

Honeymooners Visit Mackinac

After exchanging nuptial vows Saturday evening at Mason Methodist church, Mr. and Mrs. Gary L. Lamphere traveled to Mackinac Island and other parts of northern Michigan for their honeymoon. Miss Judith Dawn Jewett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Jewett, 803 East Ash street, and Mr. Lamphere, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Lamphere, Dexter, Mich., were married by Rev. Raymond Norton at 7:30 p. m. in a candlelight ceremony.

The sanctuary was decorated with 5 bouquets of white gladiolus and 2 pairs of 7-branch candelabra for the rites. The wedding marches and traditional nuptial selections were played by Mrs. Derwood Carr, Kay Powers sang "Always," "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Carr. Three hundred guests were present for the exchange of vows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of embroidered white organza. The fitted bodice had a wide V-neckline accented by tucks of organza, and short sleeves. The bouffant skirt extended into a brush train. A crown of seed pearls held her fingertip veil and she wore mitts and a gold cross to complete her ensemble.

The bride carried an arrangement of crimson roses, tied with imported hand-embroidered Swiss ribbon. Her going-away corsage helped to make up her bouquet. The flowers were placed on a white Bible.

Bridesmaids Wear Pink, White
Miss Carol Alice Cheney was maid of honor. She wore a gown of white embroidered in pink with a wide V-neckline and a pink cummerbund at the waist. She carried a waterfall arrangement of crimson roses tied with crimson ribbons.

Bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Miss Joan L. Spenny, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ronald Jewett. Their dresses were similar to the one worn by the maid of honor and their bouquets were of crimson roses tied with pink ribbons. All 3 attendants wore Juliet caps of crimson roses made in the shape of 4-leaf clovers.

As flower girls, Sally Lamphere, sister of the bridegroom, and Debbie Thurlby, cousin of the bride, were dressed in pink organza over taffeta, with pink cummerbunds. Drew Spenny, nephew of the bride, wore a navy suit for his duties as ringbearer.

Jim Armstrong served as best man and groomsmen were Gale Lamphere, brother of the bridegroom, and Ronald Jewett, the bride's brother. Joe Lamphere of Lansing, cousin of the bridegroom, and Dick Seibert were ushers.

Mrs. Kesler is 94 Years Old
By Clara Strange

"I don't see quite so well as I used to," says Mrs. Anna Kesler of Leslie, "but I do pretty well. I still do my own sewing and I'll be 91 this Friday. Perhaps it's just as well I can't see too good. I used to be very particular about the seams and other things. This is for Christmas. Don't suppose the blinders set on it as I'd like to, but they'll understand."

Ninety-four years for Mrs. Kesler and still she does all her work in her neat apartment. She still does her own baking. She has made concessions such as an electric range and refrigerator but the electric washer seems to have too much power for her so she still uses a tub and washboard. She has an electric iron but mostly she uses a "sad iron."

Her ironing board is at least 57 years old. A neighbor man made it and gave it to her, she says.

"The new ones are lighter to handle," she pointed out, "but I still like this one. A lot of the family's clothes have been ironed on this one."

Mrs. Kesler was born Anna Charlotte Forrell, at Ashland, Ontario, Canada. Her father died when she was 3 and her mother brought her to Michigan where her mother's family settled in Tuscola county, when Mrs. Kesler was 9.

She met her husband when they went to the same school near Flint. They were married July 30, 1863.

Comstock-Parr Nuptials Are Spoken at Onondaga

Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock a pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. E. A. Kelford at Onondaga Community church, uniting Miss LaVonda Parr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Parr, and Richard Comstock, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Comstock.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white cotton ballerina-length dress with pink accessories. She carried a white Bible and bouquet of white baby mums and pink carnations.

Miss Ruth Stadel, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a dress of pastel blue. Miss Shirley Barland, also a cousin, wore a pastel green dress for her duties as bridesmaid. Both attendants carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Raymond Bodell acted as best man and Erwin Winegar assisted the groomsmen.

Mrs. Parr chose a powder blue print dress with white trim and white accessories for her daughter's wedding. The bridegroom's mother chose a pearl gray dress with white trim and white accessories.

Mrs. Erna Baldwin played "O Promise Me" and "He" along with traditional wedding music. Reception given.

A reception honoring the couple was given at Onondaga town hall in the evening with 225 guests present. Linda Stadel, Karen Barland, Connie Treadwell, Donna Townsend, Carolyn Dittap and Janet Dittap assisted in serving cake, ice cream and punch. Miss Linda Stadel had charge of the guest book.

The newlyweds are both graduates of Leslie high school. The bride is employed at DeLano's grocery and her husband works for River Raisin Co. in Eaton Rapids. They will be at home to their friends in their trailer on Crain road.

Mason Woman Dies in Crash

Mrs. Edith Showerman, 77, of Burkley road, Mason, died in the wreckage of an automobile Thursday afternoon when it struck a utility pole and a tree on Zimmer road.

The car was driven by her son, Harry, 39, who received head cuts and bruises. He was released from St. Lawrence hospital after treatment.

State police said the Showerman car left the blacktop road about a half mile south of Noble road in Wheatfield township. It clipped off a utility pole, crashed into a tree and bounced back onto the road. The car was a total wreck.

Troopers said Showerman was unable to explain why the car had gone off the road. There were no witnesses.

Mrs. Showerman was born May 28, 1880, in Wheatfield township, the daughter of Henry and Harriet Campbell. She attended the Pollok school. Mrs. Showerman lived in Wheatfield township all of her life where she was married to Archie Showerman.

Funeral services were Monday afternoon at Gorsline Brothers funeral home in Williamston with burial in Saints cemetery. Rev. Harold Reese of Williamston Baptist church officiated. Pallbearers were Leonard Upton, Lester Upton, Norman Rec-

This Tractor Accident Cost a Life in Ingham Last Week! 2,520 Die Each Year on United States Farms!

Sudden death for a 15-year-old boy was the result of this tractor accident in Ingham county last week. The youngster died beneath the monstrous weight of the giant machinery only a few days before the observance of National Farm Safety Week. The tragic death will not have been in vain if the accident will serve as a lesson in farm safety to others. Now—during Farm Safety Week—let every farmer and all who live on farms strive to practice farm safety each day of the year.

Farm Accidents Are More Common Than:

1. Air Mishaps.
2. Peace Time Military Accidents.
3. Home Accidents.

Total Test!

Hi Neighbor!

When you work hard for years, making endless sacrifices, saving every dollar you could to someday own your own business, you are certainly going to be more grateful for the patronage of your customers than if you operated a store for someone else.

In the majority of instances, hard work, privation and struggle is the story behind your IGA store owner.

He appreciates your business because of the long uphill fight he had before he was in a position to get your business. Therefore your retailer asks that you make the "Total Test" in his store to prove to yourself, that you save MORE with IGA's Every Day Low Prices. The true story lies at the bottom of each tape you receive, the TOTAL will tell the story.

It's the "TOTAL" that Counts!

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Jackson of Jackson announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia, to Robert L. Scofield of Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Scofield of Mason.

The bride-elect, a 1955 graduate of Jackson high school, is employed by Michigan Bell Telephone Co. Mr. Scofield graduated from Mason high school in 1954 and attended Central Michigan college at Mt. Pleasant. He is an industrial X-ray technician for Kelsey-Hayes Co. in Jackson.

September 20 is the date chosen for their wedding.

Shower for Bride-Elect Features Motif of Pink

The Rex Townsend home on East Columbia was decorated in pink Saturday evening for a kitchen shower honoring Miss Barbara Cochrane of Dansville, bride-elect. Hostesses were Miss Evelyn Townsend, Miss Dorothy Dunsmore and Miss Lucille Wheeler.

Decorations followed a pink and silver theme. The gift table, covered with a lace cloth, was trimmed with pink bows and silver wedding bells. A bouquet of zinnias decorated the living room.

Guests played written games, then the honored guest opened her gifts, which followed the color scheme of pink, copper or white, colors chosen by the bride for her kitchen decor.

The serving table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a floral arrangement. Pink and white decorated cake, brick ice cream centered with a pink wedding bell and pink fruit punch were served.

Guests were former teachers and classmates at Dansville Agricultural school. Mrs. Gary Briggs, Mrs. Roy Hunt, Mrs. G. E. Manning, Miss Evelyn Tobert of Detroit, Miss Louise Showers, Miss Janet Hills, and Miss Alice Snyder; the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Archie Cochrane, and her sister, Miss June Cochrane; and Miss Cochrane will become the bride of Ronald B. Betterly on August 17.

Whipples Have Family Reunion

For the first time in several years, the Whipple family gathered Sunday for a reunion at Rayner park. A potluck dinner was served at one o'clock. Thirty-eight guests were present from Detroit, Lansing, Williamston and Okemos.

Mrs. Roy Heil of Lansing presided over the gathering. Mrs. Rex Schlaybaugh and Mrs. Douglas Potter of Lansing will be in charge of next year's reunion.

Guests last week of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Ream were Walt Smith and Leon Chase of Copenish.

Saturday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Ream were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene White and family of Lansing, Sunday afternoon and evening guests of the Reams were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Phillips of Lansing and Jill Bergy of Holt.

Mr. and Mrs. William Niswonger, Jr., and Lloyd of Dansville and Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Lantis visited Mrs. Hubert Darling in Midland Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Rider of Parma spent Thursday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Linn. Sunday guests at the Linn home were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Massman and granddaughter, Robin Balance, and Mrs. Charles Kuhn and family of Lansing and Mrs. Bertha Douglas.

Mrs. Hazel Strobel of Grovenburg and Mrs. Minta French of Caro were Monday dinner guests of Mrs. Burt Green.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Sherwood attended the Sherwood reunion at Potter park Sunday.

Mason Woman Becomes Nurse

Mrs. Charles E. Buhl, formerly Susan Pensall of Mason, will be among the 26 graduates of the Michigan State university department of nursing education Friday, August 2. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilson Pensall.

Other Ingham graduates are Mrs. Lowell C. Fiedler of Haslet and Heather Webb of Okemos.

The group, to wear the white uniforms of graduate nurses for the first time, is the fourth and largest class to be graduated from M. S. U.'s department of nursing education.

Miss Florence C. Kempf, head of the nursing education department, will present M. S. U. pins to the class in a candlelight ceremony which marks completion of the students' work for the B. S. degree in nursing education. The graduates are eligible to become registered nurses through state examination.

Speaker will be Dr. Hugh T. Caumartin, radiologist at St. Luke's hospital, Saginaw, where the students undergo clinical training.

Mrs. Paul Clinton and Sharon of Hamilton, Ohio, are spending the week with Mrs. Charles Clinton. They were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Eugene Cavanaugh of Leslie. Patty Clinton, another of Mrs. Paul Clinton's daughters, is with Mrs. Wilma Lehman and Mrs. Donald Lehman and family at Lake Louise this week.

conducted during the morning service and the nursery will be open during both services.

Okemos Baptist Church Has 90 Years of History

Sunday morning the last church services will be conducted in the present Okemos Baptist church building, 90 years old.

Next Sunday the congregation will move 2 blocks away to the new church. A special homecoming and rally day for Sunday has been announced by the pastor, Rev. John Book.

Rev. Fred Hague of Onsted will speak at the morning service on "Memories of My Time at Okemos." Another former pastor, Rev. Paul Vincent, who is doing home mission work with the Conservative Baptist association at Winona Lake, Indiana, will sing a special number.

Okemos Baptist church began as a dream soon after the close of the Civil War. Several residents wanted a Baptist church "right in the village." On December 21, 1867, a group met to discuss the possibility. The result of that meeting was the beginning of the First Baptist church of Okemos with 15 charter members, including the first pastor, Rev. O. B. Call. In 1868 a church was built for $2,400.

For 20 years the little church struggled with a faithful few trying to pay the pastor and meet current operating expenses. Then in 1890, with only 11 members on the roll, they called Rev. G. H. Hudson to be the pastor. Soon there were 34 members and the church work was growing in other ways. In 1903 the members were able to offer the pastor what was then a magnificent sum, $200 per year and a parsonage. The janitor was paid $15 a year.

The church people always had fun at the annual fall cleaning bee, when they took down and cleaned the 2 stove pipes, running the length of the church. The women would pull up the rag carpet, rip it to pieces, wash it and sew it together again.

By 1921, however, it became evident that the little church was too small to accommodate those who wanted to attend services.

Fred Brown and Billy McQuham spent the week end at Lake George.

Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Jewett and family returned Friday from a 3-weeks vacation at Higgins lake.

FOX
The King and Four Queens
Thurs.-Fri.-Sat.

The King and Four Queens is a luscious yarn about a gay scoundrel's adventures in a western ghost town inhabited by four trigger-happy, man-hungry girls. Clark Gable is costarred as the King in the title. The Queens are Eleanor Parker, Jean Willes, Sara Shane and Barbara Nichols. The strong supporting cast is headed by Roy Roberts, Arthur Fields and Jay C. Flippen. Jo Van Fleet is also starred.

ROCK HUDSON and Dana Wynter co-star in M-G-M's Something of Value, filmization of Robert C. Ruark's explosive best-seller novel dealing with the Mau Mau uprisings in Kenya, East Africa, where much of the picture was filmed on location.

FOX
Something of Value
Sun.-Mon.-Tues.

Rock Hudson and Dana Wynter co-star in Something of Value, based on Robert C. Ruark's explosive novel of the Mau Mau uprising in Kenya, East Africa. Sidney Hillier, Wendy Hiller, Juana Hernandez and William Marshall also play prominent roles in the film, shot in part on location in Africa.

LUCON
The Curse of Frankenstein
Starts Wednesday

A haunting tale of terror is promised in the Curse of Frankenstein. Filmed in WarnerColor for realism, "The Curse of Frankenstein" stars Peter Cushing, Hazel Court, Robert Urquhart and Christopher Lee.

The story concerns the terror reign of a creature created by man and forgotten by nature. As an added tale of terror X The Unknown will be shown as part of the double bill.

LUCON
The Virginian
Starts Friday

One of the classics of both American literature and the screen, Owen Wister's The Virginian, returns. The film stars Joel McCrea, Brian Donlevy and Sonny Tufts, with Barbara Britton heading the supporting cast. McCrea is seen in the title role of an iron-willed defender of the west's stern code of justice, whose unswerving sense of duty leads him to hang his best friend. Tufts plays the sidekick. Donlevy plays the villain.

JOEL MCCREA portrays the title role in Paramount's spectacular adaptation of Owen Wister's Western classic, "The Virginian," due Friday at the Lucon theatre for a return engagement. Brian Donlevy, Sonny Tufts co-star, Barbara Britton, Fay Bainter are featured.

LUCON
Two Years Before the Mast

The thrilling epic of the sea and sailing ships, Richard Henry Dana's Two Years Before the Mast, stars Alan Ladd, Brian Donlevy, William Bendix and Barry Fitzgerald.

Dana's novel of the almost inhuman treatment of the crew of the brig, Pilgrim, in its voyage around the Horn, was a prime factor in securing a mariners' bill of rights when it was first published over a hundred years ago.

Kiwanis Club Members See Circus Movie at Meeting

By Mrs. Alton Kinney

Holt Kiwanis club had its weekly meeting Tuesday at Holt Bakery and Grill. Carl S. Haussman showed the group movies he had of 6 different circuses.

Special guest was Lt. Gov. Clarence Adlof of Kiwanis District 9.

A report was given on the sale of pens, a club project. Tickets for the Hagen Bros. circus will be distributed next week.

Kiwanis club members and their families will have a picnic supper next Tuesday night at the Orville Hiltchen cottage at Duck Lake, at 6:30. Frank Brown is chairman of the event.

Extension Group Meets

Holt extension group had a special meeting Tuesday night, July 23, at the home of Mrs. Albert Tibby, Keller road. The group discussed ideas for a Christmas carnival. Mrs. Edward Spraker was chairman and Mrs. Robert Braisler was co-hostess.

Oberlins Leave for Europe

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Oberlin left Wednesday for Montreal, Canada, and will sail on the S. S. Sylvania Friday for a 2-month extended tour of Europe. They will visit Mrs. Oberlin's 2 brothers and sister in England. This will be Mrs. Oberlin's first visit home in 30 years. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Duell of Boston, Massachusetts, who have been visiting the Oberlins the past week, drove the couple to Montreal.

The Charles Spellmans attended a family reunion at Mesick Sunday. They visited relatives in Hurley, Wisconsin the previous week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Cassius Stuart and family attended homecoming at Fraser Sunday.

Mrs. C. F. Johnson of Alma and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mills of St. Ignace are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson and family.

A son, James Lauren, was born July 14 to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Barker, at St. Lawrence hospital. Mrs. Barker is the former Mariene Marier.

There will be no Sunday evening services at the Holt church of the Nazarene July 28, so members can attend the afternoon and evening services at Michigan district camp meeting at Indian Lake.

Michigan Milk Stands Pat On $5 Class 1 Price Demand

Michigan Milk Producers association took an unyielding stand this week in efforts to obtain its $5 per hundred milk price demand following 2 unsuccessful meetings with dairies in the Detroit market.

A threat of "drastic action" was voiced by officials of the organization in its campaign to hike Class 1 (drinking) milk from its present $4.65 to the $5 figure.

Dairies continued to demand a return to federal order prices which MMPA officials consider "unreasonably low."

Original action was taken by the sales committee of MMPA July 15 in recommending the increased price and 2 meetings with the dairies proved fruitless.

Another meeting was slated with the dairies Thursday. MMPA officials hold out little hope that any negotiations will be successful at the session.

The sales committee of MMPA has been called into another session on July 26. If no agreement has been reached at that time it is expected that an ultimatum will be drawn up for presentation to the dairies, providing for the withholding of milk from the Detroit market until a price agreement is reached.

Glenn Lake, MMPA president, declared the $5 price is more than justified and further stated, "We have no intention of yielding to dairies who seem to be interested only in buying milk at rock bottom prices."

"Dairy farmers are being seriously hurt in the cost-price squeeze and at the present time face a hard winter due to bad weather conditions this summer. Rising costs since January 1 have reached 5% and increased income has amounted to only 1%. That alone tells the story."

Present contracts between the dairies of Detroit and MMPA expire July 31.

State Inspectors Grab Rotten Eggs

One herd of hogs in the Detroit area recently had eggs for breakfast and probably for several meals afterward as a result of 290 thirty-pound cans of frozen eggs being condemned by the Michigan department of agriculture.

Routine inspection of a cold storage warehouse in Detroit by inspectors disclosed the 290 cans of frozen eggs to be unmarked as to name, address, product or net contents as required by Michigan law. Their suspicions aroused, inspectors sent a sample of the eggs to the Michigan department of agriculture chemical laboratories in Lansing. The eggs were placed under seizure.

Analysis reports showed the eggs to contain decomposed matter that rendered them unfit for human consumption. Frozen eggs are used mainly by processors such as bakeries.

Ownership of the eggs was traced to a Detroit broker, who released them for uses other than human consumption. So the eggs went to the owner of 185 hogs who operates a garbage feeding lot.

Father and Son Hit Tree

Paul Lopez, Sr., 38, and his 15-month-old son, Paul, Jr., escaped serious injuries Sunday night on West Columbia road when their car missed the Gale road intersection and crashed into a tree. Lopez was attempting a right-hand turn while headed west on Columbia. The father and son each received cuts and bruises.

FUN IN THE WATER plus a buffet dinner served up by Jim Glotta will highlight the Ingham Soil Conservation district-Mason Kiwanis club program at Blossom orchard next Tuesday. The joint meeting, originally planned to acquaint Kiwanians with latest soil-saving and orchard techniques, blossomed into a summer outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wardowski will help show the group through their orchards and retail outlet.

Swimmers will be reporting to the Wardowski swimming pool at 5. Built a year ago, it measures 35 by 55 feet and has a diving board at one end. The tour starts at 7:30. (Photo by M. H. Avery.)

Farmer Peck's Wife

Death Strikes the Family Circle

You cannot tell by looking at a person what is going on inside his head. Seemingly life goes on pretty much as usual and he may look pretty much the same. But he may have a heavy heart. And maybe that's one of the reasons for sorrow coming to us . . . so we'll be kinder to others in similar cases.

The death of my step-father came as a shock to all of us. It is mother who has been very sick during the last 2 years. So often it happens this way.

I can see mother's tiny huddled body many times a day. It soothes me as nothing else can. She has had such a lot of hardship and grief in her life . . . more than her share, it seems.

Forty years ago, almost to the very day, my own father died leaving her with 7 children. That was when Elizabeth and I went to stay with Crowell so she could work. And we stayed because they didn't want to give us up. Then my oldest sister died of flu during the first war. She married a man with 5 children who were as her very own. One boy was blown up in a tank in World War I. The youngest met a tragic end last summer.

It gets quite complicated whenever I mention one of my various brothers, sisters, mothers or fathers for it turns out that there is a long list. Around here everyone knows how it is—but outside the friendly circle of acquaintances there is a lot of explaining to do to account for so many.

It must sound confusing, at that, for there have been times when I was confused myself. You belong to both families in a way . . . yet you don't belong to either 100%. You wind up with hundreds of relatives who half claim you. Most of the time you think life is swell, but once in a blue moon you get to thinking that you are assuming too much. You don't really belong. That's when I miss Mother Crowell. She believed firmly in the adage that "You're just as good as the president of the United States as long as you behave yourself." Guess that's why the Michigan Mother of the Year award means a lot to me. It sort of proved that she was right. But sometimes, like now, I forget. Sitting here all alone with everyone in bed makes me think more than usual . . . and write more than necessary.

As I said in the beginning . . . those who know what it's like will be kinder to the column this week and will understand how it was hard to write at all. I don't feel peppy and happy about column writing tonight, but feel some explanation is due (and not miss any more).

And the editors have said to write about life down here on the farm and not try always to make it cheerful and happy-sounding.

Car Backs Over Sleeping Youth

Edward H. Bowen, 17, of Leslie had that run-down feeling at the Stockbridge carnival Saturday night. And he was right. While sleeping off a drinking spree in the carnival parking lot, a car owned by Donald Greene of Algonac inadvertently backed over him. Bowen suffered only a hangover.

Bowen appeared before Justice Alva Beeman Monday morning on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. The boy pleaded not guilty and trial has been set for Monday.

Dishpan Laboratory Shows Hurricane Wind Patterns

Weather experts greet the 1957 crop of hurricanes, not with cheers, exactly, but with increasing knowledge.

Researchers have learned to whip up pint-sized hurricanes in laboratory dishpans. Heated at the pan's center, water rises and whirls like air in a tropical storm, allowing scientists to study cyclonic behavior on a miniature scale.

The weather bureau is even venturing to predict storm activity 30 days before it takes place.

Though mature hurricanes expend as much energy as several thousand atomic bombs exploding every second, they start life innocuously, the National Geographic Society says.

Thundershowers, spattering the calm, tropical reaches of the Atlantic, Caribbean Sea and Gulf of Mexico, often hint at low atmospheric pressure—ideal for the hurricane's birth. Cool outer air flows toward the hot low-pressure region. Earth's rotation gives these breezes a gentle, counter-clockwise spin, and trouble is on the way.

Soon growing to awesome adulthood, the hurricane begins to wander at the whim of existing weather conditions. Usually it starts drifting west and north, pushed by tropical easterlies.

The storm signals its approach with high leathery clouds that seem to radiate from a distant point. Dwellers along tropical coasts may take warning from lazy ocean swells with long gaps between crests.

As the hurricane gradually penetrates higher latitudes, its direction is apt to change. When prevailing westerlies shove it, it veers to a northeasterly course. It may accelerate to 50 miles an hour.

Variations in this behavior are frequent. Many full-grown hurricanes simply sit in their tracks and snarl for a day or two. Others meander aimlessly, sometimes circling as outside wind directions change.

The greatest destruction is caused by flooding. Extreme low pressure of the storm center lifts the ocean level some 2 to 3 feet. As the storm howls shoreward its rotating wind builds up more water ahead of it. If these storm surges sweep ashore during high tide, salt water devastation will multiply the effect of the storm's torrential rainfall.

Librarian Attends Meeting

By Clara Strange

Mrs. Kathryn Farley left Tuesday morning with other Ingham county librarians for Higgins lake to attend a library workshop conducted by the Michigan state library. Members of the group will return Saturday night.

Council Plans Work Program

Council proceedings were opened Thursday evening by receiving a group of residents from the 400 block of Washington street who asked the council to postpone any sidewalk consideration for their block at this time. They were told their part of the street had not even been considered for sidewalk for this year. Council members explained to them curb and gutter plans which they feel will help solve their drainage problem.

Plans for summer work in cleaning up the village were discussed at length. The general maintenance of the village was thought to be in need of a step-up. The suggestion of hiring college students on summer vacation to take care of a manpower shortage was thought to be a good one by the maintenance department.

Those present voted to ask Ayers, Lewis, Norris & May, consultant engineers of Ann Arbor, to prepare preliminary drawings of how the alley between Bellevue and the parking lot could be brought through.

Advertising for bids was voted for 4,000 feet replacement and new curb and gutter. A similar motion was made at the July 3 meeting to ask for bids for 14,500 square feet of new sidewalk and repairs. The council discussed their problem in finding contractors for bids on blacktopping needs.

W. A. Herzog and Schmit were appointed to fill vacancies on the board of appeals, each for a term of 3 years. Herzog was re-appointed and Schmit will fill the vacancy left by Robert Mitchell, who did not wish to serve again.

The tapping fee for connecting to the new sewer was set at $70. Since all residents whose land abuts upon the new sewer must connect within 90 days of the time the sewer was finished, the council has reduced this fee to $35 until October 1, since some may not have included this in their budget plans.

Evans Sales and Service of Lansing submitted the low bid for supplying the fence to surround the new sewage disposal plant at a cost of $2,175.55.

The council has approved the use of a minimum of 4 inch or larger cold tar pitch impregnated fibre sewer pipe for use on private property.

Crust Varies With Pie Tins

Every fresh fruit pie deserves a brown and well-baked crust, so the pan should be a material that will absorb heat readily and evenly, says Mrs. Annette Schaeffer, county home demonstration agent.

Aluminum with a special dull finish for absorbing heat is popular and satisfactory. The metal distributes the heat evenly and gives uniform browning. If the aluminum is brightly polished it will reflect heat so that food browns very lightly.

Glass pans absorb heat fast and hold it well. However, glass gives a rather heavily browned crust. If you do not want such heavy browning, Mrs. Schaeffer suggests using an oven temperature 25 degrees lower than for baking in metal pans.

"Tinware, when bright and new, also reflects the oven heat and so browns food lightly. With use this metal darkens and gives a more satisfactory browning. Enamelled ware, which is glass fused onto a steel base, is not generally recommended for baking pies because it, like glass, gives too much browning.

The name, United States of America, originated when it was written into the Declaration of Independence.

Tips Given on Spot Removal

"Pour on water" is a long familiar rule for taking fruit stains out of washable clothing or linens. But boiling water may damage some fabrics, cautions Mrs. Annette Schaeffer, county home demonstration agent.

According to U. S. Department of Agriculture research on fabric care, boiling water removes some special finishes on cotton and shrinks Dynel and some wools. It may also fade or affect the texture of silk.

Using cool water is safer, Mrs. Schaeffer points out. Cool water may be used on any fabric that won't water spot. If the stain is mostly on the surface, it may come off with a sponging with a damp cloth.

Another way is to lay the fabric face down on a pad of cleansing tissues or an absorbent cloth and force water through the stain with an eye dropper or small syringe. This method removes the stain without getting much of the surrounding fabric wet. It is the best way to treat a fresh stain on a wool garment.

But, if the fabric is washable, especially if it is going into the laundry anyway, it should be soaked overnight in cool water. The stain should be worked between the hands to soften the material and loosen the fruit particles. After the soaking the soap or detergent should be rubbed on and the fabric washed. A thorough rinsing should do the trick. If a trace of stain remains a mild bleach will finish the job. The bleach should be diluted in water. The sooner the stain is treated the easier it is to take out.

RAILS THAT NEVER RUST

Gleaming in the midday sun ... shimmering under the moon's pale glow ... afire with gold as the night headlights bear down ... rails that never rust.

Rolling wheels won't let them!

Some folks wonder whether it's important to go to Church every Sunday. Why not twice a month—or now and then—or at certain special seasons?

When the wheels stop rolling: RUST! When we relax in our quest of God or interrupt our pursuit of faith, then all the destructive influences in life begin to attack the soul.

The Church helps us keep open our spiritual right of way. And not only church-worship, but personal prayer, Bible reading and family worship rightfully deserve a place on our timetable.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church: They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Library Does Not Follow Advice of Punch's Letters

By N. J. Bunker

There are 3 things that no one but a fool lends—books, umbrellas and money. That's from Punch's letters to his son in 1812. The Ingham county library doesn't feel foolish about lending books. They're proud to do it, not only books but magazines, pamphlets and records as well. Come in tonight and register for the door prize. Everyone wins at the Ingham county library.

There are men in Michigan and Wisconsin who recall first hand the experiences of the 32nd division in New Guinea. They recall how they plunged into the jungle without enough training, proper equipment, or even medicines. They recall the long agony of the Buna campaign, ending with 1,000 dead Japanese and 2,817 American casualties. Some felt that staying alive was the real torture. The GI version of the 32nd in New Guinea is now available, complete with maps and pictures. Victory in Papua by Samuel Miller is the 7th volume published on the war in the Pacific by the Chief of Military History.

Captain McIntyre was known as the Bulldog Drummond of the Atlantic during World War II. His destroyers brought convoys through the wolf blockade for 4 years. He tells all about it in U-Boat Killer. Among other exploits, McIntyre's forces captured Germany's greatest U-boat commander and killed another submarine ace the same night.

While the Japanese navy won many key victories in the early months of the war, its effectiveness was hampered by top command decision. General Tojo believed that the allied assault against Japan would come from China. For this reason he held back important naval units when they were desperately needed elsewhere. Andreu d'Albas, author of Death of a Navy, is a Frenchman who has lived in Japan since the war. He tells us that Admiral Yamamoto opposed Japan's entry into the war because of our warmaking potential.

Fighter aircraft played a heroic role in that same war. William Green has provided us with pictures and histories of the most famous models in Famous Fighters of the Second World War. Included is the story of the first operational jet fighter, the ME-262, the Supermarine Spitfire and the P-51 Mustang. Early in the war the Japanese Zero was invincible, and at the end it was used for suicide attacks.

Morris Frank, a 20-year-old blind man, was determined that dogs could be trained to help the blind. He left Nashville for Switzerland, where he persuaded Dorothy Eustis to use her Swiss estate for the breeding and training of seeing eye dogs. That was in 1927. Morris Frank and his dog, Buddy, were the pioneers who set the patterns for dog guides for the blind. His story is told in First Lady of the Seeing Eye.

Gladys Aylward wanted to be a missionary in China, but no one would send her. Her lack of edu-education was a handicap. So she sent herself, travelling across Siberia with her Bible and not much else. In Small Woman by Alan Burgess we find that her work in the ravaged China made her a legend in her own life time.

Gladys now lives in England, as does F. Rainsford-Hannay, expert in another field. His book is Dry Stone Walling, the building of stone walls or fences without mortar. Dry stone walls are a feature of the limestone and granite regions of the British Isles, and seemed to have reached their peak of development there. The book is illustrated with pictures and diagrams of dry stone walls of many varieties. They stand for hundreds of years without repairs.

You don't have to be on a quiz program to know that the world is full of questions. They pop up by the dozen, just in the course of everyday living. That's why phones keep buzzing at the Ingham county library. Answering questions by telephone is one of the library's most valuable services. No matter what the question is, try the library first.

If You're Like Me

You take for granted the fact that your bank is a pretty solid, safe institution.

And it is. The reasons why it is are interesting.

In the first place "banking is a public business, the regulation of which is highly necessary."

The Michigan constitution of 1908 provides in part: "No general law providing for the incorporation of trust companies or corporations for banking purposes, or regulating the business thereof, shall be adopted, amended or repealed except by a vote of 2/3 of the members elected to each house of the legislature."

So it's plain that the early framers of our constitution believed banking was a pretty important public business and should be subject to reasonable regulation.

Consequently, in Michigan, banking is governed by the provisions of the Financial Institutions Act which created a state banking department. This department has jurisdiction over and execution of the laws relating to banks. This department is run by a commissioner who controls it and promulgates various administrative rules and regulations.

These are protective to you. For example, every bank must make various reports to the commissioner but not less than 3 during each calendar year.

In turn the commissioner or his agent is required to examine without prior notice one or more times in each year the condition and affairs of each financial institution.

I feel a little safer just knowing these things are so.

Insurance Makes It 'Fun' to Be Sick

By ELMER WHITE
Michigan Press Association

It was easier to enjoy poor health until the "system" that paid the bills got sick itself.

The system got its start as a prepaid medical insurance plan to help those who needed the services pay doctor and hospital bills.

Logically, the doctors and hospitals then would be paid, the sick would be made well again and the economy of the whole operation would remain sound.

In recent years, the rates of Blue Cross and Blue Shield hospitalization policies have climbed—to pay for "overuses," and some abuses of the system. Even the financial experts are puzzled now.

The latest rate increases—averaging 12%—came July 5 and touched off another series of investigations.

At present, the University of Michigan, a special commission named by Gov. Williams, a legislative committee and the Michigan State Medical Society are investigating.

"In order to maintain solvency of the hospital plan and to assure sufficient income to provide for increased hospital costs . . ."

He added that the "rates proposed are commensurate with the benefits provided by the medical plan."

Evidence of abuse by patients and by doctors and hospitals has been developed by a legislative committee which reported last year, then threw up its hands.

Doctors and hospitals complained that patients were misusing the services, making needless demands on doctors and hospitals.

Patients grumbled that they received "the works"—X-rays, special care and diets for relatively minor ills—after officials determined they were covered by Blue Cross and Blue Shield policies.

Navarre said that the number of Blue Cross members going to the hospital increased from 146 per each 1,000 members to 151 since 1956.

Hospital care costs rose from $25.96 in 1956 to $28.60. As a result, Blue Cross paid out $1,800,000 more than it received in the first 5 months of 1957.

Navarre said that Blue Cross and Blue Shield "are caught in the price spiral like other commodities which are sought and provided through social and economic instrumentalities."

The system, he said, is starting an experiment to apply insurance to out-patient care—apparently to reduce the number and extent of the abuses caused by patients going to hospitals for expensive treatment.

The Michigan Medical Society, whose members have a direct stake in the system, is launching the latest investigation. The Michigan Health Council, a voluntary health education organization, is conducting the survey.

It is designed "to find out what people want from Blue Cross and what it is expected to do," said one spokesman.

The society will pay more than $30,000 for the survey, using its own resources for a direct-mail poll of thousands of citizens.

The Richard Onderslows research organization in Detroit has been engaged to make a person-to-person interview survey.

The findings will be interesting, as they have been in the past. But the society and others feel that they will be of more than academic interest this time.

Citizens can be expected to want more and more expensive services, more elaborate hospital care for less money. Doctors and hospital administrators—human though scientific—are expected to want what the patients want, but can be expected to be fare apart on the money phase.

Hospital and medical care are expensive, but all sides are eager to find a practical solution.

Reports will be made in the fall to the society which in turn promises to make public the findings.

Then Michigan will have a clearer idea how much it costs to be sick, who benefits most and how much.

And perhaps then there will be some indications regarding the logical paths to follow if the state's citizens are to receive proper medical care at a cost they can afford and at a price which permits hospitals and doctors to function economically.

In the meantime, thousands of mail survey blanks and hundreds of face-to-face interviews will supply millions of answers which must be tabulated by electronic business machines.

This greatest research undertaking yet in the field of medical service will provide a startling point at least in the search for a solution to the problem.

Don't Get Hooked On That Fishing Trip

During May, the average conservation law violator in Michigan paid slightly more than $18 in fines and court costs.

In most cases, he was arrested because he failed to observe a fishing law—particularly fishing license requirements.

Conservation officers made 398 arrests during May and 388 of these resulted in convictions.

Four defendants were found not guilty, 4 cases were dismissed and 2 are incomplete.

The 388 persons convicted paid a total of $3,941 in fines, plus $2,000 in court costs in justice courts throughout the state. Jail sentences totaled 16 days and 2 persons were placed on probation.

Fish law violations accounted for 330 of the arrests, including 179 persons apprehended for fishing without a license.

Firearm law violations were represented by 34 arrests; 9 persons were charged with violation of game laws; and 25 miscellaneous arrests were recorded.

The heavy onion production areas of New York state where he and Jack Rose, secretary of the National Onion Association, have had meetings to discuss problems pertinent to their own area and to the industry as a whole, Rose is still in New York state on this same business.

When asked what the prospects for a good onion year are, Baldwin replied that on a national scale the prospects are good. Many of the freakishly heavy rains missed the heaviest production areas, he said. It is too early to say whether or not they will be as good as last year, however, since last year's maturity period, which is just ahead of this date, had nearly perfect conditions.

Onion Growers Promote Bill

Favorable action by the house agriculture sub-committee on a legislative bill designed to eliminate future trading in onions was reported by them Thursday when they sent the bill to the full committee, says Veril Baldwin, president of National Onion Association.

Baldwin is encouraged by this action since it follows similar recommendations by the senate agriculture sub-committee reporting the bill to the full committee last Friday. Further action can be expected in the immediate future.

"This legislation has been vigorously sponsored by the National Onion Association for the past 2 years, since the overwhelming majority of men in the onion industry and members of the National Onion Association have been firmly convinced that future trading in onions is detrimental to all."

Baldwin has just returned from

Eaton County 4-H Fair Books Entertainment, Too

Eaton county 4-H fair will open with one of the biggest and best programs ever staged for a 5-day run beginning August 27, according to Sidney Phillips, fair manager.

The annual event will feature harness racing, mule, horse and tractor pulling contests, nightly grandstand acts, auto daredevil shows and the midway will share the billing with the 4-H activities.

For 26 years Eaton county has kept its fair strictly on an agricultural basis, displaying the rewards of the soil. To round out its appeal, though, it has many entertaining events in the 5-day program, according to Phillips.

An estimated 1,100 or more Eaton county 4-H members are scheduled to exhibit at the fair this year, according to Jerry Sommer, county club agent. Judging of 4-H livestock and summer projects will be Tuesday and Wednesday, he said.

Wednesday is children's day and thousands of youngsters will

Robert—Not Roger

It is Robert Shepard, not Roger L. Shepard, who is being held in the county jail on a charge of breaking and entering in the nighttime. The name of Roger Shepard was erroneously inserted in the Dansville tavern break-in story of last week's Ingham County News. Roger Shepard lives in Mason. Robert Shepard lives in Dansville.

A Good Man Points the Way

As a civil engineer Edmund Calkins staked out highways and property lines. He was trained to show the way.

After his death he still shows the way. He points to the way to make a portion of his estate work for his neighbors. Under terms of his will, $1,000 will go to the Mason General hospital and another $1,000 to the Methodist church.

Other people have left money to Mason churches. Fifteen years ago a Mason woman left about $10,000 for the benefit of the community. There was no organization set up at that time to be concerned with community betterment and so the money eventually went to churches, which was probably a good solution.

Now there is an organization established for community betterment, for the betterment of all who live in the community or might happen to pass through. That organization is the Mason General hospital. Ed Calkins is the first person to leave a sizable sum in his will for the hospital; or the first person who having made such provision has died and his generosity and thoughtfulness have come to light.

Even if every penny of the hospital pledges is paid, money will always be needed to maintain the hospital. Operation of the hospital and its necessary expansion is going to cost money. Ed Calkins realized that and did something about it, did something about it even before the community pledged money for the hospital.

There's no better way for man or woman to dispose of property. Such an act keeps memory green for many years. Such an act provides long-lasting benefits.

During the hospital campaign many people spoke of their intentions to revise their wills to provide money for the hospital. Those intentions should be kept alive, perhaps even promoted by the hospital board or by a trust set up to handle benefactions for the board.

Ed Calkins has pointed the way for people who want to do something for the good of all with the money they can't take with them. He has also pointed to the need for an organization established to encourage such giving and to make sure that such giving is handled in the manner the benefactor desires.

Fifty-two Weeks for Safety

Happenings last year and again this year have emphasized the need for 52 farm safety weeks every year.

According to the proclamation, this is farm safety week.

Last year during the week before the farm safety proclamation took effect, Ray DeCamp of Aurelius was fatally injured in a farm tractor accident.

Last week Lowell Jones of Leslie lost his life in a tractor accident, and Robert Bohnet of Webberville was crippled up for the summer.

The most dangerous occupation in the world today is not mining, or flying jets, or riding broncos. The most dangerous occupation is mechanical farming.

Farming is dangerous 52 weeks of the year, and every farmer should personally proclaim every week as farm safety week.

Our Slip Is Showing

Our financial slip is dragging. It's become so noticeable that Canadians are doing something about it. They are discounting United States money. And that's because a U. S. dollar isn't worth as much as a Canadian dollar. Canadians discount U. S. money 5%. That's the price of inflation.

Inflation within a country can be painless for awhile. It hurts those with fixed incomes, all right. But a working man, if he's working, can manage to stay on the crest of inflated prices if his income reflects inflated wages.

Money exchange discounts are nothing new to us. For many years we boasted of the premium Canadians were willing to pay for U. S. dollars. Then inflation began its cancerous creep. For awhile exchange was even.

And now, the U. S. is paying the penalty of inflated prices by paying a premium on Canadian purchases. Actually, the Canadian situation is only a barometer of our financial condition. We're using the same discounted money whether or not we spend it in Canada. The fact is, U. S. money is not worth what it used to be.

It's up to us to hitch up our own underskirts. Canada won't do it for us. Until we can swing back into a deflationary path, our money will continue to buy less. Our slip is showing and so far it doesn't look as though enough people have enough pride to alter the hemline or pin up the strap.

Drivers Would Cooperate

Few people can disagree over the city council's directive that limited parking signs be erected on 3 sides of the courthouse. Acting on a recommendation of the city police committee, the council concurred that there is plenty of nearby parking for those who wish to leave their cars in the business district for several hours at a time.

The directive was aimed primarily at retail employers and employees and county employees. Business people who have the most to gain by keeping their cars out of the business district, certainly can't complain about the council's decision.

Yet, the directive was also aimed at the county employees and officials who frequent the courthouse on business. While probably they, too, can see the logic in the decision, few of them appreciated the way the council used to acquaint them with the new ruling.

They had no knowledge of any parking problem caused by their cars. Had they known, it's quite possible they would have remedied the situation themselves.

It might have been better had the committee approached county employees and, if there was merit in the new ruling, sought their cooperation. County employees have had free use of perimeter parking areas for years. They deserved more consideration than they received.

True objectivity in any writing or speaking is difficult. Opinions, beliefs and convictions show through. That show through adds to the interest.

Whether it's a teacher, preacher or political orator, if the message is entirely objective most of the audience is thinking about something else and if they get the opportunity they'll soon be somewhere else.

It's the speaker with a cause, with a belief in a cause, which holds the crowd, even when the hearers are skeptical. Few there were, according to historians, who believed in Bryan's free silver, but they packed the halls to hear Bryan who did so believe.

Few there were who accepted the radio orations of Father Coughlin 25 years ago, but they liked to hear him talk. He delivered no objective messages.

There are some people who complain because the editorials contain opinions.

That's the reason for any editorial page. That's the only excuse there is for producing such a page. It is and should be a page of opinion.

There are some readers with good memories who remark that the editorial opinion expressed in 1957 is in contrast to an opinion expressed in 1955 or 1950 or even back in 1937. Opinions should be changed.

Opinions are based on observations, information and experience. Those are constantly changing. Observations change because of viewpoints. What looks good from some angle looks entirely different from another.

Opinions must be based upon information and perhaps the first time the opinion was expressed the information was not complete or it was inaccurate.

Experience and age are 2 other considerations when opinion is expressed. What appears to be sound logic to a youth of 20 is rejected by a man of 40 or 60 who has had more experience.

Yes, opinions and beliefs should change, just as the information upon which they were based changes.

There is a distinction between opinions, beliefs and convictions. There are people who go through life without convictions, some without even strong opinions or beliefs. If you have a conviction, cling to it as something different than an opinion or a belief, cling to it until it is proved beyond all doubt to be wrong.

Opinions should change, beliefs can change, convictions ought to be lived by.

Opinions differ widely upon atomic fallout. Some scientists predict that bomb tests have already caused enough radiation so that 3 generations from now humans will scarcely be able to recognize their offspring. Some may not have to wait that long.

Then a speaker at a gathering of scientists at Michigan State a few days ago declared there is not as much danger from atomic fallout as there is from dandruff fallout. His opinion is probably based upon a different viewpoint.

Let's wait for some scientist with a conviction instead of an opinion or belief.

Cargill Report

Crop Yields May Reach 1951 Lows

Cargill Incorporated of Minneapolis gathers crop reports from throughout the nation and makes them available to newspapers.

Total crop output this year now seems likely to be the smallest since 1951, according to the July 10 U. S. crop production report. Some improvement in prospects is possible if favorable conditions prevail for growth, maturity and harvest, but the spring reverses have lowered the chances of matching last year's record high level of per acre yields.

Prospects for corn, cotton, soybeans and other crops were retarded or reduced by late planting and difficulties in establishing good stands. Rain-soaked fields also caused serious delays in combining ripening fall grains in the southern and central plains and sharply reduced harvested yields and quality below early estimates. The spring of 1957 has shown how decisive wet weather can be in delaying field work.

The total acreage of 59 crops planted or grown in 1957, estimated at 333 million acres, is at most 13 million acres under 1956 and the lowest in nearly 40 years. Reduction in acreage for harvest of a number of main crops such as corn, wheat, cotton, flaxseed, rice and tobacco have been more than offset by increases in sorghums, barley, oats and soybeans.

The production index for all crops based on July 1 prospects is 99% of the 1917-19 base period.

Hot days, warm nights, abundant sunshine, and mostly ample moisture throughout the eastern two-thirds of the country, greatly stimulated growth and development of corn. Exceptions are in the middle and north Atlantic coastal plains where dry soils retarded growth.

Corn varies widely in height as some stands were established early and other plantings and replantings continued until late June and early July. The crop is late in most of the southern Great Plains and in the middle and lower Mississippi and lower Ohio valleys.

Cultivation has been active in most areas except where further delayed by wet fields or the pressure of harvesting small grains and making hay. Reports of weedy and grassy fields are general where frequent rains prevented outgrowth in late May and early June. Over 75% of the crop has been "hired" in Iowa and about 60% in Kansas.

Prospective production of nearly 3 billion bushels of corn in 1957 was forecast in the July report—the lowest production since 1951. The sharp decline is mainly attributed to the acreage reserve program, wet fields at normal planting dates, and a trend toward lower acreage in most sections outside the corn belt.

The yield per harvested acre in the corn belt is expected to run well below the excellent yield last year in all states except Iowa, South Dakota, Nebraska, and Kansas where drought curtailed the 1956 crop.

A winter wheat crop of 715 million bushels is in prospect for 1957, according to the July forecast, nearly 21 million bushels under the June estimate. Significant decreases from last month occurred in Illinois, Oklahoma, Kansas, Indiana and Missouri. Improved yield prospects in most northern and western states were insufficient to offset the losses in the southern and central areas.

Harvesting made unusually slow progress in June as rains kept combines out of ripened fields while yields were lowered by lodging, shattering and flooding, with accompanying losses in quality.

Combining of a generally disappointing crop has been in full swing in recent weeks over broad areas of the southwestern and central states as a result of drying weather and the absence of widespread rains. The harvest

The Tree Shed Real Tears

By JIM BROWN

The blade from a rotary mower took a slice out of the trunk of our giant spruce tree this week and wasn't discovered until little Amy rushed into the house with the news. In a tone that might have heralded the arrival of the British at old North church, she cried that the tree had been cut and was crying.

We all rushed out to see the crying tree and there it was—a stream of tearful sap was running out of the gash. We dabbed it with orange paint and someone slapped a Band-Aid on it. The tree hasn't whimpered since.

Several years ago, a farmer brought a singing mouse into the News and thus began a series of artistic climbs which finally brought the mouse to a position very near the Met. The singing mouse was whisked to Michigan State university where scientists attempted to perfect a strain of mice that would show appreciation of and be able to warble such ditties as Young Lover, Oklahoma! and Hound Dog.

The mouse, they reasoned, was much more prolific than the canary and because there are so many mice about us, it would be pleasant to hear music from every baseboard, from every milking parlor and from every meat counter in this land of ours.

Reporters came to interview her. Radio commentators crawled on hands and knees to capture her sweet voice on tape recorders. Sopranos and basses sought to imitate her range, tone and the catchy way she beat out the music.

Yet just when science had success within its grasp, the little singing mouse jumped out of its cage and headed for the first mouse hole. They said she was whistling Heartbreak as she scampered down the hall.

Freak mice just come naturally to us, I guess. Lawton and Max Bement at Bement Feed & Supply found a brown and white spotted mouse in a load of corn Friday. The corn had been trucked in by Charles Warren. The mouse was tiny. It weighed a shade under half an ounce and its tail was longer than its body. The little creature was dead on arrival.

Facing of Safety Facts Prevents Farm Accidents

This week, July 21-28, is national farm safety week.

It's time for every farm family to make a renewed effort to prevent accidents.

Perhaps this farm safety quiz will give your family an opportunity to talk over some ways to reduce farm and farm home accidents.

The quiz was prepared by Richard Pfister, extension farm safety specialist with the department of agricultural engineering at Michigan State university.

1. The age group that contributes much more than its share of fatal farm accidents is: (a) under 14 (b) 15-29 (c) 45-49.

Ans. Children under 14 years of age, although performing a very small portion of the tractor work, account for almost twice as many fatal tractor accidents as men in the age group, 30-45.

2. When you double your speed on a farm tractor, the ease with which your tractor can tip sideways: (a) is doubled (b) is tripled (c) is quadrupled?

Ans. As a tractor's speed is increased from 3 to 6 miles per hour, the tipping hazard is 4 times as great.

Wheat harvest is underway in the earlier areas of Oregon and Washington with favorable yields and quality reported. Most of the winter wheat has fully headed in Montana.

Warmer and more favorable weather conditions favored the growth of soybeans in recent weeks but the main crop is still below normal in stage of development due to late planting. Plunging continued during early July in portions of Arkansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Illinois and in some adjoining areas—considerably later than average.

The first forecast of 1957 soybean production will be made as of August 1. Soybeans planted alone for all purposes this year were estimated at 22.6 million acres with about 21.6 million acres to be harvested for beans. In the main soybean belt increases in acreage are indicated for most states east of the Mississippi river.

Sharp decreases from last year are reported in Missouri, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas.

Based on July 1 prospects the 1957 crop is expected to total 1,371 million bushels or 19% above last year's short crop. Good weather for oats in the areas with the most acreage is largely responsible for the promising production prospects.

The indicated average yield of 38.4 bushels per acre is slightly above the previous record in 1955 and about 4 bushels above average. Most sections of the west, north central group of states, where heat and drought struck last year, are expecting good yields.

The 42.5 million acres of both fall and spring seedings is the smallest seeded acreage since 1952. Largest reductions in seedings from last year were in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, South Dakota, Missouri and Nebraska where planted acreage was generally below March intentions.

Harvesting of oats is actively underway in the central corn belt areas with yields and quality far below earlier estimates in many eastern and southern sections. Losses from lodging have been locally heavy while rust and other diseases have resulted in much light weight grain.

Small grains are making rapid progress in the upper midwest but high temperatures during the past week have forced maturity of oats on drouthy soils where stands are heavy.

hour, the tipping hazard is 4 times as great.

Turkey Glut May Force Prices Down

By CARL COLLIN

For the second year in a row farmers have record-size turkey flocks. Prices probably will reflect this bumper crop. The only relief in sight at the moment is the possibility that poul hatcheries this month and next could turn out to be less than half the July-August output last year.

Last year farmers averaged the lowest prices in October-December in 15 years. Prices would have gone down more if USDA hadn't bought 28 million pounds of oven-ready turks for distribution under the school lunch program.

Turkey stocks in storage June 30 totaled 91 million pounds, 80% greater than average. Frozen poultry in storage amounted to 191 million pounds, 44% above average for the date. The turkey industry is going to have a big selling job to do to move birds if the producers aren't to be in trouble again this year.

The worst spring and summer drought on record threatens the cranberry crop in southeastern Massachusetts. The state normally grows over half the nation's cranberries; last year the Bay state harvested 455 thousand barrels. Cranberries are produced in bogs, and in Massachusetts many of these areas are drying up. Shortage of irrigation water is also hurting prospects.

English scientists believe they can produce as many as 10 blue ribbon calves a year from a single prize dam. The procedure involves an ovum transfer somewhat akin to artificial insemination. A top grade cow could be responsible for producing many calves through the transplanting of impregnated ova into lesser quality cows, less desirable breed, or sterile cows. The calves would have the characteristics of the real mother and none of the poorer qualities of the hostess mother.

Since fertile female eggs can be stored under refrigeration, scientists suggest it's possible in the future for farmers to upgrade their herds without owning either sire or dam. Experiments so far have been carried on with sheep because they're cheaper to buy and maintain, but scientists feel they can do the same thing with cattle.

A recent USDA report showed dairy cows were producing a daily average of 21.73 lb of milk early this month, or 4% more than a year ago, and 6.1% more than the average for the last 10 years. Best producers are in California where the daily average is 27.9 lb; Wisconsin was next with 27.2 lb, New York and Michigan tied for third with a 26.4 average. Lowest averages were in the south and southwest where they were as low as 8.5 lb.

The number of cattle and calves on feed in 13 major feeding states July 1 was up 8% from a year ago. In the 9 corn belt states the numbers were up 7%.

Secretary Benson recommended to congress that corn be supported at lower prices in the future and that acreage allotments be dropped. The secretary would like the authority to set the support prices somewhere between zero and 90% of parity, but would settle for a minimum of 60%. It would be a surprise if congress gave him the zero minimum, but the 60% level may have a chance.

Under present law, corn, like other basic crops, must be supported at between 75 and 90% of parity, depending upon supplies and need.

Farm officials say the administration's proposal to lower supports for corn and other feed grains would reduce feed costs to dairymen and this would increase production of dairy products. Lower dairy price supports would then have to follow to discourage boosting milk output.

The corn-bog ratio continues to climb, indicating more profitable hog raising conditions. In Chicago for the week ending July 13 the ratio was 15.4 to 1 compared with 14.9 the previous week and 10.4 the same week one year ago. It's this consistently good feed ratio that makes folks figure USDA's forecast for only a 3% increase in the number of fall pigs is a bit conservative.

MISCELLANY... There are only 4.9 million farms in the U. S., as compared with 6.8 million in 1935... Farm real estate taxes have nearly tripled in the past 20 years, but during the same period, farm production expenses went from $3.6 billion to $5.6 billion (1936-1956)... Farm income the first half of 1957 gained 2.5% over a year ago... Planted acreage this year in 59 principal crops is 3% below last year, down 13 million acres to a total of 333 million, the smallest total crop acreage in almost 40 years.

However, farmers may harvest one million more acres than in 1956. Abandonment after planting may be smaller... Import controls have been imposed by Canada against U. S. turkey and stewing chickens.

New Tricks Aid Farmers Who Have 'Down' Wheat

Lodged wheat is making it difficult for Ingham farmers to do a good clean job of combining, reports Ingham County Agricultural Agent M. H. Avery. But, he says, there are a number of things a farmer can do to keep losses of grain at the combine to a minimum.

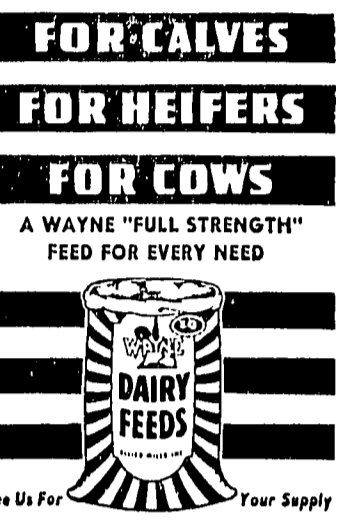

According to Robert White, extension agricultural engineer at Michigan State university, the greatest losses occur at the cutter-bar. They can run as high as several bushels per acre in lodged grain.

White recommends adjusting the reel to move grain onto the platform in a uniform manner. Strips of canvas attached to each reel slat will help by wiping grain across the cutter-bar. He points out that special equipment such as reels and guards, designed for lodged grain, will also prove helpful.

Another trouble spot, according to White, is overloading by driving too fast or setting the cutter-bar too low.

"Be particularly careful about speed when working in wheat that is down," he said. "Give your machine plenty of time to clear itself of excess straw."

It may also be a good idea to check yourself on how high your losses are running, Avery said. He points out that every 18 to 20 kernels of wheat lost per square foot adds up to a bushel of wheat per acre. Average losses run from 1% to 4% of the crop.

Hard Work, Too!

It Isn't All Fun for Max in Denmark

Editor's Note: Max Benn of Okemos is writing a series of articles for the Ingham County News about his experiences as an international farm youth exchange representative in Denmark. He's spending the summer working on a Jutland farm.

Three days of hard physical labor after sitting around for several weeks has almost got me down! The first 2 days I had sugar beets and helped place beams in the ceiling of the new barn my host family is building. We also put up loose hay with pitchforks. Today is when I began wondering if the end of the day would ever come. I shoveled cement from halfway up the barn wall into wheelbarrows on the left floor. As soon as I had one wheelbarrow full they would have another one though. Thank goodness they stopped for morning and afternoon coffee. It feels good, though to get back to work.

The Ostergaard farm, where I am living now, is near Aalborg, Denmark, in the northern part of the Jutland peninsula. I hope to write some letters about the family and the farm after I have been here awhile.

A few weeks ago I attended the largest Fourth of July celebration of my life. The remarkable thing is that it was several thousand miles from the United States.

The Independence day of the United States is observed annually at the Rebild national park here in Denmark. It seemed unbelievable at first that several thousand Danes would come to observe our freedom until I found out a little more about the background of the occasion.

It started in 1912 when some Danish Americans bought a scenic area of heather and hills in northern Jutland and turned the deed over to the Danish government for a park. The thought was to have a place that the Danes and Danish Americans could celebrate the Fourth. King Christian X started it that year and it has now become a Danish tradition.

As I sat high on a hill above the speaker's stand listening to Prime Minister Hansen of Denmark talk, I couldn't help but wonder how many other Americans were there. I think it is safe to say that only a few were citizens of the United States and probably most of the audience had never been far out of Denmark.

Mr. Hansen praised us as the strongest nation in the world, but also charged us with the responsibility of being the leader of the free world. I never realized what a responsibility this was until I came to this small land where these people know they can never be a world power. They must rely to a certain extent on our leadership. Mr. Hansen said we would never fall as the world's leader because we respect the rights of the individual. It made me resolve to do my small part in seeing that the same statement can be made every year in the future.

There was one big difference between this celebration and the ones at home. I only heard one very weak fire cracker during the whole program.

We walked back to the car after finding our own state flags in the state flag row and started out to meet our first host family.

Well, I can't resist the temptation to go to bed any longer. I'll write again later about my host family.

MSU Boasts Giant Plant Exhibit

New additions to the collection of trees, shrubs and vines on the Michigan State University campus totaled 456 during 1955-57. The collection now includes 2,810 different species, one of the largest plantings of its kind in the northern United States. Thousands of specimens can be seen in a 2-hour walk.

Some of the additions were placed in newly established geographic collections along the banks adjacent to the new library. In these groupings, soil and drainage conditions are constructed to simulate various areas in the United States, such as the great plains, sand dunes, and southern mountain regions.

Most notable of the new plantings in these areas are the native acacias and rhododendrons in the Southern Appalachian grouping," says Milton Baron, assistant campus landscape architect.

When the geographic plantings are completed, students and visitors will be able to see various plants, grasses and shrubs of areas throughout the country, growing in a sample of their natural terrain.

Thirty-four rare forms were added to the campus collection of native Canadian hemlock. Most of these were placed in the campus maintenance nursery to facilitate study and growth.

"We attempt to secure plants suitable for this part of Michigan as soon as they are available," Baron said. "They are then incorporated into the campus landscape to learn their characteristics, hardness and seasonal colors in this climate."

At least one specimen of each plant is labeled, either with a metal tag on the plant or a plastic sign nearby, to assist those interested in observing plantings throughout the year.

In addition to acting as an outdoor laboratory for students in botany, forestry and other courses, the labeled plantings are helpful to do-it-yourself amateur landscapers. The labeled collection of ornamental evergreens, scotch of the University auditorium and the collections of flowering cherry, crab and magnolia trees are among the largest in Michigan and each year act as a guide for many students and visitors who are seeking a tree or shrub for a particular need or use.

State Fair Boosts Cash For Livestock Exhibitors

Livestock exhibitors will fare much better at this year's Michigan State Fair to be held August 30 through September 8 at Detroit.

Elton McLellan, director of agricultural exhibits, reports that the first time premium money will average $30 per steer shown as compared to $20 in the past and that there will be a $50 instead of a $30 maximum on first place steers. In addition there will be the usual $50 for grand champion and $25 for reserve grand champion.

All told, a record $21,000 will be offered in the beef and dual cattle department, $1,000 for each breed in open competition with additional prizes offered by the national breed associations.

The dairy cattle department will offer $20,100, an amount equaled by few states.

Premiums in the horse department have been increased to $14,500, an all-time high.

The Sheep Department is offering a record $14,951 in premiums. Swine Department premiums have been increased by approx-

He received his bachelor of arts degree from Kalamazoo college and his master of arts and doctor degree from the University of Michigan. He also studied at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Hayne served on the MSU staff since 1937, except for 2 years spent in the navy during World War II.

MSU Sets Up Muck Program

Possible answers to muck crop production problems are on tap for Ingham county growers at a muck crops field day, Tuesday, July 30.

The field day will feature research plots at the Michigan State University muck experimental farm near Bath, according to M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent.

More than 250 plots at the muck farm are being used to test the effects of residual fertilizer on onions. All of the plots received a small amount of starter fertilizer (100 pounds per acre) at the time of planting and the differences in growth will show the various effects of residual fertilizer. The amount of residual fertilizer is indicated by the soil test.

Other research plots will show the new varieties of onions, potatoes, soybeans, field corn, wheat, head lettuce, carrots and celery that are being developed by MSU plant breeders to better fit muck soil growing conditions.

Testing of various herbicides, use of liquid fertilizers and studies of fertility will be explained by MSU research and extension staff members as visitors tour the plots.

A special noon program has been arranged with Roscoe Praser, muck crops specialist of Purdue university, as the main speaker.

Tours of the plots will begin at 9:30 a. m. Bath Methodist church women will serve a noon lunch.

Storing Wheat May Prove Profitable

Michigan farmers may gain by storing wheat for a limited time after harvest but whenever it is possible to realize the equivalent of the support price, the wheat should be moved.

This is the report made by Dale Hathaway, farm economist at Michigan State University.

For most eligible farmers, it should prove profitable to put their wheat under loan, Hathaway said.

Hathaway partially based his report on improved wheat crop prospects in the great plains area as a result of rain. The winter wheat crop now promises to approach that of last year, despite nearly a one-fifth reduction in planted acreage due to drought and the soil bank program. As a result, this year's crop will be more than enough to provide for normal domestic use and commercial exports. Therefore, the support program will again be an important factor in the market.

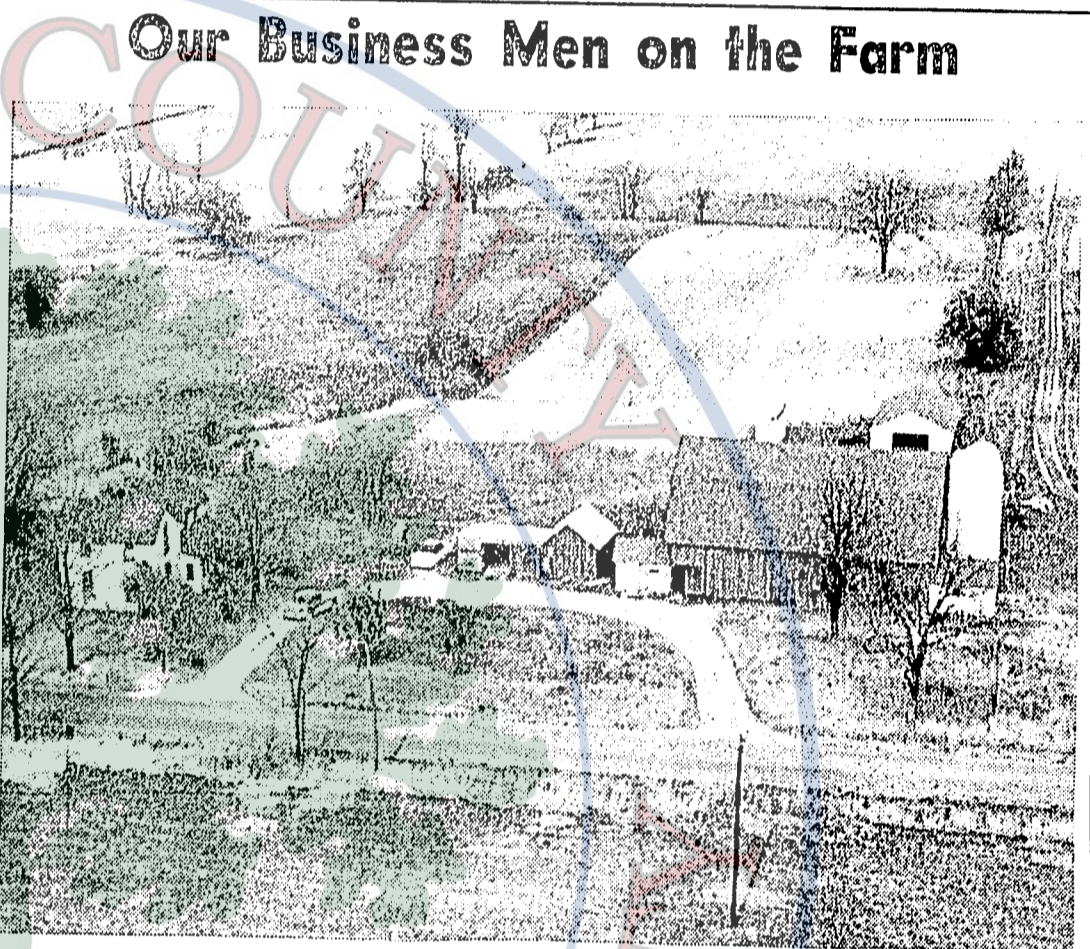

Hathaway said that in previous years when this has been the case, the market price has been substantially below the support price during and immediately after harvest. Thus, it has paid many farmers to store wheat, at least for a few months, until the market price approaches the support level at the farm.

The current uncertainty about the acreage reserve part of the soil bank and the announced lower support price for 1958 wheat crop also figure in Hathaway's report. Both of these suggest that wheat prices will probably be lower for the 1958 crop, he declared.

Nuclear Bomb Explosions Do Not Affect Weather

Nuclear bomb explosions are not responsible for recent bad weather, and fallout from tests at the present rate is not a serious danger, a noted nuclear scientist reported at Michigan State university.

Scientists "are not even in the same ballpark" when it comes to matching nature in energy production, said Dr. Ralph T. Overman, chairman of the special training division of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies.

In reference to the so-called "clean bomb," Dr. Overman said the fallout is due not to hydrogen type material but to surrounding materials such as the casing or the bomb tower.

Planting muskmelons and cucumbers near each other will not produce a cucumber-flavored muskmelon.

Dr. Overman said atomic tests could continue at the present rate until the year 2011 and the increased hazard still would be "insignificant."

The average person, the scientist explained, has been exposed to about 4 roentgens of natural radiation by the time he is 30 years old and receives about 3 additional roentgens from such things as dental and medical X-rays.

Additional radiation from all bombs exploded so far amounts to only one-tenth of a roentgen, according to Dr. Overman, compared with the 250 roentgens from the atomic bombing of Nagasaki, Japan, in August, 1945.

They're Coming Back

Northern Lights Will Shine Again

Persons who missed the brilliant display of Northern Lights visible in Michigan and many other parts of the country on the night of June 30, are likely to have another chance to see them during the rest of the year, according to Dr. James Stokley, associate professor at Michigan State University.

Displays of these lights, known to scientists as the aurora, have long been known to be associated with activity on the sun, and this varies over a cycle of about 11 years, he pointed out. At present solar activity is at a maximum, so many more auroral displays are likely. As one feature of an active sun, there are many sunspots, which are vast whirlwinds in the gaseous solar surface, often many times as big as the earth, he said.

"The cause of the aurora is not fully understood," stated Dr. Stokley, "but it is believed that streams of electrified atomic particles are shot at us from the sun, particularly from the spots. Some enter our atmosphere. As they hit atoms of oxygen and nitrogen at heights of 65 miles or more, they cause these gases to glow."

Such particles are affected by the magnetic field of the earth; hence aurorae are most frequent in the general region of the magnetic poles, both north and south, he said.

In the northern hemisphere they occur most often above a line that runs along the north coast of Alaska, across the Yukon and the Northwest Territories of Canada, Hudson Bay and Labrador. Then the line goes over the North Atlantic, south of Greenland and Iceland. It skirts the north tip of Scandinavia and then goes over the Arctic ocean just north of Europe and Siberia. Along this line, he said, the aurora is visible nearly every clear night.

Residents of Michigan and other northern states have considerably more opportunity to see auroral displays than people at similar latitudes in Europe, who are much further from this line. Southern Michigan has 10 times as many aurorae as northern Florida, where the frequency is about the same as in southern France, Dr. Stokley pointed out. Along the northern shore of Lake Superior they occur about 3 times as often as in southern Michigan, at about the same rate as in northern Scotland, he noted.

Aurorae have many different forms. A common one, he explained, is a pale green arch, low in the northern sky. This is really a sheet of glowing gases, about 65 miles high, which curves with the earth's surface. Seen on edge from a more southerly point, it has the appearance of an arch. Sometimes such arches climb higher into the sky, and they may seem to pulsate. Another form is that of streamers, like searchlight beams, or of luminous curtains, which may appear to wave as if in the wind.

Many different colors have been observed in the aurora, but greenish-yellow predominates, said Dr. Stokley. Reds, blues and violets may also occur.

One of the major areas of study of the International Geophysical Year, now engaging the attention of thousands of scientists in many parts of the world, is concerned with the aurora and similar effects, he added. When fully analyzed, these observations, from both Arctic and Antarctic observing posts, will doubtless give the answers to many puzzles now presented by the aurora, he believes. It was mainly because these effects are now at maximum, along with solar activity, he said, that the period from July 1, 1957 to December 31, 1958, was chosen for the Geophysical Year.

Dr. Stokley teaches science writing in the MSU school of journalism. He is the author of several books, on astronomy, electronics and atomic energy, and he was formerly director of the Fels Planetarium in Philadelphia.

MR. AND MRS. DANIEL PIERCE and their 3 sons live on the mystery farm pictured in last week's issue of the Ingham County News. The Pierce farm is located at 6287 Tucker road on the western edge of Ingham county near Eaton Rapids. This farm consists of 80 acres and is planted mainly in oats, wheat and corn. The Pierce family has lived on this farm for the last 8 years. They bought it from Tom McClur. It was originally the Tucker farm, the farm for which the road is named. According to the rules of the contest the person to correctly identify the mystery farm wins 2 subscriptions to the News. This week's winner was Roy Henry Buckingham, 6287 Barnes road, Eaton Rapids, nephew of Pierce. A new mystery farm is pictured each week giving the reader an opportunity to test his knowledge of the surrounding countryside.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read Matthew 25:31-40.
As he thinketh in his heart, so is he. (Proverbs 23:7.)
A few friends, known as the Quaker Group, visit a certain prison each month. Each of us is assigned one or more men to see.
One of the men is frank to admit he spends much time planning ways for another holdup when he is released. His present term is for highway robbery.
My plea with this young man, 24 years of age, is to replace his thinking of crime with thoughts as to how he can help others and also go straight himself when he goes free again.
All of us do well to check ourselves daily as to our thinking. When we realize evil thoughts are slipping in, they quickly we need strength to banish them. Just to decide we will think only of things free from sin will not accomplish desired results. We need to pray for strength. Through prayer we can seek divine guidance to replace evil thoughts with ones fully acceptable to our heavenly Father. The complete answer of how to overcome evil with good is given in the Bible.
PRAYER
Our Father, forgive us our sins. We thank Thee that Thou hast provided a way of escape from sin, from evil thoughts. That we may find help, teach us to come to Thee in prayer and to read Thy Holy Word. In Jesus' name. Amen.
THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
Thinking right will make this a happy day.

VACATION BOUND?
Before you go, you may save yourself a lot of trouble by phoning ahead to be sure of your reservations. And if you're delayed on the way, call ahead from a handy Public Telephone and let them know. If it's friends or relatives you're planning to visit, phone and tell them when you'll arrive. They'll appreciate your thoughtfulness. Long Distance rates are low. You can call places a day's drive away for about a dollar. So don't let anything upset your vacation. Plan by Long Distance.

AN ADDITIONAL PHONE is an awfully handy thing, especially if it's a bedside phone. Think of all the times the phone rings while you're in the bedroom—and you have to run to another part of the house to answer it. You'd certainly save a lot of tiring steps if you had a phone in your bedroom. It's a nice quiet place to make those personal calls, too. And if you're ever ill, a bedside telephone is mighty convenient and comforting. Why not order one now? You can select from eight modern decorator colors.

CALL ANY TIME—this person's phone will be answered and messages taken whenever he's out. Many professional and business people are giving customers the convenience of Michigan Bell's telephone answering set. Soon you may make a call and hear:
"This is a recording. There's no one in the office. After you hear the two beep-tones, you'll have half a minute to leave a message, your name and phone number..." When he returns, your message will be played back and your instructions followed. Quite a service, isn't it?
