about those shows, for me. It was the beginning of my appreciation of musicals as a sort of alternate universe — a fantasy. And "Bye Bye Birdie" was one of my favorites. I thought the show was so funny and the music was just wonderful.

PIONEER: What would you say is his greatest gift as a composer?

EBERSOLE: Well, he certainly has a great gift for the melodic line, for memorable melodies. His music finds its way inside of you. It's also very accessible. It's easy to enjoy. And it's fun to sing. That always helps.

Glenview troupe presents 'Man of La Mancha'

BY ELIZABETH SCHIELE
Contributor

Alexis Armstrong has always dreamed of playing the part of Aldonza and she will achieve that dream when she takes the stage for the Glenview Theatre Guild's production of "Man of La Mancha" on June 24.

"'Man of La Mancha' is a beautiful show about hope, and dreams and transformation," said Armstrong, noting that the musical was inspired by Miguel de Cervantes's 17th century classic, Don Quixote. "The character I play is one I always wanted to play. She's the one who transforms the most. She starts as a kitchen wench until Don Quixote shows her the way to transform into his lady, Dulcinea, a person of beauty and grace."

The Glencoe resident studied theater in London at the British American Drama Academy and performed in Chicago storefront theaters before having a family. She now teaches a children's Broadway Bound theater class for the Glencoe Park District. This is Armstrong's fourth performance with the Glenview Theatre Guild, an all-volunteer, community theater group.

Prison tale

The Tony Award-winning 1965 musical tells the story of Don Quixote as a play within a play, set during the Spanish Inquisition, explains director Susie Johnson. Quixote is put in a prison and incorporates the prisoners into the telling of his story. Quixote plays a crazy old man who thought he was a wonderful knight out to better the world. Through the telling of the story, Johnson said, Quixote shows how people are changed and moved by the story.

"The characters are moved as prisoners, the hopefulness of Don to see good in the world," Johnson said, "and by end of show, they are inspired by him to be better people, even the prisoners are changed by participating or watching this story being told. It's layers of storytelling which is fun to work with."

Johnson, formerly of Glenview and now a Naperville resident, has been involved with the Glenview Theatre Guild since 1996, directing since 2004. She previously taught theater at the high school and junior high levels before joining the Guild, which formed in 1974 as a non-profit, community theater group.

"It gives the community a chance to both participate in, if that's your love, as well as to see good quality theater locally, much less expensive than downtown," Johnson said.

Big cast

The 23 cast members for this production came from a variety of professions and backgrounds and live in Buffalo Grove, Highland Park, Northbrook, Glenview and Glencoe. They were selected from dozens of performers who auditioned in April for the annual performance of the Guild in June. "It's an amazing cast," Johnson said, "and we're lucky to have really talented people come out for this show and excited to tell this story in a really quality manner."

The cast also includes Robert Kimmeth of Chicago as Don Quixote and Ira Rosenthal of Highland Park as Sancho, Quixote's manservant/squire, along with Armstrong as Aldonza, the serving wench and part-time prostitute longing to believe the dreams of Don Quixote.

"It's a great group of people to work with and a wonderful production company," said Armstrong, a mezzo soprano who performs with the 17-piece orchestra. "The sets are beautiful, the choreography is wonderful, and the production values of the show are really high. People should come see it; it's a really strong cast and a beautiful show."

Evanston Holiday Tree Lighting
Nov. 22, 5:30-6:30 p.m.

You are invited to gather to welcome the upcoming holiday season with the annual Evanston Holiday Tree Lighting in Fountain Square. The celebration includes a visit from Evanston Mayor Tisdahl; a Rotary International representative and Santa Claus who arrive at Fountain Square on an Evanston fire truck. A reception will follow in the Rotary Building's Café International at One Rotary Center.

Getting to downtown Evanston events: Parking is plentiful in one of the city's three self-park garages, or take convenient CTA or Metra public transportation.

For more information, contact the Downtown Evanston Visitor Information Center located at 820 Davis St., Suite 151. Email info@downtownevanston.org. Call (847) 866-6319. Visit www.downtownevanston.org.

ON A ROLL

Ford Fiesta fits anyone's budget

BY EDWARD R. NOBLE
For Sun-Times Media

I recently did some free advertising for Ford when the Ford Fiesta arrived at the Wheels Test Ranch. The Lime Squeeze Metallic paint job could be seen from the moon. At first I was repelled by the color, but after a couple of drives into town I actually started to admire it. And, the paint job was better than perfect. The clear coat seemed to be an inch deep with nary a flaw visible. No, I would not buy a car this color, but my grandson would. It shouted "youth!" I started to feel years younger every time I drove it.

Snappy styling and 40 mpg with the optional six-speed automatic transmission will have smart-thinking kids saving their paper route money for the Fiesta. There are two models: a five-door hatch back and a four door.

The engine is a 1.6-liter four-cylinder working hard to get 120 horsepower. Our test Fiesta had the five-speed stick shift, and generally the 120 horsepower was adequate. When it was necessary to make a pass it was better to down shift. In spite of the small engine we did not notice any real performance problems; it was even reasonably quiet.

The Fiesta has all of the expected safety items, including knee and side curtain airbags. Antilock brakes with 15-inch tires and front-wheel drive should cover possible winter driving problems. The heated front seats will also be a good friend on cold winter days. The cloth bucket seats were a little on the small size for me, and there is no lumbar adjustment.

Younger folks will not care about the seats, but they will like the stereo with the single CD disc player with MP3 and input jack for even more music. The dashboard and center console had a modern layout and even had easy-to-understand labels on the buttons for audio, climate and a few other necessary adjustments. Big analog gauges give the Fiesta a sporty attitude. The quality and general appearance looked better than many offshore cars in this price range.

Air conditioning is standard as is the one-touch express up and down driver's window. Power locks with keyless entry and power mirrors are all standard equipment. Many high-priced accessories are standard on the Fiesta. The test Fiesta priced out at $16,555. That included $1,500 in options.

Don't plan on double dates because the rear fold-down split-bench seat is almost without any leg room. The Fiesta is a Ford world car, which means it must satisfy buyers in countries that don't have our wide roads and cheap gas. We will see more of these world cars from every manufacturer in the years to come.

For general driving requirements like going to work every morning in the city or the youthful enjoyment of having a car that is reliable, and also frugal, the Ford Fiesta is going to be a good friend.

Ford is on a roll.

Regency, Bowes Creek provide special lifestyles, amenities for 55-and-over buyers

Toll Brothers is offering two top-quality choices for buyers age 55 and over throughout the Chicago region, whether your ideal location is on a golf course or in a private setting, with locations in Elgin and South Barrington.

Regency at the Woods of South Barrington

Regency has developed into one of the area's more desirable addresses for the age-55-plus set. Priced from the low $500,000s, buyers can choose from among six ranch and two-story home designs ranging from 2,000 to 2,500 square feet in this low-maintenance private, gated community. Surrounded by beautiful walking trails and preserved open space, this luxurious development has become "one of the most sought after communities in Chicagoland" for the age-55-and-over buyer, said Cheryl Molfese, Sales Manager for Toll Brothers.

Regency homeowners enjoy an array of amenities, including the new private and luxurious clubhouse. It offers a fitness center, activity rooms, men's and women's locker rooms, a library, separate card rooms for men and women, and a multi-purpose party room. Outdoor features include a heated swimming pool, a tennis court, two bocce ball courts, a shuffle board court and a putting green. There is also an on-site social director coordinating everything from fitness classes and day trips to book club meetings, pool parties and more.

Residents can walk to restaurants, stores, and even the movie theater at The Arboretum of South Barrington. The community is connected to a new village park and walking trails leading into the new 35-acre Village of South Barrington Nature Conservancy. The area's newest public park surrounds a lake and will feature a cultural center, outdoor auditorium and lakeside park with picnic tables.

To visit, from Interstate 90, take Route 59 north for a mile. Turn right onto Woods Drive and travel ¼ mile. Turn right onto Regency Boulevard. The model homes and sales center is on the right. For more information, call (847) 381-6600.

Incentives abound for those seeking to find their place in Chicago

ON THE HOME FRONT
DON DEBAT

One of the best programs dreamed up by former Mayor Richard M. Daley was the great transformation movement to replace virtually all of the city's public housing, the high-rise slums that were built during his father's administration.

The innovative solution was to replace the city's worst eyesores with fresh mixed-income developments from Cabrini Green on the North Side to Robert Taylor Homes and Ida B. Wells Homes on the South Side.

The brilliant mixed-income housing idea was an innovative solution to a major problem.

Unfortunately, the great real estate recession of 2007 got in the way and stalled the plan to sell 926 market-rate and affordable home sales in a dozen or more mixed-income communities across Chicago.

In September of 2008, the city unveiled the Find Your Place in Chicago program funded by the Partnership for New Communities, a nonprofit consortium of business and civic leaders, that backs Chicago's plan to reshape Chicago Housing Authority development and stimulates home and condo sales in these mixed-income communities.

The initial Find Your Place in Chicago program generated 103 home, townhome and condominium sales, but another 138 new single-family, townhomes and condos still remain to be sold. These units are now being offered at greatly reduced prices with the added bonus that every home buyer will receive a buyer's incentive of at least $10,000 to be used for down payments, closing costs or to lower their mortgage, regardless of the income of the buyer.

The homes range from one-bedroom condos to three-bedroom townhomes, priced between $150,000 and $450,000. All are well located near great schools, parks and public transportation. In addition to the incentives and reduced prices of the homes, as much as a 48 percent reduction from the original prices.

For example, at Lake Park Crescent, a lakefront residential community in the North Kenwood-Oakland neighborhood on the Near South Side, project developer Draper and Kramer, Incorporated, recently reduced prices by up to 48 percent on select remaining units.

Single-family RowHomes, once listed at nearly $800,000, are now priced from $429,800. A three-bedroom-plus-den Terrace Penthouse, with a rooftop deck overlooking the lake, once listed at $613,000, is now priced at $359,800. One-bedroom Simplex CityHomes now start at $159,800 at Lake Park Crescent, a 68-unit community where 23 units are still available.

In addition to aggressive pricing, Lake Park Crescent also offers special grants valued at up to $26,500 and a low-down payment and FHA-insured financing to make home ownership an affordable reality, said sales manager Robbi Davis.

There are unsold units at other mixed-income communities, including 58 at Parkside of Old Town, 32 at Park Boulevard, 19 at West End and six at Oakwood Shores.

"Chicago has always been a great choice as a place to live and raise a family," said Mayor Rahm Emanuel. Now, the city is encouraging people to shorten their commute, stretch their

Mallinckrodt In The Park to host event with classic music radio

Mallinckrodt in the Park, an age-restricted condominium community on the North Shore, is hosting a special summer open house on Sunday, June 26, featuring 98.7 WFMT, Chicago's classical music station. The event will take place from 00n to 4 p.m., at 1041 Ridge Rd., in Wilmette.

It will feature an appearance by Kerry Frumkin, WFMT radio host and Peabody award winner, from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. There will also be a professionally designed patio landscape display by Chalet Nursery; tours of available Mallinckrodt condominiums; and prize drawings for CDs, Ravinia concert tickets, a Chalet Nursery gift certificate, and gift certificates to Restaurant Michael in Winnetka courtesy of @properties. Guests must tour each of the four model units on display to be entered into the prize drawings.

Mallinckrodt in the Park is the adaptive re-use and condominium conversion of the historic former Mallinckrodt convent and college built in 1918. The community is over 80-percent sold but a variety of floor plans are among the building's final 11 homes.

Available plans include one to three bedrooms, one to 3½ baths, and 1,148 to 2,952 square feet. Prices range from $205,000 up to $699,000 for the two-level penthouse. One or two indoor heated parking spaces are included per plan. There is also one affordable unit with one bedroom, one bath and 745 square feet priced at $110,000. At least one member in each household must be 55 years of age or older.

"Mallinckrodt residents appreciate great music, design, outdoor living and fine cuisine, and we've brought all of these elements together for what is sure to be a fun and social afternoon. Our luxury condominiums are only part of the Mallinckrodt experience. The community aspect is also a big reason behind the recent success of this development," said Reuben Warshawsky, co-founder of CLG Realty Partners and manager of Mallinckrodt Renaissance LLC.

Mallinckrodt in the Park is at 1041 Ridge Rd., just north of Lake Avenue, in Wilmette.

A sales center and decorated model for the community are open Sunday, 12 p.m. to 4 p.m., and by appointment.

For more information or to schedule a showing, visit www.mallinpark.com, or contact Don Shea of @properties at 847-910-0268 or donshea@atproperties.com.

True dream: Four Season-Dream Homes offer the same features — and more — than site-built single-family homes. Pictured are a model home, the Commodore, and a model kitchen. | SUPPLIED PHOTOS

Four Seasons-Dream Homes offer value because the homes are factory-built in an efficient environment. Manufactured homes are competitive with site-built homes in appearance, but cost much less to purchase. Construction costs per square foot average up to 40 percent less for a manufactured home than for a comparable site built home. Today's manufactured homes are built with the same building materials as site-built homes, but in a controlled factory environment where quality of construction is superior to what can be done outdoors. Weather doesn't interfere with construction or cause costly delays and damage building materials. Four Seasons-Dream homes has been in the field of manufactured housing since 1980.

The many Dream Home models are available for sale, or homes may be custom designed at no additional cost. Choices include kitchen cabinets, countertops, flooring, exterior design and much more. Dream Homes offer the latest in design trends and styles in everything from lighting and plumbing fixtures to flooring and trim treatments.

The Dream Homes are located on newly-sodded sites in the award-winning Four Seasons community. Residents also enjoy the small-town atmosphere of Belvidere and the proximity of Rockford. Cherryvale, a large shopping mall, can be reached in just a 10-minute drive.

The professionally trained and experienced staff at Four Seasons-Dream Homes offer tours of the many model homes seven days a week. Four Seasons-Dream Homes hours are 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, and noon to 4 p.m. Sunday.

New model attracts potential buyers to Meadow Ridge

The new 3,000-square-foot-plus Residence C model, which features a first-floor master-bedroom suite, has generated a real buzz among residents and attracted dozens of potential home buyers to Meadow Ridge in Northbrook.

According to Shannon Gibson-Giampa of Gibson and James Properties, Inc., the exclusive marketing agent for the development, the model home grand opened last weekend with a bang.

"There was quite a turnout of more than 50 people," she said. "The front door to the model became a revolving door."

Also, the buyer feedback was positive, from people coming to see the development for the first time and current homeowners at Meadow Ridge, Gibson-Giampa said.

"People stayed, lingered, took in all the details and no one was in a hurry to leave," she said.

Meadow Ridge is a gated 164-unit community of attached single-family townhomes and duplexes sequestered on 40 quiet acres at Waukegan and Founders roads in Northbrook.

"Meadow Ridge is a private community targeted to people moving from large single-family homes on the North Shore," said Suzy Friedman, president of KZF Development, the developer. "Our buyers are looking for a specific maintenance-free lifestyle as well as living in a private gated community."

Unique features include lavish landscaping, two man-made lakes, waterways, and a 1.2-mile running/biking path around the community.

The new model is the three-bedroom Residence C, with 2½-baths and more than 3,000 square feet of living space. The home showcases more than 1,844 square feet of living space on the first floor alone.

Guests are welcomed by the gracious entry foyer, a study, an island kitchen opening to a dining room and a great room with vaulted ceiling and optional fireplace. The first-floor master bedroom suite has two walk-in closets and a private master bath.

The upper level offers another 818 square feet of living space, which includes two bedrooms with walk-in closets, a full bath and a room-sized bonus space. Residence C is base-priced from $645,000.

"Potential buyers should plan to come out and take a tour of the new C model. It is truly something to see," said Gibson-Giampa. "Buyers ready to move right away can also tour one of the few completed homes. These 'inventory' homes are some of the best values at Meadow Ridge."

Delivery dates for these inventory homes range from 30 days to six months.

"Also if a buyer is not looking to move into a home sooner, Meadow Ridge has homes to be built but locations are increasingly limited," said Gibson-Giampa.

Delivery dates for the "to-build" homes at Meadow Ridge range from seven months to more than one year.

"This gives people a comfort level in having time to sell their current house," said Gibson-Giampa.

The Meadow Ridge residences are being built in two-unit duplex and four-unit townhome buildings in a community that features a guard house and private streets. Base prices range from $495,000 to $895,000.

The two-story duplexes have three bedrooms, 2½ baths and 2,334 to 3,700 square feet of living space. The duplex homes, which come with an unfinished bonus room, feature a private entry, soaring ceilings and a two-car attached garage.

The two-story townhomes are available with two or three bedrooms including a first-floor master suite, 2½ baths and 2,236 to 2,617 square feet of living space. Townhomes feature grand two-story living rooms, 9-foot first-floor ceilings and an attached two-car garage.

"Another attraction of Meadow Ridge is its location in the heart of the North Shore," said Friedman. "The Northbrook Metra train station at 1401 Shermer Road is within 1.6 miles of our community. It is about a 35-minute drive to Chicago's Loop by automobile via Eden's Expressway (Interstate 94). Interstate 294 also is nearby."

Good public schools, the North Shore's low crime rate and the site's nearness to transportation, shopping and employment concentrations make Meadow Ridge a desirable location, she said.

Northbrook's educational options include Glenbrook North High School, Glenbrook South High School, Countryside Montessori Private Elementary and Willowbrook and Maple Elementary and Middle Schools.

Meadow Ridge also is a short drive from the 9-hole Willow Hill Golf Course and the Willow Festival Shopping Center at Waukegan and Willow roads. Just across the street from the development are the Techny Post Office and the Techny Towers.

Other recreational amenities include a 1.2-mile running/biking path around the community, which is also connected to trails running throughout Northbrook and the North Shore, and the nearby Five Seasons Tennis and Country Club.

In addition to the Willow Festival mall, Northbrook is home to other shopping amenities that include pharmacy, grocery, electronics, clothing and bookstore options. Northbrook also offers a range of restaurant options.

The Meadow Ridge sales center at Waukegan and Founders roads in Northbrook is open Wednesday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Saturday and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. or by appointment. For more information, call (847) 559-9800, or visit www.MeadowRidgeNorthbrook.com.

dollars and reap all the benefits of living in Chicago.

Terry Mazany, president of the Chicago Community Trust, of which the Partnership for New Communities is a part, said that the campaign represents the robust and committed partnership that exists in Chicago between government and philanthropy.

"We in Chicago — both foundations and government — have always understood that neighborhood vitality is as critical to our future as are our great center city cultural institutions. Helping families buy homes, helping keep neighborhoods affordable adds to the vibrancy of our neighborhoods and our city, and ensures a sustainable future."

Mazany said that in addition to providing the $10,000 grants, the Partnership will also provide home buyers with assistance in calculating the mortgages that they can afford and obtaining bank financing.

A variety of special tours of homes are planned this summer for home buyers and for institutions or employers who are interested in encouraging their employees shop for in-town housing. For more information, call (312) 822-0569, or visit www.findyourplaceinchicago.org.

It shed weight. But not to be pretty.

Only the most potent ingredients made the cut. Introducing the new Cayman R sports car. Aluminum doors and special 19" alloy wheels help shed 121 lbs. A lowered stance and an improved suspension allow for more connected handling. And an interior stripped to the essentials adds potency to a more powerful 330 hp engine. Test drive the new Cayman R at The Porsche Exchange. A vicious process of elimination never felt so generous. Porsche. There is no substitute.

The new Cayman R. Less is ferociously more.

The Evanston Recreation Division offers boating lessons on Lake Michigan. Sign up for private instruction on sailing boats or group kayaking lessons. Lessons for age 14 and older are offered June 11 through Labor Day at Dempster Street Beach. Evanston residents pay $60 for two one-hour kayaking lessons. The fee for four one-hour private sailing lessons is $150. Nonresident fees are higher. Call (847) 866-2913 (preseason) or (847) 866-4167 (beach season).

Twilight historical kayak tours offer a unique look at Evanston's history

Stops include the wreck of the George Morley, the Grosse Point Lighthouse and the Baha'i House of Worship (Temple) in Wilmette. Leisurely paddles led by Wateriders take place from 6 – 7:45 p.m. on Thursdays or Fridays on June 16, June 30, July 15 and Aug. 12. No experience is required. Age level: 14 and older. Ages 10-13 may attend with an adult. Fee varies based on whether you rent a kayak or bring your own. Call the Evanston Recreation Division at (847) 866-4167 to register.

Rowing for Fitness

Sign up for Rowing for Fitness private lessons, and enjoy a magnificent way to work out on the water. You will be rowing on Lake Michigan after one or two lessons. Sliding seat rowing, or sculling, uses all the major muscle groups to provide a non-impact full-body workout. Although Wateriders has been offering rowing instruction since 1997, they offered instruction through the City of Evanston at Dempster Street Beach for the first time in 2010. All equipment is provided. The age level for classes is 14 years and older. The fee for four private 70-minute lessons is $160 for Evanston residents and $210 for nonresidents. For more information or to register, call (312) 953-9287 or visit www.wateriders.com.

Kayak fishing trips

Learn the art of catch-and-release fishing on Lake Michigan. You will study cast and retrieve techniques, as well as lure/bait choice, to best maximize your Great Lake fishing adventure. The targets are smallmouth bass, perch, bluegill and more. Each class will have a quick on-shore demo and 90 minutes on the water. The Evanston Recreation Division will supply all the necessary equipment except a fishing license. Participants meet at the Dempster Street Beach Office. The age level is 14 years and older. Youth age 10-13 may enroll with an adult in the same kayak. Fee vary based on whether you use a rented kayak or your own. Classes are held from 6 – 7:45 p.m. on Thursday or Fridays. Class dates are June 24, July 22, August 11 and August 25. For more information or to register, call (847) 866-4167.

Sand Castle and Sand Sculpture Contest

This popular event sponsored by the Evanston Recreation Division is bigger and better every year. All ages are invited to bring buckets, shovels, sculpting tools, etc., and compete to win prizes. The sand castle and sand sculpture contest will take place from 5:30 – 7:30 p.m. on Monday, July 11 at Clark Street Beach, 1811 Sheridan Rd. in Evanston. Call (847) 866-4167 from July 1-10 to pre-register. Rain date is July 18. Contest admission is free, but beach admission fee applies. Note: beach admission is free for Evanston residents on July 11.

Swimming beaches

Evanston's five public swimming beaches are open from 10:30 a.m. – 7:30 p.m. through Labor Day, Sept. 5. You need beach token or daily pass for admission. Purchase season tokens seven days a week at the Dempster Street Beach office from 10 a.m. – 7 p.m. and at the Clark Street Beach office from 10:30 a.m. – 7:30 p.m. Tokens also are sold during office hours at community centers and the Morton Civic Center. Purchase daily passes at beach entrances. Evanston has three beaches that are accessible to people with disabilities: Greenwood Street, Lee Street and Lighthouse. For more information, call (847) 866-4167 or visit www.cityofevanston.org.

Picnic in the park

If you're gathering with your family or friends for a small picnic in an Evanston park, you don't need to pay a fee if you don't wish to purchase a permit. However, picnic areas are available on a first-come, first-served basis. For busy weekends, you may wish to reserve a picnic location by purchasing a permit. If you're planning a gathering with more than 30 people in a City of Evanston park, please call the Evanston Recreation Division at (847) 448-8237 to find out what parks can accommodate your group. Details on picnics in the park and park permits are located online. Go to www.cityofevanston.org and type "park permit" in the search box on the home page or call (847) 448-8237.

Evanston festivals highlight the arts

Once again this summer, Evanston's picturesque lakefront serves as the welcoming backdrop for two of the North Shore's most popular summertime festivals.

Travel the world in a single day at the Evanston Ethnic Arts Festival, noon – 7 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, July 16 – 17, in Dawes Park, 1700 Sheridan Rd. (at Church St.) in Evanston. Sample the songs, dance, spoken word, visual arts and cuisine of countries spanning the globe. With live entertainment on two stages and interactive workshops, the festival is perfect for all ages. Admission is free.

Just three weeks later, the Evanston Lakeshore Arts Festival, one of the North Shore's premier fine arts festivals, is held 11 a.m. – 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 6 – 7, also in Dawes Park. Refreshed by lakeside breezes, fine arts enthusiasts can browse through the creative works of more than 125 juried artists gathering from across the country. Accompanying the art are live musical performances, a silent art auction and food from local restaurateurs. For families, the Children's Craft Tent offers ongoing entertainment. Admission is free.

Both festivals are sponsored by the City of Evanston's Cultural Arts Division and partially supported by the Illinois Arts Council, a state agency. For more information, call (847) 448-8260 or visit www.cityofevanston.org/festivals.

Fleetwood-Jourdain Theatre announces summer 2011 season

Fleetwood-Jourdain Theatre will present Five Guys Named Moe, From The Mississippi Delta and three dramatic readings at the theater at Noyes Cultural Arts Center, 927 Noyes St. in Evanston, throughout the summer.

June:

Five Guys Named Moe

The 2011 season kicks off with Five Guys Named Moe. This Tony-nominated musical features the whimsical hit songs of Louis Jordan, one of the most beloved songwriting talents of the 20th century. Jordan, a great composer and saxophonist, had more than 50 top-ten singles on the rhythm and blues charts. He brought a popular new slant to jazz that paved the way for the rock 'n' roll of the '50s. This show inspires the audience to laugh and shout. They may even dance in the aisles.

Tim Rhoze, Fleetwood-Jourdain Theatre's artistic director, will be the director. Rhoze also will serve as set designer and costume designer. Tim Lenihan is the musical director. Sean Blake is the choreographer. Allie Miller is stage manager. The cast is Alexander Brown (Little Moe), Andrew White Jr. (Big Moe), George Hull (Eat Moe), Kappuchino (Four-Eyed Moe), James Perrin (No Moe) and Gerald Wilson (No Max).

Five Guys Named Moe will be presented June 11 – June 26 at 7 p.m. on Saturdays and 3 p.m. on Sundays. Tickets are $10 in advance or at the door.

July:

From the Mississippi Delta

Fleetwood-Jourdain Theatre presents From the Mississippi Delta, an autobiographical work by Dr. Endesha Ida Mae Holland. The play traces her journey through poverty and abuse in the Jim Crow South, her role as an activist in the civil rights movement, academic achievement and triumph as a Pulitzer Prize-nominated playwright. This story of courage will be portrayed by three dynamic actresses playing all the characters — black and white, young and old, men and women — who will make her world come alive in an eloquently potent and impassioned journey filled with story and song. Rhoze will also direct this production.

From the Mississippi Delta will be presented July 9 – July 24 at 7 p.m. on Saturdays and 3 p.m. on Sundays. Tickets are $10 in advance or at the door.

August:

Dramatic Reading Series

The late-summer Dramatic Reading Series returns this year with one play featured per weekend at 7 p.m. on Saturdays and 3 p.m. on Sundays throughout August. Merc'y Rising by Gloria Bond Clunie will be read on August 6 and 7. Selecting Memories by Tania Richard will be read on August 13 – 14. Heat by Marsha Estell will be read on August 20 – 21. Admission is $5 in advance or at the door.

Fleetwood-Jourdain Theatre is a City of Evanston-supported program. Its mission is to present powerful, thought provoking, community-centered theater arts programming with a commitment to diversity and creative excellence. For more information, call (847) 448-8254 or (847) 448-8260 and visit www.cityofevanston.org/fjtheatre.

Presbyterian Homes, based in Evanston, has recently announced an initiative to help older adults sell their houses. People are anxious about selling their homes in the current real estate market. But a unique Home Sale Program can help ease their worries.

Homes that are priced right are selling in fewer than 90 days.

The retirement communities of Presbyterian Homes have long been at the forefront of mission-driven programs to meet the needs of seniors. From its founding in 1904, to its expansions to Lake Forest and Arlington Heights, the organization has adapted to its customers' needs.

This constant focus on serving seniors led to offering FREE independent, expert advice from top real-estate professionals to seniors who seek to move to a Presbyterian Homes community. These communities include Westminster Place (the original campus on Golf Road in Evanston), King Home and Ten Twenty Grove in downtown Evanston, Lake Forest Place in Lake Forest and The Moorings of Arlington Heights.

Seniors will get free real estate assistance and support

The free program of real estate assistance and support works like this: Presbyterian Homes has entered into a relationship with one of the nation's most experienced, well-connected relocation firms. This network of knowledgeable, top-notch real-estate agents will work on the homeowner's behalf to find the right buyer at the right price.

The team will help to select an agent to assist with pricing the house and staging it for the most attractive appearance to potential buyers. Staging a house may include repositioning furniture, repainting a room, providing fresh flowers on Open House Day – little touches that make a difference in the overall marketability of the property.

Using all the tools at their disposal – local knowledge, online resources, personal relationships – the real estate agent will identify the right buyer and work closely with the homeowner to negotiate the best deal.

It's the kind of detail-oriented, professional service that top executives enjoy – and Presbyterian Homes is paying for this service on behalf of their future residents. The results benefit both future residents and Presbyterian Homes. Typically, the number of days on market is reduced from a national average of 150 days to just 67 days on market for seniors using this service!

Professional moving services are provided

Additional support comes in the form of moving services, also financed by the organization. They will pay for the services of professional moving and transition specialists to provide the personal attention and careful consideration that their future residents deserve.

Moving experts work to organize the move, using a floor plan of the new residence to help guide the decisions concerning what to bring and where to place it. They can also arrange to send items to friends, family, or a favorite charity.

Then, as moving day approaches, this team will make sure that all the precious possessions are expertly packed and arrive safely. The professionals hired by Presbyterian Homes help the future residents all the way, looking after every detail – literally thousands of dollars of professional assistance!

Moving to a Presbyterian Homes community will be easy and stress-free

The support is designed to help seniors stop worrying about how they are going to move, and assist them in planning the new-found freedom they will enjoy without the responsibilities of property management.

Bob Werdan, vice president of Presbyterian Homes, explains, "We've created this Home Sale Program to eliminate the concerns that seniors have shared with us. And in the unlikely event our expert relocation team can't sell your house, ask us about low interim-financing rates and our Deferred Entrance Fee Program.

"We offer a great opportunity to ensure that the best move you can make – to a Presbyterian Homes community – is your easiest move ever."

Werdan suggests, "Ask yourself: What's more important? Appreciating real estate or APPRECIATING LIFE?"

HOROSCOPES

For the week of June 29 — July 5

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You clever Ewes and Rams love nothing more than to rise to a challenge. So, by all means, if you feel sure about your facts, step right up and defend your side of the issue.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You've done some great work recently. Now it's time to reward yourself with something wonderful, perhaps a day at a spa or a night out with someone very special.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You love to talk, but don't forget to make time to do a little more listening; otherwise, you could miss out on an important message someone might be trying to send to you.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Your aspect indicates some uncertainty about one of your goals. Use this period of shifting attitudes to reassess what you really want and what you're ready to do to get it.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Your social life is picking up, and you'll soon be mingling with old friends and making new ones. But 'twixt the fun times, stay on top of changing workplace conditions.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A trusted friend offers understanding as you vent some long-pent-up feelings. Now, move on from there and start making the changes you've put off all this time.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You might well feel uneasy as you face a difficult situation involving someone close to you. But you know you're doing the right thing, so stick with your decision.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You're a good friend to others. Now's the time to allow them to be good friends to you. Rely on their trusted advice to help you get through an uncertain period.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Family and friends are always important, but especially so at this time. Despite your hectic workplace schedule, make a real effort to include them in your life.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) That project you've been working on is almost ready for presentation. But you still need some information from a colleague before you can consider it done.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Don't let those negative attitudes that have sprung up around you drain your energies. Shrug them off, and move ahead with the confidence that you can get the job done.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Aspects favor some dedicated fun time for the hardworking Piscean. A nice, refreshing plunge into the social swim can recharge your physical and emotional batteries.

BORN THIS WEEK: You love to travel and be with people. You probably would be happy as a social director on a cruise ship.

Death Notices

Flaherty, John

Of Arlington Heights, formerly of Park Ridge, passed away on June 6, 2011 at age 88.

He was born on July 20, 1922 to John and Helen Schumacher Flaherty of Chicago, Illinois. John graduated from Lane Tech High School and Northwestern University, Class of 1944.

He was a Navy Officer Lieutenant JG during World War II, serving from 1944-1946 on the island of Guam. Following the war, he began a structural engineering career of 42 years, the last 20 years with Mid-America Engineers of Chicago as Project Manager and Chief Structural Engineer.

In 1949, John married Alice Elizabeth Anderson, beginning a loving relationship and true partnership that would last sixty years. He and Alice collaborated on and taught money management courses, including a series of 14 live broadcasts on Channel 11 in the 1950's. He was an early proponent for noise abatement at O'Hare Airport in the 1970's, and throughout his life enthusiastically promoted the planting of trees, especially in Park Ridge. John will be remembered most, however, as a wonderful husband and father who enjoyed participating with his family through the years in many activities at St Andrews Lutheran School, Maine South, and Park Ridge Presbyterian Church. As a talented amateur photographer, he leaves a beautiful archival-quality history of the Flaherty family in 35mm slides.

He was preceded in death by his wife Alice, who passed away in January, 2010. He is survived by his daughters Jeanine (Jim) Isham of Greenwood, IN and Cathy (Mark) Maxwell of Wyoming, MI; grandchildren John, Alex, Jill, and Adam Maxwell of Wyoming, MI, and Carly (Shaun) Siderits of Kenosha, WI; and great-grandchildren Shaely and Jacob Siderits. Also surviving is his brother, George E. Flaherty of Arlington Heights and sister-in-law Dorothy Flaherty of Brownsburg, Indiana.

A private service for the family took place on June 8, 2011 with burial at Memorial Gardens in Arlington Heights, Illinois. A memorial service to celebrate John's life will be held on Saturday, June 25, 2011 at 11:00 a.m. at the Park Ridge Presbyterian Church, located at 1300 W. Crescent Avenue, Park Ridge, Illinois, (847) 823-4135. Memorial contributions may be made to the Park Ridge Presbyterian Church.

NORTHBROOK STAR

OUR NEIGHBOR

Young 'pitchman' devoted to public service

By MARIE ANCELL LUC
Correspondent

With his long wavy locks, OurNeighbor Jonathan Mullins looks like he could be the next Shaun White on a snowboard or maybe on a beach, dude with sun-bleached blond hair.

Surf or turf, this Greenbriar School third-grader has done both on family vacations with his two younger twin brothers, Sam and David, who will turn 7 next month and also have long blond hair.

"We recently put them on skis and they loved it," reported their mother, Laura Mullins, a Chicago personal injury attorney, who admits she wheres when her boys tackle extreme sports.

"They also do the boards — standing, sitting and boogie boarding, jumping waves and now we're starting to learn how to surf. Hours I travel to keep the boys busy at least until the summer."

Sounds like the next Copperton sun-tan lotion commercial. This 10-year-old Jonathan has already done his free-range in an illustrious Department of Public Health public service announcement. The spot about flu prevention has been broadcast this year on television and in local movie theatres.

Three times

Mullins is seen three times pronouncing why the public should clean, cover and contain. Wearing a brown long-sleeved shirt, Jonathan coughs into his right arm and is photographed in front of an apartment building entrance. The 90-second spot can be viewed on the department's Web site at www.wdph.state.il.us. Click on the H1N1 and seasonal flu tabs, box in the middle of the homepage.)

"The message is relevant all year round and really applies not just to the swine flu but to any communicable illness," Laura Mullins said. "It was pretty funny that we didn't even know the commercial was airing until he came home from school one day and another student and another told him that they saw him on TV.

"The public service announcement was filmed months prior and we weren't even aware if this was to be a local spot or out of state."

Being a local celebrity has its novelty.

"Ummm, it was pretty fun... They should clean, cover and contain."

Jonathan Mullins, 8
Northbrook

"Ummm, it was pretty fun," said Jonathan, when asked how it felt being recognized. "They should clean, cover and contain," he said, when questioned about what the spots should say.

"Jonathan was really excited when kids at school, even kids that he does not know, commented that they saw him on TV," Laura Mullins said. "I think a fifth grade portion of his fellow school said she recognized him from TV, which was very exciting for a third grade boy."

This isn't the first time a Mullins boy was seen on TV.

"About one to two years ago, Sam was in a (public service announcement) that aired in 2-stars," Laura Mullins said. "The shot didn't really show him — he was behind a shower curtain. We have no future plans for any commercial work but I suppose if an opportunity fell into our laps we wouldn't turn it down."

The story behind the public health department commercial was "not very thrilling," said Mullins, although Jonathan's fans might disagree.

Melanie Kapoor, a friend of Laura Mullins, was wondering if the three Mullins boys could come downtown to Chicago for a test shot. Would they find, Frodo, who works in telecommunications, consider taking the day off? It might mean making a day of school but would be a cool family adventure, both parents believed.

Kapoor, of Outsider Inc., a Chicago-based production company, was working with Michael Lollelette, a director with All or Film, also the producer of the public health department spot.

"I actually had to go and buy some clothes that did not contain any logo and were solid colors," Laura Mullins said. "When we got to the studio, the boys all met with the make-up artist and had their wardrobe and hair checked out and were given a few lines to practice reading.

"Then one by one they were led behind a green screen and I could hear Jonathan was the only one of the three to make the run.

"Maybe his long haircut stopped him short at cut-off.

"I love the long hair on the boys," said Laura Mullins, a brunette with shoulder-length straight hair. "I've even been told by a hairstylist to disregard the harmful of 'your daughter' comments from shopkeepers.

"I think Fred would disagree with me here, but I like the long hair style."

And this comes from the only lawyer in the house, who also has the longest hair.

Whatever happened to 'Stop or I'll call the police'?

Free of charge, we offer tales of stupid criminals, strange crimes, odd news and otherwise silly stories from around Chicagoland.

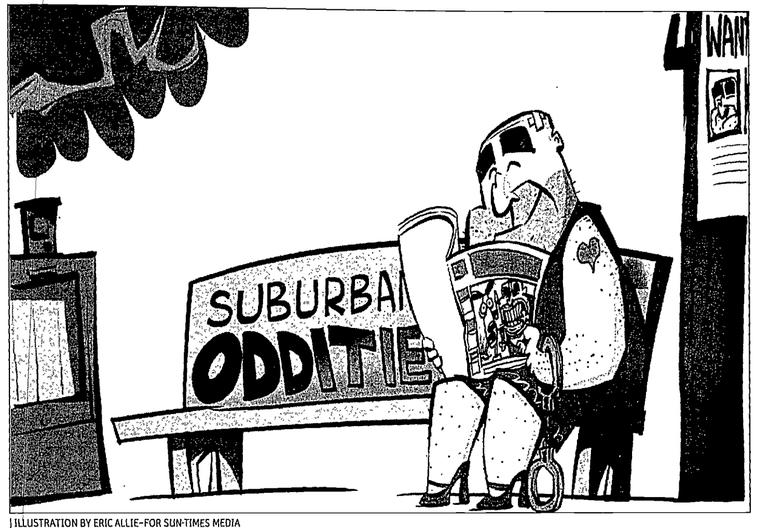

ILLUSTRATION BY ERIC ALLIE–FOR SUN-TIMES MEDIA

LINCOLNWOOD, JUNE 5 — A witness watched four boys, age 12 or 13, cut the locks on four bikes in a rack at the Lincolnwood Town Center, then ride away on them.

Happy Father's Day

MUNDELEIN, JUNE 6 — A Ravinia Circle resident called the cops to report his car stolen. After they arrived, so did the car — driven home by the man's son, with a lot of new front-end damage. The son, 20, said he had hit a sign, but he couldn't say just where. The cops said he had taken a few too many hits of another kind, and charged him with driving under the influence of drugs and drug possession.

The fountain of youth

LA GRANGE, JUNE 7 — Kids were reported swimming in the fountain next to the Village Hall, 53 S. La Grange Road, and sent away at 12:56 p.m., 1:54 p.m., 3:44 p.m. and 11:41 p.m.

In Florida, he could run for Congress.

PARK RIDGE, JUNE 11 — A Park Ridge man, 35, freaked out customers at the Marathon gas station as he walked back and forth with a pistol on his hip. When a bystander asked if he had some kind of permit to parade around strapped, he said something to the effect of, "Nobody's going to arrest me today"

Somebody called the cops anyway, who showed an admirable degree of restraint by not shooting him, even when, handcuffed, he tried to drive off in one of their cars.

As it turned out, he had no bullets.

Beat and run

NILES, JUNE 7 — A Glenview woman, 25, said a man in his 40s was masturbating in a store on the 8300 block of Golf Road. He ran out of the store and north through the parking lot, and was last seen behind the strip mall.

Where else should underwear go?

NORRIDGE, JUNE 5 — A sneak thief was accused of ripping off the Carson's store at 4200 N. Harlem Ave., stuffing several pairs of underwear in his pants.

Just an old-fashioned girl

HARWOOD HEIGHTS, JUNE 5 — A Norridge woman, 50, visiting another woman's house, tried to hit her with what police quaintly described as "a billy club."

The pane of love

NILES, JUNE 9 — A woman staying at the Days Inn, 6450 Touhy Ave., punched out one of the windows and ran away. The man she had been with said he had an "off-an-on" dating relationship with her.

Getting run over was the high point of his day

PARK RIDGE, JUNE 8 — A guy riding a motorized bicycle was hit by a car near Crescent and Knight avenues. The cops found out he had no license to drive it, which gave them the right to get him violated on a previous court agreement that might send him to jail if he broke any laws. So they did. Bond was sent at $10,000.

Cell phones: a way to help kids keep out of trouble

WILMETTE, JUNE 13 — A Wilmette boy, 12, left his $300 cell phone on a Maple Park bench to play. When he came back to get the phone, it was gone. He was suspicious of two older boys he saw hanging around, but they denied taking his phone. Later, the boy and his friends saw the same older teens ride past them in a car, and one cursed them out the window. "We have your phone," he said as he rode out of sight.

Better living through technology

WILMETTE, JUNE 5 — A Wilmette woman heard a stranger's recorded voice tell her on the phone, "I'm going to kill you and your family." Police tracked the telephone number to a web service that allows text and voice messages to place calls, so it couldn't be traced further.

Hard times

MUNDELEIN, JUNE 11 — A Mundelein woman, 50, was arrested for buying merchandise after switching the price tags, and for stealing a watch — from the Goodwill store at 76 S. Midlothian Road.

Sometimes lawyers are a bargain

PARK RIDGE, MAY 25 — A landlord, 68, apparently peeved about back rent, climbed through a rear window to threaten to sue his tenant if she didn't pay up. Two weeks later, he was out more money — $1,000 to bail himself out of jail on disorderly conduct and trespassing charges.

Money so heavy it takes two guys to get it

WILMETTE, JUNE 7 — A cabdriver, having taken two men on a $30 ride from Chicago to the 100 block of Linden Avenue, agreed to let them both go into a house to get the money. One ran around the back, and the other pretended to knock on the front door. Neither was ever seen again.

The sweet smell of the slammer

PARK RIDGE, JUNE 6 — Suspicious about a young man wandering, at 2:30 a.m., around the same area where some cars had been burglarized, a cop took a good sniff, and the guy smelled smoky. So he searched the guy's belongings, and found a shoe with 6 grams of marijuana tucked inside. The shoe also contained a bag of coins.

Marking his territory

WILMETTE, JUNE 6 — A Chicago man was charged with disorderly conduct and possession of alcohol on park property after he urinated in the middle of a path in Gillson Park.

That's the flimsiest wall I ever saw

LA GRANGE, JUNE 10 — An intoxicated La Grange man fell through the screen door onto his balcony on the 900 block of South Eighth Avenue, a neighbor reported to police.

A bicycle built for boobs

GLENCOE, JUNE 9 — Two youths were seen, in the afternoon rush hour, riding a mountain bike away from Almost in Florida Luxury Tanning, 101 Green Bay Road, where it had been left by its owner. Police watched as a 17-year-old boy pedaled toward the Metra station, with a 17-year-old girl riding the handlebars. They left the bike at the station, and were then ticketed by police. Their case goes to the New Trier Peer Jury for adjudication.

Help, help, I'm out of touch

LA GRANGE, JUNE 9 — A resident of the 500 block of South Ashland Avenue called 911 twice asking how to check her voice mail.

Gnome more

LA GRANGE, JUNE 11 — More than a dozen painted gnome statues valued at $200 were reported stolen from a yard on the 600 block of South Ashland Avenue.

It's $1,000, in case you want to start an investigation

LAKE FOREST, JUNE 4 — A resident of the 900 block of Hawthorne Avenue reported the theft of about 50 pounds of quarters. Police found no forced entry into the house, and had no estimate of the value of the quarters.

Can't complain

LA GRANGE, JUNE 9 — Graffiti depicting Adolph Hitler being shot in the head was reported found in the gangway of 23 S. La Grange Road. The word "Jammin'" was written under the picture.

Click It or Collared

LINCOLNWOOD, APRIL 18 — A Chicago driver was curbed in the 6600 block of Crawford Avenue by a cop who noticed he wasn't wearing a seat belt. After he stopped, the cop noticed more than half a pound of marijuana, a scale, and $607 cash.

Baseball, hot dogs, apple pie and — meatloaf? You might not think of meatloaf, that comfort food classic, as typical summertime fare. But Chris Dugenske, executive chef at Renaissance Chicago North Shore in Northbrook is bringing meatloaf into picnic season, and we're not just talking about cold meatloaf sandwiches. Dugenske wraps meatloaf in bacon before baking it. Then, he slices off a few pieces to slap on the grill over medium heat for a few minutes. His inventive approach is just one of many ways chefs are modernizing — and enhancing the flavor of — classic family recipes.

"Bacon gives meatloaf extra flavor, and the grill gives it that little bit of char taste," Dugenske said.

An ingredient found in most meatloaf recipes, one that is no stranger to the picnic table, ketchup, adds a special texture to meatloaf when it is grilled.

"Grilling caramelizes ketchup," Dugneske said.

His version of the classic meal is as versatile as it is flavorful.

John des Rosiers, owner and chef at inovasi in Lake Bluff, sears Hawaiian reef fish to top his potato salad. | MICHAEL SCHMIDT-SUN-TIMES MEDIA

"When you want to grill the meatloaf, you just slice off a piece and put it on the grill," he said. "You can make it for one person or feed a whole family."

Dugenske lines a loaf pan with strips of apple wood-smoked bacon, and flips the bacon ends over the top of the meatloaf, covering it like a blanket.

He adds a spiced-up summertime flair to another food that is typically considered comfort food: risotto. He incorporates white truffle oil and fresh asparagus into his latest variation of risotto. The dish is served with a side of white wine cilantro pesto made with Pinot Grigio, cilantro and chipotle. Talk about putting your summer party dress on.

"While many of the ingredients are classic Italian, we've incorporated some south-of-the-border components to spice things up," Dugenske said. "A contemporary twist has been added to many traditional Italian and American favorites on the menu."

At inovasi in Lake Bluff, chef/proprietor John des Rosiers spices up his modern take on what is undeniably one of the most classic of all summer foods, potato salad. His Japanese-influenced recipe transforms the picnic mainstay.

Des Rosiers uses common Asian ingredients like ginger and sesame oil, but also less common components like mirin. Mirin is rice wine vinegar that is similar to sake, but contains only about 14 percent alcohol; sake typically contains about 20 percent alcohol. The recipe also calls for shiso leaves. Shiso is related to the basil family, reflected by its somewhat basily taste. Like cilantro, the leaves, which are jagged around the edges, taste slightly citrusy. The plant grows red or green; des Rosiers prefers the red leaf variety.

Des Rosiers, who is known for showcasing local produce and food products, accents the potato salad with small batch soy sauce made in Kentucky and finely grated fresh wasabi root grown in Michigan.

"The wasabi adds another flavor layer," des Rosiers said. "It's light, airy and elegant."

He uses Adirondack Reds, dark gold-colored peanut-style potatoes grown at Chef's Garden Inc., a farm in Huron, Ohio.

"They (Chef's Garden) do some really intense stuff," des Rosiers said.

The locavore chef modernizes another all-American classic, popcorn, with popcorn shoots that are also grown at Chef's Garden. He dresses the shoots in melted butter, black pepper and a sprinkling of finely grated pecorino cheese.

Wasabi Potato Salad

(Adapted from inovasi in Lake Bluff)

Vinaigrette (dressing for potatoes)

1 cup good quality soy

2 tablespoons ginger, finely chopped

¼ cup roasted sesame oil

½ cup rice wine vinegar

⅛ cup mirin

1 pound potatoes (preferably Adirondack Reds), blanched whole, then quartered

1 small piece fresh wasabi root, grated (add to taste)

2 ounces shiso leaves (preferably red), or basil leaves can be substituted

4 (4-ounce) pieces sustainably caught fish (hamachi, halibut, parrot fish all work very well) grilled with olive oil and black pepper

Combine vinaigrette ingredients and set at room temperature for two days. Mix warm potatoes with vinaigrette and shiso leaves.

Sprinkle finely grated wasabi root on top just before eating.

Grill seafood using a very hot grill, seasoned with a little pepper and olive oil. Place the fish on top of the potato salad and grate just a little more wasabi root on top of fish.

Delaney demanding of respect at the plate

BY MATT HARNESS
mharness@pioneerlocal.com

SOFTBALL — There's no greater sign of respect as a hitter than not seeing a pitch to hit.

Chelsea Delaney knows that frustration all too well.

The New Trier senior was the player circled in the lineup cards of opposing teams, the object of scouting reports.

At the Glenbrook South Supersectional, Lake Zurich's Megan Mattera, one of the top pitchers in the Chicago area, treated the strike zone like a no-fly zone when Delaney was in the box.

"I was not going to give her anything too good," said the Miami (Ohio)-bound pitcher, who walked Delaney four times in four at-bats. "She's their big hitter."

Delaney's bat anchored New Trier and carried the Trevians to their second trip to the state tournament in four seasons. The Kenyon recruit finished the spring batting .453 with 11 homers and 47 RBI. On the biggest stage in East Peoria, she went 3-for-6 with a homer.

New Trier finished 0-2 at the state tournament, losing 2-1 to St. Charles North in the semifinals before falling to Benet 7-4 in the third-place game.

"We were excited to be there," said Delaney. "Even though we lost, we were one of the final four teams. I don't think anyone considered us to be contenders, so we were all happy to be there."

Delaney enjoyed more success at New Trier than most players expect. She was part of three sectional championships and played at the state tournament twice.

"It was amazing," she said of her experience. "I loved every minute of it. Everybody helped me have a great time, and I was able to grow as a person and as a player.

"I am looking forward to the next step in my career. I just hope to have the same kind of success, or even more, there."

Delaney is one of three Trevians who will play in college. Raechel Cloud is heading to University of Chicago, while Leah Herlocker will attend Allegheny College, where she will face Delaney in the North Coast Athletic Conference.

"I look forward to playing against her," Delaney said. "We each want to win, but it will be a friendly competition."

Blue Demons paving way for fresh start

BY DAN SHALIN
Contributor

BOYS BASKETBALL — As Dave Genis begins his second year in charge of the Maine East program, he looks forward to stability and no surprises.

At the beginning of last summer, Genis left Northside to become Maine East's third head coach in as many seasons. The former Niles West boss grew somewhat familiar with his personnel during June only to learn after the summer that two key players faced academic-related suspensions for the season.

The team ultimately finished 3-22.

While the departure of 13 seniors means this coming season's squad will be inexperienced, Genis is also looking at the situation as a fresh start.

"(Last year) we got better as the year went on, but never got over the hump," the coach said. "The (seniors) played for three different coaches in their careers and did an admirable job buying into what we were trying to accomplish and what we were teaching them.

"Now, I think we have a good feel for whom the kids are, who we can expect to produce for us (this coming) year and we can kind of mold what we want to do around them."

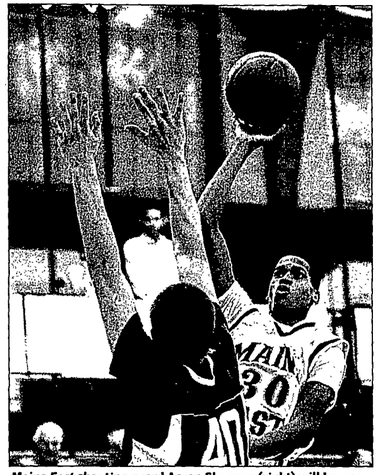
Genis has been getting a look at his 2011-12 squad this month during practices and appearances in shootouts and summer leagues.

The Blue Demons played a tournament in Sun Prairie (Wis.) last weekend, and will be at similar events in Plainfield this weekend and at Willowbrook in early July.

Genis expects the upcoming Maine East team to be built around three returning seniors: guard Aaron Shannon and inside players Adnan Kamencic and Adam Bloniarz.

The rest of the roster likely will be filled by juniors moving up from the sophomore team, a group Genis is evaluating closely this summer.

Though few if any of them will see the varsity this season, Genis said he's excited about the talent level of that group.



Maine East shooting guard Aaron Shannon (right) will be one of three seniors who will provide the Blue Demons with leadership this season. | JOE CYGANOWSKI-FOR SUN-TIMES MEDIA

In order to help nurture those players, last year's freshman A coach Paul Elkins has been promoted to sophomore head coach.

"That's a solid group, a really fun group of kids," Genis said. "(Elkins) will (now) have them for two years and that's a plus. I trust my coaches immensely. He did a great job teaching them how to play and defend (last winter). He'll get them ready for us in (2012-13).

"There is a light at the end of the tunnel. We may not be building a championship team. But like I've said, we want to be able to compete night in and night out and we're on the brink of being able to do that."

One of Genis' major tasks is locating a point guard. The job-winner almost certainly will be playing the position for the first time on the varsity level.

The 6-foot-1 Shannon, a returning starter, should give the team some scoring punch at off-guard. He appears to be near 100-percent healthy this summer after battling the aftereffects of an ankle injury last season.

Genis describes Shannon as a player with a lot of upside.

"He's long and when he shoots correctly, he can really shoot," the coach said. "When he's not hitting his shots, he's got the ability to take the ball to the hoop. When he wants to, he can play defense as well as anybody. During the second half of last season, he became one of our better weakside rebounders."

With Shannon operating on the perimeter, Genis will be looking to the 6-4 Kamencis, a returning starter, and 6-3 Bloniarz to get the job done inside.

"We have been focusing this summer on getting the ball down into the post and our guys have done a credible job learning to do that," Genis said. "We're getting to the point where we're good when the ball does down to the low post."

Wolves need steering wheel for offense

BY DAN SHALIN
Contributor

BOYS BASKETBALL — Niles West head coach Bob Williams' teams have a history of playing their best basketball late in the season, something that happened again last winter when the Wolves won eight of their final nine games and captured a regional title.

Williams, entering his third season at the school, will tell you the success in February and March is rooted in hard work in June, and the coach puts his team through some notoriously intense summer workouts.

The current summer program, which includes shootouts and team camps in addition to practices, is especially important given that Williams is forced to rebuild a team that went 18-12 last winter.

Gone are the likes of all-conference point guard Donte Logan, scorer Tony Pierce, sharpshooter Ramsan Younatham, lanky forward Patrick O'Connor and undersized post Lauris Herth. The latter's return from a long-term injury last February was a key to West's late-season run, which ultimately ended with a loss to Williams' former school Schaumburg in the sectional semifinal.

Next winter, Williams only expects to have three players back who saw significant minutes last winter. But despite new personnel, the coach said he's looking to build on last winter's success.

"The (late -season run) helps raise expectations and we're expecting to be successful," he said. "The players are learning to believe in the program and be successful.

"(Last season) we worked hard and developed chemistry necessary for success. We're not there yet (with this team), but we're getting there and making strides toward that."

This summer, West already has played in the Ridgewood Tournament and the Northern Illinois Team Camp last weekend. The Wolves are participating in summer leagues at Loyola and Mundelein and hosting their own league.

The coach said he has been pleased with some of West's play, though the team is still learning how to close out games.

"I like that the fact we're playing hard and doing the right thing," he said. "We've lost a lot of close games, and won some games. The games that have been (close) in the last minute or two, we haven't done well in several, and part of that is inexperience. We haven't yet learned to expect ourselves to follow through and do the right things under pressure."

Williams said he is looking to form his 2011-12 team around returning seniors Alek Biser and Nate Sagett. The 6-foot-4 Biser started last season, while Sagett was often the first man off the bench. Sagett has missed time this summer because of a broken hand.

"They have the most experience and know what it takes," Williams said. "They were a big part of that run at the end of the season and we want to continue to build off of that."

Sophomore Ahmad Gibson saw time on varsity as a freshman and is one of the players vying for time at point guard as the team looks to replace Logan.

Senior Cory Dolins is another who should see time in the backcourt. The Glenbrook North transfer just began playing with the Wolves last week.

"We're looking for someone to step up and run the team. That's not easy (to find a replacement) when you've have an all-conference player (like Logan). But we'll certainly work at it," Williams said.

Senior DJ Harris, 6-3 junior Alex Darville and fellow junior Demonte Hill are others looking to solidify their spot in the team's rotation this summer.

North Shore spruces for Western Am

BY MATT HARNESS
mharness@pioneerlocal.com

GOLF — Rick Jacobson's relationship with North Shore Country Club is as deep as some green-side bunkers.

For 17 years, the Libertyville-based golf course architect and former North Shore Country Club caddie has been in charge of the master plan to restore the nearly century-old 18-hole track and recapture the true intentions of original designers Harry Colt and Charles Alison.

North Shore Country Club will show off Jacobson and his team's work to the world of golf in August, when the Glenview course hosts the Western Amateur, one of the top amateur tournaments along with the U.S. Amateur and British Amateur.

Rick Jacobson

"Our direction is to put together a long-term plan that's not disruptive to the original course and the classical elements," said Jacobson, a Glenview native and Maine North graduate. "We want to be sensitive to the historical nature and its integrity and keep it up to date."

One of the biggest undertakings by Jacobson Golf Course Design was expanding two greens — Nos. 13 and 15 — to their original sizes and pulling them down to re-establish the false fronts.

"Greens shrink as they get older," said Doug Myslinski, a landscape architect with Jacobson. "We wanted to regain those lost landforms and pull the greens back out to the places they once were. We then can recapture those pin placements that we lost over the years."

Moving bunkers closer to fairways and landing areas, as well as reshaping them, has been another point of emphasis. Jacobson's team also has removed several trees.

Once the tournament draws closer, the design team will add a secondary cut of rough and pinch the fairways to better challenge players off the tee.

"It's been an ongoing effort to keep the course at a championship level as well as keeping the membership happy," said Myslinski, who will help officials set up the course each day of the tournament.

The 7,012-yard, par-71 North Shore Country Club will be home to the Western Amateur, operated since 1899 by the Chicago-based Western Golf Association, for the second time since opening in 1924. After showcasing the Western Am 1928, NCCC hosted the 1933 U.S. Open, the U.S. Amateur in 1939 and '83.

Stanford senior David Chung called his tournament title last year at the Western Amateur "definitely the biggest tournament I've won." Chung, who won at tournament at Skokie Country Club, played in both the Masters and U.S. Open this year.

A few players with local connections already are committed to the 156-player field. Among them are Deerfield's Vince India, Highland Park's Kyle Kopsick and Lake Forest's Brad Hopfinger. India recently was named the Big Ten's player of the year after his spring season at Iowa.

"The course has functioned over the years as a quality family club but from the very beginning it has demonstrated a real competitive edge, hosting several major pro and amateur events," Jacobson said. "It has length from the back tees. The greens have excellent contouring, which will provide opportunities for the WGA tournament officials to set challenging pin placements. The course features strong tree-lined par 4s, but also includes several classic Colt-Alison style holes where strategy will take precedence over length.

"I'm looking forward to seeing how the course challenges the world's top amateurs."

Success breeds optimism at Niles North

BOYS BASKETBALL — Like any good coach, Glenn Olson appreciates the past.

Like any good coach, he always stays in the present, with an eye on the future.

After Olson guided Niles North last winter to its best season in program history — a record 24 wins, the team's first conference championship and inaugural sectional title — he's ready to turn the page.

Eleven seniors graduated, including superstar Abdel Nader, one of the top players to suit up in a Vikings uniform.

Malachi Nix and Mychael Henry are the only two players back who contributed significant minutes to last season's sensational run.

"Last year was fun," Olson said. "Now, it's fun to see all the hunger of these kids."

Olson hopes Nix's shoulders are strong enough to carry the Vikings this season. Despite his 5-foot-6 frame, the point guard proved he can handle a heavy load.

"He's the leader of our team," Olson said of the junior and two-year starter. "He plays with an energy that is bigger than him."

Olson is pleased with the progress the Vikings have made during the June offseason.

"My philosophy is to play as good of teams as possible," he said of games against Brooks, New Trier and St. Ignatius, among others. "That's what you need, especially with the young kids."

Ever since the spring open gyms, Olson has watched the varsity wannabes grow. He believes the success last season contributed to increased interest, as well as heightened intensity.

"The kids are playing hard and want to do the right thing," he said. "That is a carryover. They know it works. They know you have to play a certain way to have a chance to be successful."

Some of the players Olson hopes will contribute this winter are seniors Jaylen White, Robbie Moss and Eron Washington and junior Avery Wells. Washington is the younger brother of recent graduate Earl Washington.

"They've been with us and have been getting experience," said Olson, whose club is scheduled to wrap up the summer session this weekend at Plainfield East. "It's motivated them to continue to work. But they don't have the game experience, and that's why the summer is so important.

"I am very optimistic. It's a big jump, but we will be OK. It will take some time."

Whiffleball tournament reunites friends

BY ROS DUMLAO
Staff Intern

They call themselves "Club Ripped," the three-time Whiffleball World Champions.

They have two players in the Whiffle Ball Hall of Fame.

One even travels all the way from Boston to the Midwest to play in tournaments with his team.

Despite the common notion that whiffleball is a kid's game, this group of men mean serious business.

Well, not too serious.

"You feel like little kids playing whiffleball, and that's the best part about this whole thing," said Mike Baniak, a player on Club Ripped and Whiffleball Hall of Famer. "You're an adult playing a kid's game and just having a great time for a weekend."

Baniak and a few of his childhood friends who grew up in Munster, Ind., will reunite to compete in the third annual National Whiffleball Championship beginning at 8:30 a.m. Saturday at Skokie's Channelside Park.

The tournament has drawn participants from across the nation. In the previous years, it included about 20 teams. This year it is up to 30, including one from California and another from New York. Most of event's participants are from the Chicago and Northwest Indiana area.

Jim Bottorff, Skokie Park District's media and sponsorship coordinator, is credited for establishing the popularity of the tournament in the Midwest. He first started it in Mishawaka, Ind., (where the World Whiffleball Championship is hosted) in 1980, when he was just 19 years old. He brought the tournament to Skokie when he began working at the park district four years ago.

And yes, it's "whiffleball," with an "H."

Though there are various tournaments throughout the U.S., this whiffleball tournament is unique because of the components. Bottorff copyrighted the name, rules and field dimensions.

"This is actually like real baseball, where you run bases, you play defense, there's a six-foot home run fence," Bottorff said.

"It's an easy game to play, and it appeals to all ages. Males who are of softball age are especially drawn to it. e've got family teams and teams of 12-year-olds and all kinds of teams competing. It's just a fun game."

Baniak and his teammates grew up together playing this style of whiffleball in their backyards. Though all have gone their separate ways, this particular tournament in Skokie is more like an excuse for them to reunite.

"I appreciate it more," said Baniak, who lives in the Lakeview neighborhood of Chicago. "You can't take it seriously or anything, but you appreciate the opportunity as you get older to do it with your friends, and you know it's going to happen every single year."

Club Ripped has participated in the tournament since it first started. Nate Hansen, another player on Club Ripped, knew Bottorff when they were youngsters, and both grew up playing whiffleball. When Bottorff decided to start a tournament in Skokie, he asked Hansen if he'd be willing to play, and Hansen said yes.

"When we played in 2009, we kind of turned back the clock," said Hansen, 28, who jokingly prides himself in being a Hall of Famer and former Player of the Decade. "It's a good time to relive those childhood days. It's not like a bike ride down the street anymore."

After serving as team captain throughout the years, Hansen won't be competing this year on Club Ripped because of prior commitments, but plans on making the trip from Munster to catch his friends after the tournament.

Each team must have four to five players and Club Ripped includes three of Hansen's childhood friends, with one coming from Boston, and Hansen's little cousin.

Club Ripped won the 2009 tournament, but lost last year in the championships. Winning is a never-changing goal for this long-time group of friends, but they insist it shouldn't blind the enjoyment of the game.

"It's funny watching people who show up at tournament for first time," Baniak said. "It's really physical, and they don't think it is."
