Mall undergoes expansions

With work starting on a new Sears store, to open in the fall of 1997, and a larger Kohl's store under way, a Westland Center official said there will be no reduction in the number of parking spaces.

Westland Center's landscape is changing dramatically with start of construction of a new Sears store and an expansion of Kohl's, and mall officials say the projects will make the city's retail hub even more competitive with other shopping centers.

The $21 million Sears project is expected to be completed by autumn 1997, prior to next year's holiday shopping season, Westland Center assistant general manager Ed McHale said.

LeMaitre preserves primary win

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Republican Dennis LeMaitre retained his 18th District state House primary victory over challenger Michael Novak during a vote recount Monday that was halted in midstream.

"I'm either still a winner or I won again, depending on how you look at it," LeMaitre, a 38-year-old Westland business owner, said.

Novak, a 29-year-old Livonia police officer, suddenly withdrew his recount petition Monday after a county elections team had tabulated absentee votes and several of 39 precincts.

"Dennis LeMaitre definitely won the race," he said.

LeMaitre also backed away from a counter-petition that he filed.

The candidates' decisions to withdraw their recount petitions meant that LeMaitre retained a 66-vote margin of victory reported in the Aug. 6 election primary.

LeMaitre captured 1,549 votes to Novak's 1,483 to claim the 18th District GOP nomination. He will face incumbent Eileen DeHart, D-Westland, in the Nov. 5 general election.

"On to the big show," LeMaitre said Tuesday.

LeMaitre had been confident that his victory would withstand Novak's challenge of results from Westland's. new computer voting system.

"I had a lot of faith in the system," he said. "But it's nice to have clo-

City Clerk Diane Fritz confirmed some minor snags in Monday's recount, such as one voting machine that had difficulty totaling votes a second time.

"But we are confident that the votes are coming out accurately and correctly," she said.

Westland is the largest Michigan city to use the Unilect Patriot Voting System, which allows voters to cast ballots by using a touch-sensitive computer screen.

LeMaitre appeared to be widening the gap in absentee votes before Novak halted Monday's recount.

LeMaitre gained nine absentee votes, and Novak gained six.

The GOP opponents talked Monday, and LeMaitre told the Observer on Tuesday that he would welcome Novak's support in the Nov. 5 elec"There's no animosity," LeMaitre LeMaitre's primary election bid marked his first run for public office. Novak won the GOP state House nomination two years ago but lost to DeHart.

Before the recount was start, LeMaitre opened a campaign head; quarters in a strip center on Wayne Road, just north of Ford.

DeHart plans to have a grand opening in a shared campaign office with U.S. Rep. Lynn Rivers at noon Sunday, Sept. 15, in a strip mall on the southwest corner of Venoy and Cherry Hill.

Educator admits he took money

BY DARRELL CLEM

A former John Glenn High administrator testified Tuesday that he took money from a school vault to reward a student for good grades and attendance.

Ex-assistant principal Michael Bartley, 41, claims that he didn't have a chance to repay the money or explain why he took it before authorities accused him of stealing.

Bartley's testimony emerged Tuesday during the second day of his trial on felony larceny charges. A Detroit Recorder's Court jury began deliberating Tuesday afternoon and continued Wednesday. As of mid-day Wednesday, the jury had yet to reach a verdict.

The case is being heard in the court of Judge

Gershwin Drain.

Bartley, who resigned his post, is accused of stealing $55 from a student activities cash box between 11:30 p.m. June 7 and 1 a.m. June 8 of 1994, on the same night that John Glenn seniors had their prom at the Dearborn Inn.

COURT TRIAL

Bartley's two-day trial marks the second time he has been tried on the charge, punishable by a maximum four-year prison term and a $2,000

A Detroit Recorder's Court jury that heard the case in November failed to reach a verdict, resulting in a new trial.

On Monday, assistant Wayne County prosecutor Robert Donaldson showed jurors a videotape of Bartley entering the school vault and seemingly removing something from a large two-door cab-

Private investigator Robert Perry had placed a hidden video camera in a tissue box in the vault, located in John Glenn's main office.

School officials decided on the secret taping following what Donaldson called "a series of thefts" from the vault. That surveillance camera caught Mr. Bartley principals and bookkeeper Lois Combs. going into the safe, caught Mr. Bartley taking the money and caught Mr. Bartley leaving with the money," Donaldson told the jury.

Bartley initially denied being in the safe, he Defense attorney David Cross noted that Bartley didn't believe he was exceeding his authority by helping a student.

"There was no stealing going on in this case," Cross said. "There was nothing clandestine in this case." Former John Glenn principal Dennis Connolly testified that administrators taking money from the vault were supposed to notify the bookkeeper beforehand or at least leave a note in the safe explaining why they took it. Under questioning from Donaldson, Connolly said Bartley wasn't authorized to reward a student with money from the petty cash box, which contained cash from candy vending machine Donaldson noted that the combination to the

First Citizen nominees wanted for annual recognition program

Who will be Westland's First Citizen of 1996 for volunteering hundreds of hours of his or her own time to make the community a better place to live?

The public will know in two months when the recipient of the 11th annual award will be announced.

The program was initiated in the fall of 1986 by co-sponsors the Westland Observer and the Westland Chamber of Commerce to give public recognition to someone who exemplifies the spirit of hundreds of volunteers in the city.

The First Citizen will be publicly honored at the chamber's Nov. 12 luncheon-program at which time the person will receive plaques. and certificates of honor from the Observer Wednesday, Oct. 16.

and the chamber as well as federal, state, county and city officials.

The major requirement of nominees is that the person must have contributed to the quality of life and made an impact on the community in generally or a specific population group, such as children, the handicapped or the elderly.

In the past 10 years, the First Citizens have been active in education, recreation and business.

Past winners have included Thomas Brown, Joseph Benyo, Sam Corrado, Sharon Scott, Linda Pratt and Dennis LeMaitre, among others.

Deadline for nominations is 5 p.m.

Nominations must include specific information on the nominee's volunteer work and the impact it has had on the community. Local residency isn't required.

With nearly five weeks before the deadline, the Observer is confident that it will receive a wide range of qualified nominees from across the spectrum of the city's com-will provide for wider shopping aisles and other improvements, Kohl's regional vice president Beryl J. Buley has said.

Kohl's has remained open for business during the expansion. Even before the addition was planned, the Westland store ranked No. 2 in business in the 132-store chain.

Buley said earlier this year that Kohl's needed to expand because "the business has outpaced the space at this point."

Some city officials have said that Westland Center had to be expanded to remain a competitive force among area malls. In fact, Mayor Robert Thomas has predicted that the Sears project is vital to preventing some mall businesses from being boarded voted against the Sears plan because it is relying on $1.5 million in support from the city for such measures as improving parking and relocating utilities.

Westland City Council members support the Kohl's expansion unanimously. However, Councilman Charles Pickering

Pickering also has accused Sears supporters of exaggerating the benefits the store will bring to the mall.

The council approved the Sears site plan and a change in the city's Tax Increment Finance Authority plan to allow TIFA funding of the site work.

Supporters say the Sears and Kohl's projects will create more jobs for local residents. As many as 450 employees, including 150. full-time workers, are expected to be hired by Sears, officials have said.

Kohl's also may hire some additional employees, though Buley couldn't say with certainty when questioned earlier this year about the Kohl's expansion.

First impressions are important and that's why business owners are being urged to plant flowers and spruce up their property frontage, said Mayor Robert Thomas and other city administrators.

To help its first priority, the city did receive a $60,000 state grant, to be matched by city funds, to plant trees along the business strip.

"We need to dress it a bit," said Dr. Kim Shunkwiler, DDA board chairman, of the beautifi-

The DDA will have its budget funded by property tax revenues generated by new developments and increased property tax assessments within the DDA district.

Created by the city council May 20, the DDA district includes the frontage along the entire stretch of Ford through the city and the 2.5 mile stretch of Wayne Road between Ford and Glenwood.

Scott Veldhuis, the city's economic development director, said the DDA board has decided not to levy a property tax increase to fund its projects.

Tod Kilroy, the city's planning director, told the chamber audience that the DDA was created under a state law in the 1970s to help cities revitalize and improve its business sections; encourage new economic developments; stop deterioration and stabilize the business community.

The major reason for the city to form a DDA is to be "pro-active instead of being reactive and waiting for things to happen," said Kilroy.

"Property values within the DDA district have been static in recent years - they haven't gone up or down."

Kilrov said that there is a feeling in the city administration that in the future, the business values will continue either to remain static or decline.

"Wayne Road doesn't have to be commercial from one end to the other," Kilroy said in suggesting that some sites may be developed for residential purposes. The mayor and Kilroy also urged the chamber audience to "be patient" with the DDA board because there won't be much money in the beginning for the board to fund needed projects.

The mayor praised the DDA board for while they have different ideas, "the members have one common goal - to have all businesses (within the district) thrive.' But Thomas also said he looks for "great things to happen for the DDA" and that it's "crucial to get the DDA off the ground."

In a few years, he added, there will be enough money to revitalize the DDA district.

Besides Thomas and Shunkwiler, the DDA board consists of Bhagwan Dashairya, Martin Eisenstein, Dale Freese, Margaret Harlow, JonHisey-Fred Mena, Douglas North, Arnold Shapero and Frank Taormina.

New county taxes spark secession talk

BY DIANE GALE SPECIAL WRITER

Suburban Wayne County officials are tired of seeing tax dollars going to services their residents don't use and some are looking at breaking away from Wayne County and forming a new entity.

Westland Mayor Robert J. Thomas summarized many of their concerns in a letter recently to Dan Gilmartin, Conference of Western Wayne executive director. Members of CWW are scheduled to discuss the issue at the Sept. 13 meeting.

"What really begins to worry me is that over the next decatle. all our communities will be faced with county-wide millages that will ultimately be approved even though our communities in the western suburbs vote them down sometimes by a 2 to 1 margin," Thomas wrote.

A county parks millage was passed in August, even though only voters in Highland Park, Trenton and Detroit voted in favor of the tax.

"Over half of the taxes (from the parks millage) collected will go to Detroit," Thomas said.

"The cultural tax we have been informed of is another example. If it passes, even if our voters in Westland turn it down, it goes into effect. If this happens, my calculations are that Westland residents will pay about $660,000 in taxes and get $60,000 back. Not a very good investment for my community."

Thomas also pointed to proposals for a 1 mill tax to construct a new jail and at least a one-tenth mill for a juvenile institution.

"The bottom line is our taxpayers will see little or no benefit from these taxes," Thomas said adding that when local officials ask voters for money to upgrade services they will be turned down, because residents are overwhelmed by all the other

In fact, Westland voters turned down a public safety millage in August.

Thomas' concerns are echoed by other local officials.

"When it comes down to a local need to be addressed, the residents are tapped out psychologically and also financially," according to Canton Supervisor

Thomas Yack.

He said that while he shared Thomas' concerns, realistically he wasn't optimistic that a separation from Wayne County would be likely. Yack pointed to the county debt that all communities currently in Wayne County are responsible to pay off. He also wondered how the new entity will provide county services like, jails and indigent health care. Those and other questions need to be answered, Yack added.

"You have to find some other way to satisfy the suburban communities," Yack said. "To date there's been very little indication from the county execs' office that they're interested in discussing the issues."

Mike Duggan, deputy county executive, said he was surprised by Thomas' proposal and said the rationale wasn't consistent with the country's history.

"I don't think many people are going to buy that principal," Duggan said. "Those precincts that Mayor Thomas lost could secede from Westland and form their own city."

The proposal harks back to times when Mayor Coleman Young used "us" versus "them" rhetoric, Duggan added.

"What's frustrating is that it's out of character for Bob Thomas," he said. "I've held him as the one of the best mayors in Wayne County."

People are beginning to see it doesn't matter what the majority of suburban community residents want, because the Detroit vote is overwhelmingly in support of increased taxation, Yack said adding that 80 percent of the value of the property in Wayne County is outside Detroit.

Suburban Wayne County communities have been providing money for Detroit for a long time, Yack said adding that Detroit officials have shown "no interest in cutting their costs."

"Most of us here do what we can to cut costs," he said. "Until we see those actions taking place there's going to be a lot of. resentment. It's not a black and white issue and it's not a Detroit versus suburbs issue. It's really about good government. Deep down inside, all of us want the City of Detroit to be the vibrant community that we remember."

Livonia Mayor Jack Kirksey said he believed it was a good idea for CWW to review the possibility of seceding from Wayne County. One possible outcome would be to open lines of communication between Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara and suburban Wayne County officials.

"I think if nothing else, CWW should explore the concept and in doing so, increase the dialogue between western Wayne County and Wayne County officials," Kirksey said.

Thomas concluded his letter to Gilmartin with: "In the end, we may decide it is not the answer to what seems to be a growing problem for us, but at least we have discussed it fully and looked at all our options."

Foundation to offer free trees to new members

Ten free shade trees will be given to each person who joins the National Arbor Day Foundation during September.

The free trees are part of the nonprofit foundation's Trees for America campaign.

The 10 shade trees are sugar maple, red oak, pin oak, green ash, thornless honeylocust, weeping willow, river birch, tulip tree, silver maple and red maple.

"Spectacular fall colors are among the many benefits of these beautiful shade trees," John Rosenow, the foundation's president, said.

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between Oct. 1 and Dec. 10 with enclosed planting instructions. The six to 12-inch trees are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free.

To become a member of the foundation and to receive the free trees, send a $10 contribution to 10 Free Shade Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, Neb., 68410 by Sept. 30.

Urban League to honor local youth

The Detroit Urban League will join a national movement on Sept. 21 in celebrating youth who are "Doing the Right Thing."

More than 100 cities across the country are participating in this effort, co-sponsored by the National Urban League.

The event will celebrate youth who are excelling in school, others who are making progress, and those who are engaged in constructive activities and community service.

Honorary co-chairs include: Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer, Detroit Schools Superintendent David L. Snead, Detroit School Board President Irma Clark, U.S. Sen. Carl Levin, U.S. Rep. John Conyers, and Rashon Ross, a senior in the Detroit Public Schools for the Performing Arts. The Wayne County Sheriff's Department is among the event's partners.

The event is at the Detroit Urban League main office, 208 Mack Ave. Detroit MI 48201 at noon Sept. 21.

Delegates hand Engler defeat on U-M regent candidate

A week ago Mike Bishop was an obscure, 29-year-old lawyer whose claim to fame at the University of Michigan was having been president of his fraternity.

On Saturday, Bishop, a Rochester resident who practices in Waterford, shocked the state Republican establishment by upsetting Judy Frey, Gov. John Engler's pick for a nomination to the U-M Board of Regents.

"It started in the middle of the week," said his dad, former legislator and county commissioner Donald Bishop. "We took the pulse of a couple of delegations and figured she (Frey) couldn't win it." The elder Bishop made Mike's nominating speech.

Mike Bishop is a member of Right to Life, Frey is pro-choice. and that was what counted.

Engler took the unprecedented step of seconding the nomination of Frey, citing her work as a former school board member in East Grand Rapids, a current Olivet College trustee, founder and president of a school foundation, a hospital trustee, mother of six children, and fund-raiser in U-M's $1 billion capital cam-

Sharon Wise, the Farmingtonraised State Board of Education member, made Frey's nominating speech and was roundly booed when she said, "Abortion is a legislative issue," and "The Republican Party is truly the party of the big tent." Shouted a heckler: "Abortion is murder." The tally: Bishop 952, Frey

"I understand the argument," said Engler. "I apologize to no one for my pro-life credentials. But Judy has earned the nomination. I have a high regard for Mike Bishop and Don Bishop. But the other convention (Democratic) is nominating Libby Maynard (for U-M regent), and she's as liberal as Debbie Stabenow."

It was the first convention defeat for Engler since the mid-1970s, when he headed the insurgents who tried to topple GOP chairman Bill McLaughlin.

Baker unchallenged

The younger Bishop praised Frey in his acceptance speech and said, "I make no secret of my pro-life position," adding:

"I believe the hiring of teachers and admission of students should be made solely on the basis of merit (applause from delegates). I believe the university should not place restrictions on the constitutional right of free speech (more applause).

"I believe in actions to restrict drinking and drug use on the campus (applause). I believe all professors and instructors at the university should be required to speak clear English (applause). I believe that extending university benefits to unwed domestic partners is an absolute atrocity (cheers and applause). I believe university funds should not be used to pay for distribution of contraceptives on campus (applause)."

U-M's senior regent, Deane Baker of Ann Arbor, was nominated ,without opposition although Engler had tried to field a candidate against him. Baker, who often is a one-man show against the other seven regents, pledged to battle "political correctness" and "the denigration of family values" at U-M. He will be seeking a fourth eight-year term on Nov. 5.

The U-M board is deadlocked board _ David Porteous, 43, at 4-4. A victory by both Baker and Bishop would give the GOP a 5-3 edge. The GOP's regent ticket was the only all-male slate.

Rest of slate

Otherwise, the threeand-one-half hour convention resulted in no contests and no surprises as Republicans picked the rest of their statewide ticket., Nominees:

 State Board of Education incumbent Marilyn Lundy, 71, mother of eight, supporter of board leader Clark Durant on the parents' rights initiatives. Detroit resident and veteran of non-public school boards; and Louis Legg, 42, Engler's recent appointee to the state board, Battle Creek lumber business chief, former Michigan Jaycees president, who praised Engler for "focusing on the consumers of education _ the parents."

Republicans have a 6-2 edge. A GOP sweep would maintain the

Michigan State University

Engler's recent appointee to fill a vacancy, an attorney in Reed City, who promised "common sense, not picking athletics over academics"; and Colleen Pero, 41, East Lansing, former Engler staff scheduler who promised "to keep MSU accessible by keeping tuition affordable; let the president of the university run the university; never go back to putting athletics ahead of academics" a shot at Democratic nominee Joel Ferguson.

The MSU board is now at a 4-4 partisan deadlock. A sweep would give the GOP a 5-3 edge.

 Wayne State University board _ incumbent Vernice Davis Anthony, 51, an Oakland County resident who formerly headed Engler's Department of Public Health and filled out a WSU term as an Engler appointee; and Paul Fecko, 62, Birmingham optician, whose seconding speech was made by Rep. John Jamian of Bloomfield Township. "He's the hardest working person in our state on medical issues," said Jamian, who chairs the House Health Policy Committee.

Fecko, who switched careers after starting his work career as a chemical engineer, told delegates that "25 percent of all people with degrees have one from Wayne State and 60 percent of all physicians either graduated... from Wayne or did their training.

there." The WSU board is deadlocked at 4-4. A sweep would give the GOP a 5-3 edge.

• State Supreme Court incumbent Chief Justice James H. Brickley, 67, former lieutenant governor; and Hilda Gage, 57, Oakland circuit judge and former president of the judges association. Though unable to walk because of multiple sclerosis, Gage assured delegates, "I refer to it as an inconvenience. I'm strong. I will campaign hard."

The Supreme Court, non-partisan on paper, has three Republican justices, three Democrats and an independent liberal, Charles Levin, who is retiring because of age. A Brickley-Gage victory would give the GOP a 4-3

The education candidates run on their party's ticket; the Supreme Court candidates are nominated by parties but run on a nonpartisan ballot.

Area leaders join Madonna fund campaign

As Madonna University celebrates a 50th anniversary during the 1996-97 academic year, it also recognizes 20 years of local business support through its Annual Fund Corporate Campaign, which will be held this year from Sept. 17-20.

Local businessman George Friess, chairman of Shaw Electric Co. in Livonia, will lead the campaign for the second consecutive year. Honorary chairpersons include Madonna University trustee members William P. president/CEO. Norquick Distributing Co., and Lawrence A. Wisne, president, Progressive Tool & Industries

More than 100 teams of com-Madonna University representatives will visit local businesses seeking financial support to assist the university in maintaining its standard of academic excellence.

"We are grateful to the campaign volunteers for their continued allegiance to Madonna University," said Sister Francilene, president, Madonna University. Business persons come back year after year because they know their investment of time and resources will assist Madonna University students both now and in the future. Sister Franceline added.

This year's goal is $121,000, a vital foundation for the university's $22 million operating budget. The unrestricted funds will be used to fund new academic programs, provide financial assistance, update equipment and keep pace with technology.

Also involved will be trustee members James S. Bonadeo. chairman, Bonadeo Builders; Jean A. Corr, CEO, Educational Bus Transportation, Inc.; Edward P. Czapor, retired vicepresident, General Motors Corporation; Tarik Daoud, president, Al Long Ford; Charles G. Dharte, Jr., retired, Huntington

Democrats give Kelly 2nd try for state high court seat

STAFF WRITER

Both Marilyn Kelly and Kathleen Jansen are judges of the state Court of Appeals. But Kelly had the greater number of labor endorsements and outdistanced Jansen in their race for a state Supreme Court nomination at Sunday's Democratic State Convention in Detroit.

"We had a good and honest." fight," said Kelly, 58, of Bloomfield Hills, after Jansen, trailing 2,076 to 394 in the roll call, conceded.

"One thing I'm particularly pleased in is that I had the support of the teachers and educators, the MEA and the Michigan Federation of Teachers, and I much appreciate the early support of the Operating Engineers," said Kelly, a former high school and college French teacher whose late father was an operating engineer.

Jansen had some UAW support but in the end failed to win a majority even in her home base, the 10th Congressional District (Macomb County).

Kelly will get her second chance at the state's highest bench. She was nominated in 1992 but trailed the ticket _ leading Jansen supporters to say she couldn't win.

"Back in 1992 when the party asked me to run for the Supreme Court, I gladly stepped up to the plate in order to help (Justice) Conrad Mallett will reelection," she told cheering delegates, indicating there was something sacrificial in that race. "In 1996 I'm here to win for myself and for

The labor caucus, whose endorsements usually decide all races at a state Democratic convention, kept hands off the Kelly-Jansen race, resulting in the only contest of the day. By the time the rest of the slate was nominated at 1:30 p.m., twothirds of the delegates had departed.

Kelly served 12 years on the State Board of Education in the 1960s and '70s before leaving politics for Wayne State's law school. She won her Court of Appeals seat in 1988. Kelly wrote that court's opinion declaring part of Gov. John Engler's "charter school" law unconstitutional.

Jansen wasn't helped by publicity over her signing an opinion awarding $5 million to a Waterford restaurant developer ural Resources denied him a permit to fill in a wetlands.

Murphy tapped

The first Supreme Court nomination went to Court of Appeals Judge William B. Murphy, 51, of Grand Rapids.

Murphy downplayed his past leadership of the Michigan Trial Lawyers Association, a plaintiffs' group loathed by corporate types and Republicans, and played up his sister's "proud membership in the MEA."

Murphy's campaign theme is "to establish fast-track violence courts at every level of our judiciary. By designating specific judges to hear only a violent crime docket, we can ensure swift, fair justice...

"I'll fight for a justice system that maintains a level playing field in which everyone _ from the high-and-mighty to the down-and-out _ is equal in the eyes of the law," he said.

Murphy graduated from Wayne State's law school in 1970, a year before Kelly. He had been considered a shoo-in because the Department of Nat- Democrats and a liberal inde- voter committee and wrote an pendent who is retiring. A sweep would give Democrats a 5-2 advantage.

Because so many worker's comp and liability cases are coming through the system, the Michigan Chamber of Commerce is targeting the high court for Republicans as the Trial Lawyers and unions battle to hold a liberal majority.

Ed hopefuls cut off

The convention spent almost three hours listening to speeches from women congressional candidates, U.S. Sen. Carl Levin, Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer and Indiana Gov. Evan Bayh. So candidates for eight statewide education posts, all unopposed, had no chance to speak as delegates began trickling out at midday.

The nominees: State Board of Education _ Dr. Herb Moyer, 68, superintendent of schools in Bedford (Monroe County), who praised the role of public schools in uniting a diverse nation and deplored "the choice and voucher and Arab literature course for Detroit high schools.

Republicans have a 6-2 advantage on the State Board. A Democratic sweep would create a 4-4 tie.

· University of Michigan regents Olivia (Libby) Maynard, 60, of Flint, the party's candidate for lieutenant governor in 1978 and 1990, former party chair and former professor of social work; and S. Martin Taylor, 56, a Detroit Edison vice president and former department head in both the Blanchard and Milliken administrations.

The U-M board is split 4-4 between the parties. A sweep would give Democrats a 6-2 majority.

• Michigan State University trustees _ incumbent Robert Weiss, 57, of Grand Blanc, a former Genesee prosecutor, described by Flint Mayor Woodrow Stanley as "a man who fought to keep tuition down...a student advocate"; and Joel Ferguson, 57, a Lansing developer, former MSU trustee and MSU seat in 1994 and already has come under attack in the campus press for his conduct of secret meetings and athletic department manipulations.

The MSU board has a 4-4 split. A sweep would give Democrats a 6-2 majority.

• Wayne State University incumbent Murray Jackson, 69, retired U-M professor originally appointed by Gov. James Blanchard; Sen. Alma Wheeler Smith of Salem credited him with "fighting to keep tuition affordable"; and Annetta Miller, 75, of Huntington Woods, a former three-term member of the State Board of Education who lost a 1994 bid for the WSU nomination when she tried to switch jobs; nominated by Rollie Hopgood of the Michigan Federation of Teachers, Miller was described as "always a vocal voice for students, faculty and employees."

WSU's board has a 4-4 tie. A sweep will give Democrats a 6-2 edge.

Supreme Court candidates are nominated by party conventions but run on a nonpartisan ballot: on a partisan ticket.

Public forum to showcase education candidates

A public forum for the statewide educational candidates in the November election will be held at Livonia City Hall on Thursday, Sept. 26.

The city hall, at 32000 Civic Center Drive, is near Farmington and Five Mile Roads.

The University of Michigan Board of Regents candidates will be interviewed beginning at 6 p.m. The State Board of Education candidates will follow at 7. Michigan State University Board of Trustees candidates at 8 and the Wayne State University Board of Governors at 9.

The public is invited to this nonpartisan forum that is being sponsored by the American Association of University Women, Livonia branch.

Time Warner Cable of Livonia will videotape the program and will make the tape available to cable companies throughout Michigan on request.

Residents can request local cable companies to schedule the video before the election.

Colleges must control costs

he city of Westland is blessed with hundreds of volunteers who devote untold -hours of their own time to groups which focus on children, the elderly or the handicapped.

You see them all the time - coaching Youth · Athletic Association teams, working on PTA functions or soliciting funds for drug abuse prevention programs.

Other times, they just work quietly on a church or scout program or volunteer to read for nursing home residents or children who are having trouble in elementary school.

In the main, they all have one thing in common – they want to increase the quality of life for local residents.

In most cases, those volunteers devote their evenings, weekends and holidays without recognition, other than within their own organization.

To make sure that volunteers earn their appropriate place in the public spotlight, the Westland Observer and Westland Chamber of Commerce annually co-sponsor the First Citizen of Westland community service award.

The program for this fall, launched this week, will conclude Nov. 12 when the two organizations publicly recognize and honor the 1996 First Citizen.

In hard dollars, it means U-M Ann Arbor costs $6,074 a year and MSU $5,032.

In the shorter run, one-year increases are about 3.6 percent, versus the Detroit CPI increase of 2.2 percent.

Universities whose boards hiked tuition more than 2.2 percent include U-M Ann Arbor 4 percent, Michigan State 3.0, Oakland 5.9, Wayne State 3.0, U-M Dearborn 2.8 and Eastern 2.7. The outstate regional universities did a much better job of capping tuition.

At Michigan State, President M. Peter McPherson pledges to keep tuition increases below the rate of inflation, provided the state aid stays at or above the rate of inflation.

The Legislature has tried twice to put pressure on the university boards to hold down tuition. First, there was Gov. James Blanchard's mid-1980s education trust, which was supposed to have created a parents' lobby to breathe down the boards' necks. Second, there was PA 7, sponsored last year by Sen. Loren Bennett of Canton, to give an income tax break to parents of students at universities which held the line on tuition. Neither device was a sufficient inducement.

Engler has made a litmus test of holding down tuition when appointing members to universi-Engler's budget director boasts that the administration since 1990 has hiked university funding 18.4 percent while the rest of the general fund has seen just an 8.8 percent boost. The true picture isn't quite so good: Much of the universities' state aid hike has been for projects like the "Japan Center" and technology, not for continuing operations.

Both parties' national platforms have addressed the soaring cost of college. Republicans promise more college loans, which will have the undesirable result of putting new graduates deeper in debt. Democrats promise scholarships to the top 5 percent of high school graduates - whether they need the money or

The Michigan situation actually is worse than mere numbers indicate because more and more students need five years, instead of the customary four, to complete work on a bachelor's degree. Everyone has heard stories of students who couldn't get required courses because of scheduling problems. Universities should give their scheduling problems serious attention.

What can people do? Fire-breathing voters should divert some of their ire from the rascals in Washington and:

 Vote for candidates at U-M, MSU and Wayne State who promise to clamp a lid on tuition.

• Tell universities to re-examine their offerings. Do we need so many teacher training programs? Will MSU really be able to operate a joint law school venture at no additional cost to the public? Do we need more lawyers?

Let's encourage university attendance by the middle class, the way the constitution promises.

Dole resurrects supply-side economics

BY BRUCE PIETRYKOWSKI JUEST COLUMNIST

Bob Dole wants to cut income taxes by 15 percent for all income groups. In addition, he wants to slash the capital gains tax rate in half.

This economic policy rings familiar to most economists and political analysts. It resurrects supply-side economics. However, the rhetoric used to promote the Dole proposal is sharply at odds with the policy. For example, Dole says he is offering this plan to promote the interests of working folks. Actually, the policy will have the opposite effect.

To understand this it's necessary to understand some basic Economics 101. First, economic growth is good. More goods are produced and, presumably, more people are working when the economy grows.

Economic growth is measured by gross domestic product (GDP). When real GDP grows we, as a nation, are better off materially.

GDP represents the total amount of products and services produced for sale to: consumers, businesses, government and foreigners. When any of these groups buys more U.S. products, the economy will grow.

Now, what about this supply-side economy? To make sense of it we need to contrast it with demand-side policy.

Demands-side economics (traditional Roosevelt-styled Keynesian policy) aims to increase GDP through increased spending by primarily consumers, business or government. Demand-side policy helps to spur the demands for goods and services. Either the government directly spends more money itself or it lowers taxes on individuals and businesses to encourage them to spend more. When the government cuts taxes it encourages individuals and businesses that receive the tax cuts to spend that extra money.

But, clearly, the government can't force people to spend (or save) more. So, the quickest and most direct route to increased spending is government spending.

The next best demand-side policy would be to decrease taxes on individuals, since consumer spending represents by far the largest component of economic growth. But studies have shown that the poor spend proportionately more and save less while the wealthy have more in savings, stocks and bounds as a percentage of their

GUEST COLUMN

If we want to promote spending we should target tax cuts to the middle and lower-income segments of the population. These strategies form the basis for demand-side economic poli-

Supply-side economics focuses on the production, not the purchase, of goods and services. Business being in the role of producer is the mostfavored sector under a supply-side regime. If business is encouraged to invest in larger, newer factories the economy will grow. But to invest, business people need access to funds.

The borrowed funds come from banks that use your savings deposits and loan the money out to others, including businesses. If only people would save more there would be more money to lend, the price of money (interest rate) would fall and business people would invest. The economy might then grow.

Dole's tax cut plan is supply-side in the following way: It cuts taxes by an equal percent of all and it greatly reduces the capital gains tax.

First, an equal cut in taxes does not mean that the cut will have an equal impact for everyone. A 15 percent reduction of a $5,000 tax bill ($750) and a $50,000 tax bill ($7,500) are pretty sizable differences. The tax cut would overwhelmingly benefit the wealthy.

Basically, the Dole plan seeks to help the rich and hopes that they will do their part to help the economy That's also why Dole wants to reduce the capital gains tax.

This strategy is patterned after the famous trickle-down approach of Ronald Reagan. Yet, one of the lessons of the Reagan years was the rich got richer and decided to take their tax savings and invest them -

There is nothing keeping the wealthy from doing the same thing again - nothing except a leap of faith.

Similarly, the capital gains tax cut promoted by Dole would reward those who make money trading in stocks on Wall Street but the financial gain from the buying and selling stocks contributes nothing to economic growth.

Wall Street's interest in rewarding corporate downsizing should not, in turn, be rewarded by government tax

While the Dole tax cut rhetoric seems populist, the harsh lessons of the Reagan/Bush years do not have to be repeated if voters look beneath the packaging to see the nasty economic surprise inside.

at state expense

Durant spreads propaganda —

At state expense, Clark Durant is sending Michigan newspapers his version of the meaning of a "character education" resolution before the State Board of Education.

Durant as board president reports only his own views, not the other seven members', and slyly makes the issue sound like motherhood, apple pie and the flag.

"Wow, did we strike a nerve," begins Durant, R-Grosse Pointe. "The State Board of Education raises the issue of character education because we have lost what used to be a common understanding: Education is a moral undertaking."

Gosh. Golly-gee. Is that the problem? Nothing controversial about Durant informs us that some teachers "teach (sometimes unwittingly) a moral relativism." I sure was glad to know that because no one ever cited a single example in the board session – not even Durant.

His July audience raised tough questions at which Durant merely flashed his charming grin. Items:

• The draft resolution mentions "parents" (Durant's favorite code word) five times, emphasizing their role as "their children's first teachers." A fellow board member asked, what if the parents are Michigan Militia types? Or suppose they're like the Macomb County parents who forced their twins to engage in a fist fight what then? Or parents who glue a kid's eyelids shut?

• The resolution asks school boards to form committees of "parents, educators, business, religious and other community representatives ..." It fails to limit the proportions of any one group, as a Livonia woman pointed out. Is it OK, for example, to stack the committee with hillbilly creationists? Or should all religions - not just the predominant ones in Grosse Pointe or

Holland - be represented? The carelessly-drafted resolution has no guide-

 A Warren father warned that "special interests are drooling" at the prospect of getting their hands on character education.

Edison said, "Genius is 2 percent inspiration and 98 percent perspiration." Good legislation, likewise, is 2 percent an attractive idea and 98 percent plugging up ways that a program's intention can be perverted.

Durant's resolution - his literary touch is obvious - cites the Declaration of Independence and U.S. Constitution, and his state-mailed personal essay quotes Theodore Roosevelt, Gov G. Mennen Williams, Abraham Lincoln and James Billington (librarian of Congress) and cites lessons from "the Hebrew Bible."

He overlooks - deliberately, I suspect - the Michigan Constitution, source of the State Board of Education's authority. For example:

Art. I sec. 4: "No person shall be compelled to attend, or, against his consent, to contribute to the erection or support of any place of religious worship, or pay tithes, taxes or other rates for the support of any minister of the gospel or teacher of religion."

Art. VIII sec. 2: "Every school district shall provide for the education of its pupils without discrimination as to religion ..."

Art. VIII sec. 3: "Leadership and general supervision over all public education ... is vested in a state board of education. It shall serve as the general planning and coordinating body for all public education."

Nothing says the State Board may abdicate its responsibility by encouraging drooling special interests to invade an unregulated "partnership" of people with no demonstrable quali-

Nothing in the Michigan Constitution's article on education mentions Durant's code word, "parents." Public education is the State Board of Education's job. Durant, as a lawyer (P26212), should have looked to the Michigan Constitution first and foremost. By overlooking it, he has been derelict in his public duty.

One also suspects Durant has ulterior motives.

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional

Party pros know the ropes

State political party conventions, the last calendar event on the run-up to the general election of Nov. 5, are upon us.

Michigan Democrats filled out their party's ticket with nominations for the state Supreme Court and educational posts last Sunday. State GOP activists did the same a day earlier.

In years past, party conventions were seriously significant events because, unlike today, party leaders and convention delegates were the ones who picked nominees for governor and senator. Competing candidates fought to get their delegates seated at the conventions. Party leaders gathered in "midnight caucuses" in smokefilled rooms to cut deals that put people on the ballot.

These days, of course, we employ a far more democratic way of selecting candidates for high office. We hold primary elections. Primaries allow far greater participation in selecting candidates by the public at-large. They eliminate the bossism of the smoke-filled room. They expose candidates and their platforms to the scrutiny of the news media.

Nonsense!

I'd argue that a big part - a very big part - of the problems of our politics arises directly from the excesses that democracy has introduced by using primary elections as the main device for nominating candidates.

Rub off the sheen of the good government rhetoric about primaries, and ask yourself: What really happens?

To begin with, turnout is low - often very low For example, turnout in the Aug. 6 primary race for the Republican nomination for U.S. Senate between Jim Nicholson and Ronna Romney was the fourth lowest since World War II. Why should a minority of all voters - even at 682,447 ballots in the GOP primary, it's still a minority - dictate what choices a majority will face in a general election three months later? Is this really the direct democracy that theorists claim?

And more to the point, the minority who do vote in primary elections is largely uninformed about the candidates, their positions on issues; and their various glories and failings. Why? Because most of the information about the candidates for most of people is indirect, conveyed primarily through the media, whether in news stories ("free media" in the nomenclature of political pros) or in TV ads ("paid media").

You tell me. Does the average conscientious GOP primary voter know more abut Ronna Romney as a political candidate and as a human being than the 100 top Republican Party activists who have known and worked with her in the party vineyards for more than a decade? No way!

Believe me, if there are skeletons in a candidate's closet, those who worked closest with him or her for years will know them far better - and understand their political impact far more clearly - than a voter whose vague perceptions are formed through the filter of the news media and the expensive TV campaign.

It's bad that primary elections confer too much power on the news media, but it's far worse that they give enormous influence to single-interest groups. Rich organizations, whether the AFL-CIO or the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, can determine winners early by big contributions to primary campaigns. Interest groups can mobilize their members to tilt a primary election in a way that gets their candidate nominated, but at the cost of likely defeat in a general election.

Consider GOP senatorial nominee Romney. There is no doubt whatsoever that her narrow -52.2 percent - victory over Nicholson came about because Michigan Right to Life ignited its vaunted field organization to turn out the vote for the "pro-life" candidate. Of course, it's too early to tell, but most political insiders consider Romney to be a far less potent challenger to incumbent Sen. Carl Levin than Nicholson would have been.

Right to Life may have nominated its favorite, but it may well also have lost any chance to mount a serious challenge to Levin.

Smoke-filled rooms may be smelly, and they may be "anti-democratic." But I'll take the cleareyed, knowing judgment of political pros in selecting candidates every time.

The W.K. Kellogg Foundation was established in 1930 to "help people help themselves through the practical application of knowledge and resources to improve their quality of life and that of future generations."

Its programming activities center on the common visions of a world in which each person: has a sense of worth; accepts responsibility for self, family, community and societal well being; and has the capacity to be productive and to help create nurturing families, responsive institutions, and healthy communities.

To achieve the greatest impact, the Foundation targets its grants toward specific focal points or areas. These include: health, food systems and rural developments; youth and education and higher education; and philanthropy and volunteerism.

When woven throughout these areas, funding also is provided for leadership; information systems//technology; efforts to capitalize on diversity; and family, neighborhood, and community development programming. Grants are concentrated in the United States, Latin America and the Caribbean and southern Africa.

Laundry Lady boosts morale

Laundry. Sometimes it seems that's all there is. Clean clothes get put on in the morning and work and sweat and toil and lunch and puddles happen and then night falls and the clothes get thrown down the chute. And then the sun rises and clean clothes get put on once again. And then more work and sweat and toil and lunch. And puddles. And night falls.

And as mothers know, clean clothes don't just happen. It takes time, quite a load you could say, and effort, quite a load of that too, to put the bounce and brightness and clean and comfy back into clothes.

Yet, moms do it. We do the laundry. Day after day, holidays too, vacations, and sick days, and days when the washing machine won't work, and all days in between because there is, and always certainly will be, laundry. Nothing in life is certain, they say, except death and taxes. And laundry. They should say laundry.

Sometimes, when it comes to laundry, I wish for the life of a queen. I don't think queens do laundry, even queens who are moms. For instance, Queen Elizabeth. She doesn't do laundry, does she? I bet when Prince Charles was little you'd never have found his mom, the queen, scurrying around before polo matches getting his uniform looking spiffy. Not only that, I bet she

Ornate building recalls roots

■ Memories of the old Sts. Constantine and Helen Church were so strong that members built a similar one in Westland.

By SALLY TATO STAFF WRITER

Some things just can't be forgotten. The parishioners of the Saints Constantine and Helen Greek Orthodox Church haven't worshiped in their original church in Detroit since 1986.

The ornate, domed, stone structure and elaborate altar weren't enough to draw the majority of parishioners out of the suburbs and into the church.

So the church came to the people. Ten years ago, the parish built the Hellenic Cultural Center in Westland and held services and classes, as well as receptions and forums in the 40,000-square-foot facility.

But the parishioners could not forget their roots.

Images of the old church in Detroit were so vivid that one parishioner had a picture of the altar blown up to a life-size replica and mounted at the head of the room serving as the worshiping area for Sunday service.

That picture can now be put away. This Sunday, the 500 parishioners will have a new church to call their

The first Sunday Divine Liturgy in the new Saints Constantine and Helen Greek Orthodox Church will begin in the community center facility at 8 a.m. and then proceed outside to the entrance of the church. The ceremony will continue there and lead into the new church for an 11 a.m. Divine Liturgy. A grand opening luncheon will be held in the cultural center at 2 p.m.

The $4-million Indian limestone church is nearing completion in preparation for the Sunday service with Bishop Maximos of Pittsburgh and at least 1,000 worshipers, said the Rev. James Stathakios.

"One of the reasons we went so elaborate is we didn't want to leave behind the church in Detroit," he said. "A lot of people have ties to the church so they said if we have to leave it behind, let's build something similar."

A stained glass wall surrounding a mosaic of Saints Constantine and Helen greets worshipers at the church's entrance. The church is dedicated in their honor.

"He was the first emperor to give freedom to Christians to worship," Stathakios said. Similar 30 foot-tall stained glass windows with depictions of Jesus Christ's baptism and crucifixion adorn two walls on either side of the church's altar.

The 600-seat church will also have an altar identical to the one once gazed upon in Detroit. Marble and limestone will be used to create the colorful religious icons featuring significant biblical events.

"The style of the church is modernized Byzantine," said architect Harold Fisher of Harold H. Fisher and Associates Inc., the Harper Woods firm that designed the 15,000-square-foot church. "It's quite a modern design but patterned after the traditional Byzantine."

Stathakios is pleased with the beauty of the design and the similarities to the church he preached at for 12 years.

He is also happy that the parish now has a facility to serve the needs of its people. Additional language and cultural classes will be taught in a wing that connects the church to the community center.

This is the handwriting of a man of intelligence with a curious, analytical mind. At time he may think of myself as being a little different from others, or marching to a different drum.

His manner in both speech and action is direct. In speaking and writing he is concise and can come right to the point. His succinct style helps him move things right along, but may be a problem to those on the receiving end. People who are more sensitive may be offended when he states his opinions point blank.

The writer has a desire for efficiency and lack of waste. He has limited time for window dress-

Resently my life has le my presence has faile has desirled to that s show if off and don

ing. Clarity is his main concern. Signs of ambition can be seen. He wants facts and information without embellishments. Too much repetition can be annoy-

Our writer knows how to organize his time and daily life. He functions in an orderly manner. Time is important and he probably budgets his so that he can accomplish as much as possible.

Seemingly he is a bit of a rebel. He prefers to do things his own way and may find it difficult to deal with authority figures.

He has a need to be boss in his own bailiwicks. He wants to be in charge and make the decisions. Once his mind is made up he can be decisive and firmly based.

Criticism can be hurtful to him. He feels that he has been taken advantage of in the past. Consequently he is often in a state of preparedness against such imposition.

He tends to harbor grudges for a long time. Although he may say outwardly he forgives, inwardly he seldom forgets the hurt or the person responsible for it.

His need to win is strong. He can argue to get in the last word to make his point.

Sarcasm cannot be missed in this handwriting. It is a defense mechanism used to cover feelings of inadequacy or frustration. However, to the person on the receiving end it can be hurt-

A seeming contradiction can be seen in that he can also be tactful when he chooses this line of communication.

Persistence and tenacity are both seen in his handwriting. Used in positive ways, they can be valuable traits for the writer.

His signature is large and bold and suggests an indomitable force of energy. However it is also illegible showing his need for privacy.

If you would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia, MI 48150. Please write a few paragraphs about yourself using a full sheet of white, unlined paper and writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and signature are all helpful. Due to the volume of mail, personal replies are not possible. However, objective feedback is welcome.

I bet she never faced a busted washing machine and then wound up going to the Laundromat. Even though she probably could've; she has that purse she carries all over the place which looks just right for carrying quarters or shillings or ha' pennies, or whatever it is they use in Laundromats over there. And here's something to consider imagine a mom who is the queen doing laundry. At the Laundromat! That would boost morale of moms everywhere! Laundry would be beneath no one. It would become kind of a cool, kind of a royal thing to do.

And it certainly wouldn't be the only time that morale would get boosted at the Laundromat. It happens. As a matter of fact, it happened quite recently. In a reverse sort of way.

It was just last month, on one of the hottest days of the summer, when I, a queen of nothing, wound up having to go to the Laundromat; my washing machine had gone off the deep end. So I hauled the contents of my laundry chute, the box of detergent, the fabric softener and a purseful of money out my front door.

When I arrived at the Laundromat, I noticed the doors propped open. Inside was hotter than even the 90 degree steamy outside what with those dryers running in there and all. I took my dollar bills to the lady (or, perhaps "Lady" - capital L, British-style) who stood behind the counter. She graciously gave me quarters. Each load was going to take five quarters for the washing machine. I had five loads. Just to wash my laundry cost $6.25. And that, of course, didn't include the drying of the wet clothes - which I had to do there because I couldn't quite see how drying five loads of laundry at home would work so good since I have only one dryer and each dryer load takes 50 minutes which means by the time the last load got in on that hot and humid day, more than three hours would've elapsed and those clothes, all in a wet pile like that in the tropical moist air would produce icky stuff, crocodiles and algae, maybe.

So several more quarters and more minutes in the Laundromat were spent drying.

Anyway, while I folded the cleaned and dried clothes, the "Lady" who had so patiently turned my dollar bills into quarters earlier, joined me at one of the folding tables. She was folding clothes, too. Stacks and stacks of hot-out-of-the-dryer clothes. None of the clothes were hers, they all belonged to strangers. Shirts, underwear, socks, everything.

That was her job. She worked 14 hours each day there, six days a week, doing everyone else's laundry. Washing, drying, folding. Somebody else's laundry. And she wasn't grumpy. Or cross. She just did her work.

And here I was, after only two hours in the jungle heat of the Laundromat, ready to throw in the towel. And the socks. And Ron and Tony and Carmen and Joe's underwear. And Jack and Steven's jammie shirts. Everything. But then I stopped and thought for a minute. What did I have to complain about? I mean, how would I like it if all these clothes were strangers' and the time spent here today was seven times longer?

The way she kept a pleasant way about her, the way she chatted with me, the way she was. that Lady of Laundry, that Queen of Clean Things, she inspired me.

I decided then, and there, to "clean" up my own act.

And so it happened. Clean clothes, a better attitude, a boost to morale. All at the Laundro-

Area hospice agencies offer grief support groups

grief support

Arbor Hospice in Ann Arbor is forming a bereavement group in Plymouth for school-aged children who have experienced the death of a parent. The 12-week session, which recently won the "Award of Excellence" from the National Hospice Organization, meets from 7-8:30 p.m. Tuesdays at Plymouth's First United Methodist Church beginning Tuesday, Sept. 24.

The group is professionally led and includes a parallel education series, which meets the same night, for the surviving parent or guardian.

The parent's group will discuss children's grief issues, guidance in addressing the needs of these children as well as focusing on the issues and needs arising when an adult loses a spouse.

A minimal fee is required and scholarships are available. No

Area hospice agencies offer one is turned away for financial The groups will meet for 10 conreasons. Registration is required. For more information, call Sally Dunning at (313) 677-0500 or (800) 783-5764.

There are three other groups that support those who have lost a loved one.

Starting Monday, Sept. 23, a new children's bereavement group for mixed age and mixed loss will begin for children who have experienced a loss within the last six months. The program uses art to facilitate children coping with early stages of loss. The group meets 4:30-6:30 p.m. Mondays in the Arbor Hospice office at 3810 Packard Road, Ann Arbor. A minimal fee is requested but no one is turned away for financial reasons. To register, call the Care-ousel Department at (800) 783-5764.

Beginning Thursday, Oct. 3, a new bereavement group begins for parents who have lost a child. secutive Thursday nights (excluding Halloween and Thanksgiving). The sessions will be held at the Arbor Hospice

A separate, age appropriate and loss specific, session for siblings will be offered. The dates will be announced. These sessions are based on play and art as the communicative process for helping these children deal with their loss of a sibling. Both the adult and sibling sessions are run by master's-degreed professionals.

Starting Thursday, Oct. 10, in recognition of the unique concerns and issues raised when a parent experiences the death of an adult child, Arbor Hospice is holding seven-week support and informational group for those parents. Past participants in this group have been able to share common experiences with others who have had a similar loss, to gain a greater understanding of the grieving process and to provide support and encouragement to other group members. The group is open to any member of the community who has lost an adult child, whether that loss occurred recently or many years ago. The group will meet from 4-5:30 p.m. on seven consecutive Thursdays from Oct. 10-Nov. 21. Meetings are at the Arbor Hospice office. For more information about this group, call Pat Bauer at (800) 783-5764.

• Community Hospice Services (CHS) is offering a free adult grief recovery series. The sessions are open to adults who have suffered the significant loss of a loved one. The comprehensive program is designed to help adults understand and work through the grieving process.

The classes will meet for six consecutive weeks at Community Hospice Services' Westland location, 32932 Warren, Suite 100 (on northwest corner of Warren and Venoy roads). Sessions begin at 6:30 Wednesday, Oct. 2, and conclude on Nov. 6 with a memorial service.

Community Hospice Services offers a full range of bereavement support programs including on-going bereavement support groups; five-week bereavement educational series, focusing on the phases and tasks of grief; children's grief support series, memorial services twice yearly for bereaved families; bereavement counseling; individual assessments, bereavement counseling and referrals; and quarterly "careletters."

Many components of Community Hospice Services bereavement program are available, free to charge, to anyone in the community who has lost a loved one.

Community Hospice Services was established in 1981 to offer compassionate, skilled homecare to those individuals in the final phase of life. The Hospice philosophy gives supportive care which neither hastens nor postpones death, it promotes quality of life and provides comfort and emotional healing for the patient and family members. Community Hospice Services provides their service to incurably ill patients and their families in Western Wayne, Southern Oakland, and Eastern Washtenaw counties.

Community Hospice Services is a non-profit organization which maintains offices in Westland and Plymouth.

To register for the adult grief recovery series, or for more information, call Dr. Michael Meyer at CHS (313) 522-4244.

Wayne defuses Rockets, 61-25

Inside game: Wayne Memorial's Natalie Garrison (No. 32) goes up for the two-pointer as Westland John Glenn's Adrianne Ellis (No. 25) and Samantha Crews (No. 15) try to defend during Tuesday's city clash.

BY NEAL ZIPSER STAFF WRITER

The Westland John Glenn girls basketball team played its first three games of the season without two things: its new uniforms and its offense.

The uniforms which were to arrive before the season began were finally unveiled Tuesday as the Rockets hosted their crosstown rivals. Wayne Memorial.

And for a quarter, it appeared their offense finally arrived as Glenn scored 10 points _ only eight shy of its game average after its first three games.

But the Zebras took control and routed the Rockets 61-25, to drop Glenn to 0.4.

Wayne, meanwhile, improved to 4-0, and prepares for a tough threegame stretch with games at Detroit St. Martin DePorres and Dearborn Fordson, sandwiched between a home game against Northville. "The next three games will give us a good indication of where we are as a team and how much further we have to go," Wayne coach Chuck Henry said. "We were 16-7 last season and want to be better this year."

Predictably, it was the one-two punch of seniors Yolanda Holt and Rica Barge that got the Zebras going. Holt nailed a three-pointer to give Wayne a 5-0 lead, followed later by two straight baskets by Barge which extended the Wayne advantage to 10-3.

Barge finished with a game-high 16 points despite playing limited minutes. Holt scored 12 points in front of a couple Division I college scouts.

"We're a team and that's what matters," Barge said. "It's good that Yolanda is getting her recognition. I'm not going to play Division I, but I'll do my best to help this team do

The Rockets, who scored a total of 29 points in their two previous games, scored 10 first-quarter points despite committing eight turnovers. Even with the moral victory, the Zebras led 20-10.

"We played pretty well in the first quarter, mainly because we were more patient than we have been on offense," Glenn coach Andy Denison said. "We began to push the ball probably more than we should have in the second quarter and that got us into some trouble."

The second quarter was a disaster for the Rockets who managed only a three-pointer by senior Kathie Suda (11 points) with 37 seconds left in the half. Wayne took advantage and led 37-13 at halftime.

Glenn didn't fare much better in the third quarter as Wayne outscored the Rockets 12-4. Sophomore Tonya Crawford scored Wayne's first five points of the quar-

"Tonya is one of the keys to how well we do this year," Henry said. "She's a very good athlete and we need her to move up a notch. She'll have to develop even more and become our third player who can be a threat to score.'

Henry took advantage of the rout by splitting Barge and Holt with younger players.

"That's fine with me," Barge said. "We have talent, but it's young. This is our last year and if we help the others develop, than it will help ourselves as well as next year's team."

Holt's statistics could have included as many as 15 or more assists, but her teammates let several easy baskets slip away.

"What we hope is that the players around Yolanda and Rica will develop and learn to finish those plays." Henry said.

"Yolanda could have had 30 points." Denison said. "She and Rica are so unselfish. We wanted to stop her penetration and pass, but then she hit the three-pointer to start the game. It's hard to stop two quality players; we just tried to get a hand

Wayne shot 42 percent from the floor (26-62), while Glenn made 28 percent of its shots (9-32). Both teams were 4-of-11 at the free throw

A problem for the Rockets was that their points scored equaled the number of turnovers they committed (25). In addition, despite outre-

Apparently the rule change falls of State High School Associations.

> "Our Association never took a stand one way or the other."

One area coach didn't know of the change until he attended last month's fall rules meeting held by the Michigan High School Athletic Association.

"It was never explained and I can't in line with the National Federation see the rationale behind it," the area coach said.

Lessner, however, believes there's another reason for the clock rule change.

"I think probably they want to make it more like college and pro game," he said. "They don't want people up in the stands screaming 'stop the clock' because they don't know the difference between the high school rule, which is different than college or pro."

Another theory is that the new rule would save teams from rushing on and off the field during the final two minutes when it's a close game. So why not adopt it for the final

When we asked Brad Emons what he enjoys most about covering community sports, he told us, "The people we deal with, from the coaches to the studentathletes, they truly appreciate the coverage-we cover a good group of schools from the smallest to the largest."

Brad began reading the major league box scores when he was still in grade school, wrote in high school and earned a degree in journalism from Franklin College in Indiana. He's been writing for your hometown newspapers since he graduated in 1977.

How does our coverage stack up? Brad says that unlike the metropolitan newspapers, "We cover a variety of prep sports and do it in-depth-both boys' and girls'. We're able to hit more than the highlights. We get to know nearly every high school coach and athletic director by their first names."

So, if you want more than just highlights Brad is the guy you turn to. Every Monday and Thursday.

Glenn-Walled Lake Western tussle highlights Week No. 2 prep action

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

It's basically a two-man race this election season unless you factor in Ross Perot and the Reform Party.

What are the polls telling us after the first week of high school football?

The incumbent (yours truly) holds a narrow lead over the Irish politician, but there's plenty of stumping left on the campaign trail.

Try eight weeks,

Anyhow, Emons is out in the lead again, correctly picking 14 of 17 games last week, while O'Meara has his strategy in order, going 13-4 to stay only one game off the pace.

Not bad considering it was the first week with a lot of unknowns.

Here's a look at Week No. 2.

FRIDAY'S GAMES (all 7:30 p.m. unless noted)

F.H. Harrison at N. Farmington (3:30 p.m.): The celebration of Rosh Hashana on Saturday moved this game up a day: North, expected to be amproved, fell flat in its opener against Hartland, losing 35-6, while Harrison looks like it quickly got over last year's playoff bashing by South Lyon by crushing Oxford, 42-6. First it was Tony Shaleb, then it was Steve Shareb, and now it's Nick Shareb leading the Hawks. Is Earl Shaleb far behind? PICKS: It looks a lot like a repeat of last year's 37-7 Harrison drubbing of the Raiders.

Luth. Westland at Liggett (4:15 p.m.): Grosse Pointe University-Liggett, 2-7 a year ago, opened the 1996 season with a 21-19 win over-Livonia Clarenceville. Lutheran Westland, meanwhile, lost to Harper Woods, 16-14, as pair of two-point conversion passes made the difference. PICKS: Albert Cook leads. Lutheran Westland to a resounding

Edsel Ford at Redford Union (7 p.m.): It's the Mega-White Divisionopener for both teams. Dearborn Edsel Ford opened with a 24-13 win over Madison Heights Bishop Foley, while the young RU squad took a 30-13 thumping from Livonia Stevenson. PICKS: Edsel's T-Birds should roll if things go according to form. Lincoln Park at Wayne (7 p.m.): it's the Mega Red Division opener for both squads. Last year Lincoln Park blanked the Zebras, 14-0, but the revenge factor could be the motivator. Wayne's defense looked sharp in an 8-7 win last week over Adrian. Tailback Dwayne Jackson also rushed for 168 yards. Lincoln Park is coming off a 21-6 defeat to Warren Mott. PICKS: Wayne gets its offensive attack

GRID PICKS

Garden City at Southgate: The Cougars received a bad omen in their 1996 season opener when the officials failed to show last Friday night. The agony was delayed a day as Dearborn Heights Crestwood blanked GC. 27-0. Southgate, led by lineback/fullback Travis Koons, is also smarting from a 42-19 loss to Mega-Blue Division power Allen Park. PICKS: Southgate swings its way to a Mega-White Division victory.

Thurston at Gibraltar Carlson: Last week the Eagles proved they could play on the road with a 10-0 win at Bridgeport, thanks to the play of senior linebackers Matt Kuksa (nine tackles) and Matt Koskie (forced fumble and two sacks). Carlson defeated Woodhaven, 14-6, forcing a fumble and recovering it in the end zone with only 20 seconds left. Carlson beat Thurston, which started eight sophomores a year ago, 27-7. Expect a defensive battle. PICKS: Carlson takes the Mega-Blue victory; Emons predicts. O'Meara climbs aboard the Thurston bandwagon.

Lutheran North at Clarenceville: It's the home opener for the Trojans, who tost their season opener last week to Liggett, 21-19. North is coming off a tough 21-13 Metro Conference loss to Harper Woods Lutheran East. Defense could be the key for the Trojans. PICKS: North winds chill Clarenceville.

Franklin at Stevenson: The Patriots ran into, a buzzsaw last weekend against top-ranked Sterling Heights Stevenson, falling 40.21, but junior quarterback Brian Facione and his favorite target Paul Terek måde. strong impressions. Livonia Stevenson, hoping to avenge last year's stunning 15-14, loss could have slotback Todd Wilson back this week to keep Livonia Franklin from keying on senior running back Gade Clark, who surpassed the 2,000 yard career rushing mark in last week's thumping of RU. PICKS: Emons and O'Meara stick

W.L. Western at John Glenn: This is the Game of the Week, no doubt, between two state ranked teams. Both teams impressed in their season. openers. Western pounding hapless Milford, 45-7, as sophomore bulldozer Dave Johnson and senior Donnie Davis combined for 239 yards rushing. The Warriors also have one of the state's premier kicks in Pat Gibson, Glenn is. coming off a 33-0 blanking of Detroit Mackenzie. The Rockets, however, lost senior defensive back Charles Bailey to a broken leg. PICKS: Glenn squeaks out a victory.

Northville at Ply. Salem: So this Salem team is weak, the worst in years? Was coach Tom Moshimer. who earned his 198th career victory with a stunning 20-7 win last week at Belleville, sandbagging? Northville, however, can't sandbag this week. The Mustangs never got out of the barn, getting brushed off last Friday by South Lyon, 48-0. PICK: No (Nate) Gray area for Salem this week. Mr. Mosnimer gets victory No. 199.

Canton at W.L. Central: Central appears to be loaded, but who could tell after last week's 54-3 drubbing of Kensington Valley weak sister Milford Lakeland? Bill Sanders scored four IDs for the Vikings, including a 95yard kickoff return and a 30-yard punt return: Canton, which played stateranked Moriroe to a respectable 15-7 defeat, must generate more offense with QB Rob Johnson at the helm. PICKS: Central's Viking ship suts through the Canton waters.

SATURDAY'S GAMES (all at 1 p.m. unless noted)

Bishop Borgess at Mount Clemens: Both teams boast squads of under 20. Borgess, however, did just fine last week by routing Ecorse, 48-0. The Bathers, meanwhile, took a dunking against L'Anse Creuse, 40-0: You could probably flip a coin and it would fand straight up when it comes to predicting this one. PICKS: Who knows? Emons takes a stab at Borgess.

O Meara picks the East Side Kids. Churchill at Farmington: The last time Churchill won a football game? The eighth week, 1993, at Farmington, 7-3. That ended Churchill's 34game losing streak. Jeff Sheehan scored the winning TD. The Chargers. nowever, have lost 20 straight since then, including last week's 44-0 loss to Dearborn, Meanwhile, Farmington was stopped last week by Novi, 27-7. PICKS: A bit of deja vu? It's the Fal-consin this one. St. Agatha at Pickford (7:30 p.m.): Not quite all the way to Sault Ste. Marie: but darn close for the Aggies. who may need some blankets and a campfire Saturday night when they hit the Upper Peninsula. Agatha defeated Pickford last year, 28-6, but lost last week in its season opeger to Detroit Holy Redeemer, 26-0. Pickford is coming off a 28-20 loss to state-ranked Rapid River (Class D). PICKS: Flip a coin, rub two sticks together, it's Redford CC vs. A.A. Pioneer (7:30 p.m. at Clarenceville): If you're not at the Silverdome, then Clarenceville's sparkling field is the place to be on a Saturday night. CC was hitting on all cylinders last week, whipping PSL pretender Detroit Pershing, 24-6. The Shamrocks face an Ann Arbor Pioneer team that couldn't stop East Lansing on the ground en route to a 27-6 loss. East Lansing's Kande Ngalamulume (check the spelling) racked up 211 yards himself. Pioneer quarterback Christian Chapman rushed for 160 yards, but Pioneer had very little offense, or defense for that matter. PICKS: CC riding high to its second straight victory.

Churchill's Fillion, Spartans set pace

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

Saturday's Schoolcraft Invitational girls cross country meet had a distinct Livonia

Churchill sophomore Ashley Fillion was an impressive individual winner, while Stevenson successfully defended its team title by edging Novi by four points, 37-41. Both are state-ranked along with Clarkston, which took third with 97. Churchill was a surprising fourth. See statistical summary.

A year ago Fillion didn't have a clue what cross country was all about, but she got a taste last spring as a freshman when she competed in track.

Fillion's time of 17:47 was an eye opener, although the flat, fast course was only 2.9 miles, two-10ths shorter than the standard 5-kilometer (3.1

None-the-less, not bad for somebody who upended twotime defending champion Kelly Travis of Stevenson.

Novi's Kendra Matheney was second overall and Travis was third. Both are juniors.

"I didn't run cross country last year, I was doing homework," said Fillion, who carries a 4.0-plus grade-point average in the accelerated math, science and computer program. "I wanted to run in eighth grade. I wanted to join a team because I thought it be neat to get a letter jacket. I just started high school and I didn't know how much fun it would be."

Leading up to the meet, Fillion was told by first-year Churchill coach Sue Tatigian that she "expected me to get first place and run 19:20."

"She (Tatigian) encourages us and makes us think we can win and that has a lot to do with it," Fillion said. "We've done a lot of speed work and we've been working hard. She's the best coach in the world.'

Fillion went out the first mile with Travis. The two nearly collided on one of the turns before the Churchill 10th-grader passed the field. "I felt comfortable the first mile-and-a-half," Fillion said. "But the second mile was a lot harder. I thought I was going to die at the end of the race. I looked back at the end and Ms. Tatigian yelled at me.

"Then one of the guys told me my time and I didn't believe him."

Stevenson, runner-up in Class A last fall to Troy Athens, took five of the first 11 places led by Travis (third), junior Kelly McNeilance (fourth), freshman Andrea Parker (ninth), sophomore Kim McNeilance (10th) and sophomore Christy Tzilos (11th).

Juniors Danielle Harris and Delia Dumitrescu took 16th and 22nd, respectively, showing the Spartans' depth.

"This core of kids have worked harder and it's more of a mature team," said Stevenson coach Paul Holmberg, whose team successfully defended its SC crown. "They're very focused and their cracking their own whip. They push themselves and each other. And they know there's no easy way to get into the top seven varsity spots."

Senior Jessica Cyburt, who ran at the state meet last year, and freshman Leslie Knapp finished third and fourth, respectively, in the JV meet. Holmberg also has senior Jenny Carroll, junior Beth Peterson and freshman Julie Sachau waiting in the wings.

"We looked good in our time trial last week," Holmberg said. "We ran tired today and we didn't rest for this meet. We had a six-mile run on Friday. We're really positioning for the end of the year."

Walled Lake Western, led by the one-two finish of Jason Aspinall and Nick Brewer, couldn't unseat Novi as boys team champion.

Stevenson was seventh, led by eighth-place finisher Mike Felczak and 11th-place finisher Rob Block.

Fast start lifts Spartans past Canton Chiefs

BY RICHARD L. SHOOK STAFF WRITER

A fast start helped Livonia Stevenson's boys soccer team run by Plymouth Canton's.

The Spartans jumped out to a 2-0 lead Monday night before the game was 5:30 old and withstood a typical late rally by the Chiefs for a 3-2 Western Lakes Activities Association victory.

"They came out on us tough," Coach Don Smith of the Chiefs said. "They caught us backing up. They got two quick ones and their defense held up for them.

"But they played well. They came to win. They hustled. And we sat back and let 'em do it to Scott Babinski plucked the ball out of the air with his foot and kicked in a goal at the 4:59 mark. The ball popped out from in front of Canton goalie Ben Davis and Babinski put the ball up in the corner.

Twenty-six seconds later, Thomas Eller scored from a scramble in front of Davis to give the Spartans their 2-0 lead.

"The boys came out prepared. They were mentally prepared," coach Walt Barrett of Stevenson said. "The first 10-15 minutes we put a lot of pressure on them. We were playing at a faster pace."

Barrett's team used its head a lot as its players used better positioning to move the ball through the air. It also seemed Fishaw brought the Chiefs within a goal, 3-2, with 4:41 to play when he absolutely drilled home a shot into the far upper left corner from deep on the right. And maybe they won't.

But the Spartans held on, thwarting two tries off a free kick by Gniewek with 15 seconds to play.

"They've got a good team." Smith said. "If we're going to beat them _ if we play them again we're going to have to give a much better-effort."

Maybe they'll get a chance.

Shamrocks sharp in 2-1 win vs. rival Rice

CC is now 6-2 overall and 2-0 in the division. Rice dips to 3-1-2 overall and 0-1-1 in the Central.

"Mentally we're back after what happened to us last week in the Ann Arbor Pioneer game (an 8-0 loss)," CC first-year coach Dana Orsucci said. "We stuck to our game plan and played disciplined.

"When CC plays Rice the records don't matter. It's all heart and determination. I could tell when our kids got on the bus that they were going to be all business. I'm proud of all of

It was 0-0 at intermission. Moucoulis then scored unassisted to make it 1-0 in favor of the Shamrocks, but Rice's Jeff Beeler tied it before Martin tallied the game-winner.

"Our defense did a fantastic job," Orsucci said. "Our sweeper, Casey Cook, picked up every loose ball. He controlled it when he had to, but he swept up every-

On Saturday, CC earned a two-goal victory in the rain and mud at Riverview Gabriel Richard, 3-1.

Moucoulis, Martin and Boogren scored one goal each for the Shamrocks.

•FRANKLIN 3, FARMINGTON 1: After spotting Farmington a 1-0 lead early in the second half Monday, visiting Livonia Franklin scored three unanswered goals in the last 20 minutes to win a Western Lakes Activities Association crossover game, 31.

Fernando Cazares started the rally, converting a crossing pass from Ken Tamonis to tie the score 1-1.

The game-winner came from Ayman Atwa, who scored on a direct kick from about 18 yards out with 18:44 left in the game.

Tamonis added an insurance goal with 13:44 left that was set up by Adam Livonia Stevenson led wire-towire en route to a 51-45 girls basketball victory Tuesday over visiting Wyandotte Roosevelt in a non-leaguer.

Senior forward Jackie McClowry led the winners with 14 points, including six in the decisive fourth quarter. She also grabbed six rebounds.

Senior center Gina Palmeri contributed 13 points and 10 rebounds, while junior guard Carolyn Courtright had 11 points, seven rebounds and three assists.

The Spartans, who had 23 offensive rebounds and shot 21 of 31 from the free throw line, improved to 3-2 overall. Roosevelt, which dropped to 1-

COLLEGE SPORTS ROUNDUP

S'craft booted by Lakeland

The Schoolcraft College men's soccer team opened its National Junior College Athletic Association Region 12 schedule on Saturday with a 4-3 loss to visiting Lakeland (Cleveland).

Schoolcraft coach Van Dimitriou said he wasn't too discouraged by the outcome because Lakeland has one of its better teams in recent years.

The loss left SC with a 0-3-1 overall record.

"They're fun to watch - unless you coach the other team," Dimitriou said of Lakeland. "That's the best Lakeland team we've played against. They're mostly Yugoslavians with a sprinkling of Americans. We took it to them the first 35 minutes. It was a matter of who finished better and they finished better by one.

Well, at least Schoolcraft started better. David York (Novi) gave Schoolcraft the first lead with a goal assisted by Matt Keller 12 minutes into the game. The Ocelots nearly made the lead 2-0 two minutes later, but a shot by Bill Krips (Brighton) hit the far post.

Lakeland responded with two goals before the half ended for a 2-1 lead and added a third early in the second half for a 3-1 lead. Garrett Maki cut the lead to one, 3-2, with a goal from just outside the box with 20 minuts remaining. Chris Jaskolski (Plymouth Salem) assisted on Maki's Lakeland countered, however, with a goal five minutes later to raise the lead back to two, 4-2.

The Ocelots cut the deficit to the final margin with a goal with five minutes left on a scramble in front of the Lakeland net. Dimitriou wasn't sure who got credit for the goal. The Ocelots almost forged a tie minutes later but a shot by Kevin Fritz (Brighton) from point-blank range with the Lakeland goalkeeper out of position sailed over the crossbar. "He struck it well, but too high." Dimitriou said. Travis Miller (Redford Catholic

Immense potential

Teeters confident Lady Ocelots can be successful

BY C.J. RISAK STAFF WRITER

Know how you can tell Schoolcraft College is going to have one heckuva volleyball team this season?

Ask the coach, Tom Teeters. Oh, he won't openly admit it. He'll supply you with qualifying stuff. Example: "This team has the potential to be one of our strongest teams."

Of course, no coach is going to say something like, "We're going to win it all or I'll quit my job!" -- particularly before the first ball's even been struck.

Teeters is no different in that respect. For the record, he'll give those remarks about potential and a bunch of "could

So how can you truly tell this team will be good? By Teeters' reply when asked what his team's biggest weakness is: "Indecisive coaching."

Excuse me? This coming from a coach who, in his last 11 years as SC's coach, has guided the Lady Ocelots to the NJCAA Tournament nine times, and in those nine trips has five topfive finishes, including a national title in 1988?

If coaching is the team's weakest link, this must be a pretty tough squad.

"Like any team," Teeters expounded, "by the middle of the season we'll know better what our strengths are. Then if we can fill those holes, this could be one of our best teams."

This certainly will be a team far different than most of Teeters' squads. For one, it has size: Three players are 6-foot or better (sophomore Yvette Sixbey from Garden City is 6-1, and sophomore Stacy Sailus and freshman Sarah Gregerson are both 6-0), and another is 5-10 (freshman Kim Washnock from Farmington).

The Ocelots have greater size in another respect -- 12 players are on the roster, compared to seven last season.

Which makes Teeters' job in '95 that much more remarkable. He guided seven freshmen to an overall record of 32-22, including Eastern Conference and NJCAA Region 12 championships.

Four of those players return for their sophomore seasons: Sailus, Jamie Clark (Livonia Churchill), Hermina Angeles and Michelle MacRae.

That certainly will be a plus. And the team's increased size makes blocking a strength, according to Teeters: "We've shown we have the ability to be a good blocking team. Now if we can just develop it enough."

It isn't the Ocelots' only strength, however. There's plenty of proven finishing power, with Angeles, MacRae, Clark and Sailus. And, added Teeters, "We're hoping serving larly with Jamie Clark and her spin serve."

Defense? No major worries there, either, considering the improved blocking. Several of the freshmen should contribute: Washnock, Amber Wells (Plymouth Canton), Gretchen Baisch (Plymouth Agape Christian), Tracie Rucinski and Kristen Kensicki.

That aforementioned problem _ if it does indeed exist _ is only evident when questioning Teeters about the setter position.

His answer consists of five names: Wells, MacRae, Clark, Baisch and Mindy Sullivan (Livonia Churchill). He plans to use two of them at the same time: frontrunners to start for now are Wells and MacRae, but "that could change by mid-season," Teeters warned.

The reason for his indecisiveness is, well, their versatility. "A lot of these kids are very good athletes," the SC coach will be (a strongpoint), particu-noted. "They have a lot of potential in a lot of different areas."

Wells, for instance, may end up doing less setting because she's such a strong defensive player.

"We have a lot to choose from," Teeters said. Still, taking his time doing it "is nothing new." Teeters often spends half the season tinkering with his lineup.

That decision-making process is tricky stuff, though. "There's a fine line between holding out too long and being indecisive," Teeters said.

This is the kind of wellrounded team that might be difficult to make a costly mistake with. But there's plenty to worry about within the Eastern Conference _ Henry Ford CC and Mott CC in particular and in the state, like Kellogg

"We're trying to fit the right system to the talent we have," said Teeters.

St. Francis 1st at Madonna Invitational tourney

College of St. Francis (Ill.) came away with title Saturday in the eight-team Madonna Invitational women's volleyball tournament.

St. Francis, led by tournament MVP Traci Maier, defeated Mount St. Joseph (Ohio) in the championship final, 15-1, 15-9,

In the semifinals, St. Fracis eliminated the host Lady Crusaders in four games, 15-8, 11-15, 15-13, 15-12, while St. Joseph topped Georgetown (Ky.) in five games, 15-6, 15-8, 8-15,

Two Madonna seniors were named to the All-Tournament

Julie Martin (Livonia Stevenson), who had a total of 66 kills, 45 digs and six solo blocks, was selected along with Kelly McCausland (Redford Union), who finished with 56 kills and 56

Also named to the All-Tourney squad were Sue Lotz and Peggy Condon, both of St. Francis; Jalana Sue Daeger, Georgetown; and Kelly Sandman, Mount St.

Other standouts for the Lady

Crusaders included Karin Sisung, 41 kills and 29 digs; Heather Steinhelper, 35 kills and 37 digs; Meg Paris, 20 kills and 39 digs; Erin Gregoire, 16 kills and team-high 61 digs; Paula Dombrowski (Plymouth Salem) and Erin Comment, eight kills apiece.

Madonna finished 2-1 in pool play, defeating Spring Arbor (15-1, 15-8, 15-7) and Trinity (III.) Christian (15-1, 15-9, 15 3), but lost to Georgetown (15-8, 15-13, 7-15, 16-18, 16-14).

On Tuesday, McCausland and Martin each had 11 kills as Madonna tripped host Spring Arbor in three games, 15-4, 15-11, 15-6. The win improved Madonna's record to 8-2 overall.

Prior to the Madonna Invitational (Sept. 5), the Lady Crusaders turned back Rio Grande (Ohio), 15-3, 15-4, 15-5, as McCausland and Martin recorded 10 and eight kills, respective-

Paris, the senior setter, had 22 assists, while Steinhelper and Deanne Helsom added 10 digs and nine digs, respectively.

Lady Ocelots edge alums

They may be old, but the Schoolcraft College women's alumni squad took the younger varsity squad to five games Tuesday in a season-opening exhibition match before falling, 15-6, 15-5, 13-15, 9-15, 15-12.

Nikki Stubbs led the alums.

with seven kills. Marla Evans-King and Jill Ehlert added six and four, respectively. Angie Lankford and Nancy Ehlert also played for the alums.

Top hitters for the Lady Ocelot varsity included Hermina Angeles (nine kills) and Michelle MacRae (seven kills).

Jamie Clark (Livonia Churchill), Stacy Sailus and Yvette Sixbey (Garden City) added four kills apiece.

Setter Amber Wells (Plymouth Canton) had 12 assists.

Angeles led with seven digs. while Clark contributed six.

Kim Washnock, Mindy Sullivan and Gretchen Baisch added four digs apiece. Tracie Rucinski had two blocks.

I work hard for a living. And the personals work hard for me.

I don't have all kinds of time to be running around singles bars looking for the person of my dreams. Then a friend told me how she keeps her social life in gear. With the personals: Fast, easy, free... and it works. Their new features even introduced me to other advertisers who are just my type. Now that's my idea of finding love in the nineties.

Get hip to the Macarena

The "Macarena," a Latino-beat song and line dance with simple arm and hip movements, may be just the step to better health, according to the American Physical Therapy Association.

As the Macarena bumps the Electric Slide as the world's hottest dance craze, people are getting on their feet and gyrating themselves into shape. "The thing about this dance, is it's easily learned, anybody can do it, it's group participation and it's fun. You get the benefits of a basic workshop using the arms, legs, back — really the whole body — but it's not strenuous," said Sean Gallagher, director of Performing Arts Physical Therapy.

The Macarena has found a partner with physical therapists who are part of a national campaign to promote fitness in response to the Surgeon General's report on Physical Activity and Health. The report concluded that even moderate physical activity for 30 minutes a day, such as walking the dog or gardening, can help prevent such serious health problems as heart disease, high blood pressure, diabetes, colon cancer and obesity.

Help is on the way

A volunteer-led support group for kids with the painful and disabling skin disorder called "psoriasis" is forming in Livonia. Psoriasis is a noncontagious, chronic skin disorder affecting 6.4 million people across the country, with 30 percent of sufferers under the age of 20. Skin appears inflamed with red, scaly lesions which reproduce six times faster than normal cells. There is no known cause of cure for the disorder.

Support groups provide members with information about new medications and treatments, ways to cope with psoriasis and network with others, and ways to educate communities about the disorder.

Mary Dixon will host the first local Psoriasis Network meeting tonight, Sept. 12 from 7-9 p.m. at her home. For information, call her at (313) 462-2158 or the National Psoriasis Foundation at (800) 723-9166

Have a heart

Detroit Lions' Herman Moore and his wife, Angela, will serve as honorary co-chairs for the fifth annual Metro Detroit American Heart Walk, slated for Saturday, Oct. 5 at the Detroit Zoo. "We're especially proud to be involved in this event, because the funds raised will help to support research and community education programs in our area," Herman Moore said. The Heart Walk is sponsored locally by the Chrysler Corp, Household Life Insurance, M-Care, Natural Sport, St. John Health Systems, Fox 2, Oldies 104.3 WOMC, and the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. For information, call (810) 557-

Youth fighting AIDS

Youth Living Centers, a non-profit human service agency based in western Wayne County, has received a $26,887 grant from Michigan AIDS Fund to support its efforts to combat AIDS in Southeastern Michigan.

The funds will be used for the five-year-old Youth Living Centers' LifeLines Theatre, an improvisational dramatic troupe that travels statewide delivering AIDS prevention education through performances of its original production, "The Debate." The production illustrates the risk factors associated with acquiring AIDS; active participation allows the audience to understand the identification of high-risk behaviors and learn how to avoid such risks in their own lives. For more information about Youth Living Centers and LifeLines Theatre, call (313) 728-3400.

Help for postpartum blues

Mothers with Portpartum Depression, PPD, or any other postpartum disorder are welcome at a support group which meets the first and third Tuesday of each month at Room 8F, Providence Medical Building, 16001 W. Nine Mile Road, Southfield, 7:30-9:30 p.m. For more information, call Kathy (810) 737-3612 or Stephanie (313) 422-6676.

Mission Health is also offering a similar group at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital-Ann Arbor through their Women's Health Services. The support group meets twice monthly on the second and fourth Wednesday of each month from 6:30 to 8 p.m. in the hospital's Child Care Facility. For information or to register, call (313) 712-5400 or (800) 231-2211.

Fall programs examine women's health

BY CASEY HANS

aking charge of health care has become politically correct, and a healthy step, for women.

And as more women enter middle age, their health, their medicine - and how those choices shape their future — is becoming more important, according to area health providers. Many are offering an increased number of classes in women's health issues as more women participate in making choices in their medical care.

And, at least two area hospitals, Botsford General in Farmington Hills and St. Joseph Mercy-Ann Arbor, are offering fall health workshops targeted specifically at so-called middle-aged women, defined by health care providers as between the ages of 30 and 60.

"I think women are out there, seeking information because they're at a crossroads," said Judy Brandell, program director for Women's Services at St. Joseph Mercy-Ann Arbor. "At this time in their lives, they really have an ability to influence the quality of life — and the quantity.

"One of the reasons we're trying to provide information, is that we're trying to empower women."

Women make decisions

Another reason hospitals are focusing on women, is because they often do the research and make final decisions on family issues, said Susan Perry-Nolte, manager of marketing communications and sales for Botsford.

"Women tend to be the decision-makers in the home," she said. "I think we've all (health care providers) decided we need to be speaking to the women. They want to be informed and make good decisions."

Brandell also chairs a 12-member Strategic Team which looks at womens issues throughout the Mission Health system, which includes St. Joe's, Providence, McPherson and Saline Community hospitals. That group has focused on two goals for this year: looking at upgrading obstetrics programs and prevention of domestic violence. And, the committee will include two members from the community who will offer a different perspective, she said.

They want information to make decisions. providers say being held from 7-8:30 p.m. at Canton's Summit on the Park community center, for a $5 fee per session. They include:

- Thursday, Sept. 19: "Hormonal Highs and Lows: What to Expect in your 30s and
- Tuesday, Oct. 15: "Osteoporosis: What Every Woman Should Know."
- Tuesday, Oct. 29: "Preparing for Pregnancy."
- Thursday, Nov. 7: "Women and Heart Disease."

St. Joseph is also continuing a popular Women's Night Out evening, called "Women and Friendship — A Gift We Give Ourselves" which will also be at the Summit on the Park Oct. 2 beginning at 6 p.m. including networking and a full-course dinner, plus keynote speaker. Cost is $21 and registration is required by Sept. 26.

For registration of both the night out and health series, designed for residents of western Wayne County, call Summit on the Park at (313) 397-5110. For general information about either program, call St. Joseph at (313) 712-4106.

New at Botsford

At Botsford, the "Prime Time for Women" will be held Saturday, Sept. 28 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at Botsford's Zieger Center in Farmington Hills, focusing on women over the age of 40. The $25 fee includes the day-long program, continental breakfast and lunch.

Nutritious eating by Observer food columnist Larry Janes, learning about menopause and heart disease, and even a look at imagery and relaxation are on the day's agenda. Participants will be treated to a wardrobe and color analysis and a fashion show during lunch. Seating is limited; call (810) 442-7986 to register or for information.

The seminars are designed to speak to women in lay terms.

"They can either go back to their doctor and say 'help me with this' or it helps them to ask the right questions," Perry-Nolte said. "You know that people are out there looking (for information.) It's just a matter of plugging into it."

This movement is also bringing women The St. Joseph-sponsored program is together as a group to talk about health issues and how to have a better life. "Women network so well," said Brandell, a nurse who has been in her new position at St. Joseph for one year. "That's how women take care of women. It's one of our gender gifts."

Perry-Nolte said the Botsford seminar is drawing groups of friends and some mother/daughter teams who are attending together. She said the focus of this seminar is just one piece of the programming offered for women at Botsford. "This is one very small segment among women of all ages," She said.

More support offered

Although, as Perry-Nolte admits "It's hard to be everything to everyone," area health care providers are trying.

In addition to its Primtime seminar, Botsford is hosting several other programs for women in the coming months, includ-

■ "Pathways to Health for Women" on Monday, Oct. 7, 14 and 28 from 2-8 p.m., which are special screening days including a full health risk appraisal, cholesterol and osteoporosis screenings and a body fat analysis for a fee.

For mental and emotional wellness, "The Hostility Connection: Hostility and Anger Issues for Women Only" will explore strategies for dealing with feelings. This will be held Wednesday, Oct. 16 from 7-8 p.m. at the Botsford Center for Health Improvement in Novi.

"Women's Stress Syndrome" on Tuesday, Nov. 12 from 7-9 p.m. will look at why women experience stress differently than men and how to deal with it. Call (810) 477-6100 for information on all three

A fall edition of Health Source, a new Botsford publication, also focuses on women's health. For information on this newsletter, call (810) 442-7986.

U-M invites students to explore science when visiting Web site

ONLINE DANIELS

he University of Michigan has had a longtime presence on the Recently, U-M has made a name for itself with its Internet Public Library site on the World Wide Web.

Now the university has established a cyber-science presence on the Web. Among the departments efforts are:

■ Students can monitor the location and intensity of earthquakes around the world with the same real-time seismological data used by scientists by using a program called MichSeis.

Geology Professor Larry Ruff has developed a software program called Seismo-Graf/SeismoView for the Apple Macintosh computer. Ruff's software is distributed at no charge to teachers. To learn more about the software or to see seismograms of recent earthquakes, visit the MichSeis home page at http://www.geo.lsa.umich.edu/MichSeis/. You also can send Ruff an E-mail message to ruff@umich.edu.

■ A recent column I wrote took a look at Virtual Reality and the Virtual Reality Institute. The science department at University of Michigan also is deeply involved in Virtual Reality.

Among the VR applications are to give engineering students hands-on experience in controlling a chemical reaction chamber without risking an explosion, viewing packed-bed reactor processing, or to visualize the function of a catalyst at the molecular level. A main tool is virtual reality educational software called VICHER developed by chemical engineering instructor John T. Bell and Prof. H. Scott Fogler.

Find out more about what Bell's students are doing with Virtual Reality in Ann Arbor by visiting http://www.engin.umich.edu/labs/vrichel. The university's Space Physics Research Laboratory, with funding from NASA, has launched a new Website called "Windows to the University." This site gives visitors access to more than 2,000 images from NASA satellites, spacecraft and observatories from throughout the world. Visit http://www.windows.umkch.edu/ and you also will find information on astrophysics, astronomy, solar and space physics, planetary and lunar science, mythology, art, music, literature and philosophy.

The prototype version that went on-line in March 1996 is being evaluated by the Ann Arbor Hands-On Museum for an official launch in October.

Also beginning in October, middle school teachers can participate in a four-week unit on hurricanes. Other units for 1996-97 include blizzards and tornadoes using an interactive software program called Blue Skies. You can explore Blue Skies for yourself at http://blueskies.sprl.umich.edu/.

■ Individuals who might want to tutor a middle school or high school student in math or science or offer hands-on computer technology expertise will want to make contact with the Southeastern Michigan Math-Science Learning Coalition.

Funded by the National Science Foundation, the coalition's work last year was limited to the Ann Arbor/Ypsilanti area but starting this month is being expanded to the Detroit and Pontiac school districts. Last year the coalition found tutors for 91 K-12 students.

Using its Website, the coalition also distributes instructions for simple science lessons and experiments, a list of volunteers which it calls "Wandering wizards" who will give hands-on science demonstrations to school groups, and persons willing to provide counseling and job shadowing. Anyone interested will surely want to visit that Website at http://www.eecs.umich.edu/mathscience/.

■ Animal Diversity Web is a multimedia database on the Web created by U-M biology Prof. Philip Myers by going to http://www.oit.itd.umich.edu/projects/ADW/, students can explore up-to-date information on more than 1,000 species, or search the database for animals with specific food habits.

Michigan Jewels

■ Detroit Edison has launched a Website to allow any user to learn how to protect themselves from costly appliance repairs, to find a prime site for a new or expanding business, or to get the latest price for Edison stock.

The address to Edison's site is http://www.detroitedison.com. The site also has information about new products and services and residential and business customers, the company history, operations and activities.

Also at the site will be information about. Michigan festivals and events, the Montreux Detroit Jazz Festival, seasonal energy tips, and how to request Edison's 1914 Rauch-Lang electric car for a parade. Future plans include getting account information on-line.

■ The Michigan Department of Agriculture will soon make its annual report and annual statistics bulletin available on the Internet in the MASS section of its Website at http://www.mda.state.mi.us.

■ Sheriff John Nichols, Oakland County's incumbent GOP candidate who faces Democrat Matt Hogan in the November general election, has established a website address so visitors can talk with him and other residents by going to http://www.pathway.com/votenichols.

(Emory Daniels may be reached via E-mail at emory@oeonline.com. Past columns are archived on-line at http://oconline.com/~emoryd/archive.html.)

IN LINK ENGINEERING The Michigan Strategic Fund, an agency of the Michigan Jobs Commission, recently approved a $2.9 million tax-exempt bond issue to help finance the expansion of Link Engineering Co. in Plymouth.

For more information, call Ann

McGee or Cara Belton at (810)

The project includes the construction of a 40,000 square feet addition to an existing manufacturing facility and the installation of machinery and equipment. The Link Engineering Co., established in 1953, is a manufacturer of test equipment for use by the friction metals industry and other automotive component manufacturers. The company also manufactures production equipment for the electric motor industry and performs parts testing on a contract basis. The company employs about 183 people. # Airing concerns

Employers sensitized to quality issues

BY SALLY TATO STAFF WRITER

inda Shapona's first impression of her new office at the Westland Chamber of Commerce wasn't a refreshing one.

The new executive director of the chamber recalls smelling a dull stench that the normal ventilation system just wasn't expunging.

"The chamber office itself was very stuffy and stale smelling and I couldn't explain it but it was just not good," Shapona said.

Last month, she received a portable electronic air filter on a trial basis for her office. Since then, she says the problem's gone.

"I'd say within three or four days the freshness of this air was phenomenal," she said. "The stuffiness is completely gone and it just sort of effects the way you work when you're in an environment like that."

Indoor air quality can be a problem, says Howard Murray, spokesperson for the air quality management division for the Wayne County Department of Environment.

Murray said the department frequently responds to requests from businesses to test building air samples for contaminants like carbon monoxide, carbon dioxide, dust or other allergens.

Energy-efficient trends to make air-tight buildings can sometimes lend to a lack of air circulation and ventilation, leaving contaminants to fester.

leaving contaminants to fester.

But it's not necessarily a health hazard.

If testings do reveal that contaminants are in the building, then the county department does make recommendations to the employer as to what actions to take. But unless those contaminant levels exceed the state's exposure limits, then action is not legally required, Murray said.

Most complaint-related tests reveal no cause for alarm or legal enforcement, said Doug Kalinowski, chief of the Division of Occupational Health with the Michigan Department of Consumer and Industry Services. Kalinowski's division handles enforcement for indoor air-related problems.

He said that the state follows set exposure limits for about 600 substances. There is no legal limit of biological exposure from bacteria or mold spores, however.

"We do both enforcement of employee exposure and we offer educational training and consultation to address employee exposure in any work environment," Kalinowski said.

"Whenever we do investigations, we're looking for moisture, standing water and leaks. We do a visual survey and we talk to people working there to see if they have symptoms," he continued. Symptoms include fatigue, headaches, itchy eyes and nauses

The division also looks at the level of air circulation in the building. With employees exhaling carbon dioxide, good air circulation is important to prevent high levels of carbon dioxide in the air, which can cause fatigue.

Air intake locations are also noted to ensure that they're not near a loading dock where trucks are left standing, allowing for fumes to enter the building's duct work.

"Typically when we do an investigation from an enforcement standpoint, we typically do not find excessive exposure. A lot of times we find that there is not a lot of fresh air and we make suggestions," Kalinowski said.

Suggestions include inspecting ventilation systems for be able to demo water leaks because warm, area businesses."

moist conditions in ventilation systems can cause bacterial or fungal growth which can lead to allergy-like problems. In addition, employers are asked to make sure all heating and cooling system filters are periodically inspected and maintained.

Most businesses are receptive to maintaining indoor air quality, said Rich Studley, senior vice president of government relations for the Michigan Chamber of Commerce.

"Employers are increasingly sensitive to this issue," Studley

"Most employers want to do what they can to make employees happy and comfortable and a lot of our members have spent a substantial amount of time and money to maintain good working environments and to improve working environments."

Westland resident Keith Tessmer provides an outlet for employers seeking relief from biological office contaminants.

Tessmer is a local sales representative for a company which manufacturers air cleaning equipment. He said the units aid in the reduction of pollutants like pollen, germs, smoke, mildew, dust and bacteria.

Portable units, which range in size and price, act like a thunderstorm to clean the air using ionization and activated oxygen.

"It helps clean the air," he said. "It does help people with asthma and allergies and it is a preventative tool to not get colds," Tessmer said.

Shapens from the Westland

Shapona from the Westland Chamber is especially pleased with the unit and will keep it as a way of advertising it to other businesses.

"If we can, we will purchase it," Shapona said. "We want to be able to demonstrate it to

The Redford Youth Theatre Choir is one of four local children's choirs appearing in "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat," which officially opened Sunday at the Fox Theatre. The Andrew Lloyd Webber-Tim Rice show hits the boards eight times a week through Saturday, Oct. 12.

Singer Sam Harris fills in as Joseph through Sunday, Sept. 22, while Donny Osmond rests damaged vocal cords. Osmond is expected to rejoin the show late this month.

For 23 youth theater singers, "Joseph" means hard work, sacrifice, a rigorous rehearsal and performance schedule - and great opportunities for stage experience and exposure in the theater world, said Ray Schmidt, Redford Youth Theatre music director.

"It's their whole life right now. It's what they do," Schmidt said, Ranging in age from 8 to 15, RYT choir members make up half of one of the show's two choirs, which are dividing "Joseph" performances. Redford Youth Theatre was one of four choirs picked from among 16 after daylong auditions July 26 at the Fox. A group photograph and a performance tape got them to those auditions.

They experienced a level of competition that, honestly, I never expected from my kids," Schmidt said.

The choir took shape within the Redford Youth Theatre last year to audition for the production's first stop in Detroit. It made the finals but wasn't picked for the show.

As tough as that was, Schmidt said, the choir was ready to try again. "They were persistent, committed and focused. And it paid off," he said.

"Especially not making it last year, the prize is 10 times greater," said Nancy Florkowski, Redford Youth Theatre artistic director. "... This is just so much bigger than any of our productions at Thurston High School,"

A drama teacher at Pierce Middle School in Redford Township, Florkowski founded the Redford Youth Theatre in 1990. It began as a project toward her master's degree in children's theater from Eastern Michigan University.

Florkowski is motivated by a desire to help children

CHOIR HAVING A BLAST -'IT'S COOL, IT'S FUN'

Show business hasn't lost any of its glamor for the energetic Calypso choir.

"It's cool. ... We love it. ... It's fun," choir members sang out during a break in a recent rehearsal for "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat," which opened Sunday at the Fox Theatre.

Perhaps Shannon VanElsey of the Redford Youth Theatre Choir said it best: "I'd rather be doing this than anything else."

The 46-member Calypso is one of two choirs appearing in the musical as it returns to Detroit. Last year, "Joseph" ran for 62 performances at Masonic Temple.

Sam Harris fills in as Joseph through Sunday, Sept. 22, while Donny Osmond rests damaged vocal cords. Osmond is expected to rejoin the show late this month.

Half of Calypso's 46 members are from the Redford Youth Theatre, the other half from the Boychoir of Ann Arbor. But rehearsals, for up to three and a half hours a day, five days a week, brought them together, said youth theater artistic director Nancy Florkowski.

"These kids are like family and they do everything. together," said Florkowski, adding that choir members, who range in age from 8 to 15, are quick to provide encouragement, pointers - and applause - to each other.

Starting with music and songs and moving on to choreography, Calypso and its counterpart (the Go Go choir both nicknames stem from the show) rehearsed in a large

ARTS COMMISSION SHOWS

Art goes from hide to hibiscus to watercolor in a variety of shows hosted by the Livonia Arts Commission this month. The Livonia Art Group, an independent artists organization, presents an exhibition of mixed media paintings through Sept. 30 at Livonia City Hall, 33000 Civic Center Drive east of Gallery, 819 Penniman. For Farmington Road. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

At the Livonia Civic Center Library Fine Arts Gallery visitors will be challenged by social Over the years Walker, who won and political issues portrayed in works by Canton artist Connie Lucas until Sept. 27.

Also at the library in the second floor showcases is jewelry fashioned from leather by Linda M. Helisek of Grosse Ile through Sept. 25. Helisek has developed over 150 varieties of sculpted flowers ranging from earrings to a 2 foot by 4 foot wall hanging during the past eight years.

A self-taught artist, Helisek begins by studying the botanical detail of real flowers. Her background as a dress maker/pattern maker helps her develop the designs. Each piece is an original one-of-a-kind work.

Helisek's work has been displayed in several galleries. In 1994, Zonta International, a philanthropic group of business executives whose goal is to improve the educational, political and economic status of women worldwide, commissioned her work for a fund raiser for their international convention.

Library hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, until 5 p.m. Friday-Saturday, and 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

In the pastel "Emergence" by Linda Mendelson of Southfield, a bright orange-red shape rises from the center, like the head of a match or a sun.

First place went to Valerie Mann of Saline for "Quilt Series: Grandma's Attic." The piece, of wood, rubber, wax and pigment, resembles a quilt or kaleidoscope. Greg Simons of Detroit received second place for "Hide," a work of acrylic, aluminum and wood resembling a closed cupboard. It bears the title in cursive script; the letter loops are closed as if shut or hiding. Third place went to Mary Fortuna of Royal Oak for the leather and horsehair "Prong Horn," which attaches to the wall as if alive.

Village Painters peddle decorative art

CHOMIN

If you're looking for a decorative object to use as an accent for your home, 36 members of The Village Painters will offer hundreds of handpainted accessories ranging in style from traditional folk art and Americana to contemporary and trompe l'oile at their first art show and sale.

The exhibit spotlights tole and decorative painting on everything from wood trays and furniture to tin watering cans, basketry, and framed two dimensional art.

The theme is the four seasons: expect subjects such as spring flowers, fall leaves and Santas painted on anything that stands still. Works will be displayed gallery style. If you need assistance look for the ladies wearing the specially designed collars reading "Painter's Potpourri."

"We first heard about a group of decorative painters having a show like this in Toronto. After five of us traveled to see it last November we decided to try it." said chairwoman Mary Ann Snodgrass of Garden City.

"I don't think visitors will see this type of show in the metro area, to have this kind and Painter's potpourri art show & sale

What: An exhibit of decorative and tole painting by 36 members of the Village Painters.

Highlights: Tea Room serving home-baked desserts, and raffle for a Christmas tree decorated with 50 hand-painted ornaments. For more information call Mary Ann Snodgrass, (313) 422-1237. When: Sept. 13-14.

Hours: 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. Where: Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer. Admission: $1.

roof. It's going to be unique." Snodgrass, who works fulltime in a doctor's office, paints for relaxation. She will exhibit a wooden Christmas necklace with gingerbread and candy canes as well as another with bird houses. A holiday-theme door swag with bears, bells and birdhouses will also be on hand as will trays sporting pears and fall scenes, and a chess board painted with cows that uses tiny milk bottles as playing pieces.

The Village Painters is a chapter of the National Society of Tole and Decorative Painters.

Tole painting is a term originally used to describe decorating painting on tin surfaces. Tole amount of painting under one and stenciling of surfaces were 'at Plymouth Reed & Cane in two of the earliest American folk arts beginning with the Pennsylvania Germans and other pioneers in New England who used it to add color to decorative objects around the home.

In the 18th century, tole was a popular enameled or lacquered metalware. Today, it includes painting on wood, metal, fabric, papier mache or just about anything.

Decorative painting refers to a diverse art form using a variety of techniques and media to color functional and non-functional surfaces. Contemporary decorative painting employs systematic methods requiring no academic training or inherent drawing ability. It incorporates the styles and techniques of the past with new trends and materials, and includes not only the folk art of countries such as Sweden, Norway, Germany, Russia, England, Mexico and Australia, but many aspects of Early American such as stenciling, gold-leaf, country and faux painting.

Maureen VanBuhler of Canton is bringing baskets, bird houses, Christmas tins with Santas, and a black tin watering can bearing the images of carrots and tomatoes to the show. A former speech therapy teacher in the Avondale school district in Rochester, VanBuhler is an instructor of decorative painting

Artist to exhibit in show to benefit abused children

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN SPECIAL WRITER

John Murphy believes in the adage, you have to give it away to keep it. That's why the 47 year old clay artist has agreed to exhibit his work in the Fifth Annual ArtShare Invitational 5:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 26 at the Prudential Town Center in Southfield. Besides Murphy, 19 other artists including Marilyn Schecter of West Bloomfield; John Glick, Farmington Hills, and Jef Bourgeau, Rochester will donate 25 percent from every painting, pottery, and fiber work sold that night to the St. Vincent and Sarah Fisher Centersin Farmington Hills. Tickets are $50 per person.

In addition to the art on exhibit, guests will be treated to jazz by Alexander Zonjic and Friends, fine wine and great food. For more information or to reserve your tickets call (810) 626-7527, ext. 224.

Each of the artists have also donated a work valued at up to $300 for a Chinese Auction. To participate guests will buy raffle tickets for a particular work.

Sallie Giles, community relations coordinator, is grateful to the artists. The non-profit St. Vincent and Sarah Fisher Center is dedicated to providing care for abused, neglected and emotionally disturbed children, specialized foster care for children and youths, an adoption program for special needs children, and a full range of services for young women while they are pregnant and after their baby is born. Forty percent of the children are wards of the court. This year's budget of $1.2 million will help more than 900 children and

"It's important to get the word out since we changed our format from an auction to an exhibition. The artists were getting tapped out always being asked for donations so we decided to give them a venue to show their art while still helping the children," said

Last year's ArtShare raised $45,000. The goal this year is $60,000.

"You have to help other people." To keep my art I have to share it," said John Murphy during an interview in his Old Redford/ Detroit studio.

An award-winning artist, Murphy frequently shows his very controlled, precise, hard edge vessels and sculptural works at Pewabic Pottery and the Michigan Gallery in Detroit; Paint Creek Center for the Arts, Rochester; Start Gallery, Birmingham; Detroit Artists Market, and the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association.

But Murphy has more than exhibiting clay in the fire. Since 1992 he has taught ceramics at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. Starting Sept. 17 Murphy will teach beginning to advanced students the fine art of raku through the college's continuing education services.

Pots will be completed outdoors after removing the 1,850° F objects from a kiln with tongs while still glowing orange. Pieces will then be placed in a garbage can with a combustible, either newspaper or straw, to give it a smoldered look.

"You can watch the color change before your eyes. Then it's spritzed with water to freeze the color," said Murphy, who also teaches at Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn.

Although glazed with copper many of the new pots Murphy will display in the ArtShare Invitational range from turquoise to a color that looks like a shiny new penny, all due to the raku process.

"I hope that every time people look at it they see something different, a continuing sense of excitement, constantly changing ideas," said Murphy who earned a master of fine arts degree from Wayne State University in 1985.

http://www.gemtheater.com/

"I want the piece to feed the viewer with information."

Murphy's work does keep the viewer thinking as it evokes emotion. A tribolyte shaped sculpture is reminiscent of something one might find at an archeological dig site. His pots look rustic and ancient, like an artifact from the Egyptian Pyramids while black and white vessels and sculptural works using design elements of proportion, repetition and geometric shapes and forms appear contemporary in nature. There is an underlying intent in these latter pieces.

"With the black and white stripes and checks, shapes and forms, I'm dealing with a dichotomy of good and evil, black and white, right and wrong. In terms of a social message. I'm real conscious of the racial issues in the world or any kind of prejudice, we're still striving even in the '90s to overcome," Murphy

'Grace' takes musical journey through 1960s

MONAGHAN

You won't find Carol King's name anywhere in the credits of the new movie "Grace of My Heart." Yet her life resonates through the story of a fictional young singer/songwriter in the musical world of the 1960s. "It's not really based on her," director Allison Anders said, "but certainly she was a huge inspirasongwriter in the Brill Building who wrote for other people and then, of course, became a singer/songwriter extraordinare."

Anders calls her heroine (along with the other thinly-disguised representations of the Beach Boys, the Everly Brothers, Lesley Gore, and girl groups like The Ronettes) simply "a compos-

"With a film like this," she noted, "I found that maybe it's best not to interview anybody and just write a fiction piece, and hopefully they'll say 'that's kind of what it was like," or 'that wastion for it because she was a . n't what it was like at all."

Played by Illeana Douglas, Denise Waverly is an ambitious young woman who hooks up with a record producer (John Turturro) whose toupees grow worse as the decade progresses. Placing her own singing career on the back burner, she becomes one in a stable of talented people. who fashioned American pop music for much of the decade.

"What people don't realize is that about five songs in a day that they hear on the radio were probably written in the Brill: Building," said Anders. "It's amazing what was written in that building in such a phenomenally short period of time. Its golden era was only about five years."

That era ending with the '60s, when much of New York's musical talent ("even the folkies," said Anders) moved to the West Coast. Denise does as well, marrying a dementia-filled musician very much like Beach Boy Brian Wilson.

A major influence in bringing "Grace of My Heart" to the screen was Martin Scorsese, who served as executive producer. Hehad been working on his own treatment about the life of songwriters Lieber and Stoller before meeting Anders, whose "Gas Food Lodging" and "Mi Vida Loca" he greatly admired.

"We talked a lot about other movies and watched them together." Anders said. "Musical dramas like 'Young at Heart,' and 'The Man I Love.' He would send me films. I actually looked at 'New York, New York' a lot but he would never bring me one of his own films; he's got this humility about him."

Scorsese is also linked to the project through girlfriend Illeana Douglas, who first got noticed as an unfortunate girlfriend of Robert DeNiro's in Scorsese's "Cape Fear." She was even better as Matt Dillon's suspicious sister in "To Die For."

Though she doesn't actually sing the songs in her first starring role, Douglas feels she delivers the emotions: "I know what it's like to win a contest, I know what it's like to get a part. I know what it's like to audition. I know how to come across."

The songs in "Grace of My Heart," all written for the film, have a certain "haven't-I-heardthis-before" quality, not surprising with names like Burt Bacharach, Carole Bayer Sager, Lesley Gore, Elvis Costello, and Gerry Goffin on the credits.

Eric Stoltz, who plays the Goffin-like first husband in the film, had access to the songwriter as he prepared for the part.As Anders puts it, "when I showed Gerry the script, he said, 'this is my life that you've written here, so basically I'm going to write some songs for you or I'm going to sue you."

Douglas considers Anders and herself a perfect match. "We didn't feel any sense of embarrassment about doing the kind of melodrama that was so romantic, and that's why we just clicked," she said. "A lot of the other women I've met have a sort of tough feminist agenda about what their women would do and what their women would not do. And I didn't feel that was very truthful."

According to Douglas, "There's a point in the film where Denise tells the Lesley Gore character something my acting teacher told me: 'It can be big as long as it's truthful.' I feel the same way about this film."

Michigan-made 'Straight to the Heart' overcomes cliches

BY JOHN MONAGHAN SPECIAL WRITER

There's something hauntingly familiar about the big white house that dominates the first several minutes of "Straight to the Heart." With its wide steps and stark white clapboard in need of paint, it speaks of small towns that still dot the rural landscape. In fact don't be surprised if the unnamed Midwestern town in the movie looks vaguely like the Wolverine State.

"Straight to the Heart," playing exclusively at the Birmingham Theatre, was shot entirely in Petoskey; good enough reason to check it out. There's a story here too, about Jack, a scruffy gambler who returns to his hometown. He's here to dispose of his grandmother's house, left to him in her will, which a stiff young lawyer wants to buy for his wife-to-be. She has other ideas, however, and they soon involve Jack, whose high school crush on her reignites.

The romance here is of the "Bridges of Madison County" variety, where a repressed woman only needs a slow-talking loner to revive her.

Jack, meanwhile, has taken much of the town's male population for a ride, winning money, sports cars, and even the sheriff's shiny belt buckle in a series of backroom Poker games.

which moved the production to Michigan when they found it such a friendly environment to draw. work in.

Director Eric Vaterlaus, who has summered around Petoskey, makes the most of the locales the camera or that cha-cha showiest moments in a climactic card game.

table, into tight closeups of the their best with roles that are, at cards and then into the squinty their heart, pretty cliched.

"Straight to the Heart" is the eyes of players who may or may work of Santa Fe Film Company, not be bluffing while Jack, a math savant, figures out the odds of getting the next desired

The movie ably conceals its shoestring budget, except when the local actors mug too much for with his fluid camera. He has his theme plays for the umpteenth time in the background.

Chicago stage actors Daniel The camera pans around the Meyer and Moira Brennan do Overall this unpretentious little ... movie couldn't arrive at a better time. With most folks home from weekends up north, "Straight from the Heart" has an authentic feel for northern Michigan and the slightly saccharine appeal of romance novels read on the beach.

HAL's debut album "Audiophile" (Nullbody) is a more mature and stripped down effort than its Nine Inch Nails'influence demo "Electrip." Justin Mysza, the band's keyboardist, programmer, and bassist, said the change came as a result of a "shake-up" when two long-time members left.

"It was an easier environment to work in, being the only main keyboard guy in the band now," Mysza said of the departures. This got simpler and it sounded St. Andrew's better. The 'Electrip' stuff was a little cluttered. There were a lot of great ideas but they all were too many great ideas,"

"Audiophile," produced by the Ferndale-based and engineered by Benjamin Ridley Jr. at the Bone Yard in Warren, features melodic vocals and lyrics by Myk Willis, who describes the album as "honest." " 'Electrip' was kind of following in the footsteps of all these industrial bands that were making angry songs. We realized that 90 percent of the time we're not angry people. It's ('Audiophile') honest, it couldn't be purely Still, Mysza said, it's intense.

"It's one step down on the decibel meter but it has a better intensity. It's better thought out. It's kind of reflective, too. Everything is one word. We wanted to keep this a straightforward album."

Schoolcraft hosts Culinary Extravaganza

BY KEELY WYGONIK . STAFF WRITER

Schoolcraft College in Livonia is serious about food. There are only 60 Certified Master Chefs in the country, and five of them - Leopold Schaeli, Kevin Gawronski, Joseph Decker, Daniel Hugelier, and Jeff Gabriel - are on the staff of the culinary arts department.

Helping prepare students for jobs in the culinary arts field is just part of their mission. "We really like to extend fine eating to as many people as possible, said Beth Moceri, who is helping coordinate the fifth annual Schoolcraft College Culinary Extravaganza, 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 22, in the Waterman Center on campus, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia. "It's a relaxed, fun and an opportunity to get familiar with fine cuisine."

The event, which raises money for student scholarships, allows patrons the opportunity to sample dishes from 60 of metro Detroit's most popular restaurants. "It's a chance for people to sample foods from a variety of restaurants, and exposes restaurants to potential patrons," said Moceri.

There's also a silent auction, and raffle drawing, Culinary Extravaganza tickets are tax deductible and modestly priced at $40 per person or two tickets for $75. Raffle tickets are $5 each or three for $10. Both can be purchased by calling Schoolcraft's Marketing and Development office (313) 462-4417. MasterCard and Visa and checks are accepted.

Items on the silent auction include a dinner for eight prepared by Chef Jimmy Schmidt at his restaurant, The Rattlesnake Club in Detroit. Bids for the Jimmy Schmidt dinner may be submitted in writing to Schoolcraft College, Attn: Beth Moceri, Office of Marketing and Development, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia, MI 48152-2696. The opening bid is $500 for each dinner.

This year's menu features more wild game dishes including venison and pheasant, and ethnic specialties from Thai Bistro (Canton); Peacock Tandoori (Dearborn); and Macaroni Grill (Livonia).

Event organizers also invited caterers to participate this year. "A lot of people host tailgating parties," said Moceri. "This is an opportunity for people to meet different caterers, and for caterers to expand their customer base."

Diners can sample foie gras and vegetable terrine from the Ritz-Carlton (Dearborn), roast buffalo from MacKinnon's. (Northville), caviar canapes from Pelee Treasures (Kingsville, Ontario), pepper infused duck from Cafe Bon Homme (Plymouth), assorted desserts from Mary Denning's Cake Shoppe, (Westland), and cheesecakes from Kathy's Cakes (Livonia).

Pasta dishes, pizza, saute of scallops and catfish will also be offered. Grilled polenta, Cajun and seafood bisque, an array of freshly baked breads and scones, and a sampling of sandwiches are part of the menu.

· Event organizers also expanded the geographical area of this year's participants to include restaurants a little further away from home including the Common Grill in Chelsea; Broad Street in Linden, Bella Ciao Trattoria in Ann Arbor, Tom's Oyster Bar in Grosse Pointe, and Pike Street in Pontiac.

There will also be specialty coffee drinks and a variety of wines and waters to enjoy with the food. Beverage distributors, and representatives from local party stores can answer your questions about pairing wine with food.

Guests will take home recipes for a Harvest Menu - Alpine Mushroom Salad, Salmon Fillet Prudehoe, Roasted Eggplant and Garlic Soup with Red Bell Pepper Cream, Grilled Beef Tenderloin with Red Wine & Pistachios, and Peach Cobbler with Cinnamon Ice Cream and Fresh Raspberries, created by the master chefs at Schoolcraft College. The original recipes were created by the chefs just for the Schoolcraft Culinary Extravaganza.

Members of the Jack Brokensha Quartet, who regularly perform at the Botsford Inn on Thursdays, will entertain diners with sounds of mellow jazz.

The first prize winner in the raffle will receive a trip on a corporate jet for eight and accommodations for two nights at Grand Traverse Resort. The second prize is two tickets to any destination Northwest Airlines flies in the continental United States. A blue topaz and diamond ring from Orin Jewelers will grace the finger of the third place winner, and the fourth place winner will receive a Coach leather briefcase.

Nature, water beckon at Harbour Pointe

Water, wetlands and related recreational opportunities await buyers at Harbour Pointe on the Lake, a single-family site condominium community on 19 acres in Waterford.

Sixteen of the 54 lots overlook Otter Lake. Another 22 sites are scattered along the perimeter of wetlands.

Eight floor plans are available ranging in price from $189,900 for a three-bedroom, 2-1/2-bath two-story of 1,912 square feet to $251,900 for a four-bedroom, 2-1/2-bath colonial of 3,149 square feet.

Lot premiums range from $75,000 to $195,000 overlooking the water and from $2,500 to $15,000 backing up to wetlands.

"Obviously, our biggest selling point out here is nature," said Scott Drumm, vice president for Phoenix Land Development. "We're tied into an all-sports lake, and you have a nature preserve in your back yard.

"In terms of floor plans, we offer just about every style for today's lifestyle," he said. "If we get an empty-nester, we have a first-floor master suite available with two or three bedrooms

"For younger families, we have a traditional living room, family room, dining room layout and more contemporary great room, dining room configurations.

"I think the price point is reasonable," Drumm added.

"The water is the biggest thing out here," said Nina E. Amolsch, sales rep at Harbour Pointe. "I think they like the detached condo philosophy, not having all the homes attached.

"There is such a range of floor plans," she continued. "As far as square footage, there's a lot available. The Newport has a circular staircase, the Sanibel a second-floor laundry and bonus area in the garage."

Everyone who buys one of the waterfront lots will get a walkout basement and a boat slip at the marina. Seven other slips will be assigned to other purchasers. One slip will be designated for daily community use.

"We have a common water access point and a park by the water where people can relax," Drumm said. "We'll probably set up a little area with picnic benches and a gazebo."

A public access boat launch is available at nearby Sylvan Lake, which flows into Otter Lake.

A fireplace, attached two-car garage, basement, range and dishwasher plus sod and an irrigation system are included at base price in all plans.

Air conditioning ($2,700) is an upgrade, but most buyers will ask for it, Drumm projected.

Brick and vinyl siding are the primary exterior materials, with some wood and stone accents.

"We want to create a feeling of uniformity, a style of homes where the exterior facades are all in harmony," Drumm said. "I didn't want a hodge-podge.

"We have a lot of dramatic roof lines, gables and peaks," he added, pointing to the two models under construction.

The Hampton, 2,230 square feet, will have a first-floor master with a pan ceiling, a walk-in closet and a wall closet, two separate vanities and separate tub and shower.

Harbour Pointe is serviced by city water and city sewers. It's within the boundaries of the Waterford schools.

The property tax rate is $28.21 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $230,000 condo in Harbour Pointe would pay about $3,250 the first year.

The monthly association fee is projected at $85.

Michael and Tracy Marriott, along with children Raquel and Tony, will build on a waterfront existing home When deciding on a mortgage program, it is a good idea to first think about the length of time you may stay in your home. If you're not planning on staying for any longer than three to five years, consider a variable or balloon mortgage product.

The Marriotts are going with a four-bedroom colonial.

With either, the rate is lower than traditional 30-year fixed-rate mortgages and can save you lots of money in mortgage payments. For instance, if you took out a mortgage loan for $10,000 and received a 30-year fixedrate mortgage of 8.5 percent, your payment would be $768.91 per month. But, if you instead chose a five-year balloon mortgage, your rate could be one-half of a percent lower, or 8 percent, making your payment $733.76 per month. This monthly savings of $35.15 per month multiplied over five years would equal $2,108.73 in savings. You can use these savings for home improvements or other investments.

If you plan on refinancing in the next few years, you have another good reason to select a variable-rate or balloon mortgage product. You would be wise to reduce your mortgage costs over the few years you need the original mortgage product before you refinance.

If rates happen to drop or you need to tap into the home's equity, you would not have needed the original value mortgage for more than three-five years anyway.

The popular thinking nowadays seems to be, "Borrow at the lowest rates available today and free up money for other needs or investments." This thinking is really no different than looking for the highest return possible today on your investment accounts.

For the purchase of a home to be built

When will your new home be completed? This is an important question in deciding which approach to take in securing a mortgage. One of the first decisions the lender will ask you to make is 'When do you want to lock in your interest rate and how long will you need the lock for?'.

Most new construction home buyers do not realize that lenders must follow a different set of rules to lock-in interest rates on new construction than for the normal 45-60 day lock-ins used for existing homes. Typically, extra up-front fees are required to lock in or guarantee the rate for

Gas is available

Ample supplies of natural gas at competitive prices will be available to meet the future energy needs of the United States, according to the American Gas Association.

"Natural gas is the consumers' best energy choice because of the excellent longterm supply outlook and the price advantage it holds over competing energies," says President A.G.A.

Michael Baly. "This, combined with high efficiency natural gas appliances and equipment, makes it possible for consumers to save money on energy bills," Baly said.

The strategy you select will depend on your guess as to whether interest rates will be rising or falling in the future. You always have the option of floating the rate (not locking in a rate) and not paying any such upfront fees. In addition, many lenders now have programs allowing buyers to close on the mortgage and lock in the rate at no additional cost by closing before the home is complete.

For the refinancing of your current home

There are many good reasons to consider refinancing your current home. One obvious reason is to lower the interest rate. While rates have recently remained steady, most people have refinanced to lower rates over the past few years.

Today, the most popular reason for refinancing seems to be that homeowners want to do home improvements and want to utilize the equity in their home to complete them. The question usually is whether it is best to take out an equity loan with a separate monthly payment and a higher rate or to incorporate everything into are on-line at http://oeonline.com/ one mortgage at a lower rate.

allow up to 75 percent of the new appraised value (not S.E.V., which normally is lower) when refinancing and up to 100 percent of the value for an equity loan. The loan amount is normally capped at $25,000 when utilizing the 100 percent equity loan option, but the rate is generally higher than if you were only borrowing 80 percent of the equity value.

If you need to borrow more than 10,000 or $15,000, maybe refinancing is the way for you to go. Call a local lender. Present your scenario to him, and ask his advice. # APPLIANCE DOCTOR

Memory inspires mobile store idea

Some 25 years ago while working as a service manager for the Amana Corp. I used to make calls on an appliance dealer in Chelsea. Mich., called Heydlauff's.

Lloyd Heydlauff was the founder of this company way back and he would take me for drives in the countryside surrounding Chelsea. He would show me all the farms where he had delivered a gas operated Maytag wringer washer directly to the farmer's wife. Back in the '20s the wife would have a certain day designated as laundry time around the old farm and that was the day when Lloyd sold the most washers.

He would pull up with his new model A Ford pickup truck and leave the washer on the back as he demonstrated to the consumer how well it washed clothes. Not only would the Mrs. be saving time, she would also save the abuse her hands and arms had been suffering the old-fashioned way. He told me he closed the sale then and there about 95 percent of the time and in many cases made a friend for life out of that farmer's family.

Old Lloyd didn't do too bad folks. His son George carried on the business after his passing and has three sons working with him who have children as well. That place could be around 200 years from now the way they're going.

Appliance stores haven't changed much since those early days, except that they don't demonstrate products at the home site anymore. Lloyd gave me a picture of an old man with a Maytag wringer washer loaded in the back of a pickup truck and it was mounted on the wall of my store for several years. For years now, I have had this daily dream of what I would do in the appliance industry to change it from its current concept. It would be of great benefit to the consumer and the retailer, so let me describe it and see if you agree.

I would purchase several big trucks similar to a large rental vehicle and I would carpet and make the interior look cleaner and nicer than most appliance stores look today. I would put lighting and accessibility as number one priority and have advertising on the sides which would show everyone that it was the new method of the

When a homeowner called my store and asked for information on a washer and dryer, I would send the truck to the home. Driving the truck would be two technicians dressed in white uniforms wearing bow ties, able to describe the inner workings of the product and also able to remove that clean shiny new product into the customer's laundry room. Because the consumer had selected to purchase the appliance under this new method, I would give the homeowner an additional one year warranty above what already comes with the product. The system would be as simple as I've just described. In this world today we never seem to have enough time to do anything.

Imagine:

"Hi Fred, this is Betty, the washer broke, when will you have time to go shopping for a new one?"

· "Look it, Betty, my calendar is full for the next week and you know how I hate to go to those appliance stores. Call ABC, they bring the product to the house and you make your selection at home. Honey, they even have appointments up to 9 at night so we'll both be able to be home."

Although this system does not exist today, I wonder it Highlands or Fretter would still be around if they had thought of it. Change comes hard sometimes, but it is time for the current big names in the industry to do something unique. Customer service should always be top priority, it is the key to success and longevity of any business.

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances.

If you are curious about the interiors of some of the older homes in Rochester and Rochester Hills, or if you are wondering how to build a new home in a historic district, the Rochester Hills Museum has a Homes Tour for you.

Nine outstanding buildings will be open for you to visit 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 14. The houses range from an 1850s farmhouse, to an 1870s log cabin, to a home of a famous Rochester resident.

Tickets are $8 until Friday, Sept. 13, and $10 at the museum, 1000 Rochester Hills Drive, on the day of the event. Admission is free for children age 10 and under. Tickets are available at the Rochester Hills Museum 1-4 p.m. Thursday-Friday. For more information, call the museum at (810) 656-4663.

The houses are in downtown Rochester, in the Stoney Creek and Winkler Mill historic districts, and on west Tienken Road. Only one of them has been open to the public in the past and several are tucked away on beautiful lots.

The museum is currently hosting an exhibit on architectural styles found in rural Michigan in the past century.

Inspiring

NO STONE UNTERMED: Grohman's Studio in Farmington Hills has created custom garden stones bearing inspirational thoughts and phrases, or commemorating an event. All of the words are done by hand in calligraphy and are etched into real stone. Any verse, thought, inspiration or special inscription can be etched in stone. A message can be engraved into several stones so that you follow a path to read the entire verse. The stones lend themselves to interior design as well. The stones can be left natural, or enamel can be applied to the engraved area. Prices range from $12.75 to $37.50. Call (810) 855-3456.

Fired up

WARMING TO THE IDEA: American Fireplace Distributors, 10662 Northend, Oak Park, introduces the first catalytic gas fireplace. PureHeat is the first product incorporating this new innovation, developed by Superior Fireplace Co. It combines a truly clean combustion gas fire with realistic "wood fire" esthetics. The high-efficiency, fail-safe system doesn't require a chimney and doesn't produce carbon monoxide. While operating, it actually cleans harmful substances already present in room air. The fireplace design incorporates clean, modern lines and an expansive sealed glass viewing area. Available in three models: insert for masonry or factory-built fireplaces, or freestanding and built-in. "We're excited to be able to offer this revolutionary new product," said Steve Brown of American Fireplace Distributors. Call (810) 547-6777.

LET'S REMODEL

Dehumidifier will end 'musty basement'

Q: I am writing to see if you can help me with a dilemm. We recently purchased a beautiful home and it has everything we want in it and more. My concern is a two-fold one. 1. The ranch home has a large full basement and it has a musty smell. The basement is dry, but you can definitely smell the difference when you go down there. My wife says the basement needs air to flow through but there are no window openings. How does one get a fresh smelling (continuous) basement? 2. During the hot season the basement is naturally cooler than the upstairs. Is there a way to move cooler air from the basement to the upstairs - which would aid in not using the air conditioner? During the winter time, the reverse happens. I can't seem to direct enough heat through the vents to the base-

A. Most' basements will have a "musty smell" during the warmer months of the year. The best way to alleviate that situation is to purchase a dehumidifier and keep it running continuously during the warmer months. Dehumidifiers remove moisture and dispel the water into a holding tank. If you have a sump pump in your basement I would suggest that you set the dehumidifier so it drains directly into your sump pump. Most dehumidifiers holding tanks have a fitting hose to be attatched to allow for continuous drainage. Be sure to know your basement square footage and purchase a unit that can handle the job. Regarding the second part of your question, you can simply keep your furnace fan running continuously if you have a forced air heating system. Be sure all registers are open in the basement. There are thermostats available that allow you to turn just your furnace fan on without using your furnace for heat or the air conditioning to cool. An alternate plan would be to install some duct work with a built in fan put in the floor. A licensed heating contractor could handle that job for you. Keep in mind that you may have to repair plaster and drywall and paint if you install this type of system.

Q. We are considering remodeling our kitchen and have fallen in love with hand-carved moldings and trim. We have looked at several different cabinet catalogs and showrooms and can't seem to find what we are looking for. Any suggestions?

A. Custom hand-carved moldings are available from several different companies in a variety of shapes, designs, wood species and sizes. While most cabinet companies have a pretty wide selection of trim and moldings available, the hand-carved moldings are a specialty item that generally need to be coordinated and ordered carefully from a separate company. Keep in mind that many of these moldings have a pattern, and a pattern repeat that needs to be considered when you are going around corners so that you have enough of the material. The molding also needs to be finished to match the cabinets, either by the cabinet manufacturer of by a painter on the job site. Given the different sizes and styles available, the moldings can be used anywhere in the kitchen, at the floor, on the base or wall cabinets or at and on the ceiling. While moldings are expensive, the effect can be outstanding.

GARDEN SPOT

Beauty extends garden season

MARTY

There are several perennials that extend the garden season through the midsummer months in flower beds and add a bright note after the annuals and earlier blooming plants have faded and

One of my favorites is the blackberry-lily, Belamcanda chinesis, with its orange flowers dotted with red spots, which is why it is sometimes called leopardflower. Now in September the black fruits will appear and resemble a large blackberry that adds dimension to a dried flower arrangement.

Goldenrod, Solidago, is now blooming in my garden, and I am delighted. No, it isn't the plant that causes sneezing; we can blame ragweed on that! The tall graceful yellow plumes are a welcome sight at the back of our property. There are a number of varieties of this plant and their flower structures are different: all are showy.

The white button-like flowers of Feverfew, Chrysanthemum parthenium. with their bright yellow centers are still going strong. This plant self-sows readily and transplants easily. The dried blooms are often used in herb wreaths and dried arrangements.

Although the Russian sage, Pervoskia atriplicifolia, that I planted last year didn't return, the airy quality of this tall plant with silvery foliage and thousands of small lavender flowers is a pretty addition to the garden throughout the seasons. This plant is quick to spread, but can be controlled and is a member of the mint family, having square stems.

There is a large family of sedums in the Crassulaceae family and Autumn Joy is just now beginning to "pink up" in the garden. Soon the flowers will turn from pink to salmon to red. Its botanical name is Sedum spectabile, and it is a mainstay in many gardens. I like the emerging foliage of this plant and the way it colors now. The flowers can be left on the plants throughout the winter to add interest when they have turned brown.

As I look out of my garden (while writing this last week) I also see that the white phlox, golden daylilies, Hemerocallis, and the dianthus are still blooming as are some of the roses.

Soon the autumn crocus. Colchicum. will appear with its purple flowers standing tall sans its foliage, which was quite lush this spring.

While most people automatically think of chrysanthemums as the "flower for fall," as you can see there are many others waiting to share their beauty at this time of year.

Others that you might consider are Monkshood, Aconitum, that has vivid blue flowers on tall stems. It is a highly poisonous herb but does have beautiful flowers. Obedient plant, Physostegia, has snapdragon-like blossoms that when turned a different way will stay put. The blooms are pink or white and are tightly clustered.

Asters, Asteraceae family, are just right for fall color and there are varieties with blue, pink, white, lavender and purple petals. They grow in a variety of situations and a good average garden soil suits them fine. Choose from New England aster, A. novaeangliae, with deep purple flowers; several varieties of this one have pink to rose-pink to salmon-pink blooms. The New York aster, A. novi-belgii, has bright blue-violet flowers; other New York asters bloom with blue tones while others are pink and rosy-mauve.

Astonishing asters: These asters in San Antonio, Texas, were an eve-catching surprise as we strolled in a pretty neighborhood.

Fall is a good time to plant trees, shrubs, perennials and of course spring flowering bulbs.

Enhance your garden's beauty with an assortment of unusual plants hardy to this region at the Friends of Matthaei Botanical Gardens seventh annual Fall Gardener's Sale 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 14, and noon to 4 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 15, at the University of Michigan Matthaei Botanical Gardens, 1800 N. Dixboro Road, Ann Arbor.

Take US-23 north to Geddes Road. Head east on Geddes to Dixboro Road. Turn left onto Dixboro Road and go 2-1/2 miles north. Call (313) 998-7061 for more information.

A special members presale will take place 3-7 p.m. Friday, Sept. 13. People wishing to beat the crowds and receive first selection of plants may join the Friends of the Botanical Gardens Friday evening and receive 10 percent off their purchase.

Throughout the sale, the Friends will be giving away one free Stella de Oro daylily to anyone who becomes a member of the Friends or renews his or her membership to the Friends. This golden yellow miniature daylily is popular because of its long blooming season.

This year's sale will offer gardeners a chance to buy special plants for their home landscape. Among the assortment of plants available will be unusual trees and shrubs, spring bulbs and wildflowers, bareroot hostas and daylilies, bearded iris, species lilies, ornamental grasses, fall crocus, magic lilies (Lycoris) and 500 hardy fall mums of various colors.

Patrons attending the sale can pick up helpful tips and ideas from the Washtenaw County Master Gardener Program. A special county extension table will be set up to answer questions and a home composting demonstration will be set up.

Humane Society sponsors Mutt March at Hines Park

The Michigan Humane Society will host its Fall Mutt March, Saturday, Sept. 21.

The march is a five mile, leisurely walk through Edward Hines Park starting at the Nankin Mills Station at Edward Hines Drive and Ann Arbor Trail in Westland.

Walkers can begin anytime between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Participating walkers collect pledges for each mile walked, with all proceeds to benefit the more than 53,000 homeless animals cared for by the Michigan Humane Society each year.

Walkers collecting $100 or more in pledges receive an official collectible MHS Mutt March T-shirt. Additional prizes will be awarded for those bringing in pledges of $200, $300, $400 or more. A grand prize will be awarded to the marcher who collects the highest amount.

You can walk with or without a canine companion. Cat owners who wish to show their support for felines by participating will receive an MHS "I'm a Cat Purrson" sticker. All participating dogs will be given a special Mutt March "I'm Steppin' Out for the Michigan Humane Society" bandanna.

If your dog is walking with you, please bring proof of rabies, distemper and parvo virus vaccination. Dogs will be required to remain on a leash.

Registration forms are available at any Michigan Humane Society location, Detroit Shelter, 7401 Chrysler Drive, (313)872-3400; Rochester Hills Shelter, 3600 Auburn Drive, (810)852-7420; or Westland Shelter, 37255 Marquette, (313)721-7300.

For more information, please call (313)872-3400.

The Michigan Humane Society is a private, non-profit organization dedicated to serving animals since 1877. MHS operates three full-service shelters and charitable animals hospitals in the metro Detroit area.

The name aster means star and it is the common name of the true hardy aster, also called Michaelmas-daisy or starworts. The tender China aster, Callistephus chinensis, isn't hardy here.

The hardy asters are most desirable perennials because of their beauty and the fact that they are easy to grow. The daisy-like flowers have yellow or orange centers and the flower heights range from six inches to six feet. Tall varieties are great in a border garden as background flowers and can be used to divide the lawn from a more naturalized area. Some can tolerate a wetter situation and perform well at the edge of water as long as their roots are above the water.

Dwarf types are perfect for rock garden situations and some add their color during this time of year when other plants have quit blooming.

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

'Sunny 16' rule is good to follow

ruined a roll of slow speed film because you forgot to set back the ASA from that fast roll you shot indoors the previous night? Or have you found yourself not knowing how to expose your picture because you didn't change your battery and it just died?

Well, a little knowledge about a handy photographic rule will prove to be of great value in situations such as these. The rule is called "sunny 16" and here's how it works.

On a sunny day, set your aperture at f-16 and your shutter speed at the number closest to the ASA of the film you are using and a perfect exposure is yours.

For example, if shooting Kodachrome 64 on a sunny day, an exposure of f-16 at 1/60-second will result in a properly exposed shot. Keep in mind that any other combination of aperture and shutter speed will work for the same film. For instance, f-11 at 1/125-second or f-8 at 1/250-second will produce the identical exposure as the original f-16 at 1/60. Just use the combination you want to get the desired depth-of-field and "stopping power" in your picture.

Using a faster film? The same "sunny 16" rule applies. ASA 400 film requires f-16 at 1/500-second, ASA 1000 film is f-16 at 1/1000-second, etc.

You may ask, "What if it's not sunny?" Well, here's where you use your best judgment. If it's bright overcast outside, open up one f-stop. So, if you're using Kodachrome 64, set your camera at f-11 at 1/60-second or any compatible combination. If it's normal overcast, open up two f-stops. Heavy overcast or open shade, three f-stops.

See how simple this all is? And you don't have to use the "sunny 16" rule only when your meter isn't working. Use it as a means of checking up on your meter so that you'll know you've set the proper ASA and that your meter is performing satisfactorily.

Understanding the rule of "sunny 16" will assure you of well-exposed photographs that will surely give you a sunny disposition!

Monte Nagler is a fine art photographer based in Farmington Hills. You can leave him a message by dialing (313) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, then his mailbox number, 1873. His fax number is (810) 644-1314.

By rule: No meter necessary here. Monte Nagler applied the rule of "sunny 16" to obtain a perfect exposure of the charming fishing town of Whitby, England.

A tone for tomes: The library in the Mitchell house, one of the residences on the ninth annual Downtown Birmingham House Tour, features a deep, rich tone and furnishings with flourishes.

If the word downtown makes you think of an area with only businesses and offices, the annual Downtown Birmingham House Tour will expand your horizons.

The tour, in its ninth year, will feature nine unusual homes. It is presented by The Community House in Birmingham 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 17.

All of the residences are within easy walking distance of each other and The Community House, 380 S. Bates. The tour also offers an elegant tea 2-4:30 p.m. at The Community House.

Tickets are $20 pre-ordered, or $22 bought the day of the event. Tickets are limited; last year's tour sold out before the day of the event. For information, call Special Events at The Community House, (810) 644-5832.

"One of the most endearing qualities of downtown Birmingham is its vast array of architectural styles," said tour chair Patty Ghesquiere. "This year's House Tour offers just that — everything from Victorian to contemporary."

Visiting the house of John and Sharon Mitchell's house, featured on the tour, is like entering another world.

The nearby business district could be miles rather than blocks away. At the house is a breathtaking garden, a colorful botanical treasure trove of flowers and plants.

This enchanting environment includes a brick path that gently winds its way through the plants. Rabbits and other statuary creatures are like little guides greeting visitors. Water trickles in fountains like soothing music. A seat is ensconced in an alcove sheltered by a wall of brush.

One of the places to sit outdoors and take in the lovely grounds is just outside a door. The paved area includes a lounge, a small round table and chairs and sculpted figures on the wall.

Windows throughout the house allow clear sight of the beautiful garden.

"Every room just has a pretty view," Sharon said.
The interiors of the 96-year-old house are pleasant themselves.

In the dining room, creamy walls are trimmed with a blackimat finish around doorways, wainscotings and moldings.

"It's like a frame to ... bring the outdoors in, which I

Sleek contemporary – a flat glass light that hangs suspended from the ceiling almost like a floating plate; a glass-topped table – blends comfortably with accessories that suggest nature – tall, slender twig cones; twig place mats; giant metal, terra cotta colored apples at the place settings. A soft tone area rug rests on the wood floor. A large floral arrangement bursts against one wall. An old camera rests on a tripod in a corner.

The library has a rich, deep tone, with ceiling beams, recessed wooden shelves and a brick floor. Furnishings have flourishes, such as a chair with a graceful, lyrelike shape and a fur-covered lounge. A bay window extends into the outdoors.

In the large, open kitchen, windows can be seen under cabinets. An island gives room to work and to visit. In a small dining area, surrounded by glass, the table has an oval, glass top resting on what looks like a giant tassel. The chairs around the table are gentle blue-green with off-white trim that resembles a braid.

Accessories around the house include a grouping of birdhouses on the floor in an entryway and a screen with an animal motif.

John Mitchell, a designer, is of John Mitchell Interiors. He was recently featured in House and Garden magazine.

Proceeds of the tour go to The Community House.

HOME ELECTRONICS

How to be virtuous and save money, too

JENSEN

You can save money and do the environment a favor, all without changing the way you live. Just buy fluorescent lights.

That sounds a bit dumb. After all, 48-inch-long fluorescent lights don't fit the average home decor. But you can be virtuous by replacing an incandescent light bulb with a "compact" fluorescent bulb.

A fluorescent light with a screw-in base is a little bigger than most incandescent lights; the shorter style runs about 5 1/2 inches from the top of the screw-in base to the tip of the bulb. This rules out some applications, but it will fit in many table lamps and free-standing lamps. This also rules out many – but not all – recessed light fixtures.

When you buy a screw-in fluorescent light at your local store, most likely you will be buying the screw-in ballast and a fluorescent light tube that plugs into the screw-in base.

The plug-in fluorescent light tube is good for 10,000 hours, ten times the life of most incandescent light bulbs. The screw-in ballast is good for 50,000 hours – or five plug-in light tubes.

* The tube/ballast combination costs a lot more to buy than the average incandescent light bulb, but it costs a whole lot less to operate.

Over the 10,000-hour life of a fluorescent tube, you would save more than $60 by replacing a 100-watt incandescent bulb with a 22-watt compact fluorescent lamp – they put out the same amount of light. (That's what the manufacturer claims, and that's the result I got using numbers from Detroit Edison.)

Compact fluorescents require NO change in your lamp. Just unscrew the incandescent bulb and screw in a compact fluorescent lamp. Either it fits or it doesn't.

One compact fluorescent manufacturer touts them for some recessed lighting, table and floor lamps, ceiling light and even outdoor fixtures. However, the following warning is stamped on at least one brand of ballast: Caution: do not use with dimmers risk of electric shock — use in dry locations only, not for use in totally enclosed recessed fixtures.

Compact fluorescents are good down to minus 10 degrees Fahrenheit, so they will stand up to outside temperatures, but they must be protected from rain and snow. This rules out an exposed outdoor fixture, but the bulb should be able to stand up to all but the worst Michigan winter if it is protected from moisture.

One manufacturer says it will come out next year with a compact fluorescent designed for use in a dimmer.

The amount of money you "save" will be determined by how much you use a particular light. If you use a 100-watt light just a half hour a day, it would use about $2 worth of electricity in a year's time and the bulb would last about nearly 10 years. It would not make economic sense to spend $20 to break even in a decade.

Of course, to quote the Ghristopher's "It is better to light one little candle than to curse the darkness" And it's better to save a little bit of electricity than to curse the ozone layer.

Or you can take your revenge. At one time, Detroit Edison exchanged new light bulbs for burned-out light bulbs. But a druggist said the practice was hurting his business, so Edison stopped the practice. But if you buy compact fluorescents, you'll be buying very few bulbs.

Buyers beware: Older homes need physical check-ups

Few modern homes can beat the charm and character of America's homes built before the twentieth century. Natural wood beams and trim, built-in cabinets and cozy bedroom alcoves are only a few of the features that make older homes special and attractive to many home buyers.

Yet along with their appealing style and atmosphere many of these houses also possess an array of ailments and conditions specifically because of their age. The American Society of Home Inspectors (ASHI), the international organization of home inspection professionals, cautions buyers to be aware of these problems when they shop.

While a lot may be learned about a home by its outward appearance, its interior condition and future lifespan can only be evaluated by an expert on home construction: the professional home inspector.

Ron Passaro, founder and past president of ASHI, says that ASHI inspectors know what to look for in older homes, and how to "listen" to what they may have to say. For example:

Plumbing

The plumbing of an older house must be looked at very carefully, since it could be on its second or third generation of piping. If incompatible metals have been mixed in the piping, there may be extensive corrosion.

Settlement

In addition to possible damage to the foundation, settlement of the structure can also cause problems in the plumbing system. Pipes that were once pitched properly to carry waste water away may now be pitched the wrong way if settlement is severe.

Sagging

A common problem in older homes, sagging is often compounded by alterations to the house. Support structures are often cut with no thought to their ability to carry the weight of the building.

Wiring System

When many of the older houses were wired, the only electrical requirements were a couple of lights and an occasional outlet – clearly inadequate for today's needs. If the electrical system has not been modernized, or if modernization has been done by amateurs, a sizable expenditure may be anticipated.

Energy Conservation

When these old homes were built, this was not even a consideration. Special attention must be paid to the conservation measures that may or may not have been installed.

Proper Ventilation

On the other hand, an unknowing homeowner, in an attempt to seal and insulate his house, may have created more problems than he solved. A house can be made energy efficient, but it must also breathe.

Heating System

The transition from old systems (wood or coal burning stoves) to modern oil or gas fired central heating was often made by alterations to the existing equipment. Sometimes these modifications were done properly; more often they were not, and supplemental heat is frequently needed. In addition, heat distribution pipes or ducts may have deteriorated with age and need replacement.

ASHI advises home buyers to look closely at these aspects themselves before they fall in love with that quaint home of their dreams, and to have a professional home inspection before they commit to a purchase.

Not everyone, though, is qualified to be a home inspector. ASHI warns against hiring an inspection "moonlighter" who may not be sufficiently knowledgeable in all areas of home construction, and who might use home inspections as a means of obtaining repair contracts.

ASHI Members are professionals who must meet demanding technical and experience requirements. Their Society's Standards of Practice and strict Code of Ethics provide the nationally recognized benchmark of performance for the home inspection profession. Buyers may write to ASHI at 85 West Algonquin Road, Suite 360, Arlington Heights, IL 60005-4423 or call 800 743 2744 for the names of the ASHI inspectors nearest them.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Two methods help terminate termites

Although they're small, termites can pose a big problem to homeowners. There are some practical ways, however, to reduce their infiltration into your residence. You'll be glad to know that none of these termination measures involves Arnold Schwarzenegger and his battery of firearms.

Subterranean termites live in the soil. Their role in nature is to consume dead trees and debris, to help turn that organic matter back into the soil. Unfortunately, though, these termites can't tell the difference between your house's framing lumber and the dead tree in your back yard. Some frustrated homeowners may even say that the termites like the taste of a residence better than the tree. But that point is arguable. Nevertheless, termites are hard to keep out of the house if there is an environment that will support them, such as high relative humidity.

Termite shields don't keep them out. They can crawl through seam laps. They only need 1/32-inch to get through.

Termites can even get through minute cracks in a block wall and climb up the hollow blocks to the wood areas. Because builders throw debris in the back fill, there is often a lot of good eating. Houses where the siding touches the grade (it should be eight inches above the grade), slab houses and below-grade window frames in window wells are vulnerable. Termites are found at or near ground level and seldom are they found above the first floor.

Termites must return to the soil regularly due to the moisture in the soil that they need. The oxygen in our air will cause the termites to weaken and die. There is less oxygen in the soil, and they are better suited to the soil environment. This situation tends to restrict their movement too far from the soil.

The way to keep termites under control is to prevent them from getting to the structure or from reaching moisture. There are two basic types of control:

- Mechanical method: This method seeks to physically alter the building to prevent earth-to-wood contact. You should also control moisture around the home by changing the grade, drying up a wet crawl space, extending downspouts, etc. These moisture-reducing procedures will also reduce the probability of termite entry.
- Chemical method: This method seeks to create a chemical barrier around the structure that the termites cannot penetrate. There are two types of chemical control: pre-construction and post-construction.

Pre-construction is the best and most effective because there is more access to the soil and a more complete chemical barrier can be set up. In addition, the soil under the slab can be pretreated as well. For those buying new construction, be sure to ask the builder to treat the soil.

Post-construction is more difficult because you must work around the existing structure. It isn't possible at all times to chemically treat some areas of the pre-existing building. The end result is often limited success. This means you need to rely heavily on changing the environment (i.e., reducing moisture, etc.).

Some chemicals that are used in soil poisoning are Heptachlor, Aldrin and Dursban T.C. There are also numerous synthetic chemicals on the market. Chlordane was the chemical of choice for decades until it was banned in 1985, due to installation problems and an occasional poisoning from off-gassing. It was the most effective chemical used for this purpose because it would crystallize in the soil and remain stable for decades.

CONSOMME' RUBIS 'A LA MOLDAVIA

Yield: 4 servings

- 1 quart chicken consomme
- 1 1/2 teaspoons cream of wheat
- 1 small egg, beaten slightly
- 1/2 teaspoon chopped chives

As soon as the consommé reaches the boiling point, pour in the cream of wheat and let simmer for a few minutes. Then stir the egg into the consommé, using a wire whisk.

Add the chives, and serve.

The following recipe was served in the Nixon White House at a formal dinner in honor of artist Andrew Wyeth on February 19, 1970.

SUPREME FILETS OF SOLE VERONIQUE

Yield: 8 servings

- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1/2 small onion, finely chopped
- 8 filets of sole
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 3/4 cup white wine
- 1/2 cup water
- 3/4 cup Basic White Sauce (see
- 1 cup canned small grapes, drained
- 2 tablespoons whipped cream

Melt butter in pan; add onion. Season the filets with salt and pepper, roll and skewer them with wooden picks, and arrange in pan. Sprinkle them with wine and water, and cover. Bring to a boil. Remove filets, place on dish, remove skewers, and cover with waxed paper. Continue cooking liquid until reduced to 3/4 cup. Add Basic White Sauce and grapes. Fold in whipped cream, and pour sauce over the fish.

Brown under a hot broiler, and serve.

BASIC WHITE SAUCE

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 1/2 cups milk

Salt and pepper to taste

Melt butter in small saucepan. Take from stove, cool a moment, and add flour a bit at a time until smoothly blended. Start adding milk, a tablespoon at a time, until you have a perfectly smooth mixture of about 10 tablespoons milk. Put back on stove, and heat gradually, stirring constantly. Continue to stir as you gradually pour in the remainder of milk. Stir and. cook until it barely starts to boil. Take off at the first sign of a bubble.

(This recipe will make more than you need - basic white sauce can be used for other dishes)

Or how about making Mrs. Herbert Hoover's favorite Lace Wafers that were served daily at the White House at the four o'clock teas - with or without guests (1929-1933).

MRS. HOOVER'S LACE WAFERS

Yield: 50-60 wafers

- 1/2 cup molasses
- 1/2 cup butter
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 scant cup flour
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger

Heat molasses to the boiling point and add butter, stirring constantly until butter melts. Add sifted dry ingredients, and continue stirring until all are well blend-

Remove from heat, and drop from a wooden spoon in small amounts about 2 inches apart onto the back of a greased inverted sheet cake pan or cookie tray. Bake in a slow oven about 10 minutes.

Cool on pan a couple of minutes before removing with pancake turner. While slightly warm, roll around the handle of a wooden spoon to form a cone shape.

Fall courses appeal to gardeners, hikers

Fall is a good time to shape and prune trees or shrubs, dig into the garden one last time or take a refreshing hike. Regardless of your level of interest, the University of Michigan Matthaei Botanical Gardens' adult education courses will help get you started.

For information, call (313) 998-7061. Offerings, dates and costs include:

• Pruning Workshop, 7-9 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 18, and 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, Sept. 21, $30.

This workshop is designed to give an understanding of the proper techniques for pruning deciduous shrubs and small ornamental and native trees. The emphasis is on naturalistic shaping and thinning, as well as size reduction and rejuvenation where necessary.

Demonstrations will include actual pruning and the selection of the use of various pruning tools and techniques. Come dressed to be outdoors; bring any tools you already own. Instructor is Irene McDonnell Cahill.

• Rare Trees and Shrubs, 7-8:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 26, and 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 28, $65.

This is a rare treat to join one of the most beloved teachers at the UM, Warren Wagner. Become familiar with rare species of trees and shrubs and see them growing in the field. Lectures will cover many aspects of these woody plants. During the field trips the group will carpool to sites where special examples will be seen, including some hybrid trees. Wagner will also show examples of undesirable pest invader trees and shrubs along the way. This course is a must for all amateur and professional botanists.

• Digging Into Perennials, 6:30-9 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 24, 6:30-9 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 26, and 9-11 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 28, $50.

Many people know what kind of work it takes to keep a perennial bed looking. its best. This class goes beyond, to help. you get it done according to a professional gardener's enjoyable, least-work schedule.

Instructor Janet Macunivich is the author of a book that shows a special, step-by-step account of what is done to maintain a perennial bed. General maintenance procedures are covered (the how, when and why necessities), plus specific care for more than 30 species. Lectures are illustrated with pictures and examples from an actual season of work; the Saturday session will be a chance to participate in many of these techniques.

This is a realistic class for real-life gardeners that emphasizes saving time and making wise decisions even when actual developments don't match textbooks and other practical advice.

• Wednesday Morning Fall Hiker, 9 a.m. to noon Wednesdays, Sept. 25 and Oct. 2, 9, 16, 23 and 30, $90. Weekly hikes take the inquisitive plant seeker to the more remote habitats of woods

Edible plants and mushrooms, as well as the interesting plants and intriguing habitats of little-known and out-of-the-way places are emphasized. Limited enrollment. Instructor is Ellen Elliott Weatherbee.

Lecture explains values of your special books

Jim Deak, proprietor of Acorn Books in Sterling Heights, will talk about used and rare books 8 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 21, at the Southfield Civic Center on Evergreen, south of I-696.

Learn about book values. Hear the truth about the many myths relating to collectible books. Among the topics will be: Is a first edition guaranteed to be valuable? Are new book stores better times a year on the third Saturday of than used book stores? What are the month. Socializing is at 7 p.m. worthwhile hanging on to them?

New agent analysis: Selling real estate has many different attractions. Jackie Gordon said she finds great satisfaction in helping firsttime home buyers.

New agents meet the challenges

BY NORMAN PRADY

Selling a house is not like selling a dress. Or maybe it is.

Just ask Dick Miner, who spent 20 years in the women's clothing business and recently became one of the area' newest real estate agents.

A major Miner difference now? The "changing inventory," he said. "day to day," and even hour to hour.

The exact kind of house a customer wants "can be here in the morning and gone at noon."

On the other hand, Miner can look back over those two decades operating Miner's Bagley Inn in Bloomfield Hills and see similarities to the work he's doing now.

"Service," he said. "Be aware of what your customers want and the type of inventory available and keep them informed."

Another difference, he said, is finding it necessary to "make yourself available 24 hours a day." That's not "what I've been used to, where you close the store" at a fixed time. "Thisis not something you can do part-

Miner was drawn to the real estate business after he closed the women's clothing store the first of the year. His original business, Miner's liquor store in Bloomfield Hills, opened in 1955, is still operating, managed by a son.

"I had to do something - not going to be happy in retirement. I also had now in a position to start selling a bunch of our own. I thought I'd better find out what it's all about."

Now 67, Miner of Bloomfield Hills spent 80 hours over 10 weeks attending a local real estate school and then went to work at Snyder, Kinney, Bennett & Keating in Birmingham.

His biggest surprise so far: "The paperwork." There's an "astonishing" amount, much of it having to do with regulation.

Of the paperwork, Jackie Gordon, also new to the real estate business, said, "Lots of people don't understand all the unseen work."

Gordon, 30, of Berkley, said that the 'swing side" - the part of her work that makes the demands worthwhile to her - are the joys of working with first-time buyers.

"I've always been fascinated by other people' homes. I like housing," and the idea of helping others live their dreams.'

With Real Estate One, Royal Oak, since December, Gordon had been working as an accountant in the business office of a major company. "I left because it was high-stress, low-pay. And I thought, "If I'm going to be this stressed out, I'm going to be in control of it to some degree."

A' former Oakland Community College student, and mother of a daughter, 13, Gordon said her measure of the success she is striving for will not cal University in Southfield, Wise a interest in real estate, and we're be "a money thing" but "a personal thing." Her satisfaction, she said, will come from an ever increasing flow of referrals from friends, family and cus-

> "I didn't get into this to make a lot of money," Gordon said. "I don't even think of myself as a salesperson." She prefers to call herself a "facilitator."

> But why did Rhonda Wertz of Lincoln Park go into real estate? "I guess it would be the money," Wertz said.

Wertz. 31 and mother of a son, 5, has been with The Michigan Group Inc., Livonia, for almost 11 months after three years as owner of a tanning salon. She decided to leave that business because it was seasonal.

While she finds that her new career requires "Lots of hours," it also offers "great rewards - as in anything, as long as you work hard enough for it."

For Aaron Wise, with Real Estate One, Royal Oak, since February the appeal of a real estate career was "the idea of being independent, working for myself."

Wise, 28, of Ferndale, has spent three years selling in-home air-filtration systems and was ready for a change. "I like sales. I thought I'd try real estate.

"I've always liked to talk. Houses sell themselves - it's a matter of finding them and helping with proper communication."

A graduate of Lawrence Technologi-spends considerable time prospecting, looking for new customers. He explores, he said, his "sphere of influence," making his services known to "friends, family, the dentist" and others who might refer customers to him.

Another retail veteran, Susan Kumpula, 39 of Livonia, went into the real estate business after two years of selling men's sportswear at Parisian in Livonia, where she still works part-Compared with selling golf clothes, she said, real estate is "not that different. You serve ... people."

With Era Rymal Symes, Novi, since June, Kumpula excitedly reports that she has sold three houses so far and has a new listing. The first sale was a $124,000 Milford lakefront house for which she earned the customary three percent commission, to be shared equally with her brokerage. "It's a start," she said.

After many years as an "at-home mom," Kumpula, a wife, a mother of two, was giving thought to doing "something different."

Just as that time, "a real estate agent called to list our house. I said, No, but what's your job like?"

Her biggest surprise has been "how much fun" the work is, much more Athan she thought might be possible.

"You feel good when you see the happiness you bring to people."

Don't let sex club operator dominate neighbors

MEISNER

Q. I am a member of a condominium board, and we are concerned about the use being put to a condominium unit by one of our neighbors. The neighbor may be operating what one would describe as a sex club, by literally promising "bondage and domination." What can we do about it?

A. You are not alone in regard to this potential problem. In a recent case out of Winter Springs, Fla., neighbors suspected that a "pleasure dome" was being utilized in the condominium. Neighbors hired a private investigator after noticing flocks of cars on the street every Saturday night. Undercover police agents later attended one of the parties and saw people openly engaged in sex acts. The homeowners association held a meeting to discuss the situation. Police officers were considering misdemeanor charges against the homeowner for we will keep you advised, but you may well have not hesitate to utilize them.

Q. Our condominium association borders on a golf course where there are lagoons. Do you have any suggestions in regard to dealing with what the board perceives to be a potential problem?

A. For both the buildings and golf courses, associations should take two basic steps to manage the risk. (1) Provide enough money for any loss that might occur and; (2) take action to reduce the frequency or severity of the loss.

You will need enough insurance to deal with the potential exposure. However, the association can also take several risk management steps to reduce the frequency and severity of injuries. These steps include (1) posting signs on water facilities to alert people of the risk and to warn them - that way they become personally responsible if they enter the water; (2) make rules establishing what water activities are and are not permissible; (3) distribute the rules to all residents and post them on signs; (4) if it is possible and aesthetically acceptable, install fences on all the water areas and barrier them with bushes violating prostitution laws. If we hear anything more, and trees; (5) monitor these areas, particularly at night, and when they are likely to be used for recrerecourse both under the statutes of the state of ational activities; (6) have rescue equipment nearby in the water, drowning, or has fallen through the ice; should not be construed as legal opinion.

(7) if a golf course, take steps to keep balls on the course and non-players off. This could include designing the course so that balls are unlikely to head towards the residents.

Fences, invisible netting and strategically placed trees can reduce the risk of errant golf balls hitting people or structures. Landscaping or fences can also prevent people and animals from wandering onto the course. Posting signs can alert residents and guests of dangerous activities. Similar signs for golfers can warn them to keep off of private grounds and common areas that surround the golf course. These criteria also should apply to golf courses in regard to how they deal with their neighbors. Golf courses can incur potential liability if they are not diligent in attempting to avoid exposure and damage to adjoining property and neighbors.

Couple earns $2,500 by spotting theft

An Auburn Hills couple is $2,500 richer for reporting suspicious activity at a residential construction site that turned out to be attempted theft of lumber earlier this summer.

The Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan offers the reward in an attempt to curb criminal activity on job

According to the BIA, Amy and Tom Warmus saw two men back a pickup truck onto the lot next door where a house was being built. They were quickly loading boards into the back of a truck.

Amy thought it was suspicious because it was 6 p.m. and the regular contractors had left for the evening. So she called police with a description of the men and the vehicle.

Officers caught up with the two about a mile from the site.

"Concerned citizens such as the Warmuses help reduce the amount vandalism and theft new construction sites are subjected to," said Scott Jacobson, BIA vice president.

Decorating to dress up the home for fall activity, fall quietly ushers in an entirely new dress code for both body and house. Colors and styles so well-suited to summer sometimes seem garish for this more sophisticated season, so it's a good time to make seasonal changes to you house's decor.

This is the time of year people want to transform their homes into a warm, comfortable haven, according to Melanie Wood, corporate vice president of design for Mannington Mills and president-elect, 1997-98 for the Color Marketing Group, who says homeowners can take inspiration for decorating from nature and prevailing home-design trends.

"Just as you minimize clothes and lifestyle for the warmer seasons, in the fall and winter, you may want to bring richer colors and additional layers to your home decor," Wood says, pointing out that a Mediterranean-influenced palette of yellows, rich browns, reds and greens is popular for home fashions now and ideal for fall.

Design trends also can act as a compass for design preferences and instincts, according to Wood, who has identified the prevailing

After a season of sun, sand and home design directions as Garden Tranquility, World Traveler, Past Tense and Casual Spirit.

Fall flair for the living room

For the living room, Wood suggests changing draperies or adding a second top or bottom drape layer to add textural/color dimension and design interest. Draping a hand-woven afghan over an armchair or couch is a cozy, colorful touch, as is adding an area rug over wood or ceramic flooring to provide warm comfort underfoot during the cooler months. Toss cushions covered with a patchwork of tapestry and braided trim can offer colorful drama to upholstered pieces.

If your living room decor follows a Garden Tranquility look whether it's a formal garden or closer to a country lane in feeling - there are several "natural" ways to dress it for fall. Change simple summer tiebacks and rods for a more woodsy look with dried twigs or a more formal look with tasseled cords and gold-finished hardware. Substitute summer's fresh flowers on the coffee table for the romantic look of dried roses or hydrangeas or a bowl fully of earthy pine cones Electic Decor: The decor of this family room and den shows how artful layering can warm up a room. Rich tapestry, velvet and needlepoint pillows are mixed with a colorful Native American hand-woven throws and art, while clay pots and assorted cacti and plants help to bring the outdoors in during the fall and winter months. A perfect match for hot- or cold-weather decor is the sophisticated look of warm wood and cool stone artfully combined for Mannington's Cedarbrook design from the Argent collection of vinyl flooring.

petite elegance of a topiary arrangement. Bring the outdoors in by using old garden gates or fencing sections as wall hangings and room screens.

Kitchen and dining area metamorphosis

In the kitchen and dining area, a new tablecloth, centerpiece or tabletop look with different china, ceramics and glassware can create a more dressedup aura. Putting slipcovers or cushions on dining chairs can create new warmer look. If your home has a Casual Spirit look of stylish comfort with a touch of whimsy and fun, try changing plain kitchen cabinetry hardware for pulls resembling faux twigs and flowers or for knobs that encase various colorful herbs and seeds.

Warmer-colored walls or a new flooring can alter a room's ambiance and appearance greatly. Mannington Resilient Floors' wide array of patterns, from faux stone and marble to sophisticated diamonds, leaf and floral motifs, will add a new dimension to any decor, from contemporary to the Past Tense looks of Art Deco or '50s revival. Today's and dried chili petters, or try the resilient flooring also is offered in a range of colors reflecting nature's bounty, from Straw, Honey, Pine or Grand Canyon to Ice Blue, Oak Brown, Graphite and Southern Rose.

A bathroom for every season

Changing accessories is a simple, affordable way to dress the bathroom for fall. Replace shellshaped or pastel-colored soaps with rounds or squares in olive green, sepia or golden yellow. A free-standing sink can be dolled up with a pleated skirt draped dramatically to the floor; add a wall sconce as a unique tissue holder or to display scented candles; refashion with richly hued towels or a fabric shower curtain in place of a plastic one. If World Traveler is your look, use wonderful finds from your travels, like artifacts, an ethnic mask or a leopard-print footstool to warm up the bathroom.

How much you change your home's interior may depend upon how much your surroundings change seasonally. Decorate to best suit your personality and your home's unique environ-

Wood exposed to weather needs to be protected

No matter what type of exterior finish you use on your deck, wood fence or siding, it just doesn't seem to last long enough. Within six months to a year, water usually stops beading on the surface and penetrates into the wood, and the wood becomes susceptible to cracking and splintering, mildew growth, and premature graying. You have to clean and refinish the wood frequently to maintain its appearance. This maintenance is timeconsuming and costly.

To address this problem, Wolman Wood Care Products has introduced new F&P Premium back guarantee for repelling new-technology, oil-based formu-water and resisting decay on vertical surfaces, such as siding and fences, and a two-year guarantee on horizontal surfaces, such as decks and wood roofs. This finish is designed to provide long-lasting protection from moisture damage and mildew and to reduce overall maintenance. No other exterior wood finish on the market warrants such a guaran-

Wood windows add warmth, energy efficiency to new homes

In these fast-paced times, home has taken on an even more important role than ever before haven and retreat from the busy world outside. When many people think of the warming comforts of hearth and home, they imagine an old-fashioned home like great-grandma might have had, with beautiful wood windows, doors and trim.

One way to add the warmth and beauty of wood is to choose wood windows and patio doors when building or remodeling. While newer materials such as vinyl have been adapted for use in windows and doors, nothing matches the look and feel of real wood. Because of the design variety available in wood, you can choose window and door styles to Styles and lite patterns make your home uniquely your

New styles of wood windows and patio doors

While most of the windows in a home are still the traditional double-hung or casement style. architects, designers and homeowners are choosing distinctive styles of windows to give emphasis and design variety to certain rooms of the home. Those chosen for special treatment often include the rooms on the front of the home, so that the curb appeal is enhanced. Or the rooms on the back of the house are designed with feature windows to enhance the view.

Curved shapes at the top of windows have increased in variety, including the now common round-top plus a selection of different types of arched tops. For example, the nation's oldest and most experienced manufacturer of wood windows and patio doors, Caradco, makes a window where the bottom sash slides up and down, while the top sash is fixed with a curved top. This style was popular at the turn of the century. Improved performance through new technology has again popularized this design.

Custom lite patterns (often called mullions or muntins or window.

Combinations

A custom look is often achieved with the combination of standard window units, assembled, or "mulled" together, into a unique design. Fixed transom windows can be mulled over windows that open, to let in more light, and enhance the high ceilings that today are often found in new and old homes alike. For another example, a standard patio door might be topped with transom windows, flanked with fixed sidelight windows, then the whole unit crowned with quarter or half-round shapes to create a

grids) can enhance any type of How patio doors open is even an option!

Recent patio door designs have added new choices in how the units open. Caradco French Manor patio doors can swing in or swing out, depending on where they are used and the traffic and furniture placement patterns desired by the homeowner. Patio doors have other new ways of opening, such as a four-panel unit where the two center panels glide apart in the middle, creating a wide open expanse of air and light. New hardware options such as polished chrome and brass enhance the look of these exciting new styles.

Energy efficiency

After you have chosen your new wood window and patio door designs, give thought to the choices that affect energy efficiency. You can choose standard insulated glass, or add options such as special coatings, argon gas filling or various types of window glass tints to add energy savings. For example, a new type of glass called LoE2 is available from Caradco to save maximum Writing a classified ad that gets results-whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise-is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifleds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate Don't embellish your ad with misleading Information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the Item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people. don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in-kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your mon-

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your Item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.
