KING STREET, EWA FISHMARKET

DOINGS of the SMART SET

Mr. Fred Lamb was a departing passenger on the Mauna Kea Tuesday, bound for Kohala, Hawaii, where he has accepted a responsible position. Mr. Lamb will be missed by his many friends in Honolulu.

The Morning Music Club met Wednesday with Mrs. Theodore Richards, to discuss the advisability of joining the confederation of clubs, which is being agitated by the Kiloana Art League.

Major and Mrs. Dunning, Miss Enid Gregg, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton and Mr. A. Hamilton, motored to Schofield Barracks, Friday, most of the party will spend five or six days at this delightful army post.

Admiral and Mrs. Corwin P. Rees, left Wednesday, on the Sierra. This popular couple received an ovation at the steamer—they were completely covered with garlands of flowers.

Lieut.-Colonel Benet, chief ordnance officer of the Department of California, is on a tour of inspection on Oahu. Colonel Benet is stopping at the Moana Hotel.

Lieut. O'Connor of the Engineer Corps, U. S. A., and who is in charge of a camp at Wahiawa spent Sunday and Monday in town.

Miss Vera Damon left Friday on the Kinau for Kaula, where she will spend the Xmas holidays with her sister and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Putnam.

Mr. Percy Cleghorn is expecting his mother the first of the year from New Zealand. Mrs. Cleghorn will spend the winter in Honolulu.

Lieutenant L. H. Watkins, after a leave of absence which was spent on the Coast, returns to his post at Fort De Russy.

Mrs. Pratt of San Francisco is registered at the Alexander Young Hotel. Mrs. Pratt is a friend of Mr. and Mrs. Danzig, nee Jean Center, and arrived in Honolulu on the steamer China.

Mr. and Mrs. Danzig arrived on the steamer China Monday to spend the Xmas holidays with Mrs. Danzig's mother, Mrs. Center, in this city.

Captain Walter C. Cowles, the new commandant of the naval station and his family, arrived on the China. The captain and his charming wife and their attractive young daughter, are proving a social acquisition to the smart set of Honolulu. The Cowles are connected by marriage with ex-President and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt.

Major-General and Mrs. J. Franklin Bell passed through on the transport Logan, en route to the Philippines, where the general will take command, in Manila, of the Philippine Division. General Bell has the distinction of being promoted from a Lieutenant to a general in eighteen months during the Spanish-American war. Even the general's enemies are forced to concede that his promotion was entirely on merit and was due to exceptional bravery and ability shown during the war.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Prentiss and their niece, Miss Stella Whitman, after a delightful five weeks visit at the Moana, left Wednesday on the Sierra. Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss and Miss Whitman made numerous friends during their short sojourn in the islands. Miss Whitman is a beautiful young girl, petite, with large brown eyes and wavy dark brown hair. Nature had also endowed her with an exquisite voice, which had been highly cultivated, and gave great pleasure to her friends, for she was gracious about singing. Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss are prominent socially in the metropolis of the West, the former is President of Phoenix Desk & Chair Co.

Miss Helen Quarles, the second daughter of Judge Quarles, who has been studying music in Berlin, Germany, returned to her home in Boise, Idaho, in time to spend Thanksgiving with her family. The Honolulu people will learn with regret that the Quarles who were former residents of this city, have decided to make their home in Boise—which by the way is their old home. Judge Quarles after escorting his family to the mainland, returned to Honolulu, but will leave the first of the year for Boise, where he will practice law.

Miss Locke, the renowned art lecturer, will arrive in Honolulu on the Manchuria, Monday. Miss Locke will give two lectures on Japan, the first will be on the "Art of Japan." She will also lecture on the secret doctrine by Madam Blavatsky. Miss Locke had large classes in Honolulu several years ago, and lectured on psychology, "New Thought and Art" at the home of Mrs. Jack Dowsett. Her old pupils will be glad to know that she is returning.

Mr. and Mrs. Heckman Price are spending their honeymoon at the Moana Hotel. Mrs. Price is a beautiful young Southern girl, from Nashville, Tenn., where she was a singing belle. Mr. Heckman Price is a graduate of Columbia University and is also from the South. This young couple are warm personal friends of Secretary of War Dickinson and his charming wife.

Major and Mrs. Timberlake, of Fort Ruger, are planning a children's party, which will be on Christmas Day, which will be in honor of their son's eighth birthday.

Judge and Mrs. Kingsbury of Maui, will arrive in town shortly before Christmas and spend the holiday season with the L. Tenney Pecks, who have recently returned from Europe.

Captain Roberts is a guest of the officers on the U. S. S. Thetis and will visit the Volcano, with the officers of the Revenue Cutter, while they are on Hawaii.

Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. William Williamson entertained a coterie of their intimate friends informally at dinner.

Miss Esther White was the hostess at a card party last Saturday evening. A most pleasant evening was spent by the guests.

Lieut. Hume of the Fifth Cavalry, was in town Monday, and attended the army hop which was given on that evening at the Moana Hotel.

Mrs. Frederick Kiebahn entertained informally at luncheon Thursday in honor of Mrs. Samuel Dunning and her house guest, Miss Enid Gregg.

Doctor and Mrs. George Herbert will give a large family dinner party on Christmas Day, at their attractive home on Keeaumoku street.

The beautiful Princess Kawanannakoa will arrive on the Manchuria, Monday to spend the Christmas holiday with her children.

The Wednesday Bridge Club will meet next week with Mrs. Falls, U. S. A., at her apartments at the Alexander Young Hotel.

Mrs. Roy Smith, has issued invitations for a large bridge party, which will be given on Friday of next week.

Lieut. and Mrs. Ralph Parker, returned to Schofield Barracks on the transport Logan.

Colonel Schuyler of the Fifth Cavalry, has taken apartments at the Alexander Young Hotel.

After a delightful visit to the mainland, Lieut. Vaughn of Fort Ruger, returned to his regiment on the Logan.

L. B. Kerr & Co., Ltd., Alakea St.

THIS idea of ours that the men of this community ought to be grateful to us for the things we do, and the goods we provide, is not a very common idea in business. The rule is for a merchant to feel greatly obliged to his customers, as if they were doing him a very great favor to buy his goods; time was when the merchant who could bow the lowest was most popular.

But in these days things are a little different; and you're glad of it. You want the dealer you buy of to act for your interests; to be your agent, so to speak, in bringing together the kind of merchandise you want. That's the way we like to feel about our business; not that we're "appealing" to you for patronage, but rather that we've used our best judgment, and our best abilities as buyers, to get for you the things that you want. In doing this we've done you a distinct service, and all we want now is that you should know it; you can buy your clothes elsewhere if you please; but here you'll find the sort of clothes you ought to buy.

Hart Schaffner & Marx

have made for us, for you, the smartest and best clothes ever produced. Whatever anybody else may say, or leave unsaid, one thing is certain--there are no other clothes made that offer you so much real value as these.

We want you to see these clothes because it will be worth as much to you to see them as to us to show them.

SUITS, $20. to $35.

OVERCOATS, $18. to $30.

We have a lot of other good things to show you that well-dressed men are glad to have. Among them are:

E. & W. and "Star" Shirts, $1.50 to $5.00	Pajamas, $1.50 to $6.50	Dress Suit Cases, $5.00 to $30.00
Bath Robes and Dressing Gowns, $5 to $15	Belts, 75c to $3.00	Smoking Jackets, $7.00 to $15.00

AND FOR THE CHILDREN WE HAVE:

Woolen Suits--Knicker, Russian and Sailor--$5 to $15; Wash Suits, $3.50 to $6.50; Overcoats, $6.50 to $13.50
White Serge Suits, $16.50

FIGHTERS ARE GETTING READY

Bouts On 26th Promise Well From Work Men Are Now Doing.

When it comes down to scraps, there is going to be something worth going a long distance to see on the evening of December 26, at the Asahi Theater, when Joe McGurn and Jim Hoao get together for their 12-round go before the fight fans.

Both men are training hard, and these cool mornings see road work being done by the men in the preliminary bouts as well as those who are to be principals in the main event of the evening.

Joe McGurn said today, when asked how many rounds the fight was going, that he had no idea. "They say this man Hoao is fast and he may get me on the jump," said Joe. "If he doesn't do that, I think I'll be there when the going sounds for the end of the fight."

Joe says he can't do such hard training here as in Fresno, but he is going at it hard just now, and although he is in good condition at present he expects to be in the pink of condition on the night of the fight.

Hoao is training hard, and there are many backers for him among the Hawaiians, and not a few here believe that there is a possibility of Jim putting it over the man from the Coast early in the game.

As to the men scheduled for the preliminary bouts, they are working as hard as are the principals, but

KAMS TO PLAY FOOTBALL TODAY

Two Games On This Afternoon Attended By Many Rooters.

At Kamehameha Schools two grid-iron battles are on this afternoon, the first being a football game under the old rules, between the teams of the fifth and sixth grades, and the second one between the juniors and picked team under the new rules.

The game between the juniors and picked team will be most exciting. These aggregations have met before, but neither side scored. As today is the time when the boys in the olden days celebrated Founder's Day in playing some kind of game, the juniors and picked teams agreed to play a return match.

The alumni boys have taken great interest in the game, and there will be a large crowd present.

The teams have been working very hard the past two weeks and have learned the new rules fairly well. Clement Geo Oa has been training the picked team, while Andrew Poe-poe and Andy Moore have been putting the juniors into shape.

Bill Desha, the captain of Oahu College football team, has been chosen referee; Captain W. H. Winters, head linesman, and Mr. Partridge, umpire.

The students expect to see the picked team win because of their snappy backs, and while the juniors will have little support, they will endeavor to win. They have one disadvantage, which is a limited number of players, while their opponents will have a big reserve.

The lineups:
Juniors—H. Brandt, L.; S. Dush, L.; H. Burgess, L.; G. Hewitt, C.; S. Smith, R.; A. Napoleon, R.; W. Apau, R.; H. Godfrey, L.H.; A. Spencer, C.; W. Kawalopili, R.H.

WALKING RACE ON TOMORROW AT TWO

Two-thirty tomorrow afternoon is the hour set for the start of the mile and three-quarter mile along Kalakauna avenue from King street to Waikiki Inn, and at that time ten men will start on the ramble in which each hopes to win the first prize and the cup offered by Dick Sullivan.

Each contestant has been given a number so that he can be distinguished by the spectators, the numbers assigned being: Henry Chillingworth, 1; Antone Kaoo, 2; G. B. Henderson, 3; Will Feagler, 4; Louis Ross, 5; Paddy Walsh, 6; Sam Hop, 7; Botelho, 8; Nigel Jackson, 9; Frank Gomez, 10.

Officials named are: John C. Anderson, announcer; Honorable J. J. Fern, starter; C. G. Bartlett, Jack Sully, Dick Sullivan, George Turner and Senator Charles Chillingworth, judges; Antonio Marcellino, Sergeant Perry and Dr. K. F. L. Judges at the finish line; Ben Holinger, Bill Chilton and V. L. Stevenson, timekeepers.

Mrs. Hagens Luncheon.

The Honolulu Country Club formed a setting for a beautifully appointed luncheon Wednesday when Mrs. J. F. C. Hagens entertained complimentary to Mrs. William Williamson. This luncheon was one of the most beautiful affairs that has been ever given in Honolulu. The color scheme for the affair was red and green. Christmas berries were used throughout the pretty clubhouse, combined with palms and potted plants. The nine guests were seated at a large circular table, a fancy wicker basket ornamented the center of the table. This basket was filled with red berries and lace ferns. The place cards were indicative of the approaching Christmas holiday season and were novel and unique. The hostess on this occasion looked stunning in a Paris frock of blue voile over satin, with a picture hat to match. Mrs. William Williamson wore a New York creation of Goblin blue chiffon over canary colored satin, with a large Paris hat. Mrs. Becker was clad in a black Chantilly lace robe. Mrs. Maxwell's gown was a lingerie, beautifully embroidered with a coat of baby Irish crochet. Among the guests present were Mrs. William Williamson, Mrs. Maxwell of San Francisco, Mrs. Frank Richardson, Mrs. Becker of San Francisco, Mrs. J. Morton Riggs, Mrs. Henry Afong, Mrs. James Dougherty and Mrs. Frederick Damon.

Mr. and Mrs. Hindes' Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Hindes of San Francisco, who have been staying at the Moana Hotel, gave an elaborate violet dinner Tuesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Francis Dillingham. The large circular table at which the guests were seated was massed with purple violets. The favors for the dinner were large corsage bouquets for the women and boutonnières of violets were arranged for the men. Mrs. Hindes looked extremely handsome in a Paris gown of white. Mrs. Walter Dillingham looked stunning in a jetted black chiffon over satin. After dinner the hostess and guests played bridge.

Mrs. Charles Smith arrived on the Sierra to spend the Christmas holidays with her mother, Mrs. Jane McCordiston. It is four years since Mrs. Smith left here and like all other island women, is charmed at being home. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson were also home-coming passengers. Mrs. Patterson coming to visit with her mother, Mrs. Fanny Love. Honolulu extends both of these island women a hearty welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Billson and their son, Marcus, have taken apartments at the Donna. This family hotel becomes more popular all the time. The atmosphere of this house is a homey one, hence its popularity.

Mr. John Spreckels has purchased a large and palatial yacht, recently this craft formerly belonged to a New York millionaire who recently died. The "Venetian" is considered one of the fastest and most seaworthy yachts in America. Mr. Spreckels is planning to entertain extensively on board. For this winter, he has invited a party of ten to take the trip to South America with him, when they will stop at all points of interest.

Sunday Governor and Mrs. Walter Frear entertained ten of their friends at breakfast. "Arcada," the town home of the Governor, looked beautiful on this occasion. The long breakfast table was exquisitely decorated with Hawaiian fruits and variegated leaves.

DOINGS OF THE SMART SET

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton and their son, Mr. A. Hamilton, are visiting Major and Mrs. Samuel Dunning at their home at Fort Shafter. Mr. Hamilton, Sr., is Collector of Internal Revenue in San Francisco. These guests will visit in Honolulu until the twenty-third of this month, when they will sail for their home in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Day of Boise, Idaho, left Wednesday, on the Sierra, for the mainland after spending a month at the Moana Hotel. Mr. Day and his brother have recently bought the Portland Hotel. Mr. Day has the distinction of possessing one of the largest gold mines in the world.

Miss Enid Gregg, a popular young society girl of San Francisco, arrived on the China Monday, and is the guest of Major and Mrs. Dunning. Miss Gregg is a tall, stunning demimonde. It is needless to say that she is the incentive for much entertaining.

The Army women whose husbands are stationed at Fort Shafter, Fort Ruger, Fort De Russy and Schofield Barracks, are organizing an Army Bridge Club. The first meeting will take place at Lieut. Colonel and Mrs. Payson's home on Green street, Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Newell and young son, of Minneapolis, have taken apartments at the Young Hotel. Mrs. Newell is one of the handsomest women that has ever visited in the islands. She and her husband and young child visited in Honolulu two years ago.

Mrs. G. H. Flanders of Portland, Oregon, presented a gift of $10,000 to the Good Samaritan Hospital of Portland. Mrs. Flanders is the mother of Mrs. John Effinger of this city. At present, Mrs. Effinger and her family are visiting their relatives in Portland.

The officers of the U. S. S. Thetis gave a stag luncheon on board ship Tuesday, to a number of their intimate friends. This ship sailed for Hawaii at daylight, Wednesday morning, but will return to Honolulu in time for Christmas, when they will be extensively entertained by their friends.

The Gustav Schaefer are receiving the congratulations of the new arrival of a nine and three quarter pound daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Schaefer are among the most popular married couples belonging to the younger set.

It is rumored that Captain and Estes is to be ordered to a commissary detail in the States. It is to be hoped that this is not true, for although the gallant Captain and his charming wife have been in Honolulu for a short time, they have endeared themselves to many residents of this city, by their gracious manner.

After a pleasant visit to the coast, Mrs. Pardee, mother of Lieut. Pardee, of the 29th Infantry, returned from the coast on the transport Logan, to her home at Fort Shafter.

Mr. and Mrs. Norton Boho have rented the John Guird bungalow at Kahala, Oahu.

Captain Howell, U. S. Inspector of Hulls, is on Hawaii on business.

Society Chat OF THE Week

SOCIETY EVENT WILL USHER IN NEW YEAR

Annual Ball At Moana Hotel To Speed Passing Of 1910.

LOCAL society is on the qui vive over the New Year's ball which will be given at the Moana two weeks from this evening.

At that time, as is customary each year, Honolulu society will gather to watch the old year out and the new year in to the accompaniment of entrancing music by the quartet for jolly two steps and sedate waltzes over the ballroom floor.

Invitations for the affair will be sent out on Monday to this ball which is considered one of the social events of the year in this city.

The lower floor of the beautiful hotel will be made bright and attractive with tropical foliage, flowers and myriads of electric lights, and the decorations in the ballroom will be especially elaborate this year.

Even now members of the fair sex are consulting the leading modiste in regard to new toilettes to be worn at this brilliant affair.

Numerous dinner parties will be given before the ball by prominent town folk, and New Year's eve at the Moana this year promises to outshine anything which has been given at the hotel for several years.

Miss Magoon has issued invitations for a dance to be given New Year's eve at her home on Lunalilo and Kuanamoku streets.

Wallace-Robertson Nuptials.

The wedding of Miss Lillian Alice Robertson and Mr. George Washington Wallace was one of the events of the week, that had a place in the social affairs of importance. Formal invitations were not issued to their numerous friends, but verbal and telephone messages were sent to their intimate friends. Although they were married at the early hour of nine o'clock in the morning many friends were there and the edifice was well filled. The decorations were in yellow and was the work of Mrs. James Donohue Dougherty, an older sister of the bride, and Mrs. J. Morton Riggs, so it is needless to say that they were exquisite and artistic for every one knows the ability these young matrons possess. The chancel and altar rail were banked with mammoth baskets of rare maiden hair ferns—the long fronds of the ferns completely concealed the woodwork and baskets. The potted Kentia palm, was used unstintingly in these decorations, they are over twelve feet high, the feathery leaves made an artistic decoration. In fact there were potted plants and palms every where, until the church looked like a tropical bowser. Large fancy baskets, filled with plumed yellow chrysanthemums veiled with yellow silk tulle, were placed on the pulpit, on either side of the chancel, and also on the altar rail.

Tall brass vases, containing these flowers were arranged on the altar. The numerous twinkling tapers in their brass candle sticks but added beauty to the scene. The interior of St. Andrew's Cathedral is so beautiful, that ornamentation of palms and flowers are not necessary, although the appearance of the church on Tuesday morning could not have been improved upon. The pews for the relatives and intimate friends were designated, by large bows of pale yellow chiffon, in butterfly effect. Promptly at nine o'clock Mrs. Alice Brown played Lohengrin's wedding march and the pretty bride came down the aisle, leaning on the arm of her father, Mr. George P. Robertson of this city. She looked unusually well in a two piece suit of white rajah, tailor-made, for Dame Fashion decrees that before high noon a tailored suit is the only wearing apparel permissible. A large Rembrandt hat of green satin completed this stunning costume, a spray bouquet of white orchids and maiden hair ferns was carried. The bride's only attendant was her younger sister, Miss Grace Robertson, who is a beautiful petite brunette with large brown eyes, and pretty wavy brown hair. She was clad in a smart suit of pongee, in its natural color with a Charlotte Cordé hat in the same color. Her bouquet of pink bridesmaid's roses, gave the needed touch of color to the costume. The bridal party were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. George Robertson, Jr., a brother of the bride. The impressive Episcopal marriage service was performed by Canon Ault of St. Andrew's Cathedral, who at the conclusion of the marriage ceremony, pronounced them man and wife, and they left the church to the melody of Mendelssohn's wedding march. The reason that nine o'clock was chosen for the hour of the ceremony was that the young couple wanted to leave for their new home on Honokaa, Hawaii, as the steamer left at ten o'clock, a hurried trip by motor was made to bride's home, on Bingham and Artesian streets where a delicious bridal breakfast awaited them. The large round table was decorated in yellow. Marshal Niel roses and maiden hair ferns. The china service for this beautifully appointed table was in white and gold, the champagne which was drunk to the future happiness and welfare of the young couple was served in Bohemian glasses of white and gold—this carrying out the color scheme for the wedding. Mrs. George Wallace is a great social favorite in Honolulu, although she has spent a great deal of her girl hood days in California, having attended school there. She wins every one by her charm of manner and unaffectedness. At the steamer this happy young couple were covered with leis of flowers and showered with rice. As their automobile drew up to the company's gangway, and the newly wedded pair alighted, the Hawaiian band played Lohengrin's wedding march and the friends of the young couple, waving adieu to the pretty little steamer departed, carrying the young couple to their home at Honouliuli.

where the young Mr. Wallace occupies a responsible position. An aristocratic ten room house is awaiting them, which has been furnished completely by the mother and father of the bride—this being their wedding gift. Mahogany furniture figures conspicuously in the furnishings as the dainty bride had always been partial to that handsome wood and she was given carte blanche in the furnishings of the new home. The young couple were recipients of numerous and costly wedding gifts, consisting of cut glass of every description, brasses, pictures, flat silver for the table, hand some linens, etc.

Charity Trees.
The charity Christmas tree this year promises to surpass the two previous trees given by the people of this county, whose hearts have been large enough to think of those less fortunate than themselves. It would seem as if in this land of lavish plenty our more unfortunate little brothers and sisters were especially blessed, for where on earth can one imagine or find a people so generously disposed to the poor which the Saviour said we should have with us always, than in Honolulu. To be sure the charity Xmas or malihini tree, is not original with us, yet we have and are still going to continue as mighty good imitators of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan, who far away from their own fireside, wished to do something toward the Christmas spirit which takes possession of us all at this glad time. This is the third birthday of this generous thought and like all such good causes, we hope it will continue for all time. The committee in charge are not only receiving good financial backing in this matter, but the unstinted praise of all, and is a great help toward success. The committee doing hard work for the success of this worthy charity are noted for their ability in making a success of what ever they undertake. The possibility at present is that the tree will be held in the Executive Mansions grounds, which, of course, will make it more attractive to the tourists in our city. It will also show a side of our city that is not seen very far away from Kakaako or Punchbowl. Poor little kiddies at least will have Christmas as it should be to all children, a day of joy and gladness. The following men and women will gladly call for a donation from you whether the amount be large or small. We want the money to come voluntarily and not solicited: Mrs. W. Frear, Mrs. S. B. Dole, Mrs. E. Murphy, Mrs. A. W. Campbell, Mrs. Robert Lewers, Miss May Damon, Mrs. Church, Mr. G. W. R. King, Mr. R. Matheson, Mr. Jas. McGuire. Any of the above named will call for your donation to the malihini Xmas tree.

Mrs. McStocker's Card Party.
Mrs. Francis McStocker entertained at cards Tuesday afternoon complimentary to Mrs. Z. K. Myers. Bridge was the chosen game for the afternoon. Prizes consisting of beautifully hand-made work bags, were awarded at each table. The following women possessed the highest scores and were awarded these dainty trophies: Mesdames Myers, Maxwell, Pearson, and Len Whitehouse. The tables for playing were arranged on the large, spacious lanais of this beautiful home. Pink carnations and pink asters ornamented the drawing room and verandas combined with potted palms and hanging baskets. At the conclusion of the game, delicious refreshments were served. Among those who enjoyed Mrs. McStocker's hospitality were Mrs. Z. K. Myers, Mrs. James Kennedy, Mrs. Lorrin Thurston, Mrs. Pearson, Mrs. Whitehouse, Mrs. Emil Watermann, Mrs. Frederick Smith, Mrs. Frank Richardson, Mrs. Becker, and Mrs. Maxwell of San Francisco, Mrs. M. Phillips, Mrs. Grossman, Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. Frank Halstead, Mrs. Lachland, and Mrs. R. R. Reidford.

The L. Tenney Peck's Welcomed Home by a Host of Friends.
The L. Tenney Peck who are among the most prominent society folk of this city, after a six months' trip abroad have taken up a permanent residence in Honolulu. Mr. and Mrs. Peck accompanied by their young son sailed from New York on the Mauretania for England. From England they journeyed to Scotland, France, Holland, Belgium, visiting all the principal cities and points of interest in these countries. In August they witnessed the Passion Play at Oberammergau, where they saw a large contingent of Honolulu folk, which added to the pleasure of the trip. In Munich they attended the Wagner Musicale Festival. Their trip through Switzerland, Germany, Bohemia, Austria and Italy, proved enjoyable a number of trips by motor were taken through the latter country. After arriving in America this charming couple visited relatives and friends in New York and West Virginia.

Mrs. Williamson's Buffet Luncheon.
Fourteen maids and society matrons are being entertained at a buffet bridge luncheon by Mrs. William Williamson at her home in Nuuanu Valley today. The function is being given in honor of the young matrons who helped decorate for the wedding of this popular young girl, last November. Luncheon was served at a flower-bedecked table promptly at 1 o'clock. The place cards carried out the nuptial idea, for Mrs. Williamson is a bride of a month. After luncheon the guests will devote the afternoon to bridge whist. Among those who are accepting Mrs. Williamson's hospitality are Mrs. J. Morton Riggs, Miss Irene Dickson, Mrs. James Dougherty, Mrs. J. F. C. Hagenz, Mrs. Henry Along, Mrs. Frederick Damon, Miss Margaret McIntyre, Miss Williamson, Mrs. Arthur Davidson, Mrs. Harold Giffard, Mrs. John Palmer, Mrs. Rice, Mrs. Clarence Crabbe and others.

Mrs. Rice's Luncheon.
One of the most enjoyable entertainments of the week was the bridge luncheon given by Mrs. Rice, Thursday afternoon. This entertainment was given in honor of Mrs. William Williamson. Pink and green were the color scheme, effectively carried out with pink carnations and maiden-hair fern. Among those present were Mrs. Rice, Mrs. William Williamson, Mrs. James Dougherty, Mrs. Frank Richardson, Mrs. Becker and Mrs. Maxwell of San Francisco, Mrs. Frederick Damon, Mrs. Harold Giffard and Mrs. Arthur Davidson.

Mr. and Mrs. Hindez Dinner.
Mr. and Mrs. Hindez, who have been guests at the Moana Hotel, entertained at that popular caravansary Sunday evening in honor of Mr. George Dennison and Mr. Charles Pond McAvry. Covers were laid for eight. American Beauty roses furnished an exquisite decoration.

Mrs. James Kennedy's Luncheon.
Mrs. James Kennedy entertained a dozen friends at luncheon, Friday, in honor of Mrs. Maxwell and Mrs. Becker, of San Francisco, who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richardson, of this city. The color scheme for this prettily arranged luncheon was yellow.

Mr. Harry M. Hepburn, manager of the Hawaiian Electric Co. has been to Katal inspecting the McBryde electric plant, but returned home Sunday. During his absence his wife has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McCandless at their palatial home in Nuuanu Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Dillingham's Supper and Card Party.

Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Walter Francis Dillingham entertained at a bridge party and supper, complimentary to Admiral and Mrs. Corwin Patterson Rees. This mode of entertainment was chosen, for the Admiral and his wife are devoted to bridge, and are considered among the best "bridge" in this city. On Monday evening Mrs. J. S. Walker and Mrs. Dewby won the first and second women's prizes. The men's prizes were awarded to Mr. J. S. Wilder and Judge Alder. The Dillingham's home was fragrant with pink roses and violets. Toward the latter part of the evening a delicious hot supper was served. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Francis Dillingham, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Corwin P. Rees, Major and Mrs. George Potter, Judge and Mrs. Arthur Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dillingham, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bryant Cooper, Mrs. Newby, and others.

Card Party at Moana Hotel.

A pleasant card party was arranged by the social hostess of the Moana Hotel on Tuesday last. This card party was given as entertainment for the guests of the Alexander Young Hotel and the Moana Hotel. The first prize, a large pin of the Hawaiian coat of arms enameled in blue, was won by Mrs. Willis. The second prize, of black silk hosiery, was won by Mrs. Newell of Minneapolis, Minn. Among those present were Mrs. Cummings of Oakland, Cal.; Mrs. Day of Boise, Idaho; Mrs. Mousarrat, Mrs. Erentice of San Francisco; Mrs. Newell of Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs. Ramsey, Mrs. Dunn of California; Mrs. E. J. Lord, Mrs. Scott of Victoria; Mrs. Smith, Miss Whitman of San Francisco; Mrs. Willis, Mrs. Williams, Miss Hassinger of San Jose; Mrs. Marks, and others.

Mrs. Robards' Luncheon.

Friday, Mrs. Frank Robards entertained at luncheon at her pretty home at Waikiki. Covers were arranged for six. In the center of the table was a large wicker basket filled with double and single red hibiscus. The place cards were in red and gold. The luncheon set of Canton china added to the beauty of the table. After partaking of a delicious repast the guests adjourned to the living room and played several games of bridge. Among those present were Mrs. Frank Robards, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Estes, Mrs. Willis, Mrs. Ramsey and Mrs. Ross Kingsbury.

Major and Mrs. Dunning's Dinner.

Admiral and Mrs. Corwin Patterson Rees were the complimented guests at a dinner which was given at Fort Shafter Tuesday evening by Major and Mrs. Dunning. Covers were arranged for ten and the table was exquisitely decorated with cut flowers and maidenhair fern. Among the guests who partook of Major and Mrs. Dunning's hospitality were Rear Admiral and Mrs. Corwin Patterson Rees, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton of San Francisco, Mrs. Herman Focke, Miss Emil Gregg of San Francisco, Mr. Walker and Mr. A. Hamilton of San Francisco.

Cottillon at Leliehua.

Society is on the qui vive over the Cottillon which will be given Thursday evening, December twenty-second, at Schofield Barracks by Lt. Colonel Wheeler. On this occasion Colonel Schuyler will be the honored guest. Elaborate preparations are being made, and this function will be one of the most elaborate ever given in these islands.

Major and Mrs. Timberlake's Dinner.

One of the most beautiful appointed dinners given this week by the members of the smart set was given at Fort Ruger Friday by Major and Mrs. Timberlake. The color scheme for this attractive entertainment was pink and violet. The dinner favors for the fair sex were inverted Hawaiian grass hats filled with purple violets. The table was ornamented with tall silver candlesticks, with dainty pink shades. In the center of the table was a fancy basket laden with fragrant purple violets, the edge of the basket being fringed with Australian maidenhair fern. The handle of this artistic basket was ornamented with bow knots of pink maline tulle. Among Major and Mrs. Timberlake's guests were Governor and Mrs. Walter Frear, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gilman and Mrs. Frank R. Day.

Mrs. Willis' Bridge Party.

Mrs. Willis, wife of Lt. Willis of the U. S. Marine Corps, was hostess at an enjoyable bridge party which was given Thursday afternoon at her artistic bungalow on Maikiki street. This card party was given in honor of Mrs. Wendell Cushing Neville, wife of Major Neville, commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps. Beautiful prizes were awarded. The first prize was won by Mrs. Steedy. This trophy was a jardiniere of brass. The guest prize was a beautiful serving tray. At the termination of the playing refreshments were served from a long table in the dining room—the delicious viands were served in buffet style. The center of the table was occupied by a large glass bowl filled with duchess roses, at the base of which myriads of violets were banked, producing a pleasing effect. The drawing room, hallway and den were replete with purple violets. On this occasion many beautiful toilettes were worn. The hostess was clad in a becoming frock of light blue chiffon, in semi-hobble effect and banded by a broad embroidered satin band. Mrs. Neville's dress of black and gold was much admired. Mrs. Cowles wore an imported gown with a real lace coat. Mrs. Cochran, wife of Captain Cochran of the Thefts, was clad in black net. Mrs. Roy Smith looked handsome in a silk in pastel shades, a large black hat completing this stunning costume. Miss Cowles looked a picture in a French robe of white lace. Mrs. L'Hommedieu's toilette of white lingerie in semi-hobble effect was chic. Mrs. Timberlake wore one of the most stunning frocks, of white pongee, embroidered, a large satin hat ornamented with a Bird of Paradise, being worn. Mrs. Timberlake is one of the most charming women of Honolulu, and is proving a great acquisition to the smart set of this city. Mrs. Frederick Ramsey looked dainty and pretty in a lingerie frock embroidered and trimmed in Valenciennes lace. Among Mrs. Willis' guests were Mrs. Wendell Cushing Neville, Mrs. Cowles, Miss Cowles, Mrs. Timberlake, Mrs. Samuel Dunning, Mrs. Estes, Mrs. Gardner Wilder, Mrs. Wilcox, Mrs. Steedy, Mrs. Roy Smith, Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Smith of Fort Shafter, Mrs. L'Hommedieu, Mrs. Marix, Mrs. Frederick Ramsey, Mrs. Frank Robards, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. William Low, Mrs. Lowerenz, Mrs. Pope, Mrs. Ross Kingsbury, Mrs. Putnam, Mrs. Ward, Mrs. Cochran, and others.

Proposed Federation of Clubs.

The growth of Honolulu is evidenced in many ways, and in no way more interestingly than in the growing number of cultural clubs. In its distinctive work each has responded to the real needs of a progressive city. The usefulness and success of all these clubs is a measure of the demand for them. For many of them the time has come when adequate accommodations are necessary and urgent. In the present movement initiated by the Art League for the federation of a number of these clubs there is no purpose or wish that any one should lose any thing of its individuality in organization or activities. There is no thought of merging these separate clubs in one organization. Rather, the federation contemplated is of such a character as, it is believed, will give wider opportunities for special development. The purpose of the federation, as stated in the proposed plan, is primarily to secure a club house that will meet the needs of all several clubs. Secondly the value of such federation would be of the kind that must come from the greater facility of getting cooperative action in general effort for the betterment of the city. The club house of such a federation of clubs would not only furnish the means of extending hospitality, but it would become a natural center for the work of all interested in civic betterment. The federation itself would mark a definite step in the progress towards "getting together" which seems to be the slogan for the Greater Honolulu.

Major Hart's Dinner.

A large fancy basket containing magenta bougerna villa ornamented the table of Major Hart, when he entertained at the Moana Hotel Monday evening in honor of General and Mrs. Bell, U. S. A. After dinner the host and his guests joined the merry throng of dancers at the Army hop, which was given that evening at the Moana. Among those who enjoyed Major Hart's hospitality were General and Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Katherine M. Yates, Miss Garlington, Miss Halley, Colonel Schuyler of the Fifth Cavalry, Captain Lock, U. S. A., and Captain Davison, U. S. A.

Captain and Mrs. Marix' Dinner.

Captain and Mrs. Arthur Marix of the U. S. Marine Corps celebrated their "wooden anniversary" on Sunday last at their home on Kinu street. The decorations were arranged to carry out the idea of the celebration, for most of the favors were wood. A large highly polished calabash made of koa wood was filled with scarlet carnations and maidenhair fern and adorned the center of the table. The place cards were miniature wooden shoes with the following inscription on them: "Two 'soles' with but a single thought; two hearts that beat as one." Among those seated at this original and novel decorated table were Captain and Mrs. Marix, Mr. and Mrs. Wichman, Major and Mrs. Timberlake, Captain and Mrs. Ramsey, Captain and Mrs. Estes, Miss Katherine Stephens and Lieut. Means.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rodiek gave a farewell party in honor of Admiral and Mrs. Corwin Patterson Rees, who left Wednesday on the Sierra for the mainland. This entertainment was a Dutch supper. The attractive home of the Rodieks was appropriately decorated for the occasion. Eighteen guests were present.

Mrs. D. Howard Hitchcock entertained ten of her friends at luncheon Tuesday at the Honolulu Country Club. Carnations and maidenhair fern made an attractive table decoration. Among the guests were Mrs. T. Clive Davies, Mrs. Elizabeth McMontague Cooke, Mrs. Frank R. Day, Bryde, Mrs. Bernice Walbridge, Mrs. Mrs. Jack Galt, and others.

Mr. G. C. Heckman gave a birthday dinner party for his wife on Wednesday evening at the Courtland. Red carnations combined with maidenhair fern graced the beautifully appointed table. Covers were arranged for eight. Those present beside the host and his wife were Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Allen, Mr. Carmichael and Mr. Duncan.

Lieut. Leo Sabm of the U. S. Navy, who has been detailed as U. S. Land Inspector of these islands, sailed for Hawaii, Wednesday, on the U. S. S. Kukui, to make an inspection of the different light houses on Kauai.

A Still Higher Type of Efficiency, Entirely New at the Price is offered in the OVERLAND MODEL 51

(Licensed under the Seldon patent.)

FOR 1911

It Creates a New Measure of Value in the Automobile Industry

Thirteen beautiful models now ready, comprising the latest ideas in automobile design and construction. Completely equipped with Magneto, Lamps, Generator, Horn and Tools. Altogether the greatest value ever offered in motor cars at prices anybody can afford.

We start this new season with a record of having delivered 20,000 cars into the hands of satisfied owners in the first eight months of this year—with deposits already in hand for more than 18,000 of the new models just coming out.

HOW THIS DEMAND WAS CREATED

This wonderful demand for Overlands is due to the sheer merit in the car itself. There was never a car so simple and none ever offered nearly so much for the money. Overlands embody the good points of automobile construction which have been developed and suggested since the inception of the industry, together with new features and exclusive ideas, all of which make the entire Overland one thoroughly distinctive.

THE NEW OVERLANDS ARE MADE WITH FOLDING DOORS AND WITHOUT YOUR CHOICE AT ONE PRICE.

PRICES FOR 1911

The Overland prices for 1911 begin at $775 for 20-horse power, 4 cylinders—and $850 for a Torpedo Roadster with 4 cylinders.

The 25-horse power Overlands sell at $1000 and $1095, according to style of transmission. The 30-horse power Overlands sell at $1250. So does an inside drive coupe.

The prices run to $1600 and $1675 for the finest cars possible in 40 horse power with 118-inch wheel bases. Every price includes a magneto and full lamp equipment.

OUR ADVANCE BOOK FREE—Send for our latest book, showing all the new models with complete specifications. It will enable you to make your comparisons. No catalogue published shows so many styles at this. Send for it now—before you forget it.

The cars are on show by more than 800 dealers.

If you want to remember your friends and relatives with a Christmas Gift that will endure forever we suggest and recommend you to purchase a lot in the Ocean View and Palolo Tracts in the Kaimuki district.

CONSIDERING the climatic conditions and scenery, there is no property in the United States that has better residential advantages.

We are willing to place ourselves on record as predicting that every desirable lot in the PALOLO HILL and OCEAN VIEW tracts will be selling at from $1,500 to $2,000 each within the next few years, while we are today offering choice lots at an average of only $400.00 each, and allowing 5 per cent for all cash.

A CHRISTMAS GIFT that will LAST and increase in value is the only sensible kind to make.

We are prepared to execute deeds and sale contracts without any knowledge to the beneficiary until Christmas Day, at which time the gift can be presented as a pleasant surprise.

If you cannot call at our office personally, ring up our Phone, 1659 and ask for one of our representatives to explain the manner in which you can secure this splendid present made either by deed or sale contract upon the installment plan.

We reserve the privilege of increasing our prices or withdrawing any of our lots from the market.

During the past year we have sold FIVE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-NINE lots in the OCEAN VIEW TRACT to ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTY-SEVEN first class American citizens, about FORTY of whom will build homes this coming year, now that the large new Reservoir is completed and pure ARTESIAN WATER can be secured at any point in the tract.

We will build you a beautiful bungalow home on the installment plan.

TAFT SAYS TO FORTIFY CANAL

Message to Congress Contains Important Recommendations On Waterway.

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 17.—As a result of President Taft's recent trip to the canal, his message to Congress contains elaborate recommendations on canal questions, particularly as to fortifying the great waterway and as to the toll-rates to be charged. Discussing the canal, the President says:

"At the instance of Colonel Goethals, the army engineer officer in charge of the work on the Panama Canal, I have just made a visit to the Isthmus to inspect the work done and to consult with him on the ground as to certain problems which are likely to arise in the near future. The progress of the work is most satisfactory. If no unexpected obstacles present itself, the canal will be completed well within the time fixed by Colonel Goethals, to-wit, January 1, 1915, and within the estimate of cost, $375,000,000.

"Press reports have reached the United States from time to time giving accounts of slides of earth of very large yardage in the Culebra Cut and elsewhere along the line, from which it might be inferred that the work has been much retarded and that the time of completion has been necessarily postponed.

"The report of Doctor Hayes of the Geological Survey, whom I sent within the last month to the Isthmus to make an investigation, shows that this section of the canal zone is composed of sedimentary rocks of rather weak structure and subject to almost immediate disintegration when exposed to the air. Subsequent to the deposition of these sediments, igneous rocks, harder and more durable, have been thrust into them, and being cold at the time of their intrusion united but indifferently with the sedimentary rock at the contacts. The result of these conditions is that as the cut is deepened, causing unbalanced pressures, slides from the sides of the cut have occurred. These are in part due to the flowing of surface water and decomposed sedimentary rocks upon inclined surfaces of the underlying undecomposed rock and in part by the crushing of structurally weak beds under excessive pressure. The slides occur on one side or the other of the cut through a distance of four or five miles, and now that their character is understood, allowance has been made in the calculations of yardage for the amount of slides which will have to be removed and the greater slope that will have to be given to the bank in many places in order to prevent their recurrence. Such allowance does not exceed ten million yards. Considering that the number of yards removed from this cut on an average of each month through the year is 1,300,000, and that the total remaining to be excavated, including slides, is about 30,000,000 yards, it is seen that this addition to the excavation does not offer any great reason for delay.

"While this feature of the material to be excavated in the cut will not seriously delay or obstruct the construction of a canal of the lock type, the increase of excavation due to such slides in the cut made eighty-five feet deeper for a sea level canal would certainly have been so great as to delay its completion to a time beyond the patience of the American people.

"Among questions arising for present solution is the decision whether the canal shall be fortified. I have already stated to the Congress that I strongly favor fortification and I now reiterate this opinion and ask your consideration of the subject in the light of the report already before you made by a competent board.

"If, in our discretion, we believe modern fortifications to be necessary to the adequate protection and policing of the canal, then it is our duty to construct them. We have built the canal. It is our property. By convention we have indicated our desire for, and indeed undertaken, its universal and equal use. It is also well known that one of the chief objects in the construction of the canal has been to increase the military effectiveness of our navy.

"Failure to fortify the canal would leave the attainment of both these aims in the position of rights and obligations which we should be powerless to enforce and which could never in any other way be absolutely safeguarded against a desperate and irresponsible enemy.

Canal Tolls.
"Another question which arises for consideration and possible legislation is the question of tolls in the canal. This question is necessarily affected by the probable tonnage which will go through the canal. It is all a matter of estimate, but one of the government commissions in 1900 investigated the question and made a report. They concluded that the total tonnage of the vessels employed in commerce that could use the Isthmian canal in 1914 would amount to 6,843,805 tons net register, and that this traffic would increase 25.1 per cent.

MANUEL IS AFTER AMERICAN DOLLARS

LONDON, Nov. 25. — Since King Manuel of Portugal has been deposed, all the members of the Portuguese royal family have settled their differences, and, metaphorically speaking, are passing the loving cup around to each other. One of the first to telegraph sympathy to the young king was Dom Miguel of Braganza, otherwise the Duke de Vizer, who married the daughter of Mrs. James Henry Smith. Dom Miguel of Braganza and his American wife have been invited to Wood Norton to discuss the situation in Portugal and the idea among the friends of Mrs. James Henry Smith is that she will be asked to fork out a large sum to advance the interests of the royalists.

Although Dom Miguel has married a commoner he is most ambitious—always has been—and though in the first instance it was love which inspired his admiration of Ania Stewart, he did not fail to realize that her millions would give him the power he craves. Even though at the moment he is trying to help the uncrowned Manuel, at the back of his head is the idea that one day he may be at the head of affairs in Portugal himself. And there is no reason why Mrs. Smith's daughter should not be queen. She is as well born and far wealthier than was Eugenie, the ex-empress of France.

A woman can always find something to admire in a man—if he admires her.

We all talk about saving money—but most of us let it go at that.

DUNN—COLLEGIAN IMITATOR AT BIJOU

AMUSEMENTS

A HEAD-LINER AT THE BIJOU

GLADYS MIDDLETON

BIJOU'S "AMATEUR NIGHT" IS A HIT

Reveling in the hilarious environment two capacity houses took part in the inauguration ceremonies of "amateur night" at the new Bijou last night. If enthusiasm and attendance is to measure the popularity of the new departure, then "amateur night" is here to stay and it promises to meet each week with the same unqualified success that greeted the innovation last night. The announcement that aspiring professionals were to be tried out had its effect and acquainted for the biggest jam that has yet invaded the portals of Honolulu's largest and safest playhouse. A double bill, one of par excellence standard, and the other made up of would-be performers, proved a most alluring magnet and the crowds fairly stormed the place in an endeavor to see just what it was all about. And those who were fortunate to get seats did not leave disappointed. They got their money's worth and more.

There are three performances scheduled for this evening, the first of which will be put on at 6:30 o'clock. This week end bill is one of the best, if not the very best, the Bijou has presented and it has been the means of keeping the attendance up to the mark which prevailed opening week. The vaudeville numbers are especially good while the motion picture subjects are far and away above the average. Hughes' orchestra has a special program arranged for this evening and in addition Harry Auerbach and H. Overbeck will play xylophone and cornet solos respectively.

A complete change of program is booked for Monday evening. New artists are on the way from the mainland and in the near future new and novel acts will be added to the present splendid program.

HOWARDS CLOSE AT NEW ORPHEUM TONIGHT

The last performance of "Tennessee's Partner" will be given this evening and incidentally marks the farewell appearance of the George B. Howard company in Honolulu. This evening a packed house will be on hand to say farewell to the members of the popular company and needless to say the closing of the theater is to be regretted by many. During the stay of the Howard company here more than twenty high-class dramas and comedies have been produced and all of them have been well done. It is the intention of the Orpheum Theater management to keep the house dark for a short time and then reopen it with another first-class attraction from the mainland.

EMPIRE THEATER OPENING IS ON TUESDAY NIGHT

Owing to the need of more time in which to finish the remodeling of the Empire Theater, that playhouse, now under the management of Jack Scully, will not be reopened until Tuesday night.

At that time a new company, which will arrive on the Manuaria on Monday, will make its first appearance on the new stage, which is as large as any in the city. Mr. Scully is sparing no expense to make this theater already attractive, more so than ever.

Amusement men generally expect big crowds at all the shows tonight, and especially next week, when there will be many Christmas shoppers down town in the evenings. On this account they have been planning for particularly good programs for the coming week.

Tonight the Howard Company at the Orpheum will give its last performance and the circus and the Bijou will conclude their second week of catering to the amusement appetites of Honoluluans. The next show at the Orpheum will be the Lochrane Benefit given by the theatrical talent now in Honolulu under the auspices of the Scottish Thistle Club. This promises to be one of the most interesting programs ever presented in Honolulu, due to the great variety of acts that will be presented.

It is likely that the circus will continue to give performances for at least one more week here and then leave for Hawaii. At present it is not known whether the circus will show on Maui as diphtheria is epidemic there. The Board of Health has issued an order against the gathering of great crowds that applies to certain portions of Maui, if not to all the Island. The circus people had intended to show for three nights at Kahului but at present are in doubt whether they will stop there at all. They will likely open in Hilo the week preceding New Year's and continue to give performances there until after the race meet.

The circus program this week has been considerably changed and this, with the general reduction in prices, has increased its popularity as an amusement place. Barring unavoidable trouble experienced with the trapezes used in the big arched act on Thursday night, and the absence of Turoturkey, the Japanese performer, who met with an accident, the show has maintained its first week quality. Every assurance is given that the performance tonight will in every respect be up to standard. A complete change of program will be made on Monday night.

Morris and Wilson, the funny acrobats at the Park, are proving great crowd drawers. A pantomime acrobatic act seems to be what local people have been wanting judging from the applause these two acrobats received every evening. The crowds in comparison with those of the week preceding are constantly increasing. Much comment is heard in regard to the double summersault one of the acrobats makes off the stage. The Medoras and Sandarte continue to amuse.

The new people at the Novelty are just getting into good stride as their Thursday night reception showed when they changed their act. The Van Berkeley Company is talented, and little Jimmie Van amuses everyone. Wise and Milton have their usual nightly following despite all the attractions offered at other places.

VAN—AT THE NOVELTY

WILSON SISTERS BACK AT SAVOY AGAIN

The Wilson Sisters, the Savoy favorites, returned from Hilo this morning where they had a successful engagement for two weeks, and will appear at the Savoy Theater tonight. The return of these popular singers and dancers to the Savoy will add greatly to the splendid bill which is being put on there for the week end. These clever singers and dancers will present entirely new songs, and their dances will be of an unusual order.

In addition the Malan-Magrath company will present its roaring farce sketch, "The Substitute," in which Magrath shines in a darky role. Dot Raymond's charming little songs are a treat, and George V. Stanley will sing ballads with pictures thrown on the screen.

The Pathe Freres films this week are excellent. In fact the French pictures are among the best offered in any theater.

Prof. Anderson's orchestra is playing better music than ever and is making this popular show place one of the most attractive in the city. Its entertainers are favorites with all the big audiences which are there nightly.

Schuman Carriage Company, Limited

M-T-R CAR COSSIP

This week has been a busy one with the von Hamm-Young Company delivering the large number of Cadillac cars which arrived on the last Sierra. Every one of the owners of the new Cadillacs is very enthusiastic over his new car, and it would be pretty hard to persuade anyone of them to exchange their $2000 Cadillac for a $3000 car even.

To the list of Cadillac purchasers given out last week by the von Hamm-Young Company there are the following additions this week. A Cadillac touring car was shipped on the Mauna Kea to the the Volcano Stables and Transportation Co. for George Lycurgus, who intends to use this car in connection with his ever-increasing hotel business in Hilo.

Another Cadillac—a beautiful touring car, arrived this week for Captain Wilbur of Fort Ruger. Captain Wilbur is very much pleased with this new car and can not praise it too highly. This is but one more instance where an army officer has acquired a Cadillac, which is becoming the general favorite in the various army branches all over the mainland.

Another Cadillac which arrived by the China—a touring car—is for P. C. Jones. This car is fitted up with all the latest accessories, specially picked out by Mr. Jones when he was in the East. And it makes a very creditable addition to the long list of Cadillacs owned in this city.

The von Hamm-Young Company delivered on Maui this week one of the fine Stevens-Duryea Model R touring cars, which went to Mr. Pantom. Another beautiful Model X seven-passenger Stevens-Duryea has been sold to a local prominent business man, who does not wish to have his name mentioned until after Christmas.

Reports received by the von Hamm-Young Company show that the Everitt car is getting to be one of the biggest favorites of medium-priced cars on the mainland. H. O. Harrison, the Coast distributor, has more than a hundred orders for Everitts on back-order and can not get cars enough to meet the demand. A report from Pittsburgh on the Everitt is as follows:

"The Everitt 39, owned and driven by Mr. Clinton R. Foutz, on October 11, 1910, broke all records from Pittsburgh to Baltimore, making the run of 246 miles, covering 156 miles of the Alleghany and Blue Ridge Mountains, in 11 hours and 31 minutes. The first thirty-eight miles were driven in a dense fog, but in spite of this the time from Pittsburgh to Bedford, via Ligonier, was only 95 hours and 12 minutes. The time was taken from the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh to the Automobile Club of Baltimore."

The Overland is proving as popular as ever. The beautiful little Overland with torpedo body purchased by Dr. Hedemann from the von Hamm-Young Company has created a great deal of attention, and another of the prominent local physicians is seriously considering purchasing a duplicate of the car driven by Dr. Hedemann.

C. J. Schoening of the von Hamm-Young Company reports the sale of an Overland demi-tonneau to a prominent man on Maui. This being a Christmas gift, the name of the purchaser is being withheld for the present.

Miss Helen Wilder, one of Honolulu's prominent society ladies, arrived on the Lurline bringing with her an Overland demi-tonneau.

The latest Overland sale made this week by the von Hamm-Young Company is one of the fine double-seated roadsters to Judge W. L. Whitney, which was delivered today.

The von Hamm-Young Company is anxiously awaiting the arrival of a number of 1911 Packard cars of various types, which are now on the way from the factory. Among the purchasers of these cars are George I. Brown, who has ordered a beautiful 30 phaeton; Mrs. George R. Carter, who has ordered one of the stylish 18 runabouts with the fore-door body; P. M. Swanzy, who has also ordered one of the 30 phaetons, and several others.

The showing made by the large number of Packards in and about Honolulu has been so phenomenal that there is no high-class car talked of as much as the Packard. It only bears out the experience which for years has been had by agents on the mainland, who all agree that of all the high-class American cars the Packard is by far the greatest favorite, showing as it does the quintessence of what is the highest art of automobile manufacture in America.

F. E. Howes of the von Hamm-Young Company left for Hawaii this week to deliver there one of the Pope-Hartford touring cars.

Another order booked by the von Hamm-Young Company this week is for a beautiful 1911 Pope-Hartford, with demi-tonneau body, for Dr. Alford C. Wall. This order was specially cabled so as to get delivery as early as possible and so as to have this car included in a carload of Pope-Hartfords sold to several other prominent Honolulu people.

On the Lurline the Associated Garage received three 1911 Hudson roadsters, which are extremely classy cars. The new machine has several refinements in design over the 1910 model, has an aluminum footboard and 18-inch steering wheel, the latter making the steering very easy.

Even a pretty girl, if wise, will learn to cook.

ANOTHER FIGHTER FOR JAPAN

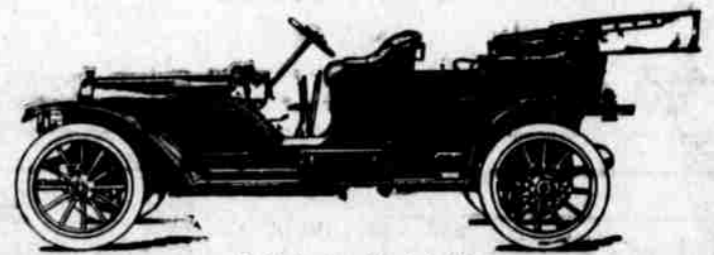

Kawachi of Dreadnought Type Launched in October.

The launching of the giant battleship Kawachi at Yokosuka yard, Japan, in October, marks a further important step in Japan's recent progress in warship construction. The keel of the Kawachi was laid down only in April last, and thus in the brief space of some six months the new leviathan of war glides into the deep ready to receive her machinery and armament. Such expedition and efficiency, considering the size of the ship, are hardly to be outdone by the great yards of Europe and America.

The Kawachi is a first-class battleship of the dreadnought type, but with perpendicular bow, the ram being conspicuous by its absence, as in the case of Japan's last big ship, the Satsuma. The Kawachi is a fighting monster of 20,800 tons; length 526 feet, width 84 feet, depth 44 feet, and draught 27 feet. Her engines are to be of the Curtis turbine type, and will have a horsepower of 25,000, the speed to be twenty knots. Her protection will be a broadside of armor twelve inches thick, and she is to carry an armament of twelve 12-inch guns, ten 6-inch, eight 4-inch and ten 3-inch guns. The ship will be provided with six searchlights and have five torpedo tubes. The boilers are what is known as the Miyabara make, and she has double propellers. The total cost is said to be in the vicinity of 18,850,000 yen ($9,475,000). Of course, most of the material for her construction was imported, chiefly from Great Britain, but she is the design of Japanese naval architects and was wholly built by Japanese workmen. The Kawachi marks the greatest feat yet achieved by Japan in the way of warship construction, being some 2000 tons larger than the Satsuma, and in every way up to the latest models of European construction, upon which Japan keeps a close and continuous eye. The Kawachi was built at the Yokosuka navy yard, as was also the Satsuma.

A laugh is a good thing—if it isn't on you.

SURGERY WITH NO BLOODSHED

This Is Latest Triumph of Distinguished German Savants.

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—Several surgeons here have experimented much with bloodless surgery, and the results of their work will be published soon. With the usual conservation of Germans, they have refrained from declaring the system a finality.

Surgical operations without bloodshed are the latest triumphs of electrical science. The discoverer is Dr. F. Naezelshmidt, who has demonstrated it to the Royal Society of Medicine. The advantages claimed are that operations can now be performed without blood being split, as the passage of this type of electricity through the diseased tissue coagulates all the albumen in the blood and tissues, and prevents the blood from flowing.

This will be particularly useful, it is stated, in the case of large cancers on the surface of the body, and particularly in the type called "en Cuirasse."

The current that the doctor uses is a distinct modification of the ordinary high-frequency electricity. It is applied as follows: Two wires lead from the generator to two electrodes. These are placed on each side of the part to be operated upon, and the flow of blood in the region between the two electrodes is stopped. All blood and tissue contain a very large proportion of albumen and this the current coagulates so that the flow of the blood is arrested.

cent per decade; that it was not probable that all the commerce included in the totals would at once abandon the routes at present followed and make use of the new canal, and that it might take some time, perhaps two years, to readjust trade with reference to the new conditions which the canal would establish. He did not include, however, the tonnage of war vessels, although it is to be inferred that such vessels would make considerable use of the canal. In the matter of tolls he reached the conclusion that a dollar a net ton would not drive business away from the canal, but that a higher rate would do so.

"In determining what the tolls should be we certainly ought not to insist that for a good many years to come that they should amount to enough to pay the interest on the investment of $400,000,000 which the United States has made in the construction of the canal. We ought not to do this, first, because the benefits to be derived by the United States for this expenditure is not to be measured solely by a return upon the investment. If it were then the construction might well have been left to private enterprise. It was because an adequate return upon the money invested could not be expected immediately, or in the near future, and because there were peculiar political advantages to be derived from the construction of the canal that it necessarily fell to the government to advance the money and perform the work.

"In addition to the benefit to our naval strength, the canal greatly increases the trade facilities of the United States. It will undoubtedly cheapen the rates of transportation in all freight between the eastern and western seaboard, and it will greatly increase that trade by reason of the reduction in its cost. Then, if we are to have a world canal, and if we are anxious that the routes of the world's trade shall be through the Panama Canal, we must recognize that we have an active competitor in the Suez Canal. Then, too, there are other means of crossing the isthmus—by the Tehuantepec Railroad and by other railroads and freight routes in Central America to the Atlantic side.

"In all these cases the question whether the Panama Canal is to be used and its tonnage increased would be determined later by the charge for its use. My own impression is that the tolls ought not to exceed $1 per net ton. On January 1, 1911, the tolls in the Suez Canal are to be seven francs and twenty-five centimes for one net ton by Suez Canal measurement, which is a modification of Danube measurement. A dollar a ton will secure under the figures above a gross income from the Panama Canal of nearly $7,000,000. The cost of maintenance and operation is estimated to exceed $3,000,000. Ultimately, of course, with the normal increase in trade, the income will approximate the interest charges upon the investment. On the whole I should recommend that within certain limits the President be authorized to fix the tolls of the canal and adjust them to what seems to be commercial necessity. The inquiries already made of the Chief Engineer of the canal show that the present consideration of this question is necessary in order that the commerce of the world may have time to adjust itself to the new conditions resulting from the opening of this new highway."

Whole districts of European Russia have been denuded of their male population, and a traveler on the lines leading out of Moscow to the west, north and east will notice on his journey thousands at the stations along the way with their few possessions packed up in sacks and handkerchiefs, waiting for the emigrant train to carry them to their new homes in Siberia, where they expect living conditions to be more favorable to themselves and families.
Mrs. M. Wheelhouse of Wenar, Idaho, controls a small railway, an electric plant, a fruit farm, a factory and several stores. The thriving condition of all her projects has proved her to be a good business woman. In addition to attending to these enterprises she looks after a family of several children, and is said to have more influence with the women voters in her State than any other person.

CUTTER BEAR WATCHING FOR SMUGGLING SHIPS

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 1.—Patrolling the coast from the Mexican line south of San Diego north toward Santa Monica is the revenue cutter Bear, loaded with immigration officers, who are searching for two gasoline vessels reported to be en route north from Mazatlan and loaded with Chinese whom it is intended to smuggle into this country.

According to the report which reached the waterfront this morning, the smuggler craft left Mazatlan some weeks ago loaded with Orientals, who have paid the "smuggling fee" to be put on American shores. It is said that one of the vessels contains twenty Chinese and the other eighteen. If the smugglers should succeed in passing the revenue cutter it is probable that they will run in close to shore under cover of night and land their human cargoes somewhere between here and Santa Monica.

Short Stories For Evening Hours

GETTING A LATE START.

Albert and Marie had "gone" together since their high school days. When they were graduated they talked seriously together of the fact that they now were entering the arena of life, and Marie remarked that Albert had perfectly beautiful views.

Albert started in to learn the business at his father's factory, where they made shoes. He was to start at the bottom and work up and Marie said his nobility and heroism were perfectly wonderful. They were not engaged. They merely understood each other.

Albert called every Sunday afternoon and stayed to tea and usually one or two evenings a week he dropped in or he took Marie out somewhere.

The other boys never dreamed of infringing on Albert's prerogative as a constant escort, although they had leanings in that direction, Marie being a very pretty girl. Her family smiled amusedly at the romance. They said Albert was a nice boy and Marie was too young to think seriously of any one.

There was an awful time when Marie's cousin from the East came to visit her on his first vacation from West Point.

Being new he did not understand the situation respecting Marie and Albert, so he calmly appropriated her. That is, he tried to. Marie, pleased with his attentions, but plainly unequal to the complications, had a miserable time.

Albert did not call for two weeks after the night he called on Marie only to find the West Pointer also calling and totally indifferent to the fact that he was upsetting all precedent and tradition. Marie, being tender-hearted, cried her eyes out.

When Albert and Marie at last met again, accidentally, Albert was pale and haughty and injured and Marie's heart smote her. She had made him suffer and she considered it unwomanly to tease a young man and make him jealous as some girls did. Albert forgave her grandly and she assured him that she thought the West Pointer concocted.

As they grew older the situation remained unchanged. Albert said that Marie understood him so well and that it was such a comfort to be able to talk everything over with her. If he wanted to read instead of talk when he called he read, and when he grew tired Marie would lay down her embroidery and ask what he wanted to do—make judge in the chaffing dish or play cards.

Of course when she went away on visits Marie met other young men who were nice to her, but the Albert habit was too deeply ingrained for her to take an interest in them. She thought it dishonorable to flirt. Albert explained to her that on his business trips to New York he took the Eastern manager's sister out to the theater because he was indebted to the manager and had to be courteous and she could readily understand that. He said it seemed good to be back again where a fellow had some one who understood him and he had to be natural.

Once a visiting aunt asked Marie flatly if she and Albert were engaged, and Marie rather detestively said no. "H'm," said the aunt, disapprovingly.

Marie disliked her ever after. Somehow she felt that Albert was being assailed in such a way that she could not defend him. Her instinct to shelter him was vaguely mixed with some unknown sort of hurt at the bottom of her heart. Perhaps it was because she was a little unhappy. All her friends were marrying and everybody took it for granted that some day she and Albert—

Then she reproached herself. They were good, sincere friends, and that was all. Still, it would be pleasant to be able to speak of Albert openly as her engaged friends spoke of their Johns and Henrys and Dicks. She was very careful never to make Albert feel that he was bound to devote himself to her. That would not have been womanly, according to her ideas.

One night they had finished a particularly excellent rabbit and were still sitting at the dining room table. Albert was now nearly 30 and Marie observed that there was a silver streak over one of his temples. He certainly was working hard. He was not looking at her at all, but was staring at the tablecloth.

"I know you'll understand," he said to her. "I never knew any one else I could talk to as I always have talked to you. We've been exceptional friends, haven't we? I tell you, Marie, a man appreciates a girl like you! You'll like Esther—she's the sort everybody takes a fancy to. I didn't think when our New York manager first took me home to dinner that I was to meet my fate, but you can never tell! Esther and I are to be married in the spring."

"You must tell me all about it," breathed Marie from across the table. Which he, being a man, did. And she, being a woman, listened, and smiled.

Meanwhile she struggled with a remarkably ghastly ache in her throat and fought the ashamed realization that she had not expected this. Why, Albert did not care anything about her! He never had meant anything serious! She had been assuming all this time that some day—

To the last she excused Albert to herself. She repeated over and over that he had a perfect right to marry whom he chose. There was a flaw in her reasoning somewhere, but she could not find it. Besides, she had no time to dwell upon it, for all her energy and wit and pride were required to act her smiling part before her friends, relatives and acquaintances.

She had at last stepped out upon the stage and entered that arena of life she had so blithely talked about when she was graduated ten years before.

INSTANT RELIEF FROM ITCH

Instant relief from that Itch. A few drops of a soothing liquid—And the Itch is gone as if by magic. Just a drop or two on the skin and no more of that torturing, endless, nerve-racking Itch. Can you imagine how it will feel—that itching agony swept away in a moment? You can know the relief if you just try the simple remedy—simplest of external Itch remedies—all of winter-green as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription.

We positively know that it alleviates the Itch immediately—we vouch for this and guarantee it—for we have seen it used in too many cases, and the cures that follow, as far as we know, seem to be permanent. Honolulu Drug Co., Fort Street.

TELEGRAPHER OF WAR TIMES ILL

GYPSY QUEEN PASSED AWAY

CINCINNATI, Nov. 26.—Jessie Key Habersham, descended from Maryland blue blood stock, but for the last five years known from the Atlantic to the Mississippi as the "Gypsy Queen," is dead in Seton Hospital. She gave up her life for a younger one which began last Wednesday. Her father, S. W. Habersham, a Baltimore broker, will lay the body in the family plot. He will also take home with him the infant and rear it.

The call of romantic love joined with that of the wild when the society girl turned away from the world she had known to ally herself with the Romany folk, and in making her his bride King John dropped his named title and she became, American fashion, Mrs. John H. Mitchell. In the tent to which they returned after the ceremony they shared the honors of royalty.

Center of Interest. Wherever the tribe wandered she was the center of interest. She made no secret of her origin and justified the course she had taken by woman's most potent reason—that she might be with the man of her choice. She informed her father of her marriage soon after its occurrence and announced to him the style of life she intended to lead. He accepted the situation, and thereafter her letters to him were always those of content.

The gypsy queen had distinguished connections. Fran is Scott Key, who wrote the "Star Spangled Banner," was her maternal great-grandfather. Marie Lloyd Key, a noted beauty in her day, was her great grandmother.

JUST TURN THE FAUCET and enjoy an INEXHAUSTIBLE supply of HOT WATER

The Ruud Automatic Gas Water-Heater is different—essentially better than all other water-heaters. The difference is a pronounced betterment in hot water service. Imagine for a minute an ideal hot water service—wouldn't it begin and end at the faucet? The has done just this, it has reduced the hot water problem to a turn of the faucet—it's as easy to get steaming hot water now as cold water—you don't go near the Ruud itself—you don't have to strike even a match.

The Ruud differs from ordinary water-heaters in efficiency—it is independent of the kitchen range—a luxury in summer time—stands in your basement—self-operating and safe.

Finally, there's a difference in the hot water—never "lukewarm," but always heated to a fixed temperature predetermined by yourself—and the water is fresh, taken clear and cold from the water mains and heated instantly as it flows.

The initial cost of the Ruud is the final cost—so moderate that you cannot afford to buy a cheaper water-heater—or to put up longer with the vexations of the old one. Study this mechanical masterpiece at close range. Investigate NOW.

LAKE VIEW NO. 1

HOME OFFICE: 515 MERCHANTS TRUST BUILDING, LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Lake View No. 2 Oil Company

THESE TWO WELLS ARE ONLY 5,500 FEET APART

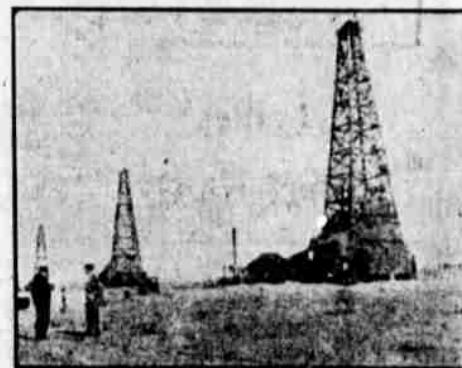

Lake View No. 1 came in March 15 and does 65,000 Bbls. oil daily. The "Scientific American" says it is the most valuable oil well ever discovered, producing over one million dollars worth of oil monthly.

Sixty-five thousand barrels oil is equivalent to 16,000 tons coal and would require ten of the largest size locomotives and 400 box cars to move the output every day.

I am taking subscriptions for stock in the above Company. This is a gamble in oil with fifty chances in our favor as against one to lose. This oil property is located in Kern County, Southern California, in the center of the world-famous Midway-Maple Oil Fields. It is about one and one-quarter miles from the world-famous oil gusher Lake View No. 1, and although two separate companies, practically the same officers and directors are connected with Lake View No. 2—It is a son of its father. The same manager, Mr. Chas. F. Off, who put down Lake View No. 1, is also manager of and is now putting down a Lake View No. 2. We are six miles nearer the gusher than the Humanna, recently exploited in Honolulu, six miles nearer than the Honolulu Consolidated, and three miles nearer than the Wm. Matson well. A 60,000 bbl. well came in one mile south of us for the Consolidated Midway Oil Company, three other big gushers within one mile east of us, and four within two miles north of us. We therefore feel our proposition is almost a certainty. Don't you think this is worth the gamble when you consider the immense profits from a good oil well? We can put down forty more wells on our property. Lake View No. 1 has been doing 65,000 bbls. daily for over eight months, at 65¢ per bbl., it is equal to $3,000 daily per 100 shares, and this is only the profit from one well. We can put down forty more wells on our property. Lake View No. 1 has been doing 65,000 bbls. daily for over eight months, at 65¢ comes to over a million dollars profit every month; their stock cost 20¢, now it takes all kinds of money to buy one share. Our stock is 50¢ per share today, and there is only a limited amount left, and when sold the price will be $1.00 par. When the well comes in about February the stock value will be according to the size of the well. This is why you can buy stock now at 50¢, later it may be worth $50.00. Lake View No. 2 well is down about 1200 feet with a 16-inch hole. The driller's log shows we are going through the same formations as Lake View No. 1, with every indication of striking a well equally as large. Every man who engages in business takes a chance; the farmer's crop may fail, the ship may sink, even your life is a gamble. Some gambles are even chances; some have odds in your favor. A gamble in Lake View No. 2 Oil Company would be $50 to $1 in your favor. Any man with intelligence takes a chance and develops into a globe trotter or tourist and lives on Easy Street; the other man who didn't is still a clerk at his old job. John D. Rockefeller might still be a clerk, but he took a gamble in oil—his salary is now about a million dollars daily. Every man and woman owe it to themselves to better their condition in life by buying some stock in this Company. Even 100 shares might put you on Easy Street; it is a safe gamble. Do it now. Mail me your check or P. O. order to cover one-third of the amount of stock you wish to order, the balance is payable in sixty days. Cut out your cigars or any other expense and buy some stock, and later on you can wear diamonds, and this is no idle boast. Phone No. 3029, or drop postal for appointment.

Lake View No. 2 was down about 1200 ft. Nov. 1.

This is your opportunity to invest in an oil company that will deliver the goods

A GIFT THAT WOMEN APPRECIATE

Is One that Combines Beauty and Usefulness

The Great White Frost Refrigerator

Has these two features as Christmas Gift to a marked degree. The White Frost is a beauty that every woman is proud to have in her home. But aside from its appearance it has points that attach it to the owner more strongly.

Of this refrigerator the question "Is there a perfect refrigerator made?" can be truthfully answered in the affirmative.

Because it is a metallic refrigerator made entirely of galvanized sheet steel, with solid brass trimmings.

Because there is not one stick of wood as large as a tooth-pick connected with it in any manner.

Because it is coated with white enamel inside and out (excepting ice-chamber).

Because, after it has been coated with said white enamel, it is placed in an oven of high temperature and the enamel thoroughly baked on.

Because it is cylindrical in form, and has no nasty corners to dig out.

Because steel will not shrink, swell, warp or decay.

CONVENIENCE.

Because it has revolving shelves. It is the handiest refrigerator made.

During the Holidays special inducements will be given buyers of this refrigerator.

Dear host—I want you to buy me a WHITE FROST.

MRS. SAGE AND SPOTLESS TOWN

Rich Widow Plans Model Municipality Near New York City.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Preliminary plans of the Russell Sage Foundation, established by Mrs. Sage as a memorial to her husband for the establishment of a model suburban city, providing healthful and beautiful homes for persons of moderate means, were announced today.

Briefly, the project is to utilize a tract of 412 acres in Forest Hill gardens, Long Island, nine miles from New York City, in laying out a town for 1500 families.

First Expenses.

The initial financial expenditures for the purpose, it is announced, amount to $2,250,000. How much more will be needed to carry the plans to completion is not known, but the foundation trustees state that Mrs. Sage is prepared to supply all the funds required to carry out her ideas.

Through today's announcement it is made plain that the enterprise is not a charity, but is to be made self-supporting and is to yield a fair return on the investment. Its purpose is to enable persons in moderate circumstances to own their own homes at a minimum cost, but amid ideal surroundings.

Cost Is Low.

The minimum cost of paying for a home there, it is estimated, will be $25 a month, including principal and interest.

For the present, laboring men whose wages are small will not benefit directly from Mrs. Sage's enterprise. The cost of land in Forest Hill, it is explained, precludes provision for the working class. Information that they will be cared for later, however, is given in the trustees' statement.

Spotless Town.

Forest Hill Gardens is to be made a real "spotless" town as nearly as money and skill can make it. It has been laid out by a landscape gardener, and its architectural development will be scrutinized by an expert. Applicants for homes will have to submit to examinations as to their character and antecedents. The present plans contemplate the opening of the model town early next year.

LETTERS TO SANTA CLAUS

The Salvation Army Santa Claus on Fort street is having some interesting experiences, especially with the children. Several notes have been thrust into his hand of late, written by children old enough to spell, and yet evidently with an undiminished faith in good old Santa, assuring him of their model behavior during the past year and of their great longing for certain dolls or toys at Christmas time. The smallest tots, however, slide up timidly to the mighty being and prefer their modest requests for tin horns or automobiles, or else march up boldly to their old-time friend and rattle off their list of wished-for presents without a question as to the good man's ability and willingness to grant them all. It is to be hoped that Santa's pack of good things will hold out so that no one will be disappointed.

The louder a child cries the less it is hurt.

PRINCESSES OF THREE ISLANDS

Oahu, Maui and Hawaii Have Named Representatives For Parade.

Miss Rose Davison, who has charge of the island princesses' division of next February's Floral Parade, received a letter this week from the Maui Chamber of Commerce advising that the Valley Isle has appointed as its representative princess Mrs. Sam Kalama, wife of Senator Samuel E. Kalama of Makawao. Miss Davison is well pleased with this selection, as Mrs. Kalama is well known as a magnificent horse-woman, of prepossessing appearance.

Miss Davison is making splendid progress with her part of the parade. With the announcement of Maui's princess, there have been three selected—Miss Wilhelmina Weight of Hilo, for Hawaii, and Miss Libbie Peck, for Oahu, being the other two.

Kauai has not yet been heard from, but as W. H. Rice of Lihue has been asked to take charge of the matter, there is every reason to believe that the Garden Island will be represented in its usual splendid style.

Molokai will also probably be heard from very shortly, George P. Cooke having been asked to see that a suitable representative be chosen. Mr. Cooke handled this feature last year. Before leaving for a brief business trip to the Coast, Frank Thompson of the Lanai Agricultural Company promised Miss Davison that the "goat island" should be represented, not only by a princess, but by a mounted escort of six young women. The company will endeavor to supply girls and horses that for "class" will be hard to beat on any of the other islands.

Mrs. Elen Low, who will have charge of the page section this year, is already working hard on plans which she is confident will make her feature of the parade one of the most attractive in the whole parade. She is working in connection with Miss Davison, and her riders, costumed appropriately, will form the escort for Miss Davison's princesses. She expects to have thirty or forty riders, and these are being selected with great care, not only for their ability as riders, but on account of their personal charms as well.

Miss Davison's work this year is especially heavy, since she has offered to design and superintend the making of the costumes for the several princesses, the islands having nothing to do but choose their representative, furnish her mount, and pay her expenses. In this way the harmony of the section, taken as a whole, is assured.

HE MATCHED IT.

After ten years he returned, foot-sore and weary. His wife met him at the door.

"I thought you were dead," she told him.

"You should have known better than that," he said. "Do you remember that last piece of net I tried to match for you? You scolded me because there was a difference of an eighth of an inch in the width of the folds, and I vowed that I would never again return from matching anything for you until I had found the exact thing you wanted."

He handed her a package. "Here is that old rose binding braid that you told me to buy."

found it last Monday in Billings, Mont. I have looked for it in thirty-seven States."

She tore off the wrappings. "It is a little too dark," she said. "But the sample has faded some in ten years," he reminded her.

"It is a little too heavy, besides." "But handling by thousands of clerks has worn the sample away some. It was heavier when I started out."

"I suppose I can make it do," she said.—Neward News.

Lanier of the Cavalry

Or, A Week's Arrest

Synopsis.

Trooper Rawdon and Sergeant Fitzroy, lovers of Dora Mayhew, quarrel in Dr. Mayhew's home. Mayhew and Lieutenant Lanier interfere. Lanier, lover of Miriam Arnold, is ordered in arrest for disobeying Colonel Burton's orders.

Trooper Rawdon is ordered arrested for assaulting Sergeant Fitzroy. He disappears. Miriam gets a fright at Sumner's house. Colonel Burton and Captain Sumner quarrel over Lanier's case.

Fort Cushing has a blizzard. Major Scott, paymaster, is lost. Fitzroy accuses Rawdon of attacking Scott. Miriam's flight is caused by a thief in her room. Lanier gives whisky to two freezing soldiers. Quinlan and Cassidy. Quinlan finds Rawdon's cap at Lanier's house.

Detectives investigate the thief's invasion of Miriam's room. Scott is found. Kate Sumner and Miriam refuse to talk about the thief. Colonel Burton sends for Lanier.

Lanier denies writing unfriendly articles about Burton. Burton accuses him of lending his civilian clothing to Rawdon. Fitzroy produces the clothing found in Rawdon's room in town. Burton also accuses Lanier of leaving his quarters while in arrest. Lanier narrowly escapes death by fire.

Dora Mayhew elopes with Rawdon. Fitzroy steals Lieutenant Foster's tent and pursues. The elopers are caught by Rawdon and Lanier's friend Ennis.

Fitzroy tries to arrest Rawdon, but Ennis lets him and his bride, Dora, go. Colonel Blagg arrives to try Lanier on Burton's charges. Captain Snaffle accuses Lanier of being Miriam's thief.

Miriam declares she knows the author of the newspaper articles. Lanier is accused of writing. Lanier tells her he loves her. Rawdon appears and tells how Lanier befriended Lowndes. Miriam's escape is told.

Lowndes confesses that he caused most of the trouble that involved Lanier. He was Miriam's thief. Fitzroy is discredited. Lanier absolved of all blame, and Miriam and Lanier are reunited.

"Who the devil's that?"

"Corporal Cassidy, sir. The post surgeon told me to bring No. 5 in here and show him out."

But by this time Mr. Lanier himself appeared in the hall. "Well, I should say! Come right in here, you two. I'll pull off your gloves and get out of those caps and things. Man alive—this to No. 5—why didn't you come before? This is no time to stand on ceremony or stay on post either. My striker's stormbound somewhere. I'd help you if I could, but I can't. Help yourselves now best you can. Rub and kick all you want to; dance if it'll warm you." And all the time he was crowding them up about a roaring stove, where presently he made them sit while he bustled about at a buffet in the adjoining room. "You'll have to help me, corporal," presently he cried. "One hand can't mix and pour and lift. There's sugar, there's hot water on the stove, there's glasses and here's whisky. Mix it hot, and down with it."

After which they were gone, rejoicing in their new found strength, yet reaching the nearest barracks only after a severe struggle and, later still, the crowded, suffocating guardroom, where now some thirty men were huddled in a space intended for twenty at most, where Cassidy and No. 5 were speedily telling to eager, appreciative ears their unusual and enjoyable experience.

"Well, ain't he the dandy lieutenant, though?" queried Casey of Fitzroy. "And did he give you yer new cap, too, Quinlan? Sure the way you marched on wid had the mange?"

Cassidy snatched it from his comrade's hand. "Mother av Moses! If he hasn't lifted the lieutenant's—! But he broke off short. One glance he had given the band within. There was an instant of indecision, then he whipped his own cap from his head and thrust it on Quinlan.

"I'm a liar," he said. "It's me own head."

"Then you wear two sizes, Jim Cassidy, an' both different." Quinlan had pulled the headpiece down and was staring in at the soft lining. "What's this?" he began, when the corporal's fingers closed like a vise on his arm.

"Shut up, Quinlan! The whisky's gone to yer noddie. Come here!" And Cassidy led him, wondering, to the barred corridor without and slammed the door behind them. "Not a word do you whisper of this to any man, Pat Quinlan," said he, never relaxing his grasp.

"God helps those who help themselves," quoth Lieutenant Blake on hearing of the incident at Lanier's quarters, "but God help those who help other fellows, unless the old man likes it." Blake was but a casual at Fort Cushing at the moment, summoned thither as a witness before a general court martial then in session, but there was nothing casual in his friendship for Rob Lanier. Two years' campaigning in Arizona and one in Wyoming had made these subalterns fast friends. Blake was no pet of the post commander. Blake had a way of saying satirical things of seniors whom he did not fancy, and Burton was one of these.

About the only officer not to put in an appearance in the club room at the store the next morning, out of doors, foot, in saddle or a drift in snow, was Lieutenant Lanier. About the first officer Burton wished to see was Rob and about the last was Blake. Yet such was the freakishness of fate that the first man to halt him, with ill time justify, was Blake, and the last of his officers whom he was destined that day to set eyes on was Rob Lanier.

If it had not been for the startling announcement about the paymaster Colonel Burton would have fought that matter out with the doctor then and there. First, however, he had to send forth his mounted men by scores in search of the missing officer and party. This done, he had once more summoned Schuhardt. Then he sent for Ennis and had what they termed a "red-hot row."

In his exasperated frame of mind Burton had been ready to believe almost any story at the expense of Lanier, and—such is the perversity of human nature—it added to rather than diminished his wrath that his revered senior surgeon should promptly corroborate the statements of both Schuhardt and Ennis and further assume personal and entire responsibility for the episode of Saturday afternoon in Lanier's quarters. That episode had started many a tongue, and one of Burton's lieutenants, thinking to win favor at the fountain head by mention of new iniquity on the part of the culprit, had deftly entangled upon it.

By this time Kate had come downstairs. "Have they found Rawdon?" she asked fearfully.

"No, not a sign of him anywhere."

"Is that the young fellow that those sergeants have been hunting for?" asked one of the detectives. "We managed to find out about him. He was in town as early as 3 o'clock Friday, and he left on No. 6 that night."

"Do you mean to tell me," said Sumner, gazing blankly at the speaker, "that he wasn't out here when this happened?"

"Not unless he had wings! That train leaves at 11:40."

Another day went by. Major Scott and his clerk, under Larrabee's skillful touch, were gradually regaining strength and beginning to answer questions. The ambulance was curtailed in even at the rear, through which the two scared troopers had managed to slip to their doom. Not until the snows melted in the spring and the contents of the ravines should be revealed was it likely they would be heard of again. The railway was still blocked. The wires were still down. Fort Cushing stood isolated from the outer world, and no less than five of its garrison were absent and unaccounted for. The two men detailed to drive in with the paymaster, two beachcombers who, being in town when the storm broke, had dared each other to face the gale and tramp out, and

"Two gentlemen to see the captain, ma'am," and Mrs. Sumner hurriedly closed the note and went below stairs to meet them. She knew well who they were and why they had come. A branch office of the Rocky Mountain detective agency had been maintained long months at the great and growing railway station. They had been summoned by her husband, and that was enough.

They asked to be shown the room, with the storm battered dormer, by this time emptied of its load of snow. They asked to see Miriam's desk. They smiled at the idea of the paymaster being held up and robbed in broad daylight by any gang in their neighborhood.

While they were yet at their work there came sounds of stamping feet at the front door, and in came Sumner, stiff from cold, but brimful of energy.

"Found Scott and his clerk, at least," he cried. "Most dead and half frozen! The driver's gone, I fear. He was blown or pitched off. The mules ran away before the gale. Those inside the ambulance were helpless. Two dropped off behind and are lost. The thing finally capsized and went to pieces, and they managed to reach a little cattle shack two miles south of town. They've found Lanier's striker, too—what's left of him."

By this time Kate had come downstairs. "Have they found Rawdon?" she asked fearfully.

"No, not a sign of him anywhere."

"Is that the young fellow that those sergeants have been hunting for?" asked one of the detectives. "We managed to find out about him. He was in town as early as 3 o'clock Friday, and he left on No. 6 that night."

Dear Mrs. Sumner—I've been living since Saturday mainly on your kindness and that delicious fruit. It was more than good of you to take such care of your incarcerated sub, and I'm ashamed to have sent no earlier thanks, but we've been banded in until this morning. I reckon they'll find the paymaster's outfit somewhere under some snow down toward Nebraska, safe, but possibly starting. I'm all alone with nothing to read. If you have anything moral, instructive and guaranteed to soften the unrepentant sinner's heart don't send it, but tell me how you all stood the storm. I hope Miss Arnold is entirely recovered. Yours, most sincerely,

R. R. LANIER.

"The last thing a man mentions in a note is the first thing he wants answered," said Mrs. Sumner sagely. "What shall I tell him for you, Miriam?"

"Tell me what is to be done to him," said the sole reply as the girl settled back dejectedly upon the pillows.

"I've tried to, child," answered her hostess kindly, patiently. "There isn't a court in the army that would sentence him to more than a brief confinement to limits and reprimand." Yet Mrs. Sumner spoke with much less confidence than on Saturday. Had not her husband had to tell her his application for leave was withdrawn, and why? Had not Dr. Larrabee admitted to her that the colonel spoke of misdeeds far more serious for which Lanier must suffer?

CHAPTER IV.

EX as Mrs. Sumner strove to assure Miss Arnold that a military arrest was far more portentous in sound than in effect, something in Kate's determined silence and Miriam's insistence added to the effect of those rumors.

Then another thing weighed heavily upon the brave heart of this loving friend and mother. Never had she known her child to be so silent, so strange, as now. Ever since Friday night she seemed to avoid all mention of the affair, to shrink from the subject—she who had ever been frankness itself, she who had never had a thought the mother did not share. She seemed oppressed with some secret.

But why should the situation so strangely affect her daughter? Could it be that she, too, cared for Rob Lanier?

She was writing her reply to his note when Maggie again appeared

"There were sorrow and estrangement at Sumner's. Never before, as Mrs. Sumner declared, had Katherine ever had a secret from her mother. Moreover, Miriam Arnold was affected in precisely the same way. She shrank from all mention of that mysterious affair of Friday night.

Wednesday night when Sergeant Fitzroy returned to the post and asked to see the colonel that officer, who was at dinner, sent answer that he would be at the office at 8 o'clock and, further, sent word to Captain Snaffle to be there at the same hour.

A spell of sharp cold had followed the blizzard. The young people of the garrison were out in force at night enjoying in the snow sports. The men had made some famous slides over the bluff, and the children along the officers' lines were playing hide and seek about the drifts and tunnels at the northward end of the parade.

Captain Sumner had been sent for and was admitted to a five minute talk with the colonel at his quarters and came away with a grave and troubled face to a ten minutes' conference with his gentle wife that left her sorely worried and distressed.

"Ask Kate," he said as once more he set forth into the night. "I've got to tramp and think this over before I do anything further." And at that moment Kate and Miriam had gone in to talk awhile with Mrs. Stannard.

It was just about a quarter of 9. The lights at the office were still burning, for the colonel had intimated that he might be back. Barker was leaning over his desk and wondering why the colonel should be colloquing with Snaffle, Crane, Sergeant Fitzroy and sending for Cassidy and Quinlan. That was a queer "outfit" of Snaffle's at least. It seemed odd that the most pronounced "Britisher" in barracks should be a sergeant in the troop commanded by the nearest thing to an Irishman among the captains.

Barker was busy with these reflections when the colonel came once more entered. The adjutant rose, but at a signal remained by his seat and waited.

Full fifteen minutes the colonel went striding up and down the long apartment. "Twice he muttered something about its taking Snaffle and his sergeant an unreasonably long time to do a simple thing, and at last, as the trumpeters were heard, with much stamping of feet and blowing of hands, gathering for the old time nightly 'walk around' that preceded tattoo roll call, Burton abruptly turned on his adjutant and said:

"Barker, how long have you known Mr. Lanier?"

"Ever since he joined, sir."

"And you knew him in his cadet days?"

"Yes, sir."

"And you told me you never heard of his writing newspapers?"

"Never, sir," answered Barker. "I believe it impossible for him to have had anything to do with those inflammatory articles about the campaign."

"You consider him absolutely square—above a lie—or a trick of any kind?"

Barker faltered just one minute. What did the colonel mean by a trick? Mischief there had been once or twice. Tricks had been played, and one only this last summer during the campaign—a trick, too, that if truth were told Lanier should have known about. At least it had been played for his benefit and had "pulled the wool" over the colonel's eyes.

"I consider him as square a man as I know and utterly above a lie of any kind," was the final answer.

"And yet you hesitate. You know or have heard rumors," said Burton emphatically.

"I have heard rumors and slanders, Colonel Burton," was Barker's probably hunchful reply.

"Well, now," said Burton impulsively—"here are you and Stannard and Sumner, three of the 'old hands,' as you are called in your respective grades, and I see plainly enough you three are tacitly condemning my attitude toward Lanier. Now, I've had enough of this. There is nothing that requires a commander to show his hand to his subordinates, but as matters stand in this regiment—oh, come in, Major Stannard. I sent for you purposely, and Sumner as well, to meet me here at tattoo." The two seniors solemnly entered the presence. "As I was saying to Barker, as matters stand in this regiment some half a dozen at least of the men referred to as its 'representative officers' are apparently resentful of my arrest of Lieutenant Lanier and attribute my course to pique, because he saw fit to show himself at the hop I declined to permit him as officer of the guard to attend. You think possibly that because men like Captain Snaffle, Lieutenant Crane and one or two of that set have been in consultation with me the matters at issue are beneath your notice. They at least are loyal to their commander and to the best interests of the regiment. Now I mean to show you, Mr. Barker," said he impressively, "to Lieutenant Lanier and say that I desire his presence here at once."

HIS WILL AGAINST ANY RACE SUICIDE

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—By the will of Selah Howell, a teacher of West Roxbury, $500 is left to Dr. William H. Wescott in trust. The income is to be used to furnish a period of rest and recreation every summer at Mr. Wescott's farm in North Chatham to persons needing it but unable to pay for it. The will also contains this: "The Rollo books I give to that one of my children who has the most children. If none of them has children, which God forbid, the Rollo

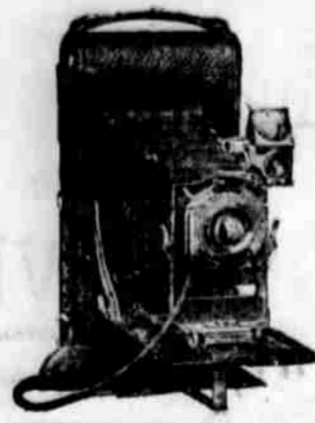

"HAVE THEY FOUND RAWDON?"

Finally a young trooper named Cary, who had arrived with the same recruit squad that brought them Rawdon and had been on terms of friendship, if not, indeed, of intimacy, with him.

Along toward dusk on Tuesday others of the searching squadron sent afar down the valley had come back, reporting that the ambulance mules were found, huddled together, half starved and still half harnessed, in a log shack or shelter to which their instinct had guided them after their heels had made chopsticks of the running gear. The ambulance body was snowed under somewhere and nowhere in sight. The driver, a civilian employed in the quartermaster's department, had totally disappeared. Scott, the paymaster; Thomas, his clerk, and Rafferty, Lanier's soldier servant, or "striker," as then called, were still half dazed.

One more unfortunate, the driver of Foster's sleigh, was in trouble. Not until two hours after the dance had been turned up with the missing equipage, a cock and bull story, and a case of what the corporal called "jag." He swore that, he got chilled through, waiting, he just thought to get one hot whisky at the store. Sentry No. 6 said he'd mind the team while the driver went in, and the next thing he knew "they'd run'd away, hell for leather," and he, their driver, had to follow two miles to Flint's ranch, close to town, where he "might have taken a nip or two more." It was his first offense and Foster forgave. He should be remarked, however, that No. 6 declared that it was not he with whom the driver left the sleigh, but two "fellows"—i. e., troopers—who happened to be near the store.

CHURCH SCANDAL AND ITS RESULT

Rev. Dr. Brown Gets in Serious Trouble in the State of California.

In the wake of the recent resignation of the Rev. Charles R. Brown, one of the best known divines of this coast, from the pastorate of the First Congregational Church of Oakland, there has come to light the facts of a story long whispered by members of his congregation, which is said by some to have been one of the contributory causes of the minister's withdrawal from his pulpit, says the S. F. Examiner.

The story has its foundation in the friendship of the Rev. Dr. Brown for Mrs. George H. Martin, wife of a prominent physician of this city, who resides at the Fairmont Hotel. Gossip seized upon this friendship, distorted it and then the whispering gathering in volume came to the ears of the principals.

These Are the Results

The result was: The Rev. Dr. Brown called on Mrs. Martin, told her of the gossip and begged her not to tell her husband.

Mrs. Brown, wife of the minister, told Mrs. Martin at her husband's church and refused to speak to her. Mrs. Martin informed her husband of Mrs. Brown's action and of the statement made by the minister.

Dr. George H. Martin called upon the Rev. Charles R. Brown and asked him to take steps to put an end to the gossip.

And in the meantime the gossip increased until Dr. Martin felt compelled to have several interviews with the Rev. Dr. Brown, but without result.

Howard, Mrs. Martin Says.

Mrs. Martin, who is a woman with high intellectual attainments, asserts that the Rev. Dr. Brown acted in a cowardly manner in maintaining silence in the face of the gossip. She avers that their friendship could admit of no gossip and that Dr. Brown did not take any action whatever to protest against the reports that were about.

Reason for Resignation.

The Rev. Dr. Brown denies that his resignation from the Oakland church was prompted by any motive other than ill-health. He refuses to discuss the visits paid him by Dr. Martin or to say what transpired at the interview.

Statement by Pastor.

When it was pointed out that a statement from him should be made, both in fairness to himself and to the church as well as Mrs. Brown, he wrote out the following:

There is absolutely nothing to all this. I have never been asked by any officer or member of my church to resign, nor has it ever been intimated to me by anyone that my resignation would be desirable. I am sorry if any outside gossip has tried to make it seem otherwise.

You ask about Dr. and Mrs. Martin. They are both good friends. They have the highest sense of honor, and the thought that there was anything evil in the friendship between the two families has never entered their heads.

The Rev. Dr. Brown yesterday afternoon refers to the conference in Dr. Martin's office consented to an interview with a representative of "The Examiner." The interview took place in the office and in the presence of Collette of the Fort Frederick Street, who is a member of the Rev. Dr. Brown's church.

The pastor frankly admitted the existence of the gossip, avowed that he could do nothing to still it, and then went on to tell how absolutely needless it all was and how it had unfortunately arisen.

"If I could have stopped any gossip about Mrs. Martin that was going on I would have done so," said the Rev. Dr. Brown, "but I did not see how in any way anything that I might do could put an end to the unkind and groundless things that were being said."

"I did speak to a woman member of my congregation about the matter when she came to me, and I told her there was absolutely nothing in it."

"It is true that there was a misunderstanding between my wife and Mrs. Martin. It is true that a letter written by Mrs. Martin to me was the cause of this misunderstanding. The letter which my wife read was a fine, good letter, such as any spiritual woman might write to a pastor."

"My wife is a sensitive woman. She misjudged the letter—the statements in it. She is a highly sensitive woman. She is sorry that she misjudged Mrs. Martin, as she herself has already stated."

"True, I corresponded with Mrs. Martin. A warm friendship existed between us. I have written letters to her and to many other members of my congregation, which, if taken apart, might be misconstrued."

"But under God I had no evil intention when those letters were written to Mrs. Martin.

ST. PATRICK'S CATHEDRAL DEDICATED IN NEW YORK NOTABLE CATHOLICS SEE THE IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY

"It is true that parts of the letters might be taken out in order to give them a special meaning, and an ugly construction might be placed upon them, but I never intended any evil construction in anything that I have ever written."

"I can not compose verse and have a spirit of friendship.

never attempted it. I did write spiritual poetry to Mrs. Martin, but it was quoted poetry, dealing with spiritual things—about religion.

"Throughout my acquaintance with Mrs. Martin our friendship has been of the best. What I have said to her or written to her has always been in the spirit of friendship.

"I have lived a good Christian life in this and in all matters. All I have is my reputation and my family. That reputation belongs as much to my family as to myself. It has always been clean, and in this unpleasant affair I can take oath that it is equally unswerving."

Dr. Brown was asked if he thought the public would place a proper interpretation upon the letters written by him to Mrs. Martin. His answer was: "I don't think the public would. They would probably distort the real meaning I intended. The letters, of course, were different from letters which would be written to the public, and the true, honest purport might be misinterpreted."

Mrs. Martin yesterday admitted that she had in her possession fully a score of letters from Dr. Brown written during the period of their friendship. She positively refused yesterday to discuss their contents nor would she disclose the nature of the poetry contained in the epistles.

"I trust that the report of the committee will put an end to this gossip," said Mrs. Martin. "It has all been very distressing to me. I must refuse to comment further upon the Rev. Dr. Brown's attitude during the time the gossip was being bruited about. I hope that nothing more will be said about the whole miserable affair."

Dr. Martin was reticent yesterday when asked regarding what he had told the committee that had called upon him.

"There is nothing to be said in addition to the statement issued by the committee," said Dr. Martin. "I think that explains the situation. I approved of it as it was framed, and we all agreed to make no further comment in regard to the matter."

Interview Brought Admissions.

It became known yesterday that the first interview had by Dr. Martin with the Rev. Dr. Brown, following the affront offered Mrs. Martin by Mrs. Brown, developed some interesting admissions from the minister. The pastor is reported to have told Dr. Martin that he had a very high regard for the latter's wife and that that regard, intended in the most friendly spirit, might have been misinterpreted.

Following the gossip, that ensued the Rev. Dr. Brown called repeatedly at the home of Dr. Martin and asked for an interview with Mrs. Martin. On each occasion, it is stated, Mrs. Martin refused to see the pastor, and since his return from Japan the families have not visited.

It has been given out that the Rev. Dr. Brown will depart soon for the East to accept one of the many positions that have been offered him. Among others it is stated that he has received an offer to act as a member of the board of arbitration of the Carnegie Institute.

Resolutions Praise Pastor.

The final conclusions of the committee of churchmen were embodied late yesterday afternoon in a statement which was approved by Dr. Dr. Martin and by the Rev. Dr. Brown.

The statement follows:

To the Trustees and Deacons of the First Congregational Church of Oakland.

Gentlemen: Your committee appointed to call upon Dr. George H. Martin relative to the recent articles appearing in the public press alleging rumors as to the relations between our pastor, Charles R. Brown, and Dr. Martin's wife, beg to report:

That we have called on Dr. Martin in company with Mr. Brown, and a full and complete statement was made to us.

"Simply Warm Friendship."

Inasmuch as the articles appearing in the newspapers did not assert that there were in fact any improper relations between Mrs. Martin and Mr. Brown, but merely set forth that there were rumors or gossip of such current in the church and community, and the articles contained along with these rumors positive statements as to their falsity, it hardly seems necessary for your committee to report on their truth or falsity.

Nevertheless, so that there may be no question about the matter, we beg to report that the statements made to us make it wholly clear that the only relation that existed was simply warm friendship.

We find that in May, 1909, there was an estrangement between Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Martin, that there was a feeling of jealousy on the part of Mrs. Brown, the manifestation of which became the occasion of a nature's gossip; but we believe Mrs. Brown's statement of her regret at misjudging Mrs. Martin should set this matter right.

"A Great Injustice."

While we would add that we are convinced that a great injustice has been done Dr. and Mrs. Martin by this gossip, we make this statement in the hope of putting a stop to it.

MOTOR CAR GOSSIP

What was probably the largest convention of automobile salesmen ever held, met at the factory of the Chalmers Motor Company, November 28, 29, 30 and December 1. More than 150 automobile dealers and salesmen who represent the Chalmers Motor Company came from all parts of the Western hemisphere to attend the Chalmers Dealers' Convention in Detroit. There were men from the Hawaiian Islands to New York, from Winnipeg to the City of Mexico. Among them were some of the most prominent men in the retail end of the automobile industry, such as Carl H. Page of New York, E. P. Brinegar of San Francisco, George W. Hipple of Philadelphia, H. L. Keats of Portland, Ore., J. H. McDuffee of Denver, Colo., Charles Padgett of Dallas, Tex.; S. S. Primm of St. Louis, Mo.; J. J. Barclay of Minneapolis, Minn.

The convention opened Monday morning with a trip through the plant of the Chalmers Company. The remainder of the convention was devoted to business sessions both morning and afternoon.

It proved to be the consensus of opinion among the men who are dealing directly with the automobile buying public, that the industry was never on a better basis. The reports of a slump and panicky anticipations of a general crash in the industry found no support among the Chalmers dealers. It was universally agreed that the business for the season of 1911 will undoubtedly be greater than that for the season of 1910.

C. C. Hildebrand, Assistant General Manager for the company, acted as chairman of the convention.

Among the principal speakers were Mr. Chalmers, on "The Future of the Automobile Industry"; "Selling Chalmers Cars"; Mr. Lee Counselman, vice-president of the company, gave the "History of the Chalmers Company and Chalmers Cars"; George W. Dunham, consulting engineer, on "The Construction of Chalmers Cars"; Carl H. Page of New York, on "The Future of the Automobile Dealer"; Charles H. Whitten of Boston, on "The Advantages of Taking Care of Users"; James Levy of Chicago on "Selling and Delivering Cars in Winter"; H. W. Ford, on "Chalmers Advertising"; George W. Hipple of Philadelphia, on "The Instruction of Automobile Salesmen"; George Grant of Detroit, on "The Arrangement of Salesrooms". The other speakers were W. S. Keeler of Kansas City; S. S. Primm, St. Louis; J. H. McDuffee, Denver; H. L. Taylor, Hutchinson, Kansas; E. A. Gilmore, Boston; J. S. Swindemann, Toledo; George Paddock, Newark, and H. L. Keats, Portland, Ore.

The convention closed Thursday night with a banquet to the dealers and guests of the Chalmers Motor Company. Two hundred and twenty-five sat at the table.

The following is a list of the Chalmers dealers who attended the convention: W. H. Woods, C. C. Sturtz, George W. Woods, E. C. Sawyer, Floyd W. Northcutt, Arthur Stanley Zell, Charles E. Whitten, E. A. Gilmore, Mason B. Hatch, Ferdinand Sheagren, F. H. Crego, E. B. Finch, A. B. Gibbs, F. J. Gibbs, A. Sales Manager E. R. Benson of the Cadillac Motor Car Company has just returned in a happy frame of mind, from one of his periodical tours among the company's dealers in Pennsylvania, parts of New York, and the New England States. Throughout the entire region he visited, Mr. Benson found conditions extremely encouraging so far as the Cadillac car is concerned.

The East—meaning New York, Pennsylvania and New England—annually absorbs one-third of the Cadillac output; and Mr. Benson found that the dealers, in almost every instance, are accepting new orders only for deliveries after the next two or three months, their allotments through that period being already pledged to buyers.

"Conditions which I found," said Mr. Benson, "confirm the Cadillac policy, as laid out before we began to manufacture the first 1911 car. As usual, we fixed our schedule of manufacture by months, and the number of cars we would ship each day. This has not been interfered with or changed in any particular, and there appears to be nothing in the immediate future which will necessitate any rearrangement or alteration.

"One of the most reassuring features I encountered was the general evidence of prosperity on the part of the Cadillac dealers. This was shown in the magnificently appointed salesrooms. Several have just completed costly new buildings for the display and care of Cadillac cars. Others have structures under way and will occupy them this fall. Still others are erecting additions to present quarters.

"I found the Cadillac to be rapidly gaining in prestige among discriminating buyers throughout the territory I covered. This condition is not confined to automobile owners, but, according to my observations and inquiries embraces the general public as well. All of which is gratifying to us as verifying the Cadillac policy of educational national advertising and close cooperation between the factory and its dealers in the field."

"More automobiles will be sold in Australia the coming season than ever before and a great percentage of these will be American built cars. The motor situation there is at the same stage now as it was in America two years ago."

This is part of a very interesting statement made by Mr. Roy W. Sandford, of Sydney, New South Wales, Australia, while at the Chalmers Motor Company. Mr. Sandford is in an excellent position to speak as regards motoring conditions in his country, from the fact that he has been so closely allied with the business for several years.

He has taken the Australian agency for Chalmers cars after making a study of the different machines built in this country, with a view to selling the one which would best meet Australian conditions and demands. Mr. Sandford is very much interested in American manufacturing methods and has spent considerable time at the Chalmers factory.

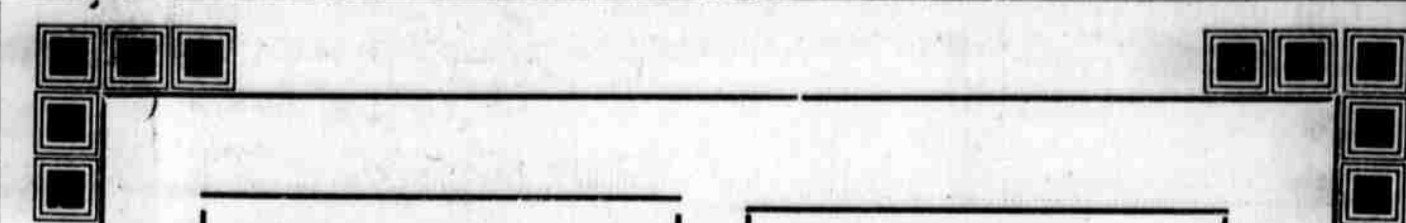

He says with regard to the Australian situation: "Up to the first of 1909 the demand was almost exclusively for European, built cars, English, French and Italian having the preference. A great deal of prejudice has existed against American cars.

"Now, however, this condition is changing. Australians are beginning to realize that the heavy, high power continental cars are not so practical or economical on the rough roads of this country. They use more gasoline which is 26 cents per gallon in Australia, and wear out more tires.

"The American cars are lighter and give greater power with less fuel. I believe that the coming season will see a greatly increased number of American cars in Australia."

A California woman—Mrs. Carl Christensen of Oakland—who has driven many makes of automobiles, says she finds the 1911 Cadillac Thirty the easiest for a woman to operate of the various cars she has handled. Mrs. Christensen was one of the first women of California to take up motoring, and has driven thousands of miles in visiting practically every part of her home State. She says she is particularly pleased with the easy cranking of the car, and rarely finds it necessary to use the crank after she has started the motor the first time in the morning. Nine times out of ten, she says, she starts the motor on the spark. She also says she finds the steering very easy and that is one of the reasons she likes the Cadillac.

American and European methods in the marketing of motor cars differ radically but perhaps in no phase of the industry is the variance of customs so noticeable as in that of handling of car bodies. Years ago in almost all the European manufacturing centers the custom was established of having the motor car maker provide the chassis alone and the body maker the body. This custom has been kept in existence to a large extent to this day although it forces the buyer of a car to deal practically with two companies instead of one. Manufacturers in America, both by choice and the demand of motor car users, adopted the plan of making the bodies as well as the chassis. The business men of America prefer to make their purchase of a car a single deal with responsibility for the car centered in one concern. Another reason for the adoption of this method was that the manufacturer of the chassis, turning out cars in quantity, could make bodies at far less cost than a dozen or a hundred body manufacturers scattered through all parts of the country could do the same work.

As a consequence of all this the making of bodies for his cars forms a considerable part of the activity of the American manufacturer of motor vehicles today. An instance of sixty days after the arrival of this is at the Pierce-Arrow plant at first 1911 car, he had booked orders for sixty cars—an average of one a day.

ONE-SIXTEENTH NEGRO BLOOD MAKES A NEGRO

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 5.—The possession of one-sixteenth negro blood brings a person under the classification of "negro," according to a decision of the District Court of Appeals today in the case of Isabella I. Wall, 5 years old, against the Board of Education. The girl was admitted to a white school more than a year ago, but was afterward excluded on the ground that she was a negro. The evidence showed that the girl had one-sixteenth negro blood in her veins.

LIFE AND DEATH OF MRS. EDDY

Passing of No. 1 Leader a Blow to Christian Science.

Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, who always insisted upon being called "Discerner and Founder" of Christian Science, was 73 years of age at the time of her death, which was due to an attack of pneumonia, from which the aged woman suffered about a week or ten days.

For more than a week Mrs. Eddy had been ailing. Still she was up and about, taking her daily drives up to Friday, when she took to her bed and did not leave it again.

First News of Death.

The news of Mrs. Eddy's death was made known simultaneously by Judge Clifford P. Smith, first reader of the Mother Church, and by Alfred Parlow of the Christian Science publication committee.

"She had been indisposed for about nine days," said Mr. Parlow's statement, "but had been up and dressed, and as late as Thursday transacted some business with one of the officials of the church."

"No physician was in attendance, but she had the assistance of students who comprised her household. With her at the time of her departure were Calvin A. Frye, Mrs. Laura E. Sargent, Mrs. Ella S. Rathvon, Rev. Irving C. Tomlinson, her corresponding secretary; William R. Backson and her secretary, Adm. H. Dickey.

"Mrs. Eddy was born in Bow, N. H., July 18, 1821, and was therefore in her nineteenth year."

Free of the congregation at the morning service of the Mother Church knew of Mrs. Eddy's death. The service was as usual and the two readers, Judge Smith and Mrs. Leonard T. Powers, presented the sermon of the day.

Talk of Successor.

As the church-goers scattered after the services, the question of future leadership was referred to with great reserve. Those who expressed a view said there would be no change in the methods of carrying on the work, that Mrs. Eddy's teachings and instruction would be implicitly followed and the church that she founded would continue to grow in the future as it had in the past.

Some inside information regarding Mrs. Eddy came through Medical Examiner West of Newton Center. Some time after the aged woman passed away, Frye called up City Physician Lewis of Newton. He advised Frye to call in the medical examiner of the district, but before this someone had got hold of Alderman Woods of Newton, who is also a member of the Christian Science Church. The alderman went to see Dr. West, and together they went to Mrs. Eddy's home.

Frye conducted Dr. West up the broad stairway to a chamber on the south side of the house. It was Mrs. Eddy's bedroom, and from its windows can be had a splendid view of the hills, woods fields and streams, with the blue hills in the background.

Conducted to Death Chamber.

He was met at the door there by a pleasant-looking woman whom he had frequently seen riding in the Eddy carriage, and who he supposed was Mrs. Laura Sargent, the chief housekeeper. By this woman Dr. West was escorted to what he called a three-quarter wooden bed, upon which lay the body of an aged woman and in a nightdress. He looked at the remains and recognized the face as that of the person he had seen several times driving out with Mr. Frye, and who he had been told, was Mrs. Eddy. The face was in repose and the hands folded. Her countenance was wasted in appearance, but no more so than could be expected in the case of an old person who had died after a brief illness.

In describing symptoms of Mrs. Eddy's illness, Frye spoke about inflammation of the chest and Dr. West drew from this and other information he received that the cause of death was pneumonia, therefore he placed the words "natural causes, probably pneumonia," upon the certificate and took his leave.

FOUND WHISKERED WHALES IN PACIFIC

Scientist Has Evidence That Leviathans Once Were Land Animals.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Whales with whiskers are not at all numerous in this part of the world. In fact, it is more than likely that any of the old whalers along the North Atlantic Coast would laugh at the suggestion that a whale with whiskers ever had been seen.

Several sets of whale whiskers form part of a collection just put on view at the American Museum of Natural History. They are part of the material obtained by Professor Roy C. Andrews of the museum staff on his recent thirty-eight-thousand-mile trip through unfrequented parts of the Pacific Ocean.

The discovery of these patches of hair, which were found growing in heavy tufts beneath the jaws of the huge animals, is considered by Professor Andrews as proof that whales at one time were hair-outed animals which lived on the land and propelled themselves on land with flippers and tail as they do at present.

The skeleton structure of certain species of whales bears out this theory.

BEETLES OUTGENERATED BY ANTS IN SUGAR FIGHT

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—With victory almost won it now appears that the government station here and their army of lady-beetles will go down to defeat before the combined forces of the mealy bug and ants.

The mealy bug do thousands of dollars' damage annually in the cane fields in this country. Being on the wing at the moment, the lady-beetles were brought from California and when they begin to play havoc with the bugs, the ants are found stalks of cane on which beetle larvae of sugar, but they are helpless to get at the sap without the aid of the mealy bugs in poisoning the cane.

QUEEN WILHELMINA TO RAISE GOATS IN ALABAMA.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 3.—According to Francis L. Robbins, president of the Alabama Portland Cement and Coal company, Queen Wilhelmina of Holland is going to raise Angora goats in this state. The queen is interested in the company and has suggested that 14,000 acres be set aside for the raising of goats.

QUEEN WILHELMINA

"Angora goats will be raised on the hillside of the rough part of our property and hogs and cattle on the other parts not adapted to the raising of corn and tobacco," said President Robbins. "We will pay special attention to the goats, as they are becoming rapidly an article of great value, not only for their pelts, but for their flesh. We have found that thousands of these animals were slaughtered for food in Chicago last year. We will ship our goats to Chicago. In the meantime we will be taking out the coal from under our land and building cement mills at other points."

Professor Barber says this may be like "nature falling," but all he asks is that doubling ones visit him, removing mealy bugs from the station.

"A House Divided Against Itself Cannot Stand"

THE HONOLULU ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND CLUB

AS previously announced has been organized for the purpose of bringing American citizen to our city and working for the development of the Islands with the expectation of increasing the city's population to ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND on or before the year 1915. This being our object, we do not want one half or any part of the residents claiming that Hawaii is all right and the others saying that it is not all right. We do not want any difference of opinion about the welfare of the city. While we do not say that such conditions prevail, yet we do say that in order for us to succeed we must have the support and united effort of every man, woman and child in our city who may be eligible to membership in the Club. No one can be too rich nor too poor to enter into the spirit of this great undertaking.

We Want

Everybody to say something good about Honolulu.

Everybody to join our Club and work for it.

Everybody to stop kicking and become a booster for Honolulu.

Everybody to sign one of our Applications and carry out the obligations therein contained.

Everybody to furnish us with the names and addresses of their friends, relatives and acquaintances living on the mainland who might be induced to come to Honolulu.

Everybody to stop their pessimistic argument about our agricultural and industrial opportunities being limited, and that this is no place to live or make money.

Everybody to cease saying that our climate is hot, enervating and unhealthy—a statement absolutely false.

Everybody to wake up, exercise themselves and get the benefit of this Paradise—

And Remember

That we are living in a land of health and plenty.

That we are living in a progressive age and with conditions different today from what they were in the past.

That our Islands are rapidly becoming Americanized and down-to-date methods are being practiced everywhere.

That our diversified agricultural possibilities are better today than they have ever been.

That our industrial and manufacturing interests present inter-national opportunities.

That our climatic conditions are the best and most healthful in the world.

That the world's greatest travelers have indorsed our Islands and our city as the most beautiful they have ever seen, and that Hawaii is the ideal Home Land of the American people.

That our military and naval developments are unparalleled in the history of the United States.

That the War Department will make Honolulu the pay station of the Pacific.

That the Y. M. C. A., Carnegie Library, Million Dollar Post Office, New Churches, American Schools and other public and private buildings now under construction are all evidences of a big American city.

That our increased and improved transportation facilities will develop and revolutionize the trade of the Pacific and benefit Honolulu in no uncertain way.

That the Panama Canal will make Honolulu the divisional point for the commerce of the world, the port of call for every steamship that crosses the Pacific and the desired Mecca of every traveler.

That we have more wealth than any city of like size in the United States or Europe.

That we can just as easily get ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND residents in Honolulu by the year 1915 as it is possible for other cities that have ten times that population and only one-fourth of the territory tributary.

WE are not working for or against the interests of anyone or set of individuals, firms or corporations, but intend to confine our work entirely to the securing of one hundred thousand residents in Honolulu on or before the year 1915. We have a territory with one hundred million people to draw upon and we invite everybody to join our Club. We will give big prizes to those who are instrumental in assisting us in accomplishing this splendid work.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The King and The Geese

EVERY man to his own business' is a very good saying," said daddy. "This evening I am going to tell you how a king could not do a boy's work."

"The king's name was Maximilian, and he was the ruler of Bavaria. One day he went for a walk into the country, taking with him a book to read. After a time he became drowsy and fell asleep, and when he awoke and left the tree under which he had been sitting he forgot to take his book with him. It was not until he had walked more than a mile that he missed his book. He was still too tired to walk back for it, so he looked about for some one to send. There was no one in sight but a boy tending a flock of geese in a meadow, and the king said to him:

"Boy, if you will go back for my book—telling him where it was—I will give you this gold piece."

"I should like to have the money," said the boy, "but I dare not leave my geese. They would wander away without me."

"I will take care of them," said the king. "That made the boy laugh. 'You would not know how to do it,' he said."

"You shall show me," said the king. "And here is the gold piece." So the boy gave him his whip, showed him how to crack it and went off.

"He was hardly gone a minute when the geese missed their master. When the king tried to crack the whip as the boy had done he found that he could not get a sound from it. Then the geese cackled and hissed and went off, half flying and half running, into a nearby vegetable garden and began to eat up the vegetables.

"No matter how hard the king tried, he could not get them out. When the boy returned he was angry and said: 'There! It is just as I thought it would be. I have your gold piece, and here is your book, but I shall be scolded for letting the geese get into the garden.'

"Never mind," said the king. "I will help you to get them out." And after a great deal of hard work and much cracking of the whip by the boy the two did get the geese away from the vegetables and into the meadow.

"Whew!" said the king. "That is the hardest work I've done in many days. Boy, do you know whom you have had working for you?"

"No," said the boy. "Who are you?"

"I am the king," said Maximilian, "and I am afraid that I will never make a gooseherd. Here is another gold piece for the trouble I have caused you."

SINS LAID AT PORTUGAL DOOR

Correspondent Charges Inhuman Treatment of Monks and Nuns.

Excessive treatment of monks and nuns by the new republic of Portugal is charged by the New York World's Lisbon correspondent, Francis McCullagh, who is editorially sympathetic with the clericalists. In a recent dispatch to his paper, he had this to say:

"Establishing the Portuguese Republic was a break piece of work, and no one can quarrel with the Republicans because they expelled the reigning orders, for they think they have been very badly treated by those orders, especially the Jesuits. Neither can they be blamed for their somewhat stupid rejection since similar enthusiasm is manifested by every people who have taken the same stance—by the Turks, Persians and Japanese, as well as by Portuguese."

"But the Portuguese Government seems to have made a mistake and seriously harmed its own cause by ill-treating nuns and allowing soldiers and sailors to pillage several churches, monasteries and convents."

"Before describing these mistakes in detail I must first say that no people on earth is entitled to reproach the Portuguese in these matters. The revolutionists acted with far more violence, though with far more chastity and gentleness, than considering everything, the Portuguese revolutionists exhibited a extraordinary self-restraint when they set the nuns free."

"Two wrongs, however, do not make a right and undoubtedly the treatment of the nuns was disgraceful, barbarous and almost unprecedented. Granting that they had no legal right to exist as communities, the Government should have so notified them, giving ample time to prepare to go to their homes or take up some other profession."

"But," said a marine officer to me, "we had to protect their nuns from the mob, therefore we brought them as soon as possible to the arsenal."

"Now there was not the faintest disposition on the part of the mob to attack convents. Most of the attacking was done by the soldiers and blue-jackets. The Irish convent of Bon Succeso at Belmont, the Dominican convent at Vitefica, the Irish Dominican monastery of Corpo Santa and others are still protected by a few soldiers. All the other convents could have been protected in like manner. I say nothing of the monasteries, especially the Jesuit establishments. I confine myself to the case of the nuns, and I think that case was hard."

From Thursday to Sunday the nuns were taken through the streets in their automobiles and carriages. These vehicles were filled with armed men, some displaying bare swords. The shouts of the crowd and the jeers of the soldiers frightened these unfortunate women nearly to death. Some wore their religious habits, most wore the national mantilla, probably many had never been outside a convent since they were children. No small number were of noble birth and refined appearance. "Some of them were very young, some mere novices. To intrust them to drunken, at least highly excited blue-jackets to drive them through howling mobs was cruel."

"I have since discussed the matter with foreigners, all of them atheists, save one, who is a Lutheran, and they can not find words strong enough to express their contempt and loathing for the 'Damos' who have treated delicate, helpless women in this disgraceful manner."

One Child Carried a Doll.

"If only grown-up women were concerned the matter would not be quite so bad. But the girls and children who had been boarding in the convent schools, orphans and the poor whom the nuns had been taking care of were similarly escorted to the arsenal or to the railway station. I saw one child carrying in her hands a doll. Before her swaggered a truculent bully with an unsheathed sword. Around her surged as villainous-looking gang of civilians as ever occupied the inside of a prison."

"If these men had been the bravest of the brave I could not have consoled my disgust. When I discovered what an open-air bazaar affair the revolution of October 4 really was, my contempt for them knew no bounds. The New York police force could disarm and lock up the entire flock of 'heroes.'"

"Even if it had become necessary to remove the nuns to some central place of safety, why send them to the arsenal? Could they not all have been collected in some large convent or other building on the outskirts of the city? If the republican government wished to protect them from the mob, why did it expose them to the jeers of the mob by taking them through the very heart of the city?"

"My opinion is that the government wished to excite the anti-clericalism of the capital. It has no programme, but anti-clericalism. It has no other card to play. It has no other reason for existence."

"In the arsenal, which is also a naval barracks, the nuns were herded together in one large room. This was also, I think, a wholly unnecessary inconvenience and indignity. When several hundred had been gathered in this room the great Afonso Costa, Citizen and Minister of Justice, descended on them in all his glory. He rushed in the arsenal in a powerful automobile—and I would here beg the reader to note that this rushing about of Cabinet Ministers in automobiles is a feature of the present situation. Most of these motor cars were stolen, and the great

CHINA TO BUILD A BIGGER NAVY

Government Considers New Loan of Twenty-Five Millions for Development.

PEKING, Dec. 2.—The Chinese government has opened negotiations for a further and distinct foreign loan of $25,000,000 to be used for the development of the navy. This is the result of the report made by Prince Tai Shan, uncle of the emperor, after his visit to America.

It is probable that Americans will receive the largest share of the orders for the construction of the new vessels, as well as the privilege of furnishing one quarter of the loan.

In some quarters the new enterprise is criticized on the ground that China does not require an enlarged navy, while the money thus expended is needed badly for reform.

PLATTVILLE, Colo., Dec. 3.—Caught by the mail train of a swift flying express train yesterday, P. C. Tiffany, a Union Pacific brakeman, was carried several hundred yards like a fish on a hook and then hurled 100 feet through the air. He escaped with severe cuts and bruises. Tiffany was climbing down the ladder of a freight car in front of the Plattville station when "hooked" by the passing express train.

If a man is honest with himself he can be depended upon to give his neighbors a square deal.

In a Looted Monastery.

"On Saturday as I entered the pillaged convent of Quelhas, and certainly the sight was most pitiable. The place had been a boarding school for poor girls. Their little bedrooms had been turned topsy-turvy, their school books, their sewing and embroidery, their half-finished socks, their little toys, their linen, their humble underclothing, hats and boots lay strewn on the floor."

"Few of the statues and religious emblems had been injured. Evidently the looters of the place had been out after plunder alone. The open drawers, the smashed cupboards, the broken writing desks, spoke only of a search for hard cash and gold ornaments. The house was filled with a civil and military rabble, still hunting for loot. The soldiers and blue-jackets were armed, of course; some of the civilians flourished long daggers in a manner that suggested drink or insanity. The worst specimens of humanity on the Thames embankment would have recoiled in horror and disgust from the filthy crowd which infested this nunnery."

"How a Government worthy of the name could allow its regular troops to take part in such an orgy is incredible. Why the place was attacked at all would be difficult to say were it not the fact that the Minister of Justice and the Republican authorities have obligingly furnished us with an explanation. As this explanation applies to the attacks on the adjoining Jesuit House and on the Church of S— last Saturday night I shall consider it in some detail."

Government's Explanation.

"It is that the Republican troops were fired on from these establishments, several being killed or wounded. In the case of Quelhas the firing is said (by La Lucta, October 5) to have taken place on Friday. In the case of Santos it must have taken place later, since that church was pillaged on Saturday night. Now all of these establishments were deserted at the time the firing is alleged to have taken place. The Jesuits and the nuns had fled. The church had been closed and locked for days. Even if the priests and nuns were still concealed in their former houses, why should they begin firing on the Republicans three or four days after the monarchy had fallen and all resistance been crushed?"

"The Portuguese republicans must have had an exceedingly low idea of the level of intelligence and credulity outside Lisbon when they started this story. I discussed with the subject with an 'unhealthy looking' party-faced naval officer on duty in the arsenal, and though our conversation was interrupted from time to time by another naval officer (drunk) periodically 'butting in' to assure us in an offensive manner that Portugal was still the greatest naval power in the world, I gathered a very clear idea of the party-faced officer's views on the Quelhas question. They aver that three days after the fighting had ceased, the Jesuits had begun to amuse themselves by throwing 'small pieces of dynamite' at blue-jackets passing in the streets below."

"There I shall leave the matter. There is no use in going any further on such evidence as this. None of the correspondents wired it. I think though the censor did his best to make them do so."

"I don't want those fantastic tales about the blue-jackets firing on the convent," said that gentleman to a friend of mine a German correspondent. "I certainly shall not allow such despatches to pass. What I want is the truth. Now if you tell the truth and say that the friars threw bombs at the troops—well, I shall let that pass with pleasure."

"On the strength of this story the Nunnery and the Jesuit establishment were both riddled with bullets. The great tower of the convent is piled all over with rifle balls, and the firing at this empty house continued for hours."

"Three hours did the great Minister of Justice spend in this frivolous questioning, while in the background stood a solid wall of 'yellow journalists' with vacuous smiles of admiration on their faces with notebooks in their hands and without two ideas in their heads. They admired the astute, the relentless, the valorous cidadao Afonso."

"In O Mundo of October 10 four solid columns and several tremendous headlines tell how the great Republican leader browbeat the Nuns, wrenched from them their names, ages and other profound secrets. How splendidly Citizen Afonso cowed them with his magnetic eye, overwhelmed them with his imperious gestures, made them tremble at his Napoleonic frown. Verily a great day for 'A Republica Portuguesa viva a liberdade. Viva a valoroso cidadao Afonso'!"

"One does not need to be a lawyer to realize the unvarious ineffectiveness of all these proceedings on the part of a Cabinet Minister at a time when his country is anxiously awaiting some evidence of constructive statesmanship. Let him expel all the monks and nuns if he wants to, but let him refrain from wasting whole days by personally playing the Lord High Excellence in order to drive fear into the hearts of a few old men and women."

"Worse remains to be told, however. The republican and atheistic newspapers when editors now write Portugal, printed details of alleged immorality on the part of the nuns, details so revolting, so exaggerated, and so scandalous that they over-shot the mark and deceived nobody."

The Express (Oct. 9, p. 1, col. 6) the semi-official organ of the Government contains this disgusting matter. In O Mundo of October 10 one will find a similar story.

IN THE PLACE DEMANDED OF OUR CONSCIENCE

Edited by E. S. Goodhue, M. L., Honolulu, Hawaii.

REV. GEORGE W. KENT.

If God bids the world fly, it is because there are wings in the world, which only hide their time. The worm may lack even feet with which to climb, and seem a helpless, worthless burden in its little world. But wings, as well as feet, are there, and by the bee, busy, skilfully hovering, will show the fulfillment of God's promise in a winnowed and footless worm. Patient and keen observers, like the Swiss Huber and the English Darwin, have taught us to measure even worms with the measuring line of God, and to know that from the worm to man, we do not have God's creatures made, we have God's creature in the making. The wings are not there—yet; but wait till God is done before you say that any world of God—within the bee-hive's humble dome or under the sunlit arch of heaven—is breeding only worms that can neither fly nor climb.

The Divinity of Man—the great great truth that instead of man being a fallen, depraved and ruined wretch, as the common creeds have taught, he is the child of God, God's own child in the growing, God's own image in the making,—the Divinity of Man is a truth for our best thought and bravest faith to grasp; it is hid to us if we let tradition blind us or pessimism daunt our trust.

Yes, and we must love men to see the divinity within them. Dogmas that brand men as godless and evil, yet will live as long as men feel toward one another hatred and contempt.

I call you to believe with me in the Divinity of Man, because you are people of good-will as well as people of free thought and fearless faith.

To start with one of the noblest statements of man's divinity, let us go back, with all our Christian following, to that hymn of creation, so wonderful in its simplicity and strength, preserved to us in the book of Genesis. Redneck to prove it tells us that God created man in the likeness of Himself, out of His own spirit, breathed into him the breath of life, and gave him power to become one with Him in every attribute,—even to eternal life.

The men who dared that splendid faith as to their being and their origin made the fit beginning of a Holy Bible for the strengthening and inspiration of man-kind.

And we today, who know something of the process of man's creation, who begin to realize the infinite and perfect order fulfilling its infinite and perfect things in man, who are catching glimpses already of what it is going to mean, as the work goes on to be a man, we are carried back, by all we learn, by all that we can prophesy, to the same faith in man's origin and being.—It was divine, the highest and holiest in all the universe began to be realized on earth, when the human began to be.

So far the faith of all Christendom goes with us, but we go farther still.

We believe of the divine creation, thus begun, that it has never failed; we believe of the image of the highest in the human that it has gained instead of lost; we believe in the divinity of man as more richly and completely true of men today than at any time from the beginning until now.

And that which our fellow Christians call man's loss of the divine in him, his fall and ruin we believe was really, as the old Bible story frankly and bravely says it was the triumph of the godlike in him. Here is my little child, in his helpless innocence and ignorance he knows nothing of right and wrong. He fulfills the little circle of his activities all unconscious of what is good and what is ill in the things he does. Nay, but now he does begin to know. He is hearing of a right and wrong. He is growing to a sense of duty. He is adding to the language of his thought and sentiment the great word "ought." Shall I call this his fall and ruin? Shall I not rather call it the wondrous step that lifts my little one from the beast to the human from the animal to the divine?

And this was the heavenward stride in that long march of man from dust to godliness which has been called man's fall. When in the course of His creation God brought his child to a consciousness of duty to a knowledge of the difference 'twixt good and evil, instead of being a fall, it was the surest birth of the divine the universe had ever seen in a creature ever known.

What if it did mean sin? Of course it meant sin. Let us not be frightened out of our faith by that. When you come to realize the range, the character of God's creation of the divine in his beginning of a man, you will not let it stagger you that God's purpose found a place, that his universe makes room, for sin.

In the infinitely great achievement of bringing man from the infancy of his animal existence to the measure of the stature of the manhood of a perfect son of God, all sin, all foibles, all tragedies had an all-sufficient and beautiful reason for their being. For, let us face the facts. The things that we call evil came by no first man's disobedience and fall. The pains, the penalties, the toils, the dying, the struggle to survive the cunning, the ferocity, the selfishness, the appetite and passion—all were here ages before man existed upon earth.

And it was not the depravity, it was the divinity in man that made sin of them. Had he remained a beast these things had remained an innocence in him, and a meaningless, pointless stain of blood and sweat and tears on God's creation, forever.

But it was man's divinity that dreamt of a freedom made the field of a splendid self-control; of a temper trained from wildness into passion for purity and rectitude; of a cunning lifted into noble skill and generous wisdom; of a self-love broadened into sympathy and sacri-rice. It was the divinity in man that set the old beast upon his power beneath, as no more worthy of him, and strove against itself doing as a sin. For man's divinity did more than dream of making the animal within him and the conditions of toil and strife and struggle to exist surrounding him the means of growth as God's child ought to grow. The dream became his ideal first dimly seen, then loved, then willed to be his own, then wrought into the fabric of an even nobler likeness to his Heavenly Father. And that struggle to fulfill an ideal which the divine in him has ever been lifting higher, that struggle out of which is coming the strength of character, the iron will, the godlike might of spirit which God wants in his making of a man,—that struggle accounts for all the history of sin, and points, at least to what God means by its existence.

Genesis is right; man was created in the image of God, and the faith is sound which says that likeness has increased as the centuries have come and gone. And today we men and women,—who are sinless and perfect by the standards men hallowed a few thousand years ago,—we, today, accuse ourselves of sin and imperfection because the divine in us forever sets the ideal far ahead. Instead of destroying my faith in man's divinity, sin reveals to me the price at which a good and wise and loving God was willing to create His likeness in His child. Sin shows me that God counted man's divinity worth all the "evil" of strife and shame and stripes it cost.

In his world of long ago were wicked, shameless men,—and women too. More helplessly and out, cast than today, for society was more cruel to its sinners and made it harder for them to recover. And they were sinning on in sheer abandon to their fate, despairing that any better way was possible to them. One man there was who had more faith in them than that. He was no shrewd man of the world, this Galilean prophet. He had not learnt to set down any child of God as renegade. He believed their evil doing was not the true expression of their being, that by inmost and indestructible affinity they belonged to a diviner way of life.

And in that sublime and simple faith of his he called them to arise with him and together they would be God's ministers on earth. And behold, wicked men, abandoned women, rose and went with him, and out of slanders and outcasts, saints and heroes came.

Where was the strength of his appeal? It was where he believed it to be. It was in them. The way of sin was not their real way. True they had taken it, making all doing the very business of their lives; but it was by letting low conditions, evil habits overmaster them, it was by surrender to despair, it was not by the nature and constitution of their being. You remember how Jesus sold of the prodigal not in his rioting and drunkenness, not acting the beast, but repentant, and turning homeward, acting the man again. "He came to himself." And you have but to follow any who have ever turned from wickedness to be the disciples of such a one as Jesus, you have but to note their coming to themselves, their joy in the new life, to conclude as you compare it with the unrest, the wretchedness they have left behind that in the order of the universe, and by the very gravitation of their nature, human beings belong to what is good and sane and godlike, and not to the madness and selfishness of sin.

Such was the faith of Jesus in the worth, the divinity of man. He believed of saints and he believed of sinners too. He believed of it of them all. If that could be his faith in the days of Herod and a Pontius Pilate, shall we not dare to make it ours today?

Yes, and finally, right there, in that faith of Jesus in man's divinity, let us hear the call of his gospel to ourselves. There let us find the bond of our fellowship with him.

Why shall we be followers of Jesus and try to make the spirit of his life our own? Because we are condemned and sentenced wretches, doomed to perish unless we accept his sacrifice? Because we can do nothing of ourselves and only he can save us?

No! A thousand times, no! He is our Master, our Exemplar, because he is our Brother. Because for life like his we too were born into the world. Because to be like him is the one true fulfillment of our human nature. Because in being less than Christlike men and women we are not yet our completest selves.

He has no easy life for us to live, no heaven to be won by helplessness. He bids us to be as great and generous as he showed himself to be; he sets us duties worthy the sons and daughters of the highest; yea, he has for us the sublime ambition, which demands an immortality to seek it in,—that we be perfect as our Father, God, is perfect. And we,—we give him our allegiance, we pledge him our lives, we rise out of our weakness, we break with our despair, we set under foot our sin, and we go forth with him to the achievement of the perfect.

DOG'S HEART OUT BUT HE STILL LIVES

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—By his reference yesterday to the current achievements of the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research, where he said a dog's heart recently had been removed, placed in cold storage with its owner and the organ returned to the living animal a week later, Thomas A. Edison gave the first inkling of the surgical marvels that are daily being performed upon the heart by Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Institute. Dr. Carrel today modestly refused to discuss his recent experiments. From other official sources, however, several important details were learned regarding Dr. Carrel's experiments. Dr. Carrel has actually succeeded in removing the hearts of dogs, grafting upon the hearts and replacing the hearts without seeming discomfort in a great many cases. One of these dogs was chloroformed two and a half months after the operation and was in perfect condition. The other two dogs are still living and have suffered absolutely no ill effects.

DRINK HABIT AMONG WOMEN

W. C. T. U. President Talks on That and Cigarette Smoking.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12.—The annual convention of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union assembled here today at the Lyric, with delegates present from all parts of the United States, Canada and British Columbia. Of chief interest at the opening session was the annual address of the president, Mrs. Lillian M. Stevens. She said in part: "We are sometimes told that drink among women is on the increase. It can hardly be so among the outcasts and lower classes, for it is largely drink which has brought them where they are. Alcoholic beverages can rot justly, even among women, be called a class drink, for alcohol in the costly wine glass is as deadly and dangerous as it is in the dingy whiskey mug.

Little Cigarette Smoking.
"We are sometimes told that there is much cigarette smoking among women. In the course of my travels in England and America I have never seen a woman with a cigarette in her mouth except in certain localities in New Mexico, where the surroundings were not at all pleasant to contemplate. There is reason to believe that some women in England do smoke cigarettes and we are told that there are some in America of like habit. I have seen now and then a woman in a hotel smoking a pipe.

"I am glad that the National and World's W. C. T. U. has a Department of Anti Narcotics and I am happy in believing that the number of women who smoke cigarettes in elegant homes or who smoke tobacco in any form in the tramp lodging house are very few in this country."

Referring to the "white slave" traffic, the speaker reviewed recent Federal, State and city attempts to stifle it, and continued:
"It matters little whether the traffic is 'organized' or not. The fact that it exists in New York and elsewhere is sufficient to arouse humanity-loving people. Without any exaggeration it is appalling enough to anger the most apathetic, and investigations in some cities have revealed that even little girls in their infancy are sold into these dens of infamy."

Mrs. Stevens vigorously recommended an amendment to the Federal Constitution prohibiting polygamy and giving to Congress power to enforce such prohibition by suitable legislation.

The Jeffries Johnson prizefight came in for its share of criticism, and Mrs. Stevens urged adoption of the bill now pending in Congress prohibiting the interstate transportation of fight pictures.

Shouldn't Toast President.
The American people should frown on the proposal of drinking the President's health in an alcoholic beverage, in the W. C. T. U. president's opinion. She said:
"Quite recently our daily papers have had somewhat to say relative to the reported statement of Mr. Whitelaw Reid, the ambassador to Great Britain, in which he advocates the adoption in this country of the custom of drinking a toast to our President in the same form that Great Britain's people drink to the health of their King. The President of the United States is entitled to as much good cheer and good health as the king or queen of any country, but we should condemn any custom which called for the use of wine or other alcoholic liquor, and it surely would be out of place to drink to the health of President Taft in alcoholic liquor, since on public occasions he has himself so splendidly set to the young men of this nation the example of total abstinence. Ambassador Reid did not suggest the kind of drink to be used."
