BREASTFEEDING FOR THE BABY- FOR HEALTHY WOMEN

Program report:

Name of the program: Breastfeeding for the baby- for healthy women

Date of activity: 04-06-2022

Venue: JBRPC seminar hall.

Organized by: IQAC, JBRPC

Number of participants: 38

Report:

A seminar on the benefits of breastfeeding for both the mother and the child was held at Joginpally B.R. Pharmacy College for female students and faculty. The topic of discussion was "Breastfeeding for the Baby- for Healthy Women." The seminar speaker outlined the following benefits of breastfeeding.

Breastfeeding can help shield infants from a number of acute and chronic conditions. Babies that are breastfed are less likely to suffer from asthma, obesity, type 1 diabetes, and SIDS. Additionally, breastfed infants had a lower risk of stomach bugs and ear infections. For most newborns, breast milk is the best source of nutrients.

The mother's breast milk will alter as the child gets older to suit their changing nutritional needs. Both you and your child can benefit much from breastfeeding. It gives your infant the ideal nourishment and supports the development of their immune system.

The health advantages for females include a decreased likelihood of developing breast and ovarian cancer.

WOMEN IN SOCIAL SERVICES

Program report:

Name of the program: Women in social services

Date of activity: 12-03-2022

Venue: JBRPC seminar hall.

Organized by: IQAC, JBRPC

Number of participants: 37

Report:

The majority of social professionals in the field are women. Both within and outside of their job, they encounter bias. NASW Board-mandated since 1975, the National Committee on Women's concerns (NCOWI) was created in order to create, evaluate, and oversee NASW initiatives that have a substantial impact on women's concerns. The mission of NCOWI is still vital now, as it was at the time of its founding, because there are still issues that discriminate against and burden women.

The first female American to win the Nobel Peace Prize was Jane Addams, dubbed the "mother of social work." She talked about challenges in society that particularly affect women. Since Addams' time, social workers who advocate for reproductive justice, human trafficking, intimate partner abuse, gender bias and discrimination, and equal pay for equal work have faced obstacles.

THE ROCKY ROAD FOR GENDER EQUALITY: ARE WOMEN BETTER OFF NOW THAN 1970...?

Program report:

Name of the program: The rocky road for gender equality: Are women better off now than 1970...?

Date of activity: 06-02-2021

Venue: JBRPC seminar hall.

Organized by: IQAC, JBRPC

Number of participants: 34

Report:

A seminar on "The rocky road for gender equality: Are women better off now than 1970?" was held by Joginpally B.R. Pharmacy College, and topics included women's historical and present circumstances. 50 Years Ago And Today: Gender Equality When the global score was 46.3 out of 100 in 1970, it meant that women had, on average, fewer legal rights than males. The three categories with the largest disparities were pay, the job, and parenthood. Women possessed, on average, fewer than half of men's legal rights fifty years ago. They were not permitted to work in industrial jobs in many nations, and there was no legal protection against discrimination in the workplace based on gender.

Only a few nations provided paid leave for mothers, and there was essentially no domestic abuse legislation in place. Laws prohibiting spousal abuse and workplace sexual harassment were essentially nonexistent in 1970. There are currently just 32 nations without domestic violence laws and 49 without laws prohibiting sexual harassment.

VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN

Program report:

Name of the program: Violence against women

Date of activity: 12-12-2020

Venue: JBRPC seminar hall.

Organized by: IQAC, JBRPC

Number of participants: 35

Report:

Joginpally B.R. Pharmacy College conducted a seminar on "Violence against Women" and explained to students about current violence's occurring in India against women and discussed about preventive measures to decrease violence.

Today, it is widely acknowledged that violence against women is a serious global human rights violation and a public health issue. It has significant effects on women's physical and mental health, making it a significant risk factor for illness. The purpose of this dictionary is to provide definitions for the different types of interpersonal violence that target women and girls. We will discuss terminology and fundamental ideas used in this public health problem's research and policy. Section 354 of the Indian Penal Code declares it an additional offense to use force against a woman or even threaten to use force with the goal to 'outrage her modesty'. By permitting the police to make arrests for such acts without a warrant, it takes it more seriously than ordinary criminal activity.
