

Library privacy act lets parents access records

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Although you cannot legally access the records of the reading habits of library patrons, a recently enacted law now permits libraries to disclose records to parents.

Public Act 188 of 1996 amends the Michigan Library Privacy Act of 1983. It now permits the disclosure of library records only if the library receives written consent from the person liable (in most cases, the parent) for payment or return of the materials identified in the library's records.

"Although I don't know what spurred the law to be amended, what it's trying to do is to provide a way for someone with young children to find out what books the library is missing," said library director Vickie Bloom. "This will not be used to check up on what children are reading."

In the past, the library legally could not disclose to parents which books their children had checked out of the library, Bloom said. For practical reasons, the amendment now allows libraries to disclose only those books that have not yet been returned to the library. It will not reveal a complete list of all books checked out and returned by a (in most cases a juvenile) patron.

In terms of parental concern about what books children are borrowing from the library, Bloom said the Grosse Pointe

Enrollment more than expected in Grosse Pointe public schools

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

The Grosse Pointe school district conducted its semi-annual student enrollment count last Friday, Sept. 27, and found 143 more pupils than anticipated. District administrators are continuously projecting enrollment numbers throughout the year in order to plan for such things as budgets and staffing.

As of the first week of school this year, the district had 8,359 pupils, said Chris Fenton, assistant superintendent for business and support services.

But on Sept. 27, the so-called "fourth Friday" student enrollment count required by the Michigan Department of Education, Fenton's projected increase this year of about 70 pupils had jumped to 213 students.

"That is more than we had anticipated," Fenton said. "One hundred and forty three more than anticipated. The increase is mostly from new movement into the district. We are averaging about 100 more students a year."

Enrollment has been increasing steadily over the last decade, he said. The low point was in the 1985-86 year, when the district had 7,350 pupils.

The area of greatest growth this year was at both the elementary and high schools, Fenton said. As of Sept. 27, the district had 3,828 elementary students, 1,843 special education students and 2,628 high school students.

"We have a committee right now looking at ways to handle increasing enrollment," Fenton said. "They hope to bring a recommendation to the school board in the next couple of months. We are looking at all the options, all conceivable options, including reopening Barnes."

Fenton said the district can handle enrollment increases as long as they are spread across the board.

"Back in the old days, when we had 13,000 and 14,000 students in the district, we had bigger class sizes, we used the classrooms differently and we didn't have things like computer labs," he said. "The functional capacity of the school buildings has changed somewhat in the last 20 years."

The "fourth Friday" in September count, as it is called this school year, represents the first student head count for the

Rumors of Park sewer expenses exaggerated

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

The rumors that it will cost Grosse Pointe Park residents $200 a month to pay for the sewer separation project scheduled to begin in a few days are just that, rumors, said Park city manager Dale Krajniak.

"I don't know where people are getting that number — $200 a month," Krajniak said. "The figure is more like $200 a year."

Krajniak said that his department has done a preliminary cost analysis of the project, and that he expects Park residents to pay about the same amount for the city's sewer separation project that Grosse Pointe Woods and Harper Woods residents pay for Milk River.

"Residential fees for the $19.9 million project are based on the estimated interest and principle costs associated with borrowing the money needed for the project minus the operational savings a sewer separation project will bring to the city," he said.

The city, said Krajniak, should experience about $325,000 in yearly savings because the city will be sending a smaller volume of sewage to Detroit for processing.

"Water that enters the city's storm sewer system is combined with refuse from the sanitary sewer system and sent to Detroit for processing," said Krajniak. "Because the city is building a separated sewer system, water from the storm sewers won't be going to Detroit anymore, so the volume of sewage processed by the Detroit sanitation department on behalf of the Park is smaller, resulting in smaller fees paid by the Park."

Debt payments on the principle of the loan money used to build the separated sewer system won't begin until October 1999, which is about a year after construction of the new sewer system should be complete, Krajniak said. Until then the city will be making some interest payments.

"Right now the city council's ordinance review committee is exploring the most equitable way to distribute the costs of the project to Park taxpayers," Krajniak said. "They will probably recommend that the council adopt an assessment based on lot coverage."

What that means, said Krajniak, is that property owners will pay an assessment based on the percentage of their lot that is built over.

A business owner might own a lot that is 100 percent covered with concrete and a building," Krajniak. "A residential property owner might own a lot that has only 35 percent of the property covered by cement or a home."

That means the remaining 65 percent of the property is exposed to the air and can absorb rain, Krajniak said. The residential property produces less rain run-off despite the fact that the lot might be larger than the business lot.

Payments to the city to cover the costs of the project would probably come in the form of an assessment on the tax bill, said Krajniak, and would not be added to water and sewer bills. But the water and sewer bills would reflect the lower sewer processing costs only.

"I also want to add that the Park has been working on this project for three years," Krajniak said. "While it will take care of the problem of sewers backing up into basements, it was not the reason the project was started. We are doing it because the state's Department of Environmental Quality will no longer allow the Park to discharge combined sanitary and storm sewage into Fox Creek in Detroit."

Members of the local Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis clubs were part of the audience of nearly 200 that heard Sigler speak. Former Gov. Here are the paragraphs that should have been included: The teen then turned around and pushed (the teacher) into a row of metal lockers and fled.

The first teen, a 17-year-old Grosse Pointe Park resident, was processed at the station and released on bond. Police are seeking charges of assault and battery and possession of drug paraphernalia. (During a routine search, police found a small wooden pipe in one teen's possession.)

The second teen, a 17-year-old Farms resident, also was processed and released on bond. Police are seeking charges of disorderly conduct against him.

Circuit Court: Farms home may move

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

Despite protests from two neighbors who opposed transporting a home from its Moross foundation to a vacant lot on Oxford in Grosse Pointe Woods, a Wayne County Circuit Court judge said the home can be moved.

The home, located at 427 Moross, is one of nine dwellings near the former site of Sears, near Mack, that the city of Grosse Pointe Farms has targeted for purchase and demolition. Clearing the nine homes will square off the Mack/Moross property the Farms purchased in 1994.

No determination has been made for use of the parcel of land. The city has purchased the home at 427 Moross and two others, so far.

Two neighbors opposed the removal of the home because, "it will have a negative impact on our homes," said Dave Shrake, one of the two plaintiffs, before the hearing. "We're not going to sit back and let something happen that would affect our home values." Because the 40-foot-by-26-foot-home is too large for the lot for which it is destined, the Woods city council approved a variance in June clearing the way for the home to be moved. The move was scheduled to take place in July. That's when two neighbors were able to get a temporary restraining order to prevent the home from being moved.

Workers are now readying the house, which will be placed on a flatbed truck and moved to its new location in the Woods sometime in mid-October.

Real estate renovators Albert Shaheen and Louis Gormley decided to purchase the home from the Farms for $500 and move it to a new location rather than have it razed.

In order to make the move, the state police must inspect the home and make sure everything is secure, Shaheen said. Once state police give the go-ahead, Farms and Woods police will escort the flatbed truck as it takes the house to the Oxford lot.

Library board reduces tax rate 4 percent due to cost savings

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Based on a number of cost-saving measures, the Grosse Pointe Public Library board on Sept. 23 voted to roll back its millage rate by 4 percent.

That means the 1996-97 levy for the library will be 1.155 mills. Last year's rate was 1.2

The independent library, which serves all five Pointes and a third of Harper Woods, is authorized to levy a maximum 1.7 mills for operational purposes.

"When we set the ($2.6 million) budget in June, we estimated at that time that the millage rate would be 1.2 mills," said John Bruce, library board president. "At that time the line item for property taxes was less than the year before, so we certainly had that idea that we would be able to reduce the tax rate."

Bruce said the board, which is beginning its second year operating independently of the Grosse Pointe Public School System, has made a number of cost-saving measures that allow it to tax at a lesser rate.

Some of the economies in the budget include the 1995 settlement with the librarians and support staff unions, a reorganization of the administration and funds management that maximized the library's cash returns.

The library, for example, is maintaining a $900,000 fund equity balance, Bruce said. The board has made a commitment of maintaining between 10 and 15 percent of its operating budget in fund equity.

In addition, information received recently from the Wayne County treasurer showed that property tax assessments for this year, averaging 2 percent higher, enabled the library board to roll back the millage rate by four percent.

"Due to new construction and other things, we are able to continue to operate at almost the same revenue. One of the major reasons we are able to hold onto the bottom line is that we have had no increases in costs," Bruce said.

Factors contributing to the reduction of the millage rate also include an increase in county and state aid for next year, he said.

The four-year contract between the library board and the librarians and support staff, ratified in November 1995, features a reduced salary schedule and changes in medical benefits, among other things.

Crossed wires

Grosse Pointe Park firefighters were called to a home in the 1400 block of Bedford at about 7 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 28, in response to a report of flames coming from a wall near a heater in the den of the house.

By the time firefighters arrived on the scene, the fire had been put out with a fire extinguisher by the house's resident. An investigation revealed that a previous occupant used an extension cord instead of the proper gage wire to connect the heater.

The mistake was compounded when the previous occupant paneled over the extension cord, hiding the mistake.

An electrician was called to rewire the heater.

Burglar in motion

A resident of the 1300 block of Bedford reported to Park police that a motion detector light was activated in the backyard of the resident's house, revealing what appeared to be a burglar "casing" the home. The incident happened at about 6:20 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 28.

The resident immediately called the police who searched the area. Police saw a man jumping fences who matched the description given by the resident and, after a brief foot chase, apprehended him.

A background check revealed that the suspect was wanted on a felony probation warrant. The suspect was transferred to the Wayne County Jail, where he is being held pending a review of probation status.

Shores Rangers to the rescue

Two Grosse Pointe Shores Municipal Park Rangers were directly responsible for resuscitating a 68-year-old man who had a heart attack as he was getting off his boat at the Osius Park marina on Sept. 29.

Rangers were notified of the man's medical emergency around 4:20 p.m. and, after calling for an ambulance, rushed to the dock and began rescue breathing and CPR until Shores paramedics arrived. The man, who had just returned from a fishing expedition with his brother when he collapsed on the dock, was taken to St. John Hospital and was in the cardiac care unit earlier this week.

Grosse Pointe Shores public safety Sgt. Kenneth Werenksi commended the rangers, Joe Weekley and Mark Kreim, both criminal justice students at Macomb Community College, for their quick actions that helped save a life.

Werenksi said the rangers "were asked to perform several duties on the scene, all of which were beyond their scope of training," and did so satisfactorily and without question.

PUBLIC SAFETY REPORTS

Teen's board taken by force

A 15-year-old City of Grosse Pointe boy had his skateboard taken by force on Sept. 29 when five boys, ages 16-18, confronted him outside Richard Elementary School on McKinley in Grosse Pointe Farms.

The teen said he was skateboarding with two of his friends when a Ford Contour pulled to the curb and five teens got out. One of the teens was carrying a "club" auto anti-theft device, while another demanded the teen hand over his skateboard. He complied with the request and the boy with the club jabbed him in the ribs. The suspects fled and were later spotted in the City of Grosse Pointe by the teen's two friends, who witnessed the incident. The teen said he could identify the suspects and would press charges.

Driver crashes on Lakeshore

A 19-year-old Melvindale man, who thought he was in Redford, crashed his father's Mercury Marquis into a fence on Lakeshore and Rose Terrace around 1:30 a.m. Sept. 28.

Police found the heavily damaged car across a sidewalk and against a stone column of an iron fence at Rose Terrace. The driver's side air bag was inflated but the driver was not inside or anywhere outside the wreck.

Within minutes, a resident who lives on Rose Terrace reported to police that a bleeding man, suspected of being intoxicated, was knocking on her door. Based on the man's behavior — slurred speech, unable to stand up without support and smelling of intoxicants — police arrested him for drunken driving and took him to Cottage Hospital.

The man said he had been at a nightclub on Harper near I-94 earlier in the evening and thought he was in Redford, near his sister's house. Hospital personnel reported to police the man had a blood alcohol content of .22; a .10 blood alcohol content is considered legally drunk.

From flying to photography, a Farms man leads fascinating life

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Farms resident Richard Kay, 72, has been many things in his life — an elementary school principal, a Navy bomber pilot, a minister to those in need, a photographer. But if you ask him what he enjoyed being the most he just might say Santa Claus.

For the past few years, Kay has dressed up like Santa Claus and visited children attending Christmas functions at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Not one to miss the chance for an impressive entrance, Kay arrives on the scene via helicopter.

"When I talk with the kids after I land, I ask them what was the most exciting thing about the visit," said Kay. "They always say it was when Santa's helicopter circled the War Memorial twice and then landed."

Kay said none of the children have ever asked Santa why he was traveling by helicopter instead of by reindeer.

Kay was born in Detroit and graduated from Mackenzie High School in Detroit. He received a scholarship from Michigan State College to play football, but because of World War II, joined the Navy instead.

"I flew off two aircraft carriers during the war," said Kay. "I became a qualified carrier pilot on the Guadalcanal, and I also flew off the Ranger, which was the first American ship built from the keel up as an aircraft carrier instead of being converted from another type of ship."

Kay received most of his pre-flight education at the University of Iowa. The Navy had a football team there called the Seahawks, and he played football with Dick Todd and Vince Banonis. Todd played football with the Washington Redskins before the war and Banonis played with the Philadelphia Eagles.

"Here I was, this raw kid right out of high school and I found myself playing with a bunch of pros," said Kay. "They were recruited by the Navy to train cadets during the war. We lost one game in 1943. The team that beat us was Notre Dame, and we lost by only one point."

POINTER OF INTEREST

After Iowa, Kay trained in California and was preparing for the invasion of Japan, when the atomic bomb was dropped, ending the war.

"I flew a Helldiver dive bomber," Kay said. "We were practicing troop support bombing. We would have bombed emplacement positions on the coast of Japan. I figure the atomic bomb saved my life."

After the war, Kay stayed in the Naval Reserves for four years. His unit was based at Grosse Ile. He quit in 1949. The day he left Grosse Ile a memorial ceremony was being conducted for five Naval Reserve fliers who were killed during training.

"It was things like that that made me decide to leave the reserves," said Kay. "But I am very proud to have been a carrier pilot. It's one of the most difficult things in the world to do. I'm very proud of my service in the Navy."

Kay received his bachelor's degree from Wayne State in 1949 and his master's degree in education administration from the school in 1954.

"I was a teacher in the Northville school system for 13 years, beginning in 1949," Kay said. "I started teaching at a base pay of $2,300 a year. To help my income, I coached high school sports. When I left coaching to become an administrator, I was the high school football and basketball coach."

"When I got tired of the stresses of the 'adult' world, I would go down and visit the kindergarten. It was wonderful to be around loving, accepting kids who only wanted to hug you and tell you about what they were doing."

In 1962 Kay was hired by the Grosse Pointe school system to be principal of Richard. He then became director of community services, which handled adult education for the Pointe school system. He then was made director of employee relations, handling contract negotiations.

"I didn't enjoy being director of employee relations very much," said Kay. "So I asked to go back to dealing with students, and was made principal of Kerby School. I retired in 1984."

Being retired, to Kay, does not mean being inactive. He has started his own photography business, and has often been asked to photograph the weddings of former students.

He visited a Detroit Tigers fantasy camp two years ago.

"I played second base," said Kay. "The reason was that I couldn't throw the ball across the infield diamond. I was the second oldest person there, the oldest was 78, and he had been coming down to the Lakeland, Fla., camp for something like eight straight years."

Kay was a great fan of baseball when he was a boy, and it was a big thrill to play with former Tigers like Jim Northrup, Chet Lemon, Mickey Lolich, John Grubb and Virgil Trucks. They played three five-inning games a day, and Kay is very proud of his .375 batting average.

"I threw my arm out years ago," said Kay. "You should have seen the club house at the end of the day. A lot of us were getting treated for our aches and pains."

Kay just completed a two-year commitment as a Stephen minister for his church, Grosse Pointe Memorial. A Stephen minister, explained Kay, must complete a 19-week training course designed to teach them how to provide one-to-one caring relationships for those who need someone to talk with.

Grosse Pointe Farms resident Richard Kay loved baseball as a boy growing up in Detroit. Two years ago he had the opportunity to attend a Detroit Tigers fantasy camp in Lakeland, Fla. in which he played with Tigers like Chet Lemon and John Grubb. This fulfilled a childhood dream of playing with big leaguers.

When it came time to print a business card for his photography business, Kay did it in the form of baseball card fulfilling another dream, seeing his face on a baseball card.

"We aren't licensed therapists," Kay said. "But we are available to give spiritual support and listen to those in need. It's completely anonymous and completely confidential. When I volunteered to be a minister, it was for two years. I recently agreed to continue with the program on an indefinite basis."

Kay is also something of a traveler. He's been to China twice. The first time was in 1980, when he went as an educator to examine the Chinese education system.

"In 1980 you have to remember that China and the United States had only restored relations a few years earlier," said Kay. "The country wasn't ready for tourists. Finding accommodations or clean water was difficult."

Kay went back in 1991, when Northwest Airlines and Westin Hotels invited a number of people who had visited the country earlier to visit it again. The idea being to demonstrate that China was now ready for tourists, and that people had nothing to be afraid of as a result of the Tiananin Square riots.

"There is a tourist corridor between Shanghai and Beijing," Kay said. "They now have nice hotels and good roads. The transformation of that country is really amazing."

But Kay believes that the Chinese and Americans do have fundamental differences in how they view human rights, as evidenced by the Tiananin Square riots.

Kay has served on the boards of many local civic organizations, including the War Memorial and the Grosse Pointe Farms Beautification Commission. He was president of the Grosse Pointe Symphony Society in the 1970s, and is a member of the Grosse Pointe Historical Society.

"I still see many of my students," said Kay. "They ask me if I recognize them, but I usually don't because they've changed so much. When one man asked me that, he said that he used to get into trouble all the time when he was a sixth grader, and he made me a model of a Navy Helldiver airplane. I remembered him then, and told him that I also remembered that after he gave me the model plane, he didn't get into much trouble after that."

Kay still has that model plane. He keeps it in his den.

League of Women Voters invite public to come and talk trash

The League of Women Voters of Grosse Pointe will sponsor a "Let's Talk Trash" Town Meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 13, at 7:30 p.m. at the Children's Home of Detroit, located at 900 Cook, Grosse Pointe Woods. The public is urged to attend.

A recent change in government regulations requires that either major and expensive modifications be made to our current disposal authority's incinerator or it will be closed down. The meeting will explore the effect of closing or upgrading the incinerator as well as its effect on our taxes and health. Other options will be considered.

A panel of three experts will discuss the issues and answer audience questions.

They include Tom Waffan, of Southeastern Oakland County Resource Recovery Authority; Dale Scrace, authority board member and Karen Kendrick-Hands, environmental lawyer.

"It is no longer possible to keep trash disposal out of sight, out of mind," states league vice president Marybelle Sucek. "The time has come for a serious talk on the subject."

For more information concerning the town meeting, contact Marion McCarthy, president of the Grosse Pointe chapter of the League of Women Voters at (313) 343-0771.

The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization that works to inform citizens and promote active participation in government. Membership is open to all men and women over 18 years of age.

For more information, contact the league's membership chairperson, Denyse Radoiu at (313) 884-8658.

Trammell ends glorious era for Tigers

It started with a single up the middle against Boston's Reggie Cleveland on Sept. 9, 1977 and ended with a single up the middle last Sunday against Milwaukee's Mike Fetters.

In between those two hits, Alan Trammell had probably the finest career of any shortstop to play for the Tigers.

When Trammell announced his retirement after Sunday's season finale at Tiger Stadium he did it with the class he displayed during his 20 seasons with the club.

"I wasn't great in any one area, but I'd like to think I was good in a lot of areas," Trammell told the several thousand fans who had stayed around to hear his farewell address.

"I've lived a fantasy life all these years. There have been ups and downs but that's what life is all about. I've usually been able to battle through the down times, but that's what is frustrating now. I can't fight those battles any more."

Opinion

Trammell was pleased to get a hit in his final plate appearance, but almost apologized for feeling that way.

"I've been thinking about going out like that for a while," he said. "I don't mean to sound selfish, but ending it with a hit meant a lot to me."

Although he could never tarnish a career that should land him in baseball's Hall of Fame, Trammell was only a shadow of the player he once was during his final season. Injuries and age took their toll on the six-time All-Star and he was frustrated.

Last week against Toronto, Trammell couldn't get to two ground balls that he would have scooped up with ease a couple of years ago. And he hit into a late-inning double play to kill a bases-loaded Tiger rally.

After the game Blue Jays manager Cito Gaston had trouble celebrating the victory.

"It was sad to see (Trammell) tonight," Gaston said. "I think this is the end of it on his part. I used to keep the (hitting) charts when he was in his prime and he certainly wouldn't have hit into a double play in the past. He'd have gotten the run in some way."

No one who watched Trammell's effortless play at shortstop or his clutch hitting on the championship teams of 1984 and 1987 wanted to see him struggle like he has the last couple of seasons. Sunday's announcement came as a relief to everyone who cared about him.

And Trammell knew it was time, too. He put it off last year when longtime second base partner Lou Whitaker retired. And he probably wished he could have gone on another year.

"I said that if I had two poor years in a row it would be time to look at (retirement) and the last two seasons have been pretty suspect," Trammell said.

Friends and foes alike appreciated his career and the way he conducted himself.

The Brewers' players and coaches, who normally would have rushed to get out of town, stayed around for Trammell's announcement.

"He's been the ultimate pro," said Brewers manager Phil Garner. "I never saw guys like Trammell, (Robin) Yount and (Paul) Molitor ever give less than 100 percent. Unfortunately, some of the young players now don't show the same respect for the game."

Tiger manager Buddy Bell, who played and coached against Trammell, gained even more respect for him as his last manager.

"The thing I'll remember most about Tram is his sincerity," Bell said. "He's a sincere, caring guy. He played the game the way he wanted to play it and it was the right way."

Trammell is going to stay in the Detroit organization, but he isn't sure in what capacity. His knowledge of the game would make him a valuable member of any major league organization.

Thanks for the memories, Tram. And good luck in the future.

A view from the sidelines

The heart of the matter

It probably is a good thing that neither my wife nor I knew what was in store for us as we headed to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial for what we hoped would be a festive evening at a reception on Sept. 6, which would open our discussion group's annual season.

And yet, perhaps it was just as well we had no premonition of what would happen to me after only a few minutes of really enjoying the festivities.

For what then happened was that as I was visiting with some of our friends, the room began to revolve and I sought out a chair but had not reached it when suddenly I apparently passed out in the arms of a couple of friends, who then called 911.

Since then, for several weeks it has been a series of tests such as you usually get in a hospital and then follow-up surgery, which has kept me out of columns of the Grosse Pointe News for a month. You readers probably have had some indication as to why I have not been a regular contributor to my space in the Grosse Pointe News.

As always, I have said that I live a day at a time at my age. But I think I was mistaken and I feel I lived in a kind of dream world, reassuring myself that an extremely slow heart beat reflected the heart of an athlete rather than that of a man living perilously close to real and serious trouble.

Wilbur Elston

At any rate, I want our readers, as well as our management, to know what great satisfaction it has given me to write for the Grosse Pointe News in what I am sure will be my final journalism assignment and to be free to express opinions which may not always coincide with the Republican Pointes.

As I have often written, I am not a party person; I am not a Democrat; I am not a Republican; but I am an independent, and I think an independent opinion has a message for people in a fairly one-party community such as the Pointes.

However, I have not often enough expressed thanks for the liberty I have been given to express opinions that I had hoped would benefit not only the community but a wider community in the state and nation, even though I know, too, that as editorial writers, we are only making marks in the sand.

Even so, I'm an optimist, and I hope that some of what I have written has done what I hoped it would do: which is simply to suggest to people to try to think about our community in terms of what is best for all people.

What I am trying to say is that I have sought to serve this community, state and country in a way that would benefit it and its people over the long run.

I ask for your indulgence in this effort and other opinions that I have inflicted on you over the years.

And I hope in a couple of weeks to be back at the News and engaged in the finals of what again has become a true battle between two conflicting views of the future of our government.

No crime too small

The special transgression of Johnathan Prevette, of Lexington, North Carolina, has cast a national spotlight on just how absurd political correctness can be these days.

Johnathan "is just an affectionate person," according to his father, Calvin Prevette. Thus it was no surprise to the 6-year-old boy's parents to learn that Johnathan had walked up to a little classmate in school one day last week and given her a peck on the cheek.

What was a surprise to mom and dad, and apparently much of the rest of the civilized world, was that their son was promptly suspended from school for his deed.

"Just ... affectionate?" Officials of the Lexington City Schools weren't buying that one: To them, Johnathan was a clear violator of their new sexual harassment policy and had willfully broken a rule against "unwarranted and unwelcome touching of one student by another."

To avoid such horrors, we presume straitjackets might be the system's recommended uniform for all Lexington students from now on, although perhaps this might be more appropriate for school system members who so blindly enforce a rule that leaves no room for innocent gestures.

In the words of Mr. Prevette, referring to the system's written policy which the principal of Johnathan's school interprets as outlawing kissing, hugging or hand-holding, "we might read him that sexual harassment thing all night, and he might be bright enough to remember it. But would he understand it?"

Let's hope our politically correct brave new world doesn't have this kind of schoolroom problem for 6-year-old Janes and Johnathans to look forward to.

On the other hand, with all the P.C. moves afoot to protect alternative lifestyles and honor sexual preferences, maybe Johnathan's only mistake was in not kissing a boy instead.

Letters

Clarification

To the Editor:

I appreciate the coverage provided by the Grosse Pointe News and would like to have the erroneous statements attributed to me corrected.

The first page article of the Grosse Pointe News "Park residents not happy with city's explanation of June basement floods" attributes statements to me that are in error. I did not say that "...the explanation provided by the city on how the flood happened is a lie."

I said that we did not believe the city's account of the June 18 events; that the city's rain data was unverifiable; the pump analysis suspect; and their account appeared to be a cover-up.

Further when asked if there were a group of residents poised to sue, I responded yes and that lawyers had been interviewed and that some residents would be suing. Details as to who would sue and who would be sued were not specified.

Sandra H. Walters
Grosse Pointe Park
Mack/Moross

To the Editor:

From the beginning to the present time, businesses along Mack Avenue in Grosse Pointe Farms have existed between Mack and the service alley behind the businesses — no exceptions were allowed.

The parking area at Mack/Moross was zoned with restrictions. There would be a 20-foot easement and a masonry wall around the parking area. The parking area would be used only by passenger cars and only during business hours — no business activity in this area was tolerated. Grosse Pointe Farms aggressively prevented any violation of these restrictions.

Question No. 1: Any business outside of the Mack alley area would pioneer a strong precedent and give license to every business to expand into residential areas; this could plant the seed of destruction for the entire residential area along the Mack corridor, true or false?

Question No. 2: Which would better maintain and expand the residential character of Grosse Pointe Farms in replacing the Mack/Moross parking lot, (a) homes (or condos) built by private developers. This would make the area like every other residential area along Mack and not cost the city one cent, or (b) use tax dollars to dismantle homes on Moross and build a business that would be turned over to a private group to operate for a profit.

Private homes (or condos) are not being considered — no vote or referendum on this. The council, in its wisdom, believes that (b) is the answer. We think that (a) is. What do you think? The option to buy the Kroger property can be executed at any time by our council. With Kroger gone, the above questions have real meaning. Please let your council members know what you believe. It's important.

Let's stick to facts

To the Editor:

I must take exception to the (Sept. 19, page 13A) letter published by Mr. Jeffrey Markwick. While it is true that the points he made were accurate, they were only partial facts and that is why I addressed them.

Mr. Markwick asks that I "get my facts straight" when in fact it is simply a case of not wanting the entire picture presented.

I recently called Mr. Markwick to discuss his concerns. He had stated that the instrumental music program (in the Grosse Pointe Public School System) was mediocre. I do not know how he came to this conclusion when he doesn't have children in the program, he has not attended the instrumental concerts, he has not read the recent K-12 study on the music curriculum that the board approved in June, and he had not discussed his concerns with the (instrumental music program) instructor.

I implore the community to watch the live telecasts of the board of education meetings or the replays on Grosse Pointe Cable Channel 6, so that situations like this will no longer be tolerated.

This community needs accuracy, not innuendo.
Cindy Pangborn, trustee
Grosse Pointe school board

Hits and misses

Recently when I opened the envelope that contained my tickets for The Who concert in November, I had a "flashback," not to the previous time I had seen them in 1982, but to some of the shows I have seen since I have been attending concerts.

Some were memorable, some I wish I could remember and some I wish I could forget. At a party not too long ago, a group of friends and I played "what was your most embarrassing concert."

Bands such as AC/DC and Black Sabbath were mentioned, along with others like Cheap Trick, Bachman-Turner Overdrive and Alice Cooper.

Sure, seeing the giant Godzilla snort flames at a Blue

Oyster Cult show may have seemed cool in high school — no, on second thought, it was laughable even then — but I don't think I'll catch a reunion show if they come around (maybe they never broke up?).

My friends and I also reflected on the bands and musicians we are glad we saw, especially the ones no longer around.

I saw Miles Davis once, not too long before he died. I saw the Grateful Dead a few dozen times, including the second-to-last show before guitarist Jerry Garcia died.

And last month, a musician whom I saw only once and didn't count on seeing again, passed away.

In August 1990, a couple of friends and I ventured from Chicago to north central Wisconsin to see a bluegrass festival. Although most of the acts were reformed "Southern Rock" bands, like the Marshall Tucker Band, the Outlaws, the Ozark Mountain Daredevils and New Riders of the Purple Sage, the father of bluegrass music, Bill Monroe, with his latest lineup of the Bluegrass Boys, made an appearance.

There are some bands I like that I was simply too young when a major component of the group died. In order to have seen Jimi Hendrix, I would have had to skip kindergarten class. The same goes for the Doors and Janis Joplin.

Then there are those, even though I was old enough, I just missed, and will not have the opportunity to see. So much for my plans to see Tupak Shakur. I'll try to get over it.

For many groups that have been around for a number of years, there is always the expectation of seeing them again. When the Rolling Stones toured in 1981, the first major United States tour in many years, people filled venues such as the Silverdome and other places just as large, not just to see the band, but to see them in case they decided to break up or stop touring. Of course, they've toured a couple times since then.

The Eagles, a band whom I remember listening to at summer camp (read: when I was young), decided to embark on their "Hell Freezes Over/We Can Make a Ton of Money If We Get Back Together" tour — I decided not to add to their coffers.

The same goes with KISS. I never was a big fan, but I did like some of their stuff. When they decided to take the same route as the Eagles, I thought of 85 ($) reasons not to see them play this past June at Tiger Stadium. Plus, the show sold out very quickly.

Was this KISS' last hurrah? No, they'll be at the Palace in a couple weeks.

Which brings me back to The

Who. Their 1982 tour was supposed to be it for the band. Seven years later, they decided to have a 25th anniversary tour — a gesture similar to a couple married for 18 years, separated for the next seven, who decide to celebrate 25 years of wedded bliss.

I missed that 1989 tour, but wasn't too broken up about it. Then, for some reason ($), The Who has decided to perform the songs from their excellent album, "Quadrophenia."

After reading a review in MOJO magazine from their recent Hyde Park concert in England and listening to my brother's account of a recent show at Madison Square Garden, I decided to not pass up this chance to see them.

It's not a case of "getting fooled again." It may be the last chance I have to see them — at least until their next tour.

Call it Camp Rain-Y-Mill

"It's a laid-back family camp-out," says Susie Scheiwe, sitting by her tent in Windmill Pointe Park a few Saturdays ago.

All around the lakeside park are some 40 other tents or campsites in various stages of readiness.

Set to brave the urban wilds with husband Gary and daughter Meredith, Susie is a four-year veteran of the Park-sponsored spring and fall bivouac titled "Camp Wind-Y-Mill."

Not worried about those clouds? asks FYI, gazing up at the dark gray stuff ominously billowing in from Canada.

"If it gets really bad, we'll stay in Tompkins Center," says Susie. Other than rain, the only other hazards she can think of are finding an occasional bee in your pop can or having a freighter in the nearby channel blow its horn at 4 a.m. ("which can really levitate you," she says.)

Later that evening it rains cats and dogs and FYI briefly wakes to wonder how everyone is doing, from the comfort of his four-poster bed.

"Maybe we should have called it Camp Monsoon," says Park recreation director Terry Solomon on Monday. "But still, it was fun — Paula Doak played her guitar and sang songs with the kids in Tompkins Center before bedtime, and half of those who left for home came back in the morning for breakfast."

Uniform of the day included wet socks and shoes, says Terry. "Someone suggested we make up a sweat shirt that says, 'I Survived Camp Wind-Y-Mill.'"

For whom the bodice rips

U.N. right here in the Pointes? "We have a real melting pot here," says AAUW book sale volunteer Corinne Smith when I comment on the two large tables overflowing with texts in German, Spanish, French, Russian, Korean, Japanese and Portuguese.

It's morning of the first regular-price day at the annual sale, held at Woods City Hall last week, and the bibliophiles are busily browsing, me included.

Are they selling, I ask. "Yes, pretty well," says Corinne. "What we have the most trouble with are the tons of 'bodice ripper' romances we get every year... We just have to give them away afterward, because hardly anyone ever wants them."

Curious indeed, says FYI, looking expectant of an answer. "Maybe it's because the ladies are afraid to be seen buying them," offers Corinne.

Later, FYI returns with wife Doc, who buys a box full of books to balance off the one he got earlier.

That's when afternoon volunteer Nancy Pilorget calls it to Doc's attention that she has picked two copies of the same bodice ripper title, thus saving her $1.50 and no end of embarrassment.

Photo finish?

Karen Kendrick-Hands took a seven-week "trip of a lifetime" this summer to Scandinavia, Russia, England, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Germany, Austria, Spain, Portugal, Switzerland and Italy, and brought back 32 rolls of film that resulted in nearly 1,000 photos — and now she wonders where they are.

"The Camera Center called to say they were ready Aug. 15, but by the time I came in to claim them on the 26th, they had vanished," says the puzzled Park resident.

The color prints were in a Hallmark shopping bag on the counter by the back door and her name was on the bag, Karen says she was told.

The shots were mainly of things that few people would want or even understand, says Karen. "I took lots of pictures of things like bedsprads from leprosy museums, antique costumes, socks of men I happened to come across."

Bedsprads? Socks? "I'm a published knitting designer and I regularly design for several small custom yarn producers," Karen explains. "I'm working on a book on knitting and I was going to use the photos to illustrate it."

She's not the only loser. "There were also lots of train pictures that my son, Stephen, was going to show his class at Waldorf School," Karen says.

As time goes by, hope that Karen's work will turn up is dimming. "Up until a few weeks ago, they were running a lost and found ad, offering a $300 reward, no questions asked," she says. "I was so careful to bring them all back in a lead-lined bag ... losing them ranks right up there with having a hard disk crash."

Eclipsing the eclipse

With cloud cover making the moon a dim smudge in the sky, the lunar eclipse happening upstairs last Thursday was pretty much a dud — but the Windmill Pointe subdivision had its own eclipse anyway. Everything from the north side of Balfour on was totally dark the whole evening.

"The main electric transformer serving the area blew out at that time," said an officer at the Park police.

Can Michigan keep its status as a leader in education reform?

By Lawrence W. Reed

"Religion, morality and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged." So reads Article VIII, Section 1 of Michigan's Constitution.

It's a ringing declaration that says to every parent, "If you really care about your child's education, state government will not stand in your way." Are we keeping faith with the spirit of that declaration or just going through the motions?

The truth is, we can only pretend that we're faithful to that part of our constitution because another part obstructs it. Article VIII, Section 2, in language more restrictive than that of any other state constitution in the country, forbids any sort of relief for parents who choose a private alternative to the public schools. They receive no tax credits, exemptions, or deductions; no vouchers; no grants or loans directly or indirectly — not a nickel back on the taxes they pay to support a system they don't even patronize.

Consider the thousands of low-income parents in the inner cities of Detroit, Flint or Grand Rapids who take a strong, personal interest in the education of their children and have chosen private or religious schools. Rather than send their children to public schools they perceive as unsafe or otherwise inferior, they scrape and sacrifice to do what they believe in their hearts is best. With few exceptions, the children are better served.

What Article VIII, Section 2 says to those parents is this: "Tough luck. You have to pay twice. It doesn't matter that you've made the best choice for your children. The public monopoly is more important than they are."

With charter schools, greater choice among public schools and other measures that have curtailed the excessive clout of militant teacher unions, Michigan has made historic progress on the road to education reform. But that road is nearing a dead end. Children deserve so much more, but if Article VIII, Section 2 stays on the books, Michigan may lose its status as a reform leader.

This fall, Ohio joins Wisconsin as the second state to adopt a voucher program. At least 1,500 Cleveland students in grades K-3 will be allowed to attend the school of their choice, public or private, religious or secular. Each student will receive a voucher worth up to $2,250 in state funds. All of the 1,500 vouchers are going to poor families, and another 2,000 children from low-income households have been put on a waiting list.

The Wisconsin and Ohio programs do not violate the separation of church and state any more than did the GI Bill, under which many veterans went to college. In neither Wisconsin nor Ohio is the state government writing checks directly to religious schools, nor should it. The vouchers are being given to parents, who in turn have the power to choose whichever schools they want for their children. (Government does not tell food stamp recipients that they must redeem their coupons in government grocery stores, and when they take them to private supermarkets that doesn't somehow transform those stores into departments of government.)

Nonetheless, Michigan could do better than vouchers. If it were not for Article VIII, Section 2 of the state constitution, Michigan could adopt tuition tax credits. Parents who choose to patronize non-public schools could receive a tax credit of up to, say, $2,000. Because the average per pupil expenditure in Michigan public schools is more than twice that, taxpayers in the long run would still save money every time a parent chose a private school.

Tuition tax credits are superior to vouchers because no one can say to a private school parent, "Some of my money is going into your religious school." After all, a tax credit means some of the parent's own money is being refunded for his or her child's education.

Michigan should keep its constitutional prohibition against direct state aid to private schools, and probably should retain its prohibition against vouchers as well; allowing for tuition tax credits, however, would be an act of simple fairness.

More than just parents of school-age children could be included in a tax credit program. Individuals and businesses could receive a tax credit for paying the tuition of someone else's child or for contributing to scholarship funds administered by the schools.

Tax credits would provide a far stronger incentive than the much more limited tax deductions anyone might receive under our current system. President Clinton recognized that when he recently proposed a tuition tax credit plan for two years of higher education at any public, private or religious college in the country.

In America, choice in such things as the colleges we attend, the foods we eat, the places where we work and the stores we patronize is widely accepted as a basic liberty. To that list, it's time we add the first 12 years of schooling. But unless the unjust barriers erected by Article VIII, Section 2 of the Michigan Constitution are removed, our state will continue to shelter public monopoly from healthy competition and discriminate against caring parents who want what's best for their children.

Let your sunny memories get you through life's autumns

Fall is not a season that inspires positive thinking. Unlike spring when all of nature's bounty is bursting forth with promise of abundant new life, fall is a time when summer's beautiful offerings slowly wither and die.

Sadly we watch the glory and gentleness of summer rally for one last magnificent performance.

A determined sun highlights the gold and russet of turning leaves. We long for it to last but we know that soon those leaves will drift to the ground withered and brown leaving behind limbs silhouetted against a cold sky.

The sun will no longer hang like a golden earring in an azure sky, but will become pale and wan. It is the time now to go indoors and take up the affairs of winter.

As we close our doors against damp and dreary mornings and frosty, chilly nights, we become aware that as all nature slows down and rests, so should we. Fall and winter are times for taking stock and planning for the new beginnings that come with each new spring.

It is time now to turn to quieter, less strenuous activities — to read, to make contacts with friends by phone, write letters, to bake and cook, to finish projects that were set aside.

We could plan a trip and even if we never go, it's fun and informative learning about faraway places, or to plot next year's garden, catch up on favorite television programs and count our blessings.

Soon we will be celebrating Thanksgiving. If we think about it, we all have many things to be thankful for: families, friends, good health. These are obvious gifts that life bestows, gifts that we treasure but accept without really giving much thought to how precious they are.

It is pleasant at this time to stay in the warm coziness of our homes, to drift back in memory to events in our lives when life was at its fullest.

To remember our growing years when those who loved us tried so hard to make our lives happy and to protect us from disappointment and hurt.

We remember our youth, how each day brought the promise of something new and exciting and how confident we were that we would achieve all the goals we had set for ourselves.

Buoyed by the vitality and optimism of youth, we were ready for anything. There were heartaches and disappointments, but they became of little consequence as we prepared for a better day.

We hold close to our hearts our marriage and how infinite-

Prime Time

By Marian Trainor

ly beautiful it was to have someone who understood and loved us.

And we recall those fun-filled years when strained budgets, bouts with childhood illnesses and a house more cluttered than we like were balanced off against the excitement of birthdays, holidays and graduation celebrations.

Children grow and leave home. A strange, unwelcome silence pervades in the home.

Gone is the racket of children at play, the chatter of teenagers, the friendly dinner-time arguments that erupted as opinions of two generations clashed.

All of those memories we hold dear as well as those that are closer in time to the present, particularly if we still have that all-important person with us who has been the mainstay of our lives.

The one who joined with us in commitment of sharing, years back, one who in spite of the toll that time takes still remains in our view as youthful and attractive as when we first met.

We remember how we put our lives together again after our families had grown and left, how we settled back to enjoy uninterrupted companionship such as we had known as newlyweds.

We enjoy the visits of our children and what good friends we have become since it is no longer necessary to accommodate to each other's moods.

For some, life's autumn is not so kind. They are left alone as widow or widower.

It is then that memories become even more important to brighten the solitude of dreary days.

Homecoming — times 2

Grosse Pointe North and South high schools celebrated their homecoming last Saturday, Sept. 28.

Over in Norsemen territory, North clobbered L'Anse Creuse North, 39-26. During half-time, the senior class won the coveted Spirit Award jug; the freshmen class of 2000's dinosaur won for best float; and the sophomores won the first-ever spirit hall award. Their transformation of the school's main hallway into a 1950s-era diner and drive-in movie clinched the honor. Senior Kelly Lefever, left, pictured with her father, Dennis Lefever, was crowned homecoming queen. Her court included, seniors Katie Daniels, Angeliq Wierzbicki, Melissa Masouras and Louise Rainone; juniors Audrene Apostolos and Erin Weber; sophomores Susan Dyson and Kelly Aitken; and freshmen Courtney Pranger and Michelle Dunn.

Across the border in Blue Devil territory, Anchor Bay beat South, 21-14. During half-time, the seniors won awards for best decorations, best banner and the Spirit Award for their military theme: "The few, the proud."

Senior Kelly Reynolds, right, was named homecoming queen. The court included: seniors Julie Krease and Kristen Reagan; juniors Kelly Smythe and Kirby Brink; sophomores Lauren Pankurst and Kristen Ritter; and freshmen Sara Fox and Kristen O'Brien.

Grosse Pointe's Navy Sea Cadet youth program a well-kept secret

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

It might be Grosse Pointe's best-kept secret youth program.

The Grosse Pointe Naval Sea and Air Cadet Academy, otherwise known as the Navy Sea Cadets, is in its eighth year and has 30 members aged 11 to 18. Cadets meet once a month for training at Selfridge Air National Guard Base.

The program balances the disciplines of the military with the adventures of youth exploration groups.

Ask recruit Deanna Wynne, 12, of Grosse Pointe Park. She joined in June and already has attended two summer international exchange camps, participated in a survival skills program, and visited NORAD, an underground radar facility.

"Being a Sea Cadet is very challenging," Deanna said. "Through the Sea Cadet program, I have learned about respect, self-discipline, team effort and cooperation. I've had the opportunity to climb walls, walk across wires 75-feet in the air, sail, canoe, kayak and compete in a rifle competition. Everything we have done has been a great learning experience."

Deanna's parents, Darci and Rodney Wynne, are members of the Grosse Pointe Council of the Navy League, which sponsors the Sea Cadets. Councils are local units of the Navy League of the United States.

The Navy League was founded in 1902, in part, by President Theodore Roosevelt.

It is a civilian organization dedicated to the education of citizens and elected officials to support the men and women of the sea services, along with their families.

The league works closely with the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard and merchant marine through a network of several hundred councils in the United States and overseas.

There are about 80,000 members.

The Sea Cadets is the youth program. Children between the ages of 11 and 13 are League Cadets; 13- to 18-year-olds are Sea Cadets.

"The Sea Cadets teaches young adults about military history, respect, communication, honor, team cooperation, motivation and self-esteem," Darci said. "I have seen an improvement in my daughter in all aspects — respect, learning and self-esteem. I just wish this program could be announced to the world. Many people do not know of its existence. It's a great opportunity for children."

"We hope they will eventual-

Deanna Wynne, 12, challenged her physical fitness during a training exercise that had her climb 75 feet into the air and walk across a wire from one tree to the next. (She wore a harness.)

ly go into active duty service," said Sarah Whitlock, president of the Grosse Pointe Council of the Navy League.

The advantages of completing the program and doing well in the program are that a cadet may receive a recommendation to one of the coast guard or naval academies, be eligible for scholarship money or, if they enlist in the service, may join at a higher rank.

The Grosse Pointe Sea Cadet academy is one of five in Michigan.

Similar programs are operated in Oakland County, Port Huron, Saginaw and Detroit. Sarah's husband, Roy Whitlock, a retired U.S. Navy commander, is chairman of the program. Students interested in the program must sign up and attend the monthly drills. A minimum 2.5 grade point average is required.

A student who signs up in the fall, for example, and attends the drills and excels, will be eligible for two-week boot camp the following summer.

"When students complete this program, they are well trained," Roy said.

Anyone interested in joining either the Grosse Pointe Council of the Navy League or the Sea Cadets can call either (810) 546-2861 or (313) 640-0130.

SCHOOL NEWS

Busy students

St. Paul Catholic School students and their parents, beginning Wednesday, Oct. 16, will be watching more television to learn about the world. They will be participating in the Family Geography Challenge, a six-week program that encourages families to watch and discuss the evening news. The program kicks off at 7 p.m. with a one-hour workshop at the Canfield Educational Center, where Tom Ossey, from the Anchor Bay School District, will show the participating families how to explore the geographic significance of events in the news. Participating families will receive a free National Geographic Society world map to help them locate places featured in the news, and a special home journal to record their observations. The program is sponsored by the Teacher-Parent Guild.

Fundraiser

Brownell Middle School students are selling subscriptions to magazines, software and compact discs in order to raise enough money so that every teacher and student will receive a free yearbook at the end of the school year. The sale is coordinated by the student council and the Brownell PTO and runs until Thursday, Oct. 10.

A visit with a VIP

A group of eighth graders from Our Lady Star of the Sea school had a quick meeting with former vice president Dan Quayle on Sept. 5. Quayle was a guest at a Republican fundraiser at the Lochmoor Club that day and a member invited her son's classmates to meet him. The students, standing, from left, Andrew DeFour, Riley O'Toole, teacher Jean Guillaumin, Adam Fujita, teacher Linda Berger, Johnny Ghanem, U.S. Rep. Dick Chrysler and Joey Karam, and seated, from left, Mick Myslinksi, Ray Testori, Michael Schorer, Michael Koester and Chris Waldmeir presented Quayle with a duffel bag and asked him some questions.

JUDGES ARE IMPORTANT!

They have a great influence on our lives and our community. In the 1992 election, less than 50% of the Wayne County electorate voted the non-partisan ballot.

The Eastside Republican Club believes that voting the non-partisan ballot should be just that - voting based upon the qualifications of the individual and without regard to the political background of an individual. After evaluating the qualifications and character of candidates seeking election to the Michigan Court of Appeals, Wayne County Circuit Court and Detroit Records Court, the Eastside Republican Club highly recommends the following diverse individuals:

Buick introduces 1997 lineup at Dodge's former Meadow Brook

It once was known as a doctor's car — a vehicle not as ostentatious as a Cadillac, but expensive and respectable. More recently its products gained a reputation for high initial quality with trouble-free ownership.

It has given us the hot-performing Grand National Regal and the innovatively styled Riviera.

This year Buick offers something many of us thought we would never see again, a fabulous-looking Century sedan. Yes, that great old stalwart 4-door Century from the 1980s has been restyled for the first time in 14 years. And wow, it looks great.

Road test to follow . . . we hope!

Last month, Buick introduced its 1997 lineup at Meadow Brook Hall, the splendid Rochester Hills home built by a member of the Dodge family. The new Park Avenues, Rivieras and LeSabres parked around the bricked circle before the front door that day looked almost at-home as the Duesenbergs and Bugattis that sit there during the annual Concours d'Elegance each August.

On the golf course side of the cozy home, Buick had erected a huge white tent to shelter its media guests, executives, computers, press materials and coffee table. It also had managed to bring in a 1905 Buick, complete with shining brass trim, and a red, topless 1950s Skylark, for guests to admire.

In sharp contrast to the brassy Buick, Division General Manager Ed Mertz explained Buick's role in the new automated 21st-century highway system in progress outside San Diego. In a demonstration project, high-occupancy vehicle lanes on Interstate-15 are being converted to an automated highway, to be completed by next summer. Ten 1997 Buick LeSabres are being specially equipped to demonstrate how automated travel might work.

This hands-free driving experiment includes hardware to keep the cars in their lane, control their speed, avoid obstacles and communicate with the "smart" highway and its traffic center. High-strength ceramic magnets, necessary for some automated highway configurations, are being installed in pavement on high-occupancy lanes of I-15 in north San Diego County. The new roadway will consist of two reversible car pool lanes 7.6 miles long.

This kind of no-brainer transportation gives the owner the privacy of his/her own vehicle which, while on the system, requires little input. The driver is supposed to be able to watch movies, read or catch up on paper work, Mertz said.

"Which would you choose for a business trip from Detroit to Chicago — three hours of hands-off travel in the privacy and comfort of your own car, or about the same time shuttling between parking lots, airline terminals, transfer buses and a jam-packed airliner?" Mertz asked. "With the demonstration preparations beginning today, we are nearing the time when you can enjoy the comfort of your car in that kind of situation."

Meanwhile, back to this century and the new Century. At the end of September Buick spokesman Mark Alward said the General Motors assembly plant slated to assemble the Century in Oshawa, Ontario, continues to ramp up for full production during the last quarter of this year. So don't look for too many examples of the new sedan for a while.

When you do go looking, you will find a larger vehicle (it's 4.1 inches longer) and one that's aimed at a wider market. Tony Derhake, Century brand manager, said Century is expected to attract younger buyers, both families and singles. "It is fun to drive and has features available that younger buyers seek like leather and fold-down child seats," he said.

Century sedans will come in two trim levels, Custom and Limited. Standard features include anti-lock brakes, dual air bags, battery run-down protection and air filtration in the passenger compartment. Rear seat passengers will enjoy "theater seating," that is, they are sitting a little higher than those in the front seat for better visibility. Independent rear suspension is new in 1997.

Options include dual ComforTemp climate control which allows driver and front passenger to each select desired temperatures, a sliding glass Astrorooftop, dual 6-way power front seats and steering wheel radio controls.

The standard powerplant is the 160-HP 3100 V-6 with 4-speed automatic transmission. Projected fuel economy is 20 MPG city/29 MPG highway.

Buick says it first used the Century name back in 1936, the year the division began using names rather than numbers to identify models. Century continued through the 1942 model year, was retired by the war, and returned in 1954 as a midsize high-performance entry. The name disappeared again after 1958 and was re-introduced in 1973. The first front-drive Century bowed in 1982 and it continued, with a few little facelifts, until this re-styling for 1997.

finished its run in the 1996 model year. That venerable name is bound to return. Most of the auto makers seem to retire names and, in a few years, bring them out of mothballs.

The Park Avenue is restyled and refined for 1997. Regal is supposed to follow suit next year. The Park Avenue and Park Avenue Ultra have a new body structure and chassis system first introduced in the Riviera. Safety-cage construction, seat-mounted safety belts for front-seat passengers and more interior room are part of the new package.

The Riviera is again powered by the 205-HP 3800 Series II V-6; a 240-HP super-charged 3800 Series II V-6 is an engine option. These are the engines in the Park Avenue, with the super-charged V-6 in the Ultra. Fuel economy for the standard V-6 is 19 MPG city/28 MPG highway. From

The popular Century sedan has been significantly and handsomely re-styled for 1997. Options include integrated child seats, sliding glass sunroof and steering wheel radio controls.

County commission approves transfer tax refund extension

By Chip Chapman
Staff Writer

If everyone who sold property in Wayne County between Jan. 10, 1990, and May 11, 1996, collected the real estate transfer tax owed to them, the county would be out about $7 million.

But since so few people have come downtown to collect their refunds, the Wayne County commission passed a resolution last Sept. 18 to extend the time period beyond the Oct. 31 deadline.

The resolution must now be signed by county executive Ed McNamara.

"Most of the money hasn't been collected, because it is too inconvenient," said Andrew Richner, county commissioner for the Grosse Pointes, Harper Woods and part of northeast Detroit. "We've asked that people be able to receive their refunds by mail."

The refunds are $40 or less on average.

The reason the county must refund the money goes back to 1978, when voters statewide ratified the Headlee Amendment to the state Constitution, restricting the way in which local communities could levy a tax increase.

The state Legislature in 1980 authorized counties with a population of more than two million people (Wayne County) to increase the real estate transfer tax, from 55 cents to 75 cents per $500 value, for transfers of real property.

The Wayne County commission in 1981 adopted the state Legislature's resolution without a vote of the county electorate.

The issue before the circuit court was whether the county's action violated the Headlee Amendment. Although the state Legislature had the power to impose the 20-cent tax increase, neither the Legislature nor the Wayne County board of commissioners had the power to impose the increase, without county voter approval, in a manner that conflicted with the state Constitution.

Those entitled to the refund must bring a driver's license or state identification, a copy of the deed for the property sold and the amount of the transfer tax paid to the Nudack Building, 415 Clifford, near the intersection of Michigan Avenue and Washington Boulevard.

If McNamara signs the resolution, those eligible for the refund may be able to receive it by mail.

For more information, call the transfer tax hotline at (313) 224-0805.

Women's GOP to meet Oct. 8

The Women's Republican Club of Grosse Pointe will present a "Rally 'Round Our Candidates" event on Tuesday, Oct. 8, at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club from 6 to 7:30 p.m.

The Hunt Club is located at 655 Cook in Grosse Pointe Woods. Reservations can be made by mailing a check ($5 for members, $7 for non-members) by Oct. 4th to Eugenie Durant, 425 Lincoln, Grosse Pointe, Mich. 48230.

Call president Marti Miller at (313) 886-3785 for further information.

Local Republican candidates will be on hand: Mary Ellen Stempfle for Wayne County commissioner; Andrew Richner for state representative; and Marilyn Lundy for the state board of education.

Members and guests will have the chance to speak personally with judges on the non-partisan November ballot including Court of Appeals Judges Robert Young and Harold Hood; and several from the Wayne County Circuit Court bench: judges Cox, Callahan, Giovan, Kelly, Neilson, Olzark and Zahra. Michigan Supreme Court Justice James Brickley, running for re-election, and Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Hilda Gage, candidate for the Michigan Supreme Court, have also been invited.

The Club will have literature, bumper stickers and lawn signs, etc., available for other judicial candidates as well as for Dole/Kemp and for Ronna Romney who addressed the Club in June.

In addition, the much-lauded Dole/Kemp video will be available for viewing.

Amid the convention-like atmosphere of red, white and blue apparel, patriotic music and campaign signs, participants can enjoy a cash bar and an informal dinner of hot dogs and all the trimmings.

Candidate forum at War Memorial Oct. 9

The League of Women Voters and the Grosse Pointe Board of Realtors will sponsor a candidate forum on Wednesday, Oct. 9, at 7:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

All candidates for the U.S.

Senate, the 14th and 15th Congressional districts, the First District state House of Representatives and the Wayne County Board of Commissioners have been invited to participate in the forum. Fran Schonenberg of the League of Women Voters will moderate the event.

For more information, call Ellie Tacke at (313) 885-9276.

Bowl to help find a cure cystic fibrosis

The Metro Detroit chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation will hold its 18th annual "Bowl for Breath" Saturday, Nov. 2, from 2 to 5 p.m. at Shorecrest Lanes in St. Clair Shores.

The event will raise money for research.

Cystic fibrosis is the No. 1 genetic killer of children and young adult and is always fatal. In 1989, researchers discovered the defective cystic fibrosis gene.

Currently, researchers are developing ways to deliver healthy genes to cystic fibrosis patients.

For the Bowl for Breath, individuals or a team of bowlers are asked to recruit sponsors to donate money as they bowl for fun.

Participants need not be good bowlers.

Gift certificates and prizes will be awarded to the most successful fundraisers.

What was the name of last week's mystery growth stock?

By Joseph Mengden
Most of the answers given to LTS were not even one of the 30 Dow Jones Industrials (DJI) stocks: SYSCO (SYY); MASCO (MAS); Kellogg (K); and Microsoft (MSFT), which is not even on the Big Board.

The answer is Coca-Cola (KO), Warren Buffet's all-time favorite growth stock.

The real numbers underlying the base-100 data LTS gave you last week, are as follows: cash dividends have been paid each and every year since 1893. The 1986 annual dividend rate was 12 cents/share; in 1991 it was 24 cents/share and the current annual rate is 50 cents/share, all adjusted for the 2-for-1 stock splits distributed in 1992 and 1996.

You could have purchased KO for $20/share in June 1994 (adjusted for the 2-for-1 split in 1996), and it closed Friday, Sept. 20, at $51.125/share. The unrealized market appreciation before taxes during that 27-month period for KO was 155 percent, while inflation during that same period totalled about 7 percent, cumulatively.

Fed does nothing
The much-touted Federal Reserve Open Market Committee meeting a week ago Tuesday, Sept. 24, turned out to be a non-event. The day before the meeting, a "leak" appeared to the press indicating that the committee was split as to whether or not to raise short-term interest rates. Well, as they say: That cooked the goose. And the goose was a dead duck. No way was chairman Greenspan going to the mat for an interest rate hike just before the presidential candidates debate on national TV on Oct. 6.

The Fed is supposed to be non-political, but all board members are nominated by the president and confirmed by the Senate. The chairman is selected by the president and serves as chairman at his pleasure. The 12-year term of members gives a stability to the board, not unlike the life membership of the U.S. Supreme Court.

The stock market, as measured by the DJI, drifted lower fractionally last week to close on Friday at 5872.92, off 15.54 or a tiny 3/10 of 1 percent. Biggest casualty for the week was AT&T (T), which collapsed 5 1/2, or 9.7 percent, to close at 51 3/8.

"Ma Bell," the widows and orphans stock, has been battered by the hot competition in the long-distance phone market. How many times last month were you called offering a cheaper phone deal?

Window dressing
Last Monday, Sept. 30, was the end of the third calendar quarter. Quarter-ends are important to the financial markets, mutual funds, banks and insurance companies. The Securities & Exchange Commission (SEC) and other governmental regulators require all publicly-held companies, mutual funds, bank holding companies and others to file quarterly financial reports.

For mutual funds, the closing price at quarter-end determines the market value of its portfolios, which in turn produces the net asset value for the funds' shares. The comparison of the Sept. 30, 1996, net asset value per share with prior dates (one year ago, five years ago, 10 years ago) determines the "performance" of that fund relative to its peer group of other funds.

Relative performance is the driving force behind future marketing of the fund's shares and the fee income for the fund's sponsor. After all, the sponsor earns an annual management fee, disclosed in the offering prospectus, based on a percentage of the assets managed.

The total assets managed can grow two ways: (1) if the sponsor picks superior stock investments and the stocks appreciate in market value, then the portfolio value and the net asset value per share will increase. In this case, both the shareholders and the sponsor win. And (2) if more new shares are sold to the public than are redeemed, then there will be more assets under management, so the management fee will increase, even though the net asset value per share remains unchanged. In this case the sponsor wins, while the shareholders are unaffected.

"Window Dressing" consists of those one-time, market-related trading activities designed to enhance quarter-end performance. In the case of thinly-traded, over-the-counter stocks, a spurt of buying in the last few days of the quarter just might run-up the closing price at the end of the quarter, and increase the value of that holding.

The fund's quarter-end cash reserves position can be inflated if normal purchases are delayed until the last three trading days of the quarter. Because of the three-day settlement rule for stock purchases and sales, purchases during these last three days are not "paid for" until the beginning of the following quarter. Accountingwise, these purchases are recorded as "investments," but there is an equal and offsetting liability: "Due to Brokers," until the payment is later made. The "cash" is still on the books at quarter-end.

Because many popular mutual funds now have assets in the billions, "window dressing" isn't worth the bother. But the temptation is still there for the sponsors of smaller, newer funds, or those dealing mostly in "small-cap" stocks.

WELL-ADJUSTED WHEELS

What are the adjustments that the auto technician is likely to make as part of a wheel alignment? To begin with, there is "toe-in," which is the tilt of the wheels toward or away from one another when viewed from above. Tires that "toe-in" point toward one another, while tires that "toe-out" point away from each other. Proper toe adjustment minimizes wear. "Camber" is the tilt of the wheels toward or away from one another when viewed from the front. Camber adjustment helps keep the face of the tire tread flat on the road for maximum traction and less wear on the edges. Lastly, there is "caster," which is the angle of the steering axis in relation to a vertical line through the center of the wheel, when viewed from the side. Caster can only be adjusted on the front wheels. The proper caster angle helps to stabilize the vehicle and improve steering feel.

Routine wheel alignments help extend the life of your tires by ensuring even wear; they also help make your steering easier. At RINKE TOYOTA, we urge you to stop in and browse. We are happy to help with your financing questions. Ask for our super price special. Our service department is one of the most modern and complete in the area. HINT: On some front-wheel drive cars, the front tires should toe out slightly to compensate for other forces so that the tires run parallel to one another as they roll down the road.

Quilt exhibit fundraiser stitched together by local organizations

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Call it a patchwork effort by some Grosse Pointe groups to help a worthy cause in a blanket statement of support for kids.

The Children's Home of Detroit and the Grosse Pointe Historical Society will jointly host an open house on Friday, Oct. 11, from 6:30-9:30 p.m., said Lisa Mower Gandelot, who is events chairwoman for the Children's Home and vice president of the Historical Society.

"We thought this would be a good idea," Gandelot said. "The Children's Home is 160 years old, predating Michigan as a state, and the Historical Society is based in the oldest building in Grosse Pointe. The Provencal-Weir House, 376 Kercheval in Grosse Pointe Farms, was built circa 1823, and we thought it was a natural for these two historical institutions to work together."

There will be entertainment at the Children's Home, 900 Cook Road and at the Provencal-Weir House, as well as a shuttle to move people back and forth between the two sites, said Gandelot.

"The Friday night event is a preview party," said Gandelot. "There will be quilts on display at both locations, and those attending can put in bids to purchase the quilts as a part of the silent auction that will be held at the Children's Home on Saturday and Sunday."

The cost of attending the preview party varies between $25 and $100, Gandelot said. The money raised at the preview party will be evenly divided between the Children's Home and the Historical Society.

"The Provencal-Weir restoration is almost complete," Gandelot said. "This is the first chance the public will have to see the house. Restoration should be completed in time for the annual 'Sounds of Christmas' event."

"...just as the pieces of the quilt are sewn together with interlocking stitches, all people are linked together in the fabric of this world."

On Saturday, Oct. 12, and Sunday, Oct. 13, the silent auction will continue at the Children's Home, Gandelot said. The quilts will be displayed from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on Saturday, and from noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Bids will no longer be taken in the silent auction after 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

"The quilts were made and donated by the members of the Quilt Guild of Metropolitan Detroit," said Gandelot. "The ladies are great. They make the quilts specifically for the Children's Home. We have about 25 quilts, with starting bid prices of between $75 and $125."

The quilts, said Gandelot, "were made by members of the guild for the pure love of quilting. While they are nice quilts, they are not museum-quality quilts. They are meant to be used and to be loved."

Admission to the Saturday and Sunday silent auction is free, Gandelot said. There will also be complimentary refreshments.

The money raised for the Children's Home will help fund the organization's arts and activities program, said Gandelot. Activities include art training, crafts, sports and swimming in the summer.

"The Children's Home houses about 70 children at its Cook Road facility," Gandelot said. "They are able to live in a family-like setting in one of the six residential cottages there."

While the quilts donated to the silent auction are not of museum quality, said Gandelot, that doesn't mean that there won't be a fine-quality quilt available.

"There will be a raffle Sunday," Gandelot said. "And the prize will be a museum-quality quilt."

To learn more about the preview party and auction, call (313) 886-0800, ext. 20.

Produced by the metropolitan Detroit non-profit organization, Harvesting A Cure, 100 percent of the proceeds raised by the event will be donated to cancer research and patient care programs.

Walk to fight SIDS at St. Paul Church this Sunday

A 5-mile "Fun Walk" to fight Sudden Infant Death Syndrome will be held on Saturday, Oct. 5, at 11 a.m. at Grosse Pointe's St. Paul On The Lake Catholic Church/School to raise money in hopes of finding a cause and/or cure for sudden infant death syndrome in the belief that every child should live.

Participants will collect $25 or more in pledges and will receive a special T-shirt and become eligible for many other prizes.

Because SIDS is the leading cause of death in children one week to one year of age, the Michigan SIDS Alliance is working hard to get SIDS the recognition it deserves as a No. 1 threat to all of our children and grandchildren — our future.

The event will be sponsored by the Michigan SIDS Alliance, with proceeds going to support their programs — namely, family support, public education and medical research. Corporate sponsors of the event include: Pepsi Cola, AAA of Michigan and Steiner's Silk Screen and Printer.

For more information, or to volunteer your time or dollars, contact Laura Reno at (313) 884-4742.

Rainbow benefit: Recent works by two Cleveland-based artists will be featured at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House for an open bid art auction on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 5 and 6. The artists have donated graphics, paintings and photographs to benefit Rainbow House, a non-profit organization serving people with dissociative disorders.

Laszlo Dus presents 27 recent works in lithography, silkscreen, mixed media and handmade paper. Recognized for the originality of his print-making techniques, Dus has exhibited widely in Europe and the United States and has been associated with the AL Galerie in Stuttgart and Detroit's Park West Gallery. The Hungarian-born artist's work is represented in many collections, including the Detroit Institute of Arts, Metropolitan Museum of Art, National Gallery of Art and the Art Institute of Chicago.

Photographer Barney Taxel has donated gelatin silver prints of Wyoming landscapes. Among his many honors are awards from the Cleveland Museum of Art May Show, the Cleveland Society of Communicating Arts, and the Cleveland Press Club. His recent exhibitions include Cleveland's Rothenfield/McDermott New Museum, Art in the Powerhouse, and the Great Northern Corporate Center Art Gallery. Taxel's photographs of people and places appear frequently in local and national publications.

A number of other artists from Cleveland and Detroit will also present recent work at the auction. All proceeds contribute to the operating funds of Rainbow House, a resource center for people with dissociative disorders resulting from severe trauma. Recent studies estimate that nearly 10 percent of Americans may suffer from a dissociative condition such as dissociative identity disorder or post-traumatic stress syndrome. A unique client-run organization supported by the Detroit-Wayne County Community Mental Health Board, Rainbow House provides a secure environment for members 24 hours a day, every day of the year, as well as a support network, educational opportunities, and therapeutic recreational activities.

The open-bidding auction runs from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Ford House, 1100 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Shores. There is a $5 admission donation.

Orient-ation: Artrain's board of directors will hold its eighth annual "An Evening on the Orient Express" dinner honoring its 1996 honorary chairpersons, 1996 Michigan Patrons of the Arts, 1996

Michigan Artist of the Year and 1996 Rail Sponsor. An Evening on the Orient Express is Artrain's premier fundraising and social event. Proceeds from the dinner benefit Artrain's educational and cultural programs.

Dr. and Mrs. Donald Austin, honorary chairpersons, have been long-time Artrain supporters and have been active in arts and cultural organizations for the last 20 years, including Artrain, America's Thanksgiving Parade, the DIA, the Michigan Opera Theater and the Detroit Historical Museum. They have received the Salvation Army's Booth Award, P.I.M.E. Missionaries' Knights of Charity Award and the American Cancer Society's Excalibur Award.

Dr. Austin is chief of neurosurgery at Hutzel Hospital and past vice chief of neurosurgery and chief of staff at Harper Hospital. Mrs. Austin is a vice president of Michigan Opera Company and on the board of trustees of Albion College. The Austins live in the City of Grosse Pointe.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Van Elslander, 1996 Michigan Patrons of the Arts, are being recognized for their involvement over the years in numerous arts and cultural organizations, including the DIA, the Michigan Opera Theater and America's Thanksgiving Parade. In 1990 they made a major donation to Michigan's Thanksgiving Parade and have since been the major contributor each year to assure the parade's continued success. Mr. Van Elslander is chairman and chief executive officer of Art Van Furniture. The Van Elslanders live in Grosse Pointe Shores.

Jimmie Thompson, 1996 Michigan Artist of the Year. For the last eight years as art director of The Parade Company, Thompson has led America's Thanksgiving Parade to international recognition, sculpting his animated illustrations into larger-than-life floats. In recent years, his designs and detailed sculpting have won prestigious awards in numerous parades around the country. Thompson lives in Ferndale.

"An Evening on the Orient Express" will be held on Monday, Oct. 7, at The Whitney in Detroit. Tickets are $300 benefactor/$250 patron.

For more information, contact Artrain at (313) 747-8300.

Tie one on: Dominic Pangborn of Grosse Pointe Shores is proud to announce the grand opening of the Heritage International Gallery on Thursday, Oct. 10.

Pangborn, known for his neckwear collection and as a leading graphic designer in the corporate communications field, is hosting a cocktail reception that evening with a special guest appearance by Mayor Dennis Archer and The Honorable Trudy Duncombe Archer. Tickets for the reception are $20 to benefit the Wellness House of Michigan.

A supporter of Detroit for nearly 20 years, Pangborn decided to convert part of his 10,000 square-foot studio space on Iron Street just off Jefferson into a gallery. The opening features the artwork of local artists Gilda Snowden, Jon Strand, Pangborn and several others. Also, the gallery will showcase many fine gifts and accessories of the Pangborn Design Collection. The show begins on Oct. 10 and runs through Nov. 15.

For 10 years, Wellness House of Michigan has been providing the basic necessities of life to people living with HIV/AIDS through an assisted living program, prepared meals and a pantry which delivers food to thousands of households.

The gallery will be open during the week and on weekends by appointment. For further information, call (313) 393-3900.

The Pastor's Corner

Let's unite in diversity

I guess some unremarkable things are, in practice, truly remarkable.

I was led to that thought when I heard a panel of experts use the term "unremarkable" to describe President Clinton's convention acceptance speech this summer. There is a passage in that speech that affirms some things that if truly practiced would be far from unremarkable.

The president spoke of affirming Americans who do their jobs, play by the rules and believe in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. That certainly sounds like the way it ought to be. It sounds like the kind of America I was taught to believe in.

In practice, however, over the years millions of Americans who have done all that have been denied their part of the American dream out of the fears and prejudices of others. The list is long. It has included women, blacks, Jews, Hispanics.

Today we are becoming increasingly aware of how, with the support of prejudice cloaked in religiosity, the list includes gays and lesbians.

There are those who believe that homosexuals are a bad influence on the life of the community in general and the life of children in particular. People who harbor such beliefs never seem to talk about particular actions of particular individuals, just sexual orientation in general: heterosexual = good; homosexual = bad.

By such logic, a Michelangelo takes his paintbrush to your church and the property values go down the tube, but an Adolf Hitler is the guy you want to be your Sunday school superintendent. Is there something wrong with this picture?

Then there are people who don't want gays and lesbians around because they think their children will "catch" it. There's about as much chance of that as there is of boys and girls who are taught by nuns of "catching" celibacy! Fear of brothers and sisters who are different does some strange things to the brain!

"But," some of our fundamentalism Christian sisters and brothers say, "God created Adam and Eve, not Adam and Steve." The theology of that attempt at wit is so bad that I'm almost embarrassed for those who mouth it.

If you're going to talk about a God who created Adam and Eve (not to mention birds, trees, seas and that awful snake) and then suggest that creation stopped with some fancy work on Adam's rib, you are denying the very Deity you affirm! The life of Life that flowed through whoever or whatever is represented by our mythical forebearers continues to flow through Adam and Eve and Steve and Jim and Jane and the whole of creation.

If we let our fears, wrapped in justification by religiosity, harm or thwart men and women and children who are different than we are, we are not only damn fools, we are people who, by diminishing our sisters and brothers, diminish ourselves and the better world we need to help build.

Beyond all diversity of being, we are one, inextricably bound together on this mudball that whirls through the vastness of the universe. As the force of gravity holds our bodies close to the earth, lest we be lost in the icy darkness of space, may the force of love hold our hearts close enough to one another that we may not be lost in the icy darkness of fear and hatred.

May we see that, despite all our differentness, in the eyes of the Eternal we are one.

May we be remarkable enough to live out this unremarkable truth.

Blessed be the pets

Myeloma treatment study begins

Henry Ford Hospital's Department of Hematology-Oncology is conducting a research study to test a new drug — PSC 833 — that may restore the effectiveness of chemotherapy for patients with multiple myeloma, a cancer of the bone marrow.

Most patients whose multiple myeloma initially responds to chemotherapy will eventually develop drug resistance. This is a condition in which the disease is no longer responsive to the correct treatment and, at the same time, the disease may not respond to other chemotherapy drugs.

To be eligible, patients must be 18 years of age or older, have multiple myeloma which has progressed following treatment with at least two cycles with the chemotherapy drugs Vincristine, Adriamycin and Decadron (known as the VAD regimen) and be physically able to tolerate additional treatment.

For further information, call Henry Ford Hospital's Hematology/Oncology Research Office at (313) 876-1856.

and Detroit Pistons Shoot for a Cure event.

A former Grosse Pointer, Shine is now a St. Clair Shores resident. A cancer survivor of three years, Shine underwent months of treatment at Henry Ford Hospital. Today, he is in remission.

Dr. Clarence Livingood, of the City of Grosse Pointe, also is being recognized for his resilience after spinal surgery at Henry Ford Hospital that restored his ability to walk. Livingood is chairman emeritus of the department of dermatology at Henry Ford Hospital. He has served as team physician of the Detroit Tigers.

Another Grosse Pointer, neurosurgeon Dr. Russ Nockels, performed Livingood's surgery. Nockels is nationally recognized in spine and trauma surgery.

Neurosurgeon Dr. Jack Rock, of Grosse Pointe Farms, performed surgery on Will Robinson, the local basketball legend, for whom the neurosurgery fund was named. Robinson was in danger of losing his sight when he was diagnosed with a brain tumor three years ago. Robinson is the Detroit Pistons assistant to the vice president of basketball operations.

Rock also is active in youth hockey in Grosse Pointe. He coaches his sons, Justin, 8, and Adam, 6, who attend the University Liggett School.

Cure-all: Detroit Riverview Hospital (DRH) will hold its sixth annual fundraiser, "A Night to Care," on Friday, Oct. 11, at the Roostertail Catering Club in Detroit. The donation is $200 a person from which proceeds will benefit senior citizens programs at DRH and in the surrounding hospital service area. The evening will include cocktails, hors d'oeuvres, a silent auction, dinner, followed by dancing and entertainment provided by Gwen and Charles Scales.

"There is a need for comprehensive health services for senior citizens in the Detroit Riverview Hospital service area," said Richard Young, DRH Administrator. "The elderly, especially the poor elderly, have limited resources readily available to them and there is a need for close supervision of their health."

Detroit Riverview Hospital and its geriatric medical staff feel that the key to enhancing the scope of care available to senior citizens is through increased access and education. From home visits and early intervention, dedicated transportation services, to adult day/respite care, the need for quality health care services and community programming provided by quality caring medical professionals is great.

Last year a variety of children and teen programs benefited from DRH's fundraiser "A Night to Care." As a result, programs funded included Basketball to the Real Youth Program, Detroit Peacemakers, teen pregnancy at an area school, Computer Center, prevention - "Baby Think it Over," Teen Pregnancy and Parenting, Parish Nurse Program and an Adolescent/Teen Health Center at Butzel Middle/Elementary School.

For more information regarding "A Night to Care '96," contact Chery Allen at (810) 573-5999.

Annual percentage: As part of World Food Day activities, the "7% Solution" is an annual fundraising event designed to raise money to help stock Michigan's food banks. This unique plan works directly with restaurateurs to raise funds indirectly from the public. This is the 11th annual "7% Solution" event in Michigan.

On Thursday, Oct. 10, participating restaurants donate 7 percent of their day's receipts to the Food Bank Council of Michigan and Hunger Action Coalition. Since public awareness of the restaurant's participation causes an increase in business on that day, the 7% Solution becomes one of the easiest ways to help feed the hungry in our state.

Organized by the Michigan Committee for World Food Day, the goal of the 7% Solution is to significantly increase the number of dollars raised in previous years. The Michigan Committee for World Food Day consists of representatives of religious groups, individuals and organizations dedicated to eliminating hunger in Michigan. Weight Watchers is a new member of The Michigan Committee for World Food Day chaired by Bill Winkler. Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer serves as honorary chairperson.

Diners can become part of the "7% Solution" by patronizing one of the more than 100 participating restaurants on Oct. 10. WNIC-FM will host a day-long radio-thon to encourage eating out at one of those restaurants. Listeners will also be able to phone in pledges to the Food Bank.

WALK-a-thon: Sunday, Oct. 13, is the annual Focus: HOPE WALK for Justice. Join thousands of people, representing metro Detroit's culturally diverse community, in support of civil and human rights. The WALK starts at 1:00 p.m. at the Focus: HOPE Center for Advanced Technologies, 1400 Oakman Blvd. at LaSalle. To participate, call (313) 494-5500.

This year's theme, "Justice begins with the first step," encourages those who have never publicly demonstrated for justice, as well as those who have WALKed before, to step out and become involved. Focus: HOPE invites clubs, religious groups, companies, schools, ethnic and cultural organizations, families and individuals to participate and display organization banners or signs.

The day's festivities begin at 11:30 a.m. with "Jazz for Justice," featuring Harold McKinney, Donald Walden and friends at the band shell. More entertainment will follow at points along the WALK for Justice route. After the WALK, jazz stylists David Myles and Mylestones will perform back at the band shell. Throughout the day, participants can view the free exhibition of Montreux Detroit Jazz Festival posters and jazz photographs at the Center for Advanced Technologies.

Volunteers are now gathering monetary pledges to support Focus: HOPE's childhood education, technical training and food programs. Individuals who register with a minimum $50 pledge will receive a colorful WALK T-shirt, cap and button. Register early to avoid lines.

The WALK for Justice has been an annual event for more than 20 years. Pattered after the nonviolent demonstrations of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the WALK affirms Focus: HOPE's mission that pledges "intelligent and practical action to overcome racism, poverty and injustice." During its 28-year history, Focus: HOPE has fought racial bias in the courts and in the classroom, provided employment opportunities and instituted programs that have improved the lives of more than a million metropolitan Detroiters.

Just for kids: Christ Child Society celebrates more than 80 years of dedication to children with its annual Pour Les Enfants '96 fundraiser, "Traditions We Share," on Friday, Oct. 11, at The Ritz-Carlton, Dearborn. Active in the event is society vice president Anne Blake of Grosse Pointe.

Featured in the all-in-one-day event are browsing and shopping at more than a dozen juried specialty boutiques, dining on gourmet fare at one of metropolitan Detroit's most acclaimed facilities, a lavish fall fashion show and a raffle.

The air will be full of holiday anticipation when a dozen shops open their doors at 10:30 a.m. for browsing. Featured will be an array of Halloween, Thanksgiving and Christmas treasures unique to the area.

Also among the selections: antiques, children's items, jewelry, art works, toys and the Christ Child booth with hand-mades galore.

The highlight of the afternoon following the 12:30 p.m. Luncheon will be a showing of hot new fall merchandise from Birmingham's Kathryn Scott, with furs by Dittrich. The show will be choreographed by "Traditions We Share" co-chair Holly Beth Moncher, a professional dancer who for 20 years owned her own local dance studio.

With a combination of friends, festivities and an exciting raffle in an elegant ambiance, co-chair Marie Maskin says, "Traditions We Share" is a fine way to support the area's needy kids."

Patron admission is $120 (for two tickets) or $40 for a regular ticket. For reservations call Christ Child House at (313) 584-6077.

For more information, call Barbara Dundon at (810) 647-8718.

Established in 1912 as a non-profit association of volunteers, Christ Child Society provides special services to needy children throughout the metropolitan area. It owns and operates the Christ Child House, a residential treatment center for neglected and abused children. The proceeds from "pour les enfants" will help support Christ Child Society projects.

Personality seminar held at War Memorial

PRH, the dynamic personal growth process that helps you answer the questions, Who Am I? Who Am I Becoming?, is offered at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Mondays, Oct. 14 through Nov. 11 from 6:45 to 9:45 p.m. A complimentary information night program is scheduled Monday, Oct. 7, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Developed by French educator Andre Rochais, PRH stands for Personnalite et Relations Humaines. Translated from French, the words mean personality and human relations. They are the basis for a system of human development that encourages people to explore their identity, purpose in life and relationships, enabling them to make adjustments in their lives that lead to personal empowerment and inner peace.

The process involves writing and talking about personal experiences, which assist in the discovery of the dynamic inner core that exists within all humans. Class participants are guided in the process through a series of highly refined questions by an experienced PRH educator.

The writing and sharing enables them to clarify their thoughts, feelings, relationships and values.

Conducting the seminar at the War Memorial is the Rev. Edward Farrell, a priest of the Detroit Archdiocese and a professor and author-in-residence at Sacred Heart Seminary in Detroit. His eight books and 20 tapes are enjoyed by an international audience. He has been a PRH educator since 1985, conducting seminars throughout the United States as well as Russia, Haiti and Ireland.

The cost of the five-week workshop is $125 and includes all materials.

Those interested are encouraged to attend the complimentary information night. Call (313) 881-7511. Mastercard and Visa accepted.

Oakland General Hospital, a member of the St. John Health System, makes available a variety of support groups every month. The group meets from 1 - 2:30 p.m. Psychologists will help people with diabetes, as well as their families, and talk about the continuous challenges of living with diabetes. Call (313) 343-6830 to register.

On Tuesday, Oct. 15, at the Outpatient Mental Health Clinic, Oakland General Hospital, the bereavement group will meet. A licensed social worker with personal experience will be on hand to assist the bereaved in their struggle to heal. Meetings are held on the third Tuesday of the month, from 6:30-8 p.m. Call (810) 967-7320 to register.

Coping with caring, is a support group that gives people caring for older adults the chance to gain helpful suggestions from others in similar circumstances. Meetings are the third Thursday of each month, from noon to 1 p.m. Call (810) 967-7700 for more information.

On Oct. 3, 10, 17, 24, and 31, the living with AIDS support group will meet at Oakland General Hospital's outpatient mental health clinic. HAVE A PLEASANT TRY AT PERFECTION BRIDGE BY WOODY BOYD ♠♥♦♣

Middle age is the dead center of life's vibrant span. The halfway, happy go lucky years when gifted matches and their loved ones have matured. Parents begin to breathe a little easier and find more time to enjoy what their earlier constructive labor has created.

It's also becoming the prevailing entry level period for many of our players to take up duplicate and join the American Contract Bridge League.

Two who have become fascinated with the challenge and stimulating competitiveness of matching their cleverness at cards with others are James and Cheryl Bloom of Orchard Lake. Both are prodigies of parents who play well and often. Their interest developed in school days and a marriage which followed some 20 years ago, but the natural priorities of that time of life limited their ability to do so.

Now that their toddlers Jeremy Jackson (19) and Stephanie (16) have reached that stage when mother and dad needn't circle the wagons every night, there's time for some hours out more often. Both of their law practices are flourishing and many objectives they have set have been satisfied so don't be surprised if you see them at some of our major tournaments in the years to come.

I am impressed with their attitude too for they have set an eventual goal of being able to successfully play at the maximum layman's level and that's an accomplishment that requires patience, determination and development. But first their life master rating and every play gets them a little closer. They also recognize that improvement in their modus operandi precedes victory which delivers recognition so today they play eastside, westside all over town and have a bundle of fun doing so.

Who is to say which one of our many bidding systems is most effective, but Standard American is by far the most popular. The Blooms play C. C. Wei's Precision and its only drawback in my opinion is the time required for explanation among opponents who have no understanding, but recently their advancement has shown much momentum.

One evening two weeks ago with time on my hands and not much money, I kibitzed their game at Farmington's popular Bridge Connection. Witness today's exhibit from that game which is most difficult to bid to the maximum effective level, but Cheryl did and with the spade ace opening lead accomplished a positive result.

First I'm going to show you how our precision pair bid the hand and then Standard American used at the other seven tables in which only one other found six clubs. When west led the club ace and next a small diamond that pair only found 11 winners. That's a pity for the slam makes against any lead.

With the club ace and a small diamond next twelve tricks are still there. Trick (2) win the diamond ace. (3) Win club nine. (4) Ruff a spade. (5) Win club queen. (6) Win club jack. (7) Win diamond king. (8) Ruff spade. At trick (9) west is squeezed when south plays last trump.

Bon Secours offers program to help prevent strokes

About 85 percent of all strokes are preventable, according to experts at Bon Secours Hospital. The two major risk factors are an irregular heartbeat and undetected hypertension.

With those facts in mind, Bon Secours Hospital is offering free stroke screenings. Patients will have their blood pressure and pulses checked by qualified nurses. Patients will also be asked to complete a stroke-risk questionnaire.

Dietitians and other health care professionals will also be available to provide information and individual counseling about risk factors and how to reduce stroke risk.

The evaluations will be offered on Monday, Oct. 14, from noon to 4 p.m. in the Bon Secours Hospital Connelly Auditorium.

The screening is free, but there will be a $10 fee for an optional cholesterol level check.

For more information or to schedule an appointment, call Bon Secours Community Health Education at (810) 779-7900 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday-Friday.

There is help for depression

By Dan Guyer, M.D.
Special Writer

Managing the challenges of life, day after day, can wear anyone down. Consequently, we all suffer from "the blues" on occasion.

But if those feelings of sadness, loneliness, withdrawal, loss of any enjoyment in life and even physical aches and pains, fatigue and sleep or digestive problems don't go away, the problem could be a major depressive disorder or what we know simply as Depression.

Depression is one of the most common and most treatable mental illnesses. It affects 15 million Americans, from children to older adults, every year, according to figures from the National Institute of Mental Health.

Unfortunately, only one in four people with depression actually seeks treatment, even though treatment can help more than 80 percent of those affected.

Dan Guyer, M.D.

Depression is usually caused by a combination of biological, genetic or psychological factors. Unpleasant life conditions, such as a death or extreme stress, may bring out a previously undetectable tendency toward depression. Alcohol or drugs also can be a cause of depression.

Successful treatment of depression can remove the symptoms and help the individual to return to daily activities. As with any medical condition, one or two different treatment methods may be tried before finding the best one.

It is important not to get discouraged if the first treatment doesn't work—in almost every case, relief can be found. And it may take several weeks for the treatment to begin working effectively, so it's important to identify the depression and begin working on it as early as possible.

The predominant treatments used for depression are antidepressant medication or psychotherapy, or a combination of the two. Treatment most often is given on an outpatient basis, not in the hospital.

Without treatment, a major depressive episode can last six to 12 months. Early treatment, however, can keep the depression from getting worse or becoming chronic. Treatment also can prevent recurrences of depression which otherwise may become more and more frequent.

If you think you might be suffering from depression, you are encouraged to come to Henry Ford Cottage Hospital for a free depression screening on National Depression Screening Day, Thursday, Oct. 10. They will take place from 7-9 a.m. and from 4-8 p.m. in the hospital's lower level boardrooms. No appointment is needed and you may come in at any time during the screening hours.

The screening includes a self-inventory of depression symptoms which is then discussed individually and confidentially with one of the psychiatric staff members. If it is appropriate, further evaluation or referrals will be suggested.

In addition, at 8 a.m., participants in the screening program may attend a special presentation by Charlene McPeak, MSN, RN, CNS, in child and adolescent psychiatric nursing. I will give a presentation at noon, and James D. Adamo, M.D., is featured at 6 p.m. We will both talk about the causes, symptoms and treatments of depression in adults, adolescents and children, and answer questions.

Pregnant women who exercise should listen to their bodies, not a heart monitor, study says

Healthy women who exercise during pregnancy could discard the $99 heart monitor and just listen to their bodies, according to a study conducted by the University of Michigan School of Nursing.

SeonAe Yeo, assistant professor of nursing, performed a study of the effect of moderate exercise on 18 healthy, non-smoking pregnant women, and on the heart rates of their fetuses.

The women "worked out" at moderate rates in a laboratory every four weeks, from week 16 to week 38 of gestation.

The exercise consisted of pedaling a wheel (about 20 inches in diameter) with their hands for 15 to 20 minutes while Yeo and her assistants measured heart rate, body temperature and oxygen intake, as well as the heart rate of the fetus.

While exercising, the women also were asked to report how much they felt they were exerting themselves, based on a "Rate of Perceived Exertion Scale" (RPE) recommended by the American College of Sports Medicine.

The ACSM scale defines perceived exertion as "the total amount of exertion and fatigue, combining all sensations and feelings of physical stress, effort and fatigue."

The scale runs from 6-7 (very, very light) to 19-20 (very, very hard). The women in the U-M study exercised at a perceived rate of 13-14 (somewhat hard) for as long as 30-40 minutes.

"The principal concern about pregnant women exercising is that they may overheat," Yeo said. "If a pregnant woman's temperature climbs higher than 39.4 degrees centigrade (102.2-104 degrees Fahrenheit) in early pregnancy, it may damage the fetus' central nervous system."

The temperatures of the women in the U-M study, who exercised at a "somewhat hard" level, never rose above 38 degrees centigrade — one degree below the danger point.

"Although we found that body temperatures varied slightly from woman to woman, the temperature for each individual woman was in the 'safe' range throughout each moderate exercise period and from month to month," Yeo said.

"More significantly, we found that a woman's perception of her degree of exertion — her RPE, which was verified by the measure of oxygen intake — was quite accurate. All the women knew when their RPE was light and when it was somewhat hard. Their bodies and brains were very good monitors."

The mothers' heart rates varied during exercise periods, depending on stage of pregnancy, general physical condition, body size, diet and ethnic group, "so the heart monitors were not terribly good indicators of exertion," Yeo said.

Fetal heart rates were virtually unaffected by the mothers' exercise periods.

Yeo cautions that the women in her study were healthy non-smokers and exercised in a cool, climate-controlled environment.

"Until we have more information about exercise in warmer conditions, we recommend that pregnant women avoid exercise in hot, humid environments. They also should not exercise if they are feeling unwell," she said.

Yeo presented her findings recently (Sept. 19) at the National Institute of Nursing Research Scientific Symposium.

Her study was funded by the National Institute of Nursing Research.

Questions frequently asked about the flu

What is the flu? Influenza (flu) is a highly infectious virus that attacks the respiratory system.

Symptoms of the disease include fever, chills, headaches, aching muscles, nausea and vomiting followed by a dry cough, nasal discharge, sore throat and fatigue. Severe influenza can lead to serious complications including pneumonia, bronchitis, sinus and lung infections.

Why is a flu vaccination important? The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) predicts that most people won't have any natural immunity against the Harbin B, Nanchang A and Texas A viruses. While most people with influenza recover, approximately 50,000 to 70,000 adults die each year from flu and other preventable viruses. More people die from influenza than from the AIDS virus.

Can the vaccine give me the flu? No. Because the vaccine contains only noninfectious viruses, the flu vaccine cannot give you the flu. As with most vaccines, side effects, if any, are generally mild and occur at low frequency within 48 hours.

Do I need a flu vaccination every year? Yes. Because viruses change annually, flu vaccinations protect against this year's strains only.

Who should not get a flu vaccination? Individuals who are allergic to eggs or chicken feathers, sensitive to amino glycosides, or are affected with Gullain-Barre Syndrome. We recommend that persons under 18 and pregnant women consult with their physician.

Who administers flu vaccinations? Experienced nurses from Visiting Nurse Association Support Services administer flu vaccinations. Nurses carefully screen each person to ensure a condition does not exist that would exclude vaccination.

What is the cost? The cost is $10 per vaccine (free to Medicare B recipients). A portion of the proceeds helps VNA administer free immunizations at local homeless shelters.

How can I receive more information? For information or to sponsor a clinic, call the project coordinator at VNA Support Services at (800) 296-8660.

Cottage offers low-cost flu shots

The influenza season is approaching and Henry Ford Cottage Hospital is once again offering low-cost flu shots for the community.

The flu shots will be given on a walk-in basis, no appointment needed, on Tuesday, Oct. 8, from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., in boardroom B, lower level, and again on Thursday, Oct. 24, from 5 to 8 p.m., in boardroom A, lower level.

The cost is $5 a person.

There is no charge to Medicare subscribers.

Anyone over 18, and particularly the elderly or those at high risk for influenza, are advised to get a flu shot for their protection.

Persons allergic to egg products, however, should not receive this inoculation.

Validated parking is available in the parking deck on Muir, across from the hospital.

Plummer outdoes original Barrymore

In creating the role of John Barrymore in a new one-man show about America's most popular actor, Christopher Plummer outdoes the original.

His portrayal of this swaggering, vain, and highly vulnerable figure affords both a fascinating insight into a legend of show business and a vivid look at the personal wit and mannerisms that characterized the theatre people of the time.

Only in the Barrymore that Plummer evokes, it is all distilled to an intensely concentrated style — outspoken, witty, playing on words, drawing constantly on previously played scripts. The humor and the pathos are intense, for Barrymore himself was larger than life, even as the matinee idol of all time.

The role in William Luce's excellent script is an actor's plum, but only if the actor has Plummer's uncanny talent for turning illusion into reality and for making an audience feel intensely every twinge and twist of feeling in his character's emotional roller coaster ride.

More than that, Plummer makes the viewer feel he is face to face with Barrymore himself, laughing in sympathy at his off color limericks, his jokes about his own vanities, his sarcastically bitter recollections of his four marriages and the speeches he misappropriates from Shakespeare to express his thoughts of the moment better than he could phrase them himself.

The illusion is that you are there hearing it as if it were happening for the first time.

Barrymore's biting and unabashedly bawdy humor, and his gift for devastatingly funny figures of speech are legendary and they are well represented in Luce's script. Better yet, they are delivered with exquisite, pithy conviction by Plummer.

Regaling his listeners as to how he enlarged the vocabulary of a stuffy friend's parrot, he refers to the bird as a "Technicolor chicken." Recalling the disasters of his marriages, he commends Wagner for having composed his wedding march in the tempo of a dirge.

For anyone who recalls the many films starring Barrymore's brother Lionel and sister Ethel with their unforgettable mannerisms, Plummer's impersonation of Lionel as he sarcastically mimics his siblings is a treasure of humor in itself. But it is no more hilarious than his impersonation of Hollywood gossip columnist Louella Parsons chiding him for relieving himself in a restaurant palm tree next to a table of ladies from the DAR. Or a vignette of an encounter with W.C. Fields.

He is no less outspoken about his own shortcomings. He lives frankly, even resignedly, with his alcoholism; makes light of his failures as a husband; admits, finally, that he can no longer play a role that was a pinnacle of his career because he can't remember the lines.

There is a lump in everyone's throat as Plummer conjures on stage the figure of the crumbling idol, an object of both adulation and pity.

Set in the situation of Barrymore's last attempt to revive his performance of Shakespeare's Richard III, there is also Plummer's tantalizing delivery of snatches of famous speeches from Richard, Hamlet and Henry VI.

In all, it is a theatrical experience of histrionic dimensions as well as a miniature of personal disintegration. It is certainly a show not to miss at Stratford's Avon Theatre where it plays until Oct. 20.

DSO offers concert by pianist Jorge Federico Osorio

By Alex Suczek
Special Writer

Music is so international that ascribing ethnic or nationalistic character to an artist's performance can be an illusion.

But there is always an exception to prove the rule and in listening to recordings of pianist Jorge Federico Osorio, it is tempting to assert that his Mexican temperament is evident in his playing.

It may help explain the distinction of his recordings of piano music by Mexican composer Manuel Ponce and the Spaniard, Manuel De Falla.

It could get confusing at the DSO concerts this weekend, however. Osorio is playing the concerto of Norway's favorite musical son, Edvard Grieg, with the orchestra under the baton of associate conductor Lan Shui.

His credentials, on the other hand, are not subject to speculation. Performances around the world with the finest orchestras have won him acclaim. He has earned highest respect from top conductors such as Klaus Tennstedt, Lorin Maazel and the late Eduardo Mata.

One of his recent CD's ("Nights in the Gardens of Spain by DeFalla") was named Record of the Year by the Washington Post. And he has won some important prizes like the Gina Bachauer Award.

What we can speculate on is that when he plays Grieg's concerto with special insight and feeling, perhaps he acquired that during the time he spent studying in Paris. His ability to interpret Rachmaninoff and Tchaikovsky, on the other hand, may have matured while he was at the Moscow Conservatory. Then perhaps one can say, "Ah, but when it comes to Hispanic and Mexican composers, he really gets to the soul."

It certainly can add a note of special interest to listening to him perform the music of Norway's greatest composer. And we can expect outstanding performances from conductor Shui and the orchestra. In fact, the same applies to Rossini's overture to "Semiramide" and the Sibelius Symphony No. 2 which open and close the program.

The Sibelius symphony, as the work of another romantic era Scandinavian composer, has symbolic links to the Grieg. Still, differences in time and geography, from Norway to Finland, contribute to obvious distinctions between it and the concerto.

We can only listen to the music, let it tell us what it will, and speculate on the factors that will make this performance of familiar music nonetheless new and unique.

The program will be performed at a Friday Morning Coffee Concert and again on Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. For tickets, call (313) 833-3700.

Detroit Chamber Winds gets 2 grants

Detroit Chamber Winds is the recipient of a $6,000 grant from the Aaron Copland Fund for Music, which will be used to support a recording of the music of Michigan composer William Bolcom. Additional expenses will be defrayed by a grant from the University of Michigan's faculty discretionary fund.

Bolcom, a Pulitzer Prize winner, is a professor at U-M and one of the "hottest" composers on the contemporary music scene. The recording should be available in late 1997.

Detroit Chamber Winds is an ensemble drawn from the ranks of the Detroit Symphony and Michigan Opera Theater orchestras. The ensemble recently released a recording of works by Igor Stravinsky on Koch International Classics.

CHRISTMAS MEANS DIFFERENT THINGS

To some, Christmas means gaily decorated trees and beautifully wrapped packages.

To 7,240,249 people last year, it meant caring assistance from The Salvation Army.

When you pass a red kettle this year, make it more than just another Christmas symbol. Remember what it means to so many.

Harris runs for five TDs in coach's 100th victory

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North's football team gave coach Frank Sumbera some balloons to celebrate his 49th birthday last week. Sumbera appreciated the thought, but he wanted more. "I told them the balloons were nice but they don't make me smile as much as seeing their faces looking up at me after a victory," Sumbera said.

The next day, Sumbera's birthday present was completed as the Norsemen beat L'Anse Creuse North 39-26 in a Macomb Area Conference crossover game.

The victory was also Sumbera's 100th as head coach at North and gave the Norsemen their first 4-0 start to a season since the 1986 team went through the regular season undefeated. North's homecoming victory was also a memorable one for senior back Leonard Harris, who scored five touchdowns to tie Eric Peters' school record set against East Detroit in 1994.

Harris, who also scored a two-point conversion, finished with 32 points to break Peters' old mark of 30.

"He ran real well," Sumbera said of Harris, who had 232 yards in 31 carries. Harris also had more than 200 yards a week ago against Ford II.

"We're fortunate that as soon as it looks like Leonard's getting tired we can put Nick Aubrey in without losing anything," Sumbera said. Aubrey carried six times for 45 yards and fullback

Chris Morkut added 35 yards in 12 carries.

North opened the scoring with a 79-yard, 12-play drive that was capped by Vince Meli's 13-yard touchdown on a reverse. Steve Champine kicked the extra point.

LCN answered with a three-yard touchdown run by Justin Golke, but the extra point attempt was blocked by North's Mike Schornak and Mike Benedettini.

The Norsemen then drove 69 yards in 12 plays with Harris scoring the first of his five touchdowns on a 20-yard run. The extra point try was wide left.

LCN's Will Lewis raced 66 yards for a touchdown to cut North's lead to 13-12, but the Norsemen came out of the first half with a 19-12 advantage after Harris capped a 74-yard march with a 23-yard run.

"They moved the ball on us, but we stopped them a few more times than they stopped us," Sumbera said.

North increased its lead to 25-12 early in the second half on a 10-yard run by Harris to complete a 61-yard, six-play drive.

The Crusaders' Courtney Davis scored the first of his two touchdowns on a 48-yard run but North wasn't finished. Harris capped a 62-yard march with a 14-yard run and completed his record day with a one-yard burst and followed with the two-point conversion.

Gary Bordato's interception at the North 30 ended a threat by the Crusaders and set up the Norsemen's final touchdown.

Davis finished the scoring with a two-yard run against the Norsemen's reserves.

"We had a lot of offense today," Sumbera said. "Our line is doing a good job."

Seniors Troy Bergman and Scott Vandenberghe join juniors Jason Aubrey, Ryan Stevenson and Jerry Cardani as the interior blockers.

North finished with 344 yards rushing and 68 passing as Champine completed six of 11 passes.

Defensively, the Norsemen had to overcome the loss of linebacker Michael Turner, who suffered a concussion in the Ford game.

"We missed him, but Phil Cataldo moved back from defensive end to linebacker and did a good job," Sumbera said.

North used three players — Mike Mancinelli, Jason Ramberger and John Trupiano — to alternate at defensive end. "They all did a good job," Sumbera said. "Each of them has a certain area he's strong in."

Bordato had a good game in the secondary, while defensive tackles Benedettini and Nick Fuga had solid efforts and Bergman played well at end with two tackles for losses.

Linebacker Chad Cooper led North with nine hits.

The Norsemen begin Macomb Area Conference Blue Division play Friday at Cousino.

"They have an excellent quarterback," Sumbera said. "Their offense revolves around him and we have to contain him."

It took several L'Anse Creuse North tacklers to bring down Grosse Pointe North's Leonard Harris during the Norsemen's 39-26 homecoming victory. Harris rushed for more than 200 yards for the second straight game, scored five touchdowns and a two-point conversion and set a school record for points in a game.

Matt Moran of Grosse Pointe South brings down an Anchor Bay ball carrier during last Saturday's homecoming game. Moran had an outstanding game in the defensive secondary, but it wasn't enough to keep the Blue Devils from dropping a 21-14 decision to the Tars.

Tars spoil South's party

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Coach Mike McLeod had only one major complaint about Grosse Pointe South's homecoming football game with Anchor Bay last Saturday — the final score.

The Tars scored a touchdown with about two minutes remaining to post a 21-14 victory and spoil the Blue Devils' Macomb Area Conference White Division opener.

"You can't lose a game like that," McLeod said. "We controlled the ball on offense and did a pretty good job defensively."

A bad center snap, a short punt and a return to within a few yards of the goal line set up Anchor Bay's winning touchdown.

The Tars had tied the game in the fourth quarter after a 50-yard pass from quarterback Chris Kimble took them to the South one.

"(Kimble) rolled out on third and 11 and our DB (defensive back) left the receiver alone," McLeod said. "It was the same thing that happened on their first touchdown. Our secondary came up to stop the run. You can't commit to the run until you see the quarterback cross the line (of scrimmage)."

"We shut down their running game. We allowed 160 yards passing, but they had 50 on one play and 30 on their touchdown pass."

South had several excellent performances. Steve Gayman set a school record with 11 receptions for 129 yards and sophomore quarterback Mike Kaselitz completed 60 percent of his passes.

"Gayman had a great day," McLeod said. "Anchor Bay was asking us to throw the ball. They played eight or nine guys in the box area. If they do that, we can throw the ball."

Ryan Ermanni ran well and scored South's second touchdown on a one-yard run early in the fourth quarter. Ermanni's touchdown capped a 93-yard drive that consumed 12 minutes.

South took a 7-0 lead in the second quarter on a one-yard sneak by Kaselitz. Paul Yeskey kicked both extra points.

David Jennings played a strong game in the offensive line for South.

"Our linebackers, Jason Lorence and Ben Reynolds, played another good game and the whole defensive line played well," McLeod said.

"Matt Moran had his best game as a defensive back and had several good punt returns. He's played very well all year."

South hopes to get back on the winning track Friday when it plays at L'Anse Creuse at 7:30 p.m.

Cranbrook nips Knights

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

University Liggett School's Metro Conference football game with Cranbrook last weekend belonged to the defenses.

"We stopped them defensively and they did the same," Knights coach Gary Hills said after the Cranes came away with a 13-7 victory.

Cranbrook scored the winning touchdown in the second half when it turned a quarterback sneak into a 40-yard scoring play.

ULS had some chances — a fumble killed a drive late in the first half — but couldn't capitalize on them.

"We couldn't execute to finish a drive," Hills said. "But our guys never laid down. They knew they could win."

Cranbrook led 7-0 after the first quarter, but the Knights tied the game in the second period on a 40-yard scoring strike from Justin Macksoud to Brian Bruenton. John Riddle kicked the extra point.

One of Hills' concerns has been the inability to get more receivers the football. Like the Detroit Lions, the Knights play better when they use all of their weapons.

"We must spread the ball around in our passing game," Hills said. "Defenses are covering Brian Bruenton with two and three men."

There were several outstanding performances in the game by ULS players.

Jason Capen, who made an interception to set up the Knights' touchdown and recovered two fumbles, received the game ball.

"He had a good game on both sides and had to do the long snapping in the rain," Hills said.

The Bone Award for the hardest hit went to linebacker Renard Morey-Greer.

"He hit everybody twice," Hills said. "And he had a great day on the offensive line along with Billy Tringale."

Kevin Espy ran hard in poor field conditions and finished with 65 yards in 14 carries.

Hills praised the work of several of his defensive players.

"Kyle Denham was again superb at defensive end," the coach said. "Bryan Wisk, Jason Cooper and Jeff Kenzie played their best games in the defensive line."

"A.J. Stachecki, Bruenton, Espy and John Riddle had good movement in the secondary and Jeff Mehr showed great poise punting in the rain."

ULS visits Lutheran East for a 7:30 p.m. game Friday.

"Our secondary will be tested with (Lutheran East's) throwing and rollout running," Hills said.

Killen's performance highlights Cranbrook tennis tournament

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Leah Killen was the talk of the tournament last week after she helped her University Liggett School tennis team to a fifth-place finish at the prestigious Cranbrook Kingswood Invitational.

Not only did ULS coaches Chuck Wright and Bob Wood laud Killen's efforts, but she earned raves from rival coaches.

"It wasn't as much how she played but who she played," said Grosse Pointe South coach Mark Sobieralski after Killen won the No. 1 singles championship. "She beat two nationally-ranked players in back-to-back matches. You don't even have to do that at the nationals. I was so happy for her."

Killen won a three-set match against Meagan Kearney of Okemos, taking a 6-1 victory in the final set. She then drew defending state champion Carrie Rose of Bloomfield Hills Lahser and beat her 6-2, 1-6, 7-5.

Her victory against Rose after going three sets with Kearney was especially impressive. Killen repeatedly passed the charging Rose with deft cross-court shots, eventually frustrating the Lahser player.

Rose and Kearney finished 1-2 at No. 1 singles in last year's Class A state tournament.

"Leah had to exert all the energy she had to beat Kearney and then to come back right away and face Rose — she has to be a well-conditioned athlete," Sobieralski said.

Killen completed her day's work with a 7-5, 6-0 victory over Amy Mathews of Birmingham Marian in the championship match.

"Leah showed so much poise and thoughtfulness," Wright said. "She has so much variety in her game. She can pound the ball, change speeds and spins, play baseline tennis or serve and volley. When she uses (the variety) properly, she can beat anybody."

ULS got points in seven of the eight flights at Cranbrook. Kim Wattrick had an outstanding three-set victory over a Marian player and also won a second match at No. 2 singles.

Ann Clark (No. 3 singles) had a victory against Cranbrook and Christina Oney (No. 4 singles) got a point against a Lahser player.

Kendall Wrigley and Brooke Wright won two of three matches at No. 1 doubles, while Stephanie Roehl and Allison Ricci (No. 2 doubles) and Alaina Powell and Rachael Tansuche (No. 3 doubles) each earned a point.

"We competed well all day," said Chuck Wright. "And we're thrilled by our finish."

The Cranbrook tournament featured four of the top five Class A teams and the top-ranked schools in Class B (East Grand Rapids) and Class C-D (ULS).

Marian won the tournament, followed by Okemos, East Grand Rapids, Ann Arbor Pioneer and ULS.

Earlier, the Knights beat Rochester 8-0 in a match that was closer than the final score would indicate.

The Rochester match featured three three-set matches, including a thrilling 7-6, 5-7, 6-4 win by Powell and Tansuche at fourth doubles.

"The girls have been struggling, but are always positive competitors," Wood said. "They deserve some victories."

Clark and Oney each lost their first singles sets but rallied for three-set victories.

Fastpitch team schedules tryouts

The Compuware girls fastpitch softball club will hold tryouts for the 1997 season on Sunday, Oct. 6 at Shell Park in Waterford.

The club has several teams based on age groupings for players from 8 to 18. There are no residence restrictions.

Tryouts for under-11, under-12 and under-16 players will be from 9 a.m. until noon. Tryouts for under-13, under-14 and under-18 will be from 1 to 4 p.m.

For more information, call (810) 666-1492 or (810) 625-7383.

Devils shut out MAC Red rival

Grosse Pointe South's tennis team didn't have to exert itself to win its Macomb Area Conference Red Division match with Port Huron last week.

"We won them all with straight sets and most of those were 6-0 or 6-1. Everybody did well," Blue Devils coach Mark Sobieralski said after his team's 8-0 victory.

South's singles winners were Leslie Harrell, Meryl Pankhurst, Esther Farkas and Kristin Reagan.

Doubles winners were Dana Mertz and Lauren Pankhurst, Tracy Summers and Anne Morris, Katie Hollidge and Jennifer Mansfield and Andrea Hutting and Kirsten Brand.

South went into that match ranked fourth in the state Class A ratings.

The Blue Devils followed that effort with a sixth-place finish at the tough Cranbrook Kingswood Invitational.

South's second, third and fourth doubles teams each won two matches at Cranbrook.

Summers and Morris (No. 2) beat Cranbrook's team 6-4, 6-2 and beat East Grand Rapids, which had beaten them in a three-set match earlier this year, 6-2, 6-3.

Hollidge and Mansfield (No. 3) beat Okemos 7-6, 4-6, 6-3 in the first round, then lost to East Grand Rapids, but finished with a win over Ann Arbor Pioneer.

Brand and Alicia Siefer (No. 4) won their matches with University Liggett School and Pioneer but lost 6-2, 3-6, 6-4 to Marian.

South's first doubles team of Mertz and Lauren Pankhurst had one of the most exciting matches of the tournament against East Grand Rapids.

"They lost to them 6-1, 6-1 at the ULS tournament, but on Saturday they lost 7-5, 6-7, 7-5," Sobieralski said.

The second set tie-breaker was 10-8 in favor of the South team.

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

University Liggett School's soccer team was living dangerously last week.

"We tempted fate in that one," Knights coach David Backhurst said after his team spotted Hamtramck a 3-0 lead and then came back to beat the Cosmos 4-3 in a Metro Conference game.

"I've never had a team here come back from a three-goal deficit. The kids deserve a lot of credit for their determination and the fact they scored their three goals so quickly worked to our advantage. The whole Metro Conference championship was on the line in that game."

Hamtramck scored three times in the first 15 minutes against a team that had given up only one goal in its previous six games.

"We were stunned. We were in total shock," Backhurst said. But not stunned or shocked enough to roll over.

Backhurst made a strategic move in switching sweeper Mike Gressman to midfield for some offensive spark. It paid immediate dividends as Gressman scored ULS' first goal off a pass from C.T.

Brown.

Berc Backhurst made it 3-2 shortly before halftime when he converted a crossing pass from Brown.

The wind was at the Knights' backs in the second half when they switched sides and Brown tied the game 15 minutes into the half with an assist to Berc Backhurst.

Freshman goaltender Dan Ferrin took advantage of the wind when he booted a ball past midfield where Jason Campbell picked it up and beat several defenders before scoring the winning goal.

"Campbell is our fastest player and he took advantage of his speed," coach Backhurst said.

ULS then met Ann Arbor Greenhills, which was ranked No. 1 in the state in the Class D coaches poll, and posted a 2-1 victory.

"It was pretty exciting because one of my former players, Jonas Smith, is coaching Greenhills this year, and doing a good job," David Backhurst said.

Smith played at ULS during the late 1980s.

The Knights opened the scoring three minutes into the game when Berc Backhurst took a corner kick and Jonathan Kish headed it into the net.

"I think that goal woke them up because they had 17 shots to our 11 in the first half," coach Backhurst said. "Ferrin came up big, especially on two point-blank shots that he stopped. He kept us in the game."

ULS got a break with about 30 minutes left in the second half. Greenhills' goalie made a diving save but the wet ball slipped out of his hands. He was unable to recover in time to get the ball and Campbell was in the right spot to tap it into the net.

The Gryphons cut the Knights' lead to one goal late in the game while two ULS starters were on the bench after drawing yellow cards.

But the Knights held on for the win despite being outshot 24-20.

"That's one of the few teams to outshoot us," coach Backhurst said.

ULS is 10-2 overall and 7-0 in the Metro Conference.

South shades North in cross country duel

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's boys cross country team lost one battle but won the war in its meet with crosstown rival Grosse Pointe North last week.

North's Tom Smyly was the individual winner but South edged the Norsemen 27-30 in the team totals.

"It was a knock-down, drag-out battle between Smyly and Jeff Pilley until about 200 yards from the finish line and then Tom put on an unbelievable kick," Wise said. "It was a great finish. Jeff ran a strong race, too."

Parker Roth's third-place finish was decisive in the South victory and teammate Andy Petersen grabbed fifth place. Freshmen Fred Pope and Mike Alvin were eighth and ninth, respectively, for the Blue Devils.

"They're starting to be a force for us," Wise said of his two ninth-graders.

Brian Steele and Chas

Carrier rounded out South's top seven, while Corey Johnson, Jeff Butler, Jamie Carrier and Matt Nickel also ran good races.

North had personal best times from Mark Chasteen, Pat Griffith, Brad Hobart, Scott Serilla and Steve Thill.

South finished second in Division I last weekend at the Center Line Schoensee Invitational.

The Blue Devils had 138 points to 120 for Romeo, which won the division. South was fifth overall. Monroe was the overall champion.

Roth led the Blue Devils' contingent with a 14th place finish.

"He looked like he was in aerobic debt for the first mile, but Parker ran a lot of miles during the summer so he was able to find his relaxation point and finish strong," Wise said.

Petersen was 18th, Pilley 22nd, Steele 40th and Pope 44th. Alvin also earned a medal.

Other good efforts came from Pat Ryan, Mike Chu and Ryan Riddell.

Red Barons' varsity rolls past Warren

The Grosse Pointe Red Barons varsity beat the Warren Jets 35-13 in a East Suburban Football League game.

David Spicer scored a touchdown and an extra point, while Mike O'Neil also had a touchdown. Matt Jarboe had a kick-off return for a TD and also rushed for a score. Ron Pearson had the Red Barons' other touchdown.

The scoring was the result of strong blocking by offensive linemen Craig Freismuth, Paul Jacobs, Anthony Allor and Tony Pierno.

Jonathon Fischer led the defense with a fumble recovery. James Burns, K.C. Cleary, Chandon Waller and Sean O'Sullivan had sacks and Paul Lochirco had an interception.

The junior varsity lost 18-6 to the Jets. Danny Keogh scored the Barons' only touchdown on a quarterback sneak.

Andrew Shanley ran well for the Barons and offensive linemen Ian North, A.J. Staniszewski and Boomer Urisko had strong performances.

Mike Rouleau recovered two onside kicks, while Austin McClung and Stephen Rusko recovered fumbles. Tony Krall, Kyle Hacias and Louie Hyde also had good defensive games.

The Red Barons freshman played a 13-13 tie. Zach Hacias scored both Grosse Pointe touchdowns, while Drew Bedan had a good game in the backfield.

Ryan Methrick, Peter Furest, Jack Watson and Sam Titterington blocked well in the offensive line. Justin Linne, Brad Glenn, Scott Hobart and P.J. Janutol had fine defensive games. The Red Barons play at Inkster Sunday at 1 p.m.

Pesta named Babe Ruth president

Rick Pesta has been elected president of the Grosse Pointe Woods-Shores Babe Ruth youth baseball organization.

The 44-year-old Pesta is a Woods resident and has served two years on the league's board of directors. He has been on the board of the Grosse Pointe Red Barons football organization for seven years and was most recently vice president and stadium announcer.

Pesta succeeds Ron Eisenhart, the Woods-Shores president the last six years.

"I've got some big shoes to fill," Pesta said. "Ron has a real commitment to youth sports. He has done a terrific job in leading the league, building the league and helping it grow into one of the finest youth organizations in the country."

Eisenhart plans to remain on the board in another capacity. Rich Rozycki was also elected as an officer at the September board meeting.

North starts fast in new hoops league

Grosse Pointe North's girls basketball team got off to a good start in its first season of play in the tough Macomb Area Conference Red Division.

After dropping their league opener 57-36 to pre-season favorite Sterling Heights, the Norsemen chalked up three straight victories, including a 64-61 overtime victory against L'Anse Creuse North.

The game with LCN took a couple of comebacks from North.

The Norsemen fell behind by six points late in the fourth quarter but rallied to take the lead, only to have the Crusaders tie the game on an 18-foot jump shot at the buzzer.

LCN took an early four-point lead in overtime but North battled back again and eventually led by as many as six points. A three-point goal at the buzzer wasn't quite enough for the Crusaders.

Kristen Halicki led North with 15 points, Lindsay Simmon collected 12 points and 11 rebounds and Lindsay Hawkins and Claire Kotwick added 12 points apiece.

Eleven of North's 13 players broke into the scoring column in the Norsemen's 62-52 win over Fraser. Simmon led the way with 16 points and 10 rebounds, while Molly Peters had 12 points and Jenny Pagel tossed in 10. Becky Iskenderian had five steals.

North edged Chippewa Valley 53-46 in a game that coach Gary Bennett said was won with "excellent defense and a very competitive attitude."

The Norsemen had a five-point halftime lead and never trailed in the second half.

Simmon collected 11 points and 10 rebounds and Michelle Champine had 11 points and three steals. Peters had eight points and five steals, Halicki scored seven points and Sharon Smith tallied six points.

Bennett was pleased with the performance against Sterling Heights in the opener.

"The girls played excellent defense and really competed against a very tough team," he said.

Simmon had 15 points, 13 rebounds and five steals, while Peters had seven steals.

North is 4-2 overall and 3-1 in division play.

Shooting woes plague Blue Devils

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

If they made a movie about the 1996 Grosse Pointe South girls basketball team they could borrow the title "The Gang That Couldn't Shoot Straight."

The shooting woes are frustrating Blue Devils coach Peggy Van Eckoute because the team is playing so well in every other phase of the game.

"As soon as we learn to finish we'll start winning our games," she said. "The rest of the game isn't a problem. We just can't hit our shots — or our free throws. I'm pleased with the way we've played — but frustrated. We're executing the offense, but we're not finishing."

Since the Macomb Area Conference Red Division season began two weeks ago, South has lost overtime games to Ford II and Utica and dropped a 31-28 decision to L'Anse Creuse North.

The only game the Blue Devils weren't in until the final buzzer was against Sterling Heights when they bowed 53-32.

"But we beat their press and had a lot of layups, which we missed," Van Eckoute said. "If we'd hit our layups it would have been an eight to 10-point game and Sterling Heights is the best team in the division."

Van Eckoute has an answer for South's shooting woes, which reached rock bottom in the L'Anse Creuse North game when the Blue Devils made only 15 percent of their shots from the field and shot 20 percent from the free throw line.

"Most of them don't pick up a ball between November and August," she said. "You have to practice shooting. We spend three-quarters of our practice time on shooting, but it's something you have to work on all year. The kids are playing hard. We're just not finishing."

South dropped a 58-54 overtime decision to Ford II. The Blue Devils overcame an 11-point deficit after three quarters to tie the game at 49-49 at the end of regulation.

Caitlin Shapiro led South with 15 points and 14 rebounds. Dinah Zebot finished with 10 points and Melissa Brown, who has been playing well since the start of the league season, added nine points.

The Blue Devils' 47-45 overtime loss to Utica was especially frustrating because South never trailed in regulation. The Chieftains tied the game at 39 at the buzzer.

South's inability to hit its free throws cost the Blue Devils the victory. They made only one of five attempts in the final minute and a half, allowing Utica to catch up.

Shapiro had 15 points for South and Brown collected eight.

The loss to Sterling Heights featured a 15-point performance from Meghan McGahey and a 10-point effort by Shapiro.

"Shapiro has been playing very well defensively and Sarah Kraft and Deanna Raab have given us a lift defensively off the bench," Van Eckoute said.

Van Eckoute also lauded the play of point guard Kelly Neumann.

"She's only 5-4 and she's giving away several inches in height to other teams' point guards but has been outstanding defensively," the coach said. "She had excellent games against the point guards from Utica and Sterling Heights. She's also doing a good job of running our offense."

South's only game this week

South girls beat crosstown rival

Grosse Pointe South's girls cross country team took 15 of the top 20 places at Patterson Park to beat Grosse Pointe North 15-49.

Junior Jonnie Vasse led from start to finish and recorded a winning time of 19:23 on the 5,000-meter course.

Vasse was followed by teammates Heidi Crowley, Beth Auti, Kate Crowley, Elizabeth Borowiec and Katie Kraft.

"We had great weather conditions and an excellent race," said Blue Devils coach Steve Zaranek. "Both teams were very proud of the fact we had 120 girls on the starting line. That is an incredible feat. The programs in Grosse Pointe are the best in the state."

South improved its dual meet record to 4-1.

The Blue Devils had best times from 26 runners, including Cat Christian, Emily Hacker, Katie Bossler, Sarah Handley, Katie Handley, Kelly Birg, Rachel Henderson, Kristin Belloli, Monika Regan and Caroline Rogers.

PGSA Mustangs '87 remain unbeaten

The Pointe Girls Soccer Association Mustangs '87 are unbeaten in six games after defeating the crosstown rival Grosse Pointe Soccer Association Dragons 3-0 in an under-10 travel league game.

Liz Ridgeway opened the scoring when she knocked down a clearing pass and shot it past the Dragons' goalie.

The Mustangs broke the game open at the eight-minute mark of the second half when Kelsey Collins' perfect corner kick set up Alexis Pavle's goal. Less than a minute later, Collins scored on a rebound.

Mandi Carlisi and Ann Dalby combined for the shutout and Jenny Abeli played a strong game at forward as the Mustangs pressured the Dragons most of the game.

The Mustangs improved to 2-0-4 with a 3-0 win over the Troy Strikers.

Ridgeway scored two goals. The first was an unassisted shot from the corner and the second came on a pass from Collins. Carlisi's booming shot from the 18-yard line capped the scoring.

Carlisi, Dalby and C.C. Mengel combined for the shutout. Allison Ambroz played well on defense and Kelly Payne and Allison Fennell had strong games at midfield.

Earlier, the Mustangs tied Rochester 1-1. Ridgeway scored the goal, assisted by Carlisi.

Strong defense dominated a 0-0 tie with the Troy Flash. Ridgeway and Carlisi shared the shutout. Fennell was excellent at midfield and Ambroz had an outstanding defensive game.

A shootout with the defending league champion North Macomb Thundercats ended in a 4-4 tie.

Collins scored two goals for the Mustangs and Carlisi and Mengel added one apiece. Ambroz and Dalby also played well.

The Mustangs' fourth tie of the year was a 1-1 deadlock with the Birmingham Blaze. Ridgeway scored the tying goal on a breakaway late in the second half. Pavle and Payne had good games for Grosse Pointe.

Peach Festival champs

The Grosse Pointe Soccer Association Salvo '84 won the boys under-13 division at the Romeo Peach Festival tournament. The Salvo beat the Fraser Lightning 3-2 in overtime of the championship game. Grosse Pointe won its qualifying round games 3-2, 2-1 and 2-0. In the front row, from left, are Steve Salomone, Andy Biske, Matt

Knights improve to 3-1 in Metro action

University Liggett School's girls basketball team improved its Metro Conference record to 3-1 last week with convincing victories over Harper Woods and Hamtramck.

Senior forward Raven Lewis led the Knights against Harper Woods as she scored 21 points and gathered eight rebounds in a 49-25 victory.

Six other players scored for ULS, but it was the team's defense that made the difference.

The Knights held the Pioneers to 10 points in the first half, frustrating their scoring attempts with man-to-man and full-court pressure.

ULS made another good showing in a 43-30 win over Hamtramck.

Junior guard Karah Knope and senior forward Jasmine Beale were instrumental in helping the Knights dominate the game early. Knope had nine steals and seven points and six rebounds.

The Knights suffered a non-league 45-35 loss to Sacred Heart Academy.

Sacred Heart's outside shooting was too much for ULS to overcome. A pair of sophomores, Keli Bonner and Victoria Hills, led the Knights with eight points apiece.

ULS had beaten Sacred Heart 35-24 earlier in the season.

The Knights' game with Lutheran East was rescheduled for Monday, Oct. 7, at 5:30 p.m.

Grosse Pointe South's perseverance paid off last week in its Macomb Area Conference White Division soccer game with Roseville.

The Panthers were clinging to a 2-1 lead when the Blue Devils got goals from Dwyer McDuffy — his second of the game — and Joe Dwaihy during the last eight minutes to post a 3-2 victory and remain unbeaten in the division.

"We allowed a couple of horrible goals, but to our guys credit they showed a lot of character in coming back," said Blue Devils coach Mark Hamilton.

"We were getting a lot of second and third shots. We really had a flow going and put a lot of pressure on their defense. You just hope the ball eventually goes into the net."

That's exactly what happened when Dwaihy netted the winner with about 50 seconds remaining.

Michael Bramlage played a solid defensive game for South, while Steve Howson did a good job on the attack for the Blue Devils.

Earlier, South completed the first half of the division schedule with a 2-1 victory over Utica and a 4-0 shutout of Port Huron.

Paul Yeskey tallied twice against Port Huron and Dave Johnson and Dwaihy added a goal apiece. Rob Euashka recorded his third shutout of the season.

"We played pretty well against Port Huron," Hamilton said.

The Blue Devils are 7-0 in division play and 10-2 overall.

Fixer-uppers offer opportunity for investment

In this age of environmental concern, it's only appropriate that in addition to recycling old bottles, newspapers and cans, many people are seeing the benefits of recycling old or deteriorated houses.

"Although it's not a new concept to buy a run-down 'fixer-upper' with the intention of restoring it to an attractive and comfortable home, many buyers are taking a renewed interest and some banks are taking a closer look at this market," said Gilbert "Buzz" Silverman, president of the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan and head of The Silverman Companies in Farmington Hills.

What differentiates fixer-upper buyers from other home buyers is that when seeking a home, the buyer is looking specifically for a house which he or she does not consider livable in its present condition. The challenge comes in the steps it takes to remodel the fixer-upper house into a home either for the buyer or for the buyer to sell right away, at a profit over his or her initial investment.

An initial attraction of these houses is their cost, usually significantly below potential market value. In some areas, cities may even offer these houses for $1 to anybody willing to make the necessary repairs. Of course, bargains are rarely what they seem,

Marketing and sales seminar offered

The Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan (BIA) will sponsor the graduate builders institute course in sales and marketing for remodelers on Thursday, Oct. 10.

The course will examine phases of the marketing cycle, from generating leads for remodelers to closing sales with special emphasis on effective marketing plans.

and fixer-uppers are called such for a reason.

A buyer who purchases one of these houses must be prepared to invest substantial material and labor resources to make the house comfortable, or in some instances, even inhabitable. For years, this presented a dilemma for buyers, because they would use up most of their savings for the down payment and have nothing left with which to remodel. They could not borrow against the equity in their home because there was none.

Some banks have loan programs designed specifically for home improvements in homes with little or no equity. This program is designed around the Federal Housing Administration Title 1 Home Improvement Loan program. Interest paid on these loans may be tax deductible.

"It's always a good idea for buyers to have a professional home inspector examine any home they're planning to buy, but in the case of a fixer-upper, it is essential," Silverman said.

While chipped paint and other cosmetic drawbacks are easy to spot and relatively easy to fix, structural damage can be more difficult to see, not to mention much more difficult and expensive to repair.

To the layman, two rundown houses may look alike. But one can be brought up to snuff with new wallpaper, carpeting and a thorough scrubbing, while the other may need extensive and expensive rewiring, new plumbing and the like. An expert will be able to tell whether the wall just needs a fresh coat of paint, or if it's a structural wall that is about to fall down and take the ceiling with it.

Even if it's determined that major repairs and renovations must be made, a buyer may still be interested in accepting the challenge and buy the house. In addition to the potential cost savings, renovating a fixer-upper gives buyers customization options that would otherwise be available only to people building a new home.

Once a buyer decides to buy a house requiring professional remodeling, the big question is how to select a remodeler to do the work.

As with any professional, the best idea is for a buyer to ask around and solicit advice from friends who have had good experiences with a specific remodeler. That way the customer can have an opportunity to find out what it was like working with that particular remodeler and see the quality of the work.

If the customer is satisfied, then he or she can arrange to meet with the remodeler to see if the remodeler's style and ideas make the customer comfortable.

Of course, depending on the customer's budget and timetable, he or she may decide to buy the house and then prioritize the repairs, fixing only the essential main systems first.

Like any home improvement, many variables will affect the return an owner will receive on his investment. A rule of thumb is that any repair which brings a house up to the level of the other houses in the neighborhood is a worthy one.

Eventually, the homeowner will face the principle of diminishing returns where the home's value will not increase in proportion to the cost of the improvements.

One thing that is not variable is that shoddy workmanship will not increase a home's value. The time and resources necessary to restore a fixer-upper may not be acceptable to everybody. But those who decide to accept the challenge and make the commitment to invest in quality improvements will be richly rewarded.

Smoke detectors double chances of survival in a fire

More than 200 people died as a result of fires last year in Michigan. Almost 50 percent of those deaths occurred in residences where there were no smoke detectors in use.

"Smoke detectors provide an early warning which can allow residents to escape before the house is fully engulfed in flames," said Terry Buckles, president of the Michigan Association of Insurance Companies (MAIC). "Most fire victims die from inhalation of smoke and toxic gases, rather than flames."

Aside from saving lives, smoke detectors also reduce fire injuries and help hold down property losses. It is vital, however, that the devices be properly installed and maintained.

Smoke alarms should be tested at least once a month to ensure that they are working properly. Under most circumstances it is recommended that batteries be changed annually.

As a reminder, families could change batteries in their smoke alarms during Fire Prevention Week each October. This year's annual fire safety observance is Oct. 6-12.

Alarms should be installed on each level of the dwelling. The most important locations are near bedrooms and stairs, in hallways, and in the living room. The units should be affixed to the ceiling at least six inches from the point where the ceiling meets the wall.

The state fire marshal office recommends the use of smoke detectors, rather than heat detectors. The latter respond to a certain temperature; however, smoke alarms detect the visible and invisible products of combustion.

"Normally, there is detectable smoke before there is detectable heat," Buckles said. "Therefore, smoke units almost always provide a faster warning."

Buckles also suggests planning and practicing use of alternate escape routes in case of fire. Also, family members should agree upon a safe place to meet once they are outside the burning structure.

MAIC is a non-profit, public information organization representing property/casualty insurance companies in Michigan. The association sponsors a number of consumer education and information programs.

Antiques

Q. I collect small toy or sample stoves. Most of those that I see are made of black iron.

They all seem to be late models made to look like full-sized porcelain enameled stoves.

I saw a nickel-finished stove at a museum but don't seem to be able to find one to buy.

Were these toys or salesmen's samples?

A. Antique toy stoves, like many other types of toys, are becoming more difficult to find.

Many different iron and nickel-plated stoves were made in the early 1900s.

If you find a stove that is accurate in all details with doors that open, pots that fit and a carrying case, it may be a salesman's sample.

Many collectors believe all of the stoves were made as toys.

If the stove is very small, made of light metal, named something childish like "Little Willie" or "Midget," and has tiny pots and pans, it is a toy.

Many of the small stoves were exact copies of large kitchen-sized stoves.

They may have been given to customers who bought the big stove.

We have seen old ads that picture a mother and daughter using their stoves.

Car dealers often used this style of promotion. The best toy stoves were made to be used and came complete with pots, tea kettle, pans and lid-lifter.

The major toy manufacturers — like J.&E. Stevens, Kenton Hardware, and Hubley Manufacturing Co. — made exact replicas of full-sized stoves. Brands such as Monarch, Jewel, Majestic, and Quick Meal were copied as toys.

Many toy stoves were given the added name of "Junior."

There were probably more toy black iron stoves sold than nickel-plated stoves, as they were less expensive.

Keep searching and you will find a nickel-plated toy stove. If it is complete, it will cost hundreds of dollars.

You might want to read the Antique Stove Exchange newsletter, Box 43, Pacific Junction, Iowa 51561.

Q. I have a pillow that measures 20 inches by 20 inches. It is made of a heavy fabric, with an Indian maiden pictured on it.

The edge has a braid border and tassels. In one corner it says "Pocahontas, Copyright 1908, Bernhardt Ulmann & Co., NY." Has it much value?

A. Several companies in the New York City area made printed fabrics for window shades, store signs and pillows at the turn of the century.

A heavy canvas-like fabric was favored.

A pillow like yours would have been worth less than $10 in 1980. Collectors have now discovered printed textiles and all things western.

Prices are rising. Your pillow is now worth $75.

Join the fun at the antiques auctions. For a copy of the Kovels' booklet, "How to go to an Auction," send $2 and a long, self-addressed, double-stamped envelope to: Kovels, P.O. Box 22900, Beachwood, Ohio 44122.

Builders Institute offers glass block installation class

L'Anse Creuse and St. Clair Shores community education departments, in cooperation with the Oakland Builders Institute, a leader in builder's education, will offer a three-hour, one morning workshop to learn how to install glass block.

The session is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 19, 9 a.m. to noon, at Lake Shore High School, 22980

Q. I plan on removing the aging gutters and leaders that are attached to my house.

I have a helper to do this job and there are a few details I need to know. The existing gutters have clamps or hangers that are attached to the fascia board and I'd like to know if the new type has these.

I know that the leaders must have hangers to secure them to the walls.

Can you give me some tips such as the lengths that are available to buy and other pertinent information?

A. The aluminum gutter and leader market has not really changed much over the last decade or so and neither has the installation of it.

However, almost like any other

13 Mile, in St. Clair Shores.

The course is designed to instruct people in the techniques and materials needed to install glass blocks to replace basement windows or to create beautiful new vistas and special effects in the home.

The instructor will demonstrate how to remove old windows and measure and install glass block. Tools, mortar, preparation and finishing techniques will be discussed and demonstrated.

The seminar Costs $45 and includes a step-by-step brochure.

Pre-registration with payment is required by Thursday, Oct. 17, to L'Anse Creuse at (810) 783-6330 ext. 8548, or St. Clair Shores Community Education at (810) 296-8384 during regular office hours.

The instructor is a licensed builder with experience in installing glass block and can answer questions related to all facets of the craft.

Oakland Builders Institute teaches building courses including builder's pre-license training in 50 school districts throughout Michigan.

Household Help

item in your house, a few slight changes have occurred.

You can start your demolition of the gutters by carefully positioning your extension ladder against your house.

Make sure your helper is always holding a sure foot at the base of the ladder.

Next, remove the old hangers or clamps from the gutter and discard. Even your old gutters may have the more common spike and ferrule type of installation.

If so, remove them and also discard. In reference to your inquiry above, just about all jobs are done with the spike and ferrule hardware today.

Continue the tearing out of the old gutters and leaders until completed.

Aluminum gutters are usually purchased at most large home centers or construction material outlets.

They are bought in various lengths that are suitable to the job you are doing.

It would be wise to set up a temporary pair of "work horses" and a 4-foot-by-8-foot sheet of plywood.

This would help you to bend and cut your material as you go. Drilling holes through both ends of the top of the gutter will help you greatly when installing them.

Be sure that your gutters are positioned and declining toward the gutter drain.

Always use a level to accomplish this.

Make sure that all of the long spikes and ferrules are fastened securely to the fascia board.

The leaders are very basic to install using a small screw to attach two lengths together.

Always connect a 45-degree elbow at the base and even an extension piece for rain water to flow away from your house.

Home Tips

On the road again — Whenever I travel by air, I pack my carry-on bag with a thick terry-cloth hand towel to put over my lap during meal and beverage service.

If you, too, live in fear of spilling something on a white skirt and waiting helplessly for a flight attendant to bring you two cocktail napkins to mop up with, you'll make this a habit yourself. Lisa H., Terre Haute, Ind.

Scrap those scraps — If you don't have the convenience of a garbage disposal, use a medium-size decorative flowerpot (non-porous) that matches your kitchen decor.

Line it with one or two reusable plastic bags, fold a little over the top and tie the handles together to secure it.

Place it on the counter next to your sink or work area.

Into it goes all wet garbage, scraps, peelings and assorted gunk.

At the end of the day, make an airtight package by tying the handles closed and pressing the air out of the bag.

It makes recycling easier and cleaner and if you miss a garbage pickup, it is small enough to freeze until disposal help arrives.

If you do freeze it, don't mistake it for leftovers and reheat and eat it some night when you're tired! Liz D., Columbia, S.C.

Take it from him — One day at the dinner table I got a bright idea.

I cut a baked sweet potato open, chopped it up a little and poured some honey on it.

I discovered instant candied yams. Try it; you'll like it. Jim G., Dillsburg, Pa.

Drawing straws — When covering a cake or pie with foil or plastic wrap, instead of using toothpicks to hold the covering off the cake, I cut plastic drinking straws in half and stick them in the cake.

It works great. Jill P., Rockville, Ind.

New Vinyl Flooring Goes Down Like a Post-It Note

Imagine do-it-yourself vinyl flooring so easy to install it goes down like a giant Post-It note.

Even more amazing, it comes back up like one, making it the ideal flooring for renters. And it can be installed over any surface, including wood, concrete or old vinyl flooring.

Adhesive is necessary to hold the flooring in place only in large rooms (more than 12 feet wide) where it must be seamed. In that case, the DIYer installs the floor by the "Post-It" method — the easiest yet for installing this kind of flooring.

In smaller rooms where the material does not have to be seamed, no adhesive at all is necessary. Then, the flooring can simply be laid down loose.

Loose-lay flooring, as it's known, has been around for years, but it's always had one big drawback. Over time, it will curl at the edges, presented an unsightly appearance.

But, this new flooring has a new type of backing material unlike any other to prevent curling. The same backing also allows installation by the revolutionary "Post-It" method when seaming is required.

The manufacturer, Colmar Industries, refers to these new products as "floating floors" to distinguish them from old-style loose-lay floors. It offers two lines, Kitchen Creations and Bath Creations.

Unlike Post-It notes, the new flooring does not come with the adhesive already on it. The do-it-yourselfer must apply it, but that's easy to do because the adhesive can be rolled onto the back of the flooring with a paint roller — a first.

After cutting the flooring to fit the room, the DIYer lays the flooring in place, folds back half of it to expose the backing and rolls on the adhesive.

In about 10 minutes, the adhesive becomes clear and tacky, and the flooring can be stuck down. Then, the installer repeats the procedure for the remainder of the flooring.

The old way of applying adhesive by troweling it onto the subfloor is little too long or not quite long enough, the job can be ruined. The "Post-It" method does away with all that.

If later on you decide to take up the flooring, the adhesive remains on the backing of the material, not on the subfloor where it was installed.

The new flooring comes in 12-foot rolls in a variety of patterns and colors expressly styled for kitchens and baths.

DuPont Teflon in the no-wax surface makes the flooring exceptionally stain-resistant and easy to clean, and Ultra Fresh prevents discoloration of the material from mold, mildew or fungus. Easy-care bath will maintain its showroom shine

Making life easier is a priority in today's fast-paced environment. For many people, that includes reducing and simplifying household chores — especially cleaning the bathroom. That may be easier said than done. Mold and mildew are a fact of life, and so is the dull, stained surface of the tub — or at least that's what many people think.

That myth is easily dispelled. Bathtubs never have to lose their showroom shine. There are tubs on the market that can withstand the daily rigors of family life — including a crayon-wielding 4-year-old who sees a tub as a perfect canvas — and retain their shine indefinitely.

The solution lies in the tub surface you choose. A bathtub or shower made from cast acrylic will resist staining and will not dull over time. Because cast acrylic is a non-porous material, mildew and soap scum have a tough time sticking to this surface. In addition, the color of cast acrylic goes all the way through the material. With other materials, like gel-coated fiberglass where the color is sprayed onto the surface, dulling usually occurs. All that is needed to clean cast acrylic is an everyday, nonabrasive cleaner.

Cast acrylic is a solid-surface material commonly used in the manufacture of bathtubs and showers, as well as whirlpools. Cast acrylic has long been the premiere surface material used in spas or hot tubs, because it can withstand high temperatures and harsh chemicals.

Showers and bathtubs made of metal-based materials, like enameled steel and cast iron, also require nonabrasive cleaners, but extra scrubbing is a must with tiles and grout. These materials also tend to chip and pit, damaging the surface and making it difficult to maintain.

The smartest value for long-lasting shine, outstanding durability and effortless cleaning is Lucite® XL cast acrylic. For more information about bathware materials and a free "Bath Buying Guide," contact ICI Acrylics at 1-800-253-8881.

Solutions to concrete problems are easy with a concrete stain

Homeowners will be pleased to learn that their durable, concrete driveway can take on a persona of its own with a little assistance from a concrete stain and the creative mind of the consumer.

That's right — your concrete driveway doesn't have to look like just a slab of concrete anymore. If you've ever dreamed of a brick driveway or special block, or prefer the aesthetic appeal of a black drive to offset your home but would rather not deal with the maintenance, your dream can become a reality in just a few simple steps.

Now you can protect and beautify nearly any concrete surface inside or outside of your home by using a concrete stain. These stains add lasting value to driveways, walkways, patios, garage floors, brick and masonry walls, and other concrete surfaces, including pool decks, porches, and even basketball, tennis and shuffleboard courts.

According to Steve Davis, director of sales and marketing for H&C® Concrete Stain, using a concrete stain offers today's busy homeowners many advantages not found when using an alternative form of concrete protection, like paint.

"Many of today's concrete stains will not fade or lose color prematurely and offer superior resistance to water, acids, ultraviolet light, oil, gas and hot-tire pickup," said Davis. "Because the stain penetrates the surface, it will not peel or flake, thereby providing long-lasting, more effective protection than other types of concrete coatings that only lay on the top of the concrete surface. By using a concrete stain, homeowners will not only save time and money, but will enhance the look of their home."

Concrete problems

Concrete stains add further appeal with just two coats. They protect concrete and masonry surfaces from the damaging effects of the elements, which cause unprotected concrete to crack. Unlike paint, many concrete stains require no primers and are perfectly suited for both interior and exterior applications. In addition, they are available in a wide variety of ready-mixed colors or can be custom matched to meet any specification.

For the special needs of today's consumers, the H&C Shark Grip™ Slip-Resistant Additive can be used to provide slip resistance on otherwise slippery surfaces. Since the product is not highly abrasive, it ensures a more pleasant coating for bare feet, which is critical when finishing traditionally slippery areas, like pool decks and patios.

Consumers seeking a novel approach to staining need look no further than H&C's unique Custom Stencil Program. This visionary program brings the full complement of stains together into a complete package for any user. Six different solvent-resistant plastic stencils, including a brick border, offer templates for concrete driveways, walkways and patios, and may be used to create brick, tile and paved looks at a fraction of the cost of custom masonry work.

plates for concrete driveways, walkways and patios, and may be used to create brick, tile and paved looks at a fraction of the cost of custom masonry work.

Protecting your concrete surfaces will not only bring greater aesthetic beauty to your home, but also will decrease maintenance projects often associated with unprotected or painted concrete, like dampness, cracking, staining and peeling.

H&C Concrete Stain line of products are available nationwide at paint stores, home centers and building material outlets. To find a store near you or for application questions, do-it-yourselfers can call H&C Concrete Stain's toll-free consumer help line at 1-800-TO-STAIN.

Why your home feels desert dry in the winter

Do you ever wonder why your house feels so dry and uncomfortable in the wintertime, even when the TV weather report says the relative humidity outside is high? The real culprit is the cold outside air.

Cold air holds dramatically less moisture than warm air. At the optimum comfort point — about 70 degrees and 50 percent relative humidity — the air in a typical house holds enough water to fill a 12-pack of 12-ounce beverage cans. However, at 10 degrees, the same volume of air can hold the equivalent of only one can.

Unfortunately, you can't just keep the warm, humid air inside and the cold, dry air outside. Your house has to breathe constantly to avoid the buildup of harmful pollutants. Engineers recommend about one complete air change every three hours. So, in a typical house, about one-third of the indoor air is exchanged naturally every hour with outside air, which then must be warmed by the furnace.

At 70 degrees, a houseful of air is capable of holding much more water — a 12-pack at 50 percent relative humidity — but the cold air that infiltrated your home brought with it only enough moisture to fill a single can. To bring that dry air up to 50 percent humidity indoors, you would have to add the equivalent of 11 12-ounce cans of water.

If you don't, the dry air will steal moisture from whatever source it can — your nose, throat, skin, furniture, woodwork and houseplants. That is what makes you feel uncomfortable, gives you dry, itchy skin, and damages your wood furniture, cabinets, and even floors and walls.

A typical home needs the equivalent of a 12-pack of 12-ounce beverage cans of moisture in the air to achieve a comfortable level of relative humidity during the heating season, but the cold winter air that comes into your home and is heated by your furnace does not hold enough moisture to maintain indoor comfort. A whole-house humidifier, like Aprilaire®, is the easiest way to maintain a comfortable humidity level all year long.

To keep your indoor air from getting desert dry, you constantly need to add enough moisture to keep your home in the comfort zone. The most reliable way to assure wintertime comfort is to install a whole-house humidifier.

The leading whole-house brand, Aprilaire®, offers the features people ask for the most:

- Easy maintenance. Because Aprilaire connects directly to your home's water supply, you don't have to worry about keeping a reservoir filled.
- A flow-through design.

No water is allowed to stand in the unit, where it could breed mold, bacteria and other harmful irritants, so there is no need for daily or weekly cleaning.

- Safe, clean humidity. Aprilaire produces humidity in the form of safe, pure vapor, which cannot spread mineral dust around your home.

For a free booklet about indoor humidity, including recommended humidity levels, call the Consumer Information Department of Research Products Corp., 1-800-545-2219. Ask for the free booklet "Humidification Facts."

Add extra efficiency — and space — to your home

It's in the heart of Manhattan, but Architect Michael Rubin's 750-square-foot apartment might as well be in the middle of Hudson Bay.

"I designed the space as if I were building a ship," he says. "Every square inch had to have a purpose."

Today's homes may be larger and have fewer people living in them than in years past, but like Rubin and his "ship," Americans demand that their rooms have maximum space efficiency, especially when serving multiple purposes.

So, when there's no backyard patio for you to "bump out" onto, you have to look inward and rely instead on creativity, efficiency and, in Rubin's case, U.S. hardwoods as a material.

A tour of Rubin's one-bedroom apartment uncovers unique ways to steal extra space: accessorizing furnishings so they serve several functions, snaring space from underutilized closets or ceilings, and selecting materials that are both functional and beautiful.

For example, his bedroom boasts built-ins like handy underbed storage; under-the-windowsill cabinetry for storing everything from clothes to wine; and a home-office desktop that raises, allowing access to a balcony with panoramic views of Manhattan.

Rubin's choice in building materials was easy: pale northern maple, a subtly grained hardwood that is light and warm-looking at the same time. "Having taught architecture for many years, my classes cover formal concerns quite extensively," he says. "That is, materials or designs that are more purposeful than decorative. I used solid hardwood because I wanted the material to be a determinant, a form-giver."

Rubin considered veneers for his small space, but says, "Veneers are more decorative, like wallpaper.

Solid hardwood is a material of substance."

Here are some ideas from the Hardwood Manufacturers Association, a national trade group, for squeezing out every last inch of available space. For free information about solid hardwood furnishings, contact the Hardwood Manufacturers Association, Dept. ME4-96, 400 Penn Center Blvd., Suite 530, Pittsburgh, PA 15235. Phone toll-free 1-800-373-WOOD. Or, visit the Hardwood Information Center on the Internet at <http://www.hardwood.org>.

- Keep rooms free of clutter: Keeping a lid on accessories and furniture gives the illusion of more space and openness.
- Vary heights and depths: Rather than having all cabinetry and furniture at the same height and depth, mix it up to give the space a larger feel.

• Keep color schemes the same: Use colors in the same families for small spaces. For example, tropical colors like yellows, corals or blues, or neutrals of whites and taupes help visually expand a space.

• Include vaulted ceilings: Where possible, raise the ceiling height. Vaulted ceilings not only give you an open, airy feeling, but they also enable you to use taller cabinetry for expanded storage, especially in the kitchen.

• Remove a closet: Your closets may be built back to back. Convert this newfound space into a home office, sewing room or extra bath.

• Remove a wall: Removing a non-bearing wall without mechanical lines is easily done and can create much-needed space.

• Move outdoors: Enclose a balcony or terrace by using sliding glass doors and adding electric baseboard heat.

For safety sakes, chimneys need annual checkups

Have you checked your chimney lately? Neglected chimneys can lead to higher heating bills, carbon-monoxide poisoning and chimney fires.

Some homeowners realize the need for chimney maintenance if they use fireplaces or wood stoves, but they aren't aware that maintenance is equally important for chimneys serving gas-, oil- or solid-fueled appliances.

Almost all home heating systems — furnaces, boilers and wood stoves — rely on the chimney to safely vent the exhaust to the outside. Any blockage in the chimney can cause this exhaust, which can contain carbon monoxide and other toxic gases, to back up into the home. Creosote in dirty chimneys can ignite, leading to a potentially damaging fire.

In 1993, more than 39,500 residential fires originated in chimneys, according to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission. These fires resulted in 310 personal injuries, 150 deaths and $192 million in property damage.

Virtually all of these deaths and injuries were avoidable, according to the Chimney Safety Institute of America (CSIA), a nonprofit educational and research foundation. Both CSIA and the National Fire Protection Association recommend yearly inspections of all chimneys, no matter what type of fuel is used to heat the home.

To ensure a safe and efficient home heating season, CSIA recommends the following:

- Have your chimney checked every year — and cleaned as needed — no matter what kind of fuel is used to heat the home. An annual inspection by a CSIA Certified Chimney Sweep is the key to safe and efficient home heating. It also can reveal potential problems before they become costly and dangerous.
- Install a carbon-monoxide detector. If a blockage occurs or if there is a problem with the heating unit itself, the detector will warn the household that carbon monoxide is present.
- Ask for a CSIA Certified Chimney Sweep. Individual chimney-service professionals, not companies, can earn CSIA certification by passing a rigorous examination. Every CSIA Certified Chimney Sweep carries a photo ID badge with a personal certification number and expiration date.

For more information about chimney safety or a list of CSIA Certified Chimney Sweeps, write to CSIA, 16021 Industrial Drive, Suite 8, Gaithersburg, MD 20877, or call 1-800-536-0118.

Tips to make a small room look more spacious

There's no need to feel trapped if your house has a small living room. Rather than knocking down the walls or barely furnishing it, there are ways to give the room a spacious look. The following decorating tricks, courtesy of Leslie Linsley, author of "Leslie Linsley's 15-Minute Decorating Ideas" (St. Martin's Griffin), will help make a small living room look larger.

Add mirrors — Mirrors visually expand any space. If the room is too rectangular and seems too narrow, arrange the furniture in a square shape away from the walls. Mirror the narrow wall to reflect the furniture arrangement.

Don't overcrowd — Choose a few good furniture pieces with clean lines, and take away clutter. One large piece can be the focal point of the room. This piece can be a sofa, armoire or even two love seats opposite a large coffee table.

Color coordinate — Use one color on all furniture, rugs and walls. To avoid being monotonous, select different shades and textures of the chosen color. Use a contrasting color, like a darker shade of the natural, for all wood trim. Then, add paintings or prints to the walls. One large painting in a small room makes a greater impact than a group of small paintings.

Arrangements — How the furniture is arranged makes a big difference. If you want to create seating for six in a small living room, you might consider a love seat in place of a full-size sofa. Add two medium-size cushioned chairs and two small occasional wood chairs to fit on either side of a window or desk. These chairs can be pulled over to become part of an intimate seating arrangement when needed.

Make the room homey — A homey feeling can be achieved with the use of earth tones, honey-colored woods, a soft-textured blanket over the sofa and a pile of books placed on a table.

Snap-on Grilles make windows a design focal point

How would you like to change the look of your windows without changing the windows themselves? Or, wouldn't it be great if the design of your windows could change to match new furniture, a new decorating theme or even your mood? Sound intriguing. It's possible with Fashion Grilles.

New to the window industry, Fashion Grilles are made by Weather Shield Mfg. Inc., one of the nation's largest window manufacturers.

These grilles are perimeter grilles, made in seven different patterns, that snap securely onto the interior of Weather Shield windows and doors. They offer the appearance and beauty of True Divided Lites with the convenience and cost savings of snap-on perimeter grilles. Holly Wiesman, Weather Shield's marketing and communications manager, offers reasons why you should choose Fashion Grilles. First, they open up new design possibilities. "People can literally change the look of their windows by simply snapping on a new grille," states Wiesman. "You could change the design of your living room from historic Williamsburg to a clean Shaker look by simply getting a new Fashion Grille."

Second, these grilles, along with all

Weather Shield windows and doors, are available in a choice of four different woods — oak, cherry, maple or pine. "So, you can match your windows with special interior furnishings, cabinetry or floorings," states Wiesman. "This too opens up greater design possibilities."

Third, Wiesman points out that Fashion Grilles snap into place by a unique concealed pin system. This system hides the pin within the wood for clear sightlines and no visible hole when the grille is put in place. Because it is a pin system, the grilles easily snap in and out for a quick design change or for cleaning.

"Lastly, Fashion Grilles retrofit most existing Weather Shield windows, so they are a quick, simple way to give an existing room of Weather Shield windows a decorating lift," continues Wiesman.

"Fashion Grilles are really a breakthrough in using windows as a design element," Wiesman adds. "With seven different patterns and the ability to do custom designs, homeowners can get the look, or looks, they want."

For more information on these grilles, contact Weather Shield at 1-800-477-6808.
