THE CITY Council will hold a business meeting at 7:30 tonight. Agendas are available at the city clerk's office during the day. The session will be in city hall, 36601 Ford, west of Wayne Road.

IN THE ongoing public debate on the Wayne-Westland school district millage increase, school officials have really boiled down the cost of the tax increase for the average Westland taxpayer in the recent issue of "Focus," a publication of Wayne-Westland schools.

The tax increase amounts to about 65 cents a day for the owner of a $60,000 home that has a state equalized valuation of $30,000, according to school officials.

ON OTHER money matters, the Westland Local Officers Compensation Commission is scheduled to meet at noon Wednesday in City Hall, 36601 Ford, west of Wayne Road. The commission acted last month to freeze the salaries of the mayor and council members.

SIMMI PRASAD of Westland is making many local citizens proud. Chosen as Michigan's 1991 Young Woman of the Year (Junior Miss), Prasad now goes on to national competition. She's receiving quite a few congratulatory gestures along the way.

The Westland City Council adopted a resolution honoring Prasad during its meeting on Tuesday. She was there to accept the framed resolution and pose for pictures with city officials, including Mayor Robert Thomas.

SEVERAL FUND-RAISERS are being planned locally to raise money to combat everything from cancer to drug abuse. Among the fund drives: The American Cancer Society will conduct its annual drive in residential areas from April 27 to May 5.

The Muscular Dystrophy Association will conduct its annual neighborhood walk from May 11-21.

And the Michigan Elite Teens will solicit in residential areas in coming weeks to raise money for job-training opportunities, recreational activities and drug abuse awareness programs.

SO YOU WANT a career with the Ice Capades? Well, even if you don't succeed, you can certainly take up figure skating lessons at the Westland Sports Arena, on Wildwood and Hunter.

Registration for group lesson figure skating will be from 4-6 p.m. today and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday.

The eight-week session costs $32 and is open to all ages. For information, call the arena at 729-4560.

Groups and individuals may submit announcements to the Places and Faces column. Information must be in writing, contain a daytime phone number and be directed to the Westland Observer editorial department, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

Westland Center may be sold, enlarged

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Negotiations for the possible sale of Westland Center could result in a major expansion, including a second floor of shops and a Sears store, local officials confirmed Friday.

"That is part of the plan," said Scott Veldhuis, the city's economic director.

Homart Development Co. is negotiating with the mall's owner, Equitable Real Estate Investment Management Inc., for a potential sale that would bring dramatic changes to the

1-million-square-foot shopping center at the northwest corner of Warren and Wayne roads. The nearest Sears store is at Livonia Mall, on Seven Mile and Middlebelt.

Westland Planning Director George Wilhelm confirmed the negotiations, though he added that "they haven't pounded out a deal yet."

Homart officials have talked with the city administration about the preliminary plans for the project, Veldhuis said, but it was not immediately known when the possible sale might be completed and the changes implemented.

Chicago-based Homart is the development arm of the Coldwell Banker Commercial Real Estate Group, a division of Sears Roebuck and Co.

Officials have not disclosed a possible sale price for the 25-year-old mall that had its last major expansion in the fall of 1987, when the MainStreet department store (which was later bought by Kohl's) was added.

WESTLAND CENTER has an assessment of about $15.5 million, meaning its resale value would be about $31 million. However, that assessment doesn't include the merchandise value and the major stores of Hudson's, Kohl's and J.C. Penney, so the actual resale value would be much higher, said City Assessor William Schmidt.

Homart officials declined to release more details of the expansion that reportedly would also include a parking deck.

"I was told by our people that there is no additional information available at this time on that project," said Kevin Caulfield, Homart spokesman in Chicago.

Athletes challenge students

By Casey Hans
staff writer

Pro athletes took the nationally known "say no to drugs" slogan one step further this week, telling local students that their actions speak louder than words.

"I don't think that slogan is fitting enough," said Detroit Lions defensive back Benny Blades, who told students he grew up in an alcoholic family.

"A lot of kids are saying it and still doing it. It always comes down to making the right choices."

A GROUP of professional athletes, most of them football players, made the rounds of the Livonia Public Schools Wednesday, visiting Franklin and Churchill which serves the northern section of Westland, at school assemblies amid much hooting and cheering.

Called the Pro Challenge, the group competed with teams of student athletes in several physical events including volleyball, situps, relay races, three-point shoot, three-on-three football and basketball — and challenged entire student bodies to make the right choices in life.

Other athletes participating Wednesday in Livonia included Lions Kevin Glover and William White, Green Bay Packer Carl Bland, George Jamison, Sheldon White, Lions team chaplain Dave Wilson and Paul Hansen, youth minister at Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia who organized the Pro Challenge program in 1988 and keeps it going year after year.

EVEN THOUGH they don't bring religious overtones to their program, all the athletes come from a Christian background and are involved in a Bible study group through the church.

Programs are scheduled for several weeks, sandwiched between training and professional athletic seasons, said Wendy Bernard, Pro Challenge program coordinator.

Hansen said he has had a "tremendous" response from the education community to the combination program which alternates short athletic events with down-to-earth talk from the pro athletes.

"We have seen too many kids saying no, but doing it," Hansen added. "So our message to you is to not say 'no,' but to do 'no.' It's damaging to play with alcohol and drugs."

Council to attempt cable veto override

The Westland City Council will try tonight to override a mayoral veto and extend the agreement of the city's cable-TV programming and community relations director for three months.

The council agreed 4-3 last Monday to extend the contract of Cable Management Associates, owned by Dennis Fassett, for three months, or until May 1.

But Mayor Robert Thomas vetoed the council action the next day, saying that he has another cable director in mind to replace Fassett.

The city charter requires the council to have at least five votes to override a mayoral veto.

The recommended override is at the end of a council business meeting agenda. The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall, 36601 Ford.

While the mayoral-council squabble is up in the air, programming on the governmental channel (8) will continue, said mayoral assistant Ed Gunther.

Fireman challenges reason for dismissal

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

A Westland firefighter challenging his dismissal strongly denied Thursday that he took personal belongings from an apartment tenant he evicted last June.

"I never took anything," suspended battalion chief Paul Bush said.

Bush testified it would be "real unethical" for him to help himself to evictees' property, though he indicated that personal belongings become "abandoned" and could be legally taken once they're set outside.

Bush's statements came during a seven-hour administrative hearing — one in a series before a civil service commission charged with deciding whether the Oct. 3 firings of Bush and firefighter Mark Wilhite were justified. The panel is expected to rule by March 22.

She finds work with seniors rewarding

By Leonard Poger
editor

Linda Jean Rose can thank her grandfather for helping shape her career as a nursing home activity director.

The man, Howard Loehr, lived with Rose and her parents for six years before dying in 1985.

He was "intelligent, well read and had a good wit," she said.

"I liked his wisdom and neat stories," recalled Rose, activities director at Westland's Four Chaplain Convalescent Center, on Joy between Middlebelt and Inkster.

Rose, 28, said she "always associated better with adults," although she initially entered college to become a speech and pathology teacher. Later, she changed her major to secondary education.

But she discovered that "education wasn't for me," Rose said.

Eventually, she changed her major again, switching to gerontology and earning her bachelor of science degree from Northern Michigan University in 1989.

people

At first, "I didn't think I could handle a nursing home setting," said Rose, a 1980 graduate of Bentley High School in Livonia.

"But I got attached to the residents' kisses and hugs I get every day," Rose said.

THE DIRECTOR said that besides her grandfather's influence on her career, she studied the state's demographics in 1984 and saw the "graying of America" and that the gerontology field was underserved.

Rose has no regrets about her career changes.

She plans ultimately to become a nursing home administrator, expecting to take her required state exams for certification in April.

Rose said "I can make a difference on now things are run and done."

As activity director of Four Chaplain's 161 residents, Rose said she has a philosophy that she hopes will incorporate things that "bring back the memories of their hey days and to also bring in new ideas and help them with new experiences."

Her job at Four Chaplains is the most fulfilling position she has held "and the most gratifying experience I've ever had."

When she changed her college course of studies to gerontology at Northern Michigan, the university had just started its program.

"I liked the variety of classes," Rose said, admitting there was a hodge-podge of classes at the beginning of the program.

Majoring in psychology with a minor in recreation, Rose served an internship at the Middle Belt Nursing Centre in Livonia in 1986.

"I didn't think I could handle a nursing home setting," Rose recalled, "but I got attached to the patients."

She worked for Cambridge West Nursing Home in Redford Township in 1987, quitting two years later to finish her degree.

While at Cambridge West, her mother, Jessica Rose, volunteered her time. Mrs. Rose continued to volunteer at Four Chaplains.

"My mother helps me with special events and decorations," said the director.

WHILE GROWING up in Livonia, Rose was in the Bentley High School bands and concert choir.

"At first, I played trumpet (in the band) in the third section," she recalled. "I wanted to move up closer so I switched to the baritone horn."

Continuing her choral studies, Rose also sang with the Schoolcraft College Madrigal Choir for one year.

As a youngster, she was in the Girl Scouts. Later, she was a Cadet Girl Scout leader.

"I wanted to give something back," Rose said of her volunteer work with the scouting movement.

Victim of traffic accident identified as missing woman

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Police have identified the body of an emotionally disabled Westland woman who disappeared from a residential group home Feb. 12 and was killed that night when she walked into traffic on I-75 near Mack, Detroit.

Pallcia Kelly, 26, died Feb. 13 from injuries, including a broken neck, that she received when a vehicle struck her as she attempted to walk across the interstate's northbound lanes, police said.

The accident occurred at 11:10 p.m. Feb. 12, several hours after she walked away from a group home on Schuman Street, near Venoy and Palmer in Westland's south end.

Kelly, who had the mental capability of a 12-year-old, had been a ward of the state for 17 years. Her family had turned her over to the state when she was 9, and she hadn't had contact with relatives for years.

KELLY'S BODY had remained unidentified in the Detroit city morgue until Michigan State Police read published reports about her disappearance, police said. Kelly's description in the reports matched that of the woman at the morgue.

State police contacted the Westland Police Department, and a subsequent investigation by a state medical examiner matched Kelly's dental records with those of the woman who died at Detroit Receiving Hospital after the Feb. 12 accident on I-75.

Kelly's identity was confirmed Wednesday, said Westland police Sgt. Derek Delacourt.

POLICE DID not know how or why Kelly got to the location where she was killed, though they suspected she had been trying to return to another group home where she once lived in Chandler Park.

"She just stepped out into the lane of traffic," said state police Trooper Joseph O'Connor. "The vehicle was unable to avoid hitting her."

No charges have been filed, and the driver's identity has not been released, he said.

Kelly died hours later at Detroit Receiving Hospital. She had received a broken neck, a broken leg and other injuries, O'Connor said.

It was not immediately known when or where Kelly would be buried. Those arrangements were being worked out late last week by her legal guardian, Guardian Inc., of Wayne County.

Fireman denies he took property from evicted tenant

The city administration accused the two of taking property belonging to tenant Elaine Botz during a June 22 eviction from Hawthorne Club Apartments, on Merriman between Ann Arbor Trail and Warren Road.

During Thursday's hearing, city attorney C. Charles Bokos submitted pictures of Botz's property, including footlockers, a lawn chair, an air mattress, a typewriter and a bag of bed sheets and blankets, that Wilhide turned over to police after an investigation had begun.

BUSH'S ATTORNEY, James V. Fowler, objected to Bokos' move, saying "none of these objects are tied to Mr. Bush in any way whatsoever." However, the commission allowed the snapshots to be presented at the hearing.

During the eviction, Bush had been acting as a district court bailiff with assistance from Wilhide, whose administrative hearing has not been set.

Criminal charges against Bush have been dismissed, and Wilhide was acquitted of larceny at the conclusion of a circuit court trial. Both men and their union are seeking job reinstatement and back pay.

Though Bush testified he never took Botz's personal belongings for himself, he conceded he disposed of such items as knives, medicine and a microwave that he said he considers potentially dangerous if set on the curbside.

Wilhide took the microwave from Botz's apartment and turned it over to Bush when the two met at a Westland fire station on the same day of the eviction, Bush said. Bush, saying he hadn't known that Wilhide had taken the microwave, then returned it to the apartment complex and threw it in a dumpster, he said.

BUSH CONSIDERS microwaves dangerous based on injuries he has read about in various literature, he said. The appliances could be especially hazardous if improperly used by children, he said.

"I was concerned. I believed it (the microwave) was dangerous at the time, and that's why it was disposed of," Bush said.

Under questioning from Bokos, Bush denied any knowledge of a color television, a video recorder, an antique doll or stereo speakers, among other items, belonging to Botz.

Though some witnesses have said they saw Bush and Wilhide taking property from Botz's apartment and loading it into a truck, Bush responded Thursday, "That's an incorrect statement. I don't believe I assisted (Wilhide) in taking anything out."

Much of Thursday's testimony came from Westland Police Sgt.

Russell Nowaczek, who investigated the complaint against the firefighters. When he first interviewed Bush at the police station, Nowaczek said, Bush "turned rather white, slumped down in the chair" and later "bolted from the room."

In later testimony, Bush said, "I felt intimidated (by Nowaczek), and so I left. He told me I could leave at any time, so I left." However, Bush disputed Nowaczek's claim that he ran from the room.

Fowler, meanwhile, called several character witnesses Thursday who testified on Bush's behalf, including two apartment managers who said Bush had repeatedly helped them with evictions. Bush estimated he has overseen some 2,000 evictions in his 18 years with district court.

MEANWHILE THURSDAY, Gary Maitke, the civil service commission's attorney, agreed to research a legal matter on whether the city's firing of Bush and Wilhide came within the 90 days required by law.

The city contends the firings must occur within 90 days from the time city officials learn of the complaint, which was in early July. However, attorneys for Bush and Wilhide claim the Oct. 3 dismissals should have come within 90 days of the June 22 eviction.

Maitke expects to prepare an opinion by Monday, March 11.

Mall's owners negotiating for possible sale

Westland Center general manager Eugene Groves and Marilyn Zeigler, operations manager, did not return telephone calls. A mall spokeswoman said the two were in meetings all day Friday and would not be available for comment.

Veldhuis said city officials were "concerned" about publicity about the possible sale.

"WE'RE A little concerned with the media attention. We hope there's no problems with it in terms of the negotiations," he said.

Homart saw the purchase of Westland Center "as a possible opportunity," Veldhuis said.

"They've done a number of these deals throughout the country, and they are looking at Westland Center as a possible opportunity to get involved here."

Some reports have indicated the second-floor expansion could include as many as 85 new stores. The mall now has 86 stores.

Joyce Wheeler, executive director of the Westland Chamber of Commerce, reserved comment on the plan, saying she had not heard about it until she received a telephone call from a reporter Friday.

"It sounds wonderful just off the top of my head," she said, "but I think you have to look at different things, like traffic patterns and parking."

MEANTIME, GUNTHER and a print shop employee who was a CMA staffer will help keep the channel going.

But there will be no programming for the public access channel (18) for a while.

Mayor Thomas has recommended

Drew Ramsey, a city of Southfield cable producer, to take over the Westland cable operations.

Gunter commented that the override issue was put on the council agenda for tonight's meeting mainly for discussion purposes.

The three council members who opposed the Fassett extension last week said they will not change their positions.

Tough assignment

Students to defend Iraq at mock U.N.

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

Six Livonia school district high school students will have one tough job ahead of them when they face fellow student delegates at a mock United Nations assembly next month in Lansing.

The six students, as members of the Iraq delegation to the mid-American Model United Nations, have been given the task of defending Iraq and its actions in the Persian Gulf War in debate before delegates to the assembly.

It's a task the Stevenson High students earned through superior performances in past years before the student assembly, said Jonathan Swift, head of the district's global awareness education program.

AND IT'S ALSO a task that the six students eagerly sought out, not because they back Iraq but because of the supreme challenge it will present.

"We wanted a challenge and this was the biggest one we could get," said Tony Caram, who will head the Iraqi delegation as ambassador. Other delegates on the Iraqi team are Marco DeSanto, Eric Anderson, Jason Wade, Mobeen Rab and Kerry Crowley.

Stevenson also is sending delegates to the six-day assembly to represent the countries of Bolivia, Canada, Ghana, Guatemala, India, Indonesia, Malaysia, Norway, Poland, Senegal, Somalia, Sudan and Vietnam.

At this year's assembly, the six students believe the spotlight will be put on Iraq.

When the accusations flow, the students plan to use the combination of reasonable doubt and persuasive speaking to talk the assembly out of charging Iraq with war crimes or making Iraq pay reparations for damage done to Kuwait.

The students think these are the two biggest debates they will face.

And their mission will be doubly hard, for the students support the U.S. troops in the war.

"Our personal feelings can't get in the way," Caram said. "We are patriotic, but we can't let it interfere with what we are doing scholastically."

THE STUDENTS expect lukewarm support from some countries such as Yemen, Iran, Sudan, Jordan and Tunisia.

Beyond that, they'll face a hostile assembly.

Their job might be made somewhat easier, they said, because the U.N. assembly tends to ignore propaganda put forth by both sides and is more unbiased.

"The delegates will be skeptical of what both sides put in the paper," DeSanto said. "We laugh at what the Iraqis put in the paper, but the U.N. will laugh at some of the things in the American press."

Point by point, the students hope to discredit claims made by members of the U.N. coalition which fought the war.

Somewhere in time

Area artist makes Grand gesture

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Stare at Michael Phillips' painting of Jane Seymour and it will take you back somewhere in time. The unfinished painting sits on a dresser in a room in his Canton house. Phillips, a Wayne-Westland school district teacher, said he will add the last strokes of paint in time for the portrait to be donated this fall to Mackinac Island's Grand Hotel where Seymour and Christopher Reeves filmed the romantic tale, "Somewhere in Time."

It will be unveiled the weekend of Oct. 25-27 during a hotel program devoted to the movie. PAINTING IS a part-time affair for Phillips, a fifth-grade teacher who has been in the Wayne-Westland district for 23 years. Phillips thought about donating a painting of Seymour after staying at the hotel and realizing there was little there that commemorated the movie. "I felt a lot of people who visit the Grand Hotel would be very happy to see something that was reminiscent of the movie. A lot of people get the idea to visit Mackinac Island from the movie. "Few artists get a chance for an unveiling — that will be nice," said Phillips adding that he keeps or gives away most of his work. "I like people to see my work and it was a place and movie I cared about. Because of the Grand I feel it has to be a world class portrait, because I think the Grand is world class. Anyone who sees the portrait should be able to close their eyes and see the movie."

THE MOVIE, like Mackinac Island, makes you feel like you stepped back in time, he said. "It probably is one of the most truly romantic movies." Some fans liked the movie so much that they formed a club, IN-SITE (International Network of Somewhere in Time Enthusiasts). Despite lukewarm to poor reviews when it was released in 1980, the club exists more than 10 years later. The love story is about a troubled man played by Reeves who stumbles on a picture of a stunning actress, played by Seymour, and falls in love. The ending is mystical and deceiving leaving the audience to wonder if Reeves and Seymour are finally together. "We'll put them on the spot, get them to sway," Rab said. "We'll make their claims questionable. We'll say things were blown out of proportion. They must prove their claims beyond a reasonable doubt." The students won't know what evidence students from other countries will present to support their points. "It will be a tough assignment to convince them otherwise," DeSanto said. "They'll be saying Iraq tossed the Geneva Conventions to the wind. To fake a surrender and then not surrender is terrible. They'll be able to document this." RAB, A MOSLEM, will be defending the leader of a country he does not support. "Saddam is evil. He is not fighting for the Moslems. It's not a holy war. I am anti-Saddam, but I feel for the Iraqi and Kuwaiti civilians." Instead of going to a library to research a country and its politics, the students have been using the daily newspaper since September to keep abreast of Middle East politics. Being caught up in the middle of a fast-changing situation made their research especially difficult.

"If you missed two-three days, you'd be in the dark over what was happening," Rab said. The environment was one of the issues set to be debated at this year's assembly before the invasion of Kuwait took place in August. But, because the war brought on such environmental catastrophes as the oil spill and the burning of the oil wells, the students expect the environment to be in an even bigger spotlight. "We'll have to take the opposite point of view, that Iraq didn't cause these things," Rab said.

four pompon squads in Michigan in five of the past six years. The squad is coached by Judy Nonhan. The squad leadership consists of captains, seniors Kim Nouhan and Aimee Nichols; co-captains, senior Michelle Stevens, junior Holly BeLaire. Other members are seniors Chris

Township doesn't want stadium

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen wants to make one thing perfectly clear: He and other township officials don't want a new Tiger Stadium in Plymouth Township. While some observers have speculated that Plymouth Township could be a prime site for a new stadium — there's available land and three major freeways serve the area — Detroit Tigers officials won't say what sites they're looking at for a new stadium. Breen said some residents have called the township offices asking if such a project is in the works. So on Tuesday, township trustees passed a resolution reading: "Whereas there has been discussion among the media about the possibility of locating a stadium for the Detroit Tigers franchise in the Charter Township of Plymouth. "Whereas the Plymouth Township master plan does not allow for the siting of such a stadium within the township boundaries. "Whereas the community in general does not favor the siting of a new stadium for the Detroit Tigers franchise in Plymouth Township. "Now, therefore be it resolved that the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees opposes any and all efforts, attempts and plans to locate a new stadium for the Detroit Tigers within the boundaries of the Charter Township of Plymouth." Are trustees trying to end speculation that a stadium could be built in Plymouth Township? "That's exactly right," Breen said Tuesday. "We have all these people calling, all these residents upset," Breen said. "Our master plan doesn't call for it, it's not the type of facility we encourage in Plymouth Township."

Group home sparking opposition

By Diane Gale
staff writer

A group home for severely mentally disabled patients has residents in a newly built subdivision near Beck and Warren roads worried. Five residents who live in the area with house values ranging between $140,000 and $185,000 asked the township board Tuesday for help. Supervisor Tom Yack said there is little they can do, because group homes are regulated by the state.

The key concern, Judy Gahide said, is a fear that property values will fall. DEBORAH SCHMIDT, executive director of New Life Services Inc., which will operate the home that is not yet open, said she was unsure who would be living in the house. Likely the residents will be wheelchair bound, moving from a nursing home and would be severely mentally disabled, she said. Home residents won't be on the street, she said.

One resident said: "If we have to live with these people, educate us. Why my home." She said she recently decided to stay within Canton when she moved. Schmidt met with the residents after the meeting Tuesday night to answer questions. Gahide said later she still had apprehensions. "It takes my husband and I working full time to live in this home," Gahide said. "Why are we housing people in this area?"

Some local districts stuck with hefty computer bill

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

The quick demise of Michigan's "Classrooms of Tomorrow" program means some area public school districts will have to pick up a hefty tab for computers.

But, while some districts are angry, others said they knew all along the program was too good to last.

Classrooms of Tomorrow, begun by then Gov. James Blanchard last year, offered state money to help schools add computers to their classrooms — offering a first-year downpayment of 20 percent on computer equipment.

New Gov. John Engler, however, has killed the program, calling it good public relations, but bad policy. The state won't buy any more computers, or make additional payments on computers already sent to Michigan schools.

"Unconscionable," is the way South Redford Superintendent, Jan Jacobs described the program's demise.

"It's these types of things that make us so suspicious of Lansing," Jacobs said. "It's just like the lottery, they say they're going to give us money but we never seem to see it."

South Redford, which ordered 48 computers through the state program, will now have to pay more than $100,000 to keep them.

Neighboring Redford Union schools were "very disappointed" according to business manager Ken Johnson.

"WE KNEW all along there were no guarantees," Johnson said. "For a district like ours, this was a good way to get computers."

Redford Union, which has struggled with financial problems, will now have to pay an estimated $70,000 for the 26 computers it ordered, after receiving a $38,000 initial payment from the state.

Even though the program contained risk, Johnson said it was a risk worth taking.

"It was a good program," he said. "Not only did we get state aid, but we did get the computers at a good price."

Many districts agreed with that assessment.

"we're still hopeful it will be restored, but you still feel lucky any time you get something wholesale like this," said Jim Edwards, executive director of general education for the Wayne-Westland Schools.

Wayne Westland owes about $53,500 on the 34 computers it ordered, after receiving roughly $13,500 from the state.

Other districts ordered fewer computers.

"We only used the money for computers we were already planning on purchasing anyway," said Garden City Superintendent Michael Wilmot, whose district added 10 computers.

"Our feeling is that whatever happened, it's money we wouldn't ordinarily have had." Garden City received $2,253 through the program.

Plymouth/Canton Schools ordered

35 computers through the program, associate superintendent Raymond Hoedel said, and now owes and estimated $62,000 after receiving $8,900 from the state.

"It's one of those things that got cut," Hoedel said. "But school districts are worried about much bigger cuts than this."

Clarenceville officials said they doubted they'd have to pay anything for the two computers they ordered through the program.

"As far as we can tell, those computers have already been bought and paid for," said Ralph Skrocki, assistant superintendent for business.

Statewide, schools received 8,000 computers through the program, as well as software and printers.

Livonia Schools didn't participate in the program, district curriculum director Bill McFarland said.

"WE DIDN'T have a lot of confidence in it from the start," he said. "Plus, it didn't seem to be something geared for a large district like ours."

The state sold $20 million in bonds to buy computers and has already made the first $2 million bond payment.

The Engler administration has said districts will have to pay for the bonds themselves. School officials were told last year they might end up footing the bill.

"The program has been cut," Engler press secretary John Truscott said. "It was used by Governor Blanchard as a public relations gimmick rather than a sincere program."

The Associated Press contributed to this story.

Board will interview SC trustee candidates April 8

Candidates for the Schoolcraft College board vacancy won't be interviewed March 11, after all.

Other board members moved the interviews back to 7 p.m. Monday, April 8 — the filing date for the June 10 board election.

The person appointed to the seat would serve until the election, though trustees hinted they might give preference to someone who would run in June.

"By then we'll know who's serious," trustee Michael Burley said.

Each of the 10 applicants will be interviewed in person for the board vacancy, with each candidate given an estimated 15 minutes to respond to board questions.

Interviews are open to the public.

Candidates to be interviewed include Ronaele Bowman, Livonia; Willis Brauer, Livonia; Paulette Cebulski, Plymouth; Yvonne Constat, Livonia; Robert Gordon, Plymouth; Stephen Ragan, Plymouth; Subramanian Ramamurthy, Canton; Andrea Taylor, Livonia; Jeffrey Theodore, Livonia; and Patricia Watson, Northville.

Seminar targets health issues

Health issues will be discussed at a pair of Schoolcraft College seminars.

The first seminar, Medications and You, answers questions about generic and over-the-counter drugs. Taught by a pharmacist, the seminar stresses the importance of taking prescribed medication and discusses hazards and side effects of medication. Sessions meet 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesdays for three weeks beginning March 13. Fee is $28.

The second seminar, Physicians Round Table, provides answers on health issues, with special attention given to such female health issues as menopause, osteoporosis, estrogen replacement therapy and pregnancy. The seminar meets 7:30-9:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 13. Fee is $12.

Additional information is available by calling 462-4448. Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile roads, Livonia.

Mayor lauded for stands

To the editor:
In the past month or so I have read 'article after article that has criticized Mayor Robert Thomas. The Wayne-Westland Board of Education criticized Mayor Thomas for speaking out against a millage increase, and called him "ignorant" and "irresponsible."
The Westland Chamber of Commerce criticized Mayor Thomas for trying to make us aware of any unusual events that may affect the residents of Westland, during the course of the war in the Persian Gulf.
The city council criticized publicly decisions that Mayor Thomas makes that they do not agree with.
I am tired of sitting idle and reading all these negative things about the mayor. I feel that Mayor Thomas is a peoples' mayor and has us in his best interest.
Mayor Thomas talks to the people, as well as listens to what they have to say. He tries to say and do things that the people of Westland understand and want.
Let's not get lost in the politics of Westland. Let's congratulate Mayor Thomas for helping the people of Westland have a better city, and for helping us better understand where he stands as the leader of our "good city," and that is, "for the people."

David Shinn, Westland

Schools are deteriorating

To the editor:
My mind races to remembrance of what an education in the Wayne-Westland schools has done for me. I am a 1969 graduate of John Glenn High School.
As a result, I have been honored by a listing in Who's Who in Finance and Industry (1982), Who's Who in the Midwest (1985 to present), Who's Who of Emerging Leaders (1988), and Who's Who in Education (1991). Although I am the one that has been honored, the honors should rightly transcend to God and those who aided my development.

Now you tell me I am being held hostage. If I don't vote to increase my giving to you that you will eliminate busing of my children, take away extra-curricular and co-curricular activities, as well as "non-essential" programs, and have rescinded the accreditation of our district's high schools. Yet, you want me to send my four children to your to-be-decimated schools?

Perhaps you are not cognizant of one small factor: I don't have to live in Westland. I don't have to use your school district. My children are attending St. Paul's in Livonia and are receiving an excellent education. Two of the four would attend Wayne-Westland Schools this fall, but for what?

A denigrated district reminiscent of Detroit? Even Detroit's schools are accredited. Realtors tell me Westland has the highest millage per valuation in southeastern Michigan. I believe it. Why aren't our schools then the best?

Until you show fiscal responsibility in handling the funds and financial affairs you have, I won't be voting you more money. Also, if you decimate the district as you promise, my children won't be attending your schools.

If I have to move, so be it. Redford schools are reputedly excellent, as are Garden City's, and both have proven to be fiscally responsible. Just because I cannot afford Livonia or Canton doesn't mean I have to subject my children to educational depravity in a decimated district.

Please think of this, too. If parents with children continue moving out of your district, what will that do to your school/tax base, real estate values, et al. Do you, Mr. Mayor, want to be known as the man that made Westland educationally Little Detroit?

Doug Noel, Westland

the millage fails to pass.

If the millage is approved, these will be restored; full junior high instructional day; full elementary instructional day; all elementary school principal positions; purchase of up-to-date textbooks; junior and senior high athletics and marching band; elementary art, vocal and instrumental music and physical education classes; and increase in all classroom supply and textbook accounts.

If the millage fails, beginning in fall 1991, these additional cuts will be made: school busing; reduction of the senior high day by one hour; loss of high school accreditation; total elimination of elementary art, music and physical education; further reduction in all classroom supply and textbook accounts; additional reduction in the number of building and central office administrators; school buildings will close at 6 p.m.; and no pay-to-play sports or activities.

If the millage fails and the senior high school day is reduced by one hour, the school district will lose almost half a million dollars in state aid.

In addition the property value of the residents of Westland will be affected. People will have difficulty selling their homes as a direct result of the current reduction in programs offered to students.

You may ask, How much will the 7 3/4-mill addition cost? The cost to the average taxpayer within the district with a state equalized valuation of $30,000 will be less than $20 per month, or about 65 cents per day.

I believe that my children as well as all the other children in this district are worth that amount of money. We need to vote YES on March 13 and give our kids a future as well as a good education.

Kathy McCabill, Save Our Schools Committee Westland

Vote yes on school millage

To the editor:
I would like to share this important information about the millage election scheduled for March 13.
I feel the people of the Wayne-Westland community should know the facts about the election and what will happen to our school system if

Tax threats criticized

To the editor:
What next? What further threats can be used by Wayne-Westland School Superintendent Dennis O'Neill and his "lucky" board members to blackmail the public into giving them more money? Shorter hours, curtailed programs, now buses!

Has anyone ever checked the ratio of cars in the "student" parking lot to the student population in the high school? A little sensible incentive to "ride share" would have allowed discontinuing bus service at this level years ago. Now we can visualize little kindergartners braving the cold and storms of winter, subject to who knows what evil on their daily walk.

Has anyone, other than board member Sylvia Kozoroski Wiacek, questioned the viability of specific amounts for specific purposes? We used to have board members who questioned the reasons for various expenditures. They were labeled "curmudgeons." They also visited the schools and talked to various employees to feel the pulse of the district.

If the 7.75 mills is passed March 13, how long would that last to maintain programs? Teachers received an 11.94 percent raise (over two years). The support staff must still be dealt with. Will they not receive equitable treatment?

The business of schools is education! The brain is a wonderful computer, but you can't stick a floppy disc into it. It must learn to read, to comprehend, to use logic. Only in a disciplined, dedicated environment is this possible. Money alone cannot achieve this aim.

Management needs to examine its priorities before another blackmail attempt is made.

This coming June is election time for school board members. Let's replace the "YES" votes - Mathew McCusker and Sharon Scott. It's time to get some new blood in the school board, some independent thinkers.

John Molesky, Westland

School tax is supported

To the editor:
The millage election for the Wayne-Westland school district is approaching fast. The big question is "do we want quality education for our children?" The passage of the millage proposition will guarantee restoration of all programs cut and will assure a better education for the children of the district.

As the state continues to reduce funding for schools in our district, asking for another millage election is the only way funds can be generated to operate the schools.

We must stand united as a community and set education of our children as our priority. These are hard times we are facing if this millage proposition fails. We must take pride in our schools and vote YES March 13.

Marsha Slenko, Wayne

Quality is emphasized

To the editor:
It's obvious the Wayne-Westland school district is in a condition that is less than healthy. It is confronted by an immediate need for new revenue on one hand, and on the other by a well-organized group that is intent on defeating any campaign that will raise that needed revenue.

Basically the opposition to the new millage revolves around administrative salaries and the management of the district.

What this election is all about is children. Yours, mine and our neighbors. For years this has been an outstanding school district. I offer as proof our graduates. They are found in every major profession and trade. From the cabinet in Washington, D.C., to Wayne County government, and indeed to Westland Mayor Robert Thomas himself. This district has produced quality students because the community demanded it. We, the parents, recognized that to do less can only hurt the children of this community, and in the end the community itself.

This campaign is aimed at raising revenue to continue that quality education. Those that are opposed to the millage for their stated reasons are in the wrong election. They intend to punish children and degrade the value of our property to gain an obscure victory.

Their campaign belongs in the school board elections in June. There they can develop a platform and state their goals. This election is for our children. It is for their continued quality education, and in the end our property values, . . . our community.

George Sommerman, Canton

School tax is supported

To the editor:
Sixteen years ago, when I decided to purchase a home, my first questions were about the schools and how good they were. At that time, anyone I spoke with proudly answered that the Wayne-Westland school system was the best. As I became involved in the PTA activities at school I was able to see first hand just how great our schools were. We had dedicated, committed teachers, secretaries, custodial and administrative staff. We had great programs. And we had a positive, supportive community who cared about the future of our children.

Those staff are still here. But because our community has not supported prior millages our programs have been badly cut. We can still have great programs. We need to once again become the community who believes in our schools and in educating our children.

In a recent "State of the City Address" Mayor Thomas said he did not support the millage because citizens didn't want a property tax increase. I believe that this is shortsighted on the part of the mayor. Communities who have good schools attract business and home buyers. When school systems are poor, the economy of the community will fall. We will be unable to attract either home buyers or business. Our taxes may be lower, but our schools will reflect that.

Until the state sponsors a more equitable system for funding education, we need to join forces and unite to make our schools one of the best in the state. Persons who feel the system needs to be changed have every opportunity to do so in other ways: through the board of education meetings, the school superintendent's advisory council, local and area council PTA's, PTO's and legislative action.

We were once a positive community and can be one again. I urge everyone to think seriously about this issue and vote yes for the millage on March 13. Our children and our communities deserve and need our help.

Custard is always soothing

I love comfort foods. Foods that remind me of Sycamore Street, Sunday chicken dinners and Momma's custard.

Beloved by children of all ages, custard is a mixture of milk, sugar, salt and a smidgen of flavoring. It can be either gently cooked on a stovetop or slowly baked until firm, which is how Momma did it, in heavy ramekins that resembled silvery Frisbees with handles.

Stirred custard, also known as creme anglaise, is the slow-cooked stovetop version that doubles as a sauce, pastry filling and base for many chilled and frozen desserts. Baked custard is a more simple product, especially when garnished with fresh fruit or whipped cream or bathed in a caramelized sugar syrup as in the famous French dessert creme caramel and its Latin counterpart, flan.

Made properly, custard is creamy and tender. As it so often happens in the Janes Gang kitchen, it turns into a curdled, weepy mess. Last week was the last straw. After a third attempt using Momma's trusted recipe (of which she says she never varies), I found myself hiking to the compost heap with something that was a cross between soured milk and cold, yellow gravy.

Now I have to dial 1-313 to get Momma's kitchen hot line, but the long-distance charges are definitely worth it, especially when all my other reference books give me recipes but can't tell me what I'm doing wrong.

DON'T YOU JUST love moms who start out the conversation with, "Don't worry. I'll make you some right now and have your father drive it up for dinner tonight."

"Sorry, Ma, you're missing the point here," I interrupted. "Why can you make it so good and I can't?" was the $50,000 question of the day. Sounding almost like a Certified Executive Chef from Schoolcraft College's famed culinary arts department, she went into a monologue about how, when preparing her custards, she makes sure time is of little consequence. Seems that she, too, once experienced problems because she tried to cool the custard too quickly at too high a temperature. "You have to do it slow, with a gentle heat" was her professional opinion.

"But, Ma, I want to eat it now," I whined. "You can't," she retorted.

Once again, all my years of schooling, coupled with about a million pages from cookbooks slowly crumbled into oblivion followed by the simple line, "Just do it — slow."

Yes, there are other tricks to making a good custard. Most important, however, is knowing that the line between a thickened custard and a curdled one is often only a few degrees of heat. Double boilers over hot, but never boiling, water are a must. Warm up that stirring arm because, like Momma also says, keep stirring so a velvety custard is made instead of a lumpy one. Also remember that a custard has thickened sufficiently when it leaves a velvety coating on the back of a spoon and if a track made by running a finger down the coated spoon stays clear.

BAKED CUSTARDS aren't as delicate as stirred custards. They need to cook in a moderate oven but should be set in a pan of hot water to keep from getting too hot. The custard is done if, when touched, the finger comes away clean.

Here's a trick I taught Momma: When she makes her great baked custard, top it with some granulated sugar and then use a blow torch to crystallize the top. Now, even Momma keeps a blow torch under the sink, just for this purpose.

So if you're looking for a great comfort food, a cool, creamy custard may be just what will fill the bill.

Kids in the Kitchen

By Jennifer L. Hill
special writer

AFTER-SCHOOL SNACKS and children go hand in hand like peanut butter and jelly. Cooking with kids is just as natural a pairing. What better way to get children involved in the kitchen than to have them prepare their own snacks.

The kitchen is a perfect place for learning and trying different foods. What can kids do in the kitchen? Recipes that entail simple steps such as measuring, stirring, rolling or kneading are perfect for little ones. Even the tiniest hands can tear greens, pour milk or sift flour. Two to 4 year olds can perform the simplest of tasks such as washing fruits and vegetables.

With the help of a few experts, from Brookside School Cranbrook's Senior Kindergarten, I was able to put a few of these cooking skills to use when trying a few of the following snacks. These snacks are comprised of simple steps and need little supervision.

The crew washed hands, donned smocks and went to work. They prepared two special treats, Peanut Butter Burritos and Cereal Snack Mix. For the burritos, they peeled, sliced and chopped the fruit that was to top the peanut-butter-covered flour tortillas. A choice of assorted fillings, ranging from bananas and canned fruit to raisins and shredded coconut, was offered to my assistants for their snack burritos.

EVEN MARSHMALLOWS found their way into a burrito or two at the suggestion of one student. This snack is so versatile it lends itself to many creative combinations. There even was talk of topping a burrito with Cheerios from the snack mix. After picking and choosing their burrito fillings, the most popular being banana and honey, each youngster rolled his or her tortilla in a burrito fashion.

Naina Gulati was the first to try her burrito. With a little hesitation she tasted the flour tortilla alone. Then, without any hesitation, she bit into her little bundle, which contained honey and banana. There were many approving faces with this snack.

The Cereal Snack Mix has something for everyone. My assistants helped to measure and pour the ingredients into a bowl. After dumping and mixing the ingredients, some children picked out the Cheerios, others the marshmallows. A few boys and girls found the combination to be just great. Mathew Shin liked the chocolate-covered raisins so much that he came away from the mix with a handful.

Although there was not enough time for my helpers to cook everything, the cheesecake was there for them to sample. Many of them found the light, airy cream cheese ricotta cake to their liking without any of the toppings. Imagine what they would think of this cheesecake if it were adorned with chopped maraschino cherries and shaved chocolate or any of the other toppings.

The cheesecake is so simple to make and only requires your assistance when whipping the cream, beating the cheese and melting the butter. The kids can crumble their own cookies for the crust. What could be as much fun as crushing cookies in a plastic bag with a rolling pin or simply pounding the cookies with a fist. The rest of the recipe is just as easy.

WHEN MAKING the recipes Peanut Butter Burrito, Easy Cheesecake, Cereal Snack Mix and Quesadillas, only the Quesadillas require assistance at the stove. Quesadillas are simple to make and can be cooked either on the stove or in the oven. This Mexican specialty is a great alternative to pizza or grilled cheese sandwiches.

There is no snack every child will like, but if you try these, you are sure to get many approving faces. Make the recipes at home with your children and give them a chance to work in the kitchen. You may have tomorrow's chef at your side.

Brady's burgers light up Irish eyes

Corned beef and cabbage will play a brief starring role at Matt Brady's Tavern on St. Patrick's Day, but any Irishman worth his salt knows what Brady's is famous for — a good hamburger.

Brady's burgers, especially the Charlie Brown version with cheese and bacon, are the main reason people go to his tavern on Southfield Road in Beverly Hills. Some customers are followers of his father, better known as Diamond Jim Brady, whose restaurant on W. Seven Mile Road in Detroit was a popular spot for years.

Matt Brady and his brother Patrick kept that great saloon, with its trademark swinging doors and murals of New York, going for years after his father died and after the neighborhood got rough. It wasn't until late 1988 that Brady closed the Detroit spot and brought the "famous one," as the burger is called, to the suburbs.

Diamond Jim's name lives on through his son, Tom, who operated a restaurant by that name in Southfield for several years and now is in the process of moving to Novi. The burgers and the characteristic warm, casual, lighthearted atmosphere lives on at Matt's place.

THERE ARE murals on the wall here too, but they are of Detroit classics, such as the Olympia and Blessed Sacrament Cathedral, and today's Detroit riverfront. The bar itself is a conversation piece — made as it is to include 25,000 shiny 1989 copper pennies all carefully lined up — with one flipped over. Find the one and you will win the proprietor's admiration, and maybe a free glass of pop.

This is a great place for families (even young children are welcome) and friends to gather. Even women feel comfortable to stop in alone for a burger and a beer.

Although the Charlie Brown ($4.95) is most popular (the bacon is always crisp), the "famous one" with bleu cheese is good too. Other variations include adding grilled onions and mushrooms or the "Pancho" ($4.95 too) with its Swiss cheese, chili, onions and Parmesan cheese.

Add a cup of the chili and an order of the seasoned curly fries or the chili fries, and you have a good meal. The chili is respectable, not terribly hot but nicely seasoned, and thick with meat and kidney beans. The curly fries are very good and milder than seasoned fries we have tried elsewhere.

About a third of the burgers he serves these days are made of ground turkey, predominantly white meat turkey. Brady says no one was more surprised than he that the turkey burger, topped with onion and cheese, tastes so much like the ground beef version.

SALES OF SALADS are picking up here too, and again Brady's humor shines through. The "garbage" salad — so named because its wild combination of bleu cheese, anchovies, eggs, bacon bits and tomatoes and lettuce — is hot, but the Caesar salad with grilled chicken strips is better. Both can be ordered in half portions, which make a full meal when combined with chili or the homemade soup.

Daily specials prove Brady's longtime cook, Annie Thomas, can do more than produce good hamburgers. The meat pie on Wednesdays is quite popular and her meatloaf is said to be great, better than his mother's, according to Brady.

Good choices for kids are the grilled cheese sandwiches and grilled chicken strips listed on the menu as an appetizer but easily a meal for a child.

Chef Larry finds custard is soothing

STIRRED CUSTARD
(Creme Anglaise)

2 cups milk
1/2 vanilla bean or 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
4 egg yolks
3 tablespoons sugar

If using vanilla bean, bring milk to a boil with the bean in a heavy-bottomed saucepan, remove from heat and allow to stand or 10 minutes to infuse the flavor. If using extract, it is added later; bring milk without flavoring to a boil.

In a medium bowl, beat yolks and sugar together until thickened and lemon colored. Add milk, stirring to combine well.

Turn mixture into a double boiler and return to saucepan and cook over very low heat, stirring until it thickens, about 10 minutes.

Remove from heat and if desired, strain into a clean bowl set over a bowl of ice to stop cooking. If using vanilla extract, stir in now. Use immediately or cover with plastic wrap laid directly on the surface to prevent skin from forming.

BAKED CUSTARD
2 eggs
2 egg yolks

2 cups milk
3 tablespoons sugar
Vanilla extract or fresh grated nutmeg to taste

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In a medium bowl, beat eggs, egg yolks, milk and sugar. Stir in a drop or two of vanilla or a sprinkling of nutmeg. Strain through a sieve into a 1-quart baking or soufflé dish. (Individual cups can be used, if desired.)

Set pan in a larger pan filled with enough hot water to reach halfway up the sides of the baking dish. Bake until just set, about 30-35 minutes. Serve warm or refrigerate and serve chilled with crystallized sugar top.

To make creme caramel, combine 1/2 cup sugar with 1/4 cup water in a small heavy saucepan. Stir only until it dissolves, then stop stirring. Raise heat to a boil and boil, without stirring, for 8-10 minutes or until it turns a light brown.

Pour into the bottom of 1-quart baking or soufflé or individual dish and proceed to top with prebaked baked custard. Follow baking instructions.

Cool and refrigerate overnight for best results. Invert onto a platter or plate before serving.

Children make healthy snacks

PEANUT BUTTER BURRITO

Peanut butter is an old-time favorite for both children and adults. The traditional peanut butter and jelly sandwich can be updated by using a flour tortilla and adding many delicious ingredients in place of bread and jelly.

To make a peanut butter burrito, warm the tortilla according to package directions. Spread the desired amount of peanut butter on the warmed tortilla. Top with some of the following accompaniments to make a special treat and fold into a burrito.

- Honey
Sesame seeds
Banana, thinly sliced
Apple, cored and thinly sliced (squeeze fresh lemon juice over slices to prevent from browning)
Applesauce
Carrot, grated
Raisins
Canned pineapple, crushed or sliced, drained
Chopped dried fruit
Chopped nuts, such as pecans, walnuts and almonds
Coconut, shredded

Try a few of these combinations when making your burritos or use any of the above items to make your own creation.

Tropical Peanut Butter Burrito:

banana, crushed pineapple, almonds sprinkled with shredded coconut.

Autumn Harvest Peanut Butter Burrito: applesauce, chopped walnuts, grated carrots sprinkled with cinnamon.

Honey Sesame Burrito: honey and sesame seeds.

EASY CHEESECAKE

Crust
1 1/2 cup vanilla wafer crumbs
1/2 cup melted butter

Filling
One 8-ounce package cream cheese
One 16-ounce Ricotta cheese
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/4 cup warm water
1 unflavored gelatin packet
1/2 pint heavy cream
1/4 cup sugar

- Optional toppings
Shaved chocolate
Crushed pineapple
Berries
Chopped maraschino cherries

Place muffin cup liners in muffin pan.

In a medium bowl, combine cookie crumbs with melted butter. Mix well. Press 1 tablespoon of cookie crumb mixture into the bottom of each liner or the bottom and sides of an 8-inch pie pan and set aside.

In a large bowl mix the first four ingredients. Beat with an electric mixer until well blended and smooth. Combine warm water and gelatin in a small bowl. Mix until gelatin has dissolved. Beat into cheese mixture and set aside.

In a medium bowl, whip the heavy cream to soft peaks. Add the remaining 1/4 cup sugar and whip until stiff peaks form.

Fold the whipped cream into cheese mixture. Then spoon cheese mixture over cookie crumb crust to fill muffin liners and refrigerate until it begins to set, about 45 minutes. The cheesecake can be eaten plain or topped with your favorite topping.

CEREAL SNACK MIX

3 cups toasted oat cereal, such as Cheerios
1 cup honey-roasted peanuts
1/2 cup marshmallows
1 cup chocolate-covered raisins

Add all ingredients to a large mixing bowl. Mix well. Store in airtight container. Makes 5 1/2 cups.

QUESADILLAS

5 flour tortillas
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
1 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese
1/4 cup chopped mild green chilies, optional
2 tablespoons butter, melted
4 tablespoons oil
Salsa
Sour cream

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Wrap the flour tortillas in aluminum foil tightly and bake for 10 minutes until they are softened.

While tortillas soften, mix together the melted butter and oil in a bowl. Place the mixture to the side. Combine the cheeses in another bowl and set aside.

To make the quesadillas, sprinkle some of the combined cheeses on half of each tortilla. Add 1 tablespoon of the chopped chilies if desired. Fold the tortillas over and pinch to seal. Brush the tortillas with the melted butter mixture.

The quesadillas can be either sautéed or finished in the oven. (For very young children I recommend the oven method.)

For the saute method, heat a large sauté pan over medium-high heat. Cook until golden brown, about 2 minutes on each side. Keep cooking quesadillas warm in a preheated 200-degree oven on a cookie sheet.

For the oven method, preheat oven 375 degrees and place quesadillas on an aluminum foil-lined cookie sheet and bake until the tops are golden, about 5 minutes.

Cut into thirds and serve with salsa and sour cream.

Note: For a different quesadilla, add sliced poached pear or apple to the tortillas before folding and omit the green chilies and salsa. Makes 15 triangles.

Stuffing is found in 'double pocket'

AP — The following stuffing recipes can be used with the "double-pocket" technique for baked, broiled or grilled pork chops.

MEDITERRANEAN STUFFING

1/4 cup pine nuts
1 clove garlic, minced
1 medium red pepper, seeded and finely chopped
1 teaspoon butter
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 1/2 tablespoons green onion, minced
1 1/2 tablespoons parsley, minced
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Saute nuts, garlic and red pepper in butter until nuts are golden. Remove from heat, stir in remaining ingredients. Stuff in pork chop and cook as desired. Makes 1 cup stuffing, which fills 4 pork chops.

BLUE CHEESE STUFFING

1/2 cup crumbled blue cheese
1/2 cup walnuts, coarsely chopped
1/2 teaspoon black pepper

Stir together all ingredients. Stuff in pork chop and cook as desired. Makes 1 cup stuffing, which fills 4 pork chops.

Jambalaya imitates Louisiana version

AP — This microwave rendition of jambalaya is a flavorful, fabulous fake. The traditional Louisiana seasonings — onion, green pepper and garlic — are cooked with the sauce instead of in fat. Smoked turkey sausage replaces the usual pork sausage. You're guaranteed to love the taste. You'll also love that each serving counts as just 5 grams of fat, about half that of the regular version.

TURKEY AND SHRIMP JAMBALAYA

One 14 1/2-ounce can tomatoes, cut up
1 cup finely chopped onion
1/2 cup chicken broth
2 tablespoons tomato paste
3 cloves garlic, minced
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon dried Italian seasoning, crushed
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Few dashes bottled hot pepper sauce
1 1/2 cups chopped green pepper
1 cup quick-cooking rice

1/4-pound medium shrimp in shells, peeled, deveined and halved lengthwise
1/4-pound smoked turkey sausage, cut into 1/4-inch slices and halved

In a 3-quart, microwave-safe casserole, combine undrained tomatoes, onion, broth, tomato paste, garlic, bay leaf, Italian seasoning, salt, chili powder, pepper and hot sauce. Cook, covered, on 100 percent power (high) for 5 minutes. Stir in green pepper. Cook, covered, for 2 minutes. Stir in uncooked rice, shrimp and sausage.

Cook, covered, for 3 to 5 minutes more or until shrimp just turn pink, stirring once. Let stand, covered, 1 to 2 minutes or until rice is tender. Remove bay leaf. Serve in bowls. Makes 4 servings.

Hamburger stroganoff was accidental creation

I have always been impressed with those people who cook by the T.L.A.R. method.

For those who don't use this method, the letters stand for That Looks About Right. This is not your style if, when you cook, you diligently follow a recipe.

This week's Winner Dinner Winner, Marie Kellar of Farmington, has a creative bent when it comes to cooking. She is a definite proponent of T.L.A.R.

THE BUSY mother of three children, Kellar came up with this recipe one night when she discovered she was out of Hamburger Helper and decided to try and make her own.

Short on time, she decided to speed up the preparation by cooking the noodles in the sauce, rather than cooking them separately. And so it was that Cheesy Hamburger Stroganoff came to be born.

It was, Kellar said, most joyfully received by her husband and three sons.

ORIGINALLY FROM Southern California, Kellar loves living in Michigan. She much prefers living here.

Involved in the PTA at her children's school as well as helping out as a kindergarten room mom, she is chairperson for the school's upcoming Spring Fun Fair.

Kellar has a craft business on the side with four other neighbors and makes country-style wooden objects and dolls that she sells at various craft shows around the area.

At the moment, she and her friends are busily preparing for a craft show to be Saturday, March 23, at Franklin High School in Livonia.

Thank you, Marie Kellar, for sharing your recipes with us, and congratutulations on being this week's Winner Dinner Winner. Your menu is perfectly suited for those on the go with little time to fuss in the kitchen.

T.S.L.A.W.D. — That Sounds Like a Winner Dinner to me!

A QUICK reminder: I am looking for tasty spring menus. If you have a family favorite, please send it my way.

Submit your recipes, to be considered for publication in this column or elsewhere, to: Winner Dinner, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham 48012. All submissions become the property of the publisher.

Each week's winner receives an apron with the words Winner Dinner Winner on it.

Recipes are printed the same size so that you may clip and save them in a three-ring binder.

Use a paper punch to make holes in the clipping or paste the clipping on a blank sheet of three-ring notebook paper.

Another option is simply to file the clippings in a folder with pockets that will hold them.

Menu

CHEESY HAMBURGER STROGANOFF
STEAMED BROCCOLI
HILLBILLY COBBLER

Recipes

CHEESY HAMBURGER STROGANOFF

Because the noodles cook in the sauce, this dinner can be assembled quickly. It can be made in advance and/or frozen and reheated just before serving. Serves 4-6.

- 1-1/2 pounds hamburger (ground chuck)
- 2 cans Campbell's Cream of Mushroom soup
- 2 soup cans of milk
- 1 can stewed tomatoes, 16-ounce size
- 1 small can mushroom stems and pieces
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1/2-1 cup dry red wine
- 1/2 bag egg noodles
- 1 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese
- Salt, pepper and garlic powder to taste

Brown the hamburger and chopped onion in a large skillet. Drain off the excess fat and add the spices. Stir in the cans of cream of mushroom soup and the 2 cans full of milk. Mix in the remaining ingredients and let simmer for 20-30 minutes. Add the egg noodles and cover. Cook until the noodles are tender. Sprinkle the cheese on top, cover and cook until the cheese is melted. Serve and enjoy.

STEAMED BROCCOLI

Prepare either fresh or frozen broccoli spears and serve with the casserole.

HILLBILLY COBBLER

A favorite recipe from Kellar's Aunt Doris of Winfield, Kan., this quick and easy recipe takes minutes to put together and tastes great.

- 1 stick margarine
  - 1 cup flour
  - 1 cup sugar
  - 2 teaspoons baking powder
  - 3/4 cup milk
- Your choice of 1 can of pie filling, 21-ounce size

Melt 1 stick of margarine in a 9-by-9-inch pan in an oven preheated to 350 degrees in a separate bowl, mix:

- 1 cup flour
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 3/4 cup milk

Pour the batter over the margarine. Pour 1 can of your choice of canned pie filling over the batter. Do not stir.

Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes or until lightly browned.

Enjoy roast lamb sweet and spicy

AP — Roast Lamb Sesame features a leg of lamb basted with a sweet and spicy honey, ginger and orange mixture.

After the lamb is cooked, this mixture is combined with bouillon and cornstarch to become a sauce for the lamb. Sesame seeds are sprinkled over the top of the lamb for added flavor and eye appeal.

Greek Lamb and Mixed Fruit Pilaf can be served with a green vegetable and a loaf of warm, crusty bread.

ROASTED LAMB SESAME
Grated rind of 1 orange
Grated rind of 1 lemon
1 teaspoon powdered mustard
½ teaspoon salt
Freshly ground pepper to taste
One 3-pound leg of lamb
¾ cup orange juice
1 tablespoon honey
½ teaspoon ground ginger
1 tablespoon light sesame seeds
¼ cup light bouillon
2 teaspoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons cold water
Blanched shreds of orange and lemon rind (optional)

Mix grated orange and lemon rinds with mustard, salt and pepper. Rub mixture over lamb and set aside for 30 minutes. Place leg of lamb in roasting pan. Cook in a 350-degree oven for 30 minutes.

Mix orange juice, honey and ginger; pour over lamb. Sprinkle lamb with sesame seeds. Return to oven and cook at 350 degrees for 1 ½ to 2 hours, basting often with pan juices. Add water to pan when necessary.

Remove lamb from oven; place on platter. Cover and keep warm. Skim fat from pan juices and add bouillon to pan. Heat and stir well to dissolve sediment.

Strain into saucepan and stir in cornstarch mixed with water. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Serve sauce with lamb. Add blanched shreds of orange and lemon rind to sauce, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

GREEK LAMB AND MIXED FRUIT PILAF
½ cup butter or margarine
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
1 ¾ pounds lamb, cut into cubes.
½ cup dried apricots, soaked overnight in cold water, drained and halved
3 tablespoons seedless raisins
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon black pepper
3 ¾ cups water
1 ½ cups long-grain rice, washed, soaked in cold water for 30 minutes, and drained
1 teaspoon salt

Melt butter in large, deep frying pan. When foam subsides, add onion and cook until soft and translucent but not brown. Add lamb and cook for 5 minutes, stirring until browned. Stir in apricots, raisins, 1 teaspoon salt, cinnamon and pepper.

Pour in 2 cups of water and bring to boil, stirring occasionally. Reduce heat, cover pan and simmer for 1 hour or until meat is tender.

Put rice in a medium saucepan. Pour remaining water over rice and add remaining salt. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, cover and simmer for 15 to 20 minutes or until all liquid is absorbed.

Place one-third of cooked rice in medium-size oven-proof casserole. Cover with a layer of one-half of cooked meat mixture. Top with another one-third of rice. Continue to make layers until all ingredients have been used, finishing with rice.

Cover dish and place in center of oven. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 20 minutes and serve from casserole. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

'Tis a St. Patty's Day party

Ah, the luck o' the Irish. Every Irish soul I've had the pleasure of knowing seems to have a twinkle in his or her eye and a happy-go-lucky outlook on life.

Their festive natures will be in full force come March 17 — the day the Irish really like to kick up their heels. March-17 marks St. Patrick's Day, Ireland's greatest holiday, celebrated with festivals and gala events to honor St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland.

In America, we celebrate St. Patrick's Day each year by wearing a bit o' the green. Throughout the country, "St. Patty's Day" is one of rejoicing found in homes, schools, churches and places of entertainment. In many communities, a St. Patrick's Day parade takes place.

Want to get in on a bit of the Irish spirit? Plan a St. Patrick's Day party for family and friends. Begin by decorating with green carnations and small pots of shamrock plants, available at any florist around St. Patrick's Day. Offer bright green Irish paper hats to wear for fun. In-laws, of course, that everyone wear their green and "kiss the blarney stone" upon entering for a year filled with good luck (any large stone, scrubbed clean, can substitute as your blarney stone).

IRISH EYES will be smilin' as the main entree of Corned Beef with Three-Cabbage Salad is served. A healthy cup of "Irish" Lamb Stew accompanied by "Dublin" Brown Bread will warm their hearts and appetites. Irish folks are great tea drinkers, too, so don't forget to offer a selection of Irish teas with dinner.

Top the meal off with a Weight Watchers green favorite — Grasshopper dessert drinks for a tasty, refreshing treat.

Irish music also will add to the festivities. Play your favorite Irish tunes and invite all to participate in an Irish Jig contest. Those who miss your St. Patrick's Day party this year will be green with envy.

THREE-CABBAGE SALAD
Makes 8 Servings
3 cups each shredded green and savoy cabbage
2 cups shredded red cabbage
1 ½ cups grated carrots
½ cup minced onion
½ cup sour cream
6 slices crisp bacon, crumbled
2 tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons reduced-calorie mayonnaise
2 tablespoons each chopped fresh dill and lemon juice
1 tablespoon Dijon-style mustard
Dash pepper

In medium mixing bowl combine cabbages, carrots and onion; set aside. In small mixing bowl combine remaining ingredients, mixing well. Pour sour cream mixture over cabbage mixture; toss to combine. Cover bowl with plastic wrap and refrigerate until flavors blend, about 30 minutes.

DESSERT SAUCES

The Top Hat Company of Wilmette, Ill., a manufacturer of premium dessert sauces, has been acquired by Marla Murray, a former Bloomfield Hills resident. Founded in 1982, Top Hat produces six flavors of gourmet dessert sauce — hot fudge, raspberry fudge, mocha fudge, mint fudge, butterscotch and caramel.

The Top Hat label can be found in gourmet and specialty food shops including the Quorton Market, Brown Street Market and Fisher Market, all in Birmingham; R.I.K.'s in Bloomfield Township, and Peter's Palate Pleaser in Bloomfield Hills.

President Murray said the company is test marketing a new line of confection products and plans to add a new sauce this spring.

Top Hat was built on a Midwestern base but has begun discussions with both East and West Coast outlets and a major mail order house. The company projects a sales increase of more than 800 percent by 1992.

ICE CREAM

London's Dairy Farm has introduced a fat-free, cholesterol-free ice cream.

Five flavors are offered — vanilla, peach parfait, chocolate parfait, blueberry parfait and strawberry parfait.

The ice cream contains less than 0.5 percent butterfat, compared to the standard 12 percent for regular ice cream.

The product is available in square half-gallon packages at a price comparable to standard half-gallon ice cream products.

London's distributes its dairy products to more than 1,700 retail outlets throughout Michigan.

London is one of Michigan's largest dairies. It was the state's first dairy to computerize its business operation to maximize production and distribution.

Meatballs inside Greek sandwiches

AP — The Greeks have a word for these sandwiches — and that word is great. Five of the tender, well-seasoned, little meatballs generously fill a pita bread half to make a supper in a pocket. Another time, serve the meatballs and sauce over hot cooked noodles.

GREEK MEATBALL SANDWICHES

- 1 beaten egg
- 3 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs
- ¼ cup shredded carrot
- ¼ cup finely chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon dried thyme, crushed
- Dash pepper
- 10 ounces lean ground beef
- 1½ teaspoons cornstarch
- 1 teaspoon instant beef bouillon granules
- ½ cup cold water
- 1 tablespoon ketchup
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- ¼ teaspoon dried thyme, crushed
- Two 8-inch pita bread rounds
- ½ medium cucumber, thinly sliced
- ½ cup plain low-fat yogurt

In a medium mixing bowl combine egg, bread crumbs, carrot, onion, garlic, salt, ¼ teaspoon thyme and pepper. Add beef and mix well. Shape mixture into twenty 1½-inch balls. Place meatballs on a rack in a 15-by-10-by-1-inch baking pan. Bake in a 375-degree oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until done. Drain meatballs on paper towel.

In a medium skillet combine cornstarch, bouillon granules and water. Stir in ketchup, Worcestershire and ¼ teaspoon thyme. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly; cook and stir 2 minutes more. Place meatballs in skillet and heat through. Keep warm.

Cut pitas in half crosswise and open pockets. Line pockets with cucumber slices. Spoon meatballs into pita pockets. Serve with yogurt. Makes 4 servings.

Gallo challenges ultra-premiums

E. & J. Gallo Winery is this nation's largest wine producer. E. & J. Gallo's Hearty Burgundy may well be America's best-known wine. But let's face it, Gallo offers no competition in the premium end of the market. Until now!

Born within 100 miles of Modesto, Calif., the city they put on the map, Ernest and Julio Gallo grew up working a small vineyard bought by their father in 1925. At the end of Prohibition in 1933, the brothers borrowed about $6,000 and started the greatest wine success story in a rented warehouse.

At the start, their table wines were shipped in barrels. Distributors at the other end of the line bottled the wine under a variety of labels. It was only in the early 1940s that the first Gallo label appeared.

How big is Gallo today? No one in the company will give exact production figures, but it's easy to make close estimates because Gallo has its own glass plant that churns out 1.5 million bottles per day.

OK. You've seen the bottles in every grocery chain, but have you been noticing the subtle changes over the last few years? Wineries in Sonoma County have.

A LITTLE-KNOWN FACT is that E. & J. Gallo is one of the largest Sonoma vintners, crushing more grapes from this premium California wine region than any other winery. In the mid-1980s, Julio Gallo and his son Bob resculptured hill-sides in Sonoma's Dry Creek area to create magnificent vineyards where cabernet sauvignon and zinfandel focus on wine

Eleanor and Ray Heald

have been planted. In the Russian River region of Sonoma, they planted chardonnay, johannisberg riesling and gewurztraminer.

In 1989, the Gallos bought a 1,000-acre vineyard site near Asti in the northern reaches of Sonoma County. Vines from this property will come into production in four to six years.

What does this Sonoma County vineyard commitment mean to the consumer? Part of the answer can already be experienced with a taste of Gallo's vintage-dated premium varietals. The completion of the query will come with release of the first estate-bottled Sonoma wines in the near future. This sequel is being ushered in with Gallo's 1988 Limited Release Chardonnay and Sauvignon Blanc together with a stunning rendition, 1978 Gallo Private Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon.

Sorry, folks, you can't find these wines at the supermarket. Gallo's doing it right. They are showcasing these wines in restaurants. And in this area, we're not talking about dinner houses. We're talking upscale restaurants — the Whitney and the Van Dyke Place in Detroit, Fox and Hounds in Bloomfield Hills, the Round Table in Plymouth, Country Epicure in Novi and Pike Street Restaurant in Pontiac, to name a few.

THE 1988 GALLO LIMITED RELEASE Chardonnay ($12-14 restaurant list price) is a departure from early 1980s releases. "The attempt is to highlight fruit without overly emphasizing chardonnay's inherent apple qualities," said Carmen Castorina, Gallo's regional communications director.

About 85 percent of the fruit came from Sonoma's Russian River area. The wine did not receive any oak treatment, but if we didn't tell you this, you might not suspect it. The wine has developed handsomely in the bottle and resembles a fine French Chablis.

WINE SELECTION OF THE WEEK

1978 E. & J. Gallo Private Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon (about $30 on area restaurant wine lists). Bottled in 1983, this wine was personally selected by Julio Gallo, who also supervised the winemaking.

It was aged 48 months in 4,000-gallon Yugoslavian cooperage. It is soft, supple, generous and at its optimum drinkability. Until now, this "Private Reserve" bottling was called the Family Selection, reserved for the Gallos' private use and has been seen in the marketplace only at select benefit auctions.

It could change the way you view E. & J. Gallo wines.

Ask for it in a restaurant to accompany light seafood selections, chicken or pasta, with a delicate cream sauce.

THE INFORMATION TO BRING WITH YOU

When you make an appointment to see your doctor concerning your joint pain, your obligation does not end. You should provide him with information so he can act in a manner that is timely, appropriate and economical.

You should bring in all the medications you use, even if they are unrelated to the treatment of your joint problems. For example: you may have asthma and are taking prednisone, a form of cortisone. The doctor needs this information, as it will influence his decision as to the amount of anti-arthritis medicine he will prescribe.

Bring in x-rays of your joints if you had them taken within 6 months of the present appointment. X-rays older than six months may not reflect recent changes, but current pictures save return visits and duplication of costs.

If you were under the care of another doctor for your arthritis, try to obtain a copy of his recent notes on your case. All your past record is rarely needed. Seeing the current notes will give your present physician an appreciation of a previous diagnosis and past therapy.

With the background data you provide, plus a fresh examination, your doctor usually can decide what arthritis you have and the treatment appropriate for it.

This ad will reach 728,812 suburban households. In The Detroit News, it would reach only 303,354.

This ad is running in more than this newspaper alone. It's running in every one of the 50 Detroit suburban newspapers in a network called SPRING.

SPRING (The Suburban Press Ring) is the network of all suburban newspapers published by the Adams, Associated, Heritage, Observer & Eccentric and Hometown groups.

SPRING delivers advertisers a single, extremely effective way to reach as many as 728,812 households in Detroit's affluent suburbs, more than twice the 303,354 you can reach in the daily News — and approximately twice the 368,877 you can reach in the Free Press.

Best of all is the price — SPRING's rate for inserts is just $23 per thousand — approximately half the published CPMs of the DNA and ADVO — and our ROP CPMs are lower, too.

And you place just one order, deal with one rep, provide one set of ROP copy or art, and get one invoice.

All of which is why a lot of advertisers, looking for ways to get more for less, are finding and using SPRING. How about you?

Chef follows seasons with his specialties

AP — Seasonality refers to cooking in harmony with the seasons.

It means shaping a menu to celebrate the bounty of fresh produce available at particular times of the year.

Seasonality creates excitement. Without it, thoughts of the first ripe strawberry of spring would be hollow. It's the anticipation that builds during the wait for that first ripe, juicy and luscious berry that makes the first bite such a thrill.

Few others embrace the concept of seasonality with more enthusiasm than certified master chef Ron De Santis. "I'm always thrilled when fresh local corn hits the stands at the farmer's market. It is so sweet and juicy, you can eat an ear raw while driving home," De Santis said.

"Consider an example from the world of wine. Without seasonality, Beaujolais nouveau would just be another young, fruity red wine. Instead, the culinary world awaits the first bottle like a couple awaiting their firstborn."

Seasonality is a wonderful gift of nature, and there should be much joy in preparing the foods of each season. During autumn and winter, longer and slower cooking methods are preferable because more time is spent indoors, out of the cold. If one has to spend more time inside, there can be no finer place to be than in a warm, cozy kitchen perfecting a casserole, braise or hearty stew.

THINKING AHEAD to warmer pastures, consider the young, tiny fruits and vegetables of spring and summer at their peak freshness.

When summer brings its heat and humidity, grilling, sauteing and stir-frying are the chosen methods. After all, at that time of year no one wants to spend hours in a hot kitchen, so the method of cooking is like the season — hot and fast.

The concept of seasonality in modern times gets a little blurry. Today asparagus is available at Christmas and raspberries for Valentine's Day. With the marvels of modern transportation, South American countries export their summer crop for everyone to enjoy in the United States throughout the cold months. There are now opportunities to prepare and eat foods that were previously reserved for special times of the year.

Though this is a temptation for any cook, we all should remember that foods are part of the wondrous cycle of the earth and are best left to come and go naturally. Absence does truly make the heart, and palate, grow fonder.

As a final note, it should be stated that cooking with the seasons is economical. Not only is seasonal produce of the highest quality, it is available at the best possible prices. When fruits and vegetables come into season, supply is high and prices lower. This is an important consideration at any time of year.

shoulder, cubed
3 1/2 cups white veal stock prepared from the bones of the shank or shoulder 1 day ahead (water may be substituted)

- 1 bay leaf
- 1 sprig thyme
- 1 whole clove
- 12 mushroom stems (reserve caps for stew)
- 12 parsley stems, tied together with string
- 1 medium rutabaga, peeled and cut into 1-inch chunks
- 4 carrots, peeled and cut into 1-inch chunks
- 3 medium turnips, peeled and cut into 1-inch chunks
- 12 pearl onions, peeled
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/4 cup heavy cream
- Lemon juice to taste
- Pinch nutmeg
- Salt to taste
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Place veal in a stewpot and add veal stock. Bring the stock slowly to a light simmer. Carefully skim any impurities that rise to the surface. If skimming isn't done, blanquette will not have proper color.

Add the bay leaf, thyme, clove, mushroom stems and parsley stems. Simmer very gently for about 1 1/2 hours. Remove the seasonings and discard. Remove the meat; keep warm.

Cook the vegetables in the broth. Start with the rutabaga, carrots and turnips, as they take the longest cooking time, about 10 to 12 minutes. When they are done, remove them from the broth and keep warm with the meat. Add the onions to the broth; cook about 7 to 8 minutes. Remove onions from the broth; keep warm with the meat. Add the 12 mushroom caps reserved from the stems to the broth; cook about 2 to 3 minutes. Remove the mushroom caps from the broth; keep warm with the meat.

Combine the 3 tablespoons butter and 1/4 cup all-purpose flour in a saucepan. Cook, stirring over medium to low heat, until the mixture begins to color. Add the butter-flour mixture to the broth a little at a time, whisking between additions to prevent lumps from forming. Simmer the sauce for 20 minutes; strain.

Return the sauce to a simmer and add the cream. Season with lemon juice, nutmeg and salt. Return the meat and vegetables to the pot and reheat very gently. Sprinkle with chopped parsley. Serve with rice pilaf. Makes 6 servings.

Stevenson makes WLAA splash

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The message was loud and clear Friday during the finals of the Western Lakes Activities Association swim meet: "Don't Mess with Buckler's Boyz."

With T-shirts bearing that slogan, along coach Doug Buckler's illustration draped on the back — ironically resembling that bad man from Iraq — meet favorite Livonia Stevenson went out and did what was expected, winning the WLAA championship with a team-high 499 points.

Northville, the Western Division champs, finished a strong second in the 12-school field with 442, nosing out host Plymouth Salem for third by five points. See statistical summary.

"That picture (on the T-shirts) makes me look like a dictator," chuckled the emotionally-drained Buckler, who led Stevenson to its first WLAA crown since 1987. "But I'm wound up every meet. That's the way I am. I think that psyches the kids up."

When the Spartans dumped blue-colored water (their school colors) in the pool, while orchestrating a collective victory dip, Buckler was right in the thick of things with his boys.

"He's a pure inspiration," said senior Taki Caranicolas, who won the 50-yard freestyle. "He's crazy, very intense at times."

Added Stevenson senior Aaron Rieder, who placed second in both the 200 individual medley and 100 freestyle: "Everybody needs to be pushed, but he also brings the team together. It's like a family."

RANKED NO. 8 in Class A, the Spartans demonstrated their power by winning five of 12 events, including the meet's final race, the 400 freestyle relay.

Thanks to a strong anchor leg by junior Bryan Morrison, Stevenson capped off a great night with a first-place time of 3:20.09, edging second place North Farmington (3:20.4) and third place Salem (3:20.43). Rieder, Ryan Freeborn and Mike Gravina rounded out the winning foursome.

But prior to the race, Buckler cautioned his quartet to not jump any starts in fear of losing valuable points. Eighteen places were awarded in each event. Individual first place finishers were given 24 points; second place, 21 . . . all the way to 18th, one point.

"I had a lot of adrenalin, he (Buckler) told me 'just go fast,'" said the 6-foot-2 Morrison, who was suffering asthma because of the body oil (motion lotion) he had applied.

Morrison also earned 24 points for Stevenson when he captured the 200 freestyle in 1:44.07. Freeborn and Eric Peterson added a second and fourth, respectively, to make it one of the Spartans' most productive races.

Caranicolas then captured the 50 freestyle in 22.34, beating out Salem's Joe Pawluszka, who had posted a better qualifying time going in.

"Pawluszka is a very good swimmer, but we felt Taki was the best sprinter in the league even though he was tapering down for the state meet (March 7-8 in Ann Arbor)," Buckler said. "He even got his state out (qualifying time) to boot, which was nice."

FREEBORN, a sophomore, followed by winning the 100 backstroke in 55.91. Teammate Alex Goecke, also a sophomore, added a victory in the 100 breaststroke (1:01.6) as Stevenson captured the final three races.

"I was worried all three days (qualifying started Wednesday) because you've got a great team in Northville, a great team in Plymouth Salem and great teams in (Plymouth) Canton and North Farmington," Buckler said. "The whole league swam great and I knew they'd be shooting at us, but after we (Freeborn) won the backstroke, I knew we were in good shape."

The meet's individual standout was Westland John Glenn's Matt Martin, a sophomore who set a meet record in the 200 individual medley (1:56.51), breaking the 1989 record of 1:57.34 set by Salem's Ron Orris (now at Michigan State).

Martin also came back to win the 500 freestyle in 4:45.76, beating out Morrison.

"He (Martin) is one of the best this league has ever seen," Buckler said. "He's right there behind the great Ron Orris."

Another league record fell in diving, where Northville's Steve Lang tallied 492.15 points, topping the mark of 462.7 held since 1986 by Canton's Andy Flower.

NORTHVILLE also won three other races — the 200 freestyle relay (1:29.89); Brad Cook in the 100 butterfly (54.16); and Bob Holdridge in the 100 freestyle (49.21).

Alex Goecke of Stevenson captured the 100-yard breaststroke for the WLAA champions.

Salem captured the meet's first event, the 200 medley relay, as Curt Withoff, Jon Stridron, Matt Erickson and Albert Sneath were clocked in 1:40.4.

"I thought we swam really well," said Salem coach Chuck Olson, whose team had won the WLAA crown three consecutive years. "To come within five points of Northville after they waxed us in a dual meet is very gratifying. I'm extremely pleased. With a touch here and there, we might have been second."

But it was Stevenson's night to strut and Olson was one of the first to congratulate his friend Buckler.

"He (Buckler) did all the right things this year with that team," the Salem coach said. "Stevenson deserves its ranking in the state. I know they'll swim well next week at state and represent our conference."

Buckler, meanwhile, was all smiles and thankful for his team's effort.

"This is the nicest group I've coached," he said. "Not that the other teams I've coached haven't been nice, but this team was focused from 'Day One.' I never lost faith in where we were going."

Shamrocks foiled in region final, 3-2

By Mike Rosenbaum
staff writer

Birmingham Brother Rice is known as an excellent academic high school. But one lesson which the seniors on Rice's hockey team will never learn is how to lose a state regional. The Warriors won their fourth straight Class A regional championship at Oak Park's Computare Arena Friday night, edging Detroit Catholic Central, 3-2.

For first-year Rice coach Michael Brown, it was his first victory in three tries this season over his alma mater.

"This was real special for me," Brown said, "because I played for Catholic Central . . . we outplayed them twice and lost twice . . . the players tried (too hard) to get me my first Catholic Central game."

In the regular-season losses to the Shamrocks, Rice fell behind early both times. On Friday, the Warriors took charge early and outshot the Shamrocks 12-5 in the first period. However, Rice (18-5-1) could not dent the Catholic Central (15-7-1) net and settled for a scoreless period.

Shamrock star Jesse Hubenschmidt did break loose once, late in the period, but Rice netminder Derek Billis poke-checked the puck away from the senior.

Part of Brown's strategy was to shadow Hubenschmidt closely in the neutral zone, forcing one of the other Catholic Central skaters to carry the puck into Warrior territory. The strategy was effective as Hubenschmidt did not figure in the Shamrock's scoring.

BROTHER RICE opened the scoring in the second period when Art Leo put a 25-foot snap shot past goalie Mike Brusseau — the only mistake the freshman netminder made all night. Leo's goal was assisted by Matt Allen at 2:22.

Two minutes later, Brusseau stopped a Greg Sharbaugh shot, but Tim Capaldi knocked the rebound past the fallen goalie. The assists went to Sharbaugh and Steve Morrow at 4:10.

Rice maintained its pressure, but the Shamrocks withstood a flurry of shots and broke out two-on-one. Paul Schloss fed the puck to Bill Baaki who put it in the far corner at 5:34.

Baaki's goal gave the Shamrocks a lift, and they took charge late in the period. After a strong save by Billis, Catholic Central's Dave Gallagher shot the puck between Billis' legs. Billis deflected the puck but it trickled past him and barely cleared the goal line, tying the game at 13:03 of the period. Matt Gorski drew the assist.

"Too bad the second period ended when it did," said Catholic Central coach John Gumbleton. "I though we had momentum going our way."

AS THE THIRD period began it was clear the Shamrocks had lost their momentum. Brother Rice was back in control, but Brusseau stopped Capaldi and Chris Freeman in the first minutes of the period. When the Warriors finally broke the tie, it was only after Brusseau was left defenseless or, more accurately, defenseless-less.

After Brusseau kicked out a shot from the right point, the Warriors swarmed around the puck, firing three more shots at the freshman. Brusseau stopped the first two before Morrow, left all alone in front of the net, finally banged the puck home, at 10:42. Capaldi and Grohar drew the assists.

Rice spent the remainder of the game controlling the puck and protecting its net.

Both coaches praised their teams' character, and said that Rice was a legitimate contender for the state Class A title. Brown said the Warriors "really hung in there after they gave up those two goals. . . we have the team to go all the way if we get the breaks."

Rice will play a quarterfinal game Wednesday at the Flint IMA Arena.

Late CC goal ousts Spartans

By Neal Zipser
staff writer

Livonia Stevenson goalie Dave Labadie seemed like a brick wall Thursday for Redford Catholic Central, but junior Bill Baaki found a crack with only 28 seconds left in the game.

Baaki scored the decisive goal, his second of the game, on a deflection, lifting the Shamrocks to a 3-2 victory over the Spartans at Oak Park's Computare Arena. The win put CC in Friday's regional final against rival Birmingham Brother Rice. See related story.

Labadie, who made a total of 28 saves, robbed CC of several excellent scoring opportunities in the game's final period. But with just 34 seconds remaining, junior Matt Fleury uncorked a low slapshot from the blue line. Labadie went down on the shot, but Baaki was able to get his stick in front of the liner and lift the puck over Labadie's left shoulder.

"I saw the play develop and came in," Baaki said. "Matt made a good shot and did a good job."

Both coaches said the hard-fought game was anybody's to win in the final minutes.

"WHICHEVER team was going to win this

hockey

game stole the game," Shamrock coach John Gumbleton said.

"It was whoever was going to get the break would win the game and they got the bounce," Spartan coach Paul Ferguson said.

CC's Dave Gallagher opened the night's scoring 9:12 into the first period. The junior pounced on a rebound in front of the Spartan net and drilled a backhand past Labadie. Senior Tom Vaquera and junior Scott Johnson drew assists.

Stevenson (11-11-2) tied the game 30 seconds into the second period, as junior Frank Eupizi tipped a loose puck into the Shamrock net. Senior Nick Sata and sophomore Scott Johnson assisted.

The Shamrocks (15-6-1) answered 50 seconds later as Vaquera and junior Paul Schloss set up Baaki for his first goal.

Junior Aaron Moorhouse tallied Stevenson's final goal, as he tipped in a shot that went through CC goalie Mike Brusseau's legs. Eupizi and junior Mike Lindberg assisted.

Brusseau made 23 saves and the 5-foot-5 freshman matched Labadie's performance with heroic stops of his own — the final coming at the game's buzzer.

"HOPEFULLY no one will steal him from us," Gumbleton said of Brusseau, who was in net in every game for the Shamrocks except for a period and a half. "We started off slowly. We wanted the game, but didn't play like we wanted it. It may have been a little over-confidence. I think Stevenson really wanted the game."

Ferguson said the tough loss will benefit his young team next year. He had 15 players returning next season.

"I'm happy with our kids and congratulate them on having a good season," Ferguson said. "I also congratulate CC and wish them luck against Rice. This is a good lesson for us, but it's a hard way to learn it. They know now what it takes to win the big games. They have tasted it."

CC has beaten Rice twice this year by identical 6-4 scores, but Gumbleton knows the third time will not be easy.

"It is extremely difficult to beat a team three times," he said. "We looked tired tonight. I didn't want to play an overtime."

Bowlers raise funds for DARE

THE BOWLING CENTERS Association of Michigan has joined forces with the DARE program to help raise funds for the anti-drug awareness efforts of the program.

According to Larry Sisson, president of the BCAM, 320-member centers throughout Michigan will provide free bowling to community corporations, civic organizations and businesses which sign up for the Bowling for DARE parties.

DARE consists of various law enforcement agencies, including the Michigan State Police, who conduct a series of classroom lectures for fifth and sixth grade students on how to resist the pressures of drugs and alcohol.

The DARE program goes beyond the traditional drug abuse program. It teaches kids not to just say no, rather, how to say no.

Here's how you can help. Your local "Bowling for DARE" will help reserve a day and time for your group's party at a local bowling center. There is no cost to your group for bowling.

Hang the furnished "Bowling for DARE" poster in your lunchroom, coffee room or any other suitable area.

Start signing up sponsors with the furnished pledge sheets and get each sponsor to pledge at least a penny per pin for three games. If a sponsor wishes to pledge a flat rate, it must be a minimum of $5.

Go to your host bowling center and have a fun-filled time while bowling to benefit DARE. And after the event, coordinate the collection of all monies, where the proceeds will be transferred to the DARE program through the BCAM administration office.

Your group will receive a certificate from the Michigan DARE program in recognition of your community support. In addition, there will be a kids "Bowling for DARE" program, which will be held throughout organized youth leagues. Prizes will be awarded. For more information call the BCAM at 559-5207.

The Michigan Center Foundation's Fifth Annual Blanche Robinson Memorial Tournament is accepting entries for the tournament running in April and May at the Merri-Bowl Lanes in Livonia and the Plum Hollow Lanes in Southfield.

Hartman's shot saves Zebras

Greg Hartman scored only seven points Friday, but his three-point shot at the buzzer turned him into a hero and gave Wayne Memorial a 47-46 boys basketball win over visiting Monroe.

"The win improved Wayne to 12-2 in the Wolverine A League and 14-6 overall. Monroe evened its record at 10-10 overall and 7-7 in the Wolverine A. Wayne coach Dan Henry said the three-point shot was planned.

"Hartman and (Rick) Barnes crossed on the baseline and Hartman banged it in," Henry said. "At first I thought he got fouled, but there was no call. After I asked Greg about it and he said, 'Yeah, I got hit on the wrist.' Maybe that's what made it go in."

The Zebras trailed by 11, 36-25, after three quarters but outscored the Trojans, 22-10, in the fourth quarter. The win in the regular-season finale shows how far the Zebras have come since the season opener, when they squandered an 11-point lead after three quarters and lost to Redford Catholic Central.

"This was the first time we really became a team tonight," Henry said. "We really came back on a team with aggression and never quit."

Barnes, a junior forward, led Wayne with 11 points and junior guard Lee Williams added 10. Senior center James Grady grabbed a team-high nine rebounds.

Mike Foster led Monroe with 13 points. Wayne led Monroe 7-6 after one quarter but the Trojans outscored the Zebras, 15-12, in the second quarter to take a 21-19 halftime lead.

LUTHERAN NORTH 70, CLARENCEVILLE 52: Matt Wengler, a senior forward, scored 22 points Friday to lead host Mount Clemens Lutheran North to victory over Livonia Clarenceville.

The loss dropped Clarenceville to 5-15 overall and 2-12 in the Metro Conference. On Wednesday, senior guards Kendrick Harrington and Frank Juncaj scored 21 points apiece but it wasn't enough as Clarenceville lost to visiting Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook, 60-55.

Senior forward Tenny Evans scored a game-high 22 points for Cranbrook. Clarenceville led 16-9 after one quarter and 36-29 at halftime but Cranbrook rallied in the third and fourth quarters for the victory.

W.L. WESTERN 53, JOHN GLENN 40: Ken Taylor scored 14 points and grabbed a game-high 18 rebounds Friday, but Westland John Glenn still got swamped by host Walled Lake Western.

Jerry Jordan added 13 points for the Rockets, who fell to 4-15 overall after the Western Lakes Activities Association loser's bracket game. Western is 9-11 overall.

Bill Hulme led Western with 11 points and six rebounds and teammate Brent Mackowiak contributed 10.

Western outscored Glenn in every quarter and led 24-21 at halftime.

REDFORD CC 62, BISHOP GALLAGHER 59: Chad Varga's tip in off a missed shot put Redford Catholic Central ahead for good Thursday and the Shamrocks held on for a narrow win over visiting Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher.

CC, which plays Southfield tonight in its own Class A district, is 9-11 overall. Gallagher fell to 7-13.

CC was tied, 30-30, at halftime and trailed 57-53, but Varga and fellow junior Bob Kummer refused to let the Shamrocks lose.

Varga led all scorers with 24 points and Kummer added 17. Varga is a transfer student who has paid dividends after becoming eligible the second semester.

"Chad is getting a little better on defense and plays well with his back to the basket and has a nice turnaround jumper," CC coach Bernie Holowicki said. "He's getting stronger and his physical presence in the middle is starting to get better. "Our bench is also improving. We have eight kids who can play without any let-down."

LUTHERAN N'WEST 68, LUTHERAN WESTLAND 55: Rochester Lutheran Northwest outscored Lutheran Westland, 25-6, in the second quarter Friday and rolled to the easy win at home.

Senior forward Dave Gielow had 18 points for Lutheran Westland, which led 13-10 after one quarter. Senior guard Dan Hoelt was the other player in double figures for Lutheran Westland with 14 points.

Heartbreak hotel for Observerland?

Forget reservations for the Palace

THE THREE-WEEK JOURNEY to the Palace of Auburn Hills begins tonight.

For some, the trip will be short, for others, it could last longer.

The state high school boys basketball tournament, better known as "March Madness," is where dreams can come true for the four state champions in Class A, B, C and D. They will be crowned on March 23 at the home of the World Champion Detroit Pistons.

The tournament, however, can also be nightmarish, where upsets pervade.

This journey is not non-stop. It takes planning. You need reservations so you can lay your head down and get some much needed rest.

Some teams carry the American Express Gold Card around with them, but others will find few luxuries awaiting them.

Here's the 1-800 number for Observerland basketball teams. Hotel rooms are filling up quickly. (Records are through Friday.) See district draws.

RITZ-CARLTON (First class accommodations)
 Plymouth Salem (17-2): This is the premier team in Observerland. The Rocks, who reached the state Class A quarterfinals last season, have loads of talent up front, led by Jake Baker and K.C. Kirkpatrick. But can their guards get the job done come regional time when teams like Ypsilanti (one of two teams to beat Salem) and Belleville await? The Novi district is no piece of cake either, with the host Wildcats, rival Plymouth Canton and Livonia Stevenson (the other team to beat Salem) all waiting for a shot.

MOTEL SIX (They'll leave the light on) Farmington Harrison (13-6): Guess what? The Hawks should make the Class B district final at Detroit Country Day after an opening round game with Detroit Renaissance. Guess what? The Hawks get to face Chris Webber in the final. Maybe Webber, who is sick of calls from college recruiters, won't answer the call in the final. But that's highly unlikely.

BISHOP BORGESS (9-11): The Spartans are going with youth these days and should win their opener Thursday against Redford St. Agatha. Moving down to Class C might be advantageous, but Royal Oak Shrine is the team to beat at Orchard Lake St. Mary.

LIVONIA CHURCHILL (11-8): The Chargers have a fire center in 6-7 Randy Calcaterra and don't leave Brian D. Johnson alone to shoot. Quick teams will hurt them, especially a team like Wayne, whom the Chargers could face in the final at Franklin.

LIVONIA FRANKLIN (10-9): The Patriots are floundering during the latter stages of the season. After a big win over Canton, it's been downhill. Franklin opens at home tonight against Churchill, a team which has beaten the Patriots twice already.

WALLED LAKE WESTERN (9-11): The Warriors are playing at home and have coach Chuck Henry, that's two pluses. But 16-3

WAYNE MEMORIAL (14-6): Dan Henry has done a masterful coaching job taking over for his brother Chuck. He's also had to battle the pay-to-play thing. A tough non-league schedule should help them get through at Livonia Franklin. Senior forward Greg Hartman could lead this team into the regional final at Wyandotte Roosevelt.

West Bloomfield is the overwhelming favorite to get out of Western's district.

Plymouth Christian (10-7): Manish Handa will lead the Eagles in the Class D district at Detroit Redford St. Mary. If Detroit Lutheran West (5-14) is the favorite, then the Eagles have a chance.

 North Farmington (7-12): The Raiders have suffered through an off-year despite the scoring efforts of Chris White and Bill Chawik. Torn Negashan takes on his buddy Tim Dornie of West Bloomfield in the district opener at Western. Despite a lopsided count, the two will remain friends after game.

WALLED LAKE CENTRAL (8-12): Some dub the Vikings as the team of the future. A victory tonight over host Western would most likely put them in the final, but not further.

Salem dominates Western Lakes tilt

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Dynasties are nothing new in Western Lakes Activities Association gymnastics. Only the school names are changing.

Plymouth Salem won its second consecutive championship Thursday in competition at North Farmington, and indications are the Rocks could stay at the top for some time.

Salem had three of the league's top four all-arounders — four of the top 11 — and the quartet has a combined 10 years of high school eligibility remaining.

"You never know what little eighth grader is going to come up," Salem coach Kathi Kinsella said. "But assuming everybody else stays the same, this team should be in the top five in the state for the next three years, if these kids continue to do these scores."

Kim Miller defended her title as the WLA's No. 1 gymnast, winning the all-around competition with a 37.55 score and edging runner-up Heather Kahn of North (37.40).

SALEM TEAMMATES Courtney Gonyea (36.40), Alysa Sofios (36.30) and Sarah Makins (33.90) were third, fourth and 11th, respectively. Miller and Gonyea are sophomores, Sofios and Makins freshmen.

Their cumulative efforts and those of other team members enabled the Rocks to dominate the meet, winning by nearly six points over runner-up Plymouth Canton.

Salem scored a season-high 144.40, the Chiefs 138.50. North, which had won the WLA championship five straight years until last year, also had a season best of 137.35. The order of finish included Westland John Glenn, Northville, Farmington and Walled Lake Western.

"We knew Salem and Canton were one and two in the league," North coach Jeff Dwyer said, adding 137 would have won the state title in the past. "We just wanted to get as close as we could — and it was pretty close."

"We were fortunate in those years (when North dominated the league) to get some of the top girls in the state. We have some this year; it's just (the Rocks) have more. They have four girls who can average nine in every event, and we haven't seen that in a long time. One-forty-four — that's an unbelievable score in high school."

Canton coach John Cunningham, whose team has finished second to Salem several times this year, echoed Dwyer's comments.

"I THOUGHT Salem had a nice, solid performance," he said. "I keep hoping they'll have a bad meet, but I don't think they will. They're just too solid."

The Rocks won by a much larger margin than last year, when they scored 141.65 to edge North, which finished second at 140.25.

"This league meet was not like last year," Kinsella said. "We had to psych ourselves up and everybody had to hit. Everybody was psyched up (this year) but didn't hit. But it was enough to win."

Kinsella said she was pleased with what her team did in terms of score but not performance.

"I have a lot of my father in me; it's never good enough," she said. "My personal goal was to hit Elite All-American as a team, so the goal I set in my mind for this team we accomplished. We didn't come here to cream anyone."

To be rated Elite All-American, the team's top three gymnasts in each event must score 109.44 three times during the season, and one occasion must be a championship meet.

Miller was the league champion on vault, balance beam and floor exercise. She was third on the uneven bars but might have won that, too, if not for a fall while trying to perform a difficult routine. She still scored 9.00 but Sofios captured the title with a 9.35.

"EVEN THOUGH she fell on her front flip on bars, tonight is the closest she's come to executing (the trick) correctly," Kinsella said. "Usually, she takes it up too high and lands back on the bars. Tonight, she took it back but a little too much."

Kahn, who finished second to Miller in the all-around at the league and state meets last year, tied for first on bars with Sofios and was second on vault. She placed third on beam and floor.

Finishing second remains a great accomplishment, according to Dwyer, considering the caliber of the individual ahead of Kahn.

"I try to tell Heather that," Dwyer said, adding she averages 9.00 or better in every event. "She's one of the top girls in the state. She finished second to the top girl in the state and, to me, that's really good."

"You can't worry about the competition. You have to take care of what you can do. She did and everything turned out well."

Sofios and Gonyea tied for third on vault. Sofios was 14th on beam and fourth on floor. Gonyea was second on beam and floor, 10th on bars. The top 10 all-arounders included Kyna Morgan (Glenn), Kim Rennolds (Canton), Jameelah Gater (North), Marissa Maybauer (Glenn), Chris Prough (Glenn) and Johanna Anderson (Canton).

"In my six years (at North), it seems the competition is getting better and better every year, and it's because of these clubs," Dwyer said. "Some girls in the clubs are finally coming out to represent their schools, and they're getting the glory they deserve."

AFTER A POOR start, Canton finished strong and salvaged the meet, according to Cunningham. "We had half a meet," he said.

Canton's first event was floor, and the Chiefs never adjusted to the soft, two-layered wrestling mat. Canton finished second (34.75) but still almost 1½ points behind Salem (36.10).

"A wrestling mat is designed to do exactly the opposite of what a gymnast wants it to do," Cunningham said. "On a slow floor you have to punch in and wait for it to come back before you can punch out."

Canton moved to vault where four of five gymnasts fell. The Chiefs finished third (34.55), more than 2½ points behind Salem (37.10). North had 35.35.

"That was five 10ths off in each case," Cunningham said. "We had to count three of them. That was 1½ (points) lost."

"We finished well. We had good bars and excellent beam — which we typically do — and that was the reason North didn't beat us."

Anderson had one of her best meets, according to Cunningham, who cited Heather Murphy, Dawn Clifford and Rennolds for their beam performances. Canton was closest to Salem in that event, 36.30 to 35.80.

"I was very pleased with half and very disappointed with half," Cunningham said. "We've got a week to put it together for regional. What we're really focusing on is state. Regional will be a good step in between."

"We had three girls who had two days of practice (because of vacation), and this week we're going to iron that out and, I think, be a lot stronger."

DANIEL LIPPITT/staff photographer

Kyna Morgan of Westland John Glenn finished fifth in the all-around at the Western Lakes Activities Association championships Thursday at North Farmington. Morgan finished ninth in the vault.

STARS, STRIPES AND SURPLUS

Remember the opening scene from "Patton"? George C. Scott, in full military regalia, stands before an American flag and delivers a rip-roaring patriotic speech that put hair on everybody's chest. With a fist full of dollars, you can recreate that scene. All it takes is a visit to the surplus store. But be advised that while you'll find plenty of military gear, supplies may be down on the hottest item of 1991, gas masks.

Falling Joys get a 'Wish'

A combination of talent from Pete Velzen (from left), Pat Hayes, Suzie Higgle and Stuart G. Robertson have made Falling Joys a hot property in Australia.

Falling Joys lead singer and songwriter Suzie Higgle paints in rather wide strokes on the band's Nettwerk debut, "Wish List." Instead of banal "boy meets girl," the Australian songstress opts for a more surreal approach on the age-old theme.

On "Tunnel Vision," one of many deliciously orchestrated pop songs on the quartet's latest release, Higgle sings: "Still inside liberty/shake yourself from under me/cross your fingers that's all right/Show me something I can't fight."

Higgle pleads guilty to being somewhat all over the canvas.

"That's what I try to do," said Higgle, whose band performs Tuesday at The Blind Pig in Ann Arbor. "Some people miss the point a bit. I try to paint a picture without being too specific."

YET COMBINED with some doleful guitar and basslines, the Falling Joys' songs seem to be melancholic in scope. This knack for writing pop songs extends back to Higgle's youth.

She fondly recalls writing a book and learning to play guitar at the age of 9.

"It was only a children's book." Things didn't really take hold until much later when she met up with Falling Joys guitarist and vocalist Stuart Robertson at an Australian television network.

FALLING JOYS formed in 1984, performing as a three piece until bassist Pat Hayes and drummer Pete Velzen joined the fold. The band released a pair of singles, "Burnt so Low" and "Nearly a Sin," and was signed by Australia's Volition Records.

The band's 1989 EP, "Omega," was No. 1 on Australian alternative charts. "Wish List" is the Falling Joys' first full-length studio album.

Although "Wish List" comes across as a crystalline LP, the Falling Joys are said to have more of an edge performing live. That, no doubt, was a trait picked up from performing before sometimes hard-to-please Aussie audiences, who like a little verve to their music.

"Although it's a large country, it's small in country in that you only have a few times to impress people. You have to impress them up front in order to bring them back."

Monkeys score with 'Five Star'

The Junk Monkeys are putting recollections of $20-a-night motels behind them and reveling in the release of their second album, "Five Star Fling," on Metal Blade Records.

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

If anything, a record deal can make a guy a tad sentimental. The Junk Monkeys are no different.

Three of the band's four members, Dave Bierman, Devin Perri and Dave Bouttete, sit around in the old firehouse in Dearborn reminiscing like Dean Moriarty and Jack Kerouac discussing old travels.

Like the time in Galveston, Texas, when, low on money, band members played for beer on the beach for college students on spring break. Then there was the occasion in Georgia. The Junk Monkeys pulled up at some club only to find out nobody at the bar knew they were supposed to perform.

Then there was Philadelphia, see, when someone tried to break in the van, with the band still inside. Albuquerque wasn't any kinder or gentler.

"For a week, we stayed at this one place for $20 a night," said lead singer Dave Bierman. "They never changed the sheets. At 4 o'clock, we'd have people banging at our door asking us if we wanted to buy a rock (crack cocaine)."

Things were somewhat scary then. But these are merely recollections to be pasted in a scrapbook of rock n'roll hard knocks.

The Junk Monkeys are older and, oh, so much wiser now. A record deal can do that to you as well.

Certainly, such maturity is reflected in "Five Star Fling," the band's second release on Metal Blade Records (a subsidiary of Warner Bros.). The 10-song collection of fiery pop songs is by far the Junk Monkeys' most focused effort to date.

THE QUARTET plays a searing brand of garage rock'n'roll. The Junk Monkeys remarkably have not deviated from their original vision — being a loud and raucous outfit with pop songs that cause abrasions, not a salve for wounds. Things are more refined on "Five Star Fling," a rock-solid album front to back.

"It didn't seem to me we had a vision when we started out," added lead guitarist Dave Bouttete. "We just wanted to be unique and make sure there weren't 1,000 of us already in the bars."

For the first time, the Junk Monkeys recorded all the songs "Five Star Fling" without trying them out live. Included on the LP is a protracted and spirited version of The Who's "Quick One."

The other nine songs were written by Bierman and musically con-

REVIEWS

BILLY'S LIVE BAIT — Gear Daddies

Any time band names such as Husker Du and the Replacements are thrown about, one can usually count on a trip through power chord hell. Added to that, The Gear Daddies are from the same state as the aforementioned outfits.

And while there is a promise of "Billy's Live Bait" kicking "sonically harder" than the band's previous release, this is not realized here. Thank goodness.

"Color of Her Eyes" and "Time Heals" are the only full throttle rockers on this the band's debut on PolyGram.

Otherwise, the Gear Daddies appear more at home, strumming and twanging along without impunity on "Billy's Live Bait." This album has more of a heartland, Lake Wobegon feel to it than that of a primal rocker-riper with its homespun ditties.

Many of these country bumpkin musings are endearing. The Gear Daddies don't try to overpower the listener, opting to build slowly to a hook ridden crescendo.

On "Billy's Live Bait," the band makes a conscious effort to tackle more universal themes whereas "Let's Go Scare All" focused on drunken regrets. Martin Zeller still has a few dark tales to tell.

"Don't Look at Me" is rather personally revealing, culled from bitter past experiences: "So don't look at me, I'm not the mess I seemed to be/I know looks can sometimes deceive I'm crying all night and I'm crying all day/I'm trying to remember what it feels like not to feel this way/I don't eat anymore/I stumble home like a drunken old whore." Such laments are coupled with the relentless acoustic guitar of Martin Zeller makes this the No. 1 song on the LP.

The harmonica on "Sonic Boom" aches with desolation and the twang on "One Voice," a rather humorous song which the main character only wants to drive a Zamboni.

In the final analysis, the Gear Daddies have cooked up one heck of a major label debut. Highly recommended.

COMING DOWN — Daniel Ash

OK, first let's remove any pretense of objective, critical reviewing of this first solo project by Daniel Ash. You see, I always like any and every musical project spawned from the dreags of Bauhaus. Bauhaus itself, Love and Rockets, David J's solo work, Tones on Tail and even Peter Murphy's solo stuff all sound great to me.

Therefore, it comes as no great surprise that I really like ex-Bauhaus and current Love and Rockets guitarist/singer/writer Daniel Ash's first solo recording "Coming Down."

What is surprising is that Ash sounds so much like bandmate David J. When Lennon and McCartney released solo albums, they sounded very different from each other, but in the case of Ash and J, they have similar voices, similar song structures and similar instrumental sounds. (Note to Beatheads: I'm not insinuating that J. and Ash are Lennon and McCartney, so don't write to the paper.)

Anyway "Coming Down" is a mix of covers and originals. It was supposed to be all covers, but Ash kept getting too creative and had to write some songs of his own. The covers are "Blue Moon," "Day Tripper" and "Me and My Shadow."

No matter what song Ash is covering, it sounds like a Love and Rockets song. "Me and My Shadow" loses its hokeyness and becomes an eerie, day dreamy meditation. So does "Day Tripper" for that matter. Ash could probably make "Row, Row, Row Your Boat" sound like a trippy meditation. "Life is but a dream" is pretty deep stuff, after all.

The album is heavy on minor chords, medicated vocals, dream-state music. Listening to it is sort of like a drug-free psychedelic trip, although the lyrics are very anti-drug. Two versions of the songs "Coming Down" speak about the evils of cocaine.

The overall effect of "Coming Down" is sort of a pleasant otherworldliness. The album is — you guessed it — highly recommended.

PILLS, THRILLS AND BELLYACHES — Happy Mondays

With the rave raves from across the water, this album was picked as album of the year by the New Music Express, England's fashionably influential music weekly.

Now it's riding high on the U.S. college charts.

Having heard the Monday's first release, "Bummed," and being naturally skeptical of the fickle English music tastes, I approached "Pills ... hesitantly."

This skepticism was somewhat tempered with the opening lines from track No. 1, "Kinky Afro": "Son, I'm thirty/I only went with your mother 'cos she's dirty/and I don't have a decent bone in me/what you get is just what you see, yeah."

Couple this with the chorus line of "Yippee-yippee-ay-ay-ay," "borrowed" from LaBelle's "Lady Marmalade" and you've got to smile.

Singer Shaun Ryder has taken his chemically-induced whinnings of "Bummed" and transformed them into chemically-induced characteristic mannerisms.

Add to that, some exciting screaming guitar from Mark Day and it becomes clear that they are a different breed of group from the '60s ripoff style of the likes of Charlatans UK, etc.

The album does have its quirky moments, namely "Grandbag's Funeral" is a plodding, pedantic effort basing everything on a guitar riff of questionable value. Thankfully, this is countered by "Loose Fit," a dancey number riding on a James Brown style bass line.

Admittedly, it's highly fashionable to like this band now, but try not to let that dissuade you. "Pills, Thrills and Bellyaches" will earn your respect.

Richard Jeni: Perseverance pays off with laughs

By Rebecca Haynes
staff writer

Someone recently described him as a cross between Robin Williams and Mickey Rourke, and comedian Richard Jeni agrees with the assessment.

"I'm definitely this kind of 'New Yorker, wise guy type of act,'" he said during a recent telephone interview. "And I do have an upbeat energy."

You could probably say Jeni started doing standup when he was 13. His father was a big comedy fan and Jeni used to listen to his not-too-clean comedy albums when no one was home, memorizing the jokes.

"I think like most comedians I used it as a means of getting accepted. When I was 13, I wanted to hang around with guys who were 17 or 18 and I'd repeat the routines I'd heard on my dad's records and they liked it so they let me stay."

He remembers being attracted at that age to the whole aura that surrounded the vision of the smoky nightclub, open way past his bedtime.

But he never thought of making a career out of comedy. The Brooklyn native managed to maintain a 3.9

grade point average and then graduate with honors in political science and economics from Hunter College in New York.

"I THINK that's one of the things that really works for me on stage. People are thinking, 'Here is somebody who in appearance and manner shouldn't be a very thoughtful person.' The fact that I can dig deep with the concepts is something you wouldn't expect."

And although he held several positions in public relations, he was always doing something that got him fired, the comedian said.

"The thought of doing comedy was so far-fetched that I didn't know how to begin to even think of it. So every job I had I screwed up."

"I think I was subconsciously trying to set in motion the circumstances that made it OK to try the comedy thing. That way I could say I tried to be a regular person but it didn't work out."

THE FIRST year or two in the business, which for Jeni began in 1981, were very difficult.

"I did amateur nights for about a year. There's no way to learn it with out going up and putting yourself on the line.

Richard Jeni agrees with the assessment that he's a cross between Robin Williams and Mickey Rourke, a "kind of New Yorker, wise guy type."

"There's no how to learn everything, how to walk and talk. It's a slow process and in most jobs you get to be in a sheltered environment when you're first starting.

"I think I was on the verge of quitting every day. But I had in my mind that I had no place to go."

AND HIS perseverance paid off. His prestige in the comedy industry has climbed steadily since then.

Gone are the nights of performing in small, no-name clubs. He now headlines on an international circuit, including large concert halls, and is continuing a successful relationship with CBS's Showtime.

His 1989 special on that network, "Richard Jeni: The Boy From New York City," won him an ACE award nomination. So he undertook a more ambitious one-hour special, "Richard Jeni 2: Crazy From the Heat," which began airing on Showtime this year.

JENI TAKES exaggeration to an extreme, painting absurd pictures about family life and other situations with which people can easily identify.

"You have to find a sentiment that's shared. You have to be on common ground for comedy, so I'm always looking for something people tend to feel a certain way about."

"Most jokes are a distortion of reality, so you have to understand the real situation before you can laugh at the distortion. The more firmly rooted the concept is, the sharper the joke will be."

JENI ATTRIBUTES his standup personality to a combination of traits he inherited from his parents.

"My father was funny, but in a very sarcastic way. And my mother wasn't particularly funny but she's the type of person who loves a good party."

And although his parents are the target of several of his most popular routines, he said they take it all in stride.

"They like it, and the fact that I bought my mother a car for Christmas helped," he said, laughing. "My family is kind of a star-struck group. They'll sit around and talk about movie stars like they know them personally."

JENI DOESN'T consider himself to be particularly funny when he's not on stage.

"Comedy is a lot more cold-blooded than it looks. The trick is to make it look spontaneous."

"Most people laugh the hardest at things that just happen to them when they're not expecting it. But with this, people are told that at 8:30 to night the funniness will begin. You have to make the routines look spontaneous, like they're just happening for the first time even though you've rehearsed every line and movement."

AND ALTHOUGH he says he always includes new material in his road act, the audience will still see some of the routines he considers his best.

"I have found that usually people do want to see a certain amount of material from the (Showtime) show. So I try to sandwich the new stuff in between the stuff I know already works."

And what can Detroiters expect during his upcoming performances at The Comedy Castle? Jeni replied, chuckling, "I plan on getting naked and spontaneously combusting."

Richard Jeni will appear Thursday-Saturday, March 7-9, at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle, 269 E. Fourth St., Royal Oak. Showtimes are 8:30 p.m. Thursday and 8:30 and 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Call 542-9900 for reservations or more information.

A container of bullets and a couple of small American flags become a counter display at the G.I. Surplus in Wayne.

Buy military — surplus style

By Greg Kowaleki
staff writer

The winds of war that stormed across the Kuwaiti desert have calmed. In their wake, tons of military ordinance, used and unused and mostly Iraqi, clutter the sands. Gearing up of the military war machine meant an accompanying growth of military gear.

Technically, it's called "materiel," and it represents the guns, tools, clothes and equipment it takes to keep the military functioning.

But even with the fierce rate the military was using equipment in the war against Iraq, from overhead and on the ground, it often orders more than it needs.

And what doesn't get used, gets sold.

After World War II, a flood of Army/Navy surplus hit the market and gave birth to such stores as Silverstein's, in Detroit, which is legendary among many longtime "surpluses" (surplus buyers).

Need a tank periscope? Silverstein's had it. How about some pontoons for a plane? See Silverstein's. Ditto for shell casings, ammo boxes and just about any other military item short of a 50-caliber machine gun (which were on display but not for sale).

Silverstein's is long gone. But if you still have a hankering for a 100-pound bomb, take heart. There are still plenty of surplus stores in the area that can supply you with more bombs than a late night TV film fest.

"THE DAYS OF stores like Silverstein's are gone forever," said Jeff Goldsmith, owner of Joe's Army Navy Supply, 311 S. Main in Royal Oak.

After World War II there was so much surplus available that it could be bought by the boxcar at 5 cents on the dollar, Goldsmith said. Gradually, the World War II goods filtered through the market. Even Korean and Vietnam War-era goods are largely gone.

And with Pentagon belt-tightening and the skyrocketing costs of military hardware, it's unlikely a massive glut of surplus will ever occur again despite the current war. But that doesn't mean the surplus supply is in danger of drying up.

On the contrary, sales are booming, said Goldsmith. They took off like a Patriot missile on Jan. 16 when the United States attacked Iraq.

"Most of the goods we get now are foreign-made," Goldsmith said. "The majority of it comes from West Germany. Joe's carries surplus from armies around the world including Israel, Austria and even the Soviet Union."

Why army surplus?

Three reasons: First, patriotism. People are buying flags, pins and other items relating to Operation Desert Storm.

Second, fear. Some people worry that the country may be attacked by terrorists. They've sent sales of gas masks soaring.

THIRD, IT'S trendy. Remember, we are a culture that promotes shredded blue jeans as a fashion statement.

A camouflage shirt and military pants are stylish to many. These days, desert wear is in. The market is also especially strong for pins and patches.

Trench coats also sell well, adds Goldsmith. But there's been little call for bulletproof underwear (used by helicopter pilots) or flack jackets. (These weighty vests won't stop a bullet but will protect against shrapnel.)

However, most surplus shoppers are more interested in stitching than style. Hunters, campers and outdoors people especially like military surplus because it's well made.

"The Army may pay $5,000 for a wrench, but it's a good wrench," said Goldsmith.

A lot of Goldsmith's customers are women — "They do the shopping for the family. I have things for everybody, and we try to give a lot of practicality for the dollar."

As the economy is sinking into the doldrums, that is becoming more important.

"In a recession, people put off traveling for a vacation. Instead, a lot go camping, so they come here for supplies," he said. "You get a lot of value and quality for your money (with surplus)."

AT SURPLUS CITY, 3766 W. 12 Mile Road in Berkeley, business is up, Wayne said Tammy Dubin wife of owner Jeff Dubin.

"Never in a million years did I think we would be this busy," she said.

Now a big seller there are Israeli gas masks.

"Some people here are actually afraid that we may be attacked," said manager Brian Wais.

Others like the masks for their novelty. "And they're cheap," said Wais. They sell for $14.95 here compared to about $100 in Israel.

Gas masks, in fact, are the hottest selling items around.

"After the war began," Dubin said, "people were buying masks to send to Israel."

But now that the Israeli government has distributed masks to its residents, people are buying them for themselves. Sales have been so brisk that Dubin depleted her stock of 140 in two days.

Another trendy favorite is camouflage clothes worn by "paint ball" enthusiasts. Paint ball is a game in which participants stalk each other and try to shoot each other with harmless exploding pellets of paint.

Over at G.I. Surplus, 34932 Michigan Ave. in Wayne, the demand for surplus has blossomed, says owner Walter Littman.

THE BIG sellers are flags, pins and, of course, gas masks.

Even Littman feels that there is a bit of "hysteria" surrounding the fear of chemical warfare here.

He has seen parents coming in with their children to buy gas masks. "And they're scaring their kids," said Littman.

He added that war aside, military surplus clothes are "always in style." Hunters and campers make up the bulk of his regular customers.

"We get a lot of sophisticated hunters," Littman said. "They really know what they want." That includes clothes, sleeping bags, knapsacks and other typical outdoor accessories.

But if you still find a certain charm in a hand grenade, if an AK-47 assault rifle (that "cannot be made to fire") appeals to you, or if you want to steep yourself in a "Countersniper Guide," surplus stores can still deliver the goods.

JIM JAGDFELO/staff photographer

Army manuals and bulletins on such things as boobytraps, explosives and demolition equipment are part of the surplus available at G.I. Surplus store in Wayne.

JERRY ZOLYNSKY/staff photographer

Jeff Goldsmith of Joe's Army Surplus in Royal Oak is surrounded by surplus military paraphernalia that have become hot selling items since the start of hostilities in the Persian Gulf.

JIM JAGDFELO/staff photographer

Ronni Garbacz and Stacey Dechert check out the "camo" outfits — tank tops and bib-style shorts — for summer wear.

Among the authentic war surplus available are canteens with canvas covers and folding shovels used to dig fox holes.

'Coppelia'

3 Michiganders star with Cleveland Ballet

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

THERE WILL BE A STRONG Michigan connection to Cleveland San Jose Ballet's production of "Coppelia" at Masonic Temple, Detroit, Friday-Sunday, March 8-10.

Melissa Mitchell, who will be dancing the lead role of Swanilda, in the Saturday and Sunday evening performances lived in West Bloomfield and Farmington and graduated from Seaholm High of Birmingham in 1975.

Dennis Nahat, the company's artistic director, who choreographed this production of "Coppelia," grew up in Detroit and Grosse Pointe and launched his career from here.

Nahat will dance the role of Doctor Coppelius in the Thursday student matinee, the Friday evening and Sunday matinee performances. Flint native Mark Otloski will also be dancing the role of Milorad on Saturday and Sunday evening.

Dancing opposite Mitchell in the romantic male lead will be Peter Dibonaventura.

The roles of Swanilda and Franz will be performed by Karen Gabay and Raymond Rodriguez at the Friday evening and Sunday matinee performances and by Karyn Connell and Olivier Munoz for the student matinee at 11 a.m. Thursday.

Mitchell said, "It's a hard role. It takes a lot of stamina. I have six variations, two pas de deux, lots of mime and feats requiring technical ability. I do a lot of hopping around on point. I don't know any ballerina

Dennis Nahat, artistic director of the Cleveland San Jose Ballet Company, grew up in Detroit and began his study of dance here. He has given up performing except for character roles such as Doctor Coppelius in "Coppelia."

who likes to hop around on point. Yes, it's a hard role, but it's challenging and fun. It's light comedy, not heavy stuff."

AS SWANILDA, THE BAKER'S daughter, she finds that her rival for Franz's attention is Coppelia, the beautiful doll with the enamel eyes created by Doctor Coppelius. While the lonely doctor tries to discover a way to bring the doll to life, Swanilda helps him out by sneaking into the workshop and masquerading as the doll. Nahat's version ends happily, but not before lots of dancing, deception and near tragedy.

While growing up in Michigan, Mitchell studied ballet with Evelyn Kreason and danced with Kreason's Michigan Ballet Company. Mitchell was born in Dearborn, lived in West Bloomfield and Farmington and graduated from Seaholm in 1975. She studied ballet here with Evelyn Kreason and performed with Kreason's Michigan Ballet Company. She joined the Pennsylvania Ballet right out of high school and was there for four years.

She dropped out of the dance world for several years and managed a Mexican restaurant in Los Angeles.

"Then, one day I had the desire to go to a ballet class," she said.

Her teacher there called Nahat of the Cleveland San Jose Ballet to tell him about her suggesting she was a dancer whom he would like to see.

Melissa Mitchell, Rudolf Nureyev and Olivier Munoz take a curtain call after the Cleveland Ballet presentation of "Coppelia" in Dublin, Ireland. Mitchell, a Birmingham Seaholm High School graduate, and Munoz will be in the show in Detroit, but Nureyev will not.

marked a milestone in its 15-year history with its first European tour last year. Rudolf Nureyev toured with the company, taking the role of Doctor Coppelius with Mitchell as Swanilda and Olivier Munoz as Franz at the Point Theatre in Dublin, Ireland. After that the company was featured at the Edinburgh International Festival. Last fall "Coppelia" was on the bill for the company's performances at its second home, San Jose, Calif. Performances are 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 8, 9; 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Sunday, March 10.

March 7. There will be a free pre-performance party 12:30-2 p.m. Sunday with face painters, story tellers and entertainers for children of all ages. The opening night performance is dedicated to the memory of flight attendant, Heidi Joost who died in the airline accident in Detroit last December. She was a life-long student of dance and studied at the Ricardeau Studio in Detroit where Dennis Nahat started.

Her parents, Cleveland residents, have established a scholarship in her memory at the School of Cleveland Ballet.

THE STUDENT/SENIOR MATINEE will be at 11 a.m. Thursday,

For ticket information and to hear about the special family tickets, call 874-SING.

This painting of one of the costumes for "Coppelia" — done by the company's resident designer, David Guthrie — was reproduced on greeting cards sold to benefit the company.

organizing Dorothy Lehmkuhl Answering systems drive her crazy

Q: Telephones drive me crazy. They cause constant interruptions, I have to hold during long, boring recorded messages, and now we have to dial our own area code on many calls. Help!

A: It's amazing how something so wonderful as a telephone can become a curse as well. For consumers, the trend toward commercial telephone answering systems causes stress and delays. There's little individuals can do to fight this trend, but businesses can refine their systems and individuals can learn to facilitate telephone use.

Ironically, as I began gathering research for this article I was immediately thwarted by telephone answering systems and/or untrained personnel who encouraged me to leave a message for others to return my call later.

Too often, companies buy equipment for their features and technical merit rather than their ability to route calls to reach a "body" quickly. One of the biggest mistakes businesses make when installing systems is "voice mail jail," as one communications expert told me. This is where the caller is routed to leave a message without an option to get back to another extension. Good systems allow you to leave a message and then still dial back to another extension afterward.

Many recorded greetings can be cut off midway by pressing a known extension number or "0" for an operator. This is particularly helpful when you would otherwise be forced to listen to a monotonous listing of choices. It's worth a try to just hit "0" immediately.

To avoid switchboards, ask business people you call frequently if they have a direct number. One company recently installed direct numbers after their recorded answers proved unpopular. When asked about tips on message systems, one of those employees reacted, "Tell 'em to unplug and burn the darn things."

Executives should periodically call their own companies so that they'll understand how customers are treated, and customers should let executives know when they feel they receive poor telephone treatment. I recently called an 800 number advertised by my bank and, after a lengthy explanation of my needs, a whiny voice inquired "Oh, do you want to talk to your bank?" I was not impressed and their executive was amazed when I told him.

While there are pros and cons both ways, my own feeling is that communications people have done a whole of a sales job by convincing companies that commercial systems are less expensive and more efficient than human operators. What they overlook, however, is the loss of personal contact and the resulting good public relations established by helpful humans.

More on telephones next week. Dorothy Lehmkuhl is a Birmingham-based time management consultant

Construction thefts fewer, but still costly

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

Although it is not as bad as it once was, construction site theft is still a multi-billion dollar industry that eventually costs home and building owners, office and commercial tenants and contractors.

Theft from American businesses, by employees or outsiders, is as common as moss on a tree, but it is vividly apparent with construction thefts. When someone at an office walks off with a notebook, no one pays attention, but when a bulldozer is discovered missing — now that's hard to miss.

John DeMattia, chairman of the Construction Association of Michigan (CAM) and president and owner of the firm Lerner-Linden Inc. in Novi, said construction site theft is one of the more pressing problems facing contractors in southeastern Michigan and the rest of the country.

"According to the American Subcontractors Association, (construction site theft) costs the industry $15 billion to $25 billion a year," he said. "That figure includes job site theft as well as office theft and embezzlement, but even if it's only half of that it's a staggering figure."

DeMattia said in the end, everyone pays for construction theft. Theft is generally not figured into a construction bid, he said, but it does go into a contractor's overhead costs — which is reflected in bids. "I may not have a line item for it on a bid I make, but it is in there."

ROBERT STOREN, president and owner of Robert Storen & Associates in Bloomfield Hills, said that judging from his experience, construction site theft is on the wane.

"It's difficult to believe it's still that bad," Storen said. "It's very rare for us," he said.

"Years ago, it was a far greater problem."

Storen suggested that one possible reason why it hasn't been a problem in recent years is that the times have been good for the building industry. "Everyone has been busy — getting all the overtime they need — there hasn't been a need."

But Storen noted that even though the building industry has slowed, he hasn't seen an increase in crime.

Douglas Manix, president and owner of Campbell/Manix Inc. in Southfield, also said that if construction site theft is on the rise, he isn't seeing it. There has been some, he said, but not a great deal.

STEPHEN CANTRELL/staff photographer

Vehicle and serial numbers on engines are more common today, which has helped to eliminate the problems of large machinery theft.

Manix said most contractors have their own particular horror stories. "You used to hear about people backing up a trailer to a site and loading up bulldozer, but that doesn't happen anymore."

Construction theft is still costly.

"Five years ago, we were working on a project with a lot of landscaping. When we came back the next morning, someone had rolled up the sod and taken the shrubs and trees."

CONSTRUCTION THEFT runs the gamut from the larceny of huge machinery to the pinching of a ball-peen hammer, CAM president DeMattia said.

Tools, rolls of wiring and building supplies probably make up the majority of losses, but it is not that uncommon for a contractor to return to a site in the morning and find a piece of major equipment — bulldozers, cranes and large generators — gone.

"There's less of that (stealing large machinery) than even a couple of years ago," DeMattia said.

Most construction equipment had little or no identification, he explained so it was quite easy to take, say a bulldozer, from one site and put it on another.

"Let's face it, if you buy a bulldozer from Caterpillar, there's not a lot to distinguish one from another; they're all big and all yellow," DeMattia said.

Vehicle numbers and serial numbers on engines are more prominent and common today, which has helped to eliminate the problems of large machinery theft.

But the most common site theft involved mechanical portable tools, he said. Power saws and other tools, hand tools, generators and the like disappear from construction sites constantly.

Storen of Storen & Associates said education and awareness are the key. His company holds regular on job safety "lunch box session," with the trades people, some of which is devoted to security and loss prevention.

"I think the conversation helps to some degree — it keeps it in people's minds," he said.

MANIX OF Campbell/Manix Inc. said simply training construction supervisors and foremen to be more observant has helped curtail most construction theft. "Maybe that little extra awareness was all that was needed."

With contractors sometimes working three to five different jobs per week, a lot of equipment is moved around, he said. In the past, it wasn't uncommon to see trucks moving equipment on and off sites with very little supervision. "Now, if something is taken off site, you'd better believe my (superintendent) is going to be there."

DeMattia said by its nature, the building industry makes a construction firm's theft/loss prevention manager's job difficult. "Probably 80 percent of all construction site theft involved employees or associated employees."

Most contractors maintain a core group of full-time employees in a supervisory or foreman's position, but subcontract for workers as needed, he said.

"And then your subcontractor might hire a sub-subcontractor," he said.

EMPLOYEES STEALING from their own company — although it does happen — is less common than one company's employees stealing from another's, he said. "A lot of theft on construction site involves workers stealing from their colleagues."

Another form of construction site theft is when an employee or subcontractor sets out to set himself up in business. "It doesn't take a lot to become a contractor," he said — all you need is a few tools and some contacts in the industry.

Storen of Storen & Associates said one way to prevent the petty theft that still goes on is to clearly identify the tools. Some subcontractors he has worked with, for example, paint all the tools.

Still others require their workers to keep their own tools. "A lot of contractors demand that tradespeople keep their own tools with the thinking that they'll take better care of them."

Carelessly leaving tools about, he said, is inviting theft.

Manix said there are several things that a general contractor can do to deter theft. "We try to work quickly and close up the buildings — anything that might get stolen, we'll put in there."

Finishing a project isn't always possible, but it is often possible to finish and seal off a portion of the building, he said.

"Another thing we do is not bring valuable materials or equipment to the job if we don't need it," he said. Something can't be stolen if it's not there, he said.

Hired security, fencing and lighting are also alternatives that can be used depending on the job, he said.

Commission in question when owner refuses to sell

I had a listing agreement with a broker for the sale of my condominium. I chose not to go ahead with the deal even though he had a purchaser who was prepared to meet the price and terms set forth in the purchase agreement. It was pretty much the terms of the listing agreement. Do I owe my broker a commission anyway?

Questions arise frequently as to when a broker earns a commission.

This is generally a matter of contract law. In the absence of a special agreement, a broker earns a commission when a buyer is produced who is ready, willing and able to purchase the real estate under the price and terms set forth in the contract (or upon different terms acceptable to the seller). But a broker and a seller may agree that the broker's commission is contingent upon the actual performance of an executory agreement for the sale and purchase of real estate that the commission is payable at closing.

Michigan courts have held that a purchase agreement that contained contingencies did not evidence a "ready, willing and able" buyer. Moreover, the Michigan courts have held that where the proposed buyer tendered a conditional offer, for less money than the asking price, contingent upon the sale of the buyer's house, the broker had not produced a ready, willing and able buyer within the terms of the listing agreement.

Hopefully you can determine from this answer whether in fact you owe your broker a commission although it sounds like you do, particularly since apparently you had no contingencies in the agreement.
