For the third year the Mason Kiwanis club is holding a community rummage sale to raise funds to be used for children.

This year the sale will be held at the former Dart & Cady building, next to the Consumers Power Co. office on West Ash street. The dates are Friday and Saturday, September 19 and 20.

"Anything and everything of value—household goods, tools, farm implements, livestock, clothing, pictures, hardware, paint, fire-damaged stocks—well, just about everything has sold on the 2 previous sales," reported J. B. Dean. He is chairman of the general committee for the sale. Serving with him are Glen Coon, Jim Steele, Frank Guerriero and Dr. D. R. Lethbridge.

Members of the club will call

CLUB BUYS ATLAS
Mason Kiwanians took $50 from profits of last year's rummage sale to buy an up-to-date world atlas for the Hall Memorial library. With young men leaving Mason for Korea and for stations in Japan, North Africa, the Middle East and Europe, the demand of parents and friends for detailed maps has reached a high point, said Mrs. Mary Tressler, the county librarian. She has ordered the Atlas and expects its arrival soon.

for the articles if notice is received, Dean said.

There will be no auction sale. The goods will be marked before the sale begins.

Zimmer Relates Experiences at Burma Mission

Rev. Walter (Bud) Zimmer, recently returned from Burma, related some of his experiences here at the Mason Kiwanis club Tuesday night. He was introduced to the club by his father, Walter E. Zimmer.

Rev. and Mrs. Zimmer and their son Tim, then a baby, left for Burma in February, 1948, being sent out by Baptists. Hardly had the Zimmer family arrived at their station north of Rangoon among the Karens when fighting broke out. For months the Zimmer family were behind the lines with the Karens. They took refuge in the hills where their second child, Ann Elizabeth, was born. Eventually they were evacuated by the American embassy.

For many years Burmese and Karens are Indians lived peacefully in Burma, the missionary said. The Japanese invasion and then the division between the pro-British and anti-British groups eventually resulted in civil war with the Karens, among whom are many Christians, fighting for autonomy. A peaceful settlement is now being sought, the Mason missionary said.

The present government of Burma is socialistic, according to the returned missionary. The Burmese are buying the rich delta lands from Indians and selling them to Burmese farmers. There is also a strong communist movement in Burma, Rev. Zimmer said. The Burmese government is bending every effort to eliminate incidents which might serve as an excuse for a Chinese communist invasion, he explained.

One of the incidents now causing concern in Burma, Rev. Zimmer declared, is the bringing in of Chinese Nationalist troops armed with American weapons and heading toward the Chinese frontier. Burmese troops have attacked the Chinese Nationalists and have driven them into Indo-China, said Rev. Zimmer.

Marshall Plan and Point Four aid is helping Burma, Rev. Zimmer declared.

Burma welcomes missionaries who set up and operate hospitals and schools and help improve agriculture, the Mason missionary explained. The Burma government is opposed to missionary work strictly from the evangelistic and conversion standpoint. The prevailing religion is Buddhism.

Rev. and Mrs. Zimmer and their children are home on furlough for a year. They have enrolled in a special course in agriculture at Cornell university. After a year of study there they expect to return to Burma.

On Sunday night between 7:30 and 9:30 Mason Baptist women will hold an open house for Rev. and Mrs. Zimmer in the parlors of the Mason Baptist church.

Official Digging Finds No Bones

Jail inmates under the surveillance of sheriff's officers dug down 9 feet in what was thought to be a grave. But they found no bones. They did find part of a mechanical pencil, a beer bottle and part of a woman's dress.

James Lovely and Cornelius Castle of Bunker Hill and Ben Whittaker of Ingham were training coon dogs Monday when a dog excitedly barked as he came upon newly dug dirt in the Dansville public hunting area.

The spot was south of Ewers road and a few rods east of Williamston road. The men found a button from a woman's dress nearby and so they thought the hole might hide the body of a murder victim. The 3 men notified the sheriff's department.

Deputies and inmate helpers were dispatched. They found the diggings to be 4 1/2 feet. They dug down 9 feet but found only the beer bottle, pieces of cloth and part of the pencil. They are still trying to figure out why someone went to all the trouble to dig the hole and fill it up again.

CAPT. FRYE IMPROVES

Captain Fred Frye of the sheriff's department, hospitalized last week because of a gall bladder attack, is recovering at his home.

Ingham Queen Reigns at Fair

Queen Helen of the Ingham fair helped reign over the state fair in Detroit Wednesday.

Governor G. Mennen Williams was one of those who crowded around the throne to pay homage to the 27 queens gathered from all sections of Michigan. The queens were guests of the fair board at luncheon and for the afternoon rodeo.

Helen Wiley of Mason represented Ingham county.

Supervisors Will Consider Hiring Of Health Chief

Before the Ingham board of supervisors Monday will come the hiring of a health director.

Three committees, meeting jointly, have approved hiring Dr. Douglas Fryer of Waterbury, Conn., for the Ingham vacancy at $11,000 per year. The county health committee, the salaries committee and the ways and means committee have approved the hiring and the fixing of the salary.

Dr. Roelof Lanting resigned the Ingham post in July. He is now medical director of Shiawassee county's health department. He drew $9,640 as Ingham health director. He resigned because of lack of adequate financial support for Ingham's health program, he informed the board. Raises to the amount asked by Dr. Lanting were denied members of his staff, the doctor declared. He complained that staff agencies were permitted to remain unfilled.

Another decision the supervisors will be called upon to make is to approve the form of the ballot for the proposed incorporation of West Lansing as a fifth class city. The area lies west of Lansing between bends of the Grand river. In the area is the new Oldsmobile war plant. The area is the scene of unusual real estate activity.

Kept off the ballot because West Lansing petitioners filed first is a proposal to merge most of what remains of Lansing township with Lansing. The prosecutor ruled that the 2 proposals were conflicting and only the first one filed could appear on the ballot at the November election.

A report on the operations of the 1952 county fair is also expected to be placed before the supervisors Monday.

Errant Husband Returns by Air

It took less than 23 hours for Deputy Ralph Smith to go to Texas, get his man and return.

Ross Gregory of Lansing was wanted by Ingham officers for desertion and non-support of his family. Officers in Dallas, Texas, picked him up and notified Sheriff Willard P. Barnes at Mason. The sheriff gave Smith the assignment.

Deputy-Smith left Lansing at 1:00 Tuesday afternoon for Dallas. He was back at 11:55 Wednesday with his man. And nobody told him to hurry.

Satisfied Customer Didn't Sign Check

Fred Dolbee of Aurelius had a satisfied customer Sunday. He sold a new pickup for a combine, helped the man load it into the trunk of the car and wired it on. The seller stood by the car door while the buyer's wife made out the check, and waved goodbye when his customer drove out of the yard.

Then Dolbee looked at his check and discovered that it wasn't signed. He had neglected to get the man's name.

To make the seller as satisfied as the buyer, Dolbee wants the man to come back to Aurelius and sign the check.

"It was just an oversight, I know," Dolbee said. "Probably the woman wasn't used to writing checks."

Grading Crews Rush Widening Of New US-127

Grading crews are working at top speed on the Holt-Mason widening. Paving crews will begin the job of laying the double-width highway linking Holt and Mason within 3 weeks. That calls for some fast grading work, according to Stanley Kozlowski, superintendent on the job.

Kozlowski directs a 45-man army of earth-movers. Seventeen giant machines are moving mountains of earth to create the level link to the north.

"The paving equipment will set up about September 15," Kozlowski stated. "It will take a week to build the forms and set machines. Crews should be able to pave a 22-foot slab at the rate of a mile a week."

Some of the present road will be used in the new super-highway. Plans call for the new paving to follow the old out of Holt, past Maple Point and south near the S curve. There, a completely new highway will cut to the east of the curve and join up with the old again on the south side. From there, as much of the old road as possible will be incorporated with the new, Kozlowski said.

The pavement over the hill south of the Angell gravel pit will be lowered 14 feet before making the sweep to the south on the Mason by-pass.

Work has been held up this week and last while 3,000 feet of county drain near Maple Point was relocated 80 feet to the east. More muck in the Maple Point area has also slowed road construction.

The present highway will remain open for at least a week, according to the superintendent. After that, it probably will be closed until the paving is completed.

Paving of the by-pass will not start until next spring, Kozlowski stated. However, grading has already started and will be continued throughout the winter. Grading crews are in the process of dragging 35,000 yards of earth out of the Angell hill and into the muck area near Columbia road.

Count on Polio Goes Up to 104, Doctors Report

Reports received from doctors by the county health department up to Wednesday noon sent Ingham's polio count to 104 for the year.

Last week's count stood at 88. Most of the new cases are in Lansing, although Leslie had 3 more, and Mason and East Lansing 1 each.

Health authorities looked for the fall of new cases last week. That's when polio usually subsides. However, the new cases came on at the usual rate.

New cases reported this week in the county outside of Lansing included:

- Arlene Wethy, 9 months old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wethy of 6091 Hardy, East Lansing. She is at the East Unit of Sparrow.
- Shirley Fox, wife of Herbert Fox, Jr., of Mason. Her case was reported as mild. She is being cared for at the home of relatives. Mrs. Fox and her husband were making arrangements to move to Grand Ledge when she came down sick.
- Edgar Worden, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Worden, 419 East Bellevue, Leslie, East Unit of Sparrow.
- Michael Cortis, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cortis, Olds road, Leslie, at home.
- Deanna Cooper, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Cooper, Covert road, Leslie, at East Unit.

Apple Harvesting Begins As Peach Picking Slows

Peaches are between hay and grass. Most of the early peaches and mid-season varieties are gone and the late peaches aren't quite ready.

As the peach harvest nears the end, picking of apples has started. Monday's storm whipped laden peach and apple trees. Some late peaches and early apples were lost. The loss by wind was more than offset, growers said, by the benefit of the downpour.

Here's this week's picture of tree-ripened fruit:

Hansen Orchards, Onondaga road, Aurelius, Bartlett pears and crabapples available, temporarily out of peaches.

Blossom Orchards (Wardowski) Leslie, Kal-Haven peaches, Wealthy apples and a few Burbank plums left.

Palmer Orchards, Leslie, last of the Hale Havens being picked, Elbertas available next week.

Ferguson Orchards, Dansville, prune plums available; peaches and pears are all gone.

Docket Orchards, Dansville, Elbertas now being picked and available through next week.

Stid Orchard, Dexter Trail, Mason, Fertile Hales available this week, picking of Elbertas scheduled next week.

Powers Orchards, Dansville, last of the Hale Havens this week, picking of Crawford's and Improved Elbertas will begin next week.

TEACHERS OUT CLASSES SHORT on the opening day of school Tuesday to bundle up the little folks. A steady drizzle made second graders like Judy Casper and Dennis McDowell, both 7, ask Mrs. Robert Fawcett for help. Mrs. Fawcett teaches one of the second grades at the Mason school.

Judy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Casper. Dennis is the son of Mrs. Dorothy McDowell.

Election Officials Make Plans For Heavy Voting November 4

Ingham election officials are taking no chances on having the supply of ballots run short November 4.

Instead of providing 25% more than were cast at the presidential election 4 years ago (the legal minimum), the Ingham board is printing enough ballots to cover the entire present registration in precincts using paper ballots. The total is 47,700 of each of 4 kinds of ballots.

Lansing's 41 precincts use voting machines. For Lansing the election board is providing 200 paper ballots for each precinct. That's to cover the demand for absent voter ballots. Already the applications for ballots for soldiers and sailors stationed overseas are being received. The primary election was held in August so that ballots for the November election would be available for sending overseas.

Printing of the Ingham ballots was delayed by the withdrawal of 2 candidates. Mrs. Jennie Katz, the Democratic nominee for county treasurer, is moving to California. The Democratic county committee held a meeting Friday night and nominated Melvin C. Dunsmore.

New Assistant Joins Library

Mrs. Francis Fenske of Eau Claire, Wisconsin, is coming to Ingham county to serve as assistant librarian. She is expected to join the Ingham staff September 15, reported Mrs. Mary Tressler, the librarian.

The new assistant is now children's librarian at Eau Claire. She is a native of Wisconsin and a graduate of the University of Minnesota. She has also served at the Omaha public library and the Carnegie library in Pittsburgh. She is married and the mother of 3 children between the ages of 3 1/2 and 7. She and her husband and children are making arrangements for a Mason home.

Mrs. Fenske will fill the vacancy caused by the departure of Miss Gertrude Friedrich last June. She left to join the staff of the Bacon Memorial library in Wyandotte.

George Conklin of Mason is now on the sheriff's patrol. He was promoted from turnkey to fill the vacancy left by the departure of Deputy Robert Lorenzen.

Conklin joined the sheriff's staff as turnkey 6 months ago. Hired to fill the post made vacant by Conklin's promotion is Roger Massman, Lansing. Massman has been employed at Reo in Lansing. He is an ex-army man, having served in Panama.

Court Calendar Lists 71 Cases For New Record

Listed on the criminal calendar for the September term of circuit court are 71 cases. The term is scheduled for Lansing. Not all the 71 criminal cases will be tried, however. The list includes 2 old cases which are listed each time just to keep the record straight. They are the murder cases against Lloyd Whipple and Victor Verover. Both men are confined in the Ingham state hospital for the criminal insane. If they are ever found sane they can be returned for trial.

Several others charged with crime are expected to plead guilty, members of the prosecutor's staff indicated.

Eleven of the cases on the criminal calendar are Lansing ordinance cases and another is a Mason ordinance case. Actual criminal trials scheduled will likely amount to not more than 25 or 30, court attendants said.

There are 49 jury civil cases listed on the calendar as ready for trial at the September term of court. Also on the printed calendar are 93 non-jury civil cases, 12 non-contested chancery cases, 165 contested chancery cases, and 38 law and 112 chancery no-progress cases.

Cases in which no progress have been reported within the last year are listed on the calendar for dismissal if reasons for the delays are not considered acceptable to the court.

All 12 of the non-contested cases and 108 of the contested cases are divorce actions.

County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard mailed the printed calendars to attorneys Tuesday.

Flying Club Loss Was Not Insured

To their sorrow, members of the Sycamore Flying club learned that their plane lost in the Jewett airport fire August 26 was not insured against fire.

At the time of the fire, members of the club believed their plane was insured for $3,000 against all usual risks. On Saturday a check of insurance company records revealed that the company covering loss by fire had been dropped, a club member said. The $3,000 coverage was on public liability, theft and other risks excluding fire.

Sparks from a welder's torch set fire to the flying club's Cessna Clipper. Fuel tanks on the plane exploded and the entire airport shop was lost with an estimated $50,000 loss.

Mason Enrollment Climbs Up to 1103 To Set New Record

Youngsters stamped into the Mason schools Tuesday to establish a new record of 1,103. That was 103 more than entered on the opening day last year, and 80 more than were counted the second week of school last year.

Seats were found for all, although some rooms are jammed to the window sills, Superintendent James H. Vander Ven reported Thursday morning.

Entering freshmen set a new mark at 124. Last year's freshman class was 98.

Mason does not differ from other districts in the increased number of kindergartners. This year the count stood at 84 on opening day, a jump of 26 over last year.

"We are finding room somehow for the record number of pupils," said the superintendent. "We only wish our new West Side school was ready for use instead of still being in the planning stage."

Almost evenly divided are the elementary grades and junior and senior high. The elementary pupils number 551, the junior and senior high school, 552.

Both sections of the sixth grade are again housed in the Legion Memorial building.

There are 3 rooms for the second grade, just as there were 3 rooms for the class of first graders last year. It will be necessary next year to take care of the 84 kindergartners who will become first graders by then.

Increases in kindergarten and the ninth grade accounted for most of the increased enrollment. The kindergartners showed an increase of 23 and the entering high school class an increase of 25.

Here are the enrollment figures this year and those of the second week of school last year:

	1951	1952
Kindergarten	61	84
First grade	92	70
Second grade	64	83
Third grade	79	63
Fourth grade	78	78
Fifth grade	71	83
Sixth grade	68	89
Seventh grade	66	75
Eighth grade	80	74
Ninth grade	90	124
Tenth grade	113	90
Eleventh grade	83	112
Twelfth grade	67	77

Cucumber Crop Exceeds Normal By 25 Per Cent

Cucumber production in the Mason area is up 25% above normal this year, estimated Orville Woodard Wednesday. He is manager of the H. W. Madison Co. plant at Mason.

Receipts of cucumbers at Mason passed the 30,000 bushel mark this week. Stations at Mason, DeWitt, Stockbridge, the Batdorf farm and Tompkins Center will remain open until September 15 unless a frost comes before then, Woodard said.

The Mason plant has 42 vats, 38 are full. If more cucumbers are received after the 4 remaining vats are filled they will be trucked to the Madison plant at Bay City. There are 112 vats there, with enough of them empty to take care of an overflow at Mason.

In addition to the cucumbers pickling in vats at Mason, 6,000 bushels of cucumbers for pasteurized dills and other special processing have been shipped to Medina, Ohio, from the Mason plant.

In vats at the Mason plant are 8,000 bushels of dills with the balance of 6,000 bushels in salt brine. The hot, dry spell which came to an end with rain Sunday did not damage cucumber plantings much, Woodard explained. The plantings in the Mason area were made early and fields were pretty well picked out before the dry spell arrived, he said.

This week's rain, unless followed by hot weather, will not bring on many cucumbers, Woodard declared.

Many of the Texas families brought in to work in cucumbers have left for home. Mexican nationals will be leaving by September 15.

8 Rural Schools Follow Leslie in Delayed Opening

Because of the polio situation in the Leslie area 8 rural schools followed the lead of the village school. They will not open until Leslie classes start.

Included in the list of rural schools with delayed openings are the Weeks, Morse, Clark, Scoville and Housel in Leslie township, Felt Plains and Labreux in Bunker Hill, and the Onondaga Riverside school.

Opening of schools is entirely up to local school boards, County School Superintendent Alton J. Stroud explained. The law requires that districts have a minimum of 9 months of school a year in order to qualify for aid. If opening is delayed the session will have to be extended next summer or school vacations will have to be trimmed during the year. Whether classes at Leslie and the 8 rural schools will be started Monday depends upon the polio situation, Stroud said he had been informed by local board members.

All other rural schools in the county opened Tuesday, Stroud reported. He had no exact enrollment figures Thursday.

"In most cases the enrollments this year will be higher than last," the county superintendent said. "Some serious problems have developed. Out in the Nichols district of Delhi 12 beginners were enrolled Tuesday. That's a record number. Mrs. Joe Bullen is the teacher. At the Walters district in Vevay where seventh and eighth graders are now being transported to the Eden school, the sixth grade may also have to be sent to Eden. That decision will have to be made this week."

The Walters school district adjoins Mason on the south.

Rural teachers after opening their schools Tuesday came to Mason in the afternoon for a conference with Stroud. They also picked up supplies. The county commissioner outlined the year's program. Mrs. Lily Ford, acting director of the county health department, and Miss Marian Marks, home service director of the Ingham Red Cross chapter also spoke. Miss Marks discussed the Junior Red Cross organization.

Youths Are Held For Fair Theft

Ingham sheriff's officers are enroute to Marquette to return Lee Powers, 21, and Joseph (Lucky) Cox, Jr., 19, to Mason. They are being held by the Marquette sheriff on warrants charging theft. The warrants set forth that they broke into a trailer owned by Mrs. Elizabeth A. Meyer on the Ingham county fair midway August 13 and took $581.

Shortly after the robbery was discovered the 2 young men, employed by W. G. Wade's Shows, claimed their luggage had been ransacked and clothing taken. Sheriff's officers were suspicious and told the young men to appear the next day to submit a detailed report. They didn't show up. Inquiry at the Wade office disclosed that Powers lived at Gwinn and Cox at Cadillac. Ingham officers notified the sheriffs in both counties. Both men were picked up at Gwinn in Marquette county. Cox allegedly confessed his part in the robbery and implicated Powers.

Between them Powers and Cox had more than $600 on them when they were taken into custody, the Marquette sheriff reported.

Lions Entertain District Leader

Mason Lions entertained District Governor Al Cox of Charlotte at the Mason golf course Wednesday evening.

Reports from Keitha Mills, Roberta Evans and Ronald Plakke were received on the activities of girls state and boys state. It is quite evident that this is a worthy project and one that could well be pursued in the future, the Mason Lions decided.

Governor Cox presented membership keys to Lions Ralph Swinehart, Dr. R. R. DeMartin, Bob Inghram, R. V. Abel and Arthur Zickgraf, offering suggestions for club operation in so doing.

Nearly complete figures on the turtle derby indicated that the net profits will amount to about $1,405, divided in this manner: Ingham County Infirmary Paralysis fund, $200; Leslie club's share, $205; and Mason club's share, $1,000.

The cost of operating this year showed about a 10% increase over last year. In addition the club asked for no donations. The total expense reported amounted to $1,733.67. Of this amount $93.77 is all that went out of the local community, the committee reported.

Early Graduate Dies in Colorado

Mason Gridders

Start Training

Coach Lou Lori has his work cut out for him. He took his first look at the 1952 version of the Mason football squad Monday afternoon between rain drops. There is a lot of work to be done before that St. Johns opener, according to Lori.

Mason has been blessed with a lot of big linemen. Most of them have had very little experience. Prospects are even darker in the backfield. Only Big Bob Jewett is left from last year's starters. Jon Davis looked good the last part of the season last year and is back.

Gone are such stalwarts as Bob Thomas, Phil Parisian and Jim Roggvo from the backfield and Bill Wasper, Lyle Newman, Jim Heathman and Bob Snider in the line.

The major problem of Lori and his assistants, Bob Wallis and Don Carey, will be to plug the quarterback spot. Right now it looks as if Bob Scofield has the inside track.

Mason is in good shape at the ends and at center. Jim Blauvelt and Ralph Ellison are both back with Bruce Collins and Doug Alderman backing them up. Ellison may be moved to tackle. Dale Burgess and Don Lyons, who shared the pivot duties last year, are both on hand along with Collins, who also works at center.

Dick Luxton is a holdover at the guard post. The rest of the line is an open question.

The Mason coaches must get the Bulldogs rolling in a hurry. The St. Johns opener is only 2 weeks away on September 19. The Red Wings are pointing to the Mason game as the toughest one on the St. Johns schedule, according to word from the north.

St. Johns has not been beaten in 3 years, one of the longest high school victory strings in Michigan. In the past 3 years Mason has come progressively closer to scoring the win. Last year Mason lost 12-0. Twice Mason knocked at the door and lost the ball on fumbles.

The Mason forces will get the first taste of contact work Thursday night. Lori will see how his green squad will look under fire.

Thursday night Coach Don Carey will have his freshmen in uniform for the first time. Lori may be able to find some talent ready for him there.

Charlotte Hits Comeback Trail

Charlotte's comeback trail is being led by the federal government, and we strongly affirm our belief that such activities should be handled through the regular channels of trade in the several states, rather than by a government bureau in Washington.

Accordingly, the membership of the National Hay association, in convention assembled, hereby condemns the present national administration for its infringement on private business and its blow to free enterprise.

We feel that the present drought situation has been unduly exaggerated; that the plan adopted by the federal government is inefficient; and that if conditions occur in the future making necessary unusual marketing procedures in the hay industry, the National Hay association should be consulted, as the only responsible national trade organization in the hay business, and asked to assist in working out a solution of the problems.

Be it further resolved, that our secretary be instructed to deliver a copy of this resolution to the secretary of the U. S. department of agriculture, to the head of the Production and Marketing Administration of the said department, and to release it to the public press.

MICHIGAN OUTDOORS

Fall Fishing Neglected
Fall fishing in Michigan is a woefully neglected sport! Just when the fish really begin to operate the fishermen lose interest. How come? Brook and brown trout are really the only fish that enjoy the protection of a closed season come September, but all the rest face little danger from better than a half-million fishermen who may go afield but leave their tackle home.

By the middle of September, and often a couple of weeks earlier, black bass are aroused by lower water temperatures to a point where their appetites take them close to shore in search of crawfish and minnows. They're easy prey for a well-cast plug or popper at such times, but few anglers are around to tempt them.

Pike get big appetites with the first frost and certainly offer more scrap per second than at any other time of the year. But there's nobody around that wants to scrap.

And best of all the wily steelhead trout journeys from the deep waters of the Great Lakes into such streams as the Manistee, Au Sable, Au Gres, Muskegon and many Upper Peninsula streams where fishing is legal for this mighty warrior all through November. Do fishermen flock to do battle with this worthy foe? They do not, strangely enough.

Too Much Diversions
Maybe there's just too much Michigan Outdoors. Brisk fall weather in our state, apparently calls for gun and dog. Fishing's for hot weather. Our plentiful supply of inland game—partridge and bunnies up north, pheasants in the south—win more attention than fish, and rightfully so. But why not take along your tackle? The early days of the hunting season may produce a warm spell that once again turns your thoughts to rod and reel. It'll be too hot to run the dogs. . . too muggy to tramp through the woods. Chances are there's a swell lake nearby—maybe one you've never fished before. Break out the tackle box and enjoy fall fishing in Michigan. And don't neglect those steelheads.

Steelhead Streams
Stop in at Oscoda and meet Johnny Mead. He'll show you where those big, battling rainbow trout congregate in the AuSable, and you'll find Johnny fishing far into the deer season—and catching plenty, too.

Meet Teddy Kotowich at East Jordan, and fish those deep, clear Jordan river pools where Lake Michigan Steelhead wait for a wiggling flatfish or enticing cluster of night crawlers.

Stand in the shadow of the Tippee dam on the Manistee and watch the big 'bows jump 4 feet high just below the spillway while you fish.

You'll come home a firm believer in fall fishing, and you'll find another thrill in Michigan Outdoors!

Harkness Poetry Sees Publication

Poetry written by Iallie Harkness, Sr., Eaton Rapids, is being published by the Pageant Press of New York. A collection of Harkness poems will appear under the title "Rheumatic Reveries," the publishers have informed the Eaton Rapids man.

In a letter from the Pageant Press, the writer was told, "It is our opinion that 'Rheumatic Reveries' is a thoroughly readable collection of poetry. The wide range of mood, from the stirring 'Our Duty' to the wise and homely philosophy of 'Envy' or a 'Message of Hope', to the entertaining 'Kelly's Run' should attract a large audience. The verses are distinctive for their fresh and original outlook and imagery."

"Kelly's Run" is written about a Mason incident. The author attended the Hubbard school and Mason high school. He now lives on a farm near Eaton Rapids.

Michigan's phenomenal growth and industrial expansion during the 36 years since this organization was founded, has astonished the entire world.

Detroit's population has grown from 1/2 of a million to 3 1/2 million in the metropolitan area — an increase of 433 per cent. Other Michigan cities have expanded to a comparable extent.

Providing this rapidly increasing city population with an adequate supply of the most perishable of all foods—pure, fresh milk—has posed difficult problems. To solve them called for intelligent, far-sighted planning by men who understood every phase of the complex milk supply problem, all the way from the cow to the door-step.

The Michigan Milk Producers Association never has failed in its obligations to both the consuming public and the producing farmer. It has constantly anticipated future needs of both and met them unflinchingly on every occasion.

More than 16,000 dairy farmers working together through their cooperative organization have kept pace with fast-growing Michigan. Today, as always in the past, this Association is carefully planning for the future by stimulating production of highest quality milk by its members and providing the plants and transport equipment to guarantee delivery of an ample supply, handled in the most sanitary method, at all seasons of the year.

Holt Board of Education Urges 'Yes' Vote Sept. 13

On Saturday, September 13, Holt school electors will vote on a proposition to bond the district for $360,000. The Holt board of education is urging that electors vote "Yes" on the proposal.

If the bonds are approved and authorization for raising the millage is granted, the district will immediately undertake a building program. The program will include 2 additional elementary schools, a garage for school buses, an addition to the newly completed Midway elementary school, remodeling of the high school, buying 2 portable buildings and buying additional land for school sites.

In a signed message to Holt taxpayers, the Holt board of education set forth:

"On Saturday, September 13th, you will have the opportunity to approve the school building proposal which has been developed in a series of 4 citizens' meetings during the past 2 months and numerous board meetings during the past year. The plan is educationally sound, logical, comprehensive, and economical, and is based on long-range thinking of your fellow-citizens, your school board, and your local educators.

"We think you ought to know that if this proposal fails to carry on September 13, any building program which might carry at a later date will probably be delayed by a whole school year. This means that certain grades would definitely have to be put on half-day sessions next year and we would be even further behind in our efforts to keep up with the growing school population in Holt.

"We sincerely hope you will help us get out a large 'Yes' vote so the proposal will carry without doubt. For any further information on the proposal, please feel free to call any of us."

Members of the board of education are Frank M. Landers, Jay E. Parkhurst, Leo Heath, J. Richard Adcock and Mrs. Margaret Subm.

Not only do they allow a greater variety of foods to go into the lunch box in packable form but they add color, protect the foods from drying out, are sanitary and are often disposable.

I am the light of the world; he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life. (John 8:12.) Read Matthew 5:13-16.

Sir Harry Lauder, it is said, related the following incident at a service club luncheon to illustrate the power of influence. He said that one night he was watching an old lamplighter passing along a dark street, lighting the gas lamps with a torch on a long pole. "I could not see the old man himself," said Sir Harry. "It was entirely dark at the foot of the lampposts, but I knew where he was by the row of lights he left behind him."

It does not matter much whether or not the world sees the individual as an important person. It does matter greatly, however, as we pass along life's often darkened ways, that each of us is as a torch to pass on some of Christ's enlightening spirit. Not only does He say that He is the Light of the world, but also He tells His disciples, "Ye are the light of the world." His command to us is "Let your light so shine." Cook (Canada)

PRAYER

Eternal God, we accept fellowship with Thee through our faith in Thy blessed Son. Grant to us such humility and sincerity that Thy light may be reflected in our daily lives. May we live so close to Thee that our next door neighbors may see in us from day to day some of Thy radiance and power. In our Redeemer's name. Amen.

Farmer Peck's Wife

Catsup and relish are wonderful perfume. Susy and Sally start to school. Elizabeth celebrates another birthday.

It surely smells good in here this morning. In my estimation the costliest perfume factory can't beat a kitchen on a farm in the fall. It's catsup and relish right now. Susy and Sally have been in up to their elbows and having a plenty as they wash and seed the peppers, onions and tomatoes. When we ground the onions we all cried and Pete came in from chores and he cried, too. Then we all laughed.

knocked her off her feet. A man came to the door and asked her if this was where he was to deliver a refrigerator. It is huge and has a 70 pound freezing compartment above.

Mother, Dad, my two half sisters and Bill and little Billy came for a big birthday dinner. Every summer they come and we look forward to it as it's the only time mother can ride that far. And then I worry until I hear they got home all right. Mother is such a tiny little thing and her heart is not good but she wants to come and see Elizabeth and me whom she did not raise but who are her own just the same. We were fortunate in having two mothers who were both wonderful women.

It has always been confusing to other folks to hear us talk of two mothers. . . the one who had no children of her own until after we went there to stay "for the summer," so everyone thought, and the other one who had to share us. Knowing and living this I know if we could find a little boy to adopt that he would find a happy home here full of love and "wanting-him."

Sometimes on every farm there surely is a little lull . . . at least, Pete said there is. But here on Peck's Plot we were having a hard time to find it. There was the straw to bale and then before that got done more hay to do and so on. However, just in advance of the sows coming in we did break loose and go north for two whole days. A brother-in-law, Howard Whitlake, did the chores and Tommy did the chickens and we went with no worries. I say this because . . . to quote, Pete, "The cows are our living and they come first, before trips, vacations or anything."

Up And Down The Main Drag

By Richard Brown For the past 2 weeks the Main Drag for me was Broadway in New York City.

The Gay White Way was never gay, what with the American Legion convention in full swing and vacationers taking their last fling before settling down to the long fall and winter grind.

New York isn't as big as some people might think. On one of my trips through the midtown shopping area I was caught in a crowd of 50 or 60 people at an intersection. I happened to glance up at the people approaching from the other side of the street and thought I saw a familiar face.

It took me about 5 minutes to turn around and catch up with Lauge Schmidt. He and Mrs. Schmidt, along with Mrs. Bill Dabb, had flown to New York and were making the rounds of the clothing houses.

The coincidence didn't end there. That night I attended a party out on Long Island and happened to relate the story to a native New Yorker. At the mention of Schmidt his ears pricked up. He asked me what town in Michigan I came from. It turned out that he is a salesman who calls regularly at the Schmidt store.

The trip from Mason to New York is as scenic as anyone could find anywhere. On the way east we took the Niagara Falls route, crossing over into Canada at Sarnia. There are good roads all of the way.

Canadians are leary of the value of American money. Most all stores discount American money 4%.

This has been a great year for the Canadian tourist business, especially around the Falls. For 30 miles on either side of the Falls there are nothing but tourist accommodations. They all had their no vacancy signs up. When Niagara we hooked up with Route 20 which cuts across the top of the Finger Lakes and then down through the Cherry Valley portion of the Catskill mountains to Catskill on the Hudson river.

There is no prettier drive in the United States. The lakes are as blue as lakes on picture post-cards and the rolling green-covered countryside always provides an interesting change at every bend of the winding road. We crossed the Hudson on the Bear Mountain bridge and then zoomed across Westchester county and into New York over the fine New York super highway system.

New York had the welcome mat out for the American Legion. I attended several of the sessions at Madison Square Garden. There is always plenty going when 100,000 Legionnaires get together. The cost of food in the big city is no different than it is in Mason. In other words it is high. Prices of canned goods in super markets are the same or lower than in Mason. Meat, butter and eggs are higher.

It takes a lot of food to keep a metropolis such as New York going. Big tank trucks make the run into upper New York every morning to bring millions of gallons of milk back to town. On the way from Cazenovia on in to the city we passed at least 300 of these tankers making the milk run.

Big families must be a rarity in Manhattan. On one excursion downtown, the Browns, all 6 of us, window shopped in the Times Square area. Store clerks and even other shoppers took time out to speak to the kids and pass out gum and candy. There are few children seen on Times Square. The entertainment center of Manhattan is geared for adults with plenty of bars and night-clubs. Most people leave the family home.

While the drive home wasn't as easy on the eye as the trip east it was just as interesting. We took US-1 down to Philadelphia and then hooked up with the great Pennsylvania Turnpike. This granddaddy of all super highways now stretches 325 miles from Philadelphia to the Ohio line.

This engineering marvel tunnels through the mountains blocking its way and negotiates the rugged country with easy grades and gentle curves. Ohio is also joining the race with New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania in providing super highways. From the west end of the Turnpike to the Michigan line at Sylvania motorists have an easy drive on smooth wide roads.

The best part of a long trip is the last few miles before reaching home. Even after the sights of New York and the beautiful country along the way the prettiest picture was driving through the rolling farm land of Jackson and Ingham counties and seeing the orchard harvest in full swing and other familiar scenes.

Guatemala is the most populous of the Central American republics.

Froman Story Is Featured at Fox

Another big week opens at the Fox theatre with the Thursday-Friday presentation of "The Denver & Rio Grande," starring Edmond O'Brien and Sterling Hayden. The Technicolor production is the action-packed story of the early days of the famous western railroad.

Paramount's "Anything Can Happen," the new comedy film is the feature Saturday at the Fox Theatre. It stars Jose Ferrer in his first screen role since his 1950 Academy Award-winning appearance in "Cyrano de Bergerac." Co-starring with the talented Mr. Ferrer in this William Perleberg-George Seaton production is Kim Hunter, vivacious young actress also cited by the Academy for her supporting performance in "A Streetcar Named Desire," adjudged 1951's best.

"Anything Can Happen" is based on the hilarious best-selling book of the same name written by George and Helen Papishvily. The story details the amusing and heart-warming adventures of a recent arrival in the U. S. as he learns the strange and wonderful ways of life on the American plan. His hilarious jaquary journey from New York to California, his wild-eyed pursuit of a pretty miss, and his ultimate transformation into a hef and happy citizen key the laugh-provoking sequences of the film.

Down Under Story Next Maureen O'Hara and Peter Lawford share starring honors in the ambitious, outdoor Technicolor spectacle, "Kangaroo" (The Australian Story), booked for Sunday and Monday at the Fox.

The Twentieth Century-Fox venture, entirely filmed on authentic Australian locations, was produced by Robert Bassler and directed by Lewis Milestone, each of whom served in a like capacity on the film responsible for "Halls of Montezuma."

Finky Currie, distinguished Scot actor whose international credit list of films includes "Great Expectations," "The Mudlark," "People Will Talk," "Trio" and "Quo Vadis," and Richard Boone, also a "Halls of Montezuma" veteran, head the support, which includes the Australian film star Chips Rafferty, familiar to American audiences through the Australian-made "The Overlanders," released here some years ago. "Kangaroo" is the first project undertaken "down under" by an American film company.

Froman Story is Told "With A Song In My Heart," Twentieth Century-Fox's lavish Technicolor musical based on the career of songstress Jane Froman will open Tuesday and Wednesday at the Fox Theatre.

Susan Hayward, the ravenshaired beauty of "David and Bathsheba" stars as the courageous singer who skyrocketed to fame during the 1930's and, at the height of that fame, was the first major entertainer to heed the USO's call for talent to entertain our troops overseas during World War II. It was enroute to that assignment, that the plane Miss Froman was in crashed in Lisbon harbor almost causing her death and leaving her crippling injuries and little hope of ever walking again.

"With A Song In My Heart" narrates in words and music this stranger-than-fiction saga complete with her amazing comeback in which she regained her rightful place in the entertainment world and in the hearts of all Americans. The musical is also the story of the two men in Jane Froman's life—one, the gay vaudeville actor who discovered the University of Missouri co-ed and fell in love with her from the start, and the other, the airplane pilot who saved her life in Lisbon.

A trio of Hollywood favorites co-star with Miss Hayward. Rising newcomer Rory Calhoun plays John Burn, the pilot who rescued Miss Froman and later became her second husband. David Wayne, the Broadway star of "Finian's Rainbow" and "Mr. Roberts" is cast as Don Ross, the song-and-dance-man who managed her rise to stardom and married her. Thelma Ritter, the wondrous laugh-getter of "The Model and the Marriage Broker" and "The Mating Season" keeps the tradi-

Book Talk from Ingham County Library

Hours open to the public at the Hall Memorial Library: Daily 2-5; Mon. Wed. Sat. 7-9 p. m. Tues. and Fri. noons, Sat. 10-12 a. m.

One of the new books in the Ingham County Library this week is THE NEW FLOWER ARRANGEMENT FOR EVERYONE, by Dorothy Biddle and Dorothea Blom. This is a recent revision of their popular book on flower arrangement and will be appreciated by all who love flowers and would have them look lovelier when arranged for decoration of the home, person or church. Besides flowers, there are arrangements for other plants, for fruit, etc.

THE OLYMPIC PAGEANT, by Alexander Weyand, is a detailed account of the modern Olympic games, from the time of their revival by Baron de Coubertin in 1896, through the 1948 contest. The records of official winners, scores and tables showing the number of championships won by each country is an interesting feature. Incidentally, the author was a member of the 1920 Olympic wrestling team, so his interest in the Olympic games is unusually keen.

KEEPSAKE, by Ann Ritter, is a pleasant story about a girl in Arizona whose life was quiet until her mother's accidental death and the attack from political enemies drove her father to drink. Even her own romance became precarious when her glamorous cousin from the East decided to capture the young doctor whom Cathy loved.

SHILOH, by Shelby Foote, is a novel about the battle of Shiloh, Tennessee, during the Civil War, and is a graphic picture of this bloody battle as seen through the eyes of the men on both sides who fought in it. The book covers only the two days of action but covers it so thoroughly that the reader feels that he was there, too.

THE SPIRIT OF LIBERTY, by Learned Hand, is an interesting collection of papers and addresses by this great judge of the U. S. Circuit Court. The book has been edited by Irving Dillard who has arranged it in chronological order, and to give Judge Hand's liberal and incisive views on such subjects as justice, tolerance, democracy, liberty and even concerning other great Judges as Holmes, Brandeis, Cardozo and others.

Other new adult books in the Ingham county library this week include: To Heaven on Horseback, by Paul Cranston A Shot in the Dark, by Richard Powell Hand Weaving for Pleasure and Profit, by Harriette Brown The Secretary-General of the United Nations, by Stephen M. Schwebel The Three Widows, by Bernice Carey

Creative Dramatics, by Ruth Lease and Geraldine Silks Sidney Hillman, by Jean Gould Crisp, Come Home, by Ruth Thomas Which Grain Will Grow, by H. H. Lynde

Forced Retirement Is Folly

Some people are old at 40. Others are young at 80. That's why forced retirement at any age is folly.

On September 1 Dr. Benjamin Minge Duggar observed his 80th birthday anniversary.

Dr. Duggar recorded his greatest scientific achievement after he was forced by state law to retire from the staff of the University of Wisconsin at the age of 71. He taught botany there. Although forced by law to retire from teaching, he refused to retire from learning. He joined Lederle Laboratories to help in developing penicillin and to have a hand in the antibiotic drug research.

Toiling with chemists, bacteriologists and other engaged in research in experimental medicine, Dr. Duggar tested thousands upon thousands of cultures. Then came a day when a new golden-colored mold appeared. Dr. Duggar called it A-377. Experiments were begun. Scientists were amazed with the new germ killer. It proved effective against bacteria, certain large viruses and germs. Dr. Duggar called it aureomycin. Many doctors call it the wonder drug.

Dr. Duggar's forced retirement from teaching gave the world aureomycin. At 80 he is engaged in other laboratory research.

Yes, Dr. Duggar's retirement proved beneficial. But a lot of other men and women forced into retirement are not so fortunate to find new or related fields for their talents. They are tossed onto the scrap pile, although many are kind enough to use the other term, "turned out to pasture."

Man has work to do. Dr. Duggar's work was not done at 71. His big achievement was before him. How fortunate for mankind that he didn't consider himself all through.

Forced retirement at any age is not only foolish. It is wasteful of talent.

One Man Can't Do It

Whether it's General Eisenhower or Governor Stevenson who is elected president of the United States in November, the election of either man won't cure what ails us.

The cure isn't as simple as that. It will take hundreds of men in high places to cure what ails us. It will take thousands, yes millions, of men and women to once more place this government on a high standard.

The United States is too big a nation to be built around one man, even a Washington or a Lincoln. We are in the plight we are in now because in our foolishness we permitted congress to surrender its power to one man. Inflation is running rampant because congress surrendered its power over economic matters, helped along by business and labor and farmers running to Washington for hand-outs.

In foreign affairs we are in our present dire straits because the senate surrendered its treaty-making powers. Senators are thus partly responsible for the blunders made at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam because they permitted one man to use the powers which were entrusted to the senate by the people under the constitution.

Sure, General Eisenhower and Governor Stevenson head their party tickets. But they may not be the most important candidates in the election. Perhaps the most important man elected will be some comparatively obscure senator or representative who will lead a fight to wrest the autocratic powers away from one man and a few of his cronies.

One-man government has brought us where we are. So let's stop talking about the November election in terms of what Ike says or doesn't say, or what Adlai says or doesn't say. Because what they say is of little consequence. What President Roosevelt said during his first campaign was the exact opposite of what he did after election.

Our job as voters is to choose men for what they can do, not for what they say. Our job is to choose men and women for every office from president down to the foot of the county ticket on the basis of character and associations.

This nation is too big to have one-man government. That was what was wrong with the rule of monarchs. So let's not endow Ike or Adlai with importance they do not deserve. Let's cut G. Mennen Williams and Fred Alger down to size. They are just 2 men out of hundreds who will be elected to operate our government.

Let's have done with one-man government in nation, state and our own local communities.

They're Our Peaches

One of the most popular features in the Ingham County News for the past month has been the weekly listings of peaches and other fruits.

Those listings have been made primarily for the benefit of consumers, not the growers. The listings have been made regardless of whether or not the growers have advertised their fruit in the Ingham County News. This is said not to blow our own horn but to show how important we believe this fruit industry to be for all of us.

The fruit industry is important to consumers because in no other way would tree-ripened peaches, plums, pears and apples be so easily available, or offer such value.

Fruit hauled in from other producing areas must have the hauling and handling charges added. In most cases it has to be picked and packed before it is ripe. Those last few days of ripening on the tree is what adds the extra flavor to fruit.

The fruit industry is important to local growers and suppliers. To produce the kind of fruit that has given Ingham the reputation of offering top quality takes a lot of equipment, much work and heavy doses of fertilizer and spray materials. That means added business for many people.

It is up to all of us to promote the local fruit industry. And there are many ways in which it can be done.

One good way would be for local stores to discard their signs offering local fruits by the pound. Replace them with signs offering peaches, plums, pears and apples by the peck and by the bushel. Have customers carry home generous supplies of delicious fruit, not a tiny sackful.

These peaches, apples, plums and pears produced here in Ingham benefit all of us as producers, consumers, workers, retailers or suppliers. We all have an interest in the local fruit industry. We should all help promote it.

Letters from Teachers of 1922 Brought on Case of Nostalgia

By Vernon J. Brown

Here it is the eve of Labor Day, a short week for the publishers, and I have noted with concern that the editor is pleading for early copy. I have just finished reading the numerous letters which came to the Class of 1922, Mason high school, on the occasion of its 30th reunion.

I fear I have developed a mild case of nostalgia. Our youngest son, Russell, was a member of that class and it does seem to me now as I look back down the years of 3 decades that the teachers of that era must have been either younger than now, or more social minded, or something of that sort. At any rate, as I reflect on this I see churning Eleanor Curry, coming and going from our home on East Ash street and I remember when on a trip on the Lake Michigan shore the summer of 1921 we stopped at Saint Joseph or Benton Harbor or both where her father had a church. The young people all went in for a swim and we had such a jolly time. Now I read that her chief hobby is playing with her grandchildren.

And there is that letter from good old philosophic William L. Reed who retired to his little farm near Middleville in 1925. Why that is 27 years ago and he still writes of his flowers and garden! He, of course, was no longer young when he came to Mason but he must have liked young teachers for most of those he recruited were young.

Then there is that sterling "Van," M. W. Van Patten in his more dignified moments.

Van was coach and principal of the high school. He brought his young bride to Mason, a sweet Holland girl. I last saw her at Tucson, Arizona, where Van had taken her in the hope she might recover her health. He had resigned a fine position in a Minnesota school to take his wife to Arizona and when Russell and I visited them there in 1926 Van had gone back to coaching in high school. I saw my first pop-sicle at a Thanksgiving Day football game there at Tucson. It was so hot the boys played with little clothing except padded pants. I never counted the hunks of frozen sweet water it took to keep me cool that Thanksgiving morning.

Several years later, I stopped off on my way to the west coast at the town in which he was then teaching. I went to a downtown drugstore to consult a city directory. It was summer and there were the usual hangers-on of boys of high school age. They told me Van was away attending some summer camp. I asked them what kind of a fellow he was and that half-dozen or more young fellows, along with the druggist, sure sang his praises. His letter made me happy.

Marion Henderson, Hazel Gordon and Anna Barton all were attractive, alert and good company as well as good teachers. There were others.

It is agreed that our household was better acquainted with the teachers of that particular time than since. I insist the whole family was the better for having them in and out of the home.

I am positive Russell will delight when his copy of the Ingham County News of August 28 reaches him some weeks from now. It still requires considerable time for open mail, carried by steamship and subject to transfer at local points, to reach the Persian Gulf region. Nevertheless he insists the news is still fresh when it arrives.

I intended to say earlier in this column that besides the mild case of nostalgia I picked as I read the letters from the teachers of 1922, I had no other copy ready and my mood did not seem to yield sufficiently to encourage me on so hot an evening to attempt anything else. So here it is, such as it is, at least the space is nearly filled.

Before I close, let me add this. Among my most cherished friends is John A. McClellan of Detroit. Following the close of hostilities of World War II, John was engaged in an administrative capacity with the Detroit welfare commission. He was capable, trustworthy and sensible.

When the Korean trouble started, he was called back into service and eventually found himself assigned to rehabilitation work among the Japanese. Now and then I have had letters from him. Last week I received a book entitled "I Cover Japan." It is written by Mr. Kimpel Sheba, managing editor of the Nippon Times. My friend, now Lieutenant Commander McClellan, U. S. Navy, had not only presented me with the book, he had also had the author autograph my copy. I have several other specially autographed copies of books but I never expected to receive one from a distinguished Japanese editor.

The book attempts to tell the outside world "not what Japan and the Japanese people appear from the outside looking in, but what we look like to an insider."

The author points out in his preface that many volumes have been written by authors who have been in Japan but a short time. He gives these writers full credit for writing in a fresher vein by reason of an undiluted sense of observation, but he insists they cannot understand the Japanese mind nor the difficulty the Japanese citizen finds in adapting himself to a democracy had a need them, already-gift wrapped and insisted upon by the United States as one of the penalties of losing a war.

I have not finished the book but it is of intense interest and certainly goes far toward throwing light upon a subject darkened with prejudice and ignorance.

Down by the SYCAMORE

My wife and younger daughter and I writing the last bit of pleasure out of vacationing on Labor Day.

We boarded the C&O streamliner at Lansing at 8:56 Monday morning and rolled through the countryside to Detroit. Adlai Stevenson was there on Woodward avenue when we arrived. He didn't see us or we didn't see him. After trudging back and forth between the Fort street station and blocked Woodward avenue twice at the suggestion of various auxiliary cops who didn't know the city we finally hailed a taxi. The driver took us a couple of miles out Woodward beyond the tail end of the parade where we boarded a street car for the fairgrounds.

Yes, we took in the fair. While my wife was doing the home arts exhibits Margaret and I marveled at commercial horticulture, and dairy exhibits and went through the barns. We also found time to ride the Rocket and some of the other devices.

Margaret stood in line to peck at the Roselush quads. She now has great expectations for her sisters-in-law Elaine and Joan.

The displays of apples and other fruits were marvelous. The livestock was largely shown by big breeders from all over the midwest. My wife found the baked goods and the knitting intriguing, she reported. She said that she saw a blue ribbon on the chiffon cake entered in the class of county fair winners by Mrs. Monica Gauthier of East Lansing. She won at the Ingham fair. My wife modestly confessed that she thought the judges reached the right decision on a girls sweater. She placed second on it.

None of us had ever seen a real rodeo so we followed the crowd into the grandstand. The best part of the show, I thought, was the parade to the rodeo. It was Inspector Edward Rogell's troop of Detroit mounted policemen. The intelligent horses and riders went through a lot of cavalry and special riot squad drills. It took me back 35 years to the Horse Marines.

For the rodeo men had come all the way from Wyoming, Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Montana and from Florida to rope and tie calves. Surely there must be a better way. Two calves jumped the fence and were headed toward Woodward avenue until a 4-H boy slipped halters around their necks and led them back to the corral.

A neat trick was when a cowboy stood on his head and lassoed a man and 2 women and the 3 horses as they sped past him. It wouldn't be of much practical use, though. The likelihood of 2 beautiful women and a cowboy riding past a man standing on his head must be remote even in Texas.

Wild horse riding was fun for the horses and the audience. The riders didn't ride far. All except one was thrown to the ground.

During a lull in the rodeo I glanced off to the north and saw storm clouds gathering. We left the grandstand and found our way through the grounds and out the gate to catch a Woodward avenue street car. It was an eventful trip downtown. There were a few sprinklers. We remarked that we could just have well, have stayed for another event when we stepped to the pavement at the city hall.

There on the corner waiting for a bus were Mrs. Garnet Hall, her Charles and her Betty Jo and Edwin Cremer. They had traveled to the city on the same streamliner but had gone to Belle Isle for the day.

"What's the use of waiting here for a bus?" I inquired. "Surely you aren't afraid of a few sprinkles."

They weren't, so we all started toward the depot. Then came the deluge. We found shelter in a building entrance for awhile. But we had tickets for the 5:10 and there was no way to send word to the conductor to hold it up until we arrived. There were no buses or cabs available. So we finally shoved off and ran, trotted and waddled, according to our separate gait, to the depot 4 blocks away.

Lightning flashed, thunder crashed. Nothing could daunt us. I arrived at the depot a few steps behind the boys. I waited there panting at the door until the womenfolk showed up. Then to my dismay I discovered that in the race my glasses had slipped out of my shirt pocket.

So I started back, retracing my steps through the cascade pouring down the streets. Better than 3 blocks away I found the glasses lying on the sidewalk. The rain had beaten down so hard that no one else had been along, I expect. At any rate the glasses were unharmed. I was out of breath and couldn't get any wetter anyway, so I walked back to the depot, arriving just in time to join the bedraggled others in our little party and board the train. We looked like a troupe of trained seals.

All the dirt of the fair and Belle Isle had been washed away and we all felt refreshed. But we were uncomfortably damp, especially the women who claimed the rain had shrunk their girdles.

Ancient History

One Year Ago

Mrs. Dora Lassen, Mason, received word September 4 that her son, Sgt. Robert J. Lassen, was killed in action in Korea last month.

Mrs. Mary E. Tressider has assumed her duties as county librarian.

Mason's school enrollment reached an even 1,000 on the second day of school.

The Mason bypass is still on the list of highway jobs to be let in 1951, State Highway Commissioner Charles Ziegler announced.

10 Years Ago—1942 John Dart has been named a member of the legal counsel of the war shipping board. He is now in Washington awaiting assignment.

James Cagney is on his way to Mason to sell war bonds at the CIO-AFL 3-day Labor Day celebration.

Deluged with offers of blonde hair, the government is refusing offers of tresses. Last week the Ingham County News and other newspapers were asked to spread the word that to win the war the government needed blonde hair in the making of precision instruments. The response was so great that 147 carloads could have been had.

20 Years Ago—1932

Three bad fires resulted from the severe electric storm of Monday. A barn at the William Eteo farm near Eden, the home of Bert Hoffman of Leslie and barns, sheds, tools, hay and straw together with some stored household goods belonging to Fred Henry of Onondaga were destroyed.

More than 5 inches of rain fell during the month of August. This is the largest August rainfall during a 15-year period.

The Ingham county fair, for the first time in 4 years, took in sufficient cash to pay all its bills.

Scientists employed by the S. M. A. Laboratories at Mason have announced discovery of Vitamin "A" in primary form found in the common garden or field variety of carrots. Officials of the company believe this to be one of the most important discoveries of recent years.

"I never cease to marvel..."

writes Mrs. Mabel Sykes of Lansing

Dear Friends:

When I started to write a check for my bill this month, I couldn't help but think how much service it represented.

Friends in Grand Rapids were moving to New Jersey. A call to them made it possible to make arrangements for them to stop here on their way.

I received word that a sister was very ill out in Iowa. Just by lifting my receiver and giving a number in Cedar Rapids, I was in touch with home and assurance that all was coming along fine.

I never cease to marvel how easily we call across the country now without even a wait for the call to go through.

I am not unmindful of the multitude of people who make this service possible, and I wish it were possible to say "thank you" to each one of them.

Sincerely yours, Mabel Sykes

Poultrymen Can Make Money By Pampering Their Pullets

Michigan hens are making their fall moulting shift, from abundant low-priced eggs to scarce high-priced eggs and the trend continues until January. That makes the early hatched pullets very important birds on any farm, according to J. M. Moore, Michigan State college poultry extension specialist.

Pullets start laying eggs in 5 to 6 months but it is not until they are about 8 months old that they lay large eggs, and then only if they have proper breeding.

With egg profits in the last half of the year and pullets the money makers, farmers should take special care that poor management does not cause a drop in egg production, Moore advises. Pullets have been free, in sunshine, with green grass, bugs, beetles and everything to make them happy. Now they are being shut up in the laying house and farmers should do all possible to overcome the shock. The first thing is a clean laying house, with all refuse cleaned out, dust washed down, perches and nests treated with a good mite killer and disinfected. It should be ready when pullets start laying.

Deep litter should be used in laying houses now, and it should be 6 to 8 inches deep. Cut straw is better than long straw. Shavings, sawdust and corn cobs are satisfactory. Litter should be stirred regularly and any crusts, matted material thrown out.

When the pullets are housed, feed should not be changed. If growing mash is being fed, continue it two to three weeks while pullets become familiar with new surroundings. If a shift to laying mash is planned, farmers can start the laying mash the last two weeks pullets are out on range.

Housed pullets should not be startled as they are wild and shy at sudden motion such as someone entering the pens. Get acquainted with the birds and they will settle down to work.

Plenty of fresh air in housing will prevent birds catching colds but it should be fresh air without drafts. At first, the pullets will need teaching to go on perches, and settling them on perches will help. Birds will have more fresh air and suffer less from crowding when they learn to perch.

Pullet enclosures is directly benefited by longer days and poultrymen should start in September to use lights to gradually lengthen the pullets' "days" to 13 hours.

Let machinery do the work in filling your silo this fall. With the Allis-Chalmers Forage Harvester and Forage Blower, power handles the crop all the way from field to silo. The A-C Forage Harvester has spiral, cupped knives three feet wide. They handle heavy crops easily. Knives are power-honed without removing them from the machine. The Forage Harvester is a 3-way machine, with attachments for row crops, standing grass, or windrows.

Growing Timber As a Farm Crop Is Recommended

Industry is looking at forestry with new eyes—eyes which see timber as a crop to be harvested, planted and harvested again, much the same as with any other crops, says Prof. Samuel T. Dana of the University of Michigan school of natural resources.

"Timber cropping is not a new idea, though, for it has been practiced on national forests since 1905, he explains. What is new is industry's attitude towards the plan, with the realization that a forest is a renewable resource rather than a "mine," as previously believed.

In an article in the current Michigan Alumnus Quarterly Review, Prof. Dana claims that this change in attitude is an encouraging element presenting good prospects for improvement in a situation of low-level, run-down, poorly stocked forests.

He explains that in timber cropping approximately equal areas are occupied by trees of different ages, scattered or occurring in solid blocks. Each year the trees of one age are harvested. In this manner, he points out, a "sustained yield" is created.

Prof. Dana states that heavy capital investments in manufacture, turning facilities have created a demand for this continuous forest production, and it can be maintained only if timber is grown for the purpose. Therefore, "timber mining will no longer suffice."

As a result, industry is "promoting forestry on its own and other lands because it pays. In a capitalist economy this is a sound foundation on which to build."

In addition, technological advances have helped maintain the demand for forest products and have permitted closer utilization of the raw material, he says. "Far from becoming obsolete, wood has actually extended its market, and now, more justly than any other substance, can be called the 'universal raw material.'"

Industry has changed its attitude towards forestry for other reasons, too, Prof. Dana asserts. The value of standing timber, or "stumpage," has increased greatly due to the law of supply and demand, he points out, and now "there is real inducement for forest owners and users to go into the business of timber-growing."

State Farm Tour Plans Are Made

"Keys to Farm Profits" will be offered farmers visiting Osceola county, September 23, for the annual state farm management tour. Abe Snyder, Osceola county agricultural agent, has asked J. P. Hoekzema, county agricultural agent to extend open invitations.

The tour will start at 10 a. m. Tuesday, September 23, at Forest Randall & Son farm, 3 miles west of Reed City on old highway US-10. Certified seed potatoes are the main crop and machinery and irrigation work will be points of interest. At 11:15 a. m. at the Ferris Leach farm 4 miles west of Reed City on US-10, farmers can see how a light sandy soil can be rebuilt, strip cropping and terracing, the value of farm records.

"Changes Ahead in Farming" will be outlined by Dr. Clifford M. Hardin, director of the agricultural experiment station at Michigan State college. He will speak at a luncheon to be served by Osceola 4-H Club Council at 12:15 p. m. at the fairgrounds at Ewart. The 55-piece Ewart high school band, which won 1951 first division honors in the state contest, will play.

Davy & McLachlan farm, 5 1/2 miles south of Ewart, will be the stop at 2:30 p. m. and it will be a lesson in operation of a large farm by family labor. A 25-cow dairy herd and 50 ewes are the livestock. Irrigated potatoes and cucumbers are cash crops. The tour will conclude there with an airplane seeding and crop dusting demonstration set at 3:15 p. m.

PAVE WITH GRASS
Grass is the farmer's best paving material for carrying surplus water from his land, report Michigan State college soil conservationists. A good sod cover for natural drainage ways can save gullying on most farms. Filling small gullies by tillage methods as they form in unprotected waterways just speeds up the rate of loss of top soil and increases silt deposits in streams, the specialists warn. Complete plans for grass waterways are available from county agricultural agents.

When smoke from your chimney is dense and black, you may be sending more than a fourth of your fuel out unburned.

Country & Town

By JIM BROWN

Until recently, the farm experts have predicted larger farms for the future. They've said that modern technique and machinery have made small farms inefficient and unprofitable. A survey made over in Wisconsin recently points to another possible trend.

Small farms definitely have a place. The survey showed that farm families living on 60-acre farms were just as happy as those who lived on 660 acres. A lot of them were happier because they didn't have to work as hard.

The families on the small farms ate just as good, lived in just as good houses and their children attended just as good schools.

The survey was different from most. It considered the farm people and not the statistics of efficient labor and machinery. In other words, people can be happy and useful on inefficient small farms. Size isn't the answer when defining a useful and happy life.

It's a lot like the argument given for a dictatorship over a democracy. Those who would dictate point out that a dictatorship government is more efficient and the political machinery operates at top speed. And the argument is probably true. A democracy, or a republic as the United States is, operates a little slower. More minds are in on the decisions which sometimes come late. I guess it's a fact that the republican system is not efficient in the efficient sense of the word.

But for sheer freedom and enjoyment and the exercising of one's talents, a democracy has it all over an efficient dictatorship.

In the final analysis, efficiency is not necessarily the answer to successful living. It's how you live that counts.

That's why I don't get all excited when the paint begins to peel on my house. The floors can sag a little and I believe that no harm can come from it.

Modern magazines show how to live efficiently. To put the accent on efficiency in the home is to admit that living is just another job. A house featured recently has 80% glass for walls, only 1 door (it's to the bathroom) and carpet in the bath. All the furniture is built in the walls. It's an efficient house. But efficiency and easy living can't be the only aim in life any more than the aim of a happy 60-acre farmer should be to become a tax weary 660-acre farmer.

Now take my house. There are 10 doors in it. I know because I painted 'em. The ceilings are high and the kitchen is 10 times larger than a modern Pullman kitchenette. I'd be a lot more efficient if I'd move into 1 room and wait out the cold winter ahead. And my household would be just as efficient if I'd cast away some of the knick-knacks picked up at the Booster club auction in Dansville a couple of weeks ago.

But it's home and I like it. I don't want to be too efficient. And that's probably the way the 60-acre farmers feel about it.

When Cow Aborts Call the Doctor

Several diseases can cause a cow to abort, farmers are advised by Dr. Glen W. Reed, extension specialist in animal pathology at Michigan State college. In each case, farmers can head off troubles in the rest of their herds by calling a veterinarian immediately for an accurate diagnosis.

Abortion and breeding troubles from brucellosis can be headed off by calf vaccination and testing for reactors, farmers are reminded.

There are dangers also in Michigan, according to the pathologist, from trichomoniasis and vibriosis. In any case, a veterinarian's aid is needed. An aborting cow should be isolated and the aborted calf and afterbirth burned, buried deeply or covered with quicklime.

AVOID MILKSTONE

Milk handling equipment will increase bacteria in milk if not kept clean, with surfaces bright and shiny, cautions Donald L. Murray, dairy extension specialist at Michigan State college. Dairy-men should avoid milkstone—gray, chalky film—from building up on equipment because of minerals in water and in milk and unsuitable washing powders, he urges.

National Titles Are at Stake in Pulling Contests

Both weight divisions of the national horse pulling contest will be held in Michigan during the week of September 8.

The national lightweight contest will be held at the Saginaw county fair at Saginaw on Tuesday, September 9, at 12:30 p. m.

The national heavyweight contest is at the Allegan county fair, Allegan, on Wednesday and Thursday, September 10 and 11. The finals will be on Thursday morning.

This is the first time in the history of horse-pulling that national contests have been conducted at county fairs.

Due to the number of entries coming from many states, it is impossible for a single fair to conduct both weight divisions. Top teams from New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Michigan are entered in these contests. Included in these entries are the heavyweight national champions owned by R. F. Oakleaf, Tiffin, Ohio, and the national lightweight champions, also holders of the lightweight world record, owned by Charles Roehl & Sons, Smith Creek.

Cooperating with the above fairs, who for many years have been leaders in the high calibre horse pulling contests they have conducted, is the Michigan Dynamometer association.

Ingham Farmers Receive Increase On Detroit Milk

Back to the post-war high of 3 years ago is the Detroit milk market.

Beginning September 1 producers are receiving an extra 40c per 100 lbs. The new price will show up in the October milk checks.

For Ingham producers the increase will yield an extra $45,000 per month, it is estimated.

The 8% increase was order by the Federal Market Administrator. The price is set by formula under federal supervision. The formula is based on butter and condensary prices.

Detroit milk dealers have now asked OPS for another cent per quart to cover the higher price paid producers and for other higher costs.

Rams Are Offered At College Barn

One of the largest selection of purebred rams of all breeds will again be assembled at the Michigan State college sheep barn on Monday, September 29. This is the date of the seventh annual ram day sponsored by the Michigan Sheep Breeders' association, the animal husbandry extension department of Michigan State college and the county extension offices. At least 200 rams will be brought in by leading purebred breeders of the state for this event.

The rams are placed in pens according to price and the flock owner makes his own selection. It is not an auction. There will be a good selection of rams of the more common breeds, J. P. Hoekzema, county agricultural agent, said that flock owners wanting rams of the less common breeds should contact him at once so that the kind of ram they want can be located for them. Last year 83 rams were selected at this event.

The quickest and easiest way to improve the market lambs farmers sell next fall or the ewes they will have for breeding flocks is through the use of a good ram, Hoekzema pointed out. Ingham county has many good flocks and sheep producers and continue to improve their flocks by selecting the best rams, he added.

Sheathelms Plan Corn Field Day

Plans are being made for the first Michigan corn field day which will be held on Tuesday, September 19, at the Henry and Orla Sheathelms Farm, 5 miles east of Dansville on M-36.

James P. Hoekzema, Ingham county agricultural agent, suggested that farmers interested in producing more corn per acre should plan to spend some time seeing the interesting experiments being conducted on the farm.

Specialists from Michigan State college have cooperated with Hoekzema and the Sheathelms in conducting many worthwhile tests and demonstrations.

"Complete plans for this event will be worked out more completely within the next week," said Hoekzema, "but we hope that many farmers will reserve this date for the corn field day, the first of its kind to be held in Michigan."

THIS FARMING BUSINESS

BY CARL COLLIN

Russia has one-sixth of the world's land surface. But there are definite physical limitations to her ability to produce food. A soils specialist at the University of Wisconsin says that lack of rain, cold temperatures and poor soils just won't permit bumper crops. The state of Iowa with its annual corn production alone equals in food value all the grains produced annually in the Ukraine. That's the so-called "bread basket" of Russia.

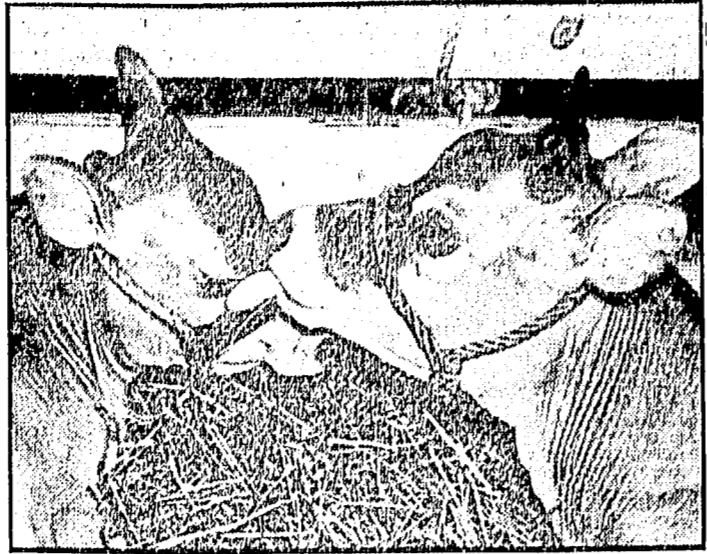

More turkeys again this year. Another production record. The 1952 crop is 13% larger than last year. And about one-fourth of the turkeys raised this year are the small Beltsville Whites. This year's crop is about triple what it was 20 years ago. Growers plan to sell more of their birds early this year. By the end of October they will have unloaded close to half the crop. About 5% of the crop will be held until after the first of January.

Speaking of turkeys: USDA is going to buy them to distribute to schools for lunch programs and other eligible institutions. Purchases will start the second week of September. Idea is to help maintain prices to growers in the face of the record supply. USDA buys in carload lots. Turkeys must be U. S. Grade B or better. They must have been slaughtered after September 1.

Antibiotics, used so successfully in treatment of animal and human diseases, may be used soon to control diseases in plants. Scientists at University of Wisconsin are working on 3 drugs—hexilin, toximylin and antimycin. Under experimental conditions, sprays of these 3 antibiotics have protected tomato plants against early blight. Undoubtedly other scientists are working with other antibiotics to see what plant diseases they can control. Actidione, discovered by the Upjohn Company research people, has showed considerable promise under experimental conditions at Michigan State college and other institutions.

Yellow light bulbs used outside don't repel insects. The bugs, or most of the common ones anyway, just aren't aware of yellow light. Purdue entomologists say that each species of insect has its own color preference. For most of them it is blue or green. But red, yellow or orange lights are unattractive to nearly all insects. In other words, the bugs are just color blind as far as yellow shades are concerned.

Farmers in the Argentine are now planting their corn crops for harvest next April. The Argentine government has promised farmers more money for their corn next year. A corn production goal, up 50% from last year's acreage has been set. Grain authorities say it's doubtful if Argentine farmers will boost their plantings enough to meet the 1953 goal. They don't have enough faith in the government's promise to pay the increased price for the corn they would produce. Low government payments for farm products in the last couple of years have caused farmers to reduce their acreages of crops and numbers of livestock raised.

Hog prices may fluctuate considerably this fall and winter. So says H. M. Conway, well known Chicago livestock marketing expert. He's research director for the National Livestock Producer magazine.

The dominating demand factor in the late fall hog market will be the storage demand for pork, he says. However, current stocks in storage are relatively high. Considering current retail price ceilings, it seems unlikely that any substantial amount of this meat will be offered to the retailer at any extremely low prices.

He says further that live hog prices during October and November may be unduly depressed. The urgent demand for relief feed to save livestock in some southern states hasn't developed as many officials figured. Disaster loans made to farmers in drought areas through August 15 amounted to slightly over a half-million dollars; not very much, considering the extent of the area affected by that long dry spell. Apparently there's been quite a bit of local help—banks, businessmen, etc. Also rather widespread rains have helped pasture conditions some. Need for livestock feed may pick up as winter approaches and pastures are no longer useful for stock.

Miscellany... Most government economists don't expect appreciable price swings either way in the foreseeable future. Supplies of almost all commodities are in good shape. Demand should be fairly stable. Strikes have hurt the purchasing power of many... USDA officials hope farmers will put a lot of grain under loan this year to help keep prices from tumbling this fall and winter. Latest dope is that farmers are showing more than usual interest in when loans. Big corn crop will boost the interest on corn loans... Production of tractors in 1953 may be cut back 25 per cent below needs because of steel strike.

After a hectic search for a third baseman, a baseball manager in desperation signed up a horse who showed up well in fielding and batting practice sessions. In his first game, the horse had the misfortune of coming to bat in the last half of the ninth with his team trailing and with the tying run on second base. The pitcher's first toss was smack over the plate and the horse whammed it over the fence for a home run. The tying run came in from second, but when the horse got to first he was so winded he sat on the bag and puffed to regain his breath. In a flash, the manager stormed from the dugout screaming, "Run, you idiot, run!" "Run?" gasped the horse. "That's why I'm playing baseball. If I could run, I'd be out at the fairgrounds race track!"

Pasturing on Rye Makes Hogs Thrive

Hogs can make good use of pasture in any season and owners providing it for their swine all winter long will be putting dollars in their pockets.

If pasture is not available, the best substitute is a good quality leafy legume, advises H. F. Moxley, Michigan State college animal husbandry extension specialist.

Rye planted in late summer or early fall, at rate of 6 to 8 packs per acre, can get a good growth before freezing weather. This provides hogs with a pasture they will relish in late fall and throughout a mild winter. Sows and litters will find it ideal as early as late March.

Rye aids hogs in health and makes faster, more efficient gains with less grains and proteins, Moxley reports. Good-quality well-cured second cutting alfalfa should be fed where pasture is not available. Moxley adds. Approximately 10% of the ration for fattening hogs should be a good legume hay and this should be increased to 15 to 30% for brood sows and gilts. Alfalfa may be fed where pasture is not available, Moxley adds. Approximately 10% of the ration for fattening hogs should be a good legume hay and this should be increased to 15 to 30% for brood sows and gilts. Alfalfa may be ground and fed in the grain ration or free choice as hay, the extension specialist reports.

The water in waves does not move over the surface. It is only the motion that travels.

Stroud Urges Better Waterways

With wheat plowing in progress, farmers should consider greater use of waterways, according to Melvin Stroud of the soil conservation service. The fall rains that will soon come will fill grass waterways to near capacity. It's then that they play their vital role in conducting the water from the fields as rapidly as possible. Stroud points out that gullies are nature's waterways, and that left uncared for, gullies can eat up a whole farm. Carrying extra water from the fields isn't expensive. In fact, if constructed and maintained properly, the waterways can actually save money. "Mar. farmers handle the waterway area as hay fields," Stroud stated. Waterways should be 12 to 20 feet wide. They should have the right pitch and be in the right location. "Bert Schertzling of Bunker Hill, Paul Simpson of Aurelius, Charles Risch of Leroy and Lewis Shaw of Vevay are using forms of grass waterways," according to Stroud. "All of these men welcome interested farmers to see them."

Caution Is Urged In Filling Silo

An ounce of silo-filling precaution is worth more than a pound of accident insurance, cautioned J. P. Hoekzema, county agricultural agent.

Carbon dioxide lurks in silos to choke off oxygen and snuff out a life or make someone sick. Broken silo ladders invite trouble. Cutters and blower blades are hard on fingers of the unwary.

A suggestion from David Stenicke, Michigan State college farm safety specialist, advises lowering a lighted kerosene lantern, with a rope tied to the handle, into a silo as a check. If the light goes out, watch out for carbon dioxide.

When the lead car was slowed at 1:50 Saturday morning at the intersection of Dart road and US-127 it and the 3 cars behind all tangled with each other. Drivers were Loyal W. Reynolds, Jackson; Clyde E. Eldridge, Battle Creek; Earl A. Cole, Lansing; and Albert Gordon, Akron, Ohio.

Reynolds was the only person seriously hurt. He was taken to the Mason General hospital to have a doctor look at a head injury. Reynolds was found not to be badly hurt and was released.

Profit of $1500 Realized on Fair

Between $1,500 and $1,800 is the estimated profit on the 1952 county fair, Secretary Joy O. Davis informed the supervisors Monday. The complete financial report will be made available at the annual meeting of the Ingham County Agricultural Society Friday night, September 19, Davis said.

"Even though we had had weather the fair finished in the black," Davis explained. "The gate receipts were off $345 but the revenue from shows and concessions was up $73. The total gate was $10,768. Shows and rides yielded $1,909.26 and concessions brought in $1,741.97."

Premiums paid exhibitors amounted to $9,264.01, Davis stated, the highest in the history of the fair. Only Saginaw and perhaps a few others exceed Ingham in the total of premiums paid, Davis declared.

The 19 scramble and 4-H fat steers brought $6,391.79 at auction, Davis said, an average of $336.40 per steer.

-Wage Scale

las Fryer of Waterbury, Conn., as public health director at a salary of $11,000 a year for the rest of 1952. Next year the scale will be $12,000.

The health committee, with the approval of the ways and means and salaries committees, had previously decided on the appointment of Dr. Fryer but had to wait for board approval of the salary.

Supervisor John B. Fay of Delhi, chairman of the health committee, explained that $11,000 is the going wage for public health directors. He and other members of the committees in on the hiring reported that Dr. Fryer would not have accepted the offer had he not wanted his children to enter Michigan State. Dr. Fryer once lived in East Lansing, Chairman Eddy said.

Dr. Fryer was recommended by the Michigan department of health and the Ingham County Medical Society, Fay reported.

Supervisor Lloyd Aseltine of Alaledon indicated that the hiring of a health director was a matter which largely concerned Lansing and not the townships. The townships have slight need for the county health service, Aseltine said.

Dolbee's Plea Reaches Buyer

Last week Fred Dolbee of Aurelius asked that the buyer of his combine pickup return and sign the check. The buyer had driven away from the Dolbee place without signing a check for the pickup and Dolbee didn't remember the name.

The buyer was Lee Van Horn of Doble road in Alaledon. He read in the Ingham County News about Dolbee's plight and recognized himself as the buyer. He went to the Farmers bank in Mason and left the money for Dolbee.

"I knew it was just an oversight," said Dolbee. "I can tell an honest man when I see one, and I was positive the man just for got to sign the check."

NEW LAW BANS PARTY LINE TALKATHONS

Emergency Calls Gain Priority

Under a law which becomes effective September 18, users of party lines must hang up when notified that the line is wanted for an emergency call. Calls for doctors or ambulances or to report a fire are listed as emergencies.

People who continue to talk after being notified that an emergency call must be made can be charged with a misdemeanor.

On the other hand, if someone claims he must have the line to make an emergency call and there is no emergency then he will be subject to arrest on a misdemeanor charge.

Justice of the Peace Roy W. Adams called attention to the new law. He also mentioned 2 others which will become effective next Thursday. One makes it a misdemeanor to offer for sale or to possess a spring-blade pocket knife—a knife with a blade which pops out when a button is pressed. Such knives are often used in cutting scrapes, the judge explained.

Another new law affects minors, making it illegal for any minor, unless employed by a licensed liquor dealer, to possess alcoholic liquor on his person or in a car.

large circle of friends. She enjoyed doing for others and gave most generously of herself.

Residents Ask for New Blacktopping

Residents of Center street have petitioned the city council for blacktopping to follow the completed curb and gutter project on their street. The petition was received by the council Monday night and will be considered in the city budget for 1953.

City workers unearthed a WPA project secret while working on the Center street curb and gutter. According to the progress reports made to the city during the WPA era, there was to have been a sanitary sewer running from the corner of Bush and Center streets east 250 feet. Such was not the case, city plans to the contrary.

News of the missing link in the Center street sewer spurred councilmen to initiate action for a special assessment project to lay the sewer before cold weather sets in and before the streets are graveled. The proposed project will also include water and sewer services to vacant lots on the street and the graveled. The proposal must go through the process of a public hearing, according to the city charter.
