Changes in averages received by the Amateur Trapshooting Association after Jan. 16 were not incorporated into the averages section of this book, starting on page 108. However, any average change received up to Jan. 27 which would affect a shooter's standing in the state or national highs was made in those lists. Printing deadlines did not allow for changes to be made after that time. Additional changes will be printed in the regular issues of TRAP & FIELD, as they were in 1969 * * * When the computer system was set up, the ATA gave each state and province an alphabetical code number, including Cuba, which has since stopped holding ATA meets. When Hawaii started registering shoots, it was given Cuba's code number. For this reason it will be found between Connecticut and Delaware in the regular listing of averages, starting on page 108. The Maritime Provinces averages appear on page 433. These are listed last because there were no free numbers on the computer in regular alphabetical sequence.
