This VMware Cloud Provider Program (formerly VMware vCloud Air Network Program or vCAN) License Key Volume document is effective for license key delivery as of February 2018. This License Key Volume document replaces all previous vCAN License Key documents. The License Key information provided in this document applies to all of the Products listed in the VMware Cloud Provider Program Product Usage Guide and may be updated by VMware at any time. To have access to these products a Service Provider must have a valid agreement with a VMware Aggregator that addresses these products and their applicable reporting and pricing.

All documentation referenced in this document is available to Service Providers on Partner Central.

License Keys Delivery

License Keys provided as part of the VMware Cloud Provider Program will be delivered to the License Administrator (as identified by the company in the signed contract) via the VMware License Portal.

Additional License Keys

Service Providers requiring additional License Keys to implement their solutions should contact their VMware approved Aggregator or VMware Business Development Manager. Any additional License Keys will be provided, via the VMware License Portal in the same manner that the original License Keys were delivered. If there are any questions on the one-off ordering process, email VSPPReporting@vmware.com for assistance.

U.S. Federal License Key Volume

If a Service Provider has both a commercial rental contract and a U.S. Federal rental contract, they will get both sets of License Keys.
