Incorporated by Royal Charter

COMPANY YEARBOOK AND MEMBERSHIP

October 2020 –
September 2021

A message from the Master

It is with great pride and humility that I don the Master's Badge and Gown. I follow an illustrious line of Masters and extend my gratitude to them all, especially the last two who sorted out the finances of the company in a professional and effective manner.

The coming year is not as everyone expected, as indeed the second half of last year was not. Our IPM demonstrated what can be done under these difficult circumstances and I am very pleased to see that he intends to 'go around again' in 2028-9, the first Constructor's Master to do so.

We have plans for the coming year which may or may not be fulfilled. We hope and plan for the best but are prepared for the worst. Our industry has been, and will continue to be, sorely affected by the present pandemic.

As a company I am resolved that we focus our efforts on the welfare of our members and of the Industry at large. Our Charitable Trust has set aside a fund to support Covid-19 related charitable endeavours both within and without the company and I urge all members to make contact if they feel we can help in any way.

In anticipation of the restrictions easing soon we have arranged an Installation Dinner in February, a Livery & Awards Dinner in April and the Sir Christopher Wren Banquet in June. I also hope to have a Master's weekend in Tunbridge Wells in May and a Charity Dinner at the Reform Club in September. We shall also continue our social gatherings where and when allowed.

My sincere best wishes to you all and I look forward to seeing you all in person, eventually.

Stay safe.

DRESS CODE FOR COMPANY FUNCTIONS

Banquet – White tie (black tie option). Full evening dress preferred, with white bow tie and white waistcoat. However, members and guests may wear a dinner jacket (see below). Orders, decorations, badges and medals to be worn.

Installation and Livery Dinners – Black Tie. Dinner jacket, with black waistcoat or cummerbund if desired, white evening shirt and plain black tie. Orders, decorations, badges and medals to be worn.

Court Sessions and formal lunches - Short morning coat or dark suit, with Company tie. Badges and medals to be worn.

All other events (unless special instructions given)
- Jacket and tie

Ladies are asked to adopt appropriate dress, equivalent to the above.

COVENANTED GIVING

Members of the Company are urged to consider making a covenanted gift to the Company's Charitable Trust. This method of giving is most effective in that the Trust can claim back the tax paid by the donor at the basic rate, which adds substantially to the value of the gift. Members of the Company who wish to subscribe in this way should contact the Clerk or the Hon Treasurer of the Charitable Trust.

Policy for Charitable Giving

The Trustees of the Company's Charitable Trust donate to a variety of causes. These include scholarships and bursaries for young people engaged in construction industry professional or trade training. Prizes are also awarded for educational and training achievements, and to our armed service affiliates, together with support for the Army Cadet Corps. The Trustees also support selected construction industry benevolent charities, educational establishments and charities connected with the City of London. An annual contribution is made to whichever cause the Lord Mayor for the time being has selected as his charity, and to CRASH, the construction industry charity that helps charities for the homeless to improve their premises.

Charitable giving is an important function of all livery companies, and members are asked to give active and generous support to the Company's charitable objectives.

LIVERY COMPANIES

THE ORIGIN OF THE CITY OF LONDON LIVERY COMPANIES

For a thousand years, the craft guilds (or livery companies as they are known today) have been part of the working life and traditions of the City of London.

The guilds originally came into being to regulate the various trades and crafts in the City, where they offered protection to both craftsmen and their customers. Each guild combined the functions of an employers' federation, a trade union and an office of fair trading.

They brought together members of a craft in common fellowship (usually linked to a City church); controlled the working relationship between master and apprentice and guided the introduction and maintenance of quality standards and innovations.

Each guild expresses its individuality and pride in its craft by wearing distinctively coloured and fashioned livery gowns.

Throughout their history, Guilds have never been static organisations. Although the centuries old crafts have disappeared and their guilds with them, new ones have arisen to take their place. Since the second world war many new Guilds have been formed, some embracing new professions such as information technology, with others, such as the Constructors and the Chartered Accountants being associated with long established professions. Today there are guilds for crafts such as scientific instrument makers, professions such as marketers and, embracing new technologies, the information technologists.

INDUSTRY PARTNERS AND SPONSORS

We are pleased to announce that our charitable giving and benevolence has grown year on year, and this year is no exception. This achievement could not have occurred without the support of our members and our sponsors. However, all of our programmes and activities require continual support. We appeal to all members who have not done so to make a regular monthly charitable gift aid to the Company's Charitable Trust. This will enable us to underpin our donations to City and construction related charities, and to continue the support and development of our programme of scholarships. Please give generously; details from the Clerk (constructorsclerk@constructorscompany.co.uk).

The generous support of other organisations enables us to provide further benefits to members: The Constructors Journal is supported by

bre | BRE Trust

MAYER | BROWN

A full programme of scholarships and awards is well supported and our gratitude extends to:

- Lady Valerie Dixon
- The Faculty of Architects and Surveyors,
- Chartered Institute of Building
- The University College of Estate Management,

If you would like to know how to become a sponsor of the Company or more about the sponsorship programme, please contact John Rowsell
