Police command union gets new contract

By Tedd Schneider staff writer

After 19 months of off-again-onagain negotiations, command officers in Westland's police department have a new contract with the city.

The three-year pact between the city and the Westland Police Lieutenants and Sergeants Association was approved 5.2 by the Westland City Council Monday.

The LSA ratified the agreement in a unanimous vote last week, said detective Sgt. Robert Barthold, president of the 22-member union.

"We're happy with the results,"

Barthold said Monday. He said the new agreement gives the command officers parity with the city's other public safety unions (police patrol officers and firefighters).

The contract, which is retroactive to July 1, 1988 and expires June 30, 1991, gives command officers the same 11 percent pay raises over two years that were given to patrol officers. Third-year salaries will be set accordingly when patrol officers reach their agreement, according to Charles Bokos, city attorney.

THE INCREASE will move 1988 salaries to: $37,046 for sergeants, $40,609 for lieutenants and $43.209 for inspector. Annual pay for 1989 goes to $38,528, $41,609 and $44,937.

A survey of police departments in nearby municipalities put the Westland salary structure "somewhere just above the middle," Bokos said last-week.

One of the biggest sticking points in the talks, the reopening of the union's pension agrèement, was resolved during a January study session covering the latest proposal, Bokos said. The city agreed to break a clause in the previous contract and renegotiate the pension plan.

The original clause prevented changes in the pension plan until at least 1995.

Under the renegotiated pension provision, the city will retroactively purchase an additional year of pension time for officers at a cost of $50,000, said Finance Director Michael Gorman.

Objections over the renegotiated pension and the contract's guidelines for promotions generated "no" votes from councilman Thomas Artley and council President Tom Brown.

'We've established conditions on how Act 78 (the state Civil Service Act which spells out promotional testing procedures) is supposed to last fall's mayoral election camwork," Brown said, explaining his vote against the pact. "With this contract we seem to be saying that's a negotiable item and I don't think it

"I'M NOT SAYING that those (people) in the police department don't deserve a raise or better working conditions. But some of the things this contract includes, in my opinion, void the law," Brown said.

Negotiations between the union and the city began 19 months ago, but have been largely on hold since other unions.

Prior to that, talks between the two sides had been bitter at times, with the union issuing a bumper sticker critical of then-Mayor Charles Griffin just before the September primary election and Griffin subsequently calling a press conference to refute what he called "misleading crime statistics" distributed by the union.

Bokos said last week he hoped to get the contract settled so the city could move on to bargaining with Mayoral appointee A. Kent Herbert was given a raise Monday, but not before some of his former colleagues on the Westland City Council questioned his new salary and job qualifications.

"(The city) doesn't really use intermediate-sized automobiles," Thomas said Tuesday. "All the other city cars are full-sized.'

Romance is on Valentine's Day luncheon menu

Hearts and flowers, tea sandwiches and white chocolate mousse.

There'll be romance in the air and tea on the table when Plymouth's redoubtable Sweet Afton Tearoom in the Old Village does a repeat of its Valentine's Day lunch-

By popular request Sweet Afton will host the second annual Afternoon of Romance with a traditional British high tea and a book-signing party with two local romance au-

The luncheon, set for 11 a.m., will feature a variety of traditional tea sandwiches like watercress and cucumber, with tea of course. There'll also be scones and Devon cream (homemade), and a dessert of white chocolate mousse with red raspberry sauce.

Tickets for the luncheon are $15, and the room only seats 32 so early reservations are a must. Call 420-2438 for more information or reservations.

Daly Ramin and Valerie Mangrum will sign copies of their books and talk about life as writers.

Inkster resident Mangrum, 29, will be signing copies of her first book, "Sweet Protector," published last November. Her second Silhouette Romance is set for an October release, she said, and she's already sold two more.

The irony for Mangrum is that she didn't plan to be a writer.

Mangrum has a master's degree in Theater Arts from Eastern Michigan University. She wrote her first book before beginning a job at a Waldenbooks Bookstore and "hauled it around during grad school and a move to Minnesota," sne said.

Working for the bookstore gave her the impetus to try to get it pub-

"At Waldenbooks I was around trade journals, and the Writers' Market which lists agents.

But she sent a query letter to a publisher first. It took five weeks to get a reply and then she got a form letter saying the publisher only accepted manuscripts from writers' agents.

Mangrum got an agent, and was on her way.

Valerie Mangrum, an author, will bring some romance to Plymouth on Wednesday when the Sweet Afton Tearoom will hold a Valentine's Day lunch.

RAMIN, 37, of Pontiac will be signing copies of her first book, "Water From the Moon," a Silhouette Intimate Moments ro-

The book won a Golden Heart award in 1987 from the Romance Writers of America.

Ramin recently sold her second book (also to Silhouette) and is completing it.

The tentative title, "Accompanying Alice," sounds more like it would be about white rabbits and mad hatters. But according to Ramin, it takes place "in the middle of a big family, in the middle of a wedding, with a renegade FBI agent doing an internal affairs investigation.

Feeling pain necessary to overcome depression

In my previous comments on "growing through grief," I discussed the experience of numbness commonly considered a first stage in the progression of grief. There are no neat stages of grief. Yet there are common experiences normal to the bereavement process which cause fear and distress if not understood by the griever as normal. One common experience often following the numb stage is depression.

Obviously, it would seem very logical to assume one is going to be depressed after losing a loved one. But what does it mean to be depressed? Let's consider some of the common elements of depression, which is a serious matter and is frightening to both the victim and the observer

A combination of several of the following symptoms are used as descriptive of mental depression: altered mood, loss of interest in usually enjoyable activities, including such things as eating, sex, being with friends: insomnia (inability to achieve and or maintain sufficient sleep,) or hypersomnia (oversleep): significant drop or increase in weight due to appetite changes; inability to concentrate or focus thoughts; loss of energy; feelings of worthlessness; inappropriate or excessive guilt, or self-reproach; hypersensitivity or insensitive reflex responses (such as a loud clap causing a jolt in the person); recurrent thoughts of death, or actual suicidal thoughts or an attempt.

Karyn Pasquel

IN A diagnosis of depression, a combination of a specific minimum number of these symptoms will be experienced every day for at least two weeks. Depression can be so severely debilitating that people will often fear they are going insane

PRINCIPLE STREET PRINCIPLES IN SERVICE CONTROL OF THE BUILDING

Will they ever be normal? Yes --they understand and protect their right and need to grieve. Protect?

Grievers are deluged with demands to recover. Holidays and commercialism insult them with orders to celebrate and be happy. Events such as graduations, weddings, and the like, can throw the griever into a state of intense anger as he/she contemplates the unfairness of it all. Employers understand for a little while, but then it's time to get on with life.

A griever unable to move certain articles from their usual place is sometimes pressured by well-meaning friends and other family members to face reality. The list of painful requirements goes on, forcing the griever to cut the grief process short for practical reasons, or to put it off. Your grief is exclusively your grief. If it is not allowed its full course, you will suffer more damage.

The fastest and most thoroughly way to get over depression is to go through it, feeling all the feelings This is difficult, for feelings can be very painful. We do not want to feel pain if we do not have to.

THE HARSH reality is, however, that as a severe burn has to be painfully scraped and re-dressed several times a day if it is to heal, so the griever must allow all necessary pain to be fully activated. In this way, no wounds can fester, and overload resulting from delayed grief will be less likely to explode into a more severely damaging depression.

And so, I invite you to feel your feelings. While it's scary and painful. it is a technique to learn which will help you cope with life's future difficulties as well. Do not suppress your

You deserve to be allowed to grieve. Protect your grief period and be patient with yourself. Understand that your grief is your grief. Maybe you are the surviving spouse and the surviving father is responding differently than you.

dents showed improvement on state mathematics tests last fall, but student reading skills remain a concern.

The Garden City and Wayne-Westland districts posted belowaverage scores for all grades and all categories. Redford Union scored below average in most categories, while South Redford was about average in most categories.

Scores had been pretty flat for the past two years," Bemis said. This year's math scores were the highest among all three grade levels since the state mathematics test was revamped in 1980. MICHIGAN changed its reading test this year, putting less stress on individual skills such as identifying root words, prefixes and suffixes. Instead, greater emphasis is placed on how well students comprehend passages they read "Questions are more detailed and they cover a longer passage of the material," state schools spokeswoman Lynne Estell said.

Some elements of the old test remain and are now considered to define "basic" reading skills. Students did well on basic skills questions, but not as well on the newer questions, defining "essential" reading skills. Bemis said

Some 88.8 percent of all high school sophomores met or exceeded basic reading skills on last fall's Michigan Educational Assessment Program tests - almost a 7.5 percent increase from one year ago.

Fourth graders, at 89.4 percent and seventh graders, at 89.4 percent, showed similar increases

A MUCH LOWER percentage of each grade level met minimum standards on the new, tougher essential skills reading test 35.8 percent of fourth graders, 33.1 percent of seventh graders and 28.6 percent of 10th graders.

While disappointed, Bernis said the lower scores on technical reading material were no cause for panic, provided schools increasingly incorporate technical material in their classrooms.

Local school officials also expressed concern over reading scores. Local scores for mathematics, the essential skills reading test and the new science test are contained in the accompanying graph.

Court wins kudos for new efficiency

By Tom Henderson staff writer

The Wayne County Circuit Court. once known for its backlogs, twoyear delays in trying civil cases and a casual work ethic by some of its judges, has received praise in a national publication for its dramatic turnaround in the last four years.

"Something important is happening in the Wayne County Circuit Court . . . something that deserves attention from everyone interested in the reduction of litigation cost and delay," the Judges Journal, a publication of the American Bar Association, said in its fall issue.

What has happened, said court administrator K. Kent Batty, is that the pending civil caseload has dropped by 33 percent since 1985, the median time to dispose of cases has dropped from 21 months to 13 months and the number of civil cases pending for more than two years has dropped from 17,000 to fewer than 3,000

BATTY CREDITED much of the improvement to a new method of assigning cases to judges, the individual-calendar method, where a particular judge handles all aspects of a case from start to finish and is assigned a certain docket of cases.

The court began phasing in the system in July 1986; the last seven of the 35 judges in the court will go on the system on Oct. 1 of this year.

Formerly, the court operated on a master calendar. Judges in that system aren't assigned a specific docket and different judges handle each case. Different motions in the same case, for example, were assigned to whatever judges were available the day the particular motion was made.

"In theory, the master calendar makes better use of the judges' time," Batty said sponsible or slow judges did less than their share. Efficient judges

"For the master calendar to be successful, you have to have a successful group psychology. The whole bench has to be enthusiastic about processing cases as a whole," Batty

No individual judge had an incentive to work hard. Some judges in the court acquired reputations for coming to work late, taking long lunches and leaving carly, Batty said.

Now, "judges know a case isn't going to go away unless they make it

THE JOURNAL praised Batty and Chief Judge Richard C. Kauf-

Taste of spring turns area roads into holey mess

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Everybody loved January's unusually mild temperatures - everybody, that is, but Wayne County Road crews.

For the county road department, last month's milder temperatures translated to more work patching pot holes:

"We were pretty busy," said Pat Hogan, deputy director of county

Melting snow and ice seeped into roadways, forcing asphalt to continually expand and contract as it thawed, then re-froze. "It's trapped," Hogan said. "It can't percolate so it gets loose any way it can and that means damaging the pavement."

Loose payement, coupled with heavy road traffic produced the undesired result: pot holes.

No figures were available for how many of the gaps were filled by the county. Hogan, however, said he expected this year's figure to at least equal last year when the county filled an estimated 133,000 pot holes.

A special quick-sealing asphalt mix, designed to accommodate cold winter temperatures, is used to patch county roadways. Last winter, the county used more than 4,000 tons of the stuff.

The county is restricting truck trafic on some roads to prevent pot holes from piling up.

New weight limits require heavy haulers to reduce their cargo load by 25 percent to travel over pot holeprone county roads.

Melting snow and ice seep into roadways, forcing asphalt to continually expand and contract as it thaws. then re-freezes. Coupled with heavy traffic, the result is pot holes.

"ESSENTIALLY, they have two choices," Hogan said. "They can either use another road or drop some of their load."

The new road restrictions are in effect until further notice but don't apply to passenger cars.

A Michigan specialty, pot holes are an expensive proposition. One year ago, the county spent more than $2 million to patch its roads.

"We figured it came out to about $17 per hole," Hogan said.

It's been a busy two months for county road workers because January was as mild as December was bitter. County road crews said goodbye to the 1980s by spreading a record 65 million tons of salt to keep

Now, all they have to do is wait until spring - when pot hole season begins all over again.

Drivers can report pot holes by calling the Wayne County Roads Division, 942-9920.

Blanchard, McNamara stress solvency

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Democrats touting fiscal responsibility? Believe it - at least in Wayne County.

The event was an announcement Wednesday regarding a bond upgrade for the county, but both Gov. James Blanchard and Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara used the occasion to stress state and local debt-busting.

Sounding a theme that could become common to his as yet unannounced re-election bid, the governor compared Michigan's balanced budget with the federal government's red ink.

"The federal budget is awash in red ink," Blanchard said. "The good news is we are solvent."

IF THE federal budget were balanced, the governor said, Michigan would stand to receive a "solvency dividend" of $7 billion — roughly equal general operating budget — though he didn't specify how the money would be derived.

McNamara, perhaps sounding a theme for his own re-election campaign, praised Blachard for his help in the county's 1987 financial bailout, but stressed the county was now solid financially.

The irony of both men talking solvency in a city grappling with a massive budget deficit wasn't lost on reporters, but Blanchard said state government "stands ready to work with Detroit" to help the city balance its own budget.

At the same time, he predicted a recent court ruling invalidating a city utilities tax would be overturned.

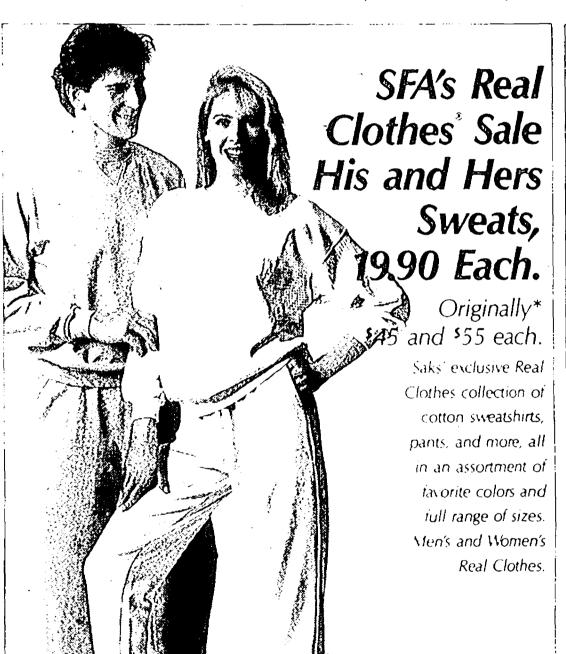

The new county jail is an example of "Michigan's solvency dividend in Wayne County."

Senate OKs asbestos bills

By Tim Richard stall writer

Bills to charge asbestos removal contractors inspection fees are on their way to Gov. James Blanchard's desk after a state Senate deadlock

Republicans were divided, the minotity saying asbestos removal rules are too harsh and too costly for school districts.

"We may bankrupt many institutions with no positive effect," said Sen: Jack Faxon, D-Farmington, Hills, who nevertheless voted yes on final adoption. Faxon called smoking a worse health hazard than asbestos insulation.

SENS. DOUG Cruce, R-Troy, and R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, voted against the entire package.

"There's a large body of evidence," said Cruce, "that it's a big mistake to tamper with older buildings. There's no benefit in relation to the cost.

Added Geake: "The asbestos scare is vastly overstated. We're wasting millions that could be better spent on the education of children.

THE KEY political maneuver was a 27-5 vote to remove a tie-bar to another bill that would have required state standards to be no higher than federal standards for workers removing asbestos.

The tie-bar could have held up final action on the asbestos bills (House Bills 4222 through 4226) for weeks and forced the layoff of existing state Health Department inspec-

Faxon said suburban schools only 20 years old are facing heavy costs for asbestos removal, "enriching the contractors."

He quoted an unnamed Wayne County special education teacher as saying her building was being shut down because the school district couldn't afford asbestos removal. "It's cheaper to mothball the school than to make the repairs," said Fax-

Sen. Joe Conroy, D-Flint, said developers in the metro Detroit suburbs "say it's cheaper to build a new building on farmland than to remove asbestos on existing buildings at $1 million per floor.'

Sen. Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, attacked the fee bill as a tax increase. "It should be paid by state government with the taxes we already have," he said.

$500,000 a year. Senate to vote on consent bill

By Tim Richard

staff writer

The Michigan Senate next Wednesday is due to vote on a bill requifing parental consent for a minor girl to obtain an abortion.

The Senate Human Resources Committee Tuesday reported out the bill oh a 4-1 vote after removing a so-called "suicide amendment."

"I moved to delete the loophole for alleged suicide risks," said vice chair R. Robert Geake, R-Northville. That: House-passed amendment would have allowed a girl to obtain an abortion without the consent of a parent or a probate court if a psychologist or psychiatrist certified she might commit suicide rather than approach a parent or a judge.

"No responsible person would suggest that parents should not be informed when their children are in trouble due to drug abuse. Why should pregnancy be any different?" Geake said.

THE MEASURE, House Dill 5013, is likely to be passed overwhelmingly. The Senate adopted a similar ry's so-called "grandparent responsimeasure last fall.

The bill then would go back to the the suicide clause.

"I hope we'll have a consensus bill on the way to the governor in a week," said Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, committee chair.

He expects a veto by Gov. James Blanchard but said, "Every attempt will be made to override it (with a two-thirds vote of both chambers)."

Dillingham doubted four other abortion-regulation bills would be taken up this year — for example, to prohibit abortions in state-owned hospitals.

"My feeling is that, given the current makeup of the Legislature especially the House - the parental consent bill is by far the issue most passable and overrideable," said Dillingham, a longtime foe of abor-

The votes to remove the suicide clause and report out the bill were identical. Favoring both were Dillingham; Geake; Harmon Cropsey, R-Decatur; and Gilbert DiNello, D-East Detroit.

Opposed was John Cherry, D-Clio.

THE PANEL also rejected Cherbility" amendment 3-2.

It said: "If the parents of the mi-House for concurrence in removal of nor refuse to give their consent to the abortion, the parents of the minor will be required to bear financial responsibility for the child borne by the minor until that child reaches the age of majority."

It would amount to the grandparents' having to pay for a second generation of children if they refused to consent to their daughter obtaining an abortion.

"Terrible public policy," said Geake, who opposed it. He said it would "pressure the parents to consent to an abortion to save money."

THE BILL would prohibit anyone from performing an abortion on a girl under age 18 without the written consent of her, one parent or a guardian.

The girl could ask any probate judge in the state for a waiver of parental consent. The judge would have to keep the proceedings closed, rule on her petition within two days and provide written permission for

Every school district would be required to give all students in grades 6-12 written information about the existence of the law, the address and phone number of the probate court and how to contact the court for as-

Grant reduction forces cuts in abuse prevention

David C. Mills, executive director of the Children's Trust Fund for the Prevention of Child Abuse, has announced across-the-board cuts in more than 100 child-abuse-prevention programs throughout Michi-

The cuts were made necessary by a reduction in federal money received through the Department of Health and Human Services.

"This action is taken most reluctantly. We have explored many other options and tried to deal with the cut without reducing grants. Unfortunately, we are left with no viable alternative," said Mills

First word of the possible cuts came in October when CTF received notification of a 62 percent reduction in a challenge grant' which had in past years been awarded by federal legislation to all states with Children's Trust Funds for child abuse-prevention activities

Michigan's grant in past years has been $496,000. This year it was cut to $190,000

Included in the groups that will receive cuts are local child-abuseprevention councils in 67 Michigan counties as well as these programs which are providing child-abuseprevention services: Association for Retarded Citizens/Oakland County, Common Ground, Oakland Community Human Services, Inc., Mercy Hospital & Health Services of Detroit, Wayne County Intermediate School District, YMCA of North Oakland County-Pontiac Branch, YMCA of Western Wayne County YMCA-Sexual Assault Program, Lula Belle Stewart Center Inc. in Wayne, Family Service of Detroit and Wayne

"These cuts will definitely hurt our ability to provide critical childabuse-prevention programs in Michigan. And, in addition, this puts a great deal more pressure on our need to increase the amount of money we raise through the CTF checkoff To date, we have never had more than 7 percent of eligible taxpayers donate," said Mills.

CTF is an independent, non-profit agency established in 1982 as a permanent source of funding for local programs throughout the state that work to prevent child abuse and neglect. The majority of support for CTF comes from check-off. donations from the Michigan income tax return.

Decisions

Fire station issue a tough one

AYOR ROBERT' Thomas found out Monday that being mayor is different - and harder - than being a mayoral

During the lengthy campaign last fall. Thomas successfully argued that Mayor Charles Griffin and his city administration were making the wrong decisions on commercial and apartment overdevelopment, employing a top-heavy administrative staff, and rotating closing of one or two fire halls.

"The fire hall closings, prompted by a new minimum staffing requirements in a new union contract, resulted in public confusion over whether the community's fire safety and firefighters' safety were at risk.

Griffin said it wasn't, but many voters had a perception that it was and voted their percep-

But that's history now.

Thomas scheduled an announcement for Monday afternoon, Feb. 5, to disclose his plan for Keeping all four fire stations open all the time.

" While the mayor declined to disclose details in advance of the announcement, a firefighters' union leader said that the plan would have at least an emergency medical services van manned for EMS runs at the four halls.

**BUT THE union had a problem with Thomas' plan in that only one firefighter would be left in a station to respond to a fire before the EMS crew returned.

It was that situation several years ago which 18d to the minimum staffing requirement in the current contract.

With the fire hall reopening plan expected to whether Thomas intends to change the concept of — but the fire safety needs of the community.

Mayor Thomas has found that dealing with specific solutions as the person in charge is harder than dealing with them as a candidate.

his plan or merely revise details.

One key question which arose out of the mayoral campaign last fall was how Thomas intended to pay for keeping all four fire halls open.

Like George Bush, Thomas promised he would not raise taxes.

But the only way he can keep all the fire stations open under the current union contract is to come up with some clever ways to shift personnel around to meet his goal and the labor agreement or close one hall permanently.

We're not sure how that will be done.

ONE WAY is to have a single firefighter on duty call for help from a nearby fire hall when he is forced to respond to a blaze. But the problem there is that the single firefighter won't be able to do a lot until additional manpower arrives at the scene of the blaze.

And as any firefighter will tell you, time is crucial with the fire spreading in the moment delay that it takes to have pumpers and tankers put into operation.

In any case, Thomas is probably still wrestling with the problem and intends to announce his decision this month.

Hopefully, his decision not only will meet the be announced later this month, we don't know requirements of the firefighters' union contract,

Valentine's Day picks, pans

7 ALENTINE'S DAY is on its way, that means it's time to send out a big, red heart to those who did the right thing in 1989 — and plenty of people did just that, climbing on the bandwagon for child care, recycling and other pressing social issues.

But why stop there, we figured. Why not send a few pointed barbs the way of those who didn't do right by themselves or their communities last year. After all, Cupid's arrow can sting, too.

First, the good stuff. Our Valentines go to:

Wayne County Government. The county started an on-site child care facility at the county's downtown Detroit office building. The facility provides both play and educational opportunities for children of county workers.

Livonia, Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton. All these communities either developed or expanded recycling efforts, taking a small step toward meeting one of the nation's biggest problems - trash disposal - at the turn of the decade. A big heart also goes to the Conference of Western Wayne, a multi-community group considering regional recycling.

Rouge River rescuers. Though time has dulled some of the event's luster — or at least its publicity — hundreds of area residents continued to roll up their sleeves last June, doing their part to help clean Michigan's most polluted river.

Wayne-Westland Schools. The board named the district's first-ever black board member, Leonard Posey, to fill a board vacancy.

The Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular, Inc. The group pulled the money together to keep the ice festival going after it appeared the festival was going down the drain.

Police officers helping youths fight drug abuse. While everyone involved can take a bow, this heart is hand-delivered to those involved in in the Livonia Public Schools and Clarenceville Schools.

It's time to send out a big, red heart to those who did the right thing in 1989 . . . and a few pointed barbs the way of those who didn't do right by themselves or their communities last year.

Darts go to:

The Central Wayne Sanitation Authority. Despite cleaning up its act with regard to air pollution, the incinerator group - including Westland and Garden City — continues to send its ash to an unlined landfill, with no guarantee the toxic ash isn't contaminating local ground water.

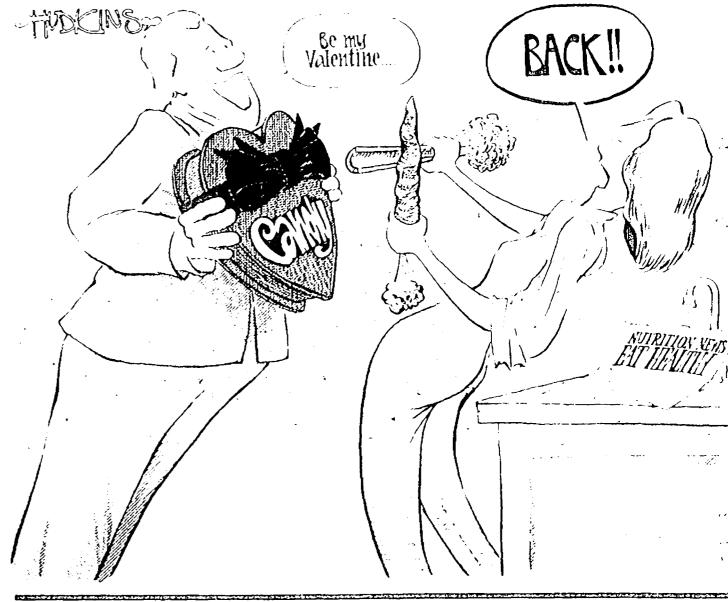

Livonia City Treasurer Elaine Tuttle - Whose tardy transactions cost the city an estimated $458,000 in lost interest since 1986.

Livonia City Hall's hair-splitters. While we're on the subject, we also send a dart to those who would deny sit-down facilities for take-out pizza parlors, but allow them for ice cream and yogurt parlors.

Detroit Edison. Edison unmercifully scalps trees to provide clearance for over-head wires, instead of burying the wires and saving the trees.

Westland Center. The giant shopping mall canceled a planned used book sale after discovering it was sponsored by a pro-life organization, setting a bad precedent no matter which side of the abortion issue you take.

CSX railroad. The railroad keeps traffic tied the Drug Abuse Resistance Education Program - up at their crossings. Plymouth Police have repeatedly cited the railroad for keeping traffic tied up longer than allowed.

No one protests this holiday

SHHHH! DON'T tell anybody, but one of the biggest religious holidays of the year is almost here and the schools are celebrating it like crazy

So far as I can tell, no one is objecting. I haven't heard about any protests, any angry parents attending school board meetings or running letter-writing campaigns

No one, from what I have read, has demanded that the decorations come down or that gift exchanges be banned. And if no one else is going to say anything. I'm certainly not going to make an issue of it.

The holiday, of course, is Valentine's Day ... no, let's be precise it's SAINT Valentine's Day And it's one of the year's major celebra-

Not to the church, of course It's not exactly a major feast day. But if you think it's not a big deal, just ask card peddlers.

Check out the schools where in some cases, exchanging valentines has been turned into a class project.

BUT THIS day for lovers is of purely Christian origin and came about in much the same way that the Christmas celebrations started.

At least as early as the Fourth Century B.C., the Romans celebrated a fertility ritual dedicated to the pagan god Lupercus

After the early Christian church was established, the Lupercian festival was still going strong and the church fathers wanted to find some way to usurp it with a Christian cer emony

Looking around for a saint that had some connection with lovers they zeroed in on Valentine. He had had the misfortune or bad judgment to enrage the mad emperor Claudius II and, in February of the year 270, he was beaten, stoned and beheaded

But before he was executed, according to legend, he fell in love with the blind daughter of his jailer miraculously cured her blindness and left her a farewell message which he signed "From Your Valen-

So, in the 5th Century, Pope Gelasius outlawed the Lupercian festival and substituted a similar celebration. whose patron saint was Valentine

The exchange of cards on this day apparently grew out of the Luper the candy makers and the greeting—cian practice of holding a lottery in—not Irish which young men drew the names of young women who were "assigned" to them for a year.

> In the early Valentine celebrations the names of saints were substituted for the women and somewhere along the line the drawing of names evolved into the exchange of cards

OF COURSE the modern day popularity of the celebration owes much to the later saints, Hallmark and Russell Stover, but the fact remains that all of those valentines being passed around in the classroom symbolically represent the good saint's farewell note to his lover

HELL THE COURT OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY

Jack Gladden

Maybe no one is complaining about all of this because enough of the pagan trappings remain to cloud the religious nature of the holiday Or maybe since the churches don't really celebrate it, the schools figure it's fair game I don't know But I do know that next month

er saint's day, and if you send your kid off to school wearing green. you'll be paying homage to good old Saint Patrick, who, incidentally, was My wife - my significant Polish other - always refused to wear anything green to school on this festive occasion because she was Polish, not Irish, and boy, did she get in trouble with the nuns over that

But except for an occasional trouble-maker like her. I've heard no protests over the public celebration of this Christian holiday, either

It's all mighty confusing to me But if nobody else is protesting. I'm not going to say anything

Schools are criticized

To the editor:

The newspaper recently quoted (Wayne-Westland school superintendent) Dennis O'Neill as writing: "I feel it is my personal responsibility as the superintendent of schools to make sure the money is there for the programs."

I feel Dr. O'Neill probably did make that statement and I commend him for his honesty. Please notice that it is the "money" he feels responsible for, not the programs or the students. It is my firm belief that money has long been top priority in the school district. This can be observed by recalling recent decisions that were made.

Remember the closing of Washington School and the overcrowding of Sweltzer? Remember the financial support the district gave St. Mary School in return for using their students in our head count?

Remember the hot water the district got into by padding the head count? The administration called it sloppy recordkeeping but the court called it falsifying public documents and the state demanded financial reimbursement

Remember the annexation of the Cherry IIII School District with the promise that their taxes would not go up to equal ours for at least five

In my opinion these were all poor decisions based on increasing the income of the district while causing other hardships to the students and reputation of the district.

Let me point out that just because the "money is there for the programs," does not mean the programs will be there for the students.

This year for the first time in 16 years the dance program at both our high schools has been eliminated Not cut — eliminated. We are not discussing an extracurricular activity. This was a possible three-year study with full credits.

Many former dance students have gone on to excellent, successful careers in that field. This year the students at both of our high schools are being cheated out of the opportunity of exploring that field. The "money" was there. The two qualified teachers were begging to continue the program and the students pleaded at two separate board meetings to allow them to participate in that program again this year. Does anyone care to explain to the public what happened to the program?!

Today we are being asked to go to the polls and vote on three financial issues. One is a millage renewal, one is a millage increase, and one is to over-ride the Headlee Amendment that was created to protect the taxpayer against unreasonable tax increases. How do you think I will

I will support a millage request only under one of two circumstances. One is that the district proves to me that the students and a full, quality education are top priority. The other is that residents in hell start to wear mufflers to protect them from the cold.

Peace asked for kids' sake

To the editor:

For the past few months there has been a problem at the bus stop between the children who attend St. Michael Catholic School and Gar-; field elementary schools. The operative word here is "children." Unfortunately, some parents see these, children as criminals. The Catholic vs. public controversy rages.

I am a product of a Catholic and public school education and a productive, functioning member of society. In Catholic school I learned that! "God is the Supreme Being that; made all things" and in public school; I learned that everyone doesn't wear; green on St. Pat's Day. When I at tended Catholic school, I was told (by the mother of a public school friend); that I thought I was better than evil eryone else; when I attended public; school I was told (by the mother of a Catholic school friend) that I was receiving an inferior education.

I place the blame on the parents; for perpetuating this prejudice. We: pray for peace in Ireland and the? Middle East, and won't work toward: peace in our own neighborhood. We'; should be grateful we can choose the school our children attend and notmake it a controversial issue.

I don't want to enter into the year, 2000 and still battle Catholic vs. pubaround and you sing "Peace on," earth, good will toward men," make; that children, too!"

Just a pinch A master at budget leverage

GOV. JIM Blanchard doesn't try to make drastic changes in Michigan government. His style is to look for a few loose dollars and leverage them into showcase efforts at improving public services.

Not everyone agrees with Blanchard's cautious approach, as I learned at a recent conference of community college trustees state message proposed a plan of teaching 'excellence' awards to community college instructors. grants to faculty at four-year universities.

If you know our 29 community colleges, you know that teaching is the name of their game. These faculty aren't researchers or presidential advisers. They teach. Their students, frequently people with gray locks bit and are trying to re-enter the economic world at a higher skill level awards of $2,500 each to 40 faculty. That's one per college, with 11 colleges getting two grants or more.

Added up. it's $100,000, or one-73,000th of his anticipated $7.3 bil-Jion state budget.

Wouldn't it be smarter just to plunk that pot into the overall community college aid bill? I asked Jim Verdier, the new deputy budget director who was pinch-hitting as speaker for director Shelby Solomon. "No. You get a lot of leverage" with a system of prize grants, replied Verdier, a former faculty member at Harvard's Kennedy School of Government.

In sum, Blanchard intends to use a There already is a system of such pinch of the budget to focus a lot of attention on quality teaching.

No doubt he'll want to call it a "Governor's Teaching Incentive" program rather than let the State Board of Education distribute the funds. His style is to put his office's seal on new and popular programs for the middle class. Blanchard and bifocals, have knocked around a would croak if anyone suggested naming (say) a prison or a social services office after him.

> He gave no details. He said several departments this year wound up 'underfunded" - social services, mental health, prisons. "The governor is inclined to have education not bear a share of that underfunding,' he added.

In other words, community colleges will be raised very little beyond the rate of inflation, and probably no more percentagewise than the 15 universities.

of the jobs, jobs, jobs? They should be recognized in the budget, said Hackett, referring to the major role two-year colleges play in job retraining.

A 25-YEAR veteran trustee from a southwestern Michigan college complained that for seven years the state has had a formula to fund community colleges, but it has never fully funded the formula.

And as for Verdier's prediction of a "tight" budget, the trustee said, "I never remember a year when they said 'it's a great year,'

Replied Verdier: "I don't believe we have the resources," estimating full funding at $25 million more.

That, by my calculation, is $24.9 million more than Blanchard's proposed gubernatorial grants to outstanding faculty.

But that is Blanchard's style. Don't try to wring gallons from the budget, despite our seven consecutive years of economic growth and 700,000 new jobs. Administer a few drops, carefully, to 40 faculty a year. And do it with a maximum of gu-

Fur flying to precede teacher certification

Q: There is talk that future teachers will have to be tested and nationally certified in order to teach. This sounds similar to what. Certified Public Accountants and lawyers go through to enter their profession. As a teacher, I've heard talk of national certification many times over the year. Is this present movement for real? It sound good but do you think it will become a reality?

A: Yes. For several reasons.

First, enough has been written regarding other countries ability to out perform our students in many subjects areas i.e. science and math. Whether it is the teachers' fault, the parents' fault, administration or an over-all societal problem is open to debate. The lack of our students being able to compete with other countries, at least on standardized test, is a continuing national con-

Second, the Carnegie Foundation along with the Du Pont and the Xerox corps. have funished $50 million in "seed money" for the National Teachers Certification Committee to develop specific criteria, primarily a comprehensive teacher literacy and knowledge of their subject test. Another $25 million for the certification program is working its way through Congress. Also a plan to charge each teacher $35-$50 to take the certification test is built in to keep the program alive. So the national teacher certification committee has money . . . and it takes money to pull off any major change in education.

Third, American Federation of Teachers president Albert Shanker was the leading force and indeed proposed the national teacher certification program in 1985. Both Shanker and counterpart Keith Geiger, president of the National Education Association, have stated their support for a National Board for Teacher Certification. To say the least, it should be noted that Shanker's AFT and the NEA have not always agreed on issues over the years, but they do on this issue.

Finally, the National Teacher Certification Board is composed primarily of teachers with some administrators, university professors, citizens and business leaders included. So we have money, AFT and NEA support and a working committee dominated by teachers setting the new standards.

However, nothing is simple. There will be fur flying before the program is put in place by its target date of 1993

What are the problems?

A future teacher would not have to graduate from a college of education under this plan. A liberal arts college graduate with a major in math would be eligible to teach without going through the college of education. After three years of successful teaching the new teacher would be eligible for certification.

This is a slap in the face to every college of education in the United States that believes there is more to teaching children than having a major in a particular subject. For instance, the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education met last fall and its board of directors voted unanimously to reject the plan for national certification. Obviously, the professors are concerned about new teachers not learning proper teaching strategies but must also be concerned that their classroom enrollments could drop and result in many professor pink-slips. Fewer students equates to fewer professors.

In my view, knowledge of the content of one's major subject area is essential but teaching consists of course information to students. There are clearly identified and researched teaching strategies that any new nationally certified teacher best master before facing those seasoned adolescences who are looking for the weakness in a teachers' armor - especially new teachers. How many times have I heard, "Mr. XYZ really knows his subject . . . too bad he can't teach. Obviously, the best case scenario is the teacher who has an indepth knowledge of his subject area and also knows how to teach.

Basically, the new certification criteria is the same as what teachers currently go through to earn tenure- a commitment to students and learning, proper classroom management techniques, classroom control etc. The major and only difference I see in the new certification plan is the passing of a standardized multiole choice test in the teachers' major subject areas and general literacy test. This criteria wouldn't worry most teachers with whom I've been associated.

This movement, however, is a clear indication that sufficient evidence is available that shows some teachers from some college in some states are graduating without basic literacy skills and without an indepth knowledge of their subject.

All this withstanding, I still question someone entering teaching without a sound foundation in appropriate teaching strategies. It would be like teaching a tennis star every fundamental stroke in the book to near perfection but not teaching him or ther any strategy for winning a

Local delegation unites in veto override attempt

Here's how Observer & Eccentric area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending Jan. 26.

HOUSE:

CHINESE STUDENTS ISSUE -By a vote of 390 for and 25 against, the House overrode President Bush's veto of legislation (HR 2712) to prevent the deportation of up to 40,000 Chinese students when their visas expire. But the veto held when the Senate (below) failed to muster the two-third majority it needed to join the House in defeating it.

Congress passed the bill last year following the Tiananmen Square massacre of pro-democracy demonstrators. The president countered with an executive order to achieve the same goals. Congressional critics said a law, not an order that can be instantly lifted, is needed to protect the students against being returned home to face possible persecution.

James Traficant, D-Ohio, said: "Maybe our president is going to kowtow to a repressive Chinese government, but this Congress should not. It's time to put your vote where your rhetoric is."

Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., said: "President Bush knows China as well if not better than any member of this House . . . (and) must be given the room to make the foreign policy moves he feels are in the long-range best interests of our

TO SUSTAIN BUSH VETO - By a vote of 62 for and 37 against, the Senate failed to achieve, the twothirds majority it needed to override President Bush's veto of a bill (HR 2712) guaranteeing safe haven in the United States for up to 40,000 Chinese students.

This sustained the veto, despite an earlier House vote (above) to defeat it. Action by both chambers is needed to override presidential vetoes.

Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, who voted to override, said the veto "has made it more likely that the Chinese Government will succeed in its continuing campaign of intimidation and harassment to silence the students' cries for democracy in China.'

Veto supporter John Heinz, R-Pa., said "this president (by executive order) will protect the Chinese students and the Chinese people better than any legislation, and it's foolish and partisan to second-guess a president whose foreign policy judgment has been so accurate and successful

Hockey moms heat up for ice action

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

NIGHT WITHOUT hockey? To Bobbi Janos of Westland. there's no such thing.

With two sons and a husband who play the sport, Janos is at the rink so often they might start shipping her mail there. She estimates seeing more than 140 games a season, enough to send most people to the doctor, complaining of seeing pucks in their sleep.

'We had a break the other night," said Janos, watching her son Michael at Westland Arena. "There was just a practice. I was sitting at home, saying 'I don't know what to do with myself."

On this night, Janos is doing what she enjoys most - watching Michael play hockey. She's prepared. An afghan rests on her lap, a portable seat cushion makes the bleacher seat bearable.

Janos screams encouragement to her son, who is No. 10 on the Jack Demmer Ford Squirt Team. With every shout, she coughs. Janos has a cold and was sent home from work earlier in the day, she said. A chilly rink is not what most doctors recommend in treating the common snif-

But, "I'm a hockey mom first,"

Such dedication is not uncommon among the maternal puck community. Hockey moms are chauffeurs, trainers, equipment managers and cheerleaders. Often, they are clad in corduroy team jackets. Tournament patches are displayed like metals, a button with a son's face on it is their Distinguished Service Cross.

'They (hockey moms) can get pretty rough. They are the most vocal fans we've encountered.'

THEY SELL everything from cupcakes, pompons, raffle tickets and hockey pins to finance their sons' athletic pursuits. Most of all, hockey moms love hockey.

"I get physically tired," said Laura Bajis of Westland, whose duties as treasurer of the Westland Hockey

FOR THE most part, dads usually sit away from their wives either out of bemusement or embarrassment. Certainly, mothers are more demonstrative than fathers.

When Jack Demmer Ford scores a goal, the mothers commence in a chant and thump chorus by stomping their feet against the metallic bleachers. "Way to go Westland, way to go. (Thump, thump.) Way to go Westland, way to go.'

Those cheers are mild forms of expression. Mothers can voice their displeasure with all the subtlety of a fog horn in a library. "They can get pretty rough," said Dick Reed of Garden City, who is a referee. "They are the most vocal sociation. Her son, Joe, who plays peewee hockey, sits next to fans we've encountered. They can get out of line sometimes."

ACCORDING TO Reed, a woman (presumably a mom) shoved an official after a game in Garden City. Of course, such an act would be unbecoming, judging by the angelic faces in this group.

These mothers plead guilty to getting on the referee occasionally. "The only time I get upset is when an official is slow on the whistle," said Sheri Barber, whose son, Brian,

UPSET IS what some parents might be after getting the bill for their sons to play hockey. To chase a puck, it costs some bucks.

Equipment for the youth hockey player can run $250-$350, a top pair of skates can cost $200 alone. Registration fees and ice time costs, which run $55 a month for each player, are tacked on the grand total.

Sponsorship like from Jack Demmer Ford helps, mothers say. But add in travel costs and refresh-

IF YOU'RE Janos, you triple the costs. Her family is "broke constantly" with two sons and a husband playing the sport, she said.

As she watches No 10 skate up the ice, Janos hopes it all pays off. Though he is 9 years old. Janos moved him up to squirt level (10-11year-olds) where the competition is a bit tougher, she said

"He's good," said Janos, who adds some coaches from other teams are also looking at him. Hopefully, he going to go on.

joked, 'Where's mynecklace guys?' " She puts the necklace back inside her sweater and watches her son. She continues to cough, but still screeches to Michael to play defense. His team eventually wins 10-0.

"You got to love it," she said. "You've got to love the game. My kids played baseball and one played football. But there's no other sport that has the camaraderie."

Westland mother watches her shooting star in NHL

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

TIKE MODANO of Westland made the National Hockey League on a good set of wheels. Not bad, considering it only took three sets of wheels to help get him there.

Karen Modano estimates going through three cars, bouncing from ice rink to ice rink in her son's youth hockey days. In fact, name an ice arena and the Westland hockey mom can tell you directions.

"Been to them all - Fraser, Riverview, Melvindale, the Ice Box. If there's an arena, we've been there." Modano sald. That doesn't separate her from other moms whose sons play hockey. Few moms can say their child plays professional hockey for the Minnesota North Stars. Hers does, and that real serious and decided we'd rather still shocks her.

Not her son, however. "We watch him and say, 'Wow,' " she said. "The chances of a kid making the it are so slini. Mike's in his own little world and doesn't realize it sometimes. We say, 'Michael, enjoy this, buster. This is the best time of your life."

THE BEST times for her were in his youth hockey days, starting-out at 7 in a Milford Lakeland Ice Arena house league. His involvement in hockey grew to the point where he traveled all over the United States and Canada, playing in tournaments and attending hockey school in his peewee, bantam and midget days.

It wasn't uncommon for Mike to play 80 games a year, the same number he plays today during a regular NHL season. Mom and dad would foot the bill for equipment, ice time and travel.

One day, the Modanos decided to sit down and figure out how much money they spent on their son's athletic endeavor.

not know," she said. "We have no regrets. We enjoyed it."

The hardest part for her was watching Mike leave home at 15 to play junior hockey in Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, Canada. "That emptied out the nest real quick," said Karen, who has two grown daughters.

Heartache was replaced by joy the day her son went first overall in the 1988 NHL Amateur Draft. She wasn't sure he would ever make it to the professional ranks — until then, she said.

So, today with her husband, Mike, she watches her son play on television. Mike bought his family a satellite dish for their Westland house so they can see him play. He also bought his mom a new car, helping replace the three that helped him get to the NHL.

WHETHER VIA satellite or some dank ice rink, Modano still worries about her son. Recently, a check by the Toronto Maple Leafs' John Kordie left him motionless on the ice. In "It got to the point where it was another incident, Mike went headfirst into the boards. He came out of both collisions OK.

"It's scary," she said. "You don't know who to call or what to do when those things happen. I love to watch him come out on the ice.

"But I'm relieved when he goes

Her days as a hockey mom took Karen Modano she watches her son, Mike Modano, on televiof Westland to every rink in the area. Today sion as a member of Minnesota North Stars.

Amateur astronomer aims to revive club

By Sue Mason staff writer

Larry Angelow of Redford has a dream of sorts

An amateur astronomer, he dreams of finding a super nova no one else has discovered . . . and a "stellar" comeback for the Astronomy Club of Livonia

"There's a lot of lonely astronomers out there poking around who started like me with a six-inch telescope," Angelow said.

Angelow, 42, has been a member of the club since 1978 and is its acting president. Helping him is Bob Annas, an "excellent astrophotographer," as vice president, he said.

The club meets the second Tuesday of the month at the former Whittier Junior High School on Ann Arbor Trail in Westland. Meetings can include guest speakers and discussions about such things as how the cosmos was formed, Angelow said.

However, "if someone wants to come in and talk about telescopes." that's fine, too, Angelow said.

Angelow got started with astronomy at the age of 12 when he visited the planetarium at Cranbrook. It opened up a whole new world to him.

By the time he was in high school, Angelow had built his first telescope.

It took four years to build the six-nomical pursuits, he said. He did it inch telescope, which is mounted on a stand on a second floor deck of his late parents' home.

He has progressed to a 10-inch telescope. With the aid of a guide scope, he has been taking photographs of the universe for six years.

ANGELOW TAKES thousands of photographs each year and hopes that one day he'll "find on a negative. a super nova and get credit for it." His telescope offers a good vantage point to watch Jupiter and Venus cross the winter sky. Of late, he also has been watching the sun, charting sunspots that produce solar flair, blasts of heat from the sun that can reach as far out intospace as Jupiter, he said. The increased activity on the sun has led-Angelow to predict "another hot Neither his parents nor brother encouraged Angelow in his astroon his own and is now writing a book on astrophotography.

"I HAVE tons of photographs of the universe, the stars and the planets." Angelow said. "You have to stay with it (astrophotography); sometimes it takes six or seven hours to get the photograph."

Angelow also is looking into a locally produced cable TV show for children that would deal with the universe, a show patterned after a Beyond the Moon" show that a good friend did on cable TV in Redford.

"The universe is always changing," he said. "It's like a giant clock, you find something every second."

But for now, he is focusing his energy on increasing membership in the astronomy club. The club membership began to dwindle a few years. ago as the result of what Angelow called a "disruption

"WE USED TO have 150 members, but we kind of dispersed," he said "Everyone went their own

The club is for amateur astronomers young and old alike and for people who just "want to come in and talk about telescopes." It is a non-profit organization and has no dues, Angelow said. "Some people don't realize that we're moving through space," Angelow said "We move millions of miles a year. With astronomy, you can see a lot of different things galaxies and stars bigger than ours."

The Astronomy Club of Livonia meet 7-9 p.m the second Tuesday of the month at the Whittier Center, Ann Arbor Trail between Middlebelt and Inkster roads. Westland. For more information, call Larry Angelow at 537-6582 or Bob Annas at 937-2261

According to a report by Barbara Willer, Public Affairs Director for the National Association for the Education of Young Children, "there were those who called the bill absurd because of its level of funding as well as its intent.'

Today, she notes, the debate no longer focuses on whether the federal government should focus on this issue. The question now are "How?" and "When?"

IN JUNE 1989, the Senate passed the ABC Bill (S.5). Chief sponsors were Dodd (D-CT). Hatch (R-UT).

Congress focuses on child care bill

munity-based child-care programs. Title IV "provided funding and direction for coordinating and infrastructure activities."

IN OCTOBER 1989, the House approved H.R. 3 as part of its Budget Reconciliation bill (H.R. 3299) But, child care was removed from the bill in an attempt to forge a bipartisan agreement on the Budget Reconciliation Act. * Finally, in November, House and Senate committees reached an agreement, combining features of both of the comprehensive child-care bills (S.5 / H.R.3) -

The Dodd-Hawkins package: But, due basically to a conflict in funding strategy, it was decided to defer child-care discussions until January 1990. Reps. Downey and Miller want jurisdiction to be given to the ways and means/ finance committee and funds to be funnelled through the existing Title XX (of the Social Security Act) program.

Dodd-Hawkins, according to Willer, gives jurisdiction to the Education and Labor/Labor & Human Resources Committee and creates a new appropriated grant program for child care...

Willer states that the "track history of Title XX funding for child care over the last decade has been poor," and that in this program, "dollars do not keep pace with need."

Minister's guiding a growing church

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

The Rev. William Moore is pastor of Trinity Presbyterian Church in Superior Township. Moore, a Livonia resident, used to be on the staff of Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia.

By Julie Brown staff writer

A look at the Rev. William Moore's office reveals the likely presence of an avid gardener.

Moore, pastor of Trinity Presbyterian Church, does indeed enjoy growing vegetables and flowers. His office shelves are full of plants.

Jogging's also among Moore's free-time activities, and he's inherited some of his father's woodworking interest. Moore and his son are working on building a desk.

"I love to read in general." Moore has a special interest in issues of substance abuse and co-dependency, and does quite a bit of reading in those areas.

Moore has been with Trinity Presbyterian Church since its beginnings in the late 1970s.

AT THAT time, Moore, 46, was on the staff of Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia, serving as minister of evangelism. Ward officials began to think about starting a "daughter" church near Plymouth.

"So I was part of that process." Worshipers at Trinity met for a couple of years at Isbister Elementary School in Plymouth Township before moving to their new church building on Ann Arbor Road in 1981.

The church has a Plymouth mailing address but is actually in Superior Township. When Trinity first was established, about 40 families came from Ward Presbyterian Church. Most of those families came from Plymouth or Canton and a few from Ann Arbor.

Trinity became independent of Ward fairly quickly and now has about 600 members, about 350 fami-

"We're kind of out in the middle as a meeting place," said Moore, a Livonia resident. The relatively rural location took some getting used to at first for Moore, who was accustomed to working in a more urban environment.

Moore and his wife, Cindy, a homemaker, have four children, ages 13, 15, 17 and 19.

"I've always placed a high priority on the family." He and his wife make time to be with their children. Moore enjoys working with his kids on projects.

Moore had been raised as an Episcopalian, but in his younger days didn't feel personally challenged to commit his life to Christ

"It was more of a tradition than a personal experience" Moore's father went on to become an Episcopal priest after retiring from education. Moore's twin brother also became an Episcopal priest.

During his first year at college. Moore was challenged by other students to commit his life to Christ.

"We like Michigan," he said We've grown to love Michigan people, the country.

Moore's duties at Trinity are varied. He preaches, directs the staff, does counseling, conducts funerals and weddings. Working on strategic planning for the future of the church is also among his duties

"I do a lot of teaching as well as preaching" He visits people in the hospital and those who are homebound

"It makes for a pretty busy week." In the future, the church building may need to be expanded. Church leaders are also considering "planting" or establishing another church in southern Ann Arbor.

"We've seen continued growth." In 1977, when church leaders did demographic research, they were optimistic about the growth expected in the Plymouth-Ann Arbor corridor

That rate of growth slowed during the recession of the early 1980s, although it has been consistent in recent years

Moore wants to minister to his own congregation and to those beyond the congregation who may not have God in their lives

He's also encouraged to see a growing awareness of social issues such as divorce, substance abuse and child abuse, in the church

I recently read an essay describing the awesome challenge of the bionic man Companies that replace parts of the human body (for a price, of course) are being recognized as a growth industry.

Indeed, substitutive medicine replacing real human parts with artificial ones - has spurred the development of a community of manufacturers that endeavor to replace the irreplaceable.

It is reported that more than a million people have artificial parts implanted inside them every year. They include artificial hips, knees,

THE IMPULSIVE AND havior, paranoia, a propensity for suicidal gestures (as opposed to real attempts) and a tendency to see others as "all good" or all bad."

Although some men are diagnosed as borderline, the majority are women, since young girls are more likely to be sexually abused than boys, according to the U-M report, published this month in the Journal of Orthopsychiatry.

LUDOLPH WORKED with Drew Weston, assistant professor of psychology, graduate students M. Judith Block, F. Charles Wiss, Anne Jackson and Barbara Misle, postdoctoral student Stephen Ruffins and psychologist Jean Wixom on the study.

The researchers compared 27 borderline adolescent girls with 23 adolescent girls in a control group who had other psychiatric disorders like Anorexia Nervosa and depression.

The researchers found that more than half of the girls with borderline personalities had been sexually abused (29.6 percent by their fathers, 7.4 percent by their mothers and 15 percent exclusively by neighbors, friends and sibling).

Seventy percent of the borderlines who had been abused by their fahers also had been abused by someone else. And just 19 percent of the control group suffered sexual abuse of any kind.

"We also found that physical abuse went hand in hand with sexual abuse," Ludolph said. Sixty-six percent of those who had been sexually abused had suffered physical abuse, inclur' ag repeated beatings or coporal c hishment resulting in cuts and bruises, she said.

"Neglect by the primary caretaker, who, given the way our society is organized, was usually the mother. was another significant factor," Ludolph said. "Eighty percent of the girls who had been neglected by the mother also had been sexually abused."

Neglect meant being abandoned by the mother for a series of indifferent caretakers, being kicked out of the house or being made a ward of the court. Most of the neglect and abuse occurred between five and 10 years of age.

"THESE ARE some of the years when the ego or self undergoes considerable development, so disruption at that critical time is very serious." Ludolph said. "Sexual abuse during that period is likely to have a permanent effect on self-esteem, sense of identity, ability to regulate feelings, capacity to trust others and ability to test reality.

"It also will affect the strategies children develop to achieve goals. That is, children who are abused and feel compelled to hide it - who are forced into a form of duplicity and complicity - may never achieve a goal. In an atmosphere of fear and confusion, they will learn only to manipulate others.'

The researchers stressed that not all victims incest or sexual abuse become borderline personalities. In addition, sexual abuse alone is not likely to lead to a borderline personality.

"Borderline behavior is an expression of confusion over closeness and distance," Ludolph said. "Sexual abuse, particularly by fathers, is tremedously confusing.

Infertility Research and Treatment

How much help will you need to fill these shoes?

A couple trying to overcome a serious fertility problem has basically two options. Seek help from a small fertility clinic associated with a general hospital (a few of these actually attempt fairly advanced procedures like in vitro fertilization). Or choose the Hutzel Fertility Center. The difference is dramatic. Hutzel's program is medical center- and university-based; encompassing both treatment and research. Unlike general hospitals that mostly apply established technology, a comprehensive clinical and research center like Hutzel actually ploneers and develops new techniques.

Hutzel's century-long leadership in the reproductive sciences includes Michigan's first in vitro fertilization bables, the newest techniques of egg retrieval, and, to date, Michigan's first and only embryo freezing capabilities (which contribute significantly to reducing the risk of multiple births). Hutzel has also ploneered the concept of treating couples rather than individuals. This helps avoid unnecessary delays, expenses and frustration.

Hutzel's extra research and clinical dimension means more hope, every day, for patients with the most complex problems. And, because Hutzel's care costs no more, even couples with less serious problems can afford the extra peace of mind that comes with the Hutzel program.

Infertility programs often require considerable economic and emotional investment by couples. To make the most of that investment, call the Hutzel Fertility Center for more information.

In a 35-mph test, a belted dummy receives protection from a driver's side air bag.

Local companies eye air bag business

By Gerald Frawley staff writer

Air bag manufacturers and suppliers expect the 1990s to be a busy decade now that automotive companies worldwide have announced plans to use air bags more extensive-

Chrysler announced it would install driver-side air bags in all of its vehicles in the early 1990s; Ford will install driver and passenger-side air bags as standard equipment by 1994. Only General Motors has yet to announce when air bags will be standard equipment on all models. GM now offers driver side air bags as standard equipment on almost half of its automobiles with plans to add them to more models throughout the 1990s.

Charles L. Miller, executive vice president and general manager of TRW Occupant Restraints group, said air bags will become as popular as seat belts. "If the 1980s can be described as the decade of the safety belt, then the 1990s will surely be the decade of the air bag."

TRW, with facilities in Rochester Hills, is the world's largest supplier of automotive safety restraint products. It is the sole supplier of air bags to Ford and also supplies air bags to Chrysler and General Mo-

In 1989, the North American air bag market was worth $360 million in sales. TRW estimates the market will have a compound annual growth of 85 percent through 1994 when it will reach $3 billion in annual sales, Miller said.

"WE ARE ACTUALLY even more optimistic than that," TRW communications director Claude Gianino said. "Those are conservative (estimates)."

By 1994, Gianino said analysts predict 65 percent of new cars sold in North America will be equipped with air bags.

The main impediment to air bag technology is cost, but he believes a $300 inflatable restraint system is a likely possibility. Current prices for air bags range from $500 to $1,500 depending on the automobile and equipment configuration, but costs have continued to fall, according to TRW figures.

"In the last two years, we've already brought the price down by half thanks to advances in technology," Gianino said. He believes production increases mandated by federal law will enable suppliers to bring costs down further.

This will help ensure product compatibility, price stability and successful research and development, he added.

Air bags will require a greater partnership between suppliers and automotive manufacturers because they will need to be designed into automobiles years before production, Gianino said.

Federal law requires that all automobiles be equipped with drivers side passive restraint systems by 1994. "Air bags are not the only type of passive passenger restraint, but they are becoming the restraint system of choice," he said.

TIP ENGINEERING Group of Farmington Hills is an example of a small local company poised to take advantage of the coming air bag market explosion. Vice president of sales and marketing Dick Marchese said the firm holds 40 patents dealing exclusively with air bag technology.

With almost 40 million vehicles built worldwide each year, the market for air bag equipment is immense, he said. TIP is a dedicated interior trim occupant safety company, working solely in safety improvements to the inside of automobiles, Marchese said.

"We're the only people in the world doing what we're doing. We're the only people in the world capable of doing what we're doing."

TIP Engineering designs a patented seamless air bag deployment door that will improve the interior aesthetics of air bag-equipped automobiles, Marchese said. (See related story)

By concentrating on only one aspect of automotive design — instrument panel safety — TIP Engineering Group of Farmington Hills has positioned itself to take advantage of the coming air bag demand explosion.

TIP's emphasis on the instrument panel allows them to work more quickly, less expensively and with more innovation than the automakers and its competitors, vice president of marketing Richard Marchese

"We don't design air bag systems

— the air bags, the electronics, the sensors — we're trim people.

"When people think air bags, they don't always think of what goes into designing an air bag system," Marchese said. Years before an automobile ever reaches the showroom, interior trim panels are designed to accommodate the vehicle's climate controls, electronics, mechanics and air bags.

Entrepreneurs find success marketing used computers

By R.J. King special writer

Six years ago, Mike Dolik of Birmingham faced a difficult decision. Should he leave a comfortable job with Burroughs Corp. and invest $2,000 along with a friend to start a business in the highly competitive computer market?

At the time, Dolik admits he was reluctant, especially with his basement doubling as the company's first office, but with $12 million in sales last year, the entrepreneur now tinkers inside a $5,000-square-foot facility in Rochester Hills.

Employing 65 people, the Virtual Group, owned by Dolik and D. Mark Ratliff, both 35, is four companies located in the Rochester Hills Corporate Center.

While working together at Burroughs (now Unisys), Dollk and Ratliff learned the computer manufacturer wasn't always willing to accept old equipment as trade-in on new systems. By purchasing the equipment used, they believed they could profit by refurbishing and upgrading the systems and reselling them as "almost new" products.

"That first year was pretty rough," Dolik recalled from his office. "Mark and I purchased a customer list from Unlsys and set out to buy the equipment, arrange to have it transported and would either rebuild the equipment ourselves or sub-contract it out.

"In fact, there were times when we used to put the equipment in the back of our cars and deliver it ourselves. It also helped that our strength was in marketing. Neither of us were engineers, but we knew enough about computers to upgrade them, and then turn our efforts to selling them."

selling them."

Last year Michigan Business magazine selected the Virtual Group as the 18th fastest growing privately held company in the state. Last December, Inc. magazine named the company as one of the top 500 fastest growing companies in the nation.

OF THE COMPANY'S 4,500 customers in 28 countries, Dolik said 85 percent of sales today are derived from repeat customers.

"Our customers like an alternative other than purchasing their equipment directly from the manufacturer," Ratliff said. "They like the freedom and flexibility we can provide."

All of the equipment Virtual markets is guaranteed for installation and maintenance by Unisys standards. "When you combine no risk with substantial savings, in most cases, 50 to 60 percent, (the customer's) decision is easy."

Under the Virtual Group umbrella is Virtual Technology, which buys

Marchese sald when engineers design safety into an automobile, they design the automobile to protect the average person in an accident.

"What we're trying to do is design cars to protect what is called the 'fifth female.' Not everyone is 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs the national average. There are hard points that a small woman might be injured. on, but an average sized woman would not. You also have to take into account little kids - they are passengers in cars as well."

TIP'S MAJOR achievement has been the development of seamless air bag deployment door technology, Marchese said.

Current air bag deployment doors are seamed; when the bag inflates, the door opens along the seam. In addition to the difficulty of designing attractive instrument panels with the seamed doors, the doors typically cost between $40 and $50 to replace after air bag inflation.

With seamless doors, Marchese said manufacturers can design styleconscious, yet cost effective instrument panels. The seamless air bag deployment doors typically cost about $12 each.

Seamless deployment doors can be made with vinyl, wood laminates and even leather, Marchese said, which gives engineers more room to work when designing attractive, safe

Marchese said the firm holds 40 patents dealing exclusively with air bag technology.

"Right now we're working on 1994 model cars - that's how far ahead you have to work when it comes to Instrument panels," Marchese said. The instrument panel is affected by every engineering discipline, he add-

How will it fit in the steering wheel? Where will it be on the passenger side? How will the air bag be deployed? "It's far more complicated than people think."

CHIEF EXECUTIVE officer and founder Dave Bauer said he started TIP Engineering — short for Technical Instrument Panel - in 1986 after working for 15 years in Ford Motor Co.'s instrument panel safety division where he worked on air bag development and test programs, instrument and interior trim panels and knee bolsters..

Working with his own company has allowed him to place more emphasis on instrument panel safety.

"You can do a lot more when you're not dealing in a bureaucracy. Here we can get a design to the public in half the time and it's cost effective and it looks good," Bauer

Marketing vice president Marchese said TIP Engineering is "at least 10 years ahead of everybody else."

TIP Engineering has completed air bag related projects for Chrysler, Ford, General Motors, Mitsubishi, Toyota and Jaguar. It is currently involved in projects for these and other companies.

In addition to seamless air bag deployment doors, TIP Engineering is also setting its sights on related applications.

Bauer said other laws will follow those governing passive passenger restraints; he has developed a 10year plan anticipating other interior trim safety programs.

Air bags for light trucks and vans, knee bolsters, instrument panels improvements, door trim, seat cushion bolsters, seat frames, back seat bolsters and greater emphasis on foreign markets are all part of TIP Engineering's long-term plan, he said.

doors will lead to other advances in interior trim, Marchese said.

SIEMENS-AUTOMOTIVE, an international electronics automotive electronics firm with headquarters in Germany, is also ready to capitalize on the exploding air bag market, according to director of communications Paul Klapproth.

Siemens has sales offices in Troy, research and development facilities in Sterling Heights and is constructing a new facility in Auburn Hills, he said. "The push toward air bags as standard equipment could not come at a better time."

Siemens manufactures electromechanical sensors for air bag systems. The sensors, which are placed behind the front bumpers, inflate air bags only in accidents in which speeds exceed 10 miles per hour,

"The market for crash detection sensors alone is expected to be $250 million next year," Klapproth said. Siemens also manufacturers diagnostic equipment that monitors air bag systems for problems. Siemens' largest customer is GM. but the firm also supplies crash sensors for BMW, Porsche, Volkswagen,

Alfa Romeo and Saab. Klapproth said the 1990s air bag market is different from the 1970s when the market suffered a major shakeup after a lack of consumer interest and political opposition from automotive companies stalled widespread air bag use. "The market just never matured," Klapproth said. The collapse of companies that anticipated the early boom left only a select few - companies like TRW, Morton Thiokol Inc., Allied Bendix Corp. and Siemens - healthy enough to benefit , from the current air bag demand.

Chrysler killed a cheap, dependable, reliable car

"You know, Dad, what we have here is a generic car" was my son's comment when I drove up in a white Dodge Omni, purchased at the basic base level, which meant it not only was plain white and had no trim but that even the bumpers were solid, undecorated bars of aluminum, which I thought kind of glowed in the setting sunlight.

There is no sign yet of speculators rushing to buy up the remaining Omnis and Plymouth Horizons, despite the announcement that Omniorizons are going out of production after Chrysler spent some dozen years churning them out of three plants.

Granted, this is no Ferrari GTO we are talking about. From the day they were introduced. Omnis exuded a kind of loaf-of-bread appearance that somehow managed to blend into traffic like one more leaf hitting the ground in the fall.

IN FACT, Chrysler was a little desperate in 1974 when it shoved the first Omnis out the door in the heat of the energy crisis. With much of its engineering cribbed from Volkskwagen, it was the first modern front-wheel-drive car introduced by a domestic manufacturer, albeit with a VW engine and transmission. It also was one of the first cars with a body welded by robots, and it set some records for efficient manufacturing. Another quirk was Chrysler's shortage of paint priming

Diversify to reduce the risks

By Sid Mittra special writer

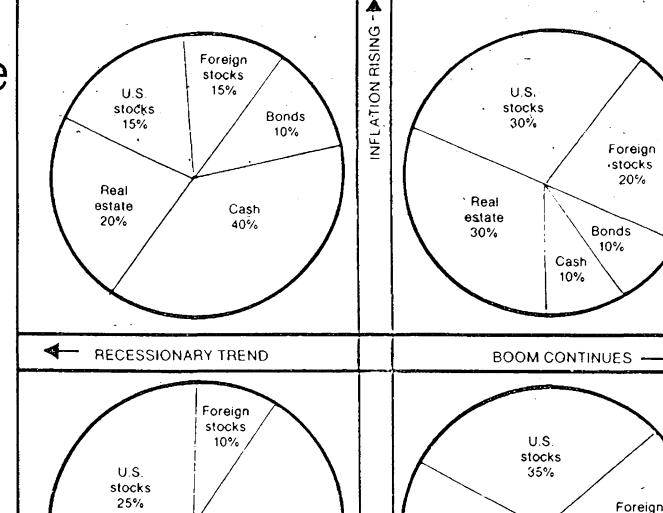

Risks are part of investing. There is no choice but to assume these risks if you wish to earn more than bank savings return.

Fortunately, while there is risk. there is also diversification. By dividing your assets among complementary investments, you can significantly cut your risk while (frequently) increasing your rate of return.

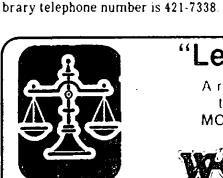

Examples of complementary investments include U.S. stocks, long term bonds, foreign stocks, real estate and cash. Other investments, such as annuities, can be added to the list.

The accompanying chart indicates how mixes might be altered to increase return as economic conditions change. However, a word of caution is in order.

Portfolio management is difficult and not for everyone. It is wise to seek the expert help. A competent financial planner, a portfolio manager, a bank trust department or professional financial management team should be able to help you achieve your investment goals.

Small businesses can encourage procrastination

By Mary DiPaolo special writer

Wouldn't it be wonderful if all of us did what we were supposed to when we were supposed to?

The fact is that everyone puts off a certain number of problems, decisions or actions until "tomorrow." This is especially true for small business owners, who are bogged down by the daily demands of running a successful business. But there is a difference between deliberately postponing a task for time management purposes and procrastinating Eliminating procrastination begins by examining some of the major causes that lead to it. By doing so, you will then be in a position to pursue solutions.

MANY GROWING businesses create an environment that breeds procrastination. After all, growth is an uncomfortable process.

If you find yourself handling only what you are comfortable doing while setting aside the new or more complicated responsibilities for a later date, you are procrastinating.

Instead of allowing yourself to become overburdened, try to complete at least one challenging responsibility each week. This will help you become accustomed to the uneasy sensation you have when you face a more complex task.

And once the assignment has been completed, you will begin to feel comfortable and more confident tackling other challenges as they

5 women in strong drama about waiting in wartime

Performances of the Farmington Players' production of "Waiting for the Parade" continue through Saturday, Feb. 24, at the Farmington Players Barn. For ticket information, call the box office at 538-1670.

Viewing World War II through the eyes of those "who also serve" by waiting at home, "Waiting for the Parade" at the Farmington Players is bittersweet, presented with poignancy and humor by a fine fivewoman cast.

Set in Calgary, Canada, between 1939 and 1945, the drama follows the lives of five women who meet regularly to do their bit for the war effort - rolling bandages and entertaining at the soliders' canteen. The format of the show is a series of vignettes separated by blackouts.

Paula Myers is excellent as the abrasive Janet, who commands her group of women like a tough staff sergeant. Jane maintains a frantic schedule of volunteer activities to cover her embarrassment at her broadcaster husband's non-participation in the conflict.

TV news cameraman's heritage involved with film

By Dan Greenberg special writer

F SKILL, TALENT and enthusiasm are genetic, then recently retired WJBK-TV, Channel 2, news camerman Sid Siegel inherited zeal for things photographic from his grandfather, Jacob. Grandfather's 1917 Baltimore motion picture projectionist license is framed and prominently featured on the wall of the study in Siegel's Birmingham home

"It was in the genes because my father's father was interested in film and the story was, as told to me," Siegel recalled, "that my grandfather was the projectionist, my father played the piano for the silents, my aunt took the tickets — this was out in the backwoods around Odessa."

Grandpa Jacob was an itinerant projectionist in the rural areas around Odessa, Russia, prior to World War I. When he raised enough money from showing motion pictures, he would sell his film and projectors and take one of his children to America where he would buy another projector, some new films and go back to Odessa to repeat the process. Thus Sid's father and three sisters came to America.

Prior to World War II Siegel's interst in photography developed. In 1940 he built his own drum processor for black-and-white reversal motion picture film which he developed at task for amateurs even today.

A CASS TECHNICAL High School student, Siegel studied aeronautics. Despite that, no doubt because of the mysterious ways in which the military operates, his World War II service (1943-1946) was as an infantryman in France, Italy and Germany, including six months in combat.

"It was in the final days of the war," Siegel remembered. "I dropped out of a long march from exhaustion, and a day or so later when I rejoined my company, there was a whole German army in front

But the Germans surrendered, and the spoils of war included lots of German Luger pistols, then quite a novelty as souvenirs. Siegel said, "I had Lugers coming out of every pocket and I traded them off for the granddaddy of what turned out to be the Hasselblad, I think it was called the Primaflex. In turn, I traded that for my first Bolex movie camera. and when I got home, I was in business.

That business — filmmaking of all kinds, weddings, bar mitzvahs, industrials, documentaries, but most of all news film - has occupied Siegel and his wife, Naomi, for more than four decades.

In the late '40s and early '50s, "Television had no local newsfilm and I was very anxious to get into television," Siegel said. With his wife's help and support, he began a free-lance firm. Telespot News, which furnished newsfilm to the local stations. But in those days stations were reluctant to spend $100 or so on newsfilm when they could rent a movie for $5.

TWO STORIES, in particular, launched his career as one of the leading newsfilm producer-camermen nationwide as well as in the Detroit market.

Late in 1951, some American soldiers in Japan chartered a plane to come home for Christmas. But they couldn't afford the fuel. The story home, an exceptional and difficult circulated, and local merchants started a campaign to raise funds for the GIs' trip home. When they landed at Willow Run, Siegel was there with his camera. He processed the film and took it to Channel 2.

The next day there was a blizzard, and every day that week he took newsfilm of the blizzard into the station. At the end of the week he was given a 13-week contract as a freelance producer. He contracted for a local news story every day. At the end of the 13 weeks the station hired someone else - lower rates to produce their newsfilm.

To add insult to injury, Siegel recalls that the next Monday, "I had gone out to my car and somebody had cut into the glove box and stolen a camera. While the policeman was filling out the report, I'm listening to his radio which was telling about the Jackson Prison riot.'

Well, I didn't bother filling out the rest of the report. I said, Never mind, and I got in my car with another camera and went to Jackson. That night was my first CBS network piece on the air."

FOR THE FOLLOWING 12 years. Siegel worked as a stringer for CBS, NBC, ABC and the BBC. During his free-lance period Siegel produced industrial films for Chrysler, American Motors, W.B. Doner, Hygrade, Faygo, Vlasic and the United Foundation, among others. In 1964 he became a regular staff member at the same Channel 2 from which he has just retired.

Throughout his career he has filmed just about everything imaginable in every locale including East Africa with Bwana Don, plus work in Vietnam, London, Paris, Rome and Athens.

"The most memorable story I ever covered," Siegel said, "was the story of Naomi and me during the '67 riots. Not only did she support me in what I was doing, but she came down and cooked for the troops. She came down to the station (Channel 2) through gunfire and worked at the station on Second Boulevard. I was filming from the ground and from a helicopter and I remember the pilot one night saying, 'Hey, they're shooting at us. Let's get out of here.'

The 66-year-old Siegel and his wife of 45 years had three children, one of whom died of leukemia. In her memory they have established an award for writing at Wayne State University.

Not content to sit quietly in retirement, Siegel plans to seek free-lance assignments and devote time toworking with his hobby, antiques.

To young people eager to make it in show business. Siegel advised, "Read everything you can, see ev-

'A Walk in the Woods' fulfills playgoer's dream

The Michigan premiere engagement of "A Walk in the Woods" continues through Sunday, Feb. 25, at Meadow Brook Theatre on the Oakland University campus in Rochester Hills. For ticket information call 377-3300.

By Mark Carley special writer

Meadow Brook Theatre's production of "A Walk in the Woods" provides that experience for which playgoers yearn, but so rarely get a fast-paced, well-acted drama offering not only entertainment, but substance.

On its surface, Lee Blessing's Pulitzer-Prize-nominated play is a simple dialogue between two arms control negotiators - hardly stimulating stuff for non-political science majors. But under the direction of Stephen Kanee, actors Arthur J. Beer and Michael James Laird infuse their discourse with enough passion, humor and charm to keep the audience transfixed throughout the performance.

Andrey Botvinnik, played by Beer, is a seasoned veteran of the Soviet diplomatic corps. John Honeyman (Laird) is a young American hotshot leading his first negotiating team.

In order to escape the pressures and attentions of the bargaining table, the two take regular walks through the picturesque woods surrounding Geneva, Switzerland.

Botvinnik is amiable, glib and utterly charming. He is known in diplomatic circles for having 100 different, equally pleasant ways of saying "no." Beer's portrayal of the grandfatherly Russian is magnificent. He exudes warmth, humor and compassion for both his own character and for the American.

think it is witnessing yet another anti-American diatribe - the paranoid, hawkish American refusing all peace initiatives from the amiable and well-meaning Soviet. But "A Walk in the Woods" is not a political statement of this or any other kind. Rather, it is an exploration of human relationships and how they might evolve between two men who feel their ability to work with each other. Each character is far more complex than he originally indicates. As the play progresses we discover that Botvinnik, for all his charm, is at heart a cynical and unambitious man. He harbors no real hope for progress in arms control. To him the

Conversely, Honeyman, the un-

An even sadder case is that of Botvinnik, the charmer who seems to take nothing scriously. His flaw is the inability to see true hope in the world. Perhaps the two men are metaphors for their respective cultures As usual, Meadow Brook has done a fine job with the technical aspects of the play. The set is a simple but beautiful knoll in the woods. For once, it does not overwhelm the ac-

Many playgoers will miss "A Walk in the Woods," thinking either "talky two-person plays are a bore." or, 'what could be duller than, a play about arms control?" These people will make a big mistake

Salem rules in WLAA

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

When the curtain rose on one of the wrestling season's biggest shows Saturday, the Plymouth Salem Rocks performed like real troupers.

Salem was heavily favored to repeat as Western Lakes Activities Association champion, and there was little suspense to the meet at Westland John Glenn. The Rocks won their eighth league championship in nine years.

"When you get to the league meet, senior and defending champion Steve Burlison said. "There's no more chances to goof up.

what we had to do.'

The host Rockets were runners-up once again. Salem was a runaway winner with 2151/2 points, and the first division included Glenn (147), Northville (142), Livonia Churchill (104), Walled Lake Western (99½) ture championships, too. and Plymouth Canton (94).

Livonia Stevenson, North Farming- Jeff Shumate (135) and Ron Miller ton, Walled Lake Central, Livonia Franklin, Farmington Hills Harrison and Farmington.

Burlison was one of five Salem champions. The Rocks also had three runners-up and three others place among the top six.

Salem had its share of wrestlers that's when showtime starts," Salem favored to win individual titles, but there were some surprises, too.

Julian Sell (130), Burlison (160) and Brian Burlison (189) were seed-"We were pretty confident but not ed No. 1 at their weights, and each so confident to lay back. We knew lived up to his pre-meet billing. The Rocks did what was expected of them at five weights and better than expected at four others.

Scott Martin (103) and heavyweight Scott Breithaupt were No. 2 seeds but staged mild upsets to cap-

Teammatés Dan Bonnett (112) and Pete Israel (171) finished as seeded THE SECOND tier consisted of in second place, and Ken Stopa (125),

"SOME OF them overachieved," Salem coach Ron Krueger said. "We had more kids who did better than

(145) finished higher than they were they were supposed to do than didn't - and that helps. Only one underachieved.

guys were seeded first and supposed to do that - and I'm pleased they were not supposed to do that well and did."

Three wrestlers - the Burlison brothers and Central's Soren Murphy - repeated as league champions. Murphy (112), a three-time winner, was the 103 champ last year. Steve Burlison defended his 160 crown, and Brian Burlison also stepped up a weight after winning at 171 a year

"He's pretty slick on his feet," said Central coach Carl McBride of Murphy, who pinned all three opponents and is 24-1. "Soren was sick, too. He just hasn't been able to shake the flu

"For someone to go out and do what he did and not be feeling well shows he has some pretty good skills. It's amazing how he can go through something like this and still not be 100 percent."

MARTIN PINNED No. 1-seeded Matt Allison in the 103 final, avenging a 12-6 loss, and Sell defeated rival Casey Krause of Churchill 6-2 to win the 130 title.

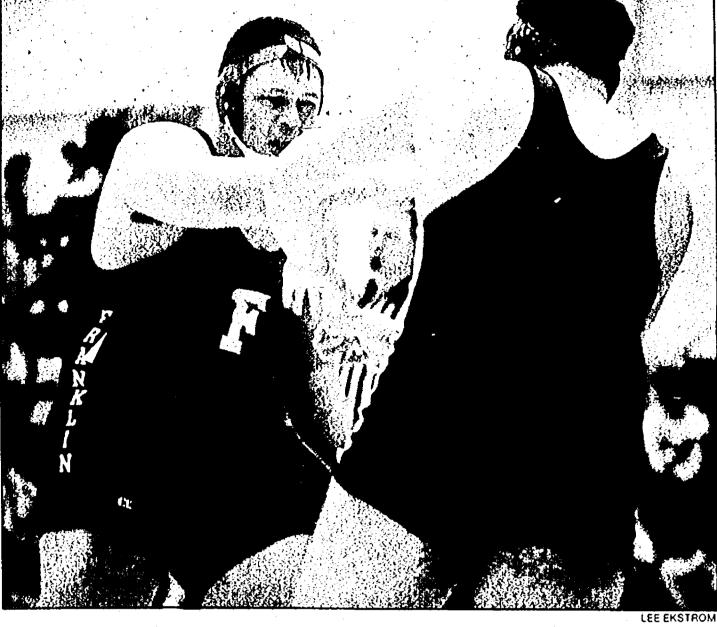

year and Sell the consolation winner. Sell has won both meetings this year, but remembers losing to Krause last season.

"I was real surprised and happy with Breithaupt and Martin. Three did - but (Martin and Breithaupt)

The other champions were Northville's Kevin Khashan (119), Brandon Mardossian (125) and Garnet Potter (145), Western's Travis Ilacqua (135), North Farmington's Matt Thompson (140). Canton's Tim Nardini and Glenn's Kraig Kuban.

Krause was runner-up at 125 last

"He killed me -7.0 – two times in a row," Sell said. "I worked hard over the summer in freestyle practice, and I think that really did it.

Franklin's Bobby Johnson (left) lost this double-overtime decision to Churchill heavyweight Andy Sapienza at Saturday's Western Lakes Activities Association wrestling meet held at Westland John Glenn.

"Last year I always worried about who I was wrestling. This year I just go out and wrestle. I look at it as 'I'm here, he's there, this is the mat. let's wrestle.'

Steve Burlison pinned his way through, too, stopping Northville's Bob Townsend in the final, and Brian Burlison extended his mastery over Glenn's Garnett Woody at 189.

The Burlisons are probably the only undefeated brother combination in the state, too. Steve boasts a 31-0 record, Brian 34-0.

"At the beginning of the season, I didn't start off the way I should have," Steve said. "I was concentrating too much on the state meet instead of what was ahead each day. The last couple weeks I've been taking things a day at a time instead of thinking two months ahead."

BREITHAUPT pinned Churchill's

Andy Sapienza in 45 seconds after Sapienza had beaten No. 1-seeded Bob Johnson of Franklin in the semifinals. Krueger credited that to having scouted Sapienza.

"I told Scott 'He's going to come bear hug you've ever seen, and you'd better hit the best head lock you ever have," Krueger said. "Once he got him down, he wasn't going to let him

Krueger also was impressed by Glenn's Kuban, who pinned No. 2seeded Pete Israel of Salem in the first period to run his record to 35-1.

"I don't think anyone scored a point on him." Glenn coach Tom Buckalew said. "Nobody went to the second period with him. He's one of the best we've ever had. He's the leader in team points, takedowns and wins.

"I was pleased with Garnett, too. championship.

Brian (Burlison) is an outstanding wrestler, but Garnett is 31-7 with three losses to Brian."

Buckalew, who knew it would have taken a number of teams working together to upset Salem, added right in and give you the biggest there is no shame in losing to the

> "They've got good kids, and-they got good performances from those kids," he said. "We're happy to beat Northville. They had five in the finals and three champions. We had a bit more balance than they did."

Nardini was seeded No. 2 at 152 pounds but upset top-seeded Eric Shellenbarger of Churchill with a pin in the final. Thompson dropped a weight from 145 to get the No. 1 seed, and he snapped the 16-bout winning streak of Glenn's Cory Buckalew, the No. 3 seed, in the 140

Trick knee concerned recruit

Kraig Kuban (top) Westland John Glenn seems to have a good grip on Franklin's Brian Poisson during a 171-pound match.

TARRY JOHNSON, the coveted all-state wide receiver from Wayne Memorial High, suddenly wasn't coveted anymore.

It's a story that could have had a sad ending.

A trick knee, also described as a "dislocated patella," made some college football recruiters leery of Johnson. Recruiters had to be concerned about offering a scholarship to somebody described as "damaged goods." The University of Louisville, where Johnson made a recent visit, reportedly withdrew its offer. Twice during the basketball season, Johnson was forced to the bench after his knee popped out of place.

But on Monday, Johnson's worst fears were put to rest by Dr. Gerald O'Connor, the sports medicine specialist from Ann Arbor.

AFTER AN HOUR examination, Johnson was told he would need surgery, but not until April.

son," said a relieved Johnson, the team's second leading scorer. "The operation I'm going to have is called a lateral release. The doctors are going to release the tension in my right knee. Right now it's a lot Alghter than my other knee.

"They tell my there's a 99 percent recovery rate and I should be ready to play in the East-West All-Star Game in (late) July,"

To Johnson's credit, he did not try to hide his injury from college

"My mother told me not to be dishonest with them, we wanted to be up-front with everybody," said Larry. "We told them to check with the trainers (at Domino's Farms Sports Medicine Clinic) and most of them understood. My parents (Michael and Diane) gave me some good advice at the start of this college thing."

Louisville was the only school that Larry Johnson recruited Johnson which backed off.

JOHNSON, who has made a verbal commitment to Western Michigan University, also considered Eastern Michigan, Bowling Green, Toledo and Central Michigan.

"Louisville said they couldn't take a chance, but the others hung in there with me and I appreciate that," said Johnson, who caught 41 passes for 796 yards and 11 touchdowns his senior year.

Johnson has a brother and sister who attend WMU. His teammate. All-Observer defensive back Pierre Hixon, will also sign at national letter-of-intent Wednesday, Feb. 14 with the Broncos.

"I'm interested in studying engi-"I can finish the basketball sea- neering and they were the only school in the MAC (Mid-American Conference) that offered the program," Johnson said. "And the offense they run was right for me the run-and-shoot like the Detroit Lions run. It's a great situation for

will sign with WMU

The situation, however, wasn't so great last Tuesday (Jan. 30) when Johnson sat the bench in street clothes during Wayne's thrilling 56-55 victory over Ann Arbor Huron.

"LARRY WAS pretty down because Louisville had called that day to tell him they were holding off," said Wayne basketball coach Chuck Henry. "I felt bad because Larry is a very coachable young man. He's a decent student (2.5 GPA) who is taking college prep curriculum. He came up one point short (under NCAA standards) on his ACT, but he retook the SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) on Saturday and I'm sure he'll be a certain qualifier."

Henry said Johnson's knee is structurally sound, but the problem is hereditary. Ironically, Johnson's knee problem first cropped up in a football game last October against Dearborn Fordson when he has his best day as a prep. He made several circus catches (eight for 194 yards and two TDs).

"He had no problems with it last year and up until the most recent incident (when the knee popped out Jan. 19 against Trenton), it had only a temporary effect," said the Wayne coach. "But after that game I noticed he walked with a limp.'

Johnson's knee popping loose against Trenton may have been caused by a couple of factors.

He forgot to bring his knee braceto the game and had also slacked off on his rehabilitation program.

"I had the flu that week and I didn't do my exercises," he admitted. "My knee wasn't as strong as it should have been."

JOHNSON, who thought he would have to have surgery right away,

Warriors seize 3rd NSL title

By Brad Emons staff writer

Saturday's Northwest Suburban League wrestling meet went pretty much according to plan.

Woodhaven, which posted a 4-0 dual-meet record in the NSL, walked away with its third consecutive title, scoring 200 points to outdistance Dearborn (170), Redford Union (1381/2), host Garden City (1121/2) and Dearborn Edsel Ford (76). The Warriors placed nine wrestlers in the finals and came away with six titles.

"They're just too solid all the way up and down the line," said Garden City coach Phil Freeman. "Dearborn is a much improved team. They're going to be the team to beat next year. They're young. They have only two seniors.

Redford Union coach Jeff Fagen said his team finished "pretty much where I expected."

We beat some people we shouldn't have and we lost to some people that maybe we shouldn't have beaten," he said.

Added Freeman: "There were no major upsets. Those expected to win, ier than expected 30-second pin of Dearborn's Randy Smith.

Woodhaven's Tony Wyrick (125) and Edsel Ford's Doug Ouellette (140) were other repeat league champs.

RU, third in the team standings, boasted a pair of league champions in senior Eric Buckberry (145) and junior George DeBates (171).

Buckberry ran his record to 24-7 with a pin of Dearborn's Rob McShane in 1:20. DeBates also won impressively, scoring a pin in 1:54 against Woodhaven's Frank Mandernack to run his personal mark to 24-

Junior Craig LeTourneau was beaten by Woodhaven's Matt Jones in the 130-pound final, 4-2. (LeTourneau's record is 24-5).

In the 160-pound final, Scott Nicholas of RU was pinned by Dearborn's Greg Andrews in 3:30.

GARDEN CITY'S lone first was recorded by senior Jim Horvath at Bouncing back from torn ligaments in his hand which kept him out for nearly a month, Horvath ran his record to 23-7 with an 8-4 victory over Woodhaven's Tom Burke.

Brother Dan Horvath nearly had a second title for GC, but he was forced out of his 103-pound final when he was forced to default because of an injury.

The younger Horvath (18-7), who suffered a mild seizure, was leading 6-1 at the time.

"It's really unfortunate," said Freeman. "He'll probably be out for the rest of the season."

GC's Jim Pelzman reached the finals at heavyweight, but ran into Dearborn's powerful junior, Andy Balestreieri, who scord a quick pin.

"That guy (Balestreieri) is going to be tough in the state tournament," Freeman predicted. "He's just too tough for everybody."

Pirronello goal sparks CC win

Redford Catholic Central used two goals by Paul Pirronello to record a 4-3 win over Ann Arbor Pioneer in Michigan Metro High School Hockey League action Saturday at Redford Ice Arena.

The Shamrocks, now 11-3-2 overall and 6.2 in the Metro, jumped out to a 2-1 lead after one period on tallies by Jason Baldas and Keith Bozyk (28 goals, 32 assists). Baldas was set up by Greg Koers and Scott Kelley, while Bozyk, who had three points on the night, was assisted by Jesse Hubenschmidt (23 goals, 29 assists) and Pirronello - the first of his three points on the night.

CC retained its slim, one goal margin at the end of two periods, 3-2, on a Pirtonello (22 goals, 36 assists) goal set up by Hubenschmidt and Bozyk.

Pioneer tied the game up in the third period, but a Pirronello power play goal at 11:24, this one set up by Andy Plemmons and Bozyk, gave the Shamrocks a one goal lead with just four minutes remain-

Netminder Matt Fennelly made the lead stand up, but not without facing some hectic moments, particularly in the last half minute of play. The game concluded with a pileup and a wild scramble in front of the Catholic Central net. Fennelly turned away 19 shots, while Pioneer goalie Evan Vapenik saved 27

Pioneer, 2-10, was paced by Erin Benson with two goals, and Jeff Tummonds' solo effort.

CHURCHILL 5, HOWELL 3: In a non-league played Saturday at Grand Oaks Arena, Livonia Churchill skated to the win against the host Highlanders

The victory, the Chargers' second straight, puts Churchill at 9-6-2 overall.

Zebras edge Ypsi with defensive gem Ocelot cagers drop another close one

staff writer

Wayne Memorial coach Chuck Henry raised his fist in the air as senior forward Larry Ryles hit the game-winning layup with just 1:33 remaining in Tuesday's game at Yp-

Wayne's 47-43 triumph over the Braves was Henry's 200th career victory, but more importantly, it was the Zebras' 14th win of the season in 15 games.

What the game lacked in offensive flavor, it made up with in tenacious

Ypsilanti played hard defensively," Henry said. "It really caused us to struggle offensively. We had a fough time getting off the shots we would have liked.'

Despite scoring 14 points for the Zebras, senior forward Plerre Hixon admits it was tough getting off good

"That was a tough 14 points, it didn't come easy," he said. "Ypsilanti played good defense and made it tough."

HIXON, ALTHOUGH in foul trouble much of the game, gave a good defensive effort, recording four steals and a blocked shot. Offensively, he dished off for three assists.

"When Pierre got into foul trouble, that hurt us," Henry said. "We need him on the floor. When you start bringing in the second string and a younger inexperienced group, you're not going to get the same results."

The Zebras dominated the first quarter, leading 12-5. But it was Ypsilanti's surge in the second quarter which would give the game a whole new look.

The Braves, with 4:03 remaining in the first half, earned a 14-14 tie, thanks two free throws by Ivan Dav- sively, scoring 13 points.

is. The game would stay close the rest of the way. Neither team could muster more than a four-point advantage..

The Braves had a chance to tie the game with eight seconds left, but Charles Coleman missed a free throw, giving Wayne a 44-43 edge. Senior guard Reggie Brandon then converted three charity tosses to seal the win for the Zebras.

"THIS WAS a good win," Henry said. "Not pretty, but good."

Ypsilanti coach Bob Rowley, whose team slipped to 10-4 overall, saw the game as an offensive struggle, dominated by strong defense.

"Obviously, we are not a great of-fensive team right now," he said. "Wayne's defense had something to do with that. They took us out of our offensive mold and we didn't get the ball inside. Our team has to get the ball inside to win."

Brandon contributed 12 points for the Zebras, but it was his solid ball control which allowed Wayne to get through a tough Ypsilanti full-court

The Zebras connected on 15 of 24 free throws, something Henry is not pleased to see.

'We didn't hit a lot of free throws early in the second half," said the Wayne coach. "Those things hurt you. We could have taken a solid lead."

Wayne missed five of its first six free throw oppurtunities in the second half.

at SC was, as Ocelot coach Dave Bogataj described it, "kind of a heartbreak."

No one might have expected the Ocelots to pile up win after win, especially after losing half their team to academics and other problems. But what happened Saturday against Delta College

The season is developing a pattern for Schoolcraft College's men's basketball team - and it isn't a pleasant one.

The heartbreak he's talking about has to do with losing close games. SC lost another one to Delta Saturday, 74-73, making it two losses to Delta by a total of three points.

SC has also lost three times to Henry Ford CC by a total of 10 points, and has fallen to Alpena twice by a total of eight points.

That's seven losses, by a combined 21 points. There was no reason to expect SC to be in the hunt against Delta. Not only were the Ocelots shorthanded because of the midseason losses, but Ed Hudson was out with a leg injury - leaving them with six players that started the season with them.

Randy Watters' hot hand, however, got SC started fast. Watters hit four of his first five shots, including one-of-two three-pointers, scoring nine points — then he got his third foul and had to sit out the final eight minutes of the first

KEN FUSTER, another starter, followed Watters to the bench two minutes later with his third foul. And a third starter, Dave Hamilton, followed Fuster with four minutes left in the opening half with his third foul. Which meant Bogataj had to go deep into a very inexperienced

Surprisingly, the Ocelots were able to hold onto a 39-38 lead at halftime, thanks in large part to Gary Strunk's six points and Tom Progar's four, both coming off the bench.

It was a tight game throughout the second half. With :37 left and SC up 73-72, Al Hudson stepped to the free-throw line and missed a oneand-one. But Delta couldn't convert its chance to go ahead, and SC rebounded and called timeout.

An inbounds play was set up to Dave Hamilton, but after a mixup Watters tried to force the ball to Fuster. Delta's Andre Walton intercepted and went in for a go-ahead layup with :20 re-

The Ocelots never got another real scoring chance. Their inbounds pass after Walton's basket was intercepted by Brett Erskine, and he ran out most of the clock before getting fouled the missed the free throw with:01).

Watters collected 24 points for SC on 11-of-15 shooting. Fuster had 13 and Tony Rumple nine. Corey Holliday's 24 points paced Delta; Scott Junker got 12 The loss left SC with a 10-17 mark, 3-9 in the Eastern Conference with four games left.

SC WOMEN: Only one factor need be studied in the SC women's loss at Delta Saturday: free throws. The home team hit 30-of-36; SC was 10of-14. Which is why the Lady Ocelots lost 78-73

The result left both teams and Highland Park CC tied for second place in the Eastern Conference at 8-3, a half-game behind Oakland CC (9-3) It was also SC's second loss of the season to Delta; the Lady Ocelots are 14-5 overall.

SC trailed 31-21 at the half, in part because Delta went to the line 12 times (making eight) SC was one-of-two.

The loss overshadowed a fine performance by SC's Lisa DePlanche, who scored 28 points and grabbed 12 rebounds. Barb Krug had 12 points and 15 boards, Ann Hardy got 12 points, and Tricia Lucas had eight points and 10 rebounds.

Cherina Loyd had 20 points for Delta, 12 coming on free throws.

Central State rips Madonna

Monday's pairing of Madonna College at Central State in Dayton, Ohio, was a study of two programs presently at opposite ends of the spectrum.

Central State is second in its NAIA District 22; it could very well be the top team and representing the district in the playoffs by season's end. Madonna, on the other hand, is struggling for both respectability and stability in its District 23.

So Monday's outcome could hardly have been unexpected: a 100-56 rout by Central State.

"They just did whatever they wanted," said Madonna coach Bob Belf of Central State. "I was disappointed with our effort against them. We allowed them to do whatever they wanted."

Not that the Fighting Crusaders could have stopped Central if they team led 53-27, and Madonna made it that close with a surge late in the

"THEY NEVER played against a team of this caliber," explained Belf. "A good, well-coached, disciplined team would give (Central) some problems, so a matchup with Aquinas would be interesting. But at one time or another, (Central's) athletic ability's going to show."

Aquinas currently leads District 23 and, if it wins the playoffs, would meet the District 22 winner in the first round of the NAIA tournament.

The Crusaders missed their first 10 shots of the game and trailed 18-1. according to Belf. Madonna was outrebounded 50-25 and suffered 12 blocked shots.

Only Jill Burt "came to play," the coach said. Burt got 18 points and On Monday, Larry Johnson felt—wanted to The outcome was never—five rebounds, filling in for the inreally in doubt; at halftime, the host jured Becky Poszywak. Lisa Kline got 13 points and seven boards, Michelle Dyksinski had nine points and Holly Murphy notched eight.

Central State had six players reach double-figures in scoring: Maty M'Bengue (19), Trona Logan (17), Evelyn Williams (14), Helen Bradley (13), Tricia Harris (12) and Mariama Kamara (10, and 10 rebounds). M'Bengue and Kamara are both from Senegal.

Madonna slipped to 4-10 with the loss. Central State is 16-2.

Chargers repellate Raider run

Randy Calcaterra got a piece of Chris White's shot with eight seconds remaining in the game and Alex Bedoway came up with the loose ball, preserving a 53-51 upset basketball win Tuesday for Livonia Churchill against visiting North Farmington.

With the Chargers leading by 10 late in the fourth quarter, Matt Hoffman sparked a North Farmington comeback, scoring seven of his 11 points in the final 1:30 of the game to pull the Raiders within a basket. White, who also finished with 11 points, had the final shot for North, before Calcaterra's block.

"It was a good win, I'm very happy," said Churchill coach Fred Price. "It was our best effort of the year. We're improving."

North rolled out to a 15-10 lead after the first quarter and led 28-26 at the half.

Churchill battled back with a 23-11 advantage in the third to take a 49-39 lead. Kevin Hannigan led the charge, scoring seven of his 10 points in the third.

"We played good defense in the third and our zone caused a lot of problems," Price said. "We prevented Hoffman from penetrating.

North battled back in the fourth, outscoring Churchill 12-4, but time ran out on the comeback.

Junior forward Mike Thomas led the Chargers with 16 points. Senior center Mike Juodawlkis added 11 points and grabbed 11 rebounds, while Calcaterra finished with nine points and 11 boards.

Bill Chwalik led the Raiders with 14 points.

The loss drops the Rockets to 7-6 overall while Western mproves to 2-11.

Jeff Kubik and Chris Johnson scored 15 each for the Warriors, who led 17-15 after the first quarter. Chris Sobieck scored all 13 of his points in the second quarter as the Warriors outscored Glenn 23-18 and increased their lead to 40-33 by half-time.

Glenn closed the gap to 53-48 by the end of the third before each team scored 16 in the fourth quarter.

Todd Biron added 12 points for Western.

Jamal Ahmed led the Rockets with 14 points, Eric Spencer contributed 13, while Mike Trussler and Bobby Lawrence each finished with 10.

FRANKLIN 54, FARMINGTON 38: A team effort on defense resulted in an easy victory Tuesday for Livonia Franklin as the Patriots routed the visiting Falcons.

Franklin breezed to 19-9 lead after the first quarter and led 30-20 at the half.

"We played good defense," explained Franklin coach Rod Hanna. "We helped out and we were communicating. We prevented the baseline drives and extended the defense because of their outside shooters."

Junior center Steve McCool led Franklin with 18 points and six rebounds, David Barina collected 10 points including a dunk. Sophomore Keith Roberts scored eight points and Craig Overaitis dished off five assists.

Brian Browne led Farmington with nine points.

The key to the victory, according to Garden City coach Bob Dropp, was his team's box-and-one defense — with the one checking Novi high-scoring forward Mark Fisher.

"We ran a box-and-one on Fisher and kept him out of the game," sald Dropp. Indeed, the 6-foot-5 Fisher, who averages 20 points a game, scored only 14 and fouled out.

TEMPLE 45, ROEPER 43: Sophomore Jeff Hess supplied the late heroics Tuesday, picking off a Bloomfield Hills Roeper pass with 30 seconds left and dunking it for the go-ahead points to lead Redford Temple Christian to a road victory.

The win pushed the Patriots' record to 7-6 overall. Rocper is 10-3.

It was a sweet victory for Temple Christian, which lost at home to the Roughriders last week, 58-55. This time the Patriots used backcourt pressure to take control of the game, and it worked — they led throughout, although never by much.

Hess' steal and conversion put Temple up 43-41. The Patriots added two free throws to offset a Roeper basket in the final seconds.

Marlon Reed tallied 12 points and John Millard nine for Temple. Hess finished with eight points (on four-for-four We'd like to meet the man who made Ike what he is today.

In fact, we have a warrant out for his arrest. Because no one should be able to do things like this to an animal and get away with it.

On December 15, in response to an emergency call, Michigan Humane Society (MHS) cruelty investigators arrived at a house that had been abandoned by its former tenant for over a month. There, among the trash and other garbage the owner had no further use for, they found Ike. A five-month-old puppy lying huddled behind a locked bathroom door. Lying because he was too weak to stand. So malnourished he could barely move his chest to breathe.

He had been locked inside that bathroom for over a month. Without food. Without heat. And with only the water from a rusty toilet to keep him alive. MHS investigators called it the closest to death they'd ever seen an animal. Yet Ike was fortunate. A kitten found in another part of the house was already dead.

This kind of willful neglect and cruelty is more than an outrage. It's a crime.

And that's why your help is so important to us. Your contribution to the Michigan Humane Society helps us fight for stronger legislation and tougher prosecution of animal abusers. To fight back for those who can't. And to make sure that this kind of crime doesn't go unpunished.

Your contribution also ensures that when we finally meet the man who locked up Ike, we can do the same for him.

Physical adaptions help animals cope with climate

 December was indeed a cold month. We all bundled up in our extra warm jackets and sweaters. Each layer of clothing we put on helps to trap air warmed by our

On my way home from work during one of those cold days, I spotted a ruffed grouse on an aspen tree branch hanging over the road. It was only a few feet above the car, yet it did not fly away when I stopped for a closer look. While perched on the branch I could see the feathers were very puffed out, enlarging its size by

In addition to fluffing their feathers so that a thicker layer of. warmed air insulates the body, birds grow more feathers in winter. More feathers enable birds to trap their warmed air more efficiently.

White-tailed deer grow long, hollow hairs in winter. Summer coats of white-tailed deer are reddish in color and have hairs that are only about an inch in length. By winter, their coat is a brown-gray in color with hairs that are about 21/2 inches long.

Longer hairs allow a thicker layer of warm air to be trapped. Not only can deer trap air between their hairs, but since their hairs are hollow, they can trap air within their hairs. This is a double insulation adaption.

Physical adaptations like long hair and more feathers are just some Riki Schaffer, West Bloomfield businesswoman, describes her interest in dolls as an obsession. She is helping with the Great Doll Auction, a benefit for the Children's Museum Friends.

Great Doll Auction benefits from her special interest

By Frank Angelo

For most people, the word toy comes to mind when they think or speak of dolls. But for Riki Schaffer that word conjures thoughts of a Picasso, a Monet and other beautiful works of art.

Hundreds of other adults who have made collecting dolls one of America's most important pastimes would agree with Schaffer, the Detroit area's agent for some of the finest doll artists in

At this moment this intense, dedicated woman is doing what she can to help with the Great Doll Auction, a benefit for the CHhildren's Museum Friends that is scheduled for Valentine's Day at the Roostertail from 6-9 p.m. She is contributing several dolls to be auctioned to raise funds for the Friends' program of supporting the Detroit Public School System's Children's Museum.

Schaffer grew up in Detroit (she was graduated from Henry Ford High School) and she recalls that as a child she was likely to pull the hair from her dolls' heads. No longer. Today she cherishes

The Great Doll Auction, 6-9 p.m. Valentines Day at the Roostertail will include entertainment, food and a live and silent auction which, besides more than 70 dolls, will have available pairs of Northwest Airlines tickets for non-stop trips to Hawaii, Alaska and Europe, a Lionel train, a vacation package for the Grand Traverse Resort and scores of other interesting. "I'm an emotional person, even in the way I run my business," said Schaffer who began selling dolls to help pay the rent for her business of selling chocolates and is now selling chocolates to help her expand the business of selling dolls.

"I can always remember the day I opened my first chocolate shop, Dec. 8, 1978, in the Somerset Mall because it was just a week after my son was born," she explained. "I wanted to take advantage of the Christmas business."

Schaffer had tried a career as a social worker after graduating from Oakland University in

I couldn't handle that," she said. "I wound up crying when I got home after a day of trying to' help people with their problems." She tried an ad agency, thought briefly of becoming a lawyer, then got the idea of a chocolate boutique during a trip to Belgium.

Collaborators found road to success

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

Literary collaborators Hugh Culik and Ray Buck have created a third person, Charles H. Buck, who they readily agree "writes better than either of us."

Their first paperback, a medical thriller called "The Master Cure," Berkley Publishing Group, came out last fall. They are about to sign a contract with Berkley for their second medical thriller, and their third is in the plotting stage.

Culik and Buck, both East Siders, will share the secrets of their successful collaboration at 8 p.m. Monday in Cranbrook House Library, 350 Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills. The program, "The Two-Headed Author," is sponsored by Cranbrook Writers' Guild.

THEIR WIVES were friends and co-workers before the two ever met. When the men were at a party and discovered they were both writing a book, each was a bit wary at first. After all, their backgrounds were vastly different.

Culik is a professor of English at the University of Detroit. He has published scholarly material on literature, particularly focused on Samuel Beckett. He is also an avid deer hunter, and has run a lumbering operation and taught high school.

Buck, on the other hand, is a medical doctor and psychiatrist. He is medical director of the Psycniatric Center of Michigan Hospital in New Baltimore.

"WE FIGURED it might be interesting (to collaborate)," Buck said. "Hugh writes images that are beautiful. I write dialogue and plot. I write for a concise book."

"I write for a schizophrenic audience . . . Each of us could write something the other couldn't and what emerged is that third voice that writes better than either of us," Culik said.

It doesn't take long to grasp that these two dynamic men, who both have demanding careers aside from writing books, are extremely well organized and committed to writing together.

How they plot, write, rewrite

When they found an agent, he wanted no part of a book written by collaboration, so they didn't tell him until after "The Master Cure" was accepted for publication.

"We told him later and he refused to believe it, he said he would be able to tell if two people wrote it," Buck said.

The agent didn't admit Buck had any great part in the book until he read the detailed, terror-filled operating room scene in the next book, Buck said.

"I DRAW on my psychiatric experience in dealing with drug addicts," Buck said. "I put all characters through a thorough Freudian analysis, psychologically and psychodynamically to make sure they are accurate."

"We have all the data on them you're ever want to know, even to what's written on their tombstone." Culik said. "We don't use all of it, but we know everything about these people."

In addition to their goal of putting together a "page turner," Buck and Culik are intent upon dealing with current issues such as AIDS, gays and racial prejudice, as well as philosophical and ethical ones without being preachy.

Calman Shemi's art reveals the wonder of color

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

Israeli artist Calman Shemi has refined his soft paintings to such an extent that it's difficult to tell 10 to 15 feet away whether they are done with fibers, paint on paper or paint on canvas.

He has all three kinds, plus sculpture and several lithographs, in his show at Danielle Peleg Gallery of West Bloomfield through February. The fiber paintings, which he designs and has fabricated through processes he perfected himself, have layers, veils of color, incredibly soft edges of color and a look of resilience and permanence that is quite amazing. They are made colorstrand by color strand in a complicated process that takes place at Kibbutz Carmia in Israel.

SHEMI IS masterful with color. He has an easygoing manner and an infectious love of life, and his paintings, in whatever medium, convey those qualities. They are all joyous statements of the beauty of color and life. His painted aluminum pedestal-size sculptures are closely related to his paintings and convey the same feelings.

"Basic to my work is the natural, organic world," he said. "My work relates to nature rather than technology,"

Look at his works in the gallery for a while, and images will begin to work their way out of many that at first appeared to be colorful abstracts — a landscape, a sallboat on a lake, a grove of trees, distant hills. While he and his wife and their two children now live in Jerusalem, he spent 20 years on a kibbutz and liked SHEMI WAS born in Argentina In 1939. He made up his mind very early in life to be an artist.

But the young boy was determined and when he emigrated to Israel, he studied with German/Israeli sculptor Rudi Lehman.

As he was developing his style as an artist, he also developed as a philosopher, not in the formal sense, but as a way of life. He doesn't believe, for instance, that a bad person can .. be a wonderful artist.

Books-on-tape can ease travel woes

ESTERDAY, when you were trapped (again) in bumper-to-bumper, rush-hour traffic, wouldn't it have been nice to have spent the hour with a good book? Or last week, when you were out running, wouldn't it have been a little less tedious if you could have lost yourself in one of your favorite novels as you went along?

And think about how it would have shortened that long trip you recently took, had someone like John Lithgow, Lynn Redgrave or James Earl Jones read you an exciting story along

All these things are possible, you know, with an audio book

As you're probably aware, an audio book is a recorded version of an original written work, usually contained in a package of two, 90-minute cassettes. Available at book stores (and soon, at video centers), prices average about $15 each. They're also available on loan at your local library.

Keep in mind that these books on tape are not the same as Talking Books for the blind. The audio packages are usually abridged versions of the book itself. A great many books lose much of their essential effectiveness, of course, when this happens, and nobody is suggesting that audio books will ever replace the pleasures of the complete, "real thing." But their fast-growing popularity does indicate that audio books have a certain appeal in our fast-moving, I-wish-I-had-more-time-to-

HEREIN, SOME hot-selling current titles:

• "Clear and Present Danger" by Tom Clancy. Read by Da-'vid Ogden Stiers. (Simon and Schuster, $15.95) Clancy's adventure tale is still on the New York Times best-seller list after 21 weeks. But, while it's now in fourth place, this audio book remains the No. 1 audio best seller.

It's hard to imagine a more successful reading of "Clear and Present Danger" than this one by Stiers. You'll be deliciously enthralled by his dramatic, incisive interpretation of Clancy's gripping story, which focuses this time around on the CIA, the FBI, and villainous honchos in Colombia's powerful drug cartels. Much of the fun here is Stiers' reading of Clancy's dialogue.

- "The Vampire Lestat" by Anne Rice. Read by Michael York. (Random House, $14.95) If you're among the faint-ofheart, listen to York's absolutely masterful reading of Rice's sensuous and saddening horror tale only during the daylight hours.
- "Straight" by Dick Francis. Read by Simon MacCorkindale. (Caedmon/Harper, $15.95) Francis fans will delight in this fast-moving story about injured steeplechase jackey Derek Franklin and the troubles he encounters when he inherits his brother's gem business. Actor MacCorkindale seems to be enjoying himself as he takes on the different voices of Francis' extensive dramatic personae, and his enthusiasm is contagious.

• "Cat Chaser" by Elmore Leonard. Read by Ken Howard. (Listen For Pleasure, $14.95) Leonard's remarkable gift for dialogue makes any of his works especially well-suited for audio entertainment, and "Cat. Chaser" is no exception.

This is the tale of a freelance adventure seeker and a secondrate detective, who get involved with an exceedingly sleazy band of low-lifes in and around Florida and Latin America. Ken Howard's reading will pull you into Leonrd's suspense thriller from the very start.

- "The Good Times" by Russell Baker. Read by Arte Johnson. (Dove, $14.95) Comic Arte Johnson may seem an odd choice to narrate Baker's look back at a career in journalism that began in Baltimore when he was a police reporter, and culminated in his position as a columnist with the New York
- "As Far as You Can Go Without a Passport" by Tom Bodett. Read by Tom Bodett. (Bantam, $14.95) From the 1985 book by Tom ("Motel 6") Bodett, this collection of personal observations will charm the reader/listener who is charmed by that other folksy observer, Garrison Keillor. Bodett, who grew up on a Michigan farm, has a background in radio which is evident here as he relates his thoughts on such matters as doing the laundry and building a home. Commentary is complemented by the piano artistry of Johnny B.

Add silver to deep red for sophisticated look

our closest friends, including our boyfriends. We're all in our early 20s

Q. My roommate and I are plan- - and the men, in particular, never ning a valentine party for some of openly admit to romantic sentiments. What are your suggestions' for a party that isn't too commer-clal, and in keeping with the valentine's theme?

A. What has come down to us as a St. Valentine's Day celebration has a long history to draw upon ever since the Roman Emperor Claudius II beheaded one of the several martyrs named Valentine in A.D. 269.

The observance of this early momentous event gradually shifted to a romantic theme because Valentine was supposed to have fallen in love with his jailer's daughter before his beheading - and had sent her a note signed, "from your Valentine."

By the 1890s, when the holiday had become thoroughly commercialized, a typical valentine card pictured women dressed in scarlet with blue and green shawls. The men would be dressed in lavender trousers, yellow vests, blue overcoats, and green or crimson cravats.

You can have a lot of fun picking up on this - 19th century valentine card colors by incorporating them into your decorations. If your friends cared to go along with the idea, have them dress up in contemporary versions of 19th century attire. The results will be a lot more festive than adhering exclusively to the conventional red and white colors sold for valentine parties.

You could also incorporate another ancient tradition of pulling names from a box for partners to whom one pledges loyalty for the year. Translate this into drawing names for dance partners or for couples who will be expected to entertain the rest of the guests. Incidentally, the valentine box we see today filled with candy was originally intended to hold names of young men and women intent on romance.

An alternate idea is to work with the conventional bright red and white Valentine party decor, but add deeper reds and silver to the color scheme to make it more sophisticated and interesting.

Q. I want to give my new boyfriend a gift for St. Valentine's Day. but I'm baving difficulty figuring out what he might like. His apartment looks like a typical bachelor's pad with no special color or design theme; and his clothing is also not outstanding in any special way. He's well-liked and gets along with most people, not making unusual demands upon them. Where do I start?

A You can look for clues to your new boyfriend's personality by analyzing how he relates to possessions. But as recent sociology research reminds us, possessions are not always things, they can also be people and memories -- especially childhood memories.

It appears from what you've described, that your friend gravitates, not to the significance of physical things, but to people as possessions. In order to give him a meaningful gift he will remember, you have to translate his predisposition into things, or events that relate to his. relationship with people.

The King Fahd International Airport, in Dammam, Saudi Archia declared by Minory Vamasaki Associates of Troy is seen as a detowar

Yamasaki designs airport

By Dale Northup special writer

The Saudi Arabian peninsula and its neighboring states in past centuries went relatively unnoticed because of geographic isolation - surrounded by water on three sides and rugged terrain on the

But now it is gaining considerable economic and political attention throughout the world.

With a sense of manifest destiny, the Saudis are embarking on a massive modernization campaign.

DURING THE late 1970s, the Riyadh Development Authority launched a billion dollar project now called the Riyadh Diplomatic Quarter. The city of Riyadh itself has undergone such a dramatic transformation and modernization that it is often referred to as the "largest building site in the world."

New highways cross the Arabian peninsula. The Saudis are aware that their gas and oil resources are depletable. They are exchanging them for others: technology, industry and education for all their Projecting into the 21st century, the Saudis are completing the King Fahd International Airport in Dammam. The terminal buildings were designed by the Troy-based architectural firm of Minoru Yamasaki Associates.

WITH A total 4 million square feet, the complex will consist of passenger terminals for national and international carriers. A central area houses a mosque and parking structure in front of the terminal. A control tower and other support buildings are

The terminal, now nearing completion, is characterized by a monumental portico on both sides containing the arrival and departure levels with monumental arches in the Islamic tradition. Vast expanses of glass, supported by stanchions and stainless steel clips, lend an airborne weightlessness as well as a dramatic entry much in keeping with Yamasaki's sense of delicacy.

The control tower is a free-standing, 87-meter high structure adjacent to the terminal, providing a vertical accent with ribs that flare out at the top.

THE CENTRAL feature, functioning much like a jewel, is the mosque that symbolizes the influence of Islam on the lives of the people of Saudi Arabia.

It is a cylindrical building, which is a derivative of centrally organized Byzantine structures. Capped by a dome, it is patterned after the Blue Mosque in Jerusalem, spanning more than 1,000 years as a tantamount role in Islamic architecture.

Beneath the dome is a shallow drum containing perforated bronze with abstract elements based on Arabic design or the "geometry of the spirit." Overlaid with colored glass, the inside is permeated with dramatically colored light during the day and is noticeable on the outside when lit from within at

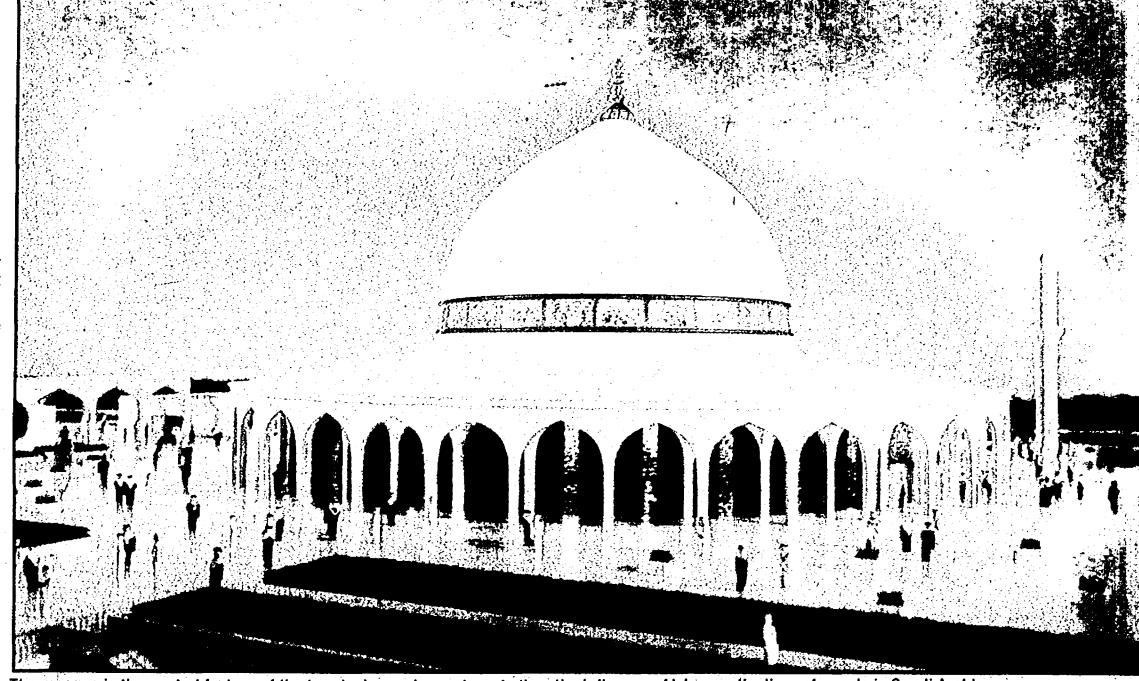

Adjacent to the mosque is a minaret, a tall tower from which the muezzin traditionally calls the worshipers to prayer five times a day.

REMOTE FROM the terminal complex is another terminal — the Royal Pavilion — for the use of the king, his entourage and foreign dignitaries. It is the second one designed by MYA, the other at the King Abdulaziz International Airport.

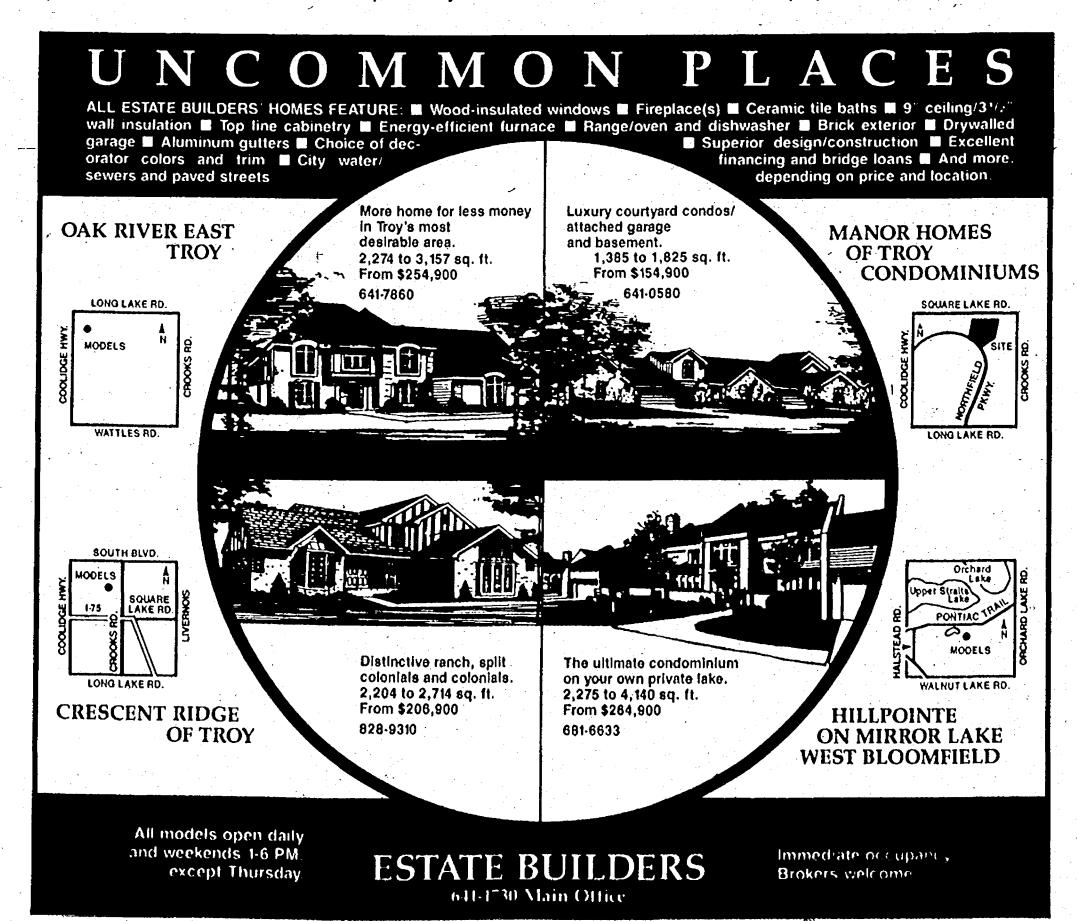

The terminal consists of three architectural elements that contain five separate zones of activity. The dominant, central pavilion houses the formal reception hall. Like the mosque, it is centrally planned, from which radiate splayed arches. Underneath the arches are vast sheets of glass similarly supported as those in the terminal.

Its architectural orientation serves to overscore the importance of the king in elegant surroundings. On either side are smaller structures housing separate facilities for men and women as guests or members of the royal family, and separate facilities for the king and press corps.

Dale Northup is a college professor and architectural historian.

The mosque is the central feature of the terminal complex and symbolizes the influence of Islam on the lives of people in Saudi Arabia.

Builders observe national trends

By Lisa Brody special writer

Area builders, developers and suppliers gave this assessment of what they see as trends for the '90s after touring the National Association of Home Builders' annual show:

• Jeffrey Cohen, Cohen-Shawn Building Corp., Birmingham: "Everybody is looking for large, spacious kitchens, large master baths and open floor plans:

"I continue to see a service-oriented market. I feel people expect à lot because they're more knowledgeable. They're not willing to accept bad workmanship or products, but they are willing to pay more for them (good workmanship and better products)."

• Sue Miller, Bing Constriution, Bloomfield Hills: "I'm seeing more traditional or eclectic feelings in homes. The dark jewel tones of hunter green, black and sapphire will be

• Gary Rose, Weathervane Windows, Brighton: "It's a return to romance. Lots of palladian windows and more custom-oriented windows.

"People also want maintenancefree exterior aluminum windows, casements and updated double-hung windows. Look also for Low E glass with insulation and reflective coating, which reflects out heat and ultraviolet rays in summer and reflects them back in the room in win-

National builder show previews '90s

By Lisa Brody special writer

Where would you look for the most-innovative building products? If you're one of the nation's 60,000 home builders, you'd look to the National Association of Home Builder's Show held in Atlanta last month.

Exhibitors from around the world filled more than 400,000 square feet with products created to dazzle the eye and ease everyday life.

Traditionally elegant design and decor are rapidly replacing the minimalism and country Victorian looks of the '80s. Products for every area of the house, from entry doors to cabinets, faucets to fixtures, seem to reflect a respect for consumer needs and tastes.

Delta Faucets is a case in point. New kitchen and bath faucets have a European look, with sleek, high spouts and a variety of bright colors. "We're offering an enhancement of style with Delta's traditional mechanisms," said R.C. Walker; director of product planning.

Delta is featuring pressure-balanced valves in its shower faucets, which have two controls, one for volume of water, the other for temperature. With a diverter in the spout, these faucets also are water savers. Pressure-balanced valves, also offered by Moen and Grohe America, allow a bather to select the water temperature accurately to within one degree Fahrenheit, to turn off the shower and to turn it back on at the exact temperature and volume.

In addition to the thermostatic control, the valves prevent temperature shocks that often result from sudden changes in hot or cold water pressure. Grohe's model can supply enough water to simultaneously turn a shower head, a personal hand shower and body sprays while maintaining a specific water water temperature.

"PRESSURE-BALANCED valves will be required in hew homes and certainly multifamily construction by the end of the century," said Roger Garrison, Moen field sales

Kitchen were also home to innovations at the show. Induction cooktops are the newest development in stovetop cooking and are featured by GE, Whirlpool and Jenn-Aire. It is a glass ceramic heating surface that works on magnetic energy. There is no heat from the surface because it uses metal, cast iron or stainless steel cookware as a heating Cooking is quick and so is cleanup. Pot boil over? Glass cleaner and a cloth will take care of it.

"When it cools, you can use it as an extra counter space," points out Debbie Earle of Whirlpool.

Other new appliance features include refrigerator takeout counters, which are small doors that provide easy access to cold beverages and snacks without opening the refrigerator's main door. These are offered by GE and Hotpointer GE has also developed small refrigerator bins that can go directly from the refrigerator to the microwave and then to the dishwasher Grohe America, a maker of premium faucets, has introduced the Ladylux, which makes cleanup if not a breeze, then less of a hassle. The Ladylux's spout is interchangeable with several tools.

The water flow can be changed to a push-locked spray; the spout can be removed and a food scraper, spray brush for delicate china and crystal, or a filter can be added.

"It actually becomes an appliance, just like a dishwasher or stove," said Al DeGenova at Grohe.

KOHLER, THE maker of bathroom products, displayed five sinks featuring artists' original designs. They range from a cobalt blue on white Delft floral pattern to a bright Haitian-inspired design to a 19th century European botanical to a stark 20th century black/gray/white design. Matching ceramic tiles and accessories are available.

The company also is promoting a new Overture whirlpool that is intended as an affordable step up from a bathtub in new construction. Constructed of a composite material that is lightweight and easy to install, it comes in several colors and can accommodate two persons.

"We're now saying, 'Here, look, this has Kohler styling at a moderate price," said Nancy Deptolla, Kohler manager of public relations.

Kohler is also building a line of barrier-free showers and baths that come with a seat, grip and rail bars, and handheld shower sprays. The units are set lower into the floor

Latchkey children were in mind when Schlage Lock Co. developed a keyless lock system.

"A lot of the people we are selling it to are parents who both work, and the kids keep losing their keys," said Jerry Tuft of Schlage.

The lock is both a deadbolt and a latch connected with infrared sensors. The code is set inside and the door is unlocked from the outside by turning the doorknob to the code as you would a combination lock.

quartered in Danbury, Conn. Examine cabinet drawers carefully. Interiors should be sanded smooth, and each drawer should have center guides that make opening and closing easy. Open a drawer eight to 10 inches, then close it with one finger at any corner. It should work easily and line up neatly with the cabinet front. Each drawer should have a dust panel to prevent dust and foreign objects from entering from above or below, says Ethan Allen. For the dining room, a tarnish-inhibiting felt-covered silverware tray in a bullet is a convenience if you plan to store sterling flatware.

Dining chair legs should be slightly rounded at the bottom and sanded smooth to prevent snags to carpet or scratches to wood floors, says the Workbench furniture chain, headquartered in New York.

Since there is a variety of shapes and sizes for chair backs and seats, it's ideal for all family members to try dining chairs before buying. As a rule, cushioned or upholstered chairs are most comfortable. A cane or woven seat is cooler. Shaped wooden seats, called saddle seats, help support the lower back. Flat wooden slats are the least comfortable.

If the dining table and chairs are not a set, be sure the chair arms will fit easily under the table apron. Before buying, arrange the chairs around the table if possible. If not, carefully measure table and chairs to be sure they fit. There should be at least 10 inches from the chair seat to the table apron.

Accessories

Dreamy additions for that special day of yours

Monday, February 8, 1990

HE DRESS is, of course, the most important garment you wear at your wedding.

But it's just the beginning. Lovely accessories enhance and polish your overall look — and lend your personal touch.

The headpiece and dress should look as though they were created by the same designer, advises Bride's magazine. Both should have similar accents of sequins, beads or crystals, or a repeat of the same fabric or face.

And, of course, they should be the same color.

If your gown is rich in detail, you'll want an elaborate headpiece, with an understated dress, choose a simpler one.

Remember, your headpiece is an enhancement to your hairstyle. If you're wearing your hair smooth and pulled back, you'll look best with a small but beautifully ornamented headpiece.

For a sophisticated look, accent a chignon with a profile comb, shun bows and frills.

Feminine hairstyles for brides include hair twisted into a roll at the neck; you can adorn it with a pour made of-fulle. Tame thick, voluminous curls with a net snood that sparkles with rhinestones and metallic threads.

IF YOUR HAIR IS short, you may look best with a Juliet cap or floral, wreath; lace mantillas and tiaras complement any hair length.

Be sure to take your headpiece with you when you visit your hairdresser, several weeks prior to the wedding, to plan how you will wear it on that special day.

FEW ACCENTS ADD more emphasis than the train. Imagine a bird's-eye view of your wedding; do you see yourself a picture-perfect traditional bride, a flowing train extending gracefully behind you?

All eyes are on you, the bride, and on your train as you say your vows. Regal trins have exquisite detailing, with scalinged lace edging and intricate cutouts. What could be more feminine than chiffon ruffles, soft satin bows, lattice-work lace and a scattering of pearls?

You'll want gloves that blend with and match your dress, not call attention to themselves. For a summer wedding, choose cotton or crocheted gloves, cooler weather calls for kid leather, taffeta or stretch satin.

A popular option is delicate, all-lace gloves — they're romantic, even Victorian. For a contemporary look, try lustrous, shimmery hylon with lycra."

Your weeding day handbag should be small enough to be a burden, but large enough to hold a few essentials (handkerchief, lipstick, compact.)

Favorite shapes include round and

The trousseau

HE BRIDE of the '90s is a multidimensional woman; no wideeyed teen-ager, she is professional; practical, traditional but also romantic, sensuous and feminine.

This multipurpose message is evident in her trousseau. Here are ideas to keep in mind when you shop for a delicate gift for the bride — or if you're a bride in search of special and memorable treasures.

New lingerie lines express elegance in soft, silky knits of lustrous fabrics. Smooth and sleek, these new easy-care materials feel marvelous against the skin and drape gracefully, flattering the figure.

Rich embellishment enhances fabrics, particularly stretch lace that shapes and molds the body, as well as delicate embroideries, fagoting, crystal pleating, appliques, beading, ruffles and more.

There are lots of crossover looks; daywear doubles as sleepwear and vice versa. Many designs from intimate apparel departments can serve as lounge and leisure wear — even outerwear

These examples are lovely, yet practical:

- For evening, a seductive black nylon teddy with a bodice molded in see-through stretch lace netting.
- A lace-front camisole and bikini set that does double duty as day or sleepwear.
- An ultrafeminine, graceful ballerina gown with a stretch lace bodice atop a full, swirly skirt of soft, satiny nylon.
- Panties that range from fullcut briefs to bikinis, thongs and hipsters. Styled in rich, luxurious fabrics embellished with stretch lace, these coordinate with a variety of tops camisoles, bralettes, crop tops and boleros.

Other trousseau treasures to consider include keepsake boxes topped with silk or porcelain flowers; sweetly scented heart-shaped sachets; beaded satin slippers; lace-edged satin jewelry wraps; floral scented drawer liners; padded satin hangers; a silver comb and mirrór set; lacy pillows for bed or boudoir; and an assortment of perfumes for every mood.

Trousseau items pictured here include: silver brush-combo set, $30; 5-piece silver dinnerware set, $45; white bed tray, $110; white clutch purse (in drawer). $22: Dyeables white silk bridal shoes. $57: Madyes white lacey slippers, $18; Natori white cotton 2-piece pegnoir set (on bed), $200; Miss Dior light pink with embroidery pegnoir gown in ivory satin, $1,100; Crowning Touch headpiece in ivory, $215; satincovered hanger set, fan, as well as drawstring bags. Fabrics - are many: silk, satin, faille, brocade, velvet and metal mesh - and you'll see them trimmed with satin roseftes, tassels, lace, beads, braid, pearls, bows, pleats, lace, sequins, more.

Little things make a difference: shimmery, embroidered hosiery; a satinrosette-trimmed parasol; a fur-trimmed muff; a ribbon bookmark for your prayer book or Bible; heirloom jewelry.

Naturally, you don't need - or want all those items. But select a few; those you do use on your wedding day will become treasures you cherish for a lifetime.

Some unusual ideas include saluting your ethnic heritage with a ring bearer's pillow of Scottish tartan, Chinese red silk, or some other appropriate fabric; holiday motifs for your garters; wearing a shawl embroidered in the hues of your attendants' dresses.

START LOOKING FOR shoes as soon as you've selected a gown. You'll want time to cutomize the color and compare brands and styles.

Oddly enough, many brides overlook the importance of comfort when selecting shoes. Remember, unlike some accessories, shoes are functional as well as decorative. Not only should they fit well when you purchase them, you'll want to wear them once or twice for several hours to break them in before the wedding day - otherwise you may end up thinking more about your feet than your future happiness.

New styles for brides incorporate luxtiry fabrics with rich ornamentation. You'll see shoes reminiscent of the Victorian era, with romantic lace or beading; another popular look is baroque, with curved heels.

Textured and ornate fabrics, such as moire, lend interest, as do rose patterns, gold threads or embroidery. Bows, ruffles, pouls, rosettes and faux jewels add beauty and sparkle. Popular colors include white, ivory and pink blush — but any hue can be customordered.

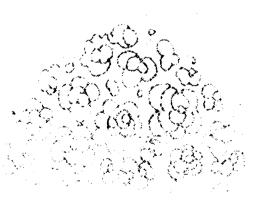

Your hosiery should be simple if your dress is ornate; you might want to choose pantyhose for comfort, or thighhigh stockings with stretch lace tops. Or wear old-fashioned hosiery with lacy. feminine garter belts. Don't forget to buy a spare pair of hose in case you get

Helping hand

Bridal service makes going to the chapel less worrisome

By Cathleen Collins Lee special writer

hen Pat Kent's daughter Nannette got married two years ago, Pat thought they had taken care of every detail.

"But there was so much turmoil right before the wedding." she remembers. "We had a reputable florist, but he had gone out of town and given the job to his assistant. The flower girls' baskets had so much moss in them they could barely carry them. There were roses that looked like trees and had to be cut down. The altar flowers never made it to the altar. My daughter and I were saying curl things to each other. I thought, 'This is supposed to be the happiest day of her life, and I'm making her miserable.'

That distressing experience made Pat realize how helpful it would be to have an extra person on hand the day of a wedding to handle all the last-minute details and snags. So she and her friend Marge Winchell formed a wedding planning service called Going to the Chapel which not only makes the wedding arrangements but comes to the church and the reception to make sure they're carried out.

"IT'S A VERY difficult time for people because it's such an important day and you're putting yourself in so many other people's hands," Kent points out. "You're depending on the florist, the photographer, the caterer, the bartenders. You need someone there who isn't emotionally involved and doesn't have a role to play. I would have loved to have someone like me at my daughter's wedding," she sighs.

Long before the wedding, Kent and Winchell sit down with those who are planning it and offer all kinds of information about photographers, dressmakers, florists, halls and other services. Kent makes recommendations but doesn't try to impose her own ideas.

"We're not here to make their choices for them" she insists. "Every girl dreams of the type of wedding she wants. We're just here to help her get to that point."

Once the major choices have been made, Going to the Chapel takes over all the phone calls and legwork, communicating with the bride by phone as things develop or other choices need to be made.

"If the bride has a question, she just has to make one phone call," Kent notes. "And we take a much more personal interest than the caterer or photographer is going to."

The day of the wedding. Kent and Winchell arrive at the church at least an hour early. They check on the flowers and church decorations, confer with the person who runs the chapel, and stand by while the bride and bridesmaids are dressing. They also bring along a basket of emergency supplies — thread and needles, makeup, nylons, hair clips, tissues, aspirin, stain remover and even smelling salts.

If the facilities aren't air-conditioned, they bring along small fans for the dressing rooms. They stay through the service, coordinate things at the half, and stay until the reception is in full swing.

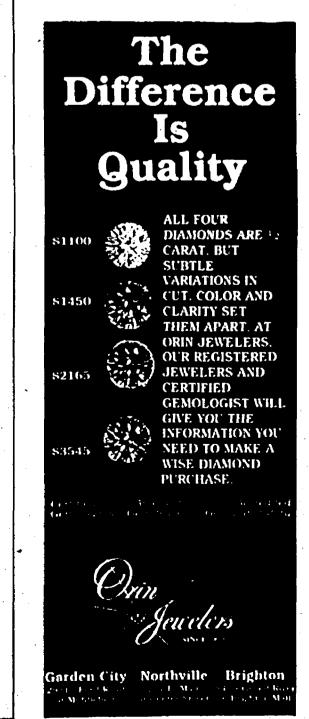

IN KENT'S EXPERIENCE, one of the most difficult parts of planning a wedding is dealing with the photographer. "Many of them really like to run the show," she notes. "Either they keep the couple forever and delay the reception, or they expect the couple to hurry through things like cutting the cake so they can go home." Kent tries to work with photographers beforehand so they don't dominate the wedding.

Another area where she can be helpful, Kent says, is in defusing family tensions. "Weddings can cause all sorts of problems," she notes. "Families can disagree about the size of the wedding and the cost and whom to invite. The brides' and grooms' families may not get along. Because we're not emotionally involved, we can help them sort those things out."

Going to the Chapel charges a flat fee of $400 for its services, from planning the major aspects of the wedding to assisting the day of the ceremony. They charge additional fees for addressing invitations, or helping with the rehearsal dinner or showers. For Kent, it is an enjoyable and worthwhile occupation.

"When I was growing up in Ohio, my family had a business making custom bridal dresses, so dealing with brides has been part of my life," she says. "There's nothing more special than seeing a bride come down the aisle — and knowing you've been part of it is really something."

You can't go wrong using bridal registry

AP To bridal couple really needs to start out with a lifetime supply of sait and pepper shakers but no coffeemaker. So if you're giving shower or wedding gifts, make use of bridal registries to avoid duplicates or wrong patterns. Or personalize your gifts.

Bridal registries at local stores are recommended by Jacqueline Greenwood, Black & Decker's bridal prograin manager. "Listed here are gifts the bride has indicated she wants and needs. One can't go wrong giving a gift from this list," she says. "Make sure to purchase it at the store where the registry is, so that it will be crossed off and no one will duplicate the gift."

But if getting a gift idea from the registry seems too impersonal and routine, go ahead and make a creative, personal choice, she says. And giving a personal gift to the bride, instead of a household item, is appropriate if you're a friend of the bride. "Roommates in college? Get a college memento — perhaps a framed photograph or painting of the campus," she suggests.

GREENWOOD ADVISES thinking first of items that are in hearly any household but perhaps not owned by someone just setting up housekeeping. For example, if you choose a spice rack, fill it up with a variety of spices to Appliances are among the most common gifts, and irons, coffeemakers or blenders will be among those needed. A. personal touch suggested by Greenwood is to pair a corn popper with membership in the local video rental store.

She cautions that the giver should think small, choosing compact versions of kitchen appliances, since the couple's first home likely will be compact.

And if you're giving a shower party, pick a theme that will help organize the gift choices — such as something for every room in the house or apartment.

Items for the gift registry range from practical everyday appliances to china and crystal for special occasions. Shown here: LaMaison des Must china.

Flattering choices for today's bride

HETHER you're a first-time bride or second, want a traditional wedding or plan on being avant garde, today's bridal fashions will flatter you.

The first step is to select a style that suits you, advises "Bride's" magazine. "to show off your impectable taste, creative personality, or dramatic fashion sense."

Brides of the 190s have many choices — from elaborate to simple, from city sophisticated to country ca-

Worned about your figure? Don't be. There's a gown out there that will make you look great. And if you want to sew your own or restore a dress that is a family heirloom, you also have plenty of options.

ALWAYS DREAMED of a full white gown with a cascading train plus yards of filmy veil? Go ahead — induige yourself.

Even second-time brides can wear floor-length gowns of lace and satin. After air, these symbolize the joy and nope of marriage. (But forgo the veil; it's an age-old symbol of virginity.)

For a traditional look that is understated yet elegant, consider a taffeta gown with a long hem, simple portrait neckline and small sweep train.

A country-style wedding dress should enhance your faminine and romantic qualities, says Sarah Callander of Laura Ashley Capture the image and mood of the country with all-natural fabrics and pastoral prints.

OR CREATE ROMANCE by wearing a soft, lacy Victorian dress with a blouson bodice and full gored skirt.

A word of caution: Ruffles and frills can age an older bride. If you're over 30, go with attire that is elegant, sophisticated and more sexy than sweet

Your wedding is a perfect time to show off your fashion confidence and make a dramatic statement. Wear a sculptured gown that lays up your figure; a black-baring draped cowl; perhaps a chic. off-the-shoulder neckline

If the look you desire (good for a second wedding) is simple and tailored, consider a wedding suit. New York designer Carolina Herrera, creator of Caroline Kennedy's wedding gown, described this look to "Bride's."

"Keep all the elements soft, from color to cut to fabric." Wear a dress-plus-jacket or a simple jacket and skirt, complemented with gloves and a small hat.

A can't-go-wrong classic is the chemise, ideal for an informal wedding. The straight skirt is kneetength, often worn with a fitted, slightly boxy jacket to give a balanced schouette.

One of the most unusual trends in wedding fashions is for the bride and maids to wear black. "Actually, it's an old tradition from Italy," says Washington, D.C., bridal consultant Regan Botts.

"It's currently popular for evening weddings and not just for fall and winter, in summer they're wearing black on top with a white taffeta or organiza skirt." she said

Do the mothers object? "Sometimes But I act as a mediator and make sure the bride gets what she wants."

IF THE IDEA of sashaying down the asse in a body-hugging sheath horrifies you, chances are you'd prefer 1a gown that minimizes figure

A big skirt will cambuflage ample nips and derriere. If you want a slimmer gown, consider one with a peplum

Don't cover up your bodice, neck and shoulders if you have a large bosom. Showing some lovely smooth skin will help frame your face and pull attention away from a heavy chest. If you're small-busted, choose a gown with plenty of bodice detail.

A small-shouldered bride is better off with full sleeves; those who are broad-shouldered look great in off-the-shoulder gowns.

Do you wear a petite or large size? Good news: These are now available through most bridal shops — and the styles are designed to flatter special body types.

Speaking of gowns found at bridal boutiques and departments, most have a lot of built-in figure helpers, such as shoulder pads and underskirts. In most cases, your body will conform to the shape of the dress, not the opposite.

Naturally, you don't want to spend your last dime on your dress, but be sure you get a good one. A cheaply made gown will show its inferior design and materials.

You don't have to buy your dress. Why not wear your grandmother's antique gown? Or, if you have the skills or know a good seamstress, sew your own. You also can rent one.

If you own an heirloom wedding gown, it probably has never been washed and will need some restoration work. There are experts who specialize in creating fresh dresses from old; these restorers (or conservators) can repair, after, mend or replace face — and they also due or tint repairs to match the original fabric. Check with your local historic society or a museum for recommendations.

Her beautiful gown from the After Six Bridal Collection features a Sabrina neckline, long sleeves with a bow on the shoulder and ornately hand-beaded Alencon lace bodice. Available in white and ivory.

If you decide to design your own dress, base your pattern size on the body measurements fisted on the pattern envelope.

Experts at Simplicity pattern company recommend that you first make a sample gown in muslin, for fitting adjustments. Fitted bodices do not allow much room for error, for example, and you don't want to make too many adjustments once the dress is sewn. When working with fine and expensive fabrics, sewing a sample is the best way to double check your work.

Also, buy all the fabric you need at one time. Dye lots may differ slightly in color.

Why not rent a dress? After all, most wedding gowns are worn only once. It makes sense to avoid spending an astronomical sum on something destined to become a bulky souvenir of the event. Visit shops that rent format wear to get an idea of the selection in your city; expect to pay a security deposit to cover unexpected damage to the clothes.

If you want to preserve your dress (perhaps someday your grand-daughter), take it to a dry-cleaning company or similar clothing-care establishment after the wedding. These experts will clean it and package it for posterity.

emember the old gangster movies, where shotgun toting, impeccably dressed men escort the happy couple in an early day's limousine?

Phil Nicholas and Jake Jacobs, coowners of Forget Me Not Limousines in Westland, saw that scenario re-enacted in one of their antique cars last summer, giving the bride and groom some unique wedding photo opportunities, to say the

The pair of former skilled tradesmen merged their limousine-rental companies about three years ago, and because of customer requests, began restoring and renting antique and classic cars last spring.

"We're the only people in Michigan who rent antique cars," said Nicholas, speaking of an asortment of old-time favorites like their turnunise and white '57

Chevy which rents for $125 per day or $35 per hour if chauffeur driven.)

The car most requested for weddings is a 1938 Rolls Royce, It has been modified to include air-conditioning and other modern conveniences inside. while maintaining the authentic look on the vehicle's exterior.

Another popular choice is their "oneof-a-kind" creme-colored stretch ·limousine, dubbed "The Gangster."

"It's made to look like a Duesenbury from the '20s or '30s," said Jacobs. "Its got stainless-steel pipes coming out of the hood going into the fender, a wide running board and a spare tire on the front fender," he said.

Since offering antique and classic cars, business has been great. "There's a certain romance to these cars," Jacobs said. The men have lots of stories to tell of weddings they've helped make special by providing couples a taste of days-gone by.

ONE OF THE REASONS limousines are popular for weddings, says Jacobs. is that many of todays bridal gowns can not fit into a normal car without crushing. However, some of the older rental cars have as much room as today's limousines in their back seats, he said.

In addition to providing out-of-the-ordinary transportation, the partners offer many ideas to help the couple have a wonderful wedding experience.

"They only get married once," said Nicholas. "But we do about 500 weddings a year." Because of this, they know things like where to go for memorable pictures, and how long the couple should plan on renting the vehicle.

Jacobs suggests an itinerary that includes limousine rides for the groomsmen and bridesmaids before the ceremony. "It's a nice way to say 'Thankyou," he suggests.

There is a sense of lightness and fun as they recounted experiences they've had with couples because of the novel travel arrangements.

"SOMETIMES WE HAVE a little fun with people," said Jacobs, For instance, once we had chauffeurs climb in on the wrong side of the rolls." (The steering wheel is on the right side of this European-made car)

People also have a hard time finding the gas tanks in some models. The 1933 Buick, for example, is a puzzle to most of their customers. "You turn the key to the "on" position, push the gas pedal, and it automatically starts," said Nicholas.

"We've even seen wedding parties coordinate their bridesmaids dresses with the cars," said Jacobs.

A word of caution: Couples planning to use an antique or classic vehicle should make reservations as soon as possible. Jacobs recommends reserving at least three months in advance
