Now that we have a new station let the good work go on and lets make our town the garden spot on the Delaware.

A NEW FERRY NEEDED.

Between the cities of Trenton and Philadelphia there is but one regularly established ferry (from Bristol to Burlington) in a distance of about thirty-five miles although the country is thickly settled and dotted with towns and villages of considerable importance on both sides of the river.

The truck farmers of Burlington county are greatly interested in good and direct roads to market, as their carriage is heavy and quantities great. If a steam ferryboat was established between Riverton and Camden to the Home of Correction or Tacoma it would open a short cut over good roads for farmers from a large portion of Burlington county to Frankford, Germantown and upper portions of Philadelphia. It would greatly promote the business interests on both sides of the river.

The social intercourse between the two sections is now quite considerable, but to drive to Burlington and Camden to cross the river makes quite a journey.

The enterprising residents of Burlington county are now constructing macadam roads and one is being built from Riverton to Westfield, which connects with another macadam road as far as Moorestown. In a short time this road will extend some ten miles into the country and would drain a large section of fine truck farms. The traffic of this route, if a ferry was established would so be enormous.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, Aug 24, 1892.

"The Canadian Installation and the St. James Convention."

Part of speech delivered at Detroit, Michigan, before the National Baptist Young People's Convention.

He likened the two old parties to the Siamese twins, and said they are bound together by the common bond of the American Union.

This bond will kill both the old parties. These parties had at last admitted there was no living issue with them and had settled down on the tariff, a question that never has been settled and never will be.

"I am free to confess," said the speaker, "that I don't care anything about tariff. I know that if the workmen of this country will stop paying so much for liquor they could pay the highest kind of a protective tariff and still be mooned ahead, and the manufacture could stand the trade."

It is by this sea-saw game of the tariff that the old parties hold their footing in line, and by appealing the sectionalism and prejudice.

Down south they have only to yell 'Yankee' and up north 'Bore' with earnestness follows hardy to get back in line.

I was told by a Baptist minister from Kentucky that he would like to see the Prohibition ticket first rate, and that he would do it only be afraid the Republicans would get it.

I was asked to see the same thing by a good Illinois 'Whizzer' only he fear was the Democrats would get it.

He admitted that it would be right to vote the Prohibition ticket, and that the only way to get into heaven was by doing right.

It was brought up a Democrat, and gave to that party for many years my earnest work and prayers, but when I saw that it was utterly impossible for a man to be either a Democrat or a Republican and be a Christian, I made up my mind that I would rather give up party than my hopes for Heaven.

I was never labored with earnestness by many of my former political associates and told that if I and others kept on in this course we would break up the solid south; and to all such I have replied: "All right, so long as we break up the solid mud devil!"

In the language of an illustrious patriot, "I was brought up a Democrat, and gave to that party for many years my earnest work and prayers, but when I saw that it was utterly impossible for a man to be either a Democrat or a Republican and be a Christian, I made up my mind that I would rather give up party than my hopes for Heaven."

A GANTER

When the breath of the morning is cool and fresh...

A Pull For Life.

I was passing an evening with Jack Harlan, the noted landowner and speculator...

"He has a comfortable home now, a nice family and an assured income, so that he can afford to talk lightly of his past life while roughing it in the wilds of Michigan and Wisconsin."

"So you with me to give you a little of my experience while looking land, Jim?" said Harlan.

"I assured him that nothing would please me better, since I knew he must have met with some interesting experiences during the long period of his timber life. Jack was not given to 'showing his own angle' yet at times...

"Do you know, Jim," he said at length, "I was never frightened but twice in my life. I have met with many adventures, but nearly always I could see my way out somehow, and managed to remain fairly cool through it all."

"I nodded as he ceased to speak, and he proceeded: "It was four years ago last November that Dolph Vander and I set out on a two weeks' tramp, looking land in the region about the headwaters of the Muskegon. The weather was cool and the air bracing, just the season of the year for big game, so Dolph and I took along our Winchester, with plenty of ammunition."

"We meant to bring down some game, even should we find plenty of timber on the land we had been sent to estimate. I was quite a Nimrod in those days, and would rather hunt than eat."

"On the afternoon of the fourth day we halted on the bank of a large lake. The land we desired to look over, on which we were to estimate the amount of standing pine, was on the opposite side of the lake. To go around would be an all day's tramp, while across the water was a matter of only six or eight miles."

"If we only had a boat, Jack," said Dolph, "we could have two days' tramp."

"We must find one," I returned, "but not likely this lake has ever been plowed by boats—Indian canoes, at any rate. I see a house over yonder, let us investigate."

"We did so and found an old fisherman, who was the owner of a small skiff in good condition—just the thing for our purpose. The owner agreed to lend the boat on condition that we would return it soon. Of course we promised, and were soon launched upon the water."

"We doffed our packs and laid them in the bottom of the skiff. We each had a belt from which hung hatchet and cartridges. Our rifles were packed carefully in one end of the skiff. There was small and had but one set of oars. I was something of an athlete in those days, and so it seemed natural enough for me to take the first turn at the oars."

"Dolph promised to pull me when half our voyage was covered. "We had gone perhaps a mile from land when the wind rose and sent the white caps tumbling across the bosom of the lake. At the onset I enjoyed this. Our little skiff rose and fell like an ocean steamer on the Atlantic. Presently a great wave splashed over the side, nearly deluging Dolph. The wind was cold and cut like a knife, and I could see that my wet comrades were chattering with an icy chill."

"Let me take the oars," he said, as I shook my head. A strange thrill shot over me at that moment and I realized that we were in danger. Our only safety lay in keeping the skiff out of the trough of the sea. Each moment the waves rolled higher and the breeze stiffened to gale."

"Dolph crouched in the stern, his face blue, his teeth chattering. He was freezing, while I was perspiring freely. It was too late to turn back had we desired. The water scoured along our sides, splashing at times over the low gunwale."

"I dared not look ahead, but kept my gaze fixed to the rear, upon the foaming water and receding shore. We must have been three miles out when Dolph cried in great alarm. "We're stable, Jack, and I thought the same myself for the moment, as the stern of our craft seemed to sink down below, and the great waves lunged over us with awful threatening. A bushful of water splashed into the boat, and then we rose to the crest of a huge wave."

"We're all right yet, Dolph," said I, although the smile on my face was but a ghostly attempt at pleasantry. At length I found myself strung under the constant strain at the oars. I looked longingly at Dolph. He seemed to understand and moved as if to rise to his feet."

"No, no, don't," I cried sharply. "If you get up now we are lost. Keep your seat, I will hold the skiff alone. The task was a harder one than I had bargained for, however. It was a very difficult matter to dip the oars properly to such a heavy sea."

"It taxed all my coolness and knowledge of boating to hold the frail craft straight across the boiling sea. A single mismovement now would send us to the bottom. When I realized this I was as if I had been struck with lightning. It was a long distance to land, and I knew that, strong as I was, the situation was destined to test my endurance to the utmost."

"I tried to wish I could help you," chattered the blue lips of my companion. I made no reply, but set my teeth hard and urged the skiff more swiftly on its course."

"The wind seemed to rise each moment. Great clods of water splashed over my person and the his of the boiling sea seemed like the mocking growl of a hungry animal about to spring upon my prey. I breathed hard. I was trying with the awful strain."

"I felt would have called on Dolph, only I knew I could follow up the gale."

 The game of base ball last Saturday, while one sided was interesting, as it was made so by two home runs by R. Lippincott, three base hits by Williams and C. Lippincott, and other good playing. The Cambria B. B. Club of Philadelphia are scheduled for a game this afternoon.

 The proposition by Dr. Franney made last week to change the location of the post office is amusing to say the least. Does he know 90 per cent. of all the mail goes to people between the river and the railroad? Does he know the present postmaster was retained because several of John Wanamaker's personal friends requested it, which the postmaster general willingly granted when he learned it was one of the best conducted fourth-class offices in the U. S.?

THE NEW PUBLIC SCHOOL.
 Our handsome new public school house was open for inspection to the public on Thursday, the 1st inst., and was formally dedicated at 2 p. m. in the afternoon in the presence of quite an assemblage of our townspeople. Rev. C. W. Nevin made an address, and Rev. C. S. Powell spoke.
 The new school building was built after plans approved by the State School Board. There are four recitation rooms, two on each floor, and two large cloak rooms, one at either end of the building. The stairways are wide and convenient. One of the principal features is the Smead-Willis system of heating and ventilation, which has been used in Camden with great success, and elsewhere. The rooms have an abundance of light from two sides, and the sand finish of the walls is of a tint that is restful to the eye. The outside is painted in the colonial style, cream and white by Mr. John W. Perkins, while the inside is finished in the natural wood, yellow-pine and poplar. Altogether the building and conveniences are very satisfactory, and the board of

REPUBLICAN COLUMN.

The tariff issue in the coming campaign bids fair to outweigh all others, and "as this is to be a campaign of education," to use the words of our Democratic friends, a little friendly discussion on the subject will do no harm. Now let us see in what respects the Democratic party is like its namesake in Thomas Jefferson's time.

ADDRESS OF THOMAS JEFFERSON.
 "The prohibitive duties we lay on all articles of foreign manufacture which prudence requires us to establish at home with the patriotic determination of every good citizen to use no foreign article which can be made within ourselves, without regard to difference in price, secures us against a relapse into foreign dependency."
 It will be seen from the above that Thomas Jefferson if living would get a very chilly reception should he apply for membership in the Jeffersonian Club of Cinimanninon township, who recently ratified the Chicago platform of 1892, below being the Free Trade plank in the same:

"We denounce protection as a fraud and we declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the Federal government has no constitutional power to impose and collect tariff duties, except for the purpose of revenue only, and we demand that the collection of such taxes shall be limited to the necessities of the government when honestly and economically administered."
 For six years we have been led to believe that we were undergoing a period of political enlightenment, a series of campaigns of education, as it were. And what is the result? At the end of that time our Democratic demonstrators, after giving us as many versions of their party as there are members in their party, conclude that after all tariff reform is only Free Trade. Six years of thinking and heavy brain racking required to demonstrate the supposed advantages of a system that has been in use and abandoned in all civilized countries except Great Britain.

Let us see what changes have taken place since the alleged cure. Free Trade was last on our statute book in 1880, or the year of the formation of the Republican party. The national wealth of the United States was less than one-half that of Great Britain. But to-day, 1892, after thirty-two years of protection to American industry, we have caught up to our original, Great Britain, and passed her in the race. This is the result of the United States in 1892 is greater by several thousand millions of dollars than that of Great Britain.
 In 1860 our government paid from 8 to 12 per cent on its loan. To-day, 1892, it could borrow all the money it required at 2 1/2 per cent.
 For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, we sold outside of our territory, and three million dollars more than we bought from them, leaving a balance of trade in our favor not only greater than any year under any Democratic administration, but greater than all years under all Democratic administrations combined.

But notwithstanding such a flattering showing, Chairman Wilson of the Democratic Convention at Chicago stood up and faced twenty thousand representatives of his constituents, and that our foreign trade had been protected and destroyed as a result of the McKinley Tariff Law.
NEW YORK'S DEMOCRATIC LABOR COMMISSIONER'S REPORT OF THE RESULT OF THE MCKINLEY TARIFF LAW—WAGES INCREASED OVER $6,000,000—PRODUCTION INCREASED OVER $31,000,000.

Commissioner Peck, in speaking of his report, says that the tariff question was taken up because it has come to be one of the greatest moments to the workingmen, in whose interest the State Labor Bureau was established. It began the inquiry with the belief that the result would be a Democratic tariff position. But it was his duty to report things as they were, not as reckless partisans would like to have them construed.
 He says the statements of his report, which he received from confidential letters of the wholesale manufacturers of New York State and that the result shows him that the leading DEMOCRATIC SPEAKERS ON THE TARIFF ARE IN ERROR AS TO THE EFFECT OF THE MCKINLEY BILL.
 The report shows that in the sixty-seven industries covered, 67 per cent of them show an increase either of wages or product, or both, and that there was no less than $9,716 in increase of individual incomes of wages during the year. The total trade represented amounts to 1121 and give employment to 285,000 workmen and women.

THUS ONE THIRD OF THEM HAVE HAD THEIR WAGES INCREASED SINCE THE PASSAGE OF THE MCKINLEY BILL; THE AVERAGE INCREASE OF YEARLY EARNINGS OF THE EMPLOYEES IN FIFTY-NINE TRADES SHOWING AN INCREASE WAS $489. From the 67 industries covered it appears that there was a NET INCREASE OF WAGES OF $6,376,925.00 in the year 1891, as compared with the amount paid in 1890, and a net increase of production of $31,318,100.68 in the year 1891 over that of 1890.
 The number of labor disturbances also shows an increase. There were 4519 strikes in 1891 as against 6258 in 1890, a decrease of 1740. Or the total number, 4519, 37.7 per cent of them were in the building trades.
 The period covered by the investigation includes the year immediately following the announcement of the McKinley bill and the year immediately following its becoming a law—that is for the year commencing September 31, 1889, up to and including August 31, 1891, and the year commencing September 31, 1890, up to and including August 31, 1891. The statistics relate only to wholesale manufacturing establishments.

Colored camp meeting is in progress at Jordanstown, near Merchantville, and is attended by large crowds on Sundays.

TIMELY THOUGH.

Ref. John H. Conover preached an admirable sermon last Sunday morning, a part of it being especially apropos at this present time. His text was from St. John viii. 7. "He that is without sin among you let him cast the first stone at him." He said he was all familiar with the saying that people who live in glass houses should not throw stones, and we are also familiar enough with the tendency in human nature to indulge in this occupation. This an unlovely act, but not an unwelcome one to most of us, and so the Saviour of men selected a noteworthy incident, both to exhibit and to prove this very common inclination. Now, if we will take this subject, we shall see how large a proportion of the time how many of our thoughts, how many of our words are bestowed upon this, as I have called it, very unlovely occupation of throwing stones, or mud as it is called sometimes. There would be no compelling force in us urging us on to that thing, Take the seeing child of prodigious life, in the intense partisan commotion which an election to any office among us arouses, how quickly and instructively the newspapers, the public speakers resort to this means of accomplishing this end. How seldom is the discussion allowed to rest upon the merits of the principle involved in the contest? How carefully a man's past life is searched in order to find some flaw in his character which may have been honestly made, some words he may have uttered without careful consideration of the use the evil disposed might make of them. Then, if these things are discovered, commence the throwing of stones, and it continues up to the last minute. And how many of these things would pass through the same ordeal unscathed if indeed this state of things has very much to do with the unwillingness of many able and upright men to go through with the wear and tear of a political canvass. It is not to be beheld that our best men do not realize the importance of devoting their energies to the purification of political life, and the elevation of it to a higher and nobler plane, but they do shrink from being pelted with stones for past, and perhaps repeated faults, at the hands of those who have probably done the same thing. No one, in matters political, can plead to the world a record absolutely and unimpeachable. After reference to the state throwing in business and society, and describing the character of the accused and culprit, he showed that Christ passed from the sinner to the sin. He did an act which was in the truest sense representative of the whole work he came to do on earth for man. This work was not judgment, not condemnation, but it was to produce a conviction of sin in men's hearts, a sense of sin as a dreadful and awful fact, a realization of sin, as it fell the accuser and condemner at the bar of conscience. As He said immediately after, "He who is without sin, let him cast the first stone." Of the words of those who chose to follow Him should not walk in darkness.

THE GREAT FAIR.
 Big Crowds the Daily Bells at the Mount Holly Fair.
 The Mount Holly Fair is proving a greater success than ever before. The daily receipts of the exhibition is being rapidly maintained, and the crowds are daily increasing in size. The judges of the exhibition will have a difficult job to decide where the greater merits are centered for the same standard of excellence is observed from beginning to end. The entertainments are related and all very enjoyable. The music is good from a critical standpoint, and every moment is a moment of amusement and instruction. The performances in front of the grand stand in which men, women, boys and girls, and trained horse, took part would please a Barnum audience. The daring equestrian acts of Miss Myrtle Peck and her red-tailed race horses all go to make up an interesting programme. The horse racing is particularly good. The horses are of the best class, the track is in excellent shape. Good riding with close and exciting finishes are the usual rule. The railroads are running low rate excursions from all points, and every train is crowded to overflowing. The exhibition will be continued up to and including the 19th.

The Mount Holly Fair will be the leading attraction next week for the residents of this section.

WASHINGTON LETTER.
 WASHINGTON, Sept. 6, 1892.
 "What do you think of Harrison's letter of acceptance? It will be the question of the hour on all sides for a few days. The answer will depend on the speaker; if a democrat or People's party man he will say something about 'just about what I expected,' and the 'same old story' and if a republican, 'great letter from great President,' and ought to be enough to elect him." Seriously the letter gives evidence of the care that President Harrison devotes to all of his official writings, both in its language and in its sentiment, which is a point on a par with what anyone might expect after reading the republican national platform. No one really expected to find anything differing from any of the planks in this party's platform, or in addition thereto, in Mr. Harrison's letter accepting the nomination, and no one is in that respect disappointed. From a literary point of view the letter is tip-top; but its length is entirely too great.
 These veterans of the G. A. R. who did not get in their application for free sleeping quarters during the National Encampment before the close of last week will get left, as the committee has given notice that having assigned free quarters to fifty five thousand men, having spent all the money allotted for that purpose it will be unable to furnish any more. This is in accordance with the original instructions sent to every post in the United States, notifying them that application for free quarters must be made to the committee in Washington before Sept. 1. Sleeping accommodations, at a reasonable price, in private residences, can still be procured for thousands, through the committee, which has the location, accommodation and prices on its books. There is no truth in reports sent from here to the effect that the citizens of Washington are disposed to regard the whole affair as a money making scheme, and were preparing to gouge all classes of visitors. These reports are a cruel slander upon those who have contributed more money than was ever raised by private subscription in any city that ever entertained the G. A. R. There may, of course, be single cases of extortion, there may be a yecher; but it is safe to guarantee that those who engage the accommodations through the committee will pay no more than would be charged for similar accommodations in any large city, and will get precisely what they engage.

Almost every woman, fresh from Paris touring, has a Footman's Triple Cape in her trunk. That's the new over-sea craze in Women's Wraps. All the leading Paris houses are represented in the assortment here—$6.50 and upward.
 The crush of new things is squeezing prizes out of shape on many of the medium-weight Wraps.
 Stylish Outing Coats, $1.50 to $3.
 English Box Reefers in great variety, $3, $4, $5, $6, $8 $9—often rather than not they've very lately been twice that.
 Fine knotted fringe Huck Towels, silky to the eye, soft to the touch. We counted them the best value we ever had at $6 a dozen. What are they then at 4.20 a dozen, 35c each?
 Broche bordered Damask Towels that have been 55 and 75c are now 35c; those that were $1.35 are now 75c.
 $1.75 and $2 French Embroidered Towels go to $1.25 the $2.25 kind to $1.75c.
 Chiffon Handkerchiefs—the filmy, breath-like squares of silky mull, heavily embroidered that woman so delight in. You were glad to pay $1 each last season? These at 25c appear to be just as good. A dozen dainty tints.
 Summer Comfortables must make way for the heavy Winter stock. Dainty, pretty things, fresh and perfect in every way. Prices go like this:
 $1.50 and $1.75 kinds at $1.
 $2 kinds at $1.50.

There is no truth in reports sent from here to the effect that the citizens of Washington are disposed to regard the whole affair as a money making scheme, and were preparing to gouge all classes of visitors. These reports are a cruel slander upon those who have contributed more money than was ever raised by private subscription in any city that ever entertained the G. A. R. There may, of course, be single cases of extortion, there may be a yecher; but it is safe to guarantee that those who engage the accommodations through the committee will pay no more than would be charged for similar accommodations in any large city, and will get precisely what they engage.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

What do you think of Harrison's letter of acceptance? It will be the question of the hour on all sides for a few days. The answer will depend on the speaker; if a democrat or People's party man he will say something about 'just about what I expected,' and the 'same old story' and if a republican, 'great letter from great President,' and ought to be enough to elect him." Seriously the letter gives evidence of the care that President Harrison devotes to all of his official writings, both in its language and in its sentiment, which is a point on a par with what anyone might expect after reading the republican national platform. No one really expected to find anything differing from any of the planks in this party's platform, or in addition thereto, in Mr. Harrison's letter accepting the nomination, and no one is in that respect disappointed. From a literary point of view the letter is tip-top; but its length is entirely too great.

These veterans of the G. A. R. who did not get in their application for free sleeping quarters during the National Encampment before the close of last week will get left, as the committee has given notice that having assigned free quarters to fifty five thousand men, having spent all the money allotted for that purpose it will be unable to furnish any more. This is in accordance with the original instructions sent to every post in the United States, notifying them that application for free quarters must be made to the committee in Washington before Sept. 1. Sleeping accommodations, at a reasonable price, in private residences, can still be procured for thousands, through the committee, which has the location, accommodation and prices on its books. There is no truth in reports sent from here to the effect that the citizens of Washington are disposed to regard the whole affair as a money making scheme, and were preparing to gouge all classes of visitors. GROUND BROKEN
For the New Methodist Church.
A ground-breaking service, as pastor R. V. Geo. H. Neal termed it, is something new, but such a service was heartily participated in by a large number of the friends and members of the Methodist church on Monday evening, at the site of the new church, corner of Fifth and Morgan avenue. Such a commencement of the new church was not determined upon until late Friday night and was not announced until Sunday, so that many of our residents did not know that any of the little groups with lanterns and shovels, wending their way to the site. Promptly at 7:30 p. m. hymn No. 1 was sung, and Rev. P. Y. Caldwell offered prayer. Hymn No. 248 was sung while the crowd was gathering, after which pastor Neal made a short address, finishing by saying that Mr. Charles Lowden being the only remaining member of the first official board of the old church, would be the first to break the ground. All who had shovels were directed to get in line, and after Mr. Lowden had taken the first shovel full the diggers set to work with a will but in an orderly manner. There were big shovels and little shovels, fire shovels and children's spades, and the diggers were gray-headed old men down to the little tot of two years, and the ladies, too—all desiring to take part in the starting of the new church. After that Mr. Charles Lowden, who had not worked with a will but in an orderly manner. ago and I came to stay. I hope; then and I still do, to never see a rubble stone laid on the streets or a brick on the sidewalks, destroying the home and village like appearance of the town; but would be glad if the streets were properly graded and macadamized, or turpiped, and they kept in good order, and the sidewalks also properly graded and heavily gravelled and well rolled. What we want most of all immediately is good board walks at least on the principal streets, and every property owner should accept and cheerfully pay an assessment sufficient to pay the expense of such a walk and have it down before much frost comes.

For the benefit of those who can appreciate a genuine article, Joe. M. Roberts has purchased several barrels of pure apple vinegar "guaranteed," which he will dispose of to his customers at the regular price, 20c. gallon. The Rev. W. W. Dewese Roberts preached on Sunday last in Christ church at both services, in the morning on "Work," and in the evening on "Freedom." Both were very able discourses and were much enjoyed by the very large audiences present.

The addition of five soprano voices was also made to the choir on Sunday last, and was very acceptable, the young ladies presenting a very neat and non-conspicuous appearance. This is a very busy season with all housekeepers, and the odor of spices and other things fills the air and gives one an inkling of the good things to come.

Drowned Man Found under Suspicious Circumstances. John Tierner, alias "Scotty," was found dead in Pensauken creek, about two hundred yards above the trolly bridge about 10:30 on Thursday morning by Master Chas. Hamilton while gunning. Dr. Jannet, the coroner, was notified, and examined the body and found marks of violence about the head and blood came from the dead man's mouth. He was last seen with one John Duffy on Sunday, at a drunken brawl at Wilmers's tavern, near where he was found, and it is supposed he was beaten and thrown in the creek or pushed off the bridge. Duffy and Mrs. Sallie Tierner were both locked up. Miss Francis S. Jannet, M. D., made post mortem examination at Constable Hornor's barn on Friday morning. The coroner's inquest takes place as we go to press. Sallie Tierner, the wife, was arrested and taken before Squire Spayd on Tuesday last week on complaint of her husband, but the charge was withdrawn afterwards.

THE COLUMBIAN CONTEST. The four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America is very properly called the Columbian year. There will be celebrations of many kinds in the different parts of the country, under various auspices. The Y. M. C. A. of Palmyra and Riverton are arranging for an appropriate union service in Morgan Hall on the evening of the 21st of October, of which more will be said as the time approaches. With a view of awaking a more hearty interest in this subject, THE WEEKLY NEWS will present a gold medal appropriately engraved, to the writer of the best essay upon Columbus, who shall be an attendant of any of the schools in Cinnaminson township. The writer of the essay must comply with the following:

The contest is open to the pupils of all schools, both public and private, in Cinnaminson township, and all papers must reach the editor on or before Wednesday, October 12th. The essay must be original and not contain more than 1000 words. It must be written on one side of the paper only.

The essay must be furnished by the principal or teacher of the school the pupil attends. Each essay must be signed by a name de scribed by the writer and the correct name and name of the school enclosed in a separate envelope, as the names of the writers will not be known to the judges until after their decision is rendered.

In preparing for the papers authorities may be consulted, but the composition must be of the writer's own formation. Points of merit to be considered will be, authenticity of history, simplicity and correctness of language, legibility and neatness.

The essays will be placed in the hands of three residents of the township, whose names will be announced later and the gold medal will be awarded to the writer of the essay they select. The essay will be printed in THE WEEKLY NEWS and read at the meeting in Morgan Hall on Columbian Day.

THE MOVEMENT COMMENCED. The principals, teachers and parents who were spoken of in this offer are proud in their commendation of the movement. One and all expressed themselves as believing it would insure to interest the children in the discovery of the continent and could not help but result in the pupils knowing more of him. The prize will be sent that any boy or girl will be proud to carry.

In fact we have grown in the habit of measuring the Country's advancement by the number of Democracy's misfortunes.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION. PHILA. LEDGER, SEPT. 7TH, 1892. It happens, most fortunately for the Republican party and most unfortunately for the Democratic party, that the business condition is especially satisfactory. It is not one class alone that is prosperous—prosperity is the common lot of the people and this fact cannot fail to have very great influence upon the result of the elections. It will naturally be asked by every voter of intelligence, why change the National policies and the Administration under which the great material interests of the country have flourished and are still flourishing? Why not let well enough alone?

A great and probably a controlling factor in the Presidential campaign will be the independent voters, by whom we do not mean the so-called Mugwump, but the citizen who votes upon a deliberate consideration of the issues of the contest as they are presented to him in the respective platforms of the two great parties. His influence will likely be potential in making the choice of the President at the present time, and the great material interests of policy set forth in the Republican and Democratic declarations of principles, but that which is now so prominent, and likely to continue so prominent, is the tariff. The tariff of the two parties are so widely at variance as to render it easy for any and every voter to intelligently decide between them. The Republican party declares, with unmistakable clearness, emphasis and directness, in favor of a tariff, not alone for necessary revenue, but a tariff for the adequate protection of American capital and labor from the ruinous competition of foreign labor, the representatives of which are forced to accept a wage which destroys not only their manly independence, but which subjects them always to all the ills that extreme poverty carries with it. The Republicans declare that American capital shall be protected from this foreign rivalry which would, if given the opportunity of red it by free trade, bring the wheels of our industries to a standstill and crowd the labor market with multitudes of under paid or idle working men.

Those Democrats who seem to extract a few crumbs of comfort from the returns of the election in Vermont, should not lose sight of the fact that the Republican plurality was larger by forty-two, than the whole Democratic vote.

THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE. The Presidential Electoral College will consist, under the apportionment of 444 votes, and as the successful candidate must have a majority, it will take 223 votes to elect. The States which voted for Harrison against Cleveland are 245 votes, and the States which voted for Cleveland are 199 votes. Of these new states, all except Montana are Republican. There will therefore be 17 more Republican electoral votes to add to those cast in the States which voted for Harrison, if the old states voted as they did before, would make the Republican electoral vote 266, and leave the Democrats 178. But several states which Mr. Harrison carried may fairly be classed as doubtful. But it will be seen that the Republicans can lose the 36 electoral votes of New York and still have 230 left.

MAINE ELECTION. The prophetic significance of the September returns from Maine in presidential years was for many years greatly exaggerated. Democrats learned not to bank upon them too heavily, for the fact as the Hancock year, when the party went wild in September over the announcement that a Democratic candidate for governor had actually received a plurality of the votes in Maine. In November of that year Garfield carried the State by about 9,000 votes.—New York Sun, Dec. Sept. 14th.

RECIPROCIITY AND THE FARMER. A Million Barrels of Flour.—How Reciprocity has made trade with Cuba. Plain facts for every Farmer. The good results of the reciprocity treaties recently negotiated by our Government with foreign countries is well illustrated by the effect of the treaty with Spain in the flour trade of Cuba. For a number of years past the exports of flour from the United States have been carrying on a sharp competition with the Spanish exporters of flour to Cuba. Although there was a large discrimination in favor of Spanish flour imported into Cuba, the duty on which was 50 per cent less than the duty charged on American flour, still our exporters were able to divide the market. Spanish flour was a product of Russian wheat imported to Spain and ground by the millers in Barcelona and other ports, and then shipped to Cuba as Spanish flour and admitted at the low rate of duty. The annual consumption of flour in Cuba has amounted to about 500,000 barrels of flour, of which about one half, or 250,000 barrels, have been shipped from the United States. This was the state of the trade up to July 1st, 1890. At that date Spanish flour imported to Cuba was made entirely free, and 20 per cent was added to duty already charged upon the American flour, making the duty on the latter $5.64 per barrel. The result of this change in the tariff of Cuba gave the market almost exclusively to Spanish flour, and the imports from the United States decreased in the year ending July 1st, 1891, to 114,000 barrels, which represents only a high grade of flour which was a necessity to bakers for pastry purposes.

By the treaty is admitted free into Cuba, the result of this treaty provision has been that Spanish flour is now entirely excluded from the market and the American product has been substituted in its place. So that hereafter the Cuban market will be exclusively under the control of the United States.

WASHINGTON LETTERS. WASHINGTON, Sept. 12, 1892. Government agents are proverbially hard to keep. Everywhere the substance, if not the full details, will get to the ears of some alert newspaper man. A case in point is the case of the hour. Yesterday morning the U. S. S. Chicago steered out of New York harbor bound for Venezuela, where she will join the Keary and Commodore in on their way to the same destination. The Chicago is the flagship for Admiral Walker, and on Saturday a trusted official of the navy department arrived from Washington in a bulky package the sealed order under which the Admiral is to act when he reaches Venezuela. Knowing that the Keary and Commodore were strong enough by themselves to capture any port of Venezuela, it such a thing such became a necessity, the newspaper men refused to be "bluffed" by the general statement made by the navy and State departments that America's interests in Venezuela required the presence of these war ships.

The secret is now out. Admiral Walker is going to Venezuela to enforce the "Monroe doctrine." It has come to the ears of Uncle Sam that one or more of the great European powers are ready, if they are not making preparations to take advantage of the revolutionary situation in Venezuela to gobble up that country. Admiral Walker's business there is to watch the war ships of those ambitious European powers and at the first move on their part towards a violation of the "Monroe doctrine," to stop them, possibly, if he can; forcibly, if he must.

The report that all the members of the Cabinet would take the stump for the republican national ticket has been much commented on here, and the preponderance of sentiment has been against, as being both improper and undignified. Attorney-General Miller seems able to be of that opinion, for when asked about it he said: "I doubt the truth of that statement. I think that the best service any government official can do the country and his party is to attend to his public duties as long as there are any demanding his attention. Of course it would be proper enough for any official to use the time allotted for his vacation in making speeches if he wanted to, but even then I should consider it as pressing for attention before taking vacation. For my own part I shall not have time to take the stump, and I certainly will not be a member of the G. A. R. who will come to attend the encampment to be held next week. Everything is in readiness to receive the old soldiers, and if they do not have the grandest time of their lives it will not be because the people do not do their best to give it to them.

A little political flurry was caused by the news that the much talked of fusion between the people's party and the democrats in South Dakota was an accomplished fact, the basis being the support of the people's party state ticket by the democrats and a fusion electoral ticket, two from each party. I called at the alliance headquarters, which is also the unofficial headquarters of the people's party for confirmation of the story, but was informed that while it is probable it was a matter which belonged entirely to the people's party state committee, democrats and republicans believe it to be true, and the democrats are confident that it will give them two more electoral votes than they expected, while the republicans say that it will cause a sufficient number of old time republicans to leave the people's party to elect the republican state and electoral tickets. If the vote cast is in the same ratio as at the last election the fusionists will win easily.

The cholera continues to occupy a prominent place in the committee of official circles, but it is pleasant to state that confidence in our being able to keep it out is largely on the increase. The Postmaster-General has accepted all of the bids recently made for carrying ocean mail, under the steady act of the fiftieth congress, except one. Postmasters at all free delivery offices may now supply such citizens as may wish to purchase their boxes to be attached to the fronts of their mail, in which mail will be deposited by the carrier, and from which matter to be mailed will be regularly collected. Choice will be given of four styles of boxes all of which have been approved by the Postmaster-General, after a practical test in Washington and St. Louis.

YANAMAKER'S. PHILADELPHIA, September 13, 1892. The new carpets make their deepest salaam to September—and to you. You are used to seeing dainty designs and delicate tints in the Axminsters and Wiltons. Come prepared to have any Carpet memory eclipsed by these latest lovelinesses. Such patterns! Such colorings! Surely Oriental art has cast its exquisite sunlight over all these things. The Carpet thought has been to get an unmatched gathering of these fine goods. We believe it is here to-day. Many of the designs, most of them indeed, can not be shown by any other house in town.

We have had the pick and choice of the creamiest work of the leading carpet makers. From the Bigelow Company some Axminsters, Wiltons and Brussels. From the Lowell Company some Wiltons, Brussels and Ingrains.

MERCHANTVILLE.

Have you heard the news? Taxes this year 50 to 55 per cent. higher than last year.

Geo. Williams and family, late of Park avenue, have moved to L. W. Moore, having purchased the same. Senator Cattell has without doubt the finest Seckle pears in Merchantville. Everything worked satisfactory, and the experimental trips have been made since with equal success. It was expected that the cars would commence to run regularly this week; but the company have some doubts whether the electric light company of Camden, can supply them with sufficient power for heavily loaded cars, and therefore think it safer and better to await the completion of their own power station, which is being erected on Cooper's creek and will be completed in a couple of weeks. o be patient the good time is coming.

Our firemen worked heroically last night at the fire, and deserve the warmest congratulations from their neighbors in saving the building which seemed doomed to complete destruction.

It was a genuine surprise and source of great enjoyment to the recipients, as well as to the guests, who came "armed to the teeth" with fun and frolic. The hearty reception accorded them added much to the evening's pleasure. Among those present were—

THE CROP BULLETIN.

The observers and crop correspondents of the New Jersey Weather Service report for the week ending Monday, Sept. 12th, 1892, that the cutting of corn is now quite general in all districts, and many fields are already in shock. In the northern and middle counties the yield promises to be a fair one, but in the extreme southern counties the crop will be short of the average. The cool nights which have prevailed during the week have greatly retarded the ripening of matatoes, especially in the middle and southern districts where large quantities of this fruit is raised for canning purposes. The threshing of wheat, where finished, shows that the yield is not as good as expected, while the straw is abundant.

The potato crop, with possibly one or two exceptions, is below the average, from less than one-half to two-thirds. In the grape-growing districts of the State the reports received show that in well cared for vineyards the yield will be a large one. In the sweet potato region the crop is pronounced as one of the finest, both in quantity and quality. The weather conditions which prevailed during the maturing crops. The nights being too cool, and a general lack of heat during the day.

he very great deficiency of rainfall, has been a serious drawback to the preparation of the ground for fall seeding. Fall pasture was never before known to be so poor, and the feeding of stock has become an everyday necessity.

PROHIBITION MEETING.

The prohibition campaign meeting which was held in Morgan hall on Wednesday night was addressed by Hon. A. G. Wolfenbarger and the singing was under the direction of Prof. A. E. Huchkins. Rev. Henry Morris introduced the speaker as singer, and Rev. Geo. H. Neal, Jr., prayed for the success. The speaker said he was not there to discuss the evil of the liquor traffic, but to show a remedy. After referring to the corrupt managers of the lottery, he said: "Legislators here like many have their pockets trying to see what they can do to please the rum-seller. He then commended all internal revenue law as a great evil and said it should be called the infernal revenue law. He said the Vice-President was a whiskey tapper and that J. J. Blaine was a whiskey drummer, at a cost of several thousand dollars to the government. He spoke of the duty of church members, but as three-fourths of them were women and children, he feared 90 per cent of the religion went when they did.

BASE BALL.

For the Championship, The Eagles defeat the Baldwins in the Elevens. B. B. Club, of Palmyra, defeated the Baldwins in a well played game of eleven innings at East Park on 10th inst.

The game was to decide the 17-year-old championship game of Philadelphia and vicinity, and after a hard battle it was won by the Eagles.

The game was a pitcher's contest throughout and was very exciting and interesting. Every brilliant play was loudly applauded by the spectators.

The Eagles were defeated in the 11th inning by the Baldwins. The Baldwins called balls, stole 2d, Holbrook was on a base and Ely hit for a base and both scored on Wilson's 2 base hit to deep center.

The features were the battery work of both teams, Wilson's and Hawk's batting, and the fielding of Wilson, Holbrook, Dennings, Rogers and Baird.

The Athletic Club Y. M. C. A. closed their base ball season at West Palmyra last Saturday by defeating the Germantown Gray, who claim to be the champion amateur team of that county, by a score of 14 to 6.

The management wish to thank the patrons of the game for their interest in it during the season, and as every possible effort was made to give satisfaction, they feel that it has been appreciated.

This was the first season for base ball in the auspices of the athletic department of the Y. M. C. A., and there was considerable to obtain in the way of outfitting a club, and funds being limited there was much that could not be procured, but effort was made to have a good team, a very important factor.

The Athletic Club will now be visiting the Y. M. C. A. and there under the able instruction of Mr. John Horner, who has had considerable experience in this line, and the season promises to be one full of interest. If he is as successful in his department as was the base ball end he will have no cause to complain.

NANCY HANKS.

There are some people who condemn horse racing as unpardonably sinful; but when that wonderful mare, swift Nancy Hanks, was sent a few days since to beat her own record, and not only did it handsomely, but smashed completely all existing records of the trotting turf, the sporting world went excitement-mad, and an innumerable multitude of people, who never saw a race track, read with intense interest and quickening pulse of Miss Nancy's achievement.

A Record Breaker without an equal is HUNGARIAN Flour

The sales of which have far exceeded our most sanguine expectations, and the record made in this section is something to boast of.

New Noncous Codfish. New California Lima Beans. New New York Mono Beans.

All these are record smashers and guaranteed to give satisfaction.

A little touch of frostiness in the air makes the sound of codfish appear somewhat seasonable. We have the genuine codfish at 10c per pound. Codfish, so-called in this instance, is nothing more or less than haddock, but which, at the same time, is an excellent article and so near like the genuine that most people would scarcely discern the difference. We have it at 8 cents per pound. Shredded codfish, which is the handiest style in which the article comes, requiring no cooking, thus avoiding the unpleasant odor in the house. 10c per package.

We boast on our cheese, not alone from personal knowledge, but because we are so often congratulated by our trade on the excellence of the article we handle. We buy nothing but the finest New York full cream cheese, and always guarantee the quality. 15c per pound.

Butter of the quality and at the price we are selling it is something of a wonder to many of the residents of our town. There is no room for question as to its genuineness, and the price is the same to all—30c per pound.

Hams, sugar cured, equal to the best at 15c per pound. Dried Beef carefully chopped and to suit the most particular. 25c per pound.

And all that you may want in our line of guaranteed quality and at lowest possible prices.

BELOW OCEAN WAVES

LIFE AT GREAT AND ALMOST UN-FATHOMABLE DEPTHS.

Strange and Startling Structures of the Deepest of the Deep—Creatures Way Down Have Been Dredged From the Surface of the Sea.

For a century or more naturalists have known a great deal concerning the marine organisms which dwell in the shallow water next the shore. They long ago learned the amazing richness of these littoral forms. The census of species amounts to no more than 100,000 distinct forms; it is, however, of late years that they have ascertained that the greater part of these shore dwellers are exceedingly intolerant of the enormous pressure of the deeper waters, as well as of the low temperature and total darkness which exists there.

One of the most striking features connected with the animals of the deep is the frequency with which we find their living specimens which remind us of kinds which in former geologic periods dwelt in the coastal districts of the ocean. It seems that many of these ancient creatures, which they could no longer hold their own against the more highly organized and developed animals which inhabited the favored stations next the shore, shrunk away into the deep water; and in the unlighted part of the world found an asylum where amid the changeless environment, they have dwelt for ages unaltered. Thus the vast profusion of the deep have become a sort of "abandoned," where multitudinal forms which were before the overwhelming pressure which the newer and higher life ever imposes on its successors.

From the results of the relatively trifling explorations which have yet been made, there seems good reason to hope that in time we may win from the deep the nearest living representations of many creatures which once occupied a large place in the world, but now have abandoned the fields of more active combat, which are usually the seat of the greatest advance.

In the profoundest of the ocean the life appears to have a larger share than is secured by the vertebrate or back-boned animals; yet there are a number of fishes known in these depths, and it is not unlikely that there are hundreds of species which are yet to be discovered.
Among the finned tenants of the profunder parts of the ocean we find the most startling departures from the types with which we are familiar in coastal waters. In general shape they differ little from their kindred which dwell in the sunlit shallows.

The differences are largely in the shape of the body, and in the specialization of the eyes. These organs undergoing surprising variations with reference to the enduring of the darkness of these depths.

In certain of the species the sight not only fails, but the sense of sight entirely disappears; in others the eyeball becomes very much enlarged and the nervous apparatus increased, and are evidently arranged to catch mere glimmers of light which are retained before the eye. In still others the sense of touch is so highly developed that the finest vibrations of the water are felt through the deep which overlie the adaptation of these eyes to the needs of different vision at different depths is a very inexplicable matter.

Some recent discoveries provide us with what seems to be an adequate explanation of the enigma. It has been found that certain of the inhabitants of the deep sea floors have phosphorescent parts of their bodies which serve to give light in a manner in which it is yielded by the familiar fireflies and glowworms.

The end secured by these light giving parts is probably the attraction of the sexual mates of the creatures. In the utter darkness of the ocean this indispensable vision at night is obtained in other way—Professor N. S. Shaler in Bridgman's.

What Indiana Was Like.

The natural configuration of many mountains suggests the human face, and such physiognomy out of the common is not infrequently observed regarded by savages as objects of worship. Ellen Russell Emerson says that the Thunder Bird of the Thinkits is described by them as a giant man dwelling in the sacred hills. When in wrath at food he provides himself with a pair of wings and a mask in the shape of a bird's head, the latter having a beak as sharp as a knife and "a tongue that makes fire."

This arrayed the god spreads his wings and sails over the ocean in search of a whale. By his side and attached to his waist is the lightning demon, which darts upon the prey and catches it to the hungry god.—Washington Star.

How Mr. Dyer Caught Seals.

Mr. Dyer lives on a small island near Sever's Hundred Acre Island, Isleboro.
He takes a pole several feet in length,
to which is attached a number of common codfish hooks with lanyards several feet in length. The hooks are baited with herring. This contrivance is anchored and buoyed, the hooks being just below the surface. The seals in swallowing the herring become hooked.
Mr. Dyer has taken a large number in this manner.—Eastern Argus.

Nine-tenths Caused by Drink.

General Booth of the Salvation Army, says that nine-tenths of the evil that has to be fought against in the social department of his work is caused by drink.

Wanamaker's.

PHILADELPHIA, September 19, 1892.

Great waves of goods have piled into the Dress Silk and Novelty Dress Goods stocks.

A single item Bengaline Dress silks: Three hundred and ten pieces arrived in the Transit yesterday, all at once.

The silk goods man's eyes sparkled with joy. Here was the material results of long serious, painstaking work in Lyons four months ago.

These Bengaline silks interest every woman in all this city who needs Silk for Dressing this season.

There are seven varieties, of which two have 60 colors, one has 58 colors, and the remainder less.

The prices are very low for quality considered, $1.25, $1.50, $2 and $2.50. The shades vary from black to the lightest for full Evening Dress; the weaves and the combinations of colors show novel effects.

The Novelty Dress Goods vary from mild and lovely to the pronounced and gay.

You'd never imagine the styles that are here in Velour Russe. Some are prim in neatness, some shimmer with iridescence that combines the color effects of a golden sunset with a Greenland glacier.

Whipcords and Evangeline weaves in plain colors are decorated with silk embroidered figures that give original and beautiful results.

But you know we don't attempt to describe Dress Goods.

The quantities in the choice and rare Dress Goods Novelties are very small. Some of them will be gone in a twinkling of an eye.

The waves of style dash over the Dress Goods counters. Who'll be first to catch and hold the jeweled spray that breaks on the crests? The waves will not repeat themselves.

This Dress Goods stock gives individuality a chance.

The wearer of one of these styles will not see it on another. The vast variety allows verge and scope for the personal element in choosing.

Close kin to Dress Goods are fancy flannels. Large varieties of choice new styles are coming, and altho' not announced are already moving very quickly out. Among them are:

Forty five new styles of French printed flannels, 27 in., 75c.

Thirty-seven new very original and novel woven styles of Saxony flannels, 25 in., at 37 1/2 and 50c.

Eiderdown flannels, plain and fancy, in very numerous varieties, from 37c to $1.25.

The Homopathic View of Cholera
Especially presented by Dr. Chas. Mohr at the 25th annual meeting of the Homopathic Medical Society, Philadelphia, Pa., in the State of Pennsylvania.
Dr. Mohr said: "While old school practitioners and their adherents may well stand aghast at the threatened invasion of this country by cholera, the homopathic profession and laity, because of the provings of medicinal substances by Hahnemann and his followers, and the results obtained by them in the treatment of cholera in former epidemics, may regard the present epidemic in Europe and the possibility of an outbreak in America with comparative composure. Nothing in the history of medicine is grander than Hahnemann's labors, which led him to declare, before he had seen a case of Asiatic cholera, that camphor, cuprum, and veratrum would be the most efficacious remedies for the successful treatment of the disease, on the principle similia, and that they would also prove the best prophylactic. This 'Sage of Crotchet' was no less diligent than Andral and Broussais, and a score more of allopathic physicians in observing and studying the course and pathology of the disease in its devastating march toward Europe. He took the same reports which reached them, but, instead of theorizing, he decided whether the disease was enteric or enteric-epidemic, whether the remedies should be antiphlogistic or antispasmodic, he considered the symptoms given, weighed them, one by one, until a picture of the hideous monster arose before him as the living reality. Then, guided by the great therapeutic law, similia similibus curantur, he asked himself, what drugs have been known to produce symptoms like those characteristic of this awful picture? With a knowledge of the pathogenesis of various drugs possessed by no other living physician, he unerringly picked out the remedy named, and issued a pamphlet giving directions for their application, and sent copies to his medical friends who were willing to cope with an enemy that was snatching to the death thousands of human beings.
"In Russia, Hungary, Austria, France, England, America the three remedies named surpassed all others in efficacy during the prevalence of Asiatic cholera in the countries named, in the years 1831, 1832, 1833, 1848, 1850, 1853, 1854, 1866 and 1873.
"No disease has ever proven a better illustration of the folly of empiricism or of the insufficiency of pathological theories than Asiatic cholera. After the last epidemic in America, in 1873, the Government Commission, authorized to make a report upon its history, characteristics and treatment, stated the fact: 'In the advanced stages of the disease the entire range of the pharmacopoeia seems to have been brought into use, with no better results than have been obtained in previous epidemics.' No account was taken of the cases treated by homopathic physicians, but of the whole number treated by allopathic physicians 52 per cent. ended in death.
"Other theories were added to those hereofore mentioned by the allopathic physicians during the epidemics of 1884 and 1885 in France, Italy and Spain, until these numbered eight, but under the old methods of treatment and under the new methods which were justified by the newer theories, the mortality reached an average of over 70 per cent. No wonder there was considerable among the people in those countries and that the coincidence of the populace in medical men was so shaken that cholera was driven away from the sick with sticks and stones.
"What has been learned since? So far from the statistics of the epidemic in Hamburg, not to speak of Russia, where the death rate was appalling, the death rate is about fifty per cent.
"Now, contrast all this with Hahnemann's method of treatment. In the cholera epidemic in Russia and neighboring countries in 1830-31, according to the report of the President of the Imperial Council of St. Petersburg, the total number of cholera patients under homopathic treatment in the provinces of Saitow, Tambow and Tser, was 1273, with a loss of 108, a mortality rate less than 8 per cent. In 1832 the King of Bavaria sent a commission to collect statistics, who reported that there were only 85 deaths out of 1233 cases treated by 14 homopathic practitioners in Moravia, in Hungary, and at Prague and Vienna, a mortality rate less than seven per cent. In the same countries and cities, under allopathic treatment, the mortality rate was over 50 per cent.
"In 1836 cholera visited Vienna a second time. At that time the practice of homopathy was forbidden in Austria, but, by permission, a homopathic hospital for cholera patients was opened, where the results were so favorable that the law forbidding the practice of homopathy in Austria was repealed. Of the treatment in this hospital two-thirds of all cases recovered, while two-thirds of the old school hospital died. Dr. Balfour, a celebrated allopathic physician of Edinburgh, on a visit to Vienna in 1836, wrote to Sir John Forbes: 'During the first appearance of cholera here the practice of homopathy was first introduced, and cholera when it came again, proved the favorable impulse previously given, as it was through Dr. Fleischmann's successful treatment of this disease that the restrictive laws were removed, and homopathics obtained leave to practice and dispense medicines in Austria. No young physician settling in Austria, excepting Government hospitals, can hope to make his bread unless at least prepared to treat homopathically if required.'
"In 1848-50 Dr. Tessier, in the hospital St. Marguerite, Paris, treated cholera patients in his wards homopathically, with a mortality rate of about 50 per cent., while in the other wards and hospitals, under allopathic treatment, the mortality was about 57 per cent.
"In 1848-49, in the hospital of Edinburgh and Leith, Scotland, the mortality under homopathic treatment was about 34 per cent., while the mortality under allopathic treatment was about 51 per cent.
"In 1854, in Great Britain, the Medical Council appointed by Parliament to suppress the returns made by Dr. McLaughlin, an eminent allopathic physician, and the Government Inspector of Cholera Hospitals. When the report was made it was found that the mortality from cholera in the Homopathic hospital in London was a little over 16 per cent. while under allopathic treatment the mortality reached over 50 per cent. The endeavor to suppress facts because in favor of homopathy led Dr. McLaughlin, one of their own number, but fearless and brave, to declare publicly in a letter: 'Although an allopath by principle and education, and practice, yet, in the will of Providence to afflict me with cholera, and to deprive me of the power of prescribing for myself, I would rather be in the hands of a homopathic than an allopathic prescriber.'
"In 1849, in Cincinnati, two homopathic practitioners treated 1116 cases of cholera, with a loss of only 35 patients—a mortality of less than four per cent.
"Let us suffice now to add that a very careful examination of reports in all epidemics proves the undeniable fact that in cholera the homopathic mortality is 91 in 100 cases, while the allopathic never saved more than 58 in 100 cases.
"This brief display of medical history shows the difficulties and dangers attendant upon the practice of allopathic medicine in the presence of any new form of disease that is especially destructive of human life, and the exceeding value of a general therapeutic principle that may cast light on the pathway of the practitioner in advance of any actual experience.
"We must not be less cautious than our Old School brethren in studying the causes and pathology of cholera. Nor must we neglect, as Hahnemann did not, preventive measures and hygienic rules. We must not stand in the way of the

ELOQUENT STATISTICS.
Alarming Increase of Liquor Consumption in the United States.
The drunk traffic in drink evil is steadily on the increase.
The following statistics most deplorable from the internal revenue reports—are terribly eloquent on this matter.
In 1880, 827,000,000 gallons of alcohol of distilled spirits in the United States (round numbers):
Gallons. Value. Gallons. Value.
1880..... 827,000,000..... $1,000,000,000

The total per capita consumption of all alcoholic liquors was, in—

1888..... 1.36..... 1.70
1889..... 1.39..... 1.75
1890..... 1.42..... 1.80
As regards the total number of people engaged in the liquor traffic we find that they were, in 1880, 207,767; 1890, 208,655; 1891, 230,408 (for twelve months, according to The National Temperance Advocate, January, 1891); 1891, 254,469 (for four months ending June 30).
As to the revenue, we find the total to be, in round numbers:
1880..... $2,000,000,000..... $8,000,000,000
1881..... 2,100,000,000..... 8,400,000,000
1882..... 2,200,000,000..... 8,800,000,000
1883..... 2,300,000,000..... 9,200,000,000
1884..... 2,400,000,000..... 9,600,000,000
1885..... 2,500,000,000..... 10,000,000,000
1886..... 2,600,000,000..... 10,400,000,000
1887..... 2,700,000,000..... 10,800,000,000
1888..... 2,800,000,000..... 11,200,000,000
1889..... 2,900,000,000..... 11,600,000,000
1890..... 3,000,000,000..... 12,000,000,000
These figures are based on 1885, while the population only about doubled. Some time ago the Hon. E. A. Morse, member of congress from Massachusetts, said in an address before the house of representatives on considering the alcohol inquiry bill: 'The last census (1880) shows that this country exports annually $500,000,000 for bread and $300,000,000 for meat. Yet, by the report of the United States commissioner of internal revenue, the direct cost to the consumers of the liquor consumed in this country is $1,200,000,000—$600,000,000 more than the entire bread and meat supply of the nation; and most undoubtedly the indirect cost of the liquor traffic to the country, in loss of labor and time, in criminal prosecution resulting from drink, is as much more, making a total of $1,800,000,000 wasted upon drink.' This waste, plus the incalculable waste of human happiness and human integrity!
As regards 1891, the best estimates place the total direct bill at $1,200,000,000 direct cost, and $300,000,000 more for indirect cost. Hence, by direct cost, for every $1 the revenue receives the nation pays $1.72; or, if indirect cost be taken also, $1.72.
Recent The Rural New Yorker made some comparative returns which show the total value of all cereals produced in the states (1890) to be $1,200,335,398; exports for 1890, $245,229,828; total, $1,445,565,226—only an equal amount to the drink bill for 1891.
Judge White, at Pittsburg, May 28, 1888, said: 'After fifty years on the bench, I believe four-fifths of all crimes committed are the result, directly or indirectly, of the use of intoxicating liquors. Much of it is due to beer. It follows that three-fourths of the expense to the state for the prosecution of criminals is attributed to the same cause.'—Aral Gustafson in Christian Union.
Abraham Lincoln's Only Drink.
An exchange tells an interesting anecdote of President Lincoln: 'Abraham was not afraid to speak out of beer. He was once urged to drink a glass of lager by some man with whom he had business dealings. In vain he protested that he never drank liquors, Lager was then coming in fashion, and he said to him that he must learn to drink it, as it was wholesome and would do him good. He drank it and they parted, but the lager made Mr. Lincoln very sick and he never forgot it. Many years later they met again. It was at a White House reception. The tall president, who was receiving, saw his friend coming afar off, and called out, 'Mr. W., I have never drank a glass of lager since!' and we may infer that the wished he had never drank that.'
A Novel Way of Reforming.
Rev. Father McMahon, Catholic pastor at Brit. Ia., has initiated a novel method of temperance reform. At the close of Sunday morning's service the priest called out the names of about a dozen young men and asked them to stand in front of the altar. The men so summoned have been noted for their fast ways, and especially for promiscuity indulged in in various haunts. Standing in the pulpit before them the priest spoke eloquently of the evils of intemperance and implored the young men to reform. When the appeal was ended each one took the pledge. The entire congregation gathered about the young men and the priest and cordially shook their hands.—Christian at Work.
