Local voters crush Proposa

Westland voters drowned Proposal A by a 2-to-1 margin although Wayne-Westland district homeowners would have been among the biggest benefactors in the planned property tax cut/sales tax increase.

Westland voters crushed Proposal A by a nearly 2-to-1 margin in Wednesday's special election, sending a strong message that a dramatic property tax cut wasn't worth a 50-percent sales tax hike.

Westland rejected the plan 65 percent to 35 percent, unofficial results showed. Neighboring Wayne defeated the proposal by a smaller margin, 59 percent to 41 percent.

The lopaided local vote baffled

Wayne-Westland school officials because district homeowners would have seen their school tax rate plummet from 47 mills to 27.

The proposal was publicly endorsed by the Wayne-Westland and Livonia school boards.

'It's disappointing, to be honest with you," said Wayne-Westland superintendent Larry Thomas. "I think our community has to realize that we have to educate our youth, and we have to decide who's responsible for paying for it.'

Wednesday's results locally came just two months after Wavne-Westland voters rejected a local tax proposal by a 63-to-37 percent margin.

Local voters opposed Proposal A even though the Wayne-Westland school board had strongly endorsed it. But Thomas didn't view the local results as a referendum on the board's credibility. "I think it's just an anti-tax feeling that people have throughout our state throughout our country, really," he

Teen loses legs after being crushed between cars

Doctors have amputated both legs of a John Glenn High School senior who was crushed between two cars on Ford Road while he was trying to push his friend's stalled Mazda off the road, police and the boy's mother

Timothy Cassidy, a John Glenn wrestling team letter-winner, remained in critical condition Tuesday at the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor, five days after he was hit by off-duty Westland police officer Tim Kennedy, police said.

Both of his legs have been amputated above the knees," Cassidy's mother, Christine, said Tuesday during a telephone interview from the hospital.

Cassidy, 18, had undergone four major surgeries in three days, and doctors were still fighting infection in his body, his mother said. The feen has been conscious "off and on," she said.

When asked if her son's condition was expected to improve soon, the mother replied Tuesday, "I really couldn't say.

However, she did sound encouraged that her son didn't suffer head inju-

He had bought flowers for his school prom May 27 and was riding with a friend, 17-year-old John Glenn student Joseph Wagner, when Wagner's 1985 Mazda ran out of gas and stalled on Ford, between Carlson and Wayne roads, Westland police officer James Dexter said.

Cassidy had gotten out to push the stalled car from behind when off-duty police officer Kennedy apparently failed to see him and crushed him between the two cars shortly before 3 p.m., Dexter said.

Westland police officer Tina Bertschinger would rather be on the streets of Westland fightingcrime. Instead, she's in a Pittsburgh hospital awaiting a heart transplant that could save her life.

And she's only 28 years old. Bertschinger, a former Garden City resident, had been a police officer in her hometown of Westland for only three months when the Bertschinger coughing and breathing difficul-

They removed 95 percent of the tumor during surgery, but a small part remains attached to the left atrium of Bertschinger's heart. The cancer hasn't spread — yet.

She is now in Presbyterian University Hospital in Pittsburgh, where she is awaiting a heart transplant that could rid her body of cancer.

"It's the waiting that's driving me nuts," she said Tuesday, during a telephone interview from her hospital bed.

She has no idea how long she might have to wait. 'Nobody knows," she said. "Obviously somebody else has to die first, and they have to willing to be a donor.

Bertschinger doesn't know what her life expectancy would be without the transplant.

Because of her 5-foot-8, 170-pound frame, Bertschinger's body could accept a heart from either a male or a female donor, she said. In that respect, she's luckier than many patients, she said.

would have seen their school tax rate plummet 20 mills — a huge drop in a district plagued by voter anger about high taxes.

'It was going to help Wayne-Westland more than any other school district in the state," Thomas said. "People either didn't understand it or they didn't believe it, one of the two."

City Clerk Diane Fritz seemed to agree that many voters were confused about the statewide ballot proposal.

Too many people thought this was a school millage election," she said.

Voter turnout was higher than Westland and Wayne city officials had expected. Westland marked a 35-percent turnout among its 51,469 voters, while Wayne saw a 44-percent turnout.

Posey voiced frustration that Wayne-Westland voters rejected Proposal A just two months after they defeated a local tax proposal.

"People really don't have a lot of concern about the vitality of the Wayne-Westland school district," he said.

Local officials had indicated they would try late this summer to convince voters to approve a Wayne-Westland tax increase if Proposal A failed.

But Posey said the local vote on Proposal A indicated that there is "no way" a local election could be successful.

Suchy and others are rapidly learning their new communication skills during weekly classes taught by Pat Fedelem, manager of interpreter services for the Deaf, Hearing and Speech Center in Detroit.

The project was launched after the senior citizen Friendship Centet's director, Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek, conducted an informal pdll to see if there was an interest in a sign language class.

I wanted to see if there was a med for an interpreter to come to our events to help the seniors who have problems hearing," she said. "I found that there was definitely a need and a demand."

No alcohol was involved, either on the part of the teenagers or the officer, police said. Cassidy's friend, Wagner, who had bought the Mazda only one week earlier, suffered a bloody nose and an injured left elbow, but wasn't seriously hurt, Dexter said.

Under advice from his attorney, Kennedy has refused to give a statement to police, Dexter said.

Cassidy's classmates "were a little shook up" at school Tuesday, said John Glenn principal Dennis Connolly.

"It was just really a disaster." he said.

Cassidy was initially taken to Annapolis Hospital, Wayne, and then flown by helicopter to U-M Hospital, where he remained in critical condition Tuesday in an intensive care unit.

Cassidy underwent 151/2 hours of surgery on Thursday, alone, Dexter said. He has undergone four major surgeries and is expected to survive, Dexter said.

Family members have visited her in Pittsburgh, and that has helped to keep her spirits up. She is the second of three children born to Clarence and Rita Bertschinger of Westland.

If a heart comes through for her, and if her body accepts it, she could be allowed to go home in three to four weeks after the transplant, she said. But she would have to receive periodic check-ups and - for the rest of her life — take medication.

For now, she only waits. But the cards from home have helped her spirits.

School board candidates: Violence cause for concern

Amid growing concerns about school violence, candidates seeking election June 14 to the Wayne-Westland Board of Education agree that efforts are needed to protect students and employees from potential harm.

Several guns, knives and other weapons have been found in local schools in recent years, fueling fears of violence even though the worst incidents — including a Dec. 4 shooting injury in front of Franklin Junior High — have occurred during after-school hours.

More recently, three Marshall Junior High were expelled in April after they were accused in the sale of a .22-caliber semi-automatic handgun at school.

Some school board candidates have commended a district plan to place security guards in secondary schools, but some suggested during interviews with the Observer that more must be done. School officials plan to place two security guards each at John Glenn High, Wayne Memorial High and the William Ford Vocational-Technical Center, while one guard would be hired to patrol each of the four junior highs. All five candidates competing for two board seats - both with four-year terms — appeared con-cerned about possible violence in schools when asked what they would do to curb it. "I like the idea of the security if the funding is there to pay for it," candidate Patricia "Trish" Brown said.

Schools also need more psychologists and counselors, parenting classes and possibly more programs similar to DARE (Drug Awareness Resistance Education), Brown said.

She cited the need for more parental involvement to curb violence, which she stressed "is not just a school problem."

Candidate Mathew McCusker a former 81/2-year school board member, questioned whether two guards at the high schools will be effective.

"I don't know if two security guards are going to solve the prob-lem," he said. "If we put in two fascists at Wayne Memorial and John Glenn, are we going to exacerbate the problem? Two guys aren't going to cut it."

McCusker suggested more psychologists in schools and more parental involvement, but added, 'The solution to violent problems is not in the schools, it's in socifor them to behave if they weren't united," Paquette said.

Aside from hiring security guards, educators also must try "to teach students to respect each other," she said.

Candidate John Brady said he supports the plan to place security guards in secondary schools.

School security is bitter medicine, but it is reality today," he said. "I do not want to see security in the schools, but if that's what we've got to do, then let's do

Brady also said that everyone in school buildings should try to identify potential weapons and violence problems before they em-

Appointed incumbent Sharon Felan, seeking to keep her board seat, noted that school districts see violence problems spill over from society at large.
"Public schools take in all students, and we are a reflection of the many problems of society," she said.

She voted in favor of the security guards, but also suggested that more psychologists and counselors could be beneficial. She also said the board is working on a more comprehensive approach to student discipline.

Alston, an assistant professor of music at Oakland University. was selected as one of four finalists in the Unysis African-American Composers Forum. She was the first woman composer honored in the four years since the program began.

"It was just a wonderful experience to hear it played," Alston said. "It's exciting to get all the interpretations from professional musicians.'

Finalists were selected from 30 works submitted to a panel of nationally known musicians. The DSO planned to play only the winning work but "(DSO conductor) Neeme Jarvi wanted them all performed" because he thought highly of all the entries, Alston

Legislature dumps inheritance tax

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Senior citizens can look forward to passing on more of their estates to their heirs — to the tune of $70 million a year.

The Michigan Legislature has wiped out the inheritance tax. which yielded $110 million annually, and will replace it with an estate tax yielding $40 million.

"You kick poor people in the butt," said Democratic Sen. Virgil Smith of Detroit. He predicted majority Republicans would make up the lost revenue by cutting social services.

'It's interesting you can attack other people for wanting to keep their own money," replied Republican Michael Bouchard of Birmingham. "They earned it. They paid sales taxes, income taxes and property taxes on it. The government seems to think it has a right

The state Senate late last month put the finishing touches on House Bill 4597 and sent it to the Olds Tower for Gov. John Engler's signature.

The vote was 31 to 7. Voting yes were Republicans Bouchard, Mat Dunaskiss of Lake Orion, David Honigman of West Bloomfield, Robert Geake of Northville and Democrats Jack Faxon of Farmington Hills, William Faust of Westland and George Hart of Senators rejected an amendment by gubernatorial hopeful Debbie Stabenow, D-Lansing, to lower the threshhold of the tax from $600,000 to $100,000. Only 12 (of 16) Democrats supported Stabenow, Sens. The inheritance tax reform was major victory for Rep. Willis Bullard, R-Milford, its House

"My thinking is that we'll get a lot of the money (retirees) to stay in Michigan and keep paying income and sales taxes," Bullard said as he shook senators' hands outside the chamber.

"The impact will be on the peo ple who stay here six months and in Florida six months. They'll keep their legal residence in Michigan. Now their tax attorneys tell them, 'You're stupid if you don't change your domicile to Florida'," Bullard said. The battle had raged for years.

The Republican-controlled Senate had passed bills cutting the tax, said Bullard, "but the Democrats wouldn't even let us have a hearing in the House."

This year the House is split 55-55 on party lines. Republican co-Speaker Paul Hillegonds is able Bullard is Republican co-chair of the House Taxation Committee, but his vote count showed him the bill would have trouble. So he had Hillegonds refer it to the more favorable Business and Finance Committee. The bill sailed through committee and won full House passage 94 to 6 earlier in May.

Bullard said it proved what Republicans had contended all along: The GOP has a philosophical majority in the House, but such Democratic leaders as Taxation chair Lyn Jondahl of Okemos had prevented popular bills from coming to a vote.

Agency grant will train child care workers The Michigan 4C (Community Coordinated Child Care) Association has received a second grant from the Skillman Foundation to continue a statewide initiative to improve the supply of quality child care providers in Michigan.

The initiative is called the Michigan Child Care Futures Project and is a child care supply building initiative focusing on provider recruitment, provider training and support services.

The Michigan Child Care Futures Project is a public/private partnership made possible by the Skillman Foundation. The Skillman Foundation was founded in 1960 by Rose P. Skillman, widow of Robert H. Skillman, vice president and director of Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co.

The Michigan Child Care Futures Project will train approximately 7 percent of the child care providers who are working with young children. The training meets nationally recognized criteria established for child care professionals.

The goal is to improve the quality of child care in every center and in every family day care home. This year, the target is 2,500 providers. The Michigan 4C Association will distribute almost $600,000 through the network of 14 regional 4C offices to recruit, train and support child care pro-

In 1985 Engler then Senate majority leader, had come out for cutting the inheritance tax. An economic report he commissioned said keeping retirees in Michigan would boost small-town economies in the north.

Senate action was staged for the day senior citizens flooded the Capitol Building.

The debate question was whether seniors would benefit more from the social services $70 million of taxes would buy (Democratic view) or cutting the taxes (GOP view).

"We're not talking about people who worked hard for this money," said Stabenow, who led the Democratic attack. "Revenue from the inheritance tax has gone up every year. If people were moving (to Florida) because of it, inheritance tax revenue would be going

Building razed; suit threatened

The mayor says the long-vacant Urban Cowboy building was demolished because it was an eyesore and hazard. The building's owner disagrees, vowing to sue in the wake of the structure's demolition.

By Darrell Clem Staff Writer

A Livonia man who owned the long-vacant Urban Cowboy bar on Ford, near Hix, said he plans to sue the city of Westland for demolishing the once-popular nightclub.

"It was frustrating as hell that they could pull a stunt like that," owner John Sassack said. "They completely destroyed it."

Mayor Robert Thomas had the bar torn down in January after Wayne Circuit Judge Claudia House Morcom issued a consent order allowing the city to demolish it.

"It was a public hazard on top of being an eyesore," the mayor said Tuesday.

Sassack's ex-wife had owned the bar, but she had turned it over to him before the demolition. Sassack wanted to try to find another use for the building or at least sell what he could from it, including a neon floor.

Sassack said he plans to sue the city for at least $175,000. He said city officials had told him that he could have more time to make improvements to save the building.

Thomas, however, accused Sassack of stalling.

"I had a clear court order to tear it down," Thomas said.

A popular tavern in the 1970s and 80s, the bar was named the Urban Cowboy after the movie of the same name, starring John Travolta, became a hit in 1980. The bar had a mechanical bull (featured in the movie) in front.

Sassack said he spent weeks inside the building, cleaning it and trying to salvage what he could. But he said city officials had the bar bulldozed on Jan. 5, despite his efforts to work with them to find a compromise.

"It was a political deal is what it was," Sassack said. Thomas "wanted to score some points" with nearby property owners who wanted the bar demolished, he claimed.

Sassack conceded he owed about $70,000 in back taxes on the property, which increased in value even though the bar had long been closed. He had already paid some taxes.

The building was on prime Ford Road frontage and had a state-equalized valuation of $194,000, he said.

"The mayor is bulldozing small businesses and making way for the big ones," Sassack said.

Thomas said the city had offered Sassack a legal agreement to make specific property improvements early this year, but that Sassack stalled. The roof was weak and dangerous, among other problems, the mayor

"If he wants to sue, then let him have at it," Thomas said.

"I warned him up front from day one that I wasn't going to fool around," the mayor said.

Area voters help defeat Proposal A

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER

Suburban voters, including large majorities in all Observer communities, voted heavily against Proposal A Wednesday, overcoming general outstate support for the plan.

In Redford Township voters re jected the proposal by almost a 4to-1 margin. Garden City shot it down by a 3-to-1 margin.

Canton Township went against

Westland, Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

In Wayne County as a whole, Proposal A was losing 252,000 to 90,000 early this morning with only Riverview and 44 percent of Detroit precincts not reporting.

In Oakland County the votes outnumbered the "yes" votes 174,000 to 96,000 with all but Royal Oak reporting at press outstate. The state elections bureau reported 378,000 "yes" votes and 242,000 "no" votes counted with 60 of Michigan's 83 counties

Felan, Brady best for board

ayne-Westland school district voters will be voting for more than just two board of education candidates in the Monday, June 14, election. They will decide whether to move ahead with changes made in the past year or take a step backward.

There have been disputes among board members and between several board members and school superintendent Larry Thomas, hired last spring, but there also has been some progress. although it is hard to detect through the political heat generated from last year's board elec-

In this year's race, the best choices for voters are Sharon Felan and John Brady, who offer the community an attractive blend of stability. forward-looking views and the ability to serve as policy-makers.

Felan, appointed by the board last summer to fill a vacancy, has an excellent background in school volunteer roles and in the state Public Act 25 School Improvement Team. As a board member for 10 months, Felan has clearly demonstrated that she has the ability to focus on solutions to problems instead of who or what caused them and to work with other board members to gain a consensus.

She has also shown that she isn't part of the recent political history that has impeded the district's efforts to move ahead on fiscal integrity and academic improvements. Felan has a positive view of the superintendent's first 10 months and that there is still room for improvements and changes.

At the same time, Brady has demonstrated that he would bring a fresh viewpoint and perspective to the board, which has been wrestling with massive program cutbacks in the wake of a voters' rejection of an important millage renewal two months ago.

An attorney, Brady agrees with Felan that part of the district's financial crisis can be partially solved by having the administration ask employees' unions for contract concessions.

An attractive part of their responses on that issue is that they view potential concessions as a means of helping resolve the money problem. not a punishment for dedicated employees who have performed professionally for many years.

While the board's problems with its members or the administration are far from over, the election of Felan and Brady would be a major step toward continued improvement.

Kokenakes, Clulow: best bets n Monday, June 14, Westland residents in the Livonia school district will have the opportunity to go to the polls to elect decision-makers to local

Nine candidates are running for two four-year terms on the Livonia Public Schools' Board of Education. There is one incumbent and eight

After reviewing the credentials and views of the candidates, the Observer endorses Frank Kokenakes and Suzanne Clulow.

As a 40-year resident of the district, Kokenakes has a deep appreciation for the community and its educational system. Kokenakes understands the importance of the fines arts to education, has a vision expanding the "safety net" for at-risk students to involve community agencies so private insurance can share the expense, and has a creative vision of how to better use volunteers in the district.

Clulow has attended more board meetings during the past year than any other challenger and has a solid grasp of the district's educational needs. She certainly is committed to students, giving them first priority over staff, parents, administrators and taxpayers.

Clulow should be very effective on the board and will be a stronger contributor if she becomes an independent voice. We are troubled, however, by her inclination to seek consensus in private. Clulow appears too close to existing board members and the administration and, if elected, needs to strive for independence and more openness in decision-making.

Last year the Observer endorsed Guarneri for the school board and we continue to be impressed with her personal assets. As a public health administrator, she takes a "whole-child" approach to learning and is a strong voice for the interests of special education students. But Guarneri has not demonstrated a continued interest in the school district since June 1992 by

In the spirit of term limitation, 1993 is a good time for incumbent Pat Tancill to step off the board. She has served for seven years, has made her contributions to the community, has served as board president and in other positions, and can leave proud of her accomplishments. While we agree with Ralph Walko on many of the issues, and appreciate his involvement in the district, we remain unconvinced he is best for the job. Clifford Thompson, a newcomer, is a sincere person who brought fresh and impressive ideas to the campaign.

The Observer urges all its readers to vote on Monday, June 14. After examining all the candidates, and considering the make-up of the board, the Observer recommends Kokenakas and Clulow for the Livonia Board of Education.

Be sure to vote June 14. Education is too important to leave to someone else.

Double-punishment?

am concerned about a Livonia School District policy which deals with junior high students but maybe affect others as well.

During the school term it is the policy to give an offending student a detention - "don't come to school for one day" — and if they need it again, it becomes two days or three days. This is for such offenses as laughing out loud when the class clown cuts up.

Some offenses may be more major than that. I'm not totally disagreeing with the punishment. However, after a certain date in the spring, the punishment is three days of no school even for a first offense, plus if the offender has sold enough of whatever the school was pushing and earned a ticket to Cedar Point, this ticket is also taken away from the offender.

This equals double punishment no matter how the school board looks at it. If this student earned the ticket, then they have the right to that ticket or they have been lied to. Does this instill trust in the student body? I, for one, will not buy another thing sold by the school district.

And if you doubt that they do this underhanded method of punishment, just check it out with your local junior high principal. I believe the punishment should fit the crime. Do not double-punish the students by taking what they rightfully earned.

mission began August 1990 to rescue a one-room schoolhouse in our city. With the help of two State Equity Grants, the city of Westland, the home construction students from the Livonia Career Center, the Perrinsville School Restoration Comittee and Friends of the Westland Historical Museum fund-raisers, the 1856 historic Perrinsville Schoolhouse is being restored.

The sixth fund-raiser was held May 15 for this worthy cause. Funds from the rummage sale will be used for furnishings of an 1890's time period for the school room.

To the 22 volunteers who gave their time and energy the day of the sale, the Wayne-Ford Civic League and Taylor Towers for loan of needed tables, the Westland Observer for publicity on the sale, the city of Westland DPS for their manpower, to Paul Krarup for printing signs and to all the Westland residents who donated items to sell - thank you!

Auto relief delayed

s you know, the Senate has been unable to muster the voices needed to give the no-fault automobile insurance reform legislation immediate effect — which means drivers will not see any relief until the middle of

I am writing this letter to explain why we cannot get the votes.

It is as if my worst fears - and the worst fears of many voters — are being realized. Rather than allowing the democratic process to work on its own, a small group of Senate Democrats is letting one very large, very powerful interest group smother the best no-fault reform proposal in years. A proposal, I might add, that was forged bipartisanly in both chambers of the Legislature. It is a compromise we worked out together, a compromise put together by legislators, not interest groups.

This bipartisan proposal would not only roll premiums back by an average of 16 percent, but it would also allow for good driver discounts and more coverage choices. Also, senior citizens would see bigger reductions, and health care providers would be required to accept insurance payments as payment-in-full.

To cut down on costly litigation, drivers who are more than 50 percent at fault wouldn't be able to seek non-economic damages. This is what the Michigan Trial Lawyers Association dislikes most about the proposal. Cutting down on litigation cuts down on the profits the group reaps from settlements.

And since the MTLA financially supports many Democratic lawmakers — in 1990 the group contributed more than $263,000 to Democratic candidates — these Democrats don't want to lose precious campaign dollars and will do just about anything to keep their contributors happy.

Never mind the will of the people or a majority of the Legislature. Never mind that Michigan drivers pay substantially more for coverage than drivers in other states do. Never mind that a number of Michigan drivers opt not to purchase insurance because of the extraordinary cost.

Michigan drivers are being stuck with an additional $1.5 million a day for each day that passes without auto insurance reform. These people deserve relief.

The issue of a small group of legislators acting on behalf of a minority view or on behalf of a special interest group to block immediate effect on legislation is a much bigger issue than just insurance reform, which we face today. A small group that stands in the way of public policy if it doesn't get its way is altering the principles of democracy. In the future, instead of a simple majority needed to create laws, it will take a two-thirds majority. This will create gridlock and weaken legislation to be constant in Michi-

In a recent media interview, the last Democratic Majority Leader, Senator Bill Faust, said the minority should vote "yes" on immediate effect for the auto insurance bill. "In my mind, the majority has spoken," he said. I respect his courage in taking on the current ill-conceived. interest group-driven minority leadership.

That's because it's happening along the newest link in the Michigan Trail Initiative, once a segment of the Grand Clumps of wildflowers add their colorful marks.

Natural wood overlooks, like the one at the blue heron rookery, provide resting and viewing spots, without being intrusive. And the trail is handicapped accessible, as is another half-mile which joins the trail to the West Bloomfield Woods Nature Preserve.

To see the rest of that two-mile woods, you must use your feet, since it's surfaced with wood chips.

The trail will be dedicated Friday, with the help of U.S. Rep. Joseph Knollenberg, R-Bloomfield Township. It's another link in the Michigan and national "rails to trails" network and an asset to a community known to non-residents more for its shops and restaurants than its natural attributes.

In fact, it's kind of ironic that just as our local state senator, David Honig-man, is fighting to have four Oakland County lakes — including two in West Bloomfield — taken off the DNR's list for public access, this biking/hiking/ cross-country ski trail is being opened to all who choose to use it.

Like the county's first rail-trail, Paint Creek Trail, which starts in Rochester and travels 10.5 miles north to Lake Orion, this didn't just happen.

It took 10 years of passing petitions, and lobbying parks and recreation, then the township, then Lansing by community-minded residents. Concerned Citizens for West Bloomfield, led by Louie Lawton and Lorna McEwen, finally prevailed upon town officials to say no to unbridled development and yes to preserving parks and trails for this generation and beyond.

In fact, condominium owners adjacent to the part of the trail closest to Orchard Lake Road originally opposed it. Now, through excellent grantsmanship, planning and execution by West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation, it is an asset to their home sites. Indeed, further along the trail, the ground is currently being prepared for more resi-

Some coaches, dads make poor examples for sons hat do the following have in common? FBI officials who stormed the Branch-Davidian cult's compound. Homophobes and other chest-thumping bigots. Andrew Dice Clay. Barflies who boast that they once ran 100 yards in 10 seconds flat. The Navy officers involved in the Tailhook harassments. A 1950s high school football coach I wouldn't play for. Los Angeles gangs who initiate female members by purposely exposing them to HIV. The "Spur Posse" of California's Lakeview High, and their fathers and maybe some of their coaches.

Machismo is their common trait.

And too much testosterone, real or feigned. And a showy self-satisfaction masking a deep self-doubt about their masculinity. And a sexism so ingrained that I question whether they could ever be cured of it.

Clearly no father ever taught the Los Angeles gang to protect girls. And to explain the criminally sexist behavior of the Spur Posse, one need look no farther than their fathers and, perhaps, their coaches. They've disgraced their varsity uniforms, yet soon they'll be selling their movie rights to the highest bidders when really they belong in jail.

The fathers and coaches are indeed to blame, as is a society which sanctions a sexual double standard

There are exceptions, God be thanked, like Duke basketball coach Mike Kryzewski who focuses on excellence instead of winning and thus wins anyway. I myself was raised by a fighter father who would have put me in the hospital if I had ever been anything less than protective and discreet about any activity I had with a young lady

As an athlete, I was thankfully blessed with other coaches, particularly one, Dave Holmes, who counseled like my father and Coach Kryzewski. That's how I later coached and counseled my own athletes. This may sound old-fashioned, but we've got to teach men to treat women like they expect their sisters and mothers and daughters to be treated. Until we can do this, many men will continue to behave with brutally pseudo-masculine machismo and many more women will be irretrievably harmed.

John Telford, a Rochester Hills resident, most recently was an assistant superintendent in the Rochester School District. He previously was executive director for secondary education in the Plymouth-Canton district.

Voting minority decides school's policy matters

chool board elections are less than two weeks away. New board members will be elected by local voters in the Wayne-Westland and Livonia school districts.

My 11-year-old son, Nathan, is in fifth grade this year. I can't think of an election that bears more directly on me and my family than my local school board election. I've heard countless other parents express the same feelings

Yet if history is any guide, voter turnout will range from 5 percent to 15 percent. This means that a tiny minority of voters will decide who runs the local school board and therefore what policies the schools will be following for the next year or two.

One reason voter turnout is so low is most folks have difficulty learning much about individual candidates and about the main issues involved. That's one of the jobs we're happy to do in this community newspaper. You won't find much about your district's candidates and their view by reading the big metropolitan daily newspaper, but you'll find it all right here.

In addition, there is a fierce and complicated debate now raging about the proper policy for Michigan public schools. Below is a guide to the main points of view:

Reformers, Sick and tired of old-fashioned schools that depended on rote memorization at the expense of learning how to think, school reformers passed in 1990 Public Act 25, which set a model for schools called "outcomes educa-

Instead of learning, for example, the names of U.S. presidents in order, students in outcomes based schools compare various presidents' achievements and political styles. And their mastery of the subject would be shown in a variety of ways, including but not limited to written

In some versions, outcomes education has eliminated valedictorian and salutatorian honors, adopted grading systems that recognize only As, Bs and incompletes and used a curriculum that emphasizes cooperative learning and development of self-esteem.

■ Back to basics. Not surprisingly, there are many who feel this movement has gone too far. They advocate a back-to-basics approach, emphasizing old-fashioned teaching of the Three Rs and rigorous testing. They are dismayed at educators who seem to pay more attention to students feeling good about themselves and others than to actually learning something in recent education reforms.

■ Radicals. Some people are extreme critics of

Beginning with deeply felt concern about the elimination of prayer and references to Christianity from public schools, they move on to advocate radical changes. They urge teaching creationism instead of evolution and advocate returning to McGuffy's Readers for the Three Rs. Some would like to eliminate the constitutional distinction between public and private schools and adopt a state-wide voucher system.

The rhetoric gets complicated and often heated. Pro-reform forces have been known to lump all opponents of outcomes education with the religious right wing or the KKK. Radicals have talked about "subversives" running education. Both positions are silly because they depend on guilt by association.

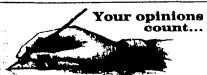

More complicated — and dangerous — are stealth candidates," those who run campaigns designed to obscure their backgrounds and views on the issues, hoping a mobilized minority can win in a low turnout election.

My own view: What is vital in education is to focus on the results. The MEAP test, for example, measures educational outcomes in various subjects for various grades. This newspaper publishes the MEAP test results for each school building because we believe that the properly focused way to look at education is to measure outcomes.

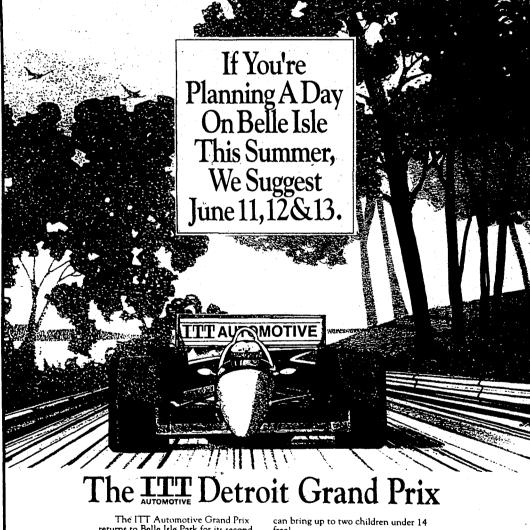

To that degree, therefore, I like the reformers' emphasis on outcomes, while I sympathize with the back-to-basics crowd in its concern about real learning about real subjects.

More important: Vote! If you don't, you'll get the kind of schools neither you nor your children nor your neighbors' children deserve.

Super fan makes rounds year-round estland's Bob Kurashige, the undisputed super fan in Observerland, answered my first two questions with questions. Who is your favorite coach, I asked.

"Which sport?" he replied.

How far have you traveled to see a game? 'Which way?" he asked. "North or west?'

I should have known I'd get answers like these, and not because Kurashige was being sarcastic. Kurashige, a 1979 Westland John Glenn graduate, is a fan of all sports, mostly those played in high school, and he'll go almost anywhere to watch.

Kurashige says he's been as far north as Midland and as far west as Grand Rapids to watch a high school game but he hasn't thought about crossing the Mackinac Bridge.
"Not yet," he said.

Give him time. This guy has made the rounds, year-round for 13 years:

Kurashige never misses a major state championship game and estimates he drives 60,000 miles each year to watch sporting events. Imagine all the oil changes for his 1989 Chevy Cavalier.

Kurashige says he watches at least 1,000 games per year, despite there being only 365 days. He goes to junior varsity games, double-header baseball and softball games in the summer, volleyball tournaments every Saturday in the winter, and college and pro games in between.

Kurashige's Tuesday's and Friday's are booked each season with high school games, whether they be football, girls or boys basketball, baseball, softball, or uh, my favorite, soccer.

Churchill tourney run ends, 2-0

Plymouth Canton continued its drive toward another possible state-final appearance in girls soccer Wednesday at the expense of Livonia Churchill, winning a regional tournament game 2-0 at Northville.

By Dan O'Meara Staff Writer

Plymouth Canton coach Don Smith was grateful the Chiefs got a second goal Wednesday in a regional girls soccer game

Becky Cifaldi's goal with 31/2 minutes left clinched a 2-0 victory over Livonia Churchill in the tournament at Northville High School.

It also made it easier for Canton to accept the victory since the Chiefs received a gift for their first goal when Churchill scored on itself.

"At least we didn't win on a bad one," Smith said. "At least we put another one in. I would have felt the Lord was really with us (if the game had ended 1-0).'

The Chiefs (18-1-1) will play host Northville in the regional final, which has been moved back to a 2 p.m. start Saturday.

The Mustangs, who lost 2-0 to Canton in a Western Lakes Activities Association game, defeated Dearborn Edsel Ford 5-0 in the first half a semifinal doubleheader Wednesday.

Canton took the lead with 17:50 remaining in an evenly-matched game when Churchill defender Danielle Priebe sent the ball back to goalie Mary Beeton, who slipped and couldn't recover in time to keep it from rolling into the net.

Cifaldi was well positioned in the middle of the field to take a cross from Dawn Koontz in the corner and chip the ball over Beeton's head for the late, second goal.

"It became a 2-0 game when we pushed everybody up to get a goal,' Churchill coach Nick O'Shea said. "If we hadn't given up the first one, chances are there wouldn't have been a second one.

"They weren't that dangerous until we put one in our net. If we weren't losing, we wouldn't have been playing just three in the back."

Despite the win, Smith was displeased with the play of his team, which struggled in the first half of a regular-season game with the Chargers (11-6-2) before rallying to win 2-1.

In addition some chippy play and hard fouls left both sides upset with the officiating and play that was considered unsportsmanlike at times

"The tempo of the game was that way," Smith said. "Both sides were upset with the calls.

'We didn't play good soccer. We didn't deserve to win it. We didn't play well enough to win. I guess this is our lucky game."

Churchill outshot the Chiefs 4-3 in the first half, and freshman forward Marie Spaccarotella was just wide of the Canton net three times with hard

The Chiefs had a first-half goal by Leah Hutko nullified when the referee ruled a Canton player ran over Beeton and caused her to lose possession of the ball after she had come out of the goal.

Canton had a 4-2 edge in the second half, but Churchill might have had the best scoring chance when the game was still scoreless. Andrea Zawislak just missed getting her head on the ball at the right corner of the Canton goal following a throwin.

"They played much better than we did all the way around," Smith said.

Canton Chiefs wear boys track crown

By RICHARD EPPS SPECIAL WRITER

By now, coach Bob Richardson surely knows Plymouth Canton's Western Lakes Activities Association boys track championship is a reality.

But Tuesday at Livonia Churchill, after his Chiefs had won the title with 1111/2 points, Richardson was still in shock from his school's first conference crown since 1986.

"Right now I'm saying to myself 'Is this a dream? Did this really happen?' I'm now starting to think, this could very well happen to us," Richardson said. 'And, by the way, if I'm dreaming, don't wake me up.

Surely, those booming sounds of the victory songs his team plays on every winning bus ride home awoke him. And the victory lap his team took, with plaque in hand, signaled to the 300 fans and 11 other schools that Canton is indeed this year's champion.

Northville finished second with 1051/2 points, followed by Farmington Harrison, Walled Lake Western, Plymouth Salem and Livonia Churchill in the top six.

Canton made its biggest move in the 800-meter run in which Jeff Keith, Kevin Gudeth and Justin

STATISTICS, 3B

McClain finished 1-2-3. Keith was second in the 1,600 run.
"The distance events have been our mainstay all season," Richardson said. "It's what got us through our dual meet season 6-1. We got off to a rough start, and I was hoping that it wasn't a bad dream. But I tell the kids if they struggle in one event to put it behind them."

The 3,200 relay team of Justin McClain, Matt Demey, Jeff Keith and Kevin Gudeth was first, and Demey, Marques Nelson, John Martin and Gudeth won the 1,600 relay. Canton entered the event trailing Northville by three points, needing to finish two places ahead to win.

Gudeth made the last turn in third place but burst in between two runners to take the lead, winning the 1,600 relay for Canton and clinching the title.

"We knew there were four or five tough teams, and it feels just great to win it," Gudeth said. The love among all our players makes us all believe in ourselves.

Nelson also was in the celebrat-talk about how it feels to win the Super Bowl, and baseball players talk about how it feels to win the World Series," he said. "For me, it feels like I'm on top of the world.'

Professional football players

Don Bryant was on top of the world for Harrison with his two wins in the 110 (14.5) and 300 hurdles (39.4). Bryant, who tied a league record in the 110 hurdles, thought he could win in that event but was not as sure about the 300.

"Coach had a meeting with all of us, and he said I was going to run the 300," Bryant said. "He came up and told me he wanted two wins from me today. These wins came from the heart.

Bryant broke the heart of many fans early, as the Hawks led with 68 points midway through the meet. But Canton's late run in the distance events was too much for Harrison.

"Teamwise, this is probably our best meet all year," Harrison coach John Reed said. "We got some great performances. This team has nothing to be ashamed Harrison's Scott Gurke won the 100 dash and Gil Chavez the long jump, and the Hawks were second in the 800 relay.

Salem's Marcus Zevalkink, Jay Casey, Brian Herc and Don Johnson won the 400 relay. Northville added a win in the 800 relay, while Rob Subotich took the individual 400:

Churchill's heavy relay team of Dave Elenich, Chris Pelczar, Aaron Dusso and Rob Lusa won, but the event does not count toward the final score Dusso won the shot put, Westland John Glenn's Shawn Arbogast the discus, Western's Matt Engott the high jump, Churchill's Greg Koehler the pole vault. Churchill scored 64 of its 77 points in the field events.

Other winners were Farmington's Dave Clinard in the 1,600 run, Livonia Franklin's Lee Devers in the 3,200 run and Northville's Brian Dogonski in the 200 dash.

Aaron Scheffer led the Rockets with three hits and teammate Mike Bint added two hits. Bint and Nick James each had

I hope I'm covering them all. He's even been spotted on Saturday night in the dead of winter far away from Detroit. Just ask Chuck Gordon, the Glenn football coach who taught Kurashige in science class at Stevenson Junior High in Westland and also referees high school basketball. "I was officiating a basketball game in Saline one night a few years ago," recalls Gordon. "It's Saturday, a cold winter night. The gym is packed, I look up and there's Kurashige. I said 'What are you doing here?' He said it's the only game in town. The only game in southeastern Michigan. He's a great guy.'

Little Caesars baseball coach John Moraitis has seen Kurashige hundreds of times.

"I went to Alaska and saw him," joked Moraitis.

Kurashige, who works as a medical supplies driver, determines which game to attend by following the schedules in the Observer. For schools out-state, he sends letters to athletic directors, requesting schedules.

They send schedules back.

And he goes.

Holmes ousts Churchill, 1-0

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

Livonia Churchill tried slapbunting its way on base against Plymouth Canton fireballer Kelly Holmes in Tuesday's critical Class A predistrict softball

The Chargers waved their bats before Holmes even moved into her windup, but they wound up waving a white flag as the University of Michiganbound hurler struck out 13 in a 1-0 triumph for the stateranked Chiefs, now 30-5 on the season.

Churchill, wasting a four-hit four-strikeout performance by junior hurler Karen Jose, bows out of state tournament action with a 15-6 record.

Three of the Chargers' losses came against their Western Division rival in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

"I was really nervous about this game because they (Churchill) are an excellent team and their coaching staff has done a whale of a job all year," Canton coach Jim Arnold said. "We worked hard on bunt coverages. The only thing I was worried about was that they might change their strategy. That's why we brought up our first baseman and third baseman to challenge them.'

Canton collected only four hits off Jose (15,3), but made two of those count for its only run in the sixth.

Kate Strahan led off the inning with a line shot to left field, which skipped all the way to the fence.

Tina Schafer then bunted Strahan over to third, setting the stage for Dani Mortiere.

With first base left open, the senior shortstop looped a long fly ball over the head of Churchill left fielder Carla Karoub for a double, scoring Strahan with the game's only

"Dani is a good power hitter, but we gave her the slap bunt sign to draw in their infielders," Arnold said. "Coach (Larry) Bober notched their fielders were way in, so with two strikes I had her hit away. She got lucky and hit the ball over the left fielder's head.'

Holmes, meanwhile, allowed only three runners to reach base in running her record to 19-2. gle to Anne Roulo in the third.

Jose reached base in the fourth on an outfield error, while Kelly Szymanski took first with two-out in the seventh on a Canton infield error, but Holmes, who did not allow a runner past second all day, got Karoub to ground out to end the game.

"Our strategy was to put the ball in play," Churchill coach Dana Hardwidge said. "We wanted to slap it past the pitcher or the corners.

"We've been working on it, but it's different when you're going against a Kelly Holmes. Canton puts pressure on your defense because you're not going to score a lot of runs."

The Chargers, stacked in a tough district not only against Canton, but also against Livonia Ladywood and Franklin. goes home early this season after reaching the regionals a year

"Last year we got some breaks and walked through districts," Hardwidge said. "So I guess you have to take the good with the bad. We knew we had

Pats rally by Salem, 7-6

A five-run seventh inning was enough - barely - to send Livonia Franklin into Saturday's Class A district softball tournament against Livonia Ladywood.

On Tuesday, Franklin advanced by edging host Plymouth Salem, 7-6, in a predistrict encounter, Jaclyn Dean ignited the Franklin comeback win. Trailing 3-2 going into the seventh, the Pats got a two-run double from Dean, a run-scoring single from Amanda Hosko and RBI ground outs from Lisa Craven and Becca Bloch. Dean and Bloch each singled in runs in the first inning, too.

Dean finished with two hits, two runs scored and three RBI. Salem closed the gap with three runs in the seventh but could forge no closer.

Sophomore Becky Jansen allowed six runs on 11 hits and four walks, striking out two, but got the win for Franklin (16-12). Jenny Garvey was the loser, surrendering eight hits and three walks. fanning four.

WESTLAND 24, DOMINICAN 3: Amy Sieloff slugged a pair of home runs to lead a 16-hit, five-homer attack the second and a two-run homer in the third. She finished with three hits and six runs batted in.

Erin Cicero also had three hits, including a two-run homer in the fourth, and Suzie Clark added two hits, one a solo shot in the third, with two RBI. Leslie Turgeon had the other Warrior homer, another third-inning solo. Jenny Pruchnik had two hits and an RBI.

Shannon Wasil started and went the first three innings, allowing two runs (neither earned) on two hits and a walk, with two strikeouts. Amy Gentz went the final two innings. Jennifer Kyrch was the loser for Dominican (4-19).

Last Friday, Lutheran Westland bombarded Warren Bethesda 21-1 at Bethesda. Wasil had a no-hitter going until two were out in the fifth, when she allowed a double. She walked two and struck out seven.

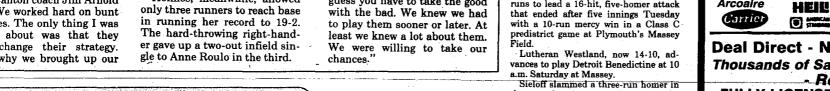

bryant

Becky Cannon had three hits and two RBI, including a solo homer, Gentz had three hits and an RBI; and Sieloff hit a two-run homer in the fifth.

BELLEVILLE 3, GLENN 2: The Tigers'
Lori Dickerson handcuffed Westland John Glenn on one hit to escape with the victory in Tuesday's Class A predistrict game at Garden City Park.

The only hit off Dickerson was a fifthinning single by Nicole Gentry. The Rockets (15-15) scored twice in that inning on a walk and an error, with a dou-ble-steal bringing in one run and a ground out scoring another. That trimmed the Tigers' lead to'3-2.

Lynn Little took the loss, allowing three runs on seven hits and six walks with one strikeout. Dickerson walked two and struck out five.

Ex-Lion goes from guarding quarterbacks to kids

BY M.B. DILLON STAFF WRITER

Former Detroit Lion Homer "Sugar Bear" Elias, all 295 pounds of him, has gone from guarding Gary Danielson on the football field to protecting high school students on the campus of Plymouth Canton and Salem high

Elias - whom Lions fans remember as an instant starter at left guard after he was drafted in 1978 in the fourth round — is the newest hire in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools security department.

The Georgia native, who hung up his cleats in 1984, is a parttimer at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park. He's responsible for the community education volleyball and racquetball courts. If Elias isn't hanging nets or maintaining facilities, he's driving a security truck on campus.

Other working hours are spent at the Berkshire Hotel in Southfield, where he is security and safety chief.

Lifting weights

"This place is always busy," said Elias, 38, while walking toward his office from the PCEP track recently. "There's always something going on."

Elias arrives at work early to lift weights and walk three or four miles. He's working up to 80 miles a month and wants to lose 45 pounds. "I ain't seen 250 in a long time," he said.

Fans who followed his career fully expected the talented Elias to play 12 years in the National Football League. He would have, had physical problems not sidelined him. In 1984 in a game against Green Bay, he ripped a stomach muscle so severely that afterward he couldn't laugh or cough without pain.

When he played for the Lions and coach Monte Clark, wins were as elusive as Barry Sanders. But Elias harbors no bitterness.

"I can't say too many bad things about Clark; he had good enough football sense to draft me," said Elias. "He didn't have full control. Wayne Fontes has more control. They've opened up the pocketbook."

Low-paying Lions

Elias recalled that then-general manager Russ Thomas "was the highest paid GM in the league, while the club was at the bottom of the pay scale. We ranked 26th out of 28 teams.

'I'm glad to see it happen (football salaries increase)," said Elias, who recovered three fumbles in his career and has a game ball.

"My time came too early, but I'm glad to see offensive linemen starting to get recognition."

Elias enjoyed just two winning seasons with the Lions. "Winning is everything. It definitely shows you who your real friends are," he

"I'm the type, if I get knocked down, I land on my feet some kind of way. That's the way my mom and dad taught me. If you lay down, they can keep stepping on voù.'

A Ferndale resident, Elias grew up on a farm in Fort Benning, Ga. His dad worked in the post office, raised hogs and chickens, and grew collard greens and peas.

Feeding the hogs

"I had to feed the hogs and chop wood before I went to school. I think it made me a better person," said Elias. "Sometimes you don't know how blessed you really

Kids today just don't see the value of hard work, he added. Playing sports with his uncle and his friends, eight years his senior, made Elias a better athlete. "They were bigger and older than me. It made me tough. It taught me to work harder. I got better and better."

They made do with what they had, "We made a football out of a can, stick and rolled-up socks. We probably had more fun playing with that can than a real football," said Elias. "The first basketball rim I put up was a used bicycle rim."

Like his grandfather Jesse James, Elias had baseball talent. He received college scholarship offers in baseball, basketball and football. "My granddad was a great baseball player," said Elias, who also ran track. "He was like a legend in his hometown. He was a semi-pro outfielder and a great home-run player in Fort Benn-

Baseball was Elias' first love. Unfortunately, it wasn't the end all for Fort Benning folks.

Forty-five people were in the stands for a high school baseball game, but if there was a football game, the town was empty; everyone was at the stadium, said Elias, who was 6-foot-2 in sixth grade. "If you didn't go out for football, everyone was on your case.'

Too Tall encounter

Elias — who remembers guarding Ed "Too Tall" Jones as a freshman at Mt. Olive High School and recalls it being a painful assignment - can't figure out the allure of soccer and other activities popular at PCEP. "I see guys in the band who are bigger than guys on the football team, he said, shaking his head. "Kids have so many things they are into now, like soccer. I never knew what soccer was 'til L was in col-

Elias said his physique had something to do with his decision to pursue football. "We had a scout come up when we were getting ready for practice one day. He said, 'Son, we have running backs bigger than you.' My roommate and I went on an eating binge. I went from 220 pounds to 262. I just started gaining weight. I starting going out instead of up. It didn't slow me down too bad. I could still run the 40 in 4.8."

Elias and his former wife, Peaches, a Detroiter, have a son, Jason, "who's 12, but is thinking

The break-up of his family was one hard thing I've had to deal with. I take one day at a time," said Elias. "Eventually, I will get married again, but no time soon.

Brothers 'make their own kind of music'

Some brothers play golf together, the Forbes Brothers play music, write songs, co-own and manage Mr. B's Food & Spirits in Troy.

By Tom Mulligan Special Writer

The Forbes Brothers are unusual. For one thing, they're not full-time musicians. They co-own and manage Mr. B's Food & Spirits, a successful bar-restaurant at 3946 Rochester Road, Troy, 689-6070.

Unlike most other local acts, they don't travel from place to place playing for whomever will give them a job. They play at their own place in the "Sunday Night Jam," a weekly jam session that begins Sundays at 9 p.m. Musicians drop in and play a spot. Jam sessions are dominated by the Forbes Brothers and their friends including J.C. Whitelaw, formerly of the locally acclaimed group Ash Can Van Gough.

That suits Dennis or "Denny," 43, and Scott Forbes, 39, just fine. They've played and written songs together since the sixth grade, and in various local groups for over 20 years, including "a zillion garage bands," laughs Scott.

They've also run their own recording studio Ambience Recordings in Southfield, and written commercial jingles including regional ads for Kentucky Fried Chicken.

Denny did engineering for several Bob Seger albums dating back to Besides Seger, they have worked with such local rock legends as Mitch Ryder and Marshall Crenshaw. Ryder even plays at Mr. B's occasionally. A more frequent visitor is Johnny B, former drummer of the Rockets who likens the Forbes Brothers' music to a couple of hot country stars.

"As song writers, they're hot on the heels of Garth Brooks and Billy Ray (Cyrus). Just add a rocking chair and chewing tobacco and you got it."

One might wonder why a couple of guys who have surrounded themselves with rock legends are playing country music.

It's not such a radical departure from their typical sound, said Denny. "We've always leaned toward the mellow stuff. Besides the stuff that's played on country radio now sounds like a lot of stuff that was on rock radio in the 1970s," he adds.

Their set list is comprised almost exclusively of their own material. The Forbes Brothers have been writing together throughout their musical career, and dream of a record contract. 'We've written literally hundreds of songs together over the years," said Denny.

Between running Mr. B's, writing songs, and playing at the Sunday Night Jam, one would think their schedule would be full. But Scott has a concern of his own on the side for which he's received national acclaim the TIPS program.

TIPS stands for Training Intervention in the Procedures of Serving alcohol. The program advises any establishment that serves liquor about liability, how to deal with intoxicated patrons, and how to cut them off.

Musical duo: The Forbes Brothers, Dennis (left) and Scott have played music and written songs together since sixth grade.

Forbes who runs the TIPS program which his wife Patty, has earned the praise of police departments and has been profiled locally in newspapers, and nationally on TV and radio.

"I'm proud of it," said Scott. 'We're all over the country with it, in all 50 states. We're one of four pioneers of the program nationwide."

With running Mr. B's and the TIPS program, the Forbes Brothers bristle at the suggestion that their music is a hobby.

'Music has always flowed into our tract.

life," said Denny. "There was always music on in our house.'

Scott agrees, "You can't really call our music a hobby," he said. "We do it as an outlet. Some guys have golf. We have our music.'

Despite the analogy, the Forbes Brothers clearly have their eye on the big time. They say they've made demos over the years, and received some interest from record companies, but they've never managed to land a con-

'Made in America': humorous poke at parenting and Berkeley, Calif., Warner Bros.' "Made in America" tells the story of Sarlent black woman ah, an independent black woman (Whoopi Goldberg) who conceives a child with the help of a sperm bank.

When her daughter Zora (Nia Long) discovers the truth 18 years later, the whole family is in for a big surprise.

Sarah Mathews wanted to have it all — her own business, her own independence, her own family. The business is going just fine: Sarah owns a thriving African-American bookstore perfectly in keeping with her own proud Afrocentrist consciousness.

And when her husband died before they were able to have children, she went to a sperm bank, which resulted in her beautiful daughter, Zora (Nia Long), now a confident young woman about to enfoll in college. Sarah thinks she's done pretty well for herself, and her family, unusual as it may

But now Zora wants to know more about her father, whom she's always been told is the late Mr. Mathews. Zora does a little research at the sperm bank, hoping to meet the intelligent, disguished black man who helped give her a genetic heritage.

It turns out her father is white. And what's more, he's Hal Jackson (Ted Danson,) a good-time guy who's careened through life slapping backs, shaking hands and making a small fortune selling cars in Oakland.

The one thing he never expects to face is an emotional young black woman insisting he's her dad, whose outraged mother shows up shortly afterward, demanding that he stay out of their lives forever — a demand he's only too happy to honor.

Zora's need to know both of her parents begins to draw Hal and Sarah into an incongruous, though steadily developing friendship.

"Made in America," combines romance, parenthood, contemporary humor and an offbeat look at what "family" really means. It is directed by Richard Benjamin and produced by Arnon Milchan, Michael Douglas and Rick

The screenplay is written by Holly Goldberg Sloan, based on a story by Marcia Brandwynne and Nadine Schiff and Holly Goldberg

Executive producers Marcia Brandwynne and Nadine Schiff came up with the concept of a child who, after learning she was a product of artificial insemination, sets out to find her father. The two women, who were both working in local news in Los Angeles at the time, sat down to work out the story details.

"I just knew we had the makings of a funny, dynamic romatic comedy," said producer Arnon Milchan. "I loved the idea that over and over again, with twists and variations, and you'll have a pretty good idea what "Cliffhanger" is all about.

JOHN MONAGHAN

The edge-of-your-seat action thriller, which debuted May 28, opens high on a Rocky Mountain peak. Gabe, the expert mountain climber played by Sylvester Stallone, grips a fellow climber's hand as she dangles 4,000 feet above sea level. She pleads with him not to let her fall, but his hold weakens and she plummets to her death

Eight months later, a still-shaken Gabe climbs the peaks once again when his former partner (Michael Rooker) receives a distress call. What they don't realize is that the senders are actually bloodthirsty treasury thieves who want the climbers to fetch three suitcases full of newly minted currency.

The action that follows, just

The action that follows, just like the old cliffhanging serials of the 1930s and 1940s, finds the climbers in various nail-biting situations.

They battle a collapsing rope bridge, a bat-filled cave, a snow slide, a slowly fraying rope and the sadism of the killers, led here by an evil John Lithgow.

Though he shares some of the derring-do with the likable Rooker, Stallone still hogs most of the action. In one very Rambo-like moment, he is forced to strip down to his T-shirt before ascending a snow-covered peak. The bad guys call it insurance because they know he'll freeze if he doesn't return to them. We might call it an excuse for Sly to flex outside his plaid parka.

'Cliffhanger': It's exciting but overly violent

Janine Turner plays pretty much the same role she does in the TV series "Northern Exposure," that of a pilot in the middle of nowhere. She teams with Stallone in the second half when he escapes and tries to head the other party off at the pass.

The real star of the movie is director Renny Harlin, who makes the most out of the stunning mountain vistas (actually filmed in the Italian Alps.) The Finnishborn director of "Die Hard 2" creates another movie that works completely in visual terms. Mute the dialogue, keep the rousing score (reminiscent again of "North by Northwest") and you'd have the most exciting silent movie ever made.

"Cliffhanger's" set-up, after all, could be done in one title card. The rest of the dialogue consists of screaming, swearing and an occasional wry aside by Lithgow—"You kill one man, they call you a murderer. Kill 30,000, they call you conquerer."

The gratuitious violence and profanity should keep families away from "Cliffhanger", a shame because parents and kids could otherwise enjoy it together. Blame Carolco, the production company that trashed up so many of Arnold Schwarzenegger's pictures and supplied most of the money for this one.

Also blame co-scriptwriter Stallone, who reportedly changed the script around plenty during the long shooting schedule. There's really no emotional closure for that magnificent opening scene, causing better-than-usual character conflicts to take a back seat to mindless action.

Nevertheless, this is the first thrill of the summer season, a visual tour-de-force that allows Stallone to grunt, sweat, flex and seek revenge amidst some truly magnificent locales.

They didn't pull it off. I'm sure.

Dogwood provides food source for birds of eight flowering dogwood trees along the roadside. The flowers are spectacular when in bloom. Though the large white "petal" with a notch at the end is not technically a petal, it does not detract from the beauty of this

TIMOTHY

According to legend, flowering dogwood trees once grew very large, but it was the wood from the dogwood tree that made Christ's cross. Jesus took pity on the tree, which felt so ashamed for what it had done, and changed the growth of the tree to a slender twisted tree. That way it could never be used as a cross again. In addition, its flowers would grow neighbors has a in the shape of a cross; in the center would be a crown of thorns and each petal would have nail marks stained with red.

Dogwood grows to about 30 feet and spreads widely if not crossed. In Michigan, it extends its range to the middle of the lower peninsula. Typically, it is a southern tree, very common in the Appalachian forests.

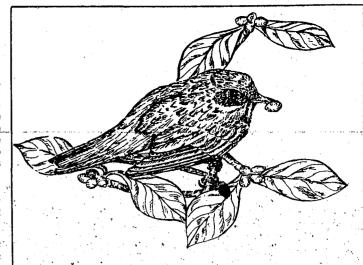

After the flowers are pollinated, scarlet red berries form by fall. These berries are used by more than 40 species of birds because they are very high in fat. Nearly 18 percent fat makes dogwood berries one of the highest fat content berries in the forest. Migrating birds rely on them for energy reserves during their flight south.

Dogwood has been used by people for many things too. A tea was for quinine during the Civil War. It was a poor substitute. Native Americans made an extract from the bark to soothe sore muscles. The red berries were soaked in brandy to relieve stomach acid. It was also used as an appetite stim-

Wood from the flowering dogwood tree served the most practical use. It is very hard and dense. This quality made it food for mallets and wedges because it would not flatten when hit with a hammer. Heads of golf clubs were also made from dogwood at one time. But most dogwood trees were cut down to make shuttles for the textile industry. Few woods could be made as smooth and remain smooth, like dogwood. Today, in 19 eastern states, a fungus is killing flowering dogwood trees that grow in moist forest. Acid rain appears to affect the leaf, making it easier for the fungus to invade the tree. Those trees growing in sunny areas do not die. Undoubtedly the fungus will reach Michigan and we will lose some of our flowering dog-wood trees. But migratory birds and other animals will also lose an important food source.

Tim Nowicki is a naturalist at Independence Oaks County Park in Oakland County. He lives in Livonia. You can leave him a message using a touch-tone phone at 953-2047, mailbox 1874.

Envelope Co. stays ahead of techno-glut

■ Technology's rush has yet to put a hurt on the Birmingham-based Wolf Envelope Co., which still produces up to 3 million envelopes a day.

By Doug Funke Staff Writer

Twenty-six plaques for product excellence line a wall of the 3,500square-foot administrative headquarters of Wolf Envelope Co. tucked away on the second level of South Adams Square in Birmingham.

In this age of fax machines, computer electronic bulletin boards and satellite communications, Wolf continues to supply envelopes to some 300 business clients during this its 70th year of operation.

"We're in a fairly competitive industry," said Hugh F. Mahler, 44, owner/president.

"We sell to the financial industry, do some work for medical filing, bank drive-in envelopes, bank statement envelopes, x-ray filing envelopes. We get involved in general mailing. Utility bills we produce."

Mahler, who started in customer service after graduating from the University of Michigan, has spent virtually his entire working career with Wolf in sales and marketing.

He ultimately succeeded his father, John, as general manager, and jumped at the chance to purchase the

Detroit and Indiana operations in

"I've developed a fondness for the business," he said. "It's an industry that has a lot of variety. Each customer has a unique need. A customer may look for a supplier not only to supply quality product, but help in inventory management or solve a postal regulation problem.

Wolf, originally based in Cleveland, opened a Detroit branch in 1923 to service the burgeoning auto industry and spin-off business growth. In Wolf closed a combination manufacturing/administrative facility in Detroit and moved the offices to Oakland County and the plant to In-

The company always has been profitable, Mahler said, but he declined to reveal details other than peg annual sales at about $10 million.

"We produce 21/2-3 million envelopes a day," he said. "We die cut, we do typesetting, make plates. We have a printing operation. We put the window in and glue on the back.'

Major customers include Ford, NBD and Kmart.

Lawrence Tech engineers create 'The No. 1 Response' to Ford's hybrid challenge

By Chris McCosky Staff Writer

You get the feeling that when the Ford Hybrid Electric Vehicle (HEV) Challenge concludes on Saturday, & Doug Callahan may just collapse in a heap and not stir for a couple of days.

For the better part of six months, Callahan has been holding up on a steady diet of adrenalin and anxiety as he and his Law-Technological University engineering team prepared their car for this unique national intercollegiate competition.

"You'll have to forgive me if I don't make a lot of sense," said the Troy resident prior to a phone interview Thursday. "I haven't been getting much sleep."

Not much. He'd been up for 36 straight hours. But it doesn't take long to realize that Callahan, sleep or no sleep, has never felt more awake and alive.
"We started out with a blank sheet of paper and built something that we can put on the road," said Callahan, who graduated from Lawrence Tech in February and has put his own career on hold until after the HEV Challenge. "It is such a great feeling. There's really nothing like it.'

Callahan, the project manager, and 48 other Lawrence Tech students under the tutelage of faculty advisers Charles Schwartz and Nick Bracik, have built "The No. 1 Response," a sporty, 3,000pound, two-passenger commuter vehicle roughly the size of a Ford Tempo with a hybrid engine that is powered by both fuel and elec-

"It has a fast-back rear, similar to a bubble-butt Porche and the hood looks a little like a Thunderbird," Callahan said.

Best of all worlds

But it's the engine that makes The No. 1 Response one of the favorites in the "Ground-up" Class of the HEV competition, which features 11 other schools including Michigan State and Cal Poly Tech that built cars from scratch.

"Our scenario is, what if they turn Los Angeles into a zero emissions zone and you live in the suburbs?" Callahan said. "We've designed a system where you could use your gas motor when you are-driving outside-the city. then once you get into the city. you can flip a switch and drive on electricity.

The Response engine actually operates in three modes: A regular alternate power internal combustion mode, an electric mode and a hybrid mode that allows the electrical batteries to regenerate while driving in the alternate power

"Our goal was to build a vehicle that would be acceptable in to-day's market," Callahan said. "One that operates no differently than an automatic vehicle. We feel real good about it, real good."

Callahan estimates the base price to build The Response is around $10,000, but with other necessary production costs. Callahan guesses the car would sell on the market for about $25,000.

Glimpsing the future

Callahan and his 10-person Lawrence Tech team --- which is a veritable Observer & Eccentric All-Area engineering team (see the line-up) - took The Response into competition Monday at the Ford Research Engineering facility in Dearborn. The cars will be put through a series of laboratory and over-the-road tests judging emissions, fuel efficiency, vehicle range, acceleration, driveability, design, cost, oral and

'This competition is an important opportunity to strengthen relations between the automotive industry and learning institutions," said Dr. John P. McTague, Ford's vice president for technical affairs. "We want to challenge college students to think ahead to the future of automotive engineering.

The challenge will offer another glimpse into the future of road travel: Detroit Edison "Park Charge" battery charging sta-

"This presents a unique and important opportunity to test how well the charging stations will perform in the future when they become integral parts of the infrastructure needed to accomodate drivers of electric vehicles, John Olson, Edison's electric vehicle program manager said.

Edison will provide 30 stations.

Passing through Livonia The main event of the competition, the range event, takes place Friday. The 100-mile event will test the cars' zero emissions and hybrid driving modes.

All the cars - the 12 groundup cars and another 18 converted Ford Escorts featuring one from Wayne State - will caravan along a route from Dearborn to Michigan International Speedway in Brooklyn. The caravan will proceed on Hines Drive through Dearborn Heights, Westland, Livonia, Plymouth, Northville, Ann Arbor, Saline and Clinton.

It should pass through Livonia along Hines Drive and Plymouth Road between 10:15 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. Friday, stopping briefly at the Ford Transmission and Chassis Division on Plymouth Road in Livonia.

Over $75,000 in awards will be doled out to winners in various categories, but that's not the motivating force for Callahan.

"Just to finish a project like this and have it succeed is what it's all about," he said. "It's an amazing feeling.'

Almost as good as a full night's rest; but Callahan wouldn't know about that, yet.

Twenty-three employees sales, billing and support staff work out of Birmingham, about 70 in Angola, Ind. Mahler, aware of the potential affect of technology on the envelope business, isn't pushing any panic buttons.

'Mail is still a significant part of most businesses' business," he said. "There's more home buying, catalog buying, more communication to the individual at home. That means sending correspondences.

'Using Visa or credit cards means more envelopes to confirm billing. Direct mail is still a strong means of getting a communication to somebody.

"We still have to keep files for medical records," Mahler added. Then there's envelopes for shipping parts in various manufacturing processes.

But beyond that, Mahler figures that Wolf supplies more than envelopes to its customers.

'What we try to figure out is what they're trying to accomplish," he said. "Some might be looking at reducing inventory levels, close a warehouse, someone to distribute envelopes to all branch

"Sooner or later, you can't get envelopes any cheaper than costs," Mahler said. "Then we focus on the service aspect. Design of the envelope. Maybe we can figure out ways to save paper, reduce costs.

Thomas J. Hector, who recently joined Wolf as general sales manager from the financial services industry, picked up on that "He and I agree, based on my sales experience, that we can't operate on price alone," Hector said. 'Our thrust is to elevate the company to a higher level in terms of quality of production, delivery and a consultative approach with the customer.

"If you look at the volume the post office is processing, that's not decreasing. Fax and electronic measures in a lot of ways are supplemental to what envelopes can provide," Hector said...

"People are confirming faxs with a follow-up letter in the mail," said Ken Christian, vice president of manufacturing. "Not everyone has Prodigy in a computer. We get bank statements. You need envelopes for floppy discs information is put on. We aren't a paperless society yet."

"One good thing about this industry," Mahler said. "It has slow times like anyone else, but when things get bad, envelopes are needed on a daily basis. It's less cyclical than the auto business.

"We're trying to grow our business through geographic expansion." Mahler said. "We're servicing Indiana and Illinois already. Certainly, there's opportunity Freudenberg-NOK in Plymouth has created a new enterprise group within its Seal Division to speed the adoption of high-performance seal rings for automotive and industrial applications.

According to Freudenberg-NOK president and CEO Joseph C. Day, who made the announcement, seal rings can help automakers enhance quality and reduce warranty claims on critical applications such as fuel injectors and anti-lock braking systems.

Seal rings which were pioneered in the United States by Freudenberg-NOK — are 'light years ahead' of typical automotive 0-rings in material technology, ease of installation and performance reliability in critical environments, according to Norman E. Bash, vice president and business manager for the new seal ring group.

According to Bash, automakers will turn to seal rings as they become aware of their significant potential impact on reliability, warranty costs and customer loy-

"Faulty 0-rings are one of the most commonly identified causes of fuel injection system failures, with the average injector failure costing an automaker at least $200 and untold goodwill with the consumer," Bash said. 'By investing just a few cents more for a seal ring, the automaker can make significant gains in reliability, total system economy and, ultimately, customer satisfaction.

In addition to fuel injection and anti-lock braking systems, other targeted applications for seal rings include automotive air conditioning compressors, steering systems and transmissions.

While an 0-ring is typically made in a very large plate mold containing hundreds or thousands of cavities, seal rings are made on small molding machines using a special compression molding technique that employs sheet as feedstock.

Weight Loss Shocks Scientists

Seattle - A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete food tablet would eliminate world hunger, until the study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause weight loss without dieting.

Scientists in Europe found that an ingredient in the product named Food Complex 3 actually caused people to lose weight, even though they weren't changing their eating patterns. According to a study published in the British Journal of Nutrition, scientists had speculated that the weight loss was due to a reduction in the intestinal absorption of fat grams.

The development of Food Complex 3, a project of First Lite int'i, inc., could not be used to fulfill its intended goal but it has been a great success for overweight people. A Miami Beach, Florida, man struggling with a weight problem for 15 years used Food Complex 3 on the recommendation of his doctor and lost 43 lbs. He said, "My cholesterol dropped 96 points and I lost 43 lbs. Now I have to buy all new clothes." In another report from Mesa, Arizona, a pharmacist lost 16 lbs. in 14 days with Food Complex 3 and never felt hungry.

Lopez strife begs query: Is this how to run a car company?

ago when GM filed criminal charges in Germany, alleging Lopez took secret documents with him when he left his GM job for a far richer

The strange

saga of J. Ignacio

Lopez, the for-mer GM purchasing czar, took a bizarre

twist a few weeks

post at Volkswagen. It was no secret that Lopez' relations with GM's suppliers and a significant portion of the GM establishment made Ross Perot look like a Dale Carnegie graduate by comparison.

Still, the allegations that he was last seen exiting the GM building with cartons of top-secret GM documents seemed a bit much. Lopez apparently thinks so too, and responded by filing a libel suit against GM, while vehemently denying the charge.

Whether or not those cardboard boxes contained the alleged GM secrets or merely a couple of old bowling trophies, the brickbats being tossed at Lopez have something more than symbolic overtones.

Lopez was, after all, for a short time the symbol of GM's promised renaissance, the guy who was going to turn the battleship around (as former GM Chairman Roger Smith used to say), and do it overnight.

■ The Lopez saga now seems headed for German courts, guaranteeing a spectacle that will make two of the largest auto organizations in the world look pretty silly.

Actually, what Roger Smith said was that you can't turn this battleship around overnight.

But I digress.

In fact, Lopez was in no position to turn GM around, overnight or otherwise, all by himself. But he was in a position to shake things up. He started by throwing out old supplier contracts and going after the lowest bidder. This is, of course, the way old-time. purchasing agents used to operate back before they took courses in how the Japanese do it. In the old days, the response to getting a contract canceled was to take the purchasing agent deer hunting at your lodge up North.

Lopez apparently didn't like to hunt, so he became known as one grimly determined to get what he wanted — namely cheap parts.

This doesn't exactly seem like the kind of strategy that needs to be carted out of the GM building in the dead of night.

On the other hand, GM set a precedent when it prosecuted a clerk in its photo lab for stealing a picture of the Saturn car and selling it to Automobile magazine a couple of months before GM began paying Automobile magazine to run ada for Saturn which included the same picture.

The Lopez saga now seems headed for German courts, guaranteeing a spectacle that will make two of the largest auto organizations in the world look pretty silly. Already, a half dozen or so former GM executives have followed Lopez from Bloomfield Hills to Wolfsburg, a move that may yet be revealed as GM's own version of a Trojan horse. Certain GM-executives have been forced to sign contracts that say they won't begin packing cardboard boxes of their own. Inevitably, this hurt the feelings of the executives that weren't asked to promise they won't leave.

One could ask if this is anyway to run an auto company. Then again, it seems like it was only yesterday that wearing your watch on your right wrist - Lopez notion of signifying that the times were changing - seemed like a pretty good idea.

Most people think that they will go to heaven. But is this confidence based on God's Word, the Bible? Jesus sald, "Except a man be born again...he cannot enter into the kingdom of God" (John 3:3.5). No one can go to heaven without being born again. As Jesus sald, "Ve MUST be born again" (John 3:7). If you are seeking the truth of God, come worship with us and learn what the Bible teaches about being born again.

Singles find friendship at church

When Nita Dorsey sees an emotionally fragile, newly divorced erson, she empathizes

Dorsey, of Westland, has survived the pain she felt when her own 25-year marriage broke up. Today, she enjoys the support of her friends at Bethany, a support group for divorced and widowed atholics and non-Catholics.

'You look at these people and know what they are feeling," said Dorsey, a secretary.

Paul Clough also found a fresh start after being fired from his job as a teacher in a Christian school because he got a divorce.

"There is life after divorce," said Clough, 43, of Plymouth.

Today, Clough is remarried. Following that earlier unhappy period, Clough became an ordained minister and now serves with the huge Single Point Ministries at Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia.

We are a place of healing and health and hope," Clough said. Bethany and Single Point are two of several local singles groups sponsored by, or affiliated with, churches. Most, however, are nondenominational and attract people from all backgrounds.

Some groups provide counseling and grief recovery. Others are strictly social. Many are combinations of both. Fees, if any, are

Present and future

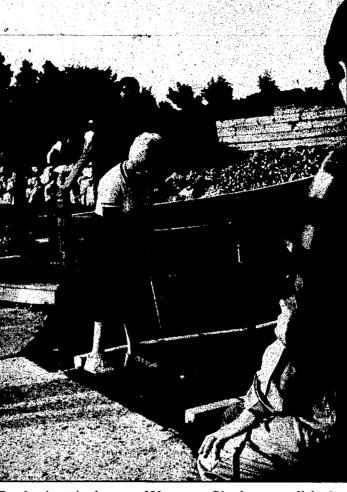

"We don't want to hash over divorce or death," said Ann Anderson, president of Voyagers Singles, which meets at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in Livonia. We're interested in the present and future."

Voyagers, geared to people 45 and older, sponsors speakers on topics ranging from astrology to taxes, nutrition and real estate. Members bowl, play cards and go to the theater.

"It's the sociability and companionship," said Anderson, a Livonia widow in her 70s. "You meet a lot of nice people.'

The 21 PLUS group is part of Single Place Ministries, which meets at First Presbyterian Church of Northville. It caters to singles in their 20s.

"You don't have to be Catholic, separated or divorced," Dorsey said. "You do have to be single."

According to Dorsey, dating issues loom large for many divorced or separated Catholics.

"When I say I understand how people feel, I have experienced it,' Clough said.

Keeping a singles group going can be challenging, said Anderson, who has been with Voyagers for several years. If too few people participate, the group runs out of steam.

Thriving groups can be sabotaged by excessively talkative people who drive away prospective members, said a divorced Redford woman who has given up on singles groups. Pushy people who try to dominate also are a turnoff, she added.

Some people are strictly husband-hunting or wife-seeking. A Livonia widow recalled feeling uneasy at a singles meeting; she felt people were desperately interested in pairing off.

But the benefits outweigh the challenges, according to Ander-

Most moral ar-

ponent introduced by many of the parties involved in the debate has a way of hiding the forest among the tress. It is no secret that the abortion debate since Roe vs. Wade has generated far more rhetoric and emotion, far more heat than light. The heat has been generated by sincere people on both sides of the spectrum

Despite the bias from which that heat is generated, and in this case both sides seem to have collectively contributed their share, there comes a time in any turmoil for everyone to put down their rhetorical weapons and reflect on just where we have come from and where we might be headed. Screaming at each other never has served well to arrive at truth, despite the sincerity of the screamers.

Mad hatters: Members of the Bethany singles chapter, which meets at St. Robert

Bellarmine Church in Redford, donned their favorite and funniest hats for - what else

So where have we come from? We once spoke of pregnant women as being with chlid, as carrying a baby. Political correctness has taught us to speak of a fetus in the uterus. A fetus is much easier to take lightly, since it does not convey the same humanness as a child or a baby.

At the same time, the term uterus doesn't carry with it the same notion of protective place that the dictionary and common parlance assigns to the notion of womb. So we have come to a new way of speaking.

One wonders as to whether the vocabulary has given rise to the thought or whether the thought necessitated the vocabulary. In either case, dehumanization of vocabulary does open doors that were not even there before. So we have come to a new way of thinking and a new way of speaking. The two, of course, do go together.

We have also come from a time in which women were undeniably subjugated to men, a time in which our mothers, sisters, daughters and wives were treated in too many instances as things. That was not good, nor has the situation been totally fixed. Again one would have to wonder. One might wonder, however, whether the road from Roe vs. Wade to the front door of the Freedom of Choice Act has done all that much to fix this particular prob-

So where are we headed? The proposed FOCA bill, the one that the president has promised to sign, if it gets through Congress, does offer a hint of an answer, if we are willing to look at its implications. The backers of the bill insist that it is doing nothing other than codifying Roe, which would mean that it is not taking us anywhere other than where we have been.

However, such a claim does not seem to square with the fact that the bill will allow abortion far into the third trimester. At the National Abortion Federation meeting last September, Dr. Martin Haskill detailed the procedure for late second- and third-trimester abortions. The reasons for the procedure are to protect the health of the woman, which is open to include emotional or mental pain, short term or long

Yes, we have come a long way, but are we headed where we really want to be? Or is it possible that we may already be there, like it or not? At what point does a moral and sincere society become mature enough to admit that it has made some wrong choices regardless of sincerity and at what point do they become willing to look at all the ramifications and turn around where they must?

VICTORIA DIAZ

Canton author paces fiction writing contest

anda Freeman has been named winner of the 1993 fiction writing competition at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. The Canton author won the contest with a short story titled, "Orphan Child."

The story — about a young girl who sets out to find a father she never had — is set near Freeman's native New Orleans. About 15 pages long, she says it took several years to complete.

(If you're not a writer, that may surprise you. If you are a writer -- especially a writer of short fiction - you may not be surprised at all. Not for nothing is short fiction considered today one of the most difficult literary forms in which to work.)

'Writing it involved many fits and starts," says Freeman, a 1976 graduate of the University of New

"If I remember correctly, I think it started with one image - an image of a little girl, alone, running down a sidewalk to a store to look for her daddy in some little town in Louisiana. I definitely have to have a character that's interesting to me to start a story. And a sense of place is very strong with me, too.

The story had its inception nearly 10 years ago, she remembers. Through the years — one version or another of the story in tow - she ran the gamut of writing workshops, took several writing classes, developed a few more stories and slowly gathered a collection of critiques.

Some of the criticism scared her to death, she says, because many workshop participants and fellow writing students suggested she turn "Orphan Child" into a novel.

'I always got very scared as soon as I thought I might be writing a novel! I had never written anything that long and I was just overwhelmed by the whole idea," she says.

'As time passed, I'd put the story on a back burner, pick it up now and then, take a look at it, do a little something to it, then put it back.'

Studied creative writing

This fall, wanting to hone her fiction writing skills a little further and also hoping to make closer connections with area writers, she signed up for a creative writing class at Schoolcraft College. The time seemed right somehow. "Orphan Child" went along.

After reading part of it one day, instructor Kathy Leo asked to see the rest. When she'd finished reading, she didn't suggest to Freeman that she turn it into a novel. Instead, she encouraged her to enter it in the Schoolcraft fiction competition.

'At first, I was very much on the fence about entering the contest," recalls Freeman. "I wasn't sure the story was ready."

But after a few more revisions, and almost daily reminders from Leo that she should "just do it," ry on the last day of the contest.

Publication of the story in the November 1993 issue of Schoolcraft's literary magazine, The MacGuffin, will mark the first time any of her fiction has appeared in print.

A journalism background

Freeman has been community relations coordinator for Borders Novi since 1988. Her writing background has been in journalism and public relations.

Early in her career, she worked as a TV critic at The Times-Picayune in New Orleans, She has also written for the music industry magazine, Billboard, and contributed articles to Michigan Woman and the Detroit Free Press.

She doesn't perceive any significant differences in writing fiction and non-fiction. "Having been a journalist essentially taught me how to write," she says. "And once you know the basic craft of writing, you can write in any form." Which is not to say it's easy, of course, she's quick to add. Sometimes, it can take years and years to get it right. The November MacGuffin will be available at selected area bookstores. Readers may also order copies by sending a check or money order (payable to Schoolcraft College) to: The MacGuffin, c/o Arthur Lindenberg, Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia 48152. Copies are $3.75 each.

Ginny Grush of Farmington Hills took second place in Schoolcraft's fiction writing contest. Julie Withers of Redford Township placed third.

Last words: Detroit Women Writers and Friends of the Detroit Library will present six DWW fiction authors reading from their published works at 7 p.m. Wednesday, June 16. The "Spring Evening of Readings" will take place in the Detroit Public Library, 5201 Woodward. Scheduled to read are S.K. Wolf, Gloria Whelan, Martha Stiles, Florence Dolgorukov, Gay Rubin and Pearl Ahnen. Dona-

Country look in home decor going West

BY JOAN BORAM SPECIAL WRITER

The "country" look in interior design has evolved yet again. This latest metamorphosis, called "American Country West," has moved away from ditsy-country and pared-down country toward a look that's a comfortable blend of classic and eclectic.

During a seminar at Scott Shuptrine in Troy, Linda Mariano, editorial marketing manager for Country Home magazine, gave her enthusiastic audience a brief history of the country look, the reasons for its universal popularity, and the refinements that define Western Country.

"Country has been so popular because it's the most eclectic of interior looks," Mariano said.

"It's a trend that has swept across the United States, beloved by homeowners and apartment dwellers alike, who respond to its warmth and comfort. Country provides an escape from our hightéch world, giving a sense of security and roots, making our home a source of psychic enrich-

"Country has constantly changed over the past few years. Six or seven years ago, country was often either a primitive, cluttered look or a restrained New England ambience, emphasizing historical correctness.

"About 1988, country came into its own: It became softer, prettier, more romantic. Rooms now have fewer pieces, but those pieces tend to be bigger. Sofas can be soft and plump, providing greater comfort. There's even a touch of Victoriana — wicker and rattan are very much a part of today's country look. And twig furniture - once reserved for country cottages - compliments the new lighter primitive look."

The Western regional theme isn't, as you might expect, big on split railings, barbed wire and branding irons. Rather, it takes into account the fact that most Western settlers migrated from the Eastern or near Midwestern areas of the United States, and that, generally, their ultimate roots were European.

So, the Western look is charming melange of English countryside, French provincial, Scandinavian, East European, Mediterranean, American Indian, Spanish and Mexican.

Typically, the pioneers took one favorite piece of furniture along with them on their trek West. It may have been a Jacobean chest or a Queen Anne tester bed that after the long, rigorous journey, needed repair.

The materials available were Mexican, American Indian or Spanish, and so the Jacobean chest acquired conch hardware, and the Queen Anne tester bed was braced with adobe.

This wonderful contradiction between pure classic and Western cultures has been captured in the American Country West furniture collection, presented by Lexington Furniture Industries, whose designers worked alongside Mary Emmerling, the doyenne of the country look.

Many of the pieces are actual reproductions of historical pieces in private hands, while others were inspired by similar pieces. The collection is exclusive to Scott Shuptrine in this area.

The heritage behind these pieces is beyond the geographical West. It actually extends from New England to Tennessee to Oregon. Despite the regional connotation of its name, American Country West is really the quintessential American look.

"There are dozens of country looks, but all of them have certain characteristics in common: They're all warm and comfortable and inviting. These are not museum rooms — red velvet ropes have no place here. They're unpretentious, not formal or fancy. Antiques, or quality reproductions, are the hallmark of country style, personalized with handcrafted accessories.

"There's a respect for craftsmanship, displayed in pottery, folk art and quilts. You can never have too many accessories. What you have is unique to you, and reflects your taste and style. Start with what you have. Gather everything together - don't dilute a collection by scattering pieces in different rooms.

In closing, Mariane suggested that every room should have a little animal (leather, a horn chandelier); a little vegetable (live plants, wood), and a little mineral (iron, glass).

Country look: The "American Country West" look in interior design, exemplified by this sofa, combines the classic and eclectic. It's comfortable and unpretentious, featuring a display of accessories.

Learn fine art of creating in miniature

Miniature flowers and plants, as well as interior and exterior decoration for dollhouses, are among the subjects for summer classes beginning Saturday, June 12, at Miniature Makers' Workshop. Instructors include Judy Shellhaas of Plymouth.

Classes will continue through Sept. 25 at the Workshop, 4515 N. Wood-ward in Royal Oak. For information about classes in the art of miniature making, call 549-0633.

The schedule will include three afternoon classes for children, said Criss Goad, owner of Miniature Makers' Workshop. The recent show at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association, "Masterpieces in Miniature II," had stimulated new enthusiasm for creating tiny replicas on the standardized scale of one inch to the actual foot, she said.

Emphasis on flowers begins with a class on dried flower arrangements July 8, to be taught by Betsie Robinson of Birmingham. She will also conduct summer classes on electrical wiring and dollhouse exteriors and interiors, as well as a lighted Christmas

Among other flower classes is a July 12 session on African violets, and a July 19 session on geraniums and hyacinths, taught by Linda Raih of Rochester Hills.

Among other instructors is Nancy Van Camp of Pontiac, whose subjects will include "Let's Bake a Pie" Aug. 5. Walter Schutter of Sterling Heights will teach students the art of making a Queen Anne game table Aug. 9.

Judy Shellhaas of Plymouth will conduct a six-Saturday course beginning June 26 on the carving of an ornate parlor fireplace. Agnes Miller of Troy will teach the assembling, wigging and dressing of a Victorian lady doll Aug. 21.

Raih will also teach two classes for children: paper flowers July 12 and mixed fruit July 19. A third class for children July 24, on creating a wicker plant stand, will be instructed by Sue Jaques of Farmington Hills.

Fees vary according to class length and materials required. Registration is requested one week in advance of each class.

Enrollees may bring their projects and join in free, open workshops every a past president (1939-1941) and long-time member.

In October 1992, Stevens placed first in the club's fall exhibit at Livonia City, Hall. She placed first three times in a row at club exhibits.

"Model with Venezuelan Rug," Stevens' winning watercolor in Dearborn, focuses on a darkhaired, rotund female figure dressed in white.

"This painting is beautifully done, with wonderful composition and handling of the media. (It has) interesting use of color, creating a beautiful face and mood," Stephenson said.

Stevens earned a bachelor's of fine art degree from Syracuse University and a teaching certificate in art and a master's degree in education from Wayne State University. She returned to painting after retiring in 1989 from teaching art and general education in Wayne-Westland Community Schools and Detroit Public Schools for a total of 28 years.

As an educator, Stevens knows the importance of growth. She has studied with Edee Joppich, Sondra Freckleton, Marie Larson, Audrey DiMarco, Electra Stamelos and Stephenson. She studied portraiture last fall with Stephenson at the BBAA. Stevens painted her winning portrait in a class at the BBAA.

"I can find models who can pose long enough for me - 12 to 18 hours — only in a classroom, for it takes me countless hours to complete a painting," Stevens

"Careful drawing is important to me and I need to see the model firsthand to understand his or her unique physical characteristics and personality. When I saw this set up, I was delighted with the way the patterned rug, which hung in the background, set off the white gown of the model. I tried to zero in on it in my compo-

Gala to open garden spectacular

BY MARTY FIGLEY STAFF WRITER

There is something for everyone at the second annual Meadow Brook Hall Landscape and Garden Show, Friday-Sunday, June 11-13, at Oakland University off Adams in Rochester Hills.

· Because of the successful show last year, the event has been extended to three days. Hours are noon to 8 p.m. June 11, and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. June

Advance tickets, available through Ticketmaster, are $6 for adults. Admission at the gate is $7 for adults, $3 for children younger than 12, free for children younger than 3. Group rates are available through the MDLA office. Call 646-4992.

A preview gala will take place Thursday, June 10, beginning at 6 p.m. with garden tours and a wine reception, followed by dinner and music. This gala is open to the public by advance ticket reservation only. Cost is $37.50 per person. Call 646-4992 for reservations.

The show is co-sponsored by the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association, Olympia Arenas Inc. and OU's Meadow Brook Festival and Meadow Brook Hall.

In addition to the 28 permanent gardens surrounding Meadow Brook Hall and the Meadow Brook Music Festival, seven special gardens will inspire all who attend.

A miniature railroad garden containing trains that actually run on tracks has been planned by the Lakeshore Garden Railway Club. This unusual hobby, popular in Europe for many years, is now gaining momentum in this country. The trains will run on a 25-by-80-foot track through forests of fern and manmade mountains, over bridges and along waterways. Both children and adults will be entranced by this garden. The Maze Garden, the size of two tennis courts, has been planted with evergreens that visitors will want to explore. The Teddy Bear Picnic at III In addition to the 28 permanent gardens surrounding Meadow Brook Hall and the Meadow Brook Music Festival, seven special gardens will inspire and delight all who attend.

Knole Cottage, a mini-version of the mansion, will show that bears can have great fun at a tea party and playing in the sandbox near the vegetable garden.

The forecourt of Meadow Brook Hall will be graced with large bird topiaries, one with a wing span of 9 feet. A serene water garden will also be featured there.

Carpet bedding will surround the hall's signature statuary, Pegasus Fountain. This display has been designed by Jim Justis, floriculture supervisor of the Detroit Recreation Department.

The Kitchen Garden has been planted in a 16-by-16-foot area near the kitchen entrance. Many herbs and vegetables have been planted around a bench where visitors can sit and enjoy the fragrance and charm of these plants.

The public may participate in the Container Garden Display and Contest, sponsored by the Oakland Press, as area professionals demonstrate container gardens such as trough. bonsai, water, topiary and window box.

Prizes will be awarded in various categories. Call Meadow Brook horticulturist Kim Zelinski at 370-3140 for an application. Contestants are encouraged to submit their best container garden so there will be many examples of this type of gardening.

Each day speakers will share their expertise on particular garden subjects.

They include Jim Wilson. author, columnist and co-host of public TV's "Victory Garden"; Frederick McGourty. horticulturist, designer and author of the Brooklyn Botanic Garden handbook series; and Don Juchartz, horticulturist, former director of Wayne County Cooperative Extension and WJR Radio's "The Garden Doctor:'

Also, Bob Schutzki, professor of ornamental landscape at Michigan State University and curator of the Clancy Lewis Arboretum; George Hartley, Detroit Rose Society past president and author of numerous rose articles; Scott Bates, water garden specialist, co-owner of Grass Roots Nursery in New Boston; and G. Dean Mooney of the American Institute of Floral Designers and Twiggs & Blossom's Ltd., Rochester.

Visitors will find many other activities from which to choose. Animal control expert Dale

Elshoff will explain how to control moles and other garden

Members of the South Oakland County Resource Recovery Authority will be on hand to take the guesswork out of recycling garden refuse and to explain the appropriate use of

"Mr. Gates" will give ideas for restoring and refinishing

Members of Global Releaf will explain how to select disease-resistant trees for a particular site.

Keith Alexander, owner of Alexander Nursery in Mount Clemens, will demonstrate the art of planting container gar-

Other highlights of this three-day event include an outdoor market place where gardening-related products, including books, may be bought. Lawn and garden equipment will be displayed.

Guided tours of the landscape displays and nature trails will be conducted by the Arborist Association. Tours of Meadow Brook Hall and Knole Cottage will be available for an additional fee. Food and beverages will be available.

The Friends of Nankin Mills. in conjunction with Wayne County Parks Division, will present the fifth annual Spring Elegance juried fine art show and country fair Sunday, June 6, at the Civil Warera mill, 33175 Ann Arbor Trail and Edward Hines Drive, Westland.

Twenty crafters and fine artists will exhibit their wares noon to 5 p.m. at the annual benefit for the white clapboard mill, built in 1863 and now home to Wayne County Parks.

"We have two purposes for the art show and country fair: to raise money for us to continue restoration of the building and to get people reacquainted with the mill," said Kathy Myers, event co- chairwoman.

'We want for people who have lived here to remember their heritage and to see how the community started, to see how the city started.' Arts and crafts, including oil painting, soft sculpture, wood, stone jewelry, loom woven rugs, miniatures and collectibles, will be judged by Saundra Weed of Westland, an art instructor at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

'We're looking forward to the new artists and crafters this year, plus the face painters are returning for the children," said Denise Mehelich, Friends president and event co-chairwoman.

"In general, the level of excitement is very high because of the groundbreaking being so close at

Plans call for Nankin Mills to be restored to 1930s vintage, when Henry Ford I used it to manufacture stencils for marking car parts. Ford-era machinery will be worked into exhibits interpreting the history of the building.

To add flavor to Spring Elegance, reproductions of clothing from the 1800s sewn by Myers will be displayed. Myers is the granddaughter of Floyd Bassett, who sold Ford the mill in 1918. Ford had visited the gristmill as a youngster.

Other activities will include square dancing, round dancing and Irish step dancing - weather permitting.

To close the special evening, a country and western concert takes place on the front porch of the mill beginning at 6 p.m. The music is sponsored by the Westland Cultural Society.

In 1991, the county unveiled plans to restore and double the size of the three-story mill and make it assessable to the disabled. Grants will cover much of the $1.5 million cost.

The new wing will house the parks staff and a multimedia community room. The original mill again will house a staffed nature center.

Since teaming up in 1988, Wayne County Parks and Friends of Nankin Mills have restored the exterior of the original mill and an 1840s Greek Revival tenant

The mill was one of 20 waterdriven country industries run by Ford between 1919 and 1944 as part of an ambitious plan to offer farmers winter work and help preserve the rural way of life.

In 1948 Ford's widow, Clara, donated Nankin, Mills to the

From 1957 to 1979, Nankin Mills Nature Center, along with the area's wounded and displaced animals, flourished under the care of naturalist Mary Ellsworth. The mill fell into disrepair after county budget cutbacks.

ward Hines Drive. (See related story, 5D).

Hicks, who has been weaving rugs for about 10 years, spends four to five hours a day producing his nearly indestructible product. He will travel to a dozen outdoor shows this year.

The Westland weaver said his rugs "are made from the toes of tube socks. When they sewed the tube sock together, they cut off the excess, which gives you a loop. The loops are put together like a string of rubber bands and then

"You just can't wear them out," he said. "They're like the oldfashioned rag rugs. They're all machine washable and reversible so you can get both sides dirty before you wash them.'

In the spare bedroom of the house shared with Vera, his wife of 43 years, a barefooted Hicks sits working on a floor loom made by ORCO (Oriental Rug Co.)

He passes the shuttle back and forth past 160 strings of warp, weaving one tight row at a time on the 1903 loom that encompasses nearly the entire room.

A stack of loaded shuttles sit on a table in the corner already looped and filled by Vera.

Hicks first became interested in weaving when two friends down in Florida coaxed him to sit down at a floor loom and give it a try.

"It's relaxing. Once you retire, you have to do something," said Hicks, shrugging his shoulders.

He retired from United Airlines after 30 years. "It was one of those things where a hobby turned into

A jolly laugh, full beard and rotund silhouette make this rug weaver memorable. His reputation for quality is why people who follow arts and craft shows have come to ask for the "Hillbilly Weaver" by name.

At shows, he dresses the part, clad in bib overalls with red bandana hanging from his back pocket. When asked why he calls himself the "Hillbilly Weaver," Hicks replied in a playfully exaggerated drawl: "Because I come from West Virginia originally."

Selling the rugs has become a family affair, with daughter Cindy and her two daughters helping him at the shows.

Hicks' rugs, with a knobby look and a plush texture, are available in a variety of pastel colors. The loom-woven rugs range in price from $10 for an 18- by 30-inch rug to $25 for a rug two by six feet. Larger sizes are available for $3 a square foot.

Spring Elegance at Nankin Mills is a first for Hicks, who says he looks forward to its historic atmosphere. "I think you should restore the past to keep it for the future," he said.

Don't let 'extra' costs spoil first home buy

BY DOUG FUNKE STAFF WRITER

The down payment and monthly mortgage payments are only two cash elements involved in purchasing a house.

First-time buvers should anticipate coming up with several thousand dollars from the time they make an offer to actually moving in.

"Many people-don't account for the little extras and end up disillusioned with a home purchase," said Doug Stranahan, divisional president of Century 21 Great

"It is important to sit down with your real estate agent and make a list of all the costs you anticipate. Your agent can help you ensure that you aren't forgetting anything.

Those extras include earnest money, mortgage application fee, points, inspection, mortgage insurance, homeowners insurance, real estate taxes, utility hook-ups and legal fees.

Earnest money is included with a purchase offer to show sincerity of purpose. Typically, this is the first check written in the process and is a percentage of the offering

"Three percent is a general rule of thumb, but that doesn't mean it has to be that," said Michelle Michael, an agent with Re/Max Executive in Farmington Hills. 'I've seen them from $500 to 5 percent.'

A 3-percent earnest deposit with a $60,000 offer is $1,800. The money is set aside and applied to the purchase at closing.

"If you follow the parameters set by the seller, you may receive all this money back if you decide not to buy the home," Stranahan said. "But be sure to check with the agent and seller if your money is returnable.'

Figure on paying a mortgage application fee of about $300. That fee generally is non-refundable if 'you don't qualify for a mortgage or subsequently elect not to finance through that institution.

Comparison shop to find out exactly what other mortgage processing fees may be involved down the line.

Banks and savings and loans pass on fees they incur for credit reports, surveys and title protection, usually payable at closing.

First-time buyers should talk with a banker before beginning a house search to know exactly what they can afford, Michael said. That can usually be done without a fee and it saves time and money in the long run.

An inspection at the buyer's expense has become standard practice, especially on older houses.

"Depending on the company, inspection costs range from $125-$300," Stranahan said. "Your agent can usually recommend someone to provide this service. Request a written report from whomever you select.

Legal fees associated with buying a house can range from $300-$500, said Charlotte Wirth, an attorney with a practice in Redford.

While lawyers aren't mandatory in the process, their expertise can help structure sales to your advantage and make sure you hold clear title to property.

Involve a lawver before you submit a purchase agreement, a binding legal contract.

Again, find out what exactly what a lawyer will do for a fee.

'I always review paper with them (clients) to make sure they understand what they're signing,' Wirth said.

Points, mortgage discount fees charged by financial institutions. can be paid in cash at closing or rolled into the loan. A point is 1 percent of the amount borrowed.

If paid up front, 2 points typical nowadays — on a $48,000 mortgage would amount to $960.

Figure on coming up with cash for the escrow account equal to one year's property taxes and one year of homeowners insurance protection. Shop for insurance rates and obtain tax information from town halls.

Then there's utility connection

Michigan Bell requires $42 to initiate telephone service after a

Michigan Consolidated requires a deposit of $50 refundable after a year only of new customers who have no utility credit record in Michigan for the past six years.

Detroit Edison requires $5 to set up a new account for all customers. A refundable deposit ranging from $25-$100 depending on past average monthly billings at that address also is required of new customers with no utility credit record.

Consumers Power generally doesn't require a deposit or connection fee.

Don't forget moving costs. Better yet, maybe family and friends will help for free.

Key, Fla. The condo managing agent says it will rent my condo on a weekly basis when I am not there, for a small fee. I vathe world and plan to use it no more than three weeks a year. Any comments?

Having reviewed the market conditions in that area, I would strongly suggest that you carefully review the reasonable feasibility of renting out your unit for 49 weeks of the year and the fee you will have to pay if you are successful in renting it.

The market appears soft and the rental commissions are high. Perhaps a time-share condominium that allows you access to condos around the world might better suit your needs, assuming you are very careful in selecting the right time share.

As to the problem, review your condo by-laws and get a copy of the association's insurance policy to determine the extent of coverage, if any. The association may be balking in that there is a deductible, but many times the association's insurance coverage includes wallpaper.

I have been in situations where the association has used legal counsel to appear and appeal the assessment at the local tax assessor's office on behalf of the members of the association as a group to streamline the process and bring common issues of concern to the attention of the assessor.

A Man's Job?

Women want hand in home design

■ Would homes be better built if women had a louder voice in the design concept? The trend seems to be be that more homes are being designed with a feminine touch.

Mugerian has been living in her house — a house she dearly loves for 10 years now, but there are a few Marjorie Nanian Mugerian of design problems that with a little more forethought could have been avoided.

"I really think men and women think differently — they approach problem solving differently," she said. "I'm not saying one way of thinking is better than the other, but I think we can benefit by incorporating the opinions of both men and women toward solving problems (in house design).'

Men have been designing houses for decades; guess who's input has been missing?

Mugerian, full-time mother and attorney, said before she was married and had children she had visions of co-equal partners running the house and caring for the children.

Then she discovered the hard truth about family life. "I found out that despite all my ideolology, when you get married and have children, ideology and reality clash.

Silverton wins People's Choice at Homearama

And the People's Choice is . . the Silverton, a neo-traditional house of 2,700 square feet built by Bridge Lake Properties of Clarks-

That model was voted the most popular by crowds who last week-end attended Homearama, a showcase of 11 idea homes, sponsored by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan.

"Among the reasons people cited for choosing this home were its fireplace, in the master bedroom suite, use of windows, curved staircase and general layout of the home," said Nancy Rosen, BASM spokeswoman.

The Silverton's main floor includes a great room with vaulted ceiling, library/media room, dining room, kitchen, breakfast nook, laundry and lavatory. All four bedrooms are upstairs.

A 21/2 car garage connects to the laundry room.

Outstanding features of the model include:

■ A leaded-glass front door leading to a vaulted ceiling foyer with curved oak staircase and ceramic tile flooring.

A bridge overlooking the great room with vaulted ceiling and floor-to-ceiling windows.

A curved wall at the library/

■ A master suite featuring a raised see-through fireplace, cathedral ceiling in bedroom and vaulted ceiling in bathroom.

A barrel-vault roof over the front porch extending two stories

The model as built for Homearama would cost $259.900 to duplicate, said Anne M. Vinstra, a principal with Bridge Lake

"I think I heard for the most part a lot of comments in two areas," she said. "One was ceiling treatments. We use a lot of crown moldings, a lot of varied heights, high ceilings.

'Another comment people had were the colors I used — plum, teal and taupe," Vinstra added. "I try to keep it a classic feel, but I like to spruce it up with contemporary color."

Her response to winning the People's Choice Award? "We were overwhelmed. We thought it was wonderful.

The Alexandria, a ranch home of 2.000 square feet with three bedrooms and 21/2 baths built by Matteo Homes of Rochester. placed second in the voting.

Homearama continues through June 13 in the Silver Bell Village Subdivision in Orion Township.

People's Choice: The Silverton, designed and built by Bridge Lake Properties of Clarkston, proved to be the most popular model at Homearama last weekend. The neo-traditional home features main living/entertaining spaces on the main floor and all bedrooms upstairs.

Light it up yourself

You don't have to be an electrician to safely light up your patio or garden.

Using a low-voltage outdoor light kit, available at your hardware store or home center, you can install a series of inexpensive fixtures. All you need is a standard grounded 120-volt receptacle in which to plug the light kit transformer.

A typical low-voltage light kit consists of four to 14 or more light fixtures, low-voltage cable and a weatherproof transformer that reduces household current to a safe

You can bury low-voltage cable in a 2- or 3-inch deep trench or, if you prefer, you can lay it directly on the ground and cover it with mulch. However, if the area where you are laying cable needs to be mowed or is likely to be dug up for planting, you should bury it at Transformers come with manual controls, automatic timers or photoelectric eyes that turn the lights on at dusk and off at dawn. A photoelectric transformer must be mounted outdoors; other types can be installed indoors or outdoors, as long as they are in reach of a grounded receptacle.

Low-voltage fixtures usually consist of a lamp head and a fixed ground stake. The lamps can be floodlights, globes or tier lamps. You can place the fixtures along a path to light the way to the house or use them to dramatize your landscaping.

Study the area you want to light carefully and measure the layout of lights before you buy a low-voltage light kit. Then determine how many feet of cable you need and how many fixtures it will take to get the desired effect.

Most low-voltage fixtures are easy to wire and put into the ground. Read the instructions that come with the kit carefully. Most follow this general pattern: Lay the cable and the fixtures in the spots where you want them to go. To install a fixture, place the cable in the cable channel in the base of the light head and press firmly to hold it in place. ■ Slide the closed ground stake over the cable channel, which will cause the fixture's contact points to pierce the cable.

■ Spread open the legs of the ground stake, press both parts of the cable together and then fold them into one leg of the stake. Snap the legs of the stake together with cable coming out of the channels on either side of the

■ Dig a hole about 8 inches deep for the stake (driving it into the ground may damage it). Install the stake and fill the hole with

■ Dig a trench for the cable and bury it or, if the area will not be disturbed by mowing or hoeing, cover it with mulch.

■ When all the fixtures are installed, mount the transformer near a grounded receptacle. Connect the cable to the transformer's low-voltage terminals and plug the transformer's power cord into the receptacle.

Depending on the type of transformer you selected, set the timer, adjust the sensitivity of the photoelectric eye or simply flip the switch to turn on your new

Old-new age: Front-projection television sets, like this 100-inch Sharp Vision model, are suddenly back en vogue thanks to a renewed interest in home theater entertain-

Front-projection televisions are no longer relics of the past

(AP) - With television tubes as large as 40 inches now becoming available, TV systems which project the image might be expected to fall by the wayside. But this isn't happening, according to Video Magazine.

Due to the increased interest in home video theaters, front projection televisions particularly are coming back into the limelight. These project the television image on separately mounted movie-type screens.

Also contributing to the renewed popularity of front proiection units is their increasing sophistication. Early front projection TVs were very expensive, difficult to set up and the image was fairly dim.

However, front projectors are rable in cost to the larger direct view televisions. They also offer dazzling pictures which are distinctly reminiscent of film, making them perfect for home

Video images typically exhibit exaggerated brightness and contrast, while rear projection televisions also tend to have a sharper look.

One front projection, the Zenith PV890X with a list price of $3,999, produces a sharp picture with superior color rendition. Unlike earlier units, it has a TV tuner and a stereo sound system built in.

However, typical of front projector TVs, the picture produced by the Zenith set was not very bright and for full effect had to be viewed in a darkened room. Daytime viewing with a front projection TV requires that the room be equipped with a set of heavy drapes to block out the light.

Another consideration is that these specialized televisions should be professionally installed. However, when mounted in a coffee table or on the ceiling, the front projector TVs take up very little space, unlike the bulkier rear projection and direct view televisions.

While viewing television on a movie screen is not for everyone, anyone considering a home theater installation, should sample front projection television before making a choice.

Mugerian credited her husband with doing more work than traditional parenting roles would call for, but when it comes down to child care and household maintenance, her experience indicates what people have been saying for years — the lion's share falls on women.

Which is exactly why women should play a key role in the design of homes. Women continue to be responsible for traditional responsibilities regardless of additional work they undertake outside the home. If that's going to be true, then homes should be more conducive to a women's needs - specifically in areas of child safety, convenience and effi-

All is not lost, however.

Terrie Koch, president of Koch Development in Troy, said that many of those things which women hold dear - namely efficiency as it relates to how the house works — are a key reason why homes are better today.

Builders are listening

Many of the improvements made to homes in the last 30 years are a direct result of builders listening to buyers needs and women are no longer content to sit idly by while men dicker over a house's construction, she

. "There has been a transition," she said. Builders who wanted to stay in business couldn't continue building without regard to the needs and wants of women.

The one thing that most matters to women? Efficiency, Koch said.

"Women are concerned with function — they're concerned about how a family will live in a home," she said. "Women are (also) very time conscious."

Those things which women want in a house aren't necessarily predicated on the physical or psychological difference between men and women, Koch continued.

Many changes in homes are refinements not necessarily changes.

A difference Koch has noticed, she said, is that women are more concerned about the distinction between private and public space.

"We already see some of that --mud rooms can be muddy, but the front room must be clean. Men don't usually key in on these things.

Women are more likely to insist on formal entrances for guests and visitors and a second entrance for everyday use.

By way of example, Koch explained how a common household problem - family members entering the house, dropping items on the kitchen counter and generally making a mess - was solved by a bit of female ingenuity.

"The mother said, 'I'm not going to be able to change my kids or our lifestyle," Koch said. What the mother did do was insist the children come in the back door and that the house design incorporated built-in shelves.

"The kids would come in, put their things in their own slot and no more messy countertops, Koch said. "A man wouldn't necessarily think of that."

In her experience working with men and women clients, men seem to see things on broader concepts while women focus on nuances, Koch said.

"Men walk into a room and say, 'I really like this room,'" Koch said. "Women will walk into the same room and say, 'I love those windows, they really make this

"A woman does seem to have a greater sense of imagination when it comes to possibilities."

Good design is good design

Maureen Ashman, owner of the design firm Maureen Ashman and Friends in Farmington Hills, said she is convinced a home designed by an accomplished architect — male or female — would be pretty much the same.

It's also worth noting, she said, that whether a man or woman is the primary caretaker of the house shouldn't concern the designer.

"Good design is good design," she said. "The problem is not designing from a male or female perspective, but poor design.

"I've always collaborated with male architects, and I don't see any difference (in design styles)."

Many houses of the past were designed without the input of someone schooled in design, she contends. In fact, many homes today are still not designed by architects — hence the complaints.

That seems to be changing. The overall improvement in home design, she believes, is a result of more builders consulting architects — even for smaller homes than ever before.

There may be differences between men's and women's needs and desires, but those differences are no more distinct than those between individuals.

Ellen Whitefield, marketing director at the Selective Group in Farmington Hills, said many builders do extensive surveys of their buyers (and those who decided not to buy) to get a better understanding of how houses should be designed.

"What did you like? What didn't you like? What types of things would you change about where you're living now? These are only some of the questions asked," she said. Whitefield noted that some of the most useful information comes from people; moving up from existing homes because they have had a chance to see flaws in older houses.

Whitefield said she she doesn't single out suggestions of women and men because all comments are important. "If were going to build good homes, we have to listen to everyone.'

What changes would women build into homes?

It's easy to say houses would be different if they were designed with a women's touch, but how about a few concrete examples?

Janice Morse, president of Designs Unlimited in West Bloomfield, said that it's unlikely there would be sweeping changes in architectural styles or radical new concepts in design philosophy.

Rather, the changes would be more in the area of enhancements and refinements of existing concepts, she said.

"Women are going to be more concerned about details and how a house works," she said. "Women are more detail-oriented because if they don't pay attention to the details it comes back to haunt them.'

Many changes in houses are unavoidably task-oriented to traditional female roles and in many cases they apply only in cases where a couple is married

'While it's not always the case,

80 percent of the time it is still the women who dictates the running of the house.

Among those changes envisioned by Morse are:

separate closets in master bedrooms;

a greater separation of the sink from shower in bathroom:

■ better work triangles in the kitchen;

more forethought in the design of door swings for safety and use of the room;

Where the City

insulated bedrooms and bathrooms to deaden sound; ■ better ventilated bathrooms and kitchens:

m no bedrooms or doors at the top of stairways;

wall space free of windows and doors with potential future furniture placement in mind;

proper lighting so night time feels like daytime;

vacuum cleaner storage; a workspace in laundry.

Planning is a must for summer fun

The snow is gone; the leaves are a beautiful green; the flowers are blooming. It's almost time for school bells to ring for the last time this school year. It's time to prepare for family fun in the sun.

Each year at summertime, families find new ways to take advantage of the lovely weather. Childrep greet summer with great anticipation. No. more coats, off with the gloves, away with those mean old boots. Children can be heard far and wide proclaiming their love for summer.

There are many exciting activities families can participate in that will prove to be rewarding for all ages. When making plans this summer, consider activities that include the entire family. The memories of summer fun that include Mom, Dad and children are precious ones.

Summer fun in the sun activities can be tailored to fit the needs of all families. Take time and have a family meeting where the topic may be what each member would like to do this summer. After each family member has given his personal desire for summer activities, have each family member give ideas of what activities the entire family can participate in.

After all of the ideas have been listed, have the family decide which suggestions can be implemented this summer.

Now take the calendar and place the selections on the calendar. This will give the family things to look forward to this summer. Each family member will know when he can plan individual outings.

By using the calendar, the times one member must be left out of a planned family activity should be greatly reduced. How many times have we gotten prepared to leave for an big family outing and one family member announces"I didn't know we had plans and I won't be able to attend."

The family meeting might be held more than once during the summer. By holding additional meetings, updates can be given on upcoming planned activities and family members can be reminded to keep those dates free.

Another consideration for fun in the sun this summer could be activities that include the extended family. Grampa and Gramma, aunts and uncles, even cousins and other members of the extended family can bring a lot happiness to a fami-

Try to have at least one family event this summer that includes family members from around the country. It can be rewarding and fulfilling to spend fun time with family members who live far away or are from different regions.

This summer will offer opportunities for many different fun-in-the-sun days. There will be softball, baseball, swimming, visits to the amusement park, family reunions, camping, cookouts, tennis, walks, races, roller skating and many other creative fun-in-the-sun things to do.

Take full advantage of the beautiful weather, the vacation season and the fact that the children are out of school and have fun, fun, fun in the sun.

Motown finds the folk sound on the rebound thusiasts.

If "folk-music boom" seems like an oxymoron, "Detroit folk-music boom' might sound downright impossible.

Detroit is rock and soul, right? And isn't folk music the stuff that nobody listens to? Well, no.

The metro area is definitely experiencing a period of strong growth in the variety of acoustic musical styles that can huddle together under the folk umbrella. Part of it probably parallels a national trend, but part of it seems unique to suburban Detroit.

"I think people are surprised (when they hear about Detroit's scene at national folk gatherings)," Matt Watroba said. "We (in the area) get every major artist touring. through."

Watroba — a Livonia resident and English teacher in the Plymouth-Canton district — spends noon to 3 p.m. Saturdays hosting "Folks Like Us," the popular acoustic music program on public radio station WDET-FM, 101.9. With its music, in-studio concerts/interviews with performers, and announcements of upcoming events, the program serves as a sort of clearinghouse for folk music in southeastern Michigan.

"I would say that the interest is higher than it's been in years," Watroba said, "... solely (based) on support for the show, absolutely and without question.

"People get fed up with the other offerings," and also seem "a lot more open to different kinds of music," he added.

The spread in popularity manifests itself in several ways. Several acoustic concert series have sprung up in the auburts of Wayne and Oakland counties and they're finding ready audiences.

Record stores see increasing sales from their folk, bluegrass and country bins. And more and more people seem to be playing and singing the music, as well as listening.

Folk in concert

Rochester's long-established Paint Creek Folklore Society two years ago began a series of Comfy Concerts. Set in the Doolittle home which can hold 65 paying guests plus a small stage — the non-profit series began as a way to bring more folk music to the area and provide some income for local municians.

"After expenses, all of the money from the concerts goes to the per-former," the society's Althea Doolittle explained. "As people say in our folk group, there's hundreds of dollars to be made in folk music . Maybe eventually (performers will) be able to make a decent living at

"Out of the nine (concerts so far) we've only had one that wasn't sold out." Doolittle said. "It seems about a third of the people that come each time are new people. It surprises me how far people come."

She said that introducing the Comfy Concerts just became part of a trend toward more opportunities to enjoy live folk music.

"I hear all the time about more and more places," she said.

On a much larger scale, for its fifth season the New Tradition concert series moved to the Redford Theater this year after stints in Wyandotte and Royal Oak, Publicity director Janet Blatter said the audience has increased "only" by 10 percent this year - after enjoying 50-percent rises in attendance each of its first few years.

ance on any given night. A bit farther out, the long-established Ark coffeehouse in Ann Arbor remains the spiritual center of southeast Michigan's folk-music a gamut of all types of performers.

"I think the music's become more popular over the course of the last four or five years," said Chuck Papke, vice president of retail for the Troy-based Harmony House music chain.

Folk in the stores

Mellow sound: Matt Watroba of Livonia not only hosts the popular "Folks Like Us" acoustic music program on WDET, but also entertains crowds with his singing and guitar playing.

Likewise, Threasa LeAnnais has watched a similar jump in sales as a buyer for Dearborn Music, which offers a large selection of folk at its store on Ford in Canton.

"Folk, bluegrass, (and) other kinds of traditional music have increased," she said. "I think we do real well. It's not an area of music that gets a lot of exposure."

Folk all over

Beyond the growing numbers of people buying and attending acoustic music, more and more also seem to be playing and singing it - both professionally and for simple enjoy-

Agencies seek alcohol-free parenting

By Sue Mason Staff Writer

It goes without saking that drinking and driving don't mix. But now three Wayne County organizations are spreading another drink-related message.

With the help of a federal grant, Youth Living Centers, the Downriver Guidance Clinic and the Out Wayne County Council on Child Abuse and Neglect have launched a public awareness and education campaign that drinking and parenting aren't

'We felt there was a need to raise the consciousness of the public . . . to show the link between substance abuse and child abuse," said Sherry Olshavsky, YLC program coordinator. "We have to make the public aware that we can't continue to treat the effects of child abuse after it's done.'

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect has given the trio of agencies $100,000 for two years for the program, which focuses on the social drinker whose second or third drink may be enough to impair his judgment as a parent. It is meant to provide a forceful message about drinking and parenting but not one that "hits parents over the head."

"We didn't want to stereotype people," said Barbara Sanders, vice president of client services for Anthony M. Franco Inc., which designed and developed the campaign. "It's directed at a broad audience of primarily middle-class parents who are light users of alcohol who don't normally have a problem with alcohol or child abuse. The problem, according to the three agencies, is reflected in national statistics that show more than 1.5 million children are living in unfit, non-nurturing and unsafe situations because of a parent's alcohol or drug abuse and that child abuse and neglect occurs in 34 percent to 60 percent of the homes where a parent is abusing a substance.

In fact, alcoholism alone is tied to one-third of reported child abuse cases.

The campaign is based on a similar program done in Pennsylvania that YLC executive director Ouida Cash happened on while white water rafting. It was that information that was used in the grant proposal. "They designed the program to take the current body of information on drinking and child abuse and make it available to the public and uses existing networks to make it (the campaign) self-sustaining," Olshavsky said. The campaign features information kits, print and television public service announcements, a junior-senior high curriculum and a youth theater The materials were designed in different ways.

The information kits offer 10 ways businesses, legislators, educators, parents and students can help. The kits encourage people to share information about child and substance abuse, to set a good example "by never drinking when you have parenting responsibilities" and to realize that "not all people with a substance abuse problem fit the stereotype of a drunk.'

It takes a lot of patience to be a parent. The next time everyday parenting pressures build up to the point where you want to have a drink to relieve the stress — STOPI And try any of these simple alternatives.

1. Take a deep breath. And another.

2. Count to 10. Or 20. Or 100.

3. Take a hot bath or shower; splash cold water on your face.

4. Phone a friend. Talk to an adult. Share your feelings.

One's handwriting can reveal many things about him or her. The backslanted handwriting of today's writer suggests a young woman who is introversive, cautious and deliberate. She wishes to maintain a vantage point of control. She does not like to rush headlong into new ventures, but prefers to take time to test the wa-

Most of her lines of handwriting slope downward and suggest she was experiencing either fatigue or discouragement at the time she wrote this letter. Without samples written at other times for comparison, I am unable to say if this is a temporary condition or a way of life for her. When she is feeling down, she often reaches back to the security of the past for emotional support.

Additional signs bring to light that she was originally a warm, outgoing person, but became more reserved and introspective due to outside circumstances.

Seemingly, our writer was raised in a home where female influence was evident. She developed a dislike of authority figures at a young age. While she continues to resist some authority, she has developed a measure of tact which helps her handle it in a more acceptable manner. Strong sensitivity to personal criticism often causes her to take a negative comment personally. Sensitivity such as this usually grows out of personal criticism or disappointment from her early life.

Diplomacy is pervasive in this. handwriting. She appears to have a keen understanding and empathy for others. The ability to maneuver out of difficult situations is another asset of hers. However, she can stand resolute when an issue is very important to her.

A vivid imagination can produce creative and original ideas. Problem-solving ability is also good and she can stimulate other people with her enthusiasm and interesting ideas.

Our writer is a woman of intelligence and good taste. Signs of art and music are also in evidence.

This is an observant young woman. Her watchful eyes miss very little.

She has learned the efficient use of her time. Seemingly, she has the motivation and energy to achieve her goals. At times, however, she becomes hesitant and unsure, reacting with negative feelings concerning herself. Perhaps this is the reason she is not finding fulfillment at this time.

A large signature is the outer image she is projecting to others. When compared to the body of her handwriting, it signals her wish to be perceived as more optimistic and confident than she sometimes feels. She may want to consider how important a positive

"There's another indication (of the music's popularity). I had over 35 musicians show up last Wednesday," Watroba said.

The number of professional "folk singers" has risen as well lately, with more and more choices available at many stores selling recorded music. "There are just so many new titles," said Papke, of Harmony House.

The experts offered a variety of reasons behind metro Detroit's folk boom, but all could relate to the style's less-than-perfect name: It's music aimed at folks.

"They're songs about real people. It doesn't seem to buy into the commercialism of music," said Watroba, noting that the nation is rediscovering the art of the singer/songwriter, and, he said, "It's coming back to a more pure

Watroba described the gut-level appeal of talented musicians singing their own songs from their own perspectives: "the earthiness, the down-to-earth feel of the shows - much like country music, only perhaps a bit more realistic in tone."

New Tradition's Blatter suggested some practicalities. One, technology has brought passable recording techniques into the reach of many more people. Two, WDET provides a good outlet locally. And three, cable television offers an easy exposure to some artists with no real investment from the viewer: moving beyond the "Hee Haw" stage helps,

"They're doing a good job of taking away the hay bales," she said. "You can just appreciate the musicianship for what it is."

Presented by: SEMCOG, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments

660 Plaza Drive, Suite 1900 Detroit, MI 48226 (313) 961-4266

ments on amendments to the Fiscal Year (FY) 1994-1996 Transportation Improvement Program (TIP) during the public comment period, June 1 to June 23, 1993. The TIP is a listing of federally and non-federally funded major road and transit service improvements proposed by various communities, road agencies, transit agencies and the Michigan Department of Transportation. The new Federal Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act (ISTEA) emphasizes the public's opportunity to review and comment on road and transit projects proposed for federal funding. This public comment process is part of SEMCOG's overall responsibility for formulating the TIP and for approving projects for federal funding.

The proposed projects are located in Southeast Michigan in the counties of Livingston, Macomb,

The public is invited to review and submit com- Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair, Washtenaw and Wayne and the City of Detroit. The types of proposed projects include construction of new roads, widening of existing roads, resurfacing and repair of roads and bridges, large bus and equipment purchases by transit agencies and operating assistance for transit agencies. The TIP document identifies the location of each project, estimated cost, the source of funds and the agency or community which has jurisdiction over the project.

> Written comments concerning the projects should be submitted to John M. Amberger, Executive Director of SEMCOG, at 660 Plaza Drive, Suite 1900, Detroit, MI, 48226. Verbal responses may also be made, at SEMCOG's Transportation Advisory Council (TAC) meeting to be held in SEMCOG offices (same address) on Wednesday, June 23, 1993, at 9:30 a.m.

The TIP document is available for review starting June 1 at the following locations:
