Director Profiles

Thomson, Mark (Chairman)

Mark is married to Kathleen and has two daughters, Rebecca (23), who works at the Tayforth Machinery Ring, and Fiona (21) who is in her fourth year studying Rural Business Management at SRUC Craibstone.

After leaving school in 1983, Mark worked for a year at Spott Farm, Dunbar, then studied agriculture for two years at Elmwood College. In partnership with his father, he rented a farm in East Fife for 11 years, and worked for a land and estate agent for five years (in compensation claims and farm management), before going into contracting with his father for two years, in fencing and roller mill.

Since June 2009, he has been running the family farm. Today, there are 82 Luing cows and heifers, as well as four pure Simmental cows to calve in the spring. As he is still building the herd, all Luing heifers are presently retained, with Sim-Luing heifers sold for breeding and bullocks sold at store market. Alongside the Luings are 450 Texel cross (to the Suffolk tup) and Scotch mule ewes (to the Texel tup). Texel cross lambs are retained, and the majority of the lambs are sold prime through Farmstock Scotland Ltd and the rest through the live market. He also grows approximately 60 – 70 acres of spring barley for the high nitrogen market, as well as 30 – 40 acres of kale for out-wintering the in-calf cattle.

Outwith farming, Mark was an active member of Kinross YFC and played rugby for Edinburgh Wanderers, Kirkcaldy and Kinross, and district rugby with the North and Midlands. Currently, he is chairman of the West Fife & Kinross branch of NFUS.

McGowan, Neil (Vice-Chairman)

Neil and his wife, Debbie, farm in a family partnership at Incheoch, at the foot of Glenisla, home to the Dirnanean herd. Neil's parents, Finlay and Judy, started in Luings with the purchase of Dirnanean Farm in 1977. The current herd of about 150 cows are partly bred pure for replacements, with the rest crossed to produce Sim-Luings.

A recent reduction of the Simmental herd is making way for more Luing cows. Incheoch is also home to flocks of Lleyn and Texel ewes, with a ram sale held on the farm. Having worked successfully with performance recording in maternal sheep, Neil is keen to use his time on the Board to progress a performance-recording scheme in the Luing breed. Neil has recently been on a Nuffield Farming Scholarship, during which Debbie has had to rely on extra help from their children, Tally (14) and Angus (13). His future aspirations are to keep improving the Luing herd, and to take a really good bull to Castle Douglas.

Stanners, Dave (Past Chairman)

Dave is married to Annabel, and they have a daughter, Isabel (10), and a son, Finlay (5). In September 2016, Dave and Annabel secured the tenancy at Low Chesterhope Farm, West Woodburn, Northumberland. Low Chesterhope Farm is a 600-acre upland farm rising to over 1,000 feet above sea level. The plan for the farm is to carry 80 Luing cows and followers, 300 Northumberland-type Blackface ewes and 400 North of England mules. Dave and Annabel are very much looking forward to bringing their family up in their native home of Northumberland after 12 successful years based on Merseyside.

They also look forward to carrying on the promotion of the Luing breed from their new base.

Symons, Charles (Fieldsman)

Recently retired from full-time farming, Charles and his wife, Mary, have now moved to The Priory at Morebattle. This is a 20-acre property, and once everything has settled down, Charles intends to spend some of his time training sheepdogs. There are three acres of gardens to maintain so they will still be very busy. Hopefully, there will be more time to dedicate to the job of Fieldsman, which Charles thoroughly enjoys. When on bull inspection and cow classification duty, he hopes to have more time to have a look around herds and spend with members, rather than the usual rush in and out. Anyone wishing to discuss anything Luing, please don't hesitate to contact your Fieldsman.

Young, Chris (Appointed 2016)

Chris is married to Bronwen, a phlebotomist at Stow and Lauder Health Centre. They have two daughters: Rebecca, a teacher at Culloden Academy, Inverness, and Debbie who, after studying Zoology at Aberdeen University, is now in New Zealand on a year's working holiday.

Before he retired, Chris's father had kept a commercial herd with some Sim-Luing cows. The first pure Luings were purchased by Chris in 1997 from Wooplaw, with further purchases of bulling heifers from Luing and, over the years, bulls from Merkland, Dirnanean, Nunnerie and Commonsides. Since 2003, the only purchases have been bulls.

With a full-time job off the farm, it was essential that Chris had a breed that was easy to keep and to handle, hardy, of good temperament and with a good health status.

The Balintore herd consists of 35 cows plus followers. Luing bulling heifers are sold at Stirling, and bullock calves are sold deadweight at 22 – 24 months of age.

Along with the Luings, a flock of Texel cross and Suffolk cross ewes are kept, though ewe numbers have been cut back over the last few years to concentrate more on the Luings. The first draws of lambs are sold fat off their mothers, with the remainder sold store through the autumn. The best twin ewe lambs are kept for replacements. Again, only males are bought in.

In summary, Chris believes that Luings are the ideal breed for upland and hill farms, with their great foraging capacity, longevity, ability to rear a good calf every year and ease of handling where both staff and time is limited.

Gilchrist, Bruce (Appointed 2017)

Bruce is married to Christine and has two children: Jamie (29) and Cally (27). Jamie returned home to work during 2014 and is married to Rachel; they became parents this summer. Cally works in the field of artificial sheep breeding.

Bruce is Farms Manager for Roxburghe Estates, managing three farms: Byreclough, Scarlaw and Rawburn.

His stock consists of 120 Luing cows – 90 bred pure and 30 bred to the Simmental – and 3,400 breeding ewes: Blackface, Cheviot, Greyface and a flock of pedigree Texel ewes. Fifteen years on from Bruce buying his first Luing cattle, they have proven to be great foragers with a steady temperament, making them very easy to handle.

Simpson, Pip (Appointed 2017)
Pip lives with his partner, Hannah, two grown-up children and two younger children. He is the fourth generation of his family to farm their hill farm in Troutbeck, Windermere. The farm comprises a 600-acre unit of mainly fell, with some limited inbye land. Pip took over the farm at the age of 22 and purchased his first Luings in 2009. The farm now runs 65 pedigree Luing suckler cows, with 50% bred pure and the other 50% put to a Simmental bull to produce Sim-Luings. The farm also stocks a flock of 550 Cheviot ewes plus followers, all tuppied to the Aberfield to produce gimmer lambs for breeding.

Bell, Rory (Appointed 2018)

Rory is married to Jane, and they live at Roxburgh Mill, Kelso. Eldest son James (23) works at home, where his interest lies with machinery. Finlay (20) is a keen stockman and is in second year at SRUC, studying Rural Business Management, and Lucy (16) is at Kelso High School.

The family rent Roxburgh Mill and Plenderleith, Jedburgh from Roxburgh Estates.

Simmentals and Texels are run at Roxburgh Mill, with Luings and Blackfaces on the hill unit. Rory and father Robin purchased their first Luings at Castle Douglas in 2006 from Luing, Nunnerie and Merkland, then added 25 cows and calves at the Westwater dispersal. The herd numbers 110 at present, and Rory thinks the ground could carry more. Cow numbers have risen, at the expense of hill ewes. Luing and Simmental bulls are used, with calves weaned down to the lowland unit, where buildings, straw and fodder are available from around 200 acres of grass, spring barley and winter oats. The cows are wintered on the hill ground, on blocks then baled silage.

Sim-Luing steers are sold at 18 months at St Boswells, and heifers have been retained or sold privately. With cow numbers stabilising, Rory intends to sell Luing heifers at sales soon.

The good temperament of Luing cattle is fundamental to the running of the herd, and ease of calving, along with their ability to rear a good calf from poorer ground, makes them the ideal cow for Plenderleith.

Lawton, Gareth (Appointed 2018)

Gareth lives with partner, Julie, and their three sons, Jack, Adam and Dewi. After leaving agricultural college in 1995, Gareth went on to work on a variety of farms including with a 120-cow dairy herd, until 2002 when he moved to where he is now, Brookstone Farm, which operates alongside a plant hire and groundworks company. His first involvement with Luings was back in 2006, when he helped his late boss Bill Brook establish the Brookstone Luing herd. Since Bill passed away in 2009, Gareth has been responsible for the day-to-day management of the Brookstone herd, which currently stands at 38 cows. Gareth bought his own bull at Castle Douglas in February 2018 and, with the purchase of some heifers from Brookstone, has started his own small herd that will be run alongside the Brookstone herd. It is a pleasure to work with the Luing breed, they suit the farm very well with their docility and ability to out-winter and still thrive, producing a good calf every spring.

MacRae, Graeme (Appointed 2018)

Graeme is married to Fiona, and they have three children: Issy (17), Farquhar (15) and Marcus (12). Graeme was brought up on the family croft in Kintail on the west coast of Scotland, where the focus was on hill sheep and a few cows.

He works in the deer industry and has been employed for over 20 years with Scottish Natural Heritage (SNH) (formerly the Red Deer Commission) as a Wildlife Management Officer.

He also runs a small herd of Luing cows and North Country Cheviots between his crofts on the east and west coasts. With limited time available, the low maintenance, easily handled Luing cattle suit Kintail as they come through the winter maintaining condition on hay/silage. The cattle are out-wintered and summered with the Luing bull at Knockbain Farm, Dingwall.

All bullock calves and bulling heifers are sold through Dingwall & Highland Marts.

McNee, Hazel (Appointed 2019)

Hazel is married to Robert, and they have a daughter, Kate (7), and a son, Alan (5). She farms at Over Finlurg Farm, Tealing, which extends to 740 acres, with some grazing ground rented as well. Both the sheep flock and suckler herd are now completely closed, with only home-bred replacements used for breeding tups and bulls bought at auction.

She lambs 900 ewes along with 200 ewe hogs, comprising 600 hill-type North Country Cheviot ewes, of which 200 are bred pure and the remainder crossed to the Bluefaced Leicester to produce Cheviot mules. Another 200 Blackie ewes are crossed with home-bred cross Bluefaced Leicesters to produce Scotch mules, with the result being tuppied with the Texel and sold as hogs with lamb at foot. We also have 100 pure Texels and pedigree Bluefaced Leicesters, which are used for breeding tups for home use and shearlings for the commercial market.

Hazel has 180 pedigree cows, of which 100 are Luings, the remainder being pedigree Limousins and a few Simmentals. She finds the Luing is ideal for her farm and enjoys producing pedigree Luings and Sim-Luings, with both going on to sell bulls and heifers at Stirling and Castle Douglas.

Crerar, Paddy (Appointed 2019)

Paddy is married to Sheila, and they have three children who are all now sort of grown-up. Daughter Rowan (21) is in her final year at Edinburgh College of Art. Rufus (20) is at Oxford, studying Real Estate and the world of beer, and Fergal (18) is desperately keen to leave home, which he will this summer, if not sooner. Rufus and Fergal are well-kent faces at the Castle Douglas sales, with a good few successful bull sales under their belts. Rather than being given pocket money, the boys were allowed to pick out a bull calf each year to train and sell at Castle Douglas, with the double incentive that if they didn't sell, their Dad got them back and they would still owe him for feed costs! They sold every year, with the last bulls, Lammermuir Tremendous and Tip Top, going to Finlurg and Tyncoed. Unfortunately, a combination of rugby injuries and exam focus have put an end to their bull days, but this has not stopped them taking a keen and critical interest in the Luings at home, with lots of authentic agricultural head shaking and tutting.

Paddy, the youngest of four brothers, is Oban born and bred, but moved east as a teenager. His first job at 17 was as an insurance salesman before he turned to the hospitality industry, where he quickly found his fit though he still claims that if he had stuck in at the insurance, things might have worked out better. After 20 more or less successful years in the hospitality and tourism business, Paddy was able, aged 40, to realise a lifetime dream of becoming a farmer. Of course, with no farming experience beyond summer odd jobs as a boy, what could possibly go wrong?! Luckily, his neighbours (the Broons at Stoneypath) in East Lothian were proper folk who had no hesitation in helping him learn. They made it clear they would teach him everything but only once so “pay attention”.

The first heifers were bought at the inaugural Dingwall sale roughly 10 years ago. Now, Paddy and Sheila run their Newmains Farm, Lammermuir herd to circa 60 cows, retaining all followers to finish (sold predominantly through Farmstock Scotland) or sell either as breeding heifers or to retain as replacements. Store lambs are bought to fatten but really to help with grass management, and a second smaller farm was bought which gives 100 acres of arable to complement the 350 or so acres of grass.

Paddy is still a hotelier and has a number of other business interests, but to add to the fun, the most recent adventure on the farm has been a move into deer farming. In the last two years, Paddy and Sheila have geared up and are now running circa 250 hinds and, like the Luings, all followers are retained to finish. Having no experience of deer farming, Paddy and Sheila’s attitude followed the familiar route – what could possibly go wrong?! At some stage, they may take the plunge and look to employ some part-time help if things go well, but it’s the physical farm work and outside life that Paddy really enjoys, and he’d be reluctant to let someone else take that from him. The choice of Luing cattle was made on the basis that they are a breed that takes little effort to manage. Paddy is only able to farm cattle because the breed choice he made is so forgiving.

Meanwhile, apart from farming, Sheila is a developmental psychologist, which Paddy claims is a fundamental reason why she is tolerant enough to remain married to him.
