Rebels try to oust Aquino

Mutineers bomb palace, seize Philippine air base

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Mu,inous soldiers bombed the residential palace compound Friday morning after seizing the Philippine air force headquarters and two broadcast stations in an attempt to overthrow President Corazon Aquino.

A former colonel who now is a ovincial governor said the miliry was committed to ousting quino and was moving artillery nd armor into Manila.

Aquino vowed to smash the "shameless and naked attempt," one of the most serious since a civilian-military uprising swept er to power in February 1986 and forced the late President Ferdinand Marcos into exile.

Two T-28 aircraft bombed and rocketed the compound of Malacana., Palace at about 6:30 a.m. presidential guards responded with small-arms fire.

"They're bombing us!" a palace staff member cried over the telephone. "We're going down!"

Lourdes Sytangco, deputy presidential spokeswoman, said Aquino no one could leave the building.

Radio station DZRH, reporting from the palace, said three civilians and two soldiers were killed. The report could not be confirmed.

When they saw the attack on the palace, mutineers at the government television station cheered and shouted "Cory is dead! Cory is Rudolfo Aguinaldo, governor of Cagayan province and a former lieutenant colonel, said in a radio interview that soldiers in his northern Luzon area supported the mutiny and "we are bringing in artillery and armor."

The government appealed to mayors to mobilize local police forces, and Aquino asked Filipinos earlier Friday to "support our democracy in this hour of challenge.

"An attempt to seize power by (5:30 p.m. EST Thursday), and force is again being made," she said in a nationally televised address. "Our forces have the situation under control. We shall smash this shameless and naked attempt once more.

Johnson County residents are paying one of the lowest rates in the country for their natural gas.

According to a new study put out by the National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners, the average residential cost of natural gas in Iowa falls considerably below the national average of 55 cents per therm or heating unit. The average cost in Iowa is about 48 cents per therm.

The study was based on a survey of residential customers' natural gas bills during the months of December of 1988 and January and February of 1989.

Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co., the only company serving Johnson County, has the lowest average cost in Iowa at 44 cents per therm one of the lowest rates nationally, according to Phillip Hotka, marketing and industrial engi-

The UI Foundation, which is legally separate from the UI, was established in 1956 to seek and manage private gifts to the UI. Since its inception, it has raised more than $200 million, with an additional $100 million promised to the UI in bequests, trusts and other forms of deferred gifts.

Finding people like Pappajohn to donate large sums of money has become big business in colleges and universities across the country. David Dierks, the Foundation's director of planned and major giving, said private schools have always been good at scouting out big money and convincing people to consider donating to a school instead of a charity, but it has only been in the past 15 or 20 years that public schools have started aggressive fund-raising progams.

The Foundation builds a broad donor base through solicitations to alumni and anyone else with ties to the UI. This process is enhanced by analyzing the giving habits of people who have already started donating through the UI Founda-

A good candidate for a major contribution is not necessarily the business tycoon with two houses and a boat, Dierks said. Instead, someone with strong ties to the UI, who has given a modest but consistent gifts over the years and who has a limited family may be the best donor prospect.

"You get a feeling for people," Dierks said. "You know when they're sincere. Sometimes, though, you get a huge gift from someone you had no inkling had that kind of money, and some people who have a lot of money won't give a major gift."

About 53 percent of the 37,422 alumni and non-alumni donors in 1988 gave more than $100. The UI Presidents Club is made up of contributors of $20,000 or more; 108 people joined that club in 1988, pushing the total membership to nearly 3,000.

Donors always have the privilege of specifying where they would like their contribution to go, and according to Alan Swanson, vice president for Foundation communications and administration, few people give money without stipulating where they want it applied.

Bush off to summit with Gormachev

WASHINGTON (AP) - President George Bush headed Thursday for his first summit with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev, saying the two have a "powerful and historic opportunity" to work for peace. Gorbachev, in a speech in Rome, called for a 35-nation meeting next year to speed the integration of Europe.

Urging an end to East-West divisions, Gorbachev said the changes sweeping Eastern Europe and toppling hardline communist regimes are irrevocable. He said they do not signal "the collapse of socialism" but, rather, further development of concept with noble goals and enormous humanistic and democratic potential."

Gorbachev said the meeting he called "Helsinki 2" should be moved up from 1992 as originally called for under the 1975 Helsinki Accords on human rights and security in Europe.

He made the proposal in a speech from the Michelangelo-designed Campidoglio, Rome's city hall, where the treaty was signed in 1957 establishing the European Common Market.

Gorbachev said the sweeping changes in Eastern Europe are irrevocable. He insisted they do not signal "the collapse of socialism," but rather the further development of a concept with noble goals and 'enormous humanistic and democratic potential."

On the eve of his historic meeting with Pope John Paul II, Gorbachev said that Soviets have changed their attitude toward religion and now believe religious values can help in the restructuring of Soviet society.

Gorbachev's 20-minute speech, delivered while standing in front of a 12-foot-high statue of Julius Caesar, was interrupted three times by applause from several hundred dignitaries. At the end they stood and clapped politely.

Expert says expect a nasty lowa winter

Lots of cold, snow predicted

Jennifer Glynn The Daily Iowan

Iowans growing used to the spate of mild winters are in for a surprise this year, according to the state climatologist who predicts a cold, snow-filled winter.

The outlook for the winter weather of 1989-90 is for snowier, colder and wetter than usual, according to the National Weather Service. Harry Hillaker, Iowa state climatologist, said the coming winter will definitely be colder than the last two winters. "In Iowa we have had five winters in a row with less snowfall than the long term average, and I think our luck has run out on that," Hillaker said.

"We can still expect a lot of fluctuation in the weather but now it will be on a lower plane than it has been on the past few weeks," he said. "Instead of going from 15 degrees to 60 degrees it will go from 10 below to maybe somewhere in the 40s.

"People can hope as much as they want, but we probably won't see any more warm days," Hillaker

Hillaker said Iowans can expect a lot of snow between now and the next warm day, which will probably be sometime in March.

"Things will get a lot worse before they get any better," he said.

Iowa City residents may be seeing some signs of Christmas sooner than they think, according to Hill-

"I'll be really surprised if we get through the weekend after next without some considerable snow falls," he said.

Winter is the most variable season, and many weather extremes are expected this winter, according to national weather experts.

"Extremes have been the trend in the '80s, and we can expect them to continue," Hillaker said.

Hillaker said the global warming trend, which scientists say will affect the earth in the next century, has not played a part in Iowa's warm winters.

"People assume mild winters have to do with the greenhouse effect but it isn't really a factor in determining what the forecast for the winter is going to be," Hillaker

Tauke campaign reason for visit

DES MOINES (AP) — President George Bush will field questions from farm experts during a live radio broadcast as he visits Des Moines next month.

Bush will be in Iowa for several hours December 8 to campaign for Rep. Tom Tauke (R-Iowa) who has indicated he will run for the U.S. Senate in 1990.

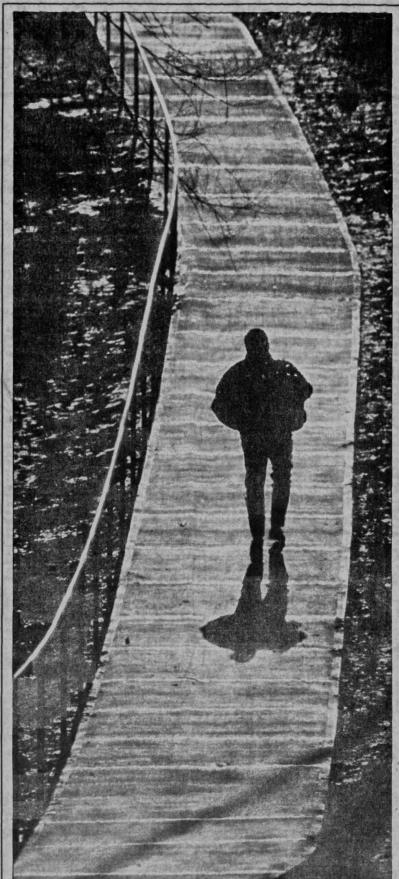

Tauke's office said Thursday the forum would last at least half an hour but later said the length of the broadcast had not been set. The forum will be broadcast live from the studios of WHO Radio in Des Moines. The forum will be relayed to 32 other radio stations

Details of the event have not been worked out. But Allen Finch of Tauke's office said the discussion will give farm leaders a chance to ask questions directly to Bush. The time of the broadcast has not been set and the questioners have not Finch said WHO and the White House will determine who will be invited to attend.

After the forum, Bush will participate in a rally and dinner in Tauke's behalf at the Des Moines Civic Center.

lowa unable to stop gambling on Indian-owned land

DES MOINES (AP) — Now that Iowa has "opened the door" to casino-style gambling, the state is powerless to prohibit wide-open casino gambling on any land currently owned by Indians, according to a lawyer for the U.S. Department of Interior.

"The only way they (Iowa) can stop it is to repeal the riverboat gambling law," said Joel Starr, an attorney who specializes in Indian affairs at the department. "The riverboat gambling law is what cracked it open in Iowa."

Once the state repeals its prohibition to a certain type of gambling, he said, the type of regulations imposed are irrelevant when it comes to Indian tribes.

"The state might say you can have a casino only one day a year and you have to stand on your head at the firehouse to play, but it doesn't matter. The door is open and the state must negotiate a compact in good faith" with tribes, Starr said in a telephone interview from his office in Washington, D.C.

In Iowa, the casinos must be on excursion boats and patrons can wager only $5 on each game, with an "excursion" loss limit of $200. But the 1988 Indian Gaming Regulatory Act. makes those restrictions meaningless if a tribe wants to operate casinos on their own land, Starr said.

There are no Indian reservations in Iowa, but Indians do own several pieces of property. The largest is the 3,000-acre Mesquakie Indian Settlement near Tama, 60 miles northeast of Des Moines. The 1,030-member tribe already operates a high-stakes bingo game.

Louis Mitchell, chairman of the Sac and Fox

Tribal Council, which determines Indian affairs on the settlement, did not return messages seeking comment Thursday.

Starr said Congress approved the law on Indian gaming as a way for Indians to make

Among Indians, he said, "The alcoholism rate is eight times the national average, the teen suicide rate is five times the national average, unemployment is 65 percent and their reservations are pushed to the worst areas with no interstate highways nearby. What alternative do they have for economic independence? If Indian gaming is a way they can make money, more power to them."

The same rules for casino operations apply to Indians who want to purchase land to operate a casino but the governor may veto the idea.

Watching waistlines becomes goal during fat food season

The Daily Iowan

Watch your waistline. Fat food season is just around the corner.

With some positive thinking and planning, putting on pounds over the holidays need not happen, said Phyllis Stumbo, nutritionist with the UI College of Medicine Clinical Research Center.

Stumbo said dieters should set a weight goal - whether it's to maintain, lose or minimize the gain - before holiday festivities chart and weigh yourself once a week," Stumbo said.

Plan to stay away from foods that have a high content of sugar or fat, such as brownies, cookies and pie or fat-heavy meats and sauces, Stumbo said. She added that beverages, especially alcoholic ones, can be high in calories.

"Before you go to a holiday party, decide what you'll eat and drink there. Write it down. Don't wait until you get there to make up your mind, because you'll probably think more rationally at home than at the party," she said.

She also warned dieters to watch out for well-meaning friends who might comment on how little they are eating, which may make them feel deprived.

"Absent-minded and off-hand remarks can really affect your eating habits, especially at this time of year," Stumbo said.

■ Pile the plate high with foods that are lower in calories and fat, such as crunchy vegetables, salads with low-calorie dressing, fruits and lean meats.

Fill the drinking glass halfway with water and then add wine. Nobody will be able to tell the wine is diluted.

■ The fewer calorie-ladden goodies there are around, the less temptation there is to indulge. Rather than high-calorie cookies and candies, have a varety of fresh fruitssuch as apples, oranges, bananas, grapes and pears- around the house to snack on.

■ While it's best to avoid desserts completely, a sweet-tooth can be satisfied with angel food cake, Fig Newtons or gingersnaps. They are

Find creative ways to exercise. Walking at a shopping mall or exercising on a stationary bicycle are possibilities. Or climb up and down stairs for 15 minutes - this equivalent to 36 minutes of walking.

■ Try to focus on and enjoy nonfood aspects of the holidays, such as visiting with friends and family.

Hy Butterfly, 33, who once slaughtered hogs at the Wilson Foods plant, was being held in the Cherokee County Jail on charges of terrorism, first-degree arson and armed with intent, said Chief Deputy Larry Simon. He was being held on bonds totaling $235,750. Butterfly was shot by authorities in September 1983, after making similar threats at the plant, Simon said. He was known then as Reed Federson, but has since legally changed his name, Simon said.

Simon said Butterfly, who lives outside Ida Grove, eats only fruits and protests slaughtering animals. "Well, he's at the wrong place," said plant manager Phil Broderick. "We haven't killed here for about four and a half years.'

On Thursday, Broderick said a man armed with a shotgun walked up to the security guard at the front gate, ordered everyone out and told the guard, "I'm going to burn the plant down.'

Broderick said the man wandered inside the plant and set several small fires, which caused negligible

Simon said while inside the plant, Butterfly fired a shot in the employee lounge, occupied by several people, but injured no one. Most of the employees had left the building, he said.

Butterfly was arrested nude in September 1983 on the killing floor of the plant after making similar threats against the company, Simon said. The plant has stopped its slaughter operations and now processes sausage and sandwich meats, Broderick said.

Broderick confirmed that Butterfly worked at the plant briefly many years ago, but had no information on his specific employment dates.

Magistrate Leo Fonderoy on Thursday set Butterfly's prelimin-ary hearing for December 7, Simon

Defense Secretary Fidel Ramos said the rebellion began shortly after midnight when about 200 marines tried to enter Villamor. About two hours later, air force troops who had been guarding the gate left their posts and mutinous marines took over security at the base perimeter.

Honasan escaped from prison last year and remains at large. He gave clandestine interviews about a week ago warning Aquino of impending trouble.

Reinforcements took up positions during the night around Aquino's residence and her office at nearby Malacanang Palace. Tanks and trucks blocked the main street that runs past the palace. De Villa told reporters late Thurs-

Rumors of a new coup attempt swept Manila last month after a dispute over plans to reorganize the Philippine Constabulary.

Congress is considering a proposal to abolish the Constabulary, a branch of the armed forces, and replace it with a civilian-controlled national police.

Constabulary troops have staged protests in Manila and Cebu against the reorganization plan.

Honasan's coup attempt in August 1987 was the bloodiest and most dangerous of the half-dozen revolts against Aquino. The colonel played a key role in the military mutiny that started the uprising against Marcos, who died in exile in Hawaii on September 28.

Traffic jams in '90s

Technology will only slow growth of transportation problems

On the road, on rails, in the air, transportation systems may take on a new look in the 1990s. But some things may never change. This is one of a periodic series of articles, "The '9" looking ahead to the promiss d peril of the upcoming decade, "It the environment, medicine, technology and society.

By LEE SIEGEL AP Science Writer

The 1990s will bring new trolleys and high-speed trains, and efforts to develop hypersonic planes. But the decade will resemble the '80s for people stuck in clogged airports and bumper-to-bumper traffic.

"If you're looking at the '90s, the automobile will remain the dominant mode of travel," said researcher Lyn Long, of the Institute of Transportation Studies at the University of California, Irvine.

"Because of increasing auto own-ership and two-worker households, there will be more cars on the road and the system will never keep pace," she said. Urban traffic congestion will be "status quo or

The Federal Highway Administration says 110 million U.S. commuters now spend 2 billion hours a year in traffic jams. That will increase to 10 billion hours by

As usual, Southern California will be in the forefront of the traffic troubles. One study predicts average speed on freeways and highways in this region will drop from 35 mph to 19 mph by 2010.

With the nation's expressway system almost complete, increased attention will be paid to "traffic management" measures, like those credited with keeping Los Angeles freeways free-flowing during the 1984 Olympics, said Peter Gordon, director of the University of Southern California's Planning Institute.

Traffic management includes synchronized traffic lights, metered on-ramps, carpool and bus lanes, quicker towing at accident sites, adding narrower lanes without widening freeways, more one-way streets, reversible traffic lanes, staggered work hours, and limits on times trucks can move goods.

But these strategies haven't helped much in the past, and seemed to work during the Olympics because many people "were so scared (by gridlock predictions) that they stopped driving," said Langhorne Bond, ex-president of the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Offi-

Dashboard navigation systems that give drivers traffic information to avoid congestion "will gradually come into widespread use between now and the year 2000," consultant Robert French wrote recently in The Futurist magazine.

Beyond 2000, radar cruise controls might allow auto convoys to speed down freeways at 70 mph, spaced only feet apart. A prototype will be tested soon near San Diego.

Toll roads will be increasingly common in the '90s, Long said.

Traffic jams also may spur "road pricing," in which road sensors trigger in-car meters so motorists get billed for using busy routes during rush hours, she said.

Gordon said city dwellers fleeing to suburbia will confound "doomsday forecasts" of urban gridlock.

"Suburbanization is the great decongestant because it spreads things out and takes pressure off downtown," Gordon said. "Industry follows the labor force into the suburbs, so most commuting is suburb-to-suburb on less congested routes. That's why the system hasn't gone to hell already."

The Institute of Transportation Engineers, however, said more than 86 percent of U.S. population growth since 1950 has been in suburbs, causing "an explosion in the number of suburb-to-suburb trips" and significant increases in suburban road congestion.

Long said many cities already are adopting low-tech "light rail."

"If you're looking at the '90s, the automobile will remain the dominant mode of travel."

Gordon, however, insisted rail "has been a flop in cities that have tried it in the last 20 years. It's been hugely expensive. It's been a disappointment in terms of ridership, and it's had almost no impact on traffic."

D'Amore countered that oil shortages, air pollution and traffic congestion mean "a continuing trend toward mass transit."

Trains with speeds up to 150 mph, such as Japan's "bullet trains," are under consideration for Los Angeles-Las Vegas, Los Angeles-San Diego, and Houston-Dallas-Fort Worth. Undersea Eurotunnel rail linking Britain and France is due for completion in 1993.

By 2000, high-speed trains also may run in the Vancouver-Seattle, Boston-New York-Washington and

Many universities depend more and more on computerized census information to track alumni. Specialized research services will screen potential donors to determine their capacity for making a major gift. By entering people's addresses into a data bank of census and marketing material, researchers can locate affluent neighborhoods across the nation. Information is also available on the number of children in that neighborhood who attend private schools, those families with expensive cars and even what percentage of the people subscribe to high class magazines.

Census data augments the information alumni and other donors provide about themselves, Dierks said, adding that Foundation staff members try to maintain personal relationships with major givers.

Expanding on his desire to build "a common European home," Gorbachev said recent events, presumably the dramatic rush toward reform in Eastern Europe, "underscore the desirability of an all-European summit, a Helsinki 2 meeting. We could consider advancing its date from 1992 to, say, as early as 1990."

The Soviet Union had been pressing for an international human rights conference to be held in Moscow next year as part of the process leading toward the next 35-nation Conference on Security and Cooperation in

The conference last met in Helsinki in 1975, when the United States, the Soviet Union, Canada and all European countries except Albania signed the Helsinki Accords concerning military security, economic cooperation and human rights.

"In the final analysis," Gorbachev said, "we envision Europe as a commonwealth of sovereign democratic states with a high level of equitable interdependence and easily accessible borders open to the exchange of products, technologies and ideas and wide-ranging contacts

Although he did not repeat it in his speech Thursday, the Soviet Union has said it is prepared to negotiate dissolution of the Warsaw Pact and NATO. The United States has rejected the suggestion pending further progress in nuclear and conventional arms control talks Gorbachev, who was baptized in the Russian Orthodox Church but rose through the ranks of the officially atheist Communist Party, said the Soviets "have abandoned the claim to have a monopoly on the truth. We no longer think that we are the best and that we are always right, that those who disagree with us are our enemies.

And he said Soviets have changed their attitude toward religion,

"which, admittedly, we used to treat in a simplistic manner." Religion has been rejected to some extent in all major social upheavals, not just the Communist revolution, he said. "But now we not only proceed from the assumption that no one should interfere in matters of the individual's conscience; we also say that the moral values which religion generated and embodied for centuries can help in the work of renewal in our country, too. In fact, this is already happening."

Gorbachev goes to the Vatican on Friday for the first meeting between the pope and a Soviet Communist Party chief. On Saturday, he begins a two-day summit with President George Bush.

He praised Gorbachev as a man "looking for ways to keep those reforms moving forward, and I'm looking for ways to promote democracy and freedom.

Half a world away, authorities on the Mediterranean island of Malta were busy mobilizing the military - and even the boy scouts - in preparation for the superpower leaders.

Not even a shortage of tiny, wavable Soviet flags was enough to hamper the preparations, said Eddie Stafrace, who reported selling 160 American and Maltese flags a day from his little toy store behind the Palace of the Grand Masters in Valletta. Bush and Gorbachev will meet Saturday, beginning 111/2 hours of talks over two days on warships anchored off the Mediterranean island of Malta.

Addressing 300 administration officials, Bush said, "This meeting represents a point of departure, the beginning of a process as full of more peaceful one."

promise as any that we've ever

"And given the remarkable and rapid change in Eastern Europe," he said, "our meeting will be yet another important step in this long but hopeful journey toward a Europe that is indeed whole and free."

The discussions are expected to focus on the reforms in Eastern Europe, negotiations to cut nuclear arms and conventional forces, trade issues, and regional disputes, including a U.S. complaint about Soviet-made weapons shipped to El Salvador.

Bush praised Gorbachev for his "efforts to relax the grip of the centralized government, to move toward pluralism and the free expression of ideas."

Calling the changes in the Soviet Union "dramatic," Bush said, "I believe the people of Europe can see that Mr. Gorbachev and I -East and West - are not in some kind of competition. Rather, we're both working to make the world a acquainted meeting, used the word

"historic" three times to describe the weekend talks. "Ours is a powerful and historic opportunity, made possible by a continuing American commitment to the (Western) Alliance and its defense," he said.

It will be the first superpower summit since Gorbachev met then-President Ronald Reagan on New York's Governor's Island on Dec. 7, 1988. Bush, vice president at the time, sat in on those talks.

Since then, a tide of democracy has swept over Europe, removing from power authoritarian communist regimes in Poland, Hungary, Czechoslavakia, East Germany and

Only Romania has spurned the reforms initiated by Gorbachev after he rose to power in March,

In the text of an interview released Thursday, Bush prodded Romania to get in step with its Eastern European neighbors. "My God, I'd like to see some action there," he said. " . . . I'd like to see them come into the New World and not deprive their people of a chance to be independent and free.'

Looking ahead to the summit, Bush said, "Mr. Gorbachev and I see eye to eye on what our upcoming meeting is all about. We both want to build a sustained relationship for real achievements over the long term." Bush and Gorbachev have expressed support for the changes.

Miami cop who shot black man testifies

MIAMI (AP) — A police officer who shot a black motorcyclist testified in his own defense Thursday, telling jurors he fired only because he thought he was about to die.

"He just came straight at me, and he just revved the motorcycle," officer William Lozano, 31, testified. "He was just aiming at me. I was just only able to turn my body, draw my gun and shoot."

The testimony was broadcast live on television and radjo in Miami, where three days of racial violen broke out following the January 16 Cable News Network carried Lozano's testimony live nationally.

Twice before in this decade, innocent verdicts favoring policemen accused of killing blacks have led to rioting, and the Miami and Metro-Dade police forces are on alert for renewed violence.

Prosecution witnesses testified that the Hispanic officer, who faces two counts of manslaughter in the deaths of the motorcyclist and a passenger, coolly took aim and fired as the bike was about to speed past him while being pursued by a police car.

Lozano was the final defense witness, after which rebuttal witnesses were scheduled. Court officials have not said when they expect the case to go to the jury.

Lozano told the court he did not see the motorcycle until the last second because his attention was on the lights of the approaching squad car. He said he spotted the bike only after it crossed into the traffic lane where he

Lozano's attorney Roy Black asked how close the motorcycle came.

"(So) close that I thought I might die, that I was going to be run over and I was going to die," the Colombian-born officer said with a light Spanish accent. "I feared for my life."

Lozano, who has served with the department for five years, described how the situation quickly degenerated as an angry crowd gathered around the two victims. The bullet struck the driver Clement Lloyd, 23, in the head, killing him instantly. Lloyd's passenger Allan Blanchard, 24, died the next day of head injuries suffered in the subsequent crash.

"I was a target for every person there," Lozano testified, saying he was "getting hit right and left" by rocks and bottles at one THE DECEMBER THIEVES' MARKET

Evidence fails to link prime suspect to murders in unsolved Seattle case

SEATTLE (AP) — Investigators working on the nation's worst known unsolved serial murder case cleared their sole "viable suspect" Thursday after boxes of videotapes, police gear and other evidence failed to link him to the crimes.

William Jay Stevens II probably would have been cleared earlier if he had cooperated in the investigation, Green River Task Force commander Bob Evans said.

The task force is investigating the deaths or disappearances of 49 women, most of them Seattle prostitutes, who vanished from 1982 to 1984. The case takes its name from a river near where the first five victims were found.

Evans said more than 50 boxes of credit card records, videotapes, firearms and police paraphernalia removed from Stevens' home and other information gathered by detectives failed to prove Stevens was responsible for the murders.

Investigators have speculated that the Green River killer posed as a police officer to trap his victims.

world class liar, but after we looked at everything that we took and interviewed everybody that we could interview, I can't tell you in good conscience that I think he's responsible for any murders in King County," Evans told

Stevens, 39, is being held in the Spokane County Jail without bail awaiting trial on federal firearms charges resulting from guns found at his Spokane home during a search by the Green River Task Force and Spokane police.

He was arrested after police received a tip prompted by a "Manhunt" television show that broadcast details of the Green River slayings.

Officers investigating the tip determined that Stevens, who at the time was president of the student bar association at Gonzaga University Law School in Spokane, was also a fugitive.

He was wanted on an outstanding warrant charging that he escaped from jail in 1981 while serving a "The guy is a prolific thief and a sentence for burglary and was

He has since served the escape sentence and is now being held on the gun charges. He was never charged with any of the killings and has always said he was inno-

"We tried to resolve our concerns about him the first and second week of January through both him and his attorney and deal with it quietly and discreetly. They chose not to let that happen, we didn't," Evans said.

Roger Peven, Stevens' attorney on the federal firearms charges, told Spokane radio station KXLY, "It's interesting when a task force calls you a mass murderer for about six months, then says, 'Well, gee, maybe not.'

"I can understand the police departments of Seattle and elsewhere looking into murder. But I'm distressed when they announce they have someone who is a suspect and leave it hanging for

Markers signify maintenance development plan for stone faces of Mount Rushmore

MOUNT RUSHMORE NATIONAL MEMORIAL, S.D. (AP) - Round, black markers dotted the huge stone faces of four U.S. presidents Thursday as a project got under way to develop a long-term maintenance plan for Mount Rushmore.

Six National Park Service employees and workers from an engineering firm carefully positioned 60 to 75 of the plastic markers on the 60-foot granite faces so a photographer in a helicopter could take close-up pictures Friday of the hundreds of cracks that may threaten the structural integrity of the Shrine of "The ultimate purpose is so we can actually map those cracks and make models of the mountain and then analyze those models to determine what potential movement and instability is there," said Dan Wenk, Mount Rushmore superintendent.

The black markers, 15 inches across or a little bigger than a record album, will become reference marks in the photographs. The markers should be removed Friday afternoon, Wenk said. Bob Crisman of the National Park Service, who was suspended by a cable in front of the faces, stuck the markers on with an adhesive. A ground crew of surveyors was in radio contact from the Mount Rushmore Visitors Center telling him where to place

Each fall, workers seal cracks in the faces with a mixture of granite dust, white lead and linseed oil to keep out water that would freeze and to lessen the damage when cool weather makes the rock contract. It was decided two years ago that a comprehensive examination of the popular tourist attraction and a maintenance plan was needed, Wenk said.

Monthly measurements since 1980 of a prominent crack on the forehead of George Washington's likeness indicated the potential instability of the fissure, he said. A scientist projected that the crack would widen one-quarter of an inch every 200 years,

"There has been no discernable damage to the memorial to date, and this will allow us to make certain we can preserve it," he said. Wenk said the project actually started in September when aerial photographs were taken. "Something that's carved in stone has the impression of lasting forever," he said. "It's been 62 years since the carving first began. It's a blink of an eye in geologic time.

"What we know for sure right now is that the mountain is still in the same shape it was when it was completed."

A structural analysis of the portraits of Presidents George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt drilled and blasted into a mountainside in the Black Hills should be done by next fall, Wenk said.

They are largest carved figures anywhere. Washington's face is as high as a five-story building, bigger than any sphinx in Egypt, and the monument can be seen for 60 miles.

Wenk said the estimated $350,000 cost of the project will be paid by the private Mount Rushmore National Memorial Society. The non-profit group has served as a benefactor to the monument since 1930. Work on Mount Rushmore began in 1927 by sculptor Gutzon Borglum and was finished in 1941 by his son, Lincoln. The Black Hills memorial attracts about 2 million visitors a year.

The monument was the scene of a climactic final battle in "North By Northwest," Alfred Hitchcock's classic 1959 thriller starring Cary Grant.

Rabbi Walter Zanger LIVING WITH THE INTIFADA

Monday, December 4 2 p.m. • Indiana Room, IMU

Walter Zanger, an ordained rabbi and former Air Force Chaplain, is one of Israel's foremost guides. He is a writer of film documentaries, a columnist for ISRAEL SCENE magazine, BIBLE TIMES QUARTERLY, and, at one time, for the JERUSALEM POST. He has become widely known as a featured personality on the long-running television magazine, HELLO JERUSALEM.

Zanger served as a sergeant in an anti-aircraft battalion in the Israel Defense Force for a dozen years, including the Yom Kippur War of 1973. He and his wife live in a big old house in Ein Karem, a suburb of Jerusalem. They have four children.

Walter Zanger is in the United States on a two-month country-wide lecture tour which takes him from California to Florida; speaking about Israel and the Intifada, and promoting a monthly newsletter, FROM JERUSALEM, which he writes and publishes.

In 1986, Dan Gable was on top of the world, having won his ninth straight NCAA wrestling title here at lowa. Since then, the Hawkeyes have fallen in the ranks, but Gable says he can still turn student wrestlers into winners.

'I don't make rules that back me into a corner. because that may come back to haunt me'

EDITOR'S NOTE: In a state without professional sports personalities, coaches at the UI absorb considerable attention. Football coach Hayden Fry, basketball coach Tom Davis and wrestling coach Dan Gable are among the most recognized figures from the Missouri to the Mississippi. And for Gable - who many consider the personification of college wrestling the glare of the spotlight is especially bright.

Gable talked to Daily Iowan Sports Editor Bryce Miller about takedowns, tests and creative cook-

DI: This season has to be a pretty big transitional period for you. You had so much success (nine straight national titles through 1986) for so many seasons, and last year (finishing sixth at NCAAs, the worst placement by a Gable team in his 13 seasons at Iowa) had to be pretty disappointing. How tough has it GABLE: Only one day was disappointing last year. That was the Friday at NCAAs. (In the morning Iowa was second — by afternoon, they were out of contention) Otherwise, it was a pretty good year, really. Going into it last year, we were in a position to win, but boy, after the second day there was no chance of winning. In fact, it was the worst day, from a win-loss point of view, in the NCAAs since I've been here.

DI: What has contributed to the problems in recent years?

GABLE: I can remember a couple of times (in the summer of 1986 when Gable said he noticed problems brewing) ... One of the things that's really helped me, I think, being a good coach is knowing how my people are off the mat as well. Being able to go over to their house and stop in on them. I can remember three or four times I just happened to take a random stop on the way home, and I happened to stop at somebody's house and I went in the backyard or the front door and there was always a party going on. The more I think about it, it was almost a ritual for somebody to hold a party every day.

DI: When you have a situation like (wrestlers Don) Finch and (Chris) Gapen (who were arrested in an alcohol-related incident last season), how do you handle that as a coach? If coaches were honest, they'd say you have to sit on it, and keep it quiet as long as you can and wanted to eliminate something, he protect your team. What do you do?

GABLE: It depends if they come up once in a blue moon. I know things are going to happen. But they can't happen every day, or they can't happen once a week, or once a month; that's too much. If they happen two or three times a year, they don't bother me at all. I don't want any of it, but if it's the exception, instead of the rule, that doesn't bother me.

. . My philosophy is I don't make rules that back me into a corner, because that may come back to haunt me. One of the things that makes my job harder is a lot of times I don't know what's being told to my team. Say for example, they've been in trouble and they've got to go through a counseling system that's part of their so-called rehab. A lot of that stuff used to be between me and the kid.

DI: You don't have anything to do with that?

GABLE: Not really.... I feel this way. I feel that I work for the University of Iowa and represent the state of Iowa. And I feel that if any time somebody is making my job more difficult within the system, then I don't feel they work for the same institution that I do.

DI: Two years ago (John) Regan left, last season (Eric) Heneghan left (for what they cited as little stress on academics in the wrestling program). ... I talked to somebody on the team this year, and to use their words, not mine, but 'Academics here are a crock of shit if you're an athlete.' Is that accurate?

GABLE: I disagree totally. Regan, I can see why he had trouble academically. What he said about me, if he had that same attitude about what he said when he went to classes, he would never get anything out of classes. Because when he said the fact that I never mentioned his academics, I mentioned his academics almost every day. I called him up on the phone 10 times to talk about (grades). Every day at three o'clock, when I have a team meeting, I mention academics, and I mentioned it during his career.

DI: What about Heneghan? GABLE: Heneghan had one problem ... too much social life. If he wanted to do his athletics, he could've done his athletics. He could've done his academics, but he could eliminate either social, or academic or athletics. He decided to eliminate his athletics. You're going to have a hard time doing all three . . . real well.

DI: You're recognized in wrestling circles as much as anybody in the history of the sport. Does that bother you, and what situations does it create?

GABLE: For an example, the last 10 years or so of my life I've been contacted a lot by Hollywood to do movies DI: Why haven't you done something like that? GABLE: I look back like it's BS. It's talk. There's not much action. I don't worry about that kind of stuff. I got my own job. I want to worry about what I've got to do. If they want to make a movie, fine, let them make it. . . . I've had one, two, three, four, I've had five times that people have bought my life rights (for movies). They've got 'til June right now to put together a movie, then they expire. They do that for a year. DI: How much is your life worth for a year?

GABLE: It depends. They go from $5,000 to $200,000.

DI: You got paid $200,000 for a GABLE: I never did, no. I'm behind right now. I usually pay out more lawyer fees than what they pay for my life rights. The most somebody's paid me for (the rights) is $10,000. But I paid over $10,000 for the lawyer that year. DI: I know you were offered a job at Oklahoma State a number of years back. I heard $367,00 a year. Is that true? GABLE: That was my diet job offer ever (he said Iowa State had also contacted him). They offered me $3 million for 10 years. DI: How could you turn something like that down?

GABLE: Because I was too busy to consider it. I was going right from the national championships to when I was head coach of the World Cup team.

DI: People have said that you're the greatest wrestling coach of all time. Do you believe that?

GABLE: A lot of times, you bring kids in who aren't that good and they end up being great wrestlers. People say you can't make pumpkin pie out of horse manure ... I can make pumpkin pie out of horse was also too much social, If he manure.

Red Army Faction kills W. German banker

BAD HOMBURG, West Germany - The terrorist Red Army Faction, dormant for three years, killed West Germany's most powerful banker Thursday by blowing apart his armored Mercedes with a light-sensitive bomb on a bicycle.

Alfred Herrhausen was chairman of Deutsche Bank, West Germany's largest, and one of Chancellor Helmut Kohl's chief economic Police the bicycle-bomb apparently was placed on a street of this spa town outside Frankfurt, where the 59-year-old banker lived, and detonated by a sophisticated light-beam device as he drove by on his way to work.

They said it was the first time terrorists used such a detonator in West German.

Federal criminal police offered a reward of up to $2.2 million, one of the largest here ever.

Police with helicopters were searching for two men seen leaving the area. A stolen white Lancia believed to have been used in the getaway was found abandoned in a Frankfurt suburb.

"For a long time, the Deutsche Bank and Herrhausen in particular have been targeted by the Red Army Faction," said Hans-Jürgen Förster, spokesman for the chief federal prosecutor's office. He said the ultraleftists accuse Deutsche Bank of financing a worldwide "military-industrial" complex.

The explosion, heard three miles away, turned Herrhausen's armored limousine into a heap of twisted metal and blew out windows in buildings.

His driver, Jakob Nix, was seriously injured, but police said his condition was not critical. Security agents following in another car Herrhausen, the best-known figure in West German business, often advised Kohl and frequently accompanied him on trips abroad. The tall, striking financier had led Deutsche Bank on an aggressive expansion aimed at putting it among the world's top 10 or 15 banks.

He urged more investment in the Soviet Union and other parts of Eastern Europe. Most recently, he recommended West German investment in East Germany.

Deutsche Bank owns large interests in many leading West German companies, including Daimler-Benz, the largest conglomerate. Herrhausen arranged the biggest industrial restructuring in West German history, the merger of Daimler-Benz with aerospace giant Messerschmitt-Boelkow-Blohm.

And Many Other Outstanding Employers At Careers '90!

Careers '90 college recruitment conferences will give you the opportunity to meet and interview with some of the nation's top employers. Over 5,000 seniors have attended past conferences, with 51% receiving second interviews and almost 40% receiving at least one job offer AS A DIRECT RESULT OF THEIR CONFERENCE PARTICIPATION. You can meet and interview with employers who don't recruit at your school, or make an important second impression on those that you do interview with on campus. In either case, just one day at Careers '90 can enhance your choice of career options and significantly increase your chance of getting the job you want, with the employer you want.

ENGINEERING, COMPUTER SCIENCE, MATH, BUSINESS, PHYSICAL & BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES AND LIBERAL ARTS majors are being recruited. To be considered for a Careers '90 invitation, send an updated resume by December 20, 1989 to Careers '90, P.O. Box 1852. New Haven, CT 06508. (Indicate the conference(s) you'd like to attend). Your interests and credentials will be carefully reviewed by our experienced staff and compared to other seniors in your major discipline. Seniors whose qualifications and interests best match the requirements of participating Careers '90 employers will be invited to attend. There is ABSOLUTELY NO CHARGE to seniors

Madrigal's bad taste

On December 8, 9 and 10 the UI School of Music will hold its annual Elizabethan Madrigal Dinners at the Union. This Rennaissance holiday celebration has become a tradition over the past 10 years, with authentic period decorations and a cast of royalty and members of the court presiding over the

But this year, poor judgement on the part of the dinner's planners is bound to leave a bad taste in diners' mouths.

To enhance authenticity, on the night of the dinner organizers plan to situate three beggars outside the Union to "act" the part of destitute 14th-century homeless. This way, diners on their way to stuff themselves with roast beef and plum pudding can really experience what it felt like to wade through crowds of beggars tugging at their coats for a coin or

One can only marvel at the insensitivity of the dinner's organizers. Poverty is hardly a charming artifact of antiquity. The only thing that's changed in modern times is that society has outlawed begging - prohibiting the poor from "bothering" the general population. In most of Iowa City, the closest reminder of poverty is someone digging through the garbage for aluminum cans. In bigger cities, hard poverty means sleeping over a steam vent.

Hiring people to act as beggars is a slap in the face to organizations that exist to alleviate homelessness and poverty. Beggars at the Madrigal Dinners offend those who struggle daily with these problems and makes a mockery of this nation's most serious problem.

Easy compromises

With the countdown proceeding on the first summit between presidents George Bush and Mikhail Gorbachev, the conflicts between U.S. and Soviet interests are being plainly stated. Given all the change in Eastern Europe, the opportunities for improved relations are enormous:

■ Spending relief — The Soviet Union can no longer afford to maintain its military budget at the level of recent years. For anyone who seriously considers the federal debt in this country, neither can the U.S. Mutual interest calls for reductions of conventional military forces on both sides.

■ Regional conflicts — Just as the Soviets supply arms to El Salvador to fuel a conflict in America's backyard, U.S. missiles have caused considerable damage recently in Kabul. Both nations have been distracted and demoralized by these conflicts. Again a trade-off is obvious: Destabilizing arms shipments should cease crossing the Atlantic, in both

■ Human rights — As each of the Soviet satellite states approaches political autonomy, greater democratization has appeared prominently on each of their agendas. This week's agreement in Czechoslovakia to strike membership in the Communist Party as a requirement for political office is but one example. In exchange for Soviet non-interference with this progress, the United States should grant favored nation trading status to the Soviet Union. The Soviets could purchase U.S. goods, relieving their depressed consumer goods market, and the United States could profit from increased exports. Once more, a compromise is easy to imagine: Recognize Soviet progress, and gradually open the doors to trade.

While the administration has reacted to Soviet promises of reform with consistent skepticism, one by one they have come to pass. It's Bush's turn to endorse these changes, and urge them further along during this summit. S.P. Kiernan

Get real

Maybe it's time we started taking our bloody noses in stride,

Yes, a 5-6 season isn't the kind of stuff you're supposed to jump up and down about, to say the least. But don't throw the baby out with the bathwater.

Close your eyes. Say to yourself, "Eight straight bowls. Eight straight bowls. Eight straight bowls . . .'

Someone suggested this week that it might be all right to laugh at the Hawks now. How convenient. Things turn sour and it's time to pretend you don't care. Ha ha.

A losing season. The team lost more than it won. There was only one happy Saturday at home this season - and that came against Tulsa.

Oregon beat us here. Michigan State beat us here. Illinois beat us here. Michigan beat us here. Minnesota beat us here. Someone suggested this week, in the season's wake, that Hayden Fry probably should pack his bag. That he should go elsewhere. Think.

"Eight straight bowls. Eight straight bowls. Eight straight

Let Hayden Fry go? Push the panic button? Let him reverse the fate of some other losing program? Forget the 19 losing seasons Iowa suffered pre-Fry? Forget about the man who always goes for it on fourth down in key situations? Forget his accent? Get someone in here with less of a résumé, someone who has no personality? Someone we'd probably, in turn, fire in another five years after five more losing seasons?

ditor's note: Today's regular columnist is on assignment in Mongolia; he wanted to be the first on the scene when the Mongols "blow away the totalitarian yoke of communism for the fresh air of freedom and democracy. Instead, The Daily Iowan is pleased to run the following excerpts from the magazine Teen Republican Beat, a publication aimed at a conservative teen-age readership. Enjoy.

As part of our series "The '80s - A Bitchin' Time," Teen Republican Beat recently asked three Americans prominent during the decade to submit to questions from our readership. The three included media mogul Al Neuharth, former Gannet chairman and founder of USA Today, P.J. O'Rourke, foreign affairs correspondent for Rolling Stone and author of the book "The Republican Party Reptile"; and former Interior Secretary James Watt.

I am a 17-year-old high-school senior, and I am interested in pursuing a career in journalism. I was wondering what you would recommend I do to get started. - A.K., New Orleans, LA.

AL NEUHARTH REPLIES: Journalism can be a great career. I was a journalist. I enjoyed it. I enjoyed it because I rose to the top. How did I do it? I was nice to many people, but mean to many as well. It's true. To get ahead, you have to be like that. If you want to know more read my new book, "Confessions of an S.O.B." Available at your local bookstore. Or by mail.

You know, 68 percent of us say they don't trust journalists. Twenty-two percent of us do trust them. Fifteen percent of us are undecided. "I don't know if I trust journalists," said Mary Howell. She is a head librarian in Fort Wayne, Indiana. Her husband is a construction worker. I met her on one of my bus trips across America. She also doesn't like yogurt. Thirty-five percent of us agree with her on that. Forty-one percent of us say we like it "sometimes." Twelve percent say we like it "most of the time," 23 percent of us say we "never like it," and 17 percent of us are undecided.

I'm very confused about the situation in El Salvador. Can you enlighten me as to what the government and the rebels are fighting over in this civil war? - M.R.,

P.J. O'ROURKE REPLIES: So I'm sitting in this bar in San Salvador in this pseudo-swanky hotel that wouldn't even meet the standards most Best Westerns are held to. It smells like an asbestos factory, I've got about 20 grams of the top-grade stuff from Bolivia up my right nostril, and I've got this 12-year old girl sitting on my lap, whispering in my ear about the wonderful things she'll do for me if I give her a bite of my Mars bar.

All of a sudden, before you can say "Somoza is a pig," her head gets sliced off by a guy in green fatigues who looks like a cross between Ernest Borgnine and an Aztec statue. I stare at her head on the floor. It stares back. I drink some more tequila, swallowing the worm. Then I look up and see the guy who did the girl in, looking at me with an expression that isn't saying "Viva Reagan."

In El Salvador, you can never tell who's a rebel and who's a government soldier, because they all speak Spanish and wear military outfits. So I figure I better find out what I'm dealing with. I attempt to shout "Yo Americano!" figuring if he turns out to be a rebel I can always tell him I said "No Americano." As it turns out, I never get the words out. Instead I get sick. In El Salvador, people throw up all the time. It's a way of life for a lot of them, sort of like raising farm animals. But before I can apologize, a grenade flies through the window, and I can't think of anything to say to his limbless torso, so I pass out.

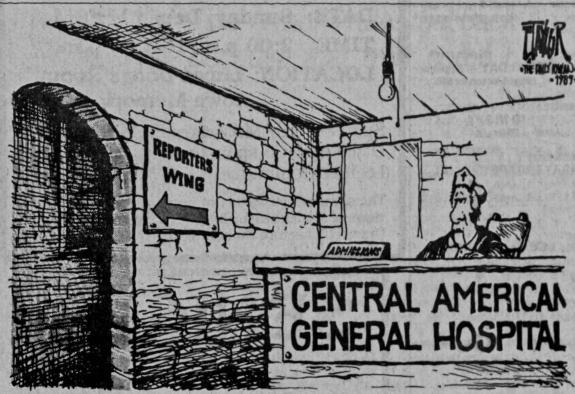

I was wondering what you could tell me about Sting. I think he's a real dreamboat. Also, should I get an abortion? — F.T., Lincoln, NE.

JAMES WATT REPLIES: "Sting," like many stars who play what is commonly called "rock" music, is most likely a drug-addicted pedophile whose very existence is an abomination in the eyes of God. Unlike those who play decent, wholesome music, such as Wayne Newton, "Sting" will most likely spend eternity burning in hell for his sins.

I have seen this "Sting" on television campaigning for what are generally mislabeled "environmental" causes. Actually, these "environmental" extremists are going against the will of God. Honestly, when Jesus comes back for Judgement Day sometime in the next decade, do you think he'll want to see a well-preserved world? Au contraire, he would like nothing more than to see us use the natural resources God has given us. A national park will not bring a smile to the Lord's face, but strip-mining

As for your second question, just remember, if God had intended abortion, he would have made Adam and Steve, not Adam and Eve. No, that's the wrong cliché. I meant to say, if God had intended abortion, he would have made men pregnant rather than women. But in God's scheme, men are supposed to be the breadwinners and women carry the babies. If you don't like it, you can take it up with the Almighty. That is, right before you are condemned to

Poor coverage

To the Editor:

The DI's recent coverage of El Salvador has been irreponsible and offensive. Michael Lorenger editorial, ["Aiding democracy," DI, November 27] calling for more involvement in Central America was full of mistaken correlations and anti-communist propaganda.

Lorenger was correct when he said that President George Bush has not done enough to support democracy in Central America; it is his reasoning that is ludicrous. He contrasts Central America with Eastern Europe and asserts that the changes in Eastern Europe are solely based on lust for capitalism. Certainly East Europeans are enjoying access to Western goods, but 75 people did not die trying to cross the Berlin Wall in the last 30 years because they wanted to eat at McDonalds's!

Jean Thilmany's report on the El Salvador panel discussion the following day ["Members of El Salvador panel air personal views," DI, November 28] was equally disturbing. First, she did not even mention two of the panelists: Jose Luis Guzman is a Salvadoran graduate student at the UI who attended the Central American University in San Salvador which was run by the six Jesuit priests who were killed on November 16; and Becky Minnich, who has studied Latin America and presented an up-to-date and thorough report of U.S. involvement in El Salvador.

The DI is not alone in its poor media coverage of El Salvador, but that is no excuse. In the future, I hope the DI will address the war in El Salvador with the seriousness it demands.

Yoga's delights To the Editor:

I was very happy to read the article about yoga ["Yoga offers varient to exercise," DI, Nov. 20]. Yoga has been around for 30 centuries, and it is time the Iowa City community read about it at the end of the materialistic '80s. The Sanscrit word "yoga" comes from the same Indo-European root as the English word yoke, denoting the combination of discipline, awareness and control.

But the article [focused on] on the "body-bending" Hatha yoga exercises, overlooking the effort of this discipline to overcome the Western body-mind dualism and integrate the whole person in its relationship to the universe. Yoga is not simply another substitute for aerobic exercise, but a complex system which allows the body to learn how to function at its most optimal biological levels - one that causes clarity and delight of the mind.

Young victim leaves legacy of confusion was the last time I saw Miriam Wolfe. jump up and down on a Kensington Park boulevard and cheerfully wave goodbye as my cab whisked me away to Heathrow Airport. She was studying in London that semester; I had been visiting her over our Thanksgiving vacation.

I made it home safely to the States. Miriam didn't. A terrorist bomb sent Miriam - and the rest of the holiday travelers aboard Pan Am flight 103 - plummeting six miles to the frozen countryside of Lockerbie, Scotland, on December 21.

1st Person

Jake Stigers

Miriam was a sophomore studyng in London through Syracuse University. We had met and become close friends the summer before, when we had performed together in live shows in a theme park near Buffalo, New York.

After she was killed I was suddenly faced not only with accepting her death, but with understanding the vast complexity of terrorism, a concept to which I give much thought. As I have grown to understand it, terrorists do not value human life; their actions are sanctioned - perhaps even celebrated - by the religious and political states on whose behalf they act. The simple fact that terrorist groups "claim responsibility" for murders instead of, say, "confess guilt" tells me they are unconditionally proud of their actions.

Popular theory has it that a nilitant Iranian faction was responsible for the Pan Am bombing, retaliating for the U.S. bombing of an Iranian air bus the summer of 1988. Both countries were enmeshed at the time in a perpetual cycle of bloody revenge, and Miriam, who obviously didn't have anything to do with this international power struggle, unwittingly became another tragic statistic.

The knowledge of Miriam's death caused friends and family to band together to offer me all sorts of emotional support. Some - and I imagine they were simply trying to endorse the hate they expected me to feel - angrily said that we should "kill the bastards." But after witnessing the abject grief of Miriam's parents, I decided any murderous retaliation would not give me piece of mind; trading murders eye-for-eye would only make more mothers cry.

The more I considered the event of random murder for the sake of religious patriotism, the more I began to question my own Christian background. I had always had trouble accepting the concept of religious pluralism; there are many religions in the world - many much older that Christianity - and in their diversity, they certainly can't all be right. How could the benevolent God celebrated in Western Christianity tolerate other religions that kill for their causes? And, since I had first learned of the bloody papal-sanctioned Crusades of the Middle Ages, I had wondered about the integrity of the Christian God. The Pan Am murders only served to further my confusion and doubt.

It has been almost a year since the still-unnamed terrorists killed the 259 Pan Am passengers and 11 Lockerbie residents. I imagine those responsible wanted the bombing of flight 103 to create hatred, distrust and

Nonetheless, I neither par nor hate countries that he r terrorists or promote terrore do I feel a need to perpetuate the cowardly cycle of random murder in the name of revenge.

It would be nice, for Miriam's sake, to isolate some rational explanation for her death, but don't really believe one exists. And I know the world's memory of the Pan Am bombing will fade; to many it already has.

But not to me. In a year I haven't been able to answer one of the questions her death raised for me. Perhaps my newfound grappling with the world is Miriam's

Personal spending decreases

WASHINGTON (AP) - Consumer about two-thirds of the nation's a weak fourth-quarter economy, spending fell to its lowest level in nearly three years in October, the government said Thursday, and analysts said continued sluggishness in personal consumption is likely to be a "major drag" on the economy in the fourth quarter.

On the other hand, personal income rose a healthy 0.9 percent, which analysts said indicates con-sumers said have spending power, but are waiting for bargains. "It's not going to be a great Christmas in terms of shopping and (retail) earnings," said Sandra Shaber, an economist with the Futures Group, a Washington consulting firm. "People will just wait until things go on sale."

The Commerce Department said that spending, reflecting plummeting auto sales in October, dropped 0.2 percent to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $3.53 trillion after edging up only 0.3 percent in September.

It was the first decline in personal spending since a 0.1-percent drop in September 1988 and the steepest since a 1.4-percent fall in economic activity and the spending report provided fresh evidence that the economy is continuing to slow.

Consumer spending accounts for

"Consumer spending is starting the fourth quarter on an extremely weak note," said David Jones, an economist with Aubrey G. Lanston & Co. in New York. "And since it represents two-thirds of the gross national product, I think it will be a major drag on the economy in the fourth quarter.'

Income, on the other hand, totaled $4.51 trillion, reflecting the largest advance since a 1 percent gain last March. It had risen 0.3 percent in

The San Francisco Bay-area earthquake knocked $21 billion out of the income figure at an annual rate, but that was partially offset by other one-time "special factors," including a $7.2 billion increase in farm subsidies and $6.8 billion in bonuses to auto industry employ-

"Excluding the impact of the special factors, personal income increased about $33 billion, or 0.7 percent," the Commerce Depart-said the report by itself does not indicate an imminent recession.

"First, income numbers have been too strong to be consistent with a recession," Shaber said. "And, on the other hand, people are still spending ... they're just being very, very cautious . . . waiting for things to go on sale."

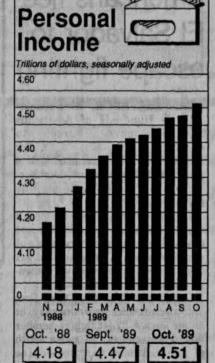

Jones agreed, saying that consumers still have buying power but are "more cautious, and they want to

The key component of the income category — wages and salaries rose $33 billion, compared to a $17 billion gain in September.

Payrolls at manufacturing companies rose by $6.8 billion, but would have been flat except for the $6.8 billion in auto bonuses. The manufacturing sector has been one of the hardest hit by Federal Reserve Jones and Shaber, while expecting efforts to fight inflation.

On the spending side, the $6.1 billion decrease in personal consumption, which includes everything except interest payments on debt, compared to a $9.9 billion gain in September when incentives drove auto sales up.

U.S. ports to deny entry of Panamanian vessels economic screws on Panama's Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega "and his puppet regime," on Thursday banned Panamanian-flag vessels from entering U.S. ports after January 31.

"This ban is consistent with international efforts to further isolate the Noriega regime, which is currently shunned by the democratic nations of Latin America and around the world," the White House said in a

The ban, announced as Bush prepared to leave for his weekend summit at Malta with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, is in addition to a wide array of U.S. economic sanctions already in place against Panama.

In the statement, the adminstration renewed its determination "to assist the Panamanian people in their endeavor to bring about Noriega's departure and the establishment of democratic institutions responsive to the will of the people."

The president has been urging Panamanians and defense forces to drive Noriega from office since last May, after abortive elections there. However, Bush has been criticized by Democrats in Congress for not acting more decisively in taking advantage of last month's attempted

Noriega, who is under indictment in the United States on drug trafficking charges, has resisted 21/2 years of U.S. efforts to oust him. The new ban on Panamanian shipping "will deny Noriega and his puppet regime tens of millions of dollars of revenue," the White House statement said. "Noriega's cronies will also be deprived of millions of dollars of illegal income in the form of bribes and kickbacks.' The action would affect some 1,500 merchant ships of more than 1,000 gross tons that call each year in U.S. ports, according to State Department estimates. If those ships chose to register under another flag, the Panamanian regime would lose some $20 million to $50 million a year in registering revenues.

Health statistics show more U.S. women have 1st child after 30

ATLANTA (AP) - The "thirtysomething" trend toward postponing childbirth is borne out in new federal health statistics showing the percentage of women having their first child after 30 jumped fourfold between 1970 and 1987.

At the beginning of the '70s, just 4 percent of American women having their first child were 30 or older, but by 1987 it was 16 percent, the national Centers for Disease Control reported Thursday.

That happened while the actual number of women in their later childbearing years soared. In the wake of the baby boom of 1946-64, the number of women between 30 and 44 rose from 17.7 million in 1970 to 28.1 million in 1987, and the proportion who were childless at age 30 rose from 15 percent to

The trend is likely to continue, the CDC said, noting that the proportion of college graduates among women aged 30-34 rose from 16 30-34, which fell from 73 per 1,000 Center for Health Statistics. Eigh- percent in 1975 to 24 percent in

And half of the childless women between 30 and 34 say they intend to have at least one child, the CDC noted.

First-time mothers over 30 are "still not the norm," said Stephanie Ventura, a researcher with the NCHS, "Most women are still in their 20s when they're having their first child."

For example, in 1987, 3.8 million infants were born in the United States; 1.6 million were first babies, and only 250,000 were first babies to moms 30 or older.

Nonetheless, "theirs is the only age group showing an upturn in Opposition seeks coalition in India

NEW DELHI, India - Opposition politicians said Thursday they had cleared the way for one of their leaders to become India's next

The National Front's Parliament members were scheduled to meet today to officially elect Vishwanath Pratap Singh head of the five-party National Front coalition.

He then likely would be asked by the president to serve as prime

Guruswamy said another contender for the job, Chandra Shekhar, had been persuaded to withdraw his candidacy, and that no one in the alliance would contest Singh's nomination. Singh, 58, could not be reached for comment Thursday, but he has insisted he does not want to replace Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi. Singh's colleagues said he had no choice, however.

"He has to bow to the wishes of the people and the party. He has no alternative," said Mohan Guruswamy, an associate.

Gandhi resigned Wednesday after his Congress Party failed to win a majority in last week's parliamentary elections, but President Ramaswamy Venkataraman asked him to continue until a new government is formed.

Picasso masterpiece bought by Japanese

PARIS - The Japanese again reached into the upper echelons of the world art market Thursday, outbidding a Parisian dealer to buy a Picasso masterpiece for $48.9 million - a record for a work by the artist.

"Pierrette's Wedding," a long-disappeared masterpiece from Picasso's famed blue period, was bought by Nippon Autopolis Co. in an auction linking bidders in Paris and Tokyo by live satellite Action at the Drouot-Montaigne auction house was a tense duel between an unidentified Japanese bidder in Toyko and Herve Odermatt, a well-known Paris art dealer.

When the bidding topped Odermatt's offer of $45.9 million, he paused for several seconds. The standing-room-only room packed with celebrities fell silent.

Odermatt finally shook his gray head, indicating he would go no higher. Auctioneer Jean-Claude Binoche banged the gavel, and the painting belonged to the Japanese company.

Tropical storm brings heavy rain to Cuba

MIAMI — A slow-moving weather system upgraded to a tropical storm Thursday on the final day of the Atlantic hurricane season drenched sections of Cuba but should miss most of rain-starved Florida, forecasters said.

Karen, the 11th tropical storm of the season, could drop up to 20 inches of rain on sections of western and central Cuba, according to the National Hurricane Center in suburban Coral Gables.

Many communities in South Florida had hoped the storm would bring rain to ease a near-record water shortage, which has prompted mandatory water restrictions in some areas.

But Karen, with highest sustained wind at 55 mph, was not expected to bring significant rain north of the Florida Keys.

"The Keys may still get a lot of rain, but not 10 inches," said forecaster Gil Clark.

Pi Kappa Alpha kicked out of Stetson

DELAND, Fla. - A hazing incident has led to the banishment of a Stetson University fraternity that got into trouble over rape allegations against several members last year.

The Baptist-affiliated school announced Wednesday that it had withdrawn recognition of Pi Kappa Alpha as a result of an investigation that found members had degraded pledges, conducted a public stunt and inflicted mental abuse.

A November 9 incident involving frat members, known as "Pikes," in the Ocala National Forest reflected poorly on the campus' fraternity and sorority system, the university said in a statement. It did not give details of the hazing.

As a result of Stetson's action, Pi Kappa Alpha's national office suspended the fraternity's charter, and the organization's executive director said he will try to have the chapter kicked out.

A fraternity member, the Stetson chapter, the national organization and the university have been sued by a woman who told investigators she was raped during a night of heavy drinking and dancing at the Pike house in April 1988.

The state attorney's office investigated the rape complaint against two fraternity brothers. It found that they did have sexual contact with the woman but said rape could not be proved.

Americans flee El Salvador to escape fighting

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador - Hundreds of Americans fled the country Thursday to escape a guerrilla war that, after 10 years and 71,000 deaths, has penetrated the tranquil neighborhoods they shared with wealthy Salvadorans.

The Roman Catholic Church's Legal Aid office issued a report concluding that soldiers carried out the November 16 massacre of six Jesuit priests and their two domestic employees.

Leftist guerrillas fired their first anti-aircraft missile Wednesday, at an air force A-37 jet fighter-bomber near Zacatecoluca, 25 miles south of San Salvador, but missed the target, a Western military source reported.

A rebel statement said the insurgents would not use the missiles if government aircraft stopped bombing, strafing and firing rock-

"I'm not coming back," Kate Lewis, a teacher at the American School, said as she carried her 8-month-old baby, Cassandra, down Mirador Street to where a U.S. Embassy official was waiting for her and her husband, William.

Other Americans on their way out flashed "V-for-victory" signs at the International Airport and shouted, "We'll be back after Christmas!"

In Washington, State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said the "departure is voluntary for all embassy dependents and personnel who are scheduled for leave or can be spared. We do not know how many private American residents will take advantage of this opportunity. We are encouraging American dependents and personnel who can be spared to

The Lewis home, and 30 or 40 others in the exclusive Escalon neighborhood in the city's western sector, were taken by guerrillas before dawn Wednesday.

Rebels of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front observed a six hour truce beginning at 6 a.m. (7 a.m. EST) in their 20-day offensive to permit evacuation of those who wished to leave.

Some snipers still were barricaded in several sumptuous homes, but most of the rebels that invaded Escalon appeared to have retreated up the lower slopes of the nearby

San Salvador volcano by dawn.

Assault rifle fire could be heard only occasionally in the winging, hilly streets as soldiers cautiously advanced.

"The FMLN is maintaining a constant siege of the capital, which is the neurological center of the nation. The fuse of a social timebomb has been lit," said the clandestine rebel radio Venceremos.

About 20 U.S. citizens were among scores of people who took advantage of the truce to leave Escalon. Many waved white flags and carried small bundles as they walked past a burned-out light tank, the bodies of soldiers and guerrilla barricades of expensive cars with the tires shot out.

Military spokesmen said five soldiers and 12 guerrillas were killed in Wednesday's fighting. Reporters counted the bodies of at least 10

THE IOWA CRITICAL LANGUAGES SCHOLARSHIP

an innovative program designed to prepare highly qualified secondary school teachers of Chinese, Japanese, and Russian is now accepting applications for its 1989-90 competition

The three-year program has the sequence:

- · Intensive language training at a summer institutute recognized for its excellence in these languages.
- · One year of intensive preparation at The University of Iowa in language, history, and culture.
- · A second summer of intensive language training at a more advanced level.
- · One year of study abroad in the appropriate language area.
- · One year of study at The University of Iowa to complete graduation and teacher certification requirements, including a semester of student teaching.

Scholarships are provided for the two summers of intensive language instruction and the year of study abroad. Other support based on eligibility available through the Office of Financial Aid.

Students who participate in the program are obligated to teach in a cooperating Iowa school district for at least three years after graduation. School districts currently cooperating in the program are Cedar Rapids, Des Moines, Iowa City Marshalltown, Urbandale, and West Des Moines.

Czech gov't. will lift travel restrictions, tear down fence on Austrian border

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) - The government said Thursday it will tear down the fences on its border with Austria and lift virtually all restrictions on travel to the West.

The Communist Party held its first talks with the opposition, and members of Parliament proposed the repeal of tough laws used to imprison and fine

The party also said it would announce a new program to include "an objective revision" of its attitude toward the "Prague Spring" reform movement of 1968 and the Soviet-led invasion that Spokesman Josef Hora said the new policies might allow for re-admission to the party of half a million people expelled after the invasion. They include Alexander Dubcek, who was Communist Party chief and led the reforms Hora said two Politburo members met for the first time with the opposition Civic Forum group and students, who led 11 days of mass protest that toppled the old party leadership.

He said the meeting occurred because "we are just one of the political parties in this country, and we have to find our place." Civic Forum previously had met only with Premier Ladislav Adamec and other government officials.

State radio began broadcasting twice-daily programs about Civic Forum activities and also featured music by singers who had been banned for years.

Government spokesman Marcel Jansen said the Interior Ministry would begin the "removal of technical equipment" on the frontier with neutral Austria, which bristles with barbed wire, watchtow-

Hungary started tearing down its border barriers with Austria in May, and tens of thousands of East Germans fled across the frontier to the West before the East German government abolished travel restrictions.

The Interior Ministry said that starting Monday, citizens will be allowed to use their passports for unrestricted travel to the West and all East bloc countries except the Soviet Union and Poland, the state news agency CTK reported.

The only remaining formality will be completion of a simple "statistical card," to be filled out as people leave the country, CTK said. The government had announced November 14 that its citizens would be able to go to the West and Yugoslavia, a popular vacation spot, beginning January 1 without waiting 30 days for an exit visa. CTK said six political prisoners were released and that President Gustav Husak granted amnesty to Stanislav Devaty, a former spokesman for the Charter 77 human-rights group who went underground weeks ago, and another activist. State radio said Marxism-Leninism was being Amana-Hawkeye Classic . . . and lowa isn't the favorite? That doesn't seem right, but Iowa coach Tom Davis said that his Hawkeyes aren't the frontrunners to win the eighth tournament title.

"I would give (The University of California) Santa Barbara the edge in this tournament," Davis said. They're picked to give (highly-ranked Nevada Las) Vegas the biggest challenge in the Big West."

But a meeting between the Hawkeyes and Gauchos is premature, because Iowa opens with a firstround game against Ohio University tonight at 8 p.m. in Carver-Hawkeye Arena.

Santa Barbara opens the tourna-ment against the Bradley Braves at 6 p.m.

Ohio University is 1-1, beating Rider 79-60 and fighting from 16 points back to fall 76-73 at Kentucky. The Bobcats are led by 6-foot-5 guard Dave Jamerson.

After two games, Jamerson is averaging 30.5 points and 13 rebounds. That has Davis concerned.

"He may be the best player in the tournament," Davis said of Jamerson. "If not, he's right there. ... We're not going to give him a chance to prove himself, we're going to go right after him.

And that has Ohio coach Larry Hunter giving an ultimatum. "They better guard Dave Jamer-son at 3-point range," he said. Although no player on Hunter's starting roster stands over 6-foot-6, the Bobcats outrebounded Kentucky 51-33 at Rupp Arena in scoring game would be to our Lexington, Ky. Hunter and Jamerson said the Wildcats are extremely small up front, and don't expect that advantage on the glass

Iowa is 2-0 after topping Texas Southern 80-64 and holding off Drake late, 68-54. In the game against the Bulldogs, the game was extremely slow, especially in the first half. Hunter said he is worried at the Hawkeyes' success in the slow-down game.

"We want to slow it down," Hunter said. "I wish they hadn't played Drake because that gives them some experience with that

Surgical probe to determine Bullard's future on the court

Bryce Miller The Daily Iowan

By noon today, Matt Bullard will finally be able to answer all the questions about the knee that has caused him problems since he injured it in practice Nov. 22.

Iowa team physician Dr. John Albright will run an arthroscopic probe into Bullard's right knee at 10:30 a.m. to determine how much damage has been done

The senior forward from West Des Moines fought through an injury to his left knee last season, and is optimistic this time - but "If Dr. Albright goes in there and finds out that everything's looking real good," Bullard said, "and everything's healing just fine and it's pretty much a sprained knee, then the arthroscope will take me a day to recover from. Then I'll be back in two or three weeks.

"But if he goes in there and finds that something's torn that we don't know about . . . I don't think there is (anything to worry about)." A year ago, Bullard was in a cast for five weeks and said that there was little inflamation or discomfort. But this time around, "there's a lot of pain and a lot of swelling, but I'm able to walk around on it." If the anterior cruciate ligament in the knee is torn, that could put Bullard on the bench - permanently.

Rita Heimes The Daily Iowan

Continuing a long weekend road series, the Iowa women's basketball team travels next to Ruston, La. for the four-team Dial Soap Classic.

The Hawkeyes, 3-0 after Wednesday's 74-55 win over Nebraska, will face off tonight against St. Joseph's, and Saturday against the winner or loser of the Louisiana Tech-Mississippi Valley matchup. Although this evening's game will be the season opener for St. Joseph's, Iowa coach C. Vivian Stringer expects a good game from the No. 21-ranked Hawks of the Atlantic 10 Conference. "We may have an advantage since we've played some games already," Stringer admitted. "But how much of an advantage is the question."

Part of the question stems from the similarity of the teams' styles of play. Iowa plays at a quick tempo, relying heavily on pressure defense and outside shooting from its perimeter players. The same is true of the Hawks.

"St. Joe's' perimeter people are blood and guts defensive people," Stringer said. "They're always in your face and they move at great speeds, very similar to our outside players.

"They've got legitimate ball-handlers, legitimate passers, and legitimate shooters.'

Perhaps the most legitimate of these shooters is 6-foot-1 center Dale Hodges. Last year she averaged 23.4 points and 11.2 rebounds to lead the Hawks to a 23-8 record and an NCAA tournament bid.

"It's going to be difficult to contain her," Stringer to win the meet. "Our main goal is to have as many guys qualify for NCAAs as we can, and also to line up and compete with some of the best teams in the Saturday's Northern Iowa Tournament in Cedar Falls, Iowa, will mark the last tourney the Iowa wrestlers will compete in before diving into their regular season dual meet schedule.

And Coach Dan Gable said the main thing he will be looking for from his squad is steady individual performances.

"I'm looking for consistency from week to week up and down the lineup," Gable said Thursday. "We need our more experienced guys to wrestle up to their ability, and for our younger people who have improved to keep on improving." Besides Iowa and UNI, the tournament field will include Iowa State, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Missouri and teams representing programs from the Division II and Heisman be Ware . . .

NEW YORK (AP) - Houston quarterback Andre Ware has emerged as the clear front-runner for the Heisman Trophy, according to a newspaper poll.

The record-breaking junior held a big lead over his closest challengers in a USA Today survey of 163 Heisman voters this week. The winner of college football's top award will be announced Saturday at the Downtown Athletic Club.

Ware received 58 first-place votes and 262 points in the poll, which surveyed 18 percent of the 918 eligible voters. West Virginia quarterback Major Harris was second in points with 162, five more than Indiana running back Anthony Thompson. Thompson had more first-place votes than Harris (31-23), but Harris was the second and third choice on more ballots.

Hall signs with Yanks for 3.3 million

NEW YORK (AP) - Mel Hall, acquired by the Yankees from Cleveland last spring, stayed with New York when he agreed Thursday to a three-year contract for a guaranteed $3.3 million.

Hall, a 29-year-old outfielder, gets a $300,000 signing bonus and salaries of $1 million in 1990, 1991 and 1992. He can earn about $250,000 each year in performance bonuses.

TBS renews contract with NBA

NEW YORK (AP) - Turner Broadcasting Systems agreed today to renew its contract with the NBA for $275 million over four years, 51/2 times more per season than the contract that expires next summer.

NBC earlier this month agreed to give the NBA $650 million over four years, so each of the 27 teams will receive an average of $8.565 million per season from the new television contracts.

Under the new deal, the NBA will remain on Turner's TNT network, which will continue to show 50 games during each regular season and 25 or 26 games during the playoffs each year. The contract replaces a two-year, $50 million deal in which the NBA received $27 million this season.

'Skins owner files libel suit

WASHINGTON (AP) - Washington Redskins owner Jack Kent Cooke filed a $30 million libel and defamation lawsuit Thursday against Washingtonian magazine, a writer and a former Cooke

The lawsuit stems from an article in which Harry Turner, Cooke's former chauffer, implied Cooke was a racist and had told him NFL games could be fixed.

Cooke filed the suit in District of Columbia Superior Court against the magazine, writer Rudy Maxa and Turner.

Tough ticket

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) - Tickets once cost $18. Now the asking price is upwards of $300, even $500 — and maybe throw in a color television, too.

It's the ticket to Saturday's Alabama-Auburn football game, which will be played in Auburn's home stadium for the first time in the history of the cross-state rivalry.

Boxing promoter shot

LONDON (AP) — British boxing promoter Frank Warren was shot and seriously wounded Thursday night outside an east London theater where he was staging a non-title card.

Police said a lone gunman fired one or more shots, hitting Warren in the chest, as the promoter stepped from his chauffeur-driven car outside the Town Hall Theater in Barking. The gunman ran off and a police van took Warren to Newham General Hospital.

With two doctors, two nurses and a police escort, Warren was later taken by ambulance to Brook Hospital in Woolwich, southeast London, which specializes in chest surgery.

said of Hodges. "The key is to keep her from having a career-high or a great game, but they have enough other elements to make us play honest and to keep us from zeroing our defense in on her.

St. Joseph's coach Jim Foster said the Hawks choose to play teams like Iowa in order to "challenge themselves against the best." To beat Iowa, Foster said his team will have to avoid the Hawkeyes'

"I think we're going to have to protect the basketball, push the ball up the floor and try great opportunities before they set up on defese," Foster said.

If the Hawkeyes should beat the St. Joseph's, their next foe will likely be the host of the tournament, Louisiana Tech. The Lady Techsters are ranked second in the nation, and have never lost the Dial Classic in its nine-year history.

In the event of an Iowa-La. Tech matchup, Coach Leon Barmore agreed with Foster's stategy, saying his 3-0 Lady Techsters would have to protect the ball from the the Hawkeye pressure and rely on their inside strength.

"We have to make sure our guards protect the ball and not let (Iowa) cause a lot of turnovers," Barmore said. "We'll have to take advantage of our strength

The heart of that inside strength is Street & Smith's preseason Player of the Year Venus Lacy, a 6-foot-4

Lacy is currently averaging 21.3 points and 11.9 rebounds per game, but while she keys the La. Tech team, she is not alone on the inside.

"Lots of teams put two people on Lacy," Barmore said. "That's not going to be enough."

Joining Lacy on what Barmore termed the "very physical" La. Tech squad, will be 5-foot-9 guard Shantel Hardison and 5-7 guard Sheila Ethridge. Hardison averages 8.2 points and Ethridge contributes 13.3 points per game for the Lady Techsters.

Both times Iowa and La. Tech have met, the Hawkeyes have tasted defeat. The first game was a 66-65 heartbreaker in the 1986-87 NCAA tournament, while the second loss was at last year's Hawaii Wahine Classic, with the final score La. Tech 62,

Nadia's whereabouts uncertain

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) -Nadia Comaneci, the Olympic gymnastics champion who disappeared from her native Romania in an apparent defection, may be at the U.S. Embassy in Switzerland, her coach said Thursday.

Embassy officials, however, denied he was there, adding another twist to the mystery surrounding the 197 lympic champion, who crossed to border into Hungary in the pre-dawn hours Tuesday.

*As far as I know, she is probably r the U.S. Embassy in Berne," Bela Karolyi told The Associated Press in a telephone interview from Stuttgart, West Germany. there he is coaching an American women's gymnastics team.

*She is waiting to get some travel papers," said Karolyi, who defected o the United States in 1981 and ecame a citizen in May.

Michael Korff, a U.S. Embassy although he told the U.S. Gymnas-okesman in Berne, told the AP: tics Federation in Indianapolis: spokesman in Berne, told the AP: "We can categorically deny that she is at the U.S. Embassy waiting embassy. She isn't here. She wasn't

Swiss Justice Ministry spokesman Joerg Kistler said "we have had absolutely no hints whatsoever that she has been in Switzerland."

Asked about the possibility of a reunion with his former pupil in Stuttgart, where his team is competing, Karolyi said: "There is a possibility, but she obviously needs some travel documents."

On Wednesday from Clarens, Switzerland, Karolyi told the AP he was "ready to help her in any manner if she needs it."

Karolyi said he had not spoken with Comaneci since her flight, als at the Montreal Games.

Federation spokesperson Patti for her travel papers. ... I've Auer said she had no idea where talked to everybody at the Comaneci was or whether she planned to travel to the United States.

> "As far as we know she has not contacted the U.S. Embassy. As far as we know she's going to Bela first," Auer said.

She said Karolyi called from Stuttgart, and "he knows she's looking for him. He said, 'She has tried to contact me,' and he's ready to help her. She knows him. At this point, we don't even know if she wants to come to the United States."

At the age of 14, the diminutive Comaneci electrified the world with unprecedented perfect gymnastics scores and three gold med-

Officials here say she fled to Hungary before dawn Tuesday with six other people and spent the night at a hotel in the southern town of Szeged, some 15 miles from the Romanian border.

A receptionist at the Royal Hotel in Szeged said Comaneci left by car Wednesday morning. The Hungarian daily Nepsport said the two cars carrying her party had Austrian license plates.

The Hungarian daily Magyar Hirlap said Comaneci was wearing blue jeans, a sweater and short boots when she arrived in Hungary and that her hair was short and streaked.

An official at the Romanian Gymnastics Federation in Bucharest told the AP by telephone that "we don't know anything about it," when asked about Comaneci's lowa just aiming to swim fast at 3-day Nebraska Invitational

The Daily Iowan

When the Iowa women's swimming and diving team competes in the Nebraska Invitational this weekend in Lincoln, Neb., they have one goal - to swim fast.

"Everyone is pretty psyched up," Iowa coach Pete Kennedy said. Everyone wants to swim fast, and they don't swim fast, we can analyze their swims and find out why."

The meet, which will take place today, Saturday and Sunday, features Nebraska, Air Force, Iowa, lowa State, St. Olaf, Ball State. Vanderbilt, Colorado State and Wyoming in the three-day, championship-meet format.

According to Kennedy, this meet will be a good experience for the Big Ten Championships, which will be held Feb. 13-18 in Indianapolis, Senior Jeff Dow and freshman Chris Kabat, two of lowa's top all-around gymnasts, will have a chance to qualify for the U.S. National Team at the Winter tapering thier workouts. And most of the athletes will be shaving to try to cut time.

We've put in a lot of hard work before now, so any rest will be beneficial," senior Louise Keogh said. "... With the shave and taper, we may even shock ourselves with our performances."

Assistant coach Jim Sheridan said shaving and tapering is one way to help improve the swimmers' times, but there are also other factors

"If we keep the confidence level high, we'll see fast swims," Sheridan said. "Probably some of them are very nervous and very scared, but I want them to have fun. The best performances come when you have a smile on your face."

While the 3-3 Hawkeyes have had some good results so far this season, one of their top swimmers, In preparing for this meet, the freshman Angi Todt, came down

"Angi could probably have gotten top two in at least two events and top four in the other; and she would have helped the 800 free relay," Kennedy said. "We could lose between 50 and 60 points. But she got sick and that's fine. We have to adjust."

The invitational will also give the diving squad a chance to perform in a championship format, according to diving coach Bob Rydze.

Four members of the squad -Katy Ketoff, Kim Yager, Debbie Wirth and Chris Munn - will be competing this weekend.

"This gives us a chance to go through a championship list," Rydze said. "That's the most important thing.

"I hope we win and do well, but the main thing is to concentrate on the end of the year. This is a good early tuneup to see where we're

Jockey breaks 15-year-old victory mark

LAUREL, Md. (AP) - Kent Desormeaux broke 15-year-old record for most victories by a jockey in one year, riding three winners at Laurel Race Course on Thursday after two luckless days stalled one win Desormeaux now has 548 victories this year. He beat the record of 546 by Chris McCarron in 1974 with his victory in the fifth race, his second of the day, aboard the 2-year-old filly Gilten.

"It's been a long haul and this is what it's all about," Desormeaux said in the winner's circle after his record-setting victory. "This is what I've wanted to do for the past three years. It's a dream come true.'

After a brief celebration, which included his mother, Brenda, and his fiancee, Sonia Romero, Desormeaux raced to the jockey's room where he was greeted by a shower of water, eggs, shaving cream and talcum powder, courtesy of the other jockeys.

Orr to come home after nine seasons going back to his old stomping grounds this weekend, and while he's not sure what kind of reception he'll get, the Iowa State basketball coach is fairly certain of one thing.

They won't be playing his song. Orr will make his first appearance at Michigan since leaving that school in 1980 when his Iowa State team plays the Wolverines on Saturday. He was Michigan's head coach for 12 years and spent one season there as an assistant.

At Iowa State's home games, Orr is greeted by the Cyclone pep band playing the theme from "The Tonight Show." He doesn't expect to be serenaded by the Michigan band.

"I doubt they'll be playing any music for me," Orr said Thursday.
"I think it will be just the normal type of thing for the visiting coach. I've been gone 10 years. Not the old timers, but the kids, they don't know who the hell I am.

One of those who does know Orr is Don Lund, an assistant athletic director at Michigan. He thinks Orr will get a warm welcome at

"He's got a lot of good friends back here," Lund said. "It will be sold

Orr said he plans to visit with some of his friends on Friday night. However, he won't find the man he expected to see when he goes to shake hands with the opposing coach before the game

Bill Frieder, who had been Orr's top assistant at Michigan, was the Wolverines' head coach when the contract for Saturday's game was signed. But Frieder bolted for Arizona State just before the NCAA tournament last March and was replaced by Steve Fisher, who guided the Wolverines to the national championship.

Orr said he knows Fisher well and once tried to hire him for his staff at Michigan.

"He was a high school coach at Rich East outside of Chicago," Orr recalled. "Frieder had met him and liked him. When Jim Dutcher (then a Michigan assistant) went to Minnesota (as head coach), Frieder told me he had met this guy, Fisher, and that he was a great

"It has a weird kind of energy," said Frank Conroy, director of the workshop. "And he's just tremendously knowledgeable about Latin music. For someone my age it's incredible to read it, because this is some of the music I grew up on."

That music includes the habanera, the rumba, the son and other strains of Afro-Cubanic bands. It is the music of the 1940s and 1950s that reached American living cooms in the form of Ricky Ricardo.

At one point in the book, brothers Cesar and Nestor, on the heels of national success, playing songs like "The Subway Mambo" and "Twilight in Havana," are given bit parts on "I Love Lucy" as Ricky's benefit for Willowwind School, "Iowa City's Modern One Room School," will feature Ferron in concert with Greg Brown on Sunday, December 3, at 8 p.m. at Macbride Hall Auditorium. The concert is presented by Friends of Old Time Music and Oh Sure! Productions of Iowa City.

Ferron is a Canadian singer/ songwriter who grew up in a semi-rural suburb of Vancouver. She started writing songs while in her early teens and continued to practice music even while working at factory jobs. On her own she recorded her first two albums and slowly began building a following across Canada. By 1979, she had such a reputation that Canadian Weekly endorsed her as one of Canada's leading talents. Ferron's third album, Testimony, recieved glowing reviews in the United States, and her fourth, Shadows On a Dime, garnered a four-star rating from Rolling Stone.

Music

Ferron's songs are about working people, working situations, and relationships. Of her prior appearance in Iowa City, Russell Karkowski of Oh Sure! Productions says, "There were people waiting at the door two hours before the doors opened in order to get good seats - she has incredibly loyal fans. Some came from as far as Chicago, Minneapolis and Omaha to see her here. She has a wonderful stage presence; last time she had people practically rolling in the aisles. All her material is very personal, so she relates a lot of background information about the songs that a lot of people can relate to."

Appearing with Ferron will be local resident Greg Brown, who is well known nationally through his regular appearances on "A Prairie Home Companion." Brown's several albums include a wide diversity of musical experience, from homegrown Midwestern lyrics and William Blakeinspired songs to rock'n'roll, reflecting the modern human condition. Of Greg Brown, Karkowski says, "He is probably better known on both coasts than in the Midwest. Greg will go to Boston or Seattle and will sell out shows there, yet he's from Iowa City and people sort of take him for granted here and don't recognize his stature in the music industry. He's considered by many to be one of the best songwriters in the country."

Tickets for Ferron and Greg Brown are $10 in advance, $12 at the door and $3 for children under 12. They are available at

Casey, Friedman win 1989 National Book Award for fiction, non-fiction

NEW YORK (AP) - John Casey won the 1989 National Book Award for fiction for "Spartina," while correspondent Thomas Friedman of The New York Times won the non-fiction medal for "From Beirut to Jerusalem."

Among other honors bestowed Wednesday evening, the second annual National Book Award for Distinguished Contribution to American Letters was presented to Librarian of Congress Emeritus Daniel Boorstin. The $10,000 prize is given for lifelong contributions to American letters that have an extraordinary and permanent impact on American literature.

"Spartina," published by Knopf, is a study of the ties that bind Dick Pierce - a fisherman, father and lover - to his wife, his mistress, his sons, his community and his

Finalist Amy Tan was cited for her first novel, "The Joy Luck Club," in which four Chinese friends in San Francisco meet weekly to play mahjongg and talk about themselves, their ancestors and their American-born daughters.

For non-fiction, the other finalists were Taylor Branch, for "Parting the Waters," the first volume of his history of the U.S. civil-rights movement in the 1950s and '60s; McGeorge Bundy, for "Danger and Survival: Choices About the Bomb in the First Fifty Years," a political history of the nuclear bomb; William Pfaff, for 'Barbarian Sentiments: How the American Century Ends," an analysis of American foreign policy since World War II; and Marilynne Robinson, for "Mother Country," an investigation of environmental policies in Great Britain.

'Aunt Dan' is worth sacrifice of studies

inals are approaching, and your mind is clut-tered with the "havetos," You have to study, you have to read a pile of books, you have to find some time to eat and sleep. But your list is incomplete. You have to go see "Aunt Dan and Lemon."

On Wednesday night the UI Theatre Department began a string of performances of Wallace Shawn's play "Aunt Dan and Lemon" that end the Saturday before exam week. But there's no test or paper more important than seeing this outstanding play. Make some time for it.

On the surface, "Aunt Dan and Lemon" is about a woman who lives by herself, spending her time remembering her childhood. During the summer of her 11th year, Lemon (Heather Werner) becomes the confidant of the exuberant Aunt Dan (Kate Burke). The play traces Lemon's memories, and since much of her summer was spent listening to Aunt Dan, the play follows Dan's memories as well. Events are secondary to ideas in Lemon's isolated life; so very little actually happens that summer. But the reconstruction of her life is compelling and serves as a solid base for this ambitious play.

Under the quiet surface of Lemon's memory is an examination of the human ability to experience compassion and evil. As it explores the safety of recognizing evil in a convenient package, "Aunt Dan and Lemon" looks into the human desire to live a specific lifestyle, even if it necessitates the killing of others. Lemon's view of the world is a challenge to the content audience member, she has assimilated her memories into a dark picture of human life, admitting passions easily ignored.

Shawn does not insult the audience by presenting the "right" answers or conclusions about Lemon's ideas. He has written, in the persona of Lemon, a dilemma that is real and unanswerable. The characters and their arguments in the end the characters on stage are tied up in a mess that involves Henry Kissinger, their own lives, the Nazis and the audience.

Drawing the spectators into the conflict is Shawn's most significant accomplishment. The humorous play is thrust into urgency in Lemon's final monologue, as preceding actions are tipped upside down, and the audience is left to deliberate over the unresolved issues of human existence. By not only presenting a play about difficult ideas, but presenting them so the audience members are forced to think for themselves is a commendable achievement for Shawn and University Theatres.

Theater

The force of these ideas was due in part to the production's admirable acting. All the characters are believable, a task hardest for Lemon as the narrator of the play. But Werner balances the role well by inviting the audience to understand her instead of alienating them by over-playing the role. Burke is excellent as Aunt Dan; charismatic but not infallible, even in Lemon's fawning point of view. The rest of the cast is outstanding as well. Each character shows a good and an evil side (with the possible exception of the bartender), and the cast's acting is a compliment to the script.

The technical aspects of the production are equally impressive. The set is helpful in creating the reminiscent atmosphere that most of the play operates in - it and other elements are distinctly in tune with the ideas of the show.

It has been said that 80 percent of a college education is learned outside of classwork. This is often used as an excuse for people to go to the bars, watch TV or play Nintendo instead of doing any homework, but this week it would only take two hours of your studying (or Nintendo) time to see "Aunt Dan and Lemon." It will be a true > hree decades of Christmas tradition will continue as the UI Old Gold Singers present their perennial concert classic "Cocoa and Carols" at 8 p.m. Saturday, and at 2 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. Sunday in Hancher Auditorium. The family-oriented show will include traditional Christmas carols, a musical version of the Dickens favorite "A Christmas Carol," some modern tunes and - of course - free

The Old Gold Singers are well known as the UI jazz and swing choir. This year they're directed by Pete Eklund, a choral graduate assistant at the UI School of Music, assisted by undergraduates Jill Jacks and Jim Berry.

The program for the concert will feature favorite Christmas carols, such as "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing," and "Joy to the World." "You name it, and we're singing it," said Eklund. "I figured if we are going to call it 'Cocoa and Carols,' we had better do some carols." At intermission the singers will lead the traditional audience-participation version of "Rudolph the Red-Nosed

"Thank You Very Much,'" said McKelvey, "so I said, 'Look, we should just call him Jenny Tomkins.' I tried out and got the part." She said the audience should recognize many of the songs. "They're songs you hear walking through Wal-Mart — it's

"You name it, and we're singing it."

The presentation of "A Christmas Carol" will include music from a variety of sources. "We found a number of short musical versions, and we are using music from them plus some of our own work," said Eklund. "We will also be using traditional carols that fit the context and some traditional carols with different words.

Lead roles in the musical will include Jake Stigers as Scrooge, Joel Aalberts as Bob Cratchet and Kim McKelvey as a feminized Tom Jenkins. "I really wanted to sing Jenkins' song a really fun show."

Sixty students from Taft Middle School in Cedar Rapids will be performing with the Old Gold Singers in "A Christmas Carol." They will play the roles of Tiny Tim, urchins and other children in the cast. "The kids are really talented," said Aalberts, "and it's fun to work with them, especially since (Taft) was my junior high also." The students will be featured extensively, as well as performing solos.

Eklund said the performance will be a musical and visual extravaganza. "There will be lots of movement with some up-tempo music," he said. "The audience at the Fall Festival was very pleased with the quality of our musicianship, and this will be more of what they got a taste of then." The program will be taped for public television, along with the holiday special, which will also feature Iowa State versity's choir, and area his school swing choirs, will be aired throughout the Christmas season, for those who miss the live "I've been going to 'Cocoa and Carols' since I was in fourth grade," said Aalberts of the Iowa City tradition, "and I'm in 14th grade now. It's always been the first thing to let me know it's Christmas." After "Cocoa and Carols," it seems the season has officially begun.

Coveted tickets for "Cocoa and Carols" are $5 ($4 for students and youths 18 and under) and may be purchased in advance from the Hancher Auditorium box
