Library nepotism policy violated

The Westland library director admits she made a mistake in hiring the wife of the library board president for a job in the children's area. One board member has resigned in protest.

In violation of a nepotism policy, the wife of Westland library board President Jim Chuck has been hired for a part-time library job that pays $12 an hour.

Library Director Sandra Wilson conceded Friday that she erred by hiring Cheryl Chuck for a 30-hour position in the children's room.

A nepotism policy clearly states that family members of library board members are ineligible for hiring.

"I take full responsibility for not following the policy, and I wish I hadn't done it now," Wilson said.

"I made a mistake this time, and I apologize," she said.

Wilson said Cheryl Chuck started her new job Oct. 18, stirring controversy when the library board met two days later. Trustee Jo Johnson resigned.

"I don't feel that the policy was abided by, and if the library board is not going to stand by the policies they made, I don't feel I can stay on," Johnson said.

Johnson's husband, Ernie, also stepped down as treasurer of Friends of the Library - a volunteer group that runs an in-house used book store to raise money for the library.

Jim Chuck denied any involvement in his wife's hiring.

"There was no influence coercion, covertness or any of that," he said Thursday.

A six-year library board member, he said he wasn't aware of two sections of the nepotism policy that prohibited the hiring of board family members.

"That was an oversight I was unaware of that," he said.

'Move forward'

"I don't think there's any question that things could have been handled differently," Jim Chuck said. "I think the issue here is how we move forward."

Cheryl Chuck has kept her job. Jim

Y2K doesn't alarm these officials

Even though 70-year-old Nadene Burress believes the Y2K scare may be exaggerated, she can't help worrying a little.

"The only thing I'm worried about is not having any water or electricity," she said. "But I think the companies have probably got it straightened out because they would be losing a lot of money."

"It might all just be a scare," Burress said, "but you don't really know."

And that's why more than 100 people packed a senior citizen Friendship Center room Thursday evening for a 90-minute Y2K town hall forum arranged by Mayor Robert Thomas' administration.

Residents heard encouraging news from a panel of representatives from Detroit Edison, Consumers Energy, Ameritech, the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department, state and county emergency management divisions, the Dearborn-based Social Security office, health-care organizations, Wayne-Westland Federal Credit Union and local schools.

All officials said Westland and other southeast Michigan communities shouldn't suffer any widespread problems when 2000 begins, but most recommended storing enough

Eight seeking seats on Westland City Council

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER
dclem@ee.homecomm.net

Westland voters on Tuesday will end an eight-way city council race by choosing four candidates to fill four seats.

Political observers say the 1999 race is among the most difficult to predict in years, but most agree that the field of candidates offers good choices.

Voters will decide among incumbents Glenn Anderson and Charles "Trav" Griffin, council appointee David Cox and hopefuls James Godbout, David

James, Michael Kehrer, Michael Rintz and Dorothy Smith.

Mayor Robert Thomas and his supporters are pushing for Griffin, Cox and James.

Anderson, council colleague Richard LeBlanc and their supporters are trying to win support for Anderson, Godbout and Kehrer.

Rintz and Smith have portrayed themselves as the most independent candidates.

City Clerk Patricia Gibbons has predicted that 14 percent of the city's 58,262 registered voters will cast ballots in the election. Each voter can choose up to four candidates.

As of Friday afternoon, Gibbons' office had issued 3,496 absentee ballots. Of those, 2,439 had been returned.

Absentee ballots had a dramatic impact on Sept. 14 primary election results.

In that race, Anderson, Griffin, James and Cox emerged as winners with all votes counted. Absentee ballots aside, however, Anderson retained his first-place finish but was followed in precinct voting by Kehrer, Godbout and Smith.

In recent weeks, supporters of both camps have said privately that the primary results make it difficult to predict what will happen Tuesday.

Turnout could depend partly on weather, and Gibbons said on an unseasonably warm Friday that she hoped the weather trend continued.

The winners will join council holdovers LeBlanc, Sandra Cicirelli and Sharon Scott. Councilwoman Justine Barns is retiring.

water and food for 72 hours just in case.

Bill Pike, Consumers Energy area manager, said residents shouldn't have any interruption in natural gas service, but he said 60 percent to 70 percent of the company's employees will be working New Year's Eve to address any problems that may arise.

Robert Jones, Ameritech director of external relations, assured residents that Y2K problems have been addressed and that residents shouldn't experience any widespread problems with telephones, cable TV, faxes or computers.

Kevin Quiggle of the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department said no problems are foreseen in 12,000 miles of water mains and 3,000 miles of sewer pipes in 126 communities.

"We will have all safeguards in place," he said.

Still, Quiggle warned that some neighborhoods may suffer non-Y2K water main breaks that can occur on any winter night.

Detroit Edison spokesman Michael Yentzer declared the company ready for 2000.

"Detroit Edison is ready for Y2K," he said. "We're real confident it's going to be a quiet night."

Sanford Altschul, Wayne County emergency management representative, said area airports and railroads are expecting no Y2K problems.

"We're not expecting airplanes to drop out of the sky at any time," he said.

Altschul said wastewater treatment plants "will be functional."

He warned residents not to panic if they lose power. Rather than being Y2K-related, it could simply be a car that hit a neighborhood utility pole, he said.

Scott Ellis of Citizens For Better Care advised residents to make sure they have a few days' supply of any prescription drugs and to check with manufacturers to ensure that home health-care equipment is Y2K ready.

Charlene Teeter of Oakwood Hospital/Annapolis in Wayne said the hospital will have generators and a water tanker in case of any problems.

"We'll be there and will be able to take care of you if you need us," she told the audience.

Thelma Dasho, chief executive officer of Wayne-Westland Federal Credit Union, said payroll deductions and direct deposits shouldn't be affected by Y2K, but the credit union has a plan for interest-free, 30-day loans for customers who experience any problems.

Michael Chappell, manager of the Dearborn-based Social Security office, urged recipients to keep late-1999 and early-2000 records for comparison purposes, but he projected no serious disruptions in service or records.

Chappell emphasized that each month, 4 percent of Social Security recipients have problems getting their checks - so any problems shouldn't be immediately blamed on Y2K.

Meanwhile, Mayor Thomas said the city hopes to have a low-band radio frequency in effect before the year ends, enabling the city to make emergency broadcasts if necessary on AM 1700.

Thomas also said city officials will be working New Year's Eve and into the next morning to deal with any problems that arise.

If scattered power outages occur, the city will be able to accommodate a few hundred people at various city buildings, he said, but the plan won't work in the event of a citywide outage. If that occurs, residents would be advised to stay at home.

Residents who want to see the forum on city cable station WLND may tune in after the televised city council meeting on Wednesday. MediaOne customers can see the program on Channel 12; Americast customers, Channel 10.

School finances have them talking at forum

BY RICHARD PEARL
STAFF WRITER
rpearl@oe.homecomm.net

More than 350 parents, public school administrators and school board members heard state legislators discuss issues - especially financing - that affect public education Monday.

The second annual Statewide Summit on Public Education in Canton, billed as "a forum for a nonpartisan, substantive discussion on educational issues," featured 15 state legislators and drew people from across the state.

It covered a wide range of topics but primarily sought answers to what many see as inequity in state financing of schools.

Ken Walcott, acting Plymouth-Canton Community Schools superintendent, keyed the program by showing how Proposal A and its Foundation Grant is keeping PCCS well below such other districts as Farmington, Livonia, Ann Arbor and Bloomfield Hills.

During his 13 years in school, a PCCS student brings the district $80,860 in Proposal A/ Foundation money. A Bloomfield Hills student brings in $144,950; a Farmington student $120,419 and Ann Arbor student $109,590; and a Livonia student $94,913.

When compared to projected Foundation Grant figures per pupil in 12 other area districts for 1999-2000, PCCS at $6,220 a year ranks ahead of only Wayne-Westland ($6,117 per pupil) and South Lyon ($5,952).

Kenneth Pfile, executive director of the 7D Coordinating Council of the Michigan Education Association, was in the audience. "The shift to sales tax (Proposal A) from property tax makes for a volatile situation if we go into a recession, which we have done periodically in Michigan."

"Revenues are going to drop," he said, raising the what-to-do question that has teachers, administrators and parents worried.

Other topics discussed at the meeting included MEAP testing, charter schools, vouchers and education tax credits. The forum was frequently interrupted by applause and cheers from the audience.

Although the initial panel discussion featured three Democratic state legislators - Sen. Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield Hills, and Reps. George Mans, D-Trenton, and Eileen DeHart, D-Westland - plus Dorothy Beardmore, State Board of Education president, the panel was expanded by 11 more governmental officials, including five Republicans, to take written questions from the audience.

The GOP members were veteran Rep. Gerald Law of Plymouth, Patricia Godchaux of Birmingham and GOP state-house newcomers Sen. Thaddeus McCotter of Livonia and Reps. Bruce Patterson of Canton and John Pappageorge of Troy.

The evening's panel moderator, WWJ Radio's Lansing correspondent Tim Skubick, kept things rolling.

Peters was cheered when he said no to abolishing the controversial Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP) testing, calling it a diagnostic tool that has come to be used as a political tool by politicians from different school districts.

However, when Skubick asked the audience to applaud for or against continuing the MEAP he drew a near-equal response.

Take some action

Another panelist, Rep. Rose Bogardus, D-Davison, got applause for saying school buildings "are literally falling down on our children's heads and we darn well better take some action."

Canton's Patterson drew a laugh when he said he voted in favor of a four-day Labor Day weekend because "you (state Sen. Thomas Kelly, D-Wayne) voted against it."

John Stewart of the Michigan Citizens for Fairness in Public School Funding (MCF/ PSF), one of the sponsors of Monday's program, said Patterson has given the group his time despite his not serving on state legislative education committees.

Beardmore, the state school board president, drew applause when she called on the legislature to "take account" of charter schools and tighten controls by making charter schools more accountable for their attendance figures and curriculum.

DeHart of Westland was cheered when she said if charters don't meet basic state standards in curriculum, then "they don't get state money."

Also on the evening's panel were Democratic state Reps. Douglas Bovin of Gladstone, John Hansen of Dexter, RuthAnn Jamnick of Ypsilanti and Lynne Martinez of Lansing.

The bulk of the crowd in the cafeteria came from Plymouth and Canton, but metropolitan Detroit and outstate districts also were represented.

Wayne districts

Represented were the Detroit, Garden City, Dearborn Heights, Northville, Rockwood, Wayne-Westland, Wyandotte, Southgate, Grosse Ile, Ecorse and Trenton districts in Wayne County; Oakland County districts Southfield, Farmington, Berkley, Royal Oak, Birmingham and Holly; Macomb districts Warren, Clinton Township and Chippewa Valley and Washtenaw County districts Ann Arbor, Pinckney, Willow Run, Huron Valley and Brighton.

The event was co-hosted by two other local organizations, the Educational Excellence Foundation and the Plymouth-Canton Education Association.

Greg Baracy, Wayne-Westland superintendent, said Friday "Proposal A has been a real travesty for Wayne-Westland." He favors legislative action to tweak the law and take care of flawed areas.

Shortly before the proposal was approved by voters in 1994, Wayne-Westland lost 10 mills, dropping to 37 mills. There was no provision for districts such as Wayne-Westland and Plymouth-Canton to recapture the loss, Baracy said.

"The funding inequities continue to get greater." Since 1994, Wayne-Westland has lost $8 million a year in revenue, he said.

"Our foundation grant was based on the lost millage rate. We all got caught up in the hype of Proposal A. The impact's been great, very great."

Baracy said the legislation is "not all bad, but it is flawed." He added it's remarkable the district has been able to continue as it has.

are known to have an interesting history, like the old Wayne County Infirmity, Psychiatric and General Hospital Complex, also known as Eloise.

The complex now houses the Wayne County Office on Aging on Michigan and Merriman roads and Keas said it's hopping with ghosts that like to have their pictures taken.

"There's a lot of weird imagery there, like priests with their hands on sick people," Keas said. "I did capture a voice recording verifying it was a priest. There are a lot of faces in the ground."

When she goes out in search of ghosts, Keas said: "It's really a crap shoot. You never know what's going to be there, if anything."

Keas said she believes she captured ghosts hovering over an Observer photographer while Keas was photographed at Eloise for this story.

"They were just curious about her," Keas said. "They already knew about me."

Strong evidence

With 1,000 pictures and recordings collected since May, Keas said she believes she has convincing evidence of the paranormal. That's enough to send any girl raised Catholic, like herself, running for a rosary.

"I am the biggest chicken there is," Keas said. "People think that you have to be really brave."

She relies on intuition in deciding whether to leave a place where she believes she found ghosts, especially since a lot of the locations are in high crime areas.

"I fear the living," she said. "I don't fear the dead. Sometimes you do run up against some really, really bad karma. That's the only way I can explain it. You feel like you want to go. Or the equipment can die, because the energy was drained out of it and they don't want you there."

A nonpracticing Catholic now, Keas said: "I believe there's a higher being and there has to be a lower being. I believe in balance. There are many different theories why (ghosts) are still here - whether it be by choice or they don't know they've passed on or they have unfinished business. We will never know."

She believes ghosts have the same personality they had in life. The Michigan Ghost Hunter's Society, founded in May, has about 200 people across North America and 50 people locally on an e-mail list.

"All you do is e-mail me and you get put on a private mailing list and get invited to different (ghost) hunts throughout the month," Keas said.

Keas recently went to the disaster site of an elementary school in Bath, Mich. In 1927, a one-time school board member bombed it while classes were in session. A memorial park was erected.

"It's very active for the paranormal," she said. "It's really very sad."

Growing up

Keas said she grew up with paranormal experiences. There was a haunted house on the corner of her street and she was best friends with the girls who lived there, Keas said. Apparently, a little girl died in the bathroom years earlier.

"We grew up with moving stuffed animals, candy flying out of the dishes, the fireplace going on and off and full apparitions," Keas said, adding that pets were constantly running away. The three previous owners moved out quickly and the current owner couldn't understand why they got the house at such a good price.

"Paintings would appear on the wall that couldn't be removed with paint remover and bleach until one day it was gone," she said, adding that she recently conducted an investigation of the house.

"There were a lot of different people - two men and one woman and apparitions," she added.

Keas said she has done four private "investigations" - two in Chicago and two in Michigan. She doesn't charge for the service.

"People will have a feeling something bad is in the house and they no longer want it there," Keas said. "They ask me to get rid of it. It sounds like a glorified exorcism that they have in the movies, but all they're doing is removing negative energy from their homes."

"I use different religious affirmations. St. Michael, for instance, is the angel that had to descend from heaven against Satan and all the devils and he brought them all back to hell. I use him to remove the negative energy in the house."

Candles, rosaries and crucifixes can be used, too.

"It all depends on the person's beliefs," she added. "We go through the house with a camera and a recorder. We record the temperature, smell in the house and who is there. After we get some photos and a recording, I set them down with candles and an affirmation to St. Michael and I bind spirits from doing harm. That's it. It takes about 10 minutes."

Generally, there's a two- to four-week period that the residents have to watch the house and compare changes from before the investigation. With about 100 e-mail messages sent to her Web site weekly, Keas said, most requests are for her to analyze other people's photos.

"There are a lot of skeptics, too," she added. "I'm constantly being kept on my toes and constantly being asked to prove recordings and photos. If people are going to do that, it's OK. I don't condemn people for that. It's what they do."

They insist that the photos could be light, dust or people reading more into what they've seen.

For nonbelievers she lists 20 different self-imposed criteria her photos must pass before going on her Web site, like weather conditions, lighting and the condition of her equipment.

Keas also receives a lot of stories about ghosts by e-mail.

"In two or three years, I want to purchase some land out here and probably be married and continue with my Web design," she said. "The paranormal will continue. I don't know how large this will get. In two or three years, I could have another baby."

Smith supporter

Ah, yes, another election year coming to a close. The junk mail can stop, the lawn signs can come down and the incessant political posturing can finally end. (We hope.)

On one hand, it seems like such a waste of time and resources. Citizen apathy is high while voter turnout is low. Why even bother? Does your vote really matter? And once elected, will any of the former candidates really make good on their promises? (Do they even make promises anymore?)

On the other hand, becoming disgusted and turning your back on the system is not going to change the system as it stands. If you don't at least vote, aren't you yourself contributing to the problem rather than the solution? I know from personal experience that it can seem easier to "throw in the towel," especially if you have ever tried to "fight City Hall."

Yet despite my own sense of frustration, opportunities do arise that provide a glimmer of hope. There are elected officials that are not dishonest or arrogant. There are community members that give of their time and labor for the benefit of our environment and our families. There are candidates that have a vision and true commitment to the welfare of our citizens.

One such candidate is Dorothy W. Smith. I have gotten to know Dorothy Smith over the past five years and like many, I've admired her loyal attendance at Westland City Council meetings. But more than attend, Dorothy keeps records and writes (on an old heavy manual typewriter) a monthly community newsletter. I know of no other city with a similar publication. Dorothy has a spirit and tenacity like no one I've ever met. Perhaps it was more common for people of her generation to set goals and meet them, to make promises and keep them, to face challenges and beat them, I don't know, but these qualities are certainly lacking in today's generation (my own included).

Dorothy's persistent strive for a seat on the city council shows that she really cares and wants to make a difference. Have you ever asked yourself, "Who would even want that job?" Well, Dorothy Smith is someone that does; and I vote to let her at least have her chance.

Bill would keep truants from getting a driver's license

BY MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@homecomm.net

"I would always marvel at it. We occasionally would have kids who would have a real truancy problem, but when it would come to drivers' training, they never missed a class," Gary Doyle, superintendent of Bloomfield Schools, said.

In fact, having a driver's license can encourage further truancy, because the youngster has transportation.

So it makes sense to Doyle to tie issuance of a driver's license to attendance in school, as proposed by Michigan Sen. Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield.

Peters recently introduced a four-bill package to give school officials new ways to enforce school attendance requirements. A key part of the package, in Senate Bill 759, would allow a court to delay issuance of a driver's license or suspend an existing license for a student who is not regularly attending school.

Sen. Gary Peters

Senate Bills 758 through 761 would also require parental notification if a child is absent without an excuse twice in 30 days; require an "agreement for attendance" if a child is absent without an excuse five times in a month; allow court intervention if a child is absent seven times in a month; and increase penalties for parents who fail to send their children to school.

Sentences for parents could include fines ranging from $50 to $500, or jail from two to 90 days.

Doyle said he wouldn't want to see parents who are making an effort to get kids to school punished.

"I had one parent who would drive his daughter to school every day and walk her in the front door," he said. "As he was walking out the front door, she was headed out the back. Obviously, you don't want to see a parent like that punished."

Other parents, however, seem to encourage their youngster to skip school.

Still others "cover" for them, he said.

"I saw one student across the parking lot and went in to call his parents. His mother said he had been home sick for the last week. I told her I had just seen him across the parking lot and there was nothing but silence on the phone. I don't understand why some parents do that," he said.

It would be up to the family court and Protective Services to determine which parents are making the effort and which should be subject to sanctions, and Doyle said he believes they would be well able to make that determination.

Peters sees the package as a way to intervene early in the lives of youngsters headed for trouble. Truancy is often an early sign a youth is headed toward delinquency, he said.

"A lot of folks say they want to get tough on juveniles who commit serious crimes. There's the case in Pontiac," Peters said, referring to the trial of Nathaniel Abraham, charged with first-degree murder at age 11.

"He had a lot of contacts with police over the years and learned that nothing was going to happen to him. Then he commits a real serious crime and that's when we get tough ... There are losers all around in that case. He's facing jail for 70 years, but the big loser is the victim."

At present, truancy is seen by police and courts as a "status crime," that is a violation that only counts as an offense because the perpetrator is under age, Peters explained. So some officials don't take it seriously.

The package has been referred to the Senate Judiciary Committee for further action.

Chuck said he offered to resign from the library board, but trustees didn't want him to step down.

Even Johnson said Chuck has been "a good president" and said she resigned only because of the policy violation.

"It's a good policy," she said. With Cheryl Chuck still on the job, the library board is now considering abolishing the nepotism policy, which prohibits the hiring of spouses, sons, daughters, stepchildren and foster children of board members.

Library board member Sharon Clark said the issue will be discussed during the library board's Nov. 17 meeting.

"We had thought about getting rid of the policy for a while," Clark said.

Wilson and Clark said the library has had a difficult time hiring and retaining employees for jobs like the one Cheryl Chuck is doing.

"My first interest is customer service," Wilson said, adding later, "Even though I realize I shouldn't have broken the policy, I don't know how important that is to the people who come in here and use the library. They want service."

Clark defended Wilson's decision to hire Cheryl Chuck.

"She didn't want to lose a good employee, so she hired her," Clark said. "Sandra did this on her own authority, and personally I don't have a problem with it. At the next meeting we're going to vote it (the policy) out." Jim Chuck said he plans to abstain from the vote.

Clark said she was "shocked" that the controversy prompted Johnson to resign.

"I didn't think it was a good rule in the first place," Clark said. "To me it wasn't something that warranted that type of upheaval."

Wilson said she wouldn't have hired Cheryl Chuck "if I had known it would cause this dissension."

She said she will decide what happens next after she receives direction from the library board following its Nov. 17 meeting.

Measure passed

The board already has passed one measure to address the issue, said attorney Joanna Bennett of Westland City Attorney Angelo Plakas' office.

Bennett said a library board majority voted during the Oct. 20 meeting "to suspend the application of that (nepotism) policy and to consider amending that policy at the next board meeting."

With Johnson's resignation, the five-member library board - appointed by Mayor Robert Thomas - now has only three seats filled. One member wasn't reappointed this year.

Thomas said Thursday he didn't know when he will fill the vacancies.

Meanwhile, Wilson said Jim Chuck and other library board members will have no direct authority over pay increases for Cheryl Chuck.

She said the library board sets salary ranges for employees but puts a dollar amount for merit-based raises in a pool of money.

Wilson and she and other library administrators "work within that pool."

Clark conceded that Wilson "made a mistake" but added, "Sandra is an excellent library director. I would never do anything to jeopardize her being a part of our library."

Jim Chuck said his wife's job application had been on file at the library since July. He said seven other people had interviewed for her job and had declined it.

Wilson said Cheryl Chuck's job has been difficult to fill because it is part-time, has no benefits, requires a bachelor's degree and includes some evening and weekend hours.

Wilson said the library has 30 "classified" employees, but only nine of those are full-time. She has an additional 25 "student pages" who work some hours.

The library gets $1,411,330 a year from a .9945 mill tax approved by Westland City Council.

It also receives about $84,000 annually in state aid, $36,000 from local fines and $35,000 from interest income, according to city finance offices.

The library has discretion over how it spends its money.

Larry Thomas
finalist for job

Larry Thomas, former Wayne-Westland school superintendent, is a finalist for the superintendent's job in the Plymouth-Canton district. He and five others were culled from a group of 45 by The Bickert Group, which was appointed to solicit nominations and prepare a slate. Thomas served locally three school years ending in 1994-95.

They will be interviewed separately by the Plymouth-Canton school board early in November.

Schoolcraft upgrades to faster phone registration system

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER
kabracyk@oe.homecomm.net

Schoolcraft College purchased computer equipment and software Wednesday to upgrade the college's interactive touch-tone telephone registration system to ensure fast phone registration for students.

Trustees approved a purchase of a Pentium personal computer, a 16-line telephone interface board and software for $41,009 from EPOS Corp. of Auburn, Ala. It is expected to be installed by mid-December, in time for the January registration for winter term.

The current phone system allows students to register and pay by credit card, registering 3,216 students for the fall semester. About 35 percent of students register early by phone each semester, according to Conway Jeffress, vice president of academic instruction.

"(The system) handles credit card transactions between the college and the bank," Jeffress said.

Jeffress said later that the software purchase was not in response to problems reported by staffers this fall during the last-minute registration of students. They complained that a registration system with a separate software package was slow in transmitting information on financial aid for students during registration. Jeffress said there were major glitches from adding software continuously over the past few years.

"The major complaint from the staff is to move through all the screens," Jeffress said.

That Datatel system worked in conjunction with Colleague software. Officials from those companies were working with Schoolcraft's Information Technology staffers to resolve the glitches and speed up the system, Jeffress said.

Trustees also approved the purchase of 119 personal computers, 50 of which will be housed at two computer labs at the Radcliff Center in Garden City, 33 for staff, 25 for the Applied Sciences computer lab, seven for the Geography Department and four for Student Activities.

Quality Computer Systems in Livonia will be paid $167,015 for the computers.

Glenn shows grit in 26-14 win

BY BRAD EMONS
SPORTS WRITER
bemons@oe.homecomm.net

Westland John Glenn took its football show on the road Friday to Monroe and the Rockets came back home to rave reviews.

The Rockets opened the state football playoffs with a 26-14 victory over the host Trojans in a battle of 7-2 teams.

"The thing we did best out there tonight was battle," Glenn coach Chuck Gordon said. "They (Monroe) moved the ball, but our defense hung in there. We wanted to make sure we fought hard for 48 minutes."

Several Glenn performers deserved curtain calls in this Division I-Region II-District II matchup.

•Credit goes to an opportunistic defense led by safety Chad Sansom. He had two interceptions, including a 39-yard second-quarter touchdown return to give Glenn a 17-7 lead.

Also, linebacker Jake Tharp's third-quarter tackle on Monroe's 220-yard fullback Chad Moser for a two-point safety, putting the Rockets up by five, 19-14. The 6-3, 235-pound Tharp also recovered a fumble at his own 24 in the second period to stymie a Monroe scoring threat.

•The record-breaking performance of 5-11, 190-pound senior tailback Eric Jones, who finished with 204 yards in 25 carries and two touchdowns. Jones, now with 1,834, surpassed Reggie Spearmon's 1998 single-season rushing total of 1,664.

•The level-headed play of freshman quarterback Brian Cechewicz, who rushed for three key first downs and hooked up with Ben Harris on a key 43-yard pass over the middle to Ben Harris.

•Jeremy Catarino booted a 30-yard field goal with 3:04 left in the first quarter to get Glenn on the board after Monroe quarterback Michael Leach connected with William Walk on a 32-yard TD pass to put the Trojans up 7-0.

And with Glenn clinging to a 17-14 lead, Catarino nailed a 67-yard punt on the Monroe 1; setting the stage for the two-point safety.

"We were in an angle defense and when I saw the fullback going I just stuffed the hole," Tharp said. "This is the first time we've been down here and this win just feels awesome."

Gordon also felt the momentum shift back in Glenn's favor.

"Looking back," he said, "getting the safety and getting the field position, along with the ball back in field position, was huge."

Sansom, who had never returned an interception for a touchdown. Nearly got two. His fourth-quarter pickoff, which sealed Monroe's fate, was called back because of a clip.

"Our scouting report said No. 4

(Moser) was not only their best runner, but they also like to throw to him out of the backfield along with their tailback," the 5-8, 173-pound senior defensive back said. "We knew they liked to flood the zone with those guys and it was our job to stay home. We were just playing our positions. The coaches put us in the right spots and

CC subdues stubborn Stevenson

CC defense, Kava spur 24-9 victory

BY BRAD EMONS

Two-time defending Redford Catholic Central opened the state football playoffs Saturday by scoring a 24-9 victory over pesky Livonia Stevenson before an overflow crowd at Redford Union's Kraft Field.

The Shamrocks, winners of 29 straight dating back to the 1997 season, moved to 10-0 and set up a second-round date with unbeaten Walled Lake Western, the champs of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Stevenson's defense, on the field for much of the day, held fort against the powerful CC offensive line.

But the running of CC's senior fullback, 6-foot-1, 225-pound John Kava (174 yards in 28 carries), proved too difficult to overcome.

"It was a great inter-city kind of football game, both sides played good, hard-nosed football to the end," CC coach Tom Mach said. "Stevenson stuffed us and jammed things up in the middle, and we didn't do a good job of blocking inside."

"Offensively it was frustrating. Our offense sputtered because we also had so many penalties. But our defense played well."

Kava, improvised when he had to — bouncing outside for a 14-yard TD run with 3:35 left to provide the final margin of victory.

The score came after Stevenson, trailing 17-9 with just five minutes, was stopped on fourth-and-4 at midfield.

"We didn't want Kava to run outside, but that's where he happened to go," Stevenson coach Tim Gabel said. "He's a good power runner, but he also had good lateral movement. And they get good blocking on the outside as well.

"People think they (CC) are a just a power team from tackle to tackle, but their lineman can also run side to side."

Although mistakenly deferring both kickoffs to start the halves, the first 23 seconds couldn't have worked out any nicer for the Spartans.

Lineman Tim McCarthy pounced on a CC fumbled snap from center on the first play of the game and junior slotback Dan Wilson ran 20 yards for a TD. Wilson also booted the extra point to give the Spartans a stunning 7-0 lead over the state's top-ranked team.

"It was a nightmare," Mach said. "You don't envision that or want to experience something like that. I can't remember us ever fumbling the snap and the other team going for a touchdown on the first play.

"But I was surprised they chose to kick both halves, but I think they wanted their defense to set the tempo and it worked to their advantage."

CC pulled even to start the second quarter when Stevenson quarterback Eric Rize, forced out of the pocket on a

Clarenceville playoff bid falls short

Turnovers cost Trojans in 31-28 Division 6 loss

BY SCOTT NEINAS
STAFF WRITER

What a difference a week makes. Last week, Clarenceville fans were ecstatic on a frigid, wintery night, watching their team win in overtime to cap a perfect regular season.

Seven days later, on a balmy evening at Clarenceville, teary-eyed faithful lined up and clapped as their Trojans came off the field for the last time this season, 31-28 losers to Clinton.

The first-round playoff game featured three 100-yard rushers, penalties galore and several key turnovers that decided the outcome.

"You can't make mistakes like that in the post-season," Clarenceville coach Greg Hudkins said. "You can't expect mistake-free football in high school, or on any level, but mistakes like that you can't overcome."

Hudkins was referring to turnovers. The Trojans fumbled the ball twice in the first quarter and both of them led to Redskin touchdown drives.

Worse, a miscommunication between quarterback and receiver led to Tim Riedl throwing an interception in Clinton's end zone as they attempted a second-half comeback.

Clinton led 24-14 at the half and on its second play from scrimmage in the third quarter, speedster Brett Shadley raced down the sideline for a 50-yard touchdown run, giving the Redskins a 17-point lead.

The Trojans mounted a laudable comeback. With 1:28 left in the third quarter, Steven Mead owg completed an 85-yard drive with a 17-yard touchdown run.

After holding Clinton to three and out, the Trojans marched 62 yards in four plays, 47 of them a Tim Shaw touchdown scamper with 10:05 left in the fourth quarter.

Down 31-28, Clarenceville had two more chances. Two unsportsmanlike conduct calls stalled its first drive. A desperate 4th and 7 pass went incomplete with one minute left in the game.

Shaw rushed for 268 yards and two touchdowns, one of them an 82-yard kickoff return on the game's first play.

Counting that, the sophomore sensation finished with 350 all-purpose yards.

Clinton, which featured a balanced attack in the first half behind quarterback Scott Stoianowski (59-9 for 401 yards), kept it on the ground in the second.

Kyle Murphy rushed for 133 yards on 23 carries and Shadley had 175 yards on 17 carries.

"The offensive line made huge holes for me," Shadley said. "Anyone could have ran through those."

"It was an outpouring of offense for both teams," Clinton coach Scott McNitt said. "Either team deserved to win, we were very fortunate to come out on top."

The Redskins made the playoff as a bubble team, finishing 5-4 in the Lenawee County Athletic Association.

Clinton recovered a Clarenceville fumble on the Trojan 35 yard line in the first quarter.

Stoianowski threw a beautiful 30 yard pass to Shadley for a touchdown.

With 2:53 left in the first quarter, they recovered another fumble and on the first play, Shadley sprang a 32 yard run for a score.

passing situation, got hit and fumbled. Lanky defensive end Jeff Moore (6-5, 220) scooped up the ball at the Stevenson 5 and dove into the end zone for a TD. Mike Sgroi's extra point made it 7-all. CC then drove 56 yards in 11 plays, capped by Dave Groth's 2-yard TD run. Sgroi's extra point, with 4:27 left in the half, gave the Shamrocks a 14-7 advantage. In the third quarter, Sgroi, after missing earlier attempts of 47 and 31 yards, drilled 32-yard field goal with 7:35 remaining to put CC ahead 17-7. The Shamrocks, who seemingly were in control, then gave up two points with 1:21 left in the third quarter when the snap from center sailed over punter Mark Gurskey's head and out of the end zone. The play seemed to inject new life in the Spartans, but CC's defense came up big in the final quarter.

Rize was sacked twice on critical third and fourth downs, respectively, on the Spartans' first two offensive possessions of the fourth period. "Sometime we had to go for it, we didn't have much of a choice at the time," Gabel said of the fourth-and-4 at midfield with just under five minutes left. "And we were on defense a lot. It's not like we moved the ball at all." Gabel said the Spartans had to "play close to perfect" in all phases to beat the Shamrocks. "We had turnovers, dropped balls and missed blocks," said Gabel, whose team bowed out at 7-3 overall. "But it was an outstanding effort defensively, and offensively, for 48 minutes. "We didn't have a flat game in 10 games and very few bad practices. They're heartbroken because they came here to win, not to keep it close." CC had 249 yards rushing and total yardage of 253, while Stevenson had just 98 total.

100 percent of the credit goes to them." Jones, yet to be held under the 100-yard mark this season, proved he could run inside and outside against the physical Trojans. "You can't make mistakes against a good football team, but when you think about it, the difference was No. 3 (Jones)," Monroe coach Ralph Carducci said. "He looks like he's going to die after every play, but he gets back up and makes a great run. He's a great one." Jones' 21-yard TD run, in which he broke three tackles at the line of scrimmage, gave Glenn a 10-7 lead with 7:37 left in the second quarter. The play certainly deserved an ovation. "What Eric Jones has learned this season is to play hard on every snap," Gordon said. "Everybody knows he's fast, but he's also powerful." Jones had just 4 net yards in the third quarter, but came back with 76 on seven carries in the final period, including a 1-yard TD run with 6:13 remaining to put the game away. "They (Monroe) had some momentum going, but we got into our elephant (backfield) formation and our big guys helped us move the ball," Gordon said. And then there was the play of Cechiewicz, the freshman QB, who ran the Glenn offense with poise and precision. His only negative play was a third quarter pickoff by Monroe's Antoine Ford. Cechiewicz, who played his first seven games on the JV squad, also rushed for three key first downs. "Brian played very well," Gordon said. "And I'm proud of him. But he's no different than anyone else. Like everybody else, on this team, he can get better." Glenn outgained Monroe in total offense, 300-236. Monroe led in first downs, 13-11. Moser was 19 for 93 on the ground, while Leach was six of 14 for 86. But the Monroe quarterback was sacked three times and intercepted twice. Glenn, now 8-2, awaits the winner of Saturday's Belleville-Detroit Henry Ford matchup.

STATE BOYS SOCCER TOURNAMENT

Spartans roll in district, 4-0

BY SCOTT NEINAS STAFF WRITER

Livonia Stevenson proved it can win without resorting to the Tom Eller show as they shutout crosstown rival Livonia Churchill 4-0 Saturday at University of Detroit Jesuit High School in a Division I district soccer final.

Spartan captain Mike White scored two goals and assisted on another as Stevenson advanced to the sweet-16 round of the state playoffs.

They will play the winner of the Temperance Bedford district winner in a Division I regional semifinal at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday at South Lyon Middle School.

"I'm pleased with the result. We came off of two difficult games that took a lot of energy out of us. I was concerned about a letdown," Stevenson coach Lars Richters said.

The Spartans, who improved to 16-2-1, scored the only goal they would need early in the game when T.J. Djokic and a Churchill defender slid into the ball together near the Charger goal mouth. The ball somehow found its way into the net, giving the Spartans the lead three minutes into the game.

White assisted on the goal. "We gave up a goal in the first few minutes of each half. You can't do that and expect to win any game, much less against Stevenson," said Churchill coach Reid Friedrichs, his team bowing out at 10-11. "We put ourselves in a hole."

Stevenson dominated play in the first half, keeping the ball in Churchill's zone and winning most of the battles in the air.

When the Chargers did win the ball, they seemed content kicking it out of their zone or attempting a long pass.

The first half ended with Stevenson ahead, 1-0. Five minutes into the second half, the Spartans added an insurance tally when Churchill keeper Eric Sicilia and one of his defenders crossed wires going for a loose ball in the box.

The ball squirted out to Spartan forward Dan Lipon, who, with the keeper and defender down, booted it into an empty net.

"That was just hard work," Richters said. "He never gave up on the play."

Down by two goals, the Chargers tried opening the game up, pushing two defenders up into the play and leaving just two back.

The gamble backfired in the 49th minute when Eller hit a streaking White with a pass behind the defense.

White battled his defender and got a shot off that beat Sicilia, putting the game virtually out of reach for low-scoring Churchill.

Up 3-0, Richters substituted for Eller, since his star forward had received a yellow card in the first half. A red card would have meant him missing the next game.

"It was better to not take the risk," Richters said. "I like to watch him play as well, but we need him for the next game."

White scored Stevenson's final goal in the 56th minute, heading in a throw-in from Matt Koontz. "They played better than us," Friedrichs said. "You play the game to see who's the better team."

LUTHERAN WESTLAND 10, FRANKLIN ROAD 0: Junior Derek Bias and freshman Ryan West each had two goals and one assist in Lutheran High Westland's Division IV district semifinal triumph Thursday over visiting Southfield Franklin Road Christian.

Goalkeeper Andrew Giesman notched his 13th shutout of the season and 40th of his career as the Warriors improved to 15-2-1 overall.

Lady Crusaders gain revenge

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS WRITER
cjrisk@oe.homecomm.net

This kind of competition breeds rivalries. And rivalries like this never disappear quickly.

There always seems to be another round, each one growing in importance.

Last Thursday was Round Two, featuring the top two volleyball teams in the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference: Cornerstone University, which came into the match with a 32-2 overall record, and Madonna University, the defending WHAC champ.

The two teams had met once before this season. In Round One on Sept. 30 in Grand Rapids, the Golden Eagles swept Madonna 15-7, 15-8, 15-6 to take over first place all alone in the WHAC, a standing they retained — until Thursday.

The Lady Crusaders recaptured a part of the top spot by winning Round Two, 15-7, 9-15, 15-7, 15-11 in Livonia. The win boosted Madonna's overall record to 26-9; the Crusaders are 9-1 in the WHAC. Cornerstone slips to 32-3 overall, 9-1 in the WHAC.

"It's tough to play here," said Golden Eagle coach Amy Dettmer. "It's always tough to play here. We played well, we just didn't execute as well as I had hoped we would."

The sizable crowd, on hand for what most likely will be Madonna's final home match of the season, certainly helped the Crusaders — and bothered the Eagles. In each game, Madonna jumped out to a quick lead; in games one and three, they scored the first four points, and in game four they led 3-0.

Constantly trying to battle back from a deficit drained Cornerstone, particularly against a team built around power, like Madonna.

Stephanie Uballe, a senior, and Kelly Artymovich, a junior, were the main offensive weapons on this night. Uballe riddle the Eagles with a match-high 22 kills, with an impressive .514 kill percentage. Artymovich was next best with 17 kills at a .405 percentage.

Uballe also had four solo blocks and 14 block assists, while Artymovich collected three solos, six block assists and 21 digs.

Next best for the Crusaders was Nicole Burns, the only other senior on their roster. She totaled 10 kills (.500 percentage), five solo blocks, 16 block assists and 18 digs.

"Stephanie and Kelly and Nicole, I talked to them before the match and told them we needed them to step up," said Madonna coach Jerry Abraham. "And they did."

"The last time we played (Cornerstone), we didn't hit it at them aggressively. We did tonight."

The past few weeks have not been easy for Madonna. Abraham has been trying to piece together a lineup after losing some key players, like junior Erin Cunningham, who went down with a knee injury and is lost for the season. Artymovich and sophomore setter Jennie Wind had also been out with injuries and were just returning to action, and freshman setter Jen Wing missed some time.

"We've been struggling with the lineup for the last three weeks because of injuries," Abraham said. "We've had different setters, and that doesn't help. We've been lacking consistency."

That wasn't too much of a problem against Cornerstone Thursday. "Things came together tonight," agreed Abraham.

Madonna led all the way in the opening game, allowing Cornerstone to close to within a point (5-4) before scoring four-straight with Brandy Malewski (from Redford Thurston) serving. The Eagles never got closer than four after that in that game.

Cornerstone seemed to right itself in the second game, building a nine-point lead before settling for a six-point win. But there was no momentum gained; the Crusaders led from start to end in game No. 3, and in game No. 4 the Eagles led just once, at 7-6.

The Eagles did tie it at 10-all, but once again, with Malewski serving Madonna took command, scoring four-straight points — two of them Artymovich kills to make it 14-10. A kill by Uballe ultimately finished the game, and match.

Malewski finished with eight kills (.318), two service aces, four solo blocks, nine block assists and 16 digs; Marylu Hemme (Plymouth/Livonia Ladywood) had two aces and a team-best 24 digs; and Wind totaled two aces, 55 assists-to-kills and 22 digs.

Sarah Haney led Cornerstone with 10 kills; Amy Cottrell had nine.

"We look forward to that (next meeting)," said Dettmer. "They're a great team and we like playing great teams."

SC rattles Wayne CCC

Schoolcraft College concluded its Michigan Community College Athletic Association Eastern Conference regular season Thursday by sweeping Wayne County CC, 15-2, 15-4, 15-3 at Wayne County CC.

The win pushed SC's record to 11-3 in the league; the Lady Ocelots are 19-20 overall. It was their third-straight victory in conference play.

Cindy Maloof ignited SC, posting team highs in kill percentage (.462), service aces (four) and blocks (two). Chrissy Chavez led the Ocelots in kills with 11. Rebekah Thornton, Toni Forsynski and Allison Luczak had five apiece. Nicole Boyd (from Livonia Franklin) had 11 digs.

BOWLING AND RECREATION

He delivers on lanes, too

AL HARRISON

Did this edition arrive on time today? The Observer & Eccentric is always right there for you to keep up with local happenings and, best of all, to read every Ten Pin Alley. We have Larry Geiger, the circulation manager, to thank for the good service. Larry is also a pretty good bowler. We bowled together in the Pro-Am at Taylor Lanes last Saturday and he scored a fine 1,486 with his pro partners Johnny Petraglia, Robert Smith and Wayne Webb. Each of them bowled pretty good and Larry did quite well himself with games of 213-254-252 to earn himself a nice payoff for seventh place. I had the same partners, but I regret to inform my readers that I did not nearly keep up with Larry, so I came away with empty pockets. Petraglia was one of thirteen pro bowlers to ring up a 300 game during the preliminaries and it was this same veteran of the PBA who was seeded second going into the TV finals on Wednesday night. Every match in the stepladder finals was a close and exciting one which could have gone either way but for a stubborn seven or ten pin. Mike Aubly beat John Gant 216-210. Then Steve Hoskins nudged Aubly 222-206, followed by the most interesting matchup between Hoskins and Petraglia. Both warriors started with five strikes, but the seven pin did it in Petraglia in the end as Hoskins prevailed, 268-245. Finally it was a showdown between Hoskins and Dave Wodka of Las Vegas. Wodka survived a nasty split in the fifth frame and fired four strikes in a row to take his first PBA tour championship. Wodka's purse was $15,000. *Other Amateur entrants in the Taylor Pro-Am from O & E communities who cashed were: Robert Schepis, Frank Kasprzycki, Gary Broyles and Steve Hatch from Livonia; Sam Loiacano of Canton; Marlene Kurliak of Redford; Randal Zakalowski, Eric Skeels and Heather Skeels of Westland; Jim Freel and Jeff Bergen of Waterford. *High schools are having tryouts for the bowling teams which will be competing as a varsity sport. Tryouts for Livonia schools will be held at 4 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 3 and 12:30 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 7 at Merri Bowl Lanes on Five Mile Road, near Merriman. Student bowlers will have the opportunity to win scholarship money competing in the district and state finals. They will be provided with uniforms in traditional school colors and will receive excellent coaching. For more information, call Debbie at (734) 427-2900. *Entry blanks are now available for the 69th annual Old Timer's Tournament and party set for Saturday, Nov. 27, at Thunderbowl Lanes in Allen Park. This popular event is open to men at least 40 years old who have been associated with bowling 25 years or more. There will be two squads, one at 9:30 a.m. and the other at 1 p.m. When the afternoon squad finishes, there will be a buffet-style dinner served in the dining room at approximately 3:30 p.m. Total cost for bowling, dinner, refreshments, awards and special prizes is only $18. The cost for bowling only will be $9. This year's event is dedicated to Alex Brumer, a past president of the Greater Detroit Old Timers Bowling Association. For more information, contact secretary John Chmelko at 810-756-3240. *The 10th annual Greater Detroit Bowling Association Mixed Tournament is set for Saturday-Sunday, Nov. 6-7 and Nov. 13-14 at Bonanza Lanes in Warren. Squad times are 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. The event, open to sanctioned GDBA and DWBA bowlers currently residing in centers within the GDBA jurisdiction, features teams of two men and two women. Top prizes will be $3,000 for first place and $1,500 for second (based on 300 entries). Entry fee is $80 per team ($20 per bowler) with the prize portion returned 100 percent. There is at least one prize per 10 entries. GDBA has added $500 to the prize fund. Call the GDBA at 810-773-6350 for more information. *Did you know that every three minutes a child in Michigan is abused? For any persons who would like to "strike out" child abuse, the Evergreen Children's Services will be running their 6th annual Strike Out Child Abuse Bowl-A-Thon. Saturday, Nov. 20 at Cloverlanes in Livonia. For those who are interested in participating, it is a no-tap fun event hosted by WJR's Michael Barr. Persons who collect the most pledge dollars will win a variety of prizes including weekend trips. The minimum pledge is $50 per person. For entry forms and pledge sheet, call Ron Jackson at Evergreen Children's Services 313-862-1000.

Winterized grackles spotted near evergreen trees

Grackles flying around the neighborhood in summer is a common sight.

These medium size, glossy, iridescent black birds have adapted well to living in urban and suburban areas. But it's fall, and most of the summer residents have migrated south. Which is why I found the three flocks of grackles I saw the other day eye-catching.

Males are a shiny black coloration with a wide flaring tail that is bent into a "V" while flying. Females are dark, but not as shiny and iridescent. Young of the year are dark enough to stand out against the colors of fall.

The flocks of grackles I saw may have been northern birds that are on their way south to winter in the warmer states.

Our resident grackles left weeks ago, which is why it seemed unusual to see these flocks of grackles. I thought they had all migrated by now.

Birds of many species often flock during their migration.

More birds in a flock can detect a predator approaching and alert relatives that danger is imminent. As birds migrate they must keep a compass bearing to get to their destination. A flock has several birds that are veterans of this journey and they tend to keep each other going in the proper direction.

If only one bird was responsible for navigating, there is a greater chance it could be slightly off course.

As they head south they will stop at various locations in order to find food.

I remember watching a large flock of grackles a few years ago in a beech forest. While some were in low branches watching for danger, most birds were on the ground lifting leaves to search for beech nuts on the ground.

Once in awhile I could see one scratching with their feet in an effort to expose a tasty nut. Nuts have a lot of energy which migrating birds need as they fly for long periods of time.

While the flocks I saw recently were composed of only grackles, many fall flocks of blackbirds have three or four species in them.

Grackles often join in larger flocks with red-winged blackbirds, brown-headed cowbirds and starlings.

Mixed flocks of these common species can number in the thousands.

TIM NOWICKI

In some areas they can be a nuisance because of their droppings, noise and the food they eat. This occurs more in the southern states where migratory flocks join with local residents to increase the local population.

By November grackles should all be south of the Detroit area. But it is not unusual to find some individuals that stay the winter for some reason. Their broad diet enables them to eat any foods that are available. Fatty seeds like acorns are preferred, but weed seeds are potential food.

Insect larvae and any dormant insects would be fair game, as well as other birds and animals. Grackles are not beyond attacking, killing and eating small birds like house sparrows. Their ability to adapt to urbanization and a very general diet has allowed the grackle to increase in numbers in many areas.

If you have evergreens, you probably have grackles nesting in them during the summer.

But don't look for them until spring.

Madonna men stop Saints, 2-1

It was a victory of major proportions, and it couldn't have come at a better time.

Madonna University, still playing without leading scorer Sam Piraine — out with an injured leg muscle — got a goal from Keith Barber at 3:58 of overtime to edge Siena Heights University 2-1 Wednesday at Siena Heights.

The victory sent Madonna, the third seed in the Wolverine-Hoosiers Athletic Conference, into the opening round of the tournament with some momentum. The Crusaders are 13-5-1 overall, 9-4-1 in the WHAC.

Siena Heights concludes the WHAC regular season at 10-3-1; the Saints are 13-6-1 overall.

Charlie Bell gave Madonna the early lead, scoring an unassisted goal at the 28:14 mark in the first half. It stayed that way until, 9:17 into the second half, Siena Heights' B.J. Horn converted a pass from Sam Skeels and blasted a shot through Madonna keeper Dave Hart.

Barber's game-winner was a low crossing shot off a headed pass from Rob Willard.

Hart made five saves in goal for Madonna. Nick DeKam had seven in goal for the Saints.

It won't be the last time these teams clash. A Madonna win over Spring Arbor yesterday will set up a rematch in the WHAC semifinals Wednesday in Adrian.

SCHOOLCRAFT 4, CMU JV 0 (WOMEN): Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team, ranked sixth in the NJCAA coaches' poll and ninth by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America, improved its record to 17-1-2 with a 4-0 shutout of Central Michigan University JV squad.

In the win over CMU, the Lady Ocelots got goals from Marina Vazquez (from Farmington), Shannon Konarski and Alyson Botke on a header in the first half. Assists went to Tracy McIntyre, Kelly Connell (Plymouth Canton) and Emily Aiford (Livonia Clarenceville).

Michele Bardon (Plymouth Salem) got SC's only second half goal. Shannon Brooks and Kerrie LaPorte (Livonia Churchill) were in goal for the shutout.

Characters come to life on walls

Jennifer Riopelle and Joe Rutherford admit "it's unusual for two artists to work on the same painting" even though they're the best of friends. But it can be done when you're sharing entire walls and sometimes rooms.

These two Plymouth artists make their living painting murals of lions, tigers and bears, and of course, other subjects.

"We realized we could work together, and that our ideas would work together," said Riopelle. "A mural is really a painting you step into."

Riopelle and Rutherford step into the rooms of clients before making a scale drawing, and if the customer wants, a palette of the colors. Then they transform walls into stories that frequently mean something special to the client. One homeowner had their Black Labrador painted into a garden scene.

"Many times we have people who want personal touches," said Rutherford.

ford. "They want us to incorporate their dogs, sailboats, favorite old teddy bears. Many things can be done with murals."

Rutherford and Riopelle will also incorporate three-dimensional works into the theme of a mural. A jungle scene is painted around a three-dimensional papier mache tiger. In another room a 7 1/2-foot bronze giraffe stands in front of a wall mural of the City Zoo. To bring it all to life, Rutherford and Riopelle added silk leaves for the giraffe to pluck from the tree painted on the walls and ceiling.

20th Century salute

Livonia Symphony says good-bye to old century, hello to new

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

It was early Monday morning and Volodymyr Schesiuk's dining room was anything but quiet as members of the Livonia Symphony Orchestra gathered to talk about the new season.

Jui-Chao Wang was the last to lug in her cello. Schesiuk, now in his fifth season as conductor, sat at the head of the table enthusiastically listing the highlights of the first program on Saturday, Nov. 13. The "Salute to 20th Century Music" includes selections ranging from Rossini's "William Tell Overture" to John Williams' "Star Wars."

"I'm excited about the new millennium," said Schesiuk, a Garden City resident who immigrated to the U.S. from Ukraine in 1991. "The first concert is not only music from century but American music, pop, music from shows and movies, some pieces for everybody."

Flutist Robynn Rhodes has played with the 65-member orchestra for nine years, and likes "the new season a lot."

"There's a lot of music we haven't played," said Rhodes. "I'm grateful to perform with the orchestra because it's an outlet for creative expression. And the new season gives us the opportunity to play great masters."

Carl Karoub is especially looking forward to playing Beethoven's Ninth with the Madonna University Chorale, Schoolcraft College Chorus and other area choral groups on Saturday, Jan. 23 in "Hello New Millennium."

CONCERT

Detroit Symphony Civic Orchestra challenges students

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER
lchomin@oe.homecomm.net

Thrilled isn't quite the word to describe how Faith Scholfield, a Canton oboist, and Ross Gasworth, a Farmington Hills cellist, feel about playing with the Detroit Symphony Civic Orchestra on Saturday, Nov. 6. That's because the youth training orchestra presents their concerts at the magnificent Orchestra Hall. The season opens with Adolph Hailstork's "Celebration." Saint-Saens' "Cello Concerto No. 1," Brahms' "Hungarian Dances" No. 1, 3 and 10, and Musorgsky's masterpiece "Pictures at an Exhibition."

Gasworth, one of the finalists in the Detroit Symphony Civic Orchestra's concerto competition, is the featured soloist in the Saint-Saens concerto. Gasworth considers winning a "double honor" because this is the first time a Civic Orchestra member has soloed in a season concert.

"I've been playing the concerto for quite a while so it isn't as much of a challenge. I just hope I don't get nervous," said Gasworth, 15, a student at North Farmington High School.

He comes from a musical family (mom plays piano, dad played clarinet and electric guitar in high school) and frequently rehearses the concerto with his younger brother Leigh, a pianist. Gasworth began playing cello 12 years ago after his parents noticed him playing along with concerts they were watching on TV. By age three, he had his photograph taken with internationally renowned cellist Yo-Yo Ma.

Now in his second year with the 90-member Detroit Symphony Civic Orchestra, Gasworth lives and breathes music. Last summer, he attended not one but two music camps — the Lyric Chamber Ensemble at Eastern Michigan University and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's Summer Institute at Meadow Brook on full scholarship. He also plays in the steel band at North Farmington and plans to join the marching band next year. His busy schedule also includes playing with his school orchestra and working with the cable TV station at North Farmington.

Scholfield, a senior at Plymouth Salem High School and principal oboe with the Civic Orchestra, maintains as busy a schedule as Gasworth. In addition to performing with the Civic Orchestra for the last four years, Scholfield also plays with her school orchestra and band, the Michigan Youth Orchestra, Ypsilanti Symphony Orchestra and Plymouth Community Band.

In January, Scholfield won first place in the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's performance of the work. "Little by little through the concert musicians will leave, first blowing out their candle until two violinists are left on stage," said Brucksieker. "The audience, when everyone walks off the stage, they don't know what to do and there's a moment of silence before they realize it's over."

A Palm Sunday concert April 16 will once again bring together organist Dave Wagner, the Interdenominational Festival Choir and the Madonna University Chorale which Wagner directs.

A Valentine chamber concert offers bargain ticket prices. Everyone will be admitted for $10.

Wish list

Orchestra members, because they are content with the season's programming, feel there are other projects they'd like to take on. Karoub is proposing that the orchestra "get back into the schools during the season to introduce youth to the music."

"We would like to have our own hall to play in," said Schesiuk. "A city without theater is like body without heart. There's no spirit."

In love with the music

Linda Brucksieker, a 15-year member of the orchestra, loves everything the orchestra will play this season especially Haydn's "Farewell Symphony." It was the Farmington Hills violinist's idea to have lit candles attached to their music stands during the performance of the work.

"We would like to have our own hall to play in," said Schesiuk. "A city without theater is like body without heart. There's no spirit."

"Musically I've grown so much since I joined the Civic Orchestra," said Scholfield who began playing oboe in sixth grade. "I like all the music. It's just fun to do and it's so incredible. The acoustics are incredible in Orchestra Hall."

Family affair

Charles Burke is excited about beginning his first season as music director of the Civic Orchestra now in its 30th year. For the Nov. 6 program, the Canton conductor selected a variety of music including Musorgsky's "Pictures" during which Burke's father, Larry, will play the saxophone solo in "The Old Castle." A Civic Family Hour before the concert features family members of orchestra members, and it's free. Among the performers are Burke and his father.

"It's an incredible season," said Burke, who is also assistant director of education for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. "For 'Pictures' we'll have special lighting to accentuate the stories. It's not only aural and visual but now we'll be able to enhance the visual. I'm also excited about the Civic Chamber Players who will be performing around Detroit in a program I like to refer to as Bridging Woodward. We're trying to form partnerships with different cultural institutions and businesses in the area." The concert, featuring Stravinsky's "A Soldier's Tale," takes place 4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 21 in the Detroit Institute of Arts Lecture Hall. The orchestra is also playing for Queen Noor of Jordan at the Renaissance Center on Dec. 4.

The Civic Orchestra's Feb. 27 concert reaches out to the community and builds bridges as well. Through the Michigan State Vocal Music Association, 300 high school students will be chosen from auditions to sing Beethoven's Choral Fantasia with the orchestra. A gala performance on May 13 premieres a commissioned work by Kevin Beavers, a Fulbright fellow. The concert also features the 18-member U.S. Army Band Herald Trumpets.

"It's unbelievable the experience the Civic Orchestra members get not only in performing but in master classes with international soloists and working with guest conductors that come in to play with the DSO," said Burke.

has inspired the formation of the Detroit Symphony Civic Sinfonia composed of elementary and middle school students. They make their debut later in the season on Feb. 6.

"It's a training orchestra for the Civic Orchestra," said Burke. "We found we had so many kids auditioning for the orchestra we decided to start the Sinfonia. They've worked really hard."

A CD will be available at the Nov. 6 concert. It was recorded during the Civic Orchestra's May 16 season finale.

surprises."

Riopelle said "underwater scenes have become a popular theme because fish are very soothing." One little girl went to the library and brought back books of pictures for the muralists to paint. Then she took the two artists to visit an aquarium in a friend's home so the color of the fish's eyes would be correct.

Although Riopelle and Rutherford can make the murals as realistic as you want (one West Bloomfield home spotlights a forest scene complete with 22 different species of birds), they excel at storybook characters. That's probably because Riopelle illustrated the children's book "Priscilla's Pumpkin Patch" with text by Marian Nelson. Inspired by the characters in the murals, Riopelle and Rutherford are now working on a children's book of their own.

Because Riopelle and Rutherford were commercial graphic artists before they took an interest in decorative painting, they know how to work with clients and execute their ideas. Rutherford specialized in hand-painted furniture before the two got together so if a client is interested in the total look they can supply that also.

"You have to be able to interpret what they have in mind," said Rutherford. "And even though we're not interior designers we know what to do with color."

Something for everyone

Riopelle and Rutherford never get bored with painting murals because of the variety of requests they receive — a pink castle and a dalmatian for little girl's rooms, Beatrix Potter-like scenes, a giraffe in a Livonia nursery, faux tiles painted on the wall behind a kitchen counter. Rutherford's neck is still stiff from painting angels on the ceiling of a bedroom. The couple, who requested the heavenly scenario, were inspired by the "Angels from the Vatican" exhibition they saw at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Riopelle and Rutherford won't soon forget the two murals they donated to a battered women's shelter run by First Step which is based in Canton. The sea scene features a turtle, dolphin and mermaid swimming down the walls of the hallway.

"While we were there a couple of kids came up to tell us writing on the wall was not allowed," said Rutherford. "I had to explain to them that sometimes people actually do pay you to draw on the walls."

Book for teen readers has no easy answers

'Nobody Else Has To Know' By Ingrid Tomey Dolacorte Press, 1999, $15.95

ESTHER LITTMANN

You're 15 years old. Not a brain or social kingpin. But you've just run the sixteen hundred in 4-1/2 minutes. And the coach says you'll beat that record in the spring.

To celebrate, you and Grampa are driving to the mall to buy an expensive pair of running shoes. It's a sunny fall day, the road is clear, and in your grandfather's eyes, you've already won an Olympic medal.

How about letting your famous grandson drive? you ask. The old man smiles indulgently and hands you the keys.

Still steeped in dreams of glory, you feel the freedom and power of driving down the open road. The radio blares; the countryside whizzes by.

You begin to relax and yell "moo" to a cow grazing on the opposite side of the road.

Suddenly, Grampa's Lincoln veers out of control. It swerves to the right, and you find yourself sliding onto the shoulder.

And just as suddenly a girl on a bike appears in your path, her eyes fixed in terror as the car comes barreling toward her.

The next thing you remember is lying in the hospital, your right leg in a cast and tubes coming from your veins. What happened? A car accident, you're told. What accident? You can't remember. The police report says your grandfather drove off the road and hit a little girl riding her bike. How awful! How sad! But you go on with your life. In school, you're an instant celebrity. All the pretty girls sign your cast and want to help.

Even cheerleader Maxie Gallagher brings you Cokes and carries your books. Sure, it's too bad about 10-year-old Taffy Putnam, who lies in a coma and, if she survives, may never walk again.

And Grampa will probably get sued and go to jail. But you're OK, right? In a few months, you'll be up — and running.

But then it happens — a flashback! A window opens to the brain, highlighting the events of that fateful afternoon. You were driving, not your grandfather. You're responsible for Taffy's pitiful condition. But no one knows except Grampa. And he's begging you not to tell: "This is my fault — all of it! ... I never should have let you drive. It was illegal and idiotic and stupid. ... Please, please, Webber. Let it go. I'm responsible for it. Whatever happened, I did it. Whatever is to come, I'll carry it."

This is the moral dilemma in Ingrid Tomey's "Nobody Else Has To Know," a novel inviting young readers to wonder what they would do in the protagonist's place.

It's a chilling story, told with expert timing and a keen understanding of the human heart. Webb Freegy and his grandfather become the neighbors next door, ordinary people who face extraordinary circumstances and decisions. What, the teen wonders, is so terrible about a lie? Doesn't everybody do it? And won't the truth simply make matters worse? What will happen to him and his innocent mother if the facts come out?

Once nutty and carefree, Webb faces these questions alone, with nothing but his conscience and the memory of his dead father to help him find the answer. Ingrid Tomey has written several books for young readers, including "The Queen of Dreamland," awarded "Best book for Young Adults" by the American Library Association.

Subsidy helps Greyhound begin UP bus service

Intercity bus service returned to Michigan's Upper Peninsula this summer, when Greyhound began three new daily routes. It is the first consistent bus service in the area in more than two years.

The three routes are: A north/south route from Calumet, Mich., to Milwaukee, Wis., along U.S. 41 and along Interstate 43 to Milwaukee.

An east/west route from St. Ignace, Mich., to Duluth, Minn., along U.S. 2.

A daytime route from Marquette, Mich., to Green Bay, Wis., along U.S. 41.

Greyhound was awarded the contract to run the subsidized service through a competitive bid process authorized by the Michigan Department of Transportation.

"Thousands of people in Michigan depend on intercity bus service to travel across the Upper Peninsula," said State Transportation Director James R. DeSana.

"We are pleased that service will be maintained using a nationally experienced carrier that will provide reliable, on-time service."

Total ridership on the three routes is expected to be 20,000 annually at the start of service.

Auction to aid St. Vincent and Sarah Fisher Center

BY FRANK PROVENZANO
STAFF WRITER
fprovenzano@oe.homecomm.net

Not surprisingly, a sculpture of the benevolent St. Vincent appears in the greeting area inside the St. Vincent and Sarah Fisher Center in Farmington Hills.

The statue of the patron saint and protector of children appears with several small children in his arms and around his feet. They seem to be dancing amid a halo of innocence.

It'd be nice to think of the saintly sculpture as a subtle reminder of how children are delicate like a fragile piece of art.

But the sculpture of St. Vincent is more of a case of art approximating an ideal.

Serving a cause

Unfortunately, for many children, the image of St. Vincent isn't an abstract symbol, but a literal sign that inside its doors is a safe haven from the horrors they've endured.

This Saturday, the works of nearly 60 fine artists from around metro Detroit will be auctioned in the eighth annual ArtShare, a benefit for the St. Vincent and Sarah Fisher Center.

What: Eighth annual ArtShare Invitational, a benefit for the St. Vincent and Sarah Fisher Center's programs for severely abused children and families in crisis.
When: 6 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 6
Where: 2000 Tower of the Southfield Town Center, east of the Lodge Freeway, between 9 and 10 Mile roads.
Tickets: $50/person. Patron packages - $200, include two tickets. Benefactor packages - $300. Call (248) 626-7527, ext. 3118
Live auction includes works by sculptor Henry Heading of Lathrup Village, sculptor Harlan Quinn of Birmingham, photographer Linda Solomon of Bloomfield Hills, and painter Howard Weingarden of Farmington Hills.

ter.

A case, perhaps, of contemporary art serving a cause, rather than being self-serving.

For 70 years, abused and neglected children have found refuge inside the Victorian-styled, slate-roof buildings on the 30 acres at the corner of 12 Mile and Inkster roads.

And with the center typically filled to its 60-person capacity, the refuge for children ages 9-19 is a stark reminder that innocence lost isn't regained so much as it must be reconstructed, bit by bit.

Bitter distrust

On a typical day after breakfast, the halls are swept, carpets vacuumed and floors mopped. But the scent of disinfectant can't rinse away the horrible memories of those children who've sought intervention from their own family members.

At least half of the children have been sexually abused. Most have incurred some type of physical assault.

Some have stayed for a month. Others have been around for five years.

All carry the bitter scar of distrust.

For a cause: This watercolor painting of a street scene by Kathy Phillips of West Bloomfield will be auctioned at the upcoming benefit.

Facing choices

Along the walls in the common living areas are a list of rules. Codes of behavior. Do's and don'ts instead of living, breathing role models.

"We provide a structure, and a stable education," said Sallie Justice, spokesperson for St. Vincent and Sarah Fisher Center.

A "structured life" provides security and stability, but it doesn't always offer explanations.

Nor can it bring back what has been lost. Answers, for most of these kids, ride on the wind.

On a bulletin board, a sign reads, "Life is a series of choices, the choice is yours."

Learning the stark reality of making choices and being responsible is a tough lesson at any age, especially when your top priority might be adding to your stuffed animal collection.

The St. Vincent and Fisher Center offers a reminder that children are in themselves delicate pieces of art. And ultimately, that a community must be responsible for the well-being of its youth.

Delicate pieces that have fallen apart can indeed be put back together.

Children, after all, are works-in-progress.

Even malls can make us sentimental

SHOP TALK

NICOLE STAFFORD

I don't think of myself as sentimental about shopping, especially when it comes to big department stores and shopping malls. At a time when big retailers and malls just seem to be getting larger and larger and less and less personal, who would?

Last week, though, I found myself reminiscing about childhood and teenage excursions to Somerset Collection South, what was then just Somerset Mall.

My recollections grew out of a conversation I was having with Kim Nye, the general manager at Saks Fifth Avenue in Troy. Saks holds a plethora of events for shoppers, so we were discussing why that it is exactly.

As a retail editor, it's easy to become jaded about such events; day in and day out I receive one press release after another about retail programs and events. In this way, they seem to blend into one and lose their individual value and purpose.

While speaking to Nye, I remembered my mom bringing my sister and I to visit Santa Claus at Saks each December. The waiting lines were long, and the garments Mom dressed me in seemed stiff and frilly.

And since I was a bit on the mischievous side as a child, I was usually worried Santa might confront me about my behavior. (Thanks to forgiving parents, I was never concerned about receiving a bag full of coal for Christmas.)

Of course, Mom needed to snap photographs of us on Santa's lap, a process that seemed to take forever and require all kinds of physical adjustments - bigger smiles, better hand placement and the like. It also struck me as trivial and a waste of time.

Nonetheless, as I stood in Saks last week, I recalled the tradition fondly. I could almost see myself dressed in a velvet dress and black patent Mary Janes, stumbling behind Mom, as we stepped on to the first floor elevator to go see Santa. After, Mom would shop. More time wasted, but I didn't care; I was too busy sucking on a peppermint candy cane that Santa (Saks) had given me.

Somerset was also the backdrop for my first solo shopping excursion. Having reached the appropriate age, my parents agreed to allow my sister and I to spend a Saturday afternoon there without them.

For all I knew, Mom might have been running errands, browsing window displays and keeping tabs on the two of us all afternoon. And, while Mom had given us money to buy lunch at one of the mall's restaurants, neither of us had enough of our own money to purchase anything more than a pack of gum.

Nonetheless, we were free to roam wherever we pleased, relished in showing each other clothes we liked and looked forward to heading to the restaurant to order and eat lunch.

I think we ordered a cheeseburger and fries and one hot fudge sundae to split. Mom had instructed us how to tip our waitress, but being new at this sort of thing, we skimped on the food, fearing we might run out of money for the tip.

As I got older, trips to the mall with my sister and girlfriends were more frequent but still treasured.

As a teenager, going to the mall with my best friend in late summer to search for back-to-school clothes was a ritual. Again, neither of us had much money, and shopping meant looking for clothes for Mom to buy later. Or, so we hoped.

My girlfriend and I did, however, routinely stop at the mall's candy store - I'm fairly certain it was Fannie Mae Candies - to buy two or three handmade chocolates to gobble up while we made shopping rounds.

At lunch time, we headed to the same restaurant where my sister and I ate lunch by ourselves for the first time. By now, eating there had become old hat. I had, for example, learned I needed to order my cheeseburger medium-well, rather than medium. Having computed the tip many times before, I also was less anxious about ordering what I wanted, so individual sundaes always followed our cheeseburgers. But what struck me most about this experience was a new boldness in my best friend when it came ordering her sundae: mint chocolate-chip ice-cream with strawberry sauce.

Dialogue with Dana

Woman to woman: A local Neiman Marcus shopper talks with clothing designer Dana Buchman (at right) after a runway show of Buchman's clothing. The designer also spoke to members of the Women's Economic Club in Detroit.

Clothing designer Dana Buchman talks to local women about lifestyle and fashion

BY NICOLE STAFFORD
SPECIAL EDITOR

nstafford@oe.homecomm.net

Today, it's not uncommon to hear fashion designers talk about how women ought to wear comfortable, pleasing clothes, fashion to suit their personality and lifestyle.

But how many fashion designers actually look at the clothing American women are wearing and convince us that's so?

Well, at least one designer, Dana Buchman, who made a two-day stop in the metropolitan Detroit area last week, does.

Buchman's visit, which was sponsored by Neiman Marcus, included speaking at a meeting of the Women's Economic Club and a Thursday fashion show and luncheon at Neiman Marcus to benefit Angels' Place.

After the in-store luncheon, Buchman spoke with fans, dispensed fashion advice, signed autographs, helped customers pick out merchandise and even followed a few shoppers into the dressing room to provide support.

"It's her trademark. It's her thing," said Buchman's assistant, Doreen Zaldivar, as the fashion designer emerged from a dressing room. "She's very hands-on and likes the one-on-one thing. And, everybody wants her opinion."

Ironically, Buchman's opinion about what women should wear is probably more dependent on other women's attitudes and lifestyles than her own.

Not only did she pay close attention to what members of the Women's Economic Club were donning - more skirts than she would have expected, lots of accessories, a chic group - but she described her job as figuring out "what we women want to wear on our backs next year."

She also shared her observations about women's lifestyles today, saying, "there's been a trend of loosening up" in regards to how women balance priorities and responsibilities.

In contrast to the 80s, women are not singularly focused on their careers and work life. "And this shift, this loosening up, has affected fashion," she said. Women are not only "going after the emotional side of clothes again," but also resuming an interest in fashion in general, she said.

Here's what else Dana Buchman had to say in a one-on-one interview following her speech before the Women's Economic Club.

Q: You seem to sense and tap into an ambivalence many women have today about fashion and beauty, could you comment?

A: I think we're evolving back to a time when fashion can be enjoyed again. We're allowing ourselves to enjoy getting dressed, which we haven't for a while.

Q: Other than we have to get dressed, how is fashion elemental to women?

A: Fashion is a cultural thing. The way you dress affects how you feel about yourself and how others perceive you.

Q: How can women make fashion work for them, rather than allowing it to impose itself on them?

A: The most important thing is to be open to something new, to try something new. ... The second thing is make sure what you buy fits. If it fits, there's nothing like it. ... And, then the sure-fire key thing is to look in the mirror.

Q: What drew you to speaking to the Women's Economic Club?

A: Speaking to a group like this is fun for me, but also I get to see what the women of Detroit involved in this aspect of business - what they're wearing, what they're thinking, how they look.

Q: What did you notice about the women here?

A: (They are) a chic group of women. There's not as much color as I would have expected. Detroit women have traditionally bought a lot of color. ... Lots of jackets, a lot of accessories. Fewer pants than I would have thought.

Great Wall really is larger-than-life sight

(Second of a 2-part series)

BY JUDITH DONER BERNE
SPECIAL WRITER

ON OUR full 17-day tour of China we saw more larger-than-life sights than I've experienced in any other country. Three are in the Beijing area: The Great Wall, the Forbidden City and Tiananmen Square.

The others are the terra cotta soldiers at Xian, the Three Gorges Dam, and the Yangtze River itself. (These wonders will have to be the subject of a future article.)

The Great Wall, widely advertised as the only man-made structure visible from space, was just as moving close up. We saw it from Mutianyu, about 45 miles from Beijing, where a Japanese-built cable car takes you on a scenic ride, depositing you within reach of the highest restored section. It's still a short, but steep climb to the top, where unfortunately a blasting loud speaker and souvenir hawkers greet you. But it's possible to move down a few yards to find the man-made wonder of the world.

Originally built in small sections by individual feudal states during the 5th Century BC, the Great Wall was connected at the end of the 3rd Century BC on orders of Emperor Qin when he unified China. The enormity of the task - the wall runs for 3,000 miles - is almost unimaginable.

On the same day, we stopped at the Ming tombs, where 13 of 16 Ming emperors were buried. We entered from the Avenue of Animals, a tree-lined path flanked by whimsical pairs of stone animals and courtesans leading to the excavated tomb of Ming Emperor Wan Li (1573-1620). Legend has it that they were erected to save the dead emperor and his wives from danger in the afterlife. Other imperial tombs in this area remain unexcavated.

We re-viewed the film "The Last Emperor" shortly before we left for China.

But still we weren't prepared for the Forbidden City. Twenty-four emperors of the Ming and Qing dynasties lived within its red walls, which until 1911 was the center of the Chinese world.

The square, flat architecture, the symmetry of its courtyards within courtyards, the treeless (nothing should be more imposing than the emperor), flat 200 acres are bisected by the Imperial Path, along which only the emperor could travel.

Halls, pavilions, palaces and courtyards comprising the Forbidden City were built between 1406 and 1420 by 200,000 men, we were told. Only the palace, where the imperial family resided, survived war and fire. The other buildings have been rebuilt, restored and repainted many times, maintaining the original design.

We visited Tiananmen Square, considered the heart of China, twice. Our 24-year-old guide, usually very open, brushed off a question about where in the square the 1989 conflict between students and soldiers took place. Of the building which houses Chairman Mao Zedong's tomb, closed while we were there, she said: "Only the old people go there. The young people don't like him."

In Beijing, we rode in a rickshaw, visited a traditional Chinese home in the hutong and a nearby elementary school, toured the Summer Palace, the Temple of Heaven (the most famous temple in China) and Beihai Park. The latter was where we enjoyed lunch, on our own, at the illustrious Fangshan restaurant. According to Fodor's: "Established in 1925 by three royal chefs, Fangshan serves dishes once prepared by Qing emperors based on recipes garnered from across China."

We stumbled through a pre-set meal of a dozen dishes, with some help from a Chinese woman at an adjoining table.

The Chinese people are generally friendly, but seemed the most reserved in Beijing. I had a halting conversation with a young Chinese woman in the health club locker room of my hotel. She was eager to try out her English, to trade e-mail addresses, and proudly told me she had just hooked up to Yahoo. But when I began asking her questions about political issues, she clammed up.

We weren't friendless in a foreign land, however. Arriving a day earlier than our tour group, we were greeted by a large blue and gold University of Michigan poster in the lobby of our hotel. It turned out that a U-M alumni travel group had arrived a day ahead of us.

On that tour were Paul and Ruth Kadish of Farmington Hills, who are friends of friends, as well as former West Bloomfield residents Jim and Ann Beuerle, who now live in Suttons Bay.

The food in China is built around fresh vegetables, and either noodles or rice, depending on the region, and the sauces are a lot lighter than here. We didn't eat off the street or from the markets, which in addition to abundant fruits and vegetables featured delicacies such as live snakes, pigs ears and more entrails than I knew existed.

In Beijing desserts looked a lot better than they tasted. I never saw orange sherbet, the dessert staple of Chinese restaurants in the U.S.

And nowhere in China did I see anything resembling a fortune cookie.

CHEERS FOR BEER

CHEF JOSEPH STYKE

Comfort food, Oktoberfest beer in season

Well, here it is the end of October already. Bow season for deer has started, and another Oktoberfest has passed by, but the wonderful beer is still with us.

Oktoberfest beer is a bottom-fermented lager that is made stronger and lagered (aged) longer and made in March for Oktoberfest so it is also called Marzenbier (March beer). The original Oktoberfest beer dates from the 1840s and was brewed by Gabriel Sedlmayr as a tribute to the Viennese brewer Anton Dreher at his Spaten Brewery in Munich. There are only six brewers allowed to sell their beer at the Oktoberfest — Spaten, Paulaner, Hacker-Pschorr, Hofbrau, Augustiner and Lowenbrau.

The malt used is called Vienna malt, which is dried at higher temperatures than the very pale pilsner but lower than the darker Munich so it gives that lovely amber to pale copper color.

Marzen is made according to the 1516 German beer purity law called the Reinheitsgebot, which states that beer can be made only with water, malt, hops and yeast. It is a medium to strong beer with an alcoholic content of 5 to 7 percent by volume. It is medium to full-bodied with a very malty nose but has a lighter malt flavor. Hops are from Munich's own Hallertau district and have a little spice and bitterness to balance the malt sweetness. My favorite is the Ur-Marzen from Spaten.

Oktoberfest fare includes wursts (sausages) of all kinds, roasted oxen and chickens and venison, which is in season. This recipe below came from my grandmother and was the first venison dish I ever ate. I was 9 at the time and wasn't told I had eaten venison until I was done. I loved it and the spaetzle served alongside it.

She called it a ragout of venison, but I told her it was a stew and was promptly told, "children should be seen and not heard." She told me ragout was just a fancy word for stew. If venison is not available, lamb, pork shoulder or beef work just as well.

Spaetzle is the pasta of Germany and is thought to have come from Swabia. Spaetzle is often served in place of potatoes with gravy or just tossed with a little butter.

You can use a spaetzle-maker that looks like a monster garlic press or you can just push it through the bottom of a colander. The secret of good spaetzle is a dough thick and elastic but still thin enough to push through the colander. This stuff is comfort food on cold blustery days and will grow on you.

RAGOUT OF VENISON

- 3 pounds of venison shoulder (or beef or pork) cut into 1-inch cubes
- 1/4 cup oil
- 3 medium onions, diced large
- 1 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
- 1/2 teaspoon dried thyme
- 1/4 teaspoon dried rosemary
- 2 1/2 cups beef stock
- 2 cups red wine
- 1/2 ounce dried chanterelle mushrooms
- 1/2 ounce dried Polish, Black Forest or porcini mushrooms
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 1/2 pound peeled chestnuts
- 1 cup heavy cream

Salt and pepper to taste

In a heavy pot big enough to hold everything, brown the meat over medium-high heat in batches and place in a bowl, adding more oil as needed. Add onions to pot and cook until almost a little brown and then add garlic and mushrooms.

Cook for 4 more minutes, stirring con-

Ooo sa, sa, sa. Ooo sa, sa, sa. Hit 'em in the head with a big kielbasa! Go, team, go!

What better way to entertain friends and cheer your favorite football team on to victory than with a stadium-size, back-bumper feast or coffee table buffet.

And remember, footballs aren't the only things wrapped in pigskin. Besides kielbasa, there's plump bratwurst, juicy hot dogs, tiny cocktail franks and succulent

Italian sausage heaped with onions and peppers.

Stadium kielbasa is the biggest seller at Kowalski Sausage Co. in Westland during football season, said store manager Wendy Vella. This is no thin-skinned, sisay sausage requiring gentle prodding or careful cooking, she added. This is manly FOOTBALL FAN kielbasa. Hut, hut, hut!

"Just throw it on the grill or simmer it in a little bit of water like they do at Tiger Stadium. Most people then top it with kapusta or regular sauerkraut," she said.

OK, so what's kapusta? "It's sauerkraut with cabbage, mushroom soup mix and salt pork. We sell it by the pound," said Vella.

The secret to a touchdown-scoring tailgate party is to prepare foods that hold their flavors and textures, simple dishes that will taste great when served later in the day, said Kathy Stark, executive chef for The HoneyBaked Ham Company in Troy.

"We love tailgate picnics. They are a treat because all of the work is done in advance. The host can enjoy the food and atmosphere as much as the guests."

Simple fare often means sandwiches, especially roll-ups. Just spread your favorite filling on a lavash bread, roll and refrigerate for several hours. Serve with a few bowls of your favorite dip, a platter of chicken wings or cocktail franks basted in a tangy sauce, and you'll have a tailgate party that doesn't sideline the host.

If your guests have warm hearts but cold fingers, warm up those

Tailgate tips

- Bring along school-colored napkins, blankets or even school-sanctioned decorations. Purchase enough pompoms for each of your tailgate guests.
- To pre-heat thermoses, place boiling water in them for five or 10 minutes. Empty and fill with soup, chowder or hot beverage.
- To protect the serving area of your vehicle against any spills, line with a plastic sheet. Cover the plastic with a school-colored blanket.
- Park your caravan of cars in a circle, if possible, to provide a little privacy while you dine.
- Bring a portable, battery-operated TV or radio to listen to pregame commentary.
- Pack a few extra folding chairs in your vehicle.

Hearty Beans 'n' Sausage warms and comforts

BY KEELY WYGNONIK

Hearty Michigan Beans 'n' Sausage "smells good when you bake it," said Elaine Schuster of Southfield. "It's a really good recipe. It has lots of meat and is real thick. I serve it as a main dish or a side dish at parties."

Schuster's recipe appears on page 78 of "2000 Taste of Home Annual Recipes" published by Reinjan Publications.

Schuster a Taste of Home magazine subscriber, was surprised to learn that her recipe was chosen for the cookbook, a collection of 576 recipes, including ones from the 1999 issues of Taste of Home. Her recipe appeared in the February 1999 edition. All of the recipes in Taste of Home come from the magazine's nearly five million subscribers.

"It's fun to share what you cook. It's almost like having people over to eat," she said.

Schuster's Michigan Beans 'n' Sausage recipe calls for chicken gizzards, but you can substitute chopped turkey or chicken. She recommends using chopped chicken thighs, but adds, "I do have to warn you that gizzards are very good." To save time, she sometimes substitutes canned beans for the dry navy beans.

Married to Jim for 30 years, Schuster has a grown son, and 5-year-old granddaughter. She works as a contract coordinator for the Michigan Department of Civil Rights.

"I throw everything in one pot," to get dinner on the table fast," she said.

"I'll start with a can of soup, add some thing, and thicken it up with rice. I'm always looking for fast recipes. If I can't get dinner on the table in a half hour we get carry-out. It helps to have a plan."

"2000 Taste of Home Annual Recipes," a 324-page hardcover cookbook, with full color photos, kitchen tested "family favorite" recipes, theme-related menus, and other surprises is available from Reinjan Publications for $29.99, plus $2.50 shipping/insured delivery. To order by mail send check to Taste of Home Books, Suite 4235, P.O. Box 990, Greendale, WI 53129. To order with a credit card, call 800-355-1013, and specify item 27861.

Here's Schuster's recipe:

MICHIGAN BEANS 'N' SAUSAGE

- 1 pound dry navy beans
- 6 bacon strips, sliced
- 3 medium onions, sliced into rings
- 1 pound chicken gizzards, trimmed and halved, (optional; you can substitute an equal amount of cubed chicken or turkey)
- 4 cups water
- 2 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon dried thyme
- 1 bay leaf
- 1/2 cup kielbasa, sliced
- 1/2 cup sauerkraut, drained and well washed gastronomical touchdown.

But what if you want to serve something beyond the usual hamburgers and hot dogs? What if beer makes you belch, but champagne makes you delightfully giddy. What if you're more paté than potato salad?

Tailgate parties can be "football, fancy and fun," said Gerald Gramzay, executive chef at The Townsend Hotel in downtown Birmingham. Go ahead, fans, get out the lobster pot and chill the bubbly.

Gramzay suggests preparing cold smoked salmon roulade stuffed with lump crab or shrimp salad. He's also fond of a cucumber dill salad filling. Simply peel, slice, salt and drain a few cucumbers. Add diced red onion, diced red and yellow peppers, and dress with salt, pepper, sugar, fresh dill and a splash of rice wine vinegar and olive oil.

If football season brings out the meat-eater in you, Gramzay's grilled rack of lamb drizzled with balsamic vinegar will score extra points. One rack usually yields eight small chops. Most football fans can devour at least four chops, so buy at least three or four racks. Choose Australian over New Zealand lamb, but try to get Colorado lamb if possible, said Gramzay. It has a richer, more intense flavor.

Bring along a dish of roasted vegetables, some country bread to slice and grill with a sprinkling of Parmesan cheese, and you have a tailgate party with an attitude.

Of course, Gramzay recommends serving lots of Illy Cafe or Jamaican Blue coffee to go with those chocolate cheesecake brownies.

"Just the smell of that coffee along with those lamb chops will bring everyone to your tailgate."

Whether its brats or caviar, Bud Lite or Veuve Clicquot, enjoy your tailgate party and let the crumbs fall where they may. And if you happen to get invited to a tailgate party, just remember: Never tackle the hostess.

See recipes on Page D3.

- 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
- 1 cup soft bread crumbs
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

Place beans in a Dutch oven; add water to cover by 2 inches. Bring to a boil for 2 minutes. Remove from the heat; cover and let stand for 1 hour.

Drain and discard liquid. Return beans to pan and set aside. In a skillet, cook bacon until crisp. Drain, reserving 2 tablespoons of drippings; set bacon aside.

Sauté onions and gizzards (cubed chicken or turkey) if desired in the drippings until the onions are tender and the gizzards are browned. Add the 4 cups of water, garlic, salt, marjoram, bay leaf, pepper, bacon and onion mixture to the beans.

Cover and bake at 350°F for 3 hours or until the beans are tender. Discard bay leaf. Stir in sausage and tomato sauce. Toss bread crumbs and butter; sprinkle over top. Bake uncovered, 25 minutes longer or until golden. Yield 10-12 servings.

Green tomatoes

If you're like me, you've probably got a few green tomatoes clinging to your tomato plants.

Sure, you can dip them in a little egg, dust with flour, and fry in oil, or try this recipe from Philip Power, chairman of the board, Hometown Communications, Inc. "It's one of our family favorites for fall," he said. "Use green tomatoes that have a little bit of a blush."

GREEN TOMATOES

- 2 pounds, chopped green tomatoes
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 3 or 4 garlic cloves, finely chopped

Sauté garlic in olive oil. Add tomatoes. Cook gently until cooked down. Add salt and pepper to taste. Serve over fresh cooked pasta with a sprinkle of Parmesan cheese. Serves 4.

Try this make-ahead tailgate party menu

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tailgate parties are as cheery a part of football as the point after touchdown.

They can be beer-swilling barbecue feasts with fans in complete regalia and painted faces. Or they can be refined affairs featuring prepared meals served on the best china, with linen napkins and wine goblets.

Here's a suggestion from the Culinary Institute of America: a simple make-ahead menu for a cool-weather picnic to serve from your tailgate.

Recipes are adapted from the institute's new cookbook "Garde Manger: The Art and Craft of the Cold Kitchen" (Wiley, $54.95).

Pan Bagnat, literally meaning "bathed bread," consists of marinated tuna salad, stuffed inside hard rolls and wrapped up tightly. The bread soaks up the savory juices of the salad and the robust flavor calls for an icy cold beer and salty potato chips.

For dessert try Hermit Bars, hearty spiced cookies. Serve them with mugs of steaming Mulled Cider you've kept piping hot in a thermos.

the rolls and firmly press the sandwiches closed. Wrap each sandwich tightly with deli paper or wax paper. Let rest at room temperature at least 1 hour before serving.

Makes 10 sandwiches.

stantly. Return the meat to the pot and add thyme, rosemary, dried mushrooms, stock and wine. Simmer covered for 2-1/2 to 3 hours. Add chestnuts and simmer one hour longer. Check the meat for tenderness and cook longer if needed, especially if the deer was an older one. Add cream and salt and pepper, simmering for about a 1/2 hour more. Serve the spaetzle on the side with some of the gravy from the stew.

Polish and Black Forest mushrooms can be bought a Rafel's Spice Co. in the Eastern Market.

Place all the ingredients in the bowl of a food processor and process to blend. Pulse 5 or 6 times until dough is smooth and elastic.

Push the batter through the spaetzle maker or colander into a large pot of boiling salted water and cook 5 to 8 more minutes, stirring to keep from sticking. Dough will have to be cooked in batches. Remove with a slotted spoon and place in a bowl of cold water to stop the cooking. Drain and lightly toss with oil until ready to use. To heat, melt 3 tablespoons butter in a sauté pan over medium-low heat, add spaetzle and stir to keep from sticking.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nicole Lillard of the Culinary Institute of America, Hyde Park, N.Y., won first prize in the student category of a baking contest for her delectably smooth Spiced Apple Walnut Cheesecake.

The dessert, a rich treat for special occasions, is especially timely at the harvest season for apples and nuts. It has a ground-walnut crust, which holds the cheesecake, a creamy mixture of apples, eggs, cream cheese and spice. The toppings are a white chocolate glaze and a garnish of cinnamon-glazed walnuts.

SPICED APPLE WALNUT CHEESECAKE

- Walnut Crust:
- 4 cups ground walnuts
 - 6 tablespoons sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/2 cup butter, melted
- Apple Cheesecake Batter:
- 11/2 cups cream cheese
 - 1/2 cup mascarpone cheese
 - 1/2 cup applesauce
 - 3/4 cup sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- Dash ground nutmeg
Dash ground cloves
3 large eggs

Thinly layer each lavash wrap with three turkey slices, one cheese slice, two lettuce leaves, four apple slices and about one tablespoon of honey mustard. Tightly roll up the lavash. Slice in half, wrap tightly in plastic wrap (you may want to secure with a toothpick). Chill for up to two hours. Serves 8.

BALSAMIC MARINATED GAME DAY LAMB CHOPS

- 3 8-bone racks of lamb (yields 24 chops)
- 1/2 cup balsamic vinegar
- 1 1/2 cups very good virgin olive oil (not extra virgin)
- 8 cloves of garlic, peeled and cracked
- 2 sprigs of fresh rosemary, chopped
- 2 sprigs of fresh thyme, chopped
- 1 teaspoon kosher salt
- 1 teaspoon fresh ground pepper

Ask your butcher to "French trim" the 8-bone racks of lamb. Allow four chops per person. Whisk together the balsamic vinegar, olive oil and garlic. Put lamb racks into a 9 x 13-inch glass baking dish, cover with marinade and top with rosemary and thyme. Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate overnight.

The next day cut each rack into 8 individual lamb chops (cut evenly between the bones for consistent thickness). Lightly dry chops so they don't flare up and season with kosher salt and fresh ground pepper. Cook over an ashen gray charcoal fire.

Baste with marinade carefully. Cook for three minutes, then turn and cook three more minutes. Turn back and forth one more time, basting carefully but amply. Remove from grill when correct doneness is achieved. Use an instant meat thermometer - 130°F for medium and 160°F for well done. Serves 6.

SMOKED SALMON AND CUCUMBER ROLL-UP WITH AMERICAN CAVIAR

- 18 ounces smoked salmon, 3 oz. per person
- 1 English cucumber, split, seeded and cut into bias slices
- 1/2 red onion, julienned
- 1/2 red pepper, seeded and julienned
- 1/2 yellow pepper, seeded and julienned
- 2 ounces rice wine vinegar, or white vinegar
- 1 ounce olive oil
- 1 teaspoon dill, chopped
- 1 pinch salt and pepper
- 1 pinch sugar
- 3 ounces Caviar, American Sturgeon

Make salad the day ahead: Mix together cucumbers, onions and peppers. Add olive oil, vinegar, dill and seasonings.

For each person, lay out four slices of smoked salmon (purchased at your favorite specialty store) on a small 7 by 7-inch piece of plastic wrap. Gently flatten out with your hand to create a single salmon "skin" that you can roll up.

Gently squeeze out excess juice from cucumber salad and place in center of salmon. Roll up tightly like a cigar, using the plastic wrap to assist. At meal time, remove plastic wrap and garnish with a lemon wedge, fresh dill sprig and a generous dollop of the American Spoonbill Caviar. Serves 6.

Spiced apple walnut cheesecake a special treat until well blended. In a small bowl stir the sugar and ground spices until well blended. Add the spiced sugar to the cream-cheese mixture. Scrape the bowl down after the addition and continue to beat on low speed until the spiced sugar is incorporated. Whisk the eggs and egg yolks together to blend them, then add the eggs to the batter. Scrape the bowl down once more and continue beating until the eggs are absorbed and the batter is well blended.

Preheat oven to 325 F. Place a shallow pan of water on the bottom shelf of the oven. Pour the cheesecake batter into the walnut crust in the 9-inch springform pan. Place on the middle shelf of the oven. Bake the cheesecake for 40 minutes, or until it is set. Remove the cheesecake from the oven and allow it to come to room temperature. Loosen sides of springform pan and slip off the ring.

To make the White Chocolate Glaze: Chop the white chocolate finely and place it in a mixing bowl. Bring the cream to a rolling boil and pour it over the chopped chocolate. Stir the mixture until the chocolate has melted. Pour the glaze over the cheesecake to coat it evenly, then place the cheesecake in the refrigerator until the glaze has set, 1 to 2 hours.

To make the Cinnamon Glazed Walnut Garnish: Combine the sugars, cinnamon and water in a skillet over high heat and stir to blend the mixture well. Bring the syrup to a boil, add the walnut halves and stir the walnuts in the syrup until the skillet is dry and the walnuts are well coated. Remove the walnuts to a piece of kitchen parchment and let them cool. Garnish the cheesecake with the glazed walnuts and serve.

Time change may affect sleep pattern

Sleepy the Dwarf, of Snow White fame, may be the most appropriate costume this Halloween as your body adjusts to daylight savings time.

At 2 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 31, clocks will be moved back one hour and standard daylight time will begin. This time change may disrupt your body's sleep rhythm and therefore your overall alertness, according to Thomas Roth, Ph.D., director of the Sleep Disorders and Research Center at Henry Ford Hospital.

"Many people assume that their body benefits by gaining an extra hour. Actually, it is more difficult for the body to adjust to a longer day in the fall than it is to adjust to a shorter day in the spring," Roth says.

To ensure that you and your children are alert for any Halloween activities you may have planned, Roth suggests that you prepare your body's internal clock by going to bed 15 minutes earlier each day for several days prior to any time change.

Also be aware that you may be less alert behind the wheel driving to and from Halloween parties. An increase in sleep-related automobile accidents is often seen in the days after time changes. He reminds motorists that they may be in danger of falling asleep behind the wheel if they:

- can't remember the last few miles driven;
- keep jerking their vehicles back into the lane;
- experience wandering, disconnected thoughts;
- yawn repeatedly or have trouble keeping their head up;
- have difficulty focusing or keeping their eyes open; or
- tailgate or miss traffic signs.

If you find you are falling asleep, find a safe place to stop; take a brief nap (20 to 40 minutes) if tired; and drink coffee or another source of caffeine to increase short-term alertness.

Upping the standards

Traditional school eye exams warrant second look

BY KIMBERLY A. MORTSON
STAFF WRITER
kmortson@ec.homecomm.net

If your child recently passed a school vision screening test you would probably assume he or she has good vision. Surprisingly, this assumption isn't necessarily true.

The "standard" eye exam given in schools throughout the United States doesn't test aspects of vision necessary for reading and grasping information for long periods of time. Vision problems could go unnoticed until children have suffered learning setbacks irrespective of the repeated and annual testing during their school years.

A child who receives a 20/20 score from a traditional school eye exam can identify the letters and numbers of an eye chart at a distance of 20 feet. This, however, fails to address vision skills necessary for learning such as where the object is, its size, distance from the observer, rate of movement, and texture — none of which are measured in a standard eye exam.

According to the College of Optometrists in Vision Development, nearly 80 percent of what a child perceives, comprehends and remembers depends on the efficiency of the visual system.

Asking more questions

"Despite the fact that a child has had an eye exam they may still have a problem," said Dr. Randy Houdek, O.D., of Vision Associates of Westland. "These standard tests fail to screen for more comprehensive visual skills and to test for learning-related vision problems — problems that may be impeding the academic progress of a child while masquerading themselves as behavioral problems, ADD or even dyslexia."

The Westland optometrist has long been a proponent of improving school vision testing not only by increasing public awareness of some of the standard exam inefficiencies but through free screenings in local public and parochial schools, in addition to offering the services at no cost from his office.

PAVE, Parents Active for Vision Education, is a national non-profit organization founded on the belief that there is a significant relationship between vision and learning and that early diagnosis is one of the best ways to keep a child from suffering both academically and emotionally because of a vision problem.

At a recent symposium in California PAVE pointed to research that implies one in every four children and seven out of 10 juvenile delinquents have vision problems that interfere with their ability to achieve, according to Marjie Thompson, PAVE co-founder and president. PAVE members and Houdek hope to increase both parent and teacher awareness of the symptoms and the impact a vision problem can have if left undetected.

Learning problems such as poor reading comprehension, short attention span, letter and word reversal, slopping writing and trouble recognizing words could, and have in some cases, been misinterpreted as signs of dyslexia and attention deficit disorder, when in fact the cause is a focusing or tracking disorder, faulty visual memory (inability to remember what is seen), faulty visual form perception (inability to discriminate among different shapes) or faulty visual motor integration (inability to process and reproduce visual images by writing/drawing) — all conditions related to vision.

Learning-related vision problems share similar symptoms with other diagnoses such as food allergies, sensory integration dysfunction, ADHD and in the normal behavior of children under the age of seven.

According to Patricia S. Lemer, M.Ed., of the Optometric Extension Program, "the public needs to understand that some behavioral optometrists, physicians, educators, mental health professionals, occupational therapists and allergists are all addressing the same symptoms and behaviors."

In a brochure on the developmental approach to attention deficits Lemer states, "The difference is that medication, special education and counseling (can) mask these symptoms and behaviors, while vision therapy, occupational therapy and treatment of allergies can (may) alleviate the underlying causes and thus eliminate the symptoms long-term."

What to look for

"Parents and teachers have to be vigilant about the signs a child may be displaying such as rubbing their eyes, losing their place frequently when reading, squinting or a lack of interest in what they're reading. The tests that an optometrist is trained to perform enables them to detect and treat vision problems," said Houdek.

A large part of the problem of school vision screenings is that there are currently no national standards in place for vision screening of school-age children nor are there standards for who is administering the screening. Screeners can range from state-certified vision and audiology technicians to credentialed school nurses and teachers.

"The passage or failure of a school eye exam should be the first step in the health care of your child's eyes. It's important to schedule a more extensive exam that includes testing aspects of vision such as visual spatial skills, visual analysis skills, visual motor integration and visual memory," said Houdek. "You shouldn't be afraid to ask your optometrist if he or she is checking for visual efficiency problems."

Vision Associates of Westland will be conducting free vision perception and testing for children in grades first through ninth from 3 to 6 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 16. Call (734) 326-2160 to make an appointment. The Westland office is located at 38979 Cherry Hill Rd., Suite B.

Applicants sought for free comprehensive vision screening

Low-income workers and their families can begin applying for free eye exams through a program called VISION USA.

VISION USA is a national non-profit program that matches low-income children and adults with optometrists in their communities who provide free comprehensive eye exams in their offices.

Although this service helps people of all ages, VISION USA 2000 will mark the start of the program's emphasis on aiding children.

To qualify for free eye care under VISION USA, persons must have a job or live in a household where there is at least one working member, have no health insurance that covers eye examinations, have income below an established level based on household size and have had no eye examination within two years.

Although the VISION USA eye exams are not given until March, 2000, the American Optometric Association, which administers the program, is accepting applications for program participation now.

Application forms are available from VISION USA, 243 N. Lindbergh Blvd., St. Louis, MO 63141 and starting in November, forms will be available from the American Optometric Association Web site (www.aoanet.org) in the "Meet the AOA" section. Completed forms must be postmarked by Jan. 21, 2000.

Nearly nine out of 10 people served by the VISION USA program have had one or more eye health or vision problems. Optometrists have also diagnosed potentially blinding eye disease in VISION USA patients, including glaucoma, as well as uncovered general health problems affecting vision, such as diabetes and brain tumors.

Pace your kids' consumption of candy to avoid tummy aches

The kids, just back from trick-or-treating, are sitting on the floor with huge mounds of candy in front of them. They're peeling the wrapper off a piece of candy before their other is gone. Their only concern is how fast they can eat it. What comes next? The tummy ache. But when is a tummy ache more than just a tummy ache?

Most adults have had a stomach ache sometime during their lives, but kids seem to be afflicted with them much more often than adults. A good 10 percent to 20 percent of kids are bothered by abdominal pain to the point that it interferes with their normal routines, and 20 percent of those have no identifiable cause (a condition known as recurrent abdominal pain, or RAP).

So, experts say, the time to be seen by a doctor for a stomach ache is when the pain is combined with fever, vomiting, diarrhea, poor weight gain, weight loss or sharp localized pain.

Stomach complaints can be linked to many things, including distraction from

'Suddenly the candy's gone from their system, their blood sugar is now coming down, and the insulin's still around and the kids get hypoglycemic, where their blood sugar is quite low and they often feel very sick, then get pale, complain of nausea, sometimes even vomit.'

— Dr. Chris J. Dickinson
chief of pediatric gastroenterology, U-M eating too much, intolerance to certain foods and bowel spasms. But that is now always the case. At times like Halloween, a condition called hypoglycemia may also be a culprit of tummy aches after the chocolate and candy corn are gone.

"The kids sometimes just eat too much candy. The candies often have a lot of sugar in them, raising the levels of sugar in their blood stream dramatically, which causes release of insulin," said Chris J. Dickinson, M.D., chief of pediatric gastroenterology at the University of Michigan Health System. "Suddenly the candy's gone from their system, their blood sugar is now coming down, and the insulin's still around and the kids get hypoglycemic, where their blood sugar is quite low and they often feel very sick, then get pale, complain of nausea, sometimes even vomit."

Dickinson suggests that parents limit the number of pieces of candy that their kids eat, especially that first evening, to avoid problems.

To treat the tummy aches, kids can take some of the over-the-counter medications, but for a lot of them, the dosages are much different for children than for adults, says Dickinson. "Check with your pediatrician beforehand to make sure that the dose that you're going to give is appropriate for your child."

One general rule to follow is "if it is pain alone, we leave it alone," says Dickinson. Concerns arise if a child also experiences a fever, vomiting, diarrhea, poor weight gain, or even weight loss with their tummy ache. At those times, parents will want to have a physician evaluate their child.

While checking all candy for tampering, also remove candy that presents a choking hazard. Candies that are particularly easy to choke on are the large hard candies such as jaw breakers, or smaller ones that can get directly into the lungs such as peanuts or other small candy. Don't allow toddlers to have those types of candy.

LEGAL SENSE
By Mark Slavens, P.C.
Attorney at Law

COMPENSATING VICTIMS

The notion of paying money to the victim of a crime has its roots in Kentish Law of seventh-century England, which stipulated that money or property be extracted as punishment from criminals. To be paid directly to the victims of their offenses. The thinking behind this manner of compensation was that, if it were the victims who were most directly injured by the crime, then they had not the government should to give compensation. Today, current law has modified this thinking into the present-day crime's limited action society as a whole. However, it seems with respect to compensation for victims, the law is still in its infancy.

Lawyers are often called upon to advise a client on the merits of a lawsuit. In many cases, the client is injured by the crime, then they had not the government should to give compensation. Today, current law has modified this thinking into the present-day crime's limited action society as a whole. However, it seems with respect to compensation for victims, the law is still in its infancy.

HINT: Certain behavior can result in the award of punitive damages. Punitive damages are awarded when the defendant's conduct is particularly reprehensible.

MANAGING THE PAIN OF FIBROMYALGIA
Managing pain in arthritic conditions such as rheumatoid arthritis, osteoarthritis and fibromyalgia is difficult. The problem is that each of these conditions can continue for years, while medications designed to provide thorough pain relief do so best for periods of days or, for the person with a terminal condition, the last weeks of life.

Of the three rheumatologic conditions mentioned above, the one most difficult to treat for pain is fibromyalgia. That happens because one of its features is a heightened sense of pain. The search for drugs useful in fibromyalgia has uncovered no medication or regimen of drugs that will consistently provide pain relief. The use of traditional antidepressants such as Elavil has shown that the medication helps to initiate sleep but it cannot give the individual sustained relief or rest. Newer antidepressants such as Prozac have not worked at all. None of the non-steroidal drugs such as Motrin, naproxen, or aspirin have blunted the discomfort of fibromyalgia. The newer non-steroidal drugs such as Celebrex and Vioxx have not yet stood the test of time, but information to date indicates they will not fare any better than their older colleagues. Behavioral modification and group therapy programs have reported mixed results.

To date the regimens with the best results are those that emphasize regular exercise, patient familiarity with the features of fibromyalgia, and use small doses of Elavil or Ambien at bedtime to promote sleep. Of particular importance is regular exercise, best done in the morning 6-7 days a week with the period of exercise lasting at least 30 minutes.

WATCH YOUR MOUTH!

As unlikely as it may seem, recent research indicates that people with periodontitis (gum disease) are more likely to develop heart problems than those without gum disease. Periodontitis has also been linked with poor control of diabetes, a number of chronic respiratory conditions, the development of ulcers, and an increased risk of premature birth. Why? It seems that inflamed and infected gums and bone tissue provide bacteria residing in periodontal pockets with easy access to the bloodstream from there it's a simple matter of traveling to various locations in the body to carry out their destructive work. Keeping periodontal disease in check through regular checkups and treatment carries potential benefits that reach far beyond the mouth.

If you have any questions about today's cutting-edge severe gum disease, or would like to schedule an appointment, please call us at 478-2110. Reply to us at LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES to answer all your questions about dental treatments and procedures. Desktop Video Editing lets you use your PC to be a moviemaker

MIKE WENDLAND

Remember when personal computers first came out in the early seventies. I was working for a big daily newspaper at the time, and I was absolutely astounded when I first typed on a keyboard and saw my words instantly appear on a CRT, or Cathode Ray Tube as we then called the PC screen.

I knew immediately that the way I did my work would never be the same.

So, it has again been for me over the past couple of months as I've experimented with what I believe will be the next big craze in personal computer technology.

Desktop Video Editing. The boundaries between the printed word, pictures, video, sound and speech have been torn down. Everything is multimedia now. And it all happens inside a personal computer.

I'm amazed. To watch video and audio download from a camcorder directly onto my hard drive makes me feel like I'm again witnessing a sea change in technological development.

And then to be able to take those video and sound clips and arrange, cut, trim, mix and enhance them with all sorts of special effects into a finished production is not only fun but, creatively speaking, amazingly fulfilling.

Since late last summer, I've been using a powerful desktop video editing system to produce television stories. The system I'm using, a fully equipped NT Workstation from SGI (www.sgi.com), is of the same type George Lucas and his video artists used to edit some of the special effects on the latest Star Wars movie.

And while you can easily spend tens of thousands of dollars for a loaded SGI system, you can also pick one up starting at just a few thousand dollars, or not that much more than a high-end consumer machine.

But because I'm using my system to edit my NBC-TV "High Tech Talk" computer and Internet reports that are sent out each week to 250 television stations, I need to make sure I'm producing finished stories that are of broadcast quality. So I have a lot of options on my desktop video editing system that the average consumer doesn't need.

My SGI system can do things that, until very recently, were only available in commercial video production studios containing hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of equipment.

If you want to edit family vacation shots or junior's school play into video productions, you can easily get started for as little as $1,000, assuming you already have a decent personal computer.

How to be a movie maker

Here's a quick primer on what you'll need:

Computer: To do it right, you'll want a fast processor. I suggest a minimum speed of 450 MHz. Get as much RAM, or random access memory, as you can, 256K at the least. The top-end SGI system I use has dual 600 MHz Intel Pentium III processors, a gigabyte of RAM and an array of four hard drives capable of holding nearly 70 gigabytes of data.

Video Capture Card: Expect to pay somewhere between $500 to $1,000 for a quality card that can take in, process and send out your video. Check out Pinnacle Systems (<http://pinnaclesys.com>) or Matrox (www.matrox.com).

Camera: Today's sub-$1,000 digital camcorders are capable of producing better quality video than full-sized TV studio cameras did a decade ago. Make sure your camera has either an S-

VHS video out jack or a "FireWire IEEE1394" port to plug into the video card. The camera I'm shooting with is a pretty deluxe model, the XL-1 from Canon (www.canon.com/xl1/index2.html). Chances are, though, the same camcorder you use to take vacation videos will work fine with desktop video editing.

Software: Good video editing software isn't cheap. The most popular package out there right now is probably Adobe Premiere (www.adobe.com). Expect to pay $450 or so. I'm using a package called "Speed Razor" from a company called In-Sync (www.in-sync.com).

For more information on desktop video editing, check out a Web site called The Video Guys (www.videoguys.com). They offer a great guide to getting started, with lots of links.

And on the Internet newsgroups, read some of the posts in the rec.video.desktop discussion group to see how others are using this new tool.

Here's One Thing You May Be Seeing Less Of After Cataract Surgery

Q. I'm planning on having cataract surgery. Will I still need glasses?

A. Cataract surgery, using the traditional monofocal lens, is intended to correct vision. Good near vision is generally not possible. When using the new multi-focal lens, the goal is to provide good distance and near vision, thereby decreasing your dependence on glasses.

Q. What are the primary benefits of the new multifocal lens?

A. The new multifocal lens is really designed to be a form of visual rehabilitation. Statistics show that 92% of patients using this lens will not be dependent on glasses at any distance.

Q. What are the risks associated with this new lens?

A. There really is no difference between the new lens and traditional cataract surgery, except for the possibility of halos and glare, but generally these effects get better.

Q. Is the new lens FDA approved?

A. Yes.

Q. What can I expect after surgery?

A. Vision after the first day should be as good as with the monofocal lens. Low level reading glasses may still be required for extended periods of reading.

If the person charged is administered a chemical test by a person of his or her own choosing, the person charged is responsible for obtaining a chemical analysis of the test sample.

(e) If, after an accident, the driver of a vehicle involved in the accident is transported to a medical facility and a sample of the driver's blood is withdrawn at that time for medical treatment, the results of a chemical analysis of that sample is admissible in any civil or criminal proceeding to show the amount of alcohol or presence of a controlled substance or both in the person's blood at the time alleged, regardless of whether the person has been offered or had refused a chemical test. The medical facility or person performing the chemical analysis shall disclose the results of the analysis to a prosecuting attorney who requests the results for use in a criminal prosecution as provided in this subdivision. Distinguish aging from symptoms of Alzheimer's

Remember that party where you met what's-his-name?

Well, you've just run into him again at the grocery store. Furtively scanning your memory for his name, you draw a complete blank. It's only after you've tried to fake your way through a conversation and made it through the checkout line that his name comes flooding back — too late, of course, to save you from embarrassment.

We've all had this and similar experiences. It's especially common in these days of information overload. The names of people and places, electronic PIN numbers and the ever-elusive location of the car keys vanish from our minds, dangling just beyond our reach at the very moment we need them.

They usually pop back, alas, when we're already late for work or the damage to our dignity is done. This is called age-related memory loss, and it happens to everyone, more often as we grow older. It's not only maddening, we can't help but wonder if it's the beginning of Alzheimer's disease.

Memory problems and Alzheimer's disease have become so firmly linked in most people's minds that we rarely think of one without the other. Last year, a nationwide survey conducted by the National Council on the Aging showed that very few people know how to tell the difference between normal, age-related memory loss and the early warning signs of Alzheimer's disease.

This is a problem because in Alzheimer's disease, early diagnosis is critical in order to reap the maximum benefits for the treatments now available. It is also crucial because of the major life changes that Alzheimer's patients and their families must anticipate.

So how do you distinguish between normal aging and the gradual onset of Alzheimer's? There are important differences. One is that in age-related memory loss, memories are not really lost. It just takes a little longer to retrieve them. With Alzheimer's disease, not only are many memories permanently lost, recent research has shown that the brains of its victims lose the ability to make and store new memories. Deterioration in the brain's frontal lobes leads to breakdown in attention and the processing of information, a serious problem because it prevents patients from forming new memories and severely impairs their ability to perform the day-to-day tasks of living.

Dementia, the medical term for an Alzheimer's patient's state of mind, encompasses far more than memory loss. The condition involves what scientists have called a "global decline," in mental functioning. For example, forgetting where you left your keys is not a sign of dementia. Forgetting what the keys are for is. Not remembering the name of a neighbor you've met a couple of times is probably just a glitch, but if you have no recollection of ever meeting him or what the conversation was about, there could be a problem.

Another difference is that Alzheimer's disease affects many parts of the brain, not just the hippocampus (an important region involved in the formation of memories). The visual cortex, for example, affects one's ability to process vision and movement.

■ 'With Alzheimer's disease, not only are many memories permanently lost, recent research has shown that the brains of its victims lose the ability to make and store new memories.'

Alzheimer's patients develop major difficulties with spatial relationships, especially with moving objects. This is one reason why driving and even walking along busy streets becomes dangerous. The memory loss, lack of ability to process or recognize visual images and confusion over spatial relationships form a frightening and perilous combination.

Rippling effect

One sad reality of Alzheimer's is that the patient's emotions and personality are not spared. While we all have our ups and downs, the Alzheimer's patient loses emotional coherence. Emotions, rather than residing in some specific part of the brain, are distributed throughout and can't escape being affected when the various parts of the brain deteriorate.

Alzheimer's patients not only experience inappropriate emotions such as fear, anger or suspicion at the wrong times, they go through personality changes such as withdrawal, being oblivious to the feelings of others and losing initiative and drive. As reality gradually recedes into a fog of uncertainty, patients who still maintain insight into their condition can fall into a deep depression.

One of the first signs can be a problem with writing, the inability to keep the letters or words in a straight line. Another common occurrence among foreign-born Americans is the loss of English language skills and the reversion to a first language.

Recognizing the early warning signs of Alzheimer's in yourself or a loved one is more crucial than ever. One reason is that the two drugs currently being used to treat the disease — Cognex and Aricept — can add up to two years of quality time to the patient's life. Another reason is the potential confusion between the depression, stress, an under-diagnosed infection, thyroid disease or even a reaction to certain medications. Testing for Alzheimer's is the only way to know.

Keep children away from lead, paint chips

Despite efforts at education and prevention, children in Wayne County continue to be poisoned by lead from peeling lead-based paint, lead-contaminated dust and other sources in their homes.

Almost one million preschool age children in the U.S. have enough lead in their blood to harm them," says Steve Tackitt, director of Wayne County Environmental Health. "This includes approximately 800 children in Wayne County."

The County's lead hazard program will offer a brochure entitled, "Is your child safe from lead poisoning? Learn how to protect your family." The brochure is available to local organizations such as grocery stores and maternity clothing stores to promote increased lead hazard awareness county wide.

Tips to prevent lead poisoning include:

- Make sure your child's diet contains enough iron and calcium. These minerals make it harder for a body to absorb lead.
- Make sure children are not exposed to peeling paint. Pay special attention to window sills.

To remove lead dust, rinse your child's hands and face before he/she eats. Rinse toys and pacifiers frequently. If your child sucks his thumb or fingers, rinse his hands frequently. Wet-mop your hard surface floors.

Close off rooms that are being remodeled.

If you have a home built before 1978, and suspect it may be painted with leaded paint, repaint it.

A major awareness initiative to help prevent lead poisoning by the Campaign for a Lead-Safe America features a Web site at www.lead-safeamerica.net that provides information on lead safety, updates on campaign activities, links to other resources and an exciting overview of lead poisoning prevention programs around the country.

Wayne County's Lead Hazard Control Program has been focused on lead poisoning prevention for years," said Tackitt. "We're excited to be working with the national campaign and look forward to coordinating our efforts with others on the national level to better serve our local community."

(3) A person who is convicted of a violation of this section or is guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment for not more than 93 days or a fine of not more than $300.00, or both, together with costs of the prosecution.

Section 5.15i. Forfeiture of vehicle or return to lessor.

(1) Except as otherwise provided in this section and in addition to any other penalty provided for in this ordinance, the judgment or sentence for a conviction for a violation of section 5.15(5), may require 1 of the following with regard to the vehicle used in the offense if the defendant owns the vehicle in whole or in part or leases the vehicle:

(a) Forfeiture of the vehicle if the defendant owns the vehicle in whole or in part.

(b) Return the vehicle to the lessor if the defendant leases the vehicle.

(2) The vehicle may be seized pursuant to an order of seizure issued by the court having jurisdiction upon a showing of probable cause that the vehicle is subject to forfeiture or return to the lessor.

(3) The forfeiture of a vehicle is subject to the interest of the holder of a security interest who did not have prior knowledge of or consent to the violation.

(4) Within 14 days after the defendant's conviction for a violation described in subsection (1), the prosecuting attorney may file a petition with the court for the forfeiture of the vehicle or to have the court order return of a leased vehicle to the lessor. The prosecuting attorney shall give notice by first-class mail or other process to the defendant and his or her attorney, to all owners of the vehicle, and to any person holding a security interest in the vehicle that the court may require forfeiture or return of the vehicle.

(5) If a vehicle is seized before disposition of the criminal proceedings, a defendant who is an owner or lessee of the vehicle may move the court having jurisdiction over the proceedings to require the seizing agency to file a lien against the vehicle and to return the vehicle to the owner or lessee pending disposition of the criminal proceedings. The court shall hear the motion within 7 days after the motion is filed. If the defendant establishes at the hearing that he or she holds the legal title to the vehicle or that he or she has a leasehold interest and it is necessary for him or her or a member of his or her family to use the vehicle pending the outcome of the forfeiture action, the court may order the seizing agency to return the vehicle to the owner or lessee. If the court orders the return of the vehicle to the owner or lessee, the court shall order the defendant to post a bond in an amount equal to the retail value of the vehicle, and shall also order the seizing agency to file a lien against the vehicle.

(6) Within 14 days after notice by the prosecuting attorney is given under subsection (4), the defendant, an owner, lessee, or holder of a security interest may file a claim of interest in the vehicle with the court. Within 21 days after the expiration of the period for filing claims, but before or at sentencing, the court shall hold a hearing to determine the legitimacy of any claim, the extent of any co-owner's equity interest, the liability of the defendant to any co-lessee, and whether to order the vehicle forfeited or returned to the lessor. In considering whether to order forfeiture, the court shall review the defendant's driving record to determine whether the defendant has multiple convictions under this ordinance, the provisions of state law set forth at section 257.625 of the Michigan Compiled Laws, or a local ordinance substantially corresponding to this ordinance and state law, or multiple suspensions, restrictions, or denials under section 257.904 of the Michigan Compiled Laws, or both. If the defendant has multiple convictions under this ordinance, section 257.625 of the Michigan Compiled Laws, or a local ordinance substantially corresponding to state law, or multiple suspensions, restrictions, or denials under section 257.904 of the Michigan Compiled Laws, or both, that factor shall weigh heavily in favor of forfeiture.

(7) If a vehicle is forfeited under this section, the Township shall sell the vehicle and dispose of the proceeds in the following order of priority:

- (a) Pay any outstanding security interest of a secured party who did not have prior knowledge of or consent to the commission of the violation.
- (b) Pay the equity interest of a co-owner who did not have prior knowledge of or consent to the commission of the violation.
- (c) Satisfy any order of restitution entered in the prosecution for the violation.
- (d) Pay the claim of each person who shows that he or she is a victim of the violation to the extent that the claim is not covered by an order of restitution.
- (e) Pay any outstanding lien against the property that has been imposed by governmental unit.
- (f) Pay the proper expenses of the proceedings for forfeiture and sale, including, but not limited to, expenses incurred during the seizure process and expenses for maintaining custody of the property, advertising, and court costs.
- (g) The court may order the defendant to pay to a co-lessee any liability determined under subsection (6). The order may be enforced in the same manner as a civil judgment.
- (8) The return of a vehicle to the lessor under this section does not affect or impair the lessor's rights or the defendant's obligations under the lease.
- (9) A person who knowingly conceals, sells, gives away or otherwise transfers or disposes of a vehicle with the intent to avoid forfeiture or return of the vehicle to the lessor under this section is guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment for not more than 93 days or a fine of not more than $500.00, or both.
- (10) The failure of the court or the prosecutor to comply with any time limit specified in this section does not preclude the court from ordering forfeiture of a vehicle or its return to a lessor, unless the court finds that the owner or claimant suffered substantial prejudice as a result of that failure.
- (11) The forfeiture provisions of this section do not preclude the prosecuting attorney from pursuing a forfeiture proceeding under any other law or this state or a local ordinance corresponding to this section.
