Voters in Sarasota County endorsed two measures on Tuesday's ballot; one for a unanimous vote by the county commission to expand the area in the county where more intensive zoning would be permitted, and one which approved bonding up to $300 million for projects earmarked for financing with future sales tax dollars.

Voters overwhelmingly approved two proposed measures on Tuesday's ballot.

The first item was an amendment requiring unanimity from the county commission to expand the area in the county ty rest where more intensive zoning would be permitted.

With all 157 precincts reporting and 38,555 votes cast, county residents endorsed the initia-

Bill Zoller, president of Citizens for Sensible Growth in Sarasota County and a key player in crafting the amendment, was "pleased" with the vote.

"This completes a long, threeyear process," Zoller said. "We now have put into place new procedures for decision-making, new controls and realities on how citizens in Sarasota County want development to proceed in the future."

Zoller added the next focus "of necessity and desire" will be on the urban, in-fill and redevelopment efforts.

MPO's challenge: Planning with shrinking funds

As needs increase, dwindling solutions frustrate the regional transportation board.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is part one of a two-part series about River Road. The second part will run Friday.

BY ED SCOTT STAFF WRITER

In years past, regional metropolitan planning organizations were given a larger piece of federal and state transportation funds to improve local roads. But, two years ago, the formula changed.

The amounts given to state transportation departments for interstate, port and airport improvements increased, while the funds given to MPOs, for major regional road improvements, went down.

"Our state money was cut in half and that's where the root of our problem started," Sarasota/Manatee Metropolitan Planning Organization Principal Planner Keith Drake said. Right now each county gets about $6.5 million per year for MPO priorities. "There's a high level of frustration on our board," MPO Executive Director Michael P. Howe said. "It's been building the fact that we've had some reductions in our share; the fact that we had some incredible cost escalation in our projects." The cost of projects has doubled, and in some cases tripled, during the past 10 years, Drake said. For example, the widening of the Venice Bypass originally was projected to cost $28 million. It has an $80 million-$100 million price tag now.

More than 40,000 cars travel the bypass every day. Officials had planned to widen the road to six lanes and maintain its status as an artery that directs U.S. 41 traffic away from the island and moves it rapidly between the interstate (or Nokomis) and South Venice.

That priority is being re-eval-

The tide is still out regarding a waterfront hotel in Osprey.

By a narrow margin, the Osprey Revitalization Committee earlier this week endorsed Dr. Anil Patel's development of a 5.5-acre parcel on the community's waterfront, even though he did not present a site plan.

But the committee chose not to accept a county zoning code definition that would have allowed a hotel on the property.

A proposed increase in density by a second developer to allow 32 condominiums and eight cottages on 4.9 acres on Bayview Lane was approved, provided that public access to a 100-footlong stretch of land at water's edge was guaranteed.

Earlier plans to rezone the Patel parcel to permit condominiums, townhouses and a commercial building had been rejected twice by the committee and once by the county planning commission. The proposal of a hotel evolved from a rezoning based on a special exception to the Nokomis commercial corridor revitalization plan. It had been granted by the county.

Two hotels with retail complexes proposed to be built on the northwest and southwest sides of Albee Road at U.S. 41 in Nokomis were granted the special exception to assure their economic viability. It would have permitted the doubling of the number of units per acre from 13 to 26.

Hotel rooms without kitchens are defined in the county zoning code as half the size of rooms in a home. But the code stipulated that the presence of a microwave oven in a hotel room created a kitchen.

The exception had been sought to encourage hotel oper-

One aspect of the Wilson-Miller plan, the firm said, is an improved four-lane road would be more pedestrian friendly

Manasota Key residents question beach project

BY STEVEN J. SMITH STAFF WRITER

Residents on Manasota Key gathered at the home of Sally Byors to refute what they believe is an attempt by Sarasota County to unfairly charge them each as much as $31,500 for a beach renourishment project they don't need.

Byors, who lives in the 6800 block of Manasota Key Road, believes the project is unnecessary.

"I walked the beach for five hours the last couple of days," Byors said. "And there's only two houses in imminent danger. This beach is in the best shape it's been in for the last 20 years."

Sarasota County Coastal Resources Manager Laird Wreford, however, contends the project is still under evaluation and no final decisions have come down on it. Wreford said the $31,500 figure is inaccurate.

"There were numbers similar to that coming originally from a staff report to the board, attempting to illustrate different, potential levels of funding (for this kind of project)," Wreford said. "It was not in any way suggesting that there was any kind of established assessment that was going to happen."

A beach renourishment project has been discussed since 2002 for two afflicted beaches on the Key. One beach, currently estimated at $15.9 million to renourish, extends about 1.8 miles from the Charlotte County line north to Middle Beach. The second, now estimated at $9.1 million, runs approximately 1.5 miles from the Pearl Beach Motel north to Manasota Beach. Neither beach encompasses Byors's property.

Erosion in the northern area is not currently designated "critical," but the long-range view in a county study suggests a change to that designation. If that is accomplished, considerable state funding for a renourishment project could open up.

Sally Byors believes the beach by her home on Manasota Key is in no danger of erosion and therefore requires no Sarasota County-mandated renourishment, which she believes would cost her around $31,500.

No charges filed against driver in January five-car crash

BY GREG GILES NEWS EDITOR

Although an 18-yearold Nokomis driver was found at fault, no tickets or charges will be filed against Justin Robert Bennett of Nokomis for the five-car crash that took place earlier this year.

According to a police report, Bennett was "disoriented and upset" at the scene after striking the vehicles, but he denied taking any medications, alcohol or narcotics.

A police report indicated a urine test was ordered, but it was never conducted. Capt. Tom McNulty called it a paperwork error. Urine testing for drugs and alcohol can only be requested post-arrest, McNulty said. Blood draws can be done prior to an arrest, but they're typically ordered only in circumstances where life-threatening injuries are sustained, he said.

Following the facts

In this instance, five people were sent to the hospital, but none of the injuries was deemed serious.

An elderly Nokomis couple took the brunt of the impact. They were extricated from their vehicle by the fire department's "jaws of life" and rushed to Venice Regional Medical Center. He received minor injuries from the impact. She suffered cracked ribs. They spent the night in the hospital and were released the next day.

"There was not a blood draw (from the driver who caused the accident) because by the time we got to the hospital to do a blood draw, the hospital already said it was not lifethreatening," McNulty said.

Bennett was treated for an abrasion on his head and a cut on his right leg, and released.

Police didn't issue Bennett citation, а although his vehicle was shown to be at fault.

"He claims he passed out. We have to follow the facts. We have no evidence to believe he was under the influence. It could have been a medical condition," McNulty said.

The error in calling for a urine test was the topic of follow-up police training for new officers, according to McNulty.

"I did the training personally," he said. "When we do it wrong, we address it."

Bennett was driving a green SUV southbound Ŭ.S. 41 Business near Avenida del Circo on Jan. 22 when he passed out. The vehicle made an abrupt turn into oncoming traffic, hitting four cars and leaving a trail of debris more than 150 yards long.

Bennett told police officers he thought he blacked out, since he couldn't remember hitting the vehicles - only waking up after the wreck.

Fire medics regroup after freeing a couple from this wrecked vehicle. It was one of four vehicles struck by an SUV on U.S. 41 Business on Jan. 22, sending five people to Venice Regional Medical Hospital. The driver wasn't cited.

CLARIFICATION

Even though the state withdrew funding for future design and construction of T-hangars at Venice Municipal Airport, it did confirm leaving $113,437 in fiscal year 2007-08 to complete the construction of T-hangars already in the design stage.

A story in the May 2 Gondolier Sun omitted the information.

Responding to the article, Mayor Ed Martin said city council "does intend to develop a business park at the airport, as its members have discussed, while developing a strategic plan and city comprehensive plan consistent with an amendment to this item on the joint participation agreement with Florida Department of Transportation to emphasize demolition of the Circus Arena property and its redevelopment."

STAFF REPORT

Sarasota County Supervisor of Elections Kathy Dent was pleased with the results of early voting on two ballot initiatives.

'We've had a good turnout so far," Dent said Monday before the general election. "The total for early voting was 6,227, and 5,824 absentee ballots have already been returned."

FFORDABLE HEARING A

That comes to about 5 percent of the 246,626 registered voters in the county. Early voting took place from April 21 through Sunday.

Dent was also encouraged by how well the turnout was spread across the three early voting poll stations throughout the county in Sarasota, Venice and North Port. In Sarasota, 2,429 voters cast their ballots, while 2,924 turned out in Venice and 874 in North Port.

BUSINESS OF THE MONTH

WAL-MART OSPREY

Members of the Chamber's Education & Business Development Committee agreed unanimously in selecting the Business of the Month winner. 100% approval, with the consumer letter which provided the testimonial and secondly, special recognition for the generosity provided to the community since opening 3 years ago.

A Chamber member praised Wal-Mart in Osprey in the following testimonial. " A Wal-Mart advertisement had just the ideal laptop computer on sale beginning on a Monday morning at 8:00. Unfortunately due to work constraints I was unable take advantage of the sale. I asked Dan Houston, Wal-Mart Manager if he had any in stock. He had a few but people were waiting in line to purchase them. Being resourceful, Dan called the Venice Wal-Mart store with a larger allotment and I was able to purchase the laptop during my noon lunch hour. Dan checked back with me to see if I received the laptop and make sure I didn't have any problems. Now that's service and consideration beyond the call of duty!"

King to have PET scan in St. Pete

BY SUSAN E. HOFFMAN STAFF WRITER

Circuit Judge Deno Economou granted a motion Friday by attorneys for Michael King to have him examined by a PET scan.

King, 36, is charged with the kidnapping, rape and murder of 21-year-old Denise Amber Lee of North Port on Jan. 17. King's attorney, Carolyn Schlemmer of the Public Defender's Office, had asked for King to be transported to National PET Scan-Pinellas in St. Petersburg, saying he suffered a head injury. A PET, or positron emission tomography, scan is a nuclear imaging technique that creates a three-dimensional image. It's often used in cancer diagnostics as well as to view function of the brain or heart.

Although the state did not oppose the defense motion, the judge asked whether there were any facilities closer than St. Petersburg that could perform the scan.

Schlemmer said her office uses the services of a doctor in California, and this is the facility that doctor uses. She listed several other felony cases for which her office has used this doctor. She also said the St. Petersburg office was the closest place that could perform the type of testing recommended for King.

No date has been set for the procedure, but the Sarasota County Sheriff's Office will transport him, make sure he is secure during the procedure and return him to the jail.

Circumstances

The defense had also asked the state to provide a list of the aggravating circumstances on which it plans to rely in seeking the death penalty, if King is convicted at trial.

Under Florida statutes, the state may seek the death penalty against a defendant convicted of a capital felony if one or more aggravating factors are proven. Aggravating circumstances may include a homicide committed in a cold, calculated and premeditated manner without any pretense of moral or legal justification, or a murder committed during the commission of certain other violent felonies.

Attorney Lon Arend of the State Attorney's Office did not object, and the judge ordered the state to provide the information within 60 days.

King is alleged by the state to have kidnapped Lee from her home the afternoon of Jan. 17. About 6 p.m., according to police reports, King stopped at his cousin's house and asked for a gas can, a shovel and a flashlight. King's cousin, Harold Muxlow of North Port, gave him the requested items, according to police reports.

Muxlow later reported to police he heard a woman in King's car scream "call the police," and that he saw King crawl over the woman to get into his car. shoffman@ sun-herald.com

POLICE BEAT

Fires reported

Over the weekend of April 24, there were several acts of arson committed in the northwest corner of the Lemon Bay Preserve. These fires were suppressed before they posed a threat to any neighbors' property or created catastrophic damage to the preserve.

Acts of vandalism on this property in the last few months include felling pine trees, damage to the trail markers and, most recently, arson.

Anyone noticing suspicious behavior should notify the sheriff's office, 316-1201. Call 9-1-1 if you see evidence of arson.

Lower flags, honor police

As a tribute to the thousands of law enforcement officers who have made the ultimate sacrifice, the federal government created the Peace Officers Memorial Day in 1994 and called for all American flags to be flown at half staff on that day, May 15.

More than 180 officers died in the line of duty in 2007, an increase of 20 percent over the prior year. In addition, almost 60,000 officers are assaulted every year with close to 20,000 sustaining injuries.

OUR VIEW

River Road project may hit a detour

f the recent summit of officials in the region showed nothing else, it's that the much-anticipated upgrade of River Road still may be a long way off, and getting it built will be an expensive, bumpy ride with lots of stopand-go traffic.

The meeting of Sarasota, Charlotte and North Port commissioners was an opportunity to openly review the possibility of River Road improvements, especially in light of the Thomas Ranch development. Afterward, prospects appeared dimmer than they did before, because the meeting exposed hidden strings, complexities and some wishful thinking that had previously inflated hopes.

Propelling the issue is the Thomas Ranch-West Villages Improvement District.

The ranch could see as many as 22,300 housing units and 3.2 million

f the recent summit of officials in the region showed nothing else, it's that the much-anticipated upsquare feet of commercial space if it is built out as developers hope in the next 25 years.

While the impacts will be broad, the immediate focus of the meeting was River Road. Estimates are that rebuilding the road from Pine Street in Englewood to Interstate 75 would cost well more than $145 million.

It had been suggested months ago that Charlotte County might chip in, as it had a decade ago when Sarasota County widened Winchester Boulevard in Englewood. But while River Road is a critical evacuation route for the Cape Haze peninsula, cash-strapped Charlotte County is in no position to repeat its largess now, Commissioner Adam Cummings noted.

The developer also reiterated a pledge to front $90 million to begin reconstruction of River Road from U.S. 41 to I-75, although he made it explicit that this money was contingent on Sarasota County commissioners approving a comprehensive plan change in two weeks for the Gottfried project. Some Sarasota County commissioners were surprised to learn that was a direct quid pro quo.

And the loan would be repaid, presumably with some sort of road impact fee credits. Looking at the developer's figures, it would take all the county's fees just to pay off construction of the one section of River Road.

In all, roughly $204 million is expected from West Villages in transportation impact fees. North Port controls the overwhelming bulk of it: $115 million would go to the city, which has road needs that extend far beyond River Road.

Some $53 million would come to Sarasota County from the Gottfried development, and another $36 million would be collected by North Port for the county's use. According to a previous agreement, North Port controls where that money is used, but city officials indicated at the meeting they would support allocating it for River Road.

So Sarasota County presumably would have $89 million coming in. That offsets the up-front loan.

A larger immediate issue will be the likelihood of the developer getting four of five votes needed for the comp plan change. Thaxton will vote no, and Patterson has sounded highly skeptical. Commission Chair Shannon Staub voted to pass the Gottfried proposal along for state review, but she also is no guaranteed "yes" vote.

Without four votes, it fails. And without the Gottfried component, the $90 million disappears.

So at the end of this road, funding for River Road could be back at the beginning again.

Retirees only

BOB VEDDER PUBLISHER

The job of Venice City Council member has changed a lot.

For years the council job did not demand too much of a person's time. There was the every-otherweek council meeting that took the afternoon. Additionally, there was an assignment to a committee or advisory board, and occasional workshops for the budget or maybe a joint meeting with the county. If you wanted, there were community apmember a much tougher job. It is certainly no longer a part-time job, at least as it is now constituted.

A person like Vicky Noren, who has a full-time job, finds it impossible to make all of the workshops and special meetings. While her employer and she were prepared for the previous meeting schedule, the new one is too much. It would be so for anyone holding a full-time job unless they ran the business and could afford to be away from it that long.

It looks like this job is becoming a job for retirees only. Hopefully, we will get through the backlog of work and get to a more reasonable schedule that will allow all people to be able to consider holding it.

Back then they were not paid much for their work. The pay increased — still not exactly the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, but since then the work has greatly increased.

There have been many big projects that have gone before council that are very time consuming. This can be looked at in different ways.

For years council members took their lead from city staff and pretty much accepted what was given to them without too much questioning. It has been a weakness of previous councils, in my opinion. There just was not enough questioning of the work being proposed.

Transition to the new council and that has changed drastically, where there are meetings all the time, some excruciatingly long.

The new council members had pledged to listen to the public better and this has added a lot of time to the meetings. That is good, but the time demands in some cases have gone overboard.

They also wanted to have more input on decisions, such as with the comprehensive plan, which was set to be approved virtually as presented. They have gone through that one village or neighborhood at a time, which I applaud to get it right but it has taken an enormous amount of time

So while there are some good things coming out of the increased time being spent on the city's work, it makes being a council

Today is a big day for Venice High School as its girls softball team attempts tonight to win the first of two games necessary to become state champion.

The girls are 30-0 — the best record ever by a Venice High team — and should they win one more it will be the most wins ever. They are incredibly exciting.

Although pitcher Stephanie Sullivan gets most of the credit, this team has some good offense and great defense, as shown in their 1-0 regional championship win. I hope we get a huge turnout for the 7 p.m. game in Plant City tonight as this will be close to a home game for Lakeland's George Jenkins, their opponent. Tripp Miller, our sports editor, has directions to the game for you on his page.

If they win, the championship game is 7 p.m. Thursday.

We have recently returned to our home in Rochester, N.Y., after two months in Venice. Our friends in Venice sent us your article regarding the South Jetty concession stand problem. We do not own a place in Venice, but have been visiting there for eight years.

The South Jetty is a favorite destination of ours many times during the week. We go there for a hot dog for lunch and enjoy the view. (We do ride our bikes to work off the hot dog.) From the crowd there, whenever we go, it is not just us that enjoy it.

What a shame if that nice place is forced off the property. How can the Corps give a permit without an easement first in place? Will the concession on the North Jetty endure the same bureaucratic nightmare should work there be necessary?

There has to be an answer to the problem, and the citizens of Venice should not be financially liable for their mistake. Let the Corps pay. It will be spread through the federal system that has funds contributed by all states, making all of us who use it responsible.

Whatever final decision is made, the plan should include keeping the concession stand. It would even be nice if it were open in the evening to have "a dog" while watching the sunset.

I hope there is enough outrage about this so citizens get involved.

No money for airport repairs Editor:

What a disappointment for users of the Venice Municipal Airport.

In just a few short months the newly elected city council majority has wiped out years of successful effort toward obtaining federal and state funding to improve the airport.

What a shame (figuratively and literally). Visitors to our airport are "greeted" with rusted and corroded buildings. The FAA Airport/Facility Directory warns pilots, "Cracks throughout runways with grass encroachment." Rather than simply warn, why not fix?

Aircraft flight crews using KVNC should not be at risk for foreign-object damage to propellers and engines.

The taxiways need center-line reflective striping for night-time use. It's difficult to navigate along the taxiways in the dark.

Night-time flights tend to be high priority, such as transporting human organ transplants. Moving slowly along a dark taxiway, hoping to stay centered and not damage their aircraft reflects poorly on Venice Municipal Airport.

I'm a 67-year-old commercial pilot who flies a Mooney M20J hangared at KVNC.

LET 'EM HAVE IT: IS THERE A LOCAL INTERSECTION THAT NEEDS A TRAFFIC SIGNAL? CALL US AT 207-1111. Still not seeing the light

Waiting game. I don't know what they're waiting for little bit, please. The best to put a set of lights up on Venice East Boulevard and 41. They had an accident there today and there was one two weeks ago. They had it all set up for traffic lights about a year and a half ago because of the development across the way, and then they came and took them down and put the flashers back up. What are they waiting for, someone to get killed there before they put a set of lights up? Something should be done and very shortly.

A beginning. The Legacy Trail, where does it begin? A great many people were excited about the completion of the Legacy Trail with its grand opening and ribbon-cutting ceremony. On Sunday, my retired friends and I met at the train depot in Venice thinking we would be starting our bike ride there. What we found was that the trail ended a hundred yards or so beyond the depot. We came to an iron fence with a sign attached that read, "Closed," as there was a waterway just beyond the fence. There was mass confusion. We could see the trail starting up again beyond the water, but there was no information about a detour or where to go to pick up the trail. We went up to Route 41, turned north and took many little turns thinking we would see the beginning of the trail. Many, many people were confused. Some gave up, some went home, no one had any information. We heard we should go to Laurel Road, after fighting traffic and almost being hit crossing to the other side with cars flying by while on the bike strip. We finally made it to Laurel Road and found the trail. Not good. Very frustrating, unsafe and a real hassle. Help us by making it easier with some bold signs at the depot; and especially an attention-getter in your next edition, to guide us a way to take the trail now, excluding all the detours, is to drive straight to Laurel Road, find the big sign "Legacy Trail," park your car at the small parking area there and start your trip. Enjoy.

(9) Aggressive (10) Hates airplanes, especially if they fly over her house.

Finished. Well, now we have a Legacy Trail. A trail should be more than a few hundred yards down from the train station. Nevertheless, give me the Venetian Waterway Park over that Legacy Trail any day because the Venetian Waterway Park is at least finished.

Recess. I'd like to let you know whether Venice is

I don't understand a person even thinking of putting a parking lot garage there. It must be someone who doesn't live there in that area. Parking garages belong outside the island of Venice.

"First, staff is seeking the critically eroded designation from the Florida Department of Environmental Protection for the shoreline in the northern potential project area," Staub said. "Second, they're preparing a 20-year funding analysis for Tourism Development Tax funds. Third, they're developing a revised homeowner survey that will measure current support for beach nourishment, given specific funding levels."

Wreford said that survey would be completed by late August.

Manasota Key resident Paul Vincent Zecchino suspected the county's Additional local spon-

"The county pulled a bait-and-switch," Zecchino said. "They've convinced these people they're going to lose their homes. The county wants beach renourishment, so they're scaring some citizens out of their wits in order to get it."

Staub disagreed.

"You'll always have people that, when they don't agree with what they hear as the answer, they say they haven't gotten an answer," Staub said. "There is no estimate of cost (on this project and) there is no method of who is going to pay what."

than if it were widened to six lanes.

" 'Traffic calming,' they call it these days," Howe said. "There's a big re-evaluation going on, nationwide, regarding that. Context sensitive design says you ought to consider the entire environment of the surrounding community when you are doing transportation improvements."

Changing the plan, slowing the traffic and keeping the bypass at four lanes would decrease the cost of the project.

"That's not where we are right now, but that could be where we are a few months from now" after consideration of the plan by Venice City Council and the Sarasota County Commission, Drake said.

widen a road, "can we do something that still will help the quality of that transportation corridor?"

The varying plans for the future of the bypass show how drivers assign their own uses to roads and how politicians and planners must adapt to them.

"We can't avoid progress," Drake said. "Was (the bypass) built to bypass downtown? Yes. But I-75 was built to bypass the cities, but yet now we are using it to commute from one exit to another."

is planning growth in Thomas Ranch.

"One of the most frustrating things is to go to an intersection and you can't get through the light on the first cycle," Drake said. "But if you add dual leftturn lanes or dual rightturn lanes and you can get everybody through in one cycle, everybody is a lot happier."

"As long as it is where it is on our priority list and as long as there is energy being put forward by the (River Road) Task Force, the city of North Port and Sarasota County, it's reasonably optimistic that you will see some improvements (on River Road)," Howe said.

It may be five to 10 years. Developers such as Stan Thomas of Thomas Ranch, who recently pledged $90 million toward widening River Road north of U.S. 41, will play a portation and Infrastructure Committee. His relationship with local elected officials is vital to securing funding, particularly earmarks. A six-year federal transportation bill will be adopted next fall.

"There's been a heavy debate in Congress over the past two years over whether earmarks are a key role. Another key role will be played by U.S. Congressman Vern Buchanan, who sits on the House Trans-

SPRING NOTEBOOK

Burton asserting himself

BY TRIPP MILLER SPORTS EDITOR

Venice High School's Clay Burton is making himself known as more than Trey's little brother on the football practice field.

The rising sophomore has likely earned himself a spot on the defensive line as a weak-side tackle. Working at that position with the first team defense in practice Tuesday, Burton forced a fumble and hurried the scout team quarterback on the next play to praise from teammates and coaches.

"He's going to be a huge asset to our team this year, I believe," said Dave Butler, the Indians' offensive and co-defensive line coach. "He looks good on both offense and defense... He's been looking good everywhere we put him."

Coaches expect Burton will see time at defensive tackle, defensive end and tight end.

"He's a big kid," Butler said of the 6-4, 210-pound freshman. "He's athletic, he's good on his feet so he's going to be a player."

Filling the O-line

Tackle Mike Lopez reported to spring camp exactly 49 pounds lighter than at the end of last season. Tackle Billy Nagle didn't drop quite so much weight, but coaches are hounding him to shed a few more pounds before the start of the fall. Those two, especially Lopez, should be much improved but the rest of the line is still wide open.

"He's really come a long way since last year," Butler said of Lopez, who

The Venice High School softball team is 30-0.

The Lady Indians have already won the District 5A-12 championship and the Region 5A-3 championship.

They have one of the best pitchers in the state, Stephanie Sullivan, and a slugger, Chelsea Zgrabik, that's batting better than .500 with 12 home runs. But you would never know just how seriously they take it by watching them in practice or during pregame warm-ups.

'Sometimes they get a little out of control, goofy-wise," Venice Head Coach Larry Sandburg said after Venice captured the district championship April 18.

One need look no further than the Indians' pregame tradition to see the kind fun-loving temperament that has kept this team loose during an undefeated season.

"Do-it" started sometime during the 2006 season, when Venice made it to the regional semifinals. Before the start of each game, the girls circle up in front of the dugout and dance. They've done it for all but one game this year.

First the freshmen, then the sophomores, then the juniors, then the seniors and finally the coaches break it down in the middle of the circle. The whole routine takes less than five minutes, but it's just enough to get out the butterflies.

Popular opinion among the seniors is that third baseman Kayla Ellingsen (.394 BA, 17 RBIs) is the best dancer.

"I'm not afraid to let loose," she said.

Assistant coach Mike Zgrabik, with the patented "bend-and-snap" move, was the unanimous choice for best-dancing coach.

Bruno Tonioli and Carrie Ann Inaba might not give either one of them a high score, but that doesn't bother them.

"It's a time for us to just relax and get the nerves out," Ellingsen said. "Especially for the big games."

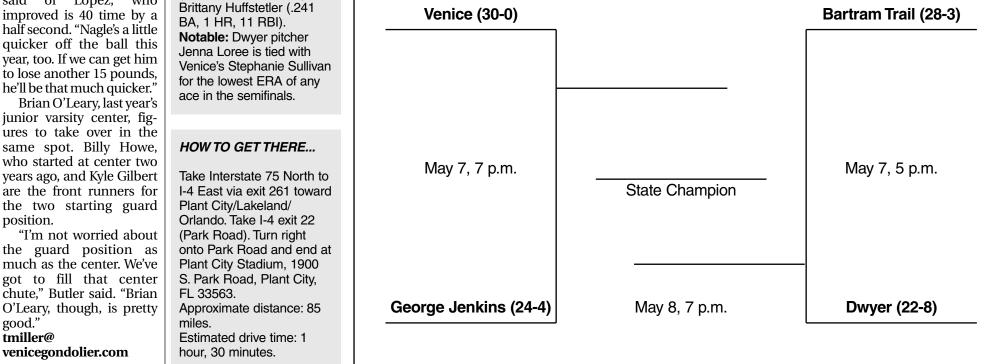

The Indians will play in the biggest game of their softball career Wednesday when they take on Lakeland George Jenkins High School (24-4) in the FHSAA Class 5A state semifinals at 7 p.m. Both teams are making their first state semifinals appearance.

Jenkins pitcher Brittaney Alderman (16-3, 0.72 ERA) has carried the Eagles to this point, allowing just one

Ride the fan bus to the softball tourney

There will be a charter bus taking fans to and from the FHSAA Class 5A state softball semifinals in Plant City, where Venice High School takes on George Jenkins High School at 7 p.m. Wednesday. Should the Indians win that game, they will take on the winner of Bartram Trail High School vs. Dwyer High School in the state championship May 8 at 7 p.m. A bus will be going to and from that game as well.

The All Around Charters bus is open to the public as well as students. Cost will be determined by the number of people riding. Call Dianne Gray at 488-

Calling on Mother Nature

MR. SHEEPSHEAD COLUMNIST

It's amazing the things that we don't see.

It just dawned on me that the coquinas seem to have disappeared from our beaches. Maybe it's the time of the year that they migrate? I haven't seen any in my travels from Lee County to the Tampa Bay area. I'm talking about months since I've seen them.

Where are the ghost crabs? I walk miles and miles on the beach and I don't see them. Now we have red algae washing up on our beaches. Do not confuse this with the dreaded red tide. It was so bad Sunday that you could not use a lure on the beach. Monday, the same beach was clear with no sign of it on the shoreline.

When is Mother Nature going to give us some consistent east wind to calm down the surf? Our shoreline is starting to remind me of the Atlantic side of Florida.

Inshore report

There's bait along the shore, but I'm not sure what they are. The Venice Jetties and the Venice Municipal Pier have been slow. An occasional pompano, jack, king mackerel, Spanish mackerel and mangrove snapper. I wish I had better news to report.

Well, fellow Sheepsheadites, we'll talk again next week.

Mr. Sheepshead is Dave Hack. Contact him at 321-8849, 486-1998 or mrsheepshead@ verizon.net.

run in the state series tournament. They also bring two hitters with better than .400 batting averages. First baseman Kayla Gabel has six home runs and 42 RBIs this season.

The Indians have Sullivan (24-0, 0.42 ERA) to carry them if the bats don't get hot against Alderman. Sullivan has not given up more than two runs in a game all season.

But Venice has Zgrabik (.506 BA, 12 HR, 42 RBIs) and Mo Sandidge (.420 BA, 3 HR, 24 RBIs) as well as five other hitters that bat better than .300. The Indians have plenty of weapons.

"To be honest, we've both never made it to states and now we're both there so someone's gotta go," Venice center fielder Niki Clark said.

The time has come for the Indians to "do-it."

"I think it gets us ready," Venice designated player Amanda Harvey said of their pregame routine. "We know before every game we're going to do that so we know that it's actually game time."

Transit board has big plans

BY ED SCOTT STAFF WRITER

As South County grows, what good would it do to have a regional light-rail system drop passengers off near Interstate 75 if they couldn't catch a bus to a local business, shopping center or Manatee Community College?

That's why it's important for the Sarasota/Manatee Metropolitan Planning Organization and area municipalities to work closely with the Tampa Bay Area Regional Transportation Authority — which the Florida Legislature created last year, said Mike Howe, executive director of the MPO.

TBARTA, a 15-member board, includes elected commissioners from Sarasota, Manatee, Pinellas, Hillsborough, Pasco, Citrus and Hernando counties and several city government representatives. Mayor Wayne Poston of Bradenton represents the cities of Sarasota and Manatee counties on the board.

"We're looking after the same goals (as TBARTA)," Howe said. "Even though, under the legislation they have a wide range of authority to do roads and rail and bus systems."

"It's not (just) rail; it's regional transit," said Bob Clifford, TBARTA project manager. "Rail could be a part of that. It could also be managed lanes on the interstate."

The board is developing a regional transportation master plan it hopes is completed by Dec. 31. Clifford said the plan will reflect a "big picture" outlook.

"When people travel around the region, they don't worry about a jurisdictional boundary line," Clifford said. "They just want to get to where they want to go."

The possibilities for TBARTA's impact are endless. For example, a person could get on a bus in North Port and get off later that day at Tropicana Field in St. Petersburg or Raymond James Stadium in Tampa.

'Right and wrong'

North Port Commission Chair Fred Tower said Rep. Bill Galvano, R-Bradenton, has a plan to take the counties' $2 surcharge on rental cars and use that to fund TBARTA programs.

That's $18 million over the next five years just in Sarasota County, Tower said. Manatee's share is $3.8 million.

But Galvano's bill wasn't heard in the state Senate this session, so "it may not go anywhere," Clifford said. Tower spoke with Sarasota County Commissioner Nora Patterson about TBARTA recently. The county, he said, was trying to drop out of TBARTA about four months ago.

"Early on, the Sarasota County Commission and other counties were cautious about what TBARTA is and what it is going to do," Clifford said. "Those were all fair concerns. (But) Sarasota County has made it clear they are in this game. They are part of TBARTA and will be active participants."

"He's right and wrong," Patterson said. "I believe we aren't going to get out. We won't have that prerogative. We've been trying to get out for some time ... (according to Tallahassee) we can't."

Tower has a different perspective.

"If we want to be a regional transportation player, TBARTA is going to be our engine, and that is where the money is going to go," he said. "It's like everything else in the state. We're going more regional."

TBARTA's next meeting will be 9 a.m. Friday, May 23, at the Tampa office of the Florida Department of Transportation, 11201 N. McKinley Drive.

'Venice Carnevale'

BY MARTY DOVER STAFF WRITER

t was like a blind date that blossomed into a love affair.

Courtland "Corky" Dalton and his wife, Linda, came to Venice because their friends, who passed through on their sail boat some years ago, told them they would like it.

"We decided to visit Venice to see for ourselves," Dalton said.

That led to the month-long date this April when the Daltons fell in love, and became intimately involved, with Venice. They departed with a vow to return, leaving behind a token of their appreciation — Dalton's photo montage of Venice scenes that demonstrates just how well they came to know the city.

What is it?

Titled "Venice Carnevale," the montage comprises 130 photographs of sites in the Venice area, many of which some visitors never discover. They were taken within a period of six days, followed by 45 hours of Photoshop computer editing.

"These are not just photos," said Dalton. His photo montages hold "secrets, whimsy, nostalgia, satire and double entendres which become apparent only when the viewer looks in the box, but thinks outside," he states. The longer you look at it, the more it reveals, he said. For instance, the theme in "Venice Carnevale" is represented by several carnival masks placed throughout the montage.

There is humor, as well. "I particularly like the Town Gallery cat, hiding in the montage.

Dalton's propensity for double entendres is evident. He placed the Venice Stationers sign over the Venice Train Station, cutting off the last "s." "I took some artistic license," Dalton said. The result is that the statue of Gunther Gebel-Williams seems to be labeled as the "Venice Stationer."

Dalton learned a lot about Venice history, which is represented by several photos, at least one from the Venice Archives & Area Historical Collection. The historical sites include both the obvious and the obscure. He used a photo from Nokomis because it, along with Venice, was once known as Horse and Chaise.

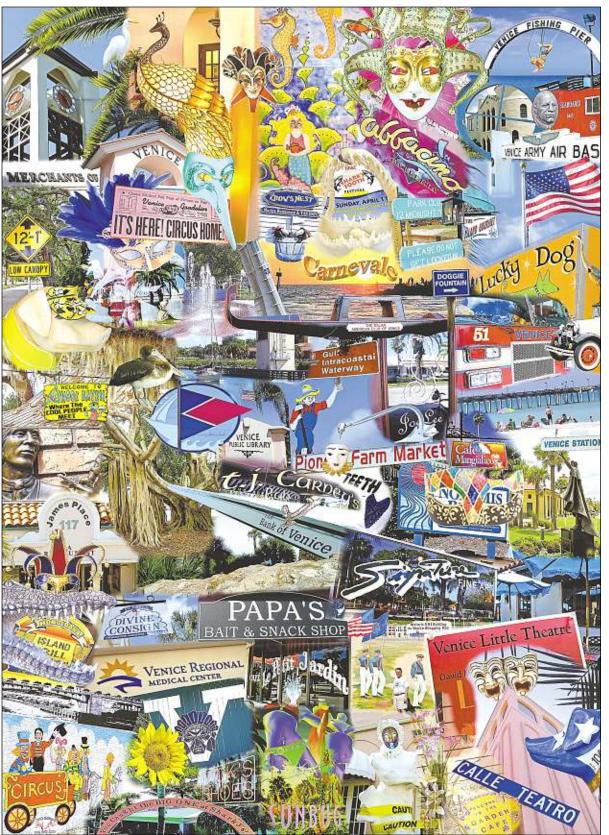

A graduate of the last Kentucky Military Institute class, Duane Cornell, who recently donated his KMI caps and a blanket to the archives, appears in one photo. (Hint: Look for the wall mural behind the Venice Gondolier Sun print shop.)

There is beauty in many of the photos. Dalton found the 5foot, glass, illuminated peacock in the lobby of Summerville on Nassau Avenue.

"I think that's one of the most beautiful things in Venice," he said.

A hobby born of necessity

Dalton retired eight years ago after working 30 years for the Pennsylvania state government in human resources and systems. His wife, Linda, taught seventh-grade English for 30 years. Avid travelers, they accumulated photographs from China, New Zealand, Europe, South America, the Caribbean and Antarctica. That generated a lot of photographs!

Hall clock tower," Dalton said. "Look closely and you'll see the two clocks are not showing the same time." Indeed, they are not.

He positioned two of Tito Gaona's flying trapeze students apparently swinging from the arched sign at the Venice Fishing Pier. You might be able to find Stuie, the Signature Fine Art "My wife, Lin, got me started doing photo montages," said Dalton. "We had too many photographs in albums and on discs that were never looked at. Lin

Win at the pump: Visit area attractions and resorts

KIM COOL FEATURES EDITOR

Beat the high cost of gas by staying a little closer to home when you travel this spring and summer.

Within a two- or threehour drive of Venice are most of the places that people from other states and countries must fly to — going through airport security checks, paying top dollar for tickets and then having to pay fuel surcharges for their plane tickets and, now, for their cruises too.

While we may be equally unlucky in that we too have to pay more at the pump, we are still in the driver's seat because what most people like to see and do on vacation is in our own backyard.

Area resorts are in tune too, offering deals and lures to Florida residents for overnight stays and special programs for daytrippers too.

In Orlando, the Gaylord Palms Resort is hosting a summer-long Pirate Treasure Hunt, with a grand prize of $10,000. Imagine staying in the lap of luxury while treasure hunting for a $10,000 prize? Sure beats using a crumpled up map to dig up some deserted island in hopes that some pirate actually did bury his treasure there and that no one has yet found it. Fat chance. The odds are ever so much better at the Gaylord Palms and even if you don't win, you will have had the fun of the search, interspersed with some great meals, downtime at either the adult pool or the family pool with its turtle and octopus fountains. You can even dine on board a ship in the indoor harbor at the Gaylord. And for the ultimate in relaxation, use the money you save on airfare to visit the resort's Canyan Ranch spa for some therapeutic bodywork. The stone massage, for example, is done with rounded basalt stones, which are heated in hot water and then dipped in oil prior to being used as tools to penetrate muscle tissue. That treatment takes 80 minutes and the result is 180 degrees from the result of most 80-minute flights.

To the south, in Fort

Myers, the Edison and Ford Winter Estates have put together several special events.

Enjoy Mina Edison's tea in the newly restored caretaker's house at the estates today, May 7 or May 14 or 21 or June 4, at 2 p.m.

Should you choose to visit today, be sure to check out Manfred Behr's "Moonlight Garden," which will be exhibited only until May 12. The actual garden itself, will be the focus of a

GOREN BRIDGE

Q1 - As South, vulnerable, you hold:

▲ J 5 ♡ A K J 5 3 ◊ K Q 6 2 ♣ A J

Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?

A - Years ago, this would not have been a problem — everyone would jump shift to three hearts. If partner then rebids three no trump, you would have no idea where to place the contract. These days, you jump shift with one of two types of hand – either a self-sufficient suit or a fit for partner's suit. Correct is to conserve space by bidding two hearts, then bid strongly thereafter.

Q 2 - Both vulnerable, as South, you hold:

▲ A 6 ♡ 9 5 ◊ A Q 7 6 2 ♣ J 9 5 4

The bidding has proceeded: NORTH EAST SOUTH SOUTH WEST 1 What action do you take?

A - That depends on your methods. If you play negative doubles (for takeout, not penalties), by all means make one. If not, you are not good enough for a cue-bid of the overcaller's suit and must be satisfied with an overcall of two diamonds.

Q 3 - Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

▲ K7 ♡ A Q 7 4 3 ◊ K 7 ♣ 9 6 5 2

The bidding has proceeded: NORTH EAST SOUTH NORTH WEST SOUTH 1NT Pass 2\0* Pass Pass *transfer to hearts What do you bid now?

A - There is a temptation to bid three clubs to describe our distribution. But what if partner raises to four clubs, which is quite likely considering your strength in the other suits? Instead, we would jump to three no trump, offering partner a choice of games — either three no trump or four hearts.

Q 4 - As South, vulnerable, you hold:

▲854 ♡J73 ◇AK63 ♣982

The bidding has proceeded: SOUTH WEST NORTH EAST 2NT* *Unusual, takeout for minors What do you bid now?

A - This is a problem? You have three-card support for partner's major and two fast winners into the bargain. Not to bid three spades is an insult to partner.

Q 5 - As South, vulnerable, you hold:

▲ A 98 ♡ Q 7 4 ◇ A K 9 4 ♣ A 10 5

The bidding has proceeded: SOUTH WEST NORTH EAST 1NT Pass 24 Pass

What do you bid now?

A - Partner is asking you to bid a four-card major, if you have one. You do not. There is only one way to proceed, regardless of the strength of your opening — bid two diamonds to deny a major. Partner might have a very weak hand and is looking for a place to bail out.

Q 6 - Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

▲75 ♡ 109743 ◊ 053 ♣ K 42

The bidding has proceeded: NORTH EAST SOUTH^{*} WEST Pass $1\heartsuit$ Pass Dbl Pass What action do you take?

A - To convert the double to penalties is unthinkable — partner has not promised more than some 11 points in high cards and you have only one sure trick in opener's suit. One no trump must also be dismissed that shows a good hand. By a process of elimination, take out to three clubs, your cheaper three-card fragment.

HUMOR COLUMNIST

I can't believe that a guy in Connecticut was stopped by the police for dunking a cookie into a glass of milk. After hearing about this absolute miscarriage of justice, I decided to check it out. My research has taught me several things that should be shared with those who read my diatribe about "Big Brother," and what we might do about it.

But first, and in fairness, I should inform you that the above mentioned driver was in fact, speeding through a small town while driving on a suspended license. Big deal! It wasn't like he was choking down a brewski or anything as he sped through the small, quaint village. He did, however, admit to having a sugar high from the massive infusion of Oreos consumed moments before being stopped. He also admitted that he had been unable to separate the cookie, to expose the white filling. If he had, he told the officer, he would not have had to hunt for the screwdriver in the glove box, which caused him to drive on the sidewalk.

And, had he had his reg-dunk his cookies, he would not have spilled the contents of the Dixie cup he was using onto his lap, which, of course, caused a plunging reaction of his right foot, thereupon accelerating the car over the curb at law-breaking speeds. One would think that, with this admitted, near implausible explanation, that any officer of the law would be laughing too hard to even consider writing the poor guy a tick-

I have taken this opportunity to extend an invitation to the cookie-dunking driver in Connecticut to come to Florida and learn the correct way to consume a complete breakfast, lunch, and/or dinner, including dessert, while not only driving at perilous speeds, but how to do it while talking on a cell phone and/or navigating orange pylons placed intermittently for what only could be — for the hell of it.

Only this morning, I was passed by a driver, whose sex will remain anonymous, who had a doughnut lying on the dashboard while she applied eyeliner with one hand, cradling a cell phone between her head and her shoulder, and held a cup of coffee in the other hand. If she was steering, it had to be with her knees. I'm not sure how she even could see with the smoke from a cigarette hanging from the corner of her mouth curling up into her blinking eyes.

Inasmuch as so many of us do not take the time to eat an adequate breakfast before making the drive to our places of employment, I am working on a couple of ideas that will help resolve the problem of being late for work, should we take time to eat breakfast before starting our day.

First, I've designed a spill-proof coffee pot that will sit on the dashboard. It will have a cooling tube that will extend from the pot directly to the driver's mouth, eliminating the need to hold a cup. Next, I figured out how to put a toaster in the glove box that will "pop-out" rather than "pop-up." The angle of the "popping" mechanism will be such that it will actually shoot the toast directly into the driver's mouth, eliminating the need to actually reach across to the glove box.

The center console will contain a small microwave oven with only one setting, requiring that the driver only set the timer prior to starting the car. As the engine is started, a prepackaged breakfast will be heated to the correct preset temperature allowing for immediate consumption without having to worry about burning one's lips, or God forbid, other prohoudelous parts should the food fall from onto one's lap.

Now before anyone thinks it might be a silly idea to consume breakfast

TERRI SCHLICHENMEYER THE BOOKWORM

Did you ever hold an arrowhead in your hand?

If you did, you understand the awe that an ancient artifact brings when it's touched today, centuries later.

Many years ago, some-one sat in the dirt and chipped that rock until it was sharp. He notched a straight twig and fastened the rock to make a weapon. And he did it without power tools, a fancy workshop, or a trip to the hardware store. It kind of makes you humble, doesn't it?

In the new book "The People of the Weeping Eye" by W. Michael Gear and Kathleen O'Neal Gear, you'll read a grand story about arrows and art, war, politics and lower Mississippi culture long gone.

Old White, also called Seeker, didn't know why he was looking for the woman. He wasn't even sure where he was going to find her or what she looked like, but when he saw Two Petals, he knew she was and bound for death, Two Petals was speaking nonsense when Old White used a fake hocus-pocus to rescue her, and they headed via canoe for Split Sky City.

But traveling with Two Petals wasn't easy. She was a Contrary, so everything she did was the opposite of what she was told to do and she said the opposite of what she meant. Somehow, though, Seeker knew it was she who he needed.

Years before, Trader had fled his home after an unspeakable action.

Known as a man with no family and no home, Trader traveled the waters north and south to barter with village chiefs. But now that he had a fortune in copper in his canoe, it was of vital necessity that he quickly move south. When he met up with Old White and Two Petals, Trader tried to keep his secret, but it was as if the old man and the maiden saw into Trader's souls.

But none of them knew what awaited them at Split Sky City: A vicious war had broken out and the warrior Smoke Shield sought retaliation. Captives had been taken and tortured on both sides and Smoke Shield's power was growing. While Old White wrestled with a best-forgotten past, Trader confronted his head-on.

"People of the Weeping Eye" is an epic of grand scale, complete with ceremony and warfare, Clan lineage and Clan clashes, torture and love. Authorarchaeologists Gear and O'Neal Gear make 13thcentury lower Mississippi life come alive in a story rich with detail and intrigue. At the end of this book, they admit that they're planning a sequel, since this book is not really The End. I can see fans grinning from here.

Be aware that if you're new to the Gears' style of writing, it's going to take a little getting used to. You'll spend a good amount of your reading time paging back to remind yourself about plot lines, but it's worth doing. If you're already a fan of these authors, though, "People of the Weeping Eye" will make you weep with joy.

DEAR ABBY COLUMNIST

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law — I'll call her "Irene" — refers to our 3-year-old daughter, "Amber," as "sexy." When she buys clothing for Amber, she will say, "This is sexy." When Amber was younger and would pull up her dress in play, Irene would say, "Are you trying to be sexy?" Luckily, when it has happened, Amber either didn't hear or remember her comments.

I'm afraid if we don't put a stop to it, Irene will continue saying these things. Maybe she thinks it's cute, but I would like to keep my little girl innocent as long as I can.

My husband agrees with me, but he's afraid of offending his mother. Why would a grandmother call her young granddaughter "sexy"? Please advise. AMBER'S MOMMY IN CLEVELAND

DEAR MOMMY: Your mother-in-law may have a limited vocabulary, or she may be projecting her adult feelings onto Amber not realizing children her granddaughter's age do not experience sexual feelings the way adults do. Whatever Irene's reasoning, I agree that her comments are inappropriate, and she should be told to cut them out. With marketing, advertising and media the way they are today, your little girl will be bombarded with promotional messages in which sex is a sales tool before she hits kindergarten. She doesn't need to be sexually objectified by her grandmother, too.

DEAR ABBY: "Frustrated in Colorado" (March 1) complained about people attempting to send faxes on her phone line. She should be thankful for a stable, busy job in a thriving business.

Most fax machines today scan documents into memory and put them into an automated "queue" the same one that usually tries to transmit three times. I handle it by simply hitting the "transfer" button on my phone, so the call is routed to my fax line. Then I move on to other tasks. If you pass this on to her, it will relieve her frustration.

Tell her I said to "smile, have a nice day, and remember the words of Sgt. Joe Friday: 'It's just the fax, ma'am.' " — LARRY FROM MARLTON, N.J. DEAR LARRY: Thank you for the technical advice. DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old girl. My boyfriend and I are planning for a future together. We are seriously discussing marriage.

My problem is, when I was 14, my older brother molested me. I eventually found the courage to tell my parents.

They confronted him, he apologized, and we all got on with our lives. We haven't spoken about it since.

Should I tell my boyfriend about this? It has affected my life. I have trouble trusting people, and I feel this is something he needs to know. However, my brother and I get along well now.

I don't want my boyfriend wanting to hurt my brother every time we have a family function. What should I do? -TROUBLED IN AUS-TRALIA

DEAR TROUBLED: Although your brother has apologized and the subject hasn't been spoken about since, it has affected the way you perceive others. And the behavior your brother displayed when he molested you shows that — at least at that time in his life — he had a lack of empathy for the feelings of others, namely you.

You could benefit greatly by discussing what happened with a counselor who has expertise in sexual assault, and frankly, so could your brother.

However, I see no reason to discuss what happened with your boyfriend until you become formally engaged, particularly because he might react in a volatile manner.

while driving to work, there is a good side to it, besides saving time. Assuming a driver of my newly designed car is unfortunate enough to get stopped by an officer of the law, he, the driver, should consider inviting the officer to share a hot cup of coffee, or perhaps a doughnut kept in the storage cabinet beneath the seat. Who knows — if the officer takes you up on it, it could save you from getting a ticket.

I'm betting the guy in Connecticut didn't offer the arresting officer a cookie, which would be enough to make any arresting officer angry.

I carry doughnuts just for that reason. You just never know when you might need one.

April Sertoma Club Students and Educator of the Month named

FROM VENICE SERTOMA CLUB

Venice Sertoma Club honored two Venice High School seniors and one of their teachers as Students and Educator of the Month of April. The honor was presented at the club's April 24 meeting.

Students of the month are Nicole Clark and Jeffrey Staudenmaier. Educator of the Month is Iras L. Roback.

Nicole Clark holds a 4.6 grade-point average, has won many awards for her skills in softball including Defensive Player of the Year, Principal's Academic Award, Athlete of the Week and Highest Batting Average. She served as captain of the VHS varsity team this year. Clark also ran junior varsity cross country throughout high school. She is a member of National Honor Society and Spanish Honor Society. She serves as chair of the Foster's Angels fundraiser.

Clark will attend Manatee Community College, where she received a softball scholarship. She hopes attend a university to major in pharmacology.

She is the daughter of Roger and Brenda Clark of Venice.

Jeffrey Staudenmaier holds a 4.35 grade-point average. He played football throughout his high school years, earning the Football Academic Award twice. In his senior season, he received the Strongest Link Award.

Staudenmaier plans to attend the University of Central Florida and major in international political science or business, and minor in Spanish. He hopes to follow that with training at the Federal Bureau of Investigation Academy in Quantico, Va., to become an FBI agent.

He is the son of Karen Staudenmaier of Venice.

Iras Roback is the Venice High School orchestra director and guitar instructor. She earned a bachelor's degree in fine arts from Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh, Pa., and attended graduate school at Boston University in piano performance. She taught piano and eurhythmics at Eckerd College in St. Petersburg, and maintained a private studio for 31 years.

In 1997, Roback conducted the Florida West Coast Symphony as the mystery maestro at the Valentine Pops Concert, inspiring her to pursue a master's degree in orchestral conducting at the University of South Florida. She was assistant conductor of the Sarasota Pops Orchestra at Van Wezel in Sarasota and is a member of American Symphony Orchestra League.

She is or has been a member of Music Teachers National Association, Florida Federation of Music Teachers, Florida State Music Educators Association and Manatee County Music Teachers Association, serving as its president.

Air Force Reserve Airman 1st Class Kyle D. Mings has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

During the six weeks of training, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization, and military customs and courtesies; performed drill and ceremony marches, and received physical training, rifle marksmanship, field training exercises, and special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen began trimming them and tacking them onto cork boards as montages." Then they could be seen and enjoyed, Dalton said.

Dalton took the idea and ran with it. After acquiring Photoshop about one and one-half years ago, he expanded his photography hobby into something more lucrative. His photo montage "Rain-ing Wrenches" of their home town, Mechanicsburg, Pa., (where they drop a wrench on New Year's Eve!) has been selling well in a gallery there. He created "Signs on Second" of Harrisburg and photographed other areas in central Pennsylvania, including the U.S. War College in Carlisle — and now, Venice.

What's next?

Dalton's first photo montage was of penguins. "I wasn't very happy with the result," he said. "I'm planning to redo it."

He added it will not require another trip to Antarctica.

presentation for those who stay for tea. To fully experience this elegant tradition, dress the part. Women should wear a summer frock and hat and the men should leave the black socks and sandal look at home at least this once, although that is a good look to avoid all the time. The price for tea is $35 per person for estates members and $40 per person for others. Reservations are strongly suggested. Call (239) 334-7419.

Tomorrow, May 8, or ton's plans is more whimsical.

"A friend of mine, who is known as 'The Mannequin Man,' has a warehouse containing 2,000-3,000 mannequins," he said. "I think I can have some fun with that."

He also plans to photograph the Gettysburg battlefields during the four seasons.

Art Fronkowiak, owner of Signature Fine Art Gallery on West Venice Avenue, was so impressed with "Venice Carnevale" that he has decided to sell framed limited editions of it at his gallery.

"I've had a lot of success with locally themed artwork," Fronkowiak said. "Corky's montage is atypical of other artists. I think it will appeal to the locals as well as the tourists."

Dalton agreed.

"The local residents are more familiar with the places in the montage and enjoy 'discovering' them as they look at it. At least, that's been the case in Mechanicsburg," he said.

"That's the reason I do this," Dalton said. "People enjoy it."

Meet CoCo and CiCi

Brother and sister, CoCo and CiCi, are light apricot toy poodles. These very affectionate, gentle, loving lap dogs are great with people and other dogs. (No cats, please.) They would do well with older children who know to be gentle. CoCo and CiCi are very intelligent, learn quickly and walk well on a leash. CoCo and CiCi would like to be adopted together. These little dogs need a lot of attention and an owner who is home most of the time. They will love sleeping with you and snuggling in your lap. Call EARS Animal Rescue Sanctuary at 475-0636.

two weeks from tomorrow, on May 22, the estates and Elderhostel are teaming up to present a special program about the history of the estates, the two recently restored homes (at a cost of $10 million) and the grounds. Cost of this special program, which includes the lectures, tours, lunch and refreshments, is $89 per person. The all-day program begins at 9 a.m. To register, call (877) 426-8056. For more information, call (239) 334-7419.

So that you don't have to get up and on the way, quite so early, go a day or two ahead and stay on Fort Myers Beach at the Pink Shell Resort, which has a delightful octopus pool, sandy beach and adjacent park. For reservations, call (239) 463-6181.

But make sure you are back in this area for the opening of "Come Blow Your Horn" May 13, at the Venice Little Theatre, 140 W. Tampa Ave., and "Chicago" the same week at the Golden Apple Dinner Theatre, 25 N. Pineapple Ave., Sarasota. Starring TV soap star Bill Hayes, "Chicago" promises to be a fun show and you get dinner too. Call the theater at 484-7711 for reservations.

The VLT also has its Family Theatre production of "The Hobbit" going on. That one opens May 8 and plays through May 18. For VLT tickets or information, visit venicestage.com or call 488-1115.

Venice moms and children rock

FRAN VALENCIC SOCIAL COLUMNIST

Moms and their children spent a recent morning dancing the fox trot, swing and salsa.

The day at Venice Elementary School began with a dance demonstration by fourth- and fifthgrade students who participated in a program taught by Evette Revelli, Sarah Glass and Davis Lisy. The American Dance Sport teachers spent two weeks working with more than 100 students.

When it came time to get in on in the fun, Margo Daut joined her son, Patrick, on the dance floor and the duo cut quite a rug. Three cheers to principal Theresa Baus for supporting this program and giving students a chance to rock.

Moms and music

At Venice Public Library, the Cecilian Music Society introduced its scholarship winners.

Chandelle LaForest watched her son, Ethan Hill Dudley, perform. Roberta Reale and Alyson King applauded their daughters, violinists Tif-fany King and Rebecca Reale. All three moms are Venice musicians.

Other students receiving awards were Jesse Martin, Stephany Fournier, Alexis Graw, Stephen Apple, James Reynolds, Anna Beldycki, Alyssa Hunek, Tiffany Miller, Mar- nel and battalion comgaret Pinkham and Sarah Vogelsong.

Lynn Theirry gets a bravo for organizing the event. Sarah Rideout-Slight and Bill Millner deserve a standing ovation for selecting the talented recipients.

Mom takes a bow

Maryellen Halas and her brothers Steven, Jim and Dave Doyle arrived at the Venice Yacht Club from Illinois and Miami just in time to give a bouquet of roses to their mom, Lorry Doyle. Finishing her terms as president of the Catholic Council of Women of Epiphany Cathedral, Lorry celebrated raising $32,000 for the Epiphany Cathedral School Scholarship Fund.
