GOP Selecting 618 Delegates

Will Pick Party's Candidates for State Election in November

Hartford, Conn., May 22.—(AP)—Connecticut Republicans today are selecting the 618 delegates who will meet at the state convention at New Haven on June 14 and will pick the party's candidates for the November election.

Town assembly caucuses will name two delegates for each member of the Legislature, together with two delegates at large.

These caucuses will also choose delegates to the conventions at which the party's candidates for the United States senator and representative, judge of probate and county sheriff will be picked.

Observers foresee the historic state nominating convention the Republicans have had in years, with four separate caucuses for the gubernatorial nomination, three for the two United States senatorial nominations and one for the nomination for secretary of the state.

Contests are said to be in progress at other nominating conventions.

the town stadium when the quake struck. None of the spectators were believed hurt.

It was reported that the Hotel Turista, where most foreign visitors stay, was not damaged. Churches in a popular center for tourists who come to see the ancient ruins and historic churches in the city were also reported to be unharmed.

Much of the archeologically rich Cuco was reported in ruins. The restaurants and shops were almost totally buried. Cuco radio reported that the moving of the debris is extremely difficult now.

The broadcast said that "it has been impossible to calculate the damage since almost everything has been destroyed."

The quake disrupted communications, making it difficult for details to get a complete account.

Authorities said they expect the death toll to mount when rescue workers are able to dig their way into the wreckage of many residences.

Damage Widespread

One estimate said 40 per cent of the buildings are severely damaged and up to 30 per cent completely ruined. Cuco said the southern part of the town was hardest hit.

The broadcast said many persons were camping in the streets while others had fled to the country apparently in fear of renewed quakes.

Funerals

The funeral of Jessie T. Harvey, wife of Archibald Harvey, who died suddenly at the Memorial hospital Wednesday morning, was held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at the church, officiated by Rev. James R. Bell, pastor of the church.

Funeral services for Rev. Bell, assisted by Mrs. Bell at the piano, took place at the Memorial hospital Wednesday morning. Mrs. Harvey's family was in the family plot in East Precious Lane.
