Novell Cluster Services (NCS) is a cost-effective storage area network (SAN) management solution that ensures secure, non-stop access to mission critical data and resources from both server based applications and databases (Groupwise, Apache, MySQL, PHP and other J2EE Web Applications) and those using native file access protocols of client workstations including Novell, Windows, UNIX, Linux, Macintosh, Web and Internet clients and servers. NCS easily scales up to meet expanding service and storage requirements by allowing up to 32 NetWare 6.5 or Open Enterprise Servers in a cluster and up to 32 processors per server.

Note: Because the software for NCS is included in NetWare 6.5 there is no separate software media kit for NCS. All of the necessary documentation and media for NCS is included in the NetWare 6.5 Software Media Kit.

Business Continuity Clustering

Business Continuity Clustering helps corporations build clusters of clusters solutions, each containing two to four clusters with up to 32 servers per cluster. These clusters are often located at separate geographic sites so that if one data center faces interruption of service or severe calamity, the other clusters assume its workload to ensure non-stop access to mission-critical data and resources. These services may be server-based applications and databases (such as GroupWise, Apache, MySQL, PHP and other J2EE Web Applications) or those using native file access protocols of client workstations (including Novell, Windows, UNIX, Linux, Macintosh, Web and Internet clients and servers).

NetWare NFS Gateway
NFS Gateway for NetWare 6.5 provides the ability for NetWare servers to access Unix/Linux NFS exported file systems. The Unix/Linux exported file system appears as an NSS volume to NetWare applications and client workstations that access the NetWare Server. This release of the NFS Gateway builds on the NFS Gateway for NetWare 6.0 but is specifically supported on NetWare 6.5 only. As such, it integrates with the NSS file system, which leads to greater performance and scalability of the NFS Gateway service; handling more files and directories with better performance than NetWare 4 or NetWare 5 versions of the gateway.

ZENworks Application Virtualization

Novell ZENworks Application Virtualization allows your Windows, .NET, and Java-based applications to be deployed in compact, pre-configured virtual executables that run instantly, anywhere via the web, USB keys, or from your desktop management infrastructure.

This approach to application deployment dramatically reduces deployment and maintenance costs associated with traditional application setup and distribution. A virtual application is a compact, self-contained, single-executable virtual machine, pre-configured with all of the files, registry data, settings, components, run times, and other dependencies associated with a specific application. ZENworks virtual applications run with zero setup, zero configuration, and zero impact on the host device – just click and run right now.
