OFFICE OF INSPECTION AND ENFORCEMENT
WASHINGTON, D. C. 20555

IE INFORMATION NOTICE NO. 83-48: GASEOUS EFFLUENT RELEASES OF RADIOACTIVE IODINE-125 AND IODINE-131 IN EXCESS OF NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION LIMITS

Addressees:

NRC licensed byproduct material licensees, including all medical institutions, academic institutions, radiopharmaceutical suppliers, and industrial research and development facilities.

Purpose:

The intent of this information notice is to alert licensees to a potentially generic problem that has been identified with regard to failure to conduct adequate surveys to determine the amounts of radioiodine released in effluents to unrestricted areas and to remind licensees of existing regulations. No new requirements are being imposed or implied. It is expected that recipients will review the information notice for applicability to their facilities.

Description of Circumstances:

Many licensees use radioiodine isotopes for pharmaceutical preparation and research. It has come to the attention of the NRC that several of those users do not have provisions for adequately evaluating amounts of radioiodine gases in effluents released to unrestricted areas. It was found through the NRC's inspection program that several licensees had been releasing iodine-125 and iodine-131 to the atmosphere in effluent streams that exceeded or had the potential for exceeding the NRC's limits for such releases set forth in Title 10, Part 20, Appendix B of the NRC's Code of Federal Regulations (10 CFR Part 20). This Information Notice is to inform NRC licensees of the need to conduct surveys of releases of radioactive materials, as required by 10 CFR 20.201(a), "Surveys," to demonstrate compliance with the provision of 10 CFR Part 20 including 10 CFR 20.106, "Radioactivity in effluents to unrestricted areas."

Discussion:

During the first half of 1982, inspections by the NRC staff at certain licensees' facilities that perform iodinations using iodine-125 and-131 revealed that some of the licensees inspected had not been conducting adequate surveys to determine the amounts of radioiodine released to unrestricted areas. In one case, it was found that a licensee had been releasing radioiodine in excess of the NRC's limits by a factor of approximately two for at least one year. Because the licensee had been performing evaluations using the same amount of material on a routine periodic basis, he most likely exceeded the limits each year for the previous seven-year period.

NRC licensees who release radioactive material to unrestricted areas are required to conduct surveys to ensure compliance with 10 CFR 20.106. A survey is defined as an evaluation of the radiation hazards incident to the production, use, release, disposal or presence of radioactive materials or other sources of radiation under a specific set of conditions. When appropriate, such evaluation should include a physical measurement of concentrations of radioactive materials released. For users of very small amounts of radioiodine, an evaluation without physical measurements may be appropriate using conservative assumptions.

No written response to this information notice is required. If you need additional information regarding this matter, contact the Administrator of the appropriate NRC regional office or this office.

UNITED STATES
NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION
OFFICE OF INSPECTION AND ENFORCEMENT
WASHINGTON, D. C. 20555

July 14, 1983

IE INFORMATION NOTICE NO. 83-48: GASEOUS EFFLUENT RELEASES OF RADIOACTIVE IODINE-125 AND IODINE-131 IN EXCESS OF NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION LIMITS

Addressees:

NRC licensed byproduct material licensees, including all medical institutions, academic institutions, radiopharmaceutical suppliers, and industrial research and development facilities.

Purpose:

The intent of this information notice is to alert licensees to a potentially generic problem that has been identified with regard to failure to conduct adequate surveys to determine the amounts of radioiodine released in effluents to unrestricted areas and to remind licensees of existing regulations. No new requirements are being imposed or implied. It is expected that recipients will review the information notice for applicability to their facilities.

Description of Circumstances:

Many licensees use radioiodine isotopes for pharmaceutical preparation and research. It has come to the attention of the NRC that several of those users do not have provisions for adequately evaluating amounts of radioiodine gases in effluents released to unrestricted areas. It was found through the NRC's inspection program that several licensees had been releasing iodine-125 and iodine-131 to the atmosphere in effluent streams that exceeded or had the potential for exceeding the NRC's limits for such releases set forth in Title 10, Part 20, Appendix B of the NRC's Code of Federal Regulations (10 CFR Part 20). This Information Notice is to inform NRC licensees of the need to conduct surveys of releases of radioactive materials, as required by 10 CFR 20.201(a), "Surveys," to demonstrate compliance with the provision of 10 CFR Part 20 including 10 CFR 20.106, "Radioactivity in effluents to unrestricted areas."

Discussion:

During the first half of 1982, inspections by the NRC staff at certain licensees' facilities that perform iodinations using iodine-125 and-131 revealed that some of the licensees inspected had not been conducting adequate surveys to determine the amounts of radioiodine released to unrestricted areas. In one case, it was found that a licensee had been releasing radioiodine in excess of the NRC's limits by a factor of approximately two for at least one year. Because the licensee had been performing evaluations using the same amount of material on a routine periodic basis, he most likely exceeded the limits each year for the previous seven-year period.

NRC licensees who release radioactive material to unrestricted areas are required to conduct surveys to ensure compliance with 10 CFR 20.106. A survey is defined as an evaluation of the radiation hazards incident to the production, use, release, disposal or presence of radioactive materials or other sources of radiation under a specific set of conditions. When appropriate, such evaluation should include a physical measurement of concentrations of radioactive materials released. For users of very small amounts of radioiodine, an evaluation without physical measurements may be appropriate using conservative assumptions.

No written response to this information notice is required. If you need additional information regarding this matter, contact the Administrator of the appropriate NRC regional office or this office.
