Budget faces board opposition

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

A potential budget dispute loomed today as Wayne-Westland school board members prepared to consider approving a record $85.1 million budget that marks an 11.3 percent spending increase.

Superintendent Dennis O'Neill plans to recommend approval of the budget at tonight's board meeting.

The proposed spending was dramatically boosted by voter approval of a 7.75-mill tax increase on June 10.

While O'Neill doesn't see any major problems in having the budget approved tonight, two board members-elect Laurel Raisanen and Vicki Welty want the budget action postponed until they take office July 1. Raisanen made a formal request Wednesday during a budget hearing.

Board member Fred Warmbler, who won a board seat June 10 and was sworn in the next day, already has stated he won't support the budget because he opposes money set aside for teacher pay raises of 11.9 percent over the next two years.

Board member Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek said she would prefer to postpone approving the budget until Raisanen and Welty take office July 1 — if state law allows it. Other board members have given no indications they want to delay the action.

RAISANEN, ADDRESSING the board Wednesday, urged board members to adopt a continuing resolution to postpone the budget. She said she has been given indications by state education officials that such action is acceptable.

"I'm asking the board of education to please postpone the budget until the new board members take office," she said. Board members did not respond immediately to her request. District resident Val Wolf, who spoke during the budget hearing, also encouraged the board to postpone action.

"We've got new board members coming on who are going to have to live with the budget for the next year," she said.

Welty said Friday that the board should delay approving the budget because new board members will want to look at it "line item by line item." She indicated that a delay appears sensible because new board members, after reviewing the budget, likely "will change it, anyway."

THERE'S STILL time to sign up for the "Heartwalk" benefit sponsored by the American Heart Association. It will be held at Westland Center Sunday morning. Under the program, walkers will solicit pledges with proceeds going to the AHA.

Deadline to apply is Tuesday. Registration forms are available at the center.

The walk will be 8 a.m. to noon with participants expected to be at the Olga's Restaurant entrance.

CHERYL HAYDEN of Westland has received the Girl Scout Gold Award, the group's highest achievement. She is the daughter of Jerry and Wilma Hayden of Westland.

The award is giving for outstanding accomplishments in leadership, community service, career planning and personal development.

Cheryl was one of 10 winners of the award in the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council.

KEITH HAYSE of Westland recently received a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from Purdue University in Lafayette, Ind.

FOUR WESTLAND students were named to the winter term's honor roll at Lawrence Technological University, Southfield.

The four and their majors are Michael Czuba, business administration; Sean Chorony, math computer science; Marcell Marcolina, business administration; and Donald McDonald, electrical engineering.

To be on the honor roll, students must have a 3.5 grade point average or higher and be enrolled full-time.

FRANKLIN JUNIOR High School teacher David Bydlowski was one of 200 educators picked to take part in a major education project over the next 18 months. The value of the grant from the National Science Foundation is $2,000.

Bydlowski will be attending a six-day seminar this summer to address equal education opportunities for young women in computer, math and science classrooms, what the problems are and how to solve them.

ERNEST GREEN, IV of Westland will enroll at Northwood Institute in Midland in the fall, thanks to a Northwood Trust's Scholarship. The award is for a high school senior who has demonstrated academic excellence.

Green, son of Ernest and Patricia Green, graduated John Jay High School earlier this month. The Northwood freshman plans to pursue a business degree.

TWO WESTLAND students received bachelor's degrees recently from Michigan Technological University. Kevin Carmona majored in electrical engineering while Jerry Jason majored in metallurgical engineering.

SCHOOLCRAFT COLLEGE honored six Westland volunteers at the school's annual appreciation dinner. They are Helen Purcena, Tom Kilian, Joyce Krause, Dennis Miller, David Owens, and [unclear].

Single mother beats crack habit.

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Crack cocaine nearly destroyed Thelma Hughey.

Gripped by addiction, she stole from department stores and embezzled $8,000 from her father's bank account to pay for drugs.

She exposed her 3-year-old daughter, Autumn, to crack houses and sometimes disappeared for several days as relatives worried whether she was dead or alive.

Now, however, the 26-year-old Westland woman has beat her habit and started making plans to become a registered nurse.

AND SHE'S getting help through "Operation Bootstrap," a new government assistance program administered locally at the Dorsey Community Center.

Woman finds her independence

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

When her marriage ended, Carla Badder left California and came home to Westland to begin a struggle for independence.

But, working 30 hours a week at a security job for a department store, her $8.35-an-hour job didn't bring in enough money for Badder and her 3-year-old daughter, Brittany, to get ahead.

Because she works, Badder didn't qualify for Medicaid or Aid to Dependent Children. Friends let her move into their already-crowded apartment. But her hopes of going to college appeared dim.

Now, however, the 21-year-old

Westland woman receives $239 a week from "Operation Bootstrap," a new government assistance program that provides rent subsidies, counseling and other support services for low-income people who appear able to achieve independence.

Petition errors eliminate one council hopeful

The field of Westland City Council candidates was reduced by one Friday because one hopeful did not have a sufficient number of valid signatures on his nominating petitions.

The city clerk's office also said that the petitions submitted by Lewis Beaver by Tuesday's deadline also contained technical errors. That means that there will be 11 candidates on the ballot.

For example, there were dates accompanying signatures that were later than the dates given by the petition circulator, said Janet White, deputy clerk.

Of the candidates who met the Tuesday deadline, one withdrew by the 4 p.m. Friday deadline, White added.

The council primary will be held Tuesday, Sept. 10, to narrow the field of 11 candidates to eight for the Nov. 5 general election. On that day, four will be elected to the seven-member council.

To be on the primary ballot are incumbents Thomas Brown, Thomas Artley, Ben DeHart and Charles Pickering and challengers Sharon Scott, who lost a Wayne-Westland school board re-election bid June 10, former city council member William Ziemba, Dorothy Smith, who has run for office several times, Glenn Anderson, Don Mead, Bhagwan Dashary and David Cox.

Scott was defeated in the election that saw all three school board incumbents ousted from office.

Not up for re-election this fall because they are midway through four-year terms are council members Sandra Cicirelli, Terri Reighard, Johnson and Kenneth Mehl.

Woman injured at intersection

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

A 70-year-old Westland woman remained hospitalized in very serious condition Friday, one day after her car was smashed by a semi-trailer at Newburgh and Ford — the city's most accident-prone intersection.

Pending an investigation, police did not release the identity of the woman who suffered two broken arms, two broken legs, a collapsed lung, a broken pelvis and other internal injuries during the 2:08 p.m. crash.

Witnesses told police the woman was driving south on Newburgh on the wrong side of the road when she apparently ran a red light and was struck by a west-bound semi-trailer driven by a 39-year-old Adrian man, whose name also was not released.

It took rescue officials 40 minutes to use the "jaws-of-life" equipment and pry the semi-conscious, bleeding woman from her 1988 Ford Tempo, said police officer Thomas Hissong. The woman was taken to Annapolis Hospital and later flown to the University of Michigan Hospital, where Hissong said she underwent surgery. She was listed in serious condition Friday afternoon.

"SHE'S RESPONDING" to treatment, said police officer Steven Frazer, who also investigated the accident. "She's a strong lady."

The accident closed the intersection for two hours as Westland police, Westland fire officials, Michigan State Police and the Wayne County Sheriff's Department rerouted traffic and investigated the scene, police said.

The truck driver, who apparently could not avoid hitting the car, is not expected to be charged. However, it is possible the woman could be ticketed for running a red light if she survives, police said.

"We don't know if she is going to be charged yet," Hissong said.

Both Hissong and Frazer said they had no doubt the woman would have

Scholarships awarded

The Westland Rotary Club has awarded $1,000 scholarships to seniors at John Glenn and Wayne Memorial High schools. Winners of the annual awards are Donna Allsteadt of John Glenn and Adam Ostapowicz of Wayne Memorial.

Donald Douglass, a former John Glenn assistant principal and Rotary Club member, announced the club's scholarship awards. ALLSTEADT, A Westland resident, has a 3.83 grade point average. She plans to study business administration and possibly pursue a master's degree. The daughter of Mary Allsteadt, the graduate was in the school's color guard, Students Against Driving Drunk chapter and her church's youth group. She received an academic letter in the 11th and 12th grades for her high grade point average, and scored 100 percent on the Michigan Education Assessment Program tests. Allsteadt is a member of the school's National Honor Society chapter. She previously attended Edison Elementary School and Marshall Junior High School. Outside of school, she is a waitress at Ryan's Steak House in Westland.

OSTAPOWICZ, ALSO a Westland resident, was on the school's track team and is active in the National Honor Society chapter, student council and Ford Engineering Exploration Program.

The graduate, son of Rosemarie Ostapowicz, has a grade point of 3.66. He received a Presidential Academic Fitness Award, scored 100 percent on the state MEAP tests, and earned two academic letters, varsity track awards and several honors in computer-aided drafting, automotive and bowling.

He plans to enroll in the fall at Lawrence Tech University and later pursue a career in computer-aided design. He hopes to be an electrical engineer.

O'Neill said it is his understanding that a budget must be approved before July 1, based on conversations he had with school board attorney George Stevenson.

One state official, Kenneth Cool, concurred, saying school districts "can't spend any money" after July 1 unless they adopt a new budget before then.

COOL INDICATED that state law does not provide for a continuing resolution for school districts. When asked if they must approve a budget by July 1, he said, "Legally I think they're supposed to."

He conceded there appears to be differences of opinion on the matter and that there has been "misinformation" about the issue.

The $85.1 million budget would mark an 11.3-percent increase in spending, in part to pay for employee salary increases.

In revenues, the board expects to receive $89.3 million — a 17.5 percent increase over the previous year's revenues totaling $75.9 million.

The increased revenues will allow the district to restore programs and services cut last year because of a severe budget crunch. The new money also will avert massive budget cuts that would have occurred if voters had rejected the 7.75-mill tax increase.

Moreover, school officials expect to have a fund balance of $6.5 million at the end of the next fiscal year, compared to $2.3 million at the end of the 1990-91 year. Of that $2.3 million, about $800,000 of that will be state aid expected to be received late in the year.

Westland police Sgt. Peter Brokas, in charge of the traffic bureau, called the Newburgh-Ford Intersection the city's most accident prone. Last year police recorded 75 accidents there, and thus far in 1991 police have investigated 28 accidents at the intersection.

Most accidents stem from motorists ignoring traffic lights, Brokas said. Police had already begun a closer watch of the intersection — a move that will continue throughout the summer, police said.

The program goes beyond providing money for rent subsidies. It also includes counseling and support services, such as child care and education, for low-income people who show promise of becoming independent.

And the participants, who are moved up on the eligibility list for government assistance, develop a plan of action for improving their lives.

The Westland Housing Commission, using money from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, approves local participants for the program.

HUGHEY HAS been selected to receive $400 a month — enough to pay the rent at her Norwayne neighborhood residence. She had been receiving only $312 a month in government assistance, which didn't even pay the rent.

"I had to baby-sit and cut grass to make up the difference," she said. Her income left her with only $30 a month to spend on herself, her daughter and her 6-year-old son, Douglas.

"I buy frozen peas for the kids They're lucky to even get that. They don't get the expensive toys that a lot of kids get."

HUGHEY DROPPED out of school after eighth grade. Now she attends adult education classes and is trying to earn her GED certificate.

She rides a bicycle to the Cherry Hill Adult Education Center, on Avondale between Inkster Road and Middlebelt, and takes her daughter with her.

Since she quit crack cocaine several months ago, she has made plans to become a registered nurse.

HUGHEY ADMITS it's often a struggle to remain drug free, but she wants to prove to herself, her parents and her children that she can make a better life. She never wants to have the sense of failure she had after she once left home for eight days while on a crack binge.

"When I saw the look on my daughter's face after I came back, I knew I had to do something."

approved for "Bootstrap" by the Westland Housing Commission, which administers federal funding for the program that's based at the Dorsey Community Center.

Before Badder was approved, she had been placed on a waiting list for more than a year for Section 8 housing assistance. Now she and her daughter have been able to get their own apartment and start making plans to improve their lives.

BADDER, A high school graduate, has enrolled in a summer computer class at the Cherry Hill Adult Education Center, and she hopes to receive financial aid from Schoolcraft College for the fall term.

"Operation Bootstrap" provides counseling to help Badder work toward independence. It also provides a Dorsey Center staff member, Arlene Zazula, to help Badder plan strategies for getting ahead.

Badder, who is considering a career in computers, hopes

"Bootstrap" will help her gain independence by the time she earns a two-year degree.

"I like the program because it encourages you to become self-sufficient," she said. "They don't just give you rental subsidies."

Unlike some low-income, single mothers, Badder has received some help from family members. They care for her daughter so that she can work.

BADDER DOESN'T have contact with her former husband. He has since remarried and fathered another child. "I don't know where they live," she said.

Even with the money she receives from "Bootstrap," Badder figures she will have only a few dollars extra each week to get by. But she remains optimistic.

Like other "Bootstrap" participants, Badder will receive personal counseling for up to 24 months, and she attends family counseling sessions once a week, said Jay Gilbert, Westland's community development director.

Project to w-i-d-e-n Newburgh nears end

THERE'S GOOD news coming for local motorists who have been caught in traffic delays on Newburgh between Ann Arbor Trail and Warren Road during the past few months.

The good news is that the Newburgh road widening is well under way with the Westland portion south of Joy scheduled to be completed by the end of July, said Scott Veldhuis, city of Westland economic development director.

The Livonia segment, from Joy north to Ann Arbor Road, will be done by the end of August, said Livonia city engineer Gary Clark.

When completed, Newburgh will be five lanes wide. When the work began, the road was two lanes wide with a left turn lane in front of Churchill High School and the Livonia school district's Career Center across the street.

laid by construction crews excavating the old pavement, preparing the surface for new concrete and pouring the new surface.

Part of the traffic jams were reduced when Churchill High School closed for the summer in mid-June, eliminating hundreds of cars of students and employees and school buses.

Westland's portion of the paving is $1.8 million, financed by bonds and repaid by major road funds. Westland's responsibility for the project is the half-mile stretch between Joy and Laramie, where a previous road widening was completed more than a year ago.

Livonia's portion of the widening will cost $1.1 million and will be a road bond program, Clark said.

When completed, the widening will remove a traffic bottleneck created when other stretches of Newburgh were widened.

During construction Newburgh business was disrupted.

Carnegie instructor says course was lifeline during family crises

By Leonard Poger
staff writer

Diane Szymanski found that a change of churches 12 years ago also changed her life.

At one fellowship period after a church service, Szymanski heard a woman comment that she had taken a course in the Dale Carnegie program, initiated more than 50 years ago to teach leadership and interpersonal skills in jobs and/or families.

While attending a seminar a short time later, Szymanski heard someone else refer to the course, developed by the author of the popular book "How to Win Friends and Influence People."

At the time, she was a widow at the age of 32 with two small daughters, ages 6 and 1.

Now she is a Carnegie instructor who has taught more than 30 programs (each class is 14 weeks long) and about 1,300 students.

Szymanski, who lives in the Joy-Lathers neighborhood in Livonia, has been frequently seen on the "Occupations and Avocations" program on the Westland cable TV system.

SHE DECIDED to enroll in a Carnegie course 11 years ago when she was going through several family crises in her life.

Her mother was admitted to a nursing home in 1978, one year before her husband was critically injured in a car accident. His injuries resulted in his being a paraplegic and brain damaged. He died about 18 months later, in June 1980.

At the time, Szymanski, then 31, was left to support two young daughters, Lia and Brienne.

THE COMBINATION of her church and the Carnegie course was described as a "lifeline for those going through pain because of divorce or a death in the family."

"There is support all around us," she said.

A former secretary for the city of Dearborn and Ford Motor Co., she always thought of herself as a housewife, mother and Montessori preschool teacher.

AFTER ENROLLING in the Carnegie course, Szymanski described it as a "powerful experience, showing glimpses of me. And then I wanted to teach the course, but was terrified. I didn't feel I had what it takes."

While going through the course, she said she regretted not having as a youngster the skills she gained.

After completing the course, she asked about becoming a paid instructor, mainly to teach teens.

When receiving her Carnegie diploma, her classmates elected her class president.

"That not only surprised her, but also 'lifted me up,' she said.

A FEW years later, in December 1985, Szymanski applied to be a Carnegie instructor and was accepted — with the condition that she obtain a bachelor's degree within four years.

She had received an associate's degree from Henry Ford Community College in 1968.

While pursuing a bachelor's degree at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, Szymanski supported herself and her daughters by working as a Carnegie instructor and with Social Security Administration benefits paid after her husband died.

She received her bachelor's degree from the U-M-Dearborn 18 months ago.

SZYMANSKI NEVER forgot her initial dream of teaching teens.

She will start a free informational class, for teens only, at 6:30 p.m. today at the Sheraton Southfield Hotel, just north of Northland Center. A free class will be Monday, July 8, with twice-a-week sessions in the same location during the summer.

For single adults, Szymanski will have a free informational session at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Laurel Park office complex on the north side of Six Mile, between Newburgh and the I-275 freeway. A free class will be Tuesday night, July 9, in the same location.

Call Szymanski at 422-5734.

Boblo cruise set for July 18

The City of Westland CATV/Community Relations Department will hold its fifth annual Boblo moonlight cruise Thursday, July 18.

This year's cruise promises to be more exciting than ever as "cruisers" celebrate the 25th anniversary of Westland, said a city department spokeswoman.

The three-hour Detroit River Cruise will again feature two music options for dancing and singing Westland residents.

Returning to the main deck will be '50s, '60s, and '70s-style band Steve King and the Dittillies. Spinning the tunes on Deck 3 will be local disc jockey, The Gold Tones.

There will be several contests on board, including a twist and hoola hoop competition. Prizes will also be awarded to lucky ticket holders. Refreshments are available to moonlight cruisers at several stands throughout the boat.

Cruisers may also bring along their own refreshments. However, alcohol and glass containers are prohibited.

With a limit on the number of tickets, they will be sold on a first come basis.

The tickets are $10 each. Commemorative T-shirts are available for $5 and can be purchased 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday prior to July 18 at the CATV/Community Relations Department, 33455 Warren Road, between Wayne and Venoy roads.

Tickets are available at the CATV/Community Relations Department, the Community Development Department, housed in the Dorsey Center, 32715 Dorsey, at City Hall, 86601 Ford.

School property tax concept is outmoded

IT'S TIME TO dump the property tax concept for schools.

Homeowners certainly would agree. State legislators and local school officials who receive state aid would agree. Realtors selling homes in suburbia would agree.

So why not?

First, let's look at the problems from different perspectives.

City and county property taxes are no financial burden and they are effective in providing basic public services.

But it's the school tax that's a killer.

From a homeowner's view, the tax is a substantial financial burden and makes no sense from a tax or logic perspective.

THE CONCEPT of local property taxes was based on the reality of the late 1700s when property was the only major index of a person's wealth. There were no sports franchises, mutual funds, expensive sports or a cottage in the Upper Peninsula to gauge the relative wealth of an individual.

If you were financially successful in the days of George Washington, you bought more farm land and a bigger farm house.

As we approach the 21st century, that concept doesn't work and should be junked.

While millionaires usually have large homes (here and in several states), they have many other sources of income and ways to spend their money. At the same time, many middle-income and low-income people also have homes, but with fewer options for their disposable income.

IT IS sheer lunacy to have annual property assessment increases of 5 to 15 percent (more in some suburbs) when there is no corresponding increase in income.

For retirees, the problem is much worse, even when the state circuit breaker is factored into the equation. Why should a senior citizen with an income of about $15,000 to $20,000 (on the average) be forced to pay a substantial portion of his or her funds on school property taxes? With the state property tax rebate capped at $1,200, the situation is laughable.

For homeowners, the school property tax isn't fair or equitable.

From the view of state legislators and school boards, the sooner the tax for school operations is dumped, the better — for several reasons.

As with homeowners, the state aid formula for schools just isn't fair. At the same time, the tax isn't doing its job — providing a level playing field for local school districts in providing funding for students.

Some districts which receive state aid spend as little as $3,000 a student. Other districts which don't get that state money spend as much as $8,000.

That isn't fair — to the school districts or the students involved.

A SIMPLE solution is to drop the school property tax for operations and raise the state personal income tax several percentage points to make up the difference. For most people, this would result in a major tax savings.

At the same time, business taxes should be increased for the simple reason that public education is constitutionally a state responsibility and economically a regional, not a local, problem.

When Ford, General Motors or the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers are looking for new employees, they don't care which local school district job candidates attended. Why should a graduate of a Bloomfield Hills or Dearborn high school have a better chance for jobs than their counterparts from Inkster or Garden City?

Generations ago, graduates didn't go too far in seeking jobs.

But the situation is vastly different now with local graduates considering moving not only across the state but across the country for job opportunities before or after college.

From a real estate view, the elimination of school property taxes would be a boon to sellers as well as brokers.

FOR EXAMPLE, a typical $100,000 home would have a school property tax of about $2,000 if it was assessed at $50,000 with a 40-mill tax rate, or a monthly school tax obligation of $167. If that money could be translated into the potential buyer being able to qualify for a higher mortgage payment, it means an instant, no-hassle increase of tens of thousands of dollars in the potential selling price.

The sellers would be happy to get more money for their house and move to Florida. The buyers would be happy to qualify for a larger mortgage (even though it may be the same house they were looking at at the lower price with a higher tax bill). Realtors would be jumping for joy because it would result in a more active housing market. Don't forget, Realtors make money by a turnover in housing, not just the price of the house.

The bottom line is that everyone would be happy — state legislators, school officials, homeowners, students, Realtors and employers.

So what are we waiting for?

Leonard Poger, community editor for the Westland and Garden City editions of the Observer & Eccentric, has covered many debates and elections on property tax reform and school millage campaigns.

For liberals, correctness is no laughing matter

THERE IT was in black and white, just what you always thought about the political correctness nuts.

It said: "Those claiming that Eastern is a laughingstock should be told to stop laughing."

The line is from a letter to an Ann Arbor newspaper, and it's in support of Eastern Michigan University's decision to stop calling its team the Hurons.

The thinking behind it is that calling the team Hurons reinforces stereotypes about American Indians.

I'M PRETTY tired of guilt-ridden, white liberals telling me that the world isn't funny. It is much of the time. But it seems as though they want to pass a law against humor that they don't like.

"People should be told to stop laughing."

The comment begs the question: Who's going to tell them?

Why, government, of course. It's a new age of censorship being brought on mostly by liberals.

THAT'S PRETTY much what the civil rights bill now in Congress is all about. It's a pack of bills that tells us to stop laughing.

If it passes, I'll make a fortune out of selling bootleg tapes of "Saturday Night Live." But only those from the 1970s and early 1980s.

I stopped watching when a cast member walked off when Andrew Dice Clay was on the show. The person was telling people to stop laughing. I laughed at Clay and then stopped watching.

ANYWAY, I'VE been following the controversy at Eastern Michigan because I once attended the school and because I'm part American Indian.

Not that much Indian that I was raised on a reservation or anything like that.

But enough to have my father give me a funny look when I have more than two beers. He's afraid that "the Indian blood" may get to me and I'll become a stumbling alcoholic.

It got to his father. But that was in the days before we knew about alcoholism and enabling and all the other pop psychology that we use to blame our problems on something or somebody else.

My father just blamed his father's alcoholism on being a good part Indian, or oops, should I say Native American. Anyway, in Arkansas in those days, they were still called Indians.

AND NOW SINCE I've established my liberal credentials by saying I've got some non-white blood in me and that there was alcoholism in the family, I can whine with the rest.

But back to Eastern Michigan. If other governmental units start renaming everything that has an Indian name, most adults will have to go back to school to take geography classes to find their way around.

It would be a boom to educators. Maybe that's why EMU made its decision. You can almost hear educators licking their chops and saying: "Look at all that money we could make in adult education classes."

It would also be a great make-work project for legislators who could meet until Saginaw Bay freezes over or is renamed.

I LIKE Indian names. My feeling is that since we stole all the Indians' land we ought to at least leave their names on some things.

The linguistic game being played out at Eastern by the political correctness nuts is just another game being played on the Indians.

Give them a few trinkets and steal their land. Is not calling EMU's teams the Hurons ever going to make up for stealing all their land? No, of course not.

IT'S TIME white people stop feeling guilty about what their ancestors did. Let's face it, they came over here from Europe, killed the Indians and stole their land and then made slaves out of black people to do the work.

That's a lot of guilt. But not to worry. Their descendants became guilt-ridden liberals like Ted Kennedy who has made a political career of spending plenty of taxpayers' money on social programs to rid himself of his own personal guilt for being rich.

But it doesn't end there. Liberals are revising history so they aren't even reminded of what their ancestors did. They're wiping out the names of Indian tribes with a stroke of a pen just like their ancestors wiped out Indian tribes with guns.

They're not smiling when they do it. And they don't want the rest of us to either because we "should be told to stop laughing."

Where's Mark Twain when we really need him?

carrier of the month Westland

Kyle Kuzdek has been named the Westland Observer's carrier of the month for June.

Kyle is 14, a ninth grader at Franklin High School where he has a B-minus average, and the son of Kurt and Alisa Kuzdek.

His favorite school subject is electricity while he enjoys sports after school.

Kyle has won awards for art work and physical activity.

He has been a Westland Observer carrier for more than a year.

After graduation, he plans to enter the computer field or a technical field.

He believes an Observer route could help other youngsters by providing them with money and teaching them responsibility.

Keith stands by school tax sharing plan

By Tim Richard
Staff writer

State Rep. Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills, wore a black arm band on the House floor Thursday.

The second-term lawmaker held up a black bandit's mask and offered it to Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City. "There should be give and take. There's only take. That's not fair," she said.

Her GOP colleague from the other side of the metropolis, William Bryant of Grosse Pointe, called it the "sheriff of Nottingham bill," a companion to last year's "Robin Hood" school aid bill.

The topic was tax base sharing — taking half the growth in business property taxes and spreading it to all schools.

THE TONE was unusually bitter as a coalition of Democrats and rural Republicans advanced their own version of a plan to use commercial and industrial property taxes from growth areas — mainly outlying suburbs in Macomb, Oakland and Wayne counties — to sweeten the school funding pot.

The bill is on a fast track. It emerged suddenly from the House Taxation Committee with an hour's discussion and no staff analysis.

Although it wasn't on the House calendar, it was pushed through second reading Thursday and could be passed as early as Tuesday.

House Bill 4267 has some technical differences from a Senate-passed version, which was part of the school aid bill. The House bill sets up two districts instead of three. The House bill's first-year impact would be $23 in per-pupil aid for the poorest districts versus $30 in the Senate version.

So the question appears to be not if the Michigan Legislature will make the dramatic move to tax base sharing but what kind of collection system it will set up.

KEITH, A FORMER Garden City school board member and a chief proponent of tax base sharing, was nearly as adamant that districts like Inkster are the real victims of Michigan's "King John" taxation policies. "They're sharing not their tax base but their future growth," Keith said to lawmakers from the growth suburbs.

"Some districts levy 18 to 20 mills. Others levy 40 mills to get the same amount of money.

"Bloomfield Hills levies only 23 mills and raises $8,000 per pupil. Inkster passed 8 new mills last year and raises half as much."

In 1990 Keith was architect of a plan to "recapture" $72 million in categorical aid from wealthier districts, a measure called the "Robin Hood law." It cost Dolan's home district $5.8 million. Other suburbs also lost millions.

"We shouldn't be playing Robin

'We shouldn't be playing Robin Hood. We shouldn't have been sending $6 million to Bloomfield Hills in the first place.'

— Rep. William Keith,
D-Garden City

Hood," Keith said. "We shouldn't have been sending $6 million to Bloomfield Hills in the first place.

"If this is a Robin Hood approach, they (wealthier suburbs) must be King John," he said.

KEITH SAID bluntly his goal is to end all categorical programs and put the money into the general school aid formula, aiding poorer districts. "Today we're putting half the money into categorical and half into school aid," he said.

The goal of Keith and like-minded lawmakers is to reduce the gap between the state's richest districts ($8,400 per pupil) and poorest (less than $2,500).

He, Rep. James O'Neill, D-Saginaw, and Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, say it's impossible to raise state taxes to pump more into state school aid. The only way to close the gap, they argue, is to spread local resources.

BRYANT SAID tax base sharing will cost a few districts a lot of money but spread "a measly $14 million this year" to poorer districts.

The veteran GOP leader said that if Lansing can raid half the local business tax base this year, next year it may raid all the business tax base, and the year after it may start taking residential tax base.

Bryant found an irony in the tax bill. "This doesn't affect Bridgman (one of the wealthiest districts in the state, with its nuclear power plant). It operates on allocated millage."

His point was that tax base sharing affects only new growth, not old wealth.

S'craft offers quilting class

Schoolcraft College's Continuing Education Services will offer a five-week course on Amish quilting, 6-9:15 p.m., beginning Tuesday, June 25.

The course will be taught by Wanda Nash. Nash will also present a historical review of Amish culture. At least four quilting patterns will be taught. Quilting or previous sewing experience is preferred.

Registration will be accepted through June 25. Cost is $49. For more information, call 462-4448. Schoolcraft College is at 18800 Haggerty Road, Livonia.

College classes for kids at SC

Schoolcraft College is offering Kaleidoscope, A College for Kids, beginning July 8.

The program is a summer educational experience intended to enhance academic skills and stimulate creativity opportunity for middle and high school students ages 9 to 15.

Classes include math, English, computers, language, art, music and science, provided in individualized and group instruction.

WHY SHOULD I GET DENTAL X-RAYS?

People often wonder whether X-rays are really necessary, and whether or not there will be any risk to their health. Your dentist recommends X-rays because they provide information that is essential for detection, diagnosis, and treatment of conditions that can threaten your oral health. Many diseases can not be seen when your dentist examines your mouth. Without X-rays, small cavities between teeth, abscesses, cysts, tumors and other diseases may be impossible to detect until serious damage has been done. Finding and treating dental problems at an early stage can save time, money, and unnecessary discomfort.

Children may need X-rays more often than adults because their teeth and jaws are still developing and because their teeth are more likely to be affected by decay than those of adults. We generally want to take this diagnostic look about once a year. Tell your dentist if you are pregnant so that he can adequately protect you with a lead apron. If you have had radiation therapy to the head or neck, you are more susceptible to decay and infection, therefore, it is especially important for you to have dental X-rays to detect these problems at an early stage.

The amount of radiation used in diagnostic X-rays is very small. Therefore, the risk of harmful effects from dental X-rays is small. Dental X-ray does not increase your risk of cancer by any measurable amount. X-ray examinations should be made only when necessary. The National Center for Devices and Radiological Health of the Food and Drug Administration, the American Academy of Dental Radiology, the National Council on Radiation Protection, and many other organizations have developed guidelines for proper, safe, and effective use of X-rays in dentistry. Our office follows or exceeds those standards.

Fish gets his nod if poached

During the dog days of summer, a visit to any restaurant having poached fish on the menu automatically gets my nod. Let's face it, there aren't many restaurant kitchen staffs that feel comfortable preparing poached fish.

Most fish lend themselves to frying, baking or broiling, but when poaching is mentioned, immediate thoughts of firm-fleshed fish like salmon, trout, grouper or snapper are chosen 99.5 percent of the time.

To poach a fish is to cook it in liquid, usually flavored with vegetables, herbs, seasonings and wine. You can serve poached fish warm or cold, with the chilled version usually making the appetizer or salad routine and the hotter version shoring up the rear as an entree.

Poaching is a time-honored practice. Some critics will go so far as to say that poaching causes some of the flavor of the fish to disappear in the poaching liquid. Personally, I disagree, based solely on the concept that by incorporating herbs, wine and broth, the fish can only become more flavorful through the cooking process.

MASTER CHEFS will tout the fish poacher as the sole means of preparation. This elongated pan, 4-to-8-inches high with a lift-out tray, usually requires two burners on the stove, not to mention the necessity of storage between uses. I don't have enough cabinet space as it is, let alone for a fish poacher. If poaching individual fillets, I use my Farberware dutch oven with tight-fitting lid.

The poaching of a whole fish or large filets finds me bringing out the oblong enameled roaster. Both work equally well, especially when using a roasting rack to keep the fish off the bottom.

There are only two steps in the poaching practice that would require some amount of culinary skill. The first, preparing the proper poaching liquid, suggests common sense. The use of high-salt bouillions or harsh red wines are discouraged while the use of white wines, light broths and fresh herbs are more commonly accepted.

In addition, chunks of fresh vegetables such as carrots, celery (especially the tops) and capers make flavorful additions. Milder herbs such as parsley, chives, thyme, marjoram and bay leaves are most widely used.

The secret here is making sure the poaching liquid has come to a full rolling boil with the additions before adding the fish.

The second important step is timing. Individual filets already skinned and boned will need 10-15 minutes of poaching. Whole fish, gutted and sealed, coming in at around three pounds, requires about 20 minutes. Again, the secret is to bring the poaching liquid to a full rolling boil with the vegetables, broth, wine and herbs and then, once the fish is added, cover and lower the temperature to barely a simmer.

USING A firm-fleshed fish such as salmon will allow the preparer to perform the "flake" test. After sufficient cooking, a fork inserted into the fish and pulled will flake when pulled with the fork. Novices should always begin testing the fish earlier because you can always add cooking time but can never take it away.

Poached fish usually is served with a flavored mayonnaise or light cream sauce to accentuate the flavor. A personal favorite calls for mixing one cup of mayonnaise with the juice of a fresh orange.

Try poaching if you are looking for something to cook that not only will make a stunning entree but an equally stunning appetizer or salad.

Brad Vargo of Jack's Seafood Market in Farmington Hills shows a 14-pound parrot (below) Parrot (foreground), Boston mackerel and jumbo shrimp are some of the other offerings.

By Janice Brunson special writer

FOR SEAFOOD lovers, a quick quiz. What's the surest clue to fresh fish? How can you be certain you're paying for Mexican white gulf shrimp and not the less costly Indian tiger variety that looks the same? Where can you locally buy delectably delicious brill, a popular English flatfish?

Answers are: Fresh fish smells "oceanic" and the smart buyer always performs an on-the-spot smell test. Fish should be purchased only from a trusted and reliable source: Jack's Seafood Market in Farmington Hills carries brill.

For other questions, in fact, for most any question at all about seafood, try calling Brad Vargo at Jack's. You see, since Jack's opened last August, "Brad's hotline" has inadvertently evolved.

"I must get four, five, six calls a day, usually in the late afternoon, people calling with all sorts of questions about fish and how to prepare it. We give tons of advice. We welcome the calls," said Vargo, an enthusiastic award-winning chef who manages Jack's for Farmington Hills owners Jack Galopin and Mike Adler.

WHEN IT COMES to questions, Vargo likely has an answer. "Seafood has always sort of followed me around." During 18 years as a professional chef, he won culinary awards in 1978 and 1984 for such creations as crab bisque and poached salmon.

If no answer is readily apparent, Vargo will search it out, as in the case of brill, requested by an English customer. "That one took a while," he said with a laugh.

Brill is not the only unusual offering at Jack's. Ever tried parrot fish, a coral swimmer from the Florida Keys that is both delicate and delicious in taste? How about wolfish, a fearsome-looking catfish from the ocean that is excellent broiled, grilled or baked? Or Louisiana redfish, delicious in Cajun cuisine but often unavailable at the market?

Jack's also offers seasonal catches, with daily specials on the catch of the moment. Coming up in July and August — mahi mahi, yellow fin tuna, halibut, Norwegian salmon, pickerel and swordfish. Depending on the variety, prices begin at $3.99 per pound.

Fish lovers'

Vargo stresses caution in buying seafood. Otherwise, you might get a fishy deal, sole sold as flounder, cod as haddock or trout as brown trout.

Other advice: fish should be used the day of purchase; it freezes nicely if packaged correctly; best buys are seasonal catches; and beware of fish that carries a slightly ammonia-like smell. "It's not spotted, but it's not fresh either."

For a "one-of-a-kind taste treat," Vargo recommends the soft-shelled blue crab from Maryland, his hottest seller. The soft shell variety has molted its shell, rendering the entire crab edible. "It's a little pricey but if you've never had one, there's nothing else like it in the world."

MARYLAND CRAB cakes are also hot items, prepared by Vargo and pronounced the real thing by a discerning Maryland native who questioned whether a Michigan chef, award-winning or not, could really make a genuine Maryland-tasting cake. The key: "using actual blue crab."

Vargo draws on culinary experience as a former chef for Jacques Seafood in Southfield, Haymaker's in Lake Orion and the Hotel St. Regis and the 1940 Chop House in Detroit to prepare soups and salads of the day at Jack's, including chowders, bisques, gumbos and gazpachos.

All prepared foods are made with an eye to health, such as Jack's Neptune salad of crab and shrimp nuggets blended with mayonnaise, which is low in cholesterol.

So, now you have an excellent fillet of sturgeon, lake cod or whitefish. What to do?

Again, Vargo has a ready answer, presented on alternate Saturday afternoons free of charge when he demonstrates seafood cookery technique, followed by tasting parties.

"I do basic and very intricate recipes," things as basic as grilling seasonal fish to preparing an Americana feast. Garnishes such as the popular Inner Beauty Blue Marlin & Fish Sauce and condiments such as broiling baskets or Smoking Herbs for barbecuing — items Vargo uses in the demonstrations — are available for sale.

Jack's Seafood Market, 33224 W. Twelve Mile Road, Farmington Hills, phone 489-5750. Hours — 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday-Saturday. Call market for dates of demonstrations.

Favorite spot dedicated to the mushroom

DISHING IT OUT

The Golden Mushroom has been a culinary institution in the Detroit area for 19 years.

Nestled at Southfield's busiest intersection at 10 Mile and Southfield roads, it has survived — and indeed thrived — under the watchful eye of master chef/partner Milos Cihelka and executive chef Steven Allen.

One cannot help but be impressed by the restaurant and its trappings: impressive starched table linens, West German floral-pattern china, crystal and silver.

The dining room is arranged to give customers privacy, with booths and tables adequately spaced. Service is attentive but not overbearing. Nearly half the tables are designated non-smoking.

AND THEN there is the food. As its name suggests, the restaurant is an oasis for mushroom lovers. Several types are available and served as either an appetizer or accompaniment to an entree.

To show its dedication to the edible fungi, the restaurant greets guests with a three-foot statue of this region's granddaddy mushroom, the morel, which guards the less-formal Mushroom Cellar lounge downstairs.

One thing diners are required to do is make a lot of decisions. The process begins with deciding what type of bottled water to have, either spring or sparkling.

The fun starts with complimentary hors d'oeuvres. Roasted, pickled sweet peppers with Italian parsley and spices were nicely sour, while the cucumber pieces with salmon mousse, topped with golden caviar, were smooth and tasty.

Two signature appetizers are winners: the pate of the day, on this occasion a venison tenderloin surrounded by venison mousse and pistachios with a layer of shiitake mushrooms; and a variety of wild mushrooms sautéed and served in a brown sauce highlighting of sherry. A 4-ounce serving of Beluga caviar is $55.

OF THE SOUPS sampled, the house specialty Golden Mushroom and the lobster bisque with large chunks of lobster and velvety sherry-flavored broth were both excellent, although the favorite was the daily special curry crab with sweet crab meat and intense yet not overpowering seasoning.

Diners next can choose between a house salad of fresh Boston lettuce, dried cherries, red onions, walnuts, blue cheese and red wine vinaigrette, or a very good Caesar salad.

Perhaps the most difficult thing to do at the Golden Mushroom is select a wine to accompany the entrees. The list is mind-boggling both in breadth and price, undoubtedly one of the largest selections of any restaurant.

Prices range from a $5.50 glass of Kendall-Jackson chardonnay to a $600 bottle of Chateau Margaux.

A handful of special seafood and game dishes were rattled off at amazing speed by the waitress. These include sautéed soft shell crabs, sea bass with a citrus sauce, and a slightly salty veal steak with what else, mushrooms.

AMONG THE regular main dishes is a terrific medallions of venison tenderloin with sautéed morels in a cognac sauce served medium-rare as ordered, accompanied by spaetzles and fresh asparagus.

Sandwich recipe contest runner-up

Mary Becker of Birmingham was named a runner-up in the 1991 Bays English Muffins National Recipe Contest for her original entry, "Super Sunday Supper Sandwiches."

In her prize-winning recipe, Becker combines shredded, cooked ham with the spicy sweetness of a traditional sloppy joe, creating a dish for holiday leftovers.

Becker's recipe was selected from more than 2,500 entries submitted nationwide. She was awarded a gift pack of Bays English Muffins and a Bays gourmet apron. Contest rules required that English muffins be used to create an entree, snack or dessert dish. Entrants were judged by a panel of food editors and restaurant critics from major market newspapers and magazines on the basis of taste, imagination, appearance and practicality.

Margaret McDaniel of Sun Valley, Idaho, won first place for her original recipe, "Smoked Salmon with Ginger-Lime Butter," and received a one-week trip for two to Lorenza De'Medici's Villa Table cooking school in Tuscany, Italy. Giving an oriental flair to smoked salmon, the winning dish tops toasted English muffin halves with a ginger-lime butter made from fresh ginger root, lime zest and butter. Thinly sliced smoked salmon is then placed on top of the muffins, and each is garnished with a sprig of fresh dill.

SUPER SUNDAY SUPPER SANDWICH

Serves 4
 2 tablespoons dark molasses
 2 tablespoons brown sugar
 1/2 cup minced onion
 1/2 seeded green pepper, chopped
 1/2 teaspoon soy sauce
 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

12 ounces chili sauce
 2 cups shredded cooked ham
 6 Bays English Muffins

Combine molasses, brown sugar, onions, green pepper, soy sauce, Worcestershire sauce and chili sauce. In saucepan, simmer over medium-low heat for 15 minutes. Season to taste.

Add ham and simmer in sauce until hot.
 Toast four to six split Bays English Muffins. Spoon ham mixture on muffins.
 Serve with green salad and a big bowl of mixed fresh fruit.

SMOKED SALMON WITH GINGER-LIME BUTTER

Serves 12
 1 tablespoon minced fresh ginger root
 1 teaspoon lime zest
 1 teaspoon fresh lime juice
 1/2 cup unsalted butter at room temperature (1 stick)
 6 Bays English Muffins, split
 9 ounces thinly sliced, good quality smoked salmon
 Fresh dill

Combine ginger, lime zest, lime juice and butter. Set aside or store in covered jar in refrigerator up to five days.

Lightly toast muffins in toaster or bake at 400 degrees for 6 to 7 minutes. Spread each half with ginger-lime butter. Arrange 2 or 3 slices smoked salmon on top. Garnish with fresh dill sprigs.

To serve as an hors d'oeuvre, cut the muffin halves into 4 triangular pieces, then bake on cookie sheets and toast. Proceed as above, using only 1 slice salmon on each.

SHRIMP AND SCALLOP AMERICANA

8 ounces fresh sea scallops
 24 large shrimp, peeled and deveined
 1 small onion, julienned
 8 ounces fresh mushrooms, sliced
 1 medium red bell pepper, julienned
 1 teaspoon granulated garlic
 1 teaspoon lemon juice
 6 ounces sherry
 6 ounces clam juice
 2 dashes Tabasco
 4 ounces softened butter
 Salt and pepper to taste
 1 pound (dry) cooked egg noodles

Heat pan, add 2 ounces olive oil. Sauté scallops and shrimp 1 minute. Add veggies and garlic, sauté 2 minutes. Add sherry, cook 1 minute. Add remaining ingredients except butter and sauté 3 minutes. Reduce heat and add butter, cook 12 minutes. Serve over hot egg noodles. Serves 4.

JACK'S SUMMER MARINADE

(for fish, seafood and poultry)
 3 cups virgin olive oil
 1 cup dry sherry or chablis
 1 tablespoon Tabasco or Cajun Sunshine sauce
 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
 1 teaspoon granulated garlic
 1 tablespoon fresh ground black pepper
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 1 tablespoon onion powder
 1 tablespoon marjoram
 1 tablespoon ground basil
 1 tablespoon ground cumin
 4 bay leaves

Use only dry spices as they allow for extended shelf life. This will last for months if well-sealed and refrigerated.

BBQ RAINBOW TROUT SUPREME

4 fresh, boned rainbow trout
 1 pound fresh sea scallops
 1 medium onion, julienned
 1/2 pound mushrooms, quartered
 2 tablespoons olive oil
 Fresh summer herbs: tarragon, basil, rosemary, cilantro, thyme, oregano, dill.
 Salt and fresh ground black pepper, optional

Rinse trout and pat dry. Lay open, flesh side up. Generously brush inside with olive oil. Select fresh herbs of choice and crush. Coat 1 side of fish with herbs. Then place a layer of mushrooms and scallops. Fold fish closed. Brush outside of trout with oil. Place in fish basket or wrap in foil. Grill for 7 to 9 minutes each side, until flaky on inside. Serve with rice, salad and seasonal vegetables. Serves 4.

CAJUN REDFISH

4 1/2-pound redbfish filets
 1 stick (1/2 cup) melted butter, margarine or olive oil
 1/2 cup dry Cajun spice (available at spice counters or seafood markets)
 Medium-hot skillet or barbecue unit on high

Soak fish for 15 seconds in butter or oil. Remove and shake off excess. Dredge fish in Cajun spice. If super-spicy flavor is desired, dredge on both sides. Place fish in hot skillet or on barbecue for 6 to 8 minutes each side, until thoroughly done. Serve immediately. Serves 4.

Lobster compares favorably to red meat.

AP — For those concerned about saturated fat and cholesterol, there's no need to exclude lobster meat from the diet, the National Fisheries Institute says. On average, a 3 1/2-ounce serving of (raw) American lobster contains 95 milligrams of cholesterol, about one-third to one-half of the daily recommended 300 milligram limit.

Sonja Connor, a registered dietitian and co-author of "The New American Diet System," says crustacean shellfish like lobster are as good a choice as the leanest cuts of red meat, and better than skinless poultry, "due to their very low saturated fat content and the fact that they contain omega-3 fatty acids, the beneficial polyunsaturated fatty acids believed to play a role in reducing the risk of coronary disease."

To steam lobsters, pour about 2 inches of seawater or salted fresh water in the bottom of a large kettle. Bring the water to a rolling boil. Put in the live lobsters, one at a time, grasping just behind the claws. Let the water boil again and begin timing.

Allow 18 minutes for a 1- to 1 1/4-pound hard-shell lobster; 20 minutes for a 1 1/2-pound hard-shell lobster. If the lobster has a soft shell, reduce the cooking time by 3 minutes.

TO BOIL lobsters, fill a large kettle three-quarters full of water. If seawater is not available, add 2 tablespoons of salt for each quart of water. A good rule of thumb is to allow 2 1/2 quarts of water for each lobster. Bring the water to a boil.

Put in the live lobsters one at a time and let the water boil again. Lower the heat, cover the kettle, and simmer about 15 minutes for a 1- to 1 1/4-pound hard-shell lobster; 20 minutes for a 1 1/2- to 2-pound hard-shell lobster. Again, reduce the cooking time by 3 minutes for soft-shell lobsters. Lobsters are done when the antennae pull out easily.

LOBSTER DIABLO

Four 1 1/4-pound live lobsters
 2 to 3 tablespoons butter
 1 tablespoon garlic, chopped
 3 tablespoons olive oil
 1 large can whole tomatoes, finely chopped
 1 tablespoon fresh parsley, chopped
 1/2 teaspoon whole leaf oregano
 1/4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce

To steam lobsters, pour about 2 inches of seawater or salted fresh water in the bottom of a large kettle.

Boil lobsters, cool, and pick out the meat. Cut meat into bite-sized pieces. Reserve body cavity shells. Sauté lobster meat in butter and drain; set aside.

Sauté garlic in olive oil. Add tomatoes, parsley, oregano and hot pepper sauce; sauté a few more minutes. Add lobster meat. Split lobster body shells by cutting halfway through them from top to bottom. Put the vegetable-lobster mixture into the body shells. Place on a baking sheet. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 10 to 14 minutes.

LOBSTER AND RICE BAKE

1 medium onion, sliced in thin strips
 1/2 green pepper, sliced in thin strips
 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms

1 tablespoon butter
 1 tablespoon olive oil
 2 to 3 cups long grain white rice, cooked
 One 4-ounce jar whole pimentos, sliced in thin strips
 2 to 3 cups cooked lobster meat
 4 tablespoons butter
 1/2 cup sherry
 Salt and pepper to taste

Sauté onion, pepper and mushrooms in 1 tablespoon butter and 1 tablespoon olive oil, until slightly crisp. Mix rice lightly with the vegetables and pimentos. Place in an ovenproof casserole.

Sauté lobster meat in the remaining 4 tablespoons of butter for 5 minutes. Pour sherry over lobster; add salt and pepper to taste. Pour lobster mixture over rice and vegetables in casserole dish. Bake in a 300-degree oven for 15 minutes.

Stuffed pasta shells good for all seasons

One of the more daunting aspects of this job is selecting Winner Dinner Winners.

The choice is always difficult because, first of all, anybody who takes the time to write down and submit his or her family's favorite menu is automatically a winner in my book, and secondly, there are always so many good recipes and menus from which to choose.

Once a winner is selected, I interview the person by phone and try to get enough information for the column.

That is one of the things I enjoy most about writing this column. Interesting and Informative, these little chats always leave me feeling glad to have had the chance to talk to the winner.

TAKE, FOR example, this week's Winner Dinner Winner, Gina Galer of Livonia. My standard question about the activities she is involved in launched us into the most interesting conversation about co-op preschools.

She has spent many hours for the last five years volunteering at the North Livonia Co-op Preschool, where she has had opportunities to watch her children learn and develop new skills.

She explained that in a co-op school, each child's parent is assigned a job and everyone works together, taking turns doing everything from working as a teacher's aide or cleaning the classroom to hiring the teacher.

GALER FOUND her experience in this type of school helped improve her parenting skills as well as offered a wonderful support group made up of all the other mothers who also work at the school.

She noticed that almost all the parents who started out in the co-op nursery school continue this pattern of active involvement when their children move on to elementary school, thus making good schools even better and stronger.

And now, back to Winner Dinners, a sort of food co-op in its own right.

THANK YOU, Gina Galer, for sharing your recipes with us, and congratulations on being selected this week's Winner Dinner Winner. Your cooperative efforts are most appreciated and are sure to touch many lives — and tummies.

Readers, this is the last Winner Dinner Winner column for a while. I'm hanging up my potholders for the summer, and I'll see you in September's school, Galer loves to

Menu

STUFFED SHELLS
ITALIAN BREAD
SPINACH SALAD
HEATH BAR CAKE

STUFFED SHELLS

If your family loves pasta, they will surely love this tasty meal. Easy to make, it is one of those dishes that tastes great year round. This recipe serves 4 but can easily be doubled.

- 1 egg, beaten
- 15-ounce container ricotta cheese
- 1 ounces mozzarella cheese, shredded
- 1/2 cup Parmesan cheese, grated and divided
- 1/4 cup parsley, chopped finely
- 6 ounces jumbo shells, cooked and drained (half a box)
- 1 1/2 cups prepared spaghetti sauce

In a bowl, combine the egg, three cheeses and the parsley. Spoon about 2 tablespoonfuls of the mixture into each shell. Arrange them in a single layer in a baking dish. Spoon the spaghetti sauce over the shells. Sprinkle with the remaining Parmesan cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves 4.

ITALIAN BREAD

Slice a loaf of Italian bread with a serrated knife. Serve with butter or margarine.

SPINACH SALAD

- 1/2 bag spinach, washed and drained
  - 1 hardboiled egg, sliced
  - 2-3 bacon strips, fried crisply and crumbled
  - 1/2 cup bean sprouts
- Dressing
- 3 tablespoons sugar
  - 1/2 cup oil
  - 1 1/4 tablespoons ketchup
  - 1 tablespoon vinegar
  - 1/2 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
  - Pinch of grated onion
- Toss well with the dressing and serve.

HEATH BAR CAKE

Your family will love this cake! Mix together 2 cups flour, 2 cups brown sugar and 1/4 pound butter. Reserve 1 cup of this for the topping.

Mix together in a separate bowl 1 egg, 1/2 pint buttermilk, 1 teaspoon baking soda and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Add this to the first mixture.

Pour batter into a greased 9-by-13-inch cake pan and top with the following: 5 crushed full-sized Heath bars or 3/4 of a package of bite-sized bars, 1/2 cup chopped nuts and 1 cup of the reserved mixture.

Pour the topping over the batter and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Let cool and cut into squares.

Shopping List

- 3 eggs
- 1 container ricotta cheese, 15-ounce size

Eleanor and Ray Heald

Charles Krug is a worthy name

While the wine consumer remains infatuated with wine offerings from "new" wineries, you should remember there is nothing more important on the label than the brand name. Quality, established wineries will not risk their reputation on an inferior product. One such winery is Charles Krug — Napa Valley's oldest winery.

In 1849, the first year of the California Gold Rush, Charles Krug fled to America from his native Prussia, not to pan for gold but to flee a repressive regime unwilling to cope with idealists.

Like so many after him, Krug was enthralled with the natural blessings of Napa Valley's climate and terrain and caught the wine bug. He moved to Napa in 1860 and began planting vineyards in 1861, completing construction of a stone winery in 1868.

Just in case Krug's contemporaries hadn't noticed his achievements, the long arm of fate reached out one night in 1874 when a cellar worker inserted a sulfur candle (used for barrel sterilization) into a fuming brandy barrel. An explosion and subsequent fire destroyed the winery. Local historical records report that before the embers were safely out, Krug was ordering lumber for the rebuilding project.

KRUG DIED in 1892, leaving his ranch and winery to his daughters, but not without being recognized as an influential figure in the wine industry and the first person to establish a winery in the Napa Valley.

The Charles Krug Winery produced wine until Prohibition began in 1919. In 1943, the winery was purchased by Cesare Mondavi, an Italian immigrant who came to the United States in 1906 and prospered as a grape wholesaler in the Lodi area.

Today, Cesare's sons Peter and Robert are both influential figures in the California wine industry. Peter and his two sons Marc and Peter Jr. are involved with running the Charles Krug Winery while Robert and his family supervise the day-to-day operations at the Robert Mondavi Winery.

"Winemaking owes as much to tradition and the human element as

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

1989 Charles Krug Winery Chardonnay ($11) offers easy, pleasant current drinking. Appley fruit aromas and flavors are in focus with vanilla oakiness.

1989 Charles Krug Winery Chenin Blanc ($7) is a perfect summertime wine with fresh pineapple aromas and flavors that finish crisp and clean.

This versatile wine can be served as an aperitif, with grilled chicken, prior to dessert, or as dessert with strawberries.

to equipment and technology," said Peter Mondavi Sr. "My sons who have taken their places with me at the Charles Krug Winery help me to maintain that balance."

Peter Jr. is the technology expert. Armed with a Stanford University mechanical engineering degree, he designed all the stainless steel transfer piping for the new buildings that were constructed in 1982 as well as the state-of-the-art computer system that tracks wine movement through the winery.

Marc manages the winery's 1,200 acres of estate vineyards. Today, in addition to being the oldest winery, the Charles Krug Winery is one of Napa Valley's largest grape growers.

"THE CHARLES Krug Winery and the Peter Mondavi family have a tradition of innovation in winemaking and viticulture," Marc Mondavi said. "I'm now a part of that tradition, as I hope my children will be after me. This is a source of pride and humility, and the reason for a lot of our hard work to make the best wines this valley can produce."

The Charles Krug Winery produces a broad spectrum of wines including chardonnay, chenin blanc, pinot noir, merlot and cabernet sauvignon. The Cabernet Sauvignon Vintage Selections are some of the best-priced "older" vintages available in the marketplace today.

Stocks still follow traditional methods

AP — Stocks are the backbone of any kitchen. They generally have no substitutes in recipes, so their importance cannot be overemphasized.

The slow simmering of bones, vegetables and aromatics (ingredients such as carrots, celery, herbs and spices, which are used to enhance the flavor and fragrance of food) forms the cornerstone in the production of nearly all sauces.

The method of making stocks has changed little in the evolution of cooking. However, the same cannot be said of sauces. Less popular now are flour-and-fat-thickened sauces, traditionally finished with great amounts of butter, liquor or both. The sauces of the today are most often reductions of stocks thickened with arrowroot or cornstarch.

Paul Sartory, a chef-instructor in the Culinary Institute of America's American Bounty Restaurant in Hyde Park, N.Y., says hollandaise sauce and its relatives have declined in popularity in the last 10 years.

"TODAY'S HEALTH-conscious public demands the full flavor of the classic sauces without the cholesterol and calories," Sartory says. "The birth of a new generation of healthy sauces was, in great part, due to consumer demand."

Stocks can be used to replace oil in stir-frying or sauteing. And homemade soups have much better flavor and reduced sodium and fat when made with stocks.

To remove excess fat from stocks, cool them as quickly as possible after simmering by placing the pot in a sink with ice and cold water. Stir the stock every 10 minutes until cool and then refrigerate. Once thoroughly chilled, any fat will harden on the surface and can be easily lifted away and discarded.

- CHICKEN STOCK
- 10 pounds chicken bones, backs and wingtips
  - 4 1/2 to 5 quarts cold water
  - 4 medium onions, peeled and coarsely chopped
  - 2 carrots, scrubbed and coarsely chopped
  - 2 stalks celery, scrubbed and coarsely chopped
  - 2 bay leaves
  - 2 dozen whole black peppercorns

- 6 sprigs fresh thyme (or 1 1/2 teaspoons dried thyme)
- 6 sprigs fresh parsley

In a large pot, combine chicken bones and water. Water should cover bones by 1 inch. Bring to a low boil over medium-high heat. Skim off any impurities that rise to the surface.

Reduce heat to a very low simmer. Small bubbles will occasionally break the surface, but the stock should not boil. Simmer stock for 3 hours. Do not stir.

Add remaining ingredients and simmer for an additional hour. Skim the fat from the stock's surface, then strain through a fine sieve. The stock should then be used or refrigerated immediately. The stock will keep for 3 days refrigerated or 3 months frozen. Makes 1 gallon.

TARRAGON SAUCE

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons finely minced shallots
- 1 cup dry white wine
- 2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
- 3 cups chicken stock
- 3 1/2 tablespoons arrowroot or cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons fresh tarragon, chopped
- 2 tablespoons fresh parsley, chopped
- 1 tablespoon fresh chives, chopped
- 2 tablespoons butter
- Salt to taste

In a saucepot over medium-low heat, melt 2 tablespoons butter. Add shallots and saute 2 to 3 minutes. Do not allow shallots to brown. Add wine and vinegar and reduce until only 2 or 3 tablespoons of liquid remains. Add 2 1/2 cups of stock. Bring to a simmer and reduce liquid to approximately 1 1/2 cups.

In a small mixing bowl, dissolve the arrowroot or cornstarch in the remaining 1/2 cup of stock. Add to the simmering sauce in a steady stream, stirring constantly. Add chopped herbs. Whisk in remaining 2 tablespoons butter, a little at a time, until all of the butter is blended into the mixture. Remove from heat. Add salt to taste. Serve with roasted, grilled, or sauteed chicken. Makes 2 cups.

Bread bakers go for whole grains

AP — Bread may well be the perfect food. Bread has no waste, comes in nearly endless varieties, is high in nutritional value and fiber, and contains only 60 to 70 calories per slice.

Bread is filling, satisfies cravings for more fattening foods and provides an excellent carbohydrate energy source. It can be made without fat or sugar.

Bread often starts a meal, but it is also capable of finishing it — in the form of bread pudding.

New trends in bread baking are toward whole-grain varieties, like multigrains, pumpernickel and rye, which are rich in dietary fiber and delicious. The use of organic flours is becoming increasingly popular. These flours taste great, and offer the added health benefit of being grown in pesticide-free environments.

Often, at-home cooks are afraid to make their own breads. They are not sure how to mix the dough, how long it should ferment and whether their oven is hot enough for bread baking. However, bread baking isn't complicated. You just need to follow a few simple procedures.

Edward Bradley, a chef-instructor at the Culinary Institute of America's School of Baking and Pastry in Hyde Park, N.Y., says there are only two things to remember when mixing dough: first, when using a mixer, stop when the dough begins to pull away from the sides of the bowl. Second, when mixing by hand, begin with a surface sprinkled with flour and mix until the dough forms a ball that feels somewhat dry.

FERMENTATION IS important when baking bread. Fermentation is the process by which yeast feeds on the sugar present in dough, producing carbon dioxide. The release of carbon dioxide causes the dough to increase in size and develop in flavor. How long this takes depends on the temperature of the room and the type of dough being used.

Bread is filling, satisfies cravings for more fattening foods and provides an excellent carbohydrate energy source.

Most at-home cooks tend to let their dough ferment too long, Bradley says, and this results in bread that is dry and lacking in color. To avoid this, allow the dough to rise in an oiled bowl until it doubles in size and recedes when pressed with a finger. At this point, the dough is ready to be shaped.

With loaves shaped appropriately, the dough must be allowed to rise again. This is called proofing, and it can be done in any warm corner of a room. Again, the mark to look for is when the loaves have doubled in size and a finger touch leaves a slight depression.

To ensure that a crisp crust is created, bread should be baked in a 420- to 450-degree oven. Continue baking until each loaf has an evenly browned, well-developed crust. Timing varies on the size and shape of the loaves being baked. To test for doneness, tap the underside of the bread and listen for a hollow sound.

STEAM IS what gives bread a crisp crust. Bradley says home bakers can mimic the action of a commercial steam oven by brushing the tops of loaves with a mixture made of cornstarch and water.

For those who plan to bake bread regularly, Bradley suggests purchasing flat stoneware tiles. Bread can be baked directly on these tiles, creating a crispier bottom crust, he says. If using this technique, set proofed loaves in some plain cornmeal to reduce the likelihood of bread sticking to the tiles.

Frugal Gourmet meets his fans

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

The "Frug" himself — Jeff Smith, star of TV's "The Frugal Gourmet" — visited Cargo Express in Farmington Hills one recent afternoon to sign copies of his books for customers at the cookware shop.

Smith was even more lively than he is on the popular PBS show, seen locally on WTVS, Channel 56. His cooking show chef, Craig Wollam, who also came along to sign books with Smith, was as laid-back as he is on the air.

TV star Smith greeted each customer or family effusively, as they approached him for the book-signing — after many of them waited for an hour or more in a long line that snaked through the store.

The Frugal Gourmet was especially cheery with the youngsters, many of whom watch his show along with their moms and/or dads. "How long have you been waiting?" he said loudly to one child. "That's dumb!" he joked, after the child told him:

Gourmet Cooks American," "The Frugal Gourmet Cooks Three Ancient Cuisines" and "The Frugal Gourmet on Our Immigrant Ancestors."

Smith kidded everyone that buying his books was helping him put his sons through college. "Remember, I have two boys in college," he said. "If you have all five books, you get a grade report every semester."

A glass bowl was on the book-signing table, and Smith asked customers who requested autographs to make a donation for a food bank, his own personal cause, if they desired.

The Cargo Express sells Smith's books and carries a line of kitchen products labeled "selected by Jeff Smith, the Frugal Gourmet."

"They're all products he uses on the show, has tested and believes are quality merchandise," said Timothy J. Hopkins, Cargo Express president.

The line includes kitchen utensils and such cookware as a three-piece wok set, baking shells, a stainless steel oil can and a mandolin kitchen slicer.

An appreciative audience laughs after Smith tells them a colorful story about his TV cooking show.

ONE MOTHER brought copies for Smith to sign each of his five books, which include "The Frugal Gourmet," "The Frugal Gourmet Cooks with Wine," "The Frugal manager of Cargo Express, estimated the size of the crowd in Madison Heights as "at least 300. Here it looks like we had even more."

The TV show "The Frugal Gourmet" is watched by more than 15 million viewers each week, making it the highest-rated cooking show in TV history. An ordained Methodist minister, Smith developed his show in the early-1970s. Both Smith and chef Craig make their homes in Seattle. "The Frugal Gourmet" is filmed at studios in Chicago.

"Bless your heart, and thank you so much!" he said to one person, after signing a book.

THE RIGHT CHAIR

If you have arthritis, take care when purchasing furniture. For example: consider a chair. The chair seat should be no lower than 14 inches from the floor. This height allows you to arise using your knees in their optimum leveraged position, and usually spares your shoulders and hands from the need to assist in getting up. Your chair should have a hard bottom to prevent you from sinking deeper into your seat when you start to move. The chair should have side arms that you can grip easily and on which you can position your elbows and shoulders when you must help your legs on arising. Your chair should have a straight back. Then you can divide your seated weight in an equal manner between your shoulder blades and pelvis, a distribution that assists arising. Using pillows as cushion or wedge between your lumbar spine and the back of the chair is a good idea. The difficulty comes in finding an accessory that both accommodates the contours of your body and the shape of the chair. Your option to shop a catalogue is limited, so you must sit in a chair before purchase. Also, because of your needs that persons with arthritis cannot understand, it is impractical for others to buy chairs or other furniture that you will use.

Ex-Borgess star an Eagle

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Tim Walton, who traveled overseas while playing for San Antonio of the World League of American Football, will make a return visit this August.

As a Philadelphia Eagle.

Walton, a 1984 Redford Bishop Borgess graduate, signed a non-guaranteed contract with the Eagles, of the National Football League, late last week. The Eagles will play their first exhibition game in London, England, and Walton hopes to be a part of the trip despite not having the fondest memories of Europe.

"I looked at the exhibition schedule, found out London's the first preseason game and said 'I don't want to go back overseas,'" said Walton, an inside line-backer who was named to the WLAF's first team and his team's Most Valuable Player. "I'm like 'I don't believe this.' I'm trying to get away from overseas. I didn't like it at all."

Having to go overseas was the only drawback of playing in the WLAF. Walton, who played collegiately at Ball State University where he was the team's MVP in 1988, led San Antonio in five defensive categories: tackles (42 - unassisted, eight assisted); sacks (seven); total yardage lost (42); and forced fumbles (three).

WALTON ALSO recovered two fumbles for San Antonio, which failed to qualify for the WLAF playoffs after finishing 4-6 overall.

football standings

Despite his impressive numbers, Walton was surprised about winning his team's MVP trophy, which typically goes to skilled players like quarterbacks or running backs. He also had trouble carrying it home.

"When they called my name (at the team banquet) I thought I was being honored for being named first team," Walton said. "The coach's half (as big as) my body. I had to carry it with two hands and had trouble getting it on the plane. I'm waiting to get a nice house to put up a trophy case."

Walton, who was on the Detroit Lions' developmental squad in 1989, said he will report July 8 to Philadelphia's training camp. Detroit and the Phoenix Cardinals were the other teams who showed interest in Walton after the WLAF season, he said.

Walton sounds as if he holds resentment toward Detroit and other NFL teams, which did not invite him to camp for the 1990 season.

"I DIDN'T even call Detroit back," said Walton, whose agent is Joe Senkovich. "I'm going to make sure they all miss out (on my services). I haven't completed my mission yet. I'm going to go in with the same intensity (to the Eagles' camp) that I had during the WLAF season. Everything went according to plan in the WLAF."

"Everything I've dreamed of happening in the last two or three months has been happening. I want to give credit to the Lord, Jesus Christ, my savior."

Walton said he's not ruling out the possibility about playing again in the WLAF if things don't pan out in the NFL. Walton, who said he made $35,000 last spring with San Antonio, heard the salaries will be twice as large during the WLAF's second season.

"They did give me the opportunity to show I can play," said Walton, Former Redford Bishop Borgess star Tim Walton signed with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

who will marry his fiancée, Terrie Hendrix, on the Saturday before Christmas. "I'd go back to San Antonio because I like the game."

Art of bunting

Jerry Koester of Walter's Appliance demonstrates the lost art of bunting during Wednesday's Livonia Collegiate Baseball League game against Total Travel Values at Ford Field. Koester, a Westland John Glenn High grad who played at Henry Ford Community College, collected two hits as Walter's routed the Farmington-based club, 14-4, to run their record to 10-4-1.

14-4 romp to Walter's

Walter's Appliance, which has relied on its offense the entire year, got strong relief pitching Wednesday from Craig Overaitis to beat Total Travel, 14-4, at Livonia's Ford Field.

Overaitis (Livonia Franklin and Henry Ford Community College) allowed one run on five hits and struck out one Total Travel batter in 3 1/2 innings of relief.

The win improved Walter's Livonia Collegiate Baseball League record to 10-3-1 overall.

As is usually the case, Walter's bats worked overtime as coach Mike Keller's team collected 13 hits and rallied for eight runs in the fifth to prevail. Chris White led Walter's with two hits, two sacrifice flies and four RBI. Joe Brusseau had a pair of doubles and two RBI.

Eric Stover stroked two hits and drove in two runs, while Jerry Koester and Jay Gabel collected a pair of hits each.

REDFORD LITTLE Caesars whipped the Windsor Canucks team, 12-2, in the second game of Wednesday night's doubleheader at Ford Field.

Caesars, 9-4-1 overall, scored in every inning but the fourth. Jeff Miller was the winning pitcher, allowing two runs over five innings. Don Sikora pitched the last inning of the game, which was called after six innings because of a mercy.

Jeff Bates, who was 3-for-3 with five RBI, led Caesars' 11-hit attack. Adam Havey and Earl Johnson each went 3-4 for Caesars. Johnson had an RBI and stole two bases for Caesars.

N'wood shift affects local schools

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

A benefit to one and all? Hardly. Not like before, anyway. Prior to the 1987 collegiate sports season, Northwood Institute decided to drop out of the conference it had helped conceive and remain affiliated with the national association it had always been part of.

Now, Northwood is reversing itself.

The winners in the Midland-based college's decision are the other Great Lakes Interscholastic Athletic Conference members it will rejoin starting in 1992-93. Oakland University is among the nine current GLIAC schools.

Others are Wayne State, Saginaw Valley State, Hillsdale, Michigan Tech, Grand Valley State, Lake Superior State, Northern Michigan and Ferris State.

The losers? The NAIA's District 23, to which Northwood has been a part of for 20 years. Among the district members are Madonna University and St. Mary's College. Other current members include Siena Heights, Aquinas College, Spring Arbor, Grand Rapids Baptist, Michigan-Dearborn and Concordia.

NORTHWOOD APPLIED for readmission into the GLIAC after the conference's expansion committee contacted school administrators in March, 1990. Seven months later, Northwood submitted its formal application.

Two weeks ago, the last remaining hurdle for re-entry was cleared when the GLIAC's president's committee unanimously approved the expansion. With 10 members (all within Michigan), the conference is at its all-time high.

Unlike Northwood's decision between the NAIA and the GLIAC four years ago, this choice was easier. "We looked around to see what was available to us," said Northwood athletic director Dave Coffey, "and the smart decision for us was to get back into the conference we were one of the founders of (in 1972)."

If Northwood wanted to continue to compete in football, it was, indeed, the only option available. Last year, the GLIAC combined with the Heartland Collegiate Conference to form the Midwest Interscholastic Football Conference.

THE 11-TEAM football-only MIFC -- six from the GLIAC, five from the Heartland (four located in Indiana, one in Ohio) -- proved a tough nut to crack. It left Northwood, the only remaining NAIA-associated football team left in District 23, with no one to play.

"The way that football confer-

college sports

'The way that football conference was constructed, with 11 teams, it left everyone in it with just one (non-conference) game... We were on the outs.'

— Dave Coffey
Northwood athletic director

ence was constructed, with 11 teams, it left everyone in it with just one (non-conference) game," said Coffey.

"We were on the outs." Last fall, the Northmen -- playing as an independent -- played games at Westminster, Pa.; at Findlay, Ohio; and at Tiffin, Ohio. They also hosted St. Ambrose, Iowa; Dayton, Ohio; St. Francis, Ill.; and NCAA Division III teams Alma and Adrian.

The cost of travel was extensive, for an NAIA team. Northwood has applied for admission into the MIFC, the conference's council of athletic directors has unanimously approved.

ALL THAT'S needed -- is the MIFC's presidents' approval and Northwood will join the league in 1993 (scheduling problems have made earlier admission impossible). Also awaiting the president's OK is the College of St. Francis in Joliet, Ill.

The addition shouldn't affect the MIFC's current size, however, because there exists a strong possibility that two current members will be forced to leave by NCAA decree.

The NCAA passed legislation last January creating a new football-only division -- IAAA. It is intended for all schools with NCAA I programs in all sports but football, in which they play Division II. Valparaiso and Butler fit the description, as Coffey noted, "The handwriting's on the wall. It appears they will be out of the MIFC."

But, Coffey insisted, MIFC football wasn't the only reason Northwood rejoined the GLIAC; nor does the fate of Valparaiso and Butler play a role. "We were admitted (to the GLIAC) regardless of what happens to them," he said.

"I THINK the move will benefit all our sports, equally."

Coffey was also careful to note that Northwood isn't necessarily severing its ties with the NAIA completely, although the school will be required by GLIAC law to compete in NCAA II in any sports in which the conference has an automatic national tournament berth.

A decision whether Northwood will go strictly NCAA II or maintain dual-membership may not be made until next year.

Meanwhile, the NAIA's District 23 is scrambling to fill its dwindling ranks. Nazareth College was expected to join as a full member, but that changed abruptly when the school announced it was closing next year.

Northwood will continue as a district member through the 1991-92 season; when it leaves, it takes with it one of the best small-college volleyball programs in the state.

AT MADONNA, Jerry Abraham was building a solid challenger to Northwood's supremacy. (Five-straight titles); now his Lady Crusaders will get just one more chance to unseat the champions.

"It will definitely weaken our (district)," said Abraham. "They're an excellent team."

The reaction is the same in most sports, although at St. Mary's, assistant basketball coach Kevin Donahue thought the loss wouldn't have a serious impact.

"I don't think so at all," he said. "They're a good team, a quality team. But we've added Michigan-Dearborn (in men's basketball) this year, and Tri-State is joining our district in '92-93."

Tri-State, located in Angola, Ind., is the first non-Michigan team to enter District 23. Donahue said of the decision: "Geographically, it made sense. They're closer to us (than schools in Indiana's NAIA District 21)."

"I think our district is getting stronger and stronger. We're getting better and better players."

But the NAIA 23 still has to beware of the behemoth lurking in its neighborhood -- the GLIAC and its football partner, the MIFC.

New system to simplify scoring

FIRST CAME the pin boys, manually setting the pins back up on the dots. Then came the automatic pin-setters, which probably did more to revolutionize bowling than any time ever before.

Al Harrison

Next was the electronic scorekeeper, viewed by bowlers overhead with scores accurately displayed. And now the latest in advanced technology — the AS-90 automatic scorer from Brunswick. The newest, in a long line of scorekeepers, was installed recently at Woodland Lanes in Livonia.

Tom Winkel, co-proprietor at Woodland, was delighted with the installation, anxious to show off the new features to me.

In addition to the capability of "no-tap" scoring, this unit can also do a 3-6-9 system if need.

Se Habla Español? The AS-90 is programmable by the user to do it all in Spanish, as well as English.

Field training instructor Tom Reindell, of Brunswick Corp., was on hand at Woodland to explain the system.

"With the new CCD cameras instead of the older 'Scanners,' scoring is more accurate and the system itself more reliable," Reindell said. "This is really 'state of the art' for bowling equipment of the '90s."

Woodland manager Mike Smart was somewhat apprehensive at first, but now has joined in the overall enthusiasm regarding this installation.

It can even provide automatic league record-keeping.

Any high school Spanish teachers around? Send a student to the bowling center with the AS-90 and let them bowl in Spanish. It gives them a way to practice and learn their language, while having fun at the same time.

• Recommend reading: The current issue of Bowling Magazine (published by the American Bowling Congress).

The June/July '91 (page 12) features an in-depth interview on bowling with Cuba's Fidel Castro. As you may already know, Cuba will host the Pan American Games in August with bowling as one of the competitive events.

The Cubans had to hurry and build a bowling facility since there weren't any in existence anywhere on the island. A very interesting article.

Another piece written about the "System of Bowling" is also between these pages. It covers the Women's International Bowling Congress annual meeting, which is the governing body for all women bowlers. They endorse this system in concert with the ABC Convention.

Along with this action, the WIBC agreed to a joint rule book as proposed by the ABC. These historic programs will be in effect with the start of the 1991-92 season.

Also, a few interesting items from the pages of Bowling Magazine:

For 27 years, the highest recorded triplicate was 279-279-279. This was topped in February by the 280-280-280 in California.

Papa John is still going strong at age 103, while John Venturoello, the oldest league competitor, has appeared on the Johnny Carson Show.

Did you know that father and son bowling identical 300s has occurred 36 times since bowling records have been recorded in this country?

• Plum Hollow Lanes in Southfield will be the site of the "Automobile Dealerships Bowling for D.A.R.E. (Drug-Awareness, Rehabilitation and Education)," which starts at 7 p.m. Friday, June 28.

Among the dealerships participating in the event: Tamaroff Buick-Honda-Isuzu-Yugo, Star Lincoln/Mercury, Southfield Jeep-Eagle, Avis Ford, Page Toyota and Art Moran Pontiac-GMC. The participants will be from the sales and service staffs. Stop by at any of these auto dealers and pledge $5 or more to help teach kids how to "Say No to Drugs."

• Every day is "Kids Day" at Plum Hollow (located at Nine Mile and Lahser roads). It is $1 per game for all kids 15 and under (includes shoe rental).

Moms bringing five or more children will get to bowl free. Kids Day began June 18 (bumper lanes also available).

• The Greater Detroit Bowling Association has named its 1000-91 All-City team.

Bob Chamberlain of Auburn Hills ranks as captain with a total of 74 points. The first team also includes Doug Spicer, Steve Murningham, Mike Clemence and Mitch Jabczynski.

The second team includes Westland's David Mahax and Southfield's Ken Wyatt.

• The Detroit Women's Bowling Association also named their first All-City team, led by captain Jeanne Gebbia. Rounding out the squad is Dina Manni-Jones, Sandra Feurst, Aleta Sill (formerly of Garden City) and Kathy Halslip.

The second team is made up of Gloria Edgar, Marilyn Lueck, Cheryl Daniels, Betty Trimper and Paula Meyer.

Points are earned by the records in city tournaments, state events, ABC/WIBC competition, along with the number of honor scores (300, 299 and 298 games), series of 800 or more, added in with league averages over 200.

PRO WRESTLING CARD

Redford Parks and Recreation, along with RALY (Redford Assisting Local Youth), will present Michigan Championship Wrestling, beginning at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at the Redford Ice Arena. (Doors open at 7:30 p.m.). Tickets are $8 flingside and $4 general admission.

Featured on the triple main event: Champ "Iron" Mike Wayne vs. challenger Randy Rogers for the Great Lakes Heavyweight Championship; Champ "Psycho" Sam Cody vs. challenger Danny Todd for the North American Heavyweight title; and the Grudge Tag Team, the Flying Tigers vs. the Bounty Hunters.

Also on the card is Denny Kass vs. Pete Gibson and Mad Max Martin vs. Bobby Scott.

FOOTBALL CAMPS

• Eastern Michigan University and head football coach Jim Harke will host three technique camps this summer at Rynearson Stadium. The camps are designed for high school athletes, but junior high athletes will be allowed to participate (with permission slips from parents).

The schedule of camps, held 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day (cost $60): Monday and Tuesday, July 1-2 (quarterbacks, running backs and receivers); Monday-Tuesday, July 1-2 (linebackers, defensive backs); and Tuesday-Wednesday, July 2-3 (offensive and defensive linemen).

For more information, call the EMU football office at 1-313-487-2160.

• The annual Westside Instructional Football Camp (incoming grades 4-9) will be from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, June 30, and 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., Monday through Wednesday, June 1-3, at Redford Catholic Central High School.

The registration fee is $75.

For more information, call Tom Mach at 531-7251.

EQUINE TRAINING

The Schoolcraft College Equine Program is offering "Training Problems with the Horse," a one-day class from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. Sunday, June 30.

Through observation, the nature of training problems with horses will be discussed. Solution to problems, as well as techniques to avoid future training errors will be covered (includes lunging, gait troubles, not accepting the bit, manners and loading).

The class fee of $20 includes a field trip to Pine Meadow Farms in Novi.

To register, or for more information, contact the Continuing Education Office at 462-4448. Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile roads in Livonia.

SOCCER CHAMPS

The Livonia Youth Soccer Club's under-9 boys team recently won the Great Lakes Division Cup Championships (Flight No. 2) by a combined score of 12-2 over three games.

WESTLAND RUN

The Westland Fire Department's five- and one-mile walk/run, held in conjunction with the Westland Summer Festival, will be Thursday, July 4 at Fire Department station, 36435 Ford Road. The event is co-sponsored by Racquets Unlimited of Livonia and All-State Insurance.

The entry fee is $10 (includes T-shirt) if registered before Wednesday. Race day registration, 7:45-8:45 a.m., is $12 (includes T-shirt).

All registered runners are eligible for prizes. The top male and female finishers in the five-mile run will receive trophies and a $100 savings bond. All finishers will receive certificate, while awards will be given to the top three in each age category.

For more information, call the Fire Department (721-2001) or Michelle Fields (488-1196).

Mustangs corral Mack opponents

The Livonia Mustangs completed a successful week in the Washenaw Amateur Baseball Association with an 11-3 win Thursday over Chelsea at Livonia's Ford Field.

Steve McCool, who lasted 5 1/2 innings, struck out five, scattered seven hits and walked two in earning the win on the mound. Mike Berry pitched 1 1/2 innings of scoreless relief for the Mustangs.

The Mustangs are 7-1 in the WABA.

A 10-hit attack was highlighted by Scott Marinkovich, who had three hits in three trips, with a double, two runs scored and three RBI. Mike Giorgi was 2-for-2, with three RBI, and Fernando Troncoso was 2-1, with two RBI and a double.

On Tuesday, the Mustangs beat Wayne No. 2, 11-7. Berry was the winning pitcher, pitching 1 1/2 innings in relief of starter Ron Sherry. Marinkovich was 3-3 with four RBI, while Dennis Creedon and Jeff Schaffer collected two hits apiece.

The elite Observer's all-stars rate as best

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

IT'S DIFFICULT to believe, really, but understand it's long been accepted that in sports, results are what matter.

Based upon that premise, the Observerland region had an off-year in girls soccer.

How can that be, with all the talent packed into this area?

Look at the final results. For the first time since the sport offered a state championship sponsored by the Michigan High School Athletic Association in 1983, a Western Lakes Activities Association team was not in the final.

Prior to this season, in every year except 1989 (Northville vs. Troy Athens) an Observer-area WLAA team reached the Class A championship game and in three of those seasons, both finalists were from the state's premier soccer conference.

THERE'S A reason this year is different, of course — the MHSAA. The state's governing body has decided to pack a few districts with WLAA teams and have them all come out of the same region — meaning no more than one could reach the Final Four.

It's hardly representative when the state's best teams (indeed, three of the top six-ranked squads were from the Northville district) are other off in the early rounds of the state tournament.

The draw was a decisive factor in this year's tourney.

The end result is soccer fans across the state missed a chance to see the best players and best teams, which is what a statewide tournament is supposed to feature.

One final opinion: It's an even bet that the following athletes chosen to the all-Observer team could match any team of all-stars picked from the remainder of the state.

FIRST TEAM

Ragen Coyne, junior midfielder, Livonia Stevenson: What better way to open an all-Observer team than with the player selected as the state's best.

So much has been already said of Coyne that her coach at Stevenson, Mary Kay Hussey, could only add, "What could I say that hasn't been said before? Whatever I say will sound like I'm just repeating what everyone else has said."

Facts first, though. Coyne played more rover than midfielder, roaming the field and usually wearing down the defenders attempting to mark her. And there was almost always one, or two, or three players taking turns at shadowing her.

Still, she earned notice as the state's top player; last year, she was ranked in the top 18 in the nation for her age group (under 16½) in the Olympic Development Program.

What does she have to say about the can't do it alone. She plays her game and then gets everyone involved. And she takes abuse better than any player in the state.

Besides improving her strength and speed, which Hussey attributed to her growth, Coyne has "become a bit more aggressive going to goal. She's such a threat."

Jennifer Emmett, junior goalkeeper, Plymouth Salem: Emmett was a key factor in Salem's 18-2-1 season. How big a role did she play? Opponents scored just nine goals against her in 19 games. She had 14 shutouts; in her three-year career, she has 32 shutouts (a school record) in 51 games and has a 39-7-5 record.

No wonder she was all-WLAA and all-state — again. She was all-state as a freshman, too.

"Jennifer Emmett is a coach's dream," said her coach at Salem, Ken Johnson. "From the day she joined Salem as a starting freshman goalie, she has given her team 100 percent, both in practices and in games. Luckily, we will have her back one more year."

Stephanie Speen, senior defender, Livonia Churchill: The question at Churchill now is, who will anchor the defense?

Speen has been back there a while. She's started four consecutive seasons, and for the past two she was the team's captain and most valuable player. Those were distinctions she earned. Speen was also all-WLAA twice and all-state this season, and was ranked as the state's fourth-best player.

What does she have to say about the ness," noted Churchill coach Nick O'Shea. "She has the ability to read the play and make correct decisions in an instant."

"She's a real competitor with a never-say-die attitude."

Gwen Gibbish, junior defender, Plymouth Salem: Gibbish was a co-captain for Salem, mainly because — like Emmett — she was a pivotal part of a very stingy defense.

Gibbish played sweeper for the Rocks and earned co-most valuable player honors.

"Gwen is a great leader," said Johnson. "She has led our defense for two years, leading with confidence and skill, and organizing her teammates to a two-year record of 21 shutouts in 32 games."

"I am very glad she will be back next year with our entire starting defense."

Lori Godlewski, senior defender, Livonia Stevenson: Like Coyne, her Spartan counterpart, Godlewski moved around a lot, shifting from sweeper to forward — and performing well wherever she was.

"An all-WLAA and all-state selection, Godlewski possesses one of the most powerful shots around. Her goals were basically all the same," said Hussey. "She set it up 20- to 25 yards out and just cranked it."

Quite often, it ended up in the net. Godlewski scored 13 goals. "She's lethal," her coach added. "In every playoff game, she scored in the first five minutes. I've never seen that."

She was equally effective on defense. "In back, as a sweeper, she doesn't get out," Hussey said. "Lori's just a tremendous athlete. She's fast, she's not intimidated at all, and she's always under control."

Godlewski is headed to Butler University in Indianapolis, which is just starting its city soccer program.

Patty Shea, junior midfielder, Livonia Franklin: Shea provided a bit of everything for the Patriots — once again.

Franklin had talent enough to compete for championships in most of the state's conferences, but in the WLAA the Patriots managed just a 4-8-2 regular-season record. Without Shea, it certainly would have been worse.

She scored 14 goals and assisted on nine others in her third season as a starter. Shea served a team co-captain and for the second year was all-WLAA and all-Observer; she was a second team all-state selection.

"Patty is a hard-working player who never gives up," said her coach, Joe Galea.

Amy Krajewski, senior midfielder, Plymouth Salem: One of the few seniors on Salem's team, Krajewski will be difficult to replace. An all-WLAA and all-region pick, she shared with Gibbish team MVP and co-captain honors.

Krajewski scored four goals and had 10 assists; in her career, she collected 28 goals and 36 assists.

"Amy has been a solid part of the center of our team for two years," said Johnson. "She is very strong and fit, with an excellent work rate."

"She will be missed."

Kathryn Dudley, senior forward, Farmington Hills Mercy: A team captain, Dudley was a main reason for the Marlins' success this season — which included a Catholic League championship, a state district title and a 16-3-2 record.

She scored 23 goals and assisted on 17 others; good reasons why she was selected to the all-Catholic League team.

"Speed, sheer determination, courage and strength — these are words that describe Dud."

STEPHEN CANTRELL/staff photographer

Her extremely powerful leg is one reason Lori Godlewski is a member of the all-Observer soccer team; her speed is another.

Sue Gibson, junior forward, Farmington: Not much has escaped Gibson on the soccer field. In all three of her years as a Falcon, she has not just started, but been named all-Observer and all-region. The last two seasons, Gibson has been all-Lakes Division, and this year she was named first team all-WLAA and all-state, as well as Farmington's MVP.

She deserved the honors. Gibson took 59 shots on goal and scored 17 times; she also had 10 assists. And she didn't just play forward.

"Sue has been a three-year starter (34 career goals, 24 assists) and has been a major contributor to our program's success," said Falcon coach Cathy Kensman. "She has the offensive flare and skill to take on and beat any opponent."

Lori Place, senior forward, Livonia Churchill: Place leaves Churchill as the third-leading scorer in school history (47 goals, 29 assists in her career). This season, she netted 13 goals and had eight assists, and she will continue to play for O'Shea this fall — at Schoolcraft College.

A four-year starter, Place, the team's captain, was named all-WLAA and was honorable mention all-state.

"Lori is a very consistent player who always plays well," said O'Shea. "Even if she doesn't score in a game, she opens up opportunities for her teammates. And she is one of the best at playing with her back to the goal."

Erin Harvey, senior forward, Plymouth Salem: In a way, Harvey was a reason Salem didn't win the state championship.

The highly productive striker (53 goals in three seasons) had pumped in 24 goals in 10 games, but injured her knee and hardly played the rest of the season — including most of the state tournament. She also had 11 assists, and was named all-Lakes Division.

"Erin has been a stalwart on Salem's front line for three years," said Johnson. "This year, she really took over the scoring with great dribbling and shooting."

Nature comes 1st at Kiawah

first. Most of the time, anyway. This is still a resort island and most people still come to play golf. I was there during the early spring; it is much more crowded in summer.

Mary and Bill Crowley of Novi spent part of their honeymoon on Kiawah. "There is not much to do if you are not a golfer," Mary said "but if you bike along the beach and beyond the resort areas, you will find jungle wilderness. There are a lot of places on that island that have never been developed.

"Bill is a bicycle racer with the Wolverines in Northville so he loved riding that long sand beach."

I asked her if she would go back. "Yes, for a few days, although it is very expensive to stay there. The only restaurants are in the hotel and they cost a lot of money. It was our honeymoon, so we splurged."

Rates at one of the two-story wooden inn-buildings are $100 to $220 a day. One-bedroom villas are about the same, but they have kitchens; weekly rates range from $546 to $1,344. Two-, three- and four-bedroom villas are also available, as are special packages.

The Kiawah Island Inn and Villas are built among the palmetto trees and lagoons at West Beach. The villas they manage for owners are spread out along the beach in either direction behind the dunes.

The Kiawah Investment Co. crashed before the amenities at East Beach were finished, so the resort is now owned by Kiawah Resort Associates and managed by Oak Tree Hotels. There are plans to finish the rest of the eastern complex by the mid 1990s.

Meantime, golfers and alligators share the four golf courses on the island. When guests get tired of golf, tennis, the beach and periwinkles they eat at the Buccaneer restaurant just outside the gate or drive into Charleston.

Kids enjoy lots of daily activities under summer programs called Kamp Kiawah. They can crab in the marshes or pull a seine full of sea life from the Atlantic under the supervision of young naturalists.

But, the day begins and ends on that beach that runs the 10-mile length of the island, 100 feet wide at low tide. The beach runs east and west, facing south across the Atlantic, so a beachcomber's day begins when the sun rises at the east end of the beach and ends when the sun sets at the west end.

Walking in the front door at Bonnymill Inn in Chesaning is like stepping into a Victorian greeting card. The owners re-

person it's named for on the inside of the door, with a caption that tells a little bit about the person.

Bonnymill has hosted at least one famous guest — Phyllis Diller, who was the featured performer at Chesaning's Showboat last year. "At first she didn't want to stay here; her secretary called several times to ask questions about the rooms, but they loved it here," said Howard. Bobby Vinton (Showboat's featured performer in July) will be staying here this year.

The inn is, in some ways, more like a small hotel than a bed and breakfast, probably because of its size (24 rooms, with more in the works). What makes it like a bed and breakfast, however, is the friendliness of the staff, especially the Ebenhoehs themselves.

Actually, most of the staff are Ebenhoehs — this is a real family operation. Five of the Ebenhoehs' six children work at either the inn or Heritage House Restaurant.

Rooms cost between $65 and $125. Call (517) 845-7780 for reservations.

Westland girl to dance on Chesaning Showboat

Six-year-old Jessica Berner of Westland will be one of the 36 amateur acts performing aboard the Chesaning Showboat July 15 through 20 in Chesaning. Jessica, who does jazz tap dancing, will perform on Saturday night July 20.

These acts are on stage before the main show each evening. The showboat had to choose from 285 performers in 162 acts that auditioned for the week's shows. They chose six acts a night, with one alternate a night.

Singer Bobby Vinton leads the lineup of professional performers on the Showboat, sharing the spotlight with Norm Crosby, who serves as co-host on the Jerry Lewis Labor Day telethon.

Tickets for dockside seats range from $.88 to $14 and can be reserved by calling (517) 845-3056.

An overnight stay at Bonnymill includes a full breakfast. We were offered fresh fruit and several different kinds of juice, an egg and bacon casserole, a variety of cold cereals and Bonnie's freshly baked pastries — muffins, coffee cakes and croissants.

While you're staying at the inn, you might want to have lunch or dinner at the Heritage House Restaurant. All the care that has been taken to create a warm atmosphere at Bonnymill Inn is also in evidence at the Ebenhoehs' first project, which opened in 1980.

The decor in the restaurant is also Victorian, with the same kinds of romantic touches as the inn.

Heritage House is in an old home; that's why people like it, according to Bonnie. "One of the reasons the restaurant has been a success is because of the setting. People love to get into the old homes. Others can duplicate our food, but they can't duplicate the setting." I, for one, doubt many can come any where near duplicating the food.

Heritage House features a down-home kind of menu — lots of quality, homecooked food at reasonable prices. Both of the specialties feature roast pork — pork tenderloin rolled around bread stuffing, and thick slices of pork tenderloin topped with homemade mincemeat and baked in a crust. Another specialty is a variety of ice cream pies for dessert.

The restaurant is open for lunch from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday to Saturday, and for dinner from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and from noon to 9 p.m. on Sunday. If you're staying at the inn, they will make reservations for you at the restaurant; if not, call (517) 845-7700.

Tip for honeymooners: don't scrimp too much

• Ask your travel agent about a package to Walt Disney World. Disney hotels are expensive; check the hotels in nearby Kissimmee.

• Check Caribbean package rates. You can go to Puerto Rico for a week, spend a few days in San Juan and then stay in paradises out-land for under $60 a night.

• You probably can't do Hawaii but how about Mexico? Check packages to Acapulco or Puerto Vallarta. "Cancun is the most popular destination so hotels are sometimes more expensive there; sometimes they are not, so check it out. But a dinner that costs $40 in Cancun costs $20 in Puerto Vallarta."

So what about advice to the wedding-worn?

"Don't go away the day of the wedding. Stay 24 hours and enjoy the parties before you leave. Expect to be exhausted after the wedding. You will want to flop in the sun for two or three days without thinking about where you will honeymoon or how you will find your way through a foreign language.

"Don't scrimp too much. This is a special occasion. When asked what they would do differently, many honeymooners say that they would spend an extra $50 for a room overlooking the sea instead of settling for one that overlooks the parking lot."

"Travel itself is stressful, so don't be surprised if everything looks strange to you on your first day. Couples go to the Caribbean, where luxury hotels look different. No elevators. Single story buildings. A smart hotel manager I know sends champagne to the room and tries to make them really comfortable the first day, by day two they feel right at home."

Happy honeymoon tip: don't scrimp

"There are several things that couples don't think about when they are planning a honeymoon. For example, they never realize how exhausted they will be when the wedding is over."

That is the voice of Risa Weinreb, author of Frommer's Honeymoon Destinations. I wrote a honeymoon story for Risa many years ago when she was travel editor of Modern Bride magazine, so I wasn't surprised to find her in town last week promoting honeymoons in Puerto Rico.

Risa is not married, but she takes several honeymoon trips a year to research destinations for Modern Bride and can always be counted on to have current honeymoon information at her finger tips.

Lots of couples still get married in June, but weddings are now spread out from May to October, according to Risa.

"Some people get married in January, February and March but it's hard to plan an expensive wedding for 400 people when you are not sure whether they can make it through the snow to the church," she said.

"The Modern Bride surveys show that most couples want warm sunny weather, beautiful natural scenery and outdoor sports and sight-seeing attractions, in that order."

Do people still go to those heart-shaped bathtubs in the Poconos? "They were designed for another generation, but a certain segment of the honeymoon population still goes there. They were the first all-inclusive vacation resorts."

Risa says that the number one honeymoon destination is the Caribbean. Another very popular destination is Florida, where the "in spot" for honeymooners is Walt Disney World.

"That shows that newly married couples are looking for something quite different from what we have always imagined. The popular image is a young couple who check in, hang a Do Not Disturb sign on the door and are not seen again for eight days."

"That image is not true. They are looking for fun. Where they go and where they stay depends on their budget."

Risa's survey indicates that the average honeymoon costs $3,000 for eight days. Inside the continental United States it averages $2,200, outside the continental United States it averages $4,000. Hawaii: $4,500. The Caribbean: $3,800. Puerto Rico: $3,400.

The three components of honeymoon travel are the same as any travel: transportation, hotel, food. All-inclusive resorts can often be bought to cover all three, so that you only need to pay for incidentals. Jamaica is the best-known island for couples resorts, but there are others.

It is increasingly popular to get married at a resort. If Mom and Dad give you the honeymoon as a gift, your costs are almost completely covered. "If the bride comes from Buffalo and the groom comes from Denver, and they met in Detroit, it's easier to take 20 close family and friends to the Caribbean than it is to gather 300 cousins from around the country for a Michigan wedding."

Recession-weary newlyweds should not give up the honeymoon. If you can't do anything else, Risa suggests you at least splurge on a night or two at a local hotel, drink champagne and take a limousine to the baseball game.

If your budget is under $2,000?

- Drive to the Poconos to stay seven nights in a moderately priced room.

Honeymooners can go to Puerto Rico for a week, spend a few days in San Juan and then stay out-island.

Golf among the gators at Kiawah

South Carolina resort built with nature in mind

By Iris Sanderson Jones
special writer

KIAWAH ISLAND, S.C. — An alligator moves slowly across a lagoon toward a Great Blue Heron, which stands 3 feet tall on the bank beside a group of modern villas. That was one of my first images of Kiawah Island, although the real alligator stories come from the golf courses, where the gators snooze beside the greens.

I press a periwinkle against my neck while standing in a low marsh beside the sea, with naturalist Mark Madden instructing his walking tour participants: "hum, and the periwinkle will come out of his shell."

I walk the long strand of sand between the surf and the dunes, enjoying the illusion that I have the world to myself at sunset. The chimneys and rooftops of Kiawah Island Inn and Villas are visible amid the palmetto trees beyond the dunes, but I share the beach with one lonely jogger, one kayaker and a pelican diving 30 feet straight down into the sea for his supper.

Those are just three of the many scenes that imprint the mind on Kiawah Island, an interesting combination of resort life and nature 21 miles by road from Charleston, S.C. I emphasize "by road" because for 200 years the Vanderhorst family traveled by tidal river to the plantation house sagging gently against the reeds on the marsh side of Kiawah.

Kiawah is one of the dozens of barrier islands that

ECOTOURISM

Kiawah Island was at peace with nature for millions of years before the developers came and could easily have lost its innocence then, as so many resort islands have done. The Indians never lived here, because there is no fresh water, but they hunted red fox, elk and woodland buffalo amid the magnolia and loblolly pines that now line the woodland trails.

Dig your fingers under the matted forest floor near the Vanderhorst Plantation and you can still feel the ridges where indigo and cotton were planted by slaves in the 18th century.

British soldiers occupied the plantation house during the American Revolution and if they ever restore and open the house to tours you'll see graffiti left behind by Union soldiers during the Civil War.

The island was sold to Kuwait Investment Co. in 1974. The Kuwaitis commissioned an environmental inventory from the Environmental Research Center Inc., of Columbia, S.C., so that resort development would not disturb the natural barrier island setting. It was ecotourism ahead of its time.

Resort buildings were built behind the dunes, so the loggerhead turtles still lay their eggs near the beach. They protected the marshes, so shrimp babies still feed on the tidal flats and the periwinkle can still climb up his own piece of spartini grass when the tide comes in and down again when the tide goes out. Hold him against your neck and hum, and the periwinkle will come out of his shell because he thinks he is covered by seawater.

The Kuwaitis are gone now, although Saleh and Suad Alzouman still live in Charleston, but the environmental philosophy remains: nature comes

Couple rebuilds old farmers' mill into 'bonny' inn

By Phyllis Kruger Stillman
special writer

Walking through the leaded glass front door of the Bonny Mill Inn in Chesaning is like stepping into a Victorian greeting card. The usual Victorian frills are there — lace, ribbons, bows, flowers. They create a romantic, fairy-tale feel to a place that helps you look at life, for a little while, through rose-colored glasses.

We arrived in the evening. Tiny lights outlined the building and made us feel like they'd left the lights on for us.

The Inn is in a restored Chesaning Farmers Cooperative Elevator built in 1920. Howard and Bonnie Ebenhoeh, owners of the Heritage House Restaurant across the street, bought the mill in 1988. It was in such bad shape that they rebuilt most of it, keeping as much as possible to the lines of the original mill. Photo albums show various stages of rebuilding.

Bonnie Ebenhoeh served as interior decorator. It took her a year to plan what she wanted for the Inn. During that year, she and Howard collected antique furniture and accessories; then, when they were ready to start, it took only six months to rebuild.

The Ebenhoehs were able to do it so quickly because they had a lot of help. "It was our family and friends that came in here to do it. Everybody had the goal to make this place look good," said Bonnie. That goal has certainly been met; the Inn looks great.

The atrium area of the lobby is one of the most striking parts of the Inn. Along each side of the lobby's long hall are guest rooms, each with its own bay window. Behind each spotless window is a lighted Tiffany lamp hanging over a table and chairs. When a room is vacant, the shades are left open so you can see into the room.

Susan Felice of Waterford stayed in one of the bay window rooms. "It was gorgeous," she said. She warns, however, that staying in one of the atrium rooms has its risks. "There were people walking through there all the time; everybody wanted to see the rooms." The atrium area also contains tables where you can have breakfast or an afternoon snack.

The rest of the guest rooms are reached by climbing an antique oak staircase which Howard Ebenhoeh rescued from a store in Illinois. Each room is unusual. Many of the rooms have fireplaces, some have two-person Jacuzzi tubs, and some have old-fashioned claw-foot tubs. "I didn't want to make this predictable. Each room is different," said Bonnie.

"All the rooms are named after our kids, their spouses and our grandkids," said Bonnie. Each room has a picture of the

The lives of Clifford Secord (Bill Campbell) and his girlfriend Jenny (Jennifer Connelly) are changed when he discovers an extraordinary rocket pack that allows him to fly through the air in Walt Disney's "Rocketeer."

'Rocketeer' is a delightful summer fare from Disney

Cliff (Bill Campbell) and Jenny (Jennifer Connelly) are an attractive, engaging young couple — off-screen as well as on. In fact, they are engaged to be married.

They met on location for Disney's major summer release, "Rocketeer" (B, PG) in which they star. Set in 1938, it's the story of Cliff, a southern California test-pilot, and his mechanic/teacher, Peevy (Alan Arkin). Jenny is a movie actress as well as Cliff's girlfriend.

Campbell and Connelly were in town two weeks ago promoting "Rocketeer's" premiere Friday, June 21. This is Campbell's first film, although he's had a broad range of television experience — "Family Ties," "Dynasty" and "Star Trek: The Next Generation" among others. Connelly is a film veteran having debuted at the age of 12 in Sergio Leone's "Once Upon a Time in America." "The Hot Spot," "Career Opportunities" and a starring role opposite David Bowie in "Labyrinth" are among an impressive list of credits for a 1988, high school graduate. She's currently enrolled as a drama major at Yale University.

"Rocketeer" touches several nostalgic veins as Cliff and Jenny get involved with the old Hollywood, Howard Hughes, Nazi spies and all that entails.

THE SPIES steal Hughes' individual rocket pack that makes it possible for an individual to fly and, wouldn't you know it, Cliff accidentally comes in possession of this terrific device.

One thing leads to another and Cliff becomes the "Rocketeer," zipping around doing good deeds while doing in bad guys left and right — just like all the comic book heroes of the '30s.

The film is a pleasant bit of summer fluff and entertaining, particularly as Jenny and Cliff get involved with the dashing Errol Flynn-style movie star Neville Sinclair (Timothy Dalton), who leers, connives and swashbuckles with the best of them.

In particular, the nightclub sequence is a fine piece of satire on old movies and the posh nightclubs of the era. Much of the film's satire and nostalgia are stilted and trade on a fairly intimate knowledge of the period. So it's not funny if you don't know the references made. As well, the film's pacing is irregular.

Despite all that unevenness, "Rocketeer" is pleasant summer entertainment and Campbell's three-picture deal with Disney provides for a sequel which ought to get made since "Rocketeer" will be a hit.

"Dying Young" (B, R, 105 minutes) is a decent sort of tear-jerker with Julia Roberts doing a reprise on the basic story line of "Pretty Woman."

ALTHOUGH SHE'S not a hooker this time out, she is quite an experienced young woman living with a super stud type in San Francisco. They break up and Hillary (Roberts) searches desperately for a job to avoid having to live with her weird mother (Ellen Burstyn). Mother collects dolls and yaks a lot.

Hilary is hired as a nurse-companion to a rich young man (Campbell Scott) who needs considerable help as waves of pain and nausea devastate him each time he undergoes chemotherapy for his leukemia.

Those scenes are graphic and have a telling impact on the audience while making an important, albeit subsidiary point about human suffering.

ALTERNATIVE VIEWING

'Tatie Danielle': Bitter fare

By John Monaghan
special writer

From her feeble appearance and shuffling, unsteady gait, the elderly inhabitant of the house down the lane appears at first to be an ordinary sweet little lady. Not Tatie Danielle.

No sooner is the housekeeper out the door than the old woman tosses aside her romance novel, switches on the steamy soaps and starts chowing down on stashed away candies.

The new French film, "Tatie Danielle," serves up an unforgettable character who both solidifies and defies the stereotypes of old age. And like the nasty, bitter old lady who resides on almost every street, she also has her warm side.

"Tatie Danielle" has apparently garnered a lot of attention from area theaters. The film, advertised as a Star John R exclusive for the past month, received a last-minute booking at the Maple Theatre in Birmingham.

THE 82-YEAR-OLD colonel's widow goes well beyond mere quirks. She steps on beggars and lies to relatives. She calls the housekeeper (Neige Dolsky) a thief and sends her (an equally aged woman) on impossible missions. She squashes the carefully tended flowers. She claims her actions are "accidents." We know better.

When a genuine mishap kills the housekeeper, "Tatie Danielle" enlists the aid of her great-nephew, Jean-Pierre (Eric Pratt), who unwittingly takes her into his Paris home. What follows is the kind of havoc that only relatives can wreak.

Tsilla Chelton, in her first major film role, plays the title character with boundless energy and superb timing. She gives the hellion a warm and sympathetic side as she gazes longingly at a picture of her dead husband or gives a diamond-encrusted young woman enlisted to watch over her.

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg
special writer

Two recent shifts in the home video market are sell-through programs which dramatically lower video cassette costs and stimulate purchases at the expense of rentals. The second development which has accelerated recently is the introduction of new formats, primarily laser discs and 8mm video.

A truly wide range of releases with titles ranging from early silents to current theatrical hits have appeared recently in those formats.

Sell-through programs started some time ago as the video cassette market developed rapidly in the '80s. Initial home video releases of popular theatrical films were priced in the $60 to $100 range with dealer discounts running around 40 percent. At $3 a rental, video stores had a pretty big nut to crack since they had to stock multiple copies of popular releases for the big crowds who waited for video rather than spending $5-6 at their local theaters.

Only after a video had been milked and its popularity declined was it released for sale to collectors in the $15-30 range. Despite dealers' complaints at having to maintain expensive stocks, the video business boomed.

ABOUT 1 1/2 YEARS ago, film producers and video distributors upgraded what had come to be known as the "sell-through" program. Apparently, their reasoning was that they could make as much or more money through sales to individuals at lower unit costs than they could at the higher rates to dealers and video stores.

"Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade" was one of the first major films, at $29.95, to be released to home video under this program — and its major success keynoted the spread of this program.

As laser disc and 8mm video players penetrated the market, releases expanded to include old silent films, movies from Hollywood's Golden Age as well as current theatrical hits. In many cases, films are released on all three formats on the same day.

Wednesday, June 26, for example, the recent Sally Field hit about Betty Mahmood's thrilling escape with her daughter from Iran, "Not Without My Daughter" (1990, color, PG-13, 108 minutes), will be released on video cassette, laser disc and 8mm video. While its video is priced in the low 90s, the laser and 8mm formats are available for under $30.

THE RANGE of films now available on these three formats for under $20 is truly amazing ranging from the 1934 "Tarzan and his Mate" to the 1961 Nicholas Ray version of Christ's story, "King of Kings."

When the Big Daddy croons, '90 tunes have '50s doo-wop

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

To be Big Daddified is to be knighted or to be knifed.

The reaction depends on the artist, according to Big Daddy vocalist Tom "Bubba" Lee whose band parodies today's hits like "Ice Ice Baby" and "Nothing Compares 2 U" in a 1950s doo-wop style.

"A lot of people interpret what we do in a lot of ways," said Lee, who is a 1970 graduate of Bloomfield Hills Andover High. "It's an involved process. It's more than making fun of the music. . . . If a song can be done in another style and it still sounds good — that's a compliment to the artist."

But on "Cutting Their Own Groove," Big Daddy's latest effort on Rhino Records, no style of music could prop up such insipid lyrical fare as "Ice Ice Baby" and "I Want Your Sex." Lee knows this, betraying a sinister laugh.

"Sometimes, there's not a lot there. Sometimes we expose them for what they are."

Legend is Big Daddy is a classic 1950s rock'n'roll outfit that went on a USO Tour of Southeast Asia in 1959 and subsequently disappeared after their plane went down.

THEY WERE taken prisoner by Laotian communists for nearly a quarter of a century. Another version has them stranded on a South Sea Island until they found out how to repair an airplane engine, according to a story in the Stanford (University) Daily.

Either way, the idea is Big Daddy missed the boat on the evolution of rock'n'roll. Or did they?

When considering hits like "Like a Virgin" (which is hilarious lyrically when Big Daddy gets hold of the Madonna hit), one might wonder. But Big Daddy also reveals the lyrical majesty of some numbers such as in the 1950s-styled cover of U2's "Still Haven't Found. What I'm Looking For."

Bottom line is, Big Daddy makes a big point about today's music.

"I think there's a lot of good music being written today," Lee said. "Too much of the emphasis is put on the production and not the song. Usually, when you strip it down to the bare necessities it can be traced back to the '50s."

Lee's musical roots are traced back to this area. He performed in a short-lived band, Citizens, whose claim to fame was opening for the Doobie Brothers at Charlevoix in 1981.

Primarily, though, Lee performed as a solo artist at area nightclubs before moving to Los Angeles in 1982. He has a bachelor's degree in English from Oakland University. His wife, Wanda van den Ende, is a graduate of Avondale High School.

BIG DADDY was formed in 1983 with the nucleus of Marty Kaniger, Bob Wayne and Lee. The band released a single, "Dancing in the Dark," which was a classic remake of Bruce Springsteen's gem from the "Born in the USA" LP. The song was styled after Pat Boone's "Moody River," Big Daddy's version rose to No. 16 on the UK charts, eventually passing Springsteen's version on the way down from the No. 1 spot. Things have progressed from there.

The story of Big Daddy, the one being held captive by Laotian communists and all, has even found its way to the stage. "Big Daddy: Stranded in the Jungle" will finish its run Wednesday, June 26, at the Groundlings Theatre in Hollywood.

Band members perform in the production as well as professional actors. The story begins at a high school talent show and covers the group after the '50s group is rescued and dropped into the '90s with MTV, compact discs and Madonna wannabes, sort of like "Gilligan's Island" meets "Grease." Big Daddy's first gig back is at a heavy metal club.

"We think it's Club Satan, but it's actually called Club Satan."

Big Daddy's music is finding its mark as well. The latest release is ripe with take-offs of Dire Straits' "Money for Nothing" and the ditty-bop rave-up of Paul Simon's "Graceland."

So far, Lee said, reaction from artists have been positive. Rick James, whose "Super Freak" was Big Daddied, reportedly laughed hilariously after hearing the band's version and snapped up a copy.

THOUGH NOT every performer has checked in with an opinion, Lee wonders what Sinead O'Connor will think of their "Nothing Compares to 2 U" effort, which includes the "National Anthem" being played in the background as a Little Richard singing voice crooning about how "Nothing compares to me."

"Sometimes we're lucky enough to find a styling to put today's songs in the glove of the past."

But in doing so, some might write off Big Daddy as a Sha Na Na rehash. Lee said some have already mistakenly made the comparison.

"They do, but they're missing the boat. We're not just a '50s songs band. We take today's songs and do a met amorphous on them."

INTERNATIONAL POP OVERTHROW

— Material Issue

By now, no doubt "Valerie Loves Me" has been registered in the memory bank as an indelible, hook-ridden pop song. The kind of number that leads people blindly to the record store, mumbling about some band with a song about some girl on some radio station.

The station in this case is CIMX-FM, which was the first to play "Valerie Loves Me."

If anything, the impact of this power-chord laden song about unrequited love harks back to when a single receiving a glimmer of air play could break a group. Those were simple times back when KILW-AM "The Big Eight" would spin a new tune and the response was immediate.

Material Issue has 14 songs like "Valerie Loves Me," not in the sense of duplicity. Each number possesses that spark, a surge that is stark yet multicolored in its pop fallout.

Brevity is Material Issue's strength. So, too, is the unrelenting guitar buzz and pop musings of Jim Ellison. He has undoubtedly got a tune for every woman who has crossed his path and got away, judging by the open letters of "Valerie Loves Me," "Diane," "Rence-Remains the Same" and "I'll Christine." Either that or he should latch onto an autographed copy of "Women Who've Loved Too Much."

Even in the sultry guitar fermentation of "There Was a Few," Ellison is looking for some girl named Lulu. On the slow, yearning "This Letter," Ellison cites a chapter from the Cheap Trick/Robin Zander book of walling for the wayward women of his heart.

These numbers don't speak of sexual conquests; rather, they scan love's twisting ironies. While these can't be written off as mindless meanderings about syrupy infatuations, there's some oddball poetry in the lot.

But wrapped in Material Issue's electric, three-prong frontal attack, such is easily forgiven. The hooks on this effort are real, and isn't that what pop is about, anyway?

— Larry O'Connor

LAUGHTER AND LUST

— Joe Jackson

The first sounds on Joe Jackson's latest record, "Laughter and Lust," are a cacophony of noise kicking off the "Obvious Song." It's jarring and designed to make the listener perk up his or her ears and take notice.

Making the listener take notice is what a lot of "Laughter and Lust" seems to be about.

Having some listeners paying attention is something old Joe could use about now. Since 1979, he has released some of the most consistently good records around, but he has had trouble from record company execs who don't know how to market his stuff. (They do, conversely, have no trouble marketing Vanilla Ice.)

Or maybe it's Jackson's fault for being too good. The record buying public already has a few good Joe Jackson albums — why do they need to buy more?

The most ominous sign of Jackson's career sluggishness is the radio promo spots for his upcoming show. The songs they play on the ad are "Is She Really Going Out With Him?" and "Stepping Out" — ancient history as far as hits are concerned.

His bid for approval continues in his song selection. He sticks toward more traditional pop song structures than in past efforts and injects each tune with a healthy dose of catch-ness. His ballads, too, are more straightforward than usual. "The Other Me," a perfectly beautiful song, speaks of lost love without Jackson's usual angry, young lyrics.

One odd addition to the record is Jackson's cover of Fleetwood Mac's "Oh Well" — remember — "I can't sing, I ain't pretty, and my legs are thin."

Another oddity is a photo Jackson includes in the liner notes. It shows him wearing makeup, including red lipstick and artfully applied eyeliner, and staring contemplatively at a rose.

For that photo, plus the usual excellent assortment of songs, "Laughter and Lust" is well worth your money.

STREET SENSE

Be patient with daughter

Dear Barbara:

My daughter June is 11. She often has girlfriends stay over for the night. Two weeks ago, I went into her room to get a pair of my shoes (I keep some of my things in a closet in her room). It was about 12 at night and I thought she and her friends were sleeping, so I didn't knock. I found my daughter and her friend embracing and possibly fondling one another.

It all happened very quickly so I can't be confident of what I saw. I didn't want to embarrass her so I pretended not to see anything and quickly left the room.

The next day I tried to bring up the subject. June rebuffed me. She will not talk about she and her friend. I don't know if she needs therapy. There have been many other behaviors that would have indicated a need for it. I am particularly worried that she will not discuss whatever happened with me.

Mary

Dear Mary:

Your letter is timely. In her film, "Truth or Dare," Madonna has made a big splash by exposing us to this previously taboo topic. She brings it up because she wants us to be shocked into an awareness of the blurred boundaries of sexuality.

Possibly, this is why you feel anxious, because you are worried that this incident does, in fact, mean that your daughter's sexual boundaries leak. But you and Madonna are wrong. This incident need not mean that at all.

Your daughter June is 11. Has she developed yet? Have her hormones begun their tumultuous teenage effects? If not, it is possible that what you observed was not primarily sexual, but normal experimentation with a girlfriend. Not wanting to talk about it need not be motivated by shame but a desire for privacy.

If the encounter was sexually stimulating, this is still no cause for alarm. Experimentation at this age is typical and need not reflect homosexual tendencies.

A lot more needs to be known before we would understand the meaning of this incident. You feel frustrated because you have no way to find out what you need to know. This is typical when interacting with teenagers.

of action is needed, possibly it will be revealed with time. Be Patient.

"Iron and Silk" (USA — 1991), through June 27 (call for show times). Mark Salzman, an American-born English teacher working in China, grows fascinated with the country's culture, especially the martial arts. The government doesn't share in his enthusiasm and blocks his classes and attempts to inflame a relationship with a young woman. Refreshing and irritating at the same time, this true story stars Salzman and others reliving their real life roles.

GRADING THE MOVIES

As in "Pretty Woman," "Dying Young" is the story of the love of an experienced woman and a man distracted from sexual and emotional affairs — Richard Gere by money and power, Campbell Scott by pain and an overbearing father.

Thus two disparate folks are drawn together by a commercial arrangement that blossoms into an ennobling love — a love changes them both for the better.

Scott is a promising young actor who demonstrates his ability extremely well here while Julia Roberts is Julia Roberts with a couple of very sensational scenes.

BUT SOMETHING is missing and the all-encompassing, ennobling passion of their love gets lost in soapy melodrama at times. Commitment is missing, in much of the script which starts and stops with moments of predictability, followed by dissatisfying misdirection as, for example, when Gordon, the menacing local handyman, turns out to be a real pussycat.

Nonetheless, Julia Roberts is always worth watching so bring a good stash of tissues and weep away.

It may sound exciting, but I'll never know whether or not "Talkin' Dirty After Dark" (C, R) delivers on its title or on its promotional description as something clever about men and women and a comedy club in Los Angeles.

STILL PLAYING:

"Backdraft" (C-, R, 130 minutes). Disappointing, cornball, cliched story of two brothers, both Chicago firefighters.

"City Slickers" (A, PG-13, 108 minutes).

"Dances With Wolves" (A, PG-13, 180 minutes).

"Dice Rules" (F, NC-17, 87 minutes).

"Don't Tell Mom the Babysitter's Dead" (C, PG-13, 95 minutes).

Predictable, stereotypical, mediocre story about teenager left in charge of family when babysitter dies.

"Drop Dead Fred" (B+, PG-13, 100 minutes).

"The Five Heartbeats" (A-, R).

"FX2: The Deadly Art of Illusion" (C+, PG-13, 105 minutes).

"Hudson Hawk" (A, PG-13, 87 minutes).

"Jungle Fever" (B+, R, 125 minutes).

"A Kiss Before Dying" (B+, R, 90 minutes).

"New Jack City" (B-, R).

"Only the Lonely" (B, PG-13, 105 minutes).

John Candy is a nice-guy Chicago cop who lives with his mother (Maureen O'Hara) and falls in love with Ally Sheedy.

"Out for Justice" (C+, R).

Macho man Steven Seagal is a tough cop.

"A Rage in Harlem" (C+, R, 100 minutes).

Just too much packed into this star-studded romantic comic adventure of southern gold in Harlem with all the greedy folks out in force.

"Robin Hood; Prince of Thieves" (A, PG-13, 140 minutes).

Entertaining, tongue-in-cheek recap of old legend with Kevin Costner in title role.

"The Silence of the Lambs" (C-, R, 115 minutes).

"Sleeping With the Enemy" (C+, R, 95 minutes).

Julia Roberts' excellent performance as battered wife who takes matters into her own hands can't overcome weak scenario about psychotic hubble.

"Soapdish" (B-, PG-13, 96 minutes).

"Stone Cold" (R, 90 minutes).

Brian Bosworth is an undercover cop working to bring outlaw biker-gang to justice.

ALTERNATIVE MOVIE

ISABELLE NANTY'S Sandrine, the caretaker, offers the film's sole hope. At first you think she'll be eaten alive by the old witch, but instead she refuses to take orders.

When Tatie Danielle realizes she has met her match, a bond begins to form. They eat like pigs and watch what they want on television, while Jean-Pierre and his family take a well-deserved vacation in Greece.

the old woman's solace is threatened and the fireworks really commence.

Writer/director Etienne Chatiliez ("Life Is a Long Quiet River") and co-scenarist Florence Quentin wanted to treat the taboo subject of old age in a frank and funny way.

"WE WANTED to confront Tatie with people who are extraordinarily kind and gentle and who would indulge her blindly," Quentin has said in interviews. "Tatie" is not simply the story of a villainess who launches a wholesale attack against the old, the young and the confused adolescents.

"It also is the story of an old woman who is somebody driven to, who in fact needs to, cause harm. She is a person of passion and somewhere in her there is something clean and purifying."

"Tatie Danielle" is like a cross between "Uncle Buck" and "A Trip to Bountiful," but with an extremely dark streak. It just may be the best thing the Star John R has gotten hold of for its ambitious alternative film series. See it where you can.

Bob Nelson scores touchdown with his zany team

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Comedian Bob Nelson has earned respect, mainly thanks to a guy who never gets any.

Rodney Dangerfield gave the Long Island, N.Y., native his break in the business, turning the madcap slapstick comedian loose on audiences at his New York club, Dangerfield's.

Dangerfield eventually took Nelson on tour to open for him at such prestigious venues as Carnegie Hall, Radio City and Caesars, which was unusual in a way. Many humorists prefer to have musical acts open for them rather than another funnyman.

"He (Dangerfield) gave me confidence; he gave me the knowledge on how to deal with these things," Nelson said. "He has so much wisdom."

"He would never say something sucks. He's never been critical of another comedian's act."

IRONICALLY, THEIR styles of humor are completely divergent. Whereas Dangerfield is a litany of one-liners, Nelson's comedy relies on the three-dimensional with characterizations and props.

The experience of touring with Rodney Dangerfield, though, offered Nelson enough self-assuredness that's paying off today. Nelson is co-starring in an upcoming Paramount film, "Lame Ducks," which opens in theaters this fall. He's cast as a Harpo type character in a Marx

The film features Nelson in his first major role. He did have a part in Arnold Schwarzenegger's "Kindergarten Cop."

"You're there for four months," Nelson said. "It was very physical and demanding. But it's easier than your live appearances. If you're on stage and you make a mistake, you can't go back 30 minutes later and do a second take."

Film has since become a natural career extension for many comedians. So, too, is television.

Nelson has also been involved in several HBO comedy specials, including "One Night Stand."

Unquestionably, though, Nelson's biggest break came on an earlier HBO comedy special in 1985. Again, blame it on Rodney. "Rodney Dangerfield's Ninth Annual Young Comedians Special" featured the likes of Sam Kinison, Rita Rudner, Louie Anderson and Bob Saget. All of whom have gone on to comedic fame and fortune.

But it was a ballooned shoulder-padded comedian with an ill-fitting football helmet who stole the show, doing public service commercials because "a mind is a terrible thing."

YET, UNLIKE those aforementioned comedians, Bob Nelson hasn't garnered the publicity they have. Though that all could change with "Lame Ducks," in which he co-stars with John Turturro.

Bob Nelson has plenty of stand-up credits, including those times, when as a wide receiver on his high school football team, he'd go for the laughs instead of the touch down.

One reason is that Nelson hasn't chosen to go on the road much, preferring to perform mainly in the Northeast.

Another aspect could be his style of comedy. Visual aids are considered something of a hindrance in some high-brow stand-up comedic circles and television.

This in spite of the fact humorists such as Red Skelton and Steve Martin are masters at using props.

"There are guys who are against props," said Nelson, who adds he once had his props taken away by other comedians while on stage. "They believe comedy is (for the mind). You don't need props. They think it's a medieval form of comedy."

Also, Nelson is a series of characters and personalities. All of which are "alter-egos" of himself. They are so well-developed they virtually envelop the person who is performing them.

There's the swaying drunk who tries to pick up a woman at a bar. He asks her astrological sign while hiccupping to her, "I'm a feces."

Nelson does a punch-drunk boxer ala Leon Spinks and one of a toddler.

Of course, his All-American football team draws the most howls, including a lineup of such characters as the lispng Bruce Koskiasky from San Francisco University and the Rocky-lingoed Tony Cappuccino from the University of Brooklyn. Then there is Number 72, oops Number 27, who tells players to make sure to wear their athletic cup.

GRIDIRON PORTRAYALS come natural for Nelson, who played wide receiver and defensive end for his high school team in Massapequa, N.Y. The quarterback of the football powerhouse was actor Alec Baldwin. Sometimes when his team was up 55-0, Nelson would display his comedic talents.

"If I was in the end zone, wide open with my hands and no one around, I'd let the pass hit me in the head and go for the laugh."

Nelson went to Nassau Community College to major in theater. At the time, he was also working as a paste-up artist when a co-worker asked him to make a phone call. He did, impersonating a woman but dialing the wrong number.

The guy on the other end happened to be an owner of a comedy club. He thought Nelson was so funny he invited him down to his place for an audition.

After performing the comedy club circuit for a few years, Nelson ended up hosting a children's television show in Philadelphia "Double Muppets, Hold the Onions." The show won an Emmy from the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences in 1983.

From the comedy stage to television, Nelson is diving head first into film with "Lame Ducks."

The grueling part was the filming, which took place November through March. Nelson has to wait until August to see how the final film turns out.

"If this movie bombs, I'm up the creek without a paddle because this is what I want to do. I'll have to find another niche. I'll always have stand up."

Veteran hot dog vendor Art Wilkosky holds up a package of buns before throwing them into the air and catching them, part of his trademark pitch to potential customers at Tiger Stadium. Below, vendors sell to fans behind home plate at Tiger Stadium.

Vendors go for 'home runs'

By William Coutant
staff writer

The sun is shining, a slight breeze drifts into the baseball stadium and the smell of hot dogs floats up into the stands. What a way to spend a summer afternoon.

"Hot dogs. Get your hot doggies," comes the vendor's cry through the muffled chatter of the fans.

You order one and watch as the vendor, dressed in blue, sticks the two-pronged fork in his gleaming metal case, pulls out a piping-hot wiener, deftly slips it into its bun and puts just enough mustard on, almost in one motion. It's enough to make you hungry. You include a tip as you pay, and bite into your dog.

The vendor's already gone, looking for another customer.

And on a good day, with a good crowd, they'll be plenty of customers. And the vendors? There are about 100 on a good day and up to 200 on opening day at Tiger Stadium.

"A good salesman can make $50 to $100 a day," said Charles Stevens, a vendor since he moved to Detroit four years ago. "But it's also a release. If you like sports and the excitement, it's a good job."

And many of the vendors at Tiger Stadium have spent a few campaigns at the corner of Michigan and Trumbull.

"I'VE SEEN players come and go," said John Taylor of Roseville, a vendor at Tiger Stadium for the past 43 years. "They're all good players. But you can't talk to 'em as much because of all the restrictions."

Taylor started vending at age 17 because he couldn't get a factory job.

"I was too young to work in the shop," he said. "So I worked after school here."

Taylor later landed a shop job, and worked there for 28 years. The shop closed, but he still had a job pushing hot dogs at baseball games. And like a philosophical urban cowboy, Taylor knows the name of the game: "You've got to move them doggies."

For native Detroiter Art Wilkosky, his love affair with the Tigers began in 1938 when he came to a game with other school safety patrol boys.

"I'd see Hank Greenberg, Mickey Cochrane and Schoolboy Rowe," said the white-haired Detroit native. "It's a fun job. This is my retirement."

"It's a good job," said Taylor. "You get your exercise. And if you're nice to people, they're nice to you."

Other vendors agree: The fans at the old ball park are courteous.

"I've never been shortchanged," Stevens said. "The fans are real good. You don't have to worry about it."

AND FOR vendors with enough seniority to work the box seat sections, the clientele can include some famous people. "I have regular customers," said Wilkosky. "I've served hot dogs to lots of celebrities. I've served the highest to the lowest."

Wilkosky, a former salesman for J. I. Hudson's, said selling is his calling, whether it be men's suits or hot dogs. And he has his own style, throwing up a package of hot dog buns in the air.

"It's a way to get their attention," he said.

Vending food is not an automatic way to make money. Most of the vendors who've been working Tiger stadium sell hot dogs. Another big seller is malt cups, an ice cream treat. Since vendors get to choose what they'll sell and where by seniority, new vendors sometimes have a harder item to sell.

"Ice cream's been the best for me," said newcomer Cornell Turner of Detroit. "Cookies have been the hardest. I guess that's because we don't give milk with them."

Sometimes a product can be especially appealing, like a cold Coke on a hot July day or a hot dog on a nippy September night.

And what does a vendor do when the unusual occurs, like a baseball lands in his case of hot dogs?

"WITH ALL those hands going into my hot dogs, there was nothing I could do but stand back and watch," said John Chiello of Detroit.

Chiello, like many vendors, also vends at Joe Louis Arena or other events. He's quick to reject a hot dog from one of the three commissaries in the stadium if it's broken.

Fully loaded with hot dogs, buns, mustard, hot water and the coals, which keep the wieners hot and add an appealing aroma, a hot dog vendor is carrying more than 50 pounds. Experienced vendors will rest their cases on a railing while looking for customers, or like pretzel vendor Olva Newman, carry the case on-top of her head.

And although location is important, the box seats aren't necessarily the best place for vending at every game. Stevens, who prefers to sell ice cream, said school groups, which often sit in the upper deck or outlying sections, can be his best customers.

Many vendors, like Newman, work year-round, selling at Michigan Stadium or at concerts as well as Tiger Stadium. But vendors also include school teachers and other professionals, who have found a way to enjoy baseball and make some extra money.

Now, back to that hot dog and the baseball game.

THE LINGO OF VENDING

Vending is a game within a game. Like baseball, there are errors, saves and strikeouts. Here are some familiar baseball terms as they apply to vending:

SAVE:

Vendor Charles Stevens had to work the upper deck on a day when the crowd was small. But two large groups of school children came to the park and gave Stevens plenty of business. "I did all right," he said.

ERROR:

Jerry Williams was doing a hopping business with malt cups in the lower grandstand, but he took a bad trip with a case of the cold treats on top of his head and dropped one. No harm done.

A GOOD PITCH:

Art Wilkosky has found an out pitch when hot dog sales are slow. He throws a package of buns in the air to catch the eye and appetite of fans.

Young artists keep faith with dreams

By Jill Hamilton
special writer

A PERSON who wants to be an engineer goes to engineering school, then gets a job in the field. Same goes for most other professions such as doctor, lawyer or journalist.

Not so with the arts. Rarely does anyone decide to be an artist, then voila, it happens. The usual scenario is that the aspiring artist goes to art school, graduates, then picks up odd jobs for several years before actually making a living as a full-time artist.

That's the case with Tom Klar and Dani Jeffries of Farmington Hills, two painters who are discovering that making it in the art world quickly after graduation is nearly impossible.

WHILE IN art school at the University of Michigan, Klar and Jeffries lived in an "art house," a gathering of some of the brightest and best of their peers.

During that time, the artists inspired each other, the creative atmosphere was contagious. Since the members of the house were so talented, it was pretty much assumed that the future held exciting prospects for them all.

"I look at some of these people now and they're waiters and waitresses," Klar said in the apartment he shares with his wife, Jeffries. "I don't know anyone, except maybe two people, who is working in the field." (And they are in the more marketable field of graphic arts.)

THE PROBLEM isn't lack of talent or motivation, it's lack of money. It would be nice to be able to work full time on art, but that's pretty much impossible without some benevolent patron to pay the bills.

For most, the odds of making it are bad enough to make them forget their dreams, ignore their talent and settle for a more mundane career. Many from the art house did just that.

"The minute they graduated, some of them just forgot what they just did for four years," Klar said.

BUT KLAR and Jeffries aren't willing to give up so easily. They're determined to make it as artists and have accepted the necessity of living like the cliché "starving artists" for awhile.

So, for now, Klar is working at a frame shop and Jeffries is in retail. In their limited spare time, they keep painting.

"The ideal is not to have to have a regular job any more," Jeffries said.

Slowly, they are getting closer to that ideal. Klar, a graduate of Andover High, Bloomfield Hills, recently had his work accepted by a gallery in Florida, a perfect setting for his vibrant paintings.

ONE PIECE, as of yet untitled,

Tom Klar (left) and Dani Jeffries, determined to make it as artists, quickly discovered, like many famous artists before them, that they need bread-and-butter jobs to keep going. She did the painting on the right, his is the one on the left.

still hangs on his wall. It nearly bursts with energy. It features the shoreline of the condo-filled Florida coast and a view of the goings-on under the sea.

And, as Klar puts it, "Something's going on under water." And that happens to be a pair of skeleton pirates enjoying themselves in the wreckage of their ship. Stylistic fish and whales with happy, goofy expressions, are swimming by.

Looking down on the scene is a smiling crescent moon. The bright green and blue colors in the painting virtually glow with vibrancy. The whole effect is sort of a rollicking kineticism.

The piece is three-dimensional and includes seven layers.

"Each one was a little nightmare," Klar said.

JEFFRIES' WORK, too, is alive with vibrant colors. She is currently working on a series. The working titles refer to the theme of each such as "Desert" and "Jungle."

In "Jungle," a blue being sits reading a red-striped newspaper in a cartoonish, art deco living room. A psychédelle, checked sun lights the scene.

Jeffries specializes in intricate borders, and the border in "Jungle" is no exception. It is comprised of several squares, each picturing a different aspect of the jungle. In one a colorful tiger prances, in another a lion stalks.

Paintings like these are beginning to get Jeffries noticed. One of her pieces was featured on the poster for the Grand Rapids Festival of the Arts. The paintings earned her a feature article in the Grand Rapids Press.

SO THINGS are happening, it just takes time. For now, there's still the challenge of getting more gallery owners to look at their work. It's a challenge.

"Having never owned a gallery, I don't know how it works," Jeffries said.

Often gallery workers don't have the time to consider a new artist's pieces. It's usually up to the artist to break through that wall.

"We're not business people, we're artists. Most of us don't know how to market ourselves."

But, these two are learning as they go. Now they face a more welcome challenge — learning how to part with favorite paintings once they're sold.

"It helps knowing that the person who is buying it loves it as much as you do," Jeffries said.

Dani Jeffries likes to work in a series. Her painting here illustrates her interest in both water and land creatures and illusion. In this work the border motif becomes a part of the painting rather than simply a frame.

Focusing on kids

Programs for youngsters will take place afternoons Monday-Friday at the Children's Museum, 67 E. Kirby, Detroit beginning Monday, July 1, and continuing for six consecutive weeks (closed July 4).

A planetarium program for children will be given at 1 p.m. Monday-Friday. Then programs with different themes for each day of the week will begin at 2 p.m. They are:

● Monday: Discovering What Matter is Through Experiments with Sharon Cummings.

● Tuesday: Making Masks with Lana Douglas, using original masks in the museum's collection for a basis.

● Wednesday: Coloring Your World with Denise Billups, including fingerpainting, drawing with pastels and painting with watercolor and tempera and on fabric.

● Thursday: Using Scrap Materials Creatively with Michael Phillips.

● Friday: Let's Learn How To, involving storytelling, magic, games and calligraphy with William Bostick of Bingham Farms.

No reservations are needed for planetarium demonstrations, which are free. No reservations are necessary for the 2 p.m. programs. They are on a first-come basis, but there is a $1 charge.

The Children's Museum needs more support if it is to continue with the excellent programs it offers for children throughout the metro area, said Eva Bolcourt of Southfield, Children's Museum board member.

CHILDREN'S DAY, a part of the 12th annual international Freedom Festival, will be celebrated in the University Cultural Center 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The celebration will begin with a parade at 9:30 a.m. The route is south on John R, west on Farnsworth, north on Woodward and east on Kirby. The grand marshals are Bart Simpson, Garfield, Snoopy and the "All Star Champion Athletes."

For information on the activities especially for children at more than 12 locations, call the University Cultural Center Association, 577-5088, or stop at the information booths, northwest corner of the Detroit Public Library, Woodward and Kirby, and southeast corner of the Detroit Institute of Arts, John R and E. Farnsworth.

Why is everyone in such a hurry lately? Oh, I know this isn't just a recent phenomenon, but it seems to me people are continually getting more and more hurried—and more harried, too.

And the faster we go the more instant gratification we demand. While we once eschewed answering machines, we now find the only thing worse is not finding one available to take our calls. Worse yet, we're so impatient a 30-second answering machine message seems interminable. (Note: On some commercial answering systems you can push a button to "cut through" the message directly to recording. Check to see if numbers you call frequently have this option or if your company could have it installed.)

When we're in a hurry (or even if we aren't really in a hurry—it just seems like we should be...) waiting for an over-worked waitress to serve you, for a slow car to get out of the way or for a person to finish a story of little interest can seem like eons. Having to wait a few minutes for someone else to keep an appointment can seem almost inexcusable.

Worse yet, we aren't willing to take the time to listen. How often do clerks, receptionists, parents or co-workers respond to questions before the questions are complete, too often with inappropriate answers?

In anticipation of writing this column I began watching for such situations and didn't have to wait long to find splendid examples. I took pictures in to be developed and asked the clerk, "When will these be back?" Before my question was even finished she had already replied, "Just put them right there." On the phone I asked, "Do you make up party trays on Saturdays?" The woman on the line had answered "yes"—not once, but three times—before I got to the last word.

Cutting people off doesn't save time. In fact it takes more time if the question must be repeated or if it causes a misunderstanding. People who want good relationships—business or personal—need to slow down and listen when others speak. Waiting for the other person to finish so you can say what's on your mind (which means you are thinking of what you want to say the whole time they are speaking) doesn't enhance rapport. Business owners would do well to teach their employees listening skills, parents and peers will benefit from the same techniques.

If you are guilty of impatience, slow down a little. Learn stress reducing techniques and practice them regularly. Tune in to what people say. Wherever you are, be there!

Apply the words "minor inconvenience" to irritating situations rather than building mountains out of molehills. If you tend to be up-tight, try to take things into perspective and become less critical and a little more laid back and relaxed. You'll live longer and you and the people around you will enjoy life more in the meantime.

Thrill of victory remains a Challenge

The fifth annual Corporate Cup Challenge will be Friday-Saturday, June 28-29.

The Livonia Family YMCA in conjunction with sponsors Livonia Spree, St. Mary Hospital and Enterprise Rent-a-Car are staging the Olympic-type competition.

The Corporate Cup involves area businesses in a series of fun athletic contests.

The events includes scrambles golf, softball, volleyball, biking, running, obstacle course, swimming events, lip sync and tug of war.

Team members get free use of the YMCA for training purposes leading up to the competition.

The event is open to any employee, 18 and older, of a company, business or organization.

There is a minimum of 12 people for each team and a maximum of 45. No individual may enter more than four events.

The charge is $300 per team and the price includes registration, promotional items for team development and use of the YMCA.

Prizes are awarded for team spirit, uniform, originality and spectator participation. Awards are given for the top two finishers in each event.

The teams with the highest point totals in each of two divisions will receive the Challenge Cup Trophy. Awards are presented Saturday afternoon.

The event opens Friday evening with the... by the... celebrity...

Saturday events include a three-mile run, five-mile bike time prediction run, obstacle course and 100 yard relay.

The swimming events include men's relay, women's relay... tube and inflatable...

Spree has it all: from pigs to fireworks

A birthday party lasting six days will begin Tuesday, June 25, with pig races and a circus. But it certainly won't end with pigs and other performing animals.

Before the fireworks light up the skies Sunday evening, there will be more than enough excitement for all ages as Livonia has its 41st Spree Birthday Celebration.

Most Spree '41 events are in and around Ford Field and the Eddie Edgar Ice Arena near the Lyndon-Stark area, west of Farmington Road and north of Schoolcraft.

The circus performances on opening day Tuesday will be at 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. and the pig races at 5:30 p.m., 7 p.m., 7:30 p.m., 9 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Both events are free at Ford Field Dia-

The circus will repeat its performances at 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. Wednesday; 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. Thursday; 4 p.m., 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The pig races also are scheduled 6 p.m., 6:30 p.m., 8:30 p.m., 9 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Wednesday; 5:30 p.m., 7 p.m., 7:30 p.m., 9 p.m., 9:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday; 3:30 p.m., 5 p.m., 5:30 p.m., 7 p.m., 7:30 p.m., 9 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Carnival rides from Wade Shows will be featured every day through Sunday from opening to closing hours each day.

SPREE ON Parade will open festivities Wednesday with the line up at 4 p.m. and the parade beginning at 4:30 p.m. from Frost Middle School just north of Schoolcraft on Stark.

Another special activity Wednesday will be the Family Pizza Jamboree 5-8 p.m. in Eddie Edgar Arena. The charge is $2 per person with a limited quantity of tickets available.

The Livonia Police Department will operate its Child I.D. Program 5-8 p.m.

A new feature Thursday will be Taste of Livonia 7-9 p.m. The charge will be $2 per person up to a maximum of $5 per family.

The Livonia Police Child I.D. Program also will be 5-8 p.m. Thursday and bingo will be available beginning 6:30 p.m. in a midway tent.

The Waiter-Waitress Race tests the skills of wait staff from local restaurants and bars as they balance trays filled with glasses in a race setting beginning 8 p.m. Thursday at the Showmobile. The charge is $5 per person.

FRIDAY, FREE carnival rides for the disabled will be offered 2-4 p.m.

Roadsters ready to run

Put some excitement in your life this spring by entering The Great Spree Roadster Challenge.

Accept the challenge of pushing a Spree Roadster gadget into the lead, beginning at 7 p.m. Saturday, June 29, (rain or shine) at Ford Field by Eddie Edgar Arena.

Each team in the race consists of four runners and one rider, with a minimum of two females on a team. Participants must be 18 or older.

The entry fee is $5 per individual. Teams may register by calling Karen at 421-4036 or by calling 521-2300.

The champion with the best overall time will receive $250 and the runner-up will earn $125. There will be awards for best shirt costumes. The costumes should reflect the team name.

The roadsters are provided by the Spree committee. Practice runs will be held Friday evening, June 28.

Information on issuing challenges may be obtained by calling Karen at 421-4036.

Swinemaster Al Pringle of Kansas tells the audience at Spree about pig racing and what to expect.

Walk added to Spree run

The second annual Livonia Spree 8K Run will return this year and bring with it a new companion event — a 5K walk.

Both events will begin 8:30 a.m. Sunday, June 30, at the corner of Stark and Perth near the Spree '41 site. Registration will begin at 7 a.m.

The race and walk will be conducted by the Optimist Club of Livonia and by the Hemophilia Foundation of Michigan and are sponsored by Seven-Up Bottling Co. and Racquets Unlimited.

The charge will be $12 per runner or walker and can be paid on June 30.

A trophy will be awarded to the first-place male and female in the open and masters divisions. Medals will be given to the top three male and female in age divisions 19 and younger, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50 and older. Ribbons will be presented to all walkers.

The race director is Thomas E. Fraser of Livonia, secretary-treasurer of the Optimist Club of Livonia.

Food plentiful, just as tasteful

There's always a variety of food at Livonia Spree to satisfy the taste buds of almost anyone.

The Italian American Club of Livonia, for instance, has a food tent in the middle food aisle at which it will serve Italian sausage sandwiches with sauce, wine, cannolis, submarines, and pop. The club, which has been in Spree for 10 years, sponsors the Columbus Day Parade and Italian American Golf Tournament. Part of its Spree proceeds benefit the Angela Hospice in Livonia and other Italian-American Club charities.

Nativity of the Virgin Mary Church of Livonia will operate a food concessions at the south end of the Spree grounds. Among the taste-tempters offered will be shish-ka-bobs, gyros, spinach pie, baklava, and soft drinks. The church, which has participated in Spree for 15 years, uses its Spree proceeds for the Mother Waddles Kitchen, an orphanage in Boston, the Salvation Army, and the church building fund.

The Livonia Symphony will have its concession near the firefighters booth on the east side of the grounds. The concession will feature German almonds, nachos, soft pretzels, pop, coffee, lemonade, ice tea, beer batter vegetables, Polish corn sticks. The Livonia Symphony has been in Spree for six years.

Lip syncing angels

The Earth Angels, Livonia's own lip sync ensemble, will be performing again at this year's Livonia Spree. The Earth Angels are a group of youth from Livonia and Novi who range in age from 9-15. The group performs entertaining and hand-clapping numbers from the '50s and '60s. The group, which returns to the Spree for the third year, is directed by Lisa Campos, a Madonna University student. Performance times are 8 p.m. Thursday, June 27, in the Eddie Edgar Arena and 7:30 p.m. Sunday, June 30, at the showmobile. Earth Angels members are Tim Bialobrzski, Rebecca Campos, Michael Kennedy, Jeff Lokken, Tricia Lovell, Brian Monteith, James Probyn, Pat Probyn, Jill Schwartz, Claire Thompson, Amy Varrero, and Nicole Vasiloff.

Coden's own brand of comedy fits Spree

The Ron Coden Show will be presented Friday evening and Sunday afternoon at Ford Field for the Livonia Spree.

Coden will entertain with music and comedy 8:30-11 p.m. Friday and 4-6 p.m. Sunday. Joining him will be Ron Blight on guitar and Steve Fava on bass.

Coden, who has done the opening act for Doc Severinsen and the Irish Rovers, tours in Michigan, North and South Dakota, California and Canada.

He has performed with Gabe Kaplan, Steve Martin, Josh White, the Dillards, Pat Paulsen, John Stewart, Larry Santos and Jimmy Walker, among others.

For eight years he appeared on the nationally syndicated TV show, "Hot Fudge," and was a regular on the "Rosey Grier Show" nationally and "Kelly & Company" in Detroit. He was the host for a year of "Saturday Night Rock."

Coden has appeared at more than 200 colleges across the United States, including the University of Michigan, Michigan State, the University of Nebraska, Kansas State, the University of Kansas, the University of Oklahoma, UCLA, Pasadena College and Missouri.

In this area, Coden has appeared at the Raven Gallery in Southfield, Mountain Jacks in Farmington, Leather Bottle in Garden City, Duffy's in Union Lake and the Top Hat in Windsor.

Blight and Fava open the routines with a series of straight songs before Coden enters with his special blend of comedy, such as a "Wizard of Oz" parody.

G-rated entertainment act enlivens Spree Wednesday

Can an entertainer with a high-energy music and comedy show hold an audience in the palm of his hand, and still be squeaky clean?

Livonia residents will find out 5:30-7:15 p.m. Wednesday, June 26, when Jerry Jacoby's "Good Stuff for Kids" invades Livonia Spree in the Eddie Edgar Arena.

No violence or racy humor, Jacoby's show encourages honesty, respect and the Golden Rule.

His opener is nothing but names — 220 names to be exact — that Jacoby rattles off in a song called "The Big Hello."

Next, it's a Cosby-like account of a childhood caper in which Jerry broke a window and 'fessed up — 10 years later. "Every kid in the audience has done something like that, but some have never found the freedom of owning up and being forgiven," said Jacoby.

Jacoby says he's a real ham, but loves to get other hams on stage to spice up the show.

Disabled people are asked to report to the Spree Trailer.

Friday also marks the opening ceremonies of the Corporate Cup in the Eddie Edgar Arena. The Parade of Athletes will be 6:30 p.m., followed by the Lip Sync Contest.

A Coed Softball Tournament will begin at 6 p.m. at Ford Field and at Bicentennial Park. The charge is $75 per team.

Ron Coden, musician-comedian, will be featured at an outdoor concert at 8:30 p.m. and 11 p.m. on the midway. Entertainer Tracey Lynne will perform at 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. at the beer tent. Both concerts are free.

A FREE car show will be 1-8 p.m. Saturday.

The Spree Roadster Race will begin at 7 p.m. Saturday on the north side of the ice arena.

Teams of five people, each with a minimum of two females, must pre-register by at least 6:30 p.m. Pre-trial runs will be Friday.

A Bavarian Fest will be 6 p.m. to midnight Saturday in Eddie Edgar Arena.

Tracy Lynne will headline the Saturday entertainment with her outdoor concert at 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. at the beer tent.

THE SPREE 8K Run will begin at 8:30 a.m. Sunday at Stark Road and Perth. Registration will be 7:30-8:15 a.m. The registration fee is $12.

Two worship services will be Sunday, one at 8:30 a.m. presented by St. Aidan Catholic Church and one at 10 a.m. by The Lord's House, both Livonia churches.

The Meet Your Elected Officials Pancake Breakfast will be 9-11:30 a.m. at the ice arena. The charge is $1.50 each for children and $3 each for adults for all the pancakes you can eat.

Among the many clowns

Among the many that will be appearing on the Spree grounds will be one of Livonia's very own, Tom M. King, known professionally as "Spaghetti," will be in the Spree on Parade at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday and will be appearing at the Family Pizza Jam-boree 5-8 p.m. Wednesday.

Racing pigs return to Spree track

"What the heck is a pig race?" people often ask when they see the 150-foot Robinson's Racing Pigs track at fairs, festivals and celebrations around North America.

The answer is, "a pig race is what happens when you put two or more pigs on a track and an Oreo cookie at the end of the track," explains Carlota Robinson, owner of Robinson's Racing Pigs of Picnic, Fla., southeast of Tampa.

And in 1991 the racing pigs will be back in Livonia for a return engagement Tuesday through Sunday, June 25-30, in the Livonia Spree birthday celebration.

The unique part of the event is that no two races are ever alike.

With an insatiable sweet tooth, the pigs will race to get to the cookie and just as in real life, the winner gets the cookie and the losers the crumbs.

There are two races in each racing event and several racing events are scheduled each day. Each event features one regular "speed" race and the other activity features high (for a pig) hurdling flogs.

Cheerleaders are selected at each race to cheer their favorite porcine speedster to victory. The winning cheerleader is given a ribbon proclaiming, "I picked the winner at the pig races."

This is the sixth year Robinson's Racing Pigs have toured at home and abroad, and they've made a lot of friends along the way, at the races and in the media. The pigs have appeared on NBC's "Tonight Show Staring Johnny Carson," ABC's "Wide World of Sports," and several other networks, including Japan TV, local stations, and publications.

Coed softball fills up 3 days

The Livonia Spree '41 Coed softball Tournament will be held Friday through Sunday, June 28-30, at Ford Field and Bicentennial Park.

Sixteen teams will participate in the tournament which is co-sponsored by Livonia Parks and Recreation Department and the Livonia Anniversary Committee. Ford Field is a Farmington and Lyndon roads and Bicentennial Park is at Seven Mile and Wayne roads.

A manager's meeting for the tourney will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 26, in the Livonia Civic Center Library.

Rosters are limited to 18 players and the entry fee is $75 per team. The fee covers the umpires, balls and awards. Make checks payable to "Livonia Anniversary Committee."

All rules are American Softball Association except for the following:

- Mercy rule in effect: 12 runs after 4½ or 5 innings.

- Time limit on all games: No new inning will begin 1 hour and 15 minutes after the start of the game.

- Livonia Parks and Recreation rules and regulations also will be in effect where applicable.
