Tis the Season for Gift Card Fraud

According to the website Research and Markets, the United States gift card industry is expected to reach $188 billion in 2022.

Why is gift card fraud such a problem? Because of the small dollar amounts involved, gift card fraudsters face a low probability of prosecution. It's also easy to convert gift card value to cash or merchandise.

You can scam-proof your gift card experience by following these tips:

• Don't pick the front card. Crooks often return compromised cards to the most accessible place on the rack. Select your gift card from the middle.

• Purchase cards directly from the business.

• Examine cards for signs of tampering.

• Register the card. If a card issuer lets you register on their website, do it. You'll be able to check your balance regularly and identify any abuse.

· Don't give out card information to callers claiming to be from government agencies or other businesses. Only scammers ask you to pay fees, back taxes or bills for services with gift cards.

• Don't buy gift cards from online auction sites. They could be counterfeit or stolen, according to the Federal Trade Commission.

If you think you've been scammed, contact the store directly and report incidents to local law enforcement.

INDEPENDENT ARKANSAS

By Steve Brawner

Hutchinson inspired by Ronald Reagan

Gov. Asa Hutchinson referred to two Republican presidents in his speech at the Reagan Library in California Wednesday, but only one of them by name.

The one he named was, naturally, former President Ronald Reagan, whom Hutchinson said inspired him to become a conservative at age 13 when he watched him speak on a black-andwhite TV with a "rabbit ears" antenna.

The one he didn't name was former President Donald Trump, whom Hutchinson increasingly appears ready to oppose for the 2024 Republican nomination for president.

Hutchinson made a couple of Trump-related references in his speech. In one instance, he said the "red wave" that didn't happen in the midterm elections wasn't a rejection of Republican ideas, but of candidates who "did not embrace Republican principles."

"Historically, Republicans do not attack America's democracy," he said. "Republicans do not denigrate our political system. Republicans do not undermine confidence in America, and Republicans do not attack those institutions that are fundamental to the rule of law and preservation of our republic.'

Those types of candidates reflected Trump's denial of the 2020 election results. He supported many of them, many of them lost, and now some Republicans are blaming Trump and saying it's time to move on. In doing so, they're a few steps behind Hutchinson, who's been saying that for a while.

Hutchinson's remarks were more targeted when he referenced a recent dinner Trump had with the rapper Kanye "Ye" West, who has made anti-semitic remarks, and another man known to be antisemitic and a white supremacist.

Nazi organization where he assisted in the negotiation and arrest of the leader, and then prosecuted him.

Hutchinson spent a few minutes describing examples of his pragmatic, conservative leadership of Arkansas, including cutting taxes, reducing state government by 3,000 employees, building up a $2 billion reserve account, and keeping schools and businesses open during the pandemic.

He criticized President Joe Biden for his handling of the withdrawal from Afghanistan, for his response to protests in China, and for his border policies.

He said conservatives should engage in culture war issues through their individual actions rather than trying to use government power, as some are trying to do now.

"If you think a business is too 'woke,' then don't buy their stuff," he advised.

He went full-fledged Reagan in saying that, because of the United States' values, it "should always support the oppressed against the oppressors" including "evil dictators like Vladimir Putin."

"Ukraine must win. And when it comes to China, the communist leadership must know our determination to not allow Taiwan to become another victim of China's expansion," he said.

Hutchinson closed by noting three Reagan characteristics. First, he was a consistent conservative who had the same message in 1976 when he lost that he had in 1980 when he won. Second, he was a pragmatist who worked with Democrats when it was best to do so. And third, he was optimistic.

"Today, we need leaders

LEGISLATIVE UPDATE From our state legislators

Legislators prepare for session

Senate

Arkansas has been developing a statewide response to the growing health crisis created by Alzheimer's disease and dementia.

During the 2023 session the legislature will consider a series of proposals brought by the Alzheimer's and Dementia Advisory Council, which was created by Act 319 of 2021.

Measures include enhancement of services for caregivers. Many wear themselves out physically caring for loved ones, and many receive no compensation for the long hours they devote to care.

Although most people have heard of Alzheimer's disease, public awareness campaigns are necessary to improve early detection, and educate people about the early warning signs. Although there is no cure for Alzheimer's, there are treatments that can slow its progression and soften the impact of its symptoms. State governments began responding to Alzheimer's in the 1980s, and their responses amplified as public health officials became more aware of the wide-ranging effects of the disease. Alzheimer's is the most common form of dementia, accounting for 60 to 80 percent of all dementia cases. Dementia is a general term to describe loss of memory and mental abilities. There is no single test for Alzheimer's. Physicians rely on blood tests, scans, interviews with family members and tests of memory and cognitive skills. How a person gets Alzheimer's is not known exactly. The major risk factor is old age. It can run in the family. Obesity, diabetes and cardiovascular disease may be risk factors. That means you may be able to ward off the disease by exercising, keeping mentally active and eating healthily.

symptom is the inability to remember newly learned information. Other warning signs include difficulty completing familiar tasks, losing things, being disoriented, withdrawal from social activities, no longer being able to plan ahead or work with numbers, changes in judgment and decision making that are out of character and finally, mood swings and personality changes.

In Arkansas, an estimated 93,000 people provide unpaid care to loved ones with Alzheimer's. The majority are women and two-thirds are older than 50, so the physical challenges of caregiving are daunting. The majority of caregivers have been providing care for more than four years.

Caregivers have to leave work early or take time off. They lose benefits and have to turn down promotions. Due to the demands of caregiving, nine percent have had to guit work entirely and

House

Returning House members and newly elected members are now preparing for the upcoming session.

The 2023 Regular Session will begin on January 9 at noon.

The pre-filing period for bills and resolutions began on November 15. So far, 16 bills have been filed in the House and 3 have been filed in the Senate. You can review all the bills filed at www. arkansashouse.org.

The House Organizational Meeting previously scheduled for November 17 has been rescheduled to Monday, December 5, 2022, at 9:00 am in the House Chamber.

Trump says he didn't know who the second individual was before he dined with him. That may be true.

Nevertheless, Hutchinson said, "I will never understand leadership that chooses to diminish or divide Americans, and I will never understand why a leader would give credibility to such hate-filled extremists by breaking bread with them."

He recalled being a young U.S. attorney who wore a bulletproof vest during an armed standoff with a neowho mirror Reagan ... We need leaders drawing us together based upon our shared values, not alienat(ing) us when we disagree," he said.

There's a battle for the party's heart and soul whether it will reflect Reagan, Trump, or some combination of the two.

I'm betting on the third option. Hutchinson has made it clear which way he wants the party to go.

18 percent have had to leave a full-time job and take a part-time job.

In 2020 about 58,000 Arkansans had Alzheimer's and by 2025 that will increase to 67,000 people, in part because of the general aging of the population.

It is expensive to care for Alzheimer's patients, more so than caring for people with cancer and heart disease.

Patients with Alzheimer's and dementia tend to have more incidents entailing higher costs for coronary artery disease, diabetes, strokes, chronic kidney disease and cancer.

Overall, people without dementia don't need care as often for those same medical conditions as do people who also suffer from dementia.

For people 65 and older with dementia, the rate of hospitalization is twice what it is for people who don't have dementia. It is 538 hospital visits for every 1,000 people compared to 266 hospital visits per 1,000 people.

for seniority and all members will select their seats for the 94th General Assembly. After seat selection, the committee selection process will begin.

The vast majority of legislation considered during a legislative session begins in a standing committee. There are 10 standing committees in the House. Each standing committee consists of 20 members including 5 members from each of the 4 House district caucuses.

Selection for the House Budget Committee, Arkansas Legislative Council, and Legislative Joint Auditing will take place after standing committee selection.

The next day, December 6, newly elected members will begin orientation. For the 94th General Assembly, there will be 26 members serving their first term in the House. The legislative institute will review everything from parliamentary procedures to balancing the state budget so
