Fighting Parkinson's

Lauren Sferrazza, left, of Edison, a sophomore biology major at Rider University, has studied the protein GDNF in Axolotls and Venus laevis. Her work is part of on-going research conducted by Julie Drawbridge, right, associate professor of biology at Rider. For the past seven years, Drawbridge has received funding from the National Science Foundation's Animal Development Mechanisms Program to focus on how cell migration is involved in the development of the vertebrate kidney.

Research underway

Dr. Mona Thiruchelvam, assistant professor of environmental and occupational medicine at the University of Medicine and Dentistry — New Jersey-Robert Wood Johnson Medical School, is one of 10 recipients nationally to receive a grant for translational research in Parkinson's disease from the Michael J. Fox Foundation for Parkinson's Research. The foundation awarded $1.8 million in total funding to 10 research teams working to validate the therapeutic potential of various basic science discoveries, pushing them one step closer to the clinic. The projects are being funded under the foundation's annual Target Validation initiative, the focal point of which is to ensure that the translation of research into beneficial therapies for Parkinson's disease is confirmed through narrowly focused validation studies. Dr. Thiruchelvam's lab is one of six teams that will work to generate new neuroprotective strategies with potential to slow or stop disease progression, something no treatment on today's market can do. Her research will focus on synthetic estrogen's ability to protect dopamine neurons in culture. Four other teams will investigate potential approaches to alleviate the symptoms of Parkinson's disease.

Arts festival hits borough streets

HIGHLAND PARK — Main Street is combining the beauty of the fall season with the splendor of art as it presents The Arts in the Park — the 2006 Highland Park Arts Festival. The annual festival will be held tomorrow along Raritan Avenue between Third and Fifth avenues from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The event — to be held rain or shine — is being co-sponsored by Unity Bank. The festival will be an all-outdoors, juried art show conceived to showcase fine arts and crafts and highlight a defining quality of Highland Park as a creative, multi-cultural, dynamic community.

"The objectives of The Arts in the Park are to promote Highland Park as an artistic community while stimulating the economy," said Graham Copeland, executive director of Main Street Highland Park. "This event is a great way for residents and visitors to admire and shop for some fantastic works of art, while enjoying all that Highland Park has to offer."

It will be a multi-layered event. The main attraction is the Juried Fine Arts & Crafts Show. It will feature 60 artists selected from the region, with a focus on many local artists. Participants will display and sell their work under tents along Raritan Avenue and participate in a contest for various awards.

Another facet of the event will be two stages of entertainment, with live jazz, rock, folk and bluegrass performances from New Jersey musicians. A large Kids Zone will include chalk drawing, pastels, a large mural, beaded jewelry, tapestry art and scrap booking, all provided by local businesses. Of course, rides and games will also be available for the kids. For the adults, wine tasting with Balic Winery and microbrew beers will also be served. And of course, food vendors will be serving a variety of mouth-watering dishes to the crowds.

This cultural festival is expected to draw thousands of art and music lovers from the local communities and visitors from Middlesex and Somerset counties and expose them to the core of Highland Parks' downtown district.

Main Street Highland Park is the organizational sponsor of Arts in the Park. Main Street Highland Park is a nonprofit organization dedicated to the promotion and revitalization of Highland Park's thriving downtown business district. Main Street Highland Park follows a successful four-point program established by the National Trust for Historic Preservation's Main Street Center.

Bound Brook grads marking 50 years

Rita Staffieri, who now lives in Pennsylvania, is pictured above greeting Bill Ferris of California during the 50th reunion for Bound Brook High School's Class of 1956 on Wednesday. Former classmates are pictured at right gathering in front of the school. Members toured the high school Wednesday and presented a plaque to the school honoring Bound Brook alumni who served in the military. Mayor Frank Ryan then honored the class with a proclamation at Rosina's Café. On Thursday a golf outing was planned at Rutgers University, and on Friday some of the classmates ventured down to Atlantic City to try their luck at the Tropicana. Later, the group was expected to meet up at their old stomping grounds, Chitch's, in Bound Brook, for a beer and pizza party. Today, they will party at the Somerville Elks followed by brunch at the Elks tomorrow. The class has established a mathematics scholarship for Bound Brook High School students. The class of 1956 is the only Bound Brook class to offer scholarships.

Today is Somerville Sampler Day

By ALLISON ELYSE GUALTIERI
Staff Writer

SOMERVILLE — Treats and tastes will be available on Main Street again, as Somerville Sampler Day will showcase downtown businesses' wares for the second year in a row from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. today.

The District Management Corporation is coordinating the event, which will feature free food, sidewalk sales, giveaways, and activities from over 50 downtown businesses.

"We've worked very hard to get participants, and we've got about 50 businesses that will be participating," said DMC board member and downtown business owner Cynthia Nannen, adding that there are about 13 restaurants that will be giving out food and over 30 stores that will participate in the event.

Nannen, along with business owners Penny Milligan, Ken Rommell, and Rand Pitts, were the originators of the event, and were the ones that persuaded the business owners to participate, said district manager Cynthia Hollod.

"We're hoping for a bigger turnout. I think word of mouth has been very positive about the one last year, and hopefully the weather will hold and it will be a good day for people to come out," she said.

School successful in Quarters for the Cure drive

On Fridays, class representatives from the James Monroe School in Edison would rush to count change and record it on a chart posted in the foyer of the school for all to see. Without any tangible rewards, the elementary children remained determined, and in just a matter of weeks, raised almost $2,000 to support a cause often too difficult to comprehend, even for those children who have family members or friends who are living with cancer.

Created by the Cancer Institute of New Jersey Foundation to support patient care and the research, prevention and education programs at the Cancer Institute of New Jersey, Quarters for the Cure was held in 51 schools throughout New Jersey including the winning Edison school, James Monroe. To date, this year's campaign has raised more than $20,000, a sixty-seven percent increase over the 2005 total of $12,000.

"We are so proud of the children for working so hard to help in the fight against cancer," said Cynthia Lewis, assistant director of annual giving at the foundation. "This has proven that children can be great philanthropists at any age."

Beginning in January, registered schools were sent letters accompanied by five-gallon water bottles and were challenged to raise as much as possible by hosting creative classroom activities and contests.

"It is a good feeling helping others," Student Council President Jared Pezzello said. Alexandra Gonzalez and Logan Martin, who are on the Student Council's executive board, added that they appreciate what they have more since being involved with Quarters for the Cure.

The school was recognized in a June 8 awards ceremony by the cancer institute, school leaders and local dignitaries. Welcoming remarks by Principal Lynda Zapotoczny and an introduction by Student Council advisors Maria Weber and Virginia Pattie opened the ceremony. Deena Centofanti, oncology education specialist at the institute, gave a presentation to students on common sense ways to help protect themselves from cancer. Mayor Jun H. Choi wrapped up the assembly thanking the children and encouraging them to continue to care and give of themselves generously.

At Milltown School in Bridgewater, a Quarters Challenge Week put classrooms in competition with one another to see who could raise the most. Students also participated in the Quarter Water Game, where quarters were carefully dropped into a filled water jug with the hope of getting it into the cup at the bottom. Winners received a pass for an extra physical education class, and according to teachers, the game was hugely popular bringing in $525. In total, $1,750 was raised by the Milltown School.

In Medford, the Burlington County Institute of Technology with a student population of 900 raised $1,212.52 by taking a different route and hosting a Penny Collection. Students were encouraged to fill their jugs with pennies and as few pieces of silver of possible.

Somerville Sampler Day held today

To help draw people to the event, there will be a walking tour that will focus on the architecture of downtown, called "Second Story Somerville," lead by Bill Lawton, former chair of the DMC. The tour will start at the courthouse at 11 a.m., and will highlight the notable buildings around town.

The DMC and the borough have been working with business owners to rehabilitate the downtown storefronts through such means as the Façade Improvement Grant Program.

"There are some great examples, such as Redelico's and the Gaston Building, where the façade improvement program has enabled them to do some restoration work," said Hollod.

There also will be music, as John Harritty will perform in front of 9 West Main Street and Rand Pitts will deejay at the Giardina Walkway, as well as free gifts and sale items.

"We asked businesses to do something extra that day, and businesses were really given the opportunity to do what they thought would draw people to the business and do what they do best, and that's what the sampler day is about," Hollod said.

"It's a day for people to come to Somerville, meet the owners, see what they do, and see the uniqueness of what the borough has to offer."

At Cecil S. Collins Elementary School in Barnegat, a theme day was held Feb. 6 in celebration of the Super Bowl. Students were invited to wear their favorite sports clothing provided they give a quarter to Quarters for the Cure. That student body raised $412.

change during lunch periods on Fridays in March. Lead by the student-run volunteer group P.R.I.D.E., $365 was raised to support the institute.

Teachers also participated at Summerfield School in Neptune.

In exchange for $5 and an opportunity to break the staff dress policy, teachers participated in Wear Jeans for Cancer days. Summerfield School raised $998.96.

Defense, huge line power Spartan victory

Impressive second-half effort boosts Immaculata past Somerville in opener

By DAVE ALLENA
Staff Writer

SOMERVILLE — No matter what Somerville High tried to do when it had the ball in the second half, Immaculata's defense had an answer. That proved to be the difference.

Although it did have to dodge a bullet on special teams and another when Somerville had the ball, the Spartans' defense dominated the highly-potent Pioneer attack following intermission, and with its offense grinding out a pair of scores, Immaculata rallied for a 21-14 victory in the season-opener at Brooks Field Sept. 8.

Having surrendered the lead when the Pioneers scored in the final minute of the opening half to forge a 14-7 advantage, Immaculata came out in the third period with a new resolve as well as some different twists on defense.

"There was no panicking at halftime," senior linebacker A.J. Albert said. "We knew we hadn't played our best football, and we just had to play with more heart."

"From the first day of practice this summer it was all deception because Dan DiLella (of Somerville) is a very good quarterback, and he's smart. We wanted to disguise what we were doing. We tried a couple of different things in the second half, and we put more pressure on him."

With more than 4000 fans looking on, Immaculata used its size advantage to defeat the Pioneers for the second straight year in the renewed intra-borough rivalry.

"They just out-physicalized us in the second half," SHS Head Coach Kevin Carty said. "I didn't think it was a problem at halftime. I thought we were doing a good job, but going into the game, I did think it might be a problem. I was concerned with their line possibly wearing us down, and I think that's part of what happened."

The Spartans also went with a different package on defense that impacted the game considerably.

"We had a linebacker spy on Mason Robinson in the second half, and we went with a nickel back (extra defensive back) in coverage," Immaculata Head Coach Pierce Frauenheim said. "We did a little more blitzing, but I think a lot of the pressure we put on DiLella came from our coverage downfield and from disguising our defenses."

Unhurried for the most part in the first half when he completed three of six passes for 68 yards and a touchdown — all to sophomore wide receiver Mike Naples — DiLella was pressured the entire second half as he connected on just three of 11 attempts for nine yards and two interceptions.

Immaculata also shut down the SHS running game, which had gotten 110 yards and a TD from Robinson in the first half. After halftime the Pioneers had five carries for minus three yards, with Robinson managing just four yards on three attempts. The only second-half first down by Somerville came on a penalty.

"They did some different things in the second half," DiLella said. "There was a little bit more pressure, and they confused me a little, I have to admit."

With the Spartans' options limited at tailback because of injuries, the offensive front line allowed Immaculata to control the ball and the clock.

After holding a 194-175 edge in total yards in the first half, Immaculata out-gained the Pioneers 147-6 following the break. For the game, the Spartans racked up 18 first downs, while Somerville finished with six. On the clock Immaculata dominated with a 31:44-16:16 advantage.

"I think a key for the whole thing was we controlled the clock," Frauenheim said. "As a coach you don't like to think that way, but at the end we were looking not to score too quickly and give them the ball back with a lot of time on the clock. But then the defense did a great job and we got the interception."

"We emphasized to our linemen how important it was to get off the ball, and they did a great job. In the second half the offense came through, and that kept Mason off the field."

Big Second Half

Immaculata wasted no time asserting itself in the third quarter. First, its defense forced the Pioneers to punt following a three-and-out sequence before the offense went 50 yards in 12 plays.

Junior quarterback Frank DeNick, who was making his first start, completed three of four passes on the drive, the first to T.J. Fabiano for 17 yards on the first play. He then had a 14-yard completion to tight end Jimmy Fisher for a first down on a third-and-10 play from the 33, and finally a 4-yard scoring toss to Fabiano on fourth-and-goal with 5:36 left in the third quarter.

"There was a little discussion about the fourth-down call," DeNick said. "Coach (Brett) Lyons usually makes the calls, but in that situation Coach Frauenheim had the final say."

"I felt very confident in it. I didn't have any worries about protection because the line had done a great job giving me time all game. I just had to get the ball to T.J. He was wide open."

Junior Mike Brownnett followed the TD pass with the second of his three successful conversion kicks to knot the game at 14-14. Following the kickoff DeNick picked off DiLella on a deep pass, but Robinson came up with his second interception a couple of minutes later.

After returning a first-half pick 42 yards to set up a TD, Robinson brought back the one in the third quarter 27 yards and when the Spartans were penalized for a late hit, SHS was in business at the Immaculata 46.

On first down a seven-yard pass to Dan Cuzzo and another personal foul penalty against the Spartans put the ball at the Immaculata 32. But DiLella inadvertently hit the ground while picking up a low snap and then misfired twice.

Facing a fourth-and-13, the Pioneers opted to go for the first down and DiLella found Naples open at the 5. Immaculata's Rich Dupras, however, either slightly deflected the ball or bothered Naples when he streaked in front of him as the ball bounced off Naples.

It then turned into a short game of field position as the Spartans moved to the Somerville 47 before punting, and then took over at the Pioneers' 34 following a punt.

Immaculata then simply gave the ball to Albert, who carried six straight times. After starting the march with a 19-yard burst through the middle, Albert capped it with a 4-yard run on a pitch-left, scooting into the end zone untouched with 5:13 to play. It was a rare run to the outside for the 225-pounder.

"I saw the cone and I knew I wanted to get in," said Albert. "No one was going to stop me. I usually don't go outside much. The coaches look at me and it's 42 Power — up the middle."

On the ensuing kickoff Robinson made his first return of the game an explosive one. Taking the ball on the right side, he found a seam and legged it all the way back. A holding call at the 40, however, nullified the score.

GEORGE PACCIOLLO/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Two plays later Dupras picked off a pass with 3:35 to play. SHS didn't get another opportunity, as the Spartans ran out the clock behind Albert.

"Last year I felt absolutely horrible when we lost," DiLella said. "This year I feel bad, but I know I left it all out here. All of my teammates did. We missed a couple plays and had a couple things go against us, like the kickoff return and the dropped touchdown pass, but that's football. That's a good team we lost to."

Despite falling behind early when Immaculata put together a 64-yard scoring drive on eight runs, the Pioneers appeared to be in good shape by halftime, thanks to some key connections from DiLella to Naples.

Following the Spartans' first-quarter score, Somerville took the ensuing kickoff and traveled 68 yards in six plays. DiLella and Naples hooked up twice for gains of 27 and 22 yards, and Robinson finished it with a 12-yard run through the middle on the first play of the second quarter.

Both followed with threats. Immaculata used eight plays to go from its 9 to the Somerville 36 before punting, and Somerville moved from its 20 to the Spartans' 16 on Robinson's 64-yard burst down the sideline before stalling at the 12 on downs.

Five plays later Robinson made a leaping interception and returned it 42 yards to the Immaculata 23 with 2:19 left in the half.

After a procedure penalty moved the ball back to the 28, Florentine Maurasse got the 5 yards back, a DiLella pass to Stephen Robinson was caught out of bounds in the end zone, and Mason Robinson carried for 4 yards to the 19, bringing up a fourth-and-6.

DiLella went back to what had worked before as he found Naples on the left side at the 10. Brad McAdam went for the interception but the ball seemingly went right through his hands and into those of Naples, who went into the end zone untouched. Brian Marone added his second PAT kick to make it 14-7 with 35 seconds left in the half.

Bridgewater-Raritan High junior quarterback Alonzo Miller carries on the option during the Panthers' season-opening 28-17 loss to Franklin.

Mistakes prove costly as B-R falls in debut

BRIDGEWATER — For a season-opener, it was a rather uneven performance by Bridgewater-Raritan High on a night the Panthers needed a much smoother showing.

"I thought our kids played really well," said Panthers Head Coach Tony Maglione. "Unfortunately, we made a few mistakes at the wrong time, and we were a bit undisciplined at times."

Franklin capitalized on many of the opportunities it had, doing so often enough to pull out a come-from-behind 28-17 victory Sept. 8 at Basile Memorial Field.

The Panthers appeared to be in quite decent shape when Mike Shedlosky's half-back option pass to Michael Rice covering 34 yards produced a touchdown and a 17-14 lead with 4:50 left in the contest.

As it had done throughout the encounter to neutralize the Warriors' potential game-breaking speed, B-R squibbed the ensuing kickoff. This time, however, Hanif Kendrick scooped up the short kick, evaded three tackles and scampered 62 yards down the sideline deep into Panther territory.

Moments later, Kendrick scored from four yards out and the visitors were in front.

"It was a typical Franklin team with a lot of speed," said Maglione, "and what we did worked most of the game.

Unfortunately, at the most crucial time, it didn't work as well. He got outside on us and got it close to the goal line."

Bridgewater-Raritan tried to launch a counter-attack but just a few plays into its next possession junior quarterback Alonzo Miller, facing a heavy blitz, was intercepted by Ahkiel White. Four plays later Kendrick, who rushed for 112 yards, scored on a sweep left for an insurance TD.

The Panthers had begun the game well enough, marching 67 yards for a touchdown on their second series, with junior Erik Willis capping the effort with a 10-yard run.

Franklin's Brian Thompson then broke a 43-yard TD jaunt and a B-R fumble deep in its territory set up a second Warriors' TD late in the first half.

Rob Pennella's 25-yard field goal in the third quarter and Shedlosky's scoring toss put the Panthers back in front before Franklin rallied for the triumph.

B-R was also hindered by some occasional alignment confusion and its chances weren't helped by the loss of senior two-way standout Ryan Clifford, who was ejected following a scuffle with Darvel Davis in the first period. NJCAA regulations now stipulate a player must sit out the next eight quarters following an ejection.

"We lined up wrong a few times and that cost us," said Maglione. "We need a bit more discipline and we need to limit our mistakes. Football is nothing more than seeing which team can cut down most on its mistakes, and we're the type of team that can't afford to make big mistakes. We don't have players who can score from anywhere on the field like Franklin does, so we have to minimize our mistakes."

"Offensively, we still did some things that kept us in the game. And I was happy with our defense. That fumble late in the first half put them in a bad situation, and we can't do things like that."

Directing B-R's option offense, Miller carried the ball 23 times for 49 yards and Clifford had 27 yards on three tries before he was ejected. Miller completed five of 11 passes for 74 yards.

"Alonzo did a nice job reading the options and a good job throwing," said Maglione. "He just needs to work hard to make himself more physical, because this is a very physical game. If he does that, he can become a real threat for us."

5-year anniversary of 9/11 observed in Green Brook

GREEN BROOK — The light from small white votive candles flickered against the stone wall where bronze plaques listed the names of the nearly 3,000 people who perished during the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, 2001.

During Monday's ceremony at the township's memorial dedicated last year at Top of the World Park, husbands, wives, children and friends placed ivory-colored roses near the names of those who they loved and lost.

Individual plaques were installed at the base of dogwood trees — the tree of remembrance — to honor the township's two residents who were lost that day: Kermit Charles Anderson and former Fire Chief Alvin Peter Kappelmann, Jr. The losses of six other people close to the township family are also marked with plaques and dogwood trees.

It was these eight individuals, "a grandson, two brothers, a brother-in-law, a cousin, a colleague, a neighbor and a friend" said Mayor Patricia Walsh, who inspired the memorial, which features a warped and split steel beam from the World Trade Center. Township Administrator Kathryn Kitchener read her poem called "We Who Are Alive Today," which she wrote on the occasion of interment of the ashes recovered from Ground Zero of the World

"This is my one day that I will not work. I take the day to reflect and make sure my girls don't forget. We take time to go to a memorial or a ceremony. It's important."

Trade Center. The ashes were buried at the foot of the memorial last summer.

We who are alive today have built this place to honor you, to keep our memories refreshed and warm there just behind our eyes and treasured in our hearts anew each time we touch your name.

Also in the poem, Kitchener described the steel beam that once was part of the World Trade Center.

It points to where the Towers stood, handsome, shining, strong and tall.

We never could imagine that they would ever fall, or that our Fortress would be breached by evil acts of Infidels.

Stacy Weedon and her two daughters fought back tears during the ceremony that featured songs played by the Somerset County Police Pipes and Drum, several prayers and a candle lighting ceremony. As a pediatric dentist, Weedon volunteered for months after the attacks. Working in a morgue uptown from Ground Zero, she and her husband helped identify people by their teeth.

"I identified a lot of those people," said Weedon, a Bridgewater resident who choked up while looking at the plaques bearing the names of those lost. "Some of those people were identified by only one tooth. It's very hard."

Since the attacks, Weedon takes off from work on Sept. 11 each year.

"This is my one day that I will not work," she said. "I take the day to reflect and make sure my girls don't forget."

"We take time to go to a memorial or a ceremony. It's important."

Jim Koch, a former Green Brook resident who now lives in the Martinsville section of Bridgewater, knew two people killed during the attacks.

"Although I was an acquaintance, not really a friend, I'm still grieving for their losses," he said. "I'm extremely pleased the township created the memorial. I found the service to be extremely thoughtful of those who lost their lives five years ago."

During her speech, Walsh recalled how township residents gathered at Washington Rock State Park "in shock and disbelief as the once magnificent Twin Towers of the World Trade Center buckled from the searing heat and slumped to the ground...And from that day forward, America and Americans changed."

"America knew that it had to defend its freedom, stand tall and rise from the ashes and we did."

Somerset County Surrogate Frank Bruno acquired the piece of steel that stands upright at the memorial for the township.

"When I first saw this beam, I felt enormous pressure to make sure it was placed in the right place," said Bruno, who as a former iron worker volunteered for the Ground Zero clean up efforts. "Green Brook showed so much passion and enthusiasm to remember everyone lost on that day. Everyone who died is named on those plaques."

Bridgewater remembers six lost at WTC

BRIDGEWATER — On a sunny day much like one five years earlier, officials and residents paused to remember and commemorate the lives of six Bridgewater residents who perished in the terrorist attacks at the World Trade Center on Sept. 11, 2001.

"May we always remember this day," said Congressman Rodney Frelinghuysen, R-11, the keynote speaker at Monday's ceremony, held in front of the municipal building.

The noontime ceremony was brief, but brought county and municipal officials together with residents to remember what Mayor Patricia Flannery described as "a senseless attack against our country."

Frelinghuysen, who recalled the events of the attack and connected the terrorism to the war in Iraq during his address, said that on that day, the world changed.

"As we learned about the tragedy ... we witnessed neighbors and friends comforting each other," said Frelinghuysen. "The war we continue to fight today began in 2001. It was not of our provocation. It was slaughter by people who had a warped sense of their religion."

Family members of several Bridgewater victims were on hand to help lay a memorial wreath at the rock containing the plaque with the names of those who died.

Councilman Howard Norgalis read aloud the Fireman's Prayer, and a moment of silence followed by a rendition of "Amazing Grace," played by police officer Cliff Delaney, a

The families, who Flannery noted had input into the design of Bridgewater's memorial, requesting that the township add a bench so people could sit and reflect, spoke quietly to officials after the ceremony, but did not give speeches or public remembrances during the event.

"Family members, we know that it was an attack on all of us, but you have to bear the burden," said Flannery.
