Polio Report Indicates Nearly $10,000 Spent for Victims Here

The Valley county polio chapter spent nearly $10,000 here last year in patient care, Campaign Chairman Edward Swopes revealed this week.

Swopes said the chapter spent $7,983.87 for "old" cases and another $1,607.80 for new cases.

Last year the chapter helped six persons. There were more than six polio cases but many carried insurance.

"When insurance is available," Swopes said, "the chapter stands aside until insurance is exhausted. Then we step in to help."

Recipients of polio aid may not be identified. But here's what the six cases in 54 cost.

OLD CASES
Case No. 1	$ 93.00
Case No. 2	715.95
Case No. 3	$7,174.92
TOTAL	$7,983.87
NEW CASES
Case No. 1	$1,400.30
Case No. 2	78.00
Case No. 3	129.50
TOTAL	$1,607.80

Last year's drive raised $7,000. One third was retained by the local chapter, one third was sent to the state chapter and one third given to epidemic aid.

The mail campaign in August raised $630 with the same distribution

"Valley county's share from the two campaigns was about $2,500," Swopes said, "so you can see we would have been almost helpless if we hadn't been able to draw on national and state aid."

This year's drive for funds here will occur in late January, Swopes said.

Here is the complete 1954 report:

Cash Balance, Dec. 31, '53	$ 683.50
Valley Co. Share '54 campaign	2,503.05
Advances from Natl. Chapter	6,600.00
Receipts from August mail campaign	210.64
Total	$9,797.19
Patient care, 3 cases, 1954	$1,607.80
Patient care, 3 cases, 1953 and prior	7,833.67
Campaign expense	33.40
Total	$9,474.97
Cash balance, Dec 31, 1954	$ 322.22

$485 Taken From Courthouse at Bartlett, Nebr.

Wheeler county police officers were stumped this week to discover the identity of yeggs who broke into the courthouse at Bartlett last Wednesday.

State police are aiding the investigation.

The thieves combed the courthouse removing $485 from the treasurer's and county clerk's offices.

Sheriff Art McLain said this week the thieves gained entrance by removing a window on a commissioner's room.

The robbery was discovered by janitor Art Donnelly when he arrived at work. Locks on the courthouse were repaired Saturday.

Sheriff McLain said the robbery had the appearances of a professional job. No fingerprints were found.

Supervisors' Motion Chops $25 from Pay of County Officer

Extra Money for Custodian's Post, Rescinded Tuesday

County supervisors Tuesday moved to stop a $25 monthly stipend paid to County Clerk Leonard Woods as courthouse custodian.

The $25 has been booted around in supervisors' conversation the past month.

In the December meeting a motion to stop it ran afoul of legal gobbledegook and later was withdrawn.

In the last meeting of the old board Tuesday it popped up again. This time, after introduction by Supervisor Leonard Cronk, the motion held and was carried by acclamation.

Rescinds Minutes

Cronk's motion was to rescind minutes of a meeting in 1951 which granted Clerk Woods the extra pay.

In other business the board agreed to accept $100 from Walter Guggenmos to relinquish an old age assistance claim against property owned by Anton Guggenmos.

Walter, a son, said he'd attempted to complete a deal on some property owned by the elder Guggenmos only to find the title clouded.

Accepted $100

County dads voted to accept the $100 check in lieu of all other claims.

Supervisors also:

Wrote a letter to State Senator LeRoy Babensky asking for an early settlement of the Lincoln gas tax fuss.

Accepted all bank reports.

Accepted bonds of newly elected township officials.

Accepted a report of the Valley county extension service.

Approved Edward Zadina for a tobacco license.

Ord Pair Assume Business Operation

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Walford assumed operation of the Florette Flower shop here last Thursday.

An earlier plan, to take control of the shop Jan. 1, was abandoned because of the health of former Owner Mrs. May Loft.

The Florette phone number will continue to be 361.

Mrs. Walford has spent several days in Grand Island shops picking up tips to improve the Florette's services.

Mr. Walford, a technician with the SCS, has spent his vacation in getting the business organized.

REMA Annual Meet Scheduled, Jan. 19

Members Will Mull Directors Plan to Public Power Switch

The Loup Valley Rural Electric Membership Assn. (REMA) will hold its annual meeting Thursday, January 13, Manager Wilbert Calvin announced Wednesday.

This year's session will be held in Bohemian hall starting at 12:30 p.m.

Prime business will be a vote by members on a recent recommendation by the board of directors.

The recommendation was the cooperative switch organization to a public power setup.

Coop officers believe the switchover will save the firm nearly $8,000 a year in expenses and aid in the procurement of power.

Last week Attorney John Sullivan said the co-op is in a relatively poor position when it negotiates for current.

Public power groups seem to favor rural public power associations, Attorney Sullivan believed, when awarding supply contracts.

In other business the co-op will elect three officers to the board of directors. Directors whose terms expire this year are Will Foth, Clifford Goff and Al Radke.

Winding up the day's program will be a demonstration Gas Cooking vs. Electric Cooking.

The demonstration will be put on by GE teams.

'54 Rainfall Below 60 Year Average

Week's Temperatures Highlighted by Low of 8 Degrees Friday

Rainfall for 1954 was 16.88 inches far below the 60 year average of 23.26 inches for Valley county.

Weatherman Horace Travis Wednesday added precipitation figures recorded after a "trace" of snow here Monday and came up with the almost seven inch difference.

Meanwhile New Years passed with mild temperatures still blanketing the county.

The week's high 42, was recorded Jan. 2, with the low 8 degrees, reported Friday. The reading was within one degree of the coldest this year.

Here are the week's readings:

Thursday 36-15. Friday 42-8. Saturday 45-26. Sunday 52-27. Monday 32-21. Tuesday 39-16 and Wednesday low 24.

About ¼ of an inch of snow fell in Mira Valley Wednesday mroning. A general snow is predicted.

Fair Vote Slated Wednes. Jan. 19

Fair stockholders will vote on whether or not to continue the Loup Valley fair next Wednesday, January 19.

The meeting is set for the county courthouse, in the district courtroom, at two o'clock in the afternoon.

The general stockholders meeting was called in late December following a resolution submitted by Edward Kokes a former member of the board.

Kokes' resolution, given at the annual meeting, asked for a general membership vote.

Hastings Professor Tells 'Coexistence' Facts on Russians

Soviet Weakness Is Ag Production Says Professor Moulton

Professor Moulton, Hastings college science instructor, told Rotarians Monday he believed Russia's agricultural weakness is apparent.

Therefore, the professor concluded, Russia may never be able to carry out any plans for world conquest.

The summation of the professor's remarks probably lies in one of his final statements.

"Any army fights and travels on its stomach," he said.

Professor Moulton spoke to Rotarians on phases of "coexistence" a "popular term" of the time, he pointed out.

Opening his talk he said informed geopolitical observers believe the nation to control Central Europe's land mass may possibly control the world.

Steel Aided

Russia was given tremendous steel potential, following the last war, when she was allowed to remove German steel fabrication plants within the Russian sphere, the professor said.

Much of the steel has gone to war weapons, he said, but tremendous amounts must be diverted to farm machinery if food production is to reach planned goals.

United States moves, to offset Russian domination, might be explained in other remarks by Professor Moulton.

UN Moves Seen

He said observers believed the nation, controlling Europe's land mass might be stymied if others could do three things. They are:

1. Maintain a bridgehead in Europe.
2. Maintain an undestroyable arsenal.
3. Maintain an unsinkable aircraft carrier.

As countermeasures to the Russian threat Professor Mouton said, "We must not become panicky. We must be aware that the soviet recognizes only strength. We must remember the Russian word is unreliable and religiously we are diabolically opposed."

One Suit Filed

One lawsuit was filed in district court this week.

A land action, the suit lists as plaintiff Victoria Danczek vs. Mary Knebel et al.

The suit seeks to determine partition of real estate.

Gas Users Saved $1,100 in December by City Rate Suit

Attorney Tells Council Decision May Be Made in Grand Island Soon

City dads were told Monday Ord's present court scrap with the Kansas-Nebraska Gas. Co., saved gas users here $1,100 in December.

City Attorney E. L. Vogeltanz named the figure in reporting progress of the gas rate suit currently under consideration by federal court. Had the new rates been in effect, users would have paid $1,100 more than they did pay.

The city, through Attorney Vogeltanz, has pleaded the court does not have jurisdiction in the disagreement on rates for Ord gas.

That's the question currently pondered by Federal Judge Delehant in Omaha.

Decision Jan. 10

Mr. Vogeltanz said the court will hold a hearing in Grand Island January 10. He said he expected a decision then.

The report on the suit was the only high spot of the January meeting

In other business the council listened while Attorney Leonard Cronk made a plea for Ordite Joe Skolil.

Mr. Skolil felt recent street construction by the city stymied proper drainage on two lots. He asked relief.

Joe Gets Promise

Following pro and con talk Skolil was finally promised the removal of two feet of the present roadway.

And possibly the accumulated dirt may be dumped on the Skolil lots. At least Mr. Skolil hoped that it would but the council didn't promise.

The city also agreed to license two electricians, Elwin Dunlap and Orie Hurlbert.

Airport Earns $792

A report on the airport land rental, prepared by John Andersen, was read. The land is share cropped with the city.

Mr. Andersen's report said the city's share of the crop amounted to $792.

Corn made 66 bushels to the acre, and popcorn production was one ton, the report said.

Scotia Vandalism Brings Three Fines

Greeley county wound up charges of vandalism, against three servicemen home on leave on Monday.

Fined $15 and costs was Airman Frank Beedle of Scotia. Pvt. Dan Rubenthaler, also of Scotia, was nicked for $15 and costs last Friday.

And Airman Darrel Conway, of Elba, was nicked for $15 and costs last Wednesday. All were under 21.

The three were charged with destruction of Scotia property after they had mowed down business Christmas trees, broken windows in the school, molested business equipment.

Greeley County Attorney Harold O'Connor said the three men, home on a Yuletide leave, bought beer in North Loup then journeyed to Scotia where the vandalism took place.

Joins Rowbals Staff

Mr. and Mrs. James Adamek who have been visiting in Vienna, S.D., returned home Tuesday. Mr. Adamek is now employed with the Mid-State company operated by Richard Rowbal. Mr. Adamek is a former service man. He is now erecting quonsett buildings.

Stamp Sales Up

F. L. Stoddard, Ord postmaster, said Tuesday stamp sales for December were $4,529.93.

In December 1953, sales amounted to $4,411.10. The figure, Mr. Stoddard explained, did not include metered mail.

Mrs. Seidel and Genevieve Marie . . . Miss 1955 two hours and 37 minutes old.

Genevieve Marie Seidel, Daughter of Greeley Couple, Is Miss '55

The Ord hospital's first New Years youngster, apparently delayed enroute, made her appearance there at 5:43 a.m. Wednesday January 5.

Miss New Year of 1955 is eight pound Genevieve Marie Seidel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Seidel who farm near Greeley.

Mrs. Seidel said she had been notified of Dr. Stork's visit about 4 a.m. She called Dr. M. Markley, of North Loup, who assisted Genevieve Marie's arrival one hour and 43 minutes later.

Genevieve Marie is the Seidel's fifth youngster.

The youngster's birth broke a five day hospital vigil for the Quiz staff.

Editor Bill Lee has been checking the hospital daily in hopes of photographing Mr. or Miss, 1955.

Practically at press time Wednesday he was notified of the Seidel birth.

Shortly after eight o'clock, while Mrs. Seidel held squirming Genevieve, Editor Lee got his picture. Genevieve was then two hours and 37 minutes old.

Arcadia Youth Is Nicked for Liquor Purchase for Minor

Second Offense Draws $50 Fine; 3 Wait Trial

Three persons were fined, and three more await arraignment, as county court Judge Ellsworth Ball jr. opened court books for 1955.

Fined were:

William Ray, of Arcadia, $50 and costs for procuring intoxicants for a minor. The conviction was Ray's fourth appearance in court and the second time for intoxicants for minors charge. The $50 fine was the minimum.

Royal Drake, address not given, $25 and costs for possession of intoxicants by a minor.

Don Fricke, address not given, $25 and costs for possession of intoxicants by a minor.

All three men were picked up by Liquor Officer Joe Golus, Marshall Hagood, both of Arcadia, and Sheriff V. J. Beran of Ord.

County Attorney Ralph Norman said Ray bought the intoxicants for the other two men.

Awaiting arraignment are Don Beran, of Ord, Francis Canfield, of Ord, and Luther P. Griffith.

Griffith and Beran face speeding complaints. Canfield will be charged with reckless driving County Attorney Norman said.

County Attorney Lists 156 Charges

Other than liquor by minors, speeding, and an occasional rubber check Valley countyons were a pretty well behaved lot in 1954.

And, Ralph Norman, county attorney, pointed out offenses in the latter two categories were generally committed by outsiders.

Mr. Norman means bad checks and speeding. Many of the complaints on these two counts are tabbed against outsiders.

Rescue Unit Gets $70 Over Yuletide

Seven Remember Truck with Donations Over Christmas, New Years

The fund for the Ord firemen's rescue unit took a sizable jump over the holidays.

Ord and Valley county people apparently remembered the unit as Yuletide passed.

Seventy dollars in donations were received. The donations swelled the total fund to $758.

That leaves about $440 more to be raised. Then the truck will be placed in service to be available in case of accident.

This week's donations:

Previously reported	$688.50
Mr. and Mrs. Jim Vasicek	5.00

Chamber Banquet Feafures Ord Food

Grocers Credited With Menu Items; '55 Program Waits

Swiss steak, a la Northside Market, is the prime menu item as the chamber of commerce banquet here Sunday night, Jan. 9 prior to the annual meeting.

The meeting will be held in the Masonic hall basement. Mrs. Wilma Anderson, of Harmony House, will feed the 150 persons expected. Dinner time is 6:30 p.m.

This year's banquet features food from all Ord grocery units. In addition table decorations and incidental music will be furnished by Ord firms.

On the business side the chamber will hear reports from all committees, award plaques to Christmas lighting winners this year, and then install new officers.

The brief program will be followed by general discussion. Directors are ready for suggestions to adopt into the 1955 activity slate.

Chamber Cost for Yule Party, $372

The chamber of commerce Christmas kids party cost $372.98, bills presented at the board of directors meeting Tuesday indicated.

Sixty dollars of the amount was for two shows in the Ord theatre.

The rest went for apples, candies and chocolate bars used to pad out the treats for the all time record crowd of 1,300 kiddies.

Shop Is Renovated

The Florette floral shop, recently bought by Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Walford, is undergoing renovation. The new proprietors are painting and cleaning sales rooms and equipment.

The Haddix home . . . $13,000 loss on the eve of New Years Day.

New Year's Eve Blaze Razes Farm Home Near Arcadia

Fire raced through a near Arcadia farmsite Friday, about 1 p.m., completely destroying a home occupied by Jeanis Haddix, his wife and son, and Ray Kerchal.

Relatives placed the damage at $13,000. About $7,000 of the amount was covered by insurance.

The blaze erupted from the home about 12:45 p.m. It was discovered by Zera Sell and Richard Millburn working on a new road nearby.

Mr. and Mrs. Haddix and son, and Mr. Kerchal left the home for Arcadia about 10:30 a.m.

A relative told the Quiz Saturday the blaze apparently started in a kitchen located on the side of the house opposite the new roadway.

The road workers ate dinner about 12:00 noon in front of the home but noticed nothing.

Shortly after dinner the road workers made a trip over the new road eastward. On return they noticed smoke issuing from the home.

Both left equipment and ran to the blaze. An alarm was turned in to Arcadia. Volunteer firemen, prohibited by law from using village equipment on rural fires, answered the alarm in person.

However a hastily formed bucket brigade failed to save the home. The entire house and contents burned.

At 3:30 p.m. a call to the Ord fire department brought the truck to wet down embers. Fire fighters believed nearby farm buildings might ignite.

Destroyed in the blaze was a new Servel gas refrigerator, a new Maytag stove, a piano, two accordians and an old violin valued by a relative at $1,000.

Noll, Weckbach, Travis and Smets . . . $400 and many happy returns.

Capella Chorus Gives $400 to Ord Hospital New Group

The a capella fellas, Ord's charity minded song group, this week gave $400 to the Ord hospital.

The gift was the last step in a chain of events which started three weeks ago when the fellas voted the hospital proceeds from two local concerts.

The gift was to the new non profit hospital organization headed by President Bob Noll.

While Prexy Noll, and Treasurer Clark Weckbach, grinned at the $400 gift Capella President Herb Smets made the presentation. Capella Treasurer Horace Travis actually handed over the 400 $1 bills.

"It's a pleasure to make this gift," said Prexy Smets to Prexy Noll.

"Many happy returns . . ." said Prexy Noll to Prexy Smets.

The ASC meeting . . . 35 serious faced farmers listen.

Farmers, Precinct Committeemen, Hear ASC Practices Explained

Thirty five, serious faced farmers and precinct committeemen, gathered in the American Legion hall Wednesday to hear ASC approved practices explained.

Addressing the group was the ASC staff, headed by Paul Owens, the SCS and the county extension service.

After general practices had been explained ASC Manager Lloyd Zikmund threw the meeting open to questions.

Only one was asked. That one revolved around multiple ownership of a farm.

Mr. Zikmund asked the group to "be careful" when they explained the program.

Zikmund said rules change almost daily.

"What may be applicable last week is sometimes out of date today," he said.

Zikmund told farmers it would be easier if question askers were directed to apply at the central office.

"That way we can quote the regulations as of the last minute" he said.

Raiders Make It Five Straight Over Chants

Ord Attack Opens Cold Then Warms in Late Quarters

Loup City forged the fifth link in a chain of hard court victories Tuesday parading past the Chanticleers 70 to 56.

Despite the loss the Chant attack drew praise from Ord Coach Bill Gogan.

"The boys played terrific ball," he said, "In final minutes we were in control of the rebounding while we matched them basket for basket."

Chants Cold

The Raiders, aided by Piontkowski and Johnson, almost smothered the Chants in the opening quarter.

After jumping to a 12-3 early lead the Raiders captured the initial canto 18 to 6. Two free throws were converted.

Piontkowski netted three, Johnson three with Paige and Rein adding one each.

For Ord Flock potted two with Owens adding one more.

Chill Dispells

By halftime the early chill, that enveloped the Chants, started dispelling. The half ended with the Raiders again leading 36-22.

Loup City captured the third quarter 55 to 37 then went on to win 70 to 56.

The Raiders' edge came with three baskets and eight converted free throws. Johnson and Piontkowski won scoring honors with 22 points each.

Owens Standout

Owens, Chant Guard, was the stellar attraction for Ord. Rog potted 16 points all of them baskets from the floor.

Flock, another forward, and Nelson, at center, had 15 and 14 respectively.

The contest drew a jammed packed audience to the Raider gym. Reports placed the game receipts at $275.

The junior squad kept the evening from being a complete loss winning its contest 37 to 33.

Pin Tourney Entries 'Slow', Says Dilla

Entry Deadline Expires Wed., (Tonite) at Midnight; Bowl Ready

Only 12 singles, 12 doubles and 3 teams have entered in the Second Annual Ord Handicap Bowling Tournament, Secretary Dan Dilla said Tuesday.

The entry deadline is Wednesday, Jan. 5 at midnight.

Dilla said, "... they, (the bowlers) are apparently waiting until the last minute to enter. Entries so far have been slow."

The tournament will be held at the Ord Bowl. Prizes and prize money will be awarded in each event.

FREE Soil Tests

This week the Agronomy and Soils departments of the University held a meeting of Agronomists, Soils Experts, Fertilizer manufacturers, and Fertilizer dealers.

It was stressed very strongly that the farmers have soil tests made before they place their orders for fertilizer.

We are going to give a free soil test to our customers that have their soil tests made in the next couple of months. This is a free service that we are going to give absolutely free during the next two months, to our customers.

May we have these samples soon so that it will give plenty of time to study recommendations and allow time to get your order placed. Tests conducted in past years show the very great need of having these soil tests made so that you know definitely what your soil needs to produce the kind of crop that you want.

Starter fertilizers will be available with Aldrin at reasonable prices and this last sason showed very definitely that Aldrin will give very good control of rootworms.

You can buy your Ammonium Nitrate while our supply lasts and leave it in our warehouse till you are ready to use it.

Yuletide Messages Reveal Daily Lives of Former Residents

Messages on various Christmas cards this year proved interesting.

Mrs. Jessie T. Babcock, of North Loup, who is spending the winter with her daughter in Omaha, writes: "I am getting a great deal better, almost well. We spent Christmas with Edwins in Lincoln. All of the family was there."

Mrs. Joe McKelvey, of North Loup, now in Denver, Colo., writes: "My sister, Chlo, is not very well. Recently she had two teeth pulled, which kept both of us busy. I have charge of a church luncheon which will take time. Our youngest child, Madelon, was married Febr. 12. Carol has worked for a little over a year in a doctor's office. She enjoys it. Her health seems recovered. Joe and Donald are both in the midst of their busiest season. Joe is in the post office. Donald is on the police force. The officers have wild traffic, stick-ups, "kid" troubles and countless calls to keep them on the jump."

Mrs. Belle Thorngate Rood, former teacher in the Ord schools, sends a card from New Smyrna Beach, Fla. She said her son, George, and wife, with two children, were home for Christmas. She added this was the first Christmas she had been home in five years.

Mrs. Grace Mayo, also a former teacher here is spending the winter with a daughter, Mrs. Dale Halverson, in Long Beach. She said: "I have seen Ethel Jefferies Brooks. She said her mother, Mrs. Roxie Jefferies, will be here for the winter." Mrs. Halverson says, "This is our third greeting from sunny California. We still have lawn to put in and are learning where to, and where not to, plant certain shrubs and flowers. Our house has the usual smudges that refuse to be removed. Dale started to teach last January. He is teaching electronics at Long Beach city college. Kathy, our daughter, is eight. She is in the third grade. Margaret, is busy at house keeping. She cares for two children whose mother works. The smog is not so bad."

Mrs. Beecher VanHorn writes from Loma Linda: "We had a wonderful trip last summer. We drove 9,757 miles and saw many old and interesting sights."

Mrs. Ed Daly, Omaha: "We enjoy the Quiz. It is our way of keeping track of a few Ord and North Loup folks. I am surprised at all the new names and faces."

Mrs. Rex Kildow, Thermopolis, Wyo.: "We were in North Loup about two hours last summer. We were in a hurry to get to Washington, Ia., to a cattle sale. Rex was so astounded there were beer taverns in North Loup that he had to see for himself. I met some of my old pupils. We did not make it to Ord. Someone said that Ruth Mayo was in Denver. Rex has had another good year in the cattle business. We were hard put for water and grazing in the low lands of Wyoming. In Montana, where we own a ranch, we had plenty of feed and water. Betty and Cliff live in Boulder, Colo. and are doing well."

Mrs. Asa Prentice of Nortonville also sent greetings, but sad news. Mr. Prentice is a son of one of the older settlers and is well known in Valley county. Mrs. Prentice said: "Our daughter, Pearl Carr, was in an army hospital in El Paso, Texas, where she later died from cancer. Asa has been bedfast for the past five weeks with an injured leg caused when a cow kicked him. However, we are grateful for a successful heart operation which was performed on our four year old grandchild."

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Cornell, of Friend, writes: "A majority of voters tapped Cornell to take his turn on the school board. Phyllis was installed associate matron in the Eastern Star chapter. Marjorie is 11 years old and is in the sixth grade. Geralyn is nine and is in the third grade. Melvin went to Crawford after deer and came back with a four point buck. Both of us attended the 25th anniversary of Melvin's high school graduating class in Ord, during the summer.

A note from Mrs. F. A. Barta, of Napa Calif., dated Dec. 12, said: "We are leaving Wednesday for Colorado. We thought we would get to Ord before Christmas but have changed plans. It will be a little later, maybe February. We are going to spend about three weeks in Florida.

Mrs. Harry Simmons, of Omaha, writes that she does not know when they will be in Ord again. It all depends on the weather.

Here's a new way to effectively display family portraits.

It's the peg board idea developed by national photographers and seen for the first time last fall at the photo convention.

Ord Photographer Edward Swopes said the peg board arrangement can be constructed by any "do-it-yourself" householder.

He is offering a booklet, 21 ways to Display Your Portraits, free in connection with the idea.

A showing of the new Ford Tractor will be an Ord attraction January 7, when Ingram & Dean put their 1955 models on display. The show will be held at the firm's building just north of the Hotel. Door prizes are offered.

Drawbridge Rites Are Held Sunday

Charles Drawbridge 84 Year Old Retired Carpenter Dies Friday

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from the North Loup Methodist church for Charles E. Drawbridge, 84 year old retired carpenter, who died early last Friday.

Reverend Buehler officiated with interment following in the Scotia cemetery under the direction of Hastings-Pearson Mortuary.

Mrs. Harold Hoeppner, accompanied by Mrs. Harlon Brennick, sang. Pall bearers were Mills Hill, R. L. Lincoln, Rasmus Petersen, Bud Kearns, Tony Cummins and Harlon Brennick.

Mr. Drawbridge was born October 9, 1870 at Eldora, Iowa the eldest of seven sons. His parents were Joseph and Fostinia Drawbridge.

At the age of six he moved to Scotia and in 1904 moved to North Loup where he has lived since.

Following the death of his parents Mr. Drawbridge, with two other brothers, maintained a home at the edge of North Loup.

Later, following the death of a brother Roy, Mr. Drawbridge made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Will Drawbridge.

Most of his life was spent following the carpenter's trade. At one time he was a lineman for the railroad and telegraph company.

Survivors include one brother, William and three sisters-in-law.

Here for the funeral Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Earl York, Mrs. Art Spence and Sharon, all of Omaha, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Weber and Jerry from Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. Marion Copelen of Spalding.

Burdicks Cherish Old Auction Bill

One of the cherished possessions of Charles Burdick is the sale bill which his father, Rowse Burdick, had printed, when the Burdicks decided to move to Nebraska.

The Burdick family lived in Akron, N. Y. about 73 years ago. The sale bill has pictures of a horse and a cow.

It was kept by Mr. Burdick's mother, until about 18 years ago. She then gave it to her son.

The sale location was given as Burdick's Bridge as was customary at the time. The name of the auctioneer was A. W. Mitchell. The name was printed at the top.

In the terms of the sale all transactions of $5.00 and under had to be settled before buyers left the premises.

Aside from the stock listed there was the usual amount of farm machinery. Brand names then were Curtis, Remington and Dodge.

Also listed was a buggy pole, buffalo robe, bob sleighs, pork barrels, a democrat wagon, reapers, harrows and plows.

Pays Flying Visit

A holiday visitor in Ord was Ernest Rousek, who flew here in a new 4-passenger Cessna 170 to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Rousek. Ernest is district manager for Steckley Hybrid Seed Corn Co. and makes his home in Lincoln. The flight to Ord required only 70 minutes.

He does a great deal of private flying, making fishing trips to Minnesota and Canada, and figures it is the safest and best method of travel. Operating costs run about 4c per mile, says Ernest, who graduated from a Cessna 140 to his present plane, which he owns in partnership with another Lincoln business man.

'55 Conditioning

Roger Babson, an oft quoted "financial genius", in his current rundown of what to expect in 1955 strikes two notes worthy of some listening here.

Babson implies the keynote in the '55 trade song will be competition. In fact he stresses competition may be the cause of more, and large, failures or mergers to save firms languishing on the vine.

Yet the overall expectation for '55 is better than '54 and almost as good as '53. ('54 volume was down five per cent from '53 incidentally)

If Babson's prediction can be greeted with any credence then it would appear the coming year is opportune for a little belt tightening.

In other words business men should look individual operations over closely with a view towards ridding the firm of any expenditures not paying the freight.

A hard headed approach, to a formerly loose management problem, can work wonders on the profit side of the ledger.

And the degree of profit often times determines what competitive front the firm may present to the buying public.

How about it Mr. Ord business man? Any sagging muscles in your business which might be toned up?

The new G.I. bride from Germany, learning English, is puzzled a bit over this phrase from yesterday's daily newspaper. Two Convicts Escape Noose; Jury Hung

Farm Security

We note where government paid press agencies are currently beating the drum for the advantages of the social security plan for farmers.

So far the federal drum beaters have been laying it on pretty thick. To read the list of minifold blessings, which will descend on the farmer once he's enrolled, would lead you to believe the farmer is getting something for nothing.

That's the underlying fallacy of the entire social security program. No matter how you slice the baloney, you can't get more out than you pay in.

A farmer near 65 may get out more than HE pays in. But that only means the young farmer down the line is paying in more than he'll get out.

Social security costs more than you get back. Somebody pays the clerical hire, the publishing costs of the triplicate forms, and the office rent. And you can bet the old sod plow it isn't Aga Ghruru in Afghanistan. It's you!

Social security will cost the farmer two per cent to start. Every five years it advances three-quarters per cent until in 1975 when it will be biting into the farm bankroll to the tune of a hefty six per cent.

If that six per cent figure doesn't throw you into conniption fits then you've forgotten your last mortgage.

Then there's the added deal of income taxes. While the farmer pays his social security tax he'll still be expected to fork over regular income tax. That's where the extra income occurs to make the SS plan look like something for nothing.

On top of the above two Mr. Farmer will also be asked to dig up two more per cent of his hired hands wages for security for the hand. The two per cent in turn increases to four as time marches on.

On a comparative basis private pension plans and insurance have SS beaten nine ways from thunder. Under private plans the payoff comes when you reach the proper age.

Social security- Well a farmer can get it if he adjusts his income so it's below the subsistence level.

Otherwise he can keep on working—and paying!

Man is a two legged human animal, with marvelous implements of balance and transportation, who won't use them when four wheels are available.

Ward's What's Cookin' Column

I now find out Joe Meyers sold more house than appears on the surface. I didn't find it out until the other day. In fact, I didn't find it out at all. Jake Foster did.

We received Ned Larkins oil stove. They brought it up after they had a gas stove installed. Ned cleaned it and helped me get it located in the kitchen, where it is doing duty. We used the small tank at first. Then Jake came and got under the house to connect the stove to the same tank as the big one. He found plenty of space to work under the big room. But when he went under the kitchen he had to crawl.

Jake drilled a hole through the floor, but when he got under, he couldn't find the hole. I finally took a long bit and drilled through some boards about six inches lower down, and there the hole was.

What we found was that the kitchen had been moved up to the west side of the house when the two were put together. Someone wanted the roof all in the same line. Of course this would make the kitchen floor much lower than the main room.

To offset the difference someone built a new floor, complete with floor joists, right on top of the old floor. We noticed the kitchen floor was warm, and now we know the reason.

I have seen all kinds of construction but this is the first time I have ever seen two complete floors, one on top of the other.

I know of two houses in Burwell which originally had 10 foot ceilings. They are not practical, and take too much heat.

In both cases a set of joists were set below the old ones and a new ceiling fastened. No doubt those houses are plenty warm with the double ceilings.

I am more and more convinced that I don't live right, as time goes on. Maybe I do live right. I have lived 72 years, but it seems that I have been around a lot longer.

For want of something better we occasionally listen to a radio program of Mr. and Mrs. North and their adventures as amateur detectives. Maybe we are just too lazy to change the radio.

It seems that somebody gets shot, or stabbed, or poisoned, or beaten to death on every one of the programs. Sometimes it happens to one person. Anyway, Mr. and Mrs. North are always on the job.

A lot of people are supposed to listen, with bated breath, to the exciting adventures of the North couple. No doubt hundreds think it occurs just as they hear it.

As I said, I don't live right. In 72 years I have never seen a person shot, or stabbed, choked, drowned, poisoned or beaten to death. I have seen perhaps a dozen people, all old, die a natural death.

I have seen the bodies of three persons after they were killed in accidents. One was in an auto wreck and two were in an airplane.

According to the Mr. and Mrs. North yarns, I should have seen that much in a week. I have never hunted for trouble. People on the prowl usually find all they want.

But the Norths, are always trying to keep out of trouble, and yet always get into it. Maybe I could find trouble if I got paid for finding it as well as they do.

James B. Ollis dropped in to see us last week. James was one of the gang that flocked around to charivari us when we were married back in 1909. He didn't find us that night, and he wasn't there when they did.

That was 45 years ago, and the whole complexion of middle Mira Valley has changed in that time, with a dozen or more of the old families completely gone from the scene, never to return.

Vox Pop

The Quiz solicits letters for publication from its readers on subjects of general interest. All letters must be signed. Readers can, however, have letters appear under a nom de plume. Unsigned letters will not be published under any circumstances. Keep letters short and to the point.

Nuns Were Good

Dear Sir:

After reading your article as quoted by the World-Herald, I have come to the conclusion that you must have been an ornery devil when you were in school and perhaps still are.

This same German sister, that was dragging you around by the ear, must have had her good moments.

I've had a little experience with German sisters myself. One was always saying, "I'll put your head between two ears." Another one in Bible history would say, "Oh, dose double-meaning vords."

Try to dig up a few pleasant moments they caused you and I am sure you will find the balance in your favor.

Ed Curran

Ed, Note: It's just rebellion, Ed, cropping out at this late date. And the German nuns weren't too bad. I imagine it took a good deal of swatting around to keep me in line as I remember myself.

Showed 'Em In Omaha

Dear Sir:

I see by your note not to make Vox Pop letters too long. I have a lot to say on the county fair and I will sign my name. I think everyone should sign a name when they write an opinion on public questions.

I think we owe it to our children to give them a fair even if it costs us $2,000. And my wife and I are glad to donate a $100 share towards providing the hicks a place to show their stuff. I consider the 4-H work more value than any other of our farm prospects. If it is voted to sell the fair I think we should keep enough for a 4-H show each year and use the $2,000 for them even if we have to erect tents for the kids to exhibit in. I know some old people need the $100 share money and they should have it unless they want to donate it like myself for the kids.

Probably enough of the ground could be sold to pay these old people and those not interested in agriculture. And we still could leave enough for 4-H.

Our farms are getting larger each year. Farm kids are leaving the farms. Some ask why don't the boys stay. I think the first reason is because the girls go first. And no boy wants to stay when there are no girls.

4-H work will give children interest in farming. It also helps them meet people and learn how to absorb the knocks in life.

I do not lay any blame on our fair officials because we don't make a big splurge. I know by experience no matter how much you want to do something it's no use if the public won't help.

It's like my experience with registered dairy cattle. For forty years I tried to sell people on the value of good dairy stock by showing a good cow produced 500 pounds of butterfat compared with an average cow at 250 pounds.

All I ever proved with all my money and talking was that this was hog and cattle country.

We old timers took four cars of stock to the state fair and put Valley county on the map one year. Meese and Hather, and County Agent Dale with 9 cars of baby beef and our Jersey herd, ran up against two millionaire's herd from Waterloo, Iowa and Kansas.

Believe it or not I won some first premiums and my two sons got first and second in 4-H. So our herd received no credit at home but they sold like everything in Eastern Nebraska, Kansas and Colorado.

So it is hard work to pull for something when no one is with you. It's no one's fault our fair is small. Remember when the drouth and depression hit Valley county?

Everything went haywire then and a lot besides the fair went bad and is still bad.

Has Been Farmer
Ernest Coats

Editors Note: Ernie, if I had done all this, and still didn't get any further than you did, I would resign from the human race.

Some Issues Priceless

Dear Sir:

Enclosed is my check for the Ord Quiz. Some single issues of the Quiz are worth one years subscription. For example: Bill Lees column on the Saggy Mattress. However in these modern times some of us are not so fortunate to have a saggy mattress, but I hope some day to own one.

Chas Weddel

Ed. Note: Thanks for the compliment Charles. Incidentally I've never heard a farmer sound off about a corn shuck or straw mattress. And I'll bet there's been a million of them in Valley county.

Fair Board Answers

Dear Mr. Sincerely:

I just finished reading your letter on the Fair board situation which is deplorable, I'll admit,

I happen to be one of the three absentees. I had hopes of not being reelected but it didn't work.

You are curious to know how to get to vote and how to get on the board.

Here's how: Buy from $100 to $500 worth of stock and, before you know anything about the mechanism of operating a county fair, act like you have some good ideas on how to run one and "Boin-n-g" you're on the board.

You must also be generous and civic minded because its going to cost you another $150.00 in time and worry.

I figure it cost me about that, and the other members more, because they spend more time at it than I do.

And why do we do it? So someone can kick our teeth in for putting on a poor fair.

Do you know that we paid the thrill show $813.50 so we could collect $313.50. They came on a percentage basis. That we paid the Rassling match $297.97 so we could collect $146.50; that we collected $40.00 from the home talent show which wouldn't pay our light bill; that our feed man tried to buy straw here at home but couldn't get it until too late. And then the price was the same as G. I. straw.

That the money we receive from the county and pari mutuel will not take care of the expense of giving away premiums. Without a thrill show as some other revenue we're sunk!

That the board has, until this year always paid for our own and our family's tickets to the shows. (This year we held out tickets for our wives.)

That most of the present board sat through and paid off a $5,000 mortgage.

That we can't get a carnival anywhere because Valley county people won't buy enough ride tickets to pay for the expense of the carnival coming.

That the last two years we had a splendid showing of 4-H stock. Yet everyone said it was the poorest fair we ever had.

That out of our large labor bill last year we paid two years Secretary's salary ($250 per year) and he could make more if he spent the same time mowing widow's lawns.

Oh well, I could go on and on and you're one up on me now. You made it at 11:30 p.m. and my watch says 2:10 a.m.

Had a couple of meetings last night. Come on in with us and get heartsore too.

Your apologetically,
Ernest Horner

* * Something Just A Little Bit Different * *

Beautiful new January is here, and what are we going to do with it? Well, first blow my nose.

A-chew!

No snow: I feel for the farmers. How can they raise a crop unless we have moisture? I don't want the cold and the slop and the muddy floors, but we just gotta have crops, in the part of the world that is Valley county. So come on snow. Hurry up, winter!

oOo

...ds are working over our three home-...eeders. They say it is cold enough, ...t. There's old Greedy himself, the ...who makes bird feeding a problem ... Stealing the feed away from the ...ls, he ought to be ashamed, especial...ng black walnuts all over my lawn ... next summer I will have the dubious enjoyment of tugging them out after they start to grow.

oOo

A car that won't start is being pushed down the street. We don't see them as often as we once did, so batteries must be better. Or is it butter? You can tell I'm an old slogan reader; and quoter.

A thin winter sunshine, no warmth in that for chilled bones. Not much value in it for huddling houseplants, either. We'll have to feed the poor things their vitamins, like the rest of us. How did the world get along so well so long without vitamins, can you answer?

oOo

Christmas decorations look aged today, Twelfth night or no Twelfth night. I belong to the school that doesn't like to take the tree down: they are so sparkly and gay . . . unless they start to shed needles, that is. It is difficult for me to understand how some people can enjoy pitching their trees out the day after Christmas, as if the holiday meant gifts and a tree and then phooey . . .

How bare are the trees along the street but what beautiful lace patterns their branches make against the delicate blue sky. They would make wonderful color slides, especially right there with that red birdhouse in the foreground.

And it's as charming as ever to see a drove of boys and girls in wooly winter togs start off ice skating, so wrapped up you're sure they won't be able to move. Which they prove wrong in a couple of hours by returning with red noses, bright eyes and ruddy cheeks. Not to mention wet seats and damp jean legs. And hungry . . . wow!

oOo

Add to your winter picture collection some good eating: it's time for mince pie, that rich, spicy treat. Time for fruit cake. Time for taffy-making and popcorn popping, of which we should hear more in this popcorn-raising country. Why don't we grow more, eat more, sell more, package more and TALK more popcorn? There's a suitable local resolution for 1955, if you're determined to resolute about something.

oOo

Personally I can't see any reason for waiting for a certain day to make a resolution. If you feel the need to make a resolve, the need to change or to do better, why not do it today?

Why not?

Unless you're wheezing and blowing and sniffling like me, that is. Colds don't help with resolutions.

I can't think of anyone a cold helps . . . unless it's the Kleenex people.

On The Lee Side

Just Who The Heck Did Play The Drum

One of the finest Christmases in my life has just passed and most of the credit can be laid at the doorstep of a part-time Ord woman, Helen Gzehoviak, who runs the dress shop.

In appreciation for past favors, (that's what the card said) Helen dispatched some of Scotland's best to the Lee garret just prior to Yuletide.

It was a gift we treasured. Treasured so much, in fact, we stowed it in our duffle bag to make it the piece de resistance at the annual summoning of the Irish clans to Northeast Nebraska. The parade of Irish to a common ground where all may quarrel, and tell boastful lies, is a common event in the country we used to call home.

Under the nudging warmth of Helen's gift it seemed appropriate the Christmastide shouldn't pass without being accompanied by the quavering voices of the Irish raised in carols.

What matter it was 3:30 a.m. of the day after Christmas? The Irish were never ones to hurry. So a-caroling we went.

Lest the singers stray from the proper note, or the carol go unrecognized, the singing Irish, prior to departure from the house of John Patrick Heeney, bulwarked themselves with musical instruments of every description.

John collects old instruments like a miser hoards money. He has fiddles, drums, accordions, and piano tuners until who laid the chunk. In fact, if you dig deeply enough, you can even uncover a pair of maracas, (shakers) left over from the time the South American ambassador visited to seal a peace treaty with Little Eire which is the term by which John Patrick's bailwick is known.

It may have been a motley crew that wended its way from John's to the house of a Canadian friend but spirits were high. And gathered around the bedside window of the Canadian's home all the Irish blew, or twanged, mightily to the soft cadences of Silent Night.

Two dirgeful choruses later the Irish trooped back to John's, the yen for music satisfied. Yowling dogs, crying children frightened to wits end, and rattling phone hooks summoning the police, were left in the wake.

Oh what a wonderful Christmas it was!

Except for this snide item in a Northeast Nebraska newspaper the Thursday following:

Dear Sir:

Concerning the carols which came to us early Dec. 26 our sincere hope is that these were not rendered for our exclusive pleasure and enjoyment. Experiences such as these should be shared with all capable of enjoying them. Children were especially voluble in praise of the songsters.

Who the heck played the drum?

(Name with held for fear of repetition)

Sitting next to the town agnostic the other day we remembered his closest approach to professing a religion came when he carried in the groceries for a church supper.

Mira Valley Maude says she knows men are supposed to be smarter than women but as yet she never saw a girl marry a dumb man just because he had a wonderful figure.

Anderson Appointments Indicate Smooth Transition

By Melvin Paul

With Gov. Victor Anderson's inaugural scheduled this week, the shape of his administration began.

From appointments could be seen the trend of his personnel. From his pronouncements came some of the philosophy he hopes to carry out in state government.

The fact that Anderson reappointed almost every one of the office holders who had served under Gov. Robert Crosby demonstrated that the changeover in republican administrations is going to be relatively smooth.

Anderson changed tax commissioners, a board of control member, capitol custodian, and the purchasing department setup. As was expected he brought in his own administrative assistant.

But he announced he would hold up a decision about the state budget supervisor's job until he got some thinking from the legislature on whether this is an important enough job to keep.

Named as the new tax commissioner is Fred Herrington of Lincoln. He will replace George W. Peterson, who had served since November, 1953.

Herrington is head of a real estate scientific tax appraisal firm and formerly was with the E. T. Wilkins firm which did reappraisals for several Nebraska counties. He has also worked with tax officials in the current tax reform program and is generally highly regarded.

The new member of the board of control was to be named. He will replace William Diers of Gresham, presently chairman of the State Board of Control.

Joseph Bovey of Lincoln was named capitol custodian, replacing John Knickrehm of Grand Island. Bovey also will serve as an administrative assistant in Gov. Anderson's office.

New Policies

On his purchasing department appointment Gov. Anderson took an intial step in what he hopes will be a direction toward more efficient purchasing.

He named Carl Rosenlof not only to head the state purchasing department but also to continue to be in charge of purchasing for the board of control.

The move left State Purchasing Agent Blaine Yoder out in the cold. Anderson said he hopes that the University of Nebraska eventually can be brought into the purchasing setup. In fact, the governor said, he would like to see the day when there is one central state purchasing agency.

The other appointment made by Anderson was a temporary one. He named his campaign advisor, A. C. Eichberg, as his administrative assistant for a few months. Eichberg was a longtime businessman in Lincoln but went to Texas 11 years ago because of his wife's health. He is in the citrus fruit export business there and also runs a peach orchard in Arkansas.

There is every indication that Anderson plans to lean heavily on Eichberg for advice. Edberg has a reputation all his life of quietly working behind the scenes for worthwhile Lincoln community projects.

Re-appointments

Among the officials reappointed were State Engineer L. N. Ress, State Banking Director James McLain, State Insurance Director Thomas Pansing, State Labor Commissioner James Weasmer, State Liquor Commissioner Nathan Pont and State Agriculture Director Ed Hoyt. There had been rumors about each of these at one time or another, speculating that they would not be reappointed.

Administrative Outlook

The purchasing agent was symptomatic of what Anderson has called the "businesslike" government he would like to have. He has also promised to work hard on the budget, "cutting out unnecessary waste."

But close observers feel that Anderson will not have a "penny-pinching" administration. He has already said more money will have to be spent in the mental health program. He has announced he hopes to get higher salaries for key state officials.

The new governor said he intends to define the responsibilities of his department heads and then give them full control over their departments.

If he has a disagreement with an agency—such as the state advisory highway commission—he plans to "go into a room behind closed doors and not come out until we have agreement." He told the commission that was his intention when disputes arise.

The governor has also indicated he plans to stick with the sufficiency rating system by which the priority of highway improvement is determined. But he has said he would like to have some way that people, who disagreed with the rating of a particular stretch of road, could "appeal."

Crosby's Plans

Outgoing Gov. Robert Crosby said he plans to go into private law practice in the firm of Pansing and Guentzel in Lincoln. One of the partners is State Insurance Director Thomas R. Pansing, a friend and close advisor of the governor the past two years.

Crosby's administrative assistant, James Diesing of Omaha, has returned to his public relations job with a natural gas company. Crosby recently appointed his budget supervisor, Arthur McCaw of Omaha, to be on the Douglas county tax appraisal board.

Relocation Dispute

Laid over for a final decision by the legislature and Gov. Anderson was the thorny question of who should have final authority in determining state highway relocations.

Gov. Anderson said he would like to get the legislature's thinking.

Up to now the state engineer has had the final say-so. The state advisory highway commission thinks it should have that right.

The commission is holding up decisions on five relocation questions referred to it. These are US 30 at North Platte, State 35 between Wakefield and Emerson, State 12 between Crofton and Maskell, US 281 in the Spencer area, and the so-called Outer Belt Line highway in Omaha.

Wild Ostrich Has Three Wife Harem

Woos Females Then, After Eggs Laid, Hatches 'Em Out

Ed. Note: This is the second in a series of articles on South America written by Auctioneer Ernie Weller of Atkinson. Mr. Weller, a beef man, is primarily interested in South American cattle. But he's not averse to taking a swipe at anything connected with the cattle industry. This week he starts by describing the love life of an ostrich.

By Ernie Weller

Among the wild animals and birds that cause considerable trouble to the cattlemen of the Argentine, perhaps the foremost is the wild ostrich, which abounds in large numbers.

Interesting to me, and I am sure it will be to you, is the method of propogation in the ostrich world.

At mating time, a male ostrich will select three females as his harem.

This done, he proceeds to build a communal nest in which all three females lay their eggs.

With the eggs all laid, he proceeds to sit on them until they are hatched.

So some of you old family men—if mama calls on you to do a little baby sitting while she attends club or church circle, just don't complain too much; thank your lucky stars you weren't born a male ostrich.

Although in the earlier years of cattle development in the Argentine, shorthorns were the predominant breed, this is not true today.

About 85 years ago, we were told, the first importation of registered Herefords was made from England. At about this same time importations of Aberdeen Angus were also made.

Although as guests of the Argentinian Hereford Association we did not visit any Angus herds for close inspection, many large herds of good Angus cattle were seen.

By and large, the registered Herefords we saw were rugged, with a lot of size and scale—the English type.

Heads of most of the registered Herefords we inspected were not as pleasing to our group as white faces in the states.

Markings are not as important here either, as in North America.

There were many linebacks and many animals carrying too much white, judged by our standards, that were being fitted for the big "Palermo Show" next August.

Argentina's main objective is to produce a sizeable quantity of beef and with that in mind many of the "lesser things, as markings, etc., are of secondary importance.

Their only objective is a lot of size for age, good gainability on grass, as none are grain fed.

For show purposes, animals are fed a light grain ration.

Breeding Similar

Breeding programs are similar to those in the United States, although pasture breeding of purebreds is not as commonly practiced as in the states.

Stall breeding of individual animals and the use of artificial insemination is a most common practice.

Prices of registered animals range quite high, with imported bulls costing up to $10,000 each and more, while registered range bulls that go to commercial producers will bring from $300.00 to $600.00 average.

Except at the beef level (for slaughter, where prices are controlled by government) all breeding stock and stockers are sold at public auction.

The procedure is identical with that practiced in the states.

All livestock auction markets (the stockyards facilities) are owned by Rural Societies (Co operatives or Farmers Union in the U. S. A.)

They are made available at a rate of $3.00 on every $1000.00 worth of livestock sold through them to the commission firms (auction firms, no private treaty sales) who are licensed by government to operate at such yards.

Unique Commission Charge

To me, the unique part was the commission charged for selling cattle.

It is 2% from the seller and 2% from the buyer (I'd like one season of that myself, before retiring).

Instead of brand inspection and clearance as is practiced here, federal police yard all cattle after they are sold.

Before they are taken out by the buyer they are officially rebranded with his mark.

Thirty days time is granted the buyer, before he pays for his purchase (I don't like that so well).

In the case of registered cattle, the buyer pays a commission of 6% and the seller nothing.

Among the estancias visited for close inpection of registered herds were, San Ramon, owned by Bernard L. Duggan, an Irishman; the, Cabana Law Hermanas of Senores Rafael Herra Vegas E. Hijos; Cabana San Jose, belonging to the Santamarina Family, and San Simon, belonging to Leonardo Pereyra.

Horse Ranch Visited

Of considerable interest to our group was a visit to Estancia La Independencia of Senor Gabriel Boubee near Tandill.

This was a horse ranch, specializing in saddle horses.

Although several breeds and cross breeds were being produced, we were most intrigued by the "Criollos," or native saddle horse.

Well standarized as to color (mouse color or a half ripe olive), they ranged in weight from 1,000 to 1,050 pounds.

Clean of limb, with fore quarters of an Arabian and hind quarters of a quarter horse, an alert manner and quick eye, they make excellent cow ponies.

Due to the long distances involved in the delivery of cattle to market, many horses are used.

Each gaucho entrusted with the delivery of these cattle has his own band of saddle horses, usually ten head, all of which have been taught from weaning time to recognize and follow the sound of a bell which is worn by a lead mare.

It is uncanny how well they have them trained. We saw ten such bands run together and flushed.

Then each gaucho would ride into the herd, get hold of his lead mare, and in a matter of minutes each pack would separate themselves and follow.

Although I indicated in my article of last week that Argentina currently is out of the world's export market so far as chilled beef is concerned, in our visit with President Peron he indicated that he considers Argentina as a great potential "beef factory" and feels its future exports of finished and processed meat will be one of the nation's greatest sources of income.

Because of the extensive grass lands in Argentina, of which some 2,000,000 acres have been given to producers and operators in the past ten years under an act patterned after our homestead laws, and by encouraging the cattlemen to import good bulls, they hope to up-grade the current cattle population and utilize the vast land areas now lying idle.

"The only thing that I ask of them," Peron said, "is that we will never have to subsidize these aspects of production, and our cattlemen are so good that they have been able to accomplish this."

Standard of Living

The standard of living amongst the well to do Argentines is at least as high as that of the corresponding group in the United States.

The less fortunate are probably as well, or better off, than anywhere else in the world because of the abundance and low cost of food.

We saw comparatively no poverty and at no time were we accosted by beggars.

The building industry has experienced an unusual boom in the past ten years, notably in the larger cities where apartment houses, office buildings, residential dwellings and factories of the most modern type have gone up by the thousands.

I will not try to deal here with the cultural aspects of the country, as Mrs. Weller took note of these and will present them at some future date, to her club and church circles.

Anyway, my literary ability is more closely geared to giving a running description of a bull fight.

Politically, in my opinion, one could scarcely classify the government as communistic.

Perhaps in a milder degree, socialistic would fit—pattered to a degree after our own recent "New Deal," with many embellishments.

Low Taxes

Due to the fact that Argentine has never been involved in a war outside her own borders, internal debt is of no great importance and consequently taxes of all kinds, including income, are quite low.

This condition is further improved by revenue that is derived from legalized, government controlled gambling.

All gambling casinos, of which every large city or resort has one or more, are government owned and operated, as is horse racing and daily lotteries.

The take from these sources, in the case of Argentine, is sufficient to support all welfare and social security expense.

At Mar Del Plata, located about 250 miles south of Buenos Aires, on the Atlantic seacoast, a resort town rivalling Miami and Atlantic City in grandeur, not only are the casinos government owned but the large and beautiful hotel, "Provincial," as well.

As guest of the Argentine Hereford Association we spent a day at Mar Del Plata.

Buenos Aires, Latin America's first city in size and ninth largest in the world is located 170 miles inland from the Atlantic Ocean on the Rio de la Plata River.

It has a population of 3,000,000 inhabitants in Buenos Aires proper, plus another 3,000,000 overlapping in Buenos Aires Province.

Commercially, politically, industrially, Buenos Aires is the nerve center of all Argentina.

It also serves as the nation's largest port and rail center. Cosmopolitan, dynamic and progressive, it possesses a blend of the Old World and the New.

The Plaza Hotel, serving as our home while in Buenos Aires, is located on the Plaza de Mayo in the heart of the city.

Within the radius of a few blocks are fashionable shopping streets, the commercial and theatrical district.

At the Plaza itself, you will find the historic Cabildo, where the movement for independence from Spain was inaugurated, the Government Palace, Municipal buildings, the Cathedral, burial place of General Jose de San Martin, Argentina's greatest son; the main banking institutions and the National Library.

Beautiful parks, recreation areas and play grounds are in abundance.

It may be confidently stated that few countries offer nowadays so many opportunities for active and interprising capital as does Argentina.

The country is under populated, with many fields of action and vast natural resources still undeveloped.

But before you sell the old family milk cow and grab a plane for Argentina, here's the sticker!

Any investments you make are supported by a declaration to the government of capital invested.

Upon this amount so invested, you are permitted to retire annually 3% of your investment.

All the remainder including profits, must remain invested in the country.

So unless you plan on staying 33 years or longer, you had best make inquiry at the Argentine Constulate before going there — otherwise stay where you are and keep milking the cow.

Former Ordite Dies in G. I.

Mrs. Robert McAllister, the former Alice Wiegand, died in Grand Island, Wednesday. She was 64.

From 1932 until 1939, Mr. and Mrs. McAllister lived in Ord, where Mr. McAllister was employed by the state highway department. A daughter, Gertrude, was graduated from the Ord high school.

Mrs. McAllister was born on a farm northwest of Neligh. Later the family moved to Neligh, where she received schooling.

She was employed in Kearney as a dental assistant. In 1915 she came to Grand Island and was employed by the Railway Express, in dental offices as a technician, and at Naglestock's.

She and Mr. McAllister were married Nov. 11, 1924. He died in Grand Island in 1942.

Mrs. McAllister was a member of the Ord Methodist church and the Order of Eastern Star here.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. James Smith of Grand Island, a grandson, three brothers and a half-brother.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon. Burial followed in the Grand Island cemetery.

SDB Church Holds 50th Annual New Year's Day Dinner

The fiftieth annual New Years dinner was held Sunday at the Seventh Day Baptist church.

Old newspaper files revealed the first dinner was held in 1905 at tables set in the Woodman Hall. The cooking was done in the Loyalist office. Tables were set twice to serve 275. Since the new church was built in 1915, after the old one was struck by lightning and burned, the dinners have been held in the basement.

Now the kitchen is equipped with electric stoves, hot water, and up-to-date cupboards. However, the congregation has decreased. At the dinner this year there were not more than 100 present. The committee this year consisted of the Don Clements, the Clair Barbers and the Wayne Monks.

Mrs. Prentice Dies

Mrs. Pearl Prentice Carr daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Prentice, former North Loup residents, died at El Paso, Texas, December 13 and was buried December 17 at Nortonville, Kans. Mrs. Carr was born in North Loup in 1906 and would have been 49 years of age on January 27, 1955. Both her parents survive.

Pool Hall Sells

George Fenton has bought the basement pool hall, recently operated by Will Drawbridge. Mr. Fenton held a farm sale Monday and will take over operation of the pool hall soon.

Former Pastor Writes

Reverend Sam Mitchell, former pastor of the North Loup and Scotia Methodist churches, wrote friends here from his home in Great Falls, Mont., where he is serving as district director of the Lion's club. He also has a pastorate at a small church 35 miles from Great Falls. Alberta, Canada is included in his Lion's club district. He and Mrs. Mitchell spent a month there. They attended a national convention in Yellowstone Park and an international convention in New York City during the summer. Their daughter, Ramona, who is in the WACS, is stationed in Germany. She is spending Christmas in England.

Chamber Banquet Draws Record 177 to Discuss '55 Ord Program

One hundred and seventy seven persons, the largest single crowd in chamber of commerce history, dissected and discussed Ord civic life here Sunday night at the annual general meeting.

Starting with dinner at 6:30 p.m. the meeting threaded its way through an hour of business then specifically directed chamber attention to the following:

1. The possibility of an auditorium.

2. Parking. Members asked for stall striping, business men to leave cars home Saturday and cleaner parking areas.

3. A more active welcoming committee for residents and new business.

4. Stronger participation in the county fair and agricultural recognition for good farming practices.

And a hundred other minor projects ranging from, "What became of the chamber of commerce desk?" to "zoning for Ord business firms, moving into residential areas."

"Most Successful"

Retiring President Dillo Troyer dubbed the meeting," the most successful on record."

The meeting was spontaneous, interesting and loaded with humorous incidents.

Toastmaster Ed Swopes sounded the keynote when he asked for, "a moment of silence in honor of those who said they'd be with us tonight in spirit."

After the pause Swopes moved into business with the remark, "...and now for the live ones!"

Swopes introduced President Troyer who in turn presented a report from each committee chairman.

Troyer Sums Up

The committee reports were followed by Troyer's summation of the year. He said he'd worked on one "pet" project, the elimination of radio and TV interference, all year and, "I sincerely hope your incoming president carries it on."

Troyer pointed out several efforts in '54 which saved members sizable sums. Specifically he named the chamber's protest on the Ord-to-Burwell phone rates, the current city-KN gas rate disagreement, and the protest of the increased freight rates.

"These are only three of the chamber's activities last year," he said, "but I believe if you'll give it some thought you'll agree we may have saved you more than you customarily pay in dues."

Plaques Given

Prior to his talk Troyer awarded second and third place plaques to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Severson and Mr. and Mrs. John Galka.

The four were prize winners in this year's Christmas home lighting contest. First place winner Keith Cook was not present for his award. Ray Wotajsek honorable mention winner, was given a $3 merchandise certificate.

Following reports and lighting awards Troyer introduced 1955 President Bill Lee.

Lee Tells Plans

Lee explained several ideas he'd like emphasized this year. They were

1. Stronger individual participation.

2. An active committee to consider the observance of Ord's coming 75th diamond jubilee in 1956.

3. Stronger merchant participation in the county fair.

4. The possibility of Business-Education, and Education-Business Days.

5. A legislative committee to study state and national government moves.

Elusive Fire

Smoke, in the second grade room of the Ord grade school Friday, kicked off a 12 hour fruitless search for fire.

Teachers and pupils noticed haze in the room about 10:30 a.m.

Superintendent Nels Sullivan, Fire Chief Rich Rowbal, and two or three firemen were summoned.

After 12 hours, during which firemen felt walls, examined fixtures, and traced wiring diagrams, the group gave up attempting to locate the source. A section of ceiling was torn down.

Mr. Sullivan told the Quiz he "believed" the cause was an electric ballast used in a fluorescent light.

Ord police were instructed to check the building at two hour intervals Friday night.

Nothing developed.

School Soft Drinks Should Be Barred, Says Ord Dentist

Dr. F. L. Blessing Cites Sweets As Tooth Decay Cause

Dr. F. L. Blessing, Ord dentist, Monday told Rotarians all sweetened soft drinks should be barred from schools.

Dr. Blessing said a move towards the soft drink elimination was underway by the American Dental Assn.

He said 95 to 98 per cent of all school children suffered dental disorders of one kind or another.

The disorders varried from one or more cavities per child, Dr. Blessing said.

"Most of the decay comes from sweets," Dr. Blessing said. "Tooth enamel gets cracked. Then the inner surface is attacked."

Blessing also said toothpaste, as an aid to dental care, serves little if any useful purpose.

Most of the benefits of tooth brush use comes from massage and cleanliness, he added.

Chewing dental chewing gums is useless too, he implied.

Dr. Blessing's talk preceded a film on tooth structure.

Mrs. Will Bartlett Dies While Asleep

Body Discovered by Daughter While on Morning Visit

Mrs. Will Bartlett 75, was found dead in her home Wednesday morning.

The body was discovered by a daughter, Mrs. George Zikmund and husband, who went to the Bartlett home the same morning.

Indication were Mrs. Bartlett had died in her sleep.

She was the wife of an early Ord postmaster and county clerk and a member of the Ord Presbyterian church.

Funeral arrangements are being planned.

Two Radiosondes Recovered Here

Instruments Sent Up From North Platte Station for Data

Ord weatherman Horace Travis gave an assist this week to the United States Weather Bureau.

He recovered a radiosonde from a farm operated by the Graul Bros. southwest of the Brace school.

Travis, out motoring, noticing the bright orange parachute used to lower the instrument after it is sent aloft.

Later, following tagged instructions, he mailed the device to the USWB at Chicago.

Second One Found

A similar instrument was found last week by Rudy Kokes, the post-office here reported.

The radiosondes are sent aloft from the North Platte weather station.

They consist of a radio transmitter, a parachute and gas balloon.

The balloon is filled and the instrument released. As it travels upward the attached battery operated radio transmits data on humidity, pressure and temperature.

Data Is Recorded

The data is recorded on automatic receivers at North Platte then later used in weather predictions.

Travis said the balloons reached a height of 85,000 feet (15 to 16 miles), before they break from expanding pressure.

After the balloons break the instrument is returned to the ground by the parachute colored a brilliant orange for distance recognition.

Cousins of Ordite Murdered for Money

Harry Whipples of Buda, Ill. Slain by Teen Aged Trio

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Whipple of Buda, Ill., cousins to W. J. Whipple of Ord, were murdered during a robbery there last week.

Robbery was the apparent motive. Mr. Whipple was known to carry large sums.

He and his wife, both about 70, were shot to death through a window of their home.

Charged with the slaying is a trio of youths aged 13, 15 and 17. The three have confessed.

One of the youths told officers he'd recently been married and needed the money to pay debts.

The actual slaying was done by the 15 year old. All three are being held on a first degree murder charge.

The Illinois Whipples have visited here. They formerly lived at Litchfield.

Truck Firm Boosts Safe Haul Record

A year's livestock hauling from this vicinity to Omaha and other markets with a single loss was announced this week by the Romans Motor Freight of Ord.

In an advertisement, published in this week's issue of the Quiz, the firm reproduces a letter from an insurance company attesting to the safety record.

During the year the firm hauled 19,087 head of stock. One cow was crippled in transit.

Romans, who operates 13 trucks out of Ord has a payroll of 16, said drivers had covered nearly 600,000 miles during the year without a major accident.

Plate Sales Figure Reach 1,035 Tuesday

'Lost' Tax Receipts Cause Consternation In Assessor's Office

License plate sales in the county treasurer's office Tuesday reached 1,035, Treasurer Lloyd Wilson said.

Wilson added the Thursday total was about one third of the total plate sales usually completed by February each year.

About 3,300 sales are made by that date, he said.

The treasurer's office has been crowded almost every day the past two weeks, Wilson said.

After the initial surge Monday, Jan. 3, buyers lines tapered off to remain steady.

Penalty Is Arrest

Motorists have until February 14, at midnight, to secure '55 plates. There's no penalty except arrest.

The sale surge was causing some consternation in the offices of Assessor Henry Stara.

To secure new plates motorists must have a car tax statement. In preparation for the sales, Stara's office mailed 3,347 tax statements shortly before sales opened.

To date he's had to make out over 300 replacements.

"Most of them tell me they lost 'em," Stara said, 'but I think they just left them at home."

Stara said, in view of the replacements he's had to make, postage to mail out the car tax receipts was "just wasted."

Carpenter . . . more beef, less money.

Loan Assn. to Hear Colorado Economist

Farrington Carpenter Will Address Farmers, Ranchers, Here Jan. 18

Farrington R. Carpenter, Colorado rancher, legislator, and economist, will be principal speaker at the Loup Valley National Farm Loan Association's annual meeting here Tuesday, Jan. 18.

Jack C. Bristowe, representing the Federal Land Bank, also will speak. President Evet Smith will preside.

The meeting will start with a turkey dinner at 6:30 p.m. in the Presbyterian church.

Mr. Carpenter's topic will be, More Beef with Less Money.

One hundred and fifty ranchers, cattlemen and farmers from Loup, Garfield, Valley and Greeley counties are expected.

On the business side the meeting will elect three directors. Directors, whose terms expire this year, are W. O. Zangger and Evet Smith, of Valley county, and John Schere of Garfield county.

Replacements for Smith and Schere will be elected for three year terms. Zangger's replacement will be elected for two years.

The association's board of directors will elect officers later in January.

Trace of Snow Seen Wednesday

A trace of snow rode into Valley county early Wednesday billowing in on the wings of a 15 mph, 12 degree wind.

The biting particles were the first sure reminder that winter is here.

Earlier in the week lower readings were encountered but the air was still. Thursday, Friday and Saturday the mercury ranged from 7 to 9 degrees above.

The forecast? "Snow flurries and windy," said the weather bureau but a warming sun was trying to make liars of the forecasters.

Living in Valley county IS a privilege!

Here are the temperatures for the week:

Thursday 38-9. Friday 35-9. Saturday 37-7. Sunday 30-20. Monday 33 8. Tuesday 29-13 and Wednesday morning 12.

No Funds Will Be Spent for Arcadia Road, Says Board

Instead Advises Group to Join Forces Then Plead for State Help

Supervisors here Tuesday told the Ord chamber of commerce road committee they will spend no money on a new route to Arcadia.

Pressed for a clarification of earlier discussion the supervisors made the statement to Chamber President Bill Lee, following a meeting of the chamber's road committee, several members of the Highway 80 Ass'n headed by Pres. Bert Sell, and the board.

"Instead," said one supervisor, the association and the Ord chamber should meet with the county road committee and all three should concentrate efforts to get the state highway department interested."

New Route

The road under discussion is a proposed route running west from Ord then south to where it joins a new road running east from Arcadia.

Mr. Sell headed the Arcadia delegation. He told supervisors some of the work the association had done for Highway 80.

Later when supervisors suggested his association, and the Ord chamber of commerce road committee meet with county roadmen, Mr. Sell and his delegation left.

But Mr. Sell apparently felt there was some hope for a secondary road program for the new route by Valley county-federal aid participation.

Ask Clarification

That was when Jack Romans and Bill Lee, composing the chamber committee, asked for a clarification.

Supervisors implied the joint proposition was a "lost" cause. They cited the recent six miles west to Sargent as an example of what was termed, "frightful" costs.

And, another supervisor added, most of the road money is needed elsewhere in the county.

In addition if a new road was constructed, the old one would revert to county control for maintenance, a county roadman said.

"As far as maintenance is concerned," he added, "we are in about the same shape as the state."

The state highway department has often said maintenance costs for gravel roads bite deeply into state funds.

Dr. George Gard Is Renamed Loan Head

Firm Pays Three Per Cent Dividend; "Enjoyed Good Year"

Dr. George Gard, an Ord dentist, was reelected president of the Protective Savings and Loan Ass'n in a directors meeting held last Friday.

Clarence Davis was reelected vice president and Art Jefferies was renamed secretary.

Mr. Davis was also reelected to a three year term on the board of directors. Other directors are J. R. Stoltz, Robert Noll and Dr. Gard.

The firm paid a three per cent dividend, (about $13,000), on all classes of stock for '54. Investments listed $325,000 in real estate loans and $235,000 in government bonds, Secretary Art Jefferies said.

Velda . . . Allen, a fellow sufferer, went to Mama.

Velda Merritt Struggles to Regain Health

Dear Mom and Dad:

Well how goes it? Fine, I hope. I am getting along well. I wake up every five minutes to blow my nose since I have a cold.

I had a terrible awakening today. You remember Allen? (another polio patient), Well he had a cold. He got sicker and sicker and they were going to give him a tracheaotomy but before they could he died.

So Allen is going home to his mother. She had polio just before Allen did and she died. I will sure miss Allen.

Karen sent me a book. I didn't get therapy today. I don't feel too good. Tell the boys hello. I am going to close. We aren't supposed to do anything. Love,

Sis.

The above letter from Velda Merrit, 12 year old Arcadia girl describes her daily life in the long long sometimes painful, struggle to regain health.

Velda is in the Children's Memorial hospital at Omaha. There her chance to regain health is being financed by the Valley county polio chapter.

That's the organization which spent nearly $10,000 here last year to care for polio victims. The $10,000 was $3,000 more than all Valley county contributions. Extra funds came from state chapter aid.

The theme for this year's drive is to raise funds for the Salk vaccine. Until it, or a similar vaccine, is found to cure polio there may be a lot more Veldas.

One county organization has moved to help the '55 drive for funds even before the campaign is opened.

It's the Know Your Neighbor club of Arcadia. Last week club women mailed Drive Chairman Edward Swopes $40 for this year's campaign.

Meanwhile Chairman Swopes was gearing the local chapter to the fund drive.

He will appear at Rotary next Monday to talk on polio.

The Valley county chapter for infantile paralysis, (polio), will meet at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Swopes announced. The meeting will prepare last minute plans for the '55 fund drive.

No Decision in Gas Rate Dispute

There's no decision this week in the Ord-KN gas rate dispute although Federal Judge Delehant opened court in Grand Island and the case is on the docket.

Attorney Edward Vogeltanz, representing Ord, and K-N attorneys appeared at court, Monday and were told the judge hadn't reached a decision on an earlier plea, i.e. jurisdiction.

Meanwhile, reports to the Quiz indicate, the K-N company has placed the new rates in effect in 78 towns which have accepted the new franchise.

Ord is not one of the 78 towns.

Two Are Fined

At a hearing before County Judge Ellsworth Ball Thursday, Jan. 6, Don Beran was fined $10.00 and assessed costs of $4.00 for speeding. Mr. Beran was arrested by Patrolman Otto Zapp.

Francis Canfield was charged with reckless driving on the Ord-Burwell highway, Jan. 1, at a hearing Jan. 5. He was fined $10.00 and costs of $4.00. He was picked up by Otto Zapp.

Club Gift Boosts Rescue Unit $100

Three Other Gifts, One from Homemakers Push Total to $889.00

The volunteer firemen's rescue unit fund received several healthy boosts this week one of them a relay from Ak-Sar-Ben.

The Veteran's club gave $100 following a meeting of the VFW and American Legion joint board which governs the club.

Club Manager Junior Niemeyer made the check presentation.

The crash unit will be given proceeds from a benefit dance Friday, Jan. 4 in Bohemian hall when Tune Twisters will furnish music.

Rod Benson has been hired as caller. Admission is 50 cents. Firemen will be asked to take tickets.

The unit also received $5 from the Young Homemaker's extension club. The club recently received a $4 check from Ak-Sar-Ben.

The Ak-Sar-Ben check, with a dollar added, was then voted to the unit.

The unit was $16 richer through the generosity of Bill Sack, operator of a lumber firm here.

The fund also received $10 from the Kansas-Nebraska Gas Co.

Most of the rescue unit's interior structure has been completed firemen reported Tuesday. Stretchers arrived and cupboards to house first aid equipment have been installed. The unit still needs insignia.

Fire Chief Richard Rowbal said firemen, who will man the unit, will start first aid instruction soon.

The classes are arranged by Drs. Miller and Martin who will instruct women.

Previously reported	$758.00
Veteran's Club	100.00
Young Homemakers	5.00
Sack Lumber Co.	16.00
K-N Gas Co.	10.00

County Employees Must File Claims for All Salaries

Board Action Kills Former Practice of Unpublished Salaries

County courthouse employees from now on will file claims to draw salaries.

A motion directing the action was passed at the first meeting of the new Valley county board of supervisor's Tuesday.

Formerly employees drew salaries without claims. And since no claims were filed salaries were never published. The Tuesday board action halts the former practice.

Bill Zabloudil Chairman

William Zabloudil, carry over member, was named new chairman to succeed Ray Knapp.

Seated were Charles Ciochon, of Elyria and Ray Lutz of Arcadia. Leonard Cronk, also elected last year, has been on the board since the resignation of Jack Romans in November. He represents Ord.

In addition to passing the resolution affecting salaries the supervisors also:

Rehired Malvin Axthelm, as county road commissioner and L. H. Covert custodian.

City Crews Start Bridge Rebuilding

City crews will utilize the winter slump to repair and repaint bridges Mayor Schoenstein said Wednesday.

A narrow bridge near the Joe Kohla home will be widened, the mayor said, then painted.

A second bridge, a block north and two east of the light plant, will be torn down then rebuilt.

A third, in a canyon near the Bill Darges home, will be constructed.

Mayor Schoenstein said bridges will be repainted where needed.

Jane Andersen Hurt in Home Tumble

Mrs. John Andersen, wife of the Ord chamber of commerce secretary, suffered cut tendons in a fall Tuesday night.

Mrs. Andersen stepped backward into a glass reflector and fell. The fall cut tendons in the back of her leg.

Following treatment she was placed in a cast then returned to her home.

New Quiz Engraver

Jim Ulrich of Corpus Christi, Tex., is new chief engraver in the Quiz plant, replacing Carl Gausman, who left today for Spokane, Wash., to resume management of a photographic studio he owns there.

Mr. Ulrich is married and has two children. The family arrived in Ord last Friday with Mrs. Ulrich driving their car and Mr. Ulrich a pick-up, pulling a 36-foot house trailer in which the family will live. Their trailer is parked near Parkview Motel.

Chamber Directors Meet Friday Night

Chamber of commerce board of directors will meet at the Ord Grill Friday at 6:30 p.m. to appoint committees for '55.

President Bill Lee said the meeting will follow dinner.

The '55 work program will be set, Lee added.

"Each director has a sheaf of notes from last week's general meeting," Lee said. "Practical suggestions will be adopted into this year's effort."

The chamber operates from a $3,000 budget each year. Last year's activities pushed the chamber slightly into the red, Lee said.

Fair Vote Slated Next Wed. at Two

Fair stockholders will vote on whether or not to continue the county fair next Wednesday at two o'clock in the courthouse.

Fair Board President Clare Clement said anyone interested in the fair's future may attend.

"Particularly business men," Clement said, "if they are tired of a fair we'd like to know it. Everyone will be heard if they've anything to say."

Voting, Clement added, will be confined to stockholders.

Seal Sale is $606

Miss Katherine Helzer, chairman of Valley county tuberculosis association reports $606.50 received in the sale of Christmas seals during the 1954 campaign.

The total reached last year amounted to $625.36. The county quota was $1,000. This is the last report. Miss Helzer will continue to receive money should any be sent to her. About 1,700 envelopes of seals were sent out, early in November.

January 31, is the final date on which loan or purchase agreement documents, covering 1954 crop wheat, oats, barley, rye, grain sorghums, soybeans and dry edible beans may be approved by the Valley County ASC office.

It is the farmers responsibility to see that the loan documents have been executed by that date, Manager Lloyd Zikmund said.

In the case of farm-stored loans, for which samples are submitted to the state office laboratory, it will be necessary the samples be submitted for grade determination not later than January 25, to allow sufficient time for handling and return of the work sheet to the ASC office for completion by the final date.

Social Security Law Gets New Changes

New Provisions Take Over Jan. 1; Farmers, Farm Labor Covered

January 1 was the effective date for a number of important provisions in the 1954 amendments to the Social Security Act.

Verna S. Rankin, manager of the Grand Island social security office, said this week people should know how they are affected.

They were signed into law by the President September 1. Here are the changes in the law:

Up To $4,200 Counts

1. Beginning January 1, 1955, earnings up to $4,200 received in a year will count in the average in determining future social security benefit payments.

2. Benefits may be paid to an insured individual at 72 or over, regardless of the amount that he earns.

3. Benefits may be paid in all months to the insured worker between the ages of 65 and 72 if his earnings for 1955 will not amount to over $1200 yearly.

4. Benefits can be paid for some months to the insured worker between the ages of 65 and 72 whose earnings in a year are between $1200 and $2080.

Can Be Lost

5. Benefits are lost by failure to file claims.

6. Recomputation of benefits may be made under certain circumstances where the individual has continued to work some in recent years. Increased rates are paid if recomputations result in a higher benefit rate.

7. Totally disabled beneficiaries who became totally disabled before age 65 may be entitled to increased benefits if they had at least 5 years of work under the Social Security Act out of the 10 years before disability began and were working in at least one-half of the 3-year period before disability began.

Farm Labor Covered

8. Farm laborers are covered under the Social Security Act if they are paid $100 or more by any farm operator in a year. This is effective January 1, 1955.

9. Self-employed farm operators are covered by the Social Security Act effective January 1, 1955. Their 1955 earnings will be reported early in 1956.

10. Newly covered groups should secure social security account number cards at the Grand Island Social Security Office and have them in readiness for their reports.

Rate May Be Frozen

11. Individuals who have completed at least 5 years of work out of the 10 years before becoming disabled (this may include World War II Military Service or later military service), who completed at least one and one-half years of such work during the three-year period just before becoming totally disabled, may have their social security benefit rate "frozen" by making application and providing proof of disability, and in this way the benefits payable at 65 or in the event of death could be based on the benefit rate which would exclude the period of disability. Individuals who believe that some of these new provisions of the law apply to them should make inquiry by calling or writing to the Social Security Administration, Grand Island, Nebraska.

Miss Novosad . . . now Mrs. Robert Severson

Darlene Novosad Wed in Saturday Nuptials

With nuptial high mass and vows exchanged before Father Thomas Siudowski Saturday Miss Darlene Ann Novosad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Novosad sr., of Ord, became the wife of Robert Dean Severson.

Mr. Severson, of Kansas City, Mo., is the son of Mrs. Louis Severson and the late Mr. Severson.

The double ring ceremony took place at ten o'clock in Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic church.

Attending the bride were her sisters and sister-in-law, Miss Amelia Novosad, as maid of honor, wore a gown of blue shade, Miss Joni Novosad, green, Mrs. Donald Dahlin, of Pierce, shrimp and Mrs. Wm. Novosad jr., gold.

The dresses were of net and lace and were identically styled. Matching headbands were worn and all carried colonial bouquets of white pompoms.

Also serving the bride was another sister as junior bridesmaid, Patricia Novosad. Flower girls were nieces, Sheryl Dahlin and Nancy Novosad. The ring bearer was a niece, Darlene Novosad, who carried rings on a white pillow. The girls wore identical white dresses in net and taffeta and carried flowers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her formal wedding gown was of Chantilly lace and pleated net. It was styled with a tight bodice, and long sleeves, trimmed with sequins. The bouffant skirt ended in a whisper train.

Her double veil was of French illusion and in finger tip length. It fell from a bonnet trimmed in seed pearls and sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses with a white prayer book and rosary. Her only ornament was a necklace of pearls, the gift of the groom.

Mr. Severson was attended by his brother, Gerald, as best man. Other attendants were Lyle Novosad and William Novosad jr., and Donald Dahlin.

Ushers were Milo and Lloyd Hurlbert.

Mrs. Novosad wore beige with matching accessories, while Mrs. Severson, chose blue with matching accessories. Both wore orchid corsages. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Anna Polak, was also present, and was given a white carnation corsage.

Music was presented by Dr. F. J. Osentowski, Lorraine and Rosalie Dunlap. Mrs. Don Edwards was organist.

Brunch was served to the wedding party at Harmony House. A reception was held during the afternoon in the Masonic hall with the members of Circle 6, of the Catholic church in charge. The serving table was centered with a five tier wedding cake, surrounded with white carnations. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Edw. Kokes.

Pouring coffee and punch were Mrs. Kerry Leggett and Mrs. Raymond Goins, of Omaha.

The guest book was kept by Mrs. Donald Severson. Gifts were cared for by Marlene Norman, Miss Alice Fulton, Omaha, and Mrs. Kenneth Clement.

During the afternoon, the couple left on a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. For traveling, Mrs. Severson wore a suit of medium blue with white and black flecks. Her accessories were black. On the couple's return their home will be in Omaha temporarily.

Mrs. Severson graduated from the Ord high school with the class of 1951. She also graduated from the Omaha commercial extension school, and is now employed by a manufacturing firm. Mr. Severson is a graduate of the University of Nebraska. He is employed as a federal auditor and accountant with headquarters in Kansas City, Mo. He served in the armed forces.

A rehearsal dinner was served Friday evening at the home of Mr and Mrs. Roy Severson.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all who were so thoughtful during our bereavement, in the death of Mrs. Anna Petska. Especially do we thank Father Thomas Siudowski, the city police, Mrs. Louise Petska and the Catholic ladies of Circle 6 who provided and served dinner to us. The flowers were also very much appreciated.

PEO Party

Chapter BB, PEO, met for a short business meeting at the home of Mrs. Keith Shepherd, Monday evening. Later, following adjournment, the members went to the fellowship hall of the Presbyterian church.

There the husbands and children of the membership were gathered and a social evening and program was enjoyed.

The children and young people of the group presented a pleasing and entertaining program.

Presented were piano solos by Carol Jean Armstrong, Gearjlan Mason, Bruce Pearson and Betty Louann Nash; vocal solos by Dell Shepherd, and Nancy Carolyn Nash; trombone and saxaphone solos by Steve Kellison and Rita Jo Shepherd; verses by Jimmy and Christie Ferguson and Gary, Laurie and Brodley Garnick, and a selection by the boys quartet, accompanied by Carol Pocock. Members of the quartet were Bob and Dick Armstrong, Neil Pocock and Douglas Pearson.

Refreshments were served by a committe consisting of Mrs. Keith Shepherd, Mrs. Raymond Pocock and Mrs. Carl Dale.

KSTC Prexy Praises Scouts, Crafters on TV

A leter from Herbert L. Cushing, former Ord man, was received here this week, by Mrs. Rudy Hamsa.

The letter is relative to the appearance of the Scotia Brownie Scouts and Craft Girls on KOHL—TV last Wednesday afternoon.

Twenty-four scouts, all but Sally Gebhardt who was ill, took part in the show.

Five cars were taken for transportation and braved the near blizzard which prevailed.

The girls gave a 45 minute program. They presented Moe Milliken with a cake in the shape of a butterfly for his birthday.

Mr. Cushing is president of the Kearnel State Teachers college and was formerly superintendent of schools in Valley county. The letter read as follows:

"Your television show Wednesday afternoon was so very oustanding that I felt that I should write to you. Also, you deserve great credit for your courage in braving the blizzard.

Teachers, parents, sponsors, and the children may well be proud. The youngsters were so well poised, accepted compliments so graciously, and all in all spoke very well of Scotia as a community and as a place to live."

Sincerely,
Herbert L Cushing

York, Fullerton In Cage Warfare Leads

Ord Still Unrated As Chants Idle in Central Ten Play

York in the eastern division and Fullerton in the western division continued last week to display power before the awe-struck eyes of the Central Ten.

Clyde Haskins bounced in 26 counters as the powerful Warriors pulled away in the last four minutes to win the Madison-Boone-Nance county basketball tourney finals over Genoa 68 to 63.

The Warriors thus remain the only undefeated club in the conference.

York, meanwhile slammed a high-riding Geneva aggregation 47 to 46 in the last three minutes.

Again it was versatile Bob Harry leading the York attack with 19 points.

G. I. Bests Dukes

The week previous the Dukes had fallen victim to a sharpshooting Grand Island Class A quintet 43 to 41.

Crete Cardinals brought their season mark to three won and two lost when they tripped Fairbury 47 to 45.

The Cardinals were led by Sophomore Dag Hokenstad, who poured 14 points through the bucket.

In the consolation finals of the MBN tourney, Albion was nosed out by St. Edward 50 to 47. Jim Ridgeway popped in 23 points for Albion.

Schuyler Loses

Schuyler of the eastern division dropped games to a strong Blair and Class A Columbus.

The Blair quintet raced to a 78 to 48 win as Bob Heavican canned 25 points for the Warriors.

Heavican led the way with 11 aided by Don Vondracek with 11 as Schuyler lost to Columbus 43 to 35.

David City put together a 21 point first period and a 15 point second canto to trip Broken Bow 53 to 43.

Denton Kinkler led the way for the Scouts with 13 points.

Aurora Wins

Aurora remained in the win column for the week with a 64 to 56 victory over Osceola.

Ron Schoonover canned 20 points as the Huskies swept to a 29 to 22 lead at intermission.

Seward got back into the victory department by dropping Central City 51 to 47 in an intra-conference tussle.

Fred Deake hit 19 and Lang hit 14 for Seward as Orvis Larson scored 17 for the losers.

York Victor

York wrapped up its second Central Ten win Saturday night when they smacked Crete 61 to 41. Bob Harry had his biggest night as he glided 34 points through the baskets.

The Ord Chanticleers took a 53 to 48 decision from David City Saturday night.

Ericson Splits 2 Cage Contests

Ericson split a pair of cage contests last week nipping Belgrade 49 to 43 then losing to Cedar Rapids 52 to 55.

The games pushed the Ericson win-lose total this year to 7-2.

Ericson seconds lost to Belgrade 26 to 34 then deadlocked at 20-20 with Cedar Rapids.

—Mr. and Mrs. Albin Absalon and sons had as guests at supper Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Meese, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Meese and Suzanne, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Christoffersen. Cards were played during the evening.

Humble David City Then Bow to Minden; At St. Paul Friday

The Chanticleer basketball squad broke even in a pair of cage encounters over the past week losing to Minden 67-52 Tuesday and beating David City Saturday 53-48.

Center Lynn Nelson caught fire in the David City game. Lynn hooped 24 points from eight field goals and eight free throws.

Ord captured the lead in the first quarter and were never headed. Quarter scores were 9-8, 25-18, 46-34 and 53-48.

Tuesday the Chant shooting was apparently struck by the chilly outside weather.

Nelson was again the star leading the Chant attack with 20 points. He sent 7 swishers through from the floor then added six more points from charity tosses.

Ron Romans was Lynn's nearest competitor with 13 points.

It was Minden all the way. They won the first quarter 14 to 11, moved to 32-18 in the second then went on to win the third 53-41.

Chant free throw shooting was a healthy 63 per cent. The Big Reds made 12 of 19 attempts. Minden registered 60 per cent with 11 from 19.

State Game Funds Lower This Year

Biggest Fall Seen in Permit Sales; Confiscations Fewer

Nebraska game commission income was higher in 1953 than it was in 1954 by $69,998.

Commission officials placed most of the blame for the receipt drop on the $31,104 loss in income from fishing and huning permits.

Here is the state income figure broken down :

Fishing and Hunting permits	$661,416.86	$630,341.90
Trapping permits	11,587.71	11,096.50
Beaver permits	4,977.35	4,202.50
Miscellaneous	7,654.50	8,185.50
Confiscations	6,006.73	4,339.85
Liquidated damages	4,550.00	6,660.00
Beaver Seals	14,674.00	8,774.00
Leases	33,552.28	35,435.28
Outdoor Nebraska	9,253.21	6,255.73
Sale of Cars, Trucks, etc.	13,478.18	18,644.24
Other	9,185.98	7,792.42
Deer Permits	*80,630.00	45,270.00
	$856,630.00	$786,997.92

*Income from deer permits sales in 1952 and 1953.

The commission also receives appropriations from the legislature for use in administrating state parks. This is the only tax money received. It is prescribed by law for financing parks.

The commission also receives funds from the federal aid to fish and wildlife act on a 3/4 matching basis.

Savings Bonds yield a handsome return!

$134.68 for your $75

Your money's more than safe—it's earning a handsome return . . . when you put it into Savings Bonds.

Savings Bonds are a great way of saving for things like new farm buildings . . . a tractor replacement . . . the children's education and your take-it-easy years. For every $75 you put away now you can count on $100 in 9 years 8 months . . . $134.68 in 19 years 8 months.

Your banker can show you how Savings Bonds fit into your picture. Come in and talk it over!

Mary Domonkos . . . . patient teaches nurses.

Omaha Polio Patient Teaches Other Nurses from Her Wheelchair

In 1952 Mary Cay Domonkos of Omaha became a statistic.

She became just one of many Nebraskans suffering from polio that epidemic year.

Now, three years later, Mary Cay is playing a double role in St. Joseph's respirator and rehabilitation center at Omaha.

She spends part of her time teaching pediatric nursing to students at the hospital.

The remainder of her time she is a patient, learning to walk again.

Was Ill A Year

Stricken while caring for her ill mother, Miss Domonkos spent nearly a year in the hospital before being admitted to the Omaha center.

The hospital needed someone to teach one class a day in pediatric nursing.

Miss Domonkos was qualified and took over. She teaches from a wheel chair.

Contributing to indications of a bright future is a diamond received from her finance now awaiting discharge from the navy.

54 Short of Record

Speaking of statistics, Ted Hughes, state chairman of the March of Dimes, has released figures showing that 712 new cases of polio were reported in the state during 1954, only 6 short of the second highest record of polio incidence in the state's history.

Of the 712 cases, 19 resulted in death, a lower percentage than was being reported a few years ago, Hughes said. The lower death rate is credited to new advances in medical care and treatment, he said.

Will Spend $415,000

Reports received from county chapter treasurers show that the 93 counties spent or obligated themselves to spend $411,510 in Dimes funds during 1954 in behalf of 889 patients, Hughes continued.

Nebraska's polio attack rate in 1954 was fourth highest in the nation and was 127 per cent higher than the national average, according to Hughes.

One of the most difficult tasks on the farm during the winter months is moving silage to the feed lots . . . especially when the feed lot is buried in several feet of snow.

Farmers can make silage handling easier.

First, don't move it, or move it as little as possible. Let the animals self-feed. If you do have to haul silage, haul it in large loads. Make every load count.

If the farmer is going to feed silage, he should acquire machinery to condense it. Bulky silage takes more room and is considerably more difficult to handle.

RUPTURE

SHIELD-EXPERT, H. L. HOFFMANN of Minneapolis, Minn., will demonstrate, without charge, his "Rupture Shields" in Broken Bow Hotel Arrow

10 to 12, Thursday, January 20th

"I have specialized in the field of Rupture Correction since 1928 and personally fitted well over twenty thousand cases. When skillfully done most Rupture openings will contract in a short time. Above all you can go to work immediately without fear or pain. There are many of my satisfied customers right here in this community."

CAUTION: If neglected, rupture may cause weakness, backache, nervousness, stomach and gas pains. People having large ruptures, which have returned after surgical operations or injection treatments, are especially invited. "If you want it done right, don't experiment. See HOFFMANN. Afghanistan Ag Problems Scanned by Former Ordite

Dr. Harold W. Benn, assistant dean of the Wyoming college of agriculture, recently returned from a two-month trip to Afghanistan. At the request of the United States foreign operations administration he studied agricultural improvement of the country.

Dr. Benn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Benn, who live four miles northwest of Ord.

He is a former Future Farmers of America boy from Ord high school.

While in school, he won the American Farmer degree in FFA work. He was also active in 4-H.

Dr. Benn was recently asked to review a high school vocational agricultural program in Kabul and advise the Afghanistan government on plans to instigate agricultural extension and research programs.

Enroute to Afghanistan, he spent a week in Ethiopia to become familiar with agricultural programs.

In reporting on Afghanistan Mr. Benn said that "the people were friendly and eager to have U.S. advice on improving agricultural production."

"Research and extension are new to them, but they are enthused about using these methods to develop a prosperous and successful agricultural economy."

"Until recent years, Afghanistan was quite isolated. Railroads are still non-existent, but people may travel by automobile through the famed Khyber Pass, and there is air service in the country.

"Agricultural development will come through the use of improved methods by the irrigation of more than 300,000 acres of desert land under a nearly completed project in the Helmand Valley."

Mr. Benn attended the Nebraska College of Agriculture with the help of a Carl Raymond Gray scholarship, and after graduation spent five years as an agricultural agent for the Union Pacific railroad.

BPW Discuss State National Politics

The Ord Business and Professional Women's club listened attentively to discussions concerning state and national legislatures at the regular meeting Tuesday.

Hostesses were Katherine Helzer and Leanne Kerchal.

Under the lesson, Legislation is Everyone's Business, Miss Barbara Botsch described the state unicameral. She told membership and organization then described new bills.

Mrs. Jack Romans spoke on the national legislature under the topic What's Doing in Congress. In her talk Mrs. Romans told of some of the issues the present congress would have to decide such as atomic control, reclamation and taxes.

During the social side of the meeting new members were given a welcome, and a guest, Mrs. Lillian White of Larchmont N. Y., sister of Mrs. C. J. Mortensen, was introduced.

In business it was revealed $300 received from the Belle of the Ball dance in November, will go toward renovating and redecorating of the labor room in the Ord hospital.

Mrs. Orin Kellison chairman of the project committee plans further estimates.

Mrs. Roland Norman was named traffic safety chairman. She and her committee will study safety and surveys, all of which will apply to the Carole Lane award, which the club hopes to win.

Heat Shadowgraphs Screen Projected for REMA 'School'

$125 in Electrical Prizes Offered: Vote Slated for Transfer

A projection light and two cooking units, one propane gas, the other electricity, will be combined in a demonstration Thursday, Jan. 13, to show advantages and disadvantages of fuels.

The demonstration is slated for the REMA annual meeting at 12:30 p.m. in Bohemian hall when stockholders gather to vote on a transfer to rural public power.

For the demonstration the projection light will be mounted in front of the burners. Behind the burners is a screen.

The projection light, passing through heat waves from both units will project shadows.

A talk by General Electric Supply sales counselors will be based on the screen projections.

REMA Manager Wilbert Calvin said his company will offer $125 in door prizes for the meeting.

Given away will be a blanket, skillet, grill, heating pad and clock. All are electric.

Hy-Line baby chicks started this winter or spring ought to be mighty profitable, according to poultry experts. Here's the reason why: Many of the marginal flockowners, the in and outers who jumped into poultry last year when prices were so good, are sure to cut back or get out altogether. That should cut the supply of eggs considerably next fall and bring egg prices up. The same thing happened in 1950, the last time egg prices were down. With Hy-Lines in your laying house, you can really take advantage of higher prices to make extra profits. Efficient, high producing Hy-Lines lay more eggs and cost less to feed, so you increase your margin. Get ready to cash in with Hy-Lines. Order your chicks now from Noll Seed Co

Services Held for Mrs. Anna Petska

Ord Woman Collapses Dies in House Yard; Neighbor Finds Body

Funeral services were held Monday morning from Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic church for Anna Petska 68 year old Ord wife and mother, who was found dead near her home Thursday about 4 p.m.

Acting County Coroner Ralph Norman said Mrs. Petska apparently collapsed and died about noon following a heart attack. Dr. Otis Miller, examining physician, confirmed the cause of death.

Mrs. Petska was discovered by Marvin Wilson a neighbor. Mr. Wilson saw the body near a barn then called police.

Reverend Thomas Siudowski officiated at the funeral rites. Burial followed in the Ord Catholic cemetery under the direction of Hastings-Pearson Mortuary.

Bearers were Alvin Maresh, Edward Maresh, Joe Holoun, Vincent Bruha, Stanley Petska jr., Emanuel Petska.

The rosary was said at the Mortuary chapel Sunday evening.

Mrs. Petska was born Anna Maresh, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Maresh, in Burwell, Sept. 10, 1886.

All of her life was lived in Burwell and Ord. She was a member of the Catholic church.

Survivors include a son, Lumir Petska, of Omaha, and Mrs. Minnie Papiernik, Boonesville, Mo., a daughter; a brother, Frank Maresh of Ord, and a sister, Mrs. Emma Bruha, of Ord, and nine grandchildren.

Kruml To School

Robert Kruml, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kruml, of Burwell, left for his studies at Crosier Holy Cross Seminary, located at Onamia, Minn. Robert has spent a holiday vacation with parents. He went by bus to Grand Island, where he met friends and all then went by car to Onamia.

Extensionists Hear Dr. Blessing Talk

Dr. F. L. Blessing, Ord dentist, with film told the Valley county extension council the need of dental surveys among county children.

Some sixty new presidents and secretaries of the 29 extension clubs were present to hear the lecture and make plans for the coming year. The county chairman is Mrs. Wallace Coats. Other officers present were Secretary Mrs. Marvin Rybin, Treasurer Mrs. Victor Kerchal, and the Vice President Mrs. Ray Melia. Mrs. Erlo Babcock represented North Loup clubs. Mrs. Ernest Horner, Ord group chairman, was also in hand.

During the business session final plans for 1955 activities were outlined.

Among those mentioned was a special study of the United Nations program. Mrs. Ign Pokraka, North Loup, is chairman. This is under the citizenship program.

It was decided a special meeting of health and safety chairman should be held to plan further action. The chairmen are Mrs. Albert Peterson, Mrs. Allen Masters and Mrs. Erlo Babcock.

Several clubs reported sewing for the Ord hospital. Those who wish to do so will call Mrs. E. C. Leggett or Mrs. Hilding Pearson, both of Ord.

Under the work of health and safety committee comes further plans for the elimination of highway blind corners and immunization and dental care.

Mrs. Coats announced the date of the annual spring tea, at which high school junior girls will be honored, as April 29. The Young Homemaker club was appointed chairman. Assistants were the Mutua Benefit, the B Sharp, Ever Busy, Home Arts, Korner Kutters, Modern Mrs. and the Jolly Neighbors.

There was discussion of a tour in which the club members will take during the spring. A journey to Minden to see the Pioneer Village was suggested.

Several bulletins were distributed and explained by Miss Katherine Helzer, home extension agent.

Miss Helzer said there would be further council meetings in April, July and October.

Elyria Rites Held for Mrs. Welniak, 81

Aged Woman Dies Tuesday; Emigrated Here from Poland

Requiem mass funeral services were held Friday morning from the St. Mary's Catholic church, at Elyria, for the body of Mrs. Joe Welniak, 81 year old Valley county farm wife and mother, who died last Tuesday.

Mrs. Welniak died from shock following a fall in which she suffered a fractured hip.

Reverend Leonard Ziolkowski officiated at requiem mass. Burial followed in the Elyria Catholic cemetery under the direction of the Hastings-Pearson Mortuary.

Mrs. Welniak was born Josephine Waskoviak, November 8, 1873, in Wyzysk, Poland. There she was married to Joseph Welniak, January 6, 1895.

The couple emigrated to the United States shortly after the turn of the century and settled near Ashton. Later, in 1899, they moved to a farm near Elyria.

In 1934 they moved to Elyria where they have since made their home. Mrs. Welniak, as one of Elyria's oldest residents, was well known in the community. She was a member of the St. Mary's Catholic church.

Six sons were pall bearers following the church rites. They were John, of Marshville, Stanley and Frank, of Omaha, Victor, of Central City, Anton, of Elyria and Cash of Ord.

Other survivors are the widower; two daughters, Mrs. Rose Paddock, of Hastings, and Mrs. Mary Porter, of Denver; one brother, John Waskoviak, of Loup City; 19 grand children and one great grandchild.

Relatives and friends said the rosary Thursday evening at the Welniak home.

—Miss Florence Shoemaker of Grand Island, was an overnight guest Thursday, of Mrs. Archie Geweke.

Extension Clubs Eye Busy Year

Boasting 29 clubs home extension work in Valley county presents an active work schedule for 1955.

In the 1955 program, several goals are suggested.

In education the aim is to reach every club member with information which might help to make homemaking responsibilities lighter and pleasant.

Health and Safety

In health and safety an effort will be made to improve the health of Valley county youngsters through immunization programs for all children from six months through 12.

Dental education program is a part of this goal.

Eye Safety Hazards

Another goal is to eliminate hazards on rural roads. Members will report all blind corners.

In citizenship every club member is encouraged to exercise responsibility as a citizen in every day living and world affairs. Each should participate in local activities and keep informed on United Nations.

The major demonstrations for the year have been selected. They are refinishing furniture, short cuts in the laundry termed, Wash Day Suds, and broiler meals.

For the handicraft meetings the instruction will be on making baskets and Christmas greens.

Three Meetings Set

There are three county wide meetings planned. One is the Spring Tea for junior girls, one a tour to Pioneer village, and the third the annual Achievement Day in October.

There will be three more council meetings in 1955. One will be held in April, one in July and one in October. One meeting was held Thursday, Jan. 6.

There are four committees selected from the club membership. They are executive, health and safety, citizenship and handicraft.

The Valley county club, with names of the president and secretary follow:

Every time we hang a side or a quarter in our cooler so that it may age properly before cutting, we know it's good. You see—our selection of meat starts clear back in the feed lot! And when you take top grade young critters, feed them properly, without skimping, you just can't help but produce quality meat.

And remember—quality meat costs no more than ordinary meat!

Euthanasia for the Old?

We believe modern Ord and Valley county youth are forgetting some of the responsibility implied in the third commandment, Honor Thy Father and Thy Mother.

Because we notice countless cases where obligations, incurred by the aged, are pushed aside by children well able to assume them.

Aged persons need care, medical treatment and more than ordinary understanding. When we, as children, refuse to give our parents these rights then we ought to at least be willing to pay those who do.

Apparently such isn't the case. Too often institutions, notably the hospital here, are asked to bear the cost. To saddle the general public with a responsibility, which should be assumed by ourselves, is a reprehensible trait.

But it's a trait becoming more apparent as modern life here progresses.

Unfortunately there are few legal ways to force children to assume parents' bills. But there should be. Legislators would do well to stiffen the present statutes, which imply the obligation, but do nothing about enforcement.

Else arrange euthanasia, which to judge by the actions of some children here now, would be perfectly acceptable.

Business Help Polio?

The question has been asked: "Why should business, or business men, support the fund drive for polio?"

It's a good question because it lets us point up an often overlooked benefit. And it's a benefit which has a direct connection with business cash registers.

Ord merchants need look no farther than Broken Bow to learn what can happen when an epidemic strikes. Broken Bow, unfortunately, was a stricken area last year.

Business men there will tell you, when polio is rampant, trade slows down and almost comes to a complete halt.

Few of the area's ordinary customers will risk lives and health to patronize town stores.

Townspeople ship children to other, unafflicted, areas. Visitors stop coming. Tourists reroute trips. And residents, who cannot leave, stick mighty close to home avoiding congestion.

Each phase of the above has its effect on the cash register. And as the epidemic rate rises business drops until the situation becomes desperate.

Fortunately there is help available from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

In epidemic areas the foundation can move in with inoculations for the entire population.

And once wholesale inoculations are started the epidemic tapers off then disappears altogether.

With the threat to health removed the community soon resumes normal trade. Cash registers start to jingle again.

Ord, fortunately, has never had an epidemic but it can happen.

What would you, as a business man, do if one did occur and no help was available?

The polio foundation spent upwards of $150,000 in Broken Bow last year to break the epidemic.

The loss to business, during the epidemic, has never to our knowledge been computed.

But if it were we believe it would be far in excess of what the business man is asked to give when polio solicitors make their door to door trek each year.

If, when you ask the owner of a new car how far he's driven and he replies, "The clock has stopped!", then you know it's about 8,000 miles.

Ward's What's Cookin' Column

I have waited until all the returns are in and now I want to speak briefly of a few Christmas cards and letters I received during the holidays. I hope you find them of interest.

First, I will mention one from A. N. Terry of Slayton, Minn. Terry was present at Nebraska's Big Rodeo last fall and helped Ed Swopes, who needs little, in taking pictures of the broncos. Al is a man of real education, but you would never guess it the way he manhandles the King's English.

He has one of those simplified typewriters which has caps only. He always manages to get into places where there is plenty of excitement, as the following paragraph, verbatim, proves:

WEN YOU SEES ME AGIN, REMIND ME TO TELL YA ABOUT BEIN IN TWO RECKS IN ONE DAY! . . . AND GETTIN PICT UP BY A GANG OF YOUNG HOODS WICH HAD SHOT UP OUR TOWN TO BOOT! . . . I GETS INTA THE DAMBDEST PERDIKAMENTS!

We thought this year it would be only fair to send our cards early to give people a chance to know we were living in a new location. It helped.

But, believe it or not, no less than 16 addresses spelled it Erickson. That is the usual spelling, but it isn't up this way and hasn't been since the Burlington railroad decreed otherwise.

Perhaps due to the fact that our family is widely scattered, and that we met so many people from all over during the war, we get cards from 16 of the 48 states, Honolulu and Washington D. C.

Many of these we hear from only once during the year. So we write letters to bring them up to date. They usually come across with a fine letter in return.

It is my idea one should write a note with every Christmas card. It really makes Christmas much more interesting.

Heading the list of those we like to hear from are people I found in Hawaii. They always make some reference to the islands and express a wish we could get together there again.

In this department I find eight persons in five different states. Four of the group live in Nebraska, and I get to see them occasionally. The others are in Colorado, Ohio, California and Iowa.

The wife and I always get a fine long letter from Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sellers. We were friends while living in the navy housing project at Hunters Point.

I look forward to a letter each Christmas from Doug Barber. This year he says he is slowly improving and can even take a few steps without using a cane. He says he now weighs 225 pounds.

He has a complete set of electric tools and spends his time making furniture for Mrs. Barber and toys for the grandchildren. He says he would not know what to do without his shop.

I like to hear from my cousin, G. E. Groves of Columbus, Ohio. He is the geneologist of the family and has told me a lot about the Wards who lived in Ohio when my father was a young man.

He is a freak, a member of the Ward family who became a preacher. He has preached all over, and at present is retired and living in the state capitol.

Art Noble of Omaha, who was only 19 when I knew him in Honolulu, never fails to write and tell me how he is getting along. An unusual young man, and young enough to be my grandson.

Claude Roe and wife always send special greetings with cards. They make up a circular letter and tell all about themselves and what has happened to them during the past year. A commendable custom.

Our last holiday letter came Jan. 5 from E. J. Munroe of Bourbonnais, Ill., who was here two years ago to visit the old home place in Vinton. He is a contractor and says business has been very good.

Want An Extra Hand?

You can use your elevator as an extra hand when you are sawing firewood. Just back the elevator up to the saw and let the wood fall in. It also makes a neater pile after the wood is sawed and puts the woodpile far enough away from the saw so as not to interfere with your work.

Review Was Accurate

Dear Sir:

I wish to take this opportunity to compliment you on the very fine reporting of the talk which I gave to the Rotary club. In the past I have spoken in quite a number of communities and I believe this review was both the most accurate and best summarized of any I have seen. Much too often the reviews have been inaccurate and so distorted that wrong impressions and dangerous conclusions have resulted.

It was a pleasure to read your review.

Slave To Weed

Dear Sir:

In answer to Nervous Smoker: Strange isn't it how some intelligent and wonderful people can become nervous slaves to a weed? A snow-bound farmer for instance out of cigarettes can become a nervous beast.

Recently we saw a shabbily attired family, and evidently they could not afford dentures for the toothless mother, but the father could spend for cigarettes and was smoking in the store.

Should we despise the weed itself, or the person that becomes a slave to it, yet unfeelingly distresses others around him, or should we reprove a public that tolerates an aggressive smoker?

What is a free nation? We do not permit dope to be used, advertised or sold. How can we deny freedom of choice to a dope fiend that presumably chiefly injures himself only, yet permit others to annoy us as smokers and drinkers often do?

Human Writes

No Big Pumpkins Left

Dear Sir:

Just for the record, I'd like to state WHY I've asked for a meeting of stockholders to consider dissolution of the Loup Valley Agricultural Society.

The man exhibiting the big pumpkin or the big stallion is dead! Patronage by visitors has dwindled. Though the bylaws of the society regulate date and method for annual meetings, the board of directors for the past several years held such meetings at their pleasure without giving proper legal notice, and continued to re-elect themselves, disregarding Nebraska law requiring representation in the county, only to bring us another anemic "fair" falling FAR short of the original objectives of the society.

Let us dissolve the existing set-up. The buildings are old; one has already fallen down and the rest are on their way. The land would find buyers who would put it back on the tax rolls. Let us put up something suitable on a site adjacent to the Ord park where already so many activities attract summer crowds. Here let us hold the features of the fair that receive support and interest, such as county 4-H work. I am confident enough of us stockholders would be sufficiently public spirited to donate for this purpose from money realized in liquidation.

About a year and a half ago Rotary club appointed a committee at the request of fair officials to give some study to what could be done about salvaging this feature of the fair. I was chairman of this committee and the above embodies the ideas recommended.

Edw. L. Kokes

P.S.—Since 4-H work constitutes almost the "whole show," WHY should such an expensive, high-depreciation plant as our present fair grounds be maintained?

Some milk boiled on the stove the other night while I was getting supper. Pa sniffed when he came in and held his nose. "If that's a sample of what's cookin' for supper, guess I'll go to the neighbors!" he said. The few drops of burned food smelled so bad that all the good cooking smells were lost. I looked over Pa's shoulder at the evening paper, and I decided the front page headlines were like the They smell so bad a body forge all the good things that are h pening at the same time.

Better Egg Care Needed

The age-old problem of pro ing quality eggs may be solve the near future with an eg frigerating system that sends eggs direct from the nest to table.

Extensive use of mechanical coolers has been inaugurate California. In that state, refr ated pick-up trucks continue cooling system by picking up eggs and taking them to mar

Temperatures in egg coo rooms should not be allowed to above 60 degrees. Most custo are willing to pay several cen dozen premium price for eggs they know are as fresh as if had just come from the nest.

What happens to leftovers at your house? What does your cook present you with next day?

Of course whether you are interested in this topic depends on whether you eat to live at your house, or live to eat, I suppose.

At our house all beef roast must be big enough and good enough beef to furnish material for roast beef hash which the head of the house considers a masterpiece, no less.

Grind the meat coarsely if you must, but the potatoes must be chopped and the onion too. Half or more of a green pepper goes into the hash and perhaps half a cup of leftover beef pan-gravy. If you don't have the gravy, use milk or cream if you're skinny but I bet you aren't.

Brown the hash gently in beef fat or fresh bacon fat or in butter, let it all simmer along for twenty minutes and serve.

Poached eggs go with it nicely which I consider a queer thing. Then a green salad, please.

oOo

And what do you do with leftover pork? My eaters particularly enjoy it ground up with an onion and moistened with boiled salad dressing. Sometimes I grind a carrot too, for color. Put in plenty of salt, and vinegar until it has a bit of tang. This result? It is either sandwich spread or salad, if you want to cut in a few hunks of lettuce.

oOo

Do you like curries? I know an Ord lady who is out of town often, a banker's wife whose idea of ambrosia is to find curried turkey wings on the menu where she eats.

We like leftover lamb curried. After a roast leg of lamb, say, I brown the pieces of lamb with a chopped onion. Then the recipe wants you to add a bay leaf (I don't like) and six whole black pepper corns . . . woe if you chomp down on one of those—even your false teeth will take fire.

The teaspoon of curry powder is mixed with a little flour in cold water, and the paste added late to the simmering pot. Rice goes good with this peppery dish.

You might like it.

oOo

Any leftover meat or chicken at our house is likely to end up in a meat pie. Put in the meat, all the gravy you can find, and a chopped onion and chopped potato you have boiled briefly. Plus a cup of corn, peas, green beans or carrots that look you in the eye whenever the refrigerator door is open: or take them from a can or frozen package. Season it strongly, and put on a biscuit crust, dropped on from a spoon if time is short. It makes a good dinner, mostly in one dish.

oOo

Most leftover vegetables are good in salads, with a little touching up with lettuce and a strong-flavored dressing, and don't forget the onion, minced or rings.

I was raised to do without onions, but I'm admitting here and now that nothing adds so much to soup or salad as a little onion. And I enjoyed using those leeks that Safeway had a few days ago.

We all need a change of diet occasionally.

Even in our reading diet we need something different.

For today you've had it!

—Irma.

On The Lee Side

Budding Columnist Tells Band Practice Routine

Vic Thomas, one of the Ord students, occasionally beats out a screed to publicize the band.

Sometimes Vic's efforts stray from straight news reporting to the "columning" side.

One such reached ye ed this week. He believes it had some humorous points. Herewith, then, is Vic's latest:

"Have you ever attended a band rehearsal? Following is how an Ord High School Band rehearsal usually goes.

"About 7:40, Marv Vasicek arrives at school. He is always the first one there so he starts setting up chairs and stands in the gym. I don't know what we would do without Marv because some people arrive so late that they would never get set up before being counted tardy. One junior told me that she has set up her own chair only about three times since she became a band member when a seventh grader.

"At 7:50 a.m., Mr. Trent arrives and everyone who has arrived before rushes into the music room to sign up to pass technique if it is Monday.

"At 8:00 o'clock everyone, that is almost everyone, is in their seat waiting eagerly for practice to begin; and Phyllis Christensen, band captain, steps upon the rostrum and starts to tune up the band. Meanwhile Mr. Trent stands in the background with a critical ear. After tuning, Phyllis takes a seat and Mr. Trent steps forward saying that there should be more tuning and less talking.

"In spite of everything we have the best attendance record of any group in the school. Whenever anyone is late they have to make up a half an hour working in the music room. This helps to keep the tardies down.

"Mr. Trent has us take out one of the marches on which to warm up. Before we finish, Joanie Novosad enters the auditorium with the cymbals. Whether she has just arrived or just forgot and left the cymbals in the music room is a question.

"After the easy (?) march, we start in on some of the Class A stuff that we are supposed to master well enough to play at contest. Everything starts off fine with only a few squeaks from the oboe and an occasional off key note from the cornets.

"Then suddenly Mr. Trent stops swinging his switch (baton) back and forth and one of the trombones who has forgotten to look up, plays a one note finale. The trombone player slides down in his chair and silently vows never to take his eyes off the director again. It seems the reason we have stopped is that the clarinet part isn't coming through. Mr. Trent asks them to play it through, and he tells them that that is the first time that the rest of the band has heard that part. The clarinetists give each other some queer glances and the rehearsal continues. When we are almost through the piece we stop again, and Mr. Trent tells us to put the piece away. We band members never can figure out whether we play it so well that we don't need practice or whether Mr. Trent can't stand it anymore.

"Next we take out one of the easier overtures. We think we are playing it pretty well until Mr. Trent tells us that he can't keep up in the louder sections, and we can't keep up in the softer parts.

"The clock shows 8:45 which means we have time enough for one last march. We finish the march, Mr. Trent says, "see you tomorrow," and everyone makes a rush for the door. It is interesting to note the changed expressions on the band members' faces from what they were an hour before."

Legislative Squeeze Play: More Services, Less Taxation

The legislature this week found its work in reconciling pressing demands for more governmental services with the desire for holding the line on spending.

Outgoing Gov. Robert Crosby in his budget message put it straight to the legislators with this remark:

"Two years ago I cut the budget requests of the agencies and bore the ill will of the numerous groups which have special interests in these agencies. The legislature in most instances increased the amounts I had recommended thus winning the plaudits of those same special interest groups.

"It is not necessary the governor play the villain. The roles can be reversed."

Crosby said he was junking the concept of "restraint in state government spending" he fostered two years ago. Now he said he was recommending the amount of money the agencies need for a "reasonable performance" of their duties.

With this Crosby outlined a budget which conceivably could hit the $215 million mark, the highest in state history by almost $18 million. It would include around $45 million in property taxes, also a record high.

It is estimated it would take a total state property tax levy of around $7.55 on each $1,000 worth of assessed property (property is now assessed at half its actual value). The present total including special state levies is $6.69.

The Increases

Here are the big increases recommended from the state general fund, which is largely supported by property tax revenues:

An increase of $2.8 million for the University of Nebraska for a $17.8 million total. The university wanted an $18.8 million total. Crosby said this is necessary to keep the university on a level with those in nearby states.

$2.4 million more for the state board of control for a total of $13.4 million. Much of the increase is for a better mental health program, geared to give intensive treatment to patients in an effort to cure them quickly.

$1.1 million for the state safety patrol: Part of this is so the patrol can take back responsibilities of running the state truck weighing scales and also conducting driver's license examinations.

But much of the addition would go to hire 23 more men patrolling highways. Crosby said adding more patrolmen last June in seven months saved 90 lives.

$600,000 for the state teachers training colleges, necessary to keep instructors who are being lured to other states by higher salaries.

The major saving grace was the state assistance department where declining relief rolls and other factors have cut the need by $1.7 million to $13.3 million.

New Gov. Victor Anderson of Lincoln gives his budget message in another two weeks. He has said it won't differ much from Crosby's.

Recommendations

Outgoing Gov. Crosby had some other recommendations to offer the legislature:

A new governors mansion should be built across from the statehouse. This would take at least $150,000 he said.

The school for the blind should be moved away from its antiquated housing at Nebraska City to a town "with a good college." Although Kearney has been suggested, Crosby did not mention it in his speech.

Something must be done about salaries of state officers so governors can hire good men.

The board of control should be given enough money for a staff of "highly qualified assistants." Crosby said he thinks the board of control now is "engulfed in too many details."

The state should set up a program of aid for the permanently and totally disabled. Since federal aid is available Nebraska is losing its share.

Money should be appropriated for the state turnpike authority so it can make engineering studies on toll road possibilities. Although the authority plans to ask for $150,000, Crosby made no recommendation.

Inauguration

As Victor Anderson was inaugurated as 27th governor of Nebraska, the Lincoln hardware merchant outlined a program of "sound self-government" in his inaugural speech to the legislature.

"Let us ask for tax dollars sparingly and invest them wisely. Let us see that our government is kept close to the people," said the new governor.

New Bills

A bill calling for the sale of the state school lands was one of the early controversial bills introduced. Sen. Monroe Bixler of Harrison was principal introducer. The measure is expected to find considerable opposition.

Bixler also introduced a measure calling for "indefinitely" extending the sixth cent of gasoline tax. Revenues from this tax, due to expire May 9, go to the state highway department and have been credited with making a record $24 million highway building program possible.

A measure to set up a commission to supervise the state's booming new oil and gas industry also tossed into the legislative m Purpose is to keep from wast this resource introducer A. Fensko of Sunol said.

Penitentiary Probe

Still another investigation conditions at the state penitenti loomed as Sen. Lester Anderson Aurora introduced a resoluti calling for a "fact-finding" leg lative committee.

Sen. Anderson said he thinks report by a special citizens co mittee has been "whitewashed The report was critical of the pe itentiary. Anderson said ther should be a "housecleaning" of to officials at the institution.

His resolution came on the heel of a report on the penitentiary by Sanford Bates, internationally known penal expert from Trenton, N. J., Bates, brought here by the board of control, which supervises the state penitentiary, gave a report with mingled praise and criticism.

Bates said the Penitentiary "hole" (or jail) should be rebuilt, the professional staff of the prison should be increased and guard salaries should be raised to get better men. "The rank and file of officers have a dim idea as to what the whole purpose of a corrective institution is . . ." Bates reported.

Herman Stobbe left early Friday morning from Grand Island for Phoenix, Ariz., where he will be a guest in the home of his son, Harry.

Farmers who are not completely satisfied with the way their tile drains water from their low spots should look into land leveling as a more satisfactory method.

Soil specialists at the University of Wisconsin are urging farmers to use a land leveler as a surface drainage pattern.

Experiments in Wisconsin show that land-smoothing used with lime and fertilizer control converted low wet areas into excellent pasture. Land smoothing and ditching these pastures gave yield increases equal to that from 100 pounds of 0-30-30 fertilizer per acre.

We Sell Cooper Feeds Tested On This Farm

View of Cooper's 1160 Acre experimental Farm at Humboldt, Nebraska

When you buy Cooper Feeds you buy with confidence because they are double checked for performance — first in the laboratory, and then on Cooper's own 1160 acre practical experimental farm, adjoining the Humboldt mills. A member of the Cooper family, John R. Cooper, vice-president, is personally in charge and lives right on the farm.

The farm has a breeding herd of 100 registered Angus cows. This season they had a 100% calf crop. Coopers raise from 10 to 15,000 turkeys a year, and farrow 60 sows. Thousands of baby chicks are started and raised each year.

The beef, chicken, turkey, and swine units are each under separate supervision and personnel. It is a real honest to goodness farm where Cooper feeds are tried out under typical farm conditions.

Thousands of satisfied customers know that they can rely upon Cooper's more than 75 years of experience in the formula feed business. That is why we have complete confidence in Cooper Feeds — we know what they will do for you.

Some Salesmen Never Do Learn

Farmer Bill G. was poking around an old hen in the coop the other day when he was approached by a Fast-Talking Salesman.

"Look," the FTS said, "how about me selling you some anhydrous ammonia fertilizer. It's easy to apply, lifts like a feather and goes on fast. What do you say?"

Farmer Bill didn't say a word until he carefully put down the hen. Then he walked slowly to the house, dug the old 10 gauge goose gun from behind the kitchen door then pointed it in the FTS's direction. When it was plumb centered Bill pulled the trigger hard. (Bill always pulls the trigger hard. It makes the shot go farther.)

Parts of the FTS were scattered from here to Brushy Bend. And the last I hear they haven't picked up enough of the FTS to make a corpus delicti. When I saw Bill last he was back in the coop feeling that old hen again.

I coulda told the salesman Bill would be a mite hard to sell on anhydrous because he used it last year. Then after is was applied Bill spent the next six nights tamping the dirt down around the corn trying to keep the gas (anhydrous is gas!) from escaping.

Bill got mighty wet those six nights, took to bed and was sick Saturday and Sunday.

And any salesman should know there's nothing that irritates a farmer like missing a Saturday night in town.

Moral: Some Fasting-Talking Salesmen just never learn! Phone 46.

Farm - Ag Tips

Several farmers have already entered the special corn program for 1955. The program, "Let's Reach for Top Corn Yields," is open to any farmer.

Anyone who wishes to enter can secure the necessary information at the county agent's office.

Fields must be five acres or more in size and a soil sample from the field must be submitted to the state soil testing service for analysis.

The grower agrees to follow the recommendations of the county agent as closely as possible. The recommendations will be based on the soil analysis.

More entries are welcomed.

By the time this appears, I plan to be in Lincoln for special study at the college of agriculture.

New agricultural developments come so fast these days an agent must take some time off, to catch up on new things, else he will fall behind the parade.

Courses for which I have registered include insects and plant diseases with emphasis on latest chemical controls.

During 1954 I have found nearly one-third of the office calls are on these subjects. Their importance to the farmers makes it necessary for the county agent to keep posted.

The school will end February 4. During my absence the office will be open as usual. Mrs. Norman, office secretary will take care of the usual business, such as ordering trees, supplying cartons for soil tests, submitting seed samples, gasoline permits, bulletins and circulars, etc.

Extension Notes

Extension club presidents and secretaries broke the record in attendance at the first council meeting in 1955. Fifty-eight attended.

A meeting like this with practically all the clubs represented will make the year's work run smoothly. All know what is coming up and all have a voice in making the decisions.

Could we not still make a New Years Resolution that there be 100% attendance at all the 1955 Council meetings?

In addition to the business session Dr. F. L. Blessing gave a most instructive talk and showed a movie on construction and care of the teeth.

A very lively question and answer period followed. Ladies appreciated this opportunity to have questions answered.

Leaders for the "Refinishing Wood" lesson please note. Do come promptly. We have much to do and we will have to start on time if anything is to be accomplished. The schedule, in case you have misplaced your notice is as follows:—

North Loup—Tuesday, Jan. 11—home of Mrs. Erlo Babcock.

Arcadia—Wednesday, Jan. 12—Methodist church basement.

Ord—Friday, Jan. 14—St. John's Lutheran church basement.

January is egg month—eggs offer good eating at low cost. Eat hearty, eat wisely, eat cheaply: eat eggs. For best flavor and texture cook eggs slowly.

The outlook information on clothing indicates manufacturing costs may rise which will mean higher prices for ready-to-wear Along with this prediction however comes the information that families seem to be putting a lower value on clothes than formerly. More informal ways of living and spending leisure time call for less expensive clothes. Another important point in favor of more casual living.

A handy buffer to brighten up your shoes is the ordinary powder puff. Wash the puff thoroughly, when dry fluff it up and slip your fingers under the ribbon to polish easily. Use it on leather goods, purses and other leather articles.

Lodge Officers Installed

New officers will be installed for the North Loup Rebekah Lodge this Thursday. Mrs. Guy Mulligan and her staff from Ord will be the installing team. Mrs. Phyllis Meyer will be installed as Noble Grand, Mrs. Mary Frazer as vice-grand and Mrs. Mabel Jorgensen as secretary.

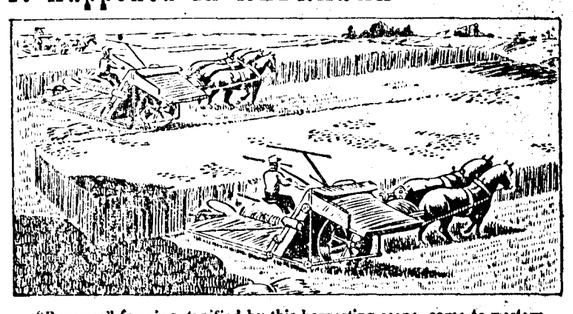
It Happened In NEBRASKA---



"Bonanza" farming, typified by this harvesting scene, came to western Nebraska in the 1880's. Huge farms, purchased by large business enterprises, were worked on a mass-production scale. Many team-drawn implements would move across the field at one time, sometimes traveling 20 miles a day. Under this system, 20 plows could plow an entire section in a week!

More than farming methods have changed since then. The Nebraska tavern industry has, in recent years, earned new public respect. Now well-regulated taverns are an accepted part of community living.

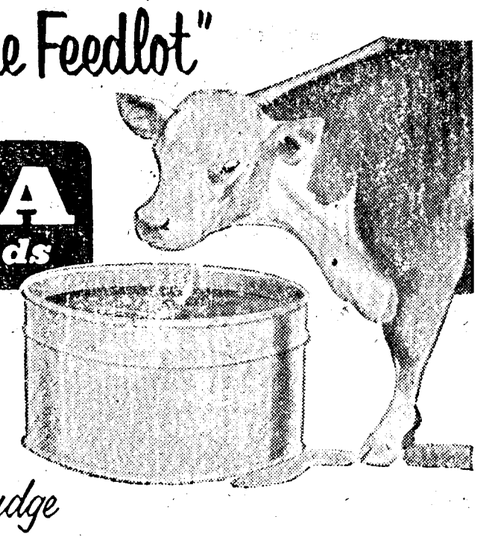
"CHAMP of the Feedlot"



MOREA Liquid Feeds

fed FREE CHOICE

Puts on gains of as much as 3 lbs. per head per day for as little as 15¢.

...but you be the judge

Try Morea today, and forget daily feeding chores.

Morea, the new, molasses-urea supplement, makes it possible for your cattle to put on the bloom and finish that brings top market prices — on limited amounts of grain and liberal amounts of low-cost roughages. That means less cost per pound of gain, and a lot less labor to you. One small tank of Morea will protein 200 head in your feedlot. Morea fed animals digest more and waste less of everything fed. Feed Morea free choice — you can just put it in the lot and forget it.

Contract now for your winter needs!

Why gamble on uncertain, fluctuating feed costs this winter? Contract now for Morea and be sure of stabilized costs and guaranteed supply throughout the winter months.

CHECK THESE MOREA FEATURES

- Free flowing at all temperatures.
- 30% protein guaranteed.
- All nutritive elements in solution.
- Consistency comparable to #30 oil.
- Will not attract flies or insects.
- Not affected by rain or snow.
- No fiber or other non-essential ingredients.

Uruguay Visit Is Like a Fresh Breath of Spring: Weller

Democracy Apparent Says Auctioneer; Wine Important Crop

Montevido, Uruguay, Feb. 26—This morning after clearing Argentinian customs at Buenos Aires, we taxied out to the large flying boat that was awaiting us for our flight across the bay.

A warming up of the four large motors, a terrific spray of water that engulfed the ship and we were in the air, headed northeast by east, only to set down 20 minutes later on calm waters for a short taxi trip to the shore lines of Uruguay.

It was at Colonia that we landed. After a routine customs clearance, we were hustled off in limousines to the new and attractice Hotel Colonial where we were served a most delightful dinner, in usual seven-course style.

A quick exchange of American dollars to Uruguyan pesos and our entourage (this time traveling by bus) was off some 60 miles inland to visit the estancia of Arthur Booth.

World renowned San Juan Herefords and Shorthorns, founded on English breeding the same as in Argentina, are produced here.

Although cattle by the thousands grazed the pastures, it was interesting to learn that the main source of income is derived from wine.

Here was a huge winery with hundreds of casks for aging wine. Vineyards dotted a large part of the beautiful landscape.

Methods of operation in the livestock production are similar to those used in Argentina, although many sheep are grazed in the same pastures.

As the whole country lies within the temperate zone on the southeast part of the continent, and is nearly completely surrounded by water which tempers the climate. With an average year-around temperature of 62 degrees and an annual rainfall of 45 inches, the land is highly productive.

The population, mostly descended from Italian and Spanish, is white. We were told there have been no Indians in Uuruguay since 1832.

Of something over three million inhabitants more than one million live in Montevideo, which is the capital.

The general living standard is high, and unlike many other South American countries, class consciousness is almost non-existant.

Uruguay's altitude is midway between the high mesas of Southern Brazil and the flat plains (or pampas of Argentina.

Rolling grain fields, orchards and pastures are richly carpeted with intense green, contrasting with the black of newly plowed earth.

The highest points are no more than 2000 feet, leaving almost all the land suitable for cultivation.

About 45 million acres of the finest pasture land are devoted to the grazing of livestock.

The 8,100,000 head of cattle are mostly Herefords, Shorthorns, and Holsteins.

The 24,000,000 sheep (nearly as many as we have in the states) are principally Merinos or cross-breds.

The wool, 18,000 tons per year, brings top prices upon the world's markets.

On the cultivated part of the 22,000,000 acres of arable land, excellent crops of linseed, wheat, rice, corn, sunflowerseed etc., are raised.

There are extensive plantings of pears, apples, peaches, plums and cherries, as well as a great quantity of citrus fruit, for export as well as domestic consumption.

Vineyards produce a variety of good wines, more than 70,000,000 quarts annually.

Beer too, is made in large quantities as well as mineral waters and other beverages.

The industries holding first place are those derived from livestock, meat packing, dairy products, the leather industry, and textiles.

Uruguayan marble quarries are world famous. This was indelibly impressed upon our minds by a visit to Legislative Palace, in Montevideo.

Their capitol buildings, which are built of 53 different kinds of marble, all native to their country, are publicized as the 8th wonder of the world.

Semi-precious gems, cement and fishing are other sources of revenue.

Primary, secondary and university education in Uruguay are all absolutely gratis.

Illiteracy is very low as attendance in the lower grades is obligatory.

Owners of large estancias are obligated to maintain schools for children of the vicinity.

Other types of schools include, night schools, classes for advancement of retarded children, vocational, open air schools and schools for cripples.

Physical education centers are numerous, the program calling for one center for each 500 population.

This country has a far advanced social security program and system.

Not only are wages based upon length of service, but on the number of children in a man's family.

Income taxes are low and non-existant for most people. The lottery and the casino provide a big monetary return, being operated by the government, just as they are in all countries we visited.

There is real democracy in Uruguay, based on recognition of liberties, rights and respect for the human being.

Political or religious movements denying these rights do not find fertile ground here.

Each citizen has the vote, freedom of speech and access to the press.

The executive power of government is vested in a nine-member National Council, patterned after Switzerland.

Legislative and judiciary are similar to those of our country.

Uruguayan money is on the gold standard and is recognized as the most stable in all South America.

Their rates of exchange at the time of our visit, was 3 pesos for our dollar, compared to as many as 60 to one in some countries we visited.

The country is extremely interested in friendly relations with the United States.

The friendly attitude of its people was evident everywhere we visited.

They all bore a radiant expression indicative of the freedom they enjoy in common with us.

It was like a breath of spring after a long hard winter to visit these good people. (Next Week—Rio de Janeiro at Carnival Time).

Sargent Tabbed for $3 Million by Ike

Request Raises Local Hopes for Aid When Ready

Three million, three hundred thousand dollars to continue work on the Sargent irrigation project was requested by President Eisenhower in his annual budget message to congress Monday.

The sum was part of nearly sixty millions asked for Bureau of Reclamation projects. Last summer congress appropriated $1,100,000 to get the Sargent project under way. The sum is expected to bring the project to a halfway completion stage.

Lange "Optimistic"

In Ord, Henry Lange, president of the Twin Loups Reclamation District, said that the Sargent request by the president made him "optimistic" on the future of new irrigation projects here.

"The Sargent project is one of three in the Loup Basin, and this means that the other two, which are the Farwell project and the Ord-Mirdan-Fullerton project have excellent chances of securing federal funds when they are ready."

Lange said the Sargent project was about four years ahead of the Ord-Mirdan proposal on the Bureau of Reclamation timetable. The Farwell project is about halfway between.

Intensified Activity

"From now on we can expect intensified activity in the Loup Basin," Lange said. "Earth is moving at Sargent and a contract has been let for a dam across the Middle Loup at Milburn. In Farwell, farmers of the area have just overwhelmingly voted to establish an irrigation district. If engineering is completed in time they will be in a position to ask for federal funds this summer.

"At Ord, we have just completed the formation of our reclamation district. Surveys for the forming of an irrigation district are under way. If things move, according to schedule we should be able to ask for a vote of the people by primary election time in 1956, and be able to ask for federal funds in 1957."

Colorado Rancher Pokes Sly Fun at Purebred Cattlemen

Asks What Beef Value Has Ear Length or Color?

Farrington R. Carpenter, informed Colorado rancher and legislator, told the Loup National Farm Loan Ass'n. meeting here Tuesday there are only three ways to get more Beef for Less Money.

Carpenter tagged the ways as: 1. Better feeding methods. 2. Better breeding. 3. Better veterinary science.

"Since the discovery of methods to use celluloses a whole new world for the converting of roughages to beef has opened up," he said.

He said beef breeders, lacking any type of "measuring sticks" for years have aimed cattle breeding at "fancy points."

(Excerpts from Carpenters speech will appear next week.)

About 148 persons attended the meeting held in the Presbyterian church. The meeting followed lunch.

Directors Elected

W. O. Zangger, of North Loup, Evet Smith, of Ord, and John Schere, of Burwell, were elected directors. Zangger was named to a two year term. Smith and Schere were elected to three year terms.

A treasurer's report indicated the association is making progress. Last year it completed negotiations to buy its present location from the Sack Lumber Co.

The building cost $10,400. About $1,600 was spent for improvements.

Hospital Stockholders Will Meet Thursday in Masonic Basement

The Ord Co-Operative Hospital wil hold its annual meeting Thursday, (tonight) at eight o'clock in the Masonic hall basement.

In addition to a report to stockholders the meeting will elect three directors to the hospital's governing board.

Directors whose terms expire are Floyd Beranek, Cliff Goodrich and Henry Lange.

President Lange will chairman the meeting.

School Progresses

Work was resumed on the new parochial school and sisters' home at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic church Monday.

Workmen had been waiting upon a shipment of steel. The snow Monday did not hinder workers.

Haskell Creek Assn. Reports 72 Per Cent of Farmers Signed

Same Officers and Directors Reelected; Glen Watts President

Approximately 72 per cent of farmers in the area have joined the Haskell Creek Watershed Assn. President Glen Watts told the annual meeting Tuesday night.

President Watts said the next step in the association's program is applications for planning. Once plans are made and practices followed the district stands a good chance for approval for federal funds.

Watts said $11 million for watershed programs was included in a recent budget submitted by President Eisenhower.

Treatment Is Factor

"Our land treatment programs will be the factor which determines whether we will get federal approval. The quicker we get busy on it the better our chances," he said.

The meeting, held in the Haskell Creek school, drew a mixed audience of men and women, farmers and business men. Also present were representatives from the SCS at Ord and Burwell.

In general business the association reported a balance of $66 in the treasury. President Watts said a watershed tour to Beatrice will be arranged this spring.

Assn. Helped

Watts said the association had been helped in formation by the Burwell Wrangler's club and the Ord chamber of commerce.

He said last year, after both service organizations had written congress letters, a watershed council met to study the program. The results of the study will be revealed this spring, he added.

Here are the important by-law changes adopted by the meeting.

1. Dues will be set at the annual meeting.
2. The annual meeting will be during the month of January.
3. A three day meeting notice, by any method, will be given.
4. Special meetings may be called by the board or 20 percent of the membership.
5. Fifteen percent of the membership will make a quorum.
6. Order of business will be set by the board.
7. Three directors from Garfield, four from Valley county will govern the assn.
8. All officers will be elected within the board of directors.

In elections Watts was again named president, Frank Miska, secretary-treasurer and Oscar Larsen, vice president.

Directors reelected are Franklin Ackles, Garfield, Oscar Larsen, Valley and Frank Miska, Valley.

About 50 persons attended. A movie on the formation of the Salt Creek watershed was shown.

Haskell Creek Watershed officers . . . Larsen, vice president, Watts, president, and Miska, secretary. All re-elected.

So The People May Know

Ord Co-operative Hospital stockholders and residents here in general will learn some hard, probably bitter facts Thursday (tonight) when directors report to the membership at the annual meeting.

Can we keep it open?

Probably the most important fact stockholders will learn is the hospital's present precarious "cash" position which finds it tightwalking a narrow line between closing and being able to remain open to give service.

Admittedly the hospital has gained measurably since it was organized. It offers more services, has more equipment, caters to the general health needs better, than it did when it started.

BUT like every other business much of the hospital's gains are represented in book accounts. It's as simple as this:

(A) You have $10,000 worth of something to sell. (B) You sell it for cash or credit. (C) The sales total represents $10,000 in assets.

Briefly that is the hospital's present condition. It has consistently "made money" in operation. Financial reports prove it. But financial reports can be misleading to the casual observer.

In the example above Bracket C is total assets but for explanation's sake let's show assets as $1,000 cash and $9,000 book accounts. Using these figures it immediately becomes apparent that the business is woefully short of operating capital.

Now the figures aren't correct but briefly, that's the Ord Hospital's present position. It is short of operating capital. So short, in fact, that continuance of its services is a matter of conjecture.

Your first question will be: "Well, they have done the business. Why don't they collect the money, curtail the service, or raise the rates?"

Well, how far can a tough collection policy go? Can it reclaim accounts from the dead? Can it instill parental responsibility in children? Can it let the sick and injured wait in the hall while staff and relatives wrangle over who'll pay the bill?

How far can you curtail services? Would you have the sick lie throughout the night without trained supervision? Do you dispense with X-ray equipment? Shall you junk the oxygen masks that might snatch a life from the grave?

And raise the rates? Well, can you penalize those who pay to care for those who don't? Shall you charge Mrs. A twice as much because Mrs. B won't pay or can't?

Under its present management the Ord Hospital is a quasi-public institution. Since it safeguards the health, lives and welfare of your loved ones its continuance should be a matter of concern to you.

Will you be on hand to learn the facts Thursday (tonight) in Masonic hall?

Troyer Is Elected New Cosmo President

Club Issues Challenge to Rotary for Money Battle on the Square

Dillo Troyer, former vice president, was elected president of the Ord Cosmopolitan club in annual elections here last Thursday.

Troyer succeeds Former President Dean Misko.

Bill Darges, a former secretary, was elected vice president to succeed Troyer. Jay Brown was elected secretary-treasurer.

In other business the club issued a challenge to another service club for the benefit of polio. Cosmos "chose" Rotarians for a money raising battle on the sidewalks around the business square.

A check for $50 was given to the rescue unit.

Two Are Fined

Two men were fined in county court this week in arraignment before County Judge Ellsworth Ball jr.

Lad Kvetensky, charged with issuing a no fund check to Roy Stine of North Loup, was fined $5 and assessed costs of $6.50. Kvetensky is from Ord.

John Coil, also of Ord, was fined $5 and costs for operating a motor vehicle without a permit. He was arrested by Patrolman Otto Zapp Jan. 14.

G. I. Druggist to Entertain Rotary

Rotary Anns Feted Monday, January 31; Beranek Is Sponsor

Rotarians and Rotary Anns will hear Bill Clayton, traveling G. I. druggist, talk South American Swing, at the Rotary dinner Monday, January 31.

The club entertains wives every time a month has five Mondays.

Clayton will appear under the sponsorship of Ord Druggist Edward Beranek. Mr. Beranek is making the gesture in observance of a recent wedding anniversary.

Clayton will show pictures and discuss aspects of South American cities including a time study of locks on the Panama canal.

The dinner meeting is set for 6:20 p.m. in the Masonic hall.

Last Monday the club heard Polio Campaign Chairman Edward Swopes tell plans for the vaccination of 440,000 children this year if the Salk vaccine proves successful.

A film, They Shall Not Want starring Helen Hayes, was shown. Following the film Vice President Dale Karre promised Rotarian help for the polio drive.

Horace Youth Hurt in Tractor Upset

Virgil Byerly Suffers Serious Injuries When Pinned by Machine

Virgil Byerly, 18 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Byerly of Horace, suffered multiple pelvic fractures about 1 p.m. Friday when pinned in a tractor upset.

Byerly was brought to the Ord hospital following the accident surgery Saturday.

Relatives report his condtition improved.

The accident occurred a quarter mile west of the Byerly farm home. Mr. Byerly was using the tractor to herd cattle.

As he followed the animals up the incline of a roadway the tractor tipped backward, pinning him beneath it.

He was found by a passing Spalding motorist who brought him to the hospital.

Township Aides Named By Polio Drive Chairman

Three Send Initial Gifts; Cosmos Plan Ord Battle of Dimes

Drive Chairman Edw. Swopes steered the '55 polio campaign through some initial business here Saturday appointing township committees then setting a tentative day for the Ord door to door effort.

The Ord drive will probably be held Thursday night, January 27, to coincide with the state Mother's March publicity, Swopes said.

The mechanics of the Ord effort were still to be organized. Swopes is appearing this week at several service clubs seeking help.

Service clubs who promise aid will be allocated territory to solicit by City Chairman Bill Lee.

Meanwhile several groups moved to help the '55 campaign to a successful start.

$36 From Thimble Club

The North Loup Needle and Thimble club sent in $36. The VFW Auxiliary $10. And earlier this year Elyria sent $82.05 left over from the fund for Philip Wentek. Will Foth sent $10 and Chas. Kriewald sent $2. The little gifts were received too late for the emergency drive last year.

Cosmopolitans have agreed to handle special promotions. President Dean Misko said Cosmos may choose another Ord service club for a "battle of dimes."

Each will try to raise a mile of dimes during all day competition, Misko said.

Townships Ready

In the townships the drive will kick off immediately. There's no exact date. Weather is too unpredictable. Chairmen make calls when they can.

Rural school effort will start soon. Last year rural schools were one of the heaviest contributors.

Enterprize: George Bell, chairman. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lenz, Henry Lange and H. Williams.

Geranium: Mrs. Marion Lipinski, chairman, Harvey Krahulik, Rudolph Vodehnal, Joe Barfu and Edward Zadina.

Read The Wantads!

Allen Philbrick . . . how to make a snow angel.

Four Inch Snowfall Fine for 'Angel' Making

The first snowfall this winter may have irritated home owners as all visualized kiting fuel bills but it did give the kids a chance to try out Christmas sleds and make "snow angels."

Here's how you make an angel. Find a snow bank that's free of imprints and then lie down. Now wave your arms up and down and swing your feet in and out.

If you get up carefully the snow should show an impression which resembles an angel (your imagination helps a lot!).

Anyway Ord kids reveled in the four point five inch snowfall which sifted quietly down from a 10:00 p.m. sky Sunday night and continued intermittently Monday and Tuesday.

Weatherman Horace Travis placed the moisture content at .41 of an inch. The moisture will make farmers and wheat growers happy. North Loup, by the way, had four inches of snow too.

Here are the week's temperatures:

Thursday 36-4, Friday 41-24, Saturday 40-12, Sunday 30-14, Monday 18-12, Tuesday 29-11 and Wednesday morning 12.

Snowfall registered .23 inches Monday morning and .13 inches Tuesday. It was the first moisture of record for 1955.

Leland Chaffin, electric blanket winner, and Don Edwards . . . it looks like a warm winter.

REMA Meeting Okays Transfer to Rural Public Power; 600 Attend

Loup Valley Rural Electric Membership Assn. stockholders completed two moves in business here Thursday in Bohemian hall.

1. They amended bylaws to legalize a vote on transfer to public power.

2. They voted the transfer.

The shift to a public power set-up was recommended by directors. Earlier by letter they told members $7,500 in taxes could be saved.

In addition, they said, the transfer would place the REMA in a better position to secure power.

Chairman Bill Foth directed the meeting. Foth explained the two planned moves then stood back to take questions.

The question session was brief but involved. Twice it sent REMA Attorney John Sullivan into book searches and once into Robert's Rules of Order.

The latter quest was to determine validity for a standing vote.

Following questions the first resolution was presented. In acclamation it drew a strong "yes". The "nay" was thin and scattered.

The second question also drew a strong "yes." But in the "nay" which followed there was considerable opposition apparent.

Chairman Foth declared both questions carried. Drawing for prizes and a demonstration on the advantages of gas and electric cooking fuels followed.

Compares 50 and '54

Earlier Manager Wilbert Calvin sketched REMA management by comparing 1950, the first full year of operation, with 1954.

Calvin said consumers had increased from 1253 in '50 to 1911 in '54. He added the REMA was striving for "full coverage" of the area by building new lines.

Calvin underscored the increased use of electricity expected in the years to come.

"In Eastern Nebraska," he said, "projects are designed to service users requiring as high as 750 KWH hours monthly. Our average today is near 182 KWH."

Power Costs Down

Meanwhile power costs to consumers were going down, Calvin pointed out.

"In 1950 the KWH hour cost was seven cents. Today it is 5½ cents," he said.

Treasurer John Kokes said the REMA was just the edge into the black this year. Books showed a balance of $447.42 for '54. Last year a $6,000 loss from an ice and sleet storm wiped out an expected surplus.

Kokes' report listed assets and liabilities of $1,925,784.58. Included in the former was cash in banks; $48,421; cash for construction, $18,908; cash investments and shares, $63,195 and a net system value of $1,758,616.

Loan Is Large

The largest single item in the liability list was $1,919,769 owed to REA for the original loan.

Six hundred members, wives and guests attended. Quorum figures were five per cent of the total membership, (1911) or about 93.

Electric blanket, Leland Chaffin; electric grill and waffle iron, Orville Lueck; case of oil, Walter Foth; case of oil, Charles Zisek; portable food mixer, Anton Beran; electric clock, Anton Kluna; electric alarm clock, T. A. Bridges; electric heat pad, Russel Dockhorn.

In elections run off in side movement to the main issue, Bill Tuma, Bill Foth and Cliff Goff were elected.

From now on, as a public power unit, officers will be elected at general elections in April each year similar to other governmental subdivisions.

Ord Girls Undergo Thrill of Lifetime

Firemen Aid Escape from Burning Lincoln William Penn Apts.

A pair of Ord girls, Misses Sondra and Doris Norman, experienced the thrill of a lifetime in Lincoln last week during an apartment house fire.

Doris and Sondra occupy living quarters on the third floor of the William Penn apartments at 1403 E street.

Last Thursday smoke spewed from the basement. Firemen arrived following a summons.

As smoke clogged the apartment's three entrances firemen started rescue operations for the building's trapped occupants. Via outside ladders 30 persons were removed from the building.

Among the rescued were the Norman sisters. As both were being assisted down the ladders Lincoln Star photographers snapped pictures.

The pictures show Doris descending the ladder quite calmly. She even remembered to pick up her purse.

Sondra had a bit more difficult time. The picture shows her nervously feeling for a lower rung while a fireman lends a helping hand.

In word to parents here, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Norman, both girls praised the firemen's gallantry.

"They put us in a car so we could keep warm and everything," said the girls.

Lincoln police said this week they were holding a 14 year old youth charged with setting the fire.

C. of C. Names 1955 Committees

Budget Committee Hopes More Interest Will Spur Budget

Chamber of commerce directors, meeting Friday at the Ord Grill, named committees for '55 then passed the membership fee question to the budget and finance committee.

Monday night the latter met in the Kozy Nook cafe to adjust fees and allocate the budget.

A $4800 budget was set. Membership fees, except for aligning adjustments will be about the same as last year when the chamber raised $2,800.

Budget Chairman Emil Babka said the $2,000 is expected to come from increased membership.

Roughly this is the way the '55 budget was allocated: All figures are tentative:

Civic improvement $100; Industrial $650; Agricultural $100; Business-Education Day $50; Legislative $100; Auditorium Study $100; Entertainment $1,200; Retail trade $100; 75th Jubilee Study $100; Welcome $100; Finance and Budget $100; Roads $100; Emergency $900; Office expense $1,650; Civic Improvement $100.

Directors rehired John Andersen as secretary, at $85 a month, then named the following committees:

Board of Directors: Bill Lee, D. E. Troyer, Adrian Davis, Dean Misko, Geo. Knecht, Emil John, Clayton Calvin, Jim Cetak, Ivan Sorensen and Arthur Jefferies.

Agriculture: Emil Kokes, Chairman, Jim Cetak, C. C. Dale, Katheryn Helzer, Wm. Heuck and Glen Beerline.

Auditorium: H. Pearson, Chairman, Floyd Beranek, Clayton Calvin, Dr. Paul Martin, Dr. J. W. McGinnis, V. J. Beran and Dr. Otis Miller.

75th Jubilee: Robert Noll, Chairman, Dean Avers, Jay Auble and Alvin Christensen.

Welcome: Ed. Armstrong, Chairman, Arthur Jefferies, George Hastings, Wayne Ingram, Kenneth Leach and Dr. Karre.

Civic Improvement: Jay Auble, Chairman, Dean Misko, Herb Smets, Orin Kellison, Ross Allen, Paul Bleach and Sid Sexson.

Education: Nels Sullivan, Chairman, George Knecht, Duane Armstrong and Charles Wrightsman.

Entertainment: Dean Avers, Chairman, Emil John, Nels Sullivan, Wilbur Calvin, Otto Neumeyer, Bill Fafeita and Ed. Kasper.

Finance & Budget: Emil Babka, Chairman, D. E. Troyer, Joe Ruzicka, Harold Christensen, Glen Auble, E. S. Murray and Henry Benda.

Industrial: Dr. Blessing, Chairman, Ivan Sorensen, George Allen, Hal Pierce, George Purtle, John J. Wozab and Clark Weckbach.

Legislative: Jack Romans, Chairman, C. A. Davis, L. R. Cronk and John Sullivan.

Retail Trade: Max Meyer, Chairman, Adrian Davis, Mike Yost, Bolish Jablonski, Jay Brown, Melvin Clement, Joe Osentowski, Howard Huff, Stanley Absalon, Helen Gzehoviak and Ellis Carson.

Road: Jack Romans, Chairman, Bill Lee, A. R. Bion Emanuel Petska, Clark Weckbach and E. R. Horner.

Some Near Ord Residents Paying New Gas Rates

Some near Ord home owners were paying the new gas rate, K-N Manager Ivan Sorenson told the Quiz Tuesday.

Mr. Sorenson said residents paying the new rate are home owners on the edge of Ord outside the corporate city limits.

The Ord city council regulates the rates only within the city proper Sorenson added.

City Attorney Edward Vogeltanz said Wednesday noon that he still hadn't been informed of any court action of the current K-N-Ord gas rate tussle.

Red Cross Meeting

Mrs. Marcella Lee, chairman of the Valley county chapter of the Red Cross, announced a meeting in the Arcadia Methodist church basement, for Friday, Jan. 28, at 2:30 p.m.

It will be a quarterly meeting. Field Representative W. J. Frenzel will be present.

During the meeting plans for the fund drive will be discussed. All Red Cross workers are asked to attend.

Auxiliary Meeting Aids Polio, Donates $10 to Child Welfare

The American Legion Auxiliary saw a film on polio treatment at the meeting held Monday evening. President Mrs. Clark Weckbach showed slides of a recent journey through the Ozarks. The polio film was shown by Miss Katherine Helzer.

During the business session, Mrs. Carol Mortensen reported seven families were given food and clothing at Christmas time. Mrs. Ann Lincoln said a gift was sent to a hospitalized veteran.

Mrs. Lydia Fafeita, representing the auxiliary at the meeting of the Easter Seal society, gave a report of the meeting.

It was voted to give $10.00 to the national childs' welfare fund, and $15.00 to polio. It was reported the dinner served on county government day was successful. All members were urged to attend the mid-winter conference to be held in Grand Island, Febr. 19-20.

Hostesses were Mrs. Vivian Rowbal, Mrs. Gladys Allen, Mrs. Dorothy Niemeyer and Mrs. Jeanne Nay. A large crowd attended.

Brownies, Troop 2

When the Brownies of Troop 2 met for their usual meeting Tuesday after school, plans were made for advancement. The girls also discussed the Mothers Day gifts. Since the working time at each meeting is short, the gifts will be started soon. Treats were brought by Stella Lenker.

Mrs. Curt Gudmundsen entertained the Brownie leaders at her home Thursday. Investiture plans were discussed.

Gas Company Offers Mrs. America Contest for Ord Housewives

The Kansas-Nebraska Gas Co. here, and national gas associations, this week announced a Mrs. America contest.

The contest is open to married women 21 years of age or older. Mrs. America will be selected for her ability as a home maker and meal planner.

"Personal appearance will also have a bearing on the awards," associations said.

Ord Manager Ivan Sorensen said entry blanks will be available in the January and February issues of Better Living magazine.

District contest winners will enter finals to determine a state winner.

Over $15,000 in prizes await the woman named Mrs. America. Among them is a New Freedom gas kitchen laundry for her home.

The national winner will get an extra two weeks in Florida with all expenses paid.

Mrs. Wanda Jennings, a 28 year old housewife from St. Louis, is the current Mrs. America. She won the contest last year.

Gas companies, among them Ord's Kansas-Nebraska unit, will be headquarters for the Mrs. America contest. Elimination races will be held in districts, state, then national sections.

If you are a good cook and a good homemaker why don't you enter the Mrs. America contest and try for the national crown.

Manager Sorensen, of K-N here, can furnish the details.

The wedding will take place Febr. 8th.

Korner Kutters Club

The January hostess was Mrs. Raymond Desel. The meeting opened with singing, followed by the business. Two new members, Mrs. Don Clement and Mrs. Gross were hosted.

Plans and goals for the new year were discussed and year books completed.

Mrs. Herbert Bredthauer, the citizenship chairman, received Pres. Eisenhower's speech.

Kosmatas Are Oldest

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Kosmata were honored at the card party held in Elyria Sunday. When the names of the couple who had been married the greatest number of years was announced it was found to be the same couple. They will celebrate their 55th wedding anniversary in August.

Mr. and Mrs. Vogeler . . . married at Bartlett Sunday.

Bertha Dwinnell, Robert Vogeler Wed

The marriage of Bertha Dwinell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dwinell of Bartlett, to Robert Vogeler, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Vogeler of North Loup, took place Sunday.

The vows were exchanged in the Bartlett Methodist church, before Pastor Charles Cox. The double ring ceremonly was used.

Appropriate nuptial music was played by Lila May Ritchey. Jeaneane Brennick, of Ord and North Loup sang.

Bridal attendants were sisters of the bride. The maid of honor, Jean Dwinell, wore yellow taffeta, with nylon lace trim. The bridesmaid, Shirley Dwinell, wore turquoise taffeta with net skirt and lace bodice. Both carried red and white carnations.

The bride wore a white floor length gown styled with a tiered net skirt and a fitted nylon lace bodice. The long sleeves tapered to bridal points at the wrists. Her finger tip veil of nylon net was held in place by mock orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of red roses on a white Bible.

She was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. Dwinell wore a gray dress and Mrs. Vogeler, navy blue. Their corsages were pink carnations.

Darwin Foss, Cotesfield served as best man, the other attendant being Harold Bremer. Ushers were Howard Able and Kay Barritt.

A reception was held for 125 guests in the church parlors, following the ceremony. LaRae Wolken kept the guest book and Jewel Nickol and Alice Dwinell cared for the gifts.

The four tier wedding cake was baked by Mrs. Lores Hornickle. It was decorated in yellow and turquoise and had a tiny bride and groom on the top.

Mr. and Mrs. Vogeler left after the reception on a short wedding trip, not telling the destination. Mrs. Vogeler wore a black and rose faille dress with a pink jacket for traveling. On their return they will be at home on a farm near North Loup.

Mrs. Vogeler is a graduate of the Wheeler county high school. Mr. Vogeler graduated from the North Loup high school, also attended the University of Nebraska briefly.

Baseball Meeting Is Set for Vet's Club

Successor to Johnson Sought; Bud Novosad's Name Is Mentioned

Baseball fans will gather to discuss a successor for Rolly Johnson, retiring manager of the Ord Mustangs, Club Secretary Harold Christensen said Wednesday.

The baseball meeting will be held Friday in the Veteran's club at 8 o'clock.

One possible successor to Johnson is being talked. He is Bud Novosad, a former catcher for Ord, who was sidelined last year with a back injury.

Bud underwent an operation and is almost completely recovered. He apparently could handle the managerial duties without difficulty.

Other business on the slate will be an attempt to determine what league Ord will play in this year. There are two or three possibilities, Christensen said.

Also up for a decision is whether the team will play one or two games a week.

All officers will be elected.

Challengers Win Over Pirates Fri.

North Loup blistered Comstock there Friday night upsetting the Pirates 61 to 37.

The Challengers opened with four buckets by Stine, Hawkes and Thorngate, the latter netting two.

They moved to 30-20 at the half without a free throw. Fifteen baskets were scored by Challengers in the first half.

In the third canto the North Loup team kept pouring on the heat by tallying 31 more points. Meanwhile Comstock slowed with 17.

Comstock captured the second team contest 24 to 16. The Pirates won all four quarters, edging the Challengers 7-3, 11-8, 15-12, and 24-16.

In girl's volley ball the North Loup team won 35 to 11.

VFW Cagers Nudge Burwell 41 - 36 in Polio Benefit Game

Ord VFW basketball men bested Burwell Monday 41 to 36 for the benefit of polio.

Ord led all the way winning the opening canto 11-0 then going on at 22-9, 32-22 and 41-36.

Paul Penas led the Ord scorers with 11. Toke Brennamen was top Burwell producer with 14.

Mrs. Ryschan III

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wiberg took their daughter, Mrs. Francis Ryschan, to Omaha Friday, where she entered the University hospital. Monday she underwent surgery. She is reported recovering. Mrs. Wiberg and Mr. Ryschan were with her. Both returned home Tuesday. Mrs. Ryschan's address is Ward K.

Mrs. Richard Wright came from Broken Bow to care for the Ryschan children during their mother's absence.

Airman Transferred

Relatives in Ord have learned S/Sgt. and Mrs. Myron Comstock have been transferred from Guam to Hawaii. Sgt. Comstock is with the air force. As soon as the Comstocks are settled in a new home they expect to get leave to visit relatives in Ord.

Chants Parade Past Indians 54 to 47

The Chanticleer shooting arm, colder than a well digger's boot against St. Paul last week, warmed Tuesday as Ord paraded past the Broken Bow Indians 54 to 41.

Lynn Nelson, Chant center, shook off his last week chill to lead the scoring list with 28 points.

Lynn converted 12 free throws and smoked 8 counters into the nets from the floor.

Ron Romans, carrying his hitting streak over from the St. Paul games, was second with 12.

The Chants were never in danger. They won the opening frame 13-9, copped the second 34-21 and then on to win the third 45-31.

The Ord free throw effort was a healthy 70 per cent. Chants converted 23 of a possible 33.

The victory pushed the Chant skein to three wins and four losses. This week they meet Albion Friday there then return to the home court for Ravenna Tuesday.

No game will be played the following Friday. The court will be utilized for the junior play.

Misko Sports Win Bowling 5-Man Play

Timmerman Captures All Events; Markley, Goodrich Cop 2-Man

Misko's Sport Shop won the five man event with 2,710 pins as the Ord Bowl city handicap bowling tourney closed Sunday.

The Sports rolled 2,419 and were given a 291 pin handicap. Safeway Stores were second, (2,501 -27-2703 pins) and Orents' Snack Shop of Loup City, (2,449-252-2,701 pins) were third.

In the all events, rolled scratch, Ray Timmerman won first money with 1,521. John Koll, with 1,515, was second and Dan Dilla, with 1,505, was third.

The two man event was won by Markley and Goodrich both of North Loup. The pair shot 976, were given a handicap of 291 pins to emerge with 1,138.

George Dworak and Venard Collins were second, (968-123-1,091) and Otto Niemeyer and J. B. Ferguson, (938-96-1,034) were third.

Singles winner was Dave Lange (532-81-613). He was followed by Ray Timmerman, (525-60-595) and Leonard Tesmer (517-42-589)

Secertary Dan Dilla said the tourney drew entries from 16 all events 12 teams, 37 singles and 27 doubles.

All events money was paid to three places, team money to three places, singles money to nine places and doubles money to seven places.

Exercise At Airport

Horace Travis, director of the local Ground Observers Corps, said there will be exercises at the Evelyn Sharp airport, Sunday, between the hours of 1 and 4 in the afternoon.

This is the first exercise held since December.

Mr. Travis urges that all members be present during these hours. He also says that prospective members will be welcome. Should there be any of these, they will be given full credit, even if they have not signed up as yet. Credit will be given, only if they serve an hour.

Old White Rooster's Shooting Eye Blind; Romans Counters 14

St. Paul squeaked past the Chanticleers 50 to 47 last Friday at St. Paul as the Old White Rooster's shooting eye went stone blind.

The Paulists struck early. Although Ord fashioned leads in the first two quarters, St. Paul clung tenaciously. The Chant edge in the first and second stanzas was 10-8 and 24-23.

By halftime the effects of the collective cataracts began to show. St. Paul moved to the front 34-32 at the three quarter mark then iced the contest with a last minute bucket to win 47-50.

Lynn Nelson, ordinarily a scoring standout, had a poor evening. Lynn could only fashion 9 points.

Meanwhile a new name cropped on the high point list. This time it was Ron Romans who has been chilly all year. Romans netted 14 counters with four baskets and six free throws.

Dean Flock, better apparently on the gridiron than on the hardcourt, was second high with 12.

For St. Paul another unknown crept into the high point column. He was Forward Butters who sent 22 points to swell the St. Paul total.

Oh well, as Coach Bill Gogan says, there's always another game coming up.

Fund for Rescue Unit Reaches $1,024; Only $200 More Is Needed

The end of the $1,200 goal for Ord's rescue unit is in sight.

This week's donations swelled the fund from $889, reported last week, to $1,024 for this week.

Leading the list of contributors were the Cosmopolitan club and the village of Elyria. Each gave $50.

Personal checks were given by Joseph Sobotka and Ray Melia. The Nebraska Continental Phone Co. added a sizable cash donation.

Work on the truck is almost finished. Apparently it will be ready for service about the time the drive is completed.

Sirens and red warning lights have been installed. Stretchers and carrying brackets are ready.

And firemen will start a course of first aid instruction, under Dr. Otis Miller soon.

Here is this week's gift list:

Seal Sale Low

Valley county was one of 99 Christmas seal sale agencies to turn in a report by January 7. There were 121 such agencies.

Of the 99, Delmar R. Sarafy, executive state secretary, said 46 exceeded last year's total and 13 have set a new record.

The sale in Valley county lagged behind last year's total by $18.86. The sales for 1953 amounted to $625.36. Sales for 1954 were $606.50.

According to the secretary, there is still $13,695.88 needed from the 1954 sale to reach last year's figure.

Wanted! Visitors . . .

Come in and see us. We're proud of our modern shop and parts department . . . We're proud of our efficient personnel . . . We want you to visit with us and see our modern farm machinery. You know, you get extra dividends when you buy in your home community . . . because when you buy here . . . or in any of the seven high grade farm implement dealers located in Ord . . . you can save and earn, both! The "dividends" you earn by purchasing at your local dealer . . . are better civic services . . . more local improvements, and a more solid prosperity for your own community. Each and every one of us help support the schools, Hospital, and churches, that makes Ord and the surrounding community a good place to live in. A dollar spent outside of the community never returns . . . a dollar spent at home helps in many ways by paying taxes, payroll and increasing the purchasing power of the community.

Then again, YOU CAN'T BEAT THE SERVICE YOU GET "CLOSE TO HOME." The firms who serve you locally are going to give you the best possible service. They are your neighbors who want your good will and business, every day in every way. The "low, low" price you may pay elsewhere does not necessarily make your purchase a bargain. A real value is when you get top quality, recognized brands and the reputation of a reliable dealer to back it up!

AND—THAT'S WHAT YOU GET, WHEN YOU BUY IN YOUR HOME COMMUNITY. BUY IT AT HOME . . . YOU GET A BETTER DEAL. . .

It's impossible to contact each farmer personally and invite him to visit with us . . . So we are using this means of extending an invitation to stop in and visit.

Fr. Leonard Ziolkowski Presented New Ford by Parishioners

Father Leonard Ziolkowski, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church at Elyria, is driving a new '55 Customline Ford this week as a gift of grateful parishioners.

The car was presented Sunday following morning mass. About 200 of St. Mary's faithful witnessed the presentation.

The move to give Father Leonard the car bubbled spontaneously during an Elyria conversation.

Someone in the group said, "Let's get Fr. Leonard a new car in appreciation for his services here," and away the drive went. It never lagged as committeemen sought out those who wanted to help.

With the funds complete Paul Bleach, of the B. and L. Motors, was brought into the deal. Bleach took Fr. Leonard's old car in trade and Sunday presented him with the keys to the new one.

To the deal Bleach added his peculiar emphasis.

The car will be washed and greased free for life by the B. and L. Motors.

Father Leonard has served St. Mary's parish for several years. He was assigned several years ago, left to go to Loup City, then returned for his latest tenure.

Hamm . . . seeks Ord help.

Omaha Hospital Seeks Cash Aid from Methodists

The services, values and needs of Nebraska Methodist Hospital, a Methodist institution were described by Edward E. Hamm, Lakeview, Iowa, layman, who spoke briefly during services at the Ord Methodist church Sunday.

Ord church members are being asked to contribute to the hospital's new surgery fund. Mr. Hamm is visiting families in search of help.

Hospital floor plans and construction now underway were recently studied by Dr. Morrie Fishbein, American Medical Association leader.

He termed it "one of the finest set-ups in the United States, and in the world."

He praised the radiological center, reported one of the finest in the midwest.

—Galen Allen, a student in the state university spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Allen.

Aids Polio Drive

Peggy Nealon, a Greeley county youngster currently recovering from polio, this week lent emphasis to the Greeley county polio drive.

In a letter to Vox Pop, Peggy cited the care she has received from the Greeley and the state chapters.

She concluded her letter with the appeal: "Give generously because you never know when someone dear to you will need help. And remember it never needs to be paid back."

Library Officers Appointed Feb. 7

Ord township officers will meet Monday evening, February 7, to appoint one or more members to the library board.

The decision to make the appointments at the February meeting came after Clarence M. Davis, member of the board appeared before the annual township meeting Tuesday.

He suggested several present library board members had been appointed without regular terms. And, he said, it might be good policy for the township board to see appointments were made legally.

In further business the township meeting adopted a budget of $15,850 for the coming year.

This is $300 higher than last year. The increase came in the bridge fund to provide replacement of several bridges and culverts on township roads.

Other township expenditures will be the same as last year. They are: library $3200; road fund $9000 and general fund $1950.

The township has a cash balance of $9400.

10 Soil and Water Loans in Process

Arcadia Bank Active in FHA Loan Program; Farm Family Helped

Ten new soil and water conservation loans are being processed here and in Greeley county, FHA Administrator Don Krick announced this week.

Mr. Krick said the loans were provided for by public law 597 recently passed by congress.

The loan is secured from local lenders then guaranteed by the government through FHA.

The Arcadia State Bank has been active in the insured loaning program, Krick pointed out.

Several years ago it provided funds to enable a Valley county family to purchase a farm. The loan is now repaid in full, Krick said.

The bank has also signed commitments to provide funds for two farm families to drill irrigation wells, Krick added.

Clarence Davis, an Ord attorney, has been designated by the FHA to handle legal aspects of FHA irrigation loans in Valley county.

Spring Wheat Grower Offered Support Tips

Farmers planning to plant spring wheat will do well to check up on their wheat acreage allotment, suggests George Nay, member of the Valley county ASC committee.

Even though there has been a change in the program with compliance based on the harvested, rather than the planted acreage, it would be a waste of seed, fuel, labor and land to plant beyond the allotment and beyond the need for hay and grazing and for protecting the land from wind and water erosion, he said.

He points out wheat planted in excess of the acreage allotment may not be permitted to reach the stage of maturity where it can be harvested for grain if the grower wishes to avoid penalties and take full advantage of the price support program.

As soon as the season is far enough along, the ASC office will indicate a date by which the excess acreage must be turned under, or otherwise disposed of, if it is not to be counted as "wheat acreage" in determining compliance under the program.

Growers who do not dispose of excess acreage by the announced time will be subject to the customary penalties based on the overplanted acreage.

The penalty is 45 percent of the parity price per bushel as of May 1, and calculated on the average yield for the farm applied to the excess acreage.

The penalty, however, will be collected on all 1955 grain marketed until the full amount of the penalty has been paid.

Band Attends Music Clinic

The Ord high school band will attend the Central-Ten band clinic at Central City Wednesday, Jan. 26.

The band attended this clinic for the first time last year.

Other towns participating are Albion, Aurora, Fullerton, and Central City.

Both the morning and the afternoon will be spent in rehearsing for the evening concert.

It will include 11 numbers by the massed band.

Each town will present a number from a small group. Ord will be represented by a brass sextet.

The guest director will be James King of Hastings College.

Service Friday for Mrs. Will Bartlett

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon from the Presbyterian church for Mrs. Will Bartlett, 75. Rev. Warren Porter was the clergyman. Musicians were Mrs. Mark Tolen, sololst and Mrs. Viola Kellison, organist.

Burial was in the Ord city cemetery. Bearers were Guy LeMasters, Mark Tolen, Horace Travis, C. B. Gudmundsen, Wm. Zabloudil and John Haskell.

Susan Una Hull was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hull of Geneseo, Ill., Sept. 21, 1879.

When she was five years old the family moved to a farm in Nebraska, near Ord. In Nov. 10, 1897 she was married to W. A. Bartlett of Ord. She was an active member of the Presbyterian church.

For 70 years, Ord was her home. Death came suddenly Wednesday morning, Jan. 12.

She is survived by a son, Daniel, of Hermiston, Ore., and three daughters, Mrs. Ida Gilmore, Lincoln; Mrs. Helen Nelson, Omaha and Mrs. Murl Zikmund, Ord. There were also ten grandchildren and five great grandchildren left.

Liquid Air Talk Pleases Students

David and Irene Williams, of Los Angeles, Calif., demonstrated the wonders of liquid air before Ord high school students, Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Williams brought a current and timely science program on liquid air carried in large thermos type containers.

He performed a number of unusual and fascinating experiments. Among the experiments seen were the operation of a steam engine, the controlled explosion of a toy cannon, and the pounding of rubber nails with a mercury hammer.

Space travel and a trip to the moon were discussed. Williams carried a model jet plane that flies on a swivel.

His program was full of surprises, outstanding entertainment, and scientific interest for young listeners.

—Thursday visitors at the Elmer Lukesh home were Mrs. Don Fiala and Raymond and Jim Duda.

Wood Refinishing Busies Extension Women Past Week

Training meetings for the first project of the year, wood refinishing, were held Tuesday in North Loup at the home of Mrs. Erlo Babcock, Wednesday in the Methodist church basement of Arcadia, and Friday in the St. John's Lutheran church basement here.

At each meeting workers worked at refinishing furniture. For the project each brought shabby woodwork then, under the direction of Miss Katherine Helzer, removed old paint, sanded and restained the article.

While the work was going on there were discussions on how to provide a smooth case and how to make simple repairs.

Work was done on odd pieces such as chairs, chests of drawers, tables and plain pieces of wood.

At the St. John's church basement Friday, a large room was filled with women hard at work removing varnish or paint. Many commented on wood beauty when the protection had been removed.

One old chair showed inlaid wood invisible beneath the paint. Another club worker discovered drawers made of walnut.

Some of the workers showed a talent for carpenter work when they completely dismantled an elaborate end table.

In renewing the furniture, the women were participating in a new "do it yourself" trend.

The work went on throughout the day. Some of the ladies brought lunch.

The clubs and the workers present at the Ord gathering Friday were:

Merry Mixers, Mrs. Herbert Goff and Mrs. Jesse Frederick; Happy Hour, Mrs. Frank Naprstek, Mrs. Adeline Urbanski; Mutual Benefit, Mrs. Clare Clement, Mrs. George Clement; Springdale Kensington, Mrs. Joe Knapp, Mrs. W. Plow Up The Courthouse Lawn!

Following last week's chamber of commerce meeting, where the topic of down town parking received more than a little emphasis, an Ord business man has voiced a suggestion.

Mr. A, (we'll call him that for reasons of secrecy), proposes to lop 30 or 40 feet from the north, west and south sides of the courthouse lawn. The ground thus secured could be used to hold a line of cars.

A second line of cars could then be parked in the center of the streets. The move, if adopted, could bring parking for an estimated 75 additional motorists.

Mr. A believes his plan has merit. In addition it satisfies those who shriek in alarm every time the courthouse lawn is threatened because it still leaves the courthouse more than just a little grassed area.

Whats your opinion?

Even Stamp Users Aren't Happy

Even the users of trade stamps aren't completely happy. Here is the way the stamp situation is viewed by George Lemmon, editor of the Clarifier, a trade magazine published by the Nebraska Cleaners Association.

"There have been several news releases stating there might be some legislation introduced this year to outlaw trading stamps in Nebraska.

"We are sure it would be a grand thing.

"First—when there was one principal stamp the firms possessing them in each line in each community had things pretty much their own way.

"Now since another prominent stamp has creeped into the Lincoln trade area (and rapidly spreading out state) the picture is changing daily.

"The new stamp is not only highly competitive with the original one—but is a slightly better value from the consumers stand point.

"So now you not only have many, many more merchants offering trading stamps to the public, but you have two stamp firms who are endeavoring to outwit and out guess each other.

"And of course, if this highly competitive operation follows, the usual pattern, the original stamp firm will be beat down to a level.

"They probably do not fully realize it at this time—but chiseling is chiseling—and the bigger chiseler, everything else being equal, will come in first.

"That is the way these things go—and the stamp deal will be no difefrent—and it could be a very devastating performance.

"When the new stamp deal first came out we can well imagine the original firm saying—'Ah heck, that stamp will never touch us..'

"But, now that it is touching them, their attitude begins to change—slowly, but surely.

"The stamp deal will probably be outlawed some day when everybody gets the tar knocked out of them.

"This is usually the way wars end up. Only this morning a member of our family remarked—'Yesterday I remained down at -----'s for all of my shopping, they are giving stamps now.'

"That's the way it goes—and now WHO IS FOOLING WHO? Let's be realistic about the whole affair. It is costing a lot of folks a lot of money to lick another group in line.

"Not a very pleasant chore but a necessary duty that had to be whipped into line when they were running too wild with a single prominent stamp.

"Yes, when enough firms are giving out stamps in any given community, and there is no advantage to the merchant offering them (costing all merchants a whale of a lot of money) then, and only then, will the big wheels want them outlawed.

"The second group put the new stamps in, not because they wanted to, but because others forced them to. So some day, maybe we will not only hear 'bitter free' but 'stamp free'. Could be!"

Quiz wantads get results, Ed Apking keeps telling you, and he's right too.

For two weeks I ran an ad about a round sparkly pin I lost that I wanted to get back. I had no idea where I'd lost it, but combing the house didn't turn it up, and it was gone.

So I put in the wantad, and nobody phoned.

The other night I got pretty mad about something and I decided to work off a head of steam by cleaning out the three metal glove pockets on the door of the coat closet. Bang, I threw stuff out and stacked it and tossed it away.

And lo, there was my beautiful blue pin! Forgetful me.

All you have to do is advertise in the Quiz,—and your property returns, people!

How my husband laughed at me.

oOo

We have gone in the bird business at our house. Janice got a lovely blue parrakeet for Christmas, and we are learning about parrakeets from him. I don't think he's learned much from us as yet.

But we have learned that Chirpy the Blue Boy only willingly gets back into his cage when we put him in tail first. We have learned he whistles easily. We have learned he has a terrible temper, for he scolds us roundly. He particularly doesn't like to hear the garbage ground up, and loudly mentions his feelings.

oOo

Ted has gone into the bird business this winter, and is spending all his spare cash on bird food. He has three stations set up in the backyard, and the birds almost eat him out of house and home. Now the squirrels have discovered this easy life, and are growing fat.

Last week Ted put out an ear of corn for his birds but I laughed as I watched cute old Fatso Squirrel ripping off two or three kernels, then scurrying about the lawn and burying them for reference when needed. He was busy and happy, patting them in place.

Next summer when I'm pulling up my corn crop in the West Forty I won't be laughing, likely.

oOo

Very few things have disappeared in our house over the years. But those that did were such oddities.

Once someone walked out with a new pair of summer shoes I cherished and needed. They were strawcloth, practical as well as pretty, but I suppose someone else needed them worse than I did.

Not too long ago someone made off with an electric clock from our basement wall . . . I suppose they needed it worse than the Leggetts. It wasn't much of a clock, still . . .

oOo

The queerest thing to vanish from our home, tho, was my wedding dress. Yessir, someone wanted that more than I did. It wasn't the now-traditional white wedding dress: oh, no.

It was purple velvet with a purple wool skirt, and a flock of handsome gold leather embroidered it on sleeve and hip. Of course it didn't bear a sign saying wedding dress, so whoever took it knew not what they did to me.

The heel.

oOo

Then there was the time my husband swore I had given his best shoes to a church rummage sale. He so swore for quite a spell.

'Til he really looked for them . . . and there they were in the same old place. Ha ha.

The Editor, Too, Dislikes Editing

The reason my heart bleeds, whenever anyone complains about me slaughtering their written prose, is because I too am nursing a psychiatric inhibition from being frightened by a red pencil.

The pencil in my case is one wielded by Publisher Gene Leggett who guides the destiny of the Quiz from a well padded chair. And occasionally takes the axe to something I have written.

Leggett and I seldom view the passing parade from the same angle. Let me give you an example:

Suppose I hear about a dog that plays checkers. I get all enthused about it so I sit down and beat out a long story about this here dog. And in beautiful prose with lots of adjectives I describe how the dog makes all the opening moves just right so's he gets a king before his opponent can get set, and stuff like that there.

Now I know Leggett will look this yarn over pretty closely so I go over it a couple of times, tightening it up, inserting a lot of commas,(Leggett is apt to be a fright on punctuation), and then I send the copy down to the linotype machines.

After it is set and proofread I sneak a look at the galley proofs to see what the Big Wheel's reaction has been.

Gad! The proof looks like it's been through a slaughterhouse there is so much red ink on it. There are big long red lines through my fine phrases and along the margins there are snooty questions penciled in which read:

"What was the dog's name?" "How many games did the dog win?" What kind of a checkerboard did they play on? "You were gone two hours on this story. Is this all?"

Crushed, I take the proof up to my desk and then, when I have worked up enough nerve, I march into the Big Wheel's office to where he's hunched down in the big chair.

"Look," I say holding out the red lined proof, "these here questions aren't important. Don't you see nobody cares how many GAMES the dog won. The important thing is that the dog PLAYS checkers. Nobody cares if he won ten games on a homemade board or one that cost $6.95 down at Misko's. The important thing, like I say, is that the dog plays checkers at all. Can't you agree?"

"O-o-o-h," Leggett says looking at me over his glasses, "Well I wanted to know and I guesss I am the Average Reader. I want to know the dog's name, I want to know whether he skunked his opponent before the other guy could get a king and I want to know, did the dog beat him three king to two or hem him in a corner!"

"Okay," I says smart-aleck like," I'll answer all the questions and not only that but I'll find out what play the dog used, get it diagrammed, and then we can publish it as the checker problem of the month."

So I go back to my typewriter to make all the changes and answer the snooty questions. And as I look at the beautiful phrases red penciled I almost drown in self pity particularly when I see such sentences as, "The dog, snickering in his chops, opened a salient deep into his opponent's defense by extending a bristling forepaw towards the rotund disks," shortened down to, "The dog moved first."

And after I have finished rewriting the story I go into the darkroom where I can have a good cry all by myself. And as I stand there sobbing in the dark I say:

"God, how I hate them red pencils!"

Lefty's Worst Enemy

Ward's What's Cookin' Column

And now they are making the new picture, Oklahoma, and where are they filming it? In Arizona. Can you imagine Texas, for instance, permitting a travesty like that? But Oklahoma has no kick.

The producers claim that the clouds in Arizona are more photogenic. Not so long ago we had photoplays with never a cloud in a carload. But these days the clouds are more important than the actors.

It is a boon to the actors to get a job on such a film. Otherwise many of them would never be seen outside the big cities. I heard of one of them who bought a four-acre ranch just to get out in the country.

The only catch to the ranch is that it is on the side of a young mountain. The actor can't keep any stock on it except mountain goats. His cows and pigs keep falling over the fences into his neighbors' yards.

He finally found enough space to build his house and a swimming pool. No Hollywood ranch is complete without a swimming pool. He blasted out a big hole in the side of the mountain to make a location for the pool.

He took the rocks he blasted out and built a wall on the mountain side, the lower side of his ranch. The wall is 30 feet high and he had a space 20 feet wide on top where he built his house.

There was no way to haul the material up to the site, so he had the constructor put in a cable system, and every board, brick, shingle and shingle nail was hoisted into place by that method.

Even after he had the wall done he had to put a six foot mesh fence around the lower side to keep from falling from here to eternity. The postman can't climb the hill, so he shoots the mail up with a blunderbuss.

Because he has not yet found a place to build a garage, he leaves all three of his cars in a garage down town and has a taxi bring him as near his home bailiwick as the roads are passable.

He has two general ways of getting home. He can have the cabby take him up the mountain above his home, after which he can either fall in or drop down in a parachute.

Or he can take the scenic route and come up from below on the special ski lift he has had installed for his current wife to use. Every time he changes wives he has to arrange different transportation.

It must be rough to be a big shot movie maker. This fellow has built a ranch up in the precipices to get away from it all. And there all of it is every time he looks out of the window.

And he builds up there so he can have a view of his more lowly neighbors sun bathing, and his neighbors higher up the slope can sit in their patios and watch him and his women, doing the same.

But, after all, who cares? They wear very little more on location and are seen by the movie-mad public from Dan to Bathsheba. After such an exhibition there is very little more to be seen, anyway.

Me, I like the 2-bit ranch Mrs. Ward and her husband have acquired in Ericson. We can't raise many cattle on a two acre ranch, it is true, but we have a good view of those raised by other ranchers.

I wouldn't change locations with any of the big shots of moviedom. I have something they haven't got. If I don't like the current view, I can wait. It changes every time the wind blows.

And there is not so much difference in the wife situation. They can change wives 45 times a year, but I can keep the same one 45 years. We expect to keep right on for 20 more years.

I have come to the opinion that there is something to be said about this idea of growing old gracefully, and we all have all got to figure on growing old. The trouble is, there is no future to it.

Polio Victim Speaks

Dear Sir:

On September 13, 1952, while a senior in high school, I was stricken with polio. I was paralyzed from the waist down and was in the hospital for approximately three months.

During this time I had two doctors. Also during this time I was given physical therapy at the St. Francis hospital. There were 91 patients in the hospital and only three therapists. We were given three treatments a week. About ¾ of the patients, mostly children, were helped by the March of Dimes.

I had two long braces extending from my hips down and two long crutches.

These were paid for by the March of Dimes. With these braces and crutches I was able to walk under my own power.

Now two and a half years later I am able to get around very well. My braces have both been cut down and I have graduated to another pair of crutches. These are much easier to walk with and are much more comfortable.

I still have a long ways to go before I will be able to walk alone but I know that the polio fund is behind me and that regardless of what may happen, whether it's an operation or any thing else the POLIO FUND will stick by me providing that the people of Greeley county contribute to the March of Dimes.

Not only will it help me but also any other polio victim in Greeley county. Until I was stricken with polio. I, too, wondered if the March of Dimes did any good. Now I know they do good because they have helped me through the last two years.

Please give your dimes and dollars so all polio patients in Greeley county may have an opportunity to walk again. I have progressed with the help of the polio fund to the place where I am able to earn my own living if it were necessary.

Give generously because you never know when someone very dear to you may need help. There is nothing to pay back and an awful lot to gain.

Do help others walk if you make it possible for one person to walk, you have done a lot. Give and give generously to this cause. I know what it means.

Peggy Nealon

Ed. Note: No one knows the value of the county polio chapter like a polio victim. Peggy's letter should be an answer to those who ask, 'What do you do with the money I give?"

Middle Loup Reelects

All officers of the Middle Loup Public Power and Irrigation District have been re-elected for two years.

They are E. G. Stone, Comstock, president; Glen Heller, Comstock, vice-president; Clark Reynolds, Loup City, treasurer, and Lorene W. Doe, Arcadia, secretary.

The election results were announced from Arcadia.

* * * Nearby Neighbors * * *

SARGENT—Everett Stone won the championship division of the Tekseed Co's annual corn producing contest with an average of 172.2 bushels per acre. The test was completed on eight irrigated acres.

BURWELL — Minor vandalism was reported at the Gold Standard rural school. Decks were overturned and books scattered said Garfield Couny Sheriff Ross Abernethy.

BURWELL—William Malmberg, about 30, suffered a fractured pelvis, several fractured ribs and injuries to vertebra, when he fell beneath an underslung hay rack. Mr Malmberg fell from the vehicle when one wheel struck a depression. He is recovering in the Burwell hospital.

LOUP CITY—Stanley Bukowski was elected president of the chamber of commerce then installed at a dinner meeting this week. He operates a plumbing and heating business.

BURWELL—Officers will be elected Wednesday to head up the business promotion organization known here as the Wrangler's Club. The election will be held at the Legion club. A financial report will be given.

LOUP CITY—The Raiders, school basketball team, were eyeing a seven won, perfect season, record here with a 101 to 46 victory over Burwell. The score was the highest in conference history.

LITCHFIELD — The postoffice was robbed of $25, police reported. Robbers entered the office by forcing a transom then hammered a vault to the tune of $75 damage. The vault resisted the robber's attempts. A stamp drawer yielded the $25 loot.

LOUP CITY—Clark Reynolds was reelected to chairman of the Sherman county board of supervisors. This is his sixth term.

BOELUS — James Kalkowski, about 19, was hurt in a car crash near the Loup City yards. He is believed to have suffered internal injuries.

RAVENNA—Billy Kuhl, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kuhl, was accidentally shot with a revolver. He was hunting when the gun discharged. The bullet struck him in the knee.

BROKEN BOW—John Schmitz was named chairman of the Custer county board of supervisors in the annual organization meeting. Schmitz succeeds Loren Harfield.

RAVENNA — F. J. Ziemkowski, a Burlington engineer, was killed in a train-gas transport crash near Ansley. The train pierced the transport's tanks spraying the locomotive with flaming gasoline. It was the second time a train piloted by Engineer Ziemkowski had struck a transport on the same crossing. The first occasion happened two years ago.

COMSTOCK—Ted Ericson won the county corn contest with a yield of 132 bushels per acre on a five acre plot. Mr. Ericson was named first over 40 other contestants.

ANSELMO—Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Daily, both near 90 years old will soon celebrate their 73rd wedding anniversary.

SARGENT—Business here eyed two new buildings. One to be occupied by the Sargent Construction Co. will be used to house equipment. It is 32 x 36, built with cement brick. The second, a 25 x 60 cement brick structure, wil be occupied by the Gordon Johnson bulk station.

Extension Notes

Training meetings, for the Refinishing Wood lesson, broke the record for attendance. For he first time we had 100 per cent attendance from all clubs. Record breaking, too, in that many small pieces of furniture that have been patiently waiting for years to have a little attention will now be refinished.

The lesson for the January meeting of the Progressive club of North Loup, at which I was a guest, was on Spices and Herbs. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Dale Mulligan. Mrs. Maynard Schudel was assistant hostess.

These ladies certainly spared no effort in preparation. After an interesting discussion on spices and herbs we were all served dishes flavored with these seasonings. Such dishes, as Pizza Pie, both American and Italian; green beans with silvered almonds; corn and peas with savory; herb bread; cake and cookies. And to top all this ice cream with a most delicious sauce made with syrup, ground apple, peppermint flavoring and green coloring for attractiveness.

Try it sometime, it was perfect. Thank you ladies for a most delightful time.

These Lets Not Forget electrical safety warnings came in this week.

1. Inspect all flexible cords used in the home at least every six months.

2. Employ a qualified electrician to make repairs and additions to house wiring where additional outlets are needed, instead of using extension cords.

3. Do not run flexible cords under rugs and carpets, nor over radiators or pipes.

4. Use convenient outlets to connect appliances. Lamp sockets are for lighting. Sockets are inadequate and expensive as well as unsafe for appliance use.

5. Do not handle cords or electrical appliances with wet hands.

6. In removing plug from outlet grasp the plug itself. Do not yank the cord.

7. Be sure the floor you stand on is dry when plugging an electric cord into an outlet. A damp floor or puddle is dangerous.

The night the first frost threatened I put a big bouquet of Pa's prize dahlias in the front window. Then I got busy cooking and sewing for the fall bazaar. I took Grandma Turner's pie tin back to her the morning after the affair, and on the way home, what did I see from the front sidewalk but those dahlias, brown and wilted and neglected-looking! If we could get outside ourselves and look in the way I looked in my living room window, we'd probably see some ugly, wilted things that needed throwing out of our lives, too.

Outstate Senators May Propose New Way of Dividing Gas Tax

By Melvin Paul

Rushing through "stop gap" legislation of one sort or another was a major item of business in the legislature this week.

But even the "temporary" bills ran into trouble along the way.

One was a bill to "unfreeze" gasoline funds bottled up because of a court suit over how they should be distributed. Involved are the revenues from the 2.5 cents that goes to the counties from the 6 cents per gallon state gasoline tax.

A court suit was brought against former State Treasurer Frank Heintze on grounds that he hadn't used up-to-date figures in the distribution formulas. Heintze retaliated by impounding all the gasoline tax money to go to the counties.

With the possibility that some counties would have to issue distress warrants to pay bills, the legislature was urged by former Gov. Robert Crosby to pass the "unfreezing" measure quickly.

But one of the big scraps of the legislature developed in debate over this "temporary" measure. The bill called for using the latest formula. Since the formula is based on both population and motor vehicle registration figures, the latest formula helps the growing areas of the state. Particularly would it help Omaha, Lincoln, Fremont, Grand Island, Norfolk, Hastings, and Scottsbluff, and a few counties.

An effort was made by the less populous counties to amend the bill to use the formula being used in 1953. This was when State Treasurer Heintze was still using 1940 census and 1949 motor vehicle registration figures.

Sen. Charles Tvrdik of Omaha warned, "You're going to split this legislature right down the middle. Better let this one go by."

Tvrdik said that while the less populous counties might have the necesary 22 votes to pass a bill more to their liking, they did not have the 29 votes to pass it with the emergency clause. It would go into effect immediately with the emergency clause, but not until three months after the legislature adjourned if without this clause.

Tvrdik pointed out that the bill would be useless unless it went into effect immediately.

The bill was sent on its way in the legislative mill but not until many bitter words were exchanged.

Senators from the less populous counties vowed they would change the distribution formula to give less to the "big" counties.

Wakefield "Roadblock"

Another "stopgap" measure which almost ran into trouble was LB1. This plugs up a loophole in the highway laws discovered by citizens of Wakefield in Dixon county when they were trying to block relocation of State Highway 35 more than a year ago.

Sure enough, when the bill came up for public hearing before committee, Wakefield representatives appeared to either get the bill killed or amended to take out Highway 35.

The relocation would move Highway 35 between Wayne and Wakefield two miles south of where it now is. The feud over this matter has involved the state highway department, the state advisory commission, and two past governors.

When the Wakefield citizens proposed an amendment to put the powers of relocation in the hands of the legislature, State Engineer L. N. Ress made a promise. He said he wouldn't go ahead with the relocation until the legislature had finally decided who should have the power of relocation.

Citizens from other areas gave a sigh of relief and the bill seemed safe. The loophole in the law had not only blocked the Wayne-Wakefield relocation but five others, including US 83 between North Platte and McCook. It was the senators from this area who worked hardest for the measure.

Toll Road Study

There seemed to be no end of road news.

The Nebraska turnpike authority published the results of an engineering traffic study to see whether there was enough traffic between Omaha and Lincoln to pay for a toll road.

The answer was that there might be barely enough, but only if there was a turnpike coming across Iowa.

But what might be the real blow to toll road hopes came in indications from Washington, D.C., that the federal government is going to be generous in providing money for a free interstate defense road. If Nebraska's share in this proposed road from Omaha past Lincoln to Grand Island, North Platte and Kimball is not too large, it might be the eventual solution.

Abolish Commission

Sen. John Aufenkamp of Julian introduced a bill to abolish the state advisory highway commission. He said the commission hasn't served any useful purpose in the two years since it was set up by the 1953 legislature.

At least one other senator, Dwight Burney of Hartington, said he thought it should be given at least another two years.

Abolish Control Board

Another bill to abolish a state agency was introduced by Sen. George Syas of Omaha. This would submit to the voters in 1956 a constitutional amendment to abolish the state board of control.

The board of control supervises 17 state institutions, including prisons, mental hopsitals, and educational institutions. The system was started in 1913.

Syas said the system is "antiquated." He thinks supervision of the institutions could be handled another way.

The board has been under attack in connection with the administration of the state pen in Lincoln.

The legislature referred to a committee a resolution calling for a legislative investigation of the institution. Introducer of the resolution was Sen. Lester Anderson of Aurora, who said that previous reports critical of the pen have been "whitewashed" by the board of control.

Move Blind School

Another issue arising in this session concerns the state school for the blind at Nebraska City. Parents of children there have held meetings and passed resolutions to move it elsewhere. A bill was introduced to move it to Kearney where "there would be modern educational facilities," according to the measure's introducer, Sen. Donald McGinley of Ogallala. But two days later Sen. Syas put in another bill, proposing to move it to Omaha.

Botts Couple Note 58th Anniversary

A few friends were informal guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Botts Friday evening, in honor of the Botts' 58th wedding anniversary. Because both Mr. and Mrs. Botts are in frail health, there was no public celebration.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Inness, Mrs. Hans Andersen, Mrs. Warren Lincoln and Miss Dolsie Waterman. Saturday callers were Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Inness.

An angel food cake, baked by Miss Waterman, and coffee was served.

Mrs. Botts was the former Orilla Lary. The wedding 58 years ago took place in Iowa Jan. 14, 1897.

The couple came to Valley county soon after marriage and with the exception of six months in Garfield county, their home has been near Ord the entire 58 years.

Mr. Botts was a farmer and for many years their home was in Maiden Valley. The family lived in town for a couple of years during early married life, while Mr. Botts worked as a carpenter.

They moved to Ord in the spring of 1929 and for many years he then worked at the Farmers store.

In 1934, the couple bought their present home at 1712 I street. They have lived there since.

Mr. Botts is 83 years old and his wife is 79. They are able to work, but both are far from well.

There are five children in the family, (Blanche) Mrs. C. E. Inness, Ord; (Amy) Mrs. Sam Guggenmos, Olympia, Wash; Miss Deane Botts, Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. Jennie Maddox, Benkelman and Larry, Wood River. There are also 12 grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Mrs. Botts is a member of the Degree of Honor lodge and received a box of candy as a gift for her wedding day. The couple also received other gifts and cards.

Farm - Ag Tips

Dr. Crist of the federal bureau of animal industry tells me plans call for the re-testing of all cattle in Vinton and Eureka precincts for tuberculosis this year.

In order to keep a county on the accredited list free of tuberculosis it is necessary to test a certain percentage of the cattle at least once, each three years.

Present plans call for the testing to be done by local veterinarians under agreement with federal and state authorities.

No dates have been set as to when the testing will start. But farmers in these two precincts may be sure the work will be done some time in 1955.

The 1955 Nebraska irrigation clinic will be held February 16th at Central City according to an announcement received this week.

This meeting, to which all irrigators of Central Nebraska are invited, will be at the 4-H club building on the Merrick county fairgrounds. Valley county farmers, who are just starting to irrigate from new wells, should be interested in the clinic.

Further details as to the program will be announced later.

Crippled Children's Society Has $500, Annual Meeting Tells

Nearly $527 was raised last year for the benefit of the Crippled Childrens Association in Valley county.

Treasurer Mrs. Robert Penas, said $408 was raised from a letter appeal; $57.00 from the lily parade; $56.00 from the school packets and $5.00 from the coin boxes in business places.

The report was given at the annual meeting held Friday in the Presbyterian church.

Present were Q. S. Perkins, executive secretary of the state organization and Robert W. Shields, field representative. One of the state vice presidents, Mrs. C. J. Mortensen, Ord, also attended.

Max Meyer, president, presided. Mrs. Meyer was secretary.

Meyer said three or four children had been helped through the society. Names of children had been presented by Welfare Director Mrs. Wanda Smets and County Superintendent Fred Appelget.

Much of the meeting was used in discussing various speech clinics and the needs of children with a speech deficiency.

Hearing deficiencies were also discussed.

President Meyer said there was $500 in the treasury. He suggested the money be used. He also reported 1650 letters were sent out last year. He explained the school packs.

Near the close of the meeting, Mr. Perkins spoke concerning the annual Easter seal sale. The sale will take place April 2.

Perkins said it had been recommended the Saturday before Palm Sunday should be designated as Easter Seal Day, throughout the nation.

He also said the name of the association was no longer The Crippled Children Association, but the Easter Seal Society. He said from now on there will be no age limit. Adults will be assisted as well as children.

By unanimous vote the report of the nominating committee was approved. Rev. Warren Porter became president, Miss Jeanette Kokes, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Leo Long, first vice president and Mrs. Fred Appelget, second vice president.

Meyer recommended that a committee of five be appointed by the incoming president, to assist officers. Rev. Porter will name the committee soon.

Hacketts Celebrate Golden Wedding with Sunday Affair

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Hackett received at open house Sunday afternoon in honor of their 50th wedding anniversary.

The gathering was held in the Methodist church parlors.

Greeting the guests was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Hackett, Jay Hackett, of Kearney. Mrs. Jay Hackett poured coffee, and daughters of the couple, Carol, cared for the guest book and Sandra and Sharon, the gifts.

Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Hackett were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Cronk. Mr. Cronk, a brother of the bride of 50 years ago attended the wedding.

The Keystone Bible class, of which Mrs. Hackett is a member, and a few other close friends cared for the kitchen. Cake and coffee was served.

The serving table held a decorated anniversary cake between lighted yellow tapers. The table was covered with a lace table cloth over yellow. Personalized napkins and flowers were used.

The reception was attended by old friends and neighbors. Several came from Archer, old home of the Hacketts to greet friends.

Mrs. Hackett, the former Edna Cronk was married to O. E. Hackett January 16, 1905. The ceremony took place in the Methodist parsonage. The lines were read by Rev. W. A. Wimberly.

Present was a brother, Lee Cronk, who is still living. Other witnesses were the grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Timmerman.

Mrs. Hackett said her wedding dress was of blue brilliantine It has since been cut up to form a suit for one of the children. Her wedding ring, which she still has, is now too small.

Following the ceremony, a wedding supper was served at the home of an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Timmerman.

The couple's first home was on a farm in Greeley county, which Mr. Hackett homesteaded. Later homes have been in Merrick county near Archer, in Emmet, Ida. and finally in Valley county.

In 1932, they purchased the place on P. street, which is their home.

Mr. Hackett's parents were pioneers in Pennsylvania. He came to Nebraska when he was six. He homesteaded in Greeley county, close to the county line. Since Mrs. Hackett's people lived near the line in Valley county, it was not hard for the young folks to meet.

Mr. Hackett was a farmer and a mechanic. For 14 years he worked for the county on the road maintainer. Later in a farm accident he lost his hand in a ensilage cutter. Then he retired to an acreage near town.

Mr. and Mrs. Hackett have three children. One son, Chester, lives in Tacoma, Wash., another son, Jay, in Kearney, and a daughter, Hazel, Mrs. John Laeger, in Marrsland. There are eight grand children in the family, three boys and five girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Hackett have boarders in their home most of the time. They also raise chickens and otherwise keep busy. Both are members of the Methodist church.

Ord Girl Honored

Karen Smets, Ord, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Smets and a sophomore in the University of Nebraska, was one of 350 women honored at a scholarship tea, Sunday.

The tea was sponsored by the University of Nebraska Mortar Boards.

Another sophomore woman to be thus honored was Mary Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Thompson, of Lincoln, formerly of Ord.

Lucigrace Switzer, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Switzer, of Grand Island, formerly of Noth Loup, sophomore, received recognition.

In the communities surrounding Ord, were named Joan Hawthorne, a senior of Burwell; Ellen Jacobsen, St. Paul; and Mary Sokol, Loup City; both sophomores, were honored.

Io de Janeiro a Riot of Color at Carnival

cers Gain Lift 3-Day Carouse Sniffing Ether

By Ernie Weller

ONTEVIDEO, Uruguay. — This noon at 1:30 p.m., our party led Pan America's Big DC 6 Interamericano," for a 7-hour at to Brazil and Rio de Janeiro. is a beautiful day with crystal ar visibility.

The captain of the flight tells us e weather forecast is good and at we can expect a pleasurable ght.

n time to time he will call ention to things of interest. ll sit back and relax, gaping windows, to see what we e.

ip is still gaining altitude 1,000 feet we level off as of the four great motors down to a rhythmic hum.

airways are perfectly and as if borne on a mag- et, a wonderland of charm eauty is spread out beneath s we fly over the gently rol- farm lands of Uruguay.

For two hours it is an unending anorama of contrasting greens, asslands, orchards, vineyards and rest, with now and then a stream meandering down toward the sea.

We have been fliyng inland for past two hours, but now we are the Atlantic ocean, parallel- the southernmost boundaries Brazil, the Province of Rio ande Do Sul.

All along the coast we see small ands with a rich, rank growth of ple green.

e fly for about three more s, intermittently over the ocean then over the irregular boun- es of Brazil as they jut out to he sun is setting now but in a ngely different direction than are accustomed to, as we are th of the equator.

As the last rays of a setting sun de into the shades of approach- g night, we discern beneath us an island, "ILHA dos Porcos Grande," or island of the Big Pigs.

A little latter, we are over Baia de Ilha Grande, then over Ilha Grande itself, a rugged highpeaked rock more than 15 miles across.

The signals, "Fasten Your Belts, Please"—"No Smoking," are flashed on the signal board, our ship begins lowering slowly, starting a long flat glide down from the 12,000-foot cruising altitude we have been mantaining.

The captain tells us he is planning to come in over the hills behind Rio, with only two or three thousand feet beneath him, so we may all have a good view.

Now we cut inland across a peninsula, about 30 miles wide, which is bounded on one side by the wide South Atlantic and on the other by Rio's magnificent Baia de Guanabara.

Rio de Janeiro is a breathtaking sight in the darkness below—glittering like diamonds on a jeweler's black velvet tray—lying in a site unparalleled in the entire world.

The bay itself might be likened to the palm of your hand if it were held cupped, with fingers and thumb pointing upward.

Your fingers would represent the sharp peaks. The flat of your palm is the bay.

The city itself is built around the bay, so that in the dark it looks like jeweled rings at the base of each finger. Standing guard at the mouth of the bay is the thumb —famed "Pao de Azucar" (Sugar Loaf Mountain.)

Your fingers represent peaks, such as 'Dos Hermanos" (The two brothers), "Coreovado" (The Hunchback), surmounted by a 130-foot statue of Christ (Christ The Redeemer) arms outstretched, watching over the city, so realistic that by a faint stretch of imagination you could hear him speak, "Peace be with you" — and dozens of lesser peaks and hills.

The bay itself — large enough to hold all the navies in the world, deep enough to hide even the hills over which we are passing — is studded with a thousand ships, sloops and fishing vessels, their lights casting reflections upon the water in myriad colors.

Now we are slipping down towards the airport over a broad expanse of low buildings, homes and open flat areas — and then another stretch of gleaming bay. Our plane wheels thump gently on the runway.

We are in Rio!

Although closely crowded by Sao Paulo, Rio de Janeiro is still the largest city in Brazil, with a population (they told us) of two and three-quarter millions of people.

It is the capital of Brazil as well as the port of entry of the greatest shipping center of Latin America.

The attractive business and residential streets, the well planned drives skirting the water front along the bay, the tropical parks and the towering, modern buildings, all proclaim a splendid metropolis worthy of its superlative beauty and the natural surroundings.

Many of Rio's avenues are broad and tree-shaded, and have patterned mosaic sidewalks.

Rio is famous for its fast-moving night life and its pleasant beach activities. Copacabana Beach is world renowned as a resort and playground of the wealthy.

This latter statement was well proven to us — as our tour arrangements called for lodging at the famous Copacobana Hotel — but as we approached Rio our tour directors informed us that due to carnival and a shortage of rooms at all leading hotels, our reservations at the Copocabana had been transferred to the Novo Mundo on Flamingo Beach.

Up to now, we had prided ourselves in the fact that our every landing in South American cities had been photographed and publicized on the front pages of their newspapers.

However on this occasion, the morning papers disclosed that we and our photographs had been relegated to the back page, while prominently on the front page were the pictures of Hollywood actors and actresses who had flown down, to participate in the Mayor's Ball, a highlite of carnival.

The culminating event in the amusement calendar of the country is the four-day, pre-lenten maelstrom of music, color, and animation that is carnival in Rio.

From Saturday to the Tuesday before Ash Wednesday, the city is transformed into a combination playground, ballroom and, I dare say, insane asylum.

The whole population comes out on the streets where there is continuous dancing; literally thousands of small orchestras with homemade instruments, parade through the streets with scores of tireless dancers, all gayly costumed, in their wake.

In preparation for carnival, native song writers submit music, which is played over radio stations and from music stores.

By popular vote, similar to our hit parade programs, a selection is made each season. Once this is done, it is publicized by press, radio and orchestra until everyone has it committed to memory.

During carnival time, it is unlawful for any native "Carioca," as they are called, to use, or have on his person intoxicating liquor.

In violation of this regulation, he is tossed into the "clink," there to remain until carnival is over, after which time he is released.

As nearly 100 hours of continuous dancing can become physically enervating — some sort of stimulation is desirable to successfully complete the marathon.

This is well taken care of by the use of "ether bombs" (resembling in appearance "insecticide bombs" we use).

If one of the participants grows weary, he reaches for his "ether bomb," saturates his handkerchief with ether, takes about three deep "whiffs" of it — his eyes glistening, his head up, and he's off again, far, far, far into the night.

The smell provided by a combination of the highly perfumed ether and the resultant body odors of the perspiring participants is not within my capabilities of description.

In the upper strata of society, the crowning event of carnival is "The Mayor's Ball." This is held at the "Teatro Municipal," or opera house. As admission to this event was $20.00 a person, we contented ourselves with a $5.00 vantage point located near the two-block-long prominade leading to the theatre entrance.

It was for this event that our friends from Hollywood's movie colony had flown down to attend. The delegation included Irene Dunn, Rhoda Flemming, Joan Fontaine, Janet Gaynor, June Havor, Jeanette McDonald, Ann Miller, Jane Powell, Barbara Rusch, Robert Cummings, Jeffrey Hunter, Fred MacMurray, Walter Pidgeon, Gene Raymond, Edward G. Robinson and executives Collier Young, Mervyn LeRoy and dress designer Gilbert Adrian.

To the mayor's ball, all men wore conventional evening dress —their ladies all in gay costumes representative of anything from an ostrich to an infuriated wildcat.

What took place at the ball afterwards—we weren't in on.

On the evening before the last day of the carnival, they hold a large parade.

Although it embraced many beautiful floats, I am proud to write that both Mrs. Weller and myself have seen many to equal their best during "Hay Days" in Atkinson.

The general meeting . . . Edward Kokes (far left) advances his views to stockholders

Fair Dissolution Move Loses Wed. 28 to 23

Loup Valley Agricultural Society stockholders Wednesday voted 28 to 23 against dissolving the corporation.

Presumably that means the society will attempt to hold a Valley county fair again this year.

At least that was the general tone of the special meeting called to discuss and vote upon dissolution.

The meeting drew 30 stockholders and three or four spectators.

The close tally came at the conclusion of a two hour discussion in which members alternately praised or "shot at" fair administration.

The discussion jelled but quit altogether when President Clare Clement and Board Member Ernie Horner both stood up to say:

"The board feels it has done the best job it can. We will be glad to give our stock, (two $100 shares), to anyone who'll come forward to sit on the board."

That ended it. A move to adjourn followed.

Earlier Attorney Clarence Davis ruled the membership vote could not dissolve the fair society.

Vote Only Poll

He said the board, following the ballot, could start steps to dissolve but the membership vote was only a "straw" poll as far as legality was concerned.

Following Davis' ruling the pro and con talk started. Here are a few of the pertinent comments:

Edward Kokes: "There's no reason the present fair buildings should sit idle all year. We could move the fair to the city park. I suggest the fair be reorganized into a 4-H show."

Harry Bresley: "Don't believe reorganization will do any good. Even if we started new there are few people interested."

A. J. Auble: "Ord depends on agriculture. We should have more emphasis on farm-city public relations. We need more emphasis on 4-H work. Maybe fair could be reorganized into 4-H show with 4-H talent. Let's let professional talent go. A live wire county agent would help a lot."

Evet Smith: "We've been promised help from a lot of organizations but to date few of them have 'stayed hitched.' Big promotions killed fair."

Rump session . . . Meeting attenders gather for head to head talk following adjournment.

Ernest Coats: "I will donate my stock to any sound move. In addition I will allow use of three acres for a show site. I have ground along highway."

Lloyd Geweke: "We know the Ord business men will back a fair if it's put on around the square. North Loup does fine with Popcorn Days."

Edgar Roe: "Why disband? Why not everybody get together and push for the success of the present fair setup?"

Ernest Lange: "The present fair grounds is an eyesore. It would be better if we sold out and let the site be used for Ord industry or home subdivisions."

Clare Clement: "A good live wire fair secretary did a lot for other fairs."

All old directors were reelected.

Hospital Reports $9,000 Deficit in 11 Months for '54

Losses Include All Charge-off From 2 Previous Years

Thirty-seven stockholders Thursday heard Board President Henry Lange report the Ord Co-Operative Hospital lost about $9,000 last year.

Lange, basing his report on an auditor's statement from Jan. to Nov. in '54, said receipts were $61,097. Disbursements, direct costs and administrative expenses over the same period were $70,371.

Lange explained some of the loss resulted from help hired this year. Two nurse's aides have been added to the staff. They were hired, Lange said, in order to have two women on duty all night.

Accounts Charged Off

Another $2,970, Lane said, was "old" accounts charged off. "Of course we still may collect these," he said, "but auditors believed the accounts were too old to carry as an asset."

The rest of the loss is reflected in a shrinking cash reserve which dwindled from $3,500 on hand last year to a $700 overdraft this year.

Apparently the hospital has some difficulty collecting 100 per per cent. Lange said this year's report showed $6,511 in accounts receivable. Then he added, ". . . we carry about $3,000 on the books from month to month."

Despite the dim view presented by the auditor's statement Lange said credit losses are not excessive.

"Since we've started we've lost about $7,000 from a $300,000 gross. That's less than three percent, a figure well in line with any business," he said.

He added: "Most of our losses have been from strangers who come to Ord for short visits. Or they are accident victims who arrive, are treated, and then leave never to be heard of again. One particular bill, we've been trying to collect, has come back from four diferent addresses."

"Yet", he explained, "we do not deny these people treatment. They are hurt or they are ill, and they need care. We take them in."

Nash Is Asset

There were some bright spots in the report, Lange said. Administrator Les Nash has earned the hospital about $3,000 as an anaesthetist.

"So in effect we have Mr. Nash's services as an administrator for a very small figure," he pointed out.

He also praised John Sullivan who does legal work for the hospital free.

Stockholders were told rates would increase $1 a day, February 1.

"Based on 3,370 patient days last year the $1 more will help meet some of the increased expense. Still our rates will be even with other area hospitals," Lange said.

He also reported on progress of the new organization which is seeking to help the hospital keep even by changing it to non-profit.

Non-Profit Needed

"Unless we change to non profit," Lange said, "we'll soon have more expense under a federal law which will raise wages to 90c an hour minimum. In addition we have to get ourselves into shape where we can become eligible for more donations," he said.

He reported the new group has 60 per cent of the old stock now with more to come.

"The new organization, although it has existed only three or four months, has already received $900 in cash donations and we expect still more," Lange said.

Stockholders apparently believed present officers are capable. Following a plea from one who said, ". . . let's reelect the old officers so they can complete this changeover." The three retiring officers were renamed.

Nash's Report

Administrator Les Nash's report said:

The hospital listed 3,370 patient days last year. It had 589 admissions for regular patients and 170 outpatients.

Of the 859, 171 were obstetrical patients, 200 were for minor surgery, and 129 underwent major surgery. About 359 patients were hospitalized for medical care.

The outpatient figure, 170, included 70 for lab tests, 44 medications, 23 tooth extractions, 18 for casts and x-rays and 15 minor accident victims.

Total patients treated reached 1,029. In '53 the figure was 912.

One hundred and fifty nine children, (88 girls, 68 boys, three stillbirths), were born last year.

There were 16 adult deaths, Nash said.

Following the meeting the three re-elected directors, Lange, Cliff Goodrich, North Loup, and Floyd Beranek and the rest of the board met.

Lange was again named president, Orel Koelling vice president and Almond Brox secretary treasurer.

Seven Service Organizations Gear Membership to Dimes Campaign

Over 100 persons will open the '55 polio campaign here Thursday night with a door to door march starting at 7 p.m.

Seven service organizations will lend the march emphasis. They are Rotary, American Legion and Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliary, and the Business and Professional Women's club. Cosmos will undertake a battle of dimes later this month.

Representatives from six of the above met with City Chairman Bill Lee for last minute march instructions Tuesday. Ord has been divided into six general areas.

Rotary will work business firms and employees. The VFW will work the entire third ward. The first ward will be split between the VFW, Auxiliary and BPW with the second ward split between the American Legion and Auxiliary.

The door to door campaign will probably be polio's biggest effort here Lee indicated. He said, other than the Cosmos' street battle, there were no other special promotions.

In the country the campaign was well underway with schools, farm solicitors lending help. Some reports have started to trickle in so far.

Here are a few:

RURAL SCHOOLS: District 45, $3; Dist. 31, $6.40; Dist. 71, $2.10; Dist. 73, $20.01; Dist. 30, $40.

CITY SCHOOLS: Ord grade school, $47.69; Ord high school, $37.36.

ORD TOWNSHIP: Adrian Remington, chm. Emanuel Vodehnal, $6.00.

Oil Boom Hopes Vanish as Firms Drop Land Leases

Apparently Valley county's hoped-for oil boom will never develop.

County Clerk Leonard Woods said Wednesday five large oil firms have dropped county oil leases, 85 of them within the last week.

The latest was the Ohio Oil Co. of Findley, Ohio, who relinquished holdings on sizable acreages in the southwestern section of Valley county.

Other companies who have dropped leases within the last year are the Texas Co., Cities Service, Bay Petroleum and Shell Oil.

The Imperial Products Corporation, another oil firm, still has some leases in effect.

Most of the leases were negotiated for 25c per acre, per year. Some, in more favorable sections, were as high as 50c per acre and a few were given for $1 per acre.

Most of the leases were secured during a minor oil activity wave here in 1952. One well was drilled, on the Valla farm, and that was a duster.

Bartlett House Sells

The house at 48 No. 17th st., owned by the late Mrs. Will Bartlett, was sold the last of the week to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wozniak. Mr. and Mrs. Wozniak plan to move to the home after a sale at their farm. The sale price was $5500.

The house was just advertised in Quiz want ads and sold as soon as the paper came out—a record for speed.

The relatives of Mrs. Bartlett plan to hold a sale of her personal effects soon.

Rescue Unit Goes on Display Here

Firemen Will Explain Equipment Use; Group Gives $10.00 to Fund

The Ord rescue unit, resplendent in new signs and a shining coat of white paint, will go on public display here Saturday.

The unit will be set up on the square. Firemen will be on hand to answer questions about equipment.

Yet to be purchased is one piece of machinery. That's a Porta-Power jack capable of expanding a crushed car body or lifting heavy loads in case a driver, or accident victim, is pinned.

Firemen said the jack will probably be the last piece of equipment added.

Meanwhile the fund was boosted to $1,034 this week with a $10.42 gift from the Loup Valley Community Concert Ass'n.

The association was a going concern in Ord several years ago booking several noted artists here. But interest waned and the organization died.

To close out the association's treasury the $10.42 was given to the rescue unit by Treasurer James Ollis.

Arcadia Ponders Try at Supporting Visit for Bloodmobile Unit

Will Consult Red Cross Officers on Visit Possibility

Arcadia, (pop. 500) a small Valley county village with large sense of responsibility, is currently wondering:

"Can we support a Red Cross Bloodmobile visit?"

The question popped out at Tuesday's meeting of the Arcadia Community club held in the Arcadia hotel.

Under the sponsorship of Carl Easterbrook, who brought the topic up, business men mulled the question for perhaps an hour, then agreed to consult Red Cross officers.

Enthusiasm High

And judging from enthusiasm, the Community clubbers just might get the project accomplished.

Here's what faces the club:

For a successful visit the Red Cross bloodmobile must collect 150 pints of blood.

To get 150 pints, 192 volunteer donors are needed. The margin takes care of rejects.

And to get 192 signers nearly 250 people must be asked.

Are 250 Willing?

Can you find 250 people willing to donate blood in a community 500? Can Arcadia get a job big accomplished.

It can, Mr. Easterbrook believes with the help of surrounding farmers and strong support from the town.

Anyway he is going to give the idea the old college try.

During the bloodmobile discussion Dr. Moss, an Arcadia physician and surgeon, said Arcadians have a civic responsibility to replace some of the blood they have used from the blood bank.

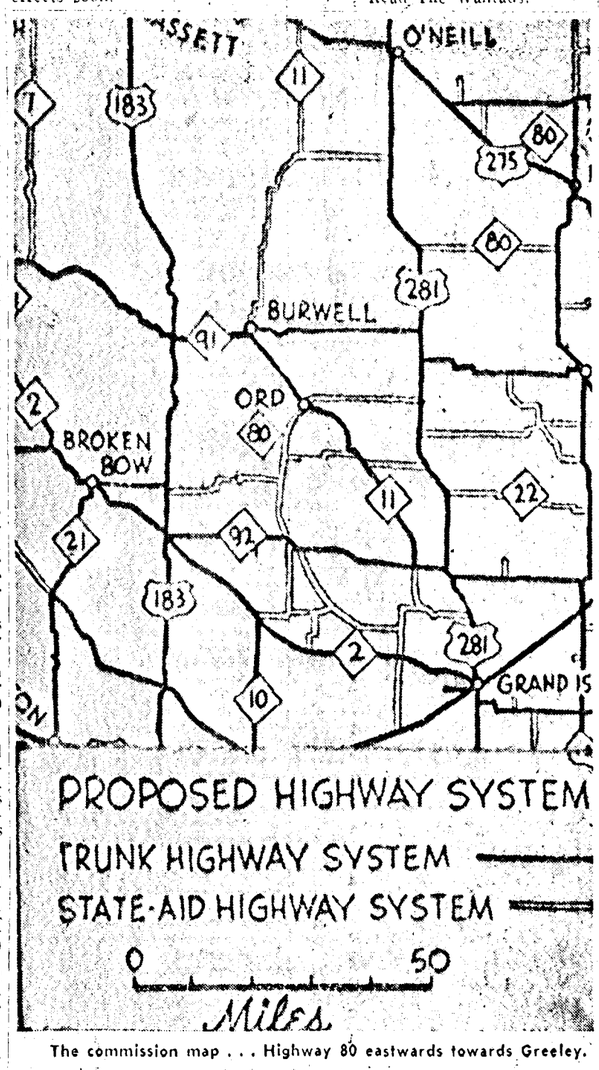
Idea Good: Moss

And the doctor believes the bloodmobile visit idea good. He said:

"We've tried to aid the Ord bloodmobile visit several times but it was disheartening to drive 23 miles and then find the bank so crowded you couldn't get in. Here we wouldn't have to wait," he said.

In other business the Community clubbers heard nominations for new officers then sat down to witness a film on Nebraska highways.

Bert Sell, Highway 80 proponent, talked on highways summing up with the remark, "The wheel that squeaks the loudest gets the most grease. That's the way it is on highways too. So we are going to make some noise!"



The commission map . . . Highway 80 eastwards towards Greeley.

Highway Commission Move to Run 80 East

The state advisory highway commission, in a string of major road proposals, has recommended Highway 80 go straight east from Ord to connect with Highway 281 near Greeley.

The present route of 80 is northeast towards Erieson then east to where it joins 281 south of Bartlett.

The commission proposal (see map legend) places 80 in the state aid highway system.

State Senator LeRoy Bahensky was here Saturday checking reception of the proposal. The Ord chamber of commerce committee will meet this week to study the move. If it okays the idea the committee will write Senator Bahensky.

Chamber President Bill Lee said he would talk to Arcadia business men Tuesday on the same proposal. If Arcadians approve they too may write a letter of okay to the senator.

In submitting recommendations the state highway commission suggested the legislature adopt a single state highway system with no breakdown between trunk and state aid roads.

The map sent to the legislature Wednesday includes 6,235 miles of suggested trunk highways and 3,095 miles of secondary or state-aid roads.

John Hossack, chief of the highway department's program and planning division, said every city of more than one thousand population and every important military installation would be on a trunk highway and there would be at least one trunk highway in each county.

Following are some of the major construction projects contemplated in the highway commission recommendations. Mr. Hossack stressed that it might be years before some of these are carried out.

Pair Win $53,000

Tom and Lela Connelly of Broken Bow have been awarded $53,319 by a Grand Island federal court jury for fire and explosion damage to Tom's Pastime in Dec., 1952.

The suit was brought against the Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Company. The jury deliberated six hours.

In their original suit, the Connellys had asked for a total of $72,193.56.

They alleged during the trial, which lasted two weeks, that damage was caused by an explosion from a gas water heater. Judge John Delehant presided at the trial.

Ordites Use Car Window As Gauge for Temperatures

Ordites knew temperatures reached zero Sunday without consulting the thermometer.

As one told a reporter, "I knew it was pretty cold when I saw Quiz Publisher Gene Leggett had the driver's window up in his car."

The zero reading Sunday was the coldest experienced here this year. The year's previous lows were six and seven degrees above.

The chill developed in the wake of two snows. Thursday one half inch fell with four tenths more following Friday. A trace fell Monday.

The fall wasn't heavy enough to slow traffic but it did make highway travel precarious. And it coated one hill side enough to be used for sledding by children.

Police guarded the sledding area with barricades and a stationed patrol car at the peak time about 5 p.m.

Here are the week's readings:

Thursday 27-21. Friday 27-13. Saturday 26-12. Sunday 34-0. Monday 32-34. Tuesday 27-11. Wednesday morning 18.

Precipitation reports for '55 show .52 inches of moisture. For 54 the figure, the same date was .14 inches.

Firemen Offer Dance Next Tuesday Night

Firemen will offer the annual Smokeater's Ball here next Tuesday, night Febr. 1, in Bohemian hall with Bobby Mills furnishing the music.

The dance will get underway at nine o'clock. Midway festivities include a grand march set for 10 p.m.

Committees started the sale of tickets Wednesday. Admission is $1 per person.

Proceeds from the dance are used to bolster the firemen's fund.

One Case Filed

One case was filed in district court this week.

It is a partition of real estate filed by Oscar Swayze et al against Irene White and others.

Oops; We're Sorry.

The Quiz owes an apology to Ord druggist, Ed Beranek.

Bill Lee, talking to Mr. Beranek about a coming Rotary program Monday, thought he heard Ed say, ". . . I'm giving the program in honor of my 29th anniversary."

The story caused some merriment down around the Beranek drug store following publication.

Particularly since Beranek's son, Floyd, is nearly 37.

The Quiz is happy to set the record straight.

Mr. Beranek's Monday program is in honor of his 29th anniversary of joining Rotary. And he has never missed a meeting.

Short Check Charge Costly to Miscreant

August Piel, of Lexington, was returned to jail here this week to await payment of fines and costs of $57.80.

Piel was charged and convicted of issuing a short fund check to Emil Kokes.

Piel was fined $10 and ordered to make the $10 check good. He was also assessed $23.80 in mileage and sheriff fees and $14 costs.

Three Breeders to Sell Polled Herefords

Three Valley county farmers will auction combine lots in a purebred Polled Hereford sale at the W. O. Zangger farm Wednesday, Feb. 9.

The sale will start at one o'clock in a heated barn.

The 38 lots offered at the auction are owned by Wilbur Zangger, Bud Knapp and Cecil Severance. All are well known stock breeders here.

The Zangger farm is eight and one half miles south of Ord on Highway 11 or four and one half miles north of North Loup on the same highway.

Former Supervisor Buried in Lincoln

Ben Hackel Rites Held Monday; Was Public Figure Here

Funeral services were held in Lincoln, Monday for Ben Hackel, 81, who died there Thursday. His home was in Lincoln the past 10 years.

Previously, Mr. and Mrs. Hackel made Valley county their home. They lived on a farm 10 miles south of Ord. It is now occupied by the Paul Zentz family.

Mr. Hackel and his wife, the former Augusta Waldorf, celebrated their 55th anniversary Sept. 20.

He served on the Valley county board of supervisors for several years. He also was on township boards and with other civic groups.

He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Mrs. Hazel Hubbard and Mrs. Marjorie Hayer, all of Lincoln; a brother, E. O. Hackel, Ord; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Bredthauer, Grand Island; Mrs. Katie Marks, and Miss Louise Hackel, Ord.

Mrs. Bredthauer, Mrs. Marks and Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Hackel attended the funeral Monday. They returned home Tuesday evening.

Peterson Considers Assess Date Change

State Senator Ken Peterson, of Sargent, this week told the Quiz he is considering the introduction of an amendment to LB 151 which fixes dates for assessing.

Senator Peterson said he is mulling an amendment which would set the date for Jan. 1.

"I believe," he said, "it would be more convenient for business men and private individuals to figure the personal property schedule at the same time they figure their federal income tax."

Band At Play

The Ord high school band will play three numbers at the Junior class play Friday night in the school auditorium.

Musicmen will offer, Shu-Boom, No Name and Men of Ohio.

License Sale Run Behind Last Year

License plates sales in the offices of County Treasurer Lloyd Wilson are running behind last year.

The sales figure this week is 1,918. Last year at this time clerks had sold 2,172. The lag is 224.

Motorists have until Feb. 15 at midnight to buy plates. After that date state highway patrolmen and police will arrest violators.

But midnight Feb. 15 means 5 p.m. in Treasurer's office. The office closes then. Feb. 15 is Tuesday.

Ak-Sar-Ben County Fair Aid Reaches $100,000 Figure

Ak-Sar-Ben's cash contributions, from its racing revenues for the assistance of Nebraska county fairs, were in excess of $100,000 for the first time last year, it was announced at the county fair managers convention last week.

Seventy-three counties shared in Ak-Sar-Ben's newest project. Cash grants, totaling $36,315 for permanent improvements, were given all fairs willing to match Ak-Sar-Ben's contributions.

In Valley county a fund of $1,000 has been set aside for future fair improvements. The money must be matched.

Special premiums paid by Ak-Sar-Ben to 4-H and FFA exhibitors at Nebraska county fairs totaled $20,759, the largest amount distributed in any one year.

Valley county received $659.

Minor Blaze Damages 'Bud' Martin Home

A home occupied by the "Bud" Martin family suffered smoke damage in a minor blaze Monday night about 5:45 p.m.

Mrs. Martin was frying meat for supper and the grease ignited.

Erwin Iwanski removed the blazing skillet outside. Damage was confined to smoke, Fire Chief Rich Rowbal reported.

Cut in Fall

Tom Borovka, 73, received minor cut about his face Saturday, when he fell at the Jack and Jill store. He was cared for by Dr. Paul Martin. Mr. Borovka by mistake opened the door to the cellar instead of an outside door. He lives north of the Catholic church.

Valley county . . . the heavy black lines are miles of heavy gravel.

Valley County Road Map Shows Road Committee Effort for Past Year Here

Valley county roads received 24,345 yards of gravel last year, the road committee bookkeeper Almond Brox reported this week.

Mr. Brox said the cost was $34,931, which came from the county road funds, and $7,499 which came from Schroeder mail route funds.

The standard rate of gravel application is 300 yards to the mile, Brox said.

"And that's the standard we use in Valley county," he added.

Roads shown in heavy black lines represent miles with the 300 yard per mile gravel application.

Roads shown in medium black lines are regular county and state maintained roads.

Roads shown in medium black lines, accompanied by a dotted line represent the county roads given spot applications of gravel.

Roads shown by a broken line only are township roads that have had some spot gravel applications this year.

Novel Stunt Sparks Chant-Albion Game

Full of enthusiasm for the Ord-Albion basketball game Friday eveing at Albion, Ordettes held a pep rally that afternoon.

Following band music and cheers elder girls staged an original stunt.

Members of the basketball team were called to the floor. Each was requested to call a girl from the audience. The mistress of ceremonies then explained if the team won, chosen girls would do whatever the boys asked Monday and Tuesday. If the team lost the boys would do bidding of the girls.

Chores were mostly preparations of lessons. But there were also menial tasks of shining shoes, carrying books, and even singing a song, or providing dinners and cokes.

The team won.

Flyboy Sprayers to Get Job Pointers

The Fourth Annual Short Course for Aerial Applicators is planned for February 8 and 9, at the Cornhusker Hotel, Lincoln.

The two day course is designed for pilots who are engaged in aerial dusting, spraying, seeding and fertilizing.

Railroad Theme Used by Cubs

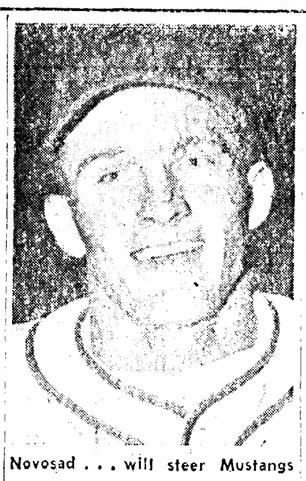
The January meeting of the cub scout dens, with leaders and parents, was held Monday evening in the grade school building.

The theme for the month is railroading. The program started when cubs entered the room in imitation of a train. The flag salute was given and two songs were sung.

Bobby Sevenker and Jimmie Williams conducted a flag ceremony.

Dens 1, 2 and 3, showed trains and engines they had made from boxes. Den 4 gave signals trainmen use while on duty. As a further part of the program, two film strips on railroading were shown.

The awards were given by the cubmaster, Tom Williams. Bobcat pins were won by Mike Sullivan, Charles Kriewald and Donald Edghill; bear badge, Allen Cetak; service stars, Jimmie Williams and Jimmie Clement.



Novosad . . . will steer Mustangs

Bud Novosad Named Ord Mustang Pilot

Former Catcher Gets Meeting Okay; Only Sunday Games Planned

Bud Novosad former Mustang catcher, Friday was named manager of the Ord diamond nine for '55.

Novosad will replace the former manager, Rolly Johnson, who resigned.

Novosad was named at the annual baseball meeting Friday in the Veteran's club. He will receive no salary. Expense will be allowed.

Bud's hiring was the high spot of the meeting. In other business the club agreed to arrange a one-game-per-week schedule. The game will be played Sundays.

That means the Mustangs will be home every other Sunday.

The move depends on what reaction it receives from other teams. Directors here felt the Wednesday games lost money. Sunday tilts were generally box office "fat," they said.

In other elections Dan Dilla was named president to succeed Junior Niemeyer. Dick Beran was elected vice president and Harold Christensen was reelected secretary treasurer.

Glen Beerline, Ray Falter and Rolly Johnson were elected directors.

Treasurer Christensen's report indicated the Mustangs finished in the black. Aiding the credit side of the ledger was a whopping $612 gate July 4, and a $200 gift from the Ord park board.

Here is the complete report:

Chants Nip Albion 59 to 55 Friday

Romans Carries Hot Streak into Third Game; Leads Scoring

The Chants edged past Albion last Friday in a contest marked by the most Big Red hustle this season. Ord won 59-55.

Albion captured the edge in the first quarter 17-22 but were overhauled at the half 32-28. By three quarter time the Chants still were in front 47-46. They then went on to win 59-55.

Romans, carrying his hitting streak into the third game, led the scoring with 15. Lynn Nelson fouled out in the third period shortly after the half started.

Ridgeway was high man for Albion with 22.

The Chants converted 17 of 28 free throws.

Chants Notch 2nd Win Over Ravenna

Push Victory String to Seasonal Five with 55 to 45 Edge Tuesday

Ord registered its fifth seasonal win here Tuesday night by-passing Ravenna for the second time this season. The Chants held the top edge 55 to 45

So far the Chant records book shows they've won five and lost 4. Gothenburg, Loup City, Minden and St. Paul have beaten the local five. In turn the Chants have bested Ravenna 2, Albion, David City and Broken Bow.

In Tuesday's mix Nelson returned to some of his early form. Coach Bill Gogan used 15 men as Ord held a 42-27 third quarter edge.

Nelson potted 14 points. He was held for two field goals but converted 10 of 12 free throws.

Falter and Clark were apparently best from the layup and corner. Each managed four field goals.

ARCADIA...

Polio Fund Enriched by $182 When "Female" Basketball Team Measures Legion Court Five

Arcadia opened its '55 drive for the March of Dimes with a slam bang promotion last week in the high school auditorium.

Chairman Mrs. Dorothea Mettenbrink said the effort yielded $182.04.

About 200 persons attended the three hour entertainment.

The promotion opened with a basketball game between the Community Pot Shots, (a psuedo ladies' team), and the American Legion.

The Pot Shotters won the contest mainly by the ingenuity of Forward Arnold Tuning who kept Legionaires from scoring by thrusting a broom handle through the Legion hoop.

Pot Shotters were in "ladies" costumes for the game. The costumes ranged back to 1900 styles.

A harmonica contest, won by Art Easterbook, followed.

Other entertainment highlights were more basketball, Huskies vs. Legionaires, stunts, and musical pantomimes by three high schoolers aided and abetted by Virg Bugbee the high school superintendent.

Virg played the part of a hillbilly mother in a costume which had the audience guessing identity.

The skits were followed by an accordion band, a boy's quartet and a film.

Three prominent business men were nicked for stiff fines when hauled before a kangaroo court. Insurance Man Kermit Erickson probably paid the most. Kermit forked over $50 after being found guilty for "inattention to polio."

Other fines were Rudy Mettenbrink $10, John Kamiski $5, Helen Tuning $5 and Art Easterbrook $5. Door admissions and scout refreshment efforts yielded the other $107 of the $182 total.

Other donations from Arcadia this week listed Town and Country Aid $100, and the IOOF lodge 174 $10.

Will Help Polio

Rebekah lodge held its regular meeting Wednesday evening at the IOOF Hall with Jean Beck noble grand. All members are urged to attend the next meeting, February 2. Plans are being made to have a special party with all proceeds to go to polio. Mrs. Mary McDonald and Mrs. Maude Myers served lunch.

Club Nixes Bills

Mrs. Keith Dorsey and Mrs. Kenneth Dorsey were hostesses for American Legion auxiliary, Monday afternoon at the Legion hall. A box filled with useful and necessary household articles was presented to Mrs. Gene Haddix, whose home was recently destroyed by fire.

Polio Gets $62.00

The Legion auxiliary sponsored a bake sale at the Arcadia hotel Saturday. Donuts, pie and coffee were served throughout the day. Receipts of the day were $62.00, which was donated to the March of Dimes.

Congregational church will meet Thursday afternoon in the church basement. Mrs. Carol Lutz and Mrs. Goodson will be hostesses for the afternoon.

Pinochle will be played, Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. F. Mettenbrink.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Holeman of Westerville were Saturday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Holeman.

Cpl. and Mrs. Donald Bossen of Ft. Benning, Ga. left Thursday for Georgia after visiting relatives here the past two weeks.

A large group attended the oyster fellowship supper, Tuesday, January 18, when the Methodist men entertained ladies. A short program was held.

Ord Girl Students Enlist to Aid Quiz

The vocational homemaking class of the Ord high school, with 74 other in Nebraska, are taking part in research, said Miss Mary Ann Buck, head of the home economics department.

The girls are studying questionairés, called Mooney tests. The tests are sent out from the University of Nebraska. Girls are also taking the Minnesota personality tests.

The questions are centered around early marriage and the effect on home life.

The university is trying to discover the problems and satisfaction girls who marry at 18 or under, find in marriage, in contrast to girls who marry at 19 or over.

Under the plan the homemaking teacher will report at two year periods on girls who marry under the age of 19.

Three years later the same girls will be quizzed from Lincoln and will be asked opinions of early marriage and what has been gained or lost by marrying early.

The girls who marry later, after 19, will also be asked the same questions.

Comparisons will then be made. Participation is voluntary.

It is hoped through the research that an increased understanding concerning marriage will be brought out, and passed on to other students who contemplate marriage while attending high school.

The research is being conducted by Mrs. Rhea Keeler, assistant professor of vocational education and Kenneth L. Cannon, associate professor of family relations.

Fire Marshal Lists Four Main Fire Causes at BPW

"Most fires start from four causes," said Jeff Banta, deputy state fire marshal of Hastings. Mr. Banta was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Ord Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday evening.

He listed the causes as (1) Careless smoking; (3) poor housekeeping (3) Poor wiring, and (4) Over confidence.

In explaining the last Banta said never to hesitate to call the fire department.

He said too many times people think the fire is too small. Many believe they are able to cope with the blaze themselves.

He said the most important article in every home is a fire extinguisher. "Everyone should know how to use the extinguisher," he said, "because every man, woman or child is a potential fire hazard."

During the last year, there were 41 serious fires in Nebraska. In the nation during '54 40,000 to 50,000 persons were injured and between 14,000 and 16,000 persons were burned to death. Twenty-three per cent of these were children under school age.

Mr. Banta stressed fighting fires is everyone's business. He said many persons know little about fires and causes, and he asked for a better organization to increase fire consciousness.

Mr. Banta was introduced by the Ord Fire Chief Richard Rowbal. Mr. Rowbal thanked the club for the contribution given for the crash fund.

Mrs. Roland Norman, chairman of traffic safety, told work she and her assistants are doing in Ord.

Mrs. Merle Ries, vice president, presided. During the business session plans were made to take part in the polio march, Thursday evening.

Hostesses were Mrs. Dora Hodgson and Mrs. Jack Romans. Small fire trucks and other fire fighting equipment were used as table decorations.

Miss Sharon Hastings was a guest, other than Mr. Banta and Mr. Rowbal.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Noll . . . courtesy guests of Palmetto, Florida.

Bob Nolls 'Under Arrest' in Florida

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Noll, prominent business people of Ord, were "arrested" Jan. 18, enroute to Palmetto, Fla. The Nolls are taking a vacation trip through Florida.

Writing to Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Davis of the experience Mrs. Noll said they were accosted by two patrolmen and told to pull to the side of the road.

Protesting the Nolls did so and were told they were "under arrest." With a policeman in front and one in the back the Nolls were taken to the city hall.

There they were told that they were the guests of the city police for the day and night as courtesy guests from Nebraska.

Mrs. Noll said:

"We are in "custody." We got curbed by the police this morning, fined and our car taken away. Now we are guests of the police today and tonight.

"They sentenced us to all these things:

"Lunch with the chief and deputy; a seafood dinner in the Marine room with the president of the junior chamber of commerce and his wife; a box of candy from the Sea Horse; a bouquet of glads; a car wash; a tour of the city; two big bags of citrus fruits; membership in the chamber of commerce for a year; subscription to the local paper for six months; motel for today and tonight. Everything was free as courtesy guests of the town.

"We wished Ord friends could have been along to help with the sea food platter at the Marine Room. And we had our first hush puppies."

Six Ordites Attend Kearney VFW Meet

Six Ordites, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Zulkoski, Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Osentowski and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Apking attended the Mid-Winter conference and council of administration meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and auxiliary in Kearney Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Zulkoski is a district commander of the VFW in an area comprising seven counties. Osentowski is a past state commander.

Featured speakers at the meeting were Rev. Tom Barton, National Chaplain of the VFW and Mrs. Agnes Holtz, national president of the VFW Auxiliary. While in Kearney the Ordites secured a promise from Rev. Barton to be the Memorial Day speaker in Ord in 1956 This year Rev. Barton will give the address at Arlington cemetery.

To Move To Lincoln

Mrs. Willis T. Spelts, the former Frances Bradt, daughter of Archie Bradt and sister of Mrs. John LaCornu and Mrs. Lores McMindes, all of Ord, has bought a home in Lincoln and plans to move there from North Platte, early in the spring. Mrs. Spelts' husband died suddenly a few weeks ago. Mrs. Spelts' son, Sam eJnsen, is a student at the University of Nebraska.

Elyria . . .

Women's Groups Are Revamped to Circles

St. Mary's parish women held their annual meeting Sunday after mass. The entire organization was revamped.

Instead of having a Rosary society to which membership was voluntary, a new Altar society was formed with two circles. Every woman of the parish will be either one circle or the other.

Chairmen of the two circles are Mrs. John Lech jr and Mrs. Chester Papiernik.

The chairmen chose their own secretaries Mrs. Papiernik appointing Mrs. Philip Wentek and Mrs. Lech choosing Mrs. Enus Zulkoski. The financial report for 1954 was read and approved and the outgoing officers, Mrs. Louis Greenwalt and Mrs. Philip Wentek thanked the ladies for their help the past year and asked them to give the new officers the same cooperation.

Polio Progresses

The polio drive is coming along at a lively pace in Elyria. Some of the solicitors have already turned in receipts and as soon as the drive is completed, detailed reports will be acknowledged. District 8, the Goodenow school is holding a pie social on Thursday evening, January 27, at 7:30 p.m. Also on the program will be sildes shown by Mrs. Gladys Rose of Burwell of some of the trips she has taken. Mrs. Maretta Donner is the teacher and John Durand is the polio chairman of that district.

Study Club Meets

St. Mary's study club held its meeting Thursday evening, January 20. Guest speaker was Mrs. Syl Furtak of Ord who gave a book report on Seduction of the Innocent, by Dr. Wortham. It was both enjoyable and profitable to the 20 members present. After the business meeting, the hostesses, Mrs. Enus Zulkoski and Mrs. Philip Wentek served refreshments. Mrs. Steve Kapustka and Mrs. Floyd Iwanski will be hostesses for the next meeting February 3.

Card Party Soon

Also on the agenda for the benefit of polio will be a card party tentatively scheduled for Febr. 6 at the Parish hall. It will be sponsored jointly by the two extension clubs of this community, the Ar-Gu-Nots and the Jolly Homemakers. It will take in all of Elyria township.

Hall Work Slackens

Work has been suspended on the Parish hall pending the arrival of insulation. The furnace has arrived but all the necessary piping has not so the men are not able to work on it.

Mrs. Ted Golka of Omaha is staying at the Mike Kusek home helping to take care of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Golka.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Purvis of Grand Island were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tuma.

Entertains Friends

Several of the young friends of Joan Beerline were her guests at her home Friday evening. The time was spent informally.

Off Beat Farrowing Near Arcadia Gains Farmer $2,000 More

Carl Nelson Farrows 14 Sows in January: Drugs Aid Operation

Carl Nelson, a 35 year old farmer living three miles north of Arcadia, apparently believes the farm adage, "What is time to a hog?"

Because Carl has shifted breeding operations around to where his 14 brood sows are farrowing now. Eleven have pigs so far. Three more are expected before January 31. Most farmers farrow in March.

Carl voiced two reasons for the change:

1. Farrowing now lets it occur when he's got the time to handle it. In March he'll be busy with field work.

2. Pigs farrowed in January will hit marketing weight in June. That's three months ahead of the date for hogs spring farrowed.

He said: "By marketing in summer I'll get a better price. Last year hogs brought me $24.40 a hundred. The normal price, when the fall run was on, was down near $17 a hundred."

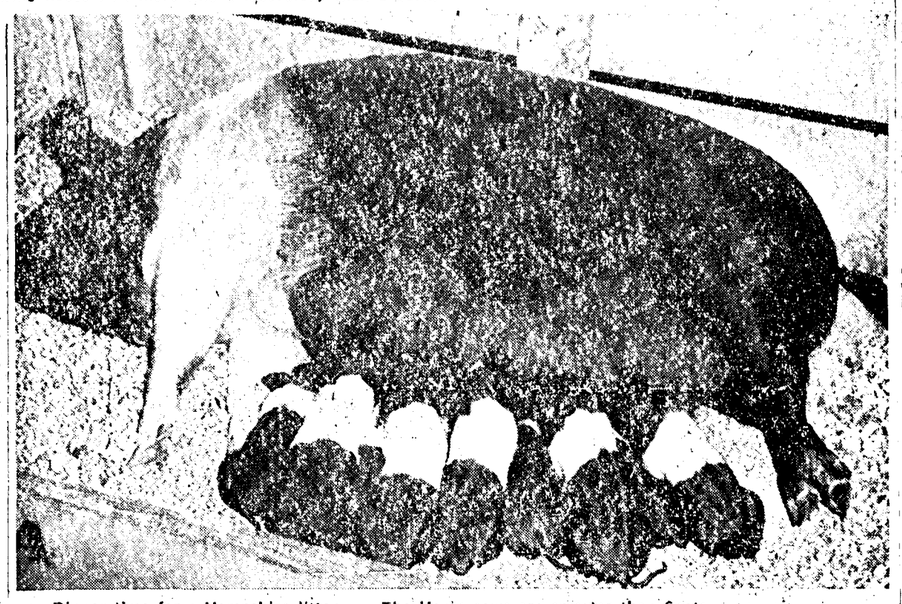
He figured his off-beat farrowing yielded $12 per hog extra. Multiply the figure by 168 pigs, (14 sows with a litter of 12 each), and it totes to $2,$16 extra from Carl's pig crop last year.

Of course the operation isn't as simple as that. There's the expense of maintaining the farrowing barn in cold weather.

Carl estimates expenses each year at $150 for heat and lights. He doesn't charge off a retirement fund on the barn since he feels he would have to maintain some farrowing structure anyway.

And most of the present building was built from scrap lumber and a salvaged building.

"Most of it I built myself," he said, "from old scraps. I moved an old building to the site to get started. I poured my own concrete floor."



Dinner time for a Hampshire litter . . . The Hamp sows are smarter than Spots.

The building is 20 x 40 wood frame covered with asphalt. It has 12 separate pens each equipped with heat lamps, protective cribbing and automatic feeders. The loft is utilized for ground feed with an inside outlet.

Each pen is covered with ground corn cob litter. "It absorbs moisture better than anything I've found," Carl explained.

A propane space heater, thermostat controlled, maintains 50 degree temperature. A radio blares day and night from a nearby shelf.

"The music keeps the sows from getting spooky," says Carl. "If that radio wasn't going they'd go grunting around every time we moved."

Carl Nelson at the feed chute . . . believes the adage, "What's time to a hog?"

Carl's sows are Spotted Poland China or Hampshires. He favors Hamps.

"Darn Spots will just tumble over when they lie down," he said, 'and sometimes they'll crush a pig. The Hamp will root around for five minutes before she lies down. I've never lost a pig yet from a Hamp sow."

Carl keeps his boar 30 days then hustles him of to market. The sows are put into a receptive mood with drugs. He uses Pituitrim when labor starts.

"I use it so I won't have to wait around all night. A sow will farrow in 30 minutes if she's had Pituitrim," he said.

He also feeds an iron ration to the piglets with an eye dropper. He grabbed one, hoisted the yelping porker under an arm to demonstrate. "This is quicker than coating the sows teats with it the way some breeders do," he said, "besides I know for sure this pig got his ration."

Carl's operation is one of the best in Valley county. His structure is neat as a pin throughout and looks more like a laboratory than a normal farrowing house.

He welcomes visitors to the 320 acre farm.

"Send over anybody who wants to come," he said, "I'll be glad to see 'em anytime."

Weckbach, Davis and the $200 check . . . "Happy to help!"

Lee Stores Give Hospital $200 Cash Aid

An Ord "five and ten" store this week moved to help the Ord hospital with a $200 cash donation.

The firm was Lee Stores, managed by Ordite Adrian Davis. Mr. Davis received the check from his home office Friday.

Saturday noon he gave it to Clark Weckbach, of the First National. Mr. Weckbach is treasurer of the Ord Hospital Corporation.

That's the second, non profit group, organized to help the hospital continue.

"Happy to help you fellows out," said Manager Davis as he passed the draft for deposit to Weckbach.

"Happy to have firms like yours here," answered Weckbach.

Both smiled. So did officers of the hospital when they learned of the Lee Store gesture.

Grade Art Work to Brandeis Show

Art work, by the students of the seventh grade of the Ord junior high school, will be on display at Omaha.

Gathered and mounted by Teacher Mrs. Verna Bauman, the free hand drawings were sent this week, for presentation in the Brandeis show of drawings by young folks.

In March, Mrs. Bauman plans entering a similar show arranged by Miller and Paine in Lincoln.

Several pictures represent groups working at the blackboard. One picture represented a self portrait drawn by the artist looking in a mirror. Three were out door scenes.

Mrs. Bauman said children use their own imagination for themes and colors.

She said she has received some very good criticism from out of town people who have seen the young folks work.

Two Land Sales Told by Agencies

Two land transfers were announced by Ord real estate firms the past week.

A 70 acre irrigated tract, owned by Henry Vodehnal south of North Loup, was sold to Ralph Layher for $19,950. Layher paid $285 per acre.

The tract sold two years ago for $212.50 per acre.

The transaction was arranged by Cummins and Cummins and the Haskell Agency.

Another transfer was a 320 improved farm, northeast of Ord, owned by Mr. Layher. It was sold to Roland Hansen for $17,600. The sale was arranged by Cummins and Cummins.

—Mrs. Edw. Hansen was a bus passenger to Grand Island Thursday morning. She spent the day looking after business and visiting her aunt, Mrs. Emma Rawles.

—BAKE SALE AND LUNCH—Saturday, January 29th, 2nd door north of JACK and JILL STORE. Catholic Ladies Circle 2. 44-1tp

The state dailies indicate some members of the legislature, and new Governor Vic Anderson, are playfully fluttering eyelashes in the direction of State Engineer Ress.

Mr. Ress, it seems, is being lured in the direction of Lincoln and Omaha by other interests who will allegedly pay a higher salary than the $8,500 Ress currently enjoys.

So our legislators, and Governor Anderson, are currently toying with legislation which will boost the Ress' payroll. The Lincoln crowd is making these overtures despite a vote last November by the people of Nebraska which specifically forbade raising salaries. In fact it's a part of the Nebraska constitution.

Ress, meanwhile, is playing the reluctant martyr to the Lincoln crowd's fluttering advances. Ress does want to stay on if the money to offset other offers can be raised.

Manure!

Haskell Creekers Are Trying

Sitting in with a group of our favorite people, the Haskell Creekers, last week we were impressed with the determination with which farmers up there are trying to erase some of the area's farm ills.

Most of Haskell Creek's trouble is too much or too little water. In dry seasons crops wither on the stalk. In rainy seasons the water cascades out of the hills in tumultuous waves.

To combat ravages farmers have organized the watershed and now stand ready to install some of the practices which will retain rainfall on the land.

Of course there are ten thousand unanswered questions. But organization officers are attempting to meet each with accurate data, a time consuming, and sometimes thankless, job.

Haskell Creekers may not be exactly sure of what they are trying to do. And there may be times when the organization mills, and wastes time, while it ponders future plans.

But one fact is apparent.

Every Haskell Creek farmer is convinced he was dissatisfied with the way things were before the organization started.

And when that is the tone of general opinion we usually manage to get something done about it.

* * Something Just A Little Bit Different * *

Everyone is appalled at mention of the Ord hospital considering closing, due to financial shortages.

Everyone can see the need for a hospital here.

Everyone wants a hospital on tap in case HE might be the next sufferer carried into that institution.

Over the whole country, there aren't any hospitals that make money, that I can hear about. Hospitals do not make money for a doctor, BUT A DOCTOR CANNOT PROSPER WITHOUT A HOSPITAL.

In the past Ord's two hospitals were privately run by two doctors. Both were excellent surgeons and did a great deal of business But their surgery, not their hospitals, made money. And they had to stand hospital losses in order to have a place to do the surgery.

Patients no longer spend many, many days in a hospital: usually it is possible to get them in, fixed up, and out again in a few days. Our wonder drugs and new techniques speed up most hospital stays, excepting possibly broken bones. They continue to take time.

oOo

It is unfortunate so many old, unpaid bills turned up and must be included in this years' business, though that is not where they should rightfully appear.

Hospital board members closely scanning older bills were happy to note few were owed by Ordites or by Valley county citizens. Our people seem to be THE BEST.

Instead, the unpaid bills were often left by itinerant laborers here for a few months, and brought in as emergency cases. They were people who abruptly left the country and evidently felt no urge to pay.

oOo

An additional expense of about $2,000 this year was the addition of a second night nurse, an urgent need.

For in case of emergency surgery, or woman in labor, other patients would be neglected with only one night nurse on duty.

oOo

Fees in the Ord Hospital have been nominal, whatever you may have heard. They are substantially less than city hospitals charge, and the care is equal or better because it is more personalized.

Fees in the Ord hospital are practically the same as those in neighboring towns' hospitals, perhaps 25c or 50c lower or higher here or there.

oOo

Hospitals, like churches and schools, are something we must have in any satisfactory place we live. You would never willingly live in a town without one.

At Falls City, where the Sisters have been operating the hospital, the head nurse this week called attention to a deficit of $18,000 incurred in three years: this in spite of the fact that nurse-care is almost a donation in such a hospital.

oOo

So if you are asked to help our hospital, do it.

Be glad you can do it. Be glad you are well. Be glad too, there's a hospital here to care for you on the unhappy day when you need it.

Consider giving to it, and giving generously.

There is no cause more worthy, more vital to you.

And I do mean YOU.

A Messiah Needed

A sizable piece of fair stock awaits some Valley county man or woman who might have just a little more than an ordinary helping of intestines and imagination.

The property offer was made at last week's fair board meeting by Ernie Horner, mild mannered Ord contractor.

When everybody had a say Horner arose, then said:

"I will give my fair board stock to any man or woman who will come forward to sit on the board. If you have any workable ideas here's the place to get 'em adopted and the stockholder power to be eligible."

There was no mad rush to take Horner's offer. In fact a good share of the attendance hid its collective head lest Horner would single them out then walk over and hand them his holdings.

The move was certainly a move towards that favorite American pastime of "separating the men from the boys." And a concise answer to anyone who has been critical of the boards approach to a very real, and puzzling, problem.

How do you increase interest in a fair which languishes and grows rigid in death?

Mr. Horner and his board will certainly appreciate constructive answers if answers are available.

Meanwhile there's some hope for fair interest by making sure of two or three things:

1. Ord merchants should participate in exhibits. The chance to advertise a product to the farmer, or the farm wife, in the relaxed atmosphere of the fair grounds must have some merit.
2. Fair dates, to coincide with recognized days for town trips, should be Thursday, Friday and Saturday.
3. Exhibition buildings should be kept open until a reasonable hour following entertainment.

The board will probably make these changes this year. Meanwhile Horner's offer still awaits the Messiah with the miracle touch.

On The Lee Side

The Eyes of Love Grow Dim With Age

My nomination, should the old U.S. ever find itself in desperate need of a spy, is "Virg" Bugbee, an Arcadia school superintendent, with a shapely calf and an interesting bust.

Virg donned lady's attire last week to aid the polio effort. His get up was so sharp he had Arnold Tuning making like a love-sick swain until Arnold, just by chance, managed to get a peek at Bugbee's brawny, hairy, arm projecting from a calico Mother Hubbard.

Only by this glimpse was the Tuning household saved from a divorce action and Bugbee from the claims of an alienation of affection suit. Because Tuning had already the look of a man smitten and his eyes were rolling glassily like a lover struck square in the blood pump with Cupid's dart.

Fortunately none of this by play on love was seen by the audience gathered in the Arcadia school auditorium to pony up dimes and dollars for the polio effort.

Thankfully it all occurred backstage where it could be witnessed only by an officer of the law, a photographer and a reporter. The latter made notes dutifully in between glances at a coy "babe" perched on the edge of a chair.

After all the scene did have story value. The babe was a looker from way back. Tuning is a married man and a deacon in the church. Put these two elements together and you have headlines in any man's newspaper.

Prior to the denouement Tuning cavorted around the babe like a 16 year old on his first date. He'd shy over in the babe's direction then waltz back with the grace of a cow caught in a bog.

Then he'd bat his eyes around until another fellow, getting Tuning ready for a part in the show, forcibly held his head steady. "Look," said the fellow, "get a-hold of yourself. This babe is strictly from hunger, I tell you!"

"That so?" Tuning asks, "Okay I'm a starving man." Then he leans over and makes go funny motions with his eyes.

Well they finally got Tuning made up. He was supposed to be a gym girl, circa 1908, from the University of Nebraska. The clothes were certainly authentic. And to herald genuineness the bloomers and skirt wafted a strong odor of moth balls towards bystanders. Nobody doubted the claim after the first cheesy whiff.

So Tuning was ready. And so was the babe. Tuning fox-trotted towards her to take an arm. He'd planned on escorting her to the gym floor.

The babe, (it was Bugbee all the time) extended an arm. On the arm short, red, hairs bristled. You could trace the line of muscles from up over the elbow to where it disappeared into the Mother Hubbard.

Tuning, too, glimpsed the hair, and the muscles. Mouth agape he took a closer look at the "babe's" face. Then he weakly asked:

"Is that you, Virg?"

"Yes, it's me," answered Virg. "Isn't it about time you started coming down to earth?"

The sheriff, the photo man and the reporter started to guffaw.

Tuning fixed them with a cold, butcher's eye then said, "Shucks, I knew it all the time."

"Oh YEAH!" answered the sheriff and the photo man. The reporter kept on making notes.

"Use The Stairs"

Ward's Cookin' What's Column

Away back in the days when a man could speak out with the good old fashioned "eether" instead of the radio and screen version "eyether" life was much simpler than today.

I recall one night when I got stranded some 20 miles from home. I started out on foot but got tired after the five miles convinced me that nobody was coming to pick me up.

Over in the field I saw a nice looking strawstack, so I climbed the fence and the stack, dug a nice hole in the side thereof and settled down for a long October nap.

Believe it or not, as soon as I got off the road the cars started to drive by, and they kept it up more or less all night long. I might have failed to get a ride with the first one or two, but not all of them.

To make matters worse, the light from their lamps shone right into my eyes. I had chosen that side of the stack as being out of the wind. The noise they made was twice as loud as it ever is in daytime.

But I curled up, like any other dog and tried to sleep. The pleasant dreams would not come. I coiled and recoiled, but to no avail. I simply couldn't get any shuteye, and about daylight I gave it up.

I crawled out of my little nest and noted to my dismay, that most of the nest had stuck to my clothes. I tried to brush it off, and ran into the sharpest sandburrs I have ever encountered.

So I took more time and picked the burrs off between shivers, then picked them off my cotton flannel gloves. Here and there in the mixture I ran across a nice fat cockle burr.

I must have spent half an hour getting cleaned up so that the man with the auto would not suspect I crawled out of a strawstack. Then I shivered my way over to the road, climbed the fence and started walking.

The first man along picked me up and accepted my explanation that I had taken an early start. However I thought he acted just a little amused about something. When I got home I found out what it was.

The Mrs. looked me over and asked where I had stayed over night. Then she interrupted me when I started to lie about it and told me that I must have spent the night in a straw stack.

My clothes looked clean to me, but she had caught on right away. How come? She explained that I had cleaned up as far as I could see but that from the rear I still looked like a strawstack.

To would be tramps who are looking about for a place to spend the night, let me suggest that straw stacks are messy and uncomfortable. If you really want to sleep, try a prairie hay stack, which is much cleaner.

If was not far from that same time that I went over to Spalding to do some sign work. It was warmer at that time, and the oats in a field just east of town was in the shock.

In the '30's you didn't waste money. I painted a root beer sign for my dinner that day, and in the two days I was there I scared up some ten dollars, which would go a long way toward filling the kids with food.

When night came I didn't look around for a room. I simply hit up the road to the oats field. There is something warm and friendly about oats in the bundle and in the shock, and I have shocked many a bundle.

So I went out in the field, made a platform by laying bundles crosswise of the bunk. I made it some eight feet long, then set up a double row of bundles on each side and across one end.

I wa careful to leave just enough room so I could slide in feet first. I put a final row of bundles crosswise along the top. Then slipped off my shoes and slid into position.

The crickets bothered me some at first, but I was soon asleep and I slept until daylight, awaking much refreshed, and with no after effects of sandburrs and chaff to worry me.

Senator Writes

To the Editor of the Quiz:

One of our road problems in Nebraska, and especially in our area, is the lack of funds. LB 15 would authorize issuance of gasoline payments to the counties and be giving them the advantages of the 1950 census. In our 29th District we would lose about $40,000 in 26 months. Of this, Howard County would lose $10,783.60; Greeley County would lose $13,6648.90; Valley County would lose $8,080.96; and Wheeler County would lose $9,055.88.

In order to give us a fair distribution of funds, I have been opposed to LB 15. If this bill does go through I am going to introduce or support a bill which will give us our fair share of gasoline tax money.

LeRoy Bahensky

Ed. Note: Mr. Bahensky is Valley county's new state senator. From the news reports down around Lincoln he's doing very well. Maybe Senator Bahensky should revive that bill which would have the mail route funds distributed on basis of number of miles per county.

Keep The Lawn

To the Editor of the Quiz:

Mr. "A" has suggested plowing up part of the court house lawn. I live near Scotia and really have no voice in the matter, but I wish some one would draw this picture for Mr. A. There wouldn't be any park benches around the square, the beautiful trees would be gone. Where would tired mothers sit and children play while they are waiting for husbands and fathers who attend the Ord market?

I suggest Mr. A, and a few more Ord merchants, leave their cars at home Saturday. If wifey can't make it downtown to get him in time for supper the walk might do that waist line good.

My old pappy always said, never cut down a tree unless you have one growing in it's place. Nor plow up good sod you may want back. Don't mar the beauty spot in the center of your city. We country jay hawkers like it.

Constant Reader

Ed Note: The benches could be moved. Ord merchants at last week's chamber of commerce meeting, DID agree to leave the family car at home Saturdays.

Proposer Wasn't Thinking

To the Editor of the Quiz:

Whoever proposed converting the courthouse lawn into a parking lot is not doing any particular long range thinking.

Suppose you go ahead with the project. You end up with parking room for 75 cars. That much room is just a drop in the bucket and we have about that many double parked around the square during any Saturday night. The fact you have ruined what is a purty darn nice lawn, and a restful shade area besides destroying the architectural beauty of the courthouse, need not enter nto this discussion.

A few extra blocks of curb and gutter on streets adjacent to the square is the only feasible answer to the problem of providing more parking close in. Mind I do not say paving—the armour coated oil now used by the city if flanked with a good curb and gutter, storm sewer where necessary to handle the drainage—would be plenty good enough. The essential thing is to make the streets wide—wide enough for diagonal parking on both sides and two lanes of traffic.

A seven block project would do the trick. Start on Highway 11, (14th Street) go west on N to 17th, north 3 blocks to K, east one block to 16th. Or, put it this way—start with the corner by the bowling alley, west to the American Legion Hall, north to Schoensteins and east to the creamery. I have a hunch that a good majority of the resident property owners would favor this improvement. And the cost to the city of the intersections and necessary storm sewer would be but a fraction of the proposed "courthouse parking yard."

It's true that these streets are now being used for parking. But because of ditches, mud, and narrow streets less than half the space is used profitably. The 7 blocks would add at least 250 parking spaces—all within a block of the square. And that's close enough for any body.

I should add that the last curb and gutter project in Greeley cost about $1.50 per foot. Figure out your share.

Reader

Ed. Note: A good suggestion BUT when shoppers complained about "no parking" what they really meant was no parking in front of the Safeway, Farmers, Jack and Jill, Carsons and the North Side market. You can't really have any parking problem where a five minute walk will take you out in the country. If Ord shoppers can't stop exactly in front of a grocery store then that's "no parking."

TV Commercials Irk

To the Editor of the Quiz:

Won't be long now until small town merchants will not have to sell merchandise.

How nice television seemed to be. I really wanted to be one of the first to have one in our community. But as time goes on, I wonder. It is killing our local theatres? It is so much easier to sit in slippers before the set.

My gripe is the long TV commercials. They never seem satisfied to carry the name of the merchant. But they go on and on showing the public the working parts of their product. In fact we sit and watch a sales talk from beginning to end.

What is to hinder me from going to a larger place to buy what I want? I have learned all my own dealer can tell me, maybe I can buy it a few dollars cheaper in a larger town.

It is true advertising is necessary to carry on, a newspaper would not be a paying proposition without it, but I still can't get the idea of so much of it on TV.

If TV advertising gets to be much longer, I will be able to wash my dishes during the commercials. And if they get still longer I'll be able to do my washing too.

How About Pheasants

To the Editor of the Quiz:

What about stocking pheasants? Don't we have any interested people, until it is time to hunt? Now when some of us have a little leisure time, couldn't we put it to use trying to get some action?

As the old saying goes "Rome was not built in a day," nor will we get this done in a day.

Fabric damage to yellow prints: Questions arise as to why draperies, sports shirts etc. made of yellow prints show damage after dry cleaning. The National Institute of Dry cleaning explains it this way:

1. Why should printed sport shirts show damage in the upper shoulder and arm area?

In some cases, the light causes a change of hue or color, resulting in a partial or complete destruction of the dye.

2. Why should printed draperies made of cotton, or cotton and rayon, in a variety of fabric constructions deteriorate in just one portion of the printed pattern?

The vat dye stuffs most susceptible to those color changes in weakening of cotton and rayon are mainly yellows and oranges.

. Why does the damage accur in only those areas that are printed with orange and yellow dye or colors that have orange and yellow as a component part—for example, chartreuse?

Not all yellow and orange dyes change in shade or weaken cotton and rayon.

4. Is such damage confined to rayon and cotton, or are silk and rayon affected too?

Nylon and silk are more quickly affected than rayon and cotton; the range of colors affected are greater too on silk and nylon. Silk is more quickly affected than nylon.

Spring is coming and no doubt interest in new draperies is returning.

Maydalene Pfister, home furnishing specialist, gives these words of caution: When buying fabrics see it in folds. Be sure the design is equally pleasing when it hangs in a few or deep folds.

Choose a fabric with guarantee labels printed on the border of the material. Know the special qualities of the material and how to care for it.

Outstate Senators Hold Vote Edge For New Methods on Gas Tax Split

By Melvin Paul

As the legislature this week plunged on toward the end of the bill introduction period, some indications of strength on major issues were clearing.

Monday, January 31, will mark the final day on which bills may be introduced by individual members. A great rush of bills similar to the final day's total of 174 in the 1953 session is expected. This would push the bill mark over the 600 reached two years ago.

Not until all bills are introduced do lines start forming on the major measures.

But already a breach has opened between the populous counties and the more thinly populated over the split in the part of the state gasoline tax.

The populous counties like the present formula. It uses the latest census and motor vehicle figures. As they keep growing, they keep getting a bigger slice of the revenue.

But the thinly populated counties feel that something must be done to keep from losing ground. They want to change the formula. Newspaper reporters figured 14 senators would probably vote to keep the present formula.

Another 18 want to change it because they are losing money every time new figures are inserted in the formula. The other 11 will be in the middle because some of their counties gain and others lose.

But since five of these will lose more than they gain, this seemed to indicate there were more than enough to muster the 22 votes needed to pass a law.

Sales Tax Possibilities

A reporter in a personal interview poll asked every senator how he felt about the sales tax and also about the proposal to sell the state school lands. These are considered to be two of the hotter proposals.

The poll showed that while there is more sales tax strength in the legislature than before, any proposal of this kind will have tough sledding.

Seventeen senators indicated they are opposed to a sales tax. Another two said they were opposed but "with reservations."

On the other side 17 indicated they favored such a tax. But of these, 13 gave "ifs" in their comments. Each said he wanted a sales tax "if" it were the "right type of bill."

For instance, Sens. John Aufenkamp of Julian, L. N. Shultz of Rogers, and Thomas Adams of Lincoln said they thought an income tax should be tied in with the sales tax.

Three other senators feared passing a sales tax as long as there is the new provision in the constitution that this money must first be used to replace the tax on property. They are Sens. Otto Liebers of Lincoln, Glenn Cramer of Albion, and William Metzger of Cedar Creek.

Both Sens. Harry Pizer of North Platte and John Beaver of Beemer said they had changed their minds and were coming around to the idea that a sales tax may be necessary.

Even Sen. Frank Nelson of O'Neill said that while he opposes a sales tax he is convinced that "if the people keep demanding more services, we may have to pass such a tax."

There were seven who said they were still undecided.

But the hard facts for sales tax advocates were they had to get 22 votes out of a maximum number of possibilities of 26 senators.

School Lands Count

Even gloomier was the prospect for those advocating the sale of state school lands. A bill calling for this has been introduced already by Sen. Monroe Bixler of Harrison.

The reportorial poll showed that only eight sneators favored the idea of selling the 1,630,000 acres of land granted to the state 60 years ago by the federal government for school purposes. Most of these were from western Nebraska where most of the lands lie.

On the other hand there was a block of 22 votes against the sale. Out of a 43 member legislature that is enough to be the majority and block any bill.

The consolation for western Nebraskans unhappy about the present school land situation is that there were 13 senators who listed themselves as undecided.

If enough of these could be wooed there was a chance that some laws could be passed modifying some of the present practices of administering the land. School land leaseholders have complained most about the methods of leasing and appraising now in operation.

Anderson's Budget

Gov. Victor Anderson presented a budget totalling $193 million, or $1 million less than outgoing Gov. Robert Crosby recommended before his term ended.

However, the Anderson budget probably will go up to $214 million if certain taxes and levies are re-enacted.

A major new suggestion by the governor was for an "operating reserve fund." This would be an emergency fund to meet needs which come up in the state. Several special sessions of the legislature have had to be called because no emergency fund was available.

Gov. Anderson suggested that the fund could be made up of the "unexpended balances" the agencies have at the end of each fiscal biennium. Usually these are reappropriated but because they are so difficult to estimate the agencies often have more left than the legislature anticipated. That means the agency has more money to spend than the legislature intended.

The new governor also suggested a central personnel office for hiring state employees and job classification.

His biggest cut were $550,000 from the board of control budget, $150,000 for a new governor's mansion suggested by Crosby and $483,000 from the Safety Patrol budget (money earmarked for additional patrolmen).

Penitentiary Action

Gov. Anderson stepped quietly but firmly into the penitentiary controversy, urging the board of control to hire a penal director. He also backed up the board in its decision to keep Warden Herbert Hann at the penitentiary lest inmates feel they had won a victory.

Bartlett Pioneer Dies at Norfolk

James Miner, a pioneer Wheeler county resident, died Saturday at Norfolk. He had been ill for several years.

Mr. Miner lived on a farm near Bartlett until his last illness. He was a county judge for several years.

Funeral services for the body were held Monday from the Methodist church in Bartlett.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Miner, of California, who is currently ill at the home of a relative.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bumgardner entertained friends at lunch after the basketball game Tuesday evening in honor of their son Jacks 16th birthday.

Willing Workers met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Henry Pitzer. Fourteen were present and three visitors.

Coach Allen Gross, Prof. Elmer Bonack and Principal Mrs. Claire Stryker attended the Cedar Valley dinner and tournament drawing held at Spalding Wednesday. Ericson High has earned first place in the tournament.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Philbrick visited his parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Philbrick and Della Sunday. Mr. Philbrick and Della are recovering from minor injuries received from a car accident several days ago.

Mrs. Ed Weitzki returned home Saturday from the Ord hospital where she underwent minor surgery Thursday.

The St. Theresa Altar Society and Study club met in the church basement Wednesday with Mrs. Stanley Skalka hostess. It was the election of officers for the coming year. Elected were President Mrs. Burdette Landgren, Vice President Mrs. Keith Gibbs, Secretary Mrs. Bill Schmeits and Treasurer Mrs. Ed Kruml. A new member was welcomed. She is Mrs. Lawrence Wolken.

J. C. Malmsten has returned to Denver from Vancouver, Wash. and is convalescing from recent illness, at the home of his brother. He is much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Emery Carr returned home from their wedding trip. They are guests in the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. George Carr.

The polio benefit Square Dance held Thursday evening was attended by a fair sized crowd due to the stormy evening. The sum of $22.10 was realized. It will go to the Ericson March of Dimes.

The Pleasant Viewers Club held its regular meeting Wednesday in the Farm Home of Mrs. Bonadell Foster with 9 members and three guests. The afternoon was spent tieing two comforters for Mrs. Loseke.

Mr. and Mrs. Ott Oberg were hosts Sunday evening at their farm home for an oyster supper, honoring the elder members of the Ericson Modern Woodmen.

Mr. and Mrs. Rusell Striker returned home from Woodbridge, Va., where he was stationed with the U.S. army. He has received his discharge. They plan to make their home here.

Mrs. Rod Shimmer was hostess Thursday at her home for a pink and ble shower in honor of Mrs. Jack Reineke.

Mr. and Mrs. George Woeppel and daughter of Cedar Rapids attended the birthday dinner Sunday Jan. 16th in honor of their father, Hiram Van Cleave.

The WSCS Study club held its regular meeting Thursday and met in the home of Mrs. O. J. Walthers.

Mrs. Ken Clement Leaves For Europe

Mrs. Kenneth Clement, the former Charlene Blessing, left Saturday for Germany and Miss Carol Struckman of Ft. Collins, Colo., flew with her to New York City.

After spending a few days with Miss Kathleen Clement a sister-in-law, in Rahway, N. J., Mrs. Clement will report to Ft. Hamilton, N. Y.

Shortly afterwards she expects to leave by boat for Bremerhaven, Germany and then by train to Augsburg, where she will join her husband Kenneth. He is with the Fifth Infantry Division.

The Clements expect to be in Germany about 18 months. Professional packers came to the Blessing home Friday to assist in packing personal effects.

Miss Struckman plans to return to Ord when Mrs. Clement leaves for Germany.

Three Birthdays Celebrated

January 20, Thursday marked the birthday anniversaries of Mrs. George Sperling, Mrs. Arnold Sperling and Mrs. Albert Volf.

In honor of the triple birthdays, a family dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Volf Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Bud Sperling were assisting hosts. Food was brought by the guests.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Volf and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Sperling and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Sperling and son, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hallock and sons of Scotia, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Volf and son, Mr. and Mrs. George Sperling, sons and daughter, Norma Jean of Lincoln.

Miss Norma Jean has been employed in Lincoln for some time. She will enter the state university at the beginning of the second semester.

Circles Meet

Circles of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches met Wednesday afternoon.

Circle 1 of the Methodist met with Mrs. John Mason. Mrs. Ed. Hackett was assisting hostess. Mrs. Kenneth Deardoff, who is a new comer to Ord was a guest and later joined.

Mrs. Leo Long entertained Circle 2, of the same church. She was assisted by Mrs. L. B. Woods. Mrs. Philip Duley led an interesting lesson on juvenile delinquency. Mrs. Keith Shepherd was a guest. During the business it was decided to serve a banquet in February.

Circle 3 met with Mrs. Don Krick. It was voted to see church pictorial plates during the business session. Mrs. Chester McCracken, of Bertrand, was a guest.

The Esther circle of the Presbyterian church were guests of Mrs. Horace Travis. During the meeting plans were made for the May breakfast which will be held April 27. Mrs. A. L. Rush of Portland, Ore., was a guest.

Mrs. Guy Burrows entertained the Dorcas circle. Mrs. Warren Porter and Mrs. F. L. Blessing were guests. Mrs. Ernest Horner was hostess to the Ruth Circle. She was assisted by Mrs. Harry Diener. Mrs. Otto Graul was a guest and later became a member.

Garden Club Guest Night

Three reels of films, pictures of various lands, were shown at the guest night of the Ord Garden club Wednesday. Also shown were several Korean slides, sent to Mrs. Frank Fafeita jr, by a son, Jim.

The early part of the meeting was held at the office of Carl Dale. Later all went to the home of Mrs. E. O. Hackel for a short business meeting. During this meeting, the program for the coming year was discussed.

The club expects several new members this year.

Mrs Hackel served lunch.

Toastmaster Club

Taking part in Toastmaster club activities Wednesday evening were Carl Weckbach, who was toastmaster, Topicmaster Harry Zulkoski, and Evaluator Clayton Calvin. Giving speeches were V. J. Beran and Dean Misko. The meetings are held at the Ord bakery.

Wednesday evening, Jan. 26, speakers were Lloyd Zikmund, Dr. Paul Martin, Dean Avers and Clayton Calvin. They spoke after being introduced by the Toastmaster Dean Misko. Evaluator was V. J. Beran.

Almquist Family Gather

Gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Almquist at dinner Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Almquist, Mason City; Mr. and Mrs Leonard Almquist, Mrs. Edith Almquist and Martin, Grand Island; Miss Emma Almquist, Hemet, Cal., Mrs. Albert Treptow and Emory, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Treptow and Gary, Comstock; Mr. and Mrs. Horace Travis and Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Peterson, Ord.

Miss Emma Almquist, who has been visiting relatives in Ord and Grand Island, the past several days, plan to start for home the last of this week.

Speech Excerpts from Talk by Coloradoan at Farm Loan Banquet

Ed. Note: Here are some of the quotes from a speech made last week at the Loup National Farm Loan Association by Farrington Carpenter, a Colorado legislator and rancher. Since Mr. Carpenter's talk takes purebred beef breeding to task we believed it worthy of longer reproduction than usual.

I announced the topic of my paper as 'More beef for less money." If however the beef makers of America want to take their place in a modern free enterprise State subject to world wide competition then, their goal must be "The most beef for the least money." But I hear someone say, why do away with tariff barriers for beef when everything else has protection. My dear friends, open your eyes. If a scientist in Indo China develops a synthetic beef steak by compounding vegetable substances, can any tariff wall or government regulation keep such food off the American market? Yes you can delay it, you can tax it, as we did oleomargarine, but in the end if it is as good tasting and as nutritious as a steer's beef steak and is cheaper, its going to be on the chain stores' meat counters. I cite this unpleasant possibility to you, so you will be willing to go with me and explore the possibilities which are already known and which if pursued diligently by the beef makers will start the march towards "the most beef for the least money."

Chicken Is In

Turning aside now from the possibility of competition from the chemical industry in creating a synthetic beef steak, we must look at the other meats which compete for the housewive's dollar. Pork Lamb and Chicken. Right away we are forced to acknowledge that the humble hen has forced her way into the meat world, so that even the Dept. of Agriculture Statistical Dept. has had to record her contribution to the meat counter. Furthermore, no segment of the agricultural world has advanced quite so fast in standardizing its product as the broiler, and reducing its costs of production as the poultry industry. True they have the auvantage of few grades and of quick turnover, but their proportion of the consumers dollar has increased tremendously.

The same may be said in a more limited way for the pig. Cross breeding biotic boosters have been accepted by that industry and have contributed to a lowering of cost of production.

So lets get down to our task—how can we raise more beef for less money?

There are only three possible ways and I will explore each of them a short ways for you.

1. Better Feeding.
2. Better breeding.
3. Better veterinary science.

Better Feeding

The possibilities for better feeding have never been greater than they are today. Since the discovery of how to use celluloses, corn cobs and corn stalks, more efficiently, a whole new world for the conversion of roughages into meat has opened up. The use of urea to make the cellulose fibres digestable and of molasses to make them palatable has given the central corn belt of this country an almost limitless horizon for cheap feed.

In connection with this matter of feeding it might be well at this time to approach the problem from the nutritional angle. In an article by Prof. L. A. Maynard of Cornell University which appeared in Science Magazine July 30, 1954 the following facts are made clear.

'As a Supplement to the cereal diets that comprise 70% or more of the total food of the majority of the worlds population, Animal products have a special importance in supplying nutrients that are otherwise likely to be deficient, even though calorie intake is adequate.'

Pig Is Efficient

A pig is the most efficient converter of feed into meat and returns about 20% protein of what is fed it. Dairy cows comes next with a conversion ratio of 15. The hen has a conversion factor of 10 Steers and lambs show low efficiency and have a conversion factor of only 4%.

This is because their rations are mostly roughage of much lower digestability. But steers and lambs consume a feed that man cannot eat whereas pigs and chickens compete directly with human beings. Thus sows and sheep can produce high quality human foods from some areas when otherwise no food at all would be obtained.

"The latest development in the feeding of pigs and chickens has resulted from the finding that antibiotics in small amounts are growth factors for these species. They do not supply nutrients, but in some way they promote feed consumption and intestinal conditions that result in a marked improvement in growth, particularly in the early weeks. They bring animals to market weight more quickly and with less total feed. The improvement in growth rate to market is of the order of 5-20% and with a saving of 1-10% of feed.

New Drug Popular

Just within the past 60 days a similar miracle drug has been approved by the Pure Food and Drug Administration for inclusion in cattle feed. It is a hormone called Stilbestrol. The cattle gains come 19% faster and feed costs were cut 11%. This promises to cut the cost of a pound of gain 2-4 cents. To sum up the possibilities of reducing the cost of producing a pound of beef by conversion from cereal or roughage, we are justified in saying that they are just now in a most promising position.

Better Breeding

When we come to producing more beef by better breeding we must remember that work in that line is permanent. That is to say whereas an improved feeding method may produce 2 lbs. of beef where only one came before, such method must be used over and over again on each animal fed. When an animal is bred to gain 2 lbs. where his ancestor only gained 1 lb. it is permanent and goes on forever provided proper breeding principles are observed. We now come to the most debatable field in the livestock world today. The Farm a quarterly publication in its autumn 1954 number has a lengthy and carefully written article entitled "Does the Show Ring Help the Cattleman"?

Explores Beef History

To know whether the present show ring standards are the right ones to improve our beef breeds one must go quite a ways back into the history of our beef breeds and then see how the present standards have been developed.

We have only two American beef breeds recognized by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture. The Santa Gertrudis and the Beef Master. Both are from crosses of Brahma cattle and English breeds, Shorthorn and Hereford. The Shorthorn, the Hereford and the Angus which breeds in this country, are all English and Scotch. American herdbooks for those breeds were not started till late in the last century. These purebred animals came into direct competition with the longhorn cattle which the Spanish had left on the western ranges. In a comparatively short time, the superior beef making qualities of these English breeds eliminated all other breeds. For many years to have a bull that was registered in one of those English breed associations, was considered as a certificate of top quality. Gradually, however, it became evident that all registered bulls were not tops and some top bulls were not registered. As far back as 1936 the Agricultural Year Book included a number of articles on the subject and one of them entitled "Beef Cattle Breeding at the Cross Roads" quite plainly put the problem up for consideration by stating that "the quality of the germ plasm carried by animals has not been measured or classified for beef animals because of lack of a yard stick." Dairy animals have the pounds of milk and butterfat tests to judge by. Poultry people have the number of eggs for a measuring rod, but the beef breeders have lacked such a criterion and have gone in for what may be called "fancy points."

Beef Isn't Pomeranian

"Now esthetic show points are not wrong in themselves, In the case of Pomeranian dogs, for example, they are useful because the sole object is to produce an animal with certain special characteristics valued by fanciers. A beef steer or a hog however is not the same kind of animal as a dog and when the breeder of farm livestock concentrates efforts on fancy points and exaggerates their importance, he multiplies the goals he wishes to attain. Fundamental considerations get scant consideration."

"Take for instance the great stress laid upon the length of the ear in pure bred Brahma cattle—doe anyone imagine that point has any relationship to the utilitarian value of the animals carcass.

Or to come closer home has the color markings in the hide anything to do with the value of the carcass for meat, A few black hairs in the tail, a smutty nose or a few white hairs back of the chest often bar a worthy animal from placing in the show ring. They are examples of "fancy points." Research has proven that there is no relationship between the length of the head and the value of the carcass, but no long headed cow would be considered for a prize in the show ring. And this in spite of the fact that research studies with dairy cattle tend to show that the long headed heifers are the ones most likely to be good milkers. Legs too short to give a beef animal good traction in any hilly country and bodies shoved up so short as to make them questionable as roomy enough for the animals vital organs, are first steps towards compressed types and compressed types are first steps towards dwarfism which is now the curse of the business.

It is high time that cattlemen get away from the "eye appeal" standards and demand records of "weight for age" and "rate of gain in selecting their breeding stock."

If the amount of beef per animal is to be increased by better breeding, show standards are going to have to be radically shifted."

Better Veterinary Science

In California for the past 12 years over 200 cattlemen have been keeping records of production i.e. weighing their calves at weaning time, and thus being able to call out the cows that failed to raise big calves. One cattleman in that state after 9 years of such practice had raised the average weights of his weaner calves by 90 lbs. That is one way to produce more beef for less money by better breeding.

A nine year experiment in cross breeding was conducted at Miles City, Montana. The results are set forth in Circular No. 810 of April 1949 by the U. S. Dept. of Agr. It demonstrated that

First generation cross bred steers (Shorthorn bulls and Hereford cows) had heavier weaning and final feed lot weights than purebreds.

2nd generation ones had heavier weaning and final feed lot weights.

3rd generation ones had heavier weaning and final feed lot weights and graded higher in the carcass.

The same hold true for heifers

Ross Breds Better

The principle underlying this project, that the crossing of two inbred lines, produces progeny superior to either parent is well known in both the plant and animal world. Its best example is in hybrid corn which in the past 30 years has completely replaced pure bred seed corn. Nevertheless there is such a prejudice against any but standardized colors and markings in cattle that comparatively little cross breeding is being practiced except in the gulf states where the Brahma cross has outlived and out weighed all competitors. 3 greatest bulls were cross bred. Mr. Byron T. Sloan head of the U. S. Agricultural Research Service says:

"Beef cattle breeding is now only at about the same stage that corn breeding had reached 30 years ago." In that connection it might be well to read what an eminent judge of seed corn, Mr. Haupt had to say on that subject in 1918.

Judging Is Silly

":No point seemed to be too fine spun in judging corn. Judges looking grave and wise as owls stood ponderingly over exhibits of corn, settling such momentous questions as to whether this exhibit containing two ears with somewhat "pinched in" butts was or was not superior to another exhibit in which was an ear with an exposure of cob at the tip of exactly 3/64th of an inch.

Meanwhile wondering crowds of awe-stricken people stood openmouthed watching the judges make their epoc making decision. I am afraid that I have been one of the pious frauds who were presumed to know by some delicate process of devination just which ear or exhibit was better than another. The whole thing would have been ludicrous, had it not been so pathetic.

A notice should be displayed in a prominent place over the corn show, reading somewhat like this: "This is all a joke, folks. Don't take the thing too seriously. It should be distinctly understood by all visitors that this is just a little game we boys have gotten up among ourselves. It has no relation to utility. Our prize-winning exhibits upon which we pride ourselves mean nothing. They will not yield any more than other ears." In other words, it would not be so bad if we took the public into our confidence and would frankly acknowledge that we had deliberately set up an arbitrary and artificial standard of beauty and that all this hurrah and hullabaloo had little or no relation to what farmers are really interested in, namely bushels of shelled corn per acre, progreatly outnumber all other beef fitably raised."

Former Scotian Weds

Mr. and Mrs. Murl Vance, of Elm Creek, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary Lou, to Donald D. Sherrill, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Sherrill of Albion, Nebr.

Miss Vance is a graduate of the St. Francis school of nursing in Grand Island. She attended college in Omaha. She was graduated from Scotia high school. She is a registered nurse at St. Francis hospital in Grand Island.

Mr. Sherrill is a graduate of Nebraska State Teachers College in Kearney, where he was affiliated with Phi Tau Gamma fraternity. He is a graduate of Albion. He is employed as an announcer at a radio station.

The couple plan to be married at two o'clock, Sunday, Feb. 20.

The Vance family were Scotia residents until two years ago.

Nick Wetzel Ill

Nick Wetzel, 86, is in the Ord Hospital for medical treatment. He was taken ill last week. Friday night his condition worsened. Hospitalization followed. Three daughters, Mrs. Earl Buffington and Mrs. Lester Sample and Mrs. Lew Freese, have been taking turns at the hospital. Mrs. Wetzel, who is in her 80's, has been staying nights at the Irving Johnson home.

Patrick McNellis and Mrs. Eva Murphy of Greeley were Sunday afternoon callers in Scotia. Mrs. Murphy is a sister of Mrs. Jude Layher.

Mrs. Della Bredthauer who has spent the past two weeks in Colorado visiting relatives returned home Sunday night. She came to Crete last week and spent a few days at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Penny and boys.

Layher Home Burns

Mr. and Mrs. Jude Layher are homeless this week as the result of a fire Sunday about 9 a.m.

Mrs. Layer was preparing dinner in honor of her birthday.

She had just taken three pies from the oven when she discovered smoke.

She called the Scotia fire department. They found the fire started in a defective chimney.

The blaze was difficult to locate. The house is a story and a half structure, rebuilt several times. The fire stayed within the walls. Local firemen worked for two hours before the blaze was under control. All the Layher furniture was smoke damaged prior to removal. Mrs. Layher and many of the firemen were water soaked and cold.

The Layher household goods was taken to the Herman Bredthauer house in east Scotia. Mrs. Layher stated she carried insurance which would partially cover the loss.

Ron Tuma Home

Ronnie Tuma received his discharge from active duty in the navy last week. With Mrs. Tuma he arrived from Norfolk, Va., in Scotia Wednesday night. The Tumas will make their home on the Phil Tuma farm. Mr. and Mrs. Phil Tuma began moving household furnishings to a new home in Scotia on Monday.

Thompson Buys Land

Floyd Thompson has purchased an improved quarter from Steve Grohosky near Davis Creek and will move there this spring. Mr. and Mrs. Ike Babcock have been on the place. Thompsons have been living in the Paul Coufal house in east Scotia. Mr. Thompson has been employed at the D. E. Bussell farm.

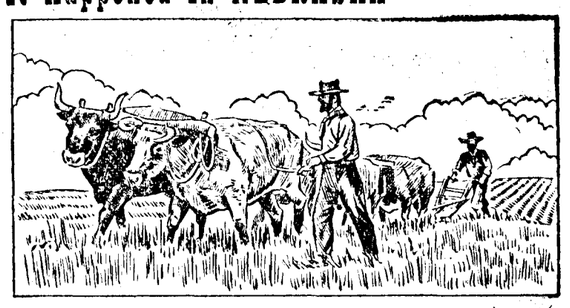
It Happened In NEBRASKA...



In 1861, you could build a farm on the Nebraska prairies for $531.37 (an estimate printed at that time). This cost included $250 for a house, $120 for breaking 40 acres, $25 for 500 walnut posts, $5 for digging 500 post holes, $125 for 12,500 ft. of lumber and $6.37 for 1½ kegs of nails.

Since those days, far more than prices have gone up! The standards of Nebraska taverns today are higher than ever before. And the tavern operator is a respected businessman, well aware of his responsibility to the community.

Freeze Upped Coffee Price: Weller

Stateside Reactions to High Coffee Costs Worried Brazilians

By Ernie Weller

SAO PAULO, the greatest industrial center of all South America, is one of the fastest-growing cities in the world.

In the last fifty years it has developed from a provincial town of about 200,000 inhabitants to the second largest town in Brazil, with a population of 2,600,000 people. It is the third largest city in all South America, being exceeded only by Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro.

The reasons for Sao Paulo's growth are its location, climate, industry, inflation, and its people.

It is located in a plateau valley three thousand feet above the sea and 40 miles from the coast. The valley is the neck of a funnel.

Into it come the roads, railways, and airlines from the rolling plains of the states of Sao Paulo, Parana, Matto Grosso, Minas Gerais and Goias. One of the railways runs all the way to the Bolivian border.

With an outlet to the sea, this location alone would make Sao Paulo great. Its climate also has helped. The average temperature, up on the plateau, is around 60 degrees all year. It's only rarely real hot, and seldom ever cold. Rainfall is 45 to 80 inches annually.

For the past ten years, we were told, Sao Paulo led all the cities of the world in building.

At the time of our visit no less than several hundred office, industrial, apartment house and educational buildings were in the process of construction. My personal reaction to this terrific expansion is that in addition to the natural factors I have enumerated, inflation must also be considered a very potent and propelling factor.

Their medium of exchange, 'Cruzeiro,' has a normal relationship to the American dollars of 18.75.

At the time of our visit, on the open money exchanges we were getting 60 cruzeiros for each dollar.

The extraordinary hydroelectric potential, which is being developed (although currently short of their immediate requirements), no doubt is the energizing spark to her rapidly developing industry.

Many American industrial subsidiaries are numbered among the 13,500 operating industries located in Sao Paulo.

A plentiful labor supply at low wages keeps factories at top speed, turning out textiles, furniture, drugs, chemicals, clothing and shoes, paints and cement, electrical apparatus and metalurgical products.

The manufacture of the more durable goods is in its infancy, but should show rapid expansion.

Coffee, cotton and cattle, rank as the leading sources of agricultural income.

At Campinas, in Sao Paulo State, where we visited the Institute Argonomico we learned much about coffee.

Dr. Carlos Arnaldo Krug, a Cornell graduate, heads this wonderfully fine research station.

Before going further with my coffee story, I must relate a very interesting and amusing side-light regarding coffee and its present lofty market.

Upon our arrival at Sao Paulo we were interrogated by a bevy of press representatives.

Although our mission had been publicized as a cattleman's tour, they were most persistent in their questioning about the American housewives' reaction to currently high coffee prices. I was delegated by our group to answer these questions.

My answer to the question, "Do you think that the possibility of continuing high coffee prices in America, might permanently change the drinking habits of coffee users to some substitute?", was:

"The gravest danger to the future coffee market could come from the synthetic manufacturing of a coffee substitute, (such as happened in case of butter and oleomargerine)"

The story made the front page of all the papers, and afforded us considerable amusement, as our interpreter read it to us.

The true picture of what really happened to force up the price of coffee was evident to all of us.

We saw millions of frozen trees on the coffee fazendas along the road the result of a freeze last July (winter time below the equator).

Brazilian consumers are complaining, too, about the price of coffee which at retail was selling for 70 cents a pound in Sao Paulo.

Although we saw many new plantings it will be at least 4 years before these come into production. Meanwhile coffee prices are likely to remain high.

In the rich, red soil of western Sao Paulo state and adjoining Parana country—not far from the vast Matto Grasso "Great Forest," many jungle lands are being cleared and planted to coffee.

To begin coffee planting on new ground men use machettes to hack out all the small growth.

Then the scattered tall trees are felled with saws and axes. Fires are set when the areas are dry.

Then a "formador," or shaper, takes over. He farms the piece for four years. The coffee trees set 12 to 15 feet apart.

The "formador" tends them and plants corn, rice or beans between them. For this he gets a small wage plus all the grain crops, and whatever coffee the trees produce in their first yield in the fourth year.

The owner of the facenda then hires 'colonos"—farm worker families—who do the work thereafter.

On the trees which escaped the freeze, coffee berries were turning red. They hung thick close to the branches. In appearance, a coffee tree's leaves are waxy, similar to holly.

Stripped off by hand, coffee berries have to be husked and dried. Average trees will produce from 4 to 10 pounds of coffee at each crop.

If frost does not kill them, they will bear for some 30 to 50 years. Most trees grow from 8 to 15 feet high.

Trips to the countryside in both Sao Paulo and Rio Grande do Sul provinces, revealed a highly productive land, similar to those we had visited in Uruguay and Argentine.

Still a large part of the rich pampas country of South America, it presents a wealth of grain and livestock, as well as cotton and tobacco. Vineyards and citrus groves were numerous.

Although we saw many good Herefords, Shorthorns and Angus in this area, that is not true of all cattle production in Brazil.

With an area equalling all of the United States, plus another Texas added, Brazil is the largest country in South America.

As a great part of it lies near the equator (tropic zone) with temperatures ranging constantly at 100 the humped "Zebu" (or Brahmas, as we call them) are widely bred and cross-bred.

It is estimated of the 50 million cattle they claim in Brazil, 80% are Zebu cross.

Ravaged by tick, other insects, foot and mouth disease, and predatory animals, yearly beef production is not nearly as high as cattle numbers would indicate.

Because of this, and transportation problems to slaughtering centers, entailing severe shrink, plus the heavy meat eating habits of the Brazilians, little meat is left for export. Most of it being consumed by the 52,000,000 population.

Here, too, as in Argentina and Uruguay, all cattle are slaughtered grass fat. The one difference is in age.

At the Armour Frigorifico (packing plant) which we visited at Sao Paulo, we were shown many large carcasses of Zebus, weighing from 600 to 650 pounds (from 4 and 5-year-old steers).

Although nearly every carcass was trimmed in spots, due to bruising from cattle horns and other handling problems, most of them showed good loins and a more yellow covering of fat than the ones we saw in Argentina.

Another interesting operation at the Armour plant was the commercial production of "charque" (jerked beef—or "jerky" such as you may have seen on visits to our own Indian reservations).

Made from the flank and neck of the carcass, it is first piled in huge piles and liberally salted, after which it is hung out on drying racks in the sun for a period of about six weeks.

Then, by means of large compressors, it is pressed into a loaf (similar in appearance to pressed ham) weighing from 5 to 10 pounds each.

The loaf is wrapped in heavy paper and dipped into a pitch emulsion, which makes it absolutely air tight. This product is sold mainly to the Indians and the few white people who inhabit the great Amazon Basin and the unexplored parts of the Matto Grasso regions, where extreme heat and lack of refrigeration make it impossible to preserve meat.

South Dakota Rites for Former Ordite

Funeral services were held from the Immaculate Conception Catholic church in Winner, S. D., Jan. 14, for Mrs. Josephine Pejsa, 80, who lived near Ord in 1904. Burial followed in the Winner cemetery.

Mr. Pejsa was born Josephine Stejskal, Aug. 26, 1875, in Tabor Czeckoslovakia.

She was married to James Pejsa in 1902. In 1904 the couple came to Nebraska.

From Nebraska, Mr. and Mrs. Pejsa moved to their homestead, south of Gregory, S.D., where they lived for 41 years.

She had been quite ill for the past three years. At the time of her death, she was making her home with her son, John, south of Carter, S. D.

Doors Installed

Three more foldidoors were installed in the basement of the Methodist church this week. The work was done by the pastor and congregation men. The door makes more room for Sunday School classes.

Mr. and Mrs. Petska. . . both happy at over 85.

Petska Couple Celebrate 65th Wedding Date

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Petska, of 405 N 21st street here, celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary Thursday.

A special mass was said for them at 7:30 a.m. in Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic church by Father Thomas Siudowski. Blessings were given to the couple and communion. All of the family in Ord attended the service.

A family breakfast was held at the Petska home later. Mr. and Mrs. Petska were given a breakfast set.

Sunday a family dinner was held. Open house was held throughout the afternoon for relatives and close friends. Refreshments of cake and jello with coffee were served.

Decorations in the Petska home were lighted candles and flowers, and a cake baked by a granddaughter, Mrs. D. B. McOstrich of Grand Island. The cake was made to represent an open book with inscriptions in English and Czech.

Among the family present at the celebration were two sisters, Mrs. Hans Andersen and Mrs. John Kokes sr., and a brother Joe Beran.

Father Siudowski was a guest at the dinner and during the afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Petska were made very happy when their son, George, of Los Angeles, called long distance, in remembrance of the anniversary.

Mr. Petska is 89 years old and his wife 85. Both are in reasonably good health. Both keep busy and live alone.

Mrs Petska is proud she does not need glasses. Mr. Petska enjoys fishing when his work is done.

Both are natives of Czechoslovakia. Mr. Petska was born near Prague, and Mrs. Petska not far from there. He came to this country when he was five years old and settled in Iowa. When he was 17, he came to Ord.

Mrs. Petska was a Beran. She came to America when she was 21 years old, at the persuasion of an older sister, who already lived in the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Petska were married in Geranium township, Jan. 23, 1890.

They set up housekeeping on the farm owned by Mr. Petska's father 12 miles west of Ord. They built a two room frame building which they used with a sod house built earlier. They lived here for 32 years.

Six years ago they moved to their present home in Ord.

Six of the Petska's eight children are still alive. They are Joe, a farmer near Ord; Stanley, Ord, employed by the REA; Lou, Grand Island; George, Los Angeles, Mrs. Ed Capek, Ft. Morgan, Colo.; Mrs. Gail Highland, Riverton, Wyo.

Mr. and Mrs. Petska have 19 grandchildren and 36 great grandchildren.

Amelia On TV

Miss Amelia Novosad appeared on television at Kearney Saturday afternoon. Representing the state teachers college, Miss Novosad was with two other girls. The group call themselves the Melody Maids. The trio sang before an audience at the school house last winter when the Kearney chorus gave a concert.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Novosad sr., Miss Amelia's parents, were able to see their daughter.

Trans-Polar Air Inaugural Banquet Pleases Ordite

A former Ordite and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley R. Shatto, were guests at a 300 place banquet held in the Hotel Statler, Los Angeles, on the occasion of the first regular airline flight over the North Pole from Los Angeles to Copenhagen, Denmark.

Mrs. Shatto (formerly Ruth Baird, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Baird) write Mr. and Mrs. Chris Johnsen of Ord that the speaker at the banquet was HRH Prince Axel of Denmark. Also in attendance were the prime ministers, ambassadors, and several consuls of Sweden, Denmark and Norway.

Entertainment for the affair was furnished by Hollywood movie stars including Lauritz Melchior, Harpo Marx and Dinah Shore.

The new airline flight has been named the Trans-Polar Air Service of Scandinavian Airlines. Mr. Shatto is vice-president in charge of operations for Western Airlines.

—Mrs. Jiro Kawata and son, James, went to Grand Island on the morning bus, Saturday.

Hruska Plugs Bill Passage

Senator Roman L. Hruska last week introduced a bill to relieve innocent purchasers from double liability in cases of purchases of grain mortgaged to the CCC.

"The bill, S. 138, is aimed at situations where grain is purchased from a warehouseman by innocent persons who are not aware that the warehouseman does not have authority to sell the grain," Hruska said.

"The present laws operate to make the innocent purchaser pay for the grain twice—first to the warehouseman, and again to the true owner."

The USDA recognized the need for such legislation two years ago.

At the suggestion of the department solicitor, Senator Hugh Butler introduced a similar bill.

"The Senate Agricultural committee was expected to report favorably the Butler bill," Hruska continued, "but the adjournment of the 83rd Congress prevented final action from being taken."

The rule of law contained in Hruska's bill has been recommended and approved by the American Bar association, the American Law Institute, and other legal associations.

Visit Old Friends

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Winberg, their son and wife and small son of Greeley, Colo., stopped in Arcadia briefly Thursday to call on relatives and old time friends. Mr. Winberg is a brother of Oscar Pierson and Louise Sandh.

Mrs. Winberg is a daughter of Mr and Mrs. Hans Sandh, who were early settlers in the Balsora community. Mr. Sandh was pastor of the Balsora Baptist church for a number of years, and will be remembered by some old Arcadia residents.

They left Friday for Kansas City where they planned to visit a son.

Beranek's Drug Store

MONTHLY NEWS

A Message from your Registered Pharmacists

OVER 140,000 DIFFERENT DRUG STORE PRODUCTS are listed in the 1955 Drug Topics Price Book, and 14,126 of them are new items. No one drug store could possibly carry all of them in stock. But we do surprise, even ourselves, by usually having everything you may ask for, and we can and will get for you, anything available as quickly as possible, because we know where they are obtainable.

SO MANY NEW PRESCRIPTION DRUGS are being perfected each month that we must constantly keep informed by reading our Pharmaceutical and Medical Journals. Also Drug firms send us information about a new product release, even before they notify the Physicians, so that when Your Physician prescribes a new discovery, we usually have it in stock.

OPERATING A PRESCRIPTION PHARMACY is much more complicated than it used to be, when a few hundred chemicals and drugs were all that was necessary to stock a prescription department. Now we carry thousands of bottles containing medicines that were unknown less than 10 years ago.

THAT IS WHY we will appreciate it, if you will inform any Physician you may consult, even in the most distant of cities, that we can compound his prescriptions.

Health Center Enjoys Fine Financial Year

Stockholders of the North Loup Health center met for their annual meeting Thursday afternoon at the North Loup Valley bank.

They re-elected the same officers and board of directors. W. H. Vodehnal is president and C. J. Goodrich secretary-treasurer. Directors are Frank Schudel, Roy Stine, Dale Stine, Ronald Cress and John Edwards.

A treasurer's report showed debts have been liquidated except the $6,240, for stock owned by 123 holders.

These will be paid when the money accumulates.

Dr. Markley pays $250 each month. This amount has reduced the original amount of $13,000.

State bank examiners recently congratulated North Loup in the success of the project. The clinic is one of the very few in the state, community sponsored, which have succeeded. They said 90% fail.

Each year brings new proof that Hy-Lines are the chickens that can keep you in business even when the competition is the toughest—and can make you extra profits when egg prices are normal or above, as they are expected to be next fall. Here, for example, are the results of 409 divided flock tests conducted over 48 weeks of laying during 1953 and 54 in four midwestern states. Hy-Lines out-produced the other chickens by an average of 330 dozen eggs per hundred layers housed. Just think what results like that would mean to you. And keep in mind that Hy-Lines also save you four to nine cents per dozen eggs on feed costs. Order your Hy-Line chicks now.

Proceedings of the County Board

January 11, 1955

The County Board met on the above date with all members present. The County Clerk called the meeting to order and appointed Zabloudil and Roe to check the credentials of the Supervisors elected at the last general election. The credentials being approved, the newly elected members were seated as qualified members of the Board of Supervisors for the term for which elected.

Wm. Zabloudil was made temporary chairman. Zabloudil and Roe were nominated for the office of chairman for the ensuing year. On the formal ballot, Zabloudil received 5 votes and Roe two, which made Zabloudil chairman for the year 1955.

The minutes of the January 4th meeting were read and approved.

The petition of Alfred Shoemaker, etal, for the vacating of a certain piece of road in the northwest corner of the southwest quarter of section 26, twp. 19 north, range 13 west of the 6th p.m. was presented and by motion duly made and carried, ordered placed on file.

The following committees were appointed by the chairman:

Roads and bridges — Hruby, Knapp and Roe; Buildings and grounds—Roe, Ciochon and Cronk; Budget—Knapp, Hruby and Cronk; Claims—Cronk, Hruby and Lutz; Finance—Lutz, Roe and Ciochon; Bonds—Ciochon, Lutz and Knapp; Collection of delinquent taxes — Cronk, Hruby and Lutz.

An affidavit, stating that a fair was held on three successive days in Ord by the Loup Valley agricultural society, was presented and ordered placed on file.

A resolution naming the following banks as depositories of county funds for the ensuing year was passed by unanimous vote: Nebraska State Bank of Ord; First National Bank in Ord; Arcadia State Bank of Arcadia and North Loup Valley Bank of North Loup.

A motion by Knapp and seconded by Roe to approve the application of L. H. Covert as Custodian of the court house, was passed.

Malvin L. Axthelm was re-appointed Highway Commissioner.

Vernon J. Beran's request for an allowance as Chairman of the County Board of Health, was rejected.

The report of the Highway Dept. for the past year was presented and ordered placed on file.

Motions to grant Patricia Wozniak a raise of $10.00 per month and Wilma D. Kroeger a raise of $25.00 per month, effective March 1, 1955, were duly passed.

By motion made and carried the county treasurer was instructed to release the Old Age Assistance Lien on Lot 4, block 3, West Addition to Ord.

A resolution stating that the salaries of all county officials and employees be paid on a monthly basis, was duly passed.

A motion, to "freeze" all salaries, not heretofore specified was made and duly passed.

A motion that each Supervisor look after the needy and the roads and bridges in their respective districts was passed.

Dr. Paul Martin was appointed County Physician for the ensuing year and the Ord Quiz was designated the official paper for the publication of county reports.

The following Resolution was presented by Supervisor Cronk, who moved its adoption:

RESOLUTION

BE IT RESOLVED, that this means of expressing their appreciation for the services of S. V. Hansen, Jack Romans and Edw. J. Sevenker as members of this Board during their term of office.

Signed, L. W. Cronk

The Resolution was passed by unanimous vote.

A motion to transfer $930.51 from the Inheritance Tax Fund to the road fund and $227.91 from the Advertising fund to the general fund was passed.

The financial report of the County Treasurer was presented and ordered placed on file.
