SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

This report contains an update on international travel carried out by Council Officers representing the City for the period 1 July – 30 September 2011.

From 27 to 30 September 2011, the Sustainability Director, Chris Derksema travelled to Singapore to attend and speak at the 3rd Annual Sustainable Cities Conference, on the invitation of the conference organisers. The event was endorsed by the International Society for City and Regional Planners and the Singapore Institute of Planners.

The conference theme was “Building Liveable Cities of the Future Through Green Design and Good Governance”. Along with the City of Sydney, other major world cities presented their vision and actions and discussed issues of common interest in reaching their objectives. Apart from the main conference, special sessions and site visits related to green retrofits and urban planning. This was a key international knowledge-sharing opportunity in terms of sustainable cities. The opportunity was also taken to inspect a key water management project. The cost of airfares and most accommodation and meals was met by the conference organisers with the balance of costs met by the City of Sydney.

Summary

There is currently one substantial Supreme Court matter and one major Land & Environment Court matter in which the City is a party.

Supreme Court of New South Wales - City of Sydney v Streetscape

The City is the owner of the intellectual property in the multi function street pole known as the Smartpole. The Smartpole was developed for the City as part of the Sydney 2000 Olympics major street upgrade. The first poles were installed in 1999 and are used to hold banners, street lights and traffic lights and a range of other accessories.

Until August 2009, Streetscape held an exclusive licence to use the intellectual property in Smartpoles within a defined geography. The principal and sole director of Streetscape is Mr. Moses Obeid. The proceedings relate to breaches of the Licence Agreement relating to the sale of Smartpoles by Streetscape in Dubai and Singapore as follows:

- Failure to pay royalties and licence fees that are payable under the agreement;
- Failure to provide specifications and other information about Smartpoles that are the property of the City;
- Failure to comply with a condition of the licence agreement that it protect the City's intellectual property in Smartpoles;
- Attempting to use the intellectual property in Smartpoles by using the name "SmartMFP" in its marketing material.

Streetscape cross claimed against the City claiming it owns the intellectual property in the poles.

On 11 October, His Honour Justice Einstein of the NSW Supreme Court delivered judgment in the case. He found that Streetscape and Mr Obeid personally had breached their legal duties to the Council and ordered that damages be paid. He also ordered that Streetscape and Mr Obeid are prevented from manufacturing or supplying Smartpoles. Final orders as to the amount of costs and damages have not yet been made but damages are expected to be in the vicinity of $8m.

Land & Environment Court - F. Hannan (Properties) Pty Ltd v Council of City of Sydney

This case relates to the construction of the Bourke Road cycleway in late 2009. The claim is that the City failed to conduct appropriate environmental assessment before constructing the cycleway and that the Court should order its demolition. The City's case is that it did comply with all requirements of the Environmental Planning & Assessment Act 1979 in the construction of the cycleway. The City's defence also contends that, even if the Court found that there had been a gap in the City's environmental assessment, because of the public benefits of the cycleway and because of the applicant's delay in bringing the proceedings, the Court should not make the order of demolition sought by the applicant.

The Minister for Planning has amended the requirements so that in most cases no environmental approval is needed for cycleways. The Applicant has now joined the Minister to these proceedings, claiming that the Minister should not have done so. A hearing date is likely to be set for the first quarter of 2012.
