

Christian Scientists Buy Historic Mansion

Will Remodel Langley Rayner Home on Oak Street For Use as Christian Science Church, Property Has Been In Rayner Family for 109 Years

First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Mason bought the Langley Rayner home at the corner of Oak and Barnes street a few days ago. The site has been in the Rayner family for 109 years. The present brick house was built in 1868. It has been remodeled twice and in 1916 was virtually rebuilt.

Plans for remodeling the stately old home into a church edifice are still incomplete, reported Miss Kathryn Hubbard of Holt, clerk of the church organization. The present church building at 502 Park street was traded in on the deal for the Rayner mansion. The Christian Scientists will continue to use the Park street building for the present, and Mr. and Mrs. Rayner will reside in the Rayner home until their smaller house is completed on East Ash street near Rayner park.

A. O. Greenough of Dansville was the broker in the sale of the Rayner house to the Christian Scientists. For a number of years Christian Scientists held services on the second floor of the building now occupied by the Mills store on Jefferson. In October, 1940, the members of what was then the Christian Science Society bought the former Kellogg residence at 302 Park street, where services have been held for almost nine years.

Last year the Christian Science Society became the First Church of Christ, Scientist. Growth of the society and church made the present building inadequate. Church membership runs between 50 and 60 with 100 in Sunday school classes. The church had been considering the construction of an auditorium north of the present church, using the dead end of Oak street for an auditorium and converting the present church into a Sunday school. An architect drew plans for such a development. They were discarded, however, in favor of the purchase of the Rayner house.

John Rayner, great-grandfather of Langley Rayner, bought the site for the family home on the corner of Barnes and Oak in 1840. Then there was only a cluster of log cabins and small frame houses in Mason. In 1868 the present brick house was built and built to last. The solid masonry walls are as stout and true as they were when the John Rayner family moved into the new house in 1870. Much of the original paneling and woodwork is still in place. William Rayner, son of John, remodeled the house about 1898 and William's son, Robbins, made extensive improvements in 1916. Langley Rayner is the son of Robbins. He and his wife were married there in 1945.

The first Rayner home, built in the 1840's, is located at 725 East Ash. Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Bement, who owned the house for the past 21 years, recently sold it to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cady.

The mercury registered 31 at Mason Wednesday morning.

Claims Pages Are Missing From Official Records Of Driver School District. If there is a shortage in the funds of the Driver school district in Lansing township, he is not to blame for it, Hallie Harkness told a circuit court jury at Mason Wednesday. He denied using $5,833.62 to purchase his farm near Eaton Rapids or for any other purpose.

Guilty! Escaped Prisoners Tell How Break Was Pulled Off

Used File to Fashion Key to Lock, Took Taxi To Reach East Lansing. John Moore, 28, and Russell Sinclair, 20, back in jail again, told Sheriff Allan A. MacDonald how the escape was made May 17. Moore and Sinclair fled the Ingham jail on a Tuesday night. Moore was recaptured Saturday morning. Sinclair was nabbed late Wednesday afternoon. The stories of Moore and Sinclair don't jibe. Moore claimed he had no help in his jail break. Sinclair put the finger on Ted F. Springer, 21, East Lansing, an inmate assigned to the jail kitchen. Springer is now back in the cage. He is serving a year on a parole violation charge. His term started last December 20. Sinclair, doing a year on a morals charge, was on parole from Jackson. His escape may cause him to be sent back to prison after his jail term is completed. Moore and Sinclair made their escape from the Ingham jail by fashioning a key out of a steel bucket. Moore said he found the key on a window ledge in the hospital cell where he and Sinclair were locked. Moore said the file had been left on the ledge by a plumber sent in to make repairs to the toilet. Sinclair said that the file was passed into the hospital cell by Springer. Moore denied that any visitor or inmate had helped in the escape. There are no keyholes on the inside of the hospital cell lock or the inside of other cells. On the hospital cell door is a port which may be opened for passing food back and forth or through which prisoners inside and visitors outside may converse. The lock on the port was broken. The sheriff said the knob which secures the cover on the porthole was broken when Victor Vercurrys occupied the cell and had not been repaired. With the knob broken, Moore on the inside could reach his arm through the opening and fit his improvised key to the lock from the outside of the door.

Hated to Leave. "I hated to leave the way I did but I couldn't see any other way," Moore said. "I didn't think I would get a fair trial. For several days I had been considering a way out. I finally made up my mind about 9:30 Tuesday night after the turnkey had made his rounds." Moore was visited by a Lansing woman during the 7-8 visiting period Tuesday night. He insisted that the friend had nothing to do with the escape plot. After Turnkey Jack Vess made his 9:30 check, Moore related, "I took the key and unlocked the door. I picked up the radio and some extra gear and Sinclair and I walked out into the corridor and down the stairs. At first I thought I would merely walk past the office and out the front door. Then I changed my mind and went down to the basement. There I found the boiler room exit unlocked and we went through that. We unlocked a residential type door beyond the boiler room exit and reached the outside."

Escorted Out of Jail. Sinclair told the sheriff that Springer met them in the corridor after they had unlocked the hospital cell door. Springer escorted them, Sinclair said, down to the first floor and into the basement. He led them back behind the boiler to the unlocked bars, Sinclair told the sheriff. Moore said he and Sinclair walked to the taxi stand at the SAVING LIVES is easy through the Red Cross mobile blood bank. Every person carries an extra pint of blood in his body, doctors explain, and 34 of those pints were donated by Mason residents when the mobile Red Cross unit converted the Legion Memorial building into a hospital last Thursday. The picture shows Lee Sanborn giving his pint while Miss Vita Fontana, R. N., regulates the flow. Sanborn served in General Patton's Third Army and saw a lot of action but last Thursday was his first experience in giving blood. He didn't mind it a bit, he said. Fifty people offered to donate blood but the offers of only 34 were accepted. There were 16 rejections for a variety of medical reasons but chiefly on the score of low hemoglobin. That's a condition common in the spring of the year, nurses explained. Those who volunteered as donors were Al Rice, Porter Field, Donald Demers, Ralph Swinehart, John Shepard, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lovi, Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Jewett, Mrs. Clarence Elfert, Mrs. Robert Seyfarth, Mr. and Mrs. James Glotta, Fred Salsby, Harlan Hall, Edward J. All organizations are asked to have representatives present, as activities for the summer hinge on the representation, McLean said.

Little Girl Unhurt As Bike Hits Truck

Sue Swartout, 6, doesn't have a bruise or scratch to show for a close escape from injury or death at four o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Sue, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swartout, was riding her brother's bike. She rode east on Oak street to Steele and coasted down Steele to Ash. She coasted across the street into the path of a truck driven by Bernard E. Palmer, 27, of Lansing. The truck driver saw the little girl shooting out of the side street. He braked and over the sidewalk in an attempt to avoid the crash. There was a collision and the girl was thrown to the pavement. She was taken to the Mason General hospital but there were no injuries. Palmer was driving a truck owned by the H. G. Harris Co. of Lansing.

Special Election June 6 For Rebuilding Township Hall Destroyed by Fire

Ingham Township Voters Are Asked To Raise $9,400 by Taxes To Go With $10,000 For Building Fire Station and Town Hall. Ingham township voters will be asked to decide on Monday, June 6, what they want to do about rebuilding the town hall at Dansville. The building was destroyed by fire February 7, 1947. The specific proposal which will be placed before the electors is to raise $9,400 by a special tax on the 1949 roll. The township has about $10,000 on hand. The election will be held at the V. F. W. hall. While there has been no decision reached, town board members said, on the plans for the building it was indicated that the Onondaga town hall may be used for a pattern. That is a one-story building with a stage and auditorium and equipped with a kitchen. The Ingham building will also house a fire truck. The township bought a fire truck, using part of the insurance money collected on the old building. The action of the town board in calling the election was taken Wednesday night following the filing of a petition signed by 25 freeholders. George Vogt, Jr., township clerk, said the board will likely use the present site. The town hall which was destroyed two years ago was built in 1903. It was a two-story brick structure which cost $5,000. The replacement cost at the time of the fire was estimated at $25,000. The branch library, which was housed in the town hall, was destroyed along with dishes, silver and utensils belonging to community organizations. On July 7, 1947, at a special election Ingham voters turned down a proposal to bond the township for $30,000 to be used with fire insurance money to build and furnish a town hall. The vote was 90 to 72. On increasing the tax limit to pay off the bonds the vote was 85 against and 67 for. The vote at that election favored erection of the building, if it were built, on the village site instead of the township site. The vote on that proposal was 78 in favor of the village site to 49 in favor of the township location.

Farmer Falls Dead While Preparing To Visit Doctor

Military Rites Friday at Mason for Clayton Snow, Served in Russia in 1918. Clayton B. Snow, 57, dropped dead at his home on Ferris road in Onondaga township Tuesday noon. He was in the bathroom shaving when he was fatally stricken. Twice in the forenoon he had had sudden pains seize him in the chest. Mrs. Snow had made an appointment with a Lansing doctor for her husband. He was getting ready to go to see the doctor when he fell dead. Mr. Snow had not been feeling well for several months. He and M. D. Collins made a trip west in the spring and on his return Mr. Snow entered a Lansing hospital for an operation. Tuesday morning he had two heart attacks but at noontime was feeling better. He had been out around the barns helping with the work and had eaten dinner. Mrs. Snow was concerned about her husband's condition and insisted that he consult a doctor. By telephone she made an appointment for that afternoon. The doctor told Mrs. Snow to have her husband remain quiet at home until time to leave for the two o'clock appointment in Lansing. Services for Mr. Snow will be held Friday at two o'clock in the Jewett chapel in Mason. Rev. E. J. Cross, former pastor of the Aurelius Baptist church, will officiate with burial in Maple Grove.

corner of Ingham court and Jefferson and asked to be taken to East Lansing.

Although money is taken away from prisoners and kept in the turnkey's office, both Moore and Sinclair had money in their possession, Moore told the sheriff.

Moore had four dollar bills in his shoe when he left the jail, he said. Moore refused to say who had handed him the money or to say whether or not he had it when he entered jail back in January.

After the taxi ride to East Lansing, Moore said, he called a woman in Flint and then he and Sinclair took a bus to Grand Rapids. There the two parted, Moore going on to Muskegon.

Never Was Trusty
Moore was not and never had been a trusty at the jail, Sheriff MacDonald declared. He said that Moore had not had the run of the place and had never been outside the cage or the hospital cell without a guard. Two or three times Moore, under guard, had been permitted to make telephone calls and had been permitted to confer with his attorney. That privilege is granted all prisoners, the sheriff remarked.

Sheriff MacDonald said that Moore was placed in the hospital cell to help take care of Verduyse in January. The sheriff praised Moore for the help given Verduyse for the services, the sheriff declared. Moore corroborated the statement, adding that he had got beyond expecting favors from anyone.

Sinclair was transferred from the cage to the hospital cell on his complaint that he didn't feel well.

The sheriff explained that the youth showed signs of having been in the cage too long and so was permitted to go to the hospital cell.

Because of the parole violation hanging over the prisoner he was not assigned to work on the jail farm as are other ablebodied men serving jail sentences.

Springer was not locked up because of his assignment to the kitchen. At the 9:30 checkup Tuesday night before the escape he was doing supper dishes. Prisoners on the kitchen assignment start work early in the morning and so have a room of their own. They are permitted to use the corridors. As a kitchen helper Springer was often in the cellar to get potatoes and other produce and had the opportunity to study the layout, Sheriff MacDonald said.

Officers Get Tip
A tip to the sheriff's office led to the capture of Sinclair at 4:30

Wednesday afternoon. He was taken into custody by Chief Deputy Laurance Bacon and Deputy Kenneth Preadmore of the Lansing office. The capture was made at the home of Sinclair's friends in Tower Gardens.

Moore recently was paroled from Jackson prison after doing most of a five-year sentence for robbery unarmed. Part of the prison sentence was spent in the kitchen at the state police post in East Lansing. He was arrested January 5 on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. The trial was scheduled for Wednesday of last week. Moore fled the jail the night before.

It now looks as though Moore will not be tried until the September term of court. Prosecutor Charles R. MacLean said that with all the publicity given the escape it might prove unfair to bring Moore on to trial now. Moore now occupies a regular cell.

Moore With Friends
Two Lansing detectives were patrolling streets near the home of Moore's woman friend when Moore drove up about six o'clock Saturday morning. With him were Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Walicki of Muskegon. The Walickis said they had met Moore in a Muskegon saloon and had consented to drive him to Lansing just for the ride. They said they knew nothing about his escaping the Ingham jail.

Max Hovey, Mason cab driver, said he had no suspicions when Moore and Sinclair walked to his taxi stand Tuesday night of last week. The two men were well dressed and had luggage with them, Hovey stated.

"They told me their car had broken down and that they must reach Detroit," Hovey explained. "They wanted me to take them to the East Lansing bus station where they would catch a bus for Detroit. They said nothing on the way that would lead anyone to believe that they had escaped jail. The taxi charge was $3.60."

Mason Drops Tilt To Oriole Champs

The Orioles are as good as on the Capital Circuit throne. They have not lost a game. They must wind up against Mason Monday.

Bob Brown was too much for the Bulldogs in the Charlotte game. The ace Charlotte lefty held Mason to two hits, both singles, and was never in trouble. Denny Stolz and Merritt Snyder were the only two men to get the stick on the ball.

Charlotte had an easy time with the offerings of Ron Stolz, The Bulldogs put out a total of 10 hits, two of them Charley bases. In the second frame Charlotte scored two runs on an error, a walk and a single. In the fourth inning the Orioles added two more runs on two hits and an error. In the seventh inning the Orioles came up with their last run on two hits and an error.

Bob Brown not only pitched himself a good game but banged out two hits in three trips to the plate. One of them was a booming triple. Every man in the Oriole lineup smacked out at least one hit.

Mason's usually tight defense had plenty of holes in it Friday. The Bulldogs committed five mistakes. Charlotte played errorless ball.

Woman's Club Highlights Year By Visit to Starr Commonwealth

One of the highlights of the 30 years of activity of the Mason Woman's club was the trip to Schuler's hotel in Marshall on Tuesday, May 24, for the club's annual May luncheon. Forty-three members and their guests spent the afternoon at the Starr Commonwealth in Albion as guests of its superintendent, Floyd Starr.

Mrs. Betty Lawton planned the trip. She was assisted in arranging the details by Mrs. A. F. Zickgraf, Mrs. James Hughes and Mrs. Vance McIntyre.

Mrs. Lawton became acquainted with Mr. Starr when she was a juvenile probation worker under the Ingham county probate court and through transporting the Ingham county youths assigned to the Commonwealth.

The women made a tour of the Starr Commonwealth grounds, the residences, dormitories, school, gymnasium, workshop and other buildings. There are now 165 boys under the supervision of the home. Since its establishment in 1913, the home has housed and cared for over 2,000 boys entrusted to its care.

Shortly after the group of Mason women arrived, they were addressed by Miss June Brown, publicity director for the Commonwealth. She gave the women a history of the Commonwealth.

Afterwards, Mr. Starr was introduced to the group. He gave a talk on some of the personal experiences with the boys and with donors who had at various times become interested in the Commonwealth and its accomplishments with the boys. He emphasized his convictions that "there are no bad boys," "badness is a result of misdirected energy," his firm belief in the "dignity of labor" and the effect of love and trust upon human beings, boys in particular.

Mr. Starr instructed that the group be taken through some of the most notable of the buildings on the grounds, explaining how and by whom the buildings were given. Two paintings, gifts to the school, each of them valued at $5,000, were especially called to the attention of the Mason women. One of the paintings was an illumination done on vellum, a permanent fixture in the superintendent's office.

Mason Seniors Return From Cruise on Lakes

By Joan Ruseh

According to plans, the Mason high school senior class started on its senior trip Sunday morning at 6:00. The buses arrived in Detroit around 8:30 followed by a three-hour wait for the S. S. Noronic.

Mason seniors, along with students from 10 other schools, boarded the boat at 12:30 and served their first meal at 1:00. All the meals were good, and the passengers were served all they could eat at each meal.

On the boat, there was much entertainment provided for the travelers. On the bottom deck was a rumpus room containing a coker bar and ping-pong tables. A nine-piece band played from 9 to 1:00 each night, and movies were provided for those who didn't care to dance. Games of cards were in full swing on every deck each day of the trip. The voyage down the Detroit river was uneventful with only one stop to load coal. On Sunday afternoon a meeting was called for all students, in which the band leader, minister of ceremonies and recreation director on the boat introduced themselves and explained the recreational facilities on the boat.

At 7:00 Monday morning, the Noronic went through the first of the locks in the Welland canal. At 2:30 the boat arrived at Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Two tours were offered for the sightseers. It was the day before the queen's birthday and many flags were flying in the city. Tuesday was to be a holiday and free movies and fireworks were shown at an amusement park near the city Monday night. Many students, however, spent their time window and souvenir shopping in the big city. The impression that many Mason people carried home, was that Toronto was overrun with banks and trust companies. At 11:00 p. m. the boat left Toronto and at 9:00 Tuesday morning, the pupils boarded chartered buses which took them directly to Niagara Falls. At the falls, tours were also offered. Most of the Mason people boarded the boat at 4:30 loaded with souvenirs. At Toronto and Niagara, the passengers went through customs, (who were searching specifically for firecrackers.)

Tuesday night on the boat a talent show made up of talent from the different schools was a feature attraction.

The show began at 8:15 and at approximately 8:30 the wind began to blow and the boat rocked in earnest. Tuesday night was the only time the water was really rough, and it was not uncommon to see people walking dizzily and weaving as the boat heaved and tossed. There were very few cases of sea sickness however, and when the boat docked in Detroit at 11:00 Wednesday morning, members of the Mason senior class declared they had enjoyed a wonderful trip.

SHUTTER-BUGS' PARADISE—Pretty girls and gleaming camera enthusiasts almost outnumbered the cherry trees as blossoms burst all over north-western Michigan this week. Visitors hungrily drank in the beauty of the display, which covered many square miles of the nation's cherry-growing center. In addition to its numerous other proud distinctions, Michigan grows more red cherries than the other 47 states put together.

Bonding Proposition Decreased!

The Board of Education submits the proposition of providing a new elementary school to the citizens of Mason because of a substantial decrease in the bonding proposition. The bond issue proposed is for $125,000 instead of $200,000.

Proposed Tax Assessments

The Board of Education proposes to retire the bond issue over a period of 10 years. During the first three years a levy is proposed, which will meet annual payments and build up a reserve in the debt retirement fund which should make the last two annual payments. This means that tax assessments for the new building would be for only eight years.

Proposed Tax Assessments
First three years — 6 mills
Second three years — 4 mills
Last two years — 3 mills

The present building and site levy is 3 mills, which means that there would be an increase of 3 mills for three years, 1 mill for 3 years and the last 2 years the same as that raised now. These computations are based on the equalized valuation of the Mason school district.

Your Vote Answers These Questions:

1. Shall this school district issue bonds in the amount of $125,000?
2. Shall this school district pledge 8 mills in excess of the 15 mills for a period of 15 years? (We are asked to make this pledge in order to guarantee the payment of the bonds and secure a low rate of interest.)
3. Shall this school district rescind the present building and site levy?
4. Shall this school district transfer $25,000 from the general fund to the building and site fund?

We Can Build!

1. This school district is free from debt.
2. There is $50,000 in the building and site fund.
3. There is $25,000 in the general fund which may be transferred to the building and site fund.
4. The tax levy for operation was 5.95 mills in 1948 which was less than many rural districts surrounding us.
5. With the present levy of three mills for the building and site fund, the new assessments would only mean a slight increase over what we have been paying.
6. The total tax levy for school if the building is built will remain lower than most city school districts.

Mason Boys and Girls Need This Building

The citizens of Mason can easily afford to provide it!

On June 6 You Can Vote For It!

Keep faith with our boys and girls by providing reasonable facilities for them to secure a good education.

Soil Protection. An umbrella of legumes and grasses will protect your soil from pelting rains. LEGUME-GRASS CROPS.

Pelting rains may be a soil destroyer rather than a farm blessing unless your land has a protective "umbrella" over cover crops. Beating rains on bare land break the surface soil into small particles. These particles quickly fill the pores of the surface soil. The surface forms a hard crust. Water cannot soak in. Instead, it runs over the surface. The farm land then suffers a double loss. It loses needed moisture for crops and it loses valuable top-soil. The Middle West soil improvement committee suggests these steps for protecting your soil and giving your crops better use of the rains you get: 1. Use a cropping system that gives your soil as continuous cover as possible throughout the year. 2. Thick-growing grasses and deep-rooted legumes give the best cover. 3. Small grains following corn help keep the land protected. 4. If winter wheat or rye is not feasible, a good covering can be had by mashing down corn stalks or soybean tops. Legumes like alfalfa and sweet clover prevent washing away of soil. Their prying taproots open the soil so rain soaks in and is held for crops. Legumes well fed with phosphate and potash fertilizer add life-giving organic matter. The weight of paper money minted during the fiscal year of 1947 was 1,440 tons.

Holt School Bond Election Set for Saturday, June 4

The Holt board of education, at a special meeting at 8:00 p. m. on Friday, May 20, 1949, decided to submit a bond issue proposal for the construction of at least a six-room elementary school building to be located in the North Holt area. The date of the voting was set for Saturday, June 4, from 12:00 noon until 8:00 p. m. The amount of the issue was tentatively set for $85,000 to $90,000 depending upon whether or not a site or sites are purchased before the bonds are issued. The school district has on hand approximately $31,000 in its building and site sinking fund which expired with the 1948 tax collections.

Action of the Holt board was taken after a delegation of taxpayers presented a petition signed by about 300 residents of the Holt area requesting that a school be built on the John E. Day farm site in the North Holt region. The petition urged that a six-room school be built not to exceed a cost of $105,000. Since the board of education in all primary school districts must designate and purchase school sites, the petition was not properly worded to have full legal effect. The board of education, however, placed the petition on file and accepted the intention of the signers in its decision to call for a vote on the issue of a school for North Holt. The board announced a long-range plan for housing the rapidly increasing numbers of elementary school students by stressing that there would eventually be need of at least four elementary schools, in addition to improvement of the high school space.

Two of the proposed sites will be to the west of Cedar street and the present site, or one near it, and a future site near the intersection

Ingham Receiving $22,105 for Roads

Ingham county will receive $22,105.48 in gas money as part of the first half of 1949 McNitt Act payments.

Under the provisions of the McNitt Act, this money is to be used only on county roads.

The amount of money allocated to any county is based on the number of miles of McNitt roads in that county in proportion to the total McNitt road mileage in the state, which is 68,696 miles. The distribution amounts to $58 per mile for this year. Mileage is recertified to the highway department biennially.

McNitt roads, as differing from other roads, are former township roads which were taken over by the counties under provisions of the McNitt Act, which became effective in 1932.

Scout Plans Made At Camp Kiwanis

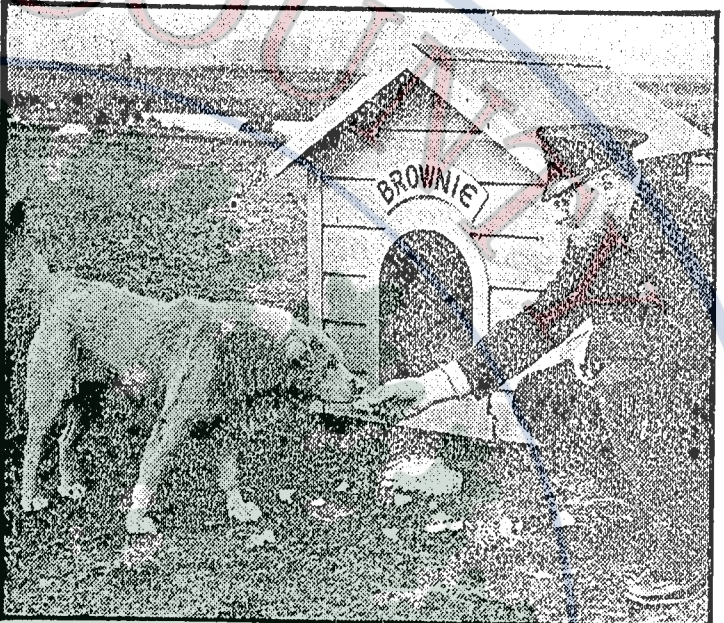

The Ingham district meeting was held Thursday at Camp Kiwanis, under the chairmanship of John Grugel of Leslie. Approximately 35 persons were present. There was a potluck at 7:00 p. m. followed by introductions. Harry Hill reported on Camporee plans and progress. He introduced a letter from Ed Miller of Troop 2, East Lansing, seeking permission to send a Green Bar patrol as an observation group to camporee. Hill also suggested that an invitation be extended to other districts to send or exchange staff members. A motion was made and carried that there be no work project at the Ingham Camporee.

The calendar was studied and approved. Included on the calendar are district meetings and leaders' roundtable, all being held at Camp Kiwanis on October 6, and December 1, 1949, and February 2, 1950. The Ingham district meeting is to be held April 20. District roundtable is to be held September 19 at Dansville, November 7 at Holt, January 9 at Mason, and March 6 at Williamston. June camporee for Ingham District will be held at Ki-Ro-Li-Ex, June 3 to the 5th.

In the absence of Robert Smeltzer, Scoutmaster of Troop 64 of Okemos, Harold E. Woodin field executive, reported on the Ingham county fair camp. Plans for a Scout kitchen and mess tent met with wide approval of the group. Also the plan to take the boys out to Kiwanis for showers was acclaimed by all as a step toward better care.

Grugel brought up the question of chairman of the operating committees and the following were approved: Training, Floyd Lott, Holt, chairman, and C. W. Dog's Life Improves

Brownie, a seafaring dog of dubious ancestry, has caused quite a stir in the maritime world. Believed accidentally deserted by a crew member of a visiting tanker, Brownie has faithfully kept watch for weeks at the Esso Refinery docks in Linden, N. J., for the return of his master. Radio messages have been sent to ships at sea in an attempt to find the dog's owner. Meanwhile, dog-guard Herman Kohl, above, feeds Brownie in front of the dog-house built by refinery employees to make the pooch's vigil more comfortable.

Consumers Power Co. Wants To Expand Gas Heat Service

Consumers Power company is seeking to relax its ban on the connecting of additional gas heating customers. In a petition filed with the Michigan public service commission Monday, the company said its gas supply has improved to the extent that it can safely take on 12,000 additional gas heating customers of household or similar size.

The question as to how the additional customers shall be chosen, in case more than 12,000 customers along Consumers line apply for heating service, was left for future determination.

"For more than seven years petitioner has been restricted in the number of gas space-heating customers it could accept, for service," said the petition, "and during all of this period there have been more customers in its territory desiring gas than could be accommodated. As a consequence, many applications were made, some in writing and some verbally, which could not be accepted and acted upon. In the confusion that necessarily arose, some customers purchased equipment designed for the purpose of gas-heating which petitioner was unable to serve. During the war period, the War Production Board in Washington authorized the serving of gas to some of petitioner's customers for space-heating purposes because of so-called hardship cases."

The "whole history of this experience is such," the petition declared, that some fair plan is needed to determine who should receive gas heating service in case more than 12,000 customers make application.

Division Manager Howard Pett said all present customers of Consumers who do not use gas for house-heating will receive through the mail within two weeks a form on which they may apply for gas house-heating service.

"After a plan of allocating the 12,000 customers has been worked out with the commission," he said, "an approval certificate will be sent to each customer who is to receive gas heating service. No one should buy gas house-heating equipment or plan definitely on receiving gas house-heating service until he receives such a certificate from the company."

In a separate petition the company asked authority to lift present restrictions on gas service to industrial and commercial customers. It said it was prepared to meet all industrial and commercial demands except those for gas

There Are Two Sides To Every Question

AND THERE ARE TWO SIDES TO THE SCHOOL QUESTION HERE IN MASON

Under the American scheme of government, the people have the right to vote no as well as yes. At the March 21 school election a majority voted No to bonding the district for the construction of a new west side school. Their no vote meant that they wanted the school board to work out some other plan for relieving crowded classrooms, some plan that would be less expensive than a $250,000 construction in the midst of the west side business district.

Voters still realize that Mason is not committed to any one set of plans drawn by an architect, nor is the community committed to any special location. Surely an examination will show that other districts have put up good buildings and have solved their problems of overcrowding at far less than the figure quoted to Mason electors.

One Side Has Been Told

One side of the school building program has been told by the school board in pamphlets and paid advertisements. The side expressed here is being told by private expense, because we feel that both sides of every issue should be told.

Electors have realized this and that's why they voted no on March 21, because they weren't satisfied with the program outlined by the school board. They know there's more than one side to the question and they want to see it.

Although no alternate plan has been suggested, the election has been called for Monday, June 6. The same issue is being submitted under practically the same terms, a complete disregard for the electors' stated views.

Public Forum

School or Chicken Coops?

In the May 19 issue of the Ingham County News some person or persons took issue with the board of education relative to the school proposal to be balloted upon June 6, 1949. They purchased space and stated their position which is entirely proper, although had they endorsed their article it probably would have carried more weight. It was stated that the board was offering the electors the same building at about the same price and that no effort had been made to find a cheaper and better solution to the school problem. It is correct that the building proposed is the same, however, adjustments in costs and financing have brought about a reduction in the amount of the bond issue of $75,000. The proposed building would be a permanent and good school for the boys and girls of Mason. Temporary buildings could be supplied at a cost of $50,000 to $75,000 and in a few years they would be done and torn down with a probable loss to about that extent. The reduction in cost and in the amount of the bond issue is composed of several things. There is the general reduction in building costs, the equipping of the building which the board saw fit to transfer from the bond issue to the general fund, attendant reduction in architect's fee and the first year's interest, $25,000 available in the General Fund for transfer to the building and site fund. The board has studied the need for a school, it has traveled to other cities to view different types of buildings, it has employed expert advisors, including the department of public instruction of the state of Michigan. The board has studied the possibility of renting the Legion building, the churches and the Couch building. The writer of the article of last week did not know these things because no effort was made to contact the board or to make inquiry regarding the particulars. The record of the board of education is open for inspection. It is a matter of public record. School people have been employed by the board of education who could develop a good educational system. Academically the school is strong. The band has been built up from 22 to 59 members in three years and is one of the best Class B bands in the state of Michigan. Football teams that used to win one game and lose seven in a season now win seven while losing one. The board has rebuilt Athletic field, making it one of the finest high school fields in the state. This is all paid for and paying returns to this school district every year.

The board urged the voters to establish a building and site fund. Today there is in excess of $50,000 in this fund. Last year the board levied 5.95 mills for operation. Many country schools required higher levies, 10, 12, 15, 20, 25, 30, 35, 40, 45, 50, 55, 60, 65, 70, 75, 80, 85, 90, 95, 100. Aurelius, 8.95; others could be named. The board has operated carefully and built the general fund up to its strongest cash position in the history of the school. After 100 years of operation without adequate auditing, this board has set up a system of annual auditing by certified public accountants. The annual statement of operation is published and made available to everyone every July. Do we want to school our children half-days, build chicken coops to house them, or build a permanent and good school? It is up to you.

Water Rate 12 1/2% I note that you are using New Deal arithmetic on your story of lowering the rate of that polluted Mason water. You can't kid me. Cutting the discount rate of 20 per cent down to 10 per cent means a raise in rate of 12 1/2 per cent, not 10 per cent. It would mean as though someone in Mason would be smart enough to figure that out even if you couldn't. If you don't know the difference between a 10 and a 12 1/2 per cent boost in your water rate don't sob about the action of your city council.

No Regrets

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

VALERIA'S AFFAIR with Elliot Harvey had proved extremely gratifying. After all, Elliot was the most handsome and the most glamorous man at Newfane Lake, and the confession of his love had rather flattered her vanity. But the duration had been brief. Two months, to be exact. She had smiled a little wistfully the night she handed back his ring.

"It's been swell fun, Elliot, but it can't last. The feeling's all on my surface. It won't last."

"Not real?" he stared at her, unbelieving. "Good Lord, Val—"

But she interrupted him with a gesture of finality. "It's no use, Elliot. You're far too glamorous and handsome to fall in love. I tried hard, but it didn't work." She patted his hand maternally. "Summer romances are fun, and this has been the best ever. No regrets."

A hurt look came into his eyes, to be replaced an instant later by exaggerated indifference. He tossed the ring, caught it, pocketed it. "O. K., sister. I guess I can stand it." His eyes held that smug, "it's-your-funeral" look that so fitted his role. She felt released, free again. When Doug Metcalf asked her to attend the Country Club ball with him she accepted without qualms of conscience. Doug was big and homely.

"Thought there was no harm in asking," he grinned. "You won't find me as spectacular as Elliot."

He looked at her earnestly, seemed on the point of asking a question and thought better of it. She knew that he, like everyone else, was wondering if her heart was broken. Well, let them find out for themselves. Their pity annoyed her. Who was this Elliot Harvey, a god or something?

The night of the ball, dancing with Doug Metcalf, she saw Elliot floating by with Sheelah Jackson. He was looking down into her upturned face, oblivious to everything else. Valeria felt a little pang, and impatient at herself, gave her a pat on the cheek. Doug was watching her and there was worship in his eyes.

3-Minute Fiction

They found a vacant bench behind some shrubbery and Valeria sat down.

SHE WAS DANCING a dreamy waltz with Doug when Elliot cut in. Surprised, she found herself in his arms scarcely before his familiar features became recognizable.

"Well, well, well. Look who's here! How's the Don Juan of Newfane?"

"Val, let's go out and get a punch." His tone was almost harsh. Valeria hesitated. "All right," she said. "I could use something like that. It's been a destructive evening. I'm worn out."

They moved into the alcove where the drinks were being served. He led her beyond and through French doors that opened onto the terrace. The place was crowded, but they found a vacant bench behind some shrubbery, and Valeria sat down. It was good to sit. Elliot bent over her.

"Listen, Val, I can't stand it! I've been crazy ever since you gave me back the ring. I'm going mad! You've got to come back to me!"

Amazed, she stared up at him. His eyes were burning coals. He stood there stripped of his pride and dignity, no longer the confident Don Juan, the breaker of women's hearts.

"Elliot, you're drunk!"

"I'm not! Val, don't you see I'm not! Don't you see how much I love you!" He dropped down beside her, and suddenly his head was against her breast. He wept.

Val was frightened and bewildered. So all his indifference, his casual acceptance of her decision to break their engagement, his interest in Sheelah Jackson—it had all been pretense! A sham! A mask! An attempt to maintain his Don Juan standing, to nourish his pride and vanity and conceit.

She stood up, suddenly contemptuous, ashamed of her own doubts, disgusted with his weakness. She looked down at him, without pity or compassion or regret, turned away and went eagerly back to find dependable Doug.

Reception Marred by Crash, Eight Hospitalized Friday

The fervor of the annual junior-senior reception at the Leslie high school last Friday evening was somewhat chilled by the two-car collision early in the afternoon which injured nine individuals, sending eight of them to Foote hospital, Jackson. Three were members of the junior class and one a sophomore of the school.

The car containing the young people was being driven by Jerry Holmes, 17, who that morning had been elected by his sophomore classmates as president of next year's junior class. The car was travelling east on the Fitchburg road to the home of Laura DeLeuw at Pleasant lake to secure some added decorations for the reception when a car driven by Alfred Tittler, 31, and accompanied by his wife, Dorothy, 28, and three daughters, Charlene, 11; Sharon, 8; and Jerry, 6; drove onto the Fitchburg road with the result that the automobile driven by young Holmes hit the Tittler car on the left side, demolishing both vehicles.

Riding with Holmes, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Holmes, North Leslie, were Nondes Morea, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morea of Leslie, the owners of the car; Ella Jane Crowl, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Crowl of Eden; and Laura DeLeuw, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond DeLeuw of Pleasant lake.

Three ambulances and a private car were used to take the injured to the hospital.

The injuries and present condition of those in the accident are: Alfred Tittler, internal injuries, condition remains critical; Dorothy Tittler, injuries to left hip, condition good;

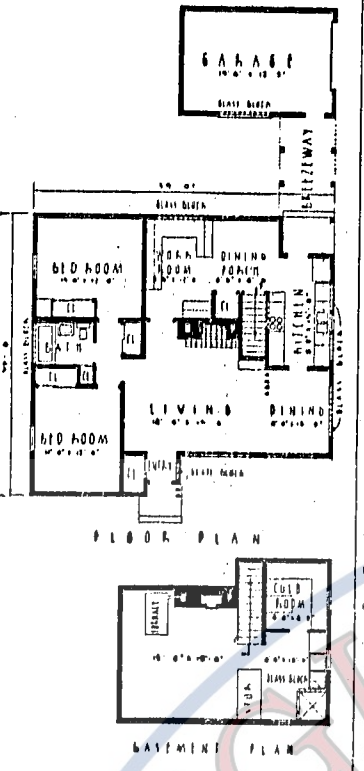

One-Story Home Grows in Favor Plan Well Suited To Farmers' Needs

The one-story home with basement for the laundry storage purposes and the heating plant is growing in popularity.

Highly suited as a farm home because it eases housekeeping, its popularity is demonstrated by the number of ranch-type houses being built today in both rural and metropolitan areas.

The one-story and basement house pictured here offers features that justify the popularity of homes of this type. Planned as a farm home, it includes the conveniences of modern design found in city homes.

The narrow kitchen is accessible to both the dining area at one end of the living room and to the dining porch. Sink and storage shelves are along the outside wall, with the stove and additional storage area on the inside wall. This arrangement provides numerous economies.

The work room is adjacent to the dining room porch but far enough from the living and bedrooms to confine disturbing noises. The two bedrooms, each with two exposures, contain ample closet space and are close to the bathroom.

The garage is separated from the house by a breezeway, which can also serve as an outside porch.

The basement includes several features considered essential to comfortable living on a farm. It is entered from the back porch, eliminating this traffic from the living area of the home.

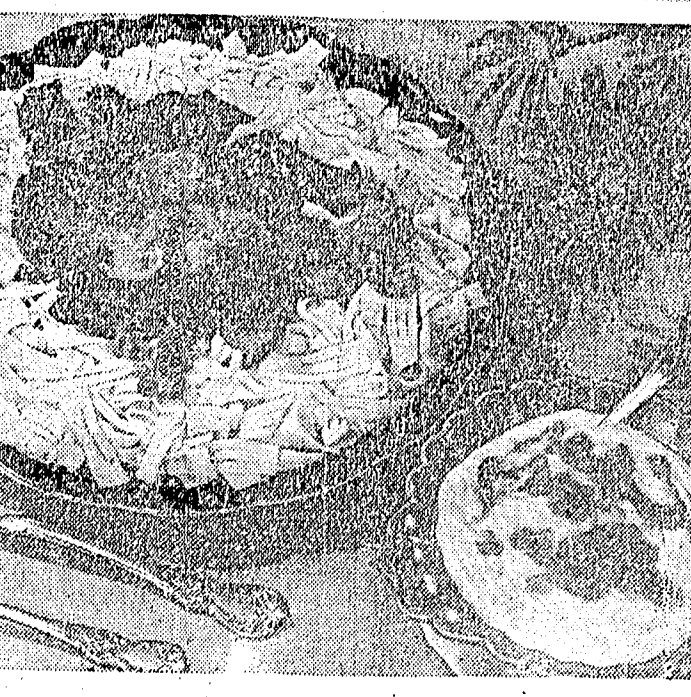

The cold room is ample for storage of glassed fruits, vegetables and other farm produce. Plenty of electrical outlets in this room provide current for a food freezing locker.

In one corner of the laundry is a shower.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Select Seasoning to Suit Meat (See Recipes Below)

Ment Tricks
THE FIELD of seasonings, especially as applied to meat cookery, is a wide and interesting one. If you want to have fun with cooking, and serve the family foods with fine flavor, follow some of the tips given here; then, go further and do some experimenting on your own.

Certain seasonings are ideal for different cuts of meat. For mild cuts of meat such as veal and lamb, the seasoning may be a little sharper than those used for beef. Spicy seasonings are favored for pork.

SOUR CREAM has long been a favorite with veal. When combined with a dill pickle relish and served with steaming hot egg noodles, veal can indeed be a treat.

Veal in Dill Sour Cream
(Serves 4)
1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
6 ounces egg noodles
1 pound veal, cut thin, from leg
4 tablespoons butter or substitute
1 tablespoon flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
4 tablespoons dill pickle relish
½ cups sour cream
To cook egg noodles, add salt to boiling water and gradually add egg noodles. Do not let water stop boiling. Stir occasionally with a pancake turner. Boil rapidly about nine minutes, until tender. Drain thoroughly.

Have butcher cut veal ½-inch thick. Dredge in flour and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Melt butter in skillet; add veal and saute until golden brown. Cover and cook until tender. Remove from pan; keep warm in oven. Add two teaspoons flour to the drippings, blend well. Gradually stir in sour cream, pickle relish, salt and pepper. To serve, arrange veal in center of platter and surround with buttered egg noodles.

LAMB BREAST is among the more economical cuts of meat, but it's a real favorite when prepared with barbecue sauce:

Barbecued Lamb Breast
(Serves 4)
2 pounds lamb breast
1 medium onion, sliced
½ cup chili sauce
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
¼ teaspoon red pepper
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 cup water
Cut lamb into five pieces. Season with salt and pepper. Place in hot skillet and let fatty sides brown. Mix remaining ingredients and pour over lamb. Cover and simmer for one and one-half hours. Remove cover and cook for 20 minutes longer, until sauce is absorbed.
Vegetables, cloves, bay leaves

LIVER HAS little fat of its own, so bacon and pork are used with it to provide juices for cooking it. Here's an unusual way to prepare liver that's certain to be a favorite:

Liver Rolls
Have desired number of slices of calves' or beef liver cut in one-fourth inch slices. Sprinkle with fine bread crumbs and spread with a mixture of sauteed onions, celery and chopped parsley. In the center of each slice, place a finger-length piece of salt pork. Roll each slice tightly and tie or skewer together. Dust with salt and pepper and roll in flour. Place in a baking pan to which a small amount of water mixed with bacon drippings has been added.

To keep yolks from which the whites have been used, place in a cup of water to prevent a hard crust from forming. Store in the refrigerator.

Never heat muffin or pancake mixtures too thoroughly. Slight lumps should be left in the batter so the finished product will be really tender.

When heating food rolls place in the oven in a paper sack or in a heavy skillet on top of the range. Do not sprinkle with water since this may melt the icing.

Stop Sign Disappears
"Lost, strayed and stolen is a 'stop' sign from the corner of Armstrong street near its intersection with Bellevue street. Sometime during Monday night some vandals pulled the sign, with its supporting post, from the ground, and placed it on top of the milk truck of Leon Albro, across the street. When Leon drove his truck away Tuesday morning he did not notice the sign and post on his top and somewhere along his route it fell off. He did not know of it until someone told him

Murder By Two

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

IT SEEMS to be universally supposed, said Inspector Ben Odell, "that people who aren't in their own element are at a disadvantage."
"I'm thinking of the time Detective Sergeant Rod Uphur went up to Round Pond for his summer vacation. Rod was city bred and city raised. He worked on the police force of one of the country's largest cities. He didn't know a great deal about the country and country ways. But he knew human nature, and he was smart."

3-Minute Fiction

"Rod was staying in at one of those summer camps and was having a pretty dull time, when Henry Graves, the owner, came to him with a request.
"There's been a drowning up the river a ways," he explained. "Jed Thomas, the local officer, isn't so sure but what there's foul play. I know it's out of your jurisdiction, but we'd appreciate having you lend us a hand." He smiled flatteringly. "You see, your fame as a detector of crime is far reaching."

Jed Thomas, a farmer by trade, was congenial and willing to let Rod assume the entire burden.
"Fast is Mr. Uphur," there's been a feud heretofore between the Hallams and the Spencers."
"Well, sir, couple days back Herm and Pink Hallam came to me an' says they was bait diggin' in their lower pasture and suddenly they sees a boat with Pat Spencer in it come sweepin' around the bend. He was clear across the river, which is about 200 yards wide there, an' they claim he hit a submerged log and stuck. They claim he tried to push himself off with an oar an' the oar slipped an' it an' him fell overboard. Well, sir, Pat can't swim an' he just naturally drowned."
"Jed Thomas drove Rod out to the Hallam farm and introduced him to Herm and Pink. They were big strapping fellows, smug, amused.
"Sure, sure, we'll go down to the river with yuh," Herm said in reply to Rod's question.
"I see," Rod remarked to Jed, "that you recovered the oar Pat Spencer lost overboard."
"Yep," replied Jed, and not too happily. "I found it caught in some weeds along the bank about 15 yards downstream. I guess he musta lost it, just like Punk and Herm said."
"Punk and Herm laughed.

"Of course he did!" Punk Hallam said darkly. "Listen, city figger, you ain't comin' up here an' gettin' away with accusin' us of murder. You ain't scarin' us, now. We got each other for witnesses."
"Fine," said Rod. "That makes the lie all the worse, because you both declare you saw Spence fall out of the boat, first dropping his oar. No, I must confess I am a city man and the ways of the country are strange to me. However, any dumbbell would know after looking at that river and seeing that bend above here and knowing that there's a fast current, that an oar dropped overboard near the opposite bank, could never lodge in underbrush along the bank on this side 15 feet from where we're standing. It would be two or three miles down stream by now."
"For a minute, there was silence. The three men stared at Rod blankly. It took quite awhile for the announcement to penetrate. Officer Thomas fortunately recovered first. He had a gun in his pocket and he got it out, just as Punk Hallam jumped at him. He had to shoot Punk through the shoulder, and would have done the same to Herm, apparently, had one more ounce of grey matter than his brother. He quit."

Lake Lansing North Shore Is Now Safe for Swimming

The Lake Lansing north shore bathing beach is safe for swimming, Dr. Roelof Lanting, of the county health department, has reported.

Contrary to previous years, tests made on the water taken May 6 from near the Deils and the county park reveal no pollution. Usually, Dr. Lanting said, early season tests have not been satisfactory due to ground surface washings carried into the lake by heavy rainfall and some sewage pollution at adjacent shorelines.

A factor contributing to the safety of the water this year is that all known sewage outlets near the beaches were plugged last year by joint action of the health department and the road commission.

The south and southwest sides of the lake, however, are not safe for swimming, Dr. Lanting warned. Sewage outlets still have necessity to the lake at those points, he said, and no one should swim in the area. Sewage which finds its way to the lake on these sides does not contaminate the rest of the water as it flows to the lake's outlet on the west.

Streams in the Lansing area are still unsafe for swimming, Dr. Lanting said, warning swimmers that if they should swim in the streams they risk contracting disease. The Michigan stream control commission reports dangerous pollution in the Red Cedar from Williamston to Lansing, in the Sycamore from Mason to Lansing, and in the Grand from Waverly road through Lansing.

HE TAKES WOODEN NICKELS. "Don't take any wooden nickels," means nothing to Roy Lawrence, collector of Anamese, Iowa. He's been collecting them for years, now has 350.

Ingham Scholars Win MSC Grants

Ida M. Barker of Dansville, R. Donald Haynes of Haslett, Lois J. Crawford of Holt, Nancy P. Sheathelm of Leslie, Donald H. Webb of Okemos and Joanne White of Williamston are among the Ingham high school seniors who have been awarded Michigan State college scholarships.

The grants, made from a total application list of over 600, were awarded on basis of an honor scholastic average, financial need and good citizenship characteristics displayed in high school. The scholarships cover total course fees at Michigan State for one year, although they may be renewed for a total of four years if the student maintains a high scholastic average, Prof. Clark said.

The awards are the first to be made under a new scholarship plan accepted by the college in February. A total of 750 scholarships are available under the present program, compared to 64 which were previously awarded each year.

Vaccinating Dogs Helps End Rabies, U-M Doctor Says

Vaccination of dogs against rabies has dramatically eradicated the disease in Washtenaw, Berrien and Kalamazoo counties, Dr. A. Burgess Vial, director of the Pasteur Institute of the University of Michigan medical school, declared.

This has been accomplished because vaccination of dogs against this disease is required by law, the scientist, who is also an instructor in bacteriology, added.

"A year ago the situation in Washtenaw county was alarming and culminated in the death of a child," the scientist pointed out.

One vaccination, however, does not provide life-long immunity in a dog, Dr. Vial warned. Vaccination must be done yearly. Danger to the dog will continue as long as rabies exists either in neighboring counties.

In Oakland county, where no ordinance exists requiring the vaccination of dogs against rabies, 55 cases were discovered in the past year, Dr. Vial said. Wayne county has also been afflicted with rabies.

Though no human deaths occurred from the bite of the mad dogs, many people had to submit to the often painful vaccination because they had been bitten. Also, loss of many farm animals has resulted from attacks of mad dogs.

"A well-enforced vaccination program for dogs in those counties would rid the area of rabies," Dr. Vial asserted. "A person with a proven case of rabies has never survived. Convulsive seizures occur, and the patient is conscious to the end. Only a stringent state-wide control program can eradicate this disease."

He put stress upon the necessity of determining that a dog had rabies before the dog is killed by the person that was bitten under dog vaccination. "The dog should be watched for 14 days and a veterinarian called if symptoms of rabies appear. Use a chain to hold the dog or put it in a cage since a dog can break away from a rope. Rabid dogs have distinct personality changes," Dr. Vial said. "They usually become furious and bite inanimate objects. The lower jaw may hang open. The dogs frequently stagger and often drag their hind legs. They may develop a high-pitched howling bark."

If a person has been bitten by a rabid dog, vaccine is indicated. This consists of 14 to 21 shots over a two or three-week period. Dr. Vial said great care must be exercised in using the vaccine.

War Plaque Ready For July Placing

Ingham county's bronze war memorial plaque will be shipped from Chicago June 25 and will be ready for placement at Mason sometime in July. That was the word sent by Boyd Small, representative of the Chicago Architectural Bronze Co.

When the order was placed by the board of supervisors' hope was expressed that the plaque could be dedicated May 30. However it took several weeks to prepare and correct the lists of Ingham county war dead.

The name of every Ingham county resident who lost his life while serving in the armed forces during World War II will be on the plaque panel. The panel will be added to the memorial now in place.

America's Lowest-Priced Straight Eight!

Until they see the actual figures, few people realize that the big, beautiful Pontiac eight is America's lowest-priced straight eight. Not only does it under-sell all other straight eights by a substantial margin, but it actually costs less than many six-cylinder cars!

The fact that the Pontiac eight gives so much for so little is the basic reason for the great and growing popularity it enjoys.

Pontiac has distinguished appearance, and distinctive Silver Streak styling. Its spacious Body by Fisher is handsomely upholstered and appointed.

And finally, it is powered by the world's sweetest engine—a great straight eight which is supremely smooth and quiet, instantly responsive to the accelerator, packed with power—an eight which gives peak performance and economy.

We honestly believe that no other car carries such definite assurance of really enjoyable performance at so low a cost. We invite you to come in and take the wheel yourself. We're sure you'll be very pleasantly surprised.

Sound Advice on City Development

Towns help themselves more by helping their home industries than they do by trying to lure industries from other towns. That was the statement made by Dwight Wood of the Michigan department of economic development in Mason last Wednesday night. He was the speaker at the annual meeting of the Mason Chamber of Commerce.

Industry which comes to a town because of promises of special favors leaves when some other town promises more.

Mason, Leslie, Stockbridge, Dansville, Williamston and other towns in Ingham don't have the transportation facilities or the raw material resources to overtake Detroit, Cleveland, or Chicago or even Lansing or Jackson. But there is no reason why any small town should want to become a big city. One glance at big cities should quickly tell why. All small towns can make more opportunities available, though, for the young men and young women who otherwise must leave town for the big cities.

Here in Mason there isn't a store or business that couldn't use one or more energetic, willing-to-learn, willing-to-serve employees. Neither is there a business in town which couldn't be made better by better patronage here at home.

There's the bakery. There isn't a bakery in the United States which produces better bread and pastry than the Mason City bakery. If enough new customers patronized that bakery one or two extra bakers and clerks would be employed. Those bakers and clerks would rent or build houses. They would buy their shoes, clothing, fuel, furniture and other needs here. They would certainly become users of the Ingham County News want ad columns. Another printer might be hired.

Twenty-five years ago the forerunner of Wyeth Incorporated came to Mason. The company came here because a survey showed that Ingham county was a general farming county which could profitably switch to dairying. That switch was made by the farmers and the steady growth of the milk processing business in Mason resulted. That business, now Mason's biggest industry, wasn't lured here from some other city. It came because the raw material resources were here.

Williamston attracted a bottling plant because the soft drink manufacturers found the water to be just right for their purposes. The branch of the trailer factory was established at Williamston because labor was found to be available.

Midland developed into an industrial city because of the brine deposits. That's part of it. Yet there are hundreds of cities near brine deposits. Midland's chemical industry grew because of the vision and the genius of the Dows.

Wood urged that a survey of the town be made, the survey showing labor and material resources, transportation facilities, housing accommodations and other facts which industrial executives want to know when they consider the locating of branches. While that survey might not result in a new factory or new enterprise it might help us all to line up to aid those we now have. Wood's advice sounds logical. It should be given a try.

Legislators Call It Off, But They'll Return Again

By Vernon J. Brown

Michigan's 65th legislature has wound up its regular session and its members have gone to their homes. I almost said they had completed their work but that would not have been correct. What they did, after dawdling the winter months away, was to set a day for formal adjournment, then cram as much into the four weeks then left as could be accomplished. The remainder was left stranded in committees or on or under the table.

As the weeks go by and the legislative staffs untangle the web of confused verbiage and the governor reviews and approves or vetoes the various last-minute enactments there will be time for appraisals. Right now the record does not seem so good.

In the final hours the animosities between senate and house members failed to soften. Once or twice before during recent years the upper house has quit before the work was finished and without waiting for the house to join in final observations. This time the senate quit, leaving the huge educational appropriation bill in the hands of a conference committee. The members of which were still wrangling over details. Either the colleges and the university will be without funds for next year's operations or enough members must return a month hence when final adjournment is due to adopt the conference report, whatever that may be like.

Special Session Halted
The governor already is considering the calling of a special session to act on other matters which the legislature in its regular session either ignored or rejected. Failure to return in sufficient numbers to pass the college bill would be an added reason for the governor to act promptly.

The governor and his fiscal advisers insist the failure to provide new taxes will lead the state to a certain deficit next year. He estimates that deficit at not less than $60,000,000. Republican legislators who refused to pass new tax measures insist just as emphatically that the deficit will be less than half the governor's estimate. No one is optimistic enough to believe the revenues now available to the state will carry the costs of all the governmental services now provided and to cover the amounts required under the various diversions, allotments and grants-in-aid authorized either by constitutional amendments or by statute.

One addition to the extra costs, is a needed budget officer, titled legislative comptroller. This new office will cost $10,000 for a beginning. Watch this and in a few years it will be found that his staff will equal that of the regular budget office subject to the executive office. Indeed it is possible that both will eventually exceed in size and scope the present budget department. Naturally with two in operation, one responsible to the governor and the other to the legislature, there will be exciting competition. Every time one expands to beat the other, then the other must expand still more to keep ahead. That is the way bureaucracy in government grows and this cannot be expected to provide any exception to the rule.

Lobbyists Are Joyful
I had the good fortune last week to fall in with a small group of lobbyists. In numbers the group I listened to was far below a majority. But in terms of the interests they represent their viewpoints were at least interesting. Banking and finance, transportation and manufacturing were included. These lobbyists were jubilant and expressed themselves as well pleased with this legislature. No new taxes anywhere. Gas tax increases were rejected. Senator Hittie's attempt to control auto financing rates was rejected, and no new general taxes were imposed.

The fact that the state seemed headed for insolvency—and they admitted that—did not seem to worry these men a bit. when the late Francis Densmore fixed up the burial ground after a period of long neglect. Somewhere the map which showed the proper locations came up missing after the grading was done. It was impossible to put all the monuments and markers back in their rightful places so scores of them were used in the fill for the road.

Everyone who gave a pint of blood to the Red Cross blood bank last Thursday was impressed with the competency of the staff. No one could have yielded up a pint in a better company or for a better cause.

If there were anything to the theory of blood lines, how simple life would be! A few transfusions from the right man, and a sinner would be transformed into a saint. Of course, it might work the other way around, too. Instead of shedding blood on the field of battle, peace-loving Americans would only have to visit a sanitary, convenient laboratory to give up a pint each for a warlike German, Japanese or Russian Communist. How much more convenient that would be than giving it in great gobs on an unsanitary battlefield! How much less costly it would be to visit blood banks than it would be to build battleships and bombers!

Whether the skin is white, yellow, red or black, all blood is alike. So it isn't blood that makes people different. Blood makes 'em alike.

Chloride for Cedar Street

Widening of the pavement and construction of sidewalks are both needed on Cedar street in Mason if there is to be any profitable tapping of the stream of tourist business using US-127.

Tourists just won't get out and wade through dust or mud to patronize stores. They'll drive on to the next town. No one knows that better than the men in business on Cedar street. They are anxious to have the pavement widened and to have sidewalks. That will come in time. What is needed now is calcium chloride to hold down the dust.

Cedar street is a state trunkline maintained by the county. The state highway department may consider the center 20 feet its sole responsibility, although that certainly is not the case with the four-lane section north of Holt. According to one Cedar street business man, the state insists that the matter of chloriding the shoulders lying between the pavement and the gutters is a city responsibility while the city believes the matter is up to the state or the county.

If heavily traveled alleys and gravel streets need chloride, and they surely do, then the city should certainly treat Cedar street. If the city budget won't stand it the business men themselves will be glad to chip in.

The dust on Cedar street should be controlled and at once.

Farmer Ratio Now 1 to 4

For every farmer there is now more than four others who live in town and city and work at something other than farming.

Industry has taken people from the farm and it has also industrialized farms so that one-fifth of this nation can provide all the food needed for the United States and ship vast quantities throughout the world.

Here in the United States today there are four consumers to every farm producer. Farmers are now a minority.

As farmers grow less in numbers each farmer becomes that much more important in the economic picture. His responsibility grows that much greater.

Where Once the Eskers Stood

From the south city limits of Mason all the way to Holt what were once hills are now lake beds, or will be when the gravel operators get through.

The operators will be through within a few years. What then? Do we want a string of public dumps?

The hills of gravel were once the beds of glacial streams. When the glaciers retreated the stream beds were left high and dry. They remained like that over thousands and thousands of years. In the last 100 years those glacial deposits have been utilized to ballast railroads and to build highways and concrete structures. That sand and gravel was designed for use and should be used. The question now is, what use shall be made of the great cavities where once the eskers stood?

Engineers claim that if the abandoned pits are drained Mason's water supply will vanish.

There's a severance tax on oil and on some other natural resources. Perhaps there should be a small one on gravel. Certainly nothing is more worthless than an abandoned gravel pit. An abandoned pit produces no crops. Gravel pit pools are hazardous to swimmers. They usually become refuse pits.

The county or the townships should plan now on what is to be done with the pits when the gravel is exhausted. Should the county have a string of spring-water ponds from Mason to Holt and beyond? Should a severance tax be imposed to help the public pay for making the ponds safe and the pits sightly after gravel operators quit? Or what do you suggest?

Down by the Sycamore

Leaving the Sycamore valley last Friday my wife and I drove to visit cousins at Royal Oak and from there headed north over US-24 for Lapeer. From Pontiac north to Lapeer the road climbs and winds around and over steep hills. There are many lakes on the route. It's as pretty a drive this time of year as can be found anywhere.

We went to Lapeer to admire the $500 check and the trophy won by the Lapeer County Press for promoting better fire protection, to see the new barn which has attracted so many visitors to the County Press Farm and to have supper with Bill and Bob Myers and their wives.

The trip was a success in every way. The new trophy fits in well with the scores of others won by the Lapeer County Press, the barn is something new (see Farm Page) and a supper with the Myers boys and girls is a gastronomic treat.

We were at the County Press Farm at milking time. The 30-cow Holstein herd is operated on the honor system. Cows are not locked into stanchions or tied with halters. When they are in the mood they walk into a parlor and climb up onto a stool. Attendants have no stools. They stand at parade rest while the cows surrender their milk and/or cream. Then the cows walk out of the parlor and go back outdoors to play and eat and make more milk for the Myerses. The cows appreciate the kind of treatment they get and give down right to the last drop.

One of the things I liked best about the dinner at the Bill Myers home in town Friday night was the summons Bill received between the main course and the dessert. On the other end of the line was a Michigan State college alumnus who didn't like the sound of an editorial which appeared in the Press the day before. The rest of us waited 10 minutes for Bill to return to the table. Then we went ahead and ate the pie (peanut torte well covered with County Press whipped cream) and it was another 10 minutes before Bill joined us with an aside to Bob. "Hereafter the man who writes the editorials will have to answer the phone on complaints."

Bob and not Bill had written the piece. It was a good one, too, but a bit too close to the truth. It dealt with the speech two nights before at an M. S. C. alumni banquet in Lapeer. The speaker had commissioned all Lapeer alumni to serve as football talent scouts. Another speaker had eulogized over the admission of M. S. C. to the Big Ten. Two Lapeer football players who had been given athletic scholarships at State were honor guests and were lauded to the skies. A third boy who had won an academic scholarship had not been officially invited. He sat at the other end of the hall from the speakers table and wasn't even introduced. Bob Myers didn't like it and said so in the editorial.

A telephoned complaint to the editor just at mealtime spices the food and aids the flow of digestive juices. The call Friday night made me feel right at home and proved to my wife what I have always maintained—that being verbally licked around is an occupational hazard in the newspaper business.

The road to hell may be paved with good intentions but the road from the entrance of Maple Grove cemetery down the hill to the city park is shored up by epitaphs from tombstones and markers. I learned last week. According to Ralph Adams, many of the tombstones were removed from the old part of the cemetery 40 years ago

Hours open to the public at Hall Memorial Library, Mason: Every day except Sundays and holidays, 2-5 p. m.; Monday, Wednesday, Saturday, 7-9 p. m.; during school year, Tuesday, Friday, 11:30-12:30.

Our books this week deal entirely with people who have accomplished great things for themselves or for others against the greatest of odds—those who have dared to be different because that was necessary to satisfy something within themselves—and those whom fate decided must look different, and how in spite of that have made a place for themselves with the rest of the world.

SWEETPEPPER IN THE SKY is the biography of Maria Mitchell, who was born and reared in Nantucket, an island off the Massachusetts coast where it was the greatest whaling port in the world. Seamen relied on the stars for safe passage and it was to Maria's father that the captains came to correct their chronometer, and Maria, who had watched the skies with her father and knew how to measure exactly, made the correction when he was away. She discovered the comet of 1847 which is known by her name, was librarian of the Antheneum for twenty-five years, and was director of the Vassar College Observatory when it was founded in 1865.

TREMBLING YEARS is a novel of a girl who was stricken with polio in her first year of college—just as she was beginning to feel at home and take her place in activities—a girl who was never still, but who had to run to meet life. This is the story of her reaction, her help from another crippled worse than she, her help from a thief, and finally her own help within herself when she finds that she is important and not a burden to others, that she can still love and be loved.

VICTORY IN MY HANDS is the story of the young man who took part in the movie, BEST YEARS OF OUR LIVES, and showed what can be done by a person with no hands. It is the story of his own personal battle to fool no one, including himself, and how he again

Act Would Give President Power Greater Than in War

By Rep. William W. Blackney (Sixth District Congressman)

A proposal neither sufficiently discussed or properly understood by the American people is the Spence bill HR-2756. It is called the "Economic Stability Act of 1949." If enacted into law, the bill would give 55 new separate grants of authority to the president. It would permit President Truman to fix prices, allocate materials, and determine wages. In fact, it grants such extraordinary powers that the president would hold in his hand complete control over the nation's economy and the freedom of all individuals. The president could issue such rules, regulations and orders as he may deem necessary to carry out the provisions of the act. Putting it another way, these powers would grant him more authority than war-time powers. The bill was proposed as a means to combat inflation and the rising cost of living. (Right now, most people are worrying about deflation, rather than inflation.) It would authorize the government to build manufacturing plants to increase production of goods or material in short supply. With such grant of power, one might visualize Uncle Sam going into many kinds and types of business in direct competition with private enterprise. Free markets would no longer exist. Because of the introduction of this bill, there evidently are these high in government circles who still hold the belief that government planning can produce a higher standard of living in the United States than the free enterprise system. Such, however, has not been the history and record of free enterprise in this country. If left alone, labor, industry, and agriculture, through proper incentive and reward, will produce the right results.

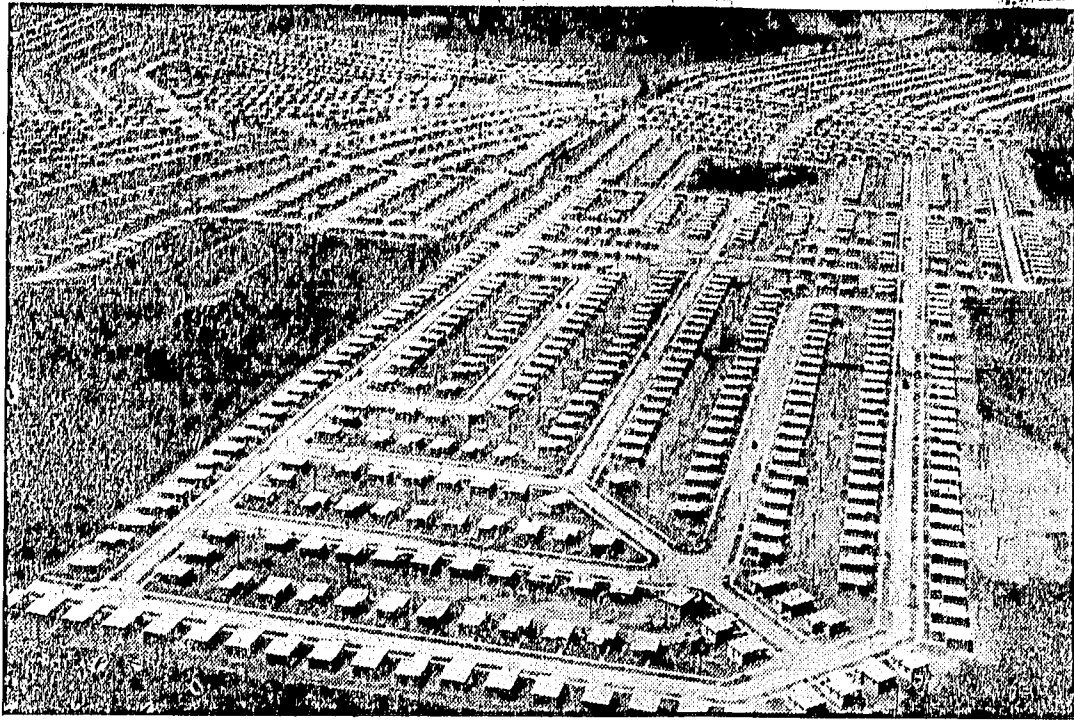

New Pension Bill

The house veterans committee has just favorably reported a new pension bill. This bill provides pensions of $72 a month at the age of 65 to veterans of both World Wars. It eliminates the present requirement of 10% disability as a qualification for pension benefits and it increases the income limitation, which provides a test of need, from $1,000 to $1,200 for men without dependents. The $2,500 limit for men with dependents is not changed. Since all but the chairman of the committee voted to favorably report the bill, it would appear that this measure has a good chance of passage in the house.

Forestation

The house recently passed HR-2296 providing for a cooperative forestry program between state and nation. This became necessary because during the last 50 years, many of our forests have been completely destroyed and very little effort made to plant new trees. In 1947, there was a total of 428,994,000 acres of non-federal forest lands needing protection. In that year there were 327 million acres receiving some degree of protection, but there were 111 million acres of forest on which there was no organized protection whatsoever. In order to safeguard our future, it now becomes apparent that more attention should be paid to forestation. In Michigan alone, there are 17 million acres needing forest protection, while some 17 million acres in Michigan are only poorly protected. The present bill provides for forest protection by both state and nation. One of the first essentials to a sound forestry and soil-conservation program is the planting or replanting of trees on acres which should be in forest growth but are now denuded or so poorly stocked that they will not replant themselves. Although the states have been producing 160 million of seedlings, this has been far below the actual necessary demand. There are approximately 62 million acres of privately owned forest land that need restocking. The object of HR-2296 is to make available to farmers and forest owners sufficient seedlings to make possible the planting of about 1 billion acres a year. This will require approximately 1 billion seedling trees each year. The present cost of producing seedlings is about $88 per thousand. Forest service officials estimate that if production is undertaken at the

Here's One Answer to a Housing Problem

Nearing completion five miles from San Juan, capital of Puerto Rico, is one of the world's largest private housing developments. Above are some of 3500 concrete, five-room dwellings built in slightly more than a year's time, with 1500 others soon to be completed. They sell for an average of $4000 and were constructed by a South Carolina builder in co-operation with the FHA and Puerto Rico government to alleviate the island's acute housing shortage.

Asks Return of Property

This is to ask whoever has the articles in their possession that were stolen from the top of a barn on East Elm street, Mason, to please return them. They do not mean a thing to anyone but the owner and perhaps a few in her own family. To anyone else they are only things in use. To me (the owner) they were things that were keepakes as well as useful. The child's roller was bought for me about 50 years ago by a grandmother of whom I thought a great deal, and to me it was priceless. Anyone is certainly low when they will not leave people's property alone, especially under the conditions that placed a woman's possessions in a place or places where they can not be locked up at all. The stairway up to the things in the barn on East Elm street was boarded up and someone took all the boards off. Will the party or parties who have anything taken from my things please return them, now that I have explained and asked as I have. I will appreciate it very much if you will.

SHOULD MICHIGAN CITIES HAVE THE MANAGER FORM OF GOVERNMENT?

Background

In the city manager system councils are usually elected by a non-partisan ballot. The council then chooses a city manager who is a professional executive. He hires all other municipal employees. The heads of departments are subject to removal by the manager at any time, but the rank-and-file employees are usually on a "civil service" basis, with job security during good behavior. The city manager himself may be dismissed by the council at any time. The council usually chooses a mayor to represent the city on public occasions, but the real power is in the hands of the council, which determines the general lines of policy and the city manager, who carries out the policy laid down by the council.

The city manager type of government, first introduced in this country in 1912, is growing in popularity. Presently among the larger cities, "twenty-one per cent" of American cities over 5,000 population have city managers, and more than 200 have adopted the system since 1945. Seventy-two of Michigan's 180 cities have city managers. On the other hand, 26 cities in the nation have tried and abandoned this form of city government. Cleveland, Ohio, and Albia, Michigan, are among the 26.

Some of the main arguments on this issue are:

1. A city is primarily an administrative organization concerned with administrative operations such as police and fire protection and the construction and maintenance of public works. The management of its affairs should be the duty of a trained administrator, not a politician. In most cities people elected to serve as mayors or councilmen cannot afford to give full time to their official duties. There should be one full-time administrator to deal with the problems of the city as a whole and to coordinate the work of the various departments of its government.
2. City managers have professional standards and a national organization which keeps them informed of the latest and most efficient ways of handling municipal problems. If a good idea is developed by a city manager in California, the city manager in Michigan will soon learn of it and his city may benefit accordingly.
3. The fact that the council may dismiss the city manager at any time forces him to keep reasonably well in line with public opinion and not defy it. A city manager who tries to become a dictator or a politician can be discharged at once.

rate proposed, the increased volume of productions will make possible a reduction in the cost to about $10 per thousand. In order to encourage the planting of trees in eroded and denuded areas, seedlings are sold to farmers at about $3 per thousand. This entails a loss of about $5 per thousand trees. If this is shared equally by the states and federal government at the proposed production rate of 1 billion trees a year, it means a cost to each of about $2.50 per thousand trees or $2,500,000 per year. The United States has been entirely too wasteful of its national resources. This bill would preserve and protect our forests and provide for replanting.

High J. Johnston, former mayor of Traverse City and its "most useful citizen in 1938," was unanimously elected and installed 90th most worshipful grand master of Michigan Masons in the Scottish Rite Cathedral at Detroit Wednesday, May 25. He is Traverse City's second resident to hold the office of grand master. His predecessor was Herbert Montague who served as Michigan's first Mason in 1908. A retired Michigan Bell Telephone district superintendent, Johnston holds a long record in civic activities. As a resident of Petoskey he served as a director and president of the Chamber of Commerce. Before moving to Traverse City, he was director of the Port Huron YMCA. For many years Johnston acted as a Traverse City commissioner and a member of the board of county supervisors. He was also a member of the city planning commission and the county health committee. Traverse City knows him as a past president of the Rotary club, county chairman of the American Red Cross, a member of the National Army advisory board and past president of the Wolverine chapter of the Telephone Pioneers in America. His interest in youth won him the directorship of the Traverse City youth center, the state directorship of the Crippled Children's Society, and the presidency of the Scenic Trails Council, Boy Scouts of America. While the new grand master is a resident of Traverse City, and even though Traverse City Lodge, No. 222 is his mother lodge, it was, nevertheless, under sponsorship of Durand Lodge, No. 344 of Petoskey, that he entered the official line of Grand Lodge. Johnston was born April 13, 1885 at Yale, Michigan. Eighty-nine issues of commemorative coins have been struck off by the U. S. since 1892.

Interest in Farmers

New Type of Barn Cuts Labor Costs

Over at Lapeer on the County Press farm is a new kind of a barn. It isn't pretty, it isn't the traditional type, but it's mighty handy.

The barn was built to replace one destroyed by fire last year. It was built for half the cost of most dairy barns. It takes a lot of work out of dairying.

When the County Press barn burned down farm engineers at Michigan State college, said that a barn like the one destroyed would cost between $400 and $600 per cow. Farm management experts held that the County Press barn couldn't show a profit in a barn costing more than $300 per cow.

The County Press farm is operated by the newspaper to demonstrate that modern farming can be made to pay. A barn the County Press couldn't pay for certainly wouldn't fit into the picture.

As explained by Bob Myers, farm editor of the Lapeer County Press, it was at that time that a subscription to the Farm Journal paid for itself for the next few thousand years. The County Press turned back to the November, 1947, issue of the Farm Journal and used the plans for a pole-frame barn designed by the Dairy Agricultural Service. It proved to be the right answer to today's problems of high building costs and high farm labor costs. The cost was $250.52 per cow.

Bob Myers said, "We built that barn for $7,515.25. It gives us ample floor space and hay storage space for 30 cows, plus a raised milking platform, milking room, milking stalls, a 12x18 cinder block milk house, a 3x88 concrete barnyard, hayrack fence, wiring and plumbing. Just for the barn itself the cost was $3,570.85.

"For another $2,487.00 we installed a 14-cow milk cooler, an electric space heater for the milk house, a milking machine, a hay dryer, and an electrically heated water fountain. The total cost of the barn and all the equipment was $10,002.85."

There are no excavations, footings or foundations needed in a pole-frame barn. The poles are pressure-treated with chemicals to prevent decay and are sunk five feet into the ground. From there on, it's just a matter of sawing and nailing. The new kind of barn does away with heavy framing, bracing, and paint. Siding is sprayed with a colored wood preservative.

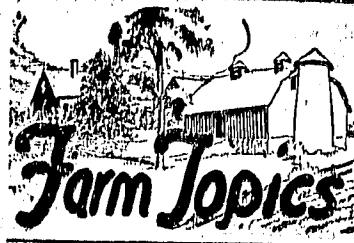

In the new type of barn there's no hay to chop. Chopped hay is piled on the floor separated by a feeding fence from the cows. The feeding fence is in sections and can be moved ahead as the hay is used up. Loafing space is increased an winter advance.

Bedding is tossed over the fence, and the barn is cleaned just once a year with a power manure loader.

The usual amount of labor is reduced 40 hours per cow per year with the new type of barn and equipment at the County Press farm.

Farmers and engineers are coming from miles around to inspect the new kind of barn. Myers and his farm manager, Paul McMath, once of Leslie, are glad to show the visitors around.

In summing up the advantages of the new barn, Myers said, "To us the barn is the final step needed to bring the dairy-farming industry up to date. In the past decade we have seen the arrival of the pick-up baler and the field chopper, the small combine and the high-compression tractor. Grass silage and self-feeding of hay have been proved. Only a barn that the cows could pay for was needed to complete the revolution. We now have that kind of a barn."

New Plastic Foam Used in Insulation

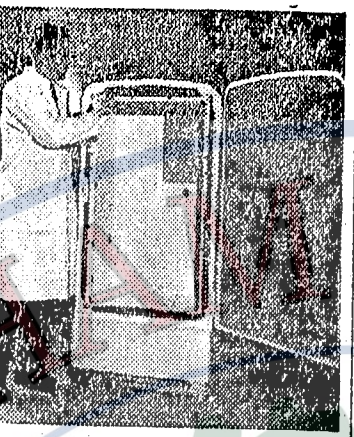

Material Is Called Lightest of Solids

The world's lightest solid, an amazing plastic foam that swells up when baked like a cake to 100 times its original volume—has been developed by Westinghouse scientist for use as a new insulating material.

The new product is expected to find its way into many uses in appliances used in farm homes and about the farm.

Even lighter than some gases, the new material weighs from 10 to 20 times less than the fluffy meringue on a well-baked pie.

Robert F. Sterling, 29-year-old chemist, and the man chiefly re-

Shown here is a refrigerator completely insulated with the new plastic-foam insulation material. This is the way the refrigerator looked after the insulation job was done, but before door liner and other parts were put back in place.

ponsible for the new product, said it is the result of a three-year search for an effective insulating material that will fill large areas, yet weigh "next to nothing."

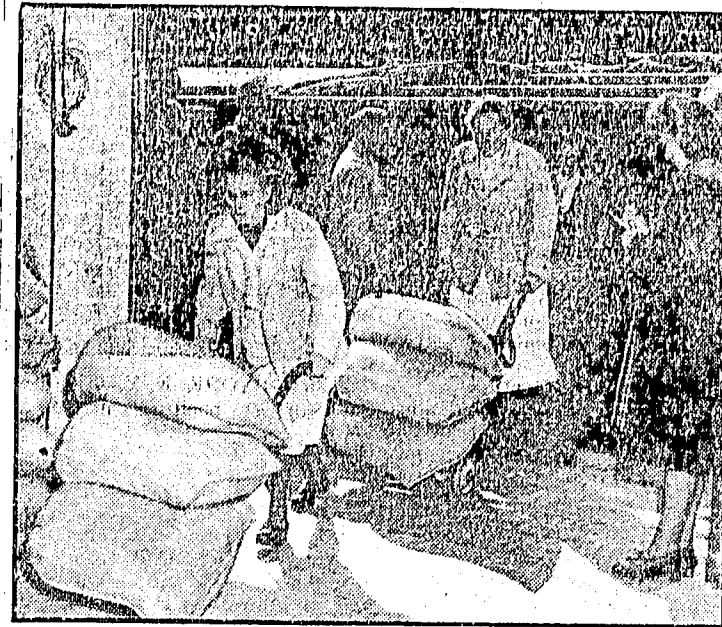

The foam is made by heating a molasses-like synthetic resin at about 350 degrees Fahrenheit until it expands to 100 times its original volume, then solidifies. Thousands of gas bubbles entrapped in the foam "buoy" it up and give the plastic its lightness.

Foamed into pre-fabricated metal wall sections, a two-inch thick layer weighing only 300 pounds would be enough to insulate a complete six-room house, Sterling said.

Resistant to fire, moisture, fungus growth and insects, the foam is low enough in cost to be practical for many applications and uses, the scientist said.

Not only do imprisoned air bubbles give the new plastic great lightness, but they also provide it with its excellent insulating qualities. So-called "dead air" is one of the best insulators known among commonly available materials, Sterling said.

Railroads Again Supply Berlin

Women workers in Berlin unload flour from a freight car just arrived from the western zones of Germany. Trains are pouring supplies from the three Allied zones into the western sectors of the former German capital, no longer blockaded by Russia.

Sanitation Needed in Newcastle Check

No experience is by far the best experience with Newcastle disease, the troublesome poultry ill, says Dr. H. J. Stafseth, head of the department of bacteriology and public health at Michigan State college.

He advises that poultrymen block off as completely as possible every channel by which the virus can get to a healthy flock. Experience has shown that the disease can be spread both directly and indirectly. The virus is long lived and durable.

A check list of channels to watch is listed by Dr. Stafseth.

1. Visitors and buyers: The virus can be carried on shoes, clothing, crates and trucks. Keep visitors out, and tell the poultry buyer to stop in the road. Carry out birds and eggs and sell them away from the yard.

2. Shipment of exposed birds should be avoided.
 3. Require dealers to sell feed in new bags or show that they are re-using old bags only after thorough steam sterilization.
 4. Crates returned from market should be thoroughly sterilized before they are allowed on the premises.
 5. New stock should be added only after a quarantine period of several weeks to insure that they are free from disease.
 6. Avoid bringing birds back to the flock after they have been exhibited at fairs, shows, and laying contests.
 7. Buy from hatcheries that apply rigid sanitary control.
 8. Attend to prompt disposal of all birds dying from any cause by deep burial or burning.
- These precautions are in line with good management. Dr. Stafseth advises, and are doubly important due to Newcastle disease.

Check on Expense Is Good Practice

Falling income is something that is affecting all farmers these days. Michigan State college agricultural economists say that cutting expenses is one good way to combat the reduction in income.

They advise farmers to use their account books to determine their major expense items. Then when it comes to cutting expenses they will know where it may be possible to start.

A general rule can be applied to expenses, they advise. If the proposed expense is to be justified as being anything except a luxury or a contribution to better living, it should either increase farm income by more than the amount of the amount of the new expense or else decrease some other item of expense by more than that amount.

List Current Garden Jobs

Home gardeners in central and southern Michigan can use the last week of May and the first of June to put out tomatoes, egg plant, and pepper plants. The new varieties from Jack Rouse, of the Michigan State college department of horticulture.

Frosts early in May proved the danger of getting these warm weather crops outdoors too early. Other garden chores that can be done now are planting snap beans and sweet corn as well as setting out transplants. Cucumbers, melons, and squash can be planted anytime until about June 10. Soil should be thoroughly warm before seeds of these crops are planted.

Many gardeners plant lima beans too early in Michigan, Rose believes. This crop should not go into the ground until the first week in June. The new varieties Peerless and Triumph, developed by the United States Department of Agriculture, have given excellent results under Michigan conditions. Henderson Bush is the second lima bean choice if the new varieties cannot be obtained.

Cover That Cough

"Cover that cough, smother that sneeze" is not only good advice for people in public places. It has practical meaning in the cowbarn, too.

Danger that coughing cattle may spread respiratory infections to their stablemates is highlighted in a research report from the American Veterinary Medical association.

The report describes an unusual case of tuberculosis of the eye in a heifer. A tuberculosis cow with a bad cough, stanchioned next to the heifer, is believed to have spread the disease.

AVMA points out that this case occurred in England, where bovine tuberculosis is widespread. Although tuberculosis has been reduced to a minimum in United States herds, coughers and sneezers are nevertheless a menace because they may spread all kinds of respiratory infections. Isolation of any animal showing respiratory symptoms is urged, therefore, to protect the rest of the herd.

Field Mice Destructive To Melon Crops, Seed

Untold damage is done each year to cucumber, cantaloupe and watermelon fields by mice destroying the seed which are planted and also the plants which are up and bearing fruit. H. A. Bowers, Clemson college crop specialist, says:

Bowers explained that the meadow mouse destroys the seed after they are planted, and the pine mouse cuts off the plants at the ground.

Plan Instructive Program for June Grass Day Meets

Grass Day programs throughout Michigan this June will demonstrate to farmers the management and utilization of legumes and grasses in their farming program.

Demonstrations have been set up at each of the 40 host farms by extension specialists from Michigan State college cooperating with county agricultural agents.

As in 1945, a standard method demonstration at each Grass Day will be the seeding of a field to alfalfa-bromus grass mixture. This will include liming the area (if necessary), working the lime into the soil, fertilizing the seedbed, and seeding the area.

Other demonstrations already prepared show various seedings, fertilizer treatments, and erosion control methods. Specialists will be on hand to explain these plots and to discuss individual problems with visiting farmers.

In the afternoon of each day-long program, field demonstrations of various types of forage harvesting and handling equipment will be conducted. These machines will include field balers, forage choppers, hay crushers, and crop blowers.

Moisture-testing equipment for hay and hay-crop silage will also be displayed and explained at each event. This new method has been recently developed by Dr. S. T. Dexter, farm crops specialist at Michigan State college.

The series of Grass Day programs is designed to bring farmers up-to-date information concerning establishment, management, harvesting, and utilization of high quality forages.

Campaign Aids In Fly Killing

A catchy slogan—Kill That Fly Before July—is being used in a number of areas to spark fly eradication campaigns. It's a good community project, advise Michigan State college extension specialists.

A beginning point is often a volunteer check-up of fly breeding places. Thorough clean-up will aid in getting rid of these breeding places.

Some communities plan a spray campaign to cover the entire city.

It's a program that draws participants from all segments of the community. And the freedom from flies this summer will be of benefit to everyone.

To combat internal parasites in livestock, Michigan State college extension specialists advise using clean pastures and practicing pasture rotation if possible. A clean pasture is one not grazed last year by the species of livestock that will occupy it this year.

Club Agent Attends Conference

M. H. Avery, Ingham county 4-H club agent, spent several days at the state 4-H club agents' conference last week. It was at Higgins Lake. Some 50 club agents with state leaders and out-of-state speakers, and Michigan State college leaders gave pointers. Discussions were held on the 4-H club program for Michigan for 1949. The Michigan agents represented 50,000 4-H club members. Michigan State Extension Director C. V. Ballard reported that 4-H club members should plan to do more with older youth, those who are beyond the 18 age limit but who still are not ready for adult organizations. At the same time he commended the agents for the fine job they were doing in the state.

Earl Hotelkins of Michigan Mutual Fire Insurance company told the agents how fire losses had been reduced throughout the country in the last few years and also what 4-H club members and parents can do to reduce losses still further.

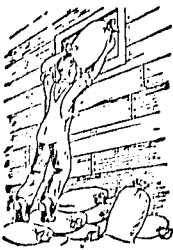

Hotelkins' story fitted in with the program in Ingham county this summer in which each club has been asked to have at least one meeting discussing the fire hazards and possibly checking the fire hazards on their own farms.

Kenneth Anderson of the national 4-H club committee in Chicago told how important it is to learn to make good friends and how important and in what high regard 4-H'ers are held by business people throughout the country. It is important then that 4-H club members carry out their program in such a way that they will hold the high regard and live up to the high status set by 4-H'ers who have already completed their 4-H club program, Anderson declared.

Dr. Frank D. Slutz of Dayton, Ohio, gave a report on the philosophy of camping. The value that camping has in teaching young people the art of living together and the give and take of everyday life, were explained. Dr. Slutz has a boys camp of his own in Minnesota which he has run for the past 25 years and in addition he makes many visits to high schools throughout the country

Conference at Ann Arbor

Several leaders from Ingham county attended the recreation conference at Ann Arbor on Wednesday. The conference is one of a series being carried out throughout the state. Attention was given to all kinds of games for indoor and outdoor as well as camp and recreation programs.

Club Leaders Meet

Leaders of foods, canning and garden clubs met at the court house Tuesday afternoon. The foods and canning leaders met with Miss Mary Woodward of the State 4-H club department and the garden leaders with M. H. Avery, county club agent. Information was given to leaders on the availability of materials for projects this year and program changes from last year.

Vegetable Growing Contest

Club members interested in taking part in the National Junior Vegetable Growers program should start action at once. They should call at the 4-H club office and get cards to fill out for the program. The program consists of a correspondence course in the marketing and growing of vegetables. Each club member must grow a garden of his own and fill out the correspondence lesson to compete for state and national scholarships. In addition the members may take part in the program by developing a demonstration contest in their own club and taking it to the county fair or they may plan to attend camp and take part in judging contests. Ingham leaders hope that either a demonstration team or judging team will be sent to the National Junior Vegetable Growers convention again in December. This year the convention will be held in Washington, D. C.

4-H Club Enrollments

Club leaders are urged to get their enrollments in to the county office at once. Soon the office will want to send letters to individual members concerning their project work, on tours that are to be held and in connection with 4-H camps. In addition to the enrollments the county office would like to have the programs which leaders have made out for their clubs. These programs are to be mimeographed for the county office and made available to the 4-H club leaders for their group.

Barn Dance Planned

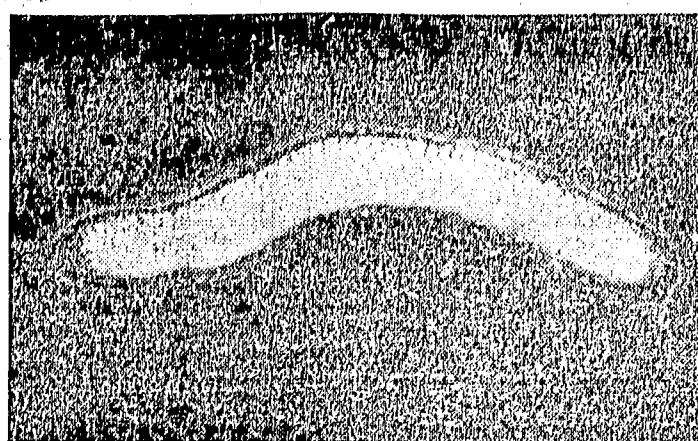

The 4-H clubs of Ingham county are again planning a barn dance to be held the evening of June 9 at the Joyce and Jerry Jason farm near Williamston. Committees are at work getting tickets ready and advertising posters are being planned.

Many older 4-H club members and leaders will be asked to assist the 4-H Service club and 4-H club council in making this a banner event again this year. Older 4-H club members are asked to set aside Saturday afternoon, June 4, to be at the Jason farm to help clean the barn, hall down the flooring and plan a refreshment stand for the next week. Those able to be on hand June 4 are asked to notify the extension office or the Jasons.

On the general planning committee are Jerry and Joyce Jason, Mrs. Roland Frost, James Frost,

MEDICINE TODAY

Micro-Organisms Sit for Portraits

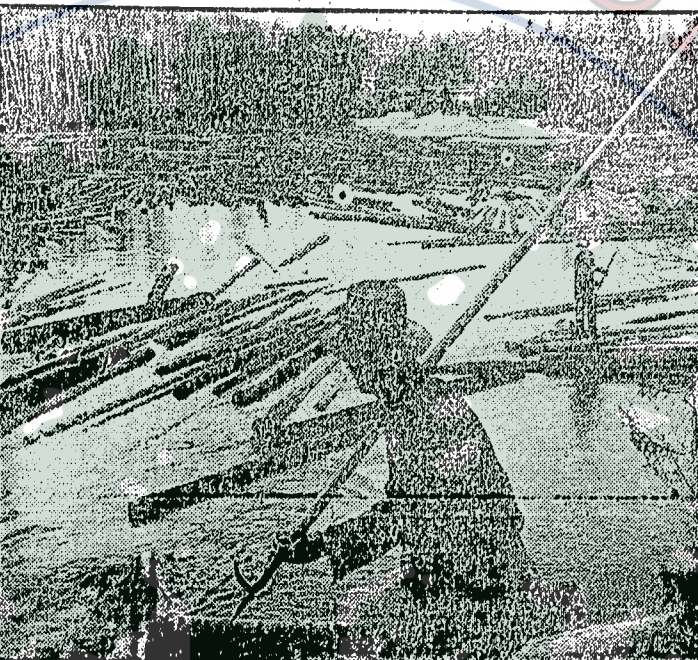

NEW YORK, N. Y.—The dreaded tubercle bacillus, cause of tuberculosis, and the influenza virus, are here revealed in exact proportion to each other, at 16,000 times their actual size. Striking differences in size and form of the organisms which produce tuberculosis and influenza are revealed. Portraits of disease-producing organisms, in detail never before possible, are now being taken with the electron microscope in such research centers as the Squibb Institute for Medical Research at New Brunswick, New Jersey.

Ever since the discovery of the tubercle bacillus in 1882, scientists and medical research workers have been searching for a means of combating it in human beings. Similar work has been going forward on the influenza virus. Today vaccines are available to prevent influenza, and a modification of streptomycin, named dithyol'sptomycin, is offering new hope of recovery to those suffering from tuberculosis.

Now with the aid of the electron microscope most disease-producing organisms can be seen, many for the first time, and Squibb scientists are able to study new approaches to their defeat.

Wheat Allotments Certain Next Year

The attention of farmers is again being called to the fact that wheat acreage allotments will be established soon for the 1949 planting of wheat to be harvested in 1950.

Farm owners or operators of farms where wheat was not seeded for harvest in any of the years 1947, 1948 or 1949 but on which wheat will be seeded for harvest in the year 1950, must request allotments of a specific acreage, a 1950 wheat acreage allotment, if an allotment is to be established for such farm.

The requested 1950 wheat acreage allotment must be submitted in writing by the owner or operator to the county AAA committee. Persons requesting such "new" wheat acreage allotments must visit the county office to get their requests. The closing date for filing requests for new wheat acreage allotments is June 1, 1949.
