NOTES

All years referred to in this report are fiscal years, unless otherwise noted.

Details in the text and tables of this report may not add to totals because of rounding.

The Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 (commonly known as Gramm-Rudman-Hollings) is referred to in this report more briefly as the Balanced Budget Act. This act was amended by the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Reaffirmation Act of 1987.

The source for all data in this report is the Congressional Budget Office, unless otherwise noted.

This report was transmitted on October 10, 1990, by Robert D. Reischauer, Director of the Congressional Budget Office, to the Honorable Dan Quayle, President of the Senate; the Honorable Thomas S. Foley, Speaker of the House of Representatives; and the Honorable Richard G. Darman, Director of the Office of Management and Budget.

FINAL SEQUESTRATION REPORT FOR FISCAL YEAR 1991*A CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE
REPORT TO THE CONGRESS AND THE OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET

October 10, 1990

SUMMARY

This report updates CBO's initial sequestration report to reflect laws enacted and regulations promulgated since August. As specified in the Balanced Budget Act, this report uses the same economic and technical estimating assumptions as the August report. The August report, which was published in the Federal Register on August 21 (pages 34158-34204), provides further details on the sequestration process and the assumptions underlying the estimates presented here.

The projected 1991 federal budget deficit under laws and regulations in effect on October 5 is $163.4 billion--$99.4 billion above the statutory target of $64 billion. If CBO's estimates were controlling, and if no further changes were made in taxing and spending policies, across-the-board reductions of 41.1 percent in defense programs and 37.3 percent in nondefense programs would be required to achieve the target. On October 15, the Office of Management and Budget will issue a final estimate of the projected deficit and will determine the necessity for across-the-board spending cuts.

CBO's deficit estimate is based on economic assumptions prepared in June. The deficit estimate does not include sufficient resources to resolve the hundreds of insolvent savings and loan institutions whose deposits are federally insured. New legislation will be required to provide for these additional spending needs, which if included would add $70 billion or more to the 1991 deficit. The estimate also does not include any deficit reduction that may emerge from the budget resolution that was approved by the Congress on October 9.

BUDGET BASELINE TOTALS

The CBO budget baseline estimates of total revenues, outlays, and the deficit for fiscal year 1991 are shown in Table 1. Separate budget baseline estimates are provided for laws and regulations in effect on January 1, 1990; August 15, 1990; and October 5, 1990. The economic and technical assumptions used for these baseline estimates are identical. The differences between the estimates, therefore, result only from laws enacted and final regulations promulgated since January 1. Laws enacted and final regulations promulgated between August 15 and October 5 have reduced the projected 1991 deficit by $1.8 billion. The baseline deficit as of October 5 is the same as the deficit as of January 1.

REQUIRED OUTLAY REDUCTIONS

CBO's deficit projection of $163.4 billion would call for outlay reductions of $99.4 billion in 1991. One-half of the required outlay reduction must be taken from defense programs (budget accounts in the national defense function, excluding the Federal Emergency Management Agency) and the other half from nondefense programs. Table 2 shows how the required outlay reductions would be achieved.

If sequestration is required, the law provides that the automatic spending increases in three programs--the National Wool Act, the special milk program, and vocational rehabilitation--be eliminated and the resulting savings be applied to the required reduction in outlays for nondefense programs. Eliminating these increases would produce $56 million in outlay savings in 1991. The outlay savings to be obtained by applying four special rules are also credited to the required spending reductions in nondefense programs. These special rules are for guaranteed student loans, foster care and adoption assistance, Medicare, and certain health programs. Applying the special rules to these programs would achieve $2 billion in outlay savings in 1991.

The outlay reductions of $49.7 billion in defense programs and the remaining reductions of $47.7 billion in nondefense programs must be taken as a uniform percentage of all sequesterable budgetary resources in each category. According to CBO estimates, the 1991 outlays associated with sequesterable budgetary resources for defense programs are $121.0 billion. From this base amount, $49.7 billion in across-the-board outlay reductions must be made. The uniform percentage to be applied to sequesterable defense budgetary resources is 41.1 percent, as shown in Table 2. The Balanced Budget Act allows the President to exempt military personnel spending from sequestration, and he has chosen to do so this year. The 1991 outlays associated with sequesterable budgetary resources for nondefense programs are estimated to be $127.8 billion. To achieve $47.6 billion in nondefense outlay reductions, a 37.3 percent cut is required.

SPECIAL RULES

The three programs with automatic spending increases currently subject to sequestration were listed in Table 6 of CBO's August sequestration report. The scheduled percentage increases were shown, as well as the amount of estimated outlay savings to be gained by eliminating those increases.

The Balanced Budget Act also provides special rules for the sequestration of budgetary resources for certain other federal programs. The estimated outlay savings derived from the first four rules are shown separately in Table 2. The outlay savings resulting from the remaining special rules are included in the amount to be achieved from the uniform percentage reductions.

With the exception of the child support enforcement (CSE) program, the descriptions of the special rules contained in CBO's August sequestration report still apply. The Balanced Budget Act provides that sequestration of CSE payments to states is to be accomplished by reducing the federal matching rate for state administrative expenses. For 1991, the federal

SEQUESTRATION REDUCTIONS

A detailed list of the sequestration base and reductions by agency, budget account, and type of spending authority follows. This report does not contain a listing of sequestration reductions by program, project, and activity for defense accounts, because appropriation bills for 1991 have not yet been enacted.
