Treasure island

Shannon Hammer of Laxalotte, N.J., left smiles with the joyous her younger brother Sam found. The Hammer family was shelling on Cayo Costa when Sara discovered the shell — just lying on the sand. They were unaware of the great find until the fishing guide they were with told them of the coveted junonia.

FOCUS ON:

Peter Harman

Peter Harman, outgoing executive chef at The Laxalotte, is a star in the field of culinary arts. At 27, he's been in the spotlight many times from his five appearances as one of Burlington's most famous chefs to his showman's performance in the Saibel Chili Cookoff to his win of two gold medals, two first place trophies and a huge grand prize trophy at Expo 85 recently sponsored by the American Culinary Federation at Lee Civic Center.

Tonight WINK TV's spotlight will shine on Harman as a new weekly segment, A Taste of Florida, debuts on the evening news on Channel 11.

Harman's Thursday night culinary feature will be as entertaining and diverse as his discussion of the Sun Coast Chili Festival

A. Thomas/Island Reporter

with the Chili Banquet to promotion on local food and wine events. A novel cooking technique and recipes and a special feature on the American Heart Association's Creative Cuisine program, which is included in his menu at the Lodge. Launching a new campaign recently titled The Flavor of Florida — New Orleans Style, the slogan describes both the food fare and flair at the restaurant and Harman's philosophy of what a good menu should offer.

To explain his belief, Harman said, "I encourage creative cooking and a limited menu so each dish will be done to perfection. I also use a bi-monthly menu so we can feature the best of the fresh in our area. Using indigenous products is the true American food form."

It's a long way from a Brooklyn deli to elegant New Orleans Creole cuisine and the bayou's Cajun cookery, but Harman has made the transition with little more than a taste of the local food scene.

Originally interested in cooking in a vocational school in Vermont, Harman ended up in school in St. Petersburg, Fla., on a baseball scholarship. He soon discovered, however, that he was better with his hands than his bat and returned to cooking.

Between explanations of the differences between Cajun and Creole and the Blackened technique which he introduced to South Florida almost four years ago, Harman's enthusiasm carried over to family life as he turned from a proud professional to a proud papa, showing off what pictures of three-month-old son Tyler and big brother Jason.

Wife Nancy is a big supporter and fan of Harman's cooking. In fact, she's been pushing me to contribute to my chili recipe so I can come in first this year in the Chili Cookoff.

When he first placed the copy on a path at 1985 Culinary Olympics in Frankfurt, Germany, she was seen. But he's already planning for the first leg in the international competition to be held in Orlando in January.

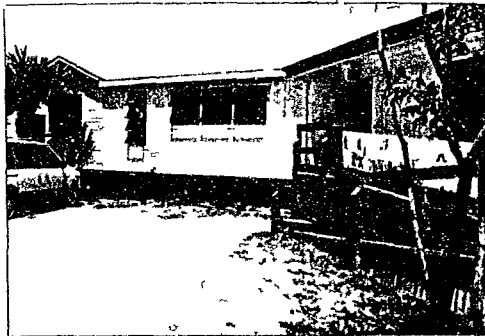

Bringing home Olympic Gold as one of the finest chefs in the entire world should certainly make it easier for Harman to fulfill his ultimate goal to own a department, his own establishment.

OUR SCHOOL IS GREAT THANKS TO YOU!

When parents of the 50 preschoolers at Children's Center visit the facility for open house tonight, they will be seeing the new addition to the school which was completed for the start of this term.

Appreciation Day was held Sunday, September 22, for financial backers and volunteers who donated time and energy to complete the interior. Among visitors Sunday was Sanibel Mayor Fred Valtin.

The addition, which was donated and moved to the school site by John Naumann & Associates Realty company, was the last cottage used by maintenance crew during the building of Tantara Condominiums on West Gulf Drive.

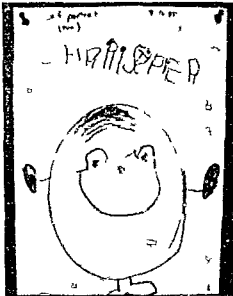

Left on a cottage on West Gulf Drive the completed addition to the Children's Center on left of photograph was open to the public on Sunday.

for the record

■ DENSITY INCREASE A revised land survey was the basis for Sanibel City Council approving a density increase of one additional dwelling unit last Thursday for a portion of the original Cochrane tract which heirs seek to develop on West Gulf Drive.

Their original request was for an increase of three for a total of 10 units.

Elizabeth Lane May also representing her brother and sister along with Ron Weaver of Architectural Resources Corporation submitted data from a revised Johnson Engineering Co survey which had just become available and which city council had not seen.

It showed the front portion of the parcel between Gulf Pines and Sea Gate subdivisions justified five instead of the four dwellings allotted. This added to three units transferred from the 20 acre lowland portion the family in funds to dedicate to public use gives them eight units to construct on the front portion.

Mrs. May questioned a demarcation line discrepancy between the Comprehensive Land Use Plan map and the ordinance as written which she said might allow her nine units but decided to formalize it eight before resuming it further.

At the beginning of the hearing Mayor Fred Valtin entered into the record 10 letters disapproving the request including those from Gulf Pines residents. A letter opposing the request from the Island Water Association was also included.

City council's vote to specifically amend the residential density and development intensity map sections of CLUP passed unanimously.

■ LEASES RENEWED The City of Sanibel has renewed leases for a further two years on the Lighthouse Cottages to city employees David Karcewski and Veronica Smusz and police officer Thomas Applegate was granted a two year lease on the caretaker's cottage at Gulfside City Park.

Lighthouse Cottages are located southeast of the Sanibel Lighthouse on the eastern tip of the island and Gulfside City Park is the former site of the steamboat Algers. They are leased rent free to city employees in return for caretaking services on the property.

■ NO ROOF Arnold's Seahorse Shop on Periwinkle Way was denied permission to roof in a garden area behind the shop for fear it would add to overdevelopment in the area.

When you roof it in technically it becomes commercial space and could become more retail area. Councilwoman Louise Johnson told David Arnold Jr.

Arnold said that he wanted the space as a pleasant area with aesthetic value where kids and husbands could enjoy themselves while wives and mothers shopped.

We don't need more retail area, he protested.

Nevertheless Arnold was denied. You can provide an attractive space without roofing, Johnson told him.

Gator pond will not be fenced, filled

By Earl Hartman

Gulfside City Park's pond will stay as it is for a while longer at least after Sanibel City Council decided last Thursday not to fence fill or slope the sides of the man made pool known to house alligators.

The pond a vestige of the steamboat Algers should be fenced said the city's Alligator Control Committee the planning commission felt it should be filled in and City Manager Gary Price said the sides should be resloped instead.

The Alligator Control Committee brought the problem to the city's attention when an alligator had to be removed from the pond as a nuisance.

Price first asked for fencing considering the pond a liability should a child or other person get down its steep sides when an alligator was present. Then Thursday he asked for sloping of the sides which could make it easier for someone to climb out of the pond. The pond is near to one of Sanibel's most popular beaches.

Johnson said fencing it would lead to a proliferation of fences around ponds on the island. She preferred sloping with vegetation buffer.

Chairman M. A. Klein who chaired the Alligator Control Committee said filling it in would be a

THE CANDIDATES

Six contenders for CEPD seats

By Wendy McMullen

Captiva is gearing up for elections for the Captiva Erosion Prevention District board November 5.

Six candidates are contesting three seats of the five seats, with one incumbent, Chuck Bruning, running for a second term and newcomers Dr. Robert Martin, Paul Garvey, Albert Damon Jr., Hans Wilson and Lyle Vera Jackson also up for election.

The candidates run the whole range of views on the controversial beach nourishment project which has divided the island for many years with some strongly for the project and others less sure.

CHARLES "CHUCK" BRUNING
Address: Captiva Drive, Captiva.
Length of time on Captiva: Four years as full-time resident. Visitor to island for 37 years.

Age: 57
Occupation: Retired. Formerly owned Bruning Co. making engineering and blueprint machines.
Previous experience in beach erosion prevention: Two years on the CEPD board.

Previous administrative or board experience: Chairman of Safety Committee and Village Caucus in Northfield Ill.

Reason for running for CEPD: My interest is in the preservation of the island. I want to see the taxpayer get the maximum protection for the dollars. I'm not at either end. I don't say God is going to do what He is going to do and therefore do nothing. I feel something must be done but I want to make sure whatever is done lasts.

Position on beach nourishment: I agree beach nourishment does protect the island but if it becomes a reality we must be prepared to protect our investment with other methods. We have to be able to keep that sand on the beach.

DR. ROBERT MARTIN
Address: 1 Lake Lane
Age: 44

Occupation: Data processor with Sunset Computer Systems Inc. in Fort Myers.
Previous experience in beach erosion prevention: none.
Previous administrative or board experience: chaired Department of History and Geography in college in St. Louis, Mo. Dean of Social Sciences at Edison Community College.

Reason for running for CEPD: "It is clear to me that the only way to get any chance in the way the board is proceeding is to change the majority on the board. There is significant opposition to the direction the board is taking and I want to give a voice to those people."

Position on beach nourishment: I'm not philosophically opposed to putting sand on the beach but I am opposed to the method of financing and the tax burden imposed. It seems to me that the only people who will be able to pay the high maintenance costs involved in beach nourishment will be commercial ventures and that will mean a great increase in that type of development on the island.

Commissioners Lloyd Wright and John Burr both keen supporters of renourishment, are not seeking reelection. Both served four year terms. They said they would continue to support the board's efforts to renourish the beach.

Remaining on the board is chairman Peg Hofsneider and commissioner DeWitt Jones.

The deadline for filing for candidacy was last Friday. Candidacy papers include a loyalty oath and a financial disclosure form plus the signatures of 16 Captiva residents.

A Candidates Night, has been scheduled for October 29 in Captiva Community Center when all candidates will air their views for the benefit of the voting public.

HANS WILSON

Address: Rum Road, Captiva.
Length of time on Captiva: 10 years as full-time resident. Age: 28.

Occupation: Open engineer with Dexter Bender Associates, Fort Myers.

Previous experience with beach erosion prevention: Studied wave dynamics and ocean structures at Florida Atlantic University. Present job entails design of marinas and shoreline structures.

Previous administrative or board experience: None.

Reason for running for CEPD: Reason for running for CEPD: I want to give back to the island some of the things it has given me in terms of character development much of which was connected with the beach. I perceive a polarization between people that is veiling the intent of the CEPD which is to prevent erosion.

Position on beach nourishment: "It is one of the methods accepted by the permitting authorities as being effective but it is not the only alternative and I see no reason to have a myopic view about it. The board could look at other hardening shoreline structures and not just beach nourishment but that would depend on what the majority want."

PAUL GARVEY

Address: Dickey Lane, Captiva.
Length of time on Captiva: Five years as full time resident.

Age: 29
Occupation: Fire fighter with Captiva Fire Department.
Previous experience in beach erosion prevention: None.
Previous administrative or board experience: None.

Reason why running for CEPD: A number of people need better representation. The Mariner Group and other commercial interests have had more than their fair share of representatives on the board and people have asked me to run. I'm available to attend the majority of meetings — non-attendance has been a problem in the past. I'm also keenly interested in what happens to Captiva. At 29, I'm probably one of the youngest property owners on Captiva and I've got more to lose than most. I don't want to see us 20 years on still paying for beach nourishment like we've just finished paying for the dog bone groins.

Position on beach nourishment: "I recognize that there is a problem which needs to be solved but I don't feel

Med center plan withdrawn

By Earl Hartman

Dr. John Colucci's withdrawal of a request to build a comprehensive medical facility at the Michigan Homes Center on Periwinkle Way was announced at Tuesday's Sanibel Planning Commission meeting.

The osteopathic doctor, who has practiced here for five years, gained approval for a special use district at the site in 1984 and then felt thwarted by the planning department over the multitude of conditions it required for a development permit.

Colucci contacted after Tuesday's meeting said he no longer has a contract and am not in a position to seek a permit or the Michigan Homes site.

He withdrew from a contract with Michigan Homes following the planning commission's last hearing on the project in June.

Colucci does have plans to open a family practice office an extension of his practice here at the Surmerlin Square Shopping Center under way at the corner of San Carlos Boulevard and Surmerlin Road Fort Myers he said but stresses he is staying on the island.

About a comprehensive medical center, he said I think Sanibel needs that type of facility. His hope is that some day if not myself someone builds one here.

A 15-year mortgage could save you money

By Gerald Lewis, Comptroller of Florida

How would you like to pocket a cool $77,000 over a 15-year period? That s how much you could save in total interest payments if you obtained a 15-year fixed rate mortgage for $50,000 at current rates in stead of the typical 30-year loan With a 15-year mortgage you pay less interest over the course of the loan because you pay it off more quickly Some people mistakenly believe that the monthly payments for a 15-year loan would be double those for a conventional 30-year fixed rate mortgage Not so The payments will be higher but not as high as you may think At 12 percent interest for example principal and interest payments on a $50,000 mortgage for 15 years would be $600 a month while payments on a 30-year mortgage would be $144 not including taxes and insurance on the property (entrally a slightly lower rate of interest is available with a 15-year mortgage Many lenders charge a half a percent less interest compared to the 30-year mortgage During a period when interest rates are low as they are now the 15-year mortgage is more affordable for more people High interest rates often prohibit homeowners from obtaining fixed rate mortgages especially short term fixed rate loans The Mortgage Bankers Association reports that the 15-year fixed rate mortgage is becoming a popular alternative to typical mortgages A recent survey of the nation s 20 largest mortgage companies indicated that as of June 1985 13.4 percent of homebuyers were selecting 15-year loans Homeowners who wish to complete their mortgage payments sooner are among those attracted to 15-year loans The 15-year fixed rate loan isn t for everyone Many consumers are unwilling — or unable — to pay the additional amount per month that the short term loan requires If you already have a 30-year mortgage you may not have to refinance to get a shorter term loan Unless your mortgage has a penalty for prepayment all you would need to do is increase the amount of your monthly payments Higher payments reduce the principal enabling you to pay off the loan sooner and save interest

Mariner's revision ensures a density deal with city

By Earl Hartman

Mariner Properties Inc. is receiving a density increase for Harbour Cottages from Sanibel City Council totalling five units agreed to relinquish development rights to more than 9 acres off Vinca Way as well as remove the existing VIP Realty office on Causeway Road.

Mariner had sought an increase of nine units in the swap but opposition of the planning commission and staff going before the city council on first hearing led to a revised request for seven units Thursday.

The planning commission recommended one unit if any to go with one left over from a previous grant of 13 units in the duplex development at the corner of Causeway Road and Periwinkle Way.

Mariner's representative Ray Pavelka said. We're revising our request to eliminate consideration of the history of the property.

Pavelka referred to remarks at both the planning commission hearing and the last city council meeting that Mariner's chairman Robert Taylor had previously claimed he would not ask to build units on the property.

Pavelka had told city council he expected Taylor to attend this hearing. Instead Pavelka revised the request which provided the city would not have to compromise buildout density, he said.

A property which Mayor Fred Valtin insisted be called the Vinca Way property rather than the Dunlop property as Pavelka referred to it and which lies north of Periwinkle Way off Vinca was a leftover part of a parcel Mariner sold for the new Sanibel Congregational Church.

Pavelka said it had an assigned density of five units. City planners had maintained that a rationale for only three could be made.

These five units along with two he requested for the elimination of the VIP Realty office whose intensity of use would otherwise increase justified the request, he said for the seven unit increase for Harbour Cottages.

Councilwoman Louise Johnson questioned the justification and even commented that she sought not an even exchange but a reduction of density for the property which she felt was already too high.

In an effort he said to move this process along Mayor Valtin moved to approve the request for seven with stipulation that the Vinca Way property would return zero density and the VIP office be removed from the site of Harbour Cottages within a year of issuance of certificates of occupancy on the new units.

City Attorney David LaCroix added numerous technical stipulations including provision that the Vinca Way property be dedicated to public use.

Valtin's motion failed 3-1 after searching discussion opening the way for a motion for an increase of five by Councilman Francis Bailey which passed unanimously.

During discussion of the first motion regular council meeting commentator Alice Kylo said. Who in the world would want to build on that busy corner (Causeway Road and Periwinkle Way)? There's a lot more desirable places on the island to build fine homes.

There was no other public comment on the issue.

ROGO applicant went back on word, put in air-conditioning

By Wendy McMullen

Optometrist Albert Evans faced city council last week to defend himself on charges that he illegally installed air conditioning and screened a porch on his Rabbit Road residence.

At issue was air conditioning which had been installed and a porch screened without council permission. But of greater concern was that Evans had obtained points on his Rate of Growth Ordinance (ROGO) allocation granted just a year earlier by stating he would not put in air conditioning.

"You got some three months over some other poor sucker," Councilman Mike Klein told Evans.

The main point is that this is an improper procedure and in future we must make it more difficult for people to do it," commented planning commission chairman Leon Lorenson.

ROGO points are given, among other things to applicants who can show energy conservation measures and it was because of this city staff recommended that the city council deny the development permit requested by Evans to make his air conditioning and screened porch legal.

City staff were also concerned that Evans refused access to building staff who wanted to examine the system and declined to name the contractor who carried out the work without a permit.

"It's a violation of state laws and if a contractor does it once he'll do it again," said building inspector Max Anderson citing upon the council to insist that the name of the contractor be revealed.

The council decided to make the development permit contingent upon an inspection of Evans property and the city attorney was asked to come up with a set of conditions which Evans would also have to agree to. Among those conditions would be that he name the contractor who did the work. City Attorney David LaCroix said.

The Ridge gets approval for security gate

By Wendy McMullen

All the council members lamented it but agreed on the need for security gates at the entrance to Gulf Ridge subdivision at last week's council meeting.

It doesn't look like Sanibel to me, sighed island native and councilman Francis Bailey.

If we approve this I can't see any reason we wouldn't say yes to Tahiti Shores Seaspray Gulf Pines and Gumbo Limbo too, said Mayor Fred Valtin.

I foresee a proliferation of such gates on the island and I'm very sorry to see it, said Councilwoman Louise Johnson. I've been in communities where every side street is marked private and restricted and would hate to see Sanibel get like that.

The gates are necessary according to Gulf Ridge resident Donald Wilson to keep unauthorized vehicles out, not in an attempt to be exclusive.

We have had three unauthorized pool parties during the summer and I found someone drunk lying in my drive a short time ago, Wilson said. He explained that many owners were absent during the summer and that a lot of houses were set back from the road making it difficult for neighbors to spot anything unusual happening.

There are lots of changes in the world and on Sanibel, Wilson continued, referring to the murder and bomb scares on Sanibel earlier in the year.

All 56 owners of property within the subdivision support the move to install security gates which will be closed every day from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. and all day Sunday.

In emergencies the gates can be opened by fire and police personnel through dialling a number from within the fire or police department offices. Buttons located outside the actual gates for fire police and other emergency services will also put these authorities directly through to their offices and release the gates.

Visitors to the subdivision can contact residents from a phone by the gate and the resident can release the gate by dialling a number on the telephone.

Council approved the gates on condition that the development permit be reviewed after one year and revoked if problems arise. □

Festival of the Islands events

Although Festival of the Islands which for two years was coordinated and produced by the Sanibel Captiva Chamber of Commerce will not be a Chamber project this year many of the events will continue as separate entities with the blessings of the Chamber.

According to Walter Klie executive director of the Chamber too much of the Chamber's time and money had been invested in relationship to the benefits realized.

The Chamber is delighted that local businesses and service organizations are continuing to make Festival of the Islands an annual tradition drawing visitors from the five county area.

It was the observation of many of the Island's most successful merchants Klie continued that festival activities tended to draw shoppers away from the shores rather than enhancing business.

A story in last week's Island Reporter concerning the proposed spraying of Diquat on duckweed in ponds behind Periwinkle Trailer Park has led to the following clarification by Councilwoman Louise Johnson: The difference between Jerry Muench (owner of the trailer park) and myself was between his wanting a decision and my wanting a delay in the decision so council could get more information on Diquat and duckweed. It is the city's Wildlife Committee which will make the study, not the Vegetation Committee as reported. We regret this error.

■ FAIR EXCHANGE The number of units on Kinzie Island was down to 20 and the number on the lot next to the Burger Emporium up to 12. And in this way the exchange of density between the two lots reached a conclusion satisfactory to all last week.

I'm willing to support it because of the net reduction in density, asserted Mayor Fred Valtin. The total number originally permitted on the parcels was 37. The present plan means a decrease of five.

Originally applied for by owner of Jerry's Supermarket, Gerald Paulsen, was 22 units on Kinzie Island, the 13.4-acre tract surrounded by a canal near The Colony on the east end of Sanibel and 10 on the 49.7-acre site next to Burger Emporium on Periwinkle Way.

Ray Fenton of Fenton and Associates acting for Paulsen agreed to remove the existing bridge on to Kinzie Island, to connect the island to the Sanibel Sewer System and to pay a sum for the construction of public facilities necessary to serve the development.

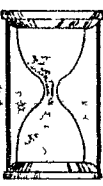

City Attorney David La Croix said that this fee did not represent an impact fee and was a means the city had used previously to help pay for the costs of development such as drainage and bicycle paths.

■ GOING IT ALONE Lee County is on its own regarding impact fees. The cities of Cape Coral and Fort Myers have opted out of the system proposed by the county to make development pay for itself. Sanibel opted out of the county system last month.

If it ain't broke don't fix it

To Island Reporter: Possibly the best solution to the causeway toll dilemma would be to charge $3 per single trip and to charge residents and commuters $10 for 20 trips.

In other words, "If it ain't broke, don't fix it."

Del Hanner,
Sanibel

A possible solution to bridge toll issue

To Island Reporter: Wouldn't this be a possible solution to the bridge toll problem?

Issue windshield decals for one year at a nominal cost to be placed on all cars owned by:

1. Residents of Sanibel and Captiva as identified by their official address.

2. Workers regularly employed on the islands as certified by their employers.

3. Church members living off the island as certified by their pastor.

4. Long term renters (two months or more) as certified by their landlords.

Maintain the present ticket book system, 20 trips for a two month period for $10 but only sold to drivers whose cars have valid decals. All other drivers would pay the fee of $3 (or perhaps $5) per trip.

This would eliminate the present ticket abuse, reduce the number of "daytrippers" somewhat, and still not make a visit to the islands too costly.

W.E. O'Connor

Time for city to stand firm on dual taxing

To Island Reporter: It is, indeed, time that a lifeguard be provided to prevent drownings, or other avoidable catastrophes, at the very hazardous Blind Pass with its strong undertows.

Both banks of that pass, however, are part of the Lee County Regional Park and are frequented mainly by daytrippers and tourists from the mainland. As such, it is the sole responsibility of the county's Sheriff to provide that protection to be funded by ALL of the county's taxpayers.

Accordingly, Sanibel's police force, which is paid from the city's treasury, should not be assigned to that duty with its attendant liabilities. If our splendid force has an officer with lifeguard expertise, however, it could otherwise provide the suggested "hand of cooperation" to the county. The city might authorize that officer to contract with the Sheriff's Department to train its personnel during his own off duty hours.

You are possibly aware that, during the formative years of our city, we spent much time and effort, in cooperation with our two sister cities, fighting the unlawful practice of dual taxing by Lee County. The city would be cowardly now to surrender to the blandishments of those who would have it voluntarily capitulate on that struggle.

Regrettably, in the dark of the moon, our city fathers have since slid into that surrender by improperly using the interlocal agreement device to seduce us taxpayers into paying twice for several county functions.

The city took a giant step toward that surrender when it signed an interlocal agreement to take on the fuction of repaving and maintaining the county-owned San Cap Corridor that connects unincorporated Captiva to the mainland's similar area. That action was repeated to share 50/50 with the county on the development costs of the aforementioned County Regional Park segment at Bowman's Beach. Another burst of generosity had Sanibel taxpayers pay for a pool and recreational facilities at the public school which the city and school district usually provide elsewhere throughout the county. Other less spectacular projects beyond my recollection in which the city participated in funding were undertaken.

Over the years, Sanibel's taxpayers have tolerated county inaction in providing facilities and services that it freely furnished elsewhere throughout the county. A few examples are: community and senior citizens' centers; public libraries; clearing storm debris from our roads and beaches; and regular sheriff's patrolling.

As you know, Lee County, as with other Florida uncharted counties, is archaically structured without townships common in other states to provide services with their own taxing powers. The county, therefore, must provide those services out of the taxes of ALL county taxpayers. That unincorporated area in Lee County constitutes 82 percent of its total area. Yet it produces only 62 percent of its property taxes because 68 percent of its property is favored with some of the many forms of exemption granted by state law.

Because of the foregoing low tax yield from the county's unincorporated areas, the county depends on the other 18 percent of its area in the three cities to pay the costs of providing much of the infrastructure and governmental costs of that 82 percent of its territory.

It seems it is time for our city council to stand firm on the dual taxation problem by advising the county commission that the city shall continue to be sympathetic to the county's objectives, but shall not "pay one cent more than that already paid the county by its taxpayers for county obligations."

So that Sanibel's taxpayers may keep abreast of this matter, it is suggested that city hall regularly furnish our island press with a tabulation of its expenditures for performing functions for which other governmental units are responsible.

It also seems appropriate for our city council to formally notify the Lee County Property Appraiser that Sanibel's Comprehensive Land Use Plan (CLUP) functionally restricts the resort area to a few miles and reserves the balance of the island for other uses which do not warrant the high values he assigns to the resort area. That message could very well be the noblest accomplishment of our city fathers.

Paul A. Howe,
Sanibel

What are we doing about the drug problem?

To Island Reporter: I have read with interest your articles on drug abuse. I find it very sad to think that on this peaceful island, there are young people and their families who are going through this terrible ordeal of "drugs."

Several questions come to mind. One, are these young people actually able to buy these drugs from drug dealers on Sanibel? If so, what is our police department doing about it? What, as citizens are we doing about it?

There is no doubt that Sanibel is a community of "caring" people. We have the organization FISH helping our elderly. We have the numerous groups working to care for sick and injured animals and working continually for the protection of our wildlife.

Our city planners and city council are greatly concerned with the protection of our environment, how, when and where homes and commercial establishments are built, BMR housing and the list goes on and on. Added to these concerns are our latest ones; tolls and high rise bridges.

Yes, we are a caring, concerned and vocal community. But, what about our young people? Aren't they important too? Shouldn't the quality of their lives matter to us all? Is there some way we can fight back against drugs and those who bring them into this community?

Maybe we can't control what happens outside our community, but what can we do here?

I'm not a parent of a young person on drugs, and obviously I do not have the answers. I just happen to like young people and I think they need our help.

Martha Seyers,
Michigan & Sanibel

Oh, happy days on Sanibel

To Island Reporter: I spent 13 winters on Sanibel and have been a resident (homeowner taxpayer to Lee County for 7 1/2 years). I have subscribed to your paper since 1971. Prior to that I picked up the other paper at Bailey's every Thursday.

My first winter was at Tween Waters Inn when lovely Grace Price owned and operated it, 1942. My parents started coming in 1937 regularly except WWII and a couple of trips. My father was a pediatrician but would get around to ill people (mostly flu). He didn't have a Florida license to practice. His medicine was confidence.

My parents came to the islands because there were no phones. In 1961 a few months after Donna, I came with my parents and kept house for them for 10 years when I was stricken with a bad stroke. I had excellent care at Lee Memorial.

My husband of 43 years and I came down from Cleveland in '78 and '78. In 1978 we bought on the mainland due to the fact scar tissue showed in my brain and I am wheelchair bound and much of my life is trekking to doctors.

I love Sanibel as does my husband. The population was small. We rented the first cottage owned by Barclay Read set back and no damage by Donna. In 1961 when we arrived Priscilla Murphy herself managed to unlock the cottage door as it was stuck; no one had been around in those days. We loved it and there was plenty of space although not like a city home. What wonderful days we had. Shelling and fishing were the dominant activities. I could go anywhere to shell or fish and no fear. Dewey and Mary Miller ran the boat and bait place, dear hardworking honest people.

Yes, we took the ferry and the price was $3 for our car and 25c per passenger. We came to the mainland rarely. Bailey's was our only shopping place, located on the bay. We had to pick up bottled water at Bailey's. I had to send out laundry as the water was sulphur.

We still have good friends on the island but have them come here in season.

I would suggest that the Fort Myers stores withdraw their advertising from your paper. It won't hurt islanders as you have more shopping centers than Fort Myers (you forgot to limit them).

Socially we might be acceptable, but the nouveau riche wouldn't know my husband is a Cornell graduate and I am a former officer of the Junior League of Cleveland, am still a member of my garden club, Shake Lakes GCA. I am also a founder of Shaker Lakes Nature Center and also belong to the Nature Center of Fort Myers.

Happy times Sanibel, continue the Coney Island. Perhaps a really good hurricane will be forthcoming and good old Mother Nature will be able to return.

Enclosed is my subscription check for another year.

Jane Wyckoff Bishop,
Fort Myers

P.S. I knew "Ding" Darling, Penny and Mary I am so glad the sanctuary was built and named in "Ding's" honor. At least something is left of Sanibel and I admire the work of CROW.

Help to end underage drinking

To Island Reporter: As you are well aware, the Department of Business Regulation is concerned about underage drinking. We believe you share our concern and are willing to help us stop the sale of alcoholic beverages to underage persons.

The Division of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco has recently established a toll free number to report alcoholic beverage sales to underage persons anywhere in Florida. The number is 1-800-AGE IS 21.

In order for this number to become an effective tool in combating the underage drinking problem, we are asking for your support. Please help us by publicizing this number in your newspaper for the benefit of your readers.

On behalf of the Department of Business Regulation I would like to thank you in advance for your support. Your assistance is greatly appreciated and is an important element in helping to end the problem of underage drinking.

Marnie Law
Public Information Officer,
Dept. of Business Regulation

Grateful for FISH

The following letter was submitted to the Island Reporter for publication.

Mr. Abe Lerner,
President,
Friends in Service Here
Sanibel, FL

By sending a copy of this letter to THE ISLAND REPORTER for its publication, I would express publicly the deep sense of gratitude I feel to you and the dedicated people in your organization for the caring thought and service you so generously make available to those of us who need it, because of the loss of mobility or other related handicap with which we must contend. This is pointed up by your solid and concrete planning for our evacuation and care in the face of such potential need, should the devastating force and destructive power of the terror storm Elena have turned just enough as it progressed through the gulf to make a direct strike on our so vulnerable islands. The plans you made and the alert sounded for those of us you contacted, were in my opinion, more than well founded.

It is comforting to know that you are there, and once again, "many thanks".

Arthur T. Hunter,

about what I'd have expected if I'd filed an application to operate a snare farm or a storage facility for a radioactive substance."

McClintock maintained the ordinance is valid and unenforceable on the grounds that it is arbitrary, unreasonable, discriminatory and unconstitutional in that, if in force, it would deprive applicants and other residents of Sanibel, Fla., of valuable rights to receive satellite signals pursuant to federal laws now in force.

It was conceived and passed with the expressed purpose of making it impossible for a residential home owner to install a dish antenna on Sanibel, a privilege now enjoyed by millions of persons throughout the United States.

McClintock further referred to a recent Port Myers News Press article in which, he said, City Manager Gary Price and an "unnamed" planning staff spokesman attested that the ordinance virtually precluded satellite antennas on Sanibel.

Lorenson said, "I do feel, as an individual, if I wanted to put a satellite antenna in my yard, I would personally comply with the requirements of the ordinance I wasn't happy about. Now they're not totally unreasonable that it can't be done."

Commissioner Jerry Muench, wishing to bring a note of calm to the volatile situation, attempted to lead McClintock in satisfying the five questions posed by the planning staff.

McClintock was answering them, not always as calmly as Muench had hoped, when Planning Director Bruce Rogers sought a continuation of the matter so that question of room for the dish could be investigated and an answer to the dish's withstanding 139 mph winds sought.

Reference to coverage wasn't made in the planning report. It was mentioned in discussions with McClintock, according to Jimmy Jordan of the planning department.

Prior to the development, Lorenson remarked "(It's) inevitable, they're (for elite dishes) going to be here. The ordinance is to see that they're the way Sanibel wants them."

McClintock wasn't so sure Tuesday. He was invited by Rogers to the September 30 planning commission meeting on the new land development code to present his views on the satellite-dish ordinance.

Hearing on his development permit request was continued to October 8 at 9:50 a.m. □

They planned to use the house for on-site management of the condos. The development will be in the resort housing zone, but rentals will be limited to 28 days or more.

Developers and members of the Almas family maintained that the land was owned separately and taxes paid separately but admitted it was used as part of the resort though intended originally for family members.

City planners said the Comprehensive Land Use Plan provides for inclusion on the basis of use.

Auction of furnishings from the Beachcomber will be held October 1, prior to demolition of the buildings. □ individually," explained BMRH director, Dr. Dorothy Newman. "The new rules are not so stringent."

Under the old rules, units had to be committed for 21 years. Now the length of time units are put in the program can be negotiated. So can initial rents which previously had been fixed at 10 percent of the building costs regardless of the type of unit.

"Then there's been the considerable amount of activity to work with developers," added Newman. "Prior to my being hired last year and the development of the Community Housing and Resources Inc. there had been very little done with that."

Approved by the council last week were the Beach Road project which will add 12 units to the program, the VIP project adding four units and the Woodbridge development, five units. Just two weeks earlier four units on Wooster Lane had been promises by John Van Heemst in return for favorable density increases

Not all the 12 units to be built on the 3.24 acre tract adjacent to Periwinkle Trailer Park on the west side of Beach Road will be available to the public at large. Mariner Properties Inc. owner of the old Hurricane House cottages which are to be transported to the property has laid claim to two of the units and council member Francis Bailey who owns the property along with his brother Sam and islander Warren Stringer wants six reserved for the staff of his grocery store and for his own children.

I guarantee I am not paying them enough to bring them (the employees) over the qualifying level," he told council.

As a result only four units are left in the pot to supply priorities.

This is not really serving the people it was intended to serve asserted Councilman Mike Klein. The city is making considerable concessions in density and at the end of 16 years the owners have it free and clear and can do what they like with it.

It also means the employer doesn't have to satisfy the demand for higher wages he continued.

Mayor Fred Valtin pointed out that even though Bailey and Mariner could put their own employees in the units these employees would still have to qualify for BMRH housing under the criteria of the program.

The Beach Road development is committed to the BMRH program for a period of 16 years.

The Community Housing Resources board has recommended that to qualify for below market rate housing the total maximum income for a single person must not exceed $18,000 and for a four person family it must not exceed $33,000. This includes income from all sources including interest, rents, alimony or child support.

Rents under the program vary according to size, quality, location and number of bedrooms. CHR has proposed a range of between $415 and $485 for a two bedroom one bath house or apartment.

Qualified tenants may also apply for a 14 percent subsidy from CHR.

Substantial increases in density have been awarded all the recent BMR projects to attract developers into the program.

Councilwoman Louise Johnson opposed the increase in density for the VIP development because she felt the construction of four units on the lot south of the VIP offices on Periwinkle Way was too great.

I feel council is raising densities too much for the BMRH program she commented in casting her negative vote.

Johnson also hesitated to support the Wood bridge development — the enclosure of existing porches to provide four more bedrooms on six apartments located on a lot behind the 7 Eleven on Periwinkle Way.

You're asking us to increase density on a development which is already twice what it should be she told developer Mike Trowbridge.

After Trowbridge agreed to put the six apartments into the program for 10 years seven years longer than he initially wanted the project was approved by council.

The new rates were agreed upon at a meeting of the CHR board Monday and will be put to city council at the first possible council meeting. Dr. Newman said.

it appear like a city dump."

Among all this Mayor Fred Valtin maintained I'd just as soon leave it the way it is."

A motion by Johnson for sloping with vegetation died for lack of a second and Valtin moved to deny the original specific amendment request for a fence with the stipulation that the pond stay as it is. The motion passed 3-1 with Klein opposed.

However, council members agreed it was not the last they'd hear of the pond at Guisance City Park.

Angling Hotline

Fisherman off Blind Pass a few weeks ago may have been breaking the law when they drove up to Santiva Mini Mart with some 20 redfish weighing around 15 pounds apiece.

But they're probably not the only ones.

A new law regulating the size and number of redfish was introduced September 12 but a lot of anglers still don't know about the law apparently.

"We're using a lot of discretion at the moment," said marine patrol officer, David Patterson. "A lot of people still don't know about the law."

The new law prohibits catching any redfish under 18 inches long. That's about a nine pound fish according to Patterson.

Between 18 and 32 inches you can take as many as you like but above 32 the limit is just one per fisherman.

"That minimum size has been brought in to protect the young redfish and allow them to reach spawning age," explained information officer Lee Schlesinger. "The upper limit is to preserve the biggest egg bearing fish," he observed.

Schlesinger said he thought the redfish shortage had got pretty serious. □

Artist and teacher achieve childhood ambitions

By Barbara John

Raggety Ann, Shirley Temple, Sonja Heine and B-bee doll were just some of the attendees in the first class that Barbara Tyer Ward ever conducted. She was four years old, and already knew she wanted to teach school.

Just a few blocks away in the same town of Norfolk, Va., a five-year old boy was drawing with a pen, pencil and brush. Wellington Ward already knew he wanted to be a fine artist.

Now in her seventh year as principal at Sanibel Elementary School, Barbara Ward has fulfilled her dream of guiding, teaching and developing the curriculum for what she says "... may be the best elementary school in the nation — but certainly ... the best in the state."

Nationally, Wellington Ward's talents have been acclaimed by serious collectors including the late Ray Kroc, founder of McDonald's and owner of the San Diego Padres; and broadcaster Earl Nightingale. His paintings sell for $3,000 to $12,000. Locally he is a celebrity and a hero, with his Fort Myers Centennial portfolio providing the financial backbone for the nine month celebration.

The signed and numbered portfolio containing ten original 11" x 14" contemporary prints, five black and white and five watercolor drawings, is on sale for $40 at the Fort Myers Chamber of Commerce.

The Wards celebrated their 29th wedding anniversary last month; an ongoing, supportive, self-sacrificing relationship that began when they were 13 and 14.

Barbara knew on their first date that she wanted Wellington "Wat-tie" Ward as her lifetime mate. Even when they supported each other's interests. She was a cheer leader; he was the three letter man, star half back and captain of the football team; he was cheer-

They separated long enough for Barbara to earn her degree in primary and secondary education he to achieve his certificate in commercial art and design. The next separation came after they were married when Ward went off to serve his required time in the navy working as an illustrator for the Atlantic Fleet commander in chief.

Everything was back to normal. Wattie was home. Barbara was teaching their sons Sam and Ben were in private school. Ward opened his own commercial studio and soon became art director for the Department of Defense, turning out everything technical and graphic needed by the Pentagon.

The money was good, their future secure, but to Ward, who still wanted to fulfill his childhood dream of recording on canvas his impressions of the world around him, the work was dull. Wattie had become a weekend painter, but was so drained from frustration and his commercial work he was only dabbling in printing. He wanted to quit his job. He knew that was impossible.

Barbara's decisive nature took over. She virtually said, "The word impossible is NOT in the Ward family dictionary!"

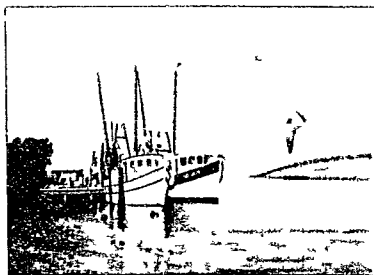

Enter one of Barbara's co-workers who was to change the course of their lives. She was so impressed with Wattie's artistic sensitivity, his fledgling attempts at nostalgic rural scenes, landscapes and nautical subjects, that she offered us a deal so good we had to consider it. She said, "Give up your job. Leave all this behind you. For $50 a month you can live in my house in Fort Myers for a guaranteed two years. See if you really are an artist." Barbara explained.

At the Ward family round table, Wattie listened as Barbara and sons Sam and Ben discussed the plan. Barbara said, "I can support the family. The boys need six to prove himself. They faced the fact that most of the material they had known would be laid aside and began to envision their new home in beautiful tropical Florida. They headed for Fort Myers, sight unseen. The family had faith. With their arrival in 1968, that faith was to be tested. The Fort Myers dream house was a disaster, covered with weeds, fire ants, ugly black mildew, and broken plumbing. And shortly after getting the place habitable, an act of God forced the owner of "Cardboard Manor" to sell. The Wards had no place to live, a minimal income of $6,500 and maximum frustration.

Barbara continued optimistic and Wattie's "down on my knees prayers" inspired by Catherine, please see WARDS 4B.

Marshall's uplifting book Beyond Ourselves led them on . . . into a newly discovered, affordable house near Whiskey Creek into an era when Ward began to enter and win in local art shows; into a period when Ward began to enter and win in local art shows; into a period when, as a family they took a janitorial job at a church; into the "discovery" by national critics of a new Andrew Wyeth on the American horizon named Wellington Ward.

Through all the headaches and heartaches, Barbara continued her education, receiving her master's degree in curriculum from the University of South Florida.

After 10 years of teaching fourth and fifth grade math at Orange-wood School, she became assistant principal at Tice Elementary for a year before her move to Sanibel Elementary.

A she talks about her work, she glows. "I love working directly with the children and the teachers, and being in a position to develop the curriculum in this outstanding school."

The excitement Barbara generates as she talks about the unlimited potential for her students her pride in the fact that Sanibel Elementary ranks above the state level in every class, her belief that education is a privilege that carries responsibility, is explanation for the awards she has garnered for herself and the school.

In her office, nestled among seven Wellington Ward prints, she is surrounded by awards, the most coveted to any principal being The Little Red Schoolhouse Award which is granted to just eight recipients statewide, and only once before in the history of Lee County.

"She is as dedicated to her work as I am to art," "Wattie" explained. "Look at all the awards she has won." For the five years that the Golden School award has been given, Sanibel has won every year. In the midst of these tributes to her accomplishments hangs what had to be Barbara's favorite Valentine in 1984.

Dated February 14, and signed by Governor Bob Graham, the content is his words of praise and congratulations "for an exemplary job; dedication; professionalism and for being instrumental in the creation of a successful educational environment."

And early this year "Wattie" received the highest compliment of his career when NASA chose both father and artist son Sam to do some original art work for the Air and Space Museum's permanent collection in Washington, D.C., an honor Ward describes as "the most important thing that has ever happened to me in my life!" □

Fanatics suffer to add to wildlife knowledge

By George Lewis Weymouth

There's an old saying: A fanatic is someone who is extremely interested in something you could care less about.

Recently I was sent a nature book. The author had spent years in a remote area studying a type of creature. The sender tried to read the book but decided the author was a fanatic. So she sent it to me.

Is that a hint?

Undoubtedly many sane men feel the men who have been digging in the African gorge for hints of early man are crazy to live in tents in the African heat.

What about Jane Goodall, who added so much to our knowledge of chimpanzees? She certainly isn't living in a resort area checking out the latest in fashions. Yet is she crazy? Of course not. She is simply on a different wavelength than we are.

Recently I attended a Florida Ornithological Society meeting in Orlando. The FOS is a branch of the Florida Audubon Society and its membership includes serious birders, biologists and other professional people like myself who are very involved with birds.

These people are very much fanatics that is on different wavelengths. And thank God they are! Herbert Kale and Wesley Biggs for example are deep into a project they're launching: the Florida Breeding Bird Atlas.

When the research is over in Dec 1990 we'll all have much clearer knowledge of which bird species are nesting where in Florida.

I'm willing to help with this project but am usually extremely too busy in March, April and May guiding birding tours through the refuge and working on wildlife art commission and honestly would like to turn the Lee County area over to other birders who have the time during nesting season to research properly. Any volunteers? If so call 472 BIRD.

Festival of the Islands

Jazz under the stars includes fine food at this year's festival

A weekend of contemporary and classic jazz with food and a festival atmosphere is planned for this year's Jazz on the Green October 12 and 13 at The Dunes Golf & Tennis Club on Sanibel.

The Saturday evening concert starting at 8 p.m. will feature the festival's perennial favorites Peter Graves and the Atlantean Driftwood Band will special guest artist Bob James on keyboards. Also appearing will be vocalist Iana Paul brought back by popular demand after a show-stealing performance last year. Banding out the bill is contemporary jazz group The Ross Levine Band.

The Sunday afternoon segment has been expanded to include not only music but fine food as well. Continuous jazz from 1 to 7 p.m. will again feature the Driftwood Band with special guest Jim Hendricks. Sunday's theme is jazz from years gone by and will include performances of the Big Band and Dixieland and jazz from the 60s by Chick Devey.

While the entertainers are cooking on stage the most talented chefs of local renown will be cooking in the wings. A Great Chefs of Southwest Florida food fair will be set up on the Dunes grounds serving a variety of specialty dishes not seen in an area since the Taste of the Island.

Local restaurants participating are Merriman's Wine and Spirits, Morgan's at Suidal on Sanibel, the Timbers of Sanibel and Bill Pescatore of Naples. They will be serving from 1 to 11 p.m. Beverage service will also be available.

For the second year when local artist Ika Matsuoka has created a poster commemorating Sanibel Jazz which will be sold at the festival at reduced prices along with festival T-shirts and records and tapes of previous concerts which featured artists such as Jaco Pastorius, Randy Brecker and Nat Adderly.

Tickets for Saturday's performance can be purchased in advance for $12.50 or for $15.00 at the gate that evening. Sunday afternoon tickets are $5.00 and will not be sold in advance. A two-day event pass may be purchased for $17.00. Proceeds are benefiting the Burrer Island Group for the Arts (BIG Arts) and the Sanibel Island Children's Center. Tickets may be purchased at The Dunes, Sanibel Audio/Video, Sanibel Chamber of Commerce, the B-Hive, Sundal Beach & Tennis Resort and Tuttle's. For more information contact The Dunes at 472-3355.

Short of holding a stance we can't actually get endorsements from people like Ernest Hemingway, King Henry VIII or Napoleon Bonaparte.

But we're certain Chadwick's would please them in spirit.

After a long day of battling marlin or battling a typewriter, Papa Hemingway would have loved to avoid battling a necktie.

So he would have loved Chadwick's, and our fresh seafood, choice meats, decadent desserts, and divine drinks.

Because while the atmospheres rather more sophisticated than an African safari, the dress is almost as casual.

King Henry VIII went through six wives trying to find one who'd give him good food in king-sized portions—

With the consequences of displeasing someone like him in mind, we created Chadwick's all-you-can-eat buffets.

Polynesian Paradise on Tuesday, Seafood Delight on Friday, Champagne Brunch on Sunday. And bountiful lunches every day.

Henry probably would have proposed to the cook.

Gently persuading reluctant prin- cipalities to join the empire doesn't leave a general much time to catch a quick bite.

Which is why Napoleon is tradition- ally portrayed with a hand inside his coat, massaging his growling stomach.

If only he were around for Chadwick's dinner specials: Prime Rib and King Crab Duo on Monday, Stuffed Florida Grouper on Wednesday, Jamaican Chicken on Thursday, And New York Strip Steak on Saturday.

Plus a special menu for other hard-to-please little people. Your kids.

All at prices so reasonable you can afford to feed an army.

We heartily endorse a visit to Chadwick's in the near future.

As would a couple of history's biggest eaters.

And one of history's smallest ones.

The regular meeting of the Sanibel Captiva Lions Club was held at the Sanibel Community Building on September 18 with increased attendance as more vacations end.

Lion Schuyler started the program off with a conference call to Lion John Cook who has been recuperating in Birmingham, Alabama. Lion Cook spoke to the group and then joined in or two songs to start the meeting properly.

A program was presented on the Lee Memorial Hospital Wellness Center by Mike Murphy, vice president in charge of the center. He described the activities and equipment available to all who wish to enter and continue in a program of exercise health checks in order to retain their health. There is also available a special section for those who are in need of a rehabilitation program following illness or surgery. A sports medicine program has been worked out for those who are extremely active in the area of organized sports. Mr. Murphy invited participation of the members and organizations in the upcoming Run for Health.

The next regular meeting of the Sanibel Captiva Lions Club will be held at the Sanibel Community Building on October 2 at 6:30 p.m.

SAN CAP ROTARY MEETING

Despite it being Friday the 13th the 22 members attending the San Cap Rotary last week were far from depressed.

In fact the meeting was concerned with youth and our hope for the future and therefore the tone was hopeful and cheerful. Prize scholar Jenny Ten Broeck ambassador to the Seminar for Future Leaders was introduced to the club.

Dr. Roy Green, Rotarian of the South Fort Myers Club will speak at the next meeting on the formation of a head and neck trauma center.

Sunrise Run gets national publicity to broaden event

By Paul Luthringer

Plagued with increasing costs of coordinating and selling Festival of the Islands events like the Sanibel Sunrise 10K run and Festival Golf Classic, the Sanibel Captiva Chamber of Commerce will this year how out of the sponsorship of such events and leave it up to the individual sporting groups to find their own sponsors according to Chamber director Walter Khe.

But the Chamber's absence won't stop sporting events from playing a major part of what sporting groups will still call the Festival of the Islands.

Kicking off the festival, the Fort Myers Track Club will again hold its 10 kilometer Sanibel Sunrise race on Oct. 19 — this year touted as the 1985 Road Runners Club of America's Florida State Championship. According to club president Lew Allshouse, the problem up to this point has been gaining state and national publicity and money to broaden the event.

If you go all over the state of Florida and ask running clubs what race the Fort Myers track club does and what event is the biggest in town, they'll say the Sanibel Sunrise 10K. It's not the largest race in numbers, but all over the state, it's still the race runners know us for because it is so well done. Allshouse says. We are finding it is getting to be true that Sanibel Island itself is a real pill for runners.

Allshouse explained that the RRCA nationally is composed of a grass roots following of about 476 running clubs with over 175,000 members. Florida is the most powerful RRCA state in the whole country with over 40 clubs — thus it is important that we hold the Florida State Convention for the RRCA and the 10K run in the same vicinity, he says.

The RRCA convention will be held on Oct. 18 at South Seas Plantation in conjunction with the 10K run the following day at 7:45 a.m. at The Dunes. Pre-registration costs $7. The Captiva convention site replaces last year's Miami convention location.

Although Florida boasts the largest number of running clubs in the country, Allshouse is trying almost everything to make the Sanibel event the best known. He's already signed Adrian Leek, last year's winner and now team coordinator for Kangaroo Running Shoes. Women's top runner, Maryann Dickerson seems firm on running on the island. Many of Florida's top runners will be here too, but how else to get the word out that Sanibel has the best and most beautiful 10K run?

First, it's been confirmed that the event will be covered by local television with the chance that some footage will hit network air. Secondly, Allshouse hopes to have track athletes comment on offers and the governor's council on physical fitness present.

They publish a booklet on the best running events and we have been neglected in the past, he says.

Other efforts to broaden the appeal of the Sanibel run include soliciting the Florida running clubs for funds as well as selling ads to clubs for various magazines about state events. We are just hoping to make running on Sanibel bigger and more visible.

Allshouse's main goal aimed at making the Sanibel event an on and off island race is to eventually open the Sanibel Causeway up to racers. Without Sanibel City Council in his way, Allshouse says, he could raise the consciousness of runners across the country and turn the Sanibel race into an island mainland "super" race.

We have The Dunes and the nice course on Sanibel, but it won't bring me national prominence or even state wide prominence until I get the Causeway opened to racers. I want to make the race really special, he hopes.

The Tuesday tournament had 22 players and two teams tied for first place with plus 9: Hank Groh, Merl Kester, Dave Spochr, John Forster, Don Purcell, Ray Howland and Fred Comlossv. Player of the week was John Forster and Don Purcell. The off-island tournament was held at Marco Shores Country Club with 20 players. The winning team with 125 was Dick Muench, Bob Manns, Glen Donell and Merl Kester. The best two men with 61 was Roy Hull and John Forster.

The weekend following the 10K run, Bailey's General Store and Bank of the Islands will sponsor the Festival of the Islands Golf Classic at The Dunes on Oct. 26 and 27.

This year, Dunes pro Pat Flinn took the responsibility to set up the Classic by himself and hold the whole event at The Dunes.

One incentive for golfers so far is that the pros is filled by tour players including Chris Blocker, Jim Munson, Bob Hugh, Lute Baird and Jerry Hearl. According to Flinn, all have played the tour in a real, tight, sharp.

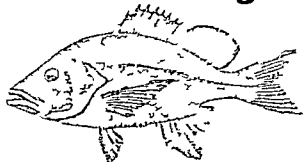

Parameter set by Flinn allow players to set up their own three-man amateur teams or to sign up individually. Then a player can play with a different partner each day and if the pro's score helps them, they can use it with his pro receiving none of the amateur money.

The $750 first prize money will be divided three ways. The pro, Flinn says, will be playing for their own pot of $1000 for first and $500 total. That's the second biggest purse for golf in the area, in back of the Pabst golf classic, Flinn says.

Only the first 28 paid teams that sign up for the event will be allowed to participate. A 1 p.m. shotgun starts the Classic on Oct. 26 with a 9 a.m. start Sunday. □

Fish names: ignorance no excuse say law enforcement

Red Snapper

By Fritz & Norma Stoppelheim

With so many new laws and regulations being implemented to try to stem the falling tide of fish populations it becomes important for anglers to know the correct name for the fish they take from the water — especially since law enforcement agencies assure us that ignorance of the law is no excuse.

For a long time certain fish have been called a variety of names depending upon the area of the world they happen to inhabit. Not only the common names but the scientific names have been confusing. Although the American Fisheries Society has tried to bring some order to the chaos by publishing a list of known species with the preferred names which stress proper family relationships it is difficult to change long standing habits.

Probably the champion in our area who it comes to aliases is the redfish. It answers to the name red drum from the Panhandle westward along the Gulf. Along Florida's northern coast it is channel bass. Other names it has been labelled with are Spot tail bass, red horse and bull red school drum, pippy drum, red and red red.

Similar confusion arises from mistaken identity. A case in point in our area is the snapper family. The snapper family — Lutjanidae — consists of some 20 different species with at least 14 members found in North American waters. The resident snapper in our area is the gray snapper, sometimes called mangrove snapper. The gray snapper when found in deep water is grayish color on top, paler on the sides with red fringes on the pectoral, pelvic and anal fins. After it is killed the body turns a deep reddish brown.

This same snapper in the estuaries where it feeds around mangrove roots has a reddish brown sheen on its sides. It too turns to a deeper reddish brown when killed. This characteristic leads many people to refer to it as red snapper.

There are great differences however between the gray (mangrove) snapper and true red snapper.

The coloring of the red snapper leads no doubt about its name. From the early stages of its life it is rosy red, darker on top, paler on the sides and the dorsal fin is red with orange edging. Red snappers can grow as large as 35 pounds and about three feet in length whereas the gray snapper seldom grows to be 10 pounds. Those caught inshore are two pounds or less.

The red snapper is a deep water fish and younger fish may be found in shallower areas in the tropics.

Most snappers are considered excellent table fare, but the red snapper has long been a commercially sought fish because of its size. As with many popular species popularity has brought about is downfall. Intensive fishing pressure has reduced the stocks to a dangerous low level and now, after much of the stock is gone, fishery managers are trying to close the barn door with protective rules and regulations.

Red snapper caught in federal waters may 13 inches total length and must be brought in intact. Persons fishing aboard headboats are exempt from the limit until May 8, 1986.

So when you catch a fish you not only need to know the law pertaining to it, but its correct name and identity to know whether you can keep what you caught or if you must return it to the water.

Going fishing isn't as simple and carefree as it used to be — especially for newcomers to saltwater fishing.

Refuge to provide island for nesting skimmers

■ REFUGE BRIEFS Plans for designating a spoil island in Pine Island Sound to provide skimmers terns and other marine birds with a safe nesting place

J. N. Ding, Darling National Wildlife Refuge Project Leader, Ron Hight, has gained support for this project of removing some woody vegetation on a four-acre island and agencies supporting the plan include Department of Natural Resources, Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission and the Sanibel Captiva Conservation Foundation

Funding sources and avenues to accomplish the work are being explored and the plan calls for work to be accomplished this winter

Refuge staff members are monitoring the nesting black skimmers on the Causeway, and will be installing protective fencing when more chicks begin to hatch if necessary

National Hunting and Fishing Day is Saturday September 28th. This is an annual recognition of the contribution hunters and anglers have made towards wildlife

In 1984 Florida sports enthusiasts contributed over nine million dollars for wildlife restoration projects through excise taxes collected when hunting and fishing equipment are purchased. These monies are collected by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service who assists states with funding up to 75 percent of the cost of approved wildlife assistance projects

One way everyone can help wildlife is to buy a Duck Stamp. Come to the Refuge Visitor Contact Station for more information on the Duck Stamp program □
