Hickenlooper Defeats Loveland For U.S. Senator

Meardon, Murphy Hold Large Margins

Republicans William L. Meardon and incumbent Albert J. Murphy were swept into the offices of county attorney and sheriff Tuesday by a record-shattering number of Iowa City voters.

The total number of ballots topped the 1946 figure by more than 2,000 as 8,246 Iowa Citizens voted in comparison to 1946's 6,150.

Meardon defeated his Democratic opponent, incumbent County Atty. Jack C. White by a 3-1 margin.

Murphy did nearly as well over Democrat James G. Donohoe, Robert E. Rowe, the independent candidate for sheriff, received fewer than 100 votes.

Martin Leading

In the race for U.S. congressman from the first district, Rep. Thomas E. Martin (R) was holding a comfortable lead over the Democrats' James D. France and, barring a last minute surge for France, it appeared that Martin's seat in congress was safe for another two years.

SUI student Richard G. Boeke, P4, Hubbard, was tied with the incumbent in Johnson county's write-in campaign for coroner.

Boeke and Coroner James D. Callahan, who suffered a heart attack earlier in the day and was resting in Mercy hospital here, were tied 82 to 82.

Prof. George Mosse, history department, and Samuel Fahr, college of law, trailed far behind the leaders in the write-in coroner contest.

Ludwig Ahead

State Rep. Joseph G. Raim (D) was running 3-1 behind Republican G. M. Ludwig in Iowa City. The race was closer in the townships outside Iowa City, but the majority Ludwig amassed here seemed sufficient early today to unseat Raim.

Atty. Gen. Robert Larson (R) locally easily outdistanced his rival, Harold J. Fleck (D). Percentage-wise, Larson's margin was wider here than the 3-2 edge he was holding in the state.

By 2 a.m. today Larson led 3,508 to 1,561 in Iowa City's five wards.

Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper (R) held a slim majority here, 2,215 to 2,039 for Democrat Al Loveland, at 2 a.m.

Gubernatorial Race Close

The gubernatorial campaign was equally close in Iowa City as Gov. William Beardsley (R) held a margin of less than 100 votes - 2,149 to 2,074 for Lester Gillette, his Democratic opponent.

Elsewhere in Johnson county, Gillette was running 4-3 ahead of Beardsley.

The county townships also were favoring Loveland over Hickenlooper by nearly 2-1 as Loveland racked up 2,214 to 1,374 for Hickenlooper.

The Johnson county attorney race was closer in the townships, but Meardon led White, 1,914 to 1,638.

The rent control extension and constitutional convention referendums seemed to have won here, but control by more than 2-1, but the Johnson county courthouse elevator referendum appeared defeated.

Coroner Race Tied

Republican J. Newman Toomey and Democrat C.J. Hutchinson were holding decisive leads over W.F. Murphy in the battle for justice of the peace. Two of the candidates will serve.

Roy Lewis (R) led Democrat Pat Gilroy for township constable, 2,324 to 2,063.

Yearbook Space Sales Close Friday

Page contract sales for Hawkeye, SUI yearbook, will close at 5 p.m. Friday, Business Manager Dean Fritch, C4, Decorah, said Tuesday.

Any campus organization may buy space in Hawkeye at the rate of $40 a page, Fritch said.

All groups who want pages and have not yet signed contracts are asked to contact Mary Ladd, A2, Iowa City, page sales manager.

Fritch said sales also will be made any afternoon this week at the Hawkeye office, located behind the Clinton street temporary buildings.

SUI STUDENT CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY CORONER Richard G. Boeke, 22, looked hopeful Tuesday as he left the polling booth in City Hall. Boeke, a pharmacy senior who began his campaign Monday, wound up competing with two SUI professors whose names were written in on the ballots.

Eric Johnston to Launch Chest Drive over WSUI

Movie Czar Eric Johnston, SUI's 1950 Commencement speaker and honorary chairman of the Campus Chest campaign, will speak over radio station WSUI at 11:45 a.m. today to open the 1950 Campus Chest drive.

The speech has been tape-recorded especially for this broadcast, student chairman William Shields, A4, Newton, said Tuesday.

25 Iowans to Attend National 4-H Congress

AMES (AP) - Twenty-five 4-H boys and girls will represent Iowa at the 1950 national 4-H club congress in Chicago, Nov. 26-30.

P. C. Taft, extension director in charge of the youth activities at Iowa State college, said Iowa's delegates will meet with about 1,400 4-H club members and leaders from 47 states, foreign countries and territories.

Chinese Reds' Resistance Wanes

SEOUL (WEDNESDAY) (AP) - U.S. marines advanced more than a mile Tuesday night up the Changjin river gorge without encountering Chinese Communists, whose resistance faded suddenly on the northeast Korean front.

A 10th corps report said no contact was made between the leathernecks and the mutilated Red Chinese 124th division. Marines are less than four miles short of a difficult-to-defend plateau just below the huge Changjin hydroelectric reservoir.

Marine Corsairs exploded a big ammunition dump and strafed two Chinese battalions south of the reservoir. The 10th corps described the rest of the northeast front as quiet.

Volunteers ...

LONDON (AP) - The Peiping radio said Tuesday night that Chinese volunteers were fighting with North Korean Communists.

The Red China radio broadcast a North Korean communique which said, "With Chinese people's volunteers fighting at its side, the Korean people's army in the On-chun-Wunsan area routed four divisions of the Second army group of Syngman Rhee's army and a part of the American army."

In Washington, Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky said he does not believe Communist China has intervened in the Korean war but conceded that "some volunteers" from China may have joined the fighting.

GOP Cuts Demo Margin in Congress

(From The Wire Services) WASHINGTON - Republicans were challenging for senate control, and Democrats were holding the house by a small margin today on the basis of incomplete returns from Tuesday's general election.

Republican Gov. Thomas E. Dewey won reelection in New York with a fat 575,000 votes as of 1 a.m. today over his Democratic opponent, Rep. Walter A. Lynch.

Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) almost certainly was a big winner in Ohio, where organized labor and the Truman administration had teamed in an attempt to blast him out of the senate.

Lucas Concedes

Republican Everett M. Dirksen defeated Democratic Sen. Scott W. Lucas in the Illinois senate race. Lucas, the senate majority leader, conceded defeat at 12:40 a.m. (Iowa time) today.

Sen. Millard E. Tydings (D) paid in Maryland for his handling of the investigation of charges that the Roosevelt-Truman administration had been infiltrated by Communists. He lost the senate seat he had occupied since March 4, 1927, to John Marshall Butler (R).

Gov. Chester Bowles (D) was voted out of office in Connecticut. The winner was Rep. John Davis Lodge, brother of the Massachusetts senator, Henry Cabot Lodge.

Senate Control in Doubt

Control of the senate was in doubt. But if the Democrats can elect their candidates presently leading they will control the house in the 82nd congress. Their control would be by a reduced and less than working majority.

To win control of congress, Republicans needed a net gain of 49 in the house and seven in the senate.

Lehman Wins

Democrats could take some consolation, however, in the reelection victory of Sen. Herbert H. Lehman of New York, whom Franklin D. Roosevelt once called "my good right arm."

They succeeded also, in reelecting Sen. Brian McMahon of Connecticut, chairman of the congressional committee on atomic energy.

Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt won reelection in New York, but another son of F.D.R., James Roosevelt, was far behind Gov. Earl Warren in the California governorship race.

WHAT D'YA MEAN NOT OLD ENOUGH? A young "Daniel Boone" asked the election officials of the fifth ward's first precinct Tuesday night. About 60 Iowa Citizens were lined up at 7 p.m. waiting their turns for ballots.

Local Candidates Listen, Sleep, Study -

Professors, Student Involved in Write-In Race

Most of the local candidates listened to returns on the Tuesday election in their homes or in places in Iowa City where results were being posted as they came in.

Write-in candidates for county coroner spent the most unusual election evenings. Samuel M. Fahr, SUI law professor, went to bed about 8 p.m. He explained he couldn't stay up for the returns because he wanted to get up early to go duck hunting today.

Fahr said he did not place his name in the race and did not know if he would accept the position if elected.

Student Candidate Studies SUI pharmacy student Richard Boeke, another write-in for coroner, who decided to run for the office only Monday, listened to returns in his home while he studied for a test in bio-chemistry.

No word was received from SUI history Prof. George Mosse, who received five write-in votes in ward II for the coroner's office. He had declared no intention of running.

In precinct 1, ward 4, the supply of rent-control referendum ballots ran out during the middle of the afternoon. A long line of voters refused to cast their ballots until they were given one for rent-control.

Most judges at the nine precincts in the city agreed Tuesday's election turn-out was the largest they had seen.

Atty. Shirley Porter was permitted to take another person into a booth with him to vote. Porter is blind.

Express Gratitude Local political leaders expressed gratitude at the large turnout. They listed tight political contests and an increased civic interest as partly responsible.

Precinct 1, ward 5 was unable to close at 8 p.m. because of a line of 25 to 30 persons waiting to vote. Balloting in this precinct was not finished until 9 p.m. and the counting was only about half finished at 1 a.m. today.

In all the precincts, vote counting was slow because of the referendum ballots (two extra ballots were used) and what was termed the "unprecedented" use of split ballots.

Secretary of Agriculture Clyde Spay, object of criticism over his approval for test purposes of a salt-base anti-freeze solution, didn't appear to be suffering from the controversy. He had a comfortable margin over Democrat Gale McClean.

GOP Congressmen Gaining Iowa's eight Republican congressmen all held leads and most of them were drawing steadily away from their Democratic opponents.

In the fourth and fifth districts the race continued uncomfortably close for incumbents Paul Cunningham, Des Moines, and Karl Lecompte Corydon.

In the first district Tom Martin, Iowa City, was building up a widening lead as additional returns rolled in on his race with James France, Tipton.

UN Will Respect Manchurian Border

LAKE SUCCESS (AP) - The UN Korean committee unanimously approved a resolution Tuesday night assuring the Chinese Communists, in effect, that their border with Korea will be respected by the UN forces under Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The committee acted after receiving an official report from General MacArthur Monday that Chinese Communists were fighting the UN forces in North Korea.

The general feeling of most diplomats at the UN was that the UN should take a cautious approach to what appears to be one of its worst problems.

Carolyn Seydel, 6, 521 S. Van Buren street, was among three patients discharged. Others were Roger Schulte, 3, McGregor, and Beverly Wooley, 12, Waterloo.

'Adding Machine' To Open Tonight

Opening tonight at University theater will be "The Adding Machine," by Elmer Rice, scheduled for a 10-day run.

Curtain time will be 8 p.m. The play is an example of "expressionistic" drama, which tries to project the inner lives of the characters onto the stage.

Prof. Gregory Foley, business manager of the theater, is directing the show.

Student reserved seats for "The Adding Machine" may be obtained at the theater box office, room 8-A, Scheffer hall, upon presentation of I.D. cards.

SUI Student's Wife Enters Polio Ward

Mrs. Sarah Kirby, 31, 205 Finkbine park, wife of SUI graduate student John Kirby, was admitted in "fair" condition to the polio ward of University hospitals Tuesday.

She was the 26th Iowa Citizen to undergo treatment since July.

Calendar Change

Some of the more anxious merchants in Iowa City already have their Christmas merchandise on display, and on the radio the other night, we heard old Saint Nick himself.

The Yuletide season draws nearer and we're reminded of that old problem: "How can we get the university calendar changed so we won't have to travel on New Year's Eve and New Year's day?"

Two weeks ago, a student council member opened the question again by asking if it would be possible for the university to grant an extra day so students would not have to travel on New Year's Eve.

This member was not prepared to ask for any council action and the request was easily squelched by Liberal Arts Dean Dewey B. Stull's reply that the calendar could not be changed.

The university calendar has been called "sacred" and "untouchable" many times, and we understand the need for setting the specific number of class days ahead of time.

But we also wonder why the traveling time of students was not taken into consideration when the calendar was made up.

There are many students at SUI who must leave their homes Jan. 1, to get to Iowa City for classes Tuesday, Jan. 2. This includes students from the far points in Iowa as well as the out-of-state student's.

We feel that it's an unnecessary hardship to make these persons return to Iowa City on New Year's Eve or early New Year's morning, as will happen if the calendar is not altered.

There is little joy in listening to "Auld Lang Syne" played on the loudspeaker in an empty railroad depot at midnight.

Soviet Union Executes Vast Agricultural Revolution

MOSCOW (AP)—Apparently little noticed outside the Soviet Union, the USSR now is in the midst of execution of a vast agricultural revolution.

Soviet government plans for agriculture and rural life now being put into effect throughout the country are aimed at: (1) a vast increase in supply of foodstuffs and of raw materials for industry and (2) radical transformation of all sides of rural life and economics.

This "Soviet agricultural revolution" has many aspects. It is impossible to discuss or even list them all in a short article, but here are some of the more important things which have been done, or are in the process of being done in the Soviet countryside:

1. During this year a movement has been carried out to merge small or very small collective farms into larger collective farms which will have a greater population, greater area of land to work, and greater resources. In some districts about Moscow and Leningrad, the total number of collective farms has been reduced by up to two-thirds. In other districts such as the Ukraine (where farms were generally larger) the results of this have been considerable. It is stated that the merging of the small farms into larger ones paves the way for greater mechanization and organization efficiency and a richer cultural and economic life for all farm members.
2. Closely related to the movement for larger farms is a long-term movement to replace the large collective farms and small isolated individual villages with large well built rural cities with populations of up to as many as 10,000 people and all the cultural and economic conveniences in an advanced stage of construction.
3. Along with the movement for more mechanized agriculture is the drive for use of the "brigade" system of labor organization throughout the collective farms of the country. The brigade is more adapted to machine agriculture.
4. Throughout the country collective farmers are building their own local power stations, using water power resources when they are available. Where they are not available they use local fuel resources. In some cases farms are being hooked into major urban circuits receiving their power from big plants. The rural electrification movement sponsored by the government and party is aimed at providing every farm household and every collective farm in the nation with electricity in five or more years. It is not just a matter of providing electric lights for homes although this is important, but of electrification of all farm processes, even plowing. Experimental electrical tractors already are being used in certain large areas. Eventually it is hoped to put all farm mechanization on an electric basis.
5. Simultaneously, there are other projects aimed at increasing the productivity of the soil and the efficiency of its use. For instance, the reforestation program is directed at providing a field by field defense against the dry winds of the south which cause drought some years in the most important grain areas. In addition to large shelter belts, millions of hectares of trees will be planted by individual farms. At the same time there is being carried out a large scale formation of tens of thousands of collective farm ponds and other measures.
6. As another phase of the reforestation and anti-erosion program there is being introduced a crop rotation system worked out by Russian scientists in which perennial grasses are used to rebuild soils rapidly.
7. About two years ago a new plan was adopted which provided for vast increases in the livestock and poultry population. This plan required the establishment of every individual collective farm with a few regional exceptions, of four livestock farms, one for poultry, one for horned cattle, one for pigs and one for sheep and goats.

Letters to the Editor Hanoi French Uneasy As Reds Creep Closer

(Readers are invited to express opinion in Letters to the Editor. All letters must include hand written signature and address — type-written signatures not acceptable. It seems the recent international debate has caused quite a furor. The predominant issue seems to be was there a debate. In your column you have presented two views of the question as put forth by Miss Johnson and Mr. Digges. I would like to lend my support to the former.

Unlike either of the persons just mentioned I am completely unfamiliar with debate technique. However, I do understand a fact and a logical way of presenting it and SUI lacked both.

I took extensive notes during the debate and was greatly impressed with Mr. Williams' opening speech. It was delivered with such clarity of thought that I was readily able to write down the major points which he and his associate, Mr. Smith, later substantiated. When Mr. Diekmann began to orate I was at a loss to find any challenging facts. After considerable time wasted in buttering up his audience with vapid sayings he next launched into an irrelevant discourse on communism.

To close this garish display of incompetence he mouthed some trite generalities which he failed to substantiate with anything remotely resembling a fact. The remainder of the debate was carried on in a similar vein. Our friends from England quietly presenting their facts and the stalwarts of Iowa thrashing impressively about in a limbo of wit and vacuity.

Mr. Digges in lauding the infantile gabbling of Mr. Diekmann and Mr. McBurney cites their adroit handling of the question of free enterprise. As I have it in my notes these two worthies made the contradictory statement that we favor a controlled "free enterprise." There was no need for the British to answer this for it nicely coincided with the point they were making that economic planning and regulation of industry is necessary.

In fact for the two gentlemen from Britain to win the debate it was only necessary for them to state a fact and then let the noble champions from Iowa prove it by their own fumbling.

It is apparent that Mr. Digges knew the outcome of the debate before he heard it. I compliment him on his fortitude for supporting Iowa for two tedious hours when he knew they would win. I feel that after this fiasco Iowa needs such "loyal supporters."

Lonely Way to Go . . .
TO THE EDITOR:
While I feel that the letter of Miss Johnson printed in Friday's edition of The Daily Iowan should not be dignified by any comment upon it, the remarks contained in it were so unfair, unbalanced and insulting to Mr. McBurney, Mr. Diekmann and the speech department of SUI, I could do no other than address a letter to this column, the first time I have ever done so.

It is clear that Miss Johnson doesn't recognize the results of hours of work and years of experience, both of which were well indicated by Mr. McBurney and Mr. Diekmann last Tuesday evening. In the opinion of everyone with whom I have discussed it, Russia's attitude, however, was HANOI (AP)—This city of quiet lakes and ancient pagodas stirs with a new uneasiness.

For the French, before, it was somewhat exciting but never too worrisome to be on the fringe of hostile Vietnam country and in the shadow of Red China. Danger to isolated Hanoi gave an air of adventure to a slow-moving, provincial city.

Recent staggering reverses for the French army in the frontier region 100 miles to the north have transformed the tone of sidewalk conversation. Talk has taken on a lower pitch — hushed word of high casualties and whispered rumors of plans for retreat. Sometimes talk is loud and a little hysterical.

The French commissioner quietly started to register dependents of French business people. The army has ordered wives and children of servicemen out of north Vietnam. A few others are packing. The rest are sitting it out.

French Suburb
They hang on in a colonial city that appears to be a small French suburb transplanted to the Orient. Brick sidewalks in Hanoi's streets in other cities. Expansive, French quarter are as wide as massive concrete homes and business buildings, ornate but somewhat shabby.

Their yellow paint is discolored and streaked with tropical mold. The old Metropole hotel and several smaller ones are crowded, mostly with French military people. Five theaters do a big business with French and American films. A half-dozen cafes with chairs spread out the sidewalks have become social centers, clustered with bridge-playing French businessmen and foreign legionnaires.

A single Chinese nightclub is the city's only hotspot. Its standby drink, cognac, costs 35 piastres (U.S. $1.75) a shot, but it is jammed with foreign consular officials, soldiers and black marketeers. A Filipino band plays "American style," and taxi girls are Hong Kong imports.

Luxuries Plentiful
Hanoi's shops miss the big city glitter of Saigon but lean toward luxury goods. French wines and perfumes are stacked high. Elegant leather goods, textiles and jewelry and fine cameras can be had at astronomical prices. No American or British goods are on sale.

Boulevards extend from the center of the city toward the "citadel," a suburban district of army barracks, hospitals and government buildings. Across a small lake from the French quarter, the Vietnamese and Chinese section of about 200,000 persons is a jumble of tightly cramped shops and houses.

If you are one of the 1,500 French civilians in town or one of the 20-odd western foreigners, you don't wander too far from the brightly lit French quarter at night. Residents have come to accept their confined life and the unsharpened comes from knowing the city is honeycombed with a Vietminh underground that can count thousands of sympathizers.

General De Gaulle Plans Political Comeback

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
PARIS (AP) — Gen. Charles de Gaulle is going to hit the comeback trail again.

The moody, 59-year-old general has been languishing for months in the political wilderness.

"Whatever happened to De Gaulle" is asked with increasing frequency by foreigners visiting France.

The main thing that happened was that the general failed in his campaign to get parliament to dissolve itself and order a general election. He was sure his French people's rally (RPF) would win the election.

His lieutenants now concede that there is no chance of forcing the elections before their scheduled time. Normally, they should be held in November, 1951. But De Gaulle can't be left too long in the wilderness, or his followers will drift away.

De Gaulle plans to start his new campaign of criticism of the present French regime in Paris with "a monster rally," then go off stomping through France, urging the need for a strong government with himself at the head.

He is even about to do something he once said he would never do — descend to the political arena himself as a candidate for a seat in parliament.

RPF strategy now calls for De Gaulle to run for parliament from a district in Lille, his home town, while Pierre De Gaulle, now mayor of Paris, runs from a district in the capital.

The general never has had anything but scorn for ordinary politicians and political parties.

The new outlook apparently is a belated recognition of the fact that before he can write a new constitution, he must first come to power under the present one. Under the current constitution, it is virtually impossible for a person to take over the premier's office without being a member of the national assembly.

Many Possibilities Seen in Korean Situation

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
As the United Nations begins consideration of the intervention of Chinese Communist forces in the Korean war, the main question seen to lie not so much in what the organization can do, but in what other participants can and will do.

Does China intend an all-out commitment, meaning war with the United Nations, or merely an "unofficial" effort in North Korea to be carried out by limited forces?

If the latter, can General MacArthur throw the "limited" forces out and complete his assignment of clearing all Korea? Will Soviet Russia encourage or permit the Chinese to continue an operation which carries a grave threat of general war?

At the moment, every move of the United States will be directed toward its war-long policy of preventing the conflict from spreading.

Russia's attitude, however, was widely believed to be the key. At the UN it was said that if Russia was no more openly involved with Peiping than she had been with the North Korean Communists, the matter would resolve itself into the continuing military policy of clearing Korea, even though additional allied strength might be required.

Russian Support
More direct Russian support for Peiping, however, would be taken as notice that Russia was prepared to risk World War III, and that there was no great hope of delaying its start much longer.

Military observers in the far east still find it hard to believe that Russia and China will take all-out risks now, when they did not while the allies were pinned to the small bridgehead in South Korea.

Some, however, feel that the present degree of Chinese intervention already signifies a willingness on the part of the Kremlin to go farther than had been expected.

Iowa Employment Hits Two Year High

DES MOINES (AP) — Employment in Iowa was at the highest level last month of any time in the past two years.

The Iowa employment security commission said an increasingly tight labor market was indicated in its October report which showed that only 1,290 workers were paid unemployment insurance benefits during the last week in October.

The peak in unemployment for 1950 was last February when 10,619 claimants were paid benefits in the week ending Feb. 11.

Payments for the month of October totaled $128,878, compared to September payments of $157,875 and October, 1949 payments of $245,612.

The commission said the previous low month was October, 1948, when payments totaled approximately $122,000.

In a breakdown for the last week of October this year, the commission said only 1,290 idle workers out of 400,000 working in covered employment meant that one in 310 was unemployed. By way of contrast, for the week of last Feb. 11, the ratio was one worker in every 40, unemployed.

Dormstory to Announce Currier 'Dad' Today

By ESTELLE MASTERS

Dormstory, Currier's own newspaper, is once again sponsoring a Currier "Dad", in conjunction with the Dad's day weekend Friday and Saturday.

Any girl living at Currier, or in one of the adjoining houses, is eligible to submit a 150 word essay stating why she thinks her dad should be selected by the Dormstory staff as the 1950 Currier "Dad".

The winner will be announced this evening. She may then notify her father to come up for the dinner to be given in his honor, Sunday.

Dormstory is distributed every three weeks in the main girls' hall, the annex, and Hutchinson, McChesney and Howard houses.

Written, mimeographed and distributed by Norma Sexton, editor, and her staff of reporters, the paper is aimed at getting the best in feature stories, and the most recent dorm news.

Mary Powers is assistant editor, and Edith Summa handles the intramural news. Mimeographing is done by Peppy Taylor, Elinor Lockeridge and Terry Taylor.

Several crews work together getting the paper "to press." Such things as stapling, distribution, art work and reporting have to be taken care of.

Nearly half the girls working on the paper are freshmen, and almost every girl plans to major in some phase of journalism. Dormstory has no faculty advisor, so the editorial policy is determined by the staff.

Some suggestions for sewing nylon are: use sharp shears, leave generous seam allowances, use small, sharp hand and machine needles and pins, test stitching to see that the proper length machine stitch is used, and use nylon thread whenever possible.

5-Year-Old Reported In 'Good' Condition After Car Accident

Five-year-old Everett Durst Jr. was reported in "good" condition at Mercy hospital Tuesday after being struck by an automobile Tuesday morning five miles north of Iowa City on highway 218.

Deputy Sheriff Don Wilson reported the boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett M. Durst, route 2, was hit about 8:30 a.m. by a car driven by Charles R. Hofmaster, 29, Cedar Rapids.

Hofmaster told Wilson the boy darted across the highway in front of the car immediately after a truck, going in the opposite direction, had passed. He said he swerved to the right, but could not avoid hitting the lad.

The impact threw the child twenty feet. He landed on the grass and was conscious but bleeding badly when the ambulance arrived.

Truman, Aides Discuss Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman conferred with Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Defense Secretary George C. Marshall on the Chinese Communist menace in Korea as soon as he returned Tuesday from Kansas City.

The White House remained silent on the meeting which the President followed by a talk with John J. Muccio, U.S. ambassador to Korea. Acheson and Marshall evaded reporters by leaving through a side door.

Despite the ominous news from the Far East, the President seemed in jovial mood when his plane landed at National airport. Later he boarded his yacht, the Williamsburg, for a rest cruise of several days. He planned to receive election returns Tuesday night, at the same time keeping in touch with the White House and state department by radio-telephone for up-to-the-minute reports on Korean developments.

He was represented as pleased by reports the Chinese Communists were withdrawing in some sectors of North Korea.

Acheson went to the airport soon after Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky paid him a "courtesy call." Vishinsky, here to be guest of honor at the Russian embassy's annual celebration of the Red Revolution Tuesday night, denied the war was discussed.

KVOC on Air — Currier Has Radio Station

Iowa City had a new addition to its list of broadcasting stations Monday when Currier hall's KVOC began operations.

This is Currier's second venture into radio. Mary Qualley, former Daily Iowan society editor, established Currier's first station last year.

KVOC operates on a frequency of 1210 kilocycles Monday and Thursday nights from 10:15 to 11 p.m. Its range is approximately 100 yards.

The first program was a disk jockey show with records and announcements of Currier activities.

Although it cannot be heard outside of Currier and its adjoining houses, the new station is operated on much the same basis as a licensed radio station.

Operations are directed by Elaine Jensen, A4, Atlantic, and four consulting boards. Boards include continuity, news, music and promotion.

Board members are: Continuity Florence Schuck, A3, West Point, Iowa, chairman;

Beulah Frederick, A4, Iowa City; Ann Miller, A3, Des Moines, and M. J. Allison, A2, Olathe, Kansas.

News Alice Watson, A3, Council Bluffs, chairman; Gwen Davis, A4, Des Moines, and Francene Glatstein A1, Muscatine.

Music Jackie Cashmere, A1, Corwith, chairman; Mary Powers, A3, Ames; Bernice Cullinan, A2, Grundy Center, and Barb Meerdink, A2, Muscatine.

Promotion Sally Ragalski, A4, Chicago, chairman; Sally Uleman, A2, Fairfield, and Jo Evans, A1, Moline, Ill.

Although this is not Currier's first broadcasting station, it is the dormitory's first complete coverage station. Last year's attempt did not achieve this, and broadcasts were abandoned.

KVOC joins at least two other dormitory radio stations on the SUI campus. Both the Quadrangle and Hillcrest have stations.

Although concealed by plaster and baseboard, inadequate wiring is easily detected by the outward symptoms listed above. Other annoyances caused by outdated wiring are sluggish operation of appliances, and frequent fuse trouble.

By contrast, a home with adequate, up-to-date wiring is free of these annoyances and permits full use of all the time and labor saving conveniences electricity makes possible.

- ★ Enough permanent lights and switches to protect eyesight, beautify the home and prevent accidents.

Hawkeyes Practice On Pass Offense

Passing, an inconsistent gainer for Iowa all season, received the major share of attention at practice Tuesday as the Hawks continued preparations for their last conference game Saturday against Illinois.

Coach Leonard Raffensperger termed the passing against Minnesota "as bad as it has been all season."

Lack of offensive ends has hampered Iowa's aerial game the entire year.

Busy Throwers
Quarterback Glenn Drahn and Fred Ruck were the busy throwers Tuesday and all the ends and backfield men were the receivers. If the Hawks can find a passing attack to match the ground game which has averaged 4.6 yards per carry this year Saturday's game could be closer than most persons think.

Illinois has been established a heavy favorite. The Illini have won five of six games and are regarded by many as the logical choice for Rose Bowl representation.

Wisconsin, 14-0 victor over Iowa, is the other Bowl possibility because of last year's participation. The Badgers hold the only win over Illinois, a 7-6 game decided under the worst possible weather conditions.

In Champaign Tuesday the rough Illinois defense worked against Iowa plays, Illinois hasn't yielded a touchdown by rushing in its six games this season, a record not claimed by any other Big Ten team. Iowa isn't likely to spoil this record if the passing attack isn't working to spread the Illini defenses.

Karras May Not Play
Johnny Karras, the all-American halfback candidate who missed last week's Michigan game because of a twisted ankle, is a doubtful player against the Hawks.

Even if he does play, it isn't likely he will be able to gain the 100 plus yards per game he averaged in his last two games before injury.

Andy Buntz appeared Tuesday to be the only doubtful starter for Iowa. The regular offensive tackle missed the Minnesota game and will be out this week unless a leg injury responds to treatment better than expected.

No Other Injuries
No one else is expected to be sidelined with injuries although the list of slightly hurt players who won't be up to top performance is still long.

Official statistics released Tuesday show that Jerry Feske is Iowa's leading ground gainer with 431 yards in 74 attempts for a good 5.8 average. Fullback Bill Reichardt is close to his teammate in total yardage with 410 but is farther behind in average because of 13 more tries.

No Phillies Place On All-Star Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight clubs are represented on the 1950 Associated Press all-star baseball team, but the National league champion Philadelphia Phillies drew a surprising blank.

Not even their Jim Konstanty, the loop's most valuable player, could make the grade. The great relief specialist placed fourth among right-handed pitchers.

On the other hand, Phil Rizzuto, the AL's most valuable player, was an overwhelming favorite. The New York Yankee shortstop was named on the most ballots, 360, in outdistancing the Phil's Gran Hamner, who received a mere nine votes.

The all-star team:

CCNY Has Perfect Record

NEW YORK (AP) — City College of New York, undisputed ruler of intercollegiate basketball last winter, came right back with a perfect record football team.

The 35 outstanding coaches upon whose selections the ratings are compiled gave Army so many more second and third place votes than Ohio State that for the fourth time in five weeks the undefeated and untied Cadets took over the lead with 301 points — 21 more than the second place Buckeyes.

Army received 11 second place and seven third place votes to more than make up the point margin which Ohio State piled up on first place choices. The undefeated, high-scoring Buckeyes received only five second place ballots and four third.

Bradley--An 'Artist' on Defense

By DICK JACKMAN
He plays a lot of football on Saturday and wields a talented classroom paint brush on weekdays — that's Iowa's ironman tackle, Harold Bradley.

Five days a week "Brad" is a senior majoring in art at Iowa, but on Saturday's he majors in wrecking Big Ten backfields. Last Saturday as co-captain of the Hawks he became the first Iowa player to go a full 60 minutes this year as he went all the way on offense and defense in the 13-0 win over Minnesota.

"A Little Tired"
"Sure I was a little tired during the game," Bradley said. "More than a little I guess, but after it was over I was sure glad I was able to go the distance."

Asked whether he thought the Gophers were big in that line, Bradley answered with a descriptive, "Oh, man!"

However, he said it was much easier playing them this year than last because in 1949 he was facing Leo Nomellini, Minnesota's all-American tackle. The Iowa coaching staff was glad to hear that Bradley was happy about his ironman stint Saturday because they were happy with the way he did it.

Head Coach Leonard Raffensperger praised Bradley for his improved play in recent games and line Coach Pat Boland said after the Minnesota game, "It's been something I've been wanting for a long time, to have a man go all the way. And Bradley did a fine job of it."

On the statistical side, opponents look up and see about 215 pounds of Mr. Harold Bradley distributed evenly over a six-foot two-inch frame. "Brad" just turned 21 in October and is a graduate of Englewood High school of Chicago where he played three years as a tackle in the Windy City's rugged prep league where the company is plenty fast.

His choice of Iowa as a college was a natural. "I was just following in my dad's footsteps," Harold said. "He played at Englewood and then went on to Iowa where he was a tackle in the late 20's. I guess my own biggest thrill here has just been making the team as a regular this year."

Regularly Plays Defense

U-HIGH'S UNDEFEATED BLUEHAWKS, winners of seven games this season, have only to dispose of Wilton Junction Friday for their first unbeaten season since 1945. U-High, considered an also ran

Wilton Junction Last Barrier To Unbeaten Year for U-High

By JERRY COPELAND
University high's Bluehawks are expected to finish their first undefeated season since 1945 Friday, when they meet a winless Wilton Junction team on the Iowa varsity practice field.

Coach Bob Weber, in his first year, has directed the Bluehawks to their undefeated season so far but will probably not be around Friday to enjoy the climax. Weber, who had never coached an undefeated team before, is an army reserve and has been ordered to report to Des Moines for temporary duty. Weber is not certain whether he will be permitted to stay in town for the game.

Ten Straight Wins
A win over weak Wilton Junction Friday will give the Bluehawks a string of ten wins without a defeat. The streak started with the next-to-last game in 1949.

However, the Bluehawks are accustomed to undefeated seasons. They have been undefeated four times in the last twenty years.

After undefeated seasons in 1935 and 1942, the Blues won all seven games in 1945 under Coach Don Barnhart, and the first six games of a seven game season in the Eastern Iowa Hawkeye conference in pre-season predictions, can win the league title with a victory over Friday's opponent. The Bluehawks are coached by Bob Weber and Norman Johannsen.

1946. After knocking over such teams as Marion and Anamosa in 1946, the Blues succumbed to Tip-ton, ending a 13 game winning streak.

This year the Bluehawks were slated for a lower berth in the Eastern Iowa Hawkeye conference after a disappointing season last year. With but four lettermen from last year's squad, the Bluehawks have all but won the conference title.

Good Running, Passing
Weber and assistant Coach Norman Johannsen have jelled a team with a hard running and accurate passing attack along with a rugged defense.

The team has found leaders in Halfbacks Bob Ewalt and Bob Cantrell, and Kenny Slade, a watch-charm guard.

HAROLD BRADLEY
Wrecks Backfields

offense. But with Buntz injured last Saturday Bradley got his chance to go all the way, a feat seldom accomplished in this age of platoon-system football.

The dependable tackle expects to finish school next June, but like most fellows his age, his post-graduation plans are indefinite, because of the draft. If he isn't called for one of those government jobs with the tax-free salaries, "Brad" would like to play a little professional football.

But eventually he hopes to make use of his art training for he says he's really "sold on the business." He'd like to start out as an illustrator for a commercial magazine and maybe later take up fine art. As for a hobby, the rugged Mr. Bradley likes to collect jazz records. He already has quite a number.

"Brad" has high hopes for the Illinois game. "If we can keep that spirit up we should surprise them," he said. Coaches aren't too worried about his spirit — it's always high.

So if Illinois' backs are flattened Saturday by Harold Bradley, they can look up and take consolation in the fact that he's really a gentle fellow. He loves art painting, collecting jazz records — and oh yes, flattening Illinois backs.

Bradley Named 'Athlete of Week'

Tackle Harold Bradley, a 60-minute standout in Iowa's line play against Minnesota was named Iowa's "athlete of the week" Tuesday.

Line Coach Pat Boland lauded Bradley's iron man stint. The 215-pound senior joined his mates in showing sharp tackling and hard hitting blocks.

After his second varsity letter this season, Bradley earned himself a starting berth despite being hampered by injuries.

Murray Wier, Vollers Playing for Waterloo

By JACK BENDER
Now that the two acknowledged major professional basketball leagues have made a "peace," it should be safe to speak of them both in the same breath.

With the Tri-Cities Blackhawks playing their National Basketball association games in Wharton fieldhouse, Moline, about 65 miles away and the Waterloo Hawks playing their National Professional Basketball league contests in the Waterloo Auditorium, hippodrome about 90 miles away, Iowa City is conveniently located to actively follow both leagues.

To add local interest, Waterloo, of course, has the not-to-be-forgotten former Iowa Coach Pops Harrison as its general manager as well as Murray Wier, a unanimous all-America choice while setting a new Big Ten scoring record a few years back, and Bob Vollers from last year's Hawkeye crew.

Jorgenson at Tri-Cities
Tri-Cities boasts Noble Jorgenson, 6-foot, 9-inch giant who performed for Iowa right after the war and was averaging 12 points a game before being declared scholastically ineligible by the conference.

The outstanding rookie in this area — for that matter, in the entire pro world — is Waterloo's Charley Share, No. 1 draft choice of the NBA. In this year's all-star game, the 6-foot, 11 1/2-inch former Bowling Green all-American was more than a match for Minneapolis' George Mikan.

Other pro veterans around to steady the new men are Don Boven, Leo Kubiak, player-coach Jack Smiley and Johnny Payak.

Best Veteran
Probably the best veteran pro around here is Frank Brian, procured by Tri-Cities from Anderson. After a slow start last year, the former LSU all-American pulled up among the scoring leaders and won a first team spot on the all-NBA team picked exclusively for the league's coaches for The Daily Iowan.

The Tri-Cities team was also fortunate in its other roster changes since the 1950 season.

Share held the Lakers' "Mr. Basketball" to a single free throw in the first 18 minutes of the game and scored six points himself, before he hobbled off the floor with an injured ankle.

Claude Overton of Eastern Oklahoma, who played for the College All-Stars in their nationwide tour with the Harlem Globe Trotters, was the top draft choice of the Washington Capitols and subsequently the second or third most sought-after man from the college ranks. He also signed with Waterloo. Then came Stan Weber, 6-foot, 6-inch forward from Bowling Green, a top draft choice of the New York Knickerbockers and Iowa's Vollers.

Big Mac Otten, 6-foot, 8-inch former all-American, was added to the roster recently in a surprise move. The high-scoring forward was signed away from the Minneapolis Lakers.

Other pro veterans around to steady the new men are Don Boven, Leo Kubiak, player-coach Jack Smiley and Johnny Payak.

Chlorophyll — Wonder Drug!

Dean Kuever Denounces Article on 'Cure' For Burns, BO, Bad Breath

Chlorophyll may be a vital plant life, but its medicinal qualities are questionable, Dean R. A. Kuever, college of pharmacy, said Monday.

A recent article in Capper's Farmer, a nationally-circulated farm magazine, states that chlorophyll, a so-called wonder drug, is being groomed for "an amazing future."

Chlorophyll is the green substance in leaves that takes water from the soil and carbon dioxide from the air. It combines them into starches and sugars, on which all animal life depends for food.

"Chlorophyll will do a lot of unbelievable things," says the story. "It heals wounds that will not respond to usual methods of treatment."

But Kuever warns readers not to take all of chlorophyll's claims too seriously.

"In the light of present day knowledge the article concerning chlorophyll's healing qualities are greatly exaggerated."

The article states that the substance is effective in healing burns and that some believe it is the drug to which the medical profession would turn in event of atomic warfare.

There are several kinds of burns that this green substance can help to a certain degree, but there are some types against which it is ineffectual, Kuever explained.

The story also says research

3 Killed in England As Blast Rips Plant

HARWICH, ENGLAND (AP)—A terrific explosion ripped an industrial explosives factory south of Harwich Tuesday, killed three workmen, injured 25, and rocked 20 miles of Britain's east coast.

Another workman is missing. The explosion obliterated one building of the explosives and chemical products company and wrecked two others.

The plant, covering 180 acres, consists of widely scattered huts and mixing sheds.

Only a deep crater remained where one of the buildings had stood. The three men killed were working in it.

Survivors said a small blast was followed by a terrific explosion and from the crater where the missing building stood a column of white smoke rose several thousand feet.

Iowa Citian Injured After Skirt Hooks Auto

Iowa Industries Up Value, Magazine Says

Value of products manufactured in Iowa increased in value 176 percent from 1929 to 1947, the November Iowa Business Digest reported Tuesday.

Although this increase is significant, it still lags behind the national increase of 204 percent for the same time.

Six Iowa industries paced the increase. They were, food and allied products; machinery (except electrical); printing and publishing; chemicals and allied products; primary metals and fabricated metal products, and stone, clay and glass products.

The first two, directly linked to the state's farm economy, comprised over 55 percent of the state's total manufacturing production in 1947.

Council Bluffs Men Get 30-Year Sentences

JEFFERSON (AP)—Two Council Bluffs men accused of attacking Sheriff William Davis with a heavy window weight in the county jail, have each received 30-year sentences.

Louis Armstrong, 27, and his brother, Millard, 22, pleaded guilty in district court Monday to a charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

Sheriff Davis said the men, originally held on a burglary charge, attacked him as he took in their breakfast one morning last week. He suffered a head injury.

Louis was taken to the state penitentiary at Fort Madison and Millard to the men's reformatory at Anamosa.

Nepalese King Yields Throne to Grandson, 3

NEW DELHI (AP)—A three-year-old grandson of King Tribhuvana Bir Bikram of Nepal has supplanted him on the throne of that Himalayan nation adjoining Tibet, the Nepalese embassy announced tonight.

The king, 44, took refuge at the Indian embassy in his capital at Katmandu yesterday. The Indian foreign ministry said he wanted to come to India for medical treatment and his government objected.

Other sources reported the king wants to get out of Nepal because of a mounting demand from his 6-million subjects for a change from the present autocratic, feudal-type government to a democratic setup.

The sources minimized the influence of Communist China's invasion of Tibet on his decision. The king is a mere figurehead.

The real ruler is the prime minister, who also is the nation's commander-in-chief.

The Nepalese embassy said the grandson, who left the palace when the king and other members of his family sought asylum at the Indian embassy, was installed as king today on the throne "suddenly left vacant."

An emergency session of the Nepalese parliament and council of elders decided unanimously this morning that the boy, a son of the crown prince, should be enthroned immediately to "insure the peace and tranquility of Nepal." The crown prince was declared to have forfeited his rights to the throne.

Tribhuvana Bir Bikram was a boy of five when he assumed Nepal's throne on the death of his father.

Armory Leases May Include Option to Buy

Iowa City's national guard armory may be purchased by the Iowa national guard sometime within 20 years under terms of an option tentatively agreed upon by city and guard officials.

Brig. Gen. Fred C. Tandy state adjutant general, has discussed the proposition with representatives of the Iowa City guard unit, Mayor Preston Koser, and four city councilmen.

The option, which requires approval of the state executive council, would go into an armory lease which has been under negotiation for over a year.

The decision resulted from a new federal law under which the federal government would pay 75 percent of costs of national guard armories. States would contribute the remaining 25 percent.

Previously, the national guard leased the armory from the city, with the city furnishing up to $1,200 a year for maintenance and repairs.

Since the war, guard officials said, $1,200 has not been enough to make necessary alterations to accommodate the mechanized and medical units.

Under the new lease, the guard will rent the building for 20 years, paying for all alterations and maintenance, with option to purchase the building and surrounding grounds at any time.

Before Monday's agreement, the lease said the property would revert to the city after 20 years, free of encumbrances.

The team getting the lowest number of members will give a banquet for the other teams. A live white goose will be left in care of the low team captain each day.

Arlyn Moeller, A2, Belle Plaine, publicity chairman for the drive, said the goose will be the main course at the final banquet, while the losing team will eat baked beans.

Review Puerto Rico Anti-Revolt Laws

Vice Squad Suicide Leaves $38,000 Fortune

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A torn piece of paper found on the body of Police Inspector Craig D. Ellis after he committed suicide showed the officer had assets of some $38,000, Delaware County District Atty. C. William Kraft Jr., disclosed Tuesday.

Ellis, head of the Philadelphia vice squad for 10 years, committed suicide Oct. 17 a few hours before he was to testify before a federal grand jury investigating crime.

At first state police said Ellis left only a suicide note in which he said: "I have failed as a leader. My wife did not know of my laxy."

Fines Total $322 For First Week Of New SUI Rules

A total of 210 tickets for violations of SUI's parking and identification regulations were issued during the first week of enforcement.

Twenty-eight were for failure to have proper car identification. This violation carries an automatic $5 fine for a first offense.

The 182 parking violations ranged from two cases of blocking a driveway to 113 cases of cars parked on lawns.

With a $1 first offense fine for improper parking, fines for all offenses in the first week totaled $322.

A few parking violations were second offenses, carrying $2 fines, but none of the identification fines was for a second offense.

A second identification offense carries another $5 fine and "disciplinary action" by the university.

Allocations of spaces in lots reserved for staff and faculty have not been made, according to R.J. Phillips, superintendent of maintenance and operation of the physical plant.
